In case you are not an early riser, or forgot to keep track of the rainy days, Thursday, Sept. 26, was the first time a sunrise had been visible in Snyder since Saturday, Sept. 14. The sun was out briefly two or three times during that rainy season, but not in the morning hours. For the record, there was some rain—sometimes it was only a sprinkle, and at other times it was a downpour—on 11 consecutive days. If that doesn't set a record, it should be up there with the best of the rainy spells here.

★ ★ ★

Colorado River Municipal Water District patrons who get water from Lake E. V. Spence were especially happy over the rains, which put over 30,000 acre feet of water in Lake Spence. The higher the elevation of Lake Spence, the higher the quality of its water. The natural flow from some streams which feed Lake Spence carry a high mineral content, which means that the quality of Lake Spence water declines as its elevation goes down. The new rain water serves to dilute the supplies already in the lake, which enhances its quality.

R. A. Schooling, administrative assistant, who was here to set up the CRMWD's booth at the Scurry County Fair, said that the quality of water going into Big Spring from Lake Spence improved rapidly when the lake began rising.

Although Lake J. B. Thomas caught only around 5,000 acre feet of water during the rainy spell, compared to nearly 35,000 acre feet at Lake Spence, the demands on Lake Thomas will be eased considerably. The water district uses Lake Thomas water, which has a much lower mineral content, to dilute the Lake Spence water when its quality deteriorates. Now that Spence has better water, they won't need nearly so much from Lake Thomas.

★ ★ ★

The Scurry County Fair brought all of the legislative candidates in our districts into town. Rich Anderson, the Republican candidate for State Representative, came over from Borden County, and of course Mike Ezzell, the Democratic candidate was already here.

Also, Mary Kirchoff, the Republican candidate for state senator, was here for the opening of the Republican booth at the fair Thursday afternoon, and Ray Farabee, the Democratic candidate, was coming in Saturday.

Mrs. Kirchhoff, who lives at Plainview, said that apparently the rainy spell came too late to produce a mosquito crop there. Plainview has been plagued with an annual mosquito problem for several years, which in turn has resulted in some cases of encephalitis in past years. The mosquitos never did take over this year as they have in recent years, Mrs. Kirchhoff said, and residents up there hope the cycle has been broken.

With all of the talk about low attendance and its troubles with the National Collegiate Athletic Association, perhaps Southern Methodist University should apply for membership in the World Football League. SMU complained about drawing only around 13,700 for its home game with Virginia Tech. One of the division leaders in the WFL, playing at home against a contender, drew only 14,000. And we suspect that SMU's brand of football, while not sufficient to make it a serious contender in the Southwest Conference, might be good enough to win a few in the WFL, if what we have seen on the tube is a fair sample.—WACIL McNAIR.

Ford Names A Economic Policy Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today the consolidation of all federal government economic efforts under a new executive board and named a labor-management committee from outside government to help him solve the nation's economic problems.

Ford announced the steps he is taking at the windup of a two-day economic summit conference. He delivered the speech after visiting his wife, who underwent surgery for the removal of a cancerous breast.

Ford said Treasury Secretary William Simon would serve as his principal spokesman on matters of economic policy.

Other members of the executive board are Cabinet officials, Budget Director Roy Ash, and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

He said he has already issued an executive order consolidating all government economic efforts, domestic and international, under a new Economic Policy Board headed by Simon.

Ford praised the conference delegates for their contribution to the struggle against inflation, and said, "Now it is my turn."

"In the days immediately ahead," he said, "I will offer to the American people and to the Congress a program of action which will help bring balance and vitality to our economy."

Ford said he has also issued an executive order establishing a White House Labor-Management Committee composed of eight labor leaders and eight business executives which will advise him on major economic policies.

Ford said the committee's recommendations "will not only be sought but given to me man-to-man and face-to-face."

He said John C. Dunlop, a Harvard University economics professor, would serve as coordinator of the committee.

A third action announced by Ford is the appointment of Albert Rees, a professor of economics at Princeton University, to direct the newly established Council on Wage and Price Stability, which Congress created at Ford's request.

Ford said he will ask Congress to keep federal outlays for fiscal year 1975 at or under $300 billion.

He said the administration also is working on a national energy program designed to assure adequate internal supplies and reduce dependence on outside sources.

"At this very minute," he said, "Secretary Kissinger and Secretary Simon are exploring with their counterparts from four major industrial nations a coordinated plan to cope with the world energy crisis and economic distortions."

Ford said that in the final analysis, however, councils and committees cannot win the war against inflation.

"The most important weapon in the fight against inflation is the spirit of the American people," he said. "This spirit is no secret weapon. It is renowned all over the world."

He said each family should draw up a list of 10 days it can save energy and fight inflation and to exchange lists with neighbors.

Participants in the summit earlier argued over which programs should be slashed as the government cuts back spending to fight inflation.

Budget Director Roy Ash, apparently reacting to earlier demands that social programs not be made the main target of budget cuts, said the goal was "stringent but realistic restraint."

The Defense Department put in a strong bid to be spared further reductions. But two congressional spokesmen, one from each party, took exception.

"Were we not to act now," Ash said of budget-cutting, "this year's nearly 10 per cent growth in federal expenditures would inevitably be followed by even larger growth next year and the year after."

Ash said he was not suggesting any drastic slashes in important program. Later the Defense Department said it could stand no further cuts in its funding.

"At the pre-summit conferences, we found sentiment generally for budget restraint, and certainly not for drastic slashes in all programs," Ash said.

Oil Finance Ministers Meeting

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — The foreign and finance ministers of the United States, Britain, France, Germany and Japan are meeting at Camp David to discuss a common strategy to reduce the fuel bills of the major oil-consuming nations.

The meeting this weekend, which U.S. officials call "an informal gathering" where no decisions will be made, was initiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. He is widely believed to have his own "game plan," including how to recycle the rapidly increasing surplus monies of the oil-producing countries.

The finance ministers include William E. Simon for the United States.

The foreign ministers conclude their conference this evening with a dinner given by Kissinger at Camp David. The finance ministers stay overnight for another round of conferences on Sunday.

As a prelude to the conference, President Ford and Kissinger in separate speeches last Monday warned that continued high oil prices may cause the breakdown of world order. The speeches were immediately labeled as threats by the oil producers.

Also some of the Western allies were upset by what they regarded as a thinly veiled threat against the producers in the two speeches.

What the ministers will discuss is one of the best kept secrets. Moreover, U.S. officials warn that no announcement should be expected after the meeting.

There is no doubt, however, that the French decision on Monday, setting a $10.1 billion ceiling on spending for oil imports in 1975 will be one of the topics.

FAMILY IS OPTIMISTIC

First Lady Has Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeons removed First Lady Betty Ford's right breast Sat. after determining that it was cancerous, and her family was described as optimistic about the outcome.

President Ford flew to his wife's bedside in Bethesda Naval Hospital while the operation was in progress. He went by helicopter in a driving rain.

"The President and his family are optimistic on the outcome of the operation," said William Roberts, an assistant White House press secretary.

The surgery took four hours and 10 minutes.

Roberts said Ford "was given a full report after the operation by Dr. William Lukash," White House physician, and visited with his wife briefly immediately after the operation.

The decision to remove Mrs. Ford's breast was made on the basis of a biopsy which Roberts said determined that there was a malignancy.

That was at 9 a.m. Roberts later said the surgery began at 8:05 a.m. It was completed at 11:15 a.m., and Mrs. Ford remained in the operating room for another half hour before being removed to a recovery room.

Mrs. Ford "was conscious but not fully conscious" when the President saw her, Roberts said.

Heading the operating team was Navy Capt. William Fouty, chief of surgery at Bethesda Medical Center. Assisting him was Dr. J. Richard Thistlethwaite, a civilian consultant and professor of surgery at the George Washington University Medical School.

The presidential physician, Lukash, was in attendance. It was he who informed the President of the decision to proceed with the surgery.

"We have great faith ... that everything is okay," the President said after visiting his 56-year-old wife in the VIP suite at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital on Friday night.

Mrs. Ford entered the hospital Friday evening and the White House press secretary told newsmen the surgery scheduled for Sat. morning "is to determine through a biopsy whether the nodule (in her right breast) is benign or malignant. Should it prove to be malignant, surgery would be performed to remove the right breast."

The nodule was detected Thursday morning in what White House spokesman Ron Nessen described as "a regular medical checkup."

Ford told newsmen after visiting his wife that they had decided "we would just carry on today as though nothing had happened and we would hope for the very best on Saturday as we have great faith will be the case ... We as a family ... will have faith that everything is okay."

On the eve of the surgery, aides described Mrs. Ford as "in very good spirits," but the President appeared tired and concerned as he left the hospital Friday night with daughter Susan, 18, son Michael, 24, and his wife Gail.

White House officials said the President's schedule for Sat. was "placed on hold" until results of the biopsy are known. The schedule had called for an early morning breakfast with the French foreign minister and for the President to preside at a four-hour windup session of his economic summit conference.

The chief of surgery at the hospital, Capt. William Fouty, was scheduled to perform the surgery, assisted by a civilian consultant, Dr. J. Richard Thistlethwaite, with the chief White House physician, Dr. William Lukash, in attndance.

Five hours before she entered the hospital, Mrs. Ford joined the President in dedicating a memorial grove to the late President Lyndon B. Johnson across the Potomac River from Washington.

Later, she had tea at the White House with Lady Bird Johnson, the former President's widow, before driving to the hospital with Dr. Lukash and her chief assistant, Nancy Howe.

White House officials said Mrs. Ford had no history of cancer and did not know of the nodule until it was detected in the Thursday check-up. They said she had experienced no pain or discomfort.

Famous Portraits To Be On Display

Portraits of several well-known performers in the entertainment world will be featured in an art exhibit from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame scheduled Oct. 6-13 at the Scurry County Museum.

Arrangements for the exhibition here were made recently by the Scurry County Museum Association and C. T. McLaughlin, head of the Diamond M Foundation. McLaughlin will supplement the exhibit with a number of western paintings and bronzes from the Diamond M collection.

Some of the portraits slated for exhibit here have never been shown outside the National Cowboy Hall of Fame Museum in Oklahoma City. Included are portraits of Gene Autry, Amanda Blake, Walter Brennan, Gary Cooper, Joe McCrea, Tom Mix, James Stewart, Robert Taylor and John Wayne.

The Scurry County Museum, located adjacent to the public parking lot on the south side of the Western Texas College campus, will be open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 6, Saturday, Oct. 12, and Sunday Oct. 13, in addition to the regular week-day hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Friday when the museum closes at 4 p.m.

The Diamond M Museum on Twenty-fifth Street will be open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 6 and 13 so that visitors may see the collection there also.

A special showing for members of the Scurry County Museum Association is planned from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Oct. 5. Membership in the association is open to interested persons and membership fees may be paid at the special showing.

Homecoming Is Slated At SHS

Homecoming has been set for Thursday and Friday at Snyder High School and the SHS Student Council has planned a variety of activities for the event.

All students and ex-students have been invited to participate in all of the activities.

The festivities will begin at 5:30 p.m. Thursday with a parade. The procession will form at the Cinema in the Snyder Shopping Center and proceed north on College Avenue to the county courthouse.

Featured in the parade will be the Snyder High School "Pride of the West" Black and Gold Band, along with floats sponsored by various clubs and organizations. A pep rally conducted by the SHS cheerleaders will be held in the downtown area following the parade.

Friday's homecoming agenda will begin at 7:30 p.m. when the Snyder Tigers meet the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes in a District 3-AAA football game. During the half-time show at the football game, the 1974 homecoming queen will be crowned.

Following the football game, the National Honor Society of Snyder High School will host a reception for all SHS ex-students in the SHS cafeteria. At the same time, a dance for all students and ex-students will be held in the new student center on the SHS campus. "New Light," a band from Big Spring, will play until around 12:30 a.m. This will conclude the homecoming events.

The Student Council is urging all students to assist in contacting graduates and ex-students who live out of town and invite them to the homecoming celebration.

GRAND CHAMPION BOOTH—This booth of the Snyder High School Art Department was named "grand champion" in the junior and senior educational exhibit division of the Scurry County Fair, which closed a three-day run Saturday at the Scurry County coliseum. The fair, which featured a record number of exhibits, attracted large crowds for all three days.

Famous Portraits To Be On Display

Portraits of several well-known performers in the entertainment world will be featured in an art exhibit from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame scheduled Oct. 6-13 at the Scurry County Museum.

Arrangements for the exhibition here were made recently by the Scurry County Museum Association and C. T. McLaughlin, head of the Diamond M Foundation. McLaughlin will supplement the exhibit with a number of western paintings and bronzes from the Diamond M collection.

Some of the portraits slated for exhibit here have never been shown outside the National Cowboy Hall of Fame Museum in Oklahoma City. Included are portraits of Gene Autry, Amanda Blake, Walter Brennan, Gary Cooper, Joe McCrea, Tom Mix, James Stewart, Robert Taylor and John Wayne.

The Scurry County Museum, located adjacent to the public parking lot on the south side of the Western Texas College campus, will be open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 6, Saturday, Oct. 12, and Sunday Oct. 13, in addition to the regular week-day hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Friday when the museum closes at 4 p.m.

The Diamond M Museum on Twenty-fifth Street will be open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 6 and 13 so that visitors may see the collection there also.

A special showing for members of the Scurry County Museum Association is planned from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Oct. 5. Membership in the association is open to interested persons and membership fees may be paid at the special showing.

Spinola Bows To Pressure

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — President Antonio de Spinola buckled under strong leftist pressure and called off a mass demonstration by his supporters today.

It was the first test of force between left and right since the April 25 coup, and the left appeared to have carried the day.

Spinola said the demonstration, aimed at "leftist extremists," would "not be convenient" because of "disturbances in public order earlier today."

The left, with the Communists in the forefront, had issued a call to their followers "to take to the streets to prevent the Fascist demonstration."

Thousands of Portuguese from rural areas and suburbs of Lisbon poured into the capital despite militant leftist attempts to isolate the capital with roadblocks.

Tanks and armored units ringed the presidential palace where the demonstration was scheduled to be held.

The army was reported to have arrested scores of persons, including some identified as extreme rightists apparently trying to carry arms to the rally.

Commandos from the capital's defense force joined the self-declared "anti-fascist" young vigilantes at the roadblocks, searching cars and their passengers before permitting them to pass.

A member of Spinola's military junta, Gen. Diogo Neto, told The Associated Press there was no disunity within the armed forces.

Sr. Citizens Center Sets 'Open House'

Senior Citizens of the Scurry County area are invited to attend an open house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the new Senior Citizens' Center at Western Texas College.

The Senior Center is in the Learning Resource Building. Dr. James Tully, director of the Center, said there would be transportation provided from the Museum Building on the south side of the college campus to the Senior Center. Persons who need directions to the Senior Center or transportation are asked to go to the information disk in the Museum Building.

The Senior Center will be furnished with tables and chairs and a television set so visitors may play table games, do handwork, visit and keep up with their favorite television shows. Coffee and soft drinks will be available in the Center.

WTC recently received a grant for the establishment of a Senior Citizens' Program in Retirement Education, with the aim of meeting the needs of older residents in the fields of health, recreation and education. The Senior Center is being opened in conjuction with this program.

Dr. Tully would like to talk with area residents in the Senior Citizen age group about their special needs and interests as the program is being developed, and they are invited to visit his office in the Learning Resource Center.

Farm Exports Dip In August

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports dipped during August to about $1.45 billion for the month, down 11 per cent from July and two per cent below a year earlier, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

On a cumulative basis, exports in July and August — the first two months of the new fiscal year — totaled slightly less than $3.1 billion, up 14 per cent from the same period last year, however, USDA said in a report.

Last fiscal year farm exports soared to a record value of $21.3 billion. For 1974-75, officials have predicted the value may be close to that mark as the result of higher prices for some commodities.

TWRC Being Reorganized

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Rights Commission staff is being reorganized in an effort to meet changing needs in regulating the state's distribution and use of water supplies.

"There's nothing that makes people more critical than bureaucratic delay when they want a permit," said Joe D. Carter, chairman of the three-man commission who also has taken over the job as executive director of the staff temporarily.

Former executive director A.E. Richardson now heads the permits division, at a cut in salary.

Carter said Richardson was a very capable engineer and "I personally felt he was just wasting his talents as chief administrator."

"I have been around this job for about 22 years now so at the motion of Commissioner Burke Holman, Houston, I also took on the job of executive director," Carter said. "I can assure you this is not permanent. We are going to hire another executive director later."

Carter said he proposed the reorganization plan to the commission, whose other member is Dorsey Hardeman, former state senator, on Sept. 3 and it was adopted.

Under the streamlined plan there will be three major divisions to meet the three major water needs in Texas, Carter said.

One division will be adjudicate water rights already issued, determining just which are legal and current and how much surface water is available for distribution. A new addition will be a "special adjudication team" to consider specific problems and produce quick answers.

Another division will regulate the fast growing number of water districts in Texas.

And the third division, headed by Richardson, and one of the most important, Carter said, will attempt to accelerate the handling of requested permits for dams and reservoirs.

"Something must be done because the greatest criticism the commission now gets is the delay in processing of applications and petitions," Carter said.

Carter said a recent Congressional act required that all existing dams and reservoirs be inspected and identified as a safety matter. A survey, including photographs taken from space, showed about 800 dams and reservoirs in the state that had not been authorized by the commission. A lot were farm ponds and others were built for fishing and hunting purposes.

"We've got to cut down a lot of this red tape," Carter said. "I think this reorganization will eliminate some paper shuffling and we'll work more effectively and efficiently."

Fellers Says Publicity Damaging

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American Bar Association says the amount of pretrial publicity in major cases of national interest does not preclude a fair trial for a defendant.

James D. Fellers of Oklahoma City, who became head of the 180,000-member ABA in August, also says that wide media coverage before any charges are made in connection with a crime or an incident such as Watergate or the My Lai massacre can be as damaging to fair trial rights as pretrial publicity after charges are filed.

The ABA, Fellers says, is concerned about the rising number of restrictive orders imposed on the news media by judges and adds that he believes judges should consult with the news media before issuing such orders.

Fellers declined to comment directly on the ruling Wednesday by a federal judge overturning the murder conviction of former Army Lt. William L. Calley. Judge J. Robert Elliot of U.S. District Court devoted much of his opinion backing the ruling to arguments that Calley's rights to a fair trial were ruined by portrayals of him in the news media as a mass murderer in My Lai case.

Fellers made these comments in a question-and-answer session with The Associated Press:

Q: Judge Elliot's rulings in the Calley case seem to indicate that because of pretrial publicity throughout the nation there was no way in which the Army could have given Calley a fair trial. What is your interpretation of the ruling.?

A: I would not have any reaction as to whether the Army had any capacity to give a fair trial or not. As I understand Judge Elliot, one of the basis for granting habeas corpus was the unfavorable pervasive publicity prior to the trial, and I certainly do not want to add to that in any way.

Q: In cases such as the Calley trial or Watergate litigation, facts and events were given widespread media coverage weeks and months before defendants were named. How can courts or the media guarantee free trial rights in such cases and at the same time preserve the public's right to know?

A: A crime of magnitude that has persuaded the public that it is so bad that anyone identified with it is guilty before they've ever had an opportunity to have all the facts brought out is an item to be considered by the court to determine if a defendant could have a fair trial ... whether it could be accomplished through a change of venue to some other location where there hadn't been as much build-up, or whether a fair trial might be afforded by granting a continuance when public clamor and interest and intense feelings have calmed down.

More Scripture Translations

LONDON (AP) — Bible societies around the world are presently concerned with 617 scripture translation projects, an increase of 46 since 1972, says the British and Foreign Bible Society. The great majority of the projects are in the Asia, Pacific and Africa regions. First translations account for 358, or 58 per cent, of the projects.

In 1790, the population of New York was 49,401. In 1970, the population reached 7,894,862.

Cover-Up Trial Begins Tuesday

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, and John N. Mitchell, men who once helped manage the affairs of the nation, go on trial Tuesday charged with criminal conspiracy in the Watergate cover-up.

With three other defendants, they stand accused of trying to hide responsibility for the scandal that felled a president.

The trial promises to flesh out an epic political story with information never provided elsewhere, coming mainly from the secret tape hoard of Richard M. Nixon's White House.

Barring 11th-hour legal maneuverings, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica will begin selecting a jury Tuesday to try men who once were Nixon's high command.

The former president is not a defendant in the case and he has been pardoned for any federal crime during his presidency that the trial may expose. But he will have a major role, nonetheless — as a witness if his health permits or through his famed taped conversations if it doesn't.

The six defendants are charged with being partners in crime; of using "deceit, craft, trickery and dishonest means," to prevent investigators from learning about White House involvement in the break-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office complex.

To accomplish that, the grand jury charged, the conspirators altered and destroyed documents, lied, promised executive clemency and paid hush money.

Never before have so many important former government officials gone on trial at the same time.

They are:

Mitchell, 61, the pipe-smoking former attorney general, a leading law-and-order spokesman for the Nixon administration, former Nixon law partner and manager of two Nixon presidential campaigns. Charged with conspiring to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and four counts of lying.

Haldeman, 48, Nixon's former right-hand man as chief of staff and a long-time associate who spoke with presidential authority. He was conceded to be the most powerful aide in the White House. Charged with conspiring to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and three counts of lying.

Ehrlichman, 49, formerly the No. 2 aide, already sentenced to a 20-month to 5-year prison term in the Ellsberg burglary case. Charged with conspiring to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and three counts of lying.

2 Students Commended After Tests

Two Snyder High School seniors have been named Merit Program Commended Students by the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

Principal Horrace Bostick said letters of commendation have been received by Kevin Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones Jr., and Cydney McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle McDonald.

They are among the 38,000 commended students named on the basis of their high performance on the 1973 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Commended students are in the upper two per cent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1975. Although the commended students ranked high on the PSAT-NMSQT, their scores were just below those of the 15,000 semifinalists who were announced recently and commended students do not continue in the Merit Scholarship competition.

To increase their scholarship opportunities, NMSC reports the names of commended students to the regionally accredited colleges they named as their first and second choices when they took the test. The reports include home addresses, test scores and anticipated college major and career intentions of the commended students.

Spurred by congressional action and funding by the National Science Foundation, a crash program in solar energy research has been undertaken. The ultimate goal is to make us self-sufficient in energy, and since the sun is a source of unlimited energy, a practical way must be found to tap it.

Until now, most of the work done in solar energy research concerned its application to home heating. As with all new developments, the first working models seem cumbersome, resembling Rube Goldberg contraptions. Most of them now operating use large flat-plate collectors — aluminum sheets ranging in size from 600 to 800 square feet and larger, painted black to absorb most of the heat. The aluminium sheets are covered with glass which has the ability to permit the sun's radiation to pass through it and be absorbed by the black aluminum surface, and which at the same time prevents any reflected radiation from escaping outward.

Attached to the aluminum sheets are copper tubes through which a mixture of water and antifreeze flows. The antifreeze is to prevent the copper tubes from freezing during cold nights or on days when the sky is overcast. To attain maximum temperature, the collector faces south, tilted at an angle equal to the latitude plus 10 degrees.

As the water in the coils gets hot it is circulated to a storage tank, and from there to the home heating system (radiators, baseboard heating panels, etc.) and the domestic hot water faucets. The storage tank is another large piece of hardware needed in solar heating since it must hold enough hot water to last for periods when there is no sun.

Although solar energy is only in its embryonic phase, research is going on to make smaller and more efficient collectors. One project uses parabolic "concentrating collectors" which track the sun, always tilted at the correct angle to face the sun directly. These collectors are only 6 square feet, less than one per cent of the size of the flat-plate collectors. They are also capable of attaining temperatures far higher than those reached by the flatplates.

Remember when television first took hold and every roof sported a new TV antenna? When solar energy gains acceptance, every home may be equipped with its own parabolic collector.

There are other possibilities which excite the imagination. One calls for the launching of a huge space station — about 12 miles square — covered with solar cells. These solar cells will produce electricity and beam it back to earth.

It all sounds far-fetched, but we have been assured by the National Better Heating-Cooling Council that it's within the realm of possibility. Nevertheless, it won't be easy. Many adjustments will have to be made, and it may cause some shifting of habits and values. For instance, you may have a legitimate gripe if one of your neighbor's trees grows tall enough to cast a shadow on your collector.

Slow Cruise

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Some people take a cruise on an ocean liner for their honeymoons. Not Leon and Louise Vaupel — they spent their 1974 honeymoon cruising through the U.S. in a 1929 Model A Ford.

The Vaupels, of Davis Junction, Ill., stopped in Quincy to see John Quincy Adams' house — one of many stops they made in their 6,000-mile jaunt.

Leon says the couple have never been stopped for speeding. "How can you get a ticket going 40 or 45 miles an hour?" he asked.

And the couple say that after their honeymoon they want to continue on the road — as a husband and wife truck driver team.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Senior Troop No. 83 met Thursday, September 12, in the home of Karen Stewart. Diane Campbell was elected treasurer and Karen Stewart was elected scribe. The group voted to help decorate the scout booth at the Scurry County Fair. In other business a trip to the planetarium at WTC in corporation with senior Scouts from Colorado City and Lamesa was discussed. The girls well sell Girl Scout calendars in November. Members present were Elizabeth Mijares, Diane Campbell, Pam Burris, Karen Stewart, and Brigette Glandert.

The next meeting of the group will be October 10 in the home of Elizabeth Mijares. Any Senior High School girl who is interested in scouting is invited.

Anyone having news for the Girl Scout column please contact Mrs. Carol Davis at 573-2132 by Wednesday afternoon.

Consideration Draws Workmen

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You don't need to treat your workman like a guest, but you sometime might offer him a drink of water. That's a tip from painter and wallpaperer, Fred Thompson of Cannondale, Conn., a popular type who is always booked up.

"Indoors it isn't too bad, but I've been up on the ladder at some houses in summer on sweltering hot days and the occupants are strolling around with a drink in their hands, but they never think to ask if I am thirsty."

Not all are that way, Fred says, and most of the time he has water or another beverage in his truck. But sometimes it is used up, and if you are painting a house outdoors, it may be a long time between drinks. He could ask for it but he likes to have people think of it, he says.

Congenial people have an easier time getting workmen than the thoughtless types, the grouches and the nags, he insists.

"Anybody who chews out a workman will find he'll have a difficult time getting tradesmen to come to his house. The word spreads rapidly."

He has had customers who haggle over every little thing as he makes an estimate. They want to take a few dollars off any price as a matter of course. In fact, one man asked him to reduce the price and use cheaper paint, but when he did, "the man complained that it didn't look good."

People take advantage of workmen in other ways. Women try to use workmen as baby sitters, he says. He wouldn't mind obliging when they say, "I'm just going to run down the road a moment" but if the child were to get hurt, he wouldn't know what to do. Many women do not consider the pitfalls, he says.

One of his pet gripes is the too-cluttered house. People know he is to come on a particular day. In addition, he checks the night before. But often when he arrives at the job, a room may be so cluttered he can hardly move much less put up a ladder. If he is working by the hour he doesn't mind being a moving man, he says. But he doesn't want to move a bedroom set out of a room when he comes prepared to start work.

"It doesn't even occur to the occupants to remove drawers which would make bureaus lighter to move. I don't mind moving light pieces, especially when there is enough room to work by shoving them around easily, but I draw the line at moving a 300-pound sleeping bed in a living room. The man of the family should do some preparation work before I arrive."

Some people are pennywise but they don't think to ask questions when they are getting an estimate. For example, when he paints a ceiling, he says, he must cover everything in a room, especially paintings, mirrors and frames. As long as he must cover everything, which takes time, he could paint the entire room for just a little bit more. But he is seldom asked for two estimates.

He doesn't like to pick out colors for people. He'll take a swatch to a store and have the paint made up, but even then women may insist the purple or green or whatever is not the same shade. Even white is not a definable color, he says. He always asks which white. There are many different ones, even in the off-white color range.

Off-white is very popular right now, he says. And people are painting rooms that go together in the same color. They've caught on to that decorating trick. And white bathrooms are back because people would rather put color into the accessories that can be changed at whim.

He also advises considering the cost of painting when you decide to install louvre doors. It raises the price of a job considerably. In one house, doors were strung across windows and walls of a living room, he says, and they were shocked at the $300 painting estimate.

And if you are planning to sell your house within a year or before you will redecorate again it is best to pick white or light colors that people can decorate around or repaint easily.

You should also remember to remove all priceless antiques and sentimental objects in any room that is to be painted or wall covered.

And you should meet the painter at the door in an acceptable costume, he advises.

"Baby doll pajamas (the short ruffled bloomer type) are all right in the bedroom, but women shouldn't wear them to greet workmen at the door. Many women talk about being fearful of strangers coming into their homes, but it is getting so some workmen are fearful," he has learned.

Complaints On Lids Probed

Federal agencies are investigating complaints of faulty home canning equipment, following reports from some areas of the West that the lids don't seal properly, causing food to spoil.

An Associated Press survey showed the problems come on top of a nationwide shortage of canning equipment that is frustrating consumers trying to save money by putting up their own fruits and vegetables.

Officials of the major manufacturers of the canning jars deny that the equipment is faulty and claim consumers aren't following directions.

Jane Wyatt of the Oregon Department of Agriculture said complaints were pouring into her office about lids that fail to seal properly and result in spoiled food.

She said the department had asked the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Co. of Sand Springs, Okla., to recall its lids, but the company refused.

James Carney, head of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission regional office in Seattle, Wash., said his agency could step in if the lids were proved defective.

Harold Metsker, a plant manager for Kerr in Sand Springs, said: "We had some problems. They seal for us, but the women in their homes have had some difficulty ... Most of the problems have been one of two things: either they don't screw the bands down tightly enough or they don't use enough heat."

A Utah representative of Ball Corp., another major manufacturer, said: "We find if lids aren't sealing, it's because people aren't following correct canning procedures."

Helen Sisson, California liaison officer to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, said she had 400 complaints from Los Angeles alone.

"Women have complained that they have had as many as 500 jars spoiled because of improper sealing," she said.

"Many of these complaints are from women who seem to know what they are doing, who have been canning for years."

Mrs. Sisson said she was worried about the danger of botulism from improperly sealed food, but Dr. George York, a microbiologist from the University of California at Davis, said that as long as the food is heated properly, botulism is unlikely.

Housewives won't accept statements that inexperience is responsible for the failures. "Everyone I know who has used this year's supply of Kerr lids is hopping mad," said Cleo Davis of Utah.

Tips On Canning

By The Associated Press

Here are some of the basics involved in home canning:

EQUIPMENT: Use the same brand of lids, screw bands and jars. Don't try to substitute mayonnaise jars or other quart containers for canning jars and don't try to use the lids more than once. Make sure bottle tops aren't chipped or cracked.

PROCEDURES: Scald the lids and leave them in water until they are put on the jar but don't overcook them or the rubber will get soft. Pack food to within half an inch of the top of the jar, wipe off the jar to remove any grease, then place the sealing lid on top and screw the metal band down tightly. Manufacturers now suggest tightening the band again after cooking.

TYPE OF FOOD: Acid foods, things like tomatoes and fruits, can be processed by immersing sealed containers in boiling water which has remained at 212 degrees Fahrenheit. The processing time depends on the size of the container involved. Low-acid foods, green and yellow vegetables for example, must be processed in a pressure cooker with temperatures of up to 240 degrees at 10 pounds per square inch.

AFTERWARD: Let jars stand undisturbed for 12 hours, then test the lids by pressing the center. If the lids neither flex nor move, the jars are properly sealed.

Ode to segregated college housing

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: Your recent exchange of letters concerning coeducational living at college prompts me to think you might be amused by this song which I wrote, published and copyrighted a few months ago.

Your constant reader,
RICHARD L. GREEN, NEW HAVEN, CONN

THE OLD FASHIONED CO-ED
(To the tune of "Don't Send My Boy to Harvard, the Dying Mother Said")

One busy Monday morning in the office of the dean
A pretty girl with downcast eyes appeared upon the scene;
The dean was brisk and businesslike; her slacks were neatly pressed;
She asked the girl the reason why she felt herself distressed.
"I'm dropping out," the student said, "although I'd hoped to stay;
I'm sure that I could never last until Commencement Day;
I know that coed living's great, but I cannot conform;
I'll try to find some backward school that has a woman's dorm."

Chorus:
I did not come to college to lose my maiden flower;
I came to work and study hard for every credit hour;
For eighteen years I've walked upon the straight and narrow path:
I do not want a football man to share my room and bath.

"I cannot help you," said the dean; "our policy is clear:
In rich, mature relationships we do not interfere;
If normal, heterosexual life is making you so nervous,
I would suggest that you consult our psychiatric service."
"No, thank you," said the girl; "I know that here I don't belong;
I'll try to find some backward place were folks say 'right' and 'wrong'."
The tears were trembling on her lids; she quickly turned away;
And as she closed the office door these sad words she did say:

Chorus:
I did not come to college etc.

DEAR RICHARD: Beautiful! And bless your sweet whiffenpoof for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: If an advertisement on TV or radio is repulsive to me, I refuse to buy the product, even if it's the cheapest of several brands.

For example, the other day there were three different brands of toilet tissue on the shelf in a supermarket. One I had never heard of; another I had seen advertised occasionally, but not often; and a third whose TV commercials were so repulsive to me that I actually have changed the channel so I wouldn't have to look at it. I bought the middle brand.

My wife disagreed. She wanted to buy the brand with the repulsive advertising because she thought it was the best quality.

Who is right? Am I to ignore the repulsive advertising because of quality? Letters to the network don't help. I've written and complained, but the TV advertising gets worse.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You're complaining to the wrong people. Write to the president of the company whose product you refuse to buy because of the "repulsive" advertising and tell him why! If enough complaints cross his desk, he will inform his ad agency that he wants some changes made.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the "38-year-old professional woman" who wants to have a child to find her "ultimate fulfillment," I have a few thoughts:

My mother was just such a professional woman. She collected a husband, a daughter and a dog to "enrich" her life. The only one who was not damaged by the "enrichment" was the dog.

Babysitters, housekeepers, boarding schools seemed to be the child's lot.

Abby, I agree with your answer and strongly suggest she acquire a dog and two cats and call it a family. Using other human beings to fulfill oneself is worthwhile only if one can give as well as take.

Group Plans To Pursue Project Interdependence

DETROIT (AP) — The World Energy Conference, which opened with a call from President Ford for global energy cooperation, has ended with plans to pursue his idea for Project Interdependence.

The five-day conference ended Friday and about 4,200 delegates from 85 nations headed home with what sponsors said was a better understanding of the world's urgent need for joint action.

"President Ford challenged us and other international organizations to formulate Project Interdependence an energy program for the world," Wilson Campbell, program committee chairman, told the delegates in a summation of the conference.

"The next day — taking him at his word — several members of intergovernmental organizations taking part in our conference met with one or two from our national committees ... to discuss ... a conservation commission."

Campbell said such a commission could go far to provide the technical and economic basis for meeting the President's challenge.

He said a meeting would be held in London before Christmas to formulate a constitution and funding.

On Thursday the chief of the 34-member Soviet delegation called for more action and less talk by the conference, which is next scheduled to meet in Turkey in 1977.

Peter Neporozhny, minister of power and electrification for the Soviet Union, told newsmen that between its triennial meetings the conference could play a more active role by organizing technical groups and making technical decisions.

Gerrit Wagner, managing director of Royal Dutch Shell of the Netherlands, warned that time was fast running out for finding a solution to the global problem of a massive transfer of funds from oil-importing to oil-exporting countries.

What is causing severe monetary problems, Wagner told delegates, "is not only the level to which oil prices have risen, but the speed with which they have done so, especially at a time when inflation and monetary instability are already causing enormous problems."

Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill outlined U.S. energy plans being considered by the government. Included was a possible $1 billion, five-year research and development program for solar energy.

Also being considered was a $400 million program for geothermal energy demonstration projects, he said.

Inventors Work Best In Winter

WASHINGTON (AP) — If necessity is the mother of invention, then September must be its stepchild.

September is traditionally a slow month for inventions, reports the Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit organization in favor of a strong patent system, from its review of patents issued through the years.

The winter months have seen the most significant inventions. That's when Thomas A. Edison did some of his best work. The Wizard of Menlo Park staked claim to his electric lamp in January 1880 and his phonograph on Feb. 19, 1878.

Inventor Samuel Colt patented his revolving gun February 1836, magician Harry Houdini's diver's suit for quick escape was filed with the U.S. Patent Office on March 1, 1921, and Alexander Graham Bell revolutionized our lives with his telephone on March 7, 1876.

Reno Bank Robbed By Masked Trio

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Three men armed with revolvers and wearing Halloween masks robbed a downtown bank stocked with cash from gambling casinos of more than $1 million, authorities said.

Police said the men, wearing aqua-colored overalls and of medium build, disappeared after leaving their getaway van across the street from the sheriff's office.

"It was a professional job," said Police Chief James Parker. "It obviously was planned very meticulously."

An estimated $1,044,000 was taken.

Parker said the men apparently hid in a downstairs area of the downtown branch of the First National Bank of Nevada until shortly after the 6:30 p.m. closing time Friday.

Then one of the men jammed a weapon into the back of assistant operations officer Mary Kay Bennett and told her, "If you say a word, I'll kill you."

PASS RUSH—Snyder High School's Tim Sonnier (60) and an unidentified team-mate put the pressure on Andrews passer Jamie Mosley (10) during the football contest in Mustang Bowl Friday night. Snyder scored a 27-14 come-from-behind victory.

Tigers Rally, Defeat Andrews Mustangs 27-13

ANDREWS—A good football team is one that can come from behind to win. The Snyder Tigers are such a team as they proved Friday night at Andrews with a 27-14 come-from-behind triumph over the Mustangs.

It was Homecoming night in Andrews, and the Mustangs were meaner than Leroy Brown as they [illegible] early 14-0 lead, determined to pull off an upset. But the Tigers reacted to adversity with the poise of champions as they pulled within seven points late in the second quarter, then added two touchdowns in the third period to take command of the game. They added another TD in the fourth quarter.

Sharp blocking in the second half by the Tiger line and slashing runs by fullback Rickey Howell and tailback Welton Cobb paved the way for the Tiger victory. Howell finished the night as the leading ball carrier with 102 yards on 14 carries. Cobb netted 100 yards on 16 thrusts. Howell scored three touchdowns, and Cobb collected one.

The Tigers were stopped on their first possession by a fumble at the Andrews 40 which was recovered by Joe Vara. The Mustangs proceeded to march the 60 yards to the goal in five plays. After a penalty back to the 35, quarterback Jamie Mosley gained two on a keeper, then lofted a long aerial to fleet split end Mike Parker, who gained 53 yards to the 10. Tailback Steve Duffey gained seven on two carries to the two, and reserve fullback Owen Randolph burst over for the touchdown. Parker's kick made it 7-0 in favor of the Mustangs with 6:07 remaining in the period.

After another Tiger possession failed to produce any points, Mosley and Parker teamed up again and scared the daylights out of Tiger fans. They connected on a 32 yard aerial that was caught in the end zone, but a penalty nullified the touchdown.

Late in the first stanza, the Tigers moved from their 28 to the Mustang 39, but an interception by Chuck Wilson stopped the drive. Big gainers in the Tiger march were a 12 yard run by Cobb and a 21-yard pass completion, Win Bunch to Roy Lee Carter.

Andrews then launched a 72 yard, 13-play touchdown drive with fullback Brian Arnold plunging over from the three for the six points. Parker's kick made it 14-0 with 6:43 remaining in the half. Big gainer in the Andrews touchdown drive was an 18-yard completion, Mosley to David Murphy.

The Mustangs had dominated the contest up until this point, but the Tigers began to build momentum with a 77 yard, 10-play touchdown drive.

Cobb scored the TD on a seven yard sweep to the right after taking a pitchout from Bunch. Bunch, Rickey Howell and Danny Brumley all contributed valuable yardage in this march, but the big play was a 27 yard aerial from Bunch to Carter. Ricky Beard kicked extra point as the gap narrowed to 14-7.

Snyder dominated the third quarter, marching 68 yards in only five plays on their first possession. Cobb got the ball to rolling, sweeping right end for 12 yards to the Tiger 44. Howell then burst over left tackle for a 29 yard gain to the Andrews 27. Cobb contributed seven more to the 20, then carried again for a 13-yard gain to the seven. On the touchdown play, Bunch faked a pitchout to Cobb then handed off to Howell, who had clear sailing to the goal. Beard's successful conversion kick tied it up at 14-14 with 8:49 remaining in the period.

Bernie Weems intercepted a Mosely aerial at the Mustang 48 a couple of minutes later and returned it to the 30. [illegible] he got tackled, he latereled off to Chester Cobb who moved the ball on down to the 20. The Tigers spanned the distance to the goal in six plays. After an incomplete pass, Howell was stopped for no gain. Then the hosts were penalized half the distance to the goal to the 10. Cobb gained one, then Howell romped for five to the four. Then the talented fullback burst over for the score with 6:55 remaining. Beard's extra point kick missed.

Later in the period, Dennis Young intercepted a pass at the Tiger 45 and returned it to the Mustang 42. Snyder drove on down to the 10 with Cobb collecting 28 yards on a left end sweep. Danny Brumley threw a beautiful block that cleared the runner on the play. But a fumble recovery by David Sullivan stopped the drive.

[illegible] still in the second period, Weems batted a Mosely aerial into the air and Roy Lee Carter came up with the ball for the interception at the Mustang 28. But another interception by Phil Collins stopped the Tigers at the three.

Howell scored the last touchdown early in the fourth quarter on an 18 yard romp to cap a 45 yard march that required only three plays. On the touchdown run, Kenny Thompson cleared the Tiger back with a block at the five. Beard's kick made it 27-14 with 10:34 remaining. The other two plays in the drive were a 12 yard run by Cobb and a 15 yard romp by Howell.

Refusing to give up, Andrews drove from its 18 to the Tiger 11 in the fourth quarter, but was held on downs. Big Gainer in the march was a 15 yard completion, Mosely to Duffey.

The Tigers face tough Lamesa here Friday night in their first District 3-AAA contest.

The Tiger defense shut out Andrews' explosive offense during the last 2½ quarters of the game. It was a great team effort.

Dallas At Home Against Giants

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Miami's Larry Little is back where he should be — or where he should have been if San Diego had seen his potential.

And all of the Dolphins are back where they should be — in the victory column.

When the Chargers signed Little as a free agent in 1967, they tried him at fullback. It just didn't work. So, after the 1968 season, they dealt him to Miami for a cornerback named Mark Lamb.

Lamb never saw one minute of action with San Diego while Little went on to become the National Football League's first $100,000 guard. "The Chargers used me as a guinea pig," he said as Miami prepared for Sunday's game in San Diego.

The Chargers, under second-year Coach Tommy Prothro, used Cincinnati as the door to a victory last week, stunning the Bengals 20-17 while the Dolphins took advantage off Buffalo mistakes to beat the Bills 24-16.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday it is the New York Jets at Buffalo, Los Angeles at New England, Atlanta at New Orleans, Baltimore at Philadelphia, the New York Giants at Dallas, Detroit vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Kansas City at Houston, Chicago at Minnesota, Oakland at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at St. Louis and Cincinnati at San Francisco.

On Monday night, Denver visits Washington.

O.J. Simpson is due to return to action for the Bills. But, unlike last year, Buffalo has an offense without him. Young Joe Ferguson is currently leading the league in passing.

Of course, the Jets have a passer of some note named Joe Namath and the league's No. 1 rusher at the moment in John Riggins.

Both the surprising Patriots and the not-so-surprising Rams, each unbeaten, have passing games, too. Jim Plunkett, balancing his throwing with the running of Mack Herron and Sam Cunningham, has New England on the go while John Hadl is doing the same for Los Angeles.

The Packers, who evened their record by beating the Colts on MacArthur Lane's two touchdowns, face the Lions, who may be able to muster more of a passing attack with the return of wide receiver Ron Jessie. But quarterback Greg Landry still is out with a bad shoulder, so Bill Munson will once again be calling the plays.

Chicago, which has had a running quarterback in Bobby Douglass for the past few years, finally has a passer with the emergence of Gary Huff, who nearly brought the Bears back from a 20-0 deficit before they fell to the Jets by two points. But Chicago is running into a Minnesota team that has won its last dozen games at home and has an eight-game victory skein going against NFC Central division clubs.

Hot-footed Greg Pruitt leads the Browns into St. Louis. The Cardinals, with a defense that has allowed plenty of yards but only 13 points, are also an undefeated early-season surprise.

Christoval Rips Ira

IRA—Christoval rallied in the second half to score a 39-19 triumph over the Ira Bulldogs in a Six-Man gridiron contest here Friday night.

Christoval took a 13-0 lead in the first, quarter, but Ira tied it up at halftime. The visitors took command of the game in the third period.

Christoval's Gary Stewart scored on runs of five and 4 yards in the first stanza. He set up the second TD with a 30 yard run. The first touchdown drive came after a blocked kick. A run for extra point was successful after the first TD.

In the second period, Ira's Carl Smith plunged across from the two to cap a 45 yard drive. A run for extra point made it 7-13.

Later in the period, Tom Daves tallied on a 40 yard touchdown run as the hosts tied it up 13-13, at halftime.

Stewart also scored two touchdowns in the third period on short runs to climax long drives. Kent Hayden added as extra point as Christoval soared ahead 26-13.

Ira got back in the ball game before the quarter ended on a 30 yard touchdown run by Tom Daves as the count narrowed to 19-26.

Stewart scored on touchdown runs of 20 yards and 14 yards for Christoval in the fourth period. Hayden added another extra point.

Ira's Royce Corbell did a good job of downfield blocking. The Bulldogs will be open Friday night.

Gail Scores 30-0 Win

GAIL—The Borden County Coyotes easily shut out Grady, 30-0 here Friday night in an Eight-Man football contest.

Garland Williams sparked the Gail attack, scoring two touchdowns and running for four extra points. Monty Smith also looked good, scoring once, and completing a 19-yard touchdown pass to John Anderson.

The lead was 30-0 after three quarters.

O'Brien Wins 22-0

O'BRIEN—Lalo Garcia led the O'Brien Bulldogs to a 22-0 triumph over Hermleigh's Cardinals in a Six-Man football game here Friday night.

Garcia scored two TD's and teammate Rocha added another TD. Keith Rowan booted two extra points.

Cowboys Hope To Bounce Back

DALLAS (AP) — The New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys tangle Sunday in a National Football League joust with both clubs hoping to overcome mental frustration from their last outings.

"We're like the guy with lockjaw who got seasick," says Giant publicist Ed Croke.

The Giants have dropped their only two games under new Coach Bill Arnsbarger thanks mainly to a running game that has amounted to nil. Ron Johnson, the leading New York rusher in 1973, has carried 29 times for the grand total of 36 yards.

The Cowboys are coming off a 13-10 Monday night loss to Philadelphia in which they dominated every statistic on the board including charity.

"The only way Philadelphia could have beaten us was for us to give it to them," growled Coach Tom Landry, who saw a fumble and an interception by his troops turned into the game-winning points.

The numbed Cowboys, who blasted Atlanta 24-0 in the season opener, face a similar situation to 1973 after a tough loss in a Monday night game. Washington downed Dallas last year with a fourth quarter rally and the Cowboys were bombed the next week by Los Angeles.

"We've got to win with our defense now until the offense jells," says Landry. "Our defense has confidence. We won't lose many more games playing defense like we did in the first two."

Running back Calvin Hill of Dallas was questionable for the game because of a toe sprained against the Eagles.

Depite erratic performances at times from Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach, Dallas leads the National Football Conference in total offense and is No. 1 defensively.

The Giants can counter with a tough defensive line that Cowboy assistant Ermal Allen calls "the strongest thing about their football team."

Quarterback Norm Snead of the Giants has been having an up-and-down campaign.

"Snead can be just as potent as anybody when he's clicking," says Landry.

Houston Hosts Chiefs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers and Kansas City Chiefs hope to regain several injured troops and some first-game efficiency Sunday when they meet in matchup of two old American Football League rivals in the Astrodome.

Kickoff is at 1 p.m. CDT.

Both teams have injured quarterbacks with Houston's Dan Pastorini suffering from a hamstring pull and Kansas City's Len Dawson slowed by a finger injury.

Pastorini had been scheduled to play against the Chiefs with Lynn Dickey remaining as the starter but Pastorini now is questionable after re-injurying his hamstring Thursday. Mike Livingston will start at quarterback for the Chiefs.

Kansas City's offense has fizzled this season including last week's 27-7 loss to Oakland. The Chiefs have scored only four touchdowns this season and three have been produced by the defense on interception returns.

Wilbur Young and Marvin Upshaw each have scored on 52-yard returns for the Chiefs, to tie for the longest touchdown interception return this year in the American Football Conference.

The Chief's No. 1 draft choice, Woody Green, may see action after recovering from a collarbone injury.

Both the Chiefs and Oilers were ditched, possibly by jinxes, last week. The Chiefs lose reguarly in Oakland and Houston has nver beaten the Cleveland Browns. The Browns whipped the Oilers 20-7 last week.

Houston, showing improvement this year over last year's 1-13 form, came up with a potent running game of John Coleman and George Amundson in a victory over San Diego in the opener. But it disappeared against the Browns.

Rookie Coleman, the AFC's leading rusher after the first week, gained only two yards on 10 carries against the Browns and was replaced by Vic Washington, who fumbled three times.

Houston's biggest spark against the Browns was jitterbug punt returner Billy Johnson, who darted all over the field with 104 yards on punt returns to take the AFC lead in that category.

Oiler running back Fred Willis, sidelined since preseason, also is expected to get his first action this week.

Oakland Seeks Third World Championship

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's are one-third of the way toward owner Charles O. Finley's goal of "Once More in '74."

By clinching their fourth straight American League West division title, the A's need just another playoff championship to get their shot at a third consecutive world championship of baseball.

"Our pitching has been better this year than ever before," says Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the ace of the staff who became a 20-game winner for a fourth straight season.

That's about the only boast the A's are making these days. Their team earned run average is under 3.00, but the batting average is under .250 and there are no .300 hitters in the lineup.

"The last two weeks, we haven't hit at all," said Manager Alvin Dark, who got a second chance from Finley after Dick Williams' departure as manager following the 1973 World Series. "We've been trying to steal runs."

"I've got to give a lot of credit to the pitching staff," said first baseman Gene Tenace in agreement. "Some guys haven't been hitting lately, but the slumps are going to end soon."

Scoring runs was no problem early in the season, when Reggie Jackson was the hottest hitter in baseball ad players such as Joe Rudi and Sal Bando were slugging along in his shadow. The A's moved into first place to stay on May 20.

But as they were threatening to pull far ahead, Jackson and North tangled in a clubhouse brawl in Detroit June 5. Jackson came out of it with a sore shoulder which affected his batting, and a potential peacemaker, catcher Ray Fosse, suffered a back injury which kept him out of the lineup 11 weeks.

The lead shrunk to half a game, with Kansas City and Texas the most serious challengers. But the A's regrouped in July, winning 20 of 27 games, and led by nine on July 30.

Then came the late-season hitting problems, along with a losing streak by left-hander Vida Blue who seemed on his way to 20 victories. The surprising Texas Rangers drew within striking range by mid-August and stayed in contention into the final week of the season.

Last season, the A's won 60 of 48 one-run games. A 1-0 loss to the Twins Wednesday night made them 22-26 this year.

"A lot of different guys have had chances to drive in runs and just haven't done it," says Dark.

Despite keeping some suspense in the division pennant race down to the final week, the A's season attendance was barely 800,000 and Finley says the team will have to make the World Series again to assure him a profitable year.

When Curtis Strange of Wake Forest won the 1974 NCAA golf title he became the second freshman to win the tournament. Ben Crenshaw won as a freshman in 1971.

Aaron Will Have Great Memories

ATLANTA (AP) — In a few days, Henry Aaron can look back on the 1974 baseball season with fond memories of home runs hit and records broken in a brilliant career.

But, for the Atlanta Braves' star, the last days also will be tinged with sadness.

On Wednesday, Oct. 2, when the lights in Atlanta Stadium have dimmed after the last out against the Cincinnati Reds, Aaron will have made his last appearance as a player, retiring after 21 years as a Brave.

"I've got mixed emotions about retiring," says the 40-year-old Aaron. "I know it won't be easy walking away from the game after playing it all of my teen-age and adult life. But you can't play forever."

A crowd of about 40,000 is expected for Aaron's final game which probably will bring back memories of opening night on April 8 when he became baseball's all-time home run king, cracking No. 715 off Los Angeles' Al Downing and surpassing Babe Ruth's mark.

"When the final curtain comes down, my record will speak for itself," he says. "I'm not trying to make anyone forget the Babe, but only to remember Hank Aaron."

He will be remembered, not only for No. 715 but for the 25 National League records and 18 major league marks he holds.

Aaron has been promised a front-office position with the Braves and also has a $1-million contract with a television manufacturer.

"Naturally, I want to remain in baseball in some capacity," he says. "But that hasn't been discussed in detail yet."

As for his records, Aaron says he never really thought about them.

"Not even the home run record, until such was made of it. To tell you the truth, I don't know where I stand with all those other records. I never look at them."

Of his 25 National League records, 18 are also major league marks.

They include: most career home runs; most career at bats; most career games; most years with 30 or more homers, 15; most years with 100 or more runs scored, 15; most years leading league in total bases, eight; most years with 300 or more total bases, 15; most years playing in 150 or more games, 14; most years with 100 or more extra bases on long hits, 19; most years with 20 or more homers, 19.

PASS RUSH—Snyder High School's Tim Sonnier (60) and an unidentified team-mate put the pressure on Andrews passer Jamie Mosley (10) during the football contest in Mustang Bowl Friday night. Snyder scored a 27-14 come-from-behind victory.

Tigers Rally, Defeat Andrews Mustangs 27-13

ANDREWS—A good football team is one that can come from behind to win. The Snyder Tigers are such a team as they proved Friday night at Andrews with a 27-14 come-from-behind triumph over the Mustangs.

It was Homecoming night in Andrews, and the Mustangs were meaner than Leroy Brown as they took an early 14-0 lead, determined to pull off an upset. But the Tigers reacted to adversity with the poise of champions as they pulled within seven points late in the second quarter, then added two touchdowns in the third period to take command of the game. They added another TD in the fourth quarter.

Sharp blocking in the second half by the Tiger line and slashing runs by fullback Rickey Howell and tailback Welton Cobb paved the way for the Tiger victory. Howell finished the night as the leading ball carrier with 102 yards on 14 carries. Cobb netted 100 yards on 16 thrusts. Howell scored three touchdowns, and Cobb collected one.

The Tigers were stopped on their first possession by a fumble at the Andrews 40 which was recovered by Joe Vara. The Mustangs proceeded to march the 60 yards to the goal in five plays. After a penalty back to the 35, quarterback Jamie Mosley gained two on a keeper, then lofted a long aerial to fleet split end Mike Parker, who gained 53 yards to the 10. Tailback Steve Duffey gained seven on two carries to the two, and reserve fullback Owen Randolph burst over for the touchdown. Parker's kick made it 7-0 in favor of the Mustangs with 6:07 remaining in the period.

After another Tiger possession failed to produce any points, Mosley and Parker teamed up again and scared the daylights out of Tiger fans. They connected on a 32 yard aerial that was caught in the end zone, but a penalty nullified the touchdown.

Late in the first stanza, the Tigers moved from their 28 to the Mustang 39, but an interception by Chuck Wilson stopped the drive. Big gainers in the Tiger march were a 12 yard run by Cobb and a 21-yard pass completion, Win Bunch to Roy Lee Carter.

Andrews then launched a 72 yard, 13-play touchdown drive with fullback Brian Arnold plunging over from the three for the six points. Parker's kick made it 14-0 with 6:43 remaining in the period.

Bernie Weems intercepted a Mosely aerial at the Mustang 48 a couple of minutes later and returned it to the 30 just before he got tackled, he latereled off to Chester Cobb who moved the ball on down to the 20. The Tigers spanned the distance to the goal in six plays. After an incomplete pass, Howell was stopped for no gain. Then the hosts were penalized half the distance to the goal to the 10. Cobb gained one, then Howell romped for five to the four. Then the talented fullback burst over for the score with 6:55 remaining. Beard's extra point kick missed.

Later in the period, Dennis Young intercepted a pass at the Tiger 45 and returned it to the Mustang 42. Snyder drove on down to the 10 with Cobb collecting 28 yards on a left end sweep. Danny Brumley threw a beautiful block that cleared the runner on the play. But a fumble recovery by David Sullivan stopped the drive.

Later still in the same period, Weems batted a Mosely aerial into the air and Roy Lee Carter came up with the ball for the interception at the Mustang 28. But another interception by Phil Collins stopped the Tigers at the three.

Howell scored the last touchdown early in the fourth quarter on an 18 yard romp to cap a 45 yard march that required only three plays. On the touchdown run, Kenny Thompson cleared the Tiger back with a block at the five. Beard's kick made it 27-14 with 10:34 remaining. The other two plays in the drive were a 12 yard run by Cobb and a 15 yard romp by Howell.

Refusing to give up, Andrews drove from its 18 to the Tiger 11 in the fourth quarter, but was held on downs. Big Gainer in the march was a 15 yard completion. Mosely to Duffey.

The Tigers face tough Lamesa here Friday night in their first District 3-AAA contest.

The Tiger defense shut out Andrews' explosive offense during the last 2½ quarters of the game. It was a great team effort.

Dallas At Home Against Giants

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Miami's Larry Little is back where he should be — or where he should have been if San Diego had seen his potential.

And all of the Dolphins are back where they should be — in the victory column.

When the Chargers signed Little as a free agent in 1967, they tried him at fullback. It just didn't work. So, after the 1968 season, they dealt him to Miami for a cornerback named Mark Lamb.

Lamb never saw one minute of action with San Diego while Little went on to become the National Football League's first $100,000 guard. "The Chargers used me as a guinea pig," he said as Miami prepared for Sunday's game in San Diego.

The Chargers, under second-year Coach Tommy Prothro, used Cincinnati as the door to a victory last week, stunning the Bengals 20-17 while the Dolphins took advantage off Buffalo mistakes to beat the Bills 24-16.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday it is the New York Jets at Buffalo, Los Angeles at New England, Atlanta at New Orleans, Baltimore at Philadelphia, the New York Giants at Dallas, Detroit vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Kansas City at Houston, Chicago at Minnesota, Oakland at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at St. Louis and Cincinnati at San Francisco.

On Monday night, Denver visits Washington.

O.J. Simpson is due to return to action for the Bills. But, unlike last year, Buffalo has an offense without him. Young Joe Ferguson is currently leading the league in passing.

Of course, the Jets have a passer of some note named Joe Namath and the league's No. 1 rusher at the moment in John Riggins.

Both the surprising Patriots and the not-so-surprising Rams, each unbeaten, have passing games, too. Jim Plunkett, balancing his throwing with the running of Mack Herron and Sam Cunningham, has New England on the go while John Hadl is doing the same for Los Angeles.

The Packers, who evened their record by beating the Colts on MacArthur Lane's two touchdowns, face the Lions, who may be able to muster more of a passing attack with the return of wide reeeiver Ron Jessie. But quarterback Greg Landry still is out with a bad shoulder, so Bill Munson will once again be calling the plays.

Chicago, which has had a running quarterback in Bobby Douglass for the past few years, finally has a passer with the emergence of Gary Huff, who nearly brought the Bears back from a 20-0 deficit before they fell to the Jets by two points. But Chicago is running into a Minnesota team that has won its last dozen games at home and has an eight-game victory skein going against NFC Central division clubs.

Hot-footed Greg Pruitt leads the Browns into St. Louis. The Cardinals, with a defense that has allowed plenty of yards but only 13 points, are also an undefeated early-season surprise.

In the second period, Ira's Carl Smith plunged across from the two to cap a 45 yard drive. A run for extra point made it 7-13.

Later in the period, Tom Daves tallied on a 40 yard touchdown run as the hosts tied it up 13-13, at halftime.

Stewart also scored two touchdowns in the third period on short runs to climax long drives. Kent Hayden added as extra point as Christoval soared ahead 26-13.

Stewart scored on touchdown runs of 20 yards and 14 yards for Christoval in the fourth period. Hayden added another extra point.

Ira's Royce Corbell did a good job of downfield blocking. The Bulldogs will be open Friday night.

Cowboys Hope To Bounce Back

DALLAS (AP) — The New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys tangle Sunday in a National Football League joust with both clubs hoping to overcome mental frustration from their last outings.

"We're like the guy with lockjaw who got seasick," says Giant publicist Ed Croke.

The Giants have dropped their only two games under new Coach Bill Arnsbarger thanks mainly to a running game that has amounted to nil. Ron Johnson, the leading New York rusher in 1973, has carried 29 times for the grand total of 36 yards.

The Cowboys are coming off a 13-10 Monday night loss to Philadelphia in which they dominated every statistic on the board including charity.

"The only way Philadelphia could have beaten us was for us to give it to them," growled Coach Tom Landry, who saw a fumble and an interception by his troops turned into the game-winning points.

The numbed Cowboys, who blasted Atlanta 24-0 in the season opener, face a similar situation to 1973 after a tough loss in a Monday night game. Washington downed Dallas last year with a fourth quarter rally and the Cowboys were bombed the next week by Los Angeles.

"We've got to win with our defense now until the offense jells," says Landry. "Our defense has confidence. We won't lose many more games playing defense like we did in the first two."

Running back Calvin Hill of Dallas was questionable for the game because of a toe sprained against the Eagles.

Depite erratic performances at times from Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach, Dallas leads the National Football Conference in total offense and is No. 1 defensively.

The Giants can counter with a tough defensive line that Cowboy assistant Ermal Allen calls "the strongest thing about their football team."

Quarterback Norm Snead of the Giants has been having an up-and-down campaign.

"Snead can be just as potent as anybody when he's clicking," says Landry.

Houston Hosts Chiefs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers and Kansas City Chiefs hope to regain several injured troops and some first-game efficiency Sunday when they meet in matchup of two old American Football League rivals in the Astrodome.

Kickoff is at 1 p.m. CDT.

Both teams have injured quarterbacks with Houston's Dan Pastorini suffering from a hamstring pull and Kansas City's Len Dawson sidelined by a finger injury.

Pastorini had been scheduled to play against the Chiefs with Lynn Dickey remaining as the starter but Pastorini now is questionable after re-injurying his hamstring Thursday. Mike Livingston will start at quarterback for the Chiefs.

Kansas City's offense has fizzled this season including last week's 27-7 loss to Oakland. The Chiefs have scored only four touchdowns this season and three have been produced by the defense on interception returns.

Wilbur Young and Marvin Upshaw each have scored on 52-yard returns for the Chiefs, to tie for the longest touchdown interception return this year in the American Football Conference.

The Chief's No. 1 draft choice, Woody Green, may see action after recovering from a collarbone injury.

Both the Chiefs and Oilers were ditched, possibly by jinxes, last week. The Chiefs lose reguarly in Oakland and Houston has nver beaten the Cleveland Browns. The Browns whipped the Oilers 20-7 last week.

Houston, showing improvement this year over last year's 1-13 form, came up with a potent running game of John Coleman and George Amundson in a victory over San Diego in the opener. But it disappeared against the Browns.

Rookie Coleman, the AFC's leading rusher after the first week, gained only two yards on 10 carries against the Browns and was replaced by Vic Washington, who fumbled three times.

Houston's biggest spark against the Browns was jitterbug punt returner Billy Johnson, who darted all over the field with 104 yards on punt returns to take the AFC lead in that category.

Oiler running back Fred Willis, sidelined since preseason, also is expected to get his first action this week.

Oakland Seeks Third World Championship

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's are one-third of the way toward owner Charles O. Finley's goal of "Once More in '74."

By clinching their fourth straight American League West division title, the A's need just another playoff championship to get their shot at a third consecutive world championship of baseball.

"Our pitching has been better this year than ever before," says Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the ace of the staff who became a 20-game winner for a fourth straight season.

That's about the only boast the A's are making these days. Their team earned run average is under 3.00, but the batting average is under .250 and there are no .300 hitters in the lineup.

"The last two weeks, we haven't hit at all," said Manager Alvin Dark, who got a second chance from Finley after Dick Williams' departure as manager following the 1973 World Series. "We've been trying to steal runs."

"I've got to give a lot of credit to the pitching staff," said first baseman Gene Tenace in agreement. "Some guys haven't been hitting lately, but the slumps are going to end soon."

Scoring runs was no problem early in the season, when Reggie Jackson was the hottest hitter in baseball ad players such as Joe Rudi and Sal Bando were slugging along in his shadow. The A's moved into first place to stay on May 20.

But as they were threatening to pull far ahead, Jackson and North tangled in a clubhouse brawl in Detroit June 5. Jackson came out of it with a sore shoulder which affected his batting, and a potential peacemaker, catcher Ray Fosse, suffered a back injury which kept him out of the lineup 11 weeks.

The lead shrunk to half a game, with Kansas City and Texas the most serious challengers. But the A's regrouped in July, winning 20 of 27 games, and led by nine on July 30.

Then came the late-season hitting problems, along with a losing streak by left-hander Vida Blue who seemed on his way to 20 victories. The surprising Texas Rangers drew within striking range by mid-August and stayed in contention into the final week of the season.

Last season, the A's won 27 of 48 one-run games. A 1-0 loss to the Twins Wednesday night made them 22-26 this year.

"A lot of different guys have had chances to drive in runs and just haven't done it," says Dark.

Despite keeping some suspense in the division pennant race down to the final week, the A's season attendance was barely 800,000 and Finley says the team will have to make the World Series again to assure him a profitable year.

When Curtis Strange of Wake Forest won the 1974 NCAA golf title he became the second freshman to win the tournament. Ben Crenshaw won as a freshman in 1971.

Aaron Will Have Great Memories

ATLANTA (AP) — In a few days, Henry Aaron can look back on the 1974 baseball season with fond memories of home runs hit and records broken in a brilliant career.

But, for the Atlanta Braves' star, the last days also will be tinged with sadness.

On Wednesday, Oct. 2, when the lights in Atlanta Stadium have dimmed after the last out against the Cincinnati Reds, Aaron will have made his last appearance as a player, retiring after 21 years as a Brave.

"I've got mixed emotions about retiring," says the 40-year-old Aaron. "I know it won't be easy walking away from the game after playing it all of my teen-age and adult life. But you can't play forever."

A crowd of about 40,000 is expected for Aaron's final game which probably will bring back memories of opening night on April 8 when he became baseball's all-time home run king, cracking No. 715 off Los Angeles' Al Downing and surpassing Babe Ruth's mark.

"When the final curtain comes down, my record will speak for itself," he says. "I'm not trying to make anyone forget the Babe, but only to remember Hank Aaron."

He will be remembered, not only for No. 715 but for the 25 National League records and 18 major league marks he holds.

Aaron has been promised a front-office position with the Braves and also has a $1-million contract with a television manufacturer.

"Naturally, I want to remain in baseball in some capacity," he says. "But that hasn't been discussed in detail yet."

As for his records, Aaron says he never really thought about them.

"Not even the home run record, until such was made of it. To tell you the truth, I don't know where I stand with all those other records. I never look at them."

Of his 25 National League records, 18 are also major league marks.

They include: most career home runs; most career at bats; most career games; most years with 30 or more homers, 15; most years with 100 or more runs scored, 15; most years leading league in total bases, eight; most years with 300 or more total bases, 15; most years playing in 150 or more games, 14; most years with 100 or more extra bases on long hits, 19; most years with 20 or more homers, 19.

Year-Old Drug Law Fails To Dent Traffic

EDITOR'S NOTE — The nation's toughest drug law is a year old, but critics claim it hasn't put a dent in New York drug traffic. Former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, the law's author, believed it would control big pushers. Backers say time will show it more effective.

By JOY COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two days after his 16th birthday, Jerome Murphy's freedom ended.

He was arrested, on Sept. 17, 1973, for selling $30 worth of heroin to an undercover narcotics agent. Black, a school dropout, veteran of juvenile courts in Albany, N.Y., Murphy was convicted and given life in jail.

Murphy is one of 150 persons given life terms under a drug law that went on the books in New York State Sept. 1, 1973.

The new law put punishment for illegal drugs on a par with murder and kidnaping. But city and federal narcotics experts say that it hasn't put a dent in this city's huge drug traffic, at least not yet.

The year-old law says that anyone at least 16 years of age convicted of selling an eighth of an ounce or more of almost any drug must go to jail for a minimum of one year and a maximum of life. Lifetime parole supervision is mandatory after release from jail.

Under the old drug law, life terms averaged about two dozen a year, and then only for major offenders involved in big drug operations.

Heroin and cocaine are more available on New York City streets today than a year ago, law enforcement officers say. But, they add, the real impact of the new law will come once mandatory life terms are commonplace.

Some of the city's top judges and legal aid lawyers are sounding constitutional alarms. They argue that indefinite prison terms amount to cruel and unusual punishment. But police and district attorneys outside New York City say the new law has helped, at least by driving drug traffic deeper underground.

The controversy may not be New York's alone. Arizona, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts are studying this state's drug law, enacted in the final months of Nelson Rockefeller's 15-year term as governor.

Rockefeller proposed the law as an admittedly drastic measure. He contended that a billion-dollar drug treatment program had failed to halt the "wholesale mugging and robbing" of New Yorkers by an estimated 300,000 heroin addicts, about half of the known addicts in the nation. Most of the 300,000 are in this city.

New emphasis was to be placed on hitting the big pushers. But where the old law provided a 15-year-to-life term for the sale of one pound of narcotics, the new law levied that penalty for one ounce, a sale usually made by small dealers.

"Rightfully so," argues Deputy Police Chief Daniel Courteany, head of New York City's organized crime bureau narcotics division. "A guy with one ounce of heroin does more damage than an individual with a machine gun at Times Square at high noon."

Courtenay says one ounce is enough for 1,000-bags of diluted heroin.

Judge Leonard Shandler, a narcotics trial judge in the Manhattan Supreme Court, maintains the new law is a "menace to individual freedom."

The chief administrative judge for the Manhattan Narcotics Courts, David Ross, agrees. "How can you rehabilitate a man with a life sentence? Are you rehabilitating him for the undertaker?"

One major legal change, in New York City at least, developed this summer in the handling of illicit methadone cases. Methadone, a medical substitute for heroin, is distributed legally through city drug programs. But distribution is in carefully controlled amounts.

An extensive black market has developed because methadone is cheaper than heroin. A day's supply costs $5 compared with $50 for heroin. A number of deaths have been attributed to methadone overdoses from illegal sales.

To deal with the growing methadone problem, six men this summer were given life terms in New York City for sale of as little as $7 worth of methadone-laced orange juice.

Judge Ross termed it "inhuman." The city's top narcotics prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Frank Rogers, agreed to handle small, illegal methadone sales as misdemeanors in the future.

Upstate New York prosecutors, including Albany Dist. Atty. Ralph Smith, declined. They said stiff prosecutions would continue.

Smith's office prosecuted the Jerome Murphy case and has another pending against a 16-year-old white youngster who allegedly sold "speed." The Albany prosecutor says he likes the new law with its elimination of special treatment for juvenile offenders over 16. "Sure it troubles us to see a 16-year-old faced with this kind of stiff treatment. But that doesn't change the fact that his sales can hook 10-and 11-year-old kids. Drug dealing is an adult crime."

The new law, besides providing mandatory life sentences for drug sales, fixes life sentences for possession of a pound or more of most drugs.

Sale or possession of marijuana, on the other hand, has been reduced under the new law from a felony to a misdemeanor carrying one to 15 years in prison, with probation for first offenders.

The state lacks detailed statistics on the drug law after one year, but New York City alone accounted for more than 75 lifetime convictions.

So far, only five convictions brought the maximum 15 years before possible parole — all in New York City. Among them were a railroad worker who allegedly made more than a dozen heroin sales to an undercover agent and two individuals who sold more than a pound of cocaine.

"Dealers laid low last September when the law went into effect, but within six weeks they were back in full swing," says Arthur Grubert, chief of the drug enforcement administration's new federal-local intelligence division. "It's grown even more since March, when Mexican heroin began turning up on the East Coast for the first time.

"Give it (the law) time. It may take two years for it to show any real effect," Grubert continued. "The big cases take a long time to come to trial, but once we get a solid string of convictions, we should see a change on the streets. If not, we'll look for something else."

Junior Editors' Quiz on BOTULISM

QUESTION: What is botulism?

* * *

ANSWER: Botulism is a type of food poisoning caused by toxins produced by the bacillus clostridium botulinum. The name comes from the Latin word botulus, meaning sausage. This disease was first recognized in the 19th century in Germany where patients had become ill after eating sausage. Symptoms of the disease appear about 18 to 36 hours after eating contaminated food. The chief symptoms are disturbances in vision, speech and swallowing and ultimately paralysis of the respiratory muscles. Botulism has a high mortality rate — about 65 per cent. Many people have been saved by a botulus antiserum administered shortly after contact with tainted food.

Botulism is almost always caused by preserved foods which have been improperly processed. This form of bacteria lives in the ground and, when it invades food, requires long cooking at high temperatures to destroy it. For many years, botulism was associated with home-canned foods but recently it has occurred in connection with commercial canned food, although it is unusual.

Proper Use Of Hospital Emergency Room Urged

Officials of Codgell Memorial Hospital have issued a plea for residents to limit the use of the emergency room at the hospital to actual emergencies.

It was noted that treatment in the emergency room often is sought for cases that are not really emergencies, but that should be taken to doctors' offices rather than the hospital.

The plea for cooperation of the public is contained in a formal statement, presented on behalf of the management of the hospital by Cy Miller, administrator.

The statement follows:

"D. M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital is blessed with some of the best emergency facilities in this part of Texas. The staff of the hospital has strived in every way to maintain as complete and competent an Emergency Room as is possible in a community and hospital many times as large as our own. Every endeavor has been made to service the people of Scurry County with the best possible medical services.

"One of the problems that has arisen, though, is the misuse of the emergency room by certain people. It must be understood that no hospital can have an outpatient department (or doctor's office) as an emergency room. This particular part of our hospital is designed and designated for use in emergencies. To use it as a convenience or doctor's office completely destroys its purpose as an emergency facility. Over 95 per cent of the visits to our emergency room are not emergencies, but could be taken care of in a doctor's office.

"Before going to the emergency room, everyone should remember that at anytime a car wreck, an oilfield accident, or some other type serious injury could occur that absolutely requires the patient be brought to the hospital. To have hospital personnel or emergency room facilities tied up by patients who should have been seen in the doctor's office, could (and indeed has, in many instances) create a critical situation. To use the emergency room as a convenience to keep from going to the doctor's office destroys the very basic reason for having the physical plant and people available to run an emergency room.

"The emergency room at D. M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital is your assurance that in case of need it will be available. It is impossible to use it as a doctor's office and still offer the standard of care that you want from an emergency service. Before going to the hospital and the emergency room, every effort should be made to contact your own doctor. The doctors available at the hospital (and there is at least one) 24 hours a day are available through the emergency room for emergency services. Emergency rooms connot be used--again this point must be emphasized--as a matter of convenience or doctor's offices; it they are, they defeat the purpose for which the service is offered, i.e., to take care of emergencies.

"The next time before going to the emergency room, ask yourself these questions:

"1. Is this an emergency?

"2. Have I exhausted every possibility in trying to locate my own doctor?

"Let us not ruin a very vital service, that is the rendering of emergency care, by flooding the facility with problems that could wait until the doctor's office is open. A "bad cold" can hold for awhile, but a heart attack or massive bleeding must be seen about now. That we must always have. Let us not clutter it out of existence."

Pharmacist Is Relocating

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: My husband, a pharmacist, and I are interested in relocating -- preferably to California. We would like to know how one goes about finding out information on relocating to another state. Also, we understand that in California you must live there 6 months before being considered for licensing as a pharmacist. How could he earn his living in the meantime? - X.X., Camden, N.J.

Your husband has to pass a licensing exam, but he doesn't have to be a resident to do it. He could keep his job, fly out and take the exam, then return and await results 1-2 months later. The exam is given several times a year; for details, write to the State Board of Pharmacy, 1201 O St., Sacramento, Calif. 95814. It would be a good idea to check with a college of pharmacy in California for guidance in preparing for the test, such as the University of California's School of Pharmacy in San Francisco. With the exception of Florida and Hawaii, all other states have license reciprocity for pharmacists. The jobmarket for pharmacists is tight in San Francisco and Los Angeles, but very good in less populated California communities.

In general, ways to get info on relocating include writing to the chambers of commerce for literature, subscribing to newspapers in the locality being considered, and visiting before moving.

For readers interested in Florida, there's a 1974 paperback, "What to look for in Florida - and what to look out for!" available from Trend House, Box 2350, Tampa, Fla. 33601. Cost is $1.95.

Dear Joyce: Is there a school of taxidermy other than by mail? My son will graduate from high school next year. He has taken courses by mail since he was 12 and continues to be interested. He would like to learn taxidermy first hand as a career, trade or sideline. -- R.S., Somerville, Tenn.

There's no existing vocational school for taxidermy, but plans are being made to open one in New York state. To learn more about this, write to Mrs. Nancy Motyka, Secretary, National Taxidermists Association, Rt. 2, Ludington, Mich. 49431. Many taxidermists learned their skills through informal apprenticeship, working in taxidermy shops.

Colleges and universities that offer programs in museum training (see college guidebooks, such as Lovejoy's, under museum curators) include instruction in taxidermy. This instruction is not offered as a vocational course, but is interwoven in the academic preparation of students for administrative work in museums. However, preparing animals for exhibits may be part of a curator's work, and this is where taxidermy comes in. As a single example, you could write to the Museum Training Dept., College of Liberal Arts, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia. 52240, for information on this type of program.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas's capital city, Little Rock, derived its name from a moss-covered rock jutting out from the south bank of the Arkansas River.

The rock was both an early Indian landmark for easy fording of the river and also a guidepost to travelers on the trail to the Ouachita Mountains.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

In 1957, Robert Fuller turned down 'success' in order to achieve it. At that time he was trying to make his mark as an actor. He had been an extra and then managed to land roles in three movies. Fuller thought his days as an extra were behind him. But suddenly, the calls for his services were few and far between. He still had his Extras Guild card and one day accepted a call where hundreds of extras were needed. The picture was "Sweet Smell of Success," starring Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis. As Fuller waited to mingle with the others on the set, he made a decision. This was not for him. He knew that if he continued to accept these calls it would take him a long time to become a star. He called the Guild and asked for an honorable withdrawal card. He underwent the struggles most actors experience. The turning point in his career came in 1959 when he landed the starring role of Jess Harper in NBC-TV's "Laramie" series and became one of television's top stars. Fuller's next series was NBC-TV's "Wagon Train," in which he played a scout. Later, he had a number of guest star roles in network shows and had starring roles in network shows and had starring roles in motion pictures. Fuller is now the star of NBC-TV's "Emergency!"

MAURICE: If your career hadn't worked out what would you liked to have done?

FULLER: Well, it's not what I think I would like to have done, I would have been a game warden in Africa. I could identify with that. I really could. That would be something I know I could do. I really have no education, so that limits me.

MAURICE: Is your wife an actress?

FULLER: No, my wife is not an actress. I wouldn't marry an actress. I've dated a lot of them but I think when it gets right down to it I would rather just have the typical homebody type gal which my wife definitely is. I certainly don't mean it chauvinistically at all. In fact I help her do the dishes.

MAURICE: Do you think that most people feel that actors are not the brightest people in the world?

FULLER: Certainly I do but I think it's the actor's or actress' fault for that. Secondly, everytime that one person does something wrong we all get blamed for it. We're probably the worst risk in the world at the bank. Nobody wants to help an actor. You can't get a loan.

MAURICE: How do you protect yourself with rising costs? Do you invest?

FULLER: I have invested in some grape vineyards and a nursery here in California. I leave it to my investment counselor to tell me what to do with my money.

MAURICE: I don't think the public realizes how many people are on an actor's payroll.

FULLER: I guess, not counting what the government takes out of my check, there's another 20 percent off the top that goes to press agents, whatever. I probably make 20c out of every dollar.

MAURICE: With exception of your present role as Dr. Kelly Brackett in "Emergency" all of your parts have been physical ones.

FULLER: I'm a very physical person. I like to swim. I play tennis, I was an acrobat when I was a kid. I boxed in the Army. I like all that kind of stuff. It's fun to do.

MAURICE: What habits do you wish you could break?

FULLER: Smoking. I could break it if I wanted to but I enjoy smoking so much that I don't want to.

MAURICE: Are you vain about anything?

FULLER: Probably my hair. It takes me 20-minutes to comb it to make it look like it isn't combed.

MAURICE: How long does it take to shoot one program?

FULLER: It takes six days. I usually get up around 5 a.m. because I have to be at the studio at 7 a.m. and I work through till 6 p.m.

MAURICE: If you had one wish, what would you wish for?

FULLER: I wish that there would be no such thing as a crippled or handicapped child.

Book Swap Plan At WTC Library

The Western Texas College library has begun a Book Swap section, Larry V. Anderson, director of library services, said.

A collection of paperback books has been placed on a table in the library and students or other Scurry County residents are invited to come by, pick up a book or books they would like to read, and take them home. These books are not checked out through the circulation desk.

In return, Book Swap users may leave books they would like to contribute to the Swap. Non-students are welcome to contribute to the Swap or to take books they would like to read, Anderson emphasized.

"We have been well pleased with the response to the program thus far," Anderson said. "The turnover in books has been good and we plan to continue the program for an indefinite period."

MORE ON PECAN SHEDDING:

As time goes on we are learning more and more. Here is more information.

Pecan Shuck Disease

This is not a true disease in the sense that a pathogen is involved. Shuck disease is the result of a hormone imbalance which results in a partial abcission zone being formed on the peduncle. This results in girdling of the peduncle, and restricted nutrient flow into the pecan. Pecans which are damaged by this are improperly filled and are known as "pops". These pecans are characterized by normal shuck opening and pecan shedding. This shedding will occur from one to three weeks earlier than the healthy pecans. As a result of these "pops", the cost of harvesting is increased due to the need for removal of this material either prior to harvest or in increased cleaning costs.

Research trials and result demonstrations have shown that even though the use of fertilizer, micronutrients and fungicudes will increase the total production of these trees, the percent of pops will remain the same. Removal of part of the load on a tree did not affect the percent "pops". Results from these investigations have shown that artificially applied ethylene (a hormone shown to be active in the normal maturing of fruits and nuts) will induce this drop whereas carbon dixoide (ethylene inhibiting substance) will reduce the drop. Shuck disease is related to the varieties Success and to those with Success as a parent.

Control:

No control is available which would be economical. Proper variety selection in new plantings is encouraged. Mature Success trees should be maintained under the maximum fertilizer, zinc, insecticide and fungicide levels to insure a heavy fruit set. Then, although the percent "pops" will be the same, the yield from those trees will be high enough to reap an economic return.

Sticky Shuck Disease

In 1969 several pecan specialists became conscious of the fact that fungicides applied in the fall of the year prevented a drop occurring during the first part of August. This did not occur in all locations.

The reason for this variation was found to be due to the timing fo the fungicide. To be effective, it must be applied at the initiation of the liquid endosperm period (water stage). The pecan is especially susceptible to injury at this time. Anything that penetrates into the developing kernel will result in immediate drop.

Isolations made from these pecans reveal that a certain fungus was consistently found in the pecans dropping early. Pecans damaged by this disease were characterized by black, sunken, shiny lesions. Developing lesions enlarged very rapidly. Affected pecans drop to the ground and do not shed their shucks, thus the name sticky shuck.

Control:

This disease can be controlled with fungicides, however. it requires spraying in late July and early August. Timing is especially important. The first application must be applied at the initiation of the liquid endosperm stage. A second application is applied two weeks after the first application. The materials, Du-Ter or Benlate, have been found to be most effective in the control of this disease.

The varieties, Western and Wichita, are damaged by this condition more than other varieties although it has been observed in most commercial varieties.

Texas Enjoying Economic Health

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — During this period of runaway inflation and troubled economy Texas is boasting of $1 billion in surplus funds and some politicians are considering slashing state sales taxes.

Additionally, Texas is one of only 12 states that does not have a state income tax, yet has one of the nation's finest highway networks and a prison system that is nearly self-sufficient.

The state is on a pay-as-you go basis and Gov. Dolph Briscoe is campaigning for reelectin on a "no new taxes" platform.

The flood of money in state coffers has come about through an inflationary plague that grips the whole country.

State officials attributed the state's robust economic health to unexpected sales tax earnings and other windfall sources, mainly oil and gas.

Jim Oliver, assistant director of the Legislative Budget Board, says source of the surplus is obvious. "The price of a pair of blue jeans has gone up from $9.50 to $14. That's another 18 cents in sales taxes coming into the state," he said.

Oliver recently told the board, which makes spending recommendations to the legislature, that Texas will have as much as $1.5 billion for the state's 1976-1977 budget even after it makes huge expenditures, including a 23.8 per cent pay raise for state employes, adds $800 million to the public school aid program and spends $393.8 million on emergency measures sought by Briscoe.

Politicians are now talking about cutting taxes, and using the "nest egg" to earn as much as $100 million a year in interest.

The rosy forecast prompted Briscoe, a Democrat, to come up with the idea of giving $80 million back to taxpayers by asking the 1975 Legislature to eliminate the four per cent state sales tax on soaring domestic electric and natural gas utility bills.

This would be better, Briscoe says, than launching "massive new spending programs of marginal benefit ... which would require an unwarranted expansion of the state bureaucracy."

The Republican gubernatorial nominee, Jim Granberry, a Lubbock dentist, wants to cut the state sales tax from four to three cents, which he says would save tax payers $279 million a year.

Bob Holt, Republican candidate for state treasurer wants to create a $1 billion trust fund from the current and expected state surplus. "You can open up any paper nowadays and see ads offering 11 and 12 per cent interest for your money and here we are getting peanuts on our state money," he says.

Gibson New TMA Chief For Region

HOUSTON—The Texas Manufacturers Association (TMA) has named William E. "Bill" Gibson manager of its West Texas Region. He succeeds W. Ross Moore who resigned to establish a geological consulting firm in Midland.

Gibson who will be headquartered in Midland will be responsible for membership development and maintenance for TMA throughout West Texas.

This area includes El Paso, Odessa, Midland, Lubbock, Amarillo, Big Spring, Pampa, Snyder, Childress, Perryton, Borger, Dalhart, Sweetwater, and Plainview.

Since joining TMA in 1970, Gibson has worked in membership development and industrial relations. A graduate of Sam Houston State University, he has a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture and business administration. He and his wife, Rita, and their two children, Blake, 7, and Paige, 2, will reside in Midland.

Established in 1922, TMA is one of the nation's largest statewide associations. An advocate of the private enterprise system, TMA works to build and maintain a better climate for business and industry in Texas.

Runaway Bay Is Accurately Named

RUNAWAY BAY, Jamaica (AP) — Runaway Bay on Jamaica's north coast is said to have been named for the runaway slaves in the 17th and 18th centuries who fled to Cuba in canoes. Once they arrived, the Spanish would immediately baptise them so they couldn't be returned to the "British heretics" without imperiling their immortal souls.

Increase In Cotton Prop Asked

Farmers Union cotton state representatives called for an emergency amendment to the 1973 Farm Bill providing for a mandatory increase in the cotton support price to 50 cents a pound on the 1974 crop. The action was taken at a meeting in Dallas all day Tuesday. States represented were New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco, reporting from the Dallas meeting, stated that an immediate increase in the 1974 cotton loan rate is essential to enable southwestern cotton producers to pay off their production loans and finance next year's crop.

"High costs, a poor crop, and below the cost of production prices spell disaster to cotton producers. Congress must take emergency action to increase the loan rate to a minimum of 50 cents a pound strict low middling 1-1-16", average location. This action would move the textile industry and shippers into the competitive market. They are now sitting back expecting farmers to bear the total responsibility of financing the crop until the trade needs it," Naman said.

The Texas Farmers Union leader explained that unless the government takes emergency action, the farmers surviving the economic "wringer" will abandon cotton production in 1975 and instead expand feedgrain production substantially. This could create cotton shortages in the years to come and at the same time cause a feedgrain price bust.

The Dallas meeting of Farmers Union cotton leaders called upon National Farmers Union to urge Congress to take the steps necessary to "save the cotton industry." The state Farmers Union organizations will send urgent appeals directly to state congressional delegations soliciting support for an increase in the loan price.

"The action to save cotton farmers must be immediate. The production problems including high costs, and unfavorable weather conditions have created serious enough problems, but we are now faced with the situation where we can't sell our crop for near the cost of production. Anything less that a substantial increase in the loan rate provided for by special legislation, will spell economic ruin to thousands of southwestern cotton producers", Naman said.

Robbers Hitting Branch Bank

BOSTON (AP) — One reason bank robberies are on the rise is that many branches are located in areas where police protection surveillance may be inadequate, says James O. Newpher, special agent-in-charge of the Boston FBI office.

There were 92 bank holdups in the 12 months ending June 10, 1974, according to Newpher, who says banks are increasingly building branches "in shopping centers and in outside, rural areas.

"It's easy for a bank robber to escape out there," he explains.

Fewer People Die On Highways

AUSTIN (AP) — Five hundred and 15 fewer people have been killed on Texas highways than for the same period in 1973, the Department of Public Safety reports.

This year's fatalities total 2,083, compared with 2,598 in 1973. Fatal accidents total 1,804, compared with 2,132 at this time last year.

Strikes Are Crippling Production Of Autos

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Strikes affecting all four major U.S. auto makers are crippling production and prompting layoffs of thousands of workers.

General Motors faces a parts shortage stemming from a local contract dispute, and American Motors Corp.'s car production is shutdown by a national strike. Ford has already shut down plants, and Chrysler plans to because of a walkout at a key parts supplier.

Potentially, the most serious is a strike at a key parts-making complex in Indiana which threatens to cause a shut-down of all GM assembly facilities within a week.

The strike, by 14,000 members of United Auto Workers Union Local 662 at GM's 14 Delco-Remy plants in Anderson, Ind., entered its third day today.

Union officials reported progress in substantially reducing the number of issues in the local contract dispute. Remaining issues were not revealed.

The plant is GM's sole supplier of generators, ignition systems and a variety of switches.

Company spokesmen said a lengthy strike could force a gradual closing of GM's 117 plants beginning early next week. The auto maker employs 400,000 hourly workers.

Meanwhile, Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. said they will have a total of nine plants shut down and nearly 25,000 workers laid off because of a strike at a key parts supplier in Franklin, Ind.

The strike by the Carpenters and Joiners Union Local 2993 at Arvin Industries has created a shortage of catalytic converters for pollution control and exhaust systems for Ford and Chrysler.

Union officials said a tentative agreement on a new contract was reached and striking workers in Franklin were to vote on the proposals Sunday.

Ford said it will lay off 6,350 workers Monday when it shuts its truck plants in Wayne, Mich., and Oakville, Ont., and car plants in Louisville, Ky., and Mahwah, N.J. Ford sent 9,800 workers home Friday after closing plants in Dearborn, Mich., Norfolk, Va., and San Jose, Calif.

Chrysler said it would shut its Detroit Lynch Road and Windsor, Ont., plants and lay off 9,300 workers for at least a week starting Monday.

DPS Cars To Be Auctioned

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Want a real state trooper car?

The Department of Public Safety is selling 100 DPS automobiles at public auction Oct. 5.

None of the cars is older than six years and some are 1972 models.

For Texan buffs, there's more—one horse trailer, vintage about 1940, and a small 1948 bus which was used as a communications van as late as the 1961 Hurricane Carla.

Texas Rangers still use horses, a spokesman said, in country that's too rough for cars.

Causeway Dedication Set Today

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., is the main speaker Sunday at the scheduled dedication of the Queen Isabella Causeway, Texas' longest bridge.

The 12,510-foot causeway, which links Port Isabel with South Padre Island, is 85 feet above sea level where it crosses the Intracoastal Canal.

In addition to Bentsen and Rep. Eligio de la Garza, D-Tex., numerous Texas Highway Department officials will attend the 5 p.m. ceremony on the Port Isabel side of the $16 million causeway.

The causeway is named for the 14th century Spanish queen who launched her country into exploration of the new world. Juan Cabrero, consul general of Spain, is to be a special guest at the dedication.

The new bridge replaces the old Queen Isabella Causeway, constructed in 1954, and used as a toll bridge until it was turned over to the highway department by Cameron County in April 1968. The old causeway is to be converted into a lighted fishing pier.

Motorists going to South Padre Island beaches on the new causeway will not have long delays while barges and shrimp boats pass along the Intracoastal Canal. The old causeway had a drawbridge and traffic was halted for barges and boats.

The highway department said the old causeway carried an average of 9,055 vehicles per day in July this year.

Other events planned for the dedication include a fish fry, a barbecue, a talent show, flights by World War II airplanes from the Confederate Air Force, a fireworks display and two dances.

Sunday morning, before the four-lane bridge is opened to motorists, pedestrians will be allowed to walk across the causeway. Certificates will be given to the first 500 persons who make the walk. It will be the only time a person can walk across the bridge because it is to be closed to pedestrian traffic.

Texas Building Sets High

DALLAS (AP) — Inflation of material costs and high interest rates failed to slow construction in Texas in September, figures compiled by the trade magazine, The Texas Contractor, will show Tuesday.

Some alarm about the industry was expressed last month when the total of contracts fell sharply.

But September's contract total of $199,227,358 set a record for the month and brought the nine-month figure to another record of $1,924,944,656.

The figures do not include homes and apartments although it does note hotels and motels.

The previous record for September was set in 1969 when it was $38 million less. The nine-month record is more than $450 million above the old record set in 1973.

Gigantic projects again were the main reason for the dollar volume increase, the Texas Contractor will say.

One was the $26,074,000 award to Blount Bros. of Montgomery, Ala., to build the Walnut Creek Wastewater Plant for Austin.

A $22,636,400 award went to Town Realty, Inc., of Milwaukee for the Army family housing unit at Ft. Hood and the Red River Army Depot.

Other large awards:

Allen M. Campbell Co. of Tyler, $7,768,900 for Tyler State College. Phase One.

Bella Co. of Beaumont, $7,485,009 for air conditioning and other work on nine school district sites in Port Neches and Groves.

Southwestern Construction Co. of Houston, $6,675,111 for various work at Texas A&M in Galveston.

Robert C. Gray Construction Co. of Austin, $4,143,600 for a pair of state parking garages in the capitol.
