Common Farm Products Studied for Possible Industrial Value

WASHINGTON.—Four regional research laboratories of the Department of Agriculture will soon be going full tilt to develop profitable uses for waste and surplus farm products.

Industrial utilization of farm products has become increasingly important as surpluses have persisted. Many bills, introduced in Congress, gave the Department of Agriculture the "go" signal to develop applied research in this field.

The bill finally passed stipulates that each of the four regional laboratories are to cost not more than $1,000,000. Each is to have not more than $1,000,000 annually for operation.

IN locating the laboratories, the Department of Agriculture followed natural boundaries determined by crops, where possible. In addition, they considered farm population as related to farm areas, so that in none of the four regions is there less than 7 per cent or more than 34 per cent of the population.

The regional laboratory sites are: New Orleans, La.; Wyndmoor, Pa.; Peoria, Ill.; and Albany, Calif.

These laboratories are going to work on the following commodities: cotton, sweet potatoes, and peanuts in the southern area; tobacco, apples, Irish potatoes, milk products, and vegetables in the eastern area; corn and wheat in the northern area; fruits, vegetables, Irish potatoes, wheat, and alfalfa in the western area.

The proposed research program on corn will develop new methods of making starch, glucose, motor fuels, and fermentation products. Cotton will be studied for characteristics which make it adaptable to new textiles, for the effect of new resins in chemical cellulose, cottonseed oil, and upholstery.

Alfalfa will be examined as a source of protein. Tobacco will be studied for the possibilities of developing nicotine as an insecticide.

This is a sample of what the researchers are planning to do. The program will develop as the details for specific projects are worked out.

AAA Thinks Upward Participation Trend Affirms Program's Success

WASHINGTON.—Despite grumblings and rumblings from the farmer population, the Department of Agriculture's AAA is pretty well convinced it is doing a good job.

Officials point proudly to figures which indicate that participation in the 1939 farm program will be larger than for any year since the beginning of farm programs in 1933.

It is expected that nearly 6,000,000 farm families will get AAA payments in 1939. This is about 65 per cent of all the farm families in the United States.

THE percentage looks even more impressive when it is broken down into crops. For example, the nation-wide participation will include about 92 per cent of all farmers in the cotton producing areas; 80 per cent of the farmers in the commercial corn and wheat areas; between 70 and 80 per cent of the tobacco, rice and potato growers; and 80 per cent of the commercial dairymen.

If things work out as well as AAA statisticians say they will, 80 per cent of all the farm land in the United States, and 70 per cent of all privately owned range and pasture land, will be included in this year's triple A program.

The deadline in 10 of the north central states is May 1, and by April 7, exactly 1,456,000 farmers had signed their names on the dotted line to indicate their willingness to participate in AAA contracts. This is over 65 per cent of the farmers in the region, and about 320,000 more than participated in last year's program.

Of course, there are a lot of people in Washington who are not impressed with the AAA success story. The National Grange reports the usual number of complaints from disgruntled farmers, coming from the most part from the corn producing areas.

They say that acreage allotments just won't work, and that the effect of limiting production in territory designated as commercial corn areas is to spread corn production to other sections of the country not covered in the program.

NIO new protests have been registered by the Corn Belt Liberty League but Washington spokesmen of the group say the south's cotton farmers are no happier now than when they were noisily agitating for reform of the corn program.

And until some acceptable plan has been adopted for disposal of cotton surpluses, the south's cotton farmers will continue to make their protests heard in the capital.

But AAA officials have their statistics to comfort them, and they seem willing to believe that 6,000,000 farm families who will co-operate with next year's program, can't be wrong.

Sharecropper Problem, FSA Fears, May Spread Throughout America

WASHINGTON.—Agriculture officials are concerned because farm labor is on the increase numerically, and because the differences between farm owners and farm labor presents a growing problem.

After the famous "hunger march" in southeastern Missouri, the Farm Security Administration realized that it must provide for more than two dozen of these sharecropper families or let them starve.

They are being fed through state relief authorities and through grants from the Farm Security Administration. If FSA continues to support people who won't work at prevailing wages, it will be, in effect, supporting a strike.

THE average farm laborer in the southeastern Missouri area, where the strike broke out, works only about four months a year. His wages in that period are not adequate enough to provide for him in the idle months.

By taking care of him and his family in that idle period, FSA is in effect subsidizing the landlords and their low wage scale.

These landlords are said to have forbidden their tenants to hold meetings. There are rumors that a tenant group trying to

Convention Speaker

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, above, Washington, D. C., chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and former University of Texas president, will be principal speaker at the first general assembly of the 21st annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Abilene May 15-17. The program on which the widely known public official and educator will be heard is set for Tuesday morning, May 16. The WTCC's freight rate equality campaign, which has grown into a national movement, will be one of the principal topics discussed at the three-day session. A conference on the subject will be held Monday afternoon, May 15, and organization of the WTCC-sponsored Freight Rate Equality Federation will be perfected.

A NATION OF BEGGARS

There is now every indication that the recent economy drive in congress was made of the same stuff of which all economy drives in recent years have been made—ballyhoo and buck passing.

This is a paradoxical situation. On the surface, as recorded by numerous polls and speeches, the public is all for economy. But public office holders, quick to accept the views of the public opinion, are extremely reluctant to do more than talk about it. They know that demands for economy are only "skin deep" as far as the public is concerned. Their constituents back home, polls and speeches notwithstanding, still demand "free money" for this or that "worthy civic project." Economy is all right they say, in effect, so long as the fellow in the next state or the next county bears the brunt of it.

The next time you are tempted to curse the politicians in Washington for not pulling the drawers on the public purse, just remember this: The average public official won't buck public opinion. Therefore, until the public honestly demands economy and all of us are ready to grin and bear the resultant pinch, the country will have no economy.

Civic organizations, local politicians and business men who advocate economy on one hand and on the other beg like paupers from their representatives in the nation's capital, are a shameful menace to the welfare of the country.

Feller Perfects Delivery, Steps Out Among Greatest

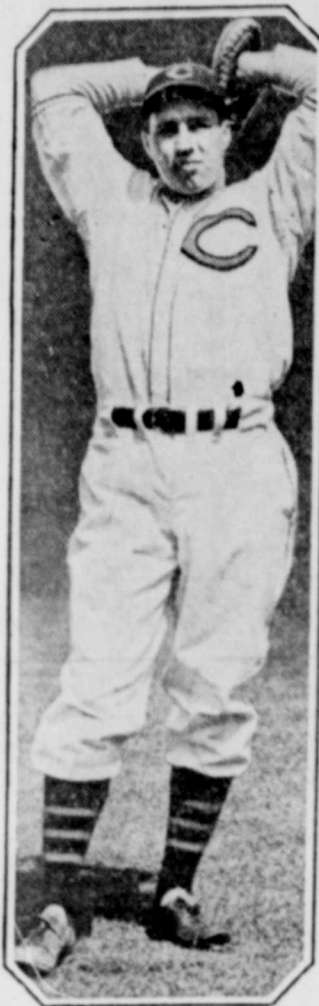

BY IRVING DIX

AT the age when many boys are still cutting campus capers, young Bob Feller is ready to take his place among the great pitchers of all time. . . . So says Del Baker, Detroit manager, of the 20-year-old Cleveland hurler whose early starts this year tend to bear this out.

Feller, according to Baker, should win 25 games this season—just like that.

Time was when Feller had only physical ability; now he has taken on the mental poise, which is just as important. The Iowa farm boy also has eliminated the faulty, jerky motion which characterized his delivery in the past. Now he works with a smoother motion that is easier on his arm, and no doubt will lengthen his active career.

Baker contends Feller is as fast as any pitcher who ever took the mound. He also believes the youngster's strikeout total this season will be even more amazing than it was last year—especially since he probably will have a couple of night games in which to work.

Bob Feller . . . a boy does a man-sized job.

"THE Life of Knute Rockne" soon will be unfolded for movie-goers by the Warner Brothers . . . who will spend a million and a half dollars to film the story of the famed Notre Dame coach.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, is one who thinks Eddie Collins, Jr., of Yale, is a real major league prospect. . . . There are 37 players in the major leagues who got their early starts in American Legion competition.

Ossie Solem, Syracuse grid coach, denies having sent movies and scouting data of the Duke team in action to Southern Cal for Rose Bowl preparation. . . . Solem brands the charges as ridiculous, and as an attempt to have the Blue Devils fired up for their game with Syracuse this fall.

ATHLETES and visitors to the 1940 Olympic Games in Helsinki won't have much night life . . . and not because of training rules or lack of something to do. . . . During the period the games will be held there are 16 hours of day-

Concurrent Resolution Directing Land Commissioner To Market State Land

Austin—Representative Max Boyer stated in Austin today that he would offer a Concurrent Resolution to direct the Land Commissioner to place upon the market for sale all lands owned by the State in Dallas and Hartley Counties.

According to Boyer, thousands of acres of land has forfeited back to the State in these counties and since the State pays no taxes, great loss is had to the schools and County government.

Miss Margaret Prewitt and Miss Dorothy Abernathy, Lubbock, visited Saturday and Sunday with Miss Betty Wilson, other friends and with Miss Prewitt's sister-in-law, Mrs. R. H. Prewitt, Grand Junction, Colo., and with Mr. and Mrs. Chick Brooks and son of Salida, Colo., who are spending ten days visiting in this community.

Tom Patton and Dean Blank visited in Denton from Friday until Sunday. Tom's mother, Mrs. G. L. Patton accompanied them to McKinley and visited with relatives.

"IT COSTS TOO MUCH"

Hardly a day goes by without seeing something we want to buy—but don't because "it costs too much."

It may be a suit of clothes or household convenience. It may be something special for dinner. Whatever it is, the belief that "it costs too much" blocks the purchase. We customarily blame the merchant.

The merchant may be at fault in some cases, but not in the majority. He sells as cheaply as he possibly can, knowing better than you that high prices do more than anything else to build up sales resistance. Believe it or not, legislation in many instances, is more directly responsible for high prices than the people who make, handle, and sell commodities.

A large number of states, for example, have passed so-called trade laws. These laws vary in detail, but all are about the same principle. They effectively block honest competition by preventing merchants from selling certain articles below a specified minimum. As a result, they place a premium on waste and inefficiency. The high cost dealer is allowed to be the bidder of price and value. And low-cost stores aren't allowed to sell the price, even though it would be a profit.

Various local surveys concerning the economic effects of these laws have been made. And in every instance, the surveys have shown that they raise the cost of living, and reduce sales. The average family spends about all it receives in income—and when prices are forced up it must buy fewer or inferior articles.

So don't blame your merchant when you think prices are too high. Most of the time he like the consumer, is a victim of price-boosting policies which are beyond his control.

Governor Upsets Boss; Seen as '40 Contender

The powerful Kansas City political machine of "Boss" Thomas J. Pendergast, left, is falling apart under the hammering of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, right.

AN apple-growing Missouri governor who learned how to fight at Annapolis has scored a knockout blow against the middlewest's most powerful political boss and today looms prominent on the 1940 horizon as a Democratic presidential possibility.

The governor is trimly built, six-foot Lloyd Crow Stark, World War hero who built a national name for "Stark's Delicious" apples, won respect in every Missouri hamlet as the man who stood behind his nursery products.

The boss is porcine Thomas Joseph Pendergast, 67, who learned his battling tactics as a bouncer in a tough West Bottoms saloon, who fought his way to power as an iron-handed ward boss and who, up to now, has headed the most amazing and far-reaching state and city political machine the middle-west has ever known.

So swift and devastating has been Stark's attack on the man who supported him for office that national Democratic party leaders are keeping their eye on him as a 1940 presidential nominee.

Governor Stark, though not known as a rabid Roosevelt supporter, is friendly with the President with whom he often talks "navy" as a White House guest.

A summary of Stark's triumphs during 28 months in office shows why national party leaders are watching him. He has:

Wrested almost complete control of the state organization from Pendergast.

Ousted R. Emmett O'Malley, Pendergast state insurance superintendent, in controversy over long-pending rate litigation.

Tossed out a proposed O'Malley settlement of the state court case which gave the lion's share of a refund to insurance companies.

Reportedly assisted the federal government in obtaining indictments against Pendergast and O'Malley, charging them with income tax evasion in connection with alleged benefits from insurance fund settlement by federal court.

Administered Pendergast a thorough thrashing in primary contest over state supreme court judgeship.

Ousted Pendergast's state liquor supervisor.

Launched special state investigation of alleged widespread corruption and vice in Kansas City, which so far has resulted in 166 indictments.

Reportedly aided federal government in uncovering alleged million-dollar narcotic ring in Kansas City, which forced resignation of Pendergast-controlled city manager and police chief.

And now Stark is driving through the legislature a bill to establish state control of the Kansas City police department.

If he succeeds, Lloyd Crow Stark may indeed find himself master of a clean-up campaign that only will catapult him to the next political scene.

Washington Sidelights

By
MARVIN JONES
Member of Congress from Texas

The farm movement will be continued. The law will be improved, mistakes will be corrected, but the movement itself, since it is based on the fundamental principle of equality, must go on.

The principle of equality was recognized by the early statesmen of every political faith. It was written into the Declaration of Independence. It was carried forward in the Constitution. It was recognized in the first report on manufactures. It is not a question of whether we shall have a farm program. It is a question of what that program shall be.

What parts of the long-range program should be kept and what parts should be discarded:

(1) We have the lowest farm interest rates that have ever prevailed in this or any other great country. The farmers of America are now paying 160 million dollars per year in interest rates than they were paying in 1932. These advantages should be retained.

(2) The freight rate provision of the present act authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to file applications for correction of the rank discriminations against agriculture in the freight rate structure of the country. This is the first tangible step that has been taken in this regard and should be retained.

(3) The present act provides for the search for new uses, new outlets and new markets for farm commodities.

(4) The provisions of section 32 make available funds for widening distribution of farm commodities and the products thereof, both in this and other countries. These funds have been used effectively in respect to a great many different farm commodities and the products thereof.

(5) The soil features provide for conserving and rebuilding of the soil. Some of the finest work that has been done in this generation has been done under the soil provision of the act. I do not see how any one can object to continuing this work.

Practically all these features have been lost sight of in the discussion of loans and marketing quotas.

Practically all these features have been lost sight of in the discussion of loans and marketing quotas.

Personally I have never favored the mandatory loan features of the act. True, the bill as it passed the House contained a loan feature, but simply a discretionary one in order that complete price collapse, such as might have happened under the tremendous cotton production of 1937, could be prevented. It had no mandatory features, either as to the making or as to the amount of the loans. These were inserted after the measure left the House.

I feel that these mandatory features should be changed. World markets are important to us, and our program for the future should be so modified as to permit our commodities to flow freely into those markets.

I feel also that, as to wheat and cotton, at least, the benefit payments should be based on the lease of a definite percentage of the tilled acreage of each farm and conditioned on soil-building crops and practices on such leased land. This would simplify the program and enable payments to be made more promptly.

The question of marketing quotas is the controversial part of the measure. Many of us hoped that these would be rarely used. They are invoked in reference to any commodity only when two-thirds of the farmers producing that commodity ask by their vote that the quotas be established. If quotas are to be used under any circumstances, I know of no wiser way than to allow the producers themselves to determine the matter.

For the current year, cotton farmers voted for quota provisions. The tobacco and rice farmers voted against quota provisions. It must be remembered that the cotton program is complicated by the six million bales overproduction of 1937. Any program, any plan that may be offered must deal with this tremendous carryover.

These quotas should be formed on a scarcity basis. We should always produce all that the market will absorb both at home and abroad.

The farm problem is the primary outgrowth of tariff and other group legislation. Had there been no tariffs, no trade barriers, no trusts, no monopolies and no group legislation, there would have been little need for special farm legislation.

But for a hundred years these interests have been fighting for and securing legislation favoring their particular groups.

Every one recognizes that, behind the tariff wall, the prices of industrial products have been greatly increased. The most ardent protectionist will not claim that the cotton farmer gets any advantages from the tariff. He is burdened with all of the disadvantages of that system.

Personally, I do not believe in the high protective tariff system. I believe in the principles of Thomas Jefferson. However, in a fight that has lasted more than a hundred years, the tariff schedules have grown higher and higher, until our economic system has become lopsided.

So long as we have a tariff system, the cotton farmer is entitled to an offset to the tariff. For this reason the benefit payments do not constitute a subsidy. They are merely restitution.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that since the adoption of the farm program there has been more discussion about removing the inequities of the high tariff system than in many generations heretofore.

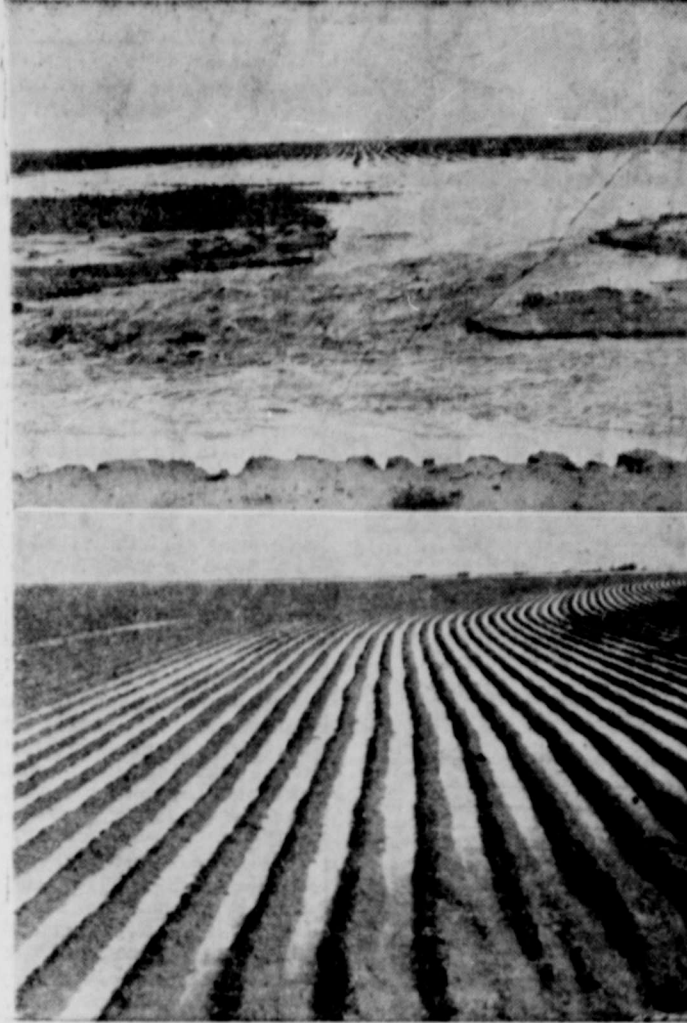

Many people make the mistake of comparing farm prices now with those which prevailed in the 20's. In those years we were lending billions to foreign countries for the purpose of sustaining a market for the products of this country. We were living in a fool's paradise while we were headed for the deluge. A man running a grocery store could do a great business so long as he financed all of his customers in the making of their purchases. But ultimately pay-day arrives.

Pay-day arrived in the fall of 1929. Comparison should be made between the prices of 1932 and prices of today. In 1937 we produced the greatest cotton crop in history. We produced the greatest wheat crop since 1915. In 1932, with a smaller cotton crop than in 1937, cotton sold at 4 and 5 cents per pound. In 1932, with a smaller wheat crop than in 1937, wheat sold at 20 cents per bushel.

I do not believe that the solution of this age-old problem can be achieved, or even materially contributed to, by extreme attacks and bitter personalities or by dogmatic statements. It certainly cannot be solved by approaching simply one phase of a many-sided problem. It involves credits, markets, freight rates, research, new uses, soil and water conservation and the disadvantages of a tariff system.

I am sure that if all those who have a simple heart interest in the Water — For Floods or Crops?

Proper control of water is necessary to prevent soil erosion and to insure successful crops, the Soil Conservation Service says. Straight rows up and down slopes (shown at top) serve as miniature drainage ditches which allow water to flow off land where it falls. This rushing water is taking a heavy load of valuable topsoil and is being lost for use in growing crops, to say nothing of adding to flood danger downstream. Contour rows (shown at bottom), strengthened by terraces where necessary, hold practically all the water on the land. This insures even crop stands, better yields, prevents soil losses and gully-ing and tends to check flood damage. This picture taken in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Run-off water not only is taking a heavy toll in soil losses, but also is robbing the Southern Great Plains of millions of dollars annually in lost crop production, according to H. H. Fennell, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service.

Water can be controlled so soil erosion and flood dangers are reduced while crop yields are being increased, or it can be permitted to run off the land, muddy with topsoil in the form of silt and leaving gulches and reduced soil fertility in its wake, Fennell says.

Texas Panhandle farmers are realizing the value of controlling water and each year more and more farms are being cultivated on the contour, strengthened by terraces where necessary. Many thousand additional acres are being planted on the contour for the first time this year, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

Experience of farmers using soil and water conservation practices shows that rows planted on the contour or around the slope instead of up and down the hill reduce the cutting force of water, prevent gullying, reduce the chances of seed being washed out of the ground, and give a more even distribution of moisture with the result that crop stands are more uniform and yields are greater.

Where fields are farmed continuously the success of the greatest of all American businesses, American agriculture, will be more tolerant and, realizing the magnitude of the problem, substitute helpful suggestions for extreme statements, much more progress will be made.

STATE AAA PREPARES FOR AN EARLY 1940 WHEAT PROGRAM: GIVE ALLOTMENTS JULY 1

College Station, Texas—An exceptionally early 1940 wheat program appeared certain this week as preparations were made at state AAA headquarters here to distribute wheat acreage allotments by July 1.

Last year the bulk of wheat allotments was not received by producers until September and October, and some were not issued as late as November, Glenn D. Scott, who supervises distribution of allotments in Texas, said.

Scott reported that county offices were to start filling out wheat work sheets May 1, and indicated that producers would sign them later, when compliance is checked. The same work sheets that are signed this year will apply through 1943, according to present arrangements.

George Hogan, state auditor of the AAA, said about a fourth of the anticipated applications for 1939 wheat price adjustment payments were in the auditing process on May 1 and that some of these checks would start going out the middle of May.

About 50,000 Texas farmers are eligible to receive wheat price adjustment payments, which are expected to approximate $3,500,000 in the state.

This rush of water down the slopes soon takes much of the rich topsoil from the hillside and reduces the productivity of the land. Furthermore, water allowed to run off a field speeds on its way downstream, often adding to damage caused by floods.

Business Condition Improving Over Nation

This map represents current business conditions as compared with a year ago. It appears in the May issue of "Nation's Business", official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The Map: Improvement over a year ago rather than currently changing business conditions is again reflected in the lightening of this month's map. The Barometer: Seasonal improvement in some key industries in March served to check abrupt decline recorded in general business activity in the first two months of 1939.

"CLEAN UP OR CLOSE UP" DRIVE PLANNED BY KANS. BEER GROUP

By ROBERT T. MCLUGGAGE
State Director of the Brewers and Kansas Beer Distributors Committee

The purposes of the Brewers & Kansas Beer Distributors Committee, which I now represent as state director, are worthy of the careful consideration and support of every citizen in Kansas interested in the maintenance of a law-abiding common-wealth.

Major among those purposes is the whole-hearted co-operation of the entire beer industry in Kansas with duly constituted law enforcement agencies to the end there may be wholly effective self-regulation within the industry.

We propose to go even further in embarking upon a policy of "cleaning up or closing up" those scattered distilleries in Kansas among the beer retail outlets or taverns whose mode of operation have outraged public decency and morals and brought criticism of the entire industry by their utter disregard for local and state ordinances and laws governing the sale and consumption of beer laws which the people of Kansas, through their representation in the legislature, have thought to be for the general public welfare.

Familiar With Regulation. We are all familiar with the regulation by law or other legalized industries. While such industries formerly were opposed to regulation and too often took "the-public-be-damned" attitude, regulation has become the settled policy with reference to the larger industries having special public interest.

During the prohibition era as county attorney for four terms, as a city attorney and as first assistant United States district attorney for nine years I have had much to do with enforcement of criminal laws.

I am wholly familiar with the evils introduced into the community and commonwealth by the gangster and bootlegger. In these positions of public trust I admit to doing my level best in making national and local prohibition effective. I would be less than candid, however, if I did not admit frankly that prohibition did not dry up the liquor traffic. It did not solve the problem. Candor also compels me to admit, as does the brewing industry itself, that other dangerous evils have sprung up during the post-prohibition era. I am now convinced and believe the great majority of the people of Kansas share the conviction with me that a well-regulated, legitimate beer industry conducted in the public interest and welfare is a most desirable improvement, socially and economically, over the wide-spread evils of an unenforceable prohibition.

Personal "Dry". My friends all over Kansas know me as a personal "dry". I am a total abstainer. For that I offer no apologies. But I have no quarrel with my neighbor and fellow citizen who indulges temperately and with a sense of his responsibilities in so doing toward family, state and nation. Our real troubles grow out of intemperance and we must reckon with the fundamental causes of intemperance whether our state and national policy be prohibition or regulation.

Beer is legal in Kansas. Regulation of the beer industry is the policy in Kansas today. I am now sure the industry appreciates the confidence the people of Kansas have placed in it or it would not have embarked in this state upon a wise policy of self-regulation in an honest effort to see to it that its business shall be conducted in the interest of public decency and morals.

Insist on Observance. Beer is the beverage of moderation and sobriety, else we would not have legalized it in our state. The beer industry more than ever before recognizes its responsibilities to society and the right of the public to be protected by it from the evils of unwise and unlawful distribution, sale and consumption. The industry has come to the wise decision that the small minority that sometimes acts as if devoid of public conscience shall cease to exist to the end that whatever dis-repute has been brought upon the industry by that minority shall be speedily dispelled.

As state director of the Brewers & Kansas Beer Distributors Committee I shall insist upon complete observance in Kansas of the laws regulating the beer industry as they concern the component parts of the industry, the brewer, the distributor and the retail outlet or tavern keeper.

The beer industry must, and I am convinced is determined to, conduct its business in the public interest. Therefore, as I see it, the industry must co-operate whole-heartedly with those agencies charged with the enforcement of the laws pertaining to industry regulation. And, finally, where regulation by law fails, the industry must endeavor by wise self-regulation to put an end to unsocial practices.

I have resolved that as state director I shall do my utmost in seeing to it that the purpose, aims, and objectives of the Brewers & Kansas Beer Distributors Committee, as I see them, are properly, faithfully and conscientiously executed in a sincere effort of attainment.

I take both credit and blame for the above letter being published in the Herald and helping to pay for it because I approve of its contents and figure that what is good for the state of Kansas is also good for Ochiltree county, Texas.

Since so many people of the county drink beer regardless of how they get it and at what price, why not legalize the getting and thereby close the shop of the law violating, grafting bootlegger. Personally, I am sincere in pronouncing it a health tonic.

Home Demonstration CLUB NEWS

MISSOURI AVE. CLUB

Mrs. H. J. Wilson, Reporter
"Personality has been defined as that which constitutes distinction of person," stated Mrs. Geo. Cooper, Program leader, as she opened the program at the meeting of the Missouri Avenue Home Demonstration club on Wednesday, April 26, 1939 in the home of Mrs. Eton Lawrence.
"One essential for a good personality is voice. A harsh, complaining or otherwise unpleasant tone can rasp to desperation while mumbling our words or articulating poorly can spoil an otherwise pleasing speech. Here we can do much to improve ourselves, for there are many excellent voices to be heard and taken as patterns. We should learn to listen to our own voices, observing their faults, and striving earnestly to correct them. Practicing daily to attain a depth and quality of tone and clearness of articulation will bring results. This, too, can be done while we are washing dishes, hoeing the garden, or doing many other routine household tasks," remarked Mrs. Eton Lawrence in further discussion of the subject of "Personality."

The budget of the year of 1939 was presented by the committee and accepted by the members. First, second, and third place awards were designated for County Exhibit, Yard Improvement, and Kitchen Improvement.
Those attending were: Guests, Mrs. Fountain Roach, Colorado Springs; Mrs. Harry Blossom and daughters, Denver, Colo.; Mrs. G. D. Holt, Mrs. J. M. North, Mrs. Will Atchison, and Mrs. Cora Lawrence. Members present: Mesdames Geo. Cooper, K. G. Plowman, Fred Huston, Earl McGarragh, J. H. Ker-shaw, C. O. Roach, and the hostess, Mrs. Eton Lawrence.

BUSY BEE H. D. CLUB WILL MEET SATURDAY

The Busy Bee 4-H Club will meet Saturday, May 6 in Mrs. Martin's office. All members please be present. Visitors are welcome.

PERRYTON CLUB

Mrs. B. B. Lee, Reporter

"Fertilize your yard with barnyard manure in the fall and plow or spade it under. In the spring, the soil will be ready to set out or plant your grass," stated Mrs. Hazel Martin, county demonstrator when she Perryton Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. J. L. Dodson on April 28.
"A sodded yard is the background for your yard planning. Some advantages of a grassy lawn are: it is more beautiful; helps keep down the dust; lessens the tracking of mud; and helps absorb the glare of the sun," were other pointers given by Mrs. Martin.

Roll call was answered with the name of a grass I like best for my yard. Bermuda grass was the favorite.
Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to Mesdames Roy Phebus, Hazel Martin, W. M. Boston, M. F. Hethcock, L. C. Boston, Roy Jeffroy, Walter Keim, D. D. Tallafiero, W. A. Cone, J. W. Herrell, J. R. Gunter, D. K. Baumann, B. B. Lee and the hostess.

PERRYTON H. D. CLUB WILL MEET MAY 12TH

The Perryton Home Demonstration Club will hold their next meeting in the home of Mrs. J. R. Gunter. The program will be on "Untying Aprin Strings" with Mrs. Ray Jeffroy as leader. The date is Friday, May 12.

Mrs. Willis Hardy, Reporter
"To have a pleasing personality, one should try to be pleasing to others," stated Mrs. Delbert Davis to the McMillen Home Demonstration Club, which met in her home Thursday, April 27.
"So if we wish to be really charming we must cultivate the habit of being kind to everyone. There is not a better place to begin this practice than in the home," further stated Mrs. Davis.

A business meeting was held after which delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames Harvey Urban, B. E. Plummer, Willis Hardy, Kenneth McLain, James Hardy, B. L. Barnes, Miss Elda Hardy and the hostess.

McMILLEN H. D. CLUB TO MEET THURSDAY, MAY 11

The McMillen Home Demonstration Club will hold their next meeting in the home of Mrs. B. L. Barnes on Thursday, May 11 at 2 p. m. Visitors are welcome.

MISSOURI AVE. H. D. CLUB MEET WEDNESDAY, MAY 10

The Missouri Avenue Home Demonstration Club will meet Wednesday, May 10, 1939, at 2:00 p. m. in the home of Mrs. E. W. Witt. Plans for a model kitchen and suggested improvements for members' kitchens will be given by Mrs. Hazel Martin, County Home Demonstration Agent. Visitors are welcome.

CARD OF THANKS

The sympathy, kind messages, food brought to the home, beautiful floral offerings, loan of cars, sweet music and the many, many deeds of kindness have been a beautiful experience in the midst of our sorrow and has very greatly helped us through these hard days.
Mrs. Lora Littleton, family and relatives.

E. E. Barnett and his mother-in-law, Mrs. I. N. Pennington, drove to Ponca City, Okla., Thursday to take Mr. Barnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Barnett, who have been visiting here the past month.

Farmers May Obtain FSA Loans For Soil Building

Farmers unable to participate in the 1939 AAA soil conservation program because of lack of funds for material to carry out soil building practices are reminded that they may obtain Farm Security Administration loans for this purpose through the local AAA Committee.
This announcement was made today by Arthur R. Turner, FSA's rehabilitation Supervisor in Ochiltree County with offices in the City Hall at Booker, Texas.

"The entire amount of the loan must be used for practices to comply with approved soil building practices," Mr. Turner said. "Amounts up to 60 per cent of the approximate AAA payment to be earned by the farmer can be loaned. The loans will be secured by an assignment of the AAA benefit payment."

Mr. Turner said that in order to be eligible for these FSA loans, an applicant must be recommended by the AAA county committee, and unable to secure necessary credit elsewhere.

This policy is in line with the FSA's program of making loans only to farmers unable to secure financial aid from other sources.

All applications for loans must be made at the Ochiltree county AAA office in Perryton.

According to the eligibility requirements outlined by Mr. Turner, loans to cooperate in the AAA program will be made only to farmers who meet the following qualifications:

(1) Farmers who without such a loan would be unable to participate in the AAA program; (2) Farmers whom the county AAA committee recommended from the standpoint of character and integrity; (3) Farmers who have not executed and agree not to execute an assignment of their payment other than to the Farm Security Administration.

Additional information may be obtained from the local AAA committee or at the FSA office.

The Harvestors Get the Grain Clean

The 2 HARVESTOR JR. models (6-foot and 8-foot) are exactly the same in principle as the famous 12-foot "G" HARVESTOR which has been the leading seller of all combines of its size since 1934 and still is. The 6 and 8-foot sizes have all the advantages of the original HARVESTOR over previous combines for getting, threshing, separating, and cleaning all the crop and at a low cost. They perform efficiently in soybeans and all grain including flax and maize. In direct comparison with the 12-foot HARVESTOR, the Junior models both have at least the capacity of a 9-foot cut machine—to assure the best possible job for all combining conditions and crops—that is the length of the separating and cleaning mechanism of the 12, 8, and 6-foot HARVESTORS is the same. The widths of the cylinder, straw racks and cleaning shoe of the 6 and 8-foot HARVESTORS are only one-quarter less than those of the 12-foot HARVESTOR.

The new 2-3 plow "VISIONLINED Z" sets a new standard with its many new and exclusive features.

Observed at Shower

The home of Mrs. Murphy of the Bako community was the scene of much enjoyment Friday afternoon when she and Mrs. Earnest Allen were hostesses to a shower given in honor of Mrs. Raymond Jackson.

Those present were Mrs. Emma Humphrey, Mrs. Sherman Entler, Mrs. I. M. Whittaker, Mrs. Jim Smith, Mrs. Alma Pugh, Mrs. Nell Smith, Mrs. Carl Whittaker, Mrs. Zimmerman, Mrs. Elmer Powell, Mrs. Morehead, Mrs. A. M. Black, Mrs. Elna Zimmerman, Mrs. J. W. Caylor, Mrs. J. O. Renfrow, and Mrs. J. W. Renfrow.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were received. Ice cream and wafers were served at the close of the pleasant afternoon.

Senior Social

Members of the Hustler class of the Methodist Sunday School enjoyed a steak fry on the Flowers field south of town, Tuesday evening.

The group included Rev. and Mrs. P. E. Yarborough, Messrs. and Mesdames Roger A. Burgess, K. H. Platt, W. H. Lance and daughters, Rufus Blackjack, Clarence Neufeld, Chas. E. Lester, Lester Baumann, Julian Thompson of Rockport, Floyd Baltimore, Mrs. Addison Cutter and Marjorie, Mrs. Leroy Hartman and son, Mrs. Grace Spencer and O. A. Hartman.

Junior Sorosis

A lovely evening was spent Wednesday by the members of the Junior Sorosis and their sponsors at the Jines Springs. Weiners and marshmallows were roasted. After everyone had eaten all they could, a business session was held.

Those enjoying the evening were Helen Tallman, June Phelps, Virginia Currell, Frankie Shugart, Opa Payne, Jean Pinkerton, Lois Jones, Cinnie Fay Garrison, Gladys Gammel, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shawwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hernandez and Billy.

J. C. Knowles was agreeably surprised Monday when a group of friends gathered in his home to help him celebrate his birthday. The evening was spent playing forty-two and cards. Refreshments of cake and cocoa were served at a late hour.

Something Fishy Here—Smelt

Here's plenty fishy here—not the decisive pinning Speedy Franks of Fort Worth, Tex., is giving Max Johnson of Kingston, Wis., but the two tons of smelt tossed into Marinette, Wis., ring added zest to city's annual smelt carnival. Franks won four-cornered match.

Twins Celebrate

A. E. Pittman of Gray was very pleasantly surprised Sunday morning when two brothers and other relatives arrived to help him and his twin brother, A. E. Pittman of Beaver, celebrate their birthday anniversary.

Those present to enjoy the bountiful dinner at noon were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pittman, Waynoka; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Pittman and two sons of May; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pittman and baby, Gray; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pittman, Jr. and baby of Beaver; Mr. and Mrs. Eril Pittman and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Pittman of Morse, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Koehn, Perryton; Mr. and Mrs. C. GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Mary Francis Calhoun, Scribe

The Girl Scouts met at the First Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by Leader Mrs. W. H. Lance and the group sang a song. The group was assigned to their patrols.

Duty and Done Patrol

The patrol met and transacted business and practiced a skill. Mac Yarborough was a visitor. One member was absent. The official song of the Girl Scouts was copied and practiced.

White Rose Patrol

The patrol transacted business and sang a song to open the meeting. A chapter was read on "First Aid." The patrol practiced formations and adjourned.

6th Grade Patrol

The patrol met and transacted current business. A chapter was read on "First Aid." The badges that the patrol is working on were discussed. The court of honor composed of Margaret Jean Orrill, Billie Paye Bell, Ruth Neufeld, who are patrol leaders met after the regular patrol meetings. The court of honor was glad to have Mrs. H. L. LANDMARK MAP FOR FAIR VISITORS

The above landmark map of Manhattan shows principal points of interest, automotive, subway and railway routes to the New York World's Fair, and the locations of nine great Y.M.C.A. centers which are offering Fair visitors the most complete service the organization has ever made available to visitors to any fair or exposition anywhere in the world.

Spread out over Manhattan for the use of visitors to the New York World's Fair will be eight great Y.M.C.A. buildings with a ninth, a specially constructed service building in the very heart of the Fair grounds, all cooperating to offer the most complete non-commercial service ever attempted by the Y.M.C.A. Each of the buildings involved will be near at least one automotive route and one subway line going directly to the Fair. They are shown on the above map as: (1) William Sloan House, 356 West 34th St., the headquarters of the Y.M.C.A. World's Fair Service and the clearing house for all visitors who use the organization's facilities; (2) Seamen's House, 550 West 20th St., especially designed to care for seamen; (3) Twenty-Third Street, 215 West 23rd St., historic Branch of the Y.M.C.A. and a fine community center; (4) Bowers, 8 East 3rd St., the credit-relief center of the organization; (5) Grand Central Railroad, 224 East 47th St., especially designed for railroad men; (6) West Side, 5 West 63rd St., the most complete group of Y.M.C.A. units in the world; (7) Harlem, 180 West 135th St., special building for Negroes; (8) Bronx Union, 470 East 161st St., the only Y.M.C.A. in the Bronx; and (9) the Y.M.C.A. Building at the Fair, located less than two blocks from the Trylon and Perisphere and just 60 yards from the Statue of George Washington. It was erected at a cost of $150,000 to give visitors a place where they can find rest, relaxation and refreshment in a non-commercial, Christian atmosphere.

Scientists to Alpine

Spencer Whippo Appears on Program At Annual Association Meeting Held Alpine May 1-8

In observance of the dedication of the $1,000,000 McDonald observatory at Mount Locke on May 5, the Southwestern division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science is holding its 19th annual meeting all this week at Alpine.

The observatory is a joint enterprise of the University of Texas and the University of Chicago. As its principal instrument, it has an 80 inch reflecting telescope, second largest of its kind in the world.

Science students consider it quite an honor to be allowed to take a part in the program of the association as foremost educators and scientists from all parts of the world are in attendance. Spencer P. Whippo, who is a graduate student doing special research work at Texas Tech, will give a paper on "The Comparison of Biological and Chemical Tests for Availability of Soil Nutrients in Some High Plains Soils."

STATE COMMANDER AND PRESIDENT OF LEGION HONOR GUESTS AT MEETING ON MAY 6-7

Childress, Texas — State Commander of the American Legion and State President of the American Legion Auxiliary will be honor guests when Legionnaires and their ladies of the Panhandle gather in Childress Saturday and Sunday, May 6-7, for the annual spring convention of the 18th district.

Vincent Chialdo, Houston, Department Commander of the Legion, will head the visiting Legion officials, while Mrs. William A. Wyatt of San Marcos, Auxiliary Department President, is the most prominent of the women visitors.

Registration of delegates will start at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and the program will get underway shortly after noon. Featured on the Legion program will be the 40 and 8 "week" Saturday afternoon, a meeting of post commanders with the district commander Sunday morning and a business session Sunday afternoon.

A school of instruction, conducted by Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. John Deaver of Memphis District, President, scheduled for Saturday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 and a dinner honoring Mrs. Wyatt Saturday evening are the high spots on the program for the auxiliary. Joint entertainment plans call for two dances Saturday night. The two organizations will also gather at the auditorium Sunday at noon for a barbecue buffet luncheon.

Among state and national officials accepting invitations to attend are Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, National Executive Committee; Ed Reidel, Fifth District Commander; Fred Parnell, 17th District Commander; Victor Nobles, 13th District Commander; Caroline Wilcox of Amarillo, Historian; Tom Ward of

Attend State Meet

Teams of Vocational Ag Boys Compete in State Contests at College Station

The two judging teams of the Vocational Ag Classes of the Perryton high school, who had done the most interesting work during the year, were privileged to attend the annual judging contests at College Station, Texas, on May 2. Approximately 2,500 boys are present.

The Perryton teams consisted of Andy W. H. Barker and John Dransgrove for livestock; Arnie Price, Henry Lee and Joe Williams for poultry. C. H. Williams, vocational instructor, accompanied the boys.

Mr. Williams stated that there were 100 poultry teams and 100 livestock teams entered, and that the teams were placed. He was well pleased with the showing made by Perryton boys.

In addition to the meeting at College Station, Mr. Williams and the boys visited the State penitentiary at Huntsville, and saw two state battleships. The battleships were in port at Houston and the battleship Indiana was at the Galveston harbor.

Mr. Williams, contractor, fell last week while working on a job at Perryton and received a broken rib and other injuries. He was taken to Perryton Hospital for treatment.

Miss Todd, who has enrolled in the A. & M. College, Okla., for the summer, spent the week-end in Perryton.

Mr. Flowers and daughter, who left Thursday for Waco, will visit two weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flowers, and other relatives. Mr. Flowers is a childless.

DUMAS HOLDING TWO DAY RODEO

RODEO AND OLD SETTLER'S REUNION IS BILLED FOR FRIDAY - SATURDAY MAY 26-27

Dumas, May 1.—(Special)—A town wide committee is feverishly working here on plans for an outstanding Dumas Rodeo and Old Settler's Reunion to be held here May 26-27. Spectators are promised mile-long, colorful parades, a two day program of rodeo events featuring the performance of top cowhand stars of the west and southwest. Square and round dances and an attractive card of other events will insure real entertainment for visitors.

Cash prizes are offered in many divisions for best visiting bands, chuck wagons or ranch outfits, etc. Best visiting band will receive $25.00. Second, $15.00, and third best band $10.00.

First, second and third parade floats will draw the same scale of pay. There will be a cash prize for best dressed cowboy and best dressed cowgirl. Strong cash prizes await rodeo contestants who win in the arena. Best Ranch outfit draws $10.00, and second $5.00.

Big delegations will be in Dumas from Amarillo, Dalhart, Guymon and many other Panhandle cities. The big parade will exhibit the most colorful pageant of the "Old West" ever seen in this section.

Four years of tradition lies behind the Dumas Celebration. Last year's contestants in Dumas won top money in the leading rodeos of the southwest and at Cheyenne Round-up. This year's show will feature the toughest class of cattle and horses that ever made life miserable for rodeo fans.

The big parade will offer a preview of the famous Dalhart XIT outfit, as well as the chuck wagons, pack trains, etc. of some of the most famous ranches in Texas. Yearly Dumas has become the gathering place for thousands who enjoy the hazardous feats of the arena. Everything possible is being done to prepare for the comfort and entertainment of the out-of-town guests. The big parade gets underway at 11 a. m. Friday, May 26. The Rodeo proper starts at 2 p. m. Friday, May 26 and Saturday, May 27. Booster trips will be made over the territory and an attractive show awaits the towns to be visited by the Dumas delegation.

Roy Sanford, a medical student at Oklahoma City, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance Woodward, visited from Thursday until Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woodward. They were enroute to Amarillo after a weeks wedding trip. Dorrance will complete his business course at Fleming Business college in a few weeks.

Marion Day, who has been ill with pneumonia at the Perryton hospital, was able to return to her home in the Huntoon community, Friday.

Mrs. B. H. Murphy left Tuesday for Guthrie, Okla., for a visit with her brother, Charles Ward and family. While away she will also spend a few days with her mother, Mrs. Laura Ward, Topeka, Kans.

Boyer Appointed

To Investigate Prison System in Texas as Member of A House Committee

Austin—Representative Max Boyer, Perryton, was appointed recently by Speaker Emmett Morse as a member of a House Committee to investigate the Texas Prison System. Boyer, together with other members of the committee will go to Huntsville to make a full probe of the present management of the System. Charges have been made that many conditions exist that denote lack of efficiency in the supervision of the various portions of the organization for the incarceration of the State's criminals.

The committee will inquire into every phase of the personnel of the present management and will make a full report back to the Legislature of its findings.

Boyer, who is Chairman of the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, has made a complete study of matters relating to enforcement of criminal laws and rehabilitation of convicts, is intent upon a full investigation to determine what steps should be taken to assure an efficient and economical administration of the Prison System.

Traffic Safety Program Launched

WASHINGTON—A new "Safety With Light" program, designed to abate night driving traffic hazards on America's "fatal" streets has been announced by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce through its President, Philip C. Ebeling. America's fatal streets are the main traffic thoroughfares which comprise but 10% of the total city street mileage but upon which occur more than 50% of all night traffic fatalities.

The first copy of the "Safety With Light" Manual was presented to President Roosevelt through his secretary, Stephen J. Early, by Mark S. Matthews, Vice-President of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Manual will now be distributed to the 500 member organizations of the Junior Chamber and the approximately 1,100 Senior Chambers of Commerce in the nation.

According to Mr. Matthews, the new manual is an outgrowth of a report of the National Resources Committee, appointed by the President in 1937, in which it was stated that at least 35% of all night traffic deaths could be prevented by provision of modern, adequate street illumination. Other surveys have shown that night illumination in most cities is less than one half the minimum required for safety.

"Until antiquated lighting facilities on most of our city streets are corrected and modernized, the ever increasing rate of urban night fatalities will continue," said Kenneth L. Dally, Chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. "This program, probably the most complete of its kind ever set up, is designed to point the way to correct these conditions. And it makes available, without charge, all material, including booklets, folders, car cards, films, etc., to our member organizations."

As a result of the manual, several hundred Senior Chambers of Commerce are expected to carry on local "Safety With Light" campaigns within the next two or three years, according to Mr. Ebeling, who added:

"The conditions of inadequate visibility might be accepted if the result were not inevitably the same—death; and if provision of adequate illumination in this modern day were not available, entirely practical, and so essential that to neglect or be without it is sheer negligence."

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Caradine, Spearman, spent Sunday visiting with relatives in Perryton.

Mrs. Dolly Taylor and daughter, Micky, Miss Betty Jones and Paul Niwander, all of Lamar, Colo., and Miss Juanita Campbell, Canadian, were guests for the week-end with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. B. H. Murphy and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams spent Monday visiting in the Elmer Harryman home north of Perryton.

Gasoline Tax May Be Used For Lateral County Roads

Austin, Texas—Restoration of the counties as a prime factor in the development of highways in Texas is once again assuming major importance in legislative discussions in Austin.

A plan has recently been offered by a group of county judges as a substitute for a bill introduced early in the session known as the "County bond assumption plan" under which the State of Texas would assume the payment of principal and two per cent of the interest on bonds, warrants and other evidences of indebtedness owned by counties and road districts for road purposes.

The substitute plan, explains Charles E. Simons in an article on "Let's Build for a Great Texas" in the April issue of Texas Parade would bring the counties again to the front as an important unit in developing highway transportation facilities, particularly in the construction of the main secondary roads.

"The County bond assumption plan" proposes that the excess from the one cent of the gasoline tax originally diverted to payment of bonds on state highways be used to pay off debts incurred by counties and road districts in the construction of roads of a purely local nature," writes Mr. Simons. "The compromise plan, offered by a group of county judges dissatisfied with this proposal, would earmark the excess income from this fund for the benefit of the counties for lateral road construction.

"One of the chief arguments advanced against the bond assumption plan is that it is inequitable as between the counties. The contention has been made, and it has found strong support in legislative circles, that the counties would benefit under the scheme, according to the amount of debts the counties had been able to amass over the past several years. Take, for example, the case of Hidalgo County as compared to Coryell or Hamilton Counties. Hidalgo County is the most heavily bonded county in the State. Under the bond assumption plan, the State would assume the payment of the principal and two per cent of the interest of obligations of Hidalgo County amounting to the stupendous sum of $13,483,042. On the basis of the amount of money in gasoline taxes the registered motorists of Hidalgo County would pay into the fund over the period required to retire the debt, Hidalgo County would have shown a clear profit of $13,794,314. It also should be borne in mind that in 1932 the State assumed the payment of $3,930,002 in Hidalgo County obligations that had been issued to aid in constructing state highways.

"Now let us look at the case of Hamilton and Coryell Counties. Neither of these counties owe any bonds for local road construction. Neither of these counties owed any bonds in 1932 that had been issued for State highway purposes and therefore, they did not participate one thin dime in the benefits of the assumption by the State of these obligations. Over the period required to retire the local bonds of Hidalgo and other Counties, Hamilton County motorists would pay into the common bond retirement fund a total of $604,494 for which the County would have received nothing. Coryell County would pay $715,929 and receive nothing in return.

"As opposed to the plan for State assumption of all the local road debts, regardless of the manner in which they were expended or the benefits received by the traveling public, two other proposals have been offered.

"One would return the excess income from the one cent gasoline tax to the highway fund to be used in new construction to complete and rebuild the main highways of Texas as designated by the Texas Highway Commission. Much can be said in support of this plan.

"The other plan suggested is that devised by a group of county judges who felt that the excess income from this one cent of the gasoline tax should be returned to the counties for new construction of lateral roads. Over the life of the indebtedness assumed by the State in 1932, the excess income above the amount needed for retirement of the debt on State highways from this one cent of the gasoline tax totals $244,000,000. The question the Legislature has been called on to decide is whether this $244,000,000 should be used to pay off the old obligations on old worn out roads or should be returned for highway construction, either by the State Highway Department or by the counties.

"If the Legislature decides that the money should be returned to the counties for lateral road construction so badly needed in most of the counties of the State, then the plan offered by the county judges who are opposed to the bond assumption scheme has much merit. In the first place, the funds would be distributed among the counties on as fair and equitable a basis as can be devised. It is proposed in this bill to allocate the excess income on three factors: population of the county, the area of the county and the mileage of the county's lateral roads. This, incidentally, is the same basis used by the Federal Government in distributing federal highway aid among the respective states. Thus Hamilton County, instead of being penalized $604,494 under the bond assumption scheme would receive $793,000 for new construction. Coryell County, which would be penalized $715,929 under the plan to dump the local

INTERNATIONAL Sunday School Lesson

Paul's Fight Against Odds

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 7.
Text: Acts 18:1, 4-11; 1 Corinthians 2:1-5

WHEREVER he went, Paul followed much the same method of preaching. He would attend the synagogue, presenting to those of his own religion and race what he conceived to be the fulfillment of the religious teaching of the Old Testament prophets in the coming of Jesus, the Messiah, and in the Gospel concerning His life, death and resurrection. Apparently Greeks or Gentiles were in the synagogue as well, and were interested in Paul and in his teachings.

It throws considerable light upon the progressive nature of Jewish culture and religion that the synagogue should have been to such an extent a place of open meeting and discussion.

It seems to have been in some respects a sort of forum of religion, and this fact should not be lost sight of in recognizing that many of the Jews showed the hostile attitude toward Paul and his teaching that has been common on the part of religious people in every age and country toward those who have seemed to be setting up new teaching.

In religious circles particularly, where opinions are decided and convictions strong, the attitude of hostility to anyone who seems to be an innovator or to be departing from commonly accepted conceptions of truth is so widely prevalent as to be almost normal.

THE thing that is really worthy of comment is that, in spite of all this, both synagogues and churches—regardless of all their narrowness—have after all been the chief places of promulgating religious truth.

Paul found the opposition of some of the Jews so strong that he turned to the Gentiles and made the chief center of his propaganda the house of Titus Justus, whose house was adjacent to the synagogue.

The inference would be that, though Titus Justus was a devout man who worshipped God, he was a Gentile who had accepted the Jewish teaching concerning the one God. But Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, was among those who accepted Paul's preaching, and with many other Corinthians, he was baptized.

Paul seems to have been in the midst of a great deal of ferment in spite of the encouragement he received, because by night there came a vision to him, giving him strength and urging him that he should not be afraid.

THE result was that Paul spent one of the longest periods of his whole missionary journeys in the city of Corinth, staying at that time for a whole year and six months, presumably following his occupation as a tent-maker while teaching the word of God. It is interesting, in the light of Paul's experiences in Corinth and his long stay there, to read Paul's letters to the Corinthians—the longest two of his Epistles.

The portion of the Epistle attached to this lesson brings very vividly before us Paul's recollection of his time spent in Corinth and the spirit in which he had carried on his ministry there. The church at Corinth had eminent and fluent speakers, like Apollos, and in contrast with these, Paul, who was evidently not so fluent, felt his weakness.

It is strange to find a man who seems so bold and courageous in matters of faith admitting that he was with the Corinthians "in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling." It throws an interesting light upon what great faith and strong convictions can do to overcome natural weakness and hesitation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, on Sunday, May 7. The Golden Text is: "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" (1 Corinthians 15:22).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Through thy precepts I get understanding; therefore I have every false way" (Psalms 119:89, 104).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is the family name for all ideas. All the sons and daughters of God. All that God imparts moves in accord with Him, reflecting goodness and power" (page 518).

Improved auger type all-steel header conveyor sucks light material back from the sickle and effectively handles heavy, short and lodged grain. Cutter bar range varies from shaving the ground to 32 inches above ground. Oversized auger shafts on anti-friction bearings and a special ball thrust bearing.

BIG CAPACITY CYLINDER --- Thorough Threshing

Rasped, bar type cylinder extends full width of machine (32 in.) Rasps mounted independently on the cylinder bars are readily replaced or adjusted, if required. Bars mounted on ball bearings, fully enclosed.

The cylinder traveling at a high speed knocks grain or seed from heads or pods and acting against a series of parallel bars and concaves rubs out clinging kernels or seed. Rubbing action adjusted from outside the machine. Conclave assembly machined to fit cylinder.

POSITIVE EVEN FEEDING ---

Special discharge end of auger working with two wing beater avoids clogging and spreads grain evenly over armor slatted feed rake. Star wheel beater draws grain towards cylinder, combs out bunches, controls tail weeds or trash and assures even feeding.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wells and daughter, Mary Beth, visited Mr. Wells' mother who lives near Gruver.

Gene Waide celebrated his birthday at the schoolhouse Friday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:00. Mrs. Waide and R. E. and Grandmother Waide arrived about 2:30 with a large birthday cake with seven candles on it. After playing a number of games, cake and collards were served, and every one wished Gene many more happy birthdays.

Liberty in America

Liberty is a precious thing for which men, throughout the ages, have risked and given their lives. But liberty without food in the stomach or a coat on the back is not a pleasant possession. Liberty in America is liberty to speak, vote and worship as one desires. It is liberty to seek and create opportunities.

Let us think of the unfortunate "slaves" in foreign countries. In Germany, with Hitler ruling, people can buy only what he permits them to buy. The poor peasants of Italy are revolting against the stale grey bread Mussolini feeds them.

In America, we can buy clothing, food, and luxuries to our hearts desire plus the opportunity to earn what spending money we need.

Our chief and most out-standing enemy is that we don't realize just how lucky we are! The Iraan Broadcaster.

TEN MINUTE CHAPEL

During ten minute chapel a pantomime entitled "The Detective Finds a Clue" was given. Characters were: The Detective, Felix Shuman; the murdered man, Jimmy Denman; and the reading was done by Gloria Cantrell.

THE SNOOPER

Doc Patton and Finley Hammon seem to like green '39 cars.

Chester Bartel was kinda lonesome Friday night, I think!

Willie Rae, do you and your sis ever get sleepy?

Pete, haven't you learned yet, to catch a baseball with your hands?

Jackie Adams must surely like Booker, so it seemed Sunday.

Lila, says some people do think of the most ignorant things! Who are they?

Where, oh, where was "Blondie" Sunday?

Lecha says h-b doesn't stand for half-back! That's funny.

Are "Shorty" Frank and Neil still existing? I haven't heard much from them!

Spagel, isn't red a pretty color?

pressed laws which benefit the few at the expense of the many.

Significant of the attitude toward the Fair Trade is the fact that Roger Busfield of the Texas State Radio Network was compelled to call off plans for a discussion of the law on the net-work's regular Sunday legislative open forum. Although Busfield found many eager to oppose the law, he could not find any spokesman willing to support so-called Fair Trade, even though the measure passed the House 115-18 and is known to have 19 inch votes if it ever comes up in the Senate.

The other part of the price-fixing lobby's program, the Anti Discrimination law, was still in the House and with the session nearing an end it was given small chance to be enacted. This is the vicious "cost plus" arrangement styled after the price-fixing plan of the old NRA and if enacted would immediately raise the cost of staple groceries such as flour, sugar, bacon and dried beans more than $6,000,000 annually.

If the Senate filibuster fails to prevent passage of the Fair Trade, the price-fixing law can expect a cool reception in the governor's office. O'Daniel chose as the theme of his San Jacinto Day address, always one of the most important on a Texas governor's calendar, a blast against "class legislation" and group

COURT SETTLES LAND QUESTION

SUPREME COURT RULES IN FAVOR OF LAND OWNERS ON OKLA.-TEXAS STRIP CONTROVERSY

Final settlement of the long disputed "no man's land" that lies just east of Higgins and extends from the northeastern corner of Lipscomb County south to Red River has at last been made. A decision by the Supreme Court of Texas on Wednesday, February 8, ruled that prior right to the land should go to the original owners, after rejecting a mandamus proceeding that was instituted by Gus Wortham of Houston.

Wortham contended that his father, John L. Wortham, had declared the land a vacancy between surveys, and that he had a prior right to purchase the land for a dollar an acre from the state land commissioner, after the United States Supreme Court ruled that the latest survey had specifically established the 100th meridian. But the court refused to grant the mandamus, and ruled in favor of land owners, after E. C. Gray, local attorney, had filed a claim for Chas. Williams, who had 389 acres in the disputed tract. Mr. Gray also had some of the land under dispute.

The latest survey of the 100th meridian from Red River north to the thirty-sixth parallel began at a point about 4700 feet east of the original survey that set the boundary in 1860. At the northeast corner of Lipscomb County, the distance was 880 feet. There was something like 2000 acres involved in Lipscomb County.

A controversy over this land has caused many people of this section to worry in years past. Mr. Gray, who has been a resident of this section for over fifty years, recalls that in 1876, the Darling line was established as the line between Texas and Oklahoma. Mr. Darling made this survey from the South Canadian River to the northeast corner of Lipscomb County after he failed to find the original survey markers of the Jones, Brown and Clark survey of 1859. The Darling line served as markers for many years until it was found to be wrong, but not until Wortham filed his claim was there ever any great interest taken in the matter.

At one time Oklahoma offered to pay Texas $200,000 if the boundary would be set by the old survey. This offer was rejected by the Texas Legislature, and when the United States Supreme Court finally set the new boundary, all litigation was stopped, with the exception of the Wortham mandamus order.

Here's Doughnut Capacity Champ

"This beats goldfish swallowing," thinks 15-year-old Leonard Hanstein, Oklahoma City high school student, whose elastic-like mouth can take care of four doughnuts at once. He's shown starting on the feat with a luscious looking "sinker."

Now that the owners have been given a preference toward the purchase of the land from Texas, Mr. Gray is of the opinion that the State will at some later date give all owners a chance to clear their titles. As the situation now stands, the land is owned by the state and will continue as such until a survey of every tract is made or the right to have each separate tract surveyed is given by the state. But the owners have no need of worrying about further litigation with individuals about the matter, as the Supreme Court has settled that.—The Higgins News.

Tony Martin (left) is dynamite as a cowboy fighter, Gloria Stuart is gorgeous as his girl manager, and you can bet on Papa Gambini (Henry Armetta, right) and Slim Summerville for laughs in 20th Century-Fox's "Winner Take All," showing at the Ellis Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 9-10.

Welding an Aviation Career

With a burning desire to enter aviation, 19-year-old Rae Rambeau of Los Angeles topped class of 25 men in art of acetylene welding, which she demonstrates above. Knowing odds against feminine entry into flying, she took up welding as first step in 10-year plan to make her an aeronautical engineer.

Home Town Fires Dewey 1940 Boom

The "Dewey-for-President" boom is under way in New York racket-buster's home town, Owosso, Mich. Leaders in movement are, left to right: Dr. A. L. Arnold, Sr., physician at Dewey's birth; Don R. Mitchell and Democratic Mayor John N. Axford.

"Lucky Night" Has Grandest Team of the Current Season

A scintillating new comedy team is coming to the Ellis Theatre, Sunday and Monday, in "Lucky Night," in which Myrna Loy and Robert Taylor make their first appearance together before the camera.

It was a lucky thought on the part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to take the romantic Taylor and team him with the joyous and irrepressible Miss Loy. Taylor demonstrates a flair for comedy as authentic and virile as he has displayed in drama. Miss Loy is even more beautiful and stunning than we have seen her in previous pictures, for the producers have been lavish with their budget in gowning her.

Interweaving moving heart throbs with uproarious laughter, the story unfolds the accidental meeting and later marital careers of Cora Jordan and Bill Overton. Cora, the spoiled daughter of a millionaire steel magnate, walks out on her fourth engagement to hunt for a job. Bill is a playboy down on his luck. Following an accidental meeting on a park bench, they gamble, frolic and fight their way to fortune, get married, quarrel over the family budget, separate and come together again after a series of mad-as-march-hare complications as hilarious as they are novel.

With an excellent cast of fun-makers in support of the stars, and a production richly mounted and taking in all the high and handsome spots of New York night life, "Lucky Night" was superbly directed by the Academy Award winner, Norman Taurog.

"Dark Victory"

Bette Davis and George Brent Star in Dramatic Smash Hit Of the Year

If real-life criminals got as big a thrill out of a chance to "go straight" as film killers do at the opportunity to reform, the country would have no crime problem, police forces could be disbanded, prisons closed, and the taxpayers would save a lot of money.

The authority for that statement is Humphrey Bogart, who should know what he's talking about, for he is one of the prize criminals of the screen and recently he enjoyed the rare thrill of playing a comparatively sympathetic role in "Dark Victory," starring Bette Davis which will show at the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, May 11-12.

"I doubt if any actor really enjoys playing a vicious killer," Bogart said. "I know I don't, and I have played about as many of them as any man in pictures. Gangster roles have done all right by me, it's true, and I have no cause to complain."

"Nevertheless I'm delighted to be playing a sympathetic role in 'Dark Victory,' even though I lose Bette Davis to George Brent."

"This is my first sympathetic part since 'Crime School' and one of the very few I've had."

"My current reformation won't last. I'll be at odds with the law again. But if Warner Bros. would let me, I'd go straight from now on. I wouldn't even have to be placed on probation."

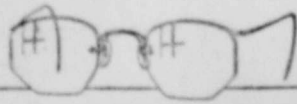

"Cisco Kid"

Warner Baxter Dons Again The Sombroso and Silver Mounted Guns in New Film

Warner Baxter dons again the sombrero and silver-mounted guns of his most famous character in the 20th Century-Fox production, "The Return of the Cisco Kid," showing at the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, May 4-5.

O. Henry's gay, lovable outlaw rides back over the border again looking for trouble (and love), while a hundred posers hunt him and a thousand senoritas sigh for him. Lovely Lynn Bari plays the feminine lead and others prominently cast are Cesar Romero, Henry Hull, Kane Richmond, C. Henry Gordon and Robert Barral. Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck chose Herbert I. Leeds to direct from a screen play by Milton Sperling. Kenneth Macgowan was associate producer.

Eyewear Design hits a new "HIGH" in NUMONT FUL-VUE Tri-Flex

Women will appreciate the ultra-modern and inconspicuousness of this completely new eyewear style. Radical construction features eliminate endpieces on lenses, reduce breakage. Temples are attached directly to the bridge, through gracefully curved, gold-filled arcs hidden behind the lenses. On the face, Numont Ful-Vue Tri-Flex combines the appearance features of the eyeglass with the protection of frames and lensless mountings. Live no show you these modern glasses today.

Billy Halop is Hailed By Critics For Portrayal of Johnny Stone in New Film

Billy "Dead End" Halop is being hailed by critics as a younger and combined edition of Paul Muni, Edward G. Robinson, Jimmy Cagney and Spencer Tracy as a result of his gripping performance in his first individual starring production—Warner Bros. "You Can't Get Away With Murder" showing at the Ellis Theatre, Saturday, May 6.

A Hollywood preview audience was held spellbound by the youngster's amazing acting as the youthful convict in the exciting story of prison life based on Warren Lewis E. Lawler's original. Critics found much in his work to remind them of four of the screen's outstanding dramatic actors, and coast paper reviews hailed the youthful Halop as most promising youth of the year.

Halop is featured in the film which stars Humphrey Bogart, and together the two combine to make one of the outstanding screen contributions of the year.

MEADOWS LOOKS FOR 15-FOOT POLE VAULT WITHIN A YEAR

BY IRVING DIX

ROUNDING up the loose ends: Earle Meadows, former Southern California star and Olympic champion predicts the world pole vault record will reach 15 feet within a year . . .

says that all that's needed is a hot day, good runway, and plenty of competition . . . and lists among the latter George Varoff, Connie Warmerdam, Loring Day—and himself. Earle holds the current world mark of 14 feet 11 inches.

Leonard Dodson, Springfield, Mo., pro, helped pay his way around the winter golf circuit by making and winning freak bets . . . such as wagering he could break 77 while making every shot on one leg. . . . University of Miami spring footballers found a unique way to develop timing on forward passes. . . . The tossers stood knee-deep in water and heaved to receivers who leaped from 12-foot diving boards and tried to make connections with the ball in mid-air.

BY the time he graduates from Minnesota this June, Johnny Kundla, Gopher basketball and baseball star, estimates he will have traveled 28,000 miles with athletic teams. . . . Guy Peterson, 17-year-old Danish lad from Mt. Lebanon, Pa., is being hailed as another Johnny Woodruff. . . . did the 440 in 50-flat when only 16 years old.

Pie Traynor, manager of the Pirates, goes on record as stating the spring training season is too long. . . . says it has a bad effect on little fellows who should conserve as much strength as possible for the long championship season. . . . George Washington University in Washington, D. C., is said to be seeking a spot in the Southern Conference. . . . COURT SETTLES LAND QUESTION

Final settlement of the long disputed "no man's land" that lies just east of Higgins and extends from the northeastern corner of Lipscomb County south to Red River has at last been made. A decision by the Supreme Court of Texas on Wednesday, February 8, ruled that prior right to the land should go to the original owners, after rejecting a mandamus proceeding that was instituted by Gus Wortham of Houston.

Wortham contended that his father, John L. Wortham, had declared the land a vacancy between surveys, and that he had a prior right to purchase the land for a dollar an acre from the state land commissioner, after the United States Supreme Court ruled that the latest survey had specifically established the 100th meridian. But the court refused to grant the mandamus, and ruled in favor of land owners, after E. C. Gray, local attorney, had filed a claim for Chas. Williams, who had 389 acres in the disputed tract. Mr. Gray also had some of the land under dispute.

The latest survey of the 100th meridian from Red River north to the thirty-six thirty parallel began at a point about 4700 feet east of the original survey that set the boundary in 1860. At the northeast corner of Lipscomb County, the distance was 880 feet. There was something like 2000 acres involved in Lipscomb County.

A controversy over this land has caused many people of this section to worry in years past. Mr. Gray.

Here's Doughnut Capacity Champ

"This beats goldfish swallowing," thinks 15-year-old Leonard Hanstein, Oklahoma City high school student, whose elastic-like mouth can take care of four doughnuts at once. He's shown starting on the feat with a luscious looking "sinker."

Now that the owners have been given a preference toward the purchase of the land from Texas, Mr. Gray is of the opinion that the State will at some later date give all owners a chance to clear their titles. As the situation now stands, the land is owned by the state and will continue as such until a survey of every tract is made or the right to have each separate tract surveyed is given by the state. But the owners have no need of worrying about further litigation with individuals about the matter, as the Supreme Court has settled that—The Higgins News.

But the court refused to grant the mandamus, and ruled in favor of land owners, after E. C. Gray, local attorney, had filed a claim for Chas. Williams, who had 389 acres in the disputed tract. Mr. Gray also had some of the land under dispute.

The latest survey of the 100th meridian from Red River north to the thirty-six thirty parallel began at a point about 4700 feet east of the original survey that set the boundary in 1860. At the northeast corner of Lipscomb County, the distance was 880 feet. There was something like 2000 acres involved in Lipscomb County.

A controversy over this land has caused many people of this section to worry in years past. Mr. Gray.

Wortham contended that his father, John L. Wortham, had declared the land a vacancy between surveys, and that he had a prior right to purchase the land for a dollar an acre from the state land commissioner, after the United States Supreme Court ruled that the latest survey had specifically established the 100th meridian. But the court refused to grant the mandamus, and ruled in favor of land owners, after E. C. Gray, local attorney, had filed a claim for Chas. Williams, who had 389 acres in the disputed tract. Mr. Gray also had some of the land under dispute.

SERVICES ARE HELD MONDAY

LAST RITES FOR ED LITTLETON ARE SPOKEN AT BAPTIST CHURCH; BURIAL IS AT OCHILTREE

The Baptist Church was filled to capacity and many were unable to enter Monday afternoon as friends and relatives gathered to pay their last respects to Col. Ed Littleton. Rev. S. R. McClung, Baptist pastor, and W. C. Bryan were in charge of the services which began at 2:30 o'clock.

A mixed choir of eighteen voices sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "Pearly White City" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Mrs. A. P. McCelvey Jr. was at the piano.

Interment was in the Ochiltree Cemetery. Pall bearers were O. T. Leatherman, Wm. Van Guilder, Ernest Ogger, Dave Shanks, Creed Walker and A. H. Nichols. Honorary pall bearers were W. E. McMillen, Jim Sims, R. H. Gamel, H. W. Hagan, Jim Yaden and J. R. Thomas. The floral offerings were carried by Miss Beth Richardson, Mrs. Fred Nies, Mrs. Crawford Sims, Miss Helen Buckland, Mrs. Henry Richardson, Mrs. Miles Edwards, Miss Helen Mannen and Mrs. Jake LeMaster.

OBITUARY

Edwin, son of J. C. and Mary Littleton was born May 11, 1878, in Knox County, Mo., and departed this life April 29, 1939, Perryton, Texas, at the age of 60 years, 11 months and 18 days.

He grew to manhood in Missouri and on September 6, 1896, was united in marriage to Miss Lora Pendergast at Queen City, Mo. They spent a few years in eastern Oklahoma before coming to the Beaver County Strip and filing on a homestead just across the Ochiltree County line in 1907. The family moved to Perryton when the town opened in 1919.

To this union were born five children; one dying in infancy; others are Mrs. Paul Corbin, Onas Littleton, Mrs. Charles Helton, Perryton and Mrs. Garland Cartwright, Borger.

Other survivors are three brothers, Carl and Alvin of Sulphur, Okla. and Claud of Conway; five sisters, Mrs. Tom Simmons, Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. Vada Fullbright, Van Nuys, Calif., Mrs. D. B. Pribble and Mrs. H. L. Harris, Tonkawa, Okla. and Mrs. Sam Burkhardt, Perryton; eight grandchildren and a host of other relatives.

Mr. Littleton was widely known as a trader and farmer-stockman, having served this territory in the capacity of auctioneer for many years, and being closely connected with the Perryton Sales Pavilion. He has been a member of the City Council and at various times has been on special police duty.

change of venue. No mention of bond was made at the arraignment, so unless bond is allowed and made, Wilson will remain in jail. He has retained Judge R. T. Correll of this city to represent him.

Joe Johnston, a bystander, was hit in the shoulder by a stray bullet. His wound was not dangerous. According to officers and witnesses present at the time of the shooting, there were at least 40 people in the pool hall at the time of the killing. Wilson, so the witnesses told officers, walked up to Littleton. "Are you ready to meet me," Wilson asked. Littleton made no reply. Wilson whipped out two revolvers and started shooting. Many people in the pool hall did not realize that they were pistol shots, thinking that somebody had fired a bunch of firecrackers.

Littleton, who was playing pool at the time of the shooting, stepped around the corner of the table and fell dead. Three bullets hit him in the chest, one going to the heart. Witnesses estimate that at least eight shots were fired.

Officers state that there had been previous trouble between Wilson and Littleton. While serving as a special officer several months ago, Littleton arrested Wilson on a drunkenness charge, the officers stated. As a result of this arrest, officers said that Wilson felt that he had been arrested without cause and was unfriendly toward Littleton.

Shasta Dam Is Expected to Solve Five Problems

SHASTA DAM, a mighty barrier being built across the Sacramento river in northern California, will be completed in five years.

It is designed to solve five great problems.

First: It is expected to provide a new supply of power for irrigation and industry.

Second: It will furnish fresh water to regions where the original supply is exhausted or rapidly decreasing.

Third: It will regulate flow of the Sacramento river to prevent salt water from seeping into fertile regions.

Fourth: It will decrease Sacramento river floods, an annual hazard to farmers of the area.

Fifth: It will facilitate navigation on the river, which already ranks high in volume of traffic.

The second largest dam in the world, Shasta will be 560 feet high, 3500 feet long, and will contain 5,600,000 cubic yards of concrete. Its cost is estimated at $170,000,000—but water sales alone should return this entire investment within a 40-year period.

Water, roaring over its spillway, will form the highest man-made waterfall on the globe, tripling the height of Niagara. The water will tumble 430 feet to develop 515,000 horsepower from huge generators.

The power output—approximately a billion and a half kilowatt hours a year—will be transmitted 200 miles to Antioch, Calif., the power load center.

Most of the power will be used for pumping water through the Sacramento and San Joaquin irrigation systems.

Surplus will be sold in the central and northern part of the state.

When the sun melts snow on the slopes of the Sierra mountains, swelling adjoining rivers, waters of the Shasta reservoir will back up 35 miles into rugged Sacramento canyon. Enough winter flood waters will be stored to insure a steady flow into the Sacramento river during the dry season, solving an irrigation puzzle which has plagued the valley for 75 years.

During recent drought eras, as the river has fallen in depth, salt water has flowed from San Francisco Bay into the delta lands of both the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, endangering 450,000 acres of California's richest farm lands.

Steady flow of the natural streams will safeguard the supply of fresh water.

The Sacramento will be opened up all the way to Red Bluff, Calif., and will be a much more practical transportation route than ever before.

To the 12-company syndicate constructing the dam, the sum of $35,939,450 has been allotted. Another $65,000,000 will purchase materials, clear the reservoir site, install the generators. The rest of the money will be spent on the auxiliary Fyrent Dam, on various canals, and on irrigation pumping systems.

Ruby Delong Mathews

Director of the home management supervisors for the Farm Security Administration in West Texas is Ruby Delong Mathews, formerly of San Angelo, now in the regional offices in Amarillo. Under her direction, twenty-four women working with 1,500 families in the area have perceptibly raised the standards of the farming communities, for instance: 255,825 quarts of vegetables canned, 122,849 pounds of vegetables stored, 91,509 quarts of fruit stored, 1,376 record books kept in perfect order, 1,335,179 chickens raised.

election. The officers of the board will be elected at the first board meeting.

The Perryton Equity is one of the most successful farmer-owned organizations in the United States. Due to the able management of J. H. Woodward and his co-workers, a 24 per cent dividend is being paid on the $100,000 paid-in capital stock.

In addition to the $24,000 dividend to stockholders, a considerable amount was added to surplus and permanent improvements from last year's profits.

This concern owns and operates grain elevators at Perryton, Twichell, Huntoon, Lord, Parnsworth and Waka. At the headquarters in this city, a retail outlet for the sale of feed, seeds and coal is maintained. Coal is also sold at Parnsworth, Waka and Huntoon.

John Lawson, Tucson, Ariz., was visiting friends here Wednesday, enroute to Beaver, Okla. Mr. Lawson lived at old Ochiltree years ago and was one of the founders of the town of Huntoon, and will be remembered by many.

Pampa Entertains Meet

Sorosis Choral Chorus Placed First At 18th District Convention Of Federated Clubs

Representatives of women's clubs of 49 Panhandle counties gathered in Pampa Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week for the eighteenth annual convention of the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. J. M. Rutherford, district president, presided.

One of the interesting features of the Tuesday program was music by the club choruses. In this division the Perryton singers placed first and Panhandle, second. They won a silver loving cup which they will retain for nine months. It will be on display at the Hurn Dry Goods store.

Those attending the convention from Perryton were Mesdames W. B. LaMaster, A. P. Spicer, A. J. Kelly, Roy Orrill, Roger A. Burgess, A. H. Nichols and the chorus, which included: Mesdames R. P. Hurn, K. H. McGibbon, Carl Ellis, T. V. Elzey, R. L. Duke, H. C. Sanford, Glen Shrader, W. C. Herndon, L. T. Tucker, O. A. Bush, W. E. Foglesong, Bernard Leslie, George Cutter, Paul Bowen, H. C. Brillhart, O. A. Schuster, Charley Kent, Dewey Allen, W. L. Herndon, Howard Holt and Jack Allen.

LOCAL CLAIMS PLACED FCIC

FOUR TOTAL LOSSES REPORTED IN THIS COUNTY WITH PAYMENTS TO BE RECEIVED SOON

At the present time there has been only four complete failures reported in Ochiltree county on farms covered by Federal Crop Insurance. Those reporting failures are George F. Lindsey, 725 acres; B. R. Pletcher, 71 acres; S. F. Waide, 91 acres; and G. B. Meares, 175 acres. Damage on these four farms was due to worms.

These farmers were allowed to plow their land in preparation for summer fallowing and a slight reduction was made in some cases to allow for the number of acres remaining that were not ruined.

Losses to be paid on these farms amount to 7817 bushels or an average of 74 bushels per acre. These payments are expected to arrive this week.

Several partial losses have been reported and have been plowed, however, unless more of the wheat is destroyed, no payments will be made until after harvest on the partial losses.

With adjustment of insured 1939 wheat crop losses barely underway, field representatives of the FCIC and the AAA have already begun to lay the groundwork of a streamlined insurance program for 1940.

Average yields will be worked out for every wheat farm in the state and each producer will be notified exactly how many bushels per acre he may insure his wheat crop, for, and the number of bushels he will be required to pay as a premium for the insurance.

State legislatures, for all their corruption, sent better men, on the average, to the Senate than the people have done directly. But the public will have to regain more confidence in its legislatures than it yet has before it will restore this responsibility to them.—The Saturday Evening Post.

R. B. Fairly, president and general manager of the Southwest Associated Telephone Co. met with the city council Tuesday evening and presented to the council their proposal to rebuild the Perryton telephone system changing it over from the present ancient "hand crank" system to a modern central energy plant.

In all, the telephone company expects to spend $20,000 in Perryton, a part of this expansion fund going for the erection of a new telephone exchange building. In exchange for this great improvement program, the company feels that they are entitled to a slight increase in rates.

The council took no action on the proposal of the Southwest Associated to spend $20,000 in Perryton, deciding it would be best to interview business men and patrons before taking any action. The expansion program has already had the okay of the directors of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Fairly says that Perryton is one of the largest towns in the United States to have a magneto system and that many, many smaller towns now have and have had for years the central energy type of plant. He says that they will send out questionnaires to all patrons in order to find out what the majority want.

Shirley Moran has accepted a position with the Lilly Service Station.

Walter LaMaster Named President Of Community Service Club Last Saturday

Walter LaMaster, Perryton, was elected president of the Community Service Club, sponsored by The American Legion, at the regular weekly election Saturday afternoon, April 29, and received the $75.00 president's salary for serving during this week.

Mr. LaMaster received the regular $25.00 salary in addition to the salary offered the past two weeks, which was not claimed because the persons elected were ineligible to take office, members must have their current week's dues paid.

The salary for next week will be $25.00. Pay your ten cent dues and be eligible to serve if elected. Proceeds are being used to help in needy families.

MEASURE LAND BY AERIAL MAP

MAPS AND PLANIMETER USED TO MEASURE THE FARMS IN AAA PROGRAM IS CHEAPER

College Station, Texas—More Texas farmers are going to participate in the AAA farm program this year than ever before, according to reports here from AAA field workers who have been gathering factual data from prospective cooperators and who have commenced to check compliance with the 1939 program.

Ralph Price, field man at large, estimated approximately 85 per cent of all Texas farm and ranch families will receive benefit payments for the contribution to the conservation of agricultural resources in 1939.

Approximately 95 per cent of all farm land and about 90 per cent of all active range land in the state will be in the Agricultural Conservation Program of the AAA this year, he said.

There are about 3 million fields of all grades and sizes in the state, and each one must be measured and classified before the 1939 payment process can begin. To avoid delay and confusion, producers are urged to be present at the measuring, so they can catch mistakes and be certain they are corrected before the program progresses too far.

Measuring farms has begun in South Texas and in other early planting sections of the state. The work is being sped through the use of aerial photographs now covering approximately seven-tenths of the state. About 370,000 farms have been photographed from the air, and such maps will be used this year in 178 counties.

A small gadget called a planimeter which does arithmetic in its head, is used to measure the photographed farms. A county AAA worker can run the point of this little instrument around the picture of a cotton patch as it appears on the aerial map, and the planimeter will record the size of the plot to a tenth of an acre. It's three times as fast and a third as expensive as running a surveyor's chain around a field.
