Cleaning up

AUSTIN — Saudi Arabian officials Friday contacted an Austin firm that uses oil-eating microbes to clean up oil spills to help protect the country's water supply, the president of the firm said.

"They said, 'We have oil in the Persian Gulf and we understand you may be able to do something about that,' " said Eugene Douglas, president of Alpha Environmental, an Austin bioremediation firm.

Latvians mourned

RIGA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — More than 100,000 Latvians mourned Friday at the funeral of three people killed by Soviet "black berets" in an assault on the republic's Interior Ministry building.

The caskets were carried through the streets of the capital to the Freedom Monument, a slender granite pillar topped by the copper statue of Mother Latvia, her arms stretching to the sky.

Seven more Scuds fired at Israel

■ Despite the fifth attack in eight days, Israeli military said it would not yet exact revenge.

Associated Press

TEL AVIV, Israel — Scud rockets got through a screen of U.S.-supplied defensive missiles Friday in Iraq's fifth attack on Israel in eight days, but the military said it still would not strike back.

One of the Iraqi missiles eploded in a residential area of Tel Aviv, killing one person and wounding 69, hospital officials said.

Seven Scuds, all with conventional warheads, were fired at Tel Aviv and Haifa, the army reported. It said Patriot anti-missile missiles destroyed at least two Scuds and apparently hit the others, but did not stop them.

Lt. Gen. Dan Shomron, military chief of staff, said Israel would maintain its policy of non-retaliation and leave the Persian Gulf war to the U.S.-led alliance against Iraq.

"We have the ability to respond in a very harsh and quick manner," he said on state television, but added that, for the sake of long-term interests, Israelis were willing to sacrifice "the urgent, immediate and painful" desire to retaliate.

Reported Iraqi Oil Sabotage

Saudi officials said Friday that Iraq has dumped millions of gallons of crude oil from the Sea Island terminal into the Persian Gulf. Earlier in the week, U.S. officials said that Iraqis had set oil wells in southern Kuwait on fire.

2 senators propose windfall profits tax

■ Lawmakers say the tax on oil companies could be used to offset the cost of Operation Desert Storm.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Two northern Democratic senators proposed a windfall profits tax Friday on oil companies.

The tax could have "a major budgetary impact," said co-sponsor Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and could be used to offset the cost of Operation Desert Storm in the Persian Gulf.

The oil industry and its supporters dismissed the idea as an unworkable leftover from the energy crises of the 1970s.

Metzenbaum and his co-sponsor, Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., did not give an estimate of how much money their bill would raise.

It was not clear it would raise much if oil prices continue to ease. Recent prices of West Texas intermediate crude have been $24-$25 a barrel, compared with $22 a year

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Iraq has sabotaged Kuwait's main supertanker loading pier, dumping millions of gallons of crude oil into the Persian Gulf, officials said Friday. The Pentagon called it "environmental terrorism."

The oil spill is likely to amount to "more than a dozen times" the 11 million gallons that the Exxon Valdez tanker leaked into Alaska's Prince William Sound in 1989, Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said.

President Bush compared the sabotage to Saddam Hussein's use of Scud missiles and allied prisoners of war — destructive action that has no value to the Iraqi military effort.

Any amphibious landing by the Marines might have to contend with the oil, but "planning takes things like that into account," Marine Maj. Gen. Robert Johnston, the U.S. Central Command's chief of staff, told reporters here.

The spill was first detected three days ago and an oil slick has spread almost 10 miles toward Saudi waters, a Saudi military spokesman said. The oil could threaten several desalination plants that provide drinking water.

The Iraqis might also be dumping oil from tankers anchored off Kuwait to increase the spread of oil, Williams said.

"This is clearly an act of environmental terrorism," he said. "It's an act against the entire international community, and it will have especially severe consequences for the nations of the Persian Gulf."

In a letter released Friday at the United Nations, Iraq accused the United States of causing a vast oil spill in the gulf by its bombing of two Iraqi tankers earlier this week.

Some gulf-based oil industry officials raised the possibility that the spill, already serious, could become disastrous if Saddam set the slick on fire. But some experts say crude oil — unlike refined products such as gasoline — does not burn easily on water after being dispersed by waves.

"In the past there have been attempts to burn crude oil precisely because it spilled into the water, and it didn't work," said John Lichtblau, president of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation in New York.

White House presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Iraq was dumping the oil in an apparent attempt to frustrate U.S. landing efforts.

"The presumption is to inhibit naval activity," Fitzwater said. "It could have some impact in that area. We don't know how much. The impact will be mostly environmental. That's our big fear at the moment. The military can plan around it."

Iraq launches missiles at Saudi Arabia

■ At least one Scud slams into a Riyadh building, killing one man and injuring 30 people.

Associated Press

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — Iraq launched at least four missiles at Saudi cities late Friday and early Saturday. One slammed into a Riyadh office building, killing one person and injuring 30 people, an Interior Ministry official said.

It was the first fatality reported in Scud attacks against Saudi Arabia.

In the Riyadh attack on Friday night, a U.S. Patriot missile destroyed one Scud, but the other snaked through the sky pursued by a Patriot until it smashed into a six-story government building, with an orange flash and blast that echoed across the city.

At least two other missiles were fired five hours later at the Dammam-Dhahran area on the gulf coast. There were no reports of injuries.

Shortly after 5 a.m. local time (9 p.m. Friday EST), warnings sounded for a third time in Riyadh, Dammam, Dhahran and the neighboring emirate of Bahrain. But it was a false alarm.

Part of the building in Riyadh was sheared off and news photographers saw relief workers carrying a man, apparently injured or dead, from the concrete rubble.

An Interior Ministry official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said a Saudi man died in the attack. Of the 30 injured, the official said, 19 were from Saudi Arabia and 11 were foreigners, including five Egyptians, two Jordanians, one Sudanese woman and three people from Bangladesh.

In a statement on the attack in Riyadh late Friday, the U.S. military command said, "A Scud missile attack occurrred at approximately 10:25 p.m. (2:25 p.m. EST) in the Riyadh area. The exact number of Iraqi Scuds

Midland's population grew, while Odessa's got smaller

By David Morris and Brian Pearson

■ Related story/9A

Midland's population blossomed by 27.8 percent during the 1980s, while Odessa's population fell slightly, 1990 U.S. Census Bureau figures released Friday show.

The number of Midland residents grew from 70,000 in 1980 to 89,443 last year, a difference of 19,443. Odessa's population fell from 90,027 to 89,699, a 0.4 percent drop.

Midland grew faster than the state as a whole, which showed a 19 percent gain in population, according to the newly released census data.

The figures for Midland could mean more federal and state grant dollars as well as changes in election lines for governmental bodies with single-member representation.

State Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, said Midland's growth would not be enough to net the county its own seat in the state Legislature.

"It'll bring us closer...but it still won't be enough," said Craddick, who represents a portion of Ector County as well as all of Midland County. He said a population of about 115,000 is necessary to rate a separate seat for a county.

Craddick said there will nevertheless be many benefits to Midland's population growth.

"Anytime you have growth like we have it puts us on a better category for receiving grants," he said.

In terms of re-districting, census figures indicate that Midland probably will remain in its current U.S. Congressional

Cloudy weather forecast

Staff Report

Today's forecast is partly cloudy with a high in the upper 50s and south to southwest winds 10-20 mph, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is predicted to be fair with a low near 30.

Sunday's forecast is partly cloudy with a high in the low 60s, the NWS said.

After an overnight low of 35, Friday's high was 62, compared to the date's record high of 83, set in 1952. The record low for today is 15, set in 1940.

STATE

A weak cold front crept into Texas Friday, ushering the start of a cool and cloudy weekend for residents in northern portions of the state.

The front made its way past Wichita Falls and Abilene and by Friday afternoon stretched from central Oklahoma to near Mineral Wells. It was moving east.

Temperatures at 3 p.m. ranged from 30 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo to 70 degrees at Brownsville.

Skies were clear over much of West Texas, except in the Panhandle. Light snow fell in Amarillo until about noon. Northerly winds swept the area at 20-25 mph, pushing wind-chill temperatures to near zero. The far west had light winds and highs near 60.

West Texas skies were expected to remain clear through the weekend, with evening temperatures falling into the 20s and 30s.

NATION

Snow fell over much of the Midwest and parts of the Northeast Friday, while Maine residents shivered under wind chill advisories cautioning about cold dipping to 50 degrees below zero.

Snow fell in parts of Missouri, Michigan, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, the Oklahoma panhandle, Colorado, North Dakota and Montana. Snow also was reported in New York state.

By midmorning, portions of northwest Missouri were under 5 to 6 inches of snow.

In Maine, a wind chill advisory posted Friday afternoon warned residents that winds of 15 mph to 25 mph could make subzero temperatures feel more like 40 to 50 degrees below.

Redding, Calif., cooled to 22 degrees, tying the low temperature for the date set in 1950.

Miami and Key West, Fla., warmed to 84 degrees, both tying records for the date.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

CENSUS: Midland gained population

(From 1A)

district, Craddick said.

"Hopefully, with our growth, we will be able to remain in the district we are in now," he said. "I think it's more oil- and gas-oriented than the districts around us."

Reasons for the Midland's growth are many, officials said.

Jim Williams, president of Texas Business Forecasts of Midland, said the oil bust of the mid-1980s had some effect on population.

However, Williams said it was not enough to take away all the growth during the boom, which peaked in 1982.

"If we look at it from the employment perspective, Midland's employment did not peak until three years into the decade," he said.

In January 1980, there were 40,000 Midlanders working. The employment figure peaked at 55,000 in July 1982. There now are 46,000 here with jobs.

"We didn't lose all the growth we got from 1981 and 1982," Williams said. "We were one of the fastest-growing communities in the United State."

He said a number of other people took early retirement and stayed here, while many of the newcomers had children. Those children now are overcrowding Midland elementary schools.

Odessa, meanwhile, lost a bigger part of its peak boom population because the city is less diversified that Midland, Williams said.

Odessa's economy, he said, depends heavily on oil exploration, typically a financial roller coaster.

"The Odessa economy has been more volatile both directions," he said.

But while the city's population fell, the number of Ector County residents rose from 115,374 to 118,934, a 3.1 percent increase.

Russell Autry, chief executive officer of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, nevertheless questioned the accuracy of the census figures.

"I still beleive that certain segments of our popualtion went under-counted and I'm disappointed there wasn't a greater effort to count groups such as Hispanics and blacks," he said.

Meanhwile, Midland County's population grew dramatically, going from 82,636 to 106,661, a 29 percent increase.

As soon as the city figure hit Midland City Hall, Becky Hamm, city planner, began using the number to estimate this year's population.

"Other than that, there's not that much we can do with the figures until we get more numbers in," Ms. Hamm said.

Detailed census data expected late this spring will include minority populations and the number housing units here, she said.

City Attorney David Reagan said city, county, hospital district and school district election boundaries could be altered after detailed census data is analyzed.

Those entities are working together to hire a demographic consultant for the task of breaking down census information, Reagan said.

The study will determine where and if minority populations shifted during the past decade, he said.

Preliminary estimates released last September showed Midland having 88,740 residents, 703 fewer than the final figure.

The city then challenged the number, claiming that census officials undercounted the number of Midlanders by 3,360.

Bureau officials came here late last year to recheck the figures.

In Texas, the population grew 19 percent in the 1980s to 16.9 million, the U.S. Census Bureau's final figures for last year's count show.

The bureau released the figures today.

Preliminary data released by the bureau in August showed the state's population at 16.8 million. Before the headcount last spring, the bureau estimated the state's population at 17.1 million.

The final count of Texans was 16,986,510, the bureau said. The state's final 1980 census figure was 14,229,191.

Texas remained the nation's third-largest state, behind California and New York.

The state's largest cities all showed population increases. But suburban areas around them grew the fastest.

Houston's population was 1,630,553, up from 1.59 million in 1980. (Suburban Baytown, 63,850, up from about 57,000. Sugar Land, 24,529, up from about 8,000.)

Dallas was 1,006,877, up from about 904,000 in 1980. (Suburban Mesquite, 101,484, up from about, 67,000; Plano 128,713, up from about 72,000).

San Antonio jumped to 953,933 from about 785,000 in 1980.

El Paso's population was 515,342, up from about 425,000 10 years ago.

Austin grew to 465,622 from about 345,000.

Fort Worth jumped to 447,619 from about 385,000. (Suburban Arlington, 261,721, up from about 160,000.)

Most of Texas' smaller cities also showed growth, but some declined, reflecting economic hard times for local industry:

Abilene, 106,654, up from about 98,000;
Amarillo, 157,615, up from about 149,000;
Beaumont, 114,323, down from about 118,102;
Brownsville, 98,962, up from about 85,000;
Bryan, 55,002, up from about 44,000;
College Station, 52,456, up from about 37,000;

Tyler, 75,450, up from about 70,000;
Victoria, 55,076, up from about 50,695;
Waco 103,590, up from about 101,261;
Wichita Falls 96,259, up from about 94,200.

In many cases, the final figures were up from the August preliminary data. Those figures were criticized by many political leaders as being too low.

The census data will be used through the 1990s to allocate state and government funds. In addition, the Texas Legislature will use the final census figures to reapportion voting districts at the statewide level.

Texas will have three new seats in Congress because of the population increase.

Other cities show the following populations:
Big Spring, 23,093, down from 24,804;
Borger, 15,675, down from about 15,900;
Corsicana 22,911, up from 21,712;

SPILL: Incident called worse than Valdez

(From 1A)

Lt. Col. Ahmed Robayan, the Saudi military spokesman, said the oil was flowing steadily from pumps at the Sea Island terminal, 10 miles offshore from Kuwait's main petroleum refinery and loading complex at Al-Ahmadi, just south of Kuwait City.

The Iraqis apparently turned on the pumps and let them run, Robayan said.

The pumps can move as much as 4 million gallons of oil per day, but there was no immediate estimate about how much was flowing into the gulf.

Johnston noted the oil spill was in enemy territory, adding, "We can't just go in and shut it off."

Fitzwater said the Defense and Energy departments were monitoring the oil dumping and "examining contingencies for dealing with it."

"We don't have any plan at this point," he said.

Saudi officers said gulf currents appeared to be keeping the slick away from the coast as it drifted south. But some beaches were fouled and shorebirds were seen coated with oil.

Chris Squires, an Independent Television News cameraman holed up in an evacuated hotel in Khafji, a Saudi port city near Kuwait, said the air was thick with the smell of oil for the past three days. The slick came within view of shore Thursday, he said.

"It as far as the eye can see," Squires said. "The oil is so thick the water can hardly build up a wave. It's a gurgling noise. It's like mud."

It would be the second act of major sabotage at a Kuwaiti oil facility since the war broke out eight days ago. On Tuesday, U.S. and Saudi officials reported that oil wells and storage tanks had been set afire at the Al-Wafrah field in southern Kuwait near the Saudi border and at the Shueiba industrial complex just south of Al-Ahmadi.

U.S. officers said they had "clear evidence" the Iraqis had sabotaged the oil field, but declined for security reasons to disclose it.

Smoke from those fires was seen as a possible hindrance to the conduct of air attacks by U.S. and allied warplanes against targets in Kuwait, but U.S. officers said they would not pose a major problem.

On Thursday, U.S. Central Command officials said no air strikes had been flown against the Al-Ahmadi terminal. "It's not the sort of thing that you'd choose as a military target," said Air Force Lt. Col. Mike Scott, a command spokesman.

The officers also said there was no connection between the Al-Ahmadi spill and a minor one triggered by raids on a small Iraqi tanker that was tied up in a Kuwaiti port, where it was being used to track allied air strikes along the coast.

In late 1987, an Iranian Silkworm missile fired from occupied Iraq smashed into the same offshore loading terminal, knocking it out of action for two weeks. Kuwait at that time was supporting Baghdad in its war with Iran.

ISRAEL: Scud missile explodes in Tel Aviv

(From 1A)

Asked whether that meant Israel would let the United States "do the job," Shomron replied, "Right." He repeated, however, that Israel eventually would exact revenge.

The United States has expressed determination to destroy Saddam Hussein's war machine, and Shomron said: "For us, that is the supreme significance for the long term."

U.S. officials fear Israel's entry into the war would undermine Arab participation in the 28-nation coalition.

About 20 Scuds have been fired at Israel since Jan. 18, the day after the war began, turning the civilian rear into a front line. About 180 people were wounded in the previous missile raids, and three died of heart attacks.

On Friday, one missile flattened a two-family house in a prosperous Tel Aviv neighborhood and blew walls off an apartment building next door. Houses along 900 yards of the street were made unlivable and parked cars were smashed by debris.

Military censorship prohibits giving the exact location of the strike.

Brig. Gen. Nachman Shai, spokesman for the military, said the army would examine impact sites on Saturday to determine what caused the damage. Shards from the destroyed Scuds were spread over a wide area and set at least one car afire on a main highway.

Shai said it was too soon to judge whether any damage was caused by the Patriots. He said the batteries would remain close to residential areas because "These are the best locations" from which to stop missiles from western Iraq.

Reporters outside the hotel where Shai later held a news conference saw one Patriot rise almost vertically and fall to earth with a fiery tail, an apparent misfire. Shai said the missile fell harmlessly in a field.

When the Scuds approached, sirens sent most Israelis rushing for shelter, wearing gas masks in case of chemical warheads.

"I saw two Patriots launched into the sky, with a red-orange plume of flame behind them," said AP photographer Michel Euler, who was driving toward Tel Aviv.

"They exploded in the sky. And then, a few seconds later, I saw something exploding on the ground, a yellow light like fireworks."

Other reporters saw a shower of sparklers bloom in the sky when one Patriot scored a solid hit.

Shiloni Merhav, stunned and shuffling around her gutted home in the dark, said she was sitting with her back to a window when the missile hit the house across the street.

ago and more than $40 at the price peak following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

The legislation would tax away profits that exceed the 1985-1989 average profit. A similar bill proposed last fall by Lieberman would have funneled the money back to consumers. It got 33 votes in the Senate.

Several oil companies announced sharp increases in earnings recently because of higher oil prices last fall.

Shell Oil Co. said Friday its fourth-quarter earnings soared by 69 percent to $446 million compared with $264 million in the same quarter a year earlier. Mobil, Amoco, Texaco, Chevron and Exxon have also reported sharp profit increases, though some refining companies without much crude production of their own have shown lower profits.

Sen. John Breaux, D-La., whose state produces much oil, said the measure would cripple small producers.

"Last time the windfall profits tax was in force it resulted in increased oil imports, discouraged domestic production and made us even more vulnerable to the whims of OPEC and the Middle East," Breaux said.

Because of low oil prices, a so-called windfall profits tax stopped producing revenue in 1986 and was later repealed. Unlike the Metzenbaum-Lieberman measure, it was not a tax on profits at all, but an excise tax on domestic crude oil prices.

The American Petroleum Institute, the oil industry's principal trade group, argued Friday that the fourth-quarter earnings reports were one-time exceptions for an industry that has shown below-average profits over the past seven years.

In the early 1980s, said institute President Charles J. DiBona, "The effect of specially taxing this one industry in the economy was to discourage investment in domestic oil and natural gas production and thus to encourage more oil imports."

launched and successful intercepts by U.S. Patriot missiles is being determined."

Several journalists at the scene of the crash had film and videotape confiscated. French television crews scuffled with police, and at least two TV crews and a handful of others were temporarily detained, witnesses said.

Air raid sirens sounded again in Riyadh at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday (7:30 p.m. Friday), but there was no indication of attack.

Two Scuds were fired around the same time, however, at the contiguous cities of Dammam and Dhahran. One was destroyed in the air and a fragment from the other fell to earth, a Saudi government spokesman said on condition of anonymity. He had no other details.

The Riyadh missile exploded about four hours after modified Iraqi Scuds hit the Tel Aviv and Haifa areas in Israel, killing one Israeli and wounding 69 people.

The Scud that hit Riyadh was the 10th launched on the city since Monday.

U.S. dependents to leave Saudi Arabia

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The U.S. Embassy has planned for the departure of about 10,000 American dependents from Saudi Arabia, embassy officials said Friday.

An embassy spokesman, John Kincannon, described the pullout as a "voluntary drawdown" was prompted by the Persian Gulf war between the U.S.-dominated multinational coalition and Iraq.

It was further spurred by the recent series of Iraqi Scud missile attacks on the Saudi capital and other areas of the country, said diplomatic sources.

Kincannon said there are about 20,000 Americans in Saudi Arabia, at least half of them dependents.

He said the U.S. government was hiring airliners to fly out all those wishing to depart. Government employees' dependents would fly free, while others would have to pay.

The plan should be activated in anywhere from 48 to 72 hours, embassy officials said.

Diplomatic sources said earlier that many Americans in the kingdom were outraged the embassy did not distribute gas masks and protective gear to U.S. citizens, on grounds that there was "no compelling need."

The State Department has recommended that American dependents leave Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates. The "voluntary drawdown" applies to those countries as well as Saudi Arabia, Kincannon said.

U.S. diplomatic missions started arranging military transport plane flights for civilians out of the Eastern Province and Bahrain after the war broke out.

But in Bahrain, only 16 Americans listed for the first two flights, and an embassy spokesman said there would be no further flights until there was more demand.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Fatality

Staff Reports

BIG SPRING — An elderly woman died as a result of a two vehicle accident that occurred about 4:15 p.m. Thursday in the 1200 block of South Gregg Street in Big Spring, police officials said.

Sarah Summers of Wickett died about 6:20 p.m. at Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring.

Mrs. Summers was a passenger in a 1986 Ford Areo Star van, driven by Warren Dewayne Law of Wickett, that was involved in an accident with a 1980 Jeep CJ-7 driven by Robert Allen Johnson of Big Spring.

According to police reports, Law was westbound on 12th Street, failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Gregg Street and collided with Johnson's vehicle travelling north on Gregg Street.

Mrs. Summers and Law were both transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by ambulance. Law remained in serious condition in the intensive care unit at the hospital on Friday, hospital officials said.

Johnson was uninjured in the accident.

Robberies

ODESSA — Police continued investigating five recent robberies Friday that are believed to have been committed by the same woman, police officials said.

In all of the robberies, the suspect has been armed with either a screwdriver, putty knife or pocket knife. During four of the five crimes, she covered her head with a white plastic bag that had eyeholes cut out.

The most recent incident occurred about 4 a.m. Friday at the 7-Eleven store, 2700 N. Dixie Blvd. According to reports, a woman entered the store wearing the bag over her head, confronted the clerk with a pocket knife and demanded money. After securing money from the register, the robber fled the scene on foot.

On Thursday, about 6:40 p.m., the 7-Eleven at 10th Street and Dixie Boulevard was robbed by an unmasked woman, wielding a putty knife that she pointed at the clerk and demanded money. After the clerk complied, the suspect fled on foot.

The suspect in these two robberies was described as a white female, in her early to mid-20s, about 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighing about 90 to 100 pounds and wearing a black baseball cap, a black long-sleeve sweater and dark blue pants. She wore loose-fitting clothes.

In the robbery, where the suspect was not wearing a bag over her head, she reportedly had blond hair, blue eyes and wore glasses.

The first three robberies were committed by a similarly described masked woman armed with a long screwdriver. The robberies occurred at: the 7-Eleven store at 10th and Grant Avenue aobut 11 p.m. Tuesday; the Whataburger at 3700 Andrews Highway about 2:15 a.m. Wednesday; and the Merit convenience store, 4525 E. University Blvd. about 7:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Guilty plea

A Midland woman pleaded guilty in federal court Friday to conspiring to attempt to murder a U.S. Postal Service employee, the U.S. Attorney's Office reported.

Lois Marie Foster, 39, was charged in connection with the Sept. 5, 1990, shooting of John Ray McGraw, 43. Ms. Foster remains in custody pending a review of her bond eligibility, Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Beery said.

Ms. Foster's husband, 48-year-old Lonnie Joe Foster, also has been charged in the shooting. He is free on bond and awaiting indictment by a federal grand jury.

McGraw and a companion, 18-year-old Glenda Sue Willman, were injured when someone fired several .22-caliber rounds into the cab of McGraw's mail truck. The truck was parked at the air terminal post office, 10000 Sloan Field.

Both victims sustained cuts from broken glass and bullet fragments, investigators said.

The Fosters reportedly turned themselves over to authorities following the shooting, which investigators said was the result of a domestic dispute.

Ms. Foster is scheduled to be sentenced Feb. 28 in U.S. District Court in Midland. She faces up to five years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Jury finds man guilty of assaulting officer

By David Morris
Staff Writer

A Midland jury on Friday found Joe Nicolas Argumaniz guilty of misdemeanor rather than felony assault in connection with a 1990 incident involving a Midland police officer.

Argumaniz' trial began Thursday in 238th District Court.

Argumaniz, 28, was indicted in March 1990 on one count of aggravated assault on a peace officer — a third-degree felony which carries a maximum punishment of ten years in prison.

Jurors rejected that charge in favor of the lesser included offense of assault with bodily injury, a Class A misdemeanor. Argumaniz now faces up to a year in prison and up to a $2,000 fine.

Judge John Hyde is tentatively scheduled to assess Argumaniz' punishment next week.

The charges against Argumaniz stemmed from a Feb. 15, 1990, incident in which the ex-Marine scuffled with Ken Boone, a Midland police officer who was responding to disturbance call.

According to testimony, Argumaniz shoved Boone, who in turn grabbed Argumaniz and tumbled with him against a wall.

Boone, 35, suffered a separated shoulder in the incident, which occurred at Argumaniz' apartment at 2438 Whitmire Blvd.

Boone told jurors Thursday that the injury caused him to miss three weeks of work and has prevented him from keeping up with police department fitness requirements.

During closing arguments Friday, defense attorney Paul Williams argued that his client, who had been drinking heavily on the night of the assault, didn't realize Boone was a police officer.

He said the aggravated assault on a peace officer charge stipulates that the assailant be aware that the assault victim is a police officer.

"There is no testimony that he (Boone) told Joe that he was an officer," Williams said, adding that poor lighting in Argumaniz' apartment might have made Boone's uniform difficult to identify.

District Attorney Al Schorre, who prosecuted the case, said Argumaniz' drunkenness did not excuse him for shoving Boone.

"Voluntary intoxication is not a defense," Schorre said. "You can't hide behind it."

Schorre also dismissed Williams' contention that Argumaniz was acting in self-defense when he scuffled with Boone.

"I would submit to you that the officer used a lot of restraint," Schorre said.

Jurors deliberated less than two hours before returning their verdict Friday.

DEATHS

Wanda M. Clark

Funeral services for Wanda Mauldin Clark are set for 1 p.m. today at Ellis Chapel North, 1002 N. Loop 250, with the Rev. Bob Porterfield officiating. Burial will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Clark

She died Wednesday at her Midland home.

She was born Jan. 19, 1918, in Cuthand and grew up in East Texas. She lived in Kerr County for a number of years before coming to Midland in 1963. She worked at the Toddle House, now Steak & Egg Kitchen, and also for the Midland Independent School District food service department. She retired in 1984.

She was preceded in death by a daughter, Rita Mae Crawford, in February 1989.

Survivors include: three sons, Windell and Lowell Clark of Woodville and Smokey Clark of Houston; four daughters, Martha Burt and Dorris Ann Tucker of Midland, Glenda Lindley of Austin and Brenda Norrid of Bryan; one brother, J.E. "Buddy" Mauldin of Midland; 19 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Raising taxes is no solution, expert says

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Raising taxes probably won't solve the budget deficit problem because the government will just keep on spending, according to Clifford W. Smith Jr. of the University of Rochester.

"We should focus more on what the government is buying and less on how it is financing these purchases," says Smith.

OPERATION DESERT STORM

Republican Guards being hit hard, officials say

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Saddam Hussein's crack Republican Guards, the backbone of his military force in Kuwait, are believed to be taking heavy casualties in the allied air forces' day-and-night bombing campaign, allied military sources say.

But so far there are no indications that the six Republican Guard divisions are a broken force.

U.S. and British officials are reluctant to say what impact the weeklong round-the-clock bombing by American B-52s and Marine Harriers has had.

But the British force commander, Lt. Gen. Sir Peter de la Billiere, noted Friday: "These troops are in the open desert and there must have been a very high level of attrition, higher than we're able to identify and higher than we're therefore prepared to admit publicly.

"The actual reports we've had are not showing that there has been an immense level of attrition, largely because the reports are constrained by their sources. We need human intelligence to tell us this," he told a briefing in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

BUT HE noted: "There's evidence from prisoners we've captured and ... from a certain number of defectors who've come across that there are a substantial number of Iraqis (in the Kuwait theater) who would like to see the end of this war sooner and before they're dead."

Military commanders have made clear that as the allied air campaign completes hitting strategic targets such as Saddam's command and communications network, missile launchers, nuclear and chemical facilities and airfields, the bombardment of the Republican Guards and other major ground formations will intensify.

The Republican Guard divisions, with an estimated 120,000 men, are deployed as a strategic mobile reserve across an area roughly 40 miles wide and 25 miles deep straddling the Kuwait-Iraq border.

Their mission is to launch a massive, hard-hitting counterattack against allied forces who slash through the formidable Iraqi defense lines in southern Kuwait. Saddam has some 545,000 men in the Kuwait theater.

Allied commanders believe the Republican Guards, the most dangerous units in Saddam's million-man army, must be destroyed before any ground assault is mounted to retake Kuwait.

"If the Republican Guard crumbles, I don't think the ground forces in Kuwait would be willing to fight to the last trench," said U.S. Rep. Stephen Solarz, a New York Democrat.

"DESTROYING THE Republican Guard could even lead to a collapse of the regime in Baghdad," Solarz added.

De la Billiere, Britain's most decorated serving soldier, said that as the allied air campaign switches more and more to softening up Saddam's ground forces and supply lines, "we shall obviously expect our assessment of attrition to improve with time."

The Republican Guards, a virtual army within an army, comprises armored, mechanized infantry and special forces divisions.

It is organized as a self-contained force with its own integrated helicopter, artillery, armor, chemical warfare, logistics and transporation formations.

It has about 500 top-line T-72 tanks, the best in Saddam's arsenal, and more than 100 G5 and G6 155mm artillery systems, reputed to be the best of their kind in the world. They can hurl a shell 24 miles. The air-defense system includes Soviet-built SA-6 Gainful missiles.

"We're going after them, but they're dug in," said Lt. Gen. Thomas Kelly, director of operations with the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff. "It's pretty tough to get them out, but we think we'll do it."

ALLIED PLANNERS are not likely to expect that they can totally eliminate the battle-hardened Republican Guards divisions as fighting units or necessarily completely erode their morale through the aerial bombardment.

But weakening these divisions through substantial casualties and destroying their supply depots and logistics — their armor alone would consume an estimated 1 million gallons of fuel a week in combat — will heighten the prospect of success for an allied offensive.

The carpet-bombing by the lumbering B-52s, which can each dump 30 tons of high explosives, and the laser-guided bombs being used by the Harriers are expected to have considerable effect.

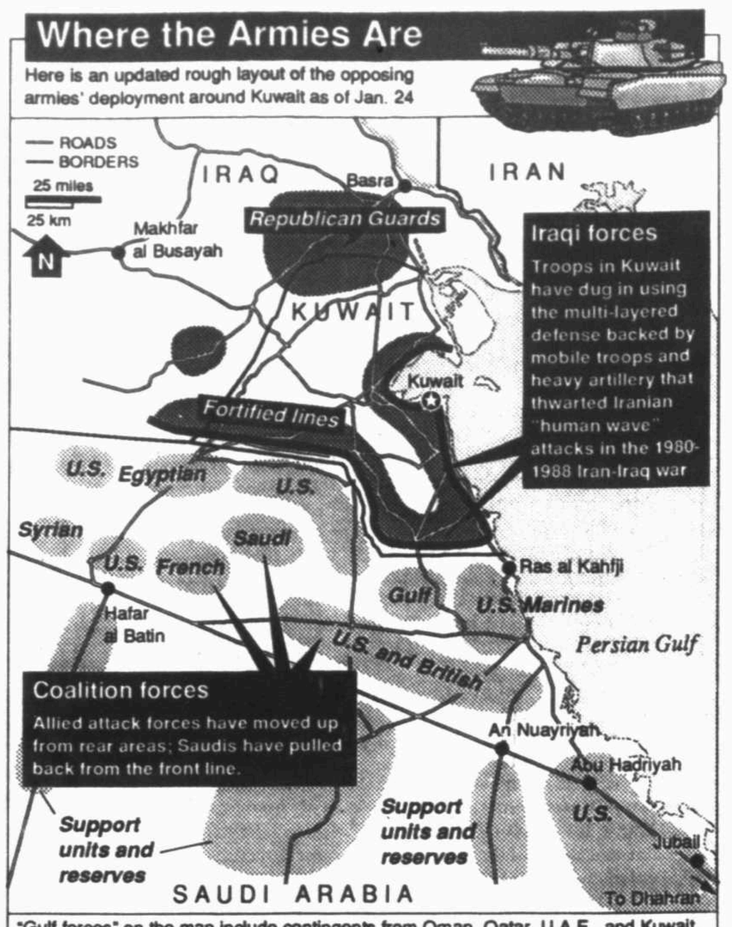
The Republican Guards will become far more vulnerable when they move out of their defensive positions and are exposed to the allies' anti-tank aircraft, like the A-10 Thunderbolt and Apache helicopter gunships.

These divisions are believed to be made up almost entirely of Sunni Muslims, the minority Islamic sect in Baghdad to which Saddam Hussein and his closest aides belong. Most of Saddam's troops are from the majority Shiite sect.

The Republic Guards have the best equipment and the most intensive training. They are considered the most loyal to Saddam and get the best treatment. For instance, while most army units get water carried in truck tankers, the Republican Guards get bottled spring water.

These divisions fought in most of the major battles of the war with Iran and carried out the lightning offensives in the final stages of that conflict in early 1988 to recapture all territory captured by the Iranians and even punched into Iran itself.

The Republican Guards are commanded by Maj. Gen. Iyad Fathi al-Rawi, one of Saddam's most able field commanders who led the 1988 offensives.



"Gulf forces" on the map include contingents from Oman, Qatar, U.A.E., and Kuwait, plus troops from Bangladesh, Morocco and Pakistan.

Commander says expectations too high

AN AIRBASE IN THE PERSIAN GULF (AP) — The commander of the British forces at an allied air base said Friday people are expecting too much too fast from the air war against Iraq.

"I think people are being far too impatient for results," Group Capt. David Henderson told reporters at a news briefing.

"If Saddam Hussein had decided to surrender, then, yes, we would have had quick results. We are in day nine now, and there have been very few wars that lasted only nine days."

Describing British activities from this base, he said Tornado GR-1 bombers have continued to fly against a variety of targets by night, while Jaguars work by day, mostly against targets in Kuwait.

Victor K-2 tankers have sometimes flown in support, depending on the mission. He said targets included ammunition dumps, artillery installations, missile sites and oil storage depots.

Saddam Hussien's aircraft have been lying low for the most part, but they made more of an appearance on Thursday, Henderson said.

"Yesterday we saw a little more activity from him, and we bloodied his nose," he said.

The group captain said the Royal Air Force and allied aircraft have been trying to shut down Iraqi airfields and keep Saddam's forces locked up.

Referring to reports that a third British flier has been captured by the Iraqis, Henderson said he had no confirmation, but "we are asking the International Committee of the Red Cross to verify the identify and whereabouts of that individual."

He was asked about the theory that Saddam might be pulling a "rope-a-dope" — the famous strategy used by then heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali to defeat George Foreman in Zaire. For several rounds Ali covered his head with his gloves and let Foreman pound away on his arms until Foreman got tired. Ali then struck, for the knockout.

"I think that may have been his original plan," said Henderson. "But we have given him such a pounding and shown no letup in our activities that we are well prepared for him if he does come off the ropes. We are expecting him to do something. We will not be caught unaware in that respect."

He admitted that damage assessment has been frustratingly slow. But he added: "Slowly but consistently we are going through his military machinery. His capability is being reduced every day and every night."

Asked what he thought about Iraq's strategy of holding back its aircraft and waiting, Henderson speculated that perhaps Baghdad was hoping it could last long enough to find a crack in the alliance, or force Israel into the conflict with all the accompanying political consequences.

"Saddam Hussein is a political, not a military man," Henderson said.

'We are in day nine now, and there have been very few wars that lasted only nine days.'

OPERATION DESERT STORM

Allied forces seem to be wearing down enemy, U.S. says

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The number of American soldiers in the Persian Gulf approached a half million Friday, and U.S. military officials said the allied war effort was showing signs of wearing down the enemy.

At the daily military briefing in Riyadh, officials said some Iraqi soldiers captured by the allies were hungry, lice-ridden and demoralized — signs that the relentless bombing of Iraqi troops and supply lines has been effective.

In Washington, Army Lt. Gen. Thomas Kelly said Pentagon officials believe the bombing is beginning to have its intended effect of "softening up" Iraqi troops.

"We believe we are having a significant impact on them, but we can't prove that with the information we have right now," Kelly said of Iraq's elite Republican Guards unit. "We are making satisfactory progess in what we set out to do."

Still, Kelly warned: "They know how to dig, and anybody that's getting shot at knows how to dig."

Kelly said that Friday was the biggest day of the allied air war so far, with 2,707 sorties. That brings the total number of allied combat and supply missions in the air to 17,500 in the first eight days of the war.

He said the number of U.S. soldiers in the gulf was up to 482,000, nearing the 550,000 that served in Vietnam at the height of the war there.

Kelly said the allies had lost no combat aircraft in the previous day, leaving the total losses at 22 planes. He said Iraq has lost at least 43 aircraft so far.

At the Riyadh briefing, Marine Maj. Gen. Robert B. Johnston said the conditions reported by Iraqi prisoners of war suggested that the allies had been successful in cutting off some Iraqi supplies.

"Large numbers, if not all, were covered with lice and had open sores, and quite a few said they were down to slim rations, some saying they were receiving only one meal a day."

He added that the prisoners had been seen by Red Cross teams and were being treated in accordance with the Geneva Conventions. He said they had been allowed to contact their families and were receiving adequate food, shelter and medical attention.

"This stands in stark contrast to the way it appears our POWs are being treated on the other end," Johnston said.

Although supply lines may be cut, officials said Iraq's military communications system was still operating, apparently allowing President Saddam Hussein to communicate with his forces.

"It's degrading but it's still to some extent in effect," Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said in Washington.

When Kelly was asked how the allies are trying to cut off supplies, he said: "At the risk of being frivolous, we're doing it with bombs. We're going after supply depots, we're going after bridges, we're going after critical nodes.

"I also said several days ago that anything linear is difficult to interdict, certainly not impossible but difficult. Because if you blow a bridge, or drop a bridge, they can repair that. If you cut a road, they can repair that. If you cut a runway, they can repair that. So you've got to return a number of times."

Troops hope they can measure up

By John King

AL WARI'AH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A little north of here, where bombs rumble in the distance at night and tanks and tents fill what weeks ago was a vast wasteland, Capt. Larry Kinde sums up the mood.

"It's no longer if, but when," he says, looking north across a desert for an invisible line he might soon cross into Iraq.

Kinde's 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment is not alone.

In August, just after Iraq conquered Kuwait, the east-west highway through Al Wari'ah seemed a road to nowhere.

Today it is a pipeline teeming with troops and materiel. It cuts a swath stretching more than 300 miles from the Saudi-Kuwait border along the Persian Gulf to the east to well northwest of here, where even Bedouins have a hard time telling Saudi Arabia from Iraq.

New desert camps are host to an alphabet and number soup of Army and Marine units. For now they are spectators to a relentless air war designed to make it easier, and less deadly, to attack Iraqi ground forces and retake Kuwait.

The apparent success of the allied air strikes has some speculating there will be no ground war, that Iraq will be bombed into submission.

Kinde speaks for tens of thousands when he insists otherwise. Army soldiers and Marines constantly point out that no army has every surrendered to an air force.

As they prepare for battle, many of the more than 200,000 American troops who will lead the charge hope aloud that their untested, high-tech weapons will perform as well as the laser- and radar-guided bombs being dropped on the Iraqi forces.

They include shoulder-launched Stinger missiles, tube-launched TOW tank-killers and chopper-launched Hellfires.

Most Iraqi forces are in heavily fortified positions, and allied ground forces are counting on superior technology to undercut Iraq's defensive and numerical advantages. Many predict it will be the fastest-paced ground battle in history.

"I'm just hoping the ground technology is as effective as the technology in the air," says Col. Ron Rokosz, commander of the 82nd Airborne Division's 2nd Brigade.

The 82nd was the first ground unit to reach Saudi Arabia and would be among the first units to enter Iraq. It is among dozens of units rushing into battle positions this week.

The locations of ground units, interviews with military officials and reports from journalists traveling with some units make it clear the battle plan calls for mobile, lightweight units to infiltrate Iraq west of the Kuwaiti border.

Their job: to secure a path for heavier, armored units that would engage Iraq's elite Republican Guard units and cut a path into Kuwait.

An allied source whose unit is deployed near the apex of the Saudi-Kuwait-Iraq borders suggested American and perhaps British units would open a road into Kuwait for Arab forces, including 35,000 Egyptian soldiers. The Arab troops would head toward Kuwait City to the northeast and possible battle with poorly trained Iraqi conscripts.

U.S. troops relax atop Bradley fighting vehicles Friday as their Army convoy pauses in its journey north toward the border between Saudi Arabia and Iraq-occupied Kuwait.

Farther east, Marines are poised below the southernmost Saudi-Kuwait border. They creep north periodically to launch 155mm shells on Iraqi occupation forces. A Marine amphibious landing force now conducting the largest training exercise since Inchon is expected to move just offshore of the land troops.

A British officer suggested the amount of firepower being rushed forward by the Americans was evidence of an expanded U.S. mission: a drive north to capture a good chunk of Iraqi territory and humiliate Saddam Hussein.

"He's bringing a lot more kit forward than he needs to win back Kuwait," said the officer, referring to Army Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of the U.S. forces in Operation Desert Storm. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

Woman confident her POW son won't betray his country

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The mother of an Air Force colonel shot down in the Persian Gulf war said Friday she was confident he would never betray his country.

"I'm sure he has been trained how to act in case he is picked up by the enemy," Evelyn Wallace said in a telephone interview after Iraqi television on Friday showed footage of a man identified as her son, Col. David William Eberly, 45, of Brazil, Ind.

The broadcast quoted Eberly, deputy commander of the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing, as saying "many pilots are expressing their opposition to this war" and that his Iraqi targets had been "Scud missiles and associated chemical facilities." The man also said he had a neck injury.

The broadcast, monitored in Nicosia, was largely inaudible, but it appeared to also show Eberly's weapons systems officer, Maj. Thomas Edward Griffith, 34; Lt. Lawrence Randolph Slade, 26, of Virginia Beach, Va.; and an Italian flier.

It brought to eight the number of Americans identified as prisoners in Iraq.

Eberly and Griffith were reported missing in action after their F-15E didn't return from a mission Saturday.

Baghdad radio on Friday quoted an unidentified information ministry spokesman as saying interviews with captured airmen would stop.

Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro, N.C., released a statement from the wives of Eberly and Griffith: "We were shocked but relieved to see our husbands on television and grateful they appear to be in good health. We are optimistic this war will soon be over and that they will be repatriated."

Slade's family in Virginia wouldn't comment.

Mrs. Wallace said her son's Iraqi captors probably forced him make certain statements, but added, "I'm confident that he will not betray his country."

"He's proud to be an American," she said. "He just felt all along that it was necessary to go to war."

Siren tests spook some Texans

Associated Press

Yellow ribbons, flags and colorful tattoos are being displayed by Texans in a show of support for U.S. troops fighting Saddam Hussein. But tests of emergency sirens have rattled many a nerve and sparked images of Scud missile attacks on Israel and Saudi Arabia.

In Webster, home to NASA's Johnson Space Center and about 20 miles east of Houston, a siren that is tested each morning has spooked residents.

"They have been hearing some of these (air raid) sirens on TV going off in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, and they get scared," said Webster Fire Marshal Eddie Oliver.

Webster police say their switchboard lights up after the siren is put through its regular test, and dispatchers have spent up to an hour trying to put citizens at ease.

"A lot of people think it's something going off at NASA. They think they're being attacked," dispatcher Ann Carter said.

Sirens used to round up volunteer firefighters in nearby Seabrook are having a similar effect. The alarms have sounded twice since the war began — and both times, Police Chief Bill Kerber said, police were swamped with calls.

Tattoo artists say more customers, especially military personnel headed to the Persian Gulf, are asking for patriotic body engravings such as U.S. flags, anchors, eagles and "U.S.A."

J.F. Tramp of Tattooing by State of the Art said he has received more requests for markings with religious symbols.

"Some of them say they're getting the patriotic and religious stuff put on them because they're not allowed to display any flags or religious things over there" in Saudi Arabia, Tramp said.

A yellow flag displaying the words, "We Support Our Troops," will fly over San Antonio City Hall as a show of support for Operation Desert Storm.

The City Council on Thursday authorized the flag to fly just below the U.S. flag.

The Better Business Bureau of Abilene warned local businesses Thursday to screen people collecting money for veterans or "Operation Desert Storm" families.

The organization issued the warning to its 200 members because of reports that scam artists may be trying to play on public concern for U.S. troops fighting in the Mideast.

"It's not unusual for people to use public concern about a group or event to play on the sympathies of folks," said Bob Test, BBB president in Abilene.

An additional 350 Air Force medical reservists were called to active duty at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center, officials said.

Many of the reservists with the 11th Contingency Hospital will replace personnel from Wilford Hall who have been sent abroad in connection with the Persian Gulf war, said Wilford Hall spokesman Bob McNaughton.

Nearly 100 of the 350 reservists called up are from San Antonio.

Physicians, nurses, dentists and medical technicians are included in the call-up.

Rest and relaxation

Members of the British Royal Engineers, left, take a bath in a 2,500 gallon tank Friday before heading north toward Kuwait. Marine Lance Corporal Keith Lamont Dorsette of Brooklyn, N.Y., top, a reservist radio operator attached to a communications company, plays his saxophone at a forward position in the Saudi desert Thursday. Troops from the U.S. Navy's 2nd Medical Battalion play volleyball Thursday near the Saudi border with Kuwait.

American anti-war protesters bother troops preparing to fight

By Mort Rosenblum

ON DEATH ROW HIGHWAY, Saudi Arabia (AP) — This stretch of two-lane blacktop is named for accidents, not combat, but convoy drivers know that could change fast.

They hate it when people safe at home protest against the war.

"You tell those people we're tired of protesters," said Sgt. Jose Silva, a military policeman from Fort Hood, Texas, parked by the side of the road. "We got a job to do, and that doesn't help any."

On the roof of his armored vehicle, Cpl. Jonathan Lueck read a copy of Star & Stripes propped against his .50 caliber machine gun.

"There's more stuff about protesters in here," he called down. "They're only a minority, but they make a lot of noise. I don't want to go home and get spit on like my relatives in Vietnam."

These soldiers' views reflect the predominant mood among nearly a half-million Americans facing a widening war with Iraq: They know most of America is behind them, but anti-war protests sting like a slap.

Up along this supply road to front-line positions, where troops shelter each night within range of chemical-agent artillery shells, feelings can run high.

"Anti-war protesters?" repeated a young Marine. "They're a bunch of ...." The rest of his sentence, largely anatomical, clearly made his point.

Cpl. Charles Botkin, 25, a soft-spoken Marine from Colorado Springs, Colo., had a more reasoned response.

"No matter how few they are, they always end up on the front page or the nightly news," he said. "Still, they're not going to accomplish anything by raising voices."

Staff Sgt. Kenneth Dillon, from Jacksonville, N.C., agreed. Voices raised in support of soldiers but against the war only made it harder for troops to fight battles they cannot avoid, he said.

But Dillon said he felt most of his country was behind the troops.

"My wife told me that 87 percent of the people support what we're doing, and that's good enough for me," he said.

However the troops feel, few have very much time to ruminate.

At a convoy marshaling station on Death Row Highway, road warriors wheel in dusty vehicles from M-60 tanks on transports to Ford-built World War II jeeps rescued from the junk heap.

One armored vehicle, called a humvee, is emblazoned, "Baghdad Express." Many of the trucks fly American flags stuck in side-view mirrors or the dashboard.

"I'm so busy I don't even listen to what people are saying back home," said Sgt. Michael Baber, who helps service the convoys. "After 12 hours, I only want to know what my pillow has to say."

Baber, from the Napa wine country in northern California, has only one complaint, a common one in Desert Sword: an unquenched thirst. "I told my father to buy me a truckload of Napa's finest and let it sit there until I get back," he said.

Lt. Col. Hu Blazer, commander of the 176th Maintenance Battalion of the Tennessee National Guard, shrugs at the protests. He fought in Vietnam, and he knows there are other things to worry about.

"Sure, it bothers you a little bit, but that's what our freedom is all about — the right to protest," he said. "That's our constitution at work."

Besides, he said, public support overwhelms the detractors.

Major Bradley Moffitt, a combat support commander under Blazer, pointed to their unit's departure from Johnson City, Tenn., as an example.

"We have a little city of 50,000, and about 20,000 were there to see us leave," he said. "Nobody told them to turn out. Those people don't fade away."

Woman has 10 relatives in Saudi Arabia

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Sue Cabacungan has her work cut out for her if she wants to write to her relatives in Saudi Arabia.

"My husband, my father, my brother, my brother-in-law, my nephew and my five cousins are there," she said Thursday.

"We are a military family and are used to people being stationed here or there, but not all at once," she said.

Another brother-in-law and an uncle may be sent to the Persian Gulf soon, she said.

Her relatives, who are in every branch of the military except the Coast Guard, have tried to see each other while in the Middle East, but so far only her husband has been able to see his brother, she said.

Utah governor signs strict anti-abortion bill

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The nation's toughest state anti-abortion legislation was signed into law Friday. Abortion rights advocates promised a retaliatory tourism boycott campaign.

"There has been no shortage of legal opinions and predictions calculating the chances of any new abortion statute before the Supreme Court," Gov. Norm Bangerter said after signing the bill. "There is, ultimately, only one legal opinion that controls on this issue — the one rendered by the United States Supreme Court," he said.

About two dozen protesters demonstrated outside the governor's office in the Capitol. One woman waved a red coat hanger as activists chanted slogans such as "We will not go back."

Bangerter signed the bill a few hours after the state Senate voted 19-10 to approve an earlier House amendment stripping the bill of its most restrictive elements.

"This legislation is a mainstream attempt to protect the sanctity of life without trampling upon the legitimate liberty interests of women," Bangerter said.

The bill bans all abortions except in cases of rape, incest, when a woman's life or health is threatened or when an unborn child is known to suffer from serious congenital defects.

Unless blocked in federal court, the law would take effect 60 days after the Feb. 27 close of the legislative session.

Abortion rights proponents reacted swiftly.

"I think the governor of Utah is taking upon himself an enormous burden of endangering the lives of women and endangering the right to choose of all women," said Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League in Washington.

Activists have promised an economic and tourism boycott of Utah, including a campaign to derail the state's bid to host the 1998 Winter Olympics.

"I think there's going to be a tremendous backlash of anger," said Carole Florman of the Planned Parenthood Federation.

But Pat Nix, a member of the task force that drafted the legislation, said such threats were immaterial.

"I think life is more important than economic backlash," she said.

The bill originally had two tiers, one imposing strict limits on abortion and the second a fallback option with more lenient provisions in case the first were deemed unconstitutional.

But the House on Thursday voted 41-31 to delete the first tier, agreeing that sending two versions to the U.S. Supreme Court made no sense.

Bangerter said he preferred the House's amended bill because "it has the best chance constitutionally." The Senate had passed the tougher version 23-5 Wednesday.

The earlier Senate bill would have allowed abortion in cases of rape or incest and if a woman's life were in jeopardy or if a doctor concluded the child would be born with physical or mental defects "incompatible with sustained survival."

Eight cities top 1 million people

WASHINGTON (AP) — Los Angeles officially ousted Chicago as the nation's second-largest city in 1990 while San Diego and Dallas joined the ranks of cities with more than a million residents, the Census Bureau said Friday.

It is the first census to shown California's urban giant that had outgrown its Illinois rival, although estimates as early as 1982 suggested that Los Angeles had become No. 2.

Houston replaced Philadelphia in fourth place, a change also suggested by earlier estimates.

New York City, population 7,322,564, is still the largest city by far.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, like many of the nation's mayors, still took issue with the count, which found his city had nearly 3.5 million residents.

"We still believe many residents were not counted," he said, striking the theme of those local officials for whom census headcount means federal dollars. "This undercount could mean the loss of millions of state and federal dollars needed to adequately provide services to those most in need."

Of America's biggest cities, those in warmer climates grew while those in colder states got smaller.

The country now has eight cities with more than 1 million residents — two more than in 1980.

—New York City, which grew 4 percent from 1980.

—Los Angeles grew 17 percent to 3,485,398.

—Chicago slipped 7 percent to 2,783,726.

—Houston gained only 1 percent to 1,630,553.

—Philadelphia dropped six percent to 1,585,577.

—San Diego gained a whopping 27 percent to 1,110,549

—Detroit fell 15 percent to 1,027,974.

—Dallas increased by 11 percent to 1,006,877.

The city figures were announced in a three-day roll-out of final population counts for more than 39,000 localities. Friday was the last day.

In past years the population figures for localities have trickled out over several months. This year, the Census Bureau released the numbers together in a public relations campaign to thank Americans for participating in the count.

Sixteen states were released Friday: Alaska, California, Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Here are some of the city populations from those states, together with percentage changes from 1980.

Three cities from those states exploded in the 1980s: Jacksonville, Fla., which expanded 24 percent; San Jose, Calif., 22 percent, and El Paso, Texas, 21 percent. San Antonio, Texas, added 15 percent, Nashville, Tenn. is 12 percent bigger than in 1980 and San Francisco's population grew by 7 percent.

Memphis, Tenn., on the other hand, fell 6 percent and Milwaukee slipped a scant 1 percent.

The census drew the ire of many big-city mayors, who claimed the poor and minorities weren't counted in disproportionate numbers.

For cities, people translate into more money from the federal government and more power in the statehouse and in Congress. Many federal aid programs distribute money based on population. The census is also used to redraw political district lines for state legislatures and the U.S. House.

The municipal government of the District of Columbia on Friday became the latest of a long list of municipalities to go to court to try to increase their census count.

The district also filed a separate lawsuit asking that 6,000 D.C. residents incarcerated in the city's prison across the Potomac River in Virginia be included in the capital's count.

Louisiana man suspect in Gainsville murders, prosecutor confirms

OCALA, Fla. (AP) — Prosecutors confirmed publicly Friday that a 36-year-old ex-convict son of a Louisiana police lieutenant has become a "prime suspect" in the August slayings of five Gainesville college students.

Danny Harold Rolling, an ex-convict with a long string of armed robbery convictions is regarded as an escape risk and remained Friday in an isolation cell at the Marion County jail.

A prosecutor on Friday confirmed that Rolling is a leading suspect in the Gainesville case.

John Moore, assistant state attorney in Ocala, told The Associated Press Friday that Rolling is "being targeted as a prime suspect."

"They're not really saying why, except that he's from the Shreveport, La., area and there may be some scientific similarities and evidence in a triple slaying there and the Gainesville case."

Moore said Florida Department Law Enforcement investigators were in Ocala trying to interview Rolling Thursday night.

Psychiatrists in the past have described the day laborer and frequent armed robber as an alcoholic with a personality disorder. His relatives portrayed him as an angry, tormented man — but not a killer.

Rolling is not the first to become a leading suspect in the slayings without being formally charged in the sensational case. Edward Humphrey, a mentally disturbed University of Florida freshman, drew intense police and media scrutiny soon after the killings until negative results on DNA tests moved him down the list.

Rolling has been in the Marion County Jail since Sept. 9 — less than two weeks after the last of the Gainesville slayings — charged in the armed robbery of an Ocala supermarket. He is also held as a suspect in the May 1990 attempted murder of his father.

Shreveport authorities have noted striking similarities between a triple slaying there in November 1989 and the August 1990 deaths in Gainesville.

All the women in both cases were young brunette college students. As in the Gainesville killings, the killer of Julie Grissom in Shreveport took his time at the murder scene, taking apparent pains to clean up evidence by using cleaning substances to wash her body.

He also removed duct tape he had used to bind her, an act in common with at least one murder scene in Gainesville. Rolling has not been charged in any of the murders.

"He ain't killed. He may be disturbed, but he ain't guilty of that," father James Rolling, 58, told The Miami Herald.

But other relatives and friends, in letters filed with the court, have laid much of the blame for Rolling's earlier criminal behavior on his father.

"Danny was an abused child from the day he was born," wrote mother Claudia Rolling.

NATION IN BRIEF

Mayors request aid back home

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. mayors called on the federal government Friday to reverse a decade-long plunge in aid to cities despite the strain the Persian Gulf war is putting on the nation's finances.

The mayors, concluding their winter meeting, released a 50-city survey that found the federal contribution to city budgets dropped 64 percent from 1980 to 1990. They said the war, which is costing several billion dollars a week, proves the government has money available for other causes — like theirs.

"Support our troops in the Persian Gulf," Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode told the House Government Operations Committee. "Give them the resources they need to fight the war. But give us the tools we need to fight the war on drugs, against AIDS, against homelessness. Against poverty."

The mayors received scant encouragement. "We're going to be severely limited in what we can do," said Rep. William Clinger, R-Pa.

Colorado Springs Mayor Robert Isaac, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said earlier at a press conference that the mayors support the war effort. "But that doesn't mean that we forsake all the work that we need to do," he said.

Ban lifted on diseased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration served notice Friday it intends to lift rules that prohibit foreigners with AIDs, leprosy, or any of five venereal diseases — including gonorrhea and syphilis — from entering the United States.

The new policy, said Health Secretary Louis Sullivan, will "bring us in line with the best medical thinking, here and abroad."

After consulting with medical experts, administration officials concluded the new policy will not pose an additional AIDs risk to Americans because the human immunodeficiency virus, which causes AIDS, is not spread by casual contact. The same reasoning applied to the other diseases being removed from the disqualification list for visitors and immigrants.

"The risk of ... HIV infection comes not from the nationality of the infected person, but from the specific behaviors that are practiced," said the draft regulation of Sullivan's Department of Health and Human Services. A final version will be drawn after a 30-day period for public comment, and could be implemented in June.

"Our best defense against further spread of HIV infection, whether from a U.S. citizen or alien, is an educated population," the draft regulation said.

Baltics first on agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said Friday he shares "much common ground" with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, but left open the possibility he may cancel the summit scheduled Feb. 11-13 in Moscow because of the Kremlin's harsh treatment of the Baltic republics.

Bush, at a brief news conference, said the Soviet tactics in the Baltics caused him "difficulties," and that he was eager for the outcome of consultations with Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh.

The new foreign minister was scheduled to meet Secretary of State James A. Baker III on Saturday, and with Bush on Monday.

"We will take a look aqain at the whole problem and see what must be done, and I'm sure the Soviets will be doing the same thing," Bush told reporters.

On the one hand, he said, "we have some problems, obviously, on the Baltics states."

On the other, he added, "We have a lot of common ground still with the Soviet Union. It is a country that has been strongly supportive of our objectives in the Persian Gulf."

Pepsi cancels giveaway

NEW YORK (AP) — Pepsi-Cola Co.'s eleventh-hour decision to cancel its highly publicized Super Bowl giveaway game marks the second time in a year that a major soft drink maker has scrubbed a big promotion.

Some observers of the industry say the cancellations demonstrate that the soft drink market leaders are not as careful as they should be in dreaming up new ways to dazzle consumers.

They say the latest cancellation shows the ferocity of competition in an industry where every percentage point in market share is worth $450 million in retail sales.

The promotion cost the company more than $20 million, said David Novak, executive vice president of marketing and sales at Pepsi-Cola.

Pepsi said late Thursday it was canceling its Super Bowl promotion because of "strong concerns" that a huge response to its call-in game during the Super Bowl could disrupt the phone system, possibly delaying access to an open line in an emergency.

It made the announcement after its officials met for several hours with the head of the Federal Communications Commission and telephone industry representatives, who were said to be afraid that the promotion would swamp their networks.

California S&L seized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators on Friday seized California's Columbia Savings and Loan Association, the industry's biggest speculator in junk bonds.

Columbia, of Beverly Hills, worked closely with Michael Milken, Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.'s junk bond chief, to accumulate a multi-billion portfolio of the risky securities far larger than that of any other thrift institution.

Analysts have estimated the taxpayer's ultimate price tag for protecting Columbia's depositors at around $1 billion, placing it among the dozen or so costliest S&L failures.

Its former chief executive, Thomas Spiegel, was forced to resign in December 1989. Regulators later sought a record $24 million from him for squandering deposits on luxury condominiums, trips to Europe, a g'n collection and other luxuries.

At the end of 1990, Columbia had junk bonds worth approximately $2.5 billion, which it had been trying to sell since new management replaced Spiegel. The bonds were originally purchased for more than $4 billion.

MHS wins in double OT

■ Midland High's spread offense spreads the scoring around in a 64-59 double overtime win over Midland Lee.

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

With an upset minded cross-town rival on its hands in the closest of games, Midland High gave a clinic from the Dean Smith Technological School of Clock Burning.

The Bulldogs went to a spread out, slow down offense with five minutes left in regulation, then held on to claim a 64-59 double-overtime boys basketball win over Midland Lee Friday at Chaparral Center.

The win kept the Bulldogs in second place in District 4-5A with a 15-9 overall record and a 6-1 league tally.

The 'Dogs' reliance on the spread offense — strikingly similar to the famed four-corners used for years by Smith at North Carolina before the advent of the 45-second clock in the college game — finally paid the biggest dividend in the second OT, as 6-4 sophomore Antwan Goodley gave MHS a 62-59 lead by sinking a pair of free throws with :44 on the clock.

"I felt confident I could make them. I just had to put my head to it," said Goodley, who also pulled down a key rebound after David King missed a three-point try on Lee's next possession.

The Rebels were quick to foul following the missed shot, though, and after Earl McDonald's one-and-one front end missed on the other end with 22 seconds to play, Lee was still alive.

However, senior point guard Skeet Bowers came up with his biggest steal of the night at the half court line and fed Tyler Beard, to put the game on ice with a 10-foot shot just before the buzzer.

"I could tell where the ball was going just from where the guy's eyes were looking. I just went that way and stole the ball," Bowers said.

As for the spread, which MHS has used often this season, Bulldog head coach Jack Stephenson said he had no qualms about slowing the game down.

In the last 11 minutes of the game, including the two three-minute overtimes, MHS scored 11 points while Lee managed eight.

"We call it a delay score offense and hope to get mismatches out of it," Stephenson said. "Things hadn't been going well for us and the spread had been good to us at other times this year. I don't regret going to it, but I do regret what happened when we went to it. But we got our shots and made our free throws."

The game opened looking like it might be a carbon of the two previous meetings between the teams this season. The 'Dogs had downed the Rebs 76-55 and 77-65 in those affairs, and built a 17-12 edge in the first quarter.

But the Rebels answered late in the second period with Cliff Angelo hitting a three-pointer and a 15-foot deuce, then Wayne Wilson capping the six-point spree with a basket to give Lee a 30-27 lead at the 1:35 mark.

Entering half time, the Rebs were on top 32-29 and opened a 39-33 gap as the second half began.

But Scott Allen and Goodley converted consecutive three-point plays to tie the game, as the see-saw battle continued throughout the remainder of the game.

High drama unfolds at Chap

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

No one knows what the future holds for Midland's voiceless basketball fans as we move down the District 4-5A stretch, but at least Friday night at Chaparral Center there was enough high drama in the crazy cross-town rivalry to last a season.

The Midland High Bulldogs defeated Midland Lee by a 64-59 margin, but it took two overtimes to turn the trick. There was enough script writing to fill a book with the euphoric highs of victory and the heavy hearts of despair.

And in the scheme of the District 4-5A cage race, MHS' victory fit well, but all that was almost lost in the intense struggle that played out its course in courageous fashion.

Lady Rebs strike back against MHS

■ Midland Lee's Lady Rebels hit 73 percent of their field goals in the first half and hold off a Midland High comeback in the second half for a 40-35 win over the Lady 'Dawgs.

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

In the mid '70s, back when most of the Midland High and Midland Lee females who play basketball were making their initial entrances in the world, pop star Rod Stewart sang about how "The First Cut is the Deepest."

Maybe so in the decade of elephant collars and cuffed trousers. But not in the '90s. At least not for the Lady Rebels or Lady Bulldogs.

For the Lady 'Dogs, 40-35 losers to Midland Lee's girls Friday night at Chaparral Center, it is the second cut that will be felt for the longest time.

The Lee girls set out to do but one thing in this the second and final matchup of the season between the cross-town rivals: Avenge their 46-45 loss from Jan. 4, the first time the two clubs met this season.

It was not an overly vengeful revenge by any stretch. It wasn't until 16 seconds remained in the game that it was clear who would be doing the celebrating.

Lee's Tiffany Grafa grabbed the rebound on a missed free throw by Debbie Kuntz, scooted into position and nailed a layup to put the Lady Rebs up by their final five point margin. Despite Grafa's shot that secured the win, the 5-8 junior gave credit to Lee head coach Shirley Stephenson for suggesting she move into the lane in the waning seconds.

"Coach Stephenson said slide in the lane, and it worked," Grafa said. "It really worked."

Moments earlier, with Lee holding a rather uncertain 36-34 lead, Alicia Furrow was fouled by Midland High's Donna Eaden.

Furrow converted both free throws to give the Lady Rebels a 38-34 advantage with just over a minute left. Furrow's 3-of-4 from the free throw line was a change from her 1-of-7 shooting from the line during the first encounter with the Bulldogs.

"I've been practicing so I can catch up a little," Furrow said.

Now, for want went wrong in the game.

Both teams spent entire quarters or halves ice cold from the field. Lee, which hit an uncharacteristically high 73 percent from the field in the first half, connected on just 3-of-17 (17.6 percent) in the final 16 minutes.

The Bulldogs shot just 28 percent (13-of-46) for the game, only 6-of-26 in the second half.

"When we shoot well from the field, our free throws aren't good," Stephenson said. "And sometimes we have great free throw shooting but bad shooting from the field."

MHS head coach Jim Raughton was to the point regarding his Lady Bulldogs.

"Awful. Awful," he said. "Just awful."

Raughton said the game was a nightmare due to the Lady Bulldogs' inability to alter their game appropriately enough to overcome the Lady Rebs.

Lee girls plunge into Invitational advantage

By Bill Grimes
Staff Writer

There's nothing a good performance by a group of high school divers to give a boost to the swimmers.

The Midland Lee girl divers accomplished that mission with a 1-3-5-6 finish in Friday morning's Midland Invitational diving competition at the Lee pool, giving the Lady Rebels a commanding lead going into today's swimming finals. The Lee girls and Midland High boys are favored to win their respective divisions.

Swimming preliminaries were Friday at the Mabee Memorial Swim Center.

Going into the swimming, Lee held a commanding 63-17 lead in the girls division over Amarillo Tascosa. Midland High was third and Andrews fourth.

Lee scored a diving double when junior Juan Arguello won the boys competition with a score of 333.65. Amarillo Tascosa led the boys team standings after the diving with 41 points, with Lee second on the basis of Arguello's winning performance.

Lee senior Carey Forsythe took the lead from Tascosa's Melanie Randall after the eighth of 12 dives Friday and went on to take the girls championship with a score of 311.05. Teammates Jogee Woolard, Christy Connell, and Caryn Kelly followed in third, fifth and sixth place, respectively.

Midland High's Robin Koiro was fourth, while Andrews' Christy Boren was seventh.

Forsythe knows what the diving results will mean to her swimming teammates.

"In any meet when the divers do well, the swimmers start out winning," Forsythe said. "They're good, but our score will definitely help."

Bill Parcells seeks a second Super Bowl ring.

Parcells demands perfection

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — The Giants were nearing the end of another of their early-season blitzes on the way to a 10-0 start. As they were running out the clock against Dallas, reserve tailback Lewis Tillman missed a big hole on a sweep.

On the sidelines, Bill Parcells blew his top, ranting about Tillman's error. Ottis Anderson, the starting tailback, walked over to the coach and said, "You want everything just perfect."

"That's right," Parcells countered, "I want everything perfect."

somersault. Before Forsythe scored 30.80 points on that critical eighth dive, Randall had bombed on an inward 1½, scoring only 10.5 points.

Forsythe's best dive of the morning was a 38.50 on an inward 1½, something she hadn't been doing well in recent workouts.

"I've been working on it all week, and it's been getting worse," she said. "Coach (John Bettina) told me before today's dive to press through my toes and get my hips going up.

"It's easier to flip when you're going up, instead of going backwards," she concluded.

Forsythe's path of victory was greatly aided by the absence of defending Region I champion Sonja Kireilis of Lubbock High, who was unable to make the meet because of illness. Kireilis is considered one of the state's top divers.

Arguello put together a string of quality dives to win his first title since banging his chin on the board three weeks ago. The junior, who was third in the New Mexico state meet for Hobbs as a sophomore, said he's just now regaining his form.

"It's getting there," he said. "I'm starting to get it back."

The junior crossed a big hurdle when he got fives and sixes on an inward dive Friday — the same type of dive on which he got hurt.

Dives are scored by adding up number scores from a panel of judges and multiplying by something called "degree of difficulty," — a number ranging anywhere from 1.0 to 3.0.

Seles goes to net to nip Novotna

Australian Open

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Monica Seles deserted her usual baseline territory for something closer to a net game and rallied to become the youngest Australian Open women's champion Saturday.

Seles, plagued by errors on her usually deadly groundstrokes in the first set, became more aggressive in the second and third sets and rattled Jana Novotna for a 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 victory.

She allowed just five points in the first six games of the final set as she raced to a 5-1 lead, and closed the victory with her sixth straight game when Novotna sent a backhand volley long.

On a blistering day, with temperatures on the court registering 130 degrees Fahrenheit, Seles turned the tables on Novotna and replaced Margaret Court as the youngest Australian women's winner, at 17 years, 2 months. Court was four months older when she won in 1960.

The victory — the second Grand Slam championship for Seles after last year's French Open victory — also moved her to within 38 points of Steffi Graf at the top of the women's rankings.

Seles could take over the No. 1 spot as early as next week.

After that sloppy first set, Seles took charge. She was on top through most of the second set and the finale was all hers.

She showed the stuff of champions, adapting her game to beat a top-ranked foe in challenging conditions for the big prize.

By the third set, Novotna, who upset Graf in the quarterfinals, was flustered and making error after error. After Seles went from 0-1 to 5-1, allowing two points only in the second game of that run.

LADY REBS: Lee never surrendered lead

(From 1B)

"I wanted to try something different, but we just couldn't adjust. I wanted for us to attack from the baseline, but we didn't do it. We didn't execute.

"We couldn't score and we didn't shoot the ball well."

Lee out-rebounded MHS 32-25; Bulldog post Sally Gibson was held to just eight points.

Gibson, Ashley Chase and Donna Eaden, who together average over 35 combined points per game, were held to 20. MHS' Stephanie Spencer led all scorers with 11 points.

Lachette Crisp had 10 to lead the Lady Rebels, who move to 9-16 overall, 3-6 in conference. Midland High, which never led in the game, falls to 13-11, 4-4.

"We wanted to beat them by just a little to show we can do it, too," Lee's Furrow said. "But it wouldn't hurt my feelings any if we would've beaten them by a lot."

Added Grafa: "Revenge is sweet. Real sweet. And fun, too."

MIDLAND LEE (40) — Kim Blackburn 1-1 0-0 2; Debbie Kuntz 0-4 0-5 0; Michelle Stewart 0-0 1-3 1; Lachette Crisp 3-9 4-7 10; Tekeira Strambler 4-5 0-0 8; Tyra Goodley 0-0 1-2 1; Allison Low 0-2 0-0 0; Lesa Cochran 0-1 2-4 2; Tiffany Grafa 2-4 1-3 5; Tracy Pierce 2-2 0-0 4; Alicia Furrow 2-4 3-4 7. TOTALS: 14-32 12-26 40.

MIDLAND HIGH (35) — Jennifer Pirkle 0-0 0-0 0; Ashley Chase 2-11 0-3 4; Donna Eaden 3-11 2-6 8; Stephanie Spencer 3-10 5-6 11; Angie Johnson 0-3 0-0 0; Jackie Perez 0-1 2-2 2; Tarshina Belcher 1-1 0-0 2; Sally Gibson 4-9 0-1 8. TOTALS: 13-46 9-18 35.

MHS: Goodley, Beard put game on ice

(From 1B)

Lee was on top 48-46 at the start of the fourth quarter and Eugene Hicks, the game's top scorer with 17 points, canned a three-pointer to make it 51-46 on the period's first score.

But Allen connected with the cords, and Brian Rounding sank a trey for MHS to tie the game yet again.

After the end of regulation with the score 55-55, the Rebels took the lead on a Brian Massey layup at the 1:21 mark. The 'Dogs ran the clock down again, however, and McDonald made amends for his muffed free throw with a layup three seconds before the buzzer.

In the second OT, McDonald scored the first basket and free throw before Goodley and Beard iced the game.

"We had a super effort from the kids. We had several chances to win the game but the breaks went their way. It had to be great for the fans, but we just wish it had been a win for us," said Lee head coach Jon House, whose squad fell to 8-17 and 1-6. "If we play that hard in the rest of our games, good things will happen."

Goodley's 16 points were tops for MHS, and Beard added 13. Also in double figures for Lee was Wilson with 14 points, and King with 11.

In junior varsity play, MHS downed Lee 69-65. Scotty Lunsford led the 'Dogs with 25 points and Nathan Brunson scored 16. Lee was led by David Wilson with 18 and Patrick Kimble with 12.

MIDLAND LEE (59): David King 4-7 0-1 10, Martin Lattibeaudiere 0-10 1-2 1, Eugene Hicks 7-16 1-3 17, Cliff Angelo 2-3 0-0 5, Keenan Henry 0-2 2-3 2, Wayne Wilson 5-10 4-6 14, Matt Campbell 0-1 2-2 2, Brian Massey 3-7 2-2 8. Totals: 21-56 12-19 59.

MIDLAND HIGH (64): Skeet Bowers 1-3 2-3 4, John King 0-0 0-0 0, Mark Farias 1-2 1-2 3, Brian Rounding 2-6 0-0 5, Phillip Koss 0-0 0-0 0, Antwan Goodley 5-10 6-7 16, Earl McDonald 3-9 3-5 9, Eric Johnson 2-6 0-0 4, Jose Rios 0-1 0-0 0, Scott Allen 4-8 1-1 9, Stephen Canon 0-2 1-2 1, Tyler Beard 6-8 1-2 13. Totals: 24-55 15-22 64.

DRAMA: Lee, MHS split doubleheader

(From 1B)

The Purple Pack solidified its hold on second place and a state playoff berth with the win and a 6-1 district record. Lee slipped to 1-6, but was showered with a new found respect.

"What's sad is that I saw Lee play last week against San Angelo and they were just standing around," noted MHS coach Jack Stephenson, "but they came to play us tonight. They're capable of playing anyone in the league when they play like that. They saved it all up for us."

But senior Tyler Beard, senior Skeet Bowers and sophomore Antwan Goodley also did a little saving for double overtime.

Bowers made two steals in the last 12 seconds of play. Beard found net on the last shot of the game.

"I got a steal and wanted to score on a layup, but it didn't go, so I wanted to get the ball back and dish it off to someone to help the team," said Bowers, who was a thorn in the Lee side all night with his ball hogging ability.

And, of course, Goodley grew up.

With the loss of leading scorer Rodrick Hickey to grades last week, Goodley is being counted on to fill some big shoes.

"My sophomore played like a senior," said Stephenson. "Tyler (Beard) had one of his best games and Skeet (Bowers) played like Skeet does," said Stephenson.

Lee, which led by as many as seven points in the game, suffered through the final nightmare of a struggling team. They played well enough to win — as both teams did — and lost.

"This is real tough," said Lee coach Jon House. "Our seniors wanted this one bad and we had our chances to win the game. I can't fault them. They did everything they had to do to win the game and it just didn't fall."

Lee senior Eugene Hicks was brilliant even though his shot at the end of regulation play wouldn't fall for him. Brian Massey played tough inside and fouled out in the second overtime. David King hit two big three-point shots to give Lee some second half momentum, but that shot failed him in the overtimes. It was a tough way to lose.

But the Midland High sweep didn't happen this season as the Lee girls upset the MHS Lady Bulldogs by a 40-35 margin, leaving MHS with a 4-1 advantage over Lee in this basketball season.

The upset by the Lady Rebels was damaging to MHS, all but eliminating the Lady Bulldogs from making a desperate playoff run.

And it may have been the play of two Lee lady sophomores to help turn the tide.

Sophomore Tekeira Strambler scored six points against MHS in the first period to get Lee off to a good start. Then Lee didn't scored a basket in the first 7:04 of the third quarter, but sophomore Kim Blackburn hit a basket to ignite the Rebs again.

"I was just trying not to get too excited," said Strambler. "I wanted to hold myself in and score when I got the chance. This is a good experience because when I'm a junior and senior, I will have been exposed to this kind of competition and big games."

Lee girls coach Shirley Stephenson said, "I don't know if we would have won any more games or not, but we had so many girls that missed a lot of games with injuries this year. I was proud of the way we played."

DA drops felony charges against Drysdale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County District Attorney's office declined on Friday to file felony drunken driving charges against baseball Hall of Famer Don Drysdale.

Instead, the case was referred to the City Attorney's office for consideration of filing misdemeanor drunken driving charges against Drysdale, a broadcaster for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Drysdale was given a breath test and registered a blood-alcohol content of .19, more than double the legal limit of .08, officer Tom Ohmer said. Drysdale was later released on $5,000 bail.

Hawkins lifts 76ers over sagging Celtics

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Hersey Hawkins had a career-high 38 points, nine steals and eight rebounds as he led the Philadelphia 76ers to a 116-94 victory over the Boston Celtics Friday night, snapping a four-game losing streak.

Hawkins got help from Rickey Green, who scored a season-high 27 points on 13-for-17 shooting and contributed nine assists.

Kevin McHale scored 26 and Reggie Lewis 24 for the Celtics, who lost for the fifth time in their last six games.

The 76ers played their sixth game without Charles Barkley, who is sidelined with a broken right foot, while the Celtics were without Larry Bird, who has been out with an injured back for nine games. The 76ers have gone 2-4 without their top scorer and Boston has gone 5-4 without Bird.

The 76ers led 54-46 at halftime, but the Celtics rallied to come within 65-63 with six minutes left in the third quarter. Philadelphia then outscored Boston 22-13 to lead 87-76 after three periods.

In the final quarter, Philadelphia moved ahead 98-80 with 9:09 left before Boston rallied 10-2 to cut the deficit to 100-90 with 5:12 to go.

But the 76ers, who played one of their best defensive games of the season, pulled away again to go ahead of the Celtics 2-1 in their season series.

Lakers 108, Nets 103, OT

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Magic Johnson had 22 points and 17 assists, and the Los Angeles Lakers used a 10-0 run in overtime to defeat New Jersey.

The Lakers overcame a 13-point fourth quarter in which they shot 1-for-12 from the field to hold off the shorthanded Nets, who had won three of their previous four games after losing 11 straight.

Reggie Theus, who scored 25 points, gave the Nets a 94-92 lead in overtime, but the Lakers scored the next 10 points for a 102-94 advantage with 1:29 left.

NBA Roundup

James Worthy, who led Los Angeles with 23 points, forced the overtime with two free throws with 3.6 seconds remaining that made it 92-all. Worthy injured his right foot on the drive that resulted in the foul and did not play in the overtime.

New Jersey took a 91-86 lead by outscoring the Lakers 19-7 in the first nine minutes of the fourth quarter, holding them without a field goal on 10 shots.

Pistons 84, Mavericks 82

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Bill Laimbeer hit a jumper at the buzzer and the Detroit Pistons, now minus Isiah Thomas for three months, beat the Dallas Mavericks.

Dallas' Brad Davis made a 3-point shot with 4.5 seconds left to tie it after Joe Dumars made two free throws with 8.8 seconds remaining to put Detroit ahead 82-79.

The Pistons won for the 13th time in 15 games. They did it without Thomas, their captain, who was put on the injured list earlier in the day. He will undergo wrist surgery next week and will be out at least 12 weeks.

Rolando Blackman had 23 points, 11 of them in the fourth quarter, to bring Dallas back. Davis stole the ball twice and Randy White grabbed three offensive rebounds in the quarter as Dallas clawed its way back from an early 14-point deficit.

Vinnie Johnson led Detroit with 21 points and Dumars had 20. Laimbeer had only six points to go with his six rebounds.

Pacers 106, Bullets 100

BALTIMORE — Chuck Person scored 25 points, including five in Indiana's 13-3 closing run, as the Pacers rallied from a 14-point fourth-quarter deficit to beat Washington.

The Bullets held a 97-93 lead with 3:21 left but did not score again until Harvey Grant made a 3-pointer at the buzzer. By that time, Indiana had long since wrapped up its third road victory in four games after starting out 1-17 away from home.

Jazz 105, Kings 93

SALT LAKE CITY — Karl Malone had 20 points and Mike Brown scored seven of his nine points during an 11-0 spurt in the fourth quarter Friday night as the Utah Jazz beat Sacramento 105-93, the Kings' 14th straight loss on the road.

Jeff Malone added 18 points for the Jazz before leaving early in the fourth quarter with a pulled groin muscle.

Warriors 127, Bucks 98

OAKLAND, Calif. — Tim Hardaway scored 31 points and Golden State outscored Milwaukee 17-4 to start the fourth quarter and beat the Bucks.

Golden State won for the seventh time in nine games. Milwaukee has lost eight of 10.

Hardaway, who averaged 31 points in his previous five games and was named the NBA's player of the week, again hit his mark. Chris Mullin added 29 points and Mitch Richmond had 24, 20 in the second half.

Suns 128, SuperSonics 113

PHOENIX — Tom Chambers scored 14 of his 28 points in the fourth period as Phoenix beat Seattle, handing the SuperSonics their sixth straight road loss.

Kevin Johnson added 25 points and 15 assists for Phoenix and Jeff Hornacek had 24 points.

MHS kickers advance with first-round romp

By Bill Grimes
Staff Writer

ODESSA — It wasn't pretty, but the Midland High Bulldogs advanced to the second round of the Ector County Independent School District soccer tournament with a 4-0 romp over the Brownwood Eagles Friday at Ector Junior High.

MHS, 3-0 going into a second round game against Odessa Permian at 11 a.m., dominated much of the play against the outmanned Eagles, even though the Bulldogs had trouble getting its offense together.

In other first round action, Amarillo High defeated Odessa High 5-4, and Permian nipped Austin Travis 4-3.

The Bulldogs got the only goal they needed on a 25-yard shot by sophomore Dustin Arras in the 12th minute. Arras scored his first varsity goal when Brownwood goalie Mark Gotcher fumbled the long shot past the goal line.

The Bulldogs essentially put the game away in the last five minutes of the first half on goals by Joe Dominguez and Mario Rodriguez in the 35th and 38th minutes, respectively. Dominguez' shot, his third of the season, was a bouncer that sailed over Gotcher's outstretched hands and bounced into the net.

Rodriguez' goal, his second, was a little more planned. After left forward Craig Brownson controlled the ball at the center line, he passed to Rodriguez, who beat his man and placed the ball in the upper right corner of the net on the fly from 20 yards out.

Senior Steve Canon, who is tied with Dominguez for the team lead in goals, wrapped up the scoring by sticking in a ball that had bounced off Gotcher's hands in the 47th minute. After that, the teams generally kept the ball around midfield.

Brownwood had only one real shot at breaking up a shutout bid by MHS goalie Bryant Mueller, but Mueller fell on a loose ball in the 20th minute to break up the bid.

For Esikhati, it was a chance to see several young players show their stuff on the varsity level. The Bulldogs were scheduled to play in a San Antonio tournament, but Esikhati cancelled the trip after 11 players were declared academically ineligible last week, two more were lost to injuries and another moved out of the district.

Included in both groups are people Esikhati was counting on.

"Five people that I expected to be on varsity are not playing," Esikhati said. "I didn't want to take a team to San Antonio just for the trip.

After the tournament, in which the Bulldogs' could play up to three matches today, MHS meets crosstown rival Midland Lee at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the District 3 opener for both teams.

Brett Hull doubles select NHL club

DETROIT (AP) — Brett Hull of the St. Louis Blues became just the second player in NHL history to score 50 goals in fewer than 50 games on Friday night.

Hull's 50th goal came in his 49th game, against the Detroit Red Wings.

Hull scored his 49th goal late in the second period against Tim Cheveldae, then scored number 50 at 1:30 of the third period against Cheveldae's replacement, Dave Gagnon, who was making his NHL debut.

Hull took a pass from Adam Oates and blasted a wrist shot past Gagnon. Both of Hull's goals came on a five-minute St. Louis power play because of a major penalty to Bob Probert.

The only other player to score 50 goals in fewer than 50 games was Wayne Gretzky, who has done it three times, including 50 goals in 39 games in 1981-1982. Gretzky scored 50 goals in 42 games in 1983-84, and got his 50th in his 49th game the following year.

Maurice Richard (1944-45), Mike Bossy (1980-81) and Mario Lemeiux (1988-89) have each scored 50 goals in exactly 50 games.

Founder of sports daily severs ties with paper

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Price, a founder of the sports daily The National, has quietly severed all ties to the newspaper only a few weeks before its first anniversary in operation, newspaper executives said.

Frank Deford, the editor in chief recruited by Price for the newspaper's top editorial job, said Price left the paper about two weeks ago.

The newspaper, which marks its first year in operation on Jan. 31, made no announcement about Price's departure but dropped his name recently from its masthead that lists the paper's top officers.

Asked whether Price was still with the paper, newspaper spokesman Steve Hammond said Friday that he had no comment.

Efforts to reach Price were unsuccessful.

Price had been president and publisher of The National, but his role at the paper was changed substantially last November.

At that time, he was relieved of day-to-day responsibilities for the newspaper although his name continued to appear in the masthead.

Emilio Azcarraga, the Mexican media baron who controls the partnership that owns The National, installed Jaime Davila, a top executive at another U.S. operation that Azcarraga owns.

Henke catches Strange in Phoenix

Associated Press

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Nolan Henke had a bogey-free, 5-under-par 66 on Friday to tie Curtis Strange for the second-round lead of the Phoenix Open, which for the second consecutive day was suspended by darkness.

Henke, who had a 65 Thursday to trail leader Steve Jones by two strokes, started the second round on the back nine. He birdied Nos. 11, 15, 1, 3 and 7 for an 11-under 131 total at the midway mark of this $1 million tournament.

Henke finished his round just before darkness halted play at 5:54 p.m. with 33 golfers still on the course — including Jones, who was 10 under with one hole left.

The second round started 1 hour, 15 minutes late because of morning frost on the 6,992-yard TPC course. The first round was delayed by one hour by the same problem.

Phoenix Open

The 144-man field was scheduled to be trimmed to the low 70s and ties on Friday, but the cut now will be made after the second round is completed Saturday morning.

Strange, who had a first-round 64, was among the early starters Friday and made the turn at nine under before bogeying No. 11.

He sank a 6-foot birdie putt on the 13th hole, a 30-footer on 14 and a 15-footer on No. 15 to go 11 under. He then parred the last three holes.

Mark Lye and Gil Morgan each were in the clubhouse at 133. Lye's 64 featured a 6-under 29 on the back nine with six straight birdies, and Morgan shot 67.

Jones had an eagle on the par-5 15th hole to go 10 under and had just completed the 17th hole when play was suspended.

Bills must overcome green grass in Tampa

By Dave Goldberg
AP Football Writer

TAMPA, Fla. — Marv Levy must confront one more handicap for his Buffalo Bills when they meet the New York Giants in Sunday's Super Bowl — the green, green grass of Tampa Stadium.

As Levy and Giants coach Bill Parcells faced the media for the final time Friday, Levy was asked about playing for the NFL title on natural grass. The Bills, 15-3 overall, have lost two of their three games on grass this season.

"It's true we haven't played very well on natural turf," Levy said. "But if you want to be a champion, you have to overcome things. We're not playing the grass, we're playing the New York Giants."

Both coaches proclaimed themselves and their teams ready for Sunday's game. Only one injured player was deemed questionable — Butch Rolle, Buffalo's third tight end and short-yardage specialist whose last eight catches have been for touchdowns, although they've netted just 16 yards.

"This is the point where the players start getting edgy," said Parcells, whose team beat Denver 39-20 in this game four years ago. "After today's practice, it seems like forever until the game."

Parcells also acknowledged that a Super Bowl can be an overwhelming experience.

"I think probably the most difficult thing to explain would be what a great thrill it is to be just standing in that tunnel before the game, waiting to come out," he said.

"That's what I remember — just standing there, and being able to see out at all the people and the pageantry, to feel that exhilaration that comes over you to know that you're part of this and, at least for one day, on the center stage. That is my most vivid memory and it's something I cherish very much."

The most curious discussion was over playing the game on grass, which until two decades ago was the surface of choice for all football games.

But not now.

Both the Giants and Bills play their home games on artificial turf, but the Bills' hurry-up offense, which features the speed of Thurman Thomas, Andre Reed and James Lofton, seems more suited to the fast track.

In Buffalo's only three games on grass this season, they lost at Miami 30-7, beat Cleveland 42-0 and lost at Washington 29-14. The Washington game, however, was the last of the regular season, when Buffalo had already clinched its division and home-field advantage throughout the playoffs and had nothing to play for.

The Giants played on natural grass five times and won four: 24-20 in Washington, 31-7 over the Rams in Anaheim, 24-21 in Phoenix and 15-13 last Sunday in the NFC title game in San Francisco. The lone loss was 7-3 on Dec. 3 to the 49ers at Candlestick Park.

The Giants' ball-control offense, which depends on the straight-ahead and off-tackle running of Ottis Anderson and straight-ahead blocking by an offensive line that averages close to 290 pounds, is better suited to grass.

The Giants also have beaten the only teams they lost to this season — except Buffalo.

Rain could make matters worse

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — As the groundskeeper for the Super Bowl, George Toma has a simple mission.

"First, my job is to give the ballplayers the best possible conditions to show what they can do," the 61-year-old turf specialist said Friday. "Second, I want to try to give fans in the stadium or watching on television something beautiful to look at."

Usually, that's easier said than done. Two years ago, Toma spent a month preparing the field for the 1989 Super Bowl in Miami, only to watch players slip and slide on almost every play in the center of the field.

"It was embarrassing," said Toma, recalling that heavy rain on the morning of the game contributed to the problem at Joe Robbie Stadium.

Fans find souvenirs are unique

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — For Super Bowl fans hunting unusual souvenirs, there was an "end zone" cat-litter box or a squeaky toy resembling an NFL referee.

The refs were selling better, Ray Meunier said Friday. He's a salesman at a pet store two blocks from Tampa Stadium where the New York Giants and the Buffalo Bills meet Sunday in the NFL championship game.

A key consideration might have been that the $10.99 squeaky toy was less than half the price of the cat box — a $22.99 item complete with a cardboard goal post and the words "Buffalo Bills End Zone" stamped on the side.

"Uniqueness — that's what you have to specialize in," said Kevin Batdorf, who sells watches at a booth across from the stadium. For $40, the buyer gets a moving football instead of a second hand.

From T-shirts to parades, and from nude dancing to a symphony orchestra, Tampa abounded with pre-game hoopla and memorabilia.

Joni Hicks, manager of a nude dancing club, said business picked up since the club went to a 24-hour schedule for Super Bowl week. She said 40 girls were working the club daily, compared with the usual 25.

Mons Venus operator Joe Redner, who has survived numerous legal attempts to shut him down, said business at the adult-club is booming.

"I just gave myself a raise," he said.

Parties were springing up all over town. There were concerts, street bands and fireworks displays.

Colorful Ybor City, Tampa's historic Latin quarter, hosted an all-day street carnival Friday. The 21-block festival featured bands, performers and some 150 street vendors selling food and other items.

Security drawn ever tighter at Tampa Stadium

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — Security measures for the Super Bowl, in place 24 hours a day since Tampa Stadium was sealed off Jan. 16, have been drawn even tighter as Sunday's gametime approaches.

"We intend to take every step possible to insure the game is played without interuption," said Greg Aiello, the NFL's director of communications.

The NFL will have more than 1,000 security people at the stadium Sunday, Aiello said. A total of 18 federal, state and local law enforcement agencies in the Tampa area are expected to assist with security. More than 500 police officers will be on duty around the stadium.

NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue said Friday that only a breach in security or extreme conditions in the Middle East would postpone the game.

Members of the media were told Friday that everything taken into the stadium on Sunday would be inspected and X-rayed, and that spectators will be screened by metal detectors as they enter the gates.

Police said they would confiscate any equipment found unattended inside the stadium on game day. People have been warned not to bring portable radios, televisions, camcorders, beepers, or still cameras to the stadium.

Fans are being encouraged to arrive early because of the increased security. Stadium gates are scheduled to open at 3 p.m. EST for the 6 p.m. game.

"People generally get to the Super Bowls early anyway," Aiello said. "It will take more time than normal for them to get into the stadium, but once in, there will be entertainment and they should enjoy the wait."

A six-foot chain link fence has been erected around the stadium, approximately 50 feet from the current permanent fence, to provide an additional safety zone. Portable concrete barriers also have been installed.

"We have received no information to suggest there is, or will be, any threat to the stadium, or to the events occuring during Super Bowl week," said Tampa public safety administrator Bob Smith.

Security precautions also have been taken for all NFL events held in conjunction with the game. Additional security personnel were added to the team hotels and corporate tents near the stadium.

Many of the security plans were kept secret, including those put in place by ABC, which will broadcast the game.

The FBI has asked the Federal Aviation Administration to ban all air traffic — except for law enforcement aircraft — up to 3,000 feet and within five miles of the stadium from noon Sunday until after midnight.

A blimp that often carries a TV camera for big games will not be allowed to fly over the stadium on Sunday.

Tagliabue says war developments could postpone Super Bowl game

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — The Super Bowl could be played a week later if developments in the Persian Gulf force it to be postponed Sunday, NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue said Friday.

Tagliabue, at his annual Super Bowl news conference, said there was no specific "fail-safe point" for deciding to play or postpone the game between the New York Giants and Buffalo Bills.

"We will use our best judgment as events unfold in the Mideast," he said. "We are monitoring the situation with our own staff and the owners who are here."

Jack Kemp, secretary of Housing and Urban Development and a former quarterback with both the Bills and Giants, said President Bush was "quite emphatic" that threats of Iraqi terrorism should not interfere with the game.

"He said he thought if we were to allow a terrorist like Saddam to frighten us out of pro football games or our daily routine, that in effect would be a victory for terrorism," Kemp told the Buffalo News in Friday's editions. "He was quite emphatic about playing the game."

Security has been tightened for the game, and the 80,000 fans advised to arrive three hours before the 6:18 p.m. EST kickoff because everyone entering the stadium will be inspected with metal detectors.

Tagliabue wouldn't speculate on what events would force a postponement.

"We are dealing with two contingencies — television and the Mideast," he said. "There are no specific ground rules. You make your best judgment and see what's happening Sunday."

Asked when a postponed game might be played, Tagliabue said, "The following Sunday, assuming events in the world made it appropriate."

Tagliabue said ABC, which is televising the game, would have extra time between the first and second quarters and again between the third and fourth quarters for news inserts.

The playing of the Star-Spangled Banner in Tampa Stadium will be televised, as it was at last Sunday's conference championship games. Ordinarily, game telecasts break away for commercials during the playing of the national anthem.

"Most Americans are patriotic," Tagliabue said. "There was some indication of that at last week's NHL All-Star Game and the championship games, to put it mildly. We are trying for a tone and theme that recognizes the 25th anniversary Super Bowl, played against the backdrop of brave developments in the Mideast."

The commissioner said the league was considering making a contribution to the USO and other organizations and that it would be discussed Saturday at a meeting of the board of directors of NFL Charities.

On other subjects, Tagliabue said:

— League attendance reached an all-time high, with average crowds topping 62,000 per game for the first time.

— ABC's Monday night series of games was No. 6 of 120 prime-time shows, compared with No. 19 in 1981, when the league enjoyed its best rating numbers.

— There is no concrete timetable for expansion, although the league still hopes to have two new teams on the field by 1993.

"That is a realistic target," Tagliabue said. "The economy is a question."

PARCELLS: Intensity reserved for games

(From 1B)

fessional coach — he wants diamonds and sometimes has to settle for emeralds. But enough emeralds will fill out a championship crown just as nicely.

Parcells has worn that crown once in a coaching career that began at that noted football powerhouse, Hastings College, in 1964. In 1986, the Giants eased through the playoffs, then beat Denver 39-20 in the Super Bowl.

"Once you've been to The Show," he says, "you never forget what it's like. That's what you're in this business for and it's what is fun. This is fun."

There have not been many fun times since '86. Parcells, 49, has had to make some major adjustments on his team, has had to endure the 1987 strike season, a drug-related suspension for Lawrence Taylor, and criticism of his conservative offense.

Actually, Parcells has had it easier than any other New York coach. He has been treated more kindly by the New York media than his counterparts in the Big Apple. Imagine if he'd had Joe Walton's problems with the Jets, or had to endure George Steinbrenner as an owner.

Of course, he is more accessible and more likeable than most of his NFL peers, even willing to adjust his schedule (slightly, of course) to help the media last week.

"Bill understands the jobs everyone has to do," linebacker Gary Reasons says. "He doesn't look to make things more difficult. He'll help out if he can."

Rarely is there a situation involving the Giants that Parcells can't control. Only in 1987, when he admittedly "lost it" because of the players' strike, have the Giants been a loser since they went 3-12-1 in his first year, 1983.

That season, the close ties he had built with his players, the camaraderie, the trust, the respect, was dissipated when the players walked out. Parcells felt betrayed and the Giants never recovered. They had lost their first two games before the strike and dropped all three replacement games. Parcells' heart wasn't in it.

"I think Bill had serious second thoughts about our loyalty," says one Giants veteran who preferred anonymity. "He blamed us for a management-union problem and he couldn't understand why we would go out. I think he felt we quit on him."

Parcells worked hard after that season to re-establish the bonds. He seemed to be succeeding when Taylor was suspended by the league for violating the NFL drug policy.

That could have been an ugly situation, particularly with the rumors that accompanied the suspension. Those whispers said Taylor was angry with the Giants for not protecting him from getting caught and that they had done so in the past.

To his credit, Parcells ignored such inuendoes. He and the players rallied around Taylor and the Giants went 10-6. They didn't make the playoffs when the Jets beat them on the final day of the season, but Parcells had recaptured his team's faith.

BUILDING GOD'S TEMPLE

If you have ever attempted a minor repair or a major project, you know that without the proper tools, your enthusiasm quickly turns into frustration. You need tools that you can depend on.

We are God's tools. Our faith in Him must be strong enough so it is not damaged or distorted by those who might attempt to destroy it. Faith is the very foundation of God's house. He proclaims in Matt. 16:18 "... on this rock I will build my church ..."

Invite a friend to church this week. When we shine with the love of God, it is reflected onto everyone we meet. As His tools, we can build His house even larger by bringing others to Him, that they may experience the peace and happiness they find there. 1 Cor. 3:16 asks us: "Do you not know that you are God's temple and the God's Spirit dwells in you?"

With the spirit of God dwelling in us, we shall surely build God's kingdom on earth ...

one soul at a time.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Choristers host choir workshop

An ecumenical Children's Choir Workshop and Festival is being held from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. Saturday in downtown Midland at First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Ohio Avenue. The festival program will begin at 3 p.m.

The day will be spent in rehearsal with guest clinician, Carolyn Sue MacDowell of Decatur, Ga. Mrs. MacDowell is a graduate of Westminister Choir College, Princeton, N.J., and serves as the associate director of music for the First United Methodist Church, Decatur. She has served churches in New Jersey, Texas and West Virginia.

In 1988, she completed the Professional Skills Seminar for Clinicians offered by Choristers' Guild International studying under Helen Kemp and John Yarrington.

The Midland event is hosted by the West Texas/Permian Basin Chapter of Choristers Guild. "Journeys With Jesus" is the theme with music composed by Natalie Sleeth, Helen Kemp, Helen Clair Lowe, Jody Lindh, John Horman and Ty Morris, who is presently serving Crestview Baptist Church.

Mrs. MacDowell also has experience in drama, and he has written an original drama to accompany the musical compositions, which use both children and adults in speaking roles.

The public is invited to attend the free 3 p.m. program Feb. 2.

Flute recital Sunday

Marjory Jennings, flutist with the Midland-Odessa Symphony, will be guest instrumentalist at the morning worship services of First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., Sunday.

Jennings

She will play the "Sinfonia" from Act III of Handel's "Solomon" and "Fantasy on 'Slane,' " a traditional Irish melody arranged by Libby Larson.

The flute solos will be accompanied by organists Michael Mitchell and Lester Ackerman on the newly completed Fredda Turner Durham Memorial Pipe Organ. This organ contains more than 5,000 pipes and will be featured in a dedicatory recital Friday at 7:30 p.m. by Frederick Swann, organist at Crystal Cathedral, Garden Grove, Calif.

Miss Jennings also will be heard with the church's Sanctuary Choir in John Rutter's popular anthem, "For the Beauty of the Earth."

Services are 8:15 and 11 a.m. Child care is available.

Life-skills seminar set

"Making Your Mark" will be presented by Sandy Gregory Feb. 3 and 4 at Kelview Heights Baptist Church, 402 W. Scharbauer Drive.

Gregory

"Without a feeling of personal significance life can be a complicated experience," said a release from the church. "Minor difficulties seem like big problems and major achievements don't bring the satisfaction we expect."

"Making Your Mark," the release said, "presents biblical and lasting solutions to the need for personal significance"; "reveals the Bible's strategy and gives practical 'real world' advice on how to obtain the joys of a significant life"; "settles the controversy surrounding self-esteem and self-image. It examines misguided secular proposals for developing significance and enables participants to 'test all things and hold onto what is good' "; and "satisfies participants' emotional needs through a new realization of their worth and a renewed commitment to share their insights with others."

Topics include "How to Build Self-Esteem Without an Inflated Ego," "How to Build an Image of Success Without Distorting Reality," "How to Build Consistent Motivation Without Mind Games or Gimmicks" and "How to Build High Productivity Without High Blood Pressure."

Sessions will be held at 9 and 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Feb. 3 and at 7 p.m. Feb. 4. The church's pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson, invites the public to attend.

Singles group to meet

The Permian Basin Singles Conference is scheduled for Feb. 8 and 9 at the Holiday Inn, 4300 W. Highway 80.

Featured guests are Jim Towns, head of the communication department at Stephen F. Austin University; and Jeff Lynn, contemporary songwriter and singer from Dallas.

Registration is at 7 p.m. Feb. 8. Sessions include such topics as "How to Be Your Own Psychiatrist," "How to Be the Real You," "How to Relieve Stress and Find Security in the 1990s," "How to Have Intimacy in Your Relationships" and "How to Pick Up the Pieces."

For reservations, call First Baptist Church, Midland and Odessa, or Crestview Baptist Church. Cost is $20 with advance reservations made by Feb. 4 and $25 after the reservation deadline.

Marriage seminar Feb. 8

Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 W. Golf Course Road, is presenting a Marriage Enrichment Seminar Feb. 8 and 9.

The seminar is conducted by authors and lecturers Carl Brecheen and Paul Faulkner, described in a news release from Golf Course Road Church of Christ as recognized authorities in the field of marriage and family psychology.

The seminar was the basis for the film by the same name, and the speakers have been guests on the Focus on the Family radio broadcast.

"The seminar, which is in great demand throughout the country, has not been presented in this area since 1975," the release said.

The presentation begins at 7 p.m. Feb. 8 with the topic "Commitment to God's design." The Feb. 9 sessions begin at 8:30 a.m. with "Commitment to Being Husband and Wife" and conclude with "Communication and Oneness."

"The speakers include humor and biblical teaching as well as psychological and sociological helps," the release said.

Cost for both days is $20 per couple who have pre-registered and $25 at the door. A workbook is included. Pastors are invited to attend all sessions free.

For more information call 694-8836.

Mission retreat set

STANTON — Mission opportunities for volunteers and changing needs along the Texas-Mexico border will be discussed at a Texas baptist River Ministry training retreat Feb. 15-17 at Circle Six Ranch, seven miles north of Stanton.

Seminars at the retreat will be led by directors of missions and field service personnel who work with River Ministry projects. Most seminars will be offered in English and Spanish.

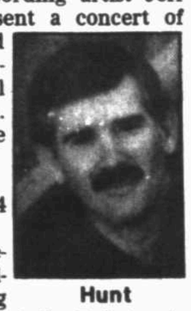
Registration cost is $28 for each person. This amount includes three meals. Participants are asked to bring their own bedrolls and linens. To guarantee registration, a deposit must be received by the River Ministry office no later than the Friday prior to the weekend of the retreat.

No reservations will be accepted by telephone. A limited number of reservations will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

For more information and a reservation form, contact the Baptist General Convention of Texas, River Ministry, 333 N. Washington, Dallas, 75246-1798, or call 1-214-828-5244.

Hunt to perform concert

Christian recording artist Jeff Hunt will present a concert of original and previously recorded gospel music at 7 p.m. Feb. 3 at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 3114 Travis.



Hunt

Hunt has recorded five albums including one that received the Religion in Media's International Angel Award for Middle-of-the-Road Album of the Year. He also received the nomination for country gospel album and male vocalist.

Hunt, who is from the Rochester, N.Y. area, is engaged in full time non-denominational ministry.

The public is invited to attend.

Convocation Monday

BIG SPRING — The Midland District Convocation will be held Monday through Feb. 2 at Powerhouse Church of God in Christ, 1311 Cherry St.

Host pastor is the Rev. Frank Nelson. District superintendent is the Rev. Kenneth Weatherspoon and district missionary is LaVerne Smith.

Services begin at 8 p.m. daily. Friday is Women's Day. Special guest that day will be Victorine Maekey, state supervisor of women of Texas Northwest.

Feb. 2 is the official day for Weatherspoon, the Sunshine Band and Purity Class. This group consists of children ages 1 through 18. This special service Feb. 2 will be at 6 p.m.

Bishop W.H. Watson, state bishop of Texas Northwest, is also a special guest.

The public is invited to attend.

Youth group making trip

The Youth Group of Ranchland Heights Baptist Church will attend the Dawson McAllister Student Conference in Lubbock's Memorial Civic Center Friday and Feb. 2.

Sixteen youth and sponsors are expected to make the trip. Theme for the conference will be "Search for Significance." Music will be by Al Denson. The final session of the conference, which begins at 7 p.m. Feb. 2, will be a concert and rally.

Women's Day slated

United Methodist Women's Day will be observed Sunday at St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 N. Main St., when members of the congregation will be in charge of the 10:45 a.m. worship service.

Pauline Hobbs, president, will introduce officers and circle chairmen and Mrs. James L. Jones will lead the service.

"What About Children?" will be the sermon topic of Beverly Acker, the morning speaker. A poem on children will be read aloud by its author, Mrs. James A. Warren.

The public is invited to attend this annual recognition of UMW leaders.

History program Friday

The Rev. "Little Bear" Wheeler brings his dramatization of history and Christian values to Midland's First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave., Friday and Feb. 2.

Wheeler

"As an evangelist and historian, he shares enriching, riviting and dramatic portrayals of historic events, integrating factual data with biblical principles," said a release from the Midland Association of Christian Home Educators, sponsor for the event.

"Wheeler's approach is to correlate historical facts with Christian influences and tradition, and to reach adults and children via visual dramatizations that demonstrate the spiritual role in our national heritage. Using authentic costumes and props — authentic American weapons, quick-draw demonstrations, rope tricks, historical games and artifacts — "Little Bear" presents enthralling portrayals of historical events not found in public instruction nor in books in the last 100 years."

Wheeler will speak to educators and parents at 7 p.m. Friday at First Baptist Church. On Feb. 2 he will dramatize history for all ages from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at First Baptist. A continental breakfast will be served at 9:30 a.m.

Both sessions are free. A love offering will be taken.

Wheeler, the founder of Mantle Ministries, also has founded a publishing organization that re-publishes books written in the 18th and 19th centuries, which concentrate on Christian heritage and biblical values, the release said.

For more information call 689-0419.

'Beginnings' program set

The Young Women of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will hold its New Beginnings programs this coming week.

"New Beginnings," held at the beginning of each year, welcomes young women ages 12 through 17.

Midland I Ward's theme is "Putting It All Together." This ward's program will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the church, 4805 Gateway St. Presentations will be given by the young women, and their president, Marie Woolley, will speak.

"Come Unto Me," Midland II Ward's theme, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Gateway chapel. Bishop Newell Rigtrup will address the young women and their parents.

"My Turn on Earth" will be the focus of Midland III Ward at its program at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the church, 2101 Tarleton. Following presentations by the young women, Bishop Brent Rigtrup will be the speaker.

The Young Women's organization was founded Nov. 28, 1869, by Brigham Young in Salt Lake city, Utah. "The purpose of the organization is to help young women become spiritually strong by providing experiences that give identity, direction and purpose to their lives," the release said.

Bishop's letter apropos, timely

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. Jewish leader says a pastoral letter by Poland's Roman Catholic bishops, ordered read last Sunday in all parishes, is an "extraordinary breakthrough" in its strong condemnation of anti-Semitism.

Rabbi A. James Rudin, interreligious affairs director of the American Jewish Committee, said the letter comes "at an especially critical moment for Poland" when "anti-Semitism has emerged with increased virulence."

Church addresses abuse

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church should never suppress, deny or ignore reports of child sexual abuse, but deal with them directly and honestly, says Bishop Matthew H. Clark of Rochester.

"The church is never hurt by admitting its humanity; it is often hurt by pretending to deny it or to excuse it," Clark writes in a chapter of a new book.

Religious differences over war become shared concern

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion Writer

When it comes to applying religious principles to specific situations, believers often disagree. That doesn't suggest they aren't equally dedicated to the faith, even when they differ over such crucial questions as war.

That point is emphasized by church leaders concerning divergent views voiced in religious circles prior to the launching of the war against Iraq, and the tempering of those voices since.

Not that previous convictions necessarily have changed, but the situation now is different — America is at war — and religious forces united in caring and praying for those involved.

"We now feel deep and pastoral concern," said Episcopal Presiding Bishop Edmond L. Browning, who as head of President Bush's denomination had urged him to delay military action to give sanctions against Iraq more time to work.

However, there should be no question, either then or now, about "my loyalty to the president and to our armed forces," Browning said. "I have great loyalty to the president and consider myself one of his pastors."

They had talked several times before the war's start and those contacts were expected to continue. "My prayers reach out to him and those in the gulf on both sides," Browning added.

"We now have to do what Christians are called to do — Christians are called to pray."

Religious organizations also were mobilizing stepped-up services to families of the military forces, setting up denominational "hot lines" for chaplains in the gulf to keep in touch with families on the home front.

Leaders of most mainline Protestant and Roman Catholic churches had previously urged delay in military action, but now were coordinating plans to aid an estimated 1.3 million displaced people expected in the war zone.

Congregations were advised to hold special services on behalf of those involved and their families, with interfaith prayer services recommended in communities each week.

Many churches began tolling their bells at noon daily, and in typical Sunday liturgies, there were congregational prayers for national leaders and for peace.

"It is important for us to stand together at such a moment as brothers and sisters in Christ," said S. David Stoner, executive director of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.).

Jewish groups and conservative and evangelical churches generally had supported Bush's decision to use force after the Jan. 15 deadline set for it by the United Nations if Iraq did not leave Kuwait.

Saudis call Austin firm about spill

AUSTIN (AP) — Saudi Arabian officials Friday contacted an Austin firm that uses oil-eating microbes to clean up oil spills to help protect the country's water supply, the president of the firm said.

"They said, 'We have oil in the Persian Gulf and we understand you may be able to do something about that,'" said Eugene Douglas, president of Alpha Environmental, an Austin bioremediation firm.

Douglas declined to reveal who contacted the firm, but said it is "a person of considerable authority and position in the kingdom."

Saudi Arabian officials said Friday that Iraq sabotaged a Kuwaiti oil terminal, spewing millions of gallons of crude oil into the Persian Gulf.

It was unclear how much crude oil was dumped. Saudi officials said it could be more than 100,000 barrels per day and it has been spewing for at least three days. A slick on Friday was almost 10 miles long and traveling toward Saudi waters.

The oil spill is likely to amount to "more than a dozen times" the 11 million gallons that the Exxon Valdez tanker leaked into Alaska's Prince William Sound in 1989, Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said.

Douglas said officials who called him several times on Friday indicated their interest in protecting Saudi desalinization plants used as the main water supply for the city of Riyadh.

"The principal targets are not the slicks in open waters, but the areas of the desalinization project closer in to shore," Douglas said. Those plants are between Dhahran and Jubail on the eastern shore of Saudi Arabia.

For several days, the Texas General Land Office has been discussing the technical aspects of using oil-eating microorganisms to clean up the spill with federal officials, said Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

"We at the Land Office are prepared to do whatever we can to help clean up a Persian Gulf spill that may interfere with our important military mission there," he said.

"They seem to be interested, but with governments, you never can be sure," Douglas said.

He said the firm began preparations a week ago for a team of 12 employees to be activated to the Middle East, as a contingency plan in case something happened with the numerous oil installations.

Jury probates Hill Country rancher's sentence

By Mike Cochran

SAN ANGELO (AP) - A jury assessed Hill Country rancher Doyle Parker an eight-year probated sentence and a $10,000 fine Friday for the October 1989 slaying of his 42-year-old nephew, Bruce Parker.

The panel, which convicted the defendant earlier, dealt swiftly with the punishment issue, rendering its verdict in little less than three hours.

"I think it's pretty sorry that a person can kill someone for eight years probated and $10,000," said Bart Parker, 25, the victim's son.

"But nothing's going to bring my father back."

Doyle Parker Jr., the defendant's son and namesake, said that in light of the conviction, he was not displeased with the punishment.

"I asked my father this morning if he did it and he said no," the younger Parker said. "I don't believe he did. I think a grave injustice has been done. I believe an innocent man has been convicted."

The defendant himself had no comment, a stance he maintained since the trial began Jan. 14.

Jurors spent 17 hours in secret debate before ruling Thursday night that the 76-year-old Parker gunned down his nephew beside a lonely country road on Parker ranchland in Kimble County.

Prosecutors maintained the shooting stemmed from a long-standing family conflict.

The elder Parker, appearing subdued and a bit confused, told the jury during the punishment phase he would abide by terms of his probation if the panel so ruled.

It was his first comment in open court since formally entering his plea of not guilty nearly two weeks ago.

"There is a 76-year-old man over there with no prior convictions," defense lawyer George Parnham told the jury. "If he goes to the penitentiary, he will die in the penitentiary. Whatever you do is not going to bring back Bruce Parker."

The prosecution scoffed at the age issue.

"What you're really going to be deciding is the price of a life...and whether the person who pays that price is entitled to a senior citizen's discount," said state attorney Donnie Hammond of Junction.

Chief Prosecutor Ron Sutton, the district attorney from Kimble County, said there was no evidence that the defendant would die in prison and declared: "There is evidence that Bruce Parker is already dead, and he's going to stay that way. Remember that."

He said he was neither pleased nor displeased with the punishment ruling.

"The important thing to us was that he was convicted. That was our primary responsibility. It's up to the jury to set punishment."

Linda Parker, Bruce's widow and the target of a midweek death threat, said after the jury's ruling Thursday night that she was "relieved" about the guilty verdict and "glad that the truth is out."

It was she who appealed to the Texas Rangers to enter the case after early reports indicated the fatal gun shot was self-inflicted.

Armed guards escorted her from the courtroom to her hotel, where she told a reporter:

"It's been a long 15 months. I'm extremely appreciative of prosecutors Ron Sutton and Donnie Hammond and all the people on his staff...It's been a long road. But I know Bruce would be happy."

She declined comment Friday on the punishment phase and the death threat, explaining that "I'm really rather frightened to talk about that."

Referring to the conviction, Sutton said that "logic and reason prevailed." He indicated at the time he would not be inclined to leniency on the punishment issue because of the defendant's age.

"Advanced age does not give anyone the right to kill another," he snapped.

Expressing his disappointment over the conviction, defense lawyer George Parnham of Houston insisted the evidence was "insufficient to sustain the verdict." Referring to Sutton, he said:

"The prosecutor said when he took on this case he was going to put Mr. Parker in jail for the rest of his life. I accepted that challenge. I am confident that won't happen...

"If he goes to the penitentiary, I'll go with him."

After the punishment phase, Parnham quipped, "Thank God, we've all been probated. It looks like we'll be home for Christmas."

Said his co-counsel, Norman Whitlow of Kerrville: "Amen."

More seriously, Parnham insisted the weakness of the state's case was painfully apparent.

"I think some members of the jury had real questions on the sufficiency of the evidence and it carried over into the punishment phase," he said.

Mostly, he said, he was just relieved the current ordeal had ended.

"We're going to appeal the jury's verdict and we feel we've got an excellent chance to get it reversed...," he said. "If they reverse it on the insufficiency of evidence, it's all over. No more trials."

Bruce Parker was one of three members of the star-crossed pioneer ranching family to die by gunfire in 1989. One was an apparent robbery victim and the other was a suicide.

The younger Parker was shot once in the chest at close range and died on a scenic bluff overlooking the Little Devil's River where he and generations of other Parkers gathered often for festive family reunions.

Tearful

Angelo State University student Kristi Brown sheds a tear as the names of classmates in the Persian Gulf are read during a troop-support rally Thursday night at the ASU campus.

Hightower reappears to rap thrift-bailout plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Texas agriculture commissioner Jim Hightower called on Congress to reject a Bush administration proposal for an extra $80 billion to bail out failed savings and loans.

Hightower is serving as chairman of the Washington-based Financial Democracy Campaign, a coalition of consumer, labor and farm organizations.

"No matter who is on the receiving end of the bailout, one thing is clear — it should not be paid by the millions of ordinary Americans who neither caused nor benefited from the crisis," Hightower said.

Hightower said the $80 billion figure is double the amount the Bush administration said it needed three months ago.

The cost of the bailout should not be funded with longterm borrowing, Hightower said, because that will add to the deficit.

"There should be a tax surcharge on the people who caused this crash to begin with, the wealthiest one percent in our society," he said.

Sharp, federal agency to get tough on taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller John Sharp said his office will join federal highway officials in a crackdown on motor fuels tax evasion.

"The illegal profits in fuels tax cases are enormous," Sharp said Friday after announcing the joint operation with the Federal Highway Administration.

"We're going all-out to find and prosecute those who create an unfair market advantage at the gasoline pump and cheat taxpayers in the process," he said.

Thousands mourn vicitims of Soviet assault

RIGA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — More than 100,000 Latvians mourned Friday at the funeral of three people killed by Soviet "black berets" in an assault on the republic's Interior Ministry building.

The caskets were carried through the streets of the capital to the Freedom Monument, a slender granite pillar topped by the copper statue of Mother Latvia, her arms stretching to the sky.

"Today we have come to say farewell to our heroes," Prime Minister Ivars Godmanis told the crowd, which waved dozens of red-and-white Latvian flags.

"Latvia, which had only showed itself to be an example of the peaceful, democratic development of society ... nevertheless has been plunged into violence by the dark forces of the center," Godmanis said.

In the Soviet Union, the "center" is a common euphemism for Moscow and the national government.

The motives are unclear for the Jan. 20 assault by the black berets, an elite force of Soviet Interior Ministry troops. But the attack is widely viewed in Latvia as part of the crackdown on the independence movement in the Baltics.

WORLD

Four people died and at least nine were seriously wounded during the nighttime attack; two others have also died in similar Latvian assaults this month.

In neighboring Lithuania, 14 people were killed Jan. 13, when Soviet paratroopers and tanks stormed the republic's independent radio and television center.

Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's personal envoy in Lithuania, Georgy Tarazevich, told a news conference he hoped talks can begin "in the nearest future" between the secessionist government and Soviet authorities.

According to the Lithuanian news agency ELTA, Tarazevich said "a lot of tragic mistakes have been made." He said his mission was not to place blame, but to "do everything possible to avoid repetition."

Tarazevich said there was no need to replace the present elected parliament, and said he was certain there would be no Soviet Army assault on the now heavily fortified parliament building.

Prime Minister Gediminas Vagnorius, however, said he was not so optimistic that talks with the Kremlin would begin.

In Washington, President Bush said Friday he shares "much common ground" with Gorbachev, but left open the possibility of cancelling the summit scheduled Feb. 11-13 in Moscow because of the Kremlin's treatment of the Baltics.

Bush, at a brief news conference, said he was eager for the outcome of consultations Monday with Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh. "Mr. Bessmertnykh knows the United States very well and he knows the difficulties that we have with any use of force in the Baltics," Bush said.

More than 10,000 Latvians watch as a casket is hoisted during the funeral procession in downtown Riga Friday for four people killed when the Soviet interior ministry guards opened fire. Numerous people were wounded.

Estonians strengthen barricades, guards

TALLINN, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Estonia reinforced its barricades and parliamentary guards Friday for fear of a crackdown like the one the Kremlin is carrying out on its separatist Baltic neighbors.

Friday was a day of mourning in Estonia for four people killed on Sunday in Latvia by Soviet Interior Ministry troops who stormed the republic's police headquarters. A Soviet attack on a broadcast station in Lithuania on Jan. 13 killed 14 people.

Reins Koov, an aide to Estonian Prime Minister Edgar Savisaar, said he had information that specially trained Soviet troops from the heavily guarded Dvigatel factory in Tallinn, Estonia's capital, were preparing a weekend attack on installations in the republic.

"We have reason to be concerned," Koov said.

But leaders at the plant disputed the claim. But Vladimir Roednaya, head of the factory workers' collective, acknowledged that "we do have a unit of soldiers under the direct command of the army."

He said soldiers guarded the plant, where about 4 percent of the 5,000-member workforce are ethnic Estonians. He also said there were two other guard units in the factory, but he declined to elaborate.

Estonians increased the number of volunteer home guard units in the city after non-ethnic Estonians demanded the resignation of the republic's separatist government last week.

Since Jan. 17, workers' collectives and organizations with close ties to the pro-Moscow Interfront group staged strikes at several heavy industrial plants in the republic of 1.6 million people.

The strikes have had little effect on the economy.

"The strike actions have not been as successful as we had hoped. But the events in Latvia and Lithuania were against us," Roednaya said, referring to the violence in those two republics.

The Dvigatel factory is reportedly a top-secret military facility where access is restricted, but Roednaya said, "We have never worked directly for the Defense Ministry."

Koov said the Estonian government also had reports from Moscow that the Soviet army would begin a crackdown on deserters in the Baltics this weekend.

Koov said the government has received written threats from someone claiming to represent the pro-Moscow National Salvation Committee.

Polish parliament considers ban on abortion

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Parliament created a special commission Friday to consider whether abortion should be banned for the first time in 35 years and doctors performing the procedure subjected to prison terms.

The legislation, which would reverse a law enacted by Poland's Communists in 1956, was easily approved by the Senate.

But the lower house created a 46-member commission to study the controversy measure, and a 45-day period was set aside for lawmakers and political groups to gauge constituents' opinions and sample public sentiment.

The commission is equally divided between male and female members, following a last-minute debate that added a 23rd women to make the panel even. In all, there are 62 women deputies in the 460-member lower house, called the Sejm, and six among the 100 senators.

The panel, created by a 218-15 vote, is expected to complete its report by mid-April, with a Sejm vote on the legislation following by the end of the month.

For the second day Friday, dozens of pro-choice and anti-abortion protesters demonstrated on opposite sides of the street in front of the parliament.

"We opt for life, don't kill the innocent," read an anti-abortion poster, while opponents of the ban held a banner, "You can imprison people, but the problems will remain."

The abortion ban presents a ticklish and emotion-laden problem for the parliament. The legislation is backed agressively by the dominant Roman Catholic Church, which long provided support for the former opposition that now rules post-Communist Poland.

However, lawmakers are also aware of the economic difficulties, critical lack of adequate housing and shortages of contraceptives and medical care that drive Poles to consider abortions. The number of abortions is not known because many are performed by doctors working privately, but some officials have estimated half of all pregnancies are terminated.

President Lech Walesa, a fervent Catholic, has said he would sign the abortion ban into law. However, others in the now divided Solidarity movement object to the limitation on individual rights,

More than 90 percent of Poles consider themselves Catholic, but a recent opinion poll showed 55.6 percent of those questioned were in favor of abortion rights while 29.6 percent supported banning the procedure.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: For the largest monetary gains, concentrate on one objective at a time. A difference of opinion will work to your advantage in March. Count on a love relationship to grow more fulfilling as the summer progresses. Curb a tendency to daydream next August. Only hard work will bring you the success you want in September. Old friends could prove more reliable than new ones in October. Base business decisions on facts, not wishful thinking.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Paul Newman, cartoonist Jules Feiffer, hockey star Wayne Gretzky, critic Gene Siskel.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Staying at home could cramp your style or bring on the blues. Go out and splurge a little! Buying clothes for work is a good investment. Decide what image you want to project.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick to your regular activities today rather than rushing off to try something new. Romance is more rewarding than in the past. Plan a night out on the town with a kindred spirit!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Avoid contacting people at a distance during morning hours. You need to sort out your own feelings before approaching the object of your affections. Avoid making promises.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Socializing could be more expensive than you realize. Be more cost-conscious. Lounging around the house is not good for your frame of mind. Get together with an old friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Domestic issues need prompt attention. If unsure what to do, ask professionals. A candid talk will improve your standing with an influential person. Celebrate a recent victory.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep scheduled engagements; you will find yourself in the right place at the right time. Working or exercising will make your evening a stimulating one. Talk with children.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your indecisiveness is worse than usual today. Try not to worry so much. A home decorating project proves rewarding. A romantic rendezvous may be part of your plans. Protect your reputation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Travelers get a wonderful chance to mix business with pleasure. Jot down the names and addresses of people who might be helpful in the future. Call home often when on the road.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Use any extra funds to spruce up your home or entertain guests. Your friends admire your warm hospitality. Expensive food and drink is not necessary. Ask everyone to help.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A personal computer opens new horizons for someone who is disabled. Do what you can to help friends get the financial assistance they need. Fresh ideas pay off at the bank.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A disciplined and coherent approach will carry you far today. You may be amused by someone's attempt to deceive you. There is more to an offer than you imagine. Credit is available.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Wake up! Two people who seem to be strictly business may, in fact, be personally involved. Keep your options open. Financial pressures fade when you stick to a budget.

TODAY'S CHILDREN will find it difficult to alter their position once they make up their minds. Although these youngsters want to please their parents, their stubbornness will occasionally cause conflict. A good teacher-pupil relationship is extremely important to their academic success. They need to feel their instructors appreciate their efforts. An ear for languages could lead to a job as a translator later in life. These Aquarians have a strong sense of family and will expect their spouses to fit right in.

Kim Basinger finds married life more romantic than being single

NEW YORK (AP) — Screen siren Kim Basinger says she can be wild without drugs or alcohol.

Basinger

The 37-year-old actress, who steamed up the screen in "9½ Weeks," admits in the February issue of Cosmopolitan that she's done a lot of wild things, including drugs and plenty of partying.

"When I came to L.A., I said, 'I want to take everything. I want to try it all.'"

She said the debilitating effects of cocaine "made me very smart in one way. It made me know that you could never use it and get by."

Basinger skirted the issue when asked about her reported personal relationship with "The Marrying Man" co-star Alec Baldwin and past courtship with singer Prince, but said she would like to marry again.

"It's so much more romantic than being a single person," she said.

Basinger was married for eight years to makeup artist Ron Britton. They were divorced in 1989.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A federal judge dismissed a lawsuit accusing Reza Pahlavi, the son of the late Shah of Iran, of not providing for the retirement of one of his bodyguards.

U.S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. said Pahlavi, 30, knew little about how his estate's finances were managed and could not be held personally accountable for employment agreements with servants at his Great Falls home.

Pahlavi "doesn't live like thee and me," Bryan said Thursday. "He was not brought up to do these things. Whether we are envious of that way of life or troubled by it, that is his way of life."

Ali Haydar Shahbazi, 58, said Pahlavi dismissed him two years ago with a handshake and $9,000. He said that when Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi was toppled by an Islamic revolution in 1979, he abandoned more than $400,000 in property and dedicated himself to providing round-the-clock safety for the shah's heir.

Shahbazi's attorney, Mark Sableman, said Pahlavi violated Iranian tradition by failing to provide a servant for life. But a Pahlavi attorney, Thomas J. Cawley, described the lawsuit as a simple shakedown.

Pahlavi dismissed the bodyguard only because there was nothing left in the trust fund his father left him, Cawley said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brian Henson, the eldest son of late Muppets creator Jim Henson, is taking over the presidency of the television and film production company his father founded in 1958.

Brian Henson, 27, who jointly owns Jim Henson Productions Inc. with his four siblings, replaces David Lazer, who will remain a board member and active consultant, company officials said Thursday.

Jim Henson created a gallery of beloved creatures such as Kermit the Frog and Big Bird. He died May 15 of pneumonia at age 53.

Walt Disney Co. recently expressed interest in purchasing the Los Angeles-based business, but negotiations have since ended.

Brian Henson's own production credits include "The Great Muppet Caper," "Labyrinth" and "Little Shop of Horrors."

SNOWMASS VILLAGE, Colo. (AP) — Actor Michael Douglas and a business partner are selling most of their 6,500-acre Wildcat Ranch near this village down the road from the celebrity-filled Aspen ski resort.

Douglas

Douglas, the star of the films "Romancing the Stone" and "War of the Roses," and his partner, Niel Morgan, originally had hoped to subdivide the ranch into 35 lots. But Pitkin County approved only a 12-lot configuration last fall.

The owners, who bought the ranch for more than $15 million, have selected two of the lots for themselves.

"Each homesite is priced between $2 million and $5.5 million," project manager Bill Hegberg said Thursday. "By the time you get done building, you'll have $6 million to $7 million into it."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Barbara Mandrell has returned home from a hospital where she spent 12 days being treated for pneumonia, a spokeswoman said Friday.

"She is still quite weak, but was anxious to be home with her family to continue her recuperation," said spokeswoman Jeannie Ghent.

Mandrell

Mandrell, 42, who has three children, was released Thursday from Baptist Hospital.

Her autobiography, "Get to the Heart: My Story," has been a best-seller since being published last September. It dealt with her near-fatal 1984 traffic accident. Her hit records include "I Was Country When Country Wasn't Cool."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Royalty, leaders to attend funeral

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Royalty and political leaders from around the world, including Vice President Dan Quayle, will put aside worries of war-inspired terrorism to come to Oslo for the funeral of King Olav V, officials said Friday.

The Norwegian Foreign Ministry said Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Anne would also attend the funeral Wednesday.

Olav died Jan. 17 of a heart attack at age 87. He was the world's oldest reigning monarch.

Iraq and its supporters in the Persian Gulf war have called for terrorist attacks against Western interests.

Norwegian police have prepared what newspapers call "an iron ring" around the funeral procession through downtown Oslo and a service at the capital city's Lutheran cathedral.

Kjell Colding, of the Foreign Ministry, said, "Security precautions will be there but in a discreet, Norwegian manner." No details were given.

Moscow to ration vodka

MOSCOW (AP) — Officials announced Friday the Soviet capital will ration meat, grain, vodka and wine in a stark acknowledgement that they expect the local economy of nearly worthless money and empty stores to worsen this winter.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's decree taking 50- and 100-ruble notes out of circulation disrupted banks and commerce for a third day, and rumors swept the government of impending increases in state-controlled prices.

The national government said it was allowing retirees two more days, until Sunday, to exchange their large bills. But four republics said Thursday they would allowing extra time past Friday's deadline for people to turn in the large denomination notes.

The dispute appeared likely to worsen already sour relations between the Kremlin and the 15 Soviet republics, led by Boris N. Yeltsin's Russian federation. Russia said Thursday it would allow its citizens until Feb. 1 to change their money.

"The shelves of Moscow stores are just as empty as in other cities of the country," said a dispatch in the Rabochaya Tribuna newspaper, announcing increased rationing in Moscow.

"Now, after long discussions, the Moscow City Council decided to introduce coupons for meat, lard, sausage, grain, vodka and wine," said the report, which quoted council chairman Yuri Luzhkov.

Rationing will begin March 1, and the city will decide before the beginning of every month how much of each rationed item it can offer to its 9 million citizens, the report said.

Airport bomb kills one

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A car bomb exploded Friday in the parking lot of Lima's international airport, killing one person and seriously injuring at least five, an Interior Ministry spokesman said.

In a second attack 30 minutes later, leftist guerrillas fired a bazooka at the U.S. Embassy and fought a gunbattle with security personnel there, the ministry said. One shell exploded on the embassy roof, causing minor damage, the ministry said.

An embassy spokesman confirmed weapons had been fired at the building but was unable to give details of any damage.

The rebels escaped in a pickup truck, the ministry said. The bullet-riddled car was later found in an upper-class Lima neighborhood.

The ministry said propaganda found in the truck indicated the embassy attack was carried out by members of the pro-Cuban Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement. Bullet shells and one grenade were also found in the pickup.

The documents did not link the attack to the U.S. participation in the Persian Gulf war, the ministry said. The documents said "Yankees out of Peru," the ministry said.

Quake hits off Indonesia

HONG KONG (AP) — A powerful earthquake Saturday shook the Pacific Ocean off Indonesia, but there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The earthquake measured 6.1 on the Richter scale, according to the Hong Kong Observatory.

An observatory statement said the quake struck at 1:45 a.m. Hong Kong time (12:45 p.m. EST Friday). Its epicenter was under the Pacific Ocean about 120 miles northwest of Jaayapura, Indonesia.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by ground motion recorded on a seismograph.

Every increase of one number means that the ground motion is 10 times greater. A quake of magnitude 6 can cause severe damage on land, and one of magnitude 7 is capable of causing widespread and heavy damage.

Blast near airline offices

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A small homemade bomb exploded Friday near offices representing two U.S airlines, and police said the attack was meant as a protest of the American role in the Persian Gulf war. No one was reported injured.

The bomb went off in a 17-story building on the same floor as the U.S.-owned Northwest Airlines' office and a Malaysian-owned travel office representing American Airlines.

Police spokesman Fauzi Shaari said authorities found literature at the site condemning President Bush and the American people for their involvement in the war. No one claimed responsibility for the attack.

THE NO-HASSLE WAY TO BUY A CAR

National Car Rental doesn't inflate the price of their cars to over allow on trades or to give huge discounts. We believe customers prefer an up-front good price with an easy sell approach. If you fear going out and looking at cars, come here, we believe there's a neighborly approach to selling cars.

CARRIER NEEDED

"Weekly & Monthly Income"

The Midland Reporter-Telegram needs a carrier for the Washington Park area. This route has a weekly allowance as well as a monthly profit. Dependable car is a MUST. These are early morning hours (6 a.m. deadline).

Call 687-8807 for an interview
Ask for Chris Bradford

PARTTIME INCOME AVAILABLE

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several routes which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals. Now is one of the best times ever to obtain a route in your area!

Often asked questions:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 65% adult and 35% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- YOUTHS who are involved in afternoon school functions, but want to work!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

How much money can I make as a carrier?

Depending on the size of the route(s) from $200 to $600 monthly! Some motor routes make even more. Although no motor routes are expected to be available, depending on your service record, you may qualify to move up to a motor route later!

How long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the route(s). Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carriers choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 AM Monday - Friday and 7 AM on Saturday and Sunday

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!

RESERVE YOUR ROUTE NOW!
