During his visit here for the Western Texas College National Forum, Mayor William D. Schaefer of Baltimore met one individual whom he confessed that he envied—Rep. Renal B. Rosson.

When advised that Rosson was retiring voluntarily from the state legislature after serving there 16 years, Schaefer said, "That has always been one of my ambitions—to serve in the legislature."

Then he revealed that he had twice been a candidate for the Maryland legislature, but was defeated both times.

While discussing Baltimore's industry, Mayor Schaefer noted that his city was more diversified than most, especially those like Detroit which depends heavily upon the automobile manufacturers for payrolls.

But automobiles represent a significant segment of the economy nearly anywhere you go, regardless of whether there are plants near by. For example, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association says that motor vehicles mean enough jobs in Texas to support a city four times larger than the combined metropolitan areas of Corpus Christi, Dallas-Fort Worth and Lubbock. Auto manufacturers in the state employ 9,400 workers, new car and truck dealers employ 51,100 persons, while dealers in automotive products including gasoline account for nearly 22 per cent of all retail trade in the state.

A lot of unpleasant talk has come out of Washington as possible ways of curbing inflation have been discussed, and apparently most citizens, including politicians, agree now that some agonizing and sacrificing must take place before the nation's economy can return to normal, whatever that is.

But the ugliest word of all, at least to the so-called middle-income, or middle-class American is "Surtax." That word usually is synonymous with "the shaft" for the middle-income taxpayer, who incidentally bears most of the tax load.

The Texas Tech football team is going to collect its additional television rewards this Saturday for its victory over the University of Texas on Sept. 28. The Tech-A&M game has been picked for nation-wide viewing on the tube, according to announcement early this week by the network. Tech had been slated for regional television in its game the past weekend with Oklahoma State prior to its victory over Texas. Following the triumph over the Longhorns, the network substituted another game, reasoning that somewhere down the line there would be a more attractive opponent for the team that toppled Darrell Royal's brigade. And the Aggies are it, despite the fact that they were derailed by Kansas last Saturday.

At last word, however, the network still had not decided when it wanted the Raiders and Aggies to kickoff. But it will be sometime Saturday afternoon.—WACIL McNAIR.

City Seeks More Street Work Via Urban Program

The Snyder City Council last night adopted a resolution formally requesting the Texas Highway Department to include two street projects here in the 1975 Urban System Program.

Getting top priority will be a proposed new link from Southwest Snyder to College Avenue in the vicinity of Cogdell Center. To be known as Houston Parkway, it would be an extension of the present south terminus of Houston Avenue along a southeasterly course south of Bassridge Addition to College Avenue. Houston Avenue now ends at Forty-fifth Street at the southwest corner of Towle Memorial Park.

The No. 2 priority project also would involve a segment of Houston Avenue, the unopened portion from Thirty-second Street to Twenty-fifth Street (Lamesa Highway). These projects had high priority on the city's master plan completed several months ago.

Snyder already has two Urban System Program projects approved by the state—widening of Roundtop Road from Cogdell Center to Western Texas College, and improvements to Thirty-seventh Street from Austin Avenue to College Avenue.

The council also authorized City Manager George Patterson to meet with the county commissioners court and request a resolution asking the Texas Highway Department to develop the south extension of Avenue E from Thirty-seventh Street to FM Road 2763, which would take Avenue E south to Western Texas College.

In other business, the council approved on second reading an ordinance adopting the Southern Standard Building Code, with some specified exceptions.

The council voted to install school symbol signs at Thirty-second Street and Avenue I after hearing reports from Mr. and Mrs. Willie Thompson concerning excessive speeding in that area. They had requested stop signs at the intersection there. The city engineer recommended that the school symbol signs be tried and that police give special attention to checking traffic speeds in that area.

A 90-day permit for use of butane gas was granted Virdie O. Patrick. He had requested a waiver of the city's requirement that mobile homes there be connected to natural gas lines, since natural gas service is not currently available on his lots in Bootheland West Addition. The 90-day permit was approved when it was learned that plans are being made to extend gas lines closer to Patrick's property and that he possibly will be able to get service within a few weeks.

Four members of the city 's board of electrical examiners were reappointed to two-year terms. They are Bill Mapes, Tommy Pherigo, Jimmy Hardy and Frank Beights, whose current terms expire on Nov. 7.

The council voted to accept a billboard on South College Avenue from Bell-Seale Funeral Home, which had offered it to the city without charge. It will be used for a welcome sign.

Mayor W.A. Vestal was appointed to serve as Snyder's member of the board of directors of the West Central Texas Council of Governments. Councilman Joe Sentell, the Snyder representative on the WCTCOG board for eh past two years had asked to be replaced.

The council accepted the bid of Mal Donelson Chevrolet for three cars, a one-tone truck for the water and sewer department and a pickup truck for the animal control warden. Donelson's net bid on the police cars was $11,490.95, which was higher than Wilson Motors' bid net bid of $11,195.50. However, all three bidders submitted exceptions to specifications and the only deviation in the Donelson bid was the position for mounting spotlights on the

Senate Cuts Off Turkish Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defying a veto threat, the Senate passed today a money bill suspending military aid to Turkey.

The 62-16 vote cleared the item for President Ford's desk.

The President Tuesday called the Turkey aid cutoff reckless and misguided and said it would reduce U.S. influence in seeking settlement of the Greek-Turkish dispute in Cyprus.

Language in the continuing resolution, adopted Monday by the House, cuts off funds for further military aid to Turkey until the President certifies that Turkey is in compliance with U.S. foreign aid laws and that "substantial progress toward agreement has been made regarding military forces in Cyprus."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said it is obvious Turkey cannot be complying with laws limiting the use of foreign aid military equipment to defensive purposes "until it agrees to remove its forces from the island of Cyprus."

Turkey sent 40,000 troops to Cyprus in the aftermath of the July coup that ousted Archbishop Makarios as president.

The continuing resolution provides operating authority for foreign aid. The previous stopgap spending authority expired Sept. 30.

Tax Proposal Rests With Constituents

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional approval of President Ford's proposed tax surcharge will depend on what constituents tell their congressmen in the next few weeks, the administration was warned today.

The warning came as Treasury Secretary William E. Simon took the administration's case to the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Ford proposed the surcharge, generally affecting family incomes over $15,000 and individual incomes over $7,500, in his economic message Tuesday.

He offered it as part of a broad plan also including appeals for belt-tightening on energy and proposals for broadened unemployment compensation, actions to stimulate food production and to encourage investment.

The committee's senior Republican member, Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli of Pennsylvania told Simon:

"I think the fate of the surtax rests on the American public and what they tell us when we go home."

Congress is scheduled to begin a month's recess Friday.

Schneebeli was questioned on how many persons would be affected by the proposed surtax and how the revenues it raises would be used to assist business.

One ingredient in Ford's economic prescription is an increase in the investment credit which businesses may take on capital put into new productive faciliities. There were estimates that more than $2 billion of the approximately $5 billion raised by the tax program would be offset by the increased credit.

Simon said the Treasury estimates 28 per cent of the tax paying public would be hit by the surtax.

Those affected might number about 23 million, he said. This figure was challenged by Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, who said that counting all family members the figure of 23 million is "on its face unbelievable."

"This would affect the lifestyle, buying power and ability to fight inflation of 60 million people," Vanik said.

"I am aware that any proposal for new taxes just four weeks before a national election is — to put it mildly — considered politically unwise ...," Ford said Tuesday at a natinally televised and broadcast joint session of the House and Senate.

"But I do say in all sincerity I will not play politics with America's future ... This is the acid test of our joint determination to whip inflation."

Appealing over the heads of the lawmakers in the floodlit House chamber, he asked his nationwide audience to "grow more, waste less ... drive less, heat less ... share with others."

Congressional leaders moved fast on two measures Ford targeted for immediate action: a resolution to hold spending at $300 billion, $5 billion under earlier estimates, and legislation he said would clear the way for the government to pour $3 billion into the ailing home market, enough for 100,000 homes, by buying conventional as well as government-insured mortgages.

Congressmen Blast Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen have indicated little support for President Ford's call on middle-income families to foot most of the bill for the fight against inflation.

Although there was general praise for other Ford initiatives for relieving the depressed housing industry and spurring business investment, many Democrats and some Republicans were critical of the President's proposed 5 per cent surtax on family incomes above $15,000.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the President's economic package is "a move in the right direction," but is not comprehensive enough. He said he wished it had included wage and price controls and standby gasoline rationing.

Mansfield said he would support the 5 per cent surtax proposal but hopes that the starting point can be raised to incomes of $20,000 or $25,000 for families and $15,000 for individuals.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott suggested the surtax take effect above the $20,000 level; Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York suggested $25,000. House Speaker Carl Albert urged a staggered surtax; Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., ruled out the tax entirely until every effort is made to cut federal spending.

In an address to a joint session of Congress Tuesday, Ford outlined the inflation-fighting proposals that he said will require sacrifice by all Americans.

At the center of what the President called his grand design was the suggested 5 per cent levy on taxes paid on family incomes above $15,000 a year, on individual incomes above $7,500, and on corporations.

The special tax on individuals would bring in an estimated $2.6 billion of the $4.7 billion necessary to pay for public-service jobs when the national unemployment rate exceeds 6 per cent and for other anti-inflation programs.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., pledged support for the surtax.

Other congressmen said they cannot justify further taxation of middle-income families until loopholes that allow the wealthy and the major oil companies to avoid their fair share of taxes are closed.

Business leaders applauded Ford's proposals. "We congratulate the President on his broad program to win the fight against inflation," said Richard C. Gerstenberg, board chairman of General Motors Corp.

Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. said, "The President's program appears to me to be a comprehensive start in a unified attack on the most serious problem facing the United States and all the nations of the world right now."

"It sounds like a vigorous, well thought out program," said Donald T. Regan, chairman of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., the nation's largest brokerage house.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., called the tax proposal "outrageous." Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., termed it a "rip-off." House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., viewed it as "extremely unfair."

A UNITED WAY AGENCY

Camp Sweeney Has Aided Diabetics For 25 Years

(People helping people. That is what the United Way is all about. During this time when many people have become disenchanted with the complex and sometimes impersonal ways of society, the United Way stands out as a direct and effective means for supporting worthwhile close-to-home activities. Young and oil alike benefit through the Scurry County United Way. This series of articles is planned to help explain the services given by the organizations and agencies which share in the United Way fund.)

Living with diabetes is no easy thing to do, but it can be done.

For the past 25 years, the Camp Sweeney Diabetic Training Center and the Southwestern Diabetic Foundation at Gainesville, Tex., have been helping diabetics from six through 16 years of age learn to live with their diabetes. More than 5,000 young diabetics have received training which can enable them to lead near-normal lives.

About 300 youngsters go to Camp Sweeney each summer. They enjoy such camping activities as swimming, instruction, crafts, hiking and horseback riding. Group activities are designed to help develop good sportsmanship.

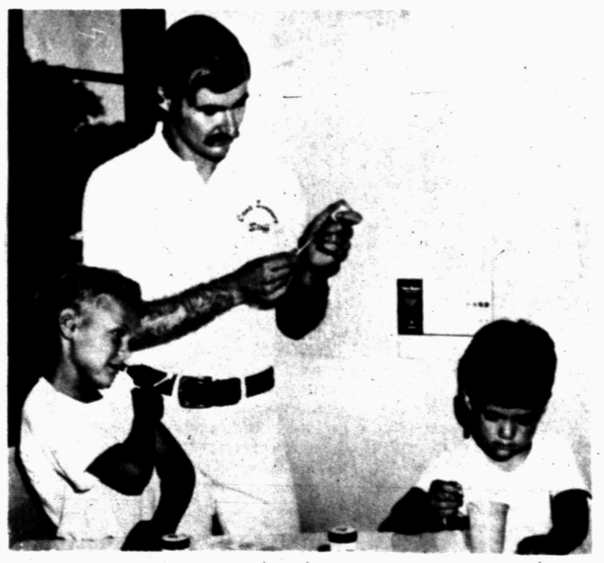

But there are some activities not found at other summer camps, such as classes to discuss the medical aspects of diabetes and to teach youngsters the importance of learning how to manage their diets. The campers receive instruction in measuring and injecting insulin, testing urine for sugar, food values and exchange methods.

There are medical seminars which include the history and causes of diabetes, possible complications, treatment and new research discoveries.

Some 20 or more Junior Counselors are employed each summer at Camp Sweeney. They are all former diabetic campers who can share with the young campers a personal knowledge of the problems and special needs of the diabetic.

It is a point of pride with the camp's directors that no child has ever been turned away

Two contestants finished in a draw for the prize money in last week's Snyder Daily News Football Contest.

Bill J. Hood, 3001 Thirty-fourth Street, and David Dolliver, 115 Peach Street, missed only five selections each to tie for top honors. They will divide the first and second place prize money for the week.

Another contest begins today and the list of games may be found in sponsors' advertisements on the football contest page of this issue of The Snyder Daily News.

Give bully an out-of-school lesson

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: If someone tries to pick a fight with you at school and you have done everything you can to avoid a fight, but that person starts pushing you around, and you have to use force to defend yourself, do you think it's fair that the person who was trying to defend himself should get punished just the same as the troublemaker?

What is a person supposed to do when he is picked on by someone who is trying to get him into a fight? I am not going to just stand there and let him push me around. Fighting is against the rules on our schoolgrounds.

UNFAIRLY PUNISHED

DEAR UN: When someone tries to provoke a fight by pushing you around, instead of pushing HIM around, report him to the authorities.

This may sound like the chicken's way out, but it's the only way to protect yourself from the punishment of breaking the "no fighting" rules at your school. (P.S. You might consider taking some lessons in self defense, and give that bully a surprise lesson in case he ever tries to push you around OFF the schoolgrounds.)

DEAR ABBY: I read about that mother who never wanted children but she accidentally had two anyway. She said not all women were cut out to be mothers, and she was one of them.

She may be interested in my story: My husband and I always wanted a large family. Ten months after we were married I gave birth to a healthy baby boy. We couldn't wait to have more.

Twelve miscarriages later, I had another son. He was born dead.

A year later, I gave birth to another son.

Eighteen months later, a third son was born, but we soon discovered that our second and third sons were both severely deaf.

They needed special education. After thousands of dollars worth of tutoring and much hard work, our two deaf sons are now able to talk nearly as well as our normal son.

I wanted children desperately, and their being handicapped doesn't make us love them any less. Some handicaps can be overcome.

I hope that mother realizes that in her refusal to love her children she is handicapped. And I hope she overcomes her handicap before it handicaps her unloved children.

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR LUCKY: Your children are lucky, too. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the young mother who had the courage to admit that she felt "stuck" with her two kids who were both accidents.

I have one child, but she wasn't an accident. I really wanted a child, but I soon realized that I wasn't cut out to be a mother. I have never abused my child, but I am positive that I do not want another one.

Now if my in-laws and friends would just leave me alone, and quit telling me how "wrong" it is to raise only one child, I would appreciate it.

And if this letter is printed, I hope my husband's family in New Jersey reads it and sees the light. Thank you.

ONE IS BEAUTIFUL IN N.Y.

DEAR ONE: Leave nothing so important to chance. Clip this column and mail it to them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. IN MINNEAPOLIS: Tell your husband that you'll lose ten pounds if he'll lose 20. I can't think of a better way to have a closer relationship.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Two Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden, author of a famed study on the American Negro, and Friedrich von Hayek of Austria today were awarded the 1974 Nobel Prize for Economics.

The 75-year-old Myrdal wrote "An American Dilemma — the Negro Problem and Modern Democracy" published in 1944, which stirred controversy. Liberals praised the book as the first probing analysis of the American racial problem. Others accused him of fomenting racial unrest.

Myrdal also wrote "Asian Drama — An Inquiry into the Poverty of Nations," published in 1968, in which he questioned the relevance of Western-style democracy to the problems of Asia.

He has recently been doing research in the United States.

The Vienna-born Hayek, also 75, was professor of social science at the University of Chicago from 1950 to 1962.

His books include "Prices and Production" in 1931, "The Pure Theory of Capital" in 1941, "The Road of Serfdom" in 1944 and "The Constitution of Liberty" in 1960.

because of lack of funds. However, since many of the campers can pay only part of the cost of their stay at Camp Sweeney, it is only through gifts that the project can be continued. The Foundation estimates that $100,000 annually must be received to finance the training and services offered.

Camp Sweeney was named for Dr. J. Shirley Sweeney. It had long been a dream of his to provide a training and research facility for the study of deabetes and allied metabolic disorders. The goals of teaching and helping have remained the same throughout the years. The only changes made have been in the application of new knowledge gained through research, and until such time as science discovers a cure for diabetes only training can help the diabetic himself.

Mystery Of Bones Solved

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (AP) — Police have solved the mystery of some bones and a charred coffin found in the ashes of the city's burned-out Fraternal Center.

"The Skeletons were made of paper mache and plastic," deputy police chief Rod Keary said Monday. "They and the coffin in which they were found apparently were used in an organization secret ceremony."

WIN Buttons Available

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) "Dear President Ford:

"I enlist as an Inflation Fighter, and Energy Saver for the duration. I will do the very best I can for America."

Print your name, address and zip code. Send it to the President. He will send you a button, free.

The button will say WIN. In white capital letters on red.

President Ford, in his economic address to congress Tuesday, called it the symbol of a new mobilization.

A modern-day V-for-Victory, the galvanizing Churchillian gesture of World War II vintage. An economic "Remember the Maine," which whipped up enthusiasm for the Spanish-American War.

Alas, the President failed to say what WIN means.

In showing the button, Ford said only: "It bears the single word WIN. That tells it all."

Not quite.

You have to look through the speech to find the phrase, "Whip Inflation Now." It appears twice.

A White House spokesman said speechwriters slipped up by not having Ford explain that WIN referred to that phrase. But the button offer, nonetheless, is genuine. The address is the White House, Washington, D.C. 20500.

The President told the joint session he will elaborate next week on the volunteer Inflation Fighters and Energy Savers program, which he said will be manned by 18 distinguished people.

"There will be no big new federal bureaucracy set up for this crash program," he said. The volunteers will come from the communications media.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association took up the call and urged all newspapers to publish the enlistment coupon.

FIVE SLAIN—Ambulance attendants remove one of five bodies from a southeast side apartment Tuesday. Police said three sisters in their 20's were raped and slain and that two small children also were stabbed to death. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Victim Feared Harm

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Laura McClendon, 22, had for some time been telling people in her apartment complex that someone meant her great harm, but she could not forsee just how brutal that harm would be.

Laura was one of five persons—two of them 2-year-old children—found bound, gagged and stabbed to death Tuesday morning.

"Laura was always talking about how someone was going to harm her," said a cousin, Theressa McClendon. "She never would say who. She never gave anybody any name."

Homicide Det. Lt. Oliver Ball, saying four detectives were working on the case but still had no suspects, identified the dead as Laura; Laura's son, Stephen; Martha McClendon, 24, Martha's daughter, Natoshi, and Linda McClendon, 20.

Laura McClendon and Martha McClendon were sister; Linda McClendon was their first cousin. All were employes of the A. Brandt Furniture Co., and made chairs for aliving. The sisters lived in the apartment where they died. The cousin lived elsewhere in the huge apartment complex on the city's south side.

Their stabbed, slashed and mutilated bodies were found about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday by the sister's step-father, Alexander Small, who had come "to take them to work like he always did," Miss McClendon said.

She said she and other neighbors had been in the apartment with the three women and the children Monday night watching football on television.

"I was there about 10 o'clock. My sister wanted me to walk her home. She was afraid to walk home alone at night. So was Laura," she said.

About 1 a.m. Tuesday, various neighbors in adjacent apartments reported hearing people knocking on doors. One neighbor who lived directly above the women said someone knocked on his door at 1:25 a.m. but he said he didn't answer the door.

Leftists Make Hostage Deal

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The American ambassador says six leftist terrorists have agreed to release the hostages they have held for 12 days in the Venezuelan consulate in exchange for safe conduct out of the Dominican Republic.

"We are now negotiating final details and we cannot say how long this will take," Ambassador Robert Hurwitch told newsmen Tuesday evening.

Hurwitch said he did not know where the terrorists would choose to fly or what country would agree to receive them. There was speculation they would fly to Mexico, Peru or Algeria.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer made a "final, definitive and irretractable" offer to guarantee the safe passage of the terrorists if they release the seven hostages. Until then, the government had refused to negotiate and demanded the unconditional surrender of the gunmen.

On Sept. 27, the terrorists kidnaped Barbara A. Hutchison, 47, the head of the U.S. Information Service here, and took her from outside her office to the consulate. There they captured two Venezuelan consuls, two office workers, a Spanish priest and a Dominican messenger and holed up with the group on the second floor.

The original demands included $1 million in cash and the release of 37 political prisoners, but the cash demand was dropped and the prisoner list reduced last week. In the end, the terrorists apparently abandoned all their demands except for safe conduct.

Hurwitch talked to newsmen after he, the Spanish ambassador and the Venezuelan charge d'affaires conferred with national police chief Gen. Rafael Guzman Acosta and rebel chief Radhames Mendez Vargas.

The American ambassador said, "I talked to Barbara Hutchison about 10 minutes ago (by telephone) and she was, of course, very happy about the situation." He called her "an exemplary official who has been just great."

Mendez, 32, the leader of the terrorists, claims membership in the "Jan. 12 Movement," a small, pro-Communist guerrilla group. Six months before the siege Mendez was released from jail after serving four years for hijacking an airliner.

Courts To Hear Rail Act Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear arguments on the constitutionality of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act passed last year by Congress.

The court set a hearing for Oct. 23 on an appeal from a decision by a panel of three federal judges in Philadelphia striking down key portions of the act.

The June 25 ruling was appealed by the government and the United States Railway Association, a public, nonprofit corporation set up under the act to map the future of a number of bankrupt railroads.

The act is challenged by creditors of the Penn Central Transportation Co., who say continued operation of the railroad under the legislation is draining the money which they have coming.

Thirty-six members of the House who had a hand in writing and passing the measure have filed a brief with the court in its defense.

They charged that the creditors apparently "hope and expect that if they can destroy the act they will force the government to nationalize the Penn Central ... which might result in a greater cash return for them."

The congressional brief, written by Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., a principal architect of the act, expresses "the strong resistance which exists in Congress to paying any additional amounts of government money to these estates (the railroads) beyond that provided in the act."

Donelson's net bid on the one-ton truck was $4,336.90, the lowest of three received, and its net bid on the pickup truck of $3,914.68 was the lower of two received.

Wilson Motors was the only bidder on a fire truck chassis and its bid of $15,129.87 was accepted.

A bid of $4,525.80 by Fire Fox Co. of Houston was the lower of two received on several items of equipment for the fire department. It was the lower of two bids received. Items included in the bid are 1,250 feet of 2½-inch hose, 600 feet of 1½-inch hose, 12 nozzles and a smoke ejector.

Accepted, subject to approval following inspection of the equipment, were bids by Industrial Disposal of Plano for garbage containers. The Plano firm bid $3,124.44 on eight containers of eight cubic yard capacity each, and $12,675.96 for 60 containers of three cubic yard capacity each. These were the lowest quotations received for these items.

Doctor's Cave is the most famous beach in Jamaica. It is privately owned but open to the public. The sea water is fed by underground mineral springs, making it unusually clear and buoyant.

Discussion Set On Drip Irrigation

A meeting to discuss and present information on one of the newer practices in irrigation has been set for 2 p.m. Thursday in the county court room at the courthouse.

Leon New, irrigation specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, will conduct the meeting.

With the introduction of drip, or trickle, irrigation many small capacity wells have been put into service, since this type of system can utilize very low capacity wells.

A moisture saving of up to 40 percent over conventional irrigation systems has been experienced with trickle systems. This system employs plastic pipe and outlets, or emitters, which allow water to be dripped at a very low rate, such as one to five gallons per hour.

New has had considerable experience with this type of system all over West Texas. Many high return crops, such as pecans, fruit orchards, grapes and vegetables are utilizing this type of irrigation.

Those who have considered this system, or may be interested in trickle irrigation, are being encouraged by County Extension Agent Billy Roach to attend the meeting. New will have a display of some of the emitters being used, as well as information on design and function of this type of equipment.

Installation Is Set By NAACP

The local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will install new officers at its meeting tonight.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. at the Child Day Care Center. The Rev. F.K. Williams of Sweetwater will install the officers.

You Can Extend Life Of Annuals

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Before heavy frost puts an end to your outdoor gardening you can prolong the life of some annuals, practically making them perennials.

To do this, carefully transplant your garden favorites into pots or boxes, take them indoors and place them under high-energy plant-growth lamps (such as Go-Lux).

They will flourish indoors, as some of ours do, and be ready for replacement in the garden in the early spring after frost danger has passed. This means you'll have gained a few weeks in the growing cycle and will have flowers long before your neighbors.

There are a few ground rules, as it were, in moving plants indoors:

1. Sterlize the soil to avoid flying pests in the home. This may be done by baking the soil for an hour or so in a hot oven. A handful of peat moss tossed in later replaces organic matter in the soil that has been oxidized.

2. When your plants are potted and under the lights, feed and water them a bit more than plants that depend on daylight. The reason for this is that special plant-growth lamps speed growth, and this means more food and water are consumed than if the plant were growing under standard energy sources.

3. The length of time the lights should be on depends on the plants you are raising. Plants that bloom in early spring or late fall are "short day" plants and will be satisfied with six to eight hours of light daily. Long-day plants — those that bloom in mid-summer — will need 12 to 16 hours of energy from your fluorescent lamp.

4. Be sure to take a good ball of earth with the roots in bringing your plants indoors. This will insure continued growth.

Poisonous Plants

There are about 700 species of poisonous plants growing in the United States and Canada, many commonly found near homes, according to expert Dr. John Kingsbury.

Dr. Kingsbury estimates that 12,000 children consume innocent-looking poisonous plants annually, which often results in complications, sometimes in death.

Poisonous plants may grow anywhere, says Dr. Mitchell R. Zavon, president of the American Association of Poison Control Centers, who cautions:

"It is essential for children and adults to understand the dangers involved in eating plants, especially those they are not familiar with. All plants near the home and classroom should be identified in every way to make sure they are not poisonous. If there are poisonous plants growing where children may explore, it would be advisable to rid the area of such potential dangers. Controlled application of chemical herbicides will effectively minimize the danger of poisonous plants safely and efficiently."

Recommended: Identify each plant in and around the house; keep poisonous plants out of reach of children; do not use unknown plants as a source of food; destroy unwanted poisonous plants.

Symptoms of plant poisoning may occur as long as six to 15 hours after ingestion. If plant poisoning is suspected, do not rely on home remedies. Call a doctor immediately.

Window Garden

On your window sill this winter, raise chives, mints, sage, tarragon, parsley or other herbs. Most of them grow well indoors with the same care given your house plants. Seeds may be planted in pots of light, sandy, well-drained soil in fresh air, humidity and sunlight.

Her Goal: To Lose 120 Pounds

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — "A few people say I'm nuts," says Bobbie Manzella, who had her jaws wired shut because she got tired of being five feet tall and 235 pounds wide.

"Now I'm down to 200 pounds," she said two months after the operation. "I'm going to keep my jaws wired until I'm down to 115 pounds, which is what I weighed 18 years ago when I was married."

"It may take a year," she added.

"When I weighed 235 I never wanted to go out," she said. "I never wanted to do anything. I hated the way I looked. I was ashamed."

But now Mrs. Manzella has adjusted to eating everything through a straw and living without southern fried chicken and other fattening delicacies.

Mrs. Manzella said she got the idea of having the operation from a television report on an English woman who had her jaws wired shut to lose weight.

"I had tried clubs, crash diets, meat and salad diets, diet pills, even eating nothing for days but I couldn't stick to anything," she said.

So, after consulting with her husband and doctors, an oral surgeon tied her upper and lower teeth together with steel wires, the operation used when a person has a broken jaw.

With frequent checks by her family doctor to make sure she isn't shedding fat too quickly or is undernourished, Mrs. Manzella said, "I never felt better in my life."

Mrs. Manzella said she still fries chicken for the rest of the family.

"At first I couldn't bear to see them eat it. I'd go out of the house for a walk," she said.

"But now it doesn't drive me up the wall when they bite into it. I just don't miss it any more."

If not fried chicken, what can one eat through clamped jaws?

"Lots of liquids and anything that can be put through a blender. Peas, carrots, string beans, beets, beef and other pureed baby foods. A milk shake once or twice a week. Grapefruit juice, orange juice, tomato juice. Diet sodas, vitamins," she said.

What happens if she becomes nauseous?

"If I was to actively feel sick to my stomach I would snip the four wires quickly and be able to open my mouth." She always carries a pair of nail clippers but hasn't had to use them.

"I swear that when I get down to 115 pounds and the wires are taken out I'll be so happy with the way I look that I'll never, never eat fried chicken again," she said.

Calcium, that mineral often hard-to-get in palatable quantities, is supplied easily by dairy foods. These amounts of dairy food have about the same amount of calcium: one cup of milk (whole, skim or buttermilk); 1½ cups of ice cream; 1½ ounces of Cheddar cheese or 1 and one-third cups of cottage cheese.

Employes Join Fight To Save Troubled Pan Am

By RALPH IZARD
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The fight for federal help to save economically troubled Pan American World Airways is not restricted to executive suites. It also involves people behind reservation desks, in maintenance hangars and on the runways.

Like the executives, the employes are reacting to the Ford administration's refusal to grant an emergency subsidy that Pan Am has said is crucial to its survival.

The employes have organized in such Pan Am bases as Miami, Berlin, New York, Karachi, San Francisco and San Juan in an effort to keep the company from going under.

They have outlined their complaints in full-page newspaper advertisements — paid for with $10,000 raised among themselves.

Committees have been sent to Washington to talk to congressmen; a group of pilots' wives is distributing copies of an article which outlines alleged unfair treatment; "Support Your U.S. Airline" bumper stickers were printed by employes in a company printing facility; retired stewardesses are donating proceeds from a cookbook they're selling in Miami.

An employes group in Karachi has even offered to return all the overtime pay received last month. Some international crewmen have offered 10 per cent of their salaries as loans.

"It's going beyond the job," said Sandra Del Conte, who has worked at the Miami reservations desk since 1965. "It's a cause. This is the American way. Everybody is pulling together."

They say they're not campaigning for a federal subsidy, but for an end to what they consider unfair treatment.

"It's probably best that we didn't get the subsidy," said Miami cargo department employe Edison Coulter. "Most of the people here don't want subsidy. But we have to get the inequities changed."

Pan Am has about 32,500 worker worldwide. About 3,400 are in Miami.

The inequities, workers explained, are such things as the United States paying foreign carriers more to carry U.S. mail than Pan Am is paid; Pan Am being forced to pay higher landing fees at overseas airports than foreign airlines are charged in this country, and the fact that Pan Am has to pay higher interest rates on loans than the U.S. Export-Import bank charges the foreigners.

"The more the regular Pan Am employe knows about the way this airline has been treated, the madder he gets," said Joseph Hunt, a flight engineer who has been with the company for 32 years. "Why in hell does our State Department sit back and watch one of its own children being chewed up by the people across the street."

Junior Editors Quiz on NECTARINES

QUESTION: Tell me about the nectarine tree.

ANSWER: The nectarine is a variety of peach grown from early times. It has been known for 2,000 years and in the 16th century it was called the Nut of Persia. It was bred from the peach through seed and bud variation. It is a member of the prunus or stone fruits, a group belonging to the rose family.

The nectarine tree is a small tree similar to the peach tree. It has showy blossoms early in spring. It is cultivated in the North Temperate Zone of both hemispheres. In American gardens, it is grown more as a curiosity than for its merits, but it is cultivated commercially in California. The fruit is a smooth-skinned variety of the peach. The skin is waxy rather than furry. The flesh is firmer than the ordinary peach. Like the peach, there are freestone and clingstone varieties.

Trip Urged To LBJ Complex

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

If you're looking for an inexpensive, short vacation trip and have an interest in history, head for the Lyndon Johnson complex in the Hill Country. More than a million visit it annually.

The complex include the LBJ Library in Austin, his boyhood home at Johnson City and the state park and LBJ Ranch, all within about 65 miles of each other.

The reason it is inexpensive is that there are no admission charges. No one even passes the hat for contributions.

The trip includes a free bus tour of about an hour and a half.

Assuming you visit the Austin library first, your next stop would be Johnson's boyhood home at Johnson City.

The visitor may assume it isn't worth the trouble to track down a single residence in Johnson City. But if he looks carefully, he will see a small sign and the home is only a block or two off the highway.

It is quite an impressive residence considering that it was built in 1901. It is decorated with the gingerbread so stylish at the time, has lightning rods and large porches and is constructed with its own air conditioning system.

Air conditioning in 1901? Sure there was.

This was accomplished by 12-foot ceilings to let hot air rise and by doors and windows everywhere to allow cross-ventilation. The dining room, for instance, has six doors.

There has been some restoration, some of going further than necessary, a few people may think. This thought may strike a visitor when the guide points to the outhouse, rebuilt on the foundations of the old one. To recall the hardships of the early 1900s, many will note that it is 100 yards from the house.

The tourist must keep a sharp eye out to note the turnoff onto Ranch Road One to reach the state park and the ranch house.

The park has a number of new buildings and it is from there that the bus tours begin and end every few minutes. The day we were there, the buses were full each trip.

The buses cross the Pedernales River onto ranch property. They stop briefly at what is known as the Junction School. Johnson attended that institution when he was four years old.

The ranch house is something else. The buses will stop briefly for a close look and camera shutter snapping but no one is allowed to alight.

This is because this still is Lady Bird Johnson's private home and will remain so all her life.

The buses wind very close to the house and through the outbuildings. In the garage we noted two convertibles, golf cars which were used to drive around the ranch, a Fiat, a 1934 Ford which Johnson used as a hunting car, an amphibious vehicle and a fire engine.

Just beyond, you are sharply reminded that this once was the center of world politics as the great of many nations came here for visits with the President.

These reminders are a helicopter pad and a 6,000-foot airstrip. It seemed said that they were unused this day.

Along the ranch trails, the bus must stop to permit a couple of Hereford yearlings to arise from their rest and slowly wander out of the path.

There are hundreds of handsome cattle resting under the trees or grazing the lush grass.

Dodgers Stay Alive In National Playoff

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Stargell took a backwards look and could remember another year when the Pittsburgh Pirates had an uphill climb to victory.

"In 1971 in Baltimore, we were supposed to be finished. The newspapers were calling it the St. Valentine's Day Massacre," the Pirates' slugger said of that World Series in which Pittsburgh lost the first two games, then came back to win it all in seven games.

But no team in the five-year history of divisional playoffs has lost the first two games, then won three in a row to qualify for the World Series.

"We can't concern ourselves with what's written and said," said Stargell, who hammered a three-run, first-inning homer as Pittsburgh stayed alive with a 7-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday.

No team has ever come back from an 0-2 deficit in playoffs, but neither had any club committed five errors in a playoff game, until the Dodgers did it Tuesday.

The Dodgers' inept fielding came before a record home crowd of 55,953, and many of them were exiting for the already crowded freeways before the seventh-inning stretch.

"That may have been the worst we looked all season," said Dodger Manager Walt Alston. "I doubt errors become contagious, but if they do I hope the Pirates catch it."

Instead of unpacking the champagne to celebrate their first NL pennant in eight years, the Dodgers were forced into a fourth game.

Don Sutton, who won Saturday's playoff opener, 3-0, was named to pitch today against the first-game loser, Jerry Reuss.

Alston said he would go with Andy Messersmith, the winning pitcher Sunday, if the series requires a fifth game Thursday. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said Jim Rooker would be his pitcher if the series goes the limit.

The Pirates blasted Doug Rau for five first-inning runs on the homer by Stargell and a two-run shot by Rich Hebner, and it was a 1971 World Series hero, Bruce Kison, who supplied the effective pitching.

Kison, although only 9-8 in the regular season, continued his amazing post-season record. The lanky right-hander handcuffed the Dodgers on two singles, both by Bill Russell, for 6 2-3 innings, when he tired and was relieved by Ramon Hernandez.

The Pirates broke out of a slump with 10 hits, including a double and two home runs, after getting a total of only 12 singles in the first two games.

"I thought Doug Rau's stuff was all right," said Alston of his starting pitcher who lasted through seven batters in the first inning. "They had only two runs in two games and were pretty likely to break loose against somebody, no matter who the pitcher was."

Athletics Take 2-1 Lead In AL

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland Athletics are on the verge of winning a third straight American League pennant, even without a major internal squabble. But, as usual, tempers are a bit frayed.

And — as the A's beat Baltimore 1-0 Tuesday on Sal Bando's home run and Vida Blue's two-hit pitching — they also got on the Orioles' nerves with their talent and showboating.

The second consecutive shutout, extending Baltimore's nonscoring string to 22 innings, gave the A's a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five championship series between the division leaders.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Oakland's 25-game winner who lost the series opener to end his personal seven-game streak against the Orioles, was given the assignment of trying to wrap up the playoffs for the A's in today's game.

Mike Cuellar, a 22-game winner who beat Hunter in the first game, was picked to start for Baltimore provided he can shake off arm stiffness which bothered him Tuesday. Ross Grimsley, an 18-game winner, is on standby.

"It's no fun being down 2-1," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles rallied from a similar deficit last year before dropping the deciding fifth game. Oakland then went on to win its second straight seven-game World Series.

The A's seem to have the knack of doing what's necessary to win, and that was underscored by Blue and Bando in game No. 3.

Blue, who had failed to win in post-season play while losing two playoff games and two World Series decisions, broke through the barrier with seven strikeouts and no walks. He didn't allow a base runner past first.

"Vida threw the best game of his career," said Bando, who homered on a 3-2 fast ball from Jim Palmer in the fourth inning, "because it was the pressure of a playoff game."

The homer was the second in two games for Bando, who didn't hit any of his 22 regular season homers off Baltimore pitching.

Blue, who won the league's Cy Young pitching award in 1971, hooked up in a classic mound duel with Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner. Palmer, with a 7-1 record in postseason play, allowed just four hits.

And, it was Palmer who accused Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson of "making a farce out of the game" with his home plate gyrations in the ninth inning.

Jackson, playing as Oakland's designated hitter because of aching leg muscles, then added to Palmer's frustrations. He reached first on a single through the box which Palmer called a "routine grounder."

The Baltimore right-hander said the home run pitch came as he tried to throw a strike and avoid starting a possible big inning by issuing a walk.

NEW RECORD FOR STRIPERS SET AT LAKE E. V. SPENCE

A new record for stiped bass at Lake E.V. Spence was established last week by Mike Ross and Maurice Duncan when they landed an 18-lb. specimen. This topped the 15-lb, 4-oz. striper landed in April by C.H. Hogan, Odessa, and even the 17-lb, 1-oz. one caught by state biologists in one of their sample nettings of the lake.

Several other striped bass were caught and C.C. Wier, Robert Lee, fishing with G.M. Bankhead, Robert Lee, came up with a 10-lb. blue cat. If this is not a new record, then it is the second best blue hooked at the lake.

Nearly everyone who went out came in with channel cat, some of them larger ones. There were a number of black and white bass strings, too. From various points, the reports included:

Y. J.'s Marina--G. M. Bankhead and C.C. Wier, Robert Lee, 18 channel cat to 6½ -lb. and a 10-lb blue catfish; Bill Schroeder, Seagraves, 6¼-lb. channel cat.

Henry's Cafe--Melvin Corley, Bronte, nine blacks to 4 lb.; Bill Chrone, Lubbock, three black bass to 3 lb,; George Pool, Lubbock 5-lb. striper and 12 white bass to 2 lb.; Larry White, Galveston, three blacks to 3½ lb, and 10 white bass.

Dink's Bait--C.C. Wier, Robert Lee, nine channel cat to 5-lb., and a 4-lb striper; Tom Logan, Robert Lee, six channel cat to 3½ lb.;. Jerry Phillips and Richard Price, Big Spring 3-lb. channel cat and 11 blacks to 5 lb.; Robert Dewoody, Odessa seven blacks to 3½-lb.; Bill Price, Odessa, three white bass to 2 lb, and 3½-lb. striper.

Counts' Grocery and Bait--Tony Simmons, and Joe Collins, Odessa, 14 blacks to 2½ lb.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collins, Mrs. Roy Smith, Big Spring, 5-lb. striper, three channel cat to 1½ lb.

Wildcat Fish-A-Rama--Jim Anderson and Richard Archer, Lamesa, seven channel cat to 4 lb; Mike Ross and Maurice Duncan, Robert Lee, 18-Lb. striper, 21 channel cat to 2½-lb.; two blacks to 3¾ lb.; Jim Andrson, Richard Winford, and Bruce Batson, Lamesa, ninc channel cat to 3 lb.

Oklahoma By 14?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The War of the Wishbones won't be fought until Saturday in Dallas, but the war of words is already under way between Coaches Darrell Royal of Texas and Barry Switzer of Oklahoma.

"OU should be a heavy favorite," said Royal. "Our inability to stop people on third-and-long drives me up a tree, but I doubt if they will be in many third-and-long situations."

How about that, Coach Switzer?

"Our offense is not going to be able to run against the wind at eight yards a snap. It'll be our execution against their execution."

Look for Oklahoma to move the ball. Look for Texas to move the ball. And look for Oklahoma to win 35-21.

Last week's record was 41 right, 18 wrong and two ties for a .695 percentage. Oklahoma's 63-0 rout of Wake Forest was called on the nose while two of the three Upset Specials — Kansas over Texas A&M and Duke over Purdue — also came through. The season's count is 185-76-8—.709.

SINCE ALL THREE Upset Specials came through the previous Saturday, we won't keep you in suspense any longer. The Upset Special of the Week is Vanderbilt 24, Florida 21.

Second Upset Special: Georgia Tech 21, North Carolina 20. Tar Heels have been up for Maryland and Pitt and are looking ahead a week to N.C. State.

Ohio State 28, Wisconsin 17: This might be the Buckeyes' toughest test before Michigan. Wisconsin's coming off a shocking 59-20 rout of defensive-minded Missouri.

Michigan 31, Michigan State 7: Michigan heads for Madison, Wis., next Saturday and for paydirt this weekend.

Nebraska 24, Missouri 10: Cornhuskers avenge last year's 13-12 setback.

Notre Dame 38, Rice 0: Ara Parseghian doesn't like Rice Coach Al Conover. That's bad ... for Conover and Rice.

Southern California 21, Washington State 7: Doesn't figure to be anything like last year's 46-35 brouhaha.

Texas A&M 20, Texas Tech 14: But could easily go the other way.

Auburn 17, Kentucky 3: This is the Year of the Tiger ... on defense.

Arkansas 28, Baylor 15: Everybody wants that SWC crown now that Texas has lost a conference game.

Kansas 28, Kansas State 14: Jayhawks play tough defense.

Miami, Ohio 21, Ohio U. 7: Redskins believe in the Post Office motto about swift completion of their appointed rounds and all that.

WTC Wins Dual Match

Western Texas College shot four under par to defeat Abilene Christian College by nine strokes, 276 to 285, in a dual golf match at the Snyder Country Club yesterday. Each school played six players and counted the four low scores, medal play.

It was the second time this fall for the Westerners to shoot under par as a team. WTC stands 2-0 in dual match competition.

Freshman Grant Collyns led the Westerners and was medalist in the dual match with an outstanding round of 66, four under par. Freshman Arnold Madril was runnerup medalist with a fine score of 68, two under par. Glenn Smith had the best score for ACC with an even par 70.

WTC individual scores: Freshman Grant Collins 66 (four under), Freshman Arnold Madril 68, Freshman Ken Stout 70, Sophomore Kyle Howard 72, Freshman Ross Wortham 73, and Freshman Bryan Hargrove 75.

Next action for the Westerners will be a 36-hole intercollegiate golf tournament at Hobbs, N. M. on Oct. 10-11. New Mexico Junior College will be the host college. WTC will enter two teams in the tournament.

Browns Sign Tim George

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns moved to boost their wide receiver corps Tuesday by signing Tim George, who was released by the Cincinnati Bengals a few weeks ago, the club announced.

In order to make room for the 6-foot-5, 210-pound receiver, the Browns waived nine-year veteran Ben Hawkins, who was obtained a month ago in a trade with the Philadelphia Eagles.

George, who is in his second year in the National Football League, started two tilts for the Bengals last season and caught only two passes. He was drafted in the third round of the 1973 draft by the Bengals out of Carson-Newman College.

Dallas Cowboys Off To Bad Start

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys you see in their early season slump bear no resemblance to the clubs which have stormed from behind to make the National Football League playoffs the last three years.

At least that's the opinion of Coach Tom Landry, the only boss the Cowboys have ever known.

In the past three season, the Cowboys have flashed muscle early then sagged, and then closed with a charge.

The Cowboys, who have entered the NFL playoffs a record eight consecutive times, have gone 4-3, 5-4, and 4-3 before coming on strong.

"The real fallacy is that the Cowboys have always come back before," said Landry Tuesday. "This is different than any other season. We have come back before but that was after we had done something. We have yet to jell as a team."

And he added, "Right now we have it tougher than we've ever had it."

Dallas isn't picking on a cripple this weekend, traveling to St. Louis to face the National Conference Eastern Division leading St. Louis Cardinals, who are unbeaten. Dallas is 1-3 in the NFC East cellar.

"In St. Louis, were playing the hottest team in the league outside of New England," said Landry.

Landry said even if Dallas lost to St. Louis he wouldn't count his team out of it.

"I've seen us win 10 games in a row before but the odds against us are getting greater," Landry said.

Landry said for the first time this season the Dallas offense showed signs of life in the fourth quarter rally against Minnesota that overcame a 20-7 deficit only to see Fred Cox's 27-yard field goal with one second to play settle matters in the favor of the Vikings 23-21.

"Our offensive team in the fourth quarter looked the best it has looked all year," said Landry.

Landry said, "It's all there in front of us. We don't have to depend on anyone else to win it for us. We have four games in a row against Eastern Division teams."

Coaches Pleased With Tiger Team

Local football coaches were pleased with the Tigers' 20-0 triumph over Lamesa here last Friday nght, but an injury to starting quarterback Win Bunch has caused them some concern.

Maurice (Mo) Hodges, head coach of the Tigers, told members of the Tiger Booster Club last night that the 160-pound senior sustained a "hip-pointer" in the clash with the Tornadoes and may be a doubtful starter for the contest with Estacado this week. The Club met in the West Elementary Cafeteria.

Last week, the Tigers knocked off the team that was the defending champion in District 3-AAA. This week, they will host the team that was a pre-season favorite to win the crown this year.

Coach Hodges said the defense is jelling into a sound unit. He was proud of the way they shut out Lamesa. The Tors didn't get a first down until midway of the third quarter. Offensively, Hodges said, the Tigers moved the ball well. He said the boys did a fine job of blocking and running. The coach also commended the play of Steve Greene, third string quarterback, who guided the team a couple of times last Friday night. Greg Gafford, backup quarterback, still is out with an ankle fracture.

Milton Ham, president of the Tiger Booster Club, said the Homecoming was a success with a good parade, pep rally and ball game. He said a few individual Tiger pictures are available for those who want to purchase them.

Coach Winfred Shipp gave the scouting report on Estacado, saying the Matadors have good size with an offensive line that averages 192 pounds per man. They are quick and move the ball well from the Wishbone and I formation, he said. Defensively, Estacado uses a basic "27" defense. Their front four on defense average 211 pounds. The Matadors have eight starters returning on offense and seven starters returning on defense.

The Tigers have never beaten an Estacado team, although they tied them a few years back when the Matadors were ranked No. 1 in the state.

Lamar Is Victor In 7th Grade

Jerry Mankins' 7th grade team defeated Boxie Weems' team 22-0, and Wayne Preston's team shut out Geral Mac Greene's Team 30-0 here yesterday afternoon.

In the second period, Mankins' Morris Anderson ran eight yards for a touchdown, and Bryan Vincent ran across for the two bonus points.

In the third period, Bryan Vincent crashed over from the two. A little later, Shawn Ragland completed a 10-yard touchdown pass to Bryan Vincent. Toby Neves ran over for the two extra points.

In the other contest, Rollen Nunley ran eight yards for Preston's first touchdown, and Bobby DeGrate collected the two extra points.

Randy Hodges scored on a one yard plunge, and DeGrate added the two bonus points.

Zell Gaston also scored a TD on a 52 yard run, and Rodney Glass ran for two points.

Bobby DeGrate closed the scoring with an 80 yard return of an intercepted pass.

Mixed Foursome Results Given

The Snyder Women's Golf Association hosted a Florida Scramble Sunday afternoon with twenty members and guests competing. Prizes were awarded to the teams coming in first and second. The first place team included: Betty and Larry Hildreth; Joyce and Joe Williamson; and Joe Charles League. Second place winners were; Gertrude and Joe League; Billie and Tommie Mills; and Norma Thompson.

Snyder Ranked Sixth In State

By The Associated Press

Defending Class 4A champion John Tyler's 14-3 victory over fourth ranked Texarkana last week was enough to keep the Lions on top in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll—but just barely.

While the Lions clawed past district foe Texarkana to extend their winning streak to 25 in a row, Wichita Falls Rider mauled Mineral Wells 48-3 and came within three votes of overhauling the defending champions.

Tyler gained 12 first place votes compared to four for Rider and the Lions needed every one of them to keep the lead by a slim 166-163 margin.

Wharton emerged as the giant-killer of Class 3A, knocking off No. 1 ranked Brazosport to jump from seventh to third in the rankings.

Hull-Daisetta in Class 2A, Aledo in Class A and Big Sandy in Class B, all won and held their No. 1 rankings.

The biggest shocker in Class 4A was 10th ranked Port Arthur Lincoln's 40-0 loss to unknown Beaumont Hebert. Lincoln lost 10 turnovers during the game and the first four cost them touchdowns. Lincoln dropped from the top 10 and was replaced by Longview, 4-0.

Friendswood dropped from fourth to ninth in 3A after a 24-7 loss to Lufkin, which is ranked eighth in 4A this week.

Second ranked Hooks from to seventh this week in Class 2A and Premont, third last week, disappeared after losing to Freer. Freer got two first place votes and moved into the No. 10 spot.

Hale Center dropped from fourth to eighth and Mason, sixth last week, dropped out. A pair of unbeatens, Jim Ned and Brackettville, tied for 10th.

D'Hanis, which has lost close games the past two weeks to tough Class A teams, dropped out of the Class B standings with a 3-2 record and was replaced by Axtell, 4-1.

Rep. Mills Denies Being Involved In Park Incident

By CHARLES J. LEWIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Park Service police have identified Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., as one of five occupants of a car moving "at an unreasonable speed with its lights off" at 2 a.m.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, denied he was in the vehicle.

The park police said Tuesday that when they curbed the 1974 Lincoln Continental, a woman ran from the auto and jumped into the Tidal Basin, a backwater of the Potomac River Near the Jefferson Memorial.

The police report of the Monday morning incident, as relayed by Park Service spokesman George Berklacy, quoted policeman Larry Brent as saying that he and officer Thomas Johann "were northbound on 17th St. at Constitution Ave. when we observed a vehicle southbound, north of Constitution Ave., at an unreasonable speed with its lights off.

"We turned around and caught the vehicle westbound on Independence Ave., southwest, at Kutz Bridge.

"We stopped the vehicle, a female exited from the passenger side and jumped into the Tidal Basin. I jumped in and brought her over the seawall, where additional U.S. Park police officers assisted in removing her from the water."

The woman, who identified herself as Anabell Battistella, 38, of suburban Arlington, Va., was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and later dismissed, Berklacy said.

The police report said the man identifying himself as Mills was accompanied in the auto by Liliane M. Kassar, 38, of Washington and Glorida Sanchez, 36, and Albert G. Gapacini, 39, both of Arlington.

Gapacini, identified as the driver of the auto, was not charged. The auto bore Arkansas license plates.

Berklacy said the water in the area is about three feet deep, and it ranges up to six feet further from shore.

Mills' administrative assistant, Gene Goss, said the congressman had authorized him only to say that "he was not there at the time." Goss said he did not know where Mills was at the time of the incident.

The Washington Post reported that police officials said the car's occupants, other than Mills, had engaged in a struggle when the auto first stopped near the Tidal Basin. Later, when officer Brent and the Battistella woman were pulled out of the water, the auto's participants resumed their scuffle.

Meanwhile, high ranking Park Service police officials had arrived on the scene and, in trying to quell the disorder, a police sergeant was pushed and fell over some bushes, injuring his back and leg, the Post said.

The Post also said that state records in Little Rock, Ark., showed that the auto's license plate number DOT 003 was registered to Mills.

Mills, a member of Congress since 1939 and one of its most influential members, is facing a re-election contest in November.

Morton Is Optimistic On His New Assignment

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Interior Secy. Rogers C. B. Morton says he is dedicated to his new assignment of eliminating delay and confusion as the nation moves toward its goals of energy conservation and increased domestic supplies.

President Ford named Morton chairman Tuesday of the new National Energy Board to develop a single energy policy and program.

"We are going to get this country as soon as possible into a position where we cannot be held hostage because of overdependence on foreign supplies of energy commodities," Morton said.

Morton told a news conference he believes the job can be accomplished without creating a new bureaucracy, without new controls or gasoline rationing, and without a lot of head knocking.

"But we are going to have to be tough," he said.

Ford immediately assigned the board the task of reducing the nation's dependence on foreign oil by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975.

"The first thing we are going to do is to continue our policy of vastly increasing the amount of offshore acreage available to the industry for exploration," Morton said.

"I think we will without question sell 10 million acres next year against 3 million this year, which was up three times from what we historically made available in the past."

"We will need a good deal of legislative muscle," he said. "We will need it certainly for the deregulation of natural gas prices and we will need it for any kind of strip mining bill that would boost coal production to replace some foreign oil until our domestic petroleum supplies catch up."

He also called for preparations that would place the Navy's petroleum reserves in California and Alaska in a state of readiness should actual production become necessary.

He acknowledged that any timetable for the Navy's reserves would have to be a "cooperative thing" with congressional committees.

"I'm going to press them in the national interest to come up with a program," Morton said. "These are viable reserves, particularly the Alaskan reserves. If we suddenly got into a pinch and needed that oil, we'd have an awfully hard time getting it in a reasonable time."

Morton said the Elk Hills reserve in California should be developed to the extent its oil could be sent to the marketplace if needed.

"I'm not at this time advocating production there but we ought to get that reserve in shape so it can produce and it has a maximum producing capacity, if this work is done, of about 500,000 barrels a day," he said.

Morton said the board will include most members of the cabinet and the heads of a number of federal agencies, including the Federal Energy Administration.

"I'm not going to have any authority problem," he said. "I expect to have a total cooperative response from the other agencies."

Morton said he hopes to obtain the best energy conservation results from voluntary efforts.

"I think we should take a very strong position against waste or inefficiency, but the thing that is going for us in the conservation of energy is the fact the basic economic forces are working for us," he said. "The present price of gasoline has certainly dampened the consumption of gasoline."

Morton said he is in no position at present to determine when Atlantic Coast offshore leases will be offered for sale the first time. He said required environmental studies will proceed to their final decisions before the Allantic and other new frontiers are opened.

"I can assure everybody this will not be done on a crash basis nor in haste," he added.

Morton added, however, that the offshore areas are "our greatest opportunity for increased domestic production."

Japs Criticize Choice Of Sato

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Some Japanese political leaders have criticized former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's receipt of a share of the 1974 Nobel Peace Prize. They contend he didn't deserve it because of his role in keeping U.S. military forces in Japan.

The selection of Sato and Sean MacBride of Ireland as cowinners of the award was announced Tuesday in Oslo, Norway. Citations said the selections were for Sato's efforts to limit nuclear weapons and stabilize conditions in Asia and MacBride's many years of work to protect human rights.

The Nobel Committee of the Norwegian parliament said the two would share the $124,000 award equally. Both men are expected to be in Oslo Dec. 10 to accept it.

"Sean MacBride's efforts for human rights and Eisaku Sato's work for limitation of nuclear weapons and for international conciliation contributed each in its own way to securing peace," the committee said. "Their efforts have come in areas that in our time are central to the work for peace."

Director Tim Greve of the Nobel Institute said about 50 candidates had been nominated for the 1974 prize. Candidates' names are never officially revealed.

It was the first time that a Japanese or an Irishman won the Peace Prize, although five Japanese and two Irishmen have received Nobel prizes in other categories. The award is named for the late Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite, who donated the prize fund.

Sato, 73, was Japan's prime minister from 1964 to 1972. He said on learning in Tokyo of his choice that he knew he was being considered but had thought he would not win.

A Socialist party official quickly criticized the selection, declaring that Sato as prime minister "vehemently maintained" the U.S.-Japanese Security Pact "which, as a result, allows U.S. ships to bring nuclear weapons to Japan."

The prize was split last year between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho for their Vietnam peace accord, which ended American involvement in the Vietnam war. That decison caused an uproar that resulted in the resignation of two of the five members of the Nobel Committee.

MacBride, 70, a former Irish independence fighter whose father was executed by the British, is now United Nations Commissioner for South-West Africa, or Namibia.

His award covered not only his work in trying to help Namibia gain independence from white-ruled South Africa but also for drafting the European Convention on Human Rights and his membership in Amnesty International and the International Commission of Jurists.

He said his winning the award "might help" hasten independence for Namibia, which is administered by South Africa under mandate from the League of Nations, the predecessor of the United Nations. In 1966, the U.N. General Assembly terminated the mandate and declared the country under U.N. control until independence, but South Africa refused to accept the termination of its mandate.

School Girl Frees Pinned Man

LONDON (AP) — A 15-year-old schoolgirl held a 1,500-pound car off the ground long enough for a man pinned underneath to squirm free after the vehicle crashed off its jack, police reported.

They said Nancy Harrand, who weighs 119 pounds, heard the man screaming and rushed to help.

"People can do incredible things in emergency, but the strength of this girl beats everything," a police official commented. "The axle was pressing on the man's chest. It could have crushed his lungs."

The man was taken to a hospital with severe bruises.

Glance At Ford's Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here at a glance are President Ford's proposals to Congress for curbing inflation:

TAX SURCHARGE — A one-year, 5 per cent surcharge on corporate taxes and on a portion of taxes paid by families who earn more than $15,000 and by individuals earning more than $7,500 in 1975. This would raise an estimated $4.7 billion.

OTHER TAXES — Increase the investment tax credit from 7 per cent to 10 per cent and allow corporations to deduct the dividends paid on preferred stocks.

EMPLOYMENT — A two-stem program to extend unemployment insurance benefits by 13 weeks and create additional public service jobs whenever unemployment exceeds six per cent nationally.

HOUSING — Provide $3 billion for mortgage purchases to finance about $100,000 homes.

ENERGY — Reduce foreign oil imports by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975 through a variety of conservation measures and other steps, including deregulation of natural gas supplies and relaxation of some environmental laws. In addition the elimination by 1980 of oil-fired plants from the nation's base-loaded electrical capacity.

FOOD — Allocate all fertilizer supplies to enable farmers "to produce to full capacity" and remove all remaining acreage limitations on rice, peanuts and cotton. However, his proposals will not have any impact on this year's crops, meaning that next year's food prices will continue rising.

ANTITRUST LAWS — Vigorous enforcement of present laws with increased maximum penalties for antitrust violations from $50,000 to $1 million for corporations and from $50,000 to $100,000 for individual violators.

In addition, Ford appealed to every American to "grow more, waste less" and "drive less, heat less" to help increase food supplies, lower prices and save scarce fuel supplies.

Workers Idle A Year Eligible For Public Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some workers apparently would have to be unemployed for a year to qualify for the new public jobs proposed by President Ford.

Ford recommended Tuesday that Congress create a new Community Improvement Corps to provide public service jobs when unemployment exceeds 6 per cent nationally.

But the President specified that to be eligible for a public service job, an individual first would have to exhaust all unemployment benefits.

The President also recommended an extra 13 weeks of special unemployment insurance benefits for those who have used up their credits and 26 weeks of benefits for those not now covered by a regular umemployment insurance program.

The proposal indicates that some workers would have to go without work for up to 12 months before they can apply for public jobs because the new unemployment insurance will extend maximum benefits up to 52 weeks for experienced workers.

In general, the combined state and federal programs now provide jobless benefits up to 39 weeks, ranging from $50 to $109 weekly.

The public jobs that Ford proposed would pay no less than $80 a week and no more than $134.80 a week, assuming they were for a 40-hour week.

Under the Ford plan, state and local governments would receive up to $2.2 billion to pay for the creation of 374,000 public service jobs for such projects as conservation, community beautification, and the improvement and expansion of health, education and recreation services.

The money would be in addition to $1 billion already distributed, which the administration estimates will provide 170,000 jobs this winter.

The nation's unemployment rate climbed to 5.8 per cent of the work force in September with an estimated 5.3 million Americans out of work, the Labor Department reported last week.

According to Ford's proposal, the federal government would provide $500 million to pay for 83,000 more jobs if the unemployment rate reaches, for three consecutive months, an average of 6 per cent; another $750 million for 125,000 jobs if it reaches 6.5 per cent; and an additional $1 billion for 166,000 jobs at 7 per cent.

The program would go into effect automatically in local labor markets with high unemployment even if the national average remained below 6 per cent. Grants for jobs would be triggered when local rates exceeded 6.5 per cent.

Ford Seeks 40% Better Mileage

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Ford gets his way, automobiles will carry their passengers an average of five miles farther on a gallon of gasoline in 1978 than they do now.

Outlining energy policies Tuesday in a wide-ranging economic address to Congress, the President said he will personally meet with auto industry top management to seek a 40 per cent improvement in gasoline mileage within four years.

That pledge elevates the administration's effort from the agency level — Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill has been after the auto makers since last summer — to the presidential level.

And Ford added that he would go after the mileage improvement "either by agreement or by law," a warning that he might seek something like a horsepower tax or a mandatory fuel-economy standard for automobiles if auto makers don't cooperate voluntarily.

Automobiles in the United States now deliver an average of around 13 miles per gallon; Ford's goal would raise the average to about 18 miles per gallon, probably through a combination of new engine designs and a higher proportion of small cars.

The President made no estimate as to the savings in gasoline which might accrue from increased mileage.

Ford's energy policies endorsed Sawhill's insistence on a campaign to save fuel, but Ford discarded proposals to slap new taxes or surcharges on gasoline, electricity and natural gas, relying instead on appeals for voluntary energy conservation.

However, he did propose a requirement that steam-electric power plants be run on coal or nuclear energy, instead of oil or natural gas.

If adopted, this would rule out further construction of large oil or gas-powered plants and would require many already in existence to switch to coal.

Ford said his aim was to eliminate basic oil and gas-fired electric generation by 1980.

Ford said he would resubmit amendments to the Clean Air Act on which Congress previously failed to act.

Ford also announced orders to reorganize federal energy efforts, with the creation of a new National Energy Board.

He named Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton as "the over-all boss of our national energy program," transferring that power from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Dog May Be Blamed In Deaths

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A swipe of a playful family dog's paw may have lead to the deaths of two toddlers inside a locked electric clothes dryer, police say.

Sekina Eddie, 2, and her brother, Freddie, 3, died accidentally Sunday due to asphyxiation, Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos ruled.

Police Lt. David Keene said Tuesday an investigation revealed dog hairs on the children's clothing and around the door of the dryer in the garage of the Eddie home.

He said a detective also found smears on the door of the dryer which could have been made by swipes of the paw of the family dog.

Keene said, police believe "it is a very good possibility" the dog's swipes closed and locked the dryer door after the children crawled inside.

Keene said officers determined the dryer door could not have been locked from the inside by the children.

"It was a mechanical lock on the door, not a magnetic one," Keene also said.

He said the dryer door was "smooth on the inside in such a way the children could not have pulled something" to pull the door shhut.

The children's parents reported them missing Sunday afternoon, prompting a fruitless four-hour search of the neighborhood.

Bank's Failure No Sign Others Near Collapse

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest bank failure in the nation's history doesn't mean other collapses are looming elsewhere in the industry, federal officials say.

New York's Franklin National Bank, once the nation's 20th largest commercial bank, was declared insolvent by the Treasury Department Tuesday. Most of its operations were sold to a company owned by six of Europe's biggest banks.

"It would be a mistake to view this incident as one generally shared by the banking industry," said Frank Wille, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which was named as receiver for Franklin.

"Franklin's problems were rooted in earnings problems over the years which were exacerbated and exaggerated by foreign exchange losses in May," Wille said.

European-American Bank & Trust Co. paid a purchase premium of $125 million for $1.7 billion of Franklin National's assets. The purchase included Franklin's branch offices, deposits and offsetting liabilities. The FDIC promised European-American a $150 million loan to meet federal deposit requirements, and the foreign-owned company said it planned to draw on $100 million of the loan for now.

Franklin's trust operations were turned over to Bradford Trust Co. of New York, which the New York State Banking Department said had already been handling some of the department's operations on a contract basis.

The FDIC itself took over $2.08 billion in Franklin assets which had served as collateral for $1.7 billion in loans made to the bank by the Federal Reserve System in what was described at the time as the biggest rescue operation ever mounted by the nation's central banking system. The FDIC planned to liquidate the assets over three years to repay the Federal Reserve.

Franklin's problems first came to light this past May 10 when it announced it was omitting a quarterly dividend and said it had suffered substantial losses in foreign exchange dealings. By the end of August, the bank showed a loss of $89 million, partly reflecting continued massive withdrawals by worried customers.

The FDIC said the sale assured that depositors and loan customers would not be affected by the insolvency. Both would become customers of European-American, which planned to open Franklin offices as usual today. The effect on Franklin shareholders remained undetermined.

"At the present time, there is no bank in the $1 billion-or-over size category in the predicament that Franklin is in today," Wille said.

"There are other problems, but nothing of the magnitude and severity of Franklin."

Wille said bank regulators are watching a number of banks with up to $20 million in deposits for signs of developing troubles, but "that list has remained very stable."

Women Enter Skilled Trades

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I enjoy reading your column. My questions to you have to do with the field of tool and diemaking. What are the requirements? I think this trade traditionally is an apprenticeship arrangement. Are there aptitude tests? Would a woman ever be considered, assuming, of course, that she has the right mentality and inclination for this work? What about unions? -- B.F., Chicago

You bet women can become tool and diemakers (T & D makers). More than 4,000 are today,, comprising over 2 percent of the trade. In 1960, female participation was less than 1 percent. In fact, in all skilled trades, women are making inroads. Approximately half a million women are skilled workers today, up from 277,000 in 1960.

T & D MAKERS are not specialized machinists, but highly skilled, creative workers. Their products - tools, dies and special guiding and holding devices - are used to mass-produce metal parts. Actually T & D making are 2 separate crafts, grouped together because of their close relationship. Toolmakers produce jigs and fixtures (devices that hold metal while it's being worked on). They also make gauges and other measuring devices for manufacturing precision metal parts. Diemakers construct dies (metal forms) to shape metal in stamping and forging operations. They also make metal molds for diecasting and for molding plastics. T & D makers also repair these things.

THE MONEY'S GOOD. The 1974 Machinists & Aerospace Workers' union minumum wage rate nationally is $5.51, but many earn $7-8 an hour. Other unions to which T & D makers belong include the United Automobile, Aerospace & Agricultural Implement Workers, and the United Steelworkers. Some T & D makers don't belong to any union.

YOU CAN'T BECOME a T & D maker in jig time. Formal apprenticeship takes 4 years. You get the job first (in manufacturing plants or T & D shops), and then apply for the apprentice training program if there is one. Another way to learn the trade is through equivalent on-job training (informal apprenticeship). Some trainees combine trade or technical school with on-job training (informal apprenticeship). Some trainees combine trade or technical school with on-job training. For more information about apprentice opportunities locally, contact a local office of one of the unions mentioned, or your public employment service office, which may give free aptitude testing for T & D making.

IN SELECTING APPRENTICES, most employers want those with a high school or trade school education. Some test applicants to determine their mechanical aptitudes and abilities in math; others do not. Most of your apprenticeship time would be spent in practical shop training. Classroom training consists of shop math, shop theory, mechanical drawing, tool designing and blueprint reading. Several years' experience after apprenticeship is often necessary to qualify for more difficult T & D work.

ADVANCEMENT can be to tool designer, or a supervisory position. Some open their own T & D shops. Employment growth will be slow in years ahead, with most openings (about 4,200 annually) due to replacement needs, such as retirements and deaths. Also, new numerical control and other machines are replacing many of the conventional machines now used in manufacturing tools, jigs and fixtures, thus increasing the output of T & D makers.

Comedies Share Top TV Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's hit "Sanford and Son" and "Chico and the man" comedy series, which appear back to back on Friday nights, were last week's most popular entertainment shows, according to the A. C. Nielsen ratings.

But ABC's entire Friday and Saturday night lineup—seven series in all—continued to score the lowest ratings points, with "The New Land" ranked last for the fourth straight week, according to the Nielsen survey made public Tuesday.

"Sierra," a new low-rated program NBC says it will cancel after the series' 11th episode airs in December, also was ranked near the bottom of the Nielsen list for the week of Sept. 30-Oct. 6.

The 20 most popular entertainment shows for the week, according to the ratings, were:

"Sanford and Son" and "Chico and the Man" (both NBC); "All in the Family," "Rhoda" and "The Waltons" (all CBS); "Streets of San Francisco" (ABC); "Good Times," "Maude" and "M-A-S-H" (all CBS); "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie 'Columbo'"; "Little House on the Prairie" (NBC); "ABC Sunday Movie 'The Last Picture Show'"; "ABC Tuesday movie 'Stranger Within'"; "Rockford Files" and Walt Disney; (both NBC); "Medical Center" (CBS); "The Rookies" (ABC); "Mary Tyler Moore" (CBS); "Police Woman" (NBC) and "NBC Saturday Movie 'Charlie Varrick'".

Opryland Troupe Hit In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — A Communist youth publication today characterized a country music show headed by Tennessee Ernie Ford as a bright portrayal of working America's folk music tradition.

"This is a bright show with a precisely adjusted tempo, listening to which does not blind one but softly depicts the characters appearing on the stage," wrote the Komsomolskaya Pravada reviewer. The newspaper is the organ of the Communist Youth Organization.

It opened Monday night in Moscow after a three-week tour of four other Soviet cities.

No Relief Soon On Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if President Ford delivers to farmers all he promised in his economic message to Congress, the deck is stacked against substantial food price relief to consumers before 1976.

Ford said soaring food and energy prices are "primary inflationary factors" and noted the country depends in part on foreign supply for oil.

"But we can grow more than enough food for ourselves," Ford said. "To halt higher food prices, we must produce more food."

Ford promised that the government would do all it could to assure farmers they can sell what they grow at "reasonable prices" and pledged muscle to see they get enough fuel and fertilizer to do the job.

But he could not promise clear skies next April and May, when farmers want to plant corn and soybeans. He could not pledge an essential two inches of rain needed next July and August.

Too much rain last spring delayed planting, and too little last summer cut deeply into 1974 grain production.

Early freezes this fall have killed much of the late-planted corn and soybean crops. And consumers will see still higher food prices because feed is too expensive for many farmers to produce additional quantities of meat, milk and poultry.

There is only one wheat crop a year. Only one corn and soybean crop. Those already have been, or soon will be, harvested. They are sharply reduced from prospects six or eight months ago — and they will have to last for another year.

Thus, regardless of Ford's encouragement to farmers, the current food price situation is something consumers will have to live with through 1975. Agriculture Department economists say food prices will continue rising next year.

But farmers can be encouraged by Ford's vow to "allocate all the fuel and ask authority to allocate all the fertilizer" they will need next year.

Q & A On Tax Surcharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress approves, Americans earning $15,000 and above are going to finance most of the new war against inflation.

That was made clear by President Ford in his economic address Tuesday. He offered proposals to help business, housing, the unemployed and public utilities.

But for the taxpayer, he proposed a 5 per cent surcharge on income above $15,000 for families and $7,500 for individuals.

He also announced a 5 per cent surcharge in corporate income taxes, but that will be more than offset by increases in the investment tax credit for businesses.

Ford acknowledged that the proposed tax hike, which would apply to about 28 per cent of all taxpayers, would be politically unpopular. But he said it was the "acid test of our joint determination to whip inflation."

Here are some answers to questions that taxpayers may have on how the surcharge would affect them, if Congress approves it:

Q. Will the surcharge result in a bigger withholding tax from my pay check?

A. No, the tax would be paid when you file your 1975 income tax returns, which means you would not actually pay it until 1976.

Q: Who will pay the surtax?

A: Generally speaking, families with gross incomes of $15,000 and over will be subject to the tax. For individuals, the cutoff is $7,500. Those with incomes below these levels would normally be excluded.

Q. I'm making more than $15,000. Does that mean my total tax bill will be increased by 5 per cent because of the surcharge?

A. No, basically the surcharge will be applied to the tax on your income above $15,000, although it's slightly more complicated than that.

If you are the head of a family of four and earn $15,000, the government already allows you $2,000 in standard deductions and $3,000 in personal exemptions for your family. That leaves you with $10,000 taxable income.

The surcharge would apply as a 5 per cent increase to any taxable income in excess of $10,000 in your case.

In the case of an individual taxpayer who takes a $1,300 standard deduction and a single exemption of $750, his taxable income is $5,450, and the surcharge would apply to anything over that.

Q. Does this go into effect immediately?

A. No, the President wants the surcharge to apply to 1975 income only. It would be a one-year program. And Congress would have to approve it in any event.

AGAINST PRICE-FIXING

Businesses Feel Heat Of Drive

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Butchers, bakers and zippermakers already are feeling heat from the Ford administration's campaign against price-fixing. Future targets may face tougher treatment and million-dollar fines.

President Ford gave the attack fresh impetus Tuesday when he promised stern enforcement of antitrust laws and asked Congress for harsh penalties for violators.

No President since Harry S. Truman has taken such a strong public stand against illegal corporate conspiracies, said government antitrust lawyers.

The administration attack is designed to end business practices which diminish competition and force prices up for the consumer.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, has estimated that such practices cost Americans as much as $80 million a year.

"I am determined to return to the vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws," Ford said as he sent Congress proposed legislation raising the maximum fine for antitrust violators from $50,000 to $1 million for corporations and $100,000 for individuals.

With his statement, Ford took up an attack which has been gaining momentum in the department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Though he endorsed its key elements, Ford said nothing about Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's plea for stiffer prison sentences as well as fines for corporate conspirators.

Saxbe called on Friday for legislation raising the maximum prison term for price fixing from one year to five years.

Ford's written proposals for tougher fines were sent immediately to Congress where a House committee earlier in the day approved legislation setting the maximum corporate fine at half the amount Ford asked. The bill sets the individual fine at $100,000, as the President requested.
