Kenney Takes Over As Air War Mounts

New Chief Grouping Forces On Okinawa

Japs Promised Plenty Of Fireworks Shortly, And On Full 24-Hour Basis

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Friday, July 13—Gen. George C. Kenney, whose then-slender aerial resources stopped a Japanese invasion convoy in the Bismark sea in March, 1943, became top tactical Army air commander today in the 'round-the-clock bombing campaign against the Japanese homeland, with his advanced headquarters on Okinawa.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of Army forces in the Pacific, announced that the U. S. Army Seventh Air force had been made an integal part of Kenney's Far Eastern Air forces, which already included the Fifth and 13th Air forces.

Move To Forward Base

In announcing the new command two days after Adm. Chester W. Nimitz had disclosed that control of the Seventh Air force was passing to the Army, MacArthur said the Central Pacific force of Liberators and Mitchells was "in the process of deployment to forward bases to participate in the air saturation of Japan."

The Seventh Air force includes the Seventh Fighter command whose Iwo Jima-based Mustangs have been steadily striking Japan for weeks past and providing escorts for Superfortresses.

The Superforts of the 20th Air force and the Eighth Air force of European fame already have been designated as the strategic air forces under Gen. Carl A. Spaatz.

Kenney, dynamic little four-star general whose Fifth and 13th Air forces spearheaded MacArthur's advance from New Guinea to Luzon after beating off the Japanese New Guinea reinforcement attempt in the Bismarck sea, had this to say about his new assignment:

"As soon as we are in position, we will attack Japan from 10,000 feet and from ten feet, with fire and explosives, with bombers and fighters—and we will do it 24 hours a day.

"The Seventh has come from the east, the Fifth from the south and the 13th from the southeast.

"Okinawa is a long way from Hawaii, from Port Moresby and the Solomons, but we have learned something with every move.

"We have pulled the long-range 'snooper' out of our hats, and the long-range fighter; we have developed the attack bomber, the parafrag bomb, the fire bomb, and we have got still more tricks up our sleeve."

Kenney, who will be 56 on Aug. 6, has been MacArthur's air commander since the earliest days of the long fight back from Aus-

COL. OVETA CULP HOBBY

Col. Hobby Quits Post With WACs

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — Col. Oveta Culp Hobby today resigned as Women's Army corps director, then watched her own eagles pinned on her deputy and successor, Col. Westray Battle Boyce.

Colonel Hobby, selected more than three years ago to help organize and direct the women's unit of the U. S. Army, told a news conference and a large group of WAC officers that she considered her "mission completed."

Back To Family and Work

Asked why she was resigning, Colonel Hobby replied that she is returning to her family and her work as executive editor of the Houston (Texas) Post.

Colonel Boyce, whose home is Rocky Mount, N. C., takes over immediately as WAC director, while Colonel Hobby goes on terminal leave before assuming inactive status September 3.

Formal announcement of Colonel Hobby's resignation and departure, and Colonel Boyce's promotion, was made by Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson.

Patterson praised the retiring WAC director for "notable service rendered to the Army and to the nation" and for her contribution to the morale of the women's Army unit and the entire Army.

Fought Many Obstacles

"She has had to fight many obstacles in promoting a program unique in the history of the Army," Patterson added. "And she did it with great distinction."

She said in a farewell statement that she considered her "life greatly enriched" by her work in organizing and directing the women's Army unit which has reached a strength of nearly 100,000 and is serving in every theater of war.

Her message read, Colonel Hobby rose to give her place to her successor, but fumbled as she tried to gather up her notes.

"I'm a little butter-fingered today," she remarked.

House, Senate Agree On Curtailed Funds For FEPC Operation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 12—The congressional fight over continuing the Fair Employment Practice committee ended tonight with House and Senate agreement on a $250,000 appropriation to run it in the 12 months beginning July 1.

The legislators got together when the Senate accepted by voice vote House language which nullified a previous stipulation that the agency must use the funds to liquidate.

The $250,000 is just half what FEPC had asked.

Deferment Fails

Senator Morse (R-Ore) made a futile effort to defer a decision until Monday. He said he hoped that if this were done the people at home would make their sentiments known and a larger appropriation would be given the agency.

He launched into what he termed "extended discussion"—sometimes another name for filibuster—in an effort to force delay but gave up the floor after an hour and a half.

During his speech Morse stressed the theme that democracy is on trial in the world and that it will be judged in part on the way it treats minorities.

By the time the FEPC fight was ended, the hour was so late that leaders delayed final action until tomorrow on a $750,000,000 war agencies appropriation bill which contains the FEPC item.

House Stands By

The House had been standing by, waiting for the Senate to act on FEPC, with expectation that the entire bill could be finally acted on. House leaders decided to let it go until tomorrow.

When Morse gave up the floor, Senator Bilbo (D-Miss), bitter foe of FEPC, threw a scare into Senate leaders by demanding a quorum call. There were 16 senators on the floor at the time and no chance that a quorum could be mustered.

Bilbo, who recently filibustered against FEPC, said he thought a quorum should be present "because this is far-reaching legislation."

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) and Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), handling the bill, rushed at Bilbo, arguing veherently. The Mississippian then withdrew his request.

OWI Now Main Hitch

Principal item remaining in controversy in the big bill is the amount to be given the Office of War Information. The House voted to allow it only $18,000,000. The Senate boosted this to $39,000,000.

A conference committee from the two chambers agreed to compromise at $35,000,000. Their conference report will be submitted to the House tomorrow and if approved there will then go to the Senate.

Earlier in the day, the House

WILL J. TUCKER

Tucker Resigns Commission Job

AUSTIN, July 12. (AP)—Will J. Tucker today resigned as executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, and immediately was appointed by his successor as head of a newly-established division in the game and fish department.

Succeeding Tucker as executive head of the department was Howard Dodgen, chief clerk since 1932.

The announcement of Tucker's resignation was made by Chairman Murrell Buckner of the commission, after an executive session. The commission also accepted the resignation of Clyde Rudasill as assistant executive secretary, and announced the appointment of H. E. Faubion to that post.

Heads New Division

Rudasill then was named director of predatory animal control. Tucker's appointment as director of a new division, lakes management and improvement, with approval of the commission, was announced by Dodgen shortly after the meeting.

The new executive head of the game and fish department has been chief clerk under Tucker since 1932. Faubion who succeeded Rudasill as assistant executive secretary, has been director of law enforcement since 1929. No successor to Faubion has yet been named.

Buckner said the commission's action in the reorganization was taken by a unanimous vote. Tucker had been executive secretary since 1926.

Tucker Well Pleased

Tucker apparently was satisfied with the new arrangement. Asked for comment, he said:

"This satisfies me entirely. I am pleased with the arrangement.

B-29s Dump Tons Of Death On Five Areas

Marine And Navy Planes Tear Into Home Islands; New Fleet Blow Seen

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, July 13—More than 500 B-29s spilled 3,000 tons of fire and demolition bombs before dawn today on a Tokyo bay oil center and four Japanese cities after Marine and Navy planes had battered a big naval air station, factories and rail lines at the south end of the daily-pounded enemy homeland.

Shortly after the 21st Bomber command disclosed the sixth Superforeress strike in 13 days at Nippon, fleet headquarters reported a "strong flight" of Marine Corsairs tore into the Kanoya naval air station on Kyushu the day before. On the same day, Navy search planes destroyed a factory, damaged another and wrecked rail traffic on eastern Kyushu.

New Fleet Blow Seen

(A dispatch from the Cruiser Augusta taking President Truman to the Big Three conference said the chief executive was in touch hourly with the powerful U. S. Third Fleet off Japan. This hinted at possible new blows, for the fleet has been under a security blackout since its big strike at Tokyo Tuesday.

(Building up toward "the air saturation of Japan," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced at Manila that his veteran air leader, Gen. George C. Kenney had become top tactical air commander and had moved advanced headquarters of the Far Eastern Air force to Okinawa.

(Kenney promptly said Japan would be bombed "from 10,000 feet and from ten feet, with fire and explosives, with bombers and fighters—and we will do it 24 hours a day.")

Along a 480-mile strip from the southern island of Shikoku northward to an industrial city 60 miles north of Tokyo, the sky giants dumped their cargoes of destruction, bringing to nearly 18,000 tons the weight of bombs they have unloaded on Japan since July 1.

The big Kawasaki oil center on a reclaimed island in Tokyo bay, previously hit in an April raid, was the target of demolition bombs.

The four industrial cities, all raided for the first time, were showered with incendiary bombs in the same sort of saturation attack that has been erasing Japan's war industries one by one.

Here Are Areas Battered

They were:

Utsunomiya, industrial city of 80,000 population 60 miles north of Tokyo.

Nips Jump On Suzuki For Failure To Stop Air Blows; Gloomy Outlook Is Pictured

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12 (AP) —As the constant blasting of Allied bombs tore at Japan's home soil today, a leading Nipponese journalist accused the Suzuki cabinet of doing nothing "while the empire is confronted by its most serious crisis," radio Tokyo reported.

Eighty-two-year-old Ichiro (Soho) Tokutomi, dean of the Japanese press, exhorted the cabinet to do better than hold routine meetings in the premier's residence, said the enemy broadcast heard by the Federal Communications commission.

Earlier Tokutomi severely criticized the government for not telling the people the truth about the seriousness of military setbacks in the Pacific.

Main Fears Right Now

Tokyo radio's broadcast today brimmed over with fear for the future. They included:

Worry that Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet was still on the prowl and soon would launch another huge carrier plane attack.

Disclosure that Japanese civilian "deserters from the defense front" are attempting to flee bombed cities such as Yamagata in north central Honshu instead of "digging-in."

A report that 210 planes from British aircraft carriers struck Sabang off the northern end of distant Sumatra yesterday.

Speculation that the British intend to land on Car Nicobar island, 450 miles north of Sumatra, west of the Malay peninsula.

Three Killed In Plane Collision

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 12. (AP) —A Boston-Miami Eastern Air liner and an Army plane collided 3,000 feet in the air today, killing two Army fliers and a two-year-old boy, one of 17 passengers aboard the liner.

Captain G. D. Davis of Miami, pilot, and Capt. N. L. Martindale, co-pilot, said the collision occurred as the transport was losing altitude preparatory to landing at Columbia.

None Saw Army Plane

Davis said neither he, the co-pilot, nor any of the passengers saw the twin-engined Army plane until just before the crash.

The child's mother, listed as Mrs. A. E. Williams of Miami, Fla., was in a critical condition at a Florence, S. C., hospital, 20 miles from the accident scene. The child died enroute to the hospital.

The hospital listed the seriously injured as Mr. and Mrs. Maxine Silberg of Caracas, Venzuela, and Gertrude H. Lustig of New York City.

Names of the dead airmen and one who parachuted to safety were withheld by the Army.

Engines Torn Out

The airliner, with both engines knocked out, made an emergency landing in a cornfield. Its left wing was partially torn off and the fuselage aft of the cockpit was cut.

Newsmen at the scene said the Army plane exploded two miles from the point of collision, taking one occupant to his death. Another, they said, was killed in an attempt to parachute, while a third parachuted to safety but was injured.

One of the transport's engines landed a few feet from the plane and the other fell a mile away.

Red Cross Officials To Confer With Japs

MOSCOW, July 12. (AP) — Two Swiss officials of the International Red Cross left Moscow today for the Manchurian frontier to arrange with the Japanese details of shipping prisoner of war packages to Allied prisoners.

The officials are Dr. Maurice Marcell-Junod and Marguerite Straehler. Marcell-Junod said he hoped to see American Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright whom he believed to be in an American camp.

Chiefley Elected To Prime Minister Post

CANBERRA, July 12. (U.P.) — Joseph Benedict Chiefley today was elected leader of the Federal Labor party, automatically succeeding the late John Curtin as prime minister of Australia.

He was chosen outright on the first ballot and will be sworn in as Australia's 16th prime minister tomorrow.

He was elected after 15 minutes of balloting, for a near-record, after an earlier move to postpone the leadership elections for five weeks was defeated.

Ex-Solon Joins Many Pleas For Trial Of World Charter

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—A former senator told his colleagues considering the United Nations charter today that war "can and is being abolished" and that Russia will carry through her end of the bargain.

Blind, 89-year-old Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma urged the Senate Foreign Relations committee to speed ratification without prolonged debate, "lest the power of the American people to use the opportunity the world has awaited so long be weakened."

Favored League Covenant

Owen, who voted for the League of Nations covenant when it was defeated by the Senate after the last war, joined sides with a veteran of this war in asserting that the organization worked out at San Francisco can prevent future conflicts.

Lt. Comdr. Livingston Hartley, Washington, D. C., said he thought the battles in which he fought could have been prevented by a United Nations peace organization.

Groups claiming millions of members filled the committee record with pleas for quick approval of the charter.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said he thought the hearings could be completed tomorrow.

Other Appeals Recorded

In addition to a stream of witnesses asking Senate ratification of the San Francisco charter, the committee put on record piles of favorable letters and telegrams church and women's organizations.

Vandenberg predicted that the committee will be ready to send the document to the floor of the Senate next week.

Several of the witnesses emphasized that the charter itself cannot guarantee peace, but that, as Dr. Morris L. Cook said, "it is the first step toward world cooperation, and Senate ratification will be a second."

Dr. Cook submitted the views of the independent citizens committee or arts, sciences and professions, which also sent a telegram signed by Jo Davidson, renowned sculptor.

Friday The 13th Hoodoos Ranch Personnel So Hoo Doo Help Gets Holiday On Full Pay

MONTICELLO, Utah, July 12. (AP) — The owners of the Hoo Doo ranch here aren't exactly superstitious — but, all employes—three cowhands and a choreboy — will have tomorrow off with pay to avoid a repetion of the last Friday the 13th.

Nobody had ever paid much attention to the name of the place—least of all Rancher John Baker and his wife — until that day in April when Friday and 13 came together — with a bang.

First, one of the cowhands asked another to pull his aching tooth after breakfast. The other complied, with a pair of pliers, broke the tooth and received a fragment of it in his eye.

The third cowboy was harnessing a work horse when the animal bolted, bouncing a metal piece of the harness in the waddie's face and knocking out several teeth.

Rancher Baker offered to take the boys in to town for medical attention and pulled his watch from his pocket to check the time. The timepiece caught, then dislodged striking him in the face. A few minutes later, he broke his thumb.

Mrs. Baker decided to go to town with the others and soon had good reason. While straining to hook a wartime girdle she sprained her wrist.

Out in the barn the choreboy didn't like something about a cow's demeanor. Lifting his foot to kick the animal he fell backwards and landed on a sizeable spike driven into the floor.

In the doctor's office Baker thumbed through a calendar until he found tomorrow's date. Then and there the staff was promised the holiday—with pay.

Violent Battle Rages As Aussies Loose Flamethrowers Against Tough Jap Ridge

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Friday, July 13—A violent battle beyond Balikpapan was reported today, with Australian and Dutch troops wielding flame-throwers in an attempt to encircle formidable Japanese ridge positions north of the captured Borneo oil port.

At the same time, a one-mile advance east of Balikpapan was scored by Australian troops fighting along Borneo's east coast toward the rich Sambodja oil fields.

Infantrymen of the Australian Seventh division, supported by Dutch colonial troops, were closing in on the core of enemy resistance north of Balikpapan, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique announced.

Blast Way Through

Paced by tanks and flame throwers, they blasted their way through tough resistance in a two-mile advance and closed in on "Smashed Stone ridge," keystone of the enemy's positions.

Meanwhile Dutch forces farther east, pushing along Kariango peninsula, joined another Australian column and swung northeast, attempting to encircle the ridge.

The Australian forces driving along Borneo's east coast sent back word that Japanese resistance had begun to slacken as they advanced two and a half miles beyond Manggar airdrome, 13 miles east of Balikpapan.

Week of Heavy Fighting

The gain was ground out only after a week of heavy fighting, during which a number of enemy guns, mortars and light machine-guns were captured.

The advance placed the Australians about a dozen miles from Sambodja, pipeline control point and administrative center in the oil field.

A dispatch broadcast by Tokyo claimed without Allied confirmation that at least 1,500 Allied troops had been killed or wounded in the fighting around Balikpapan.

On Northwest Coast

Across the big island along the northwest coast, Australian troops in a 10-mile advance drew within 30 miles of the enemy base of Jesselton in an unopposed march up the Jesselton-Beauford railroad.

An enemy strongpoint in the rubber plantation forests east of Beaufort, which is less than 50 miles south of Jesselton, was destroyed.

Another Australian force in one of its amphibious leaps along Borneo's west coast also reached a point 30 road miles from Jesselton, arriving at the village of Andus.

The heaviest fighting was in the Balikpapan area, where the Australians were driving on "Smashing Stone ridge."

More Curbs On Travel Expected

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — The ODT disclosed today that it contemplates new travel curbs on civilians, while the House heard a demand for a ban on the use of private railroad cars by wealthy families and railroad executives.

J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, told reporters that further travel restrictions are contemplated "in all categories, not aimed particularly at sports."

Horse Racing Situation

He made this remark after a conference with Harry A. Parr, III, president of the Thoroughbred Racing association, and other racing officials. The conference dealt with ODT's order yesterday prohibiting shipment of racing and show animals by rail or other public carriers.

Associates said Johnson, in mentioning further travel restrictions, apparently referred specifically to the prospect of additional reductions in sleeping cars available for civilian use.

In announcing last week an order withdrawing from service by noon next Sunday all sleeping cars operating between points 450 miles or less apart, Johnson predicted it might be necessary to withdraw still more sleeping cars for use in carrying troops across the country.

There is also the possibility of shifting some additional day coaches to the military pool, ODT

Neighbors Pool Tractors, Plant Crop For Long-Ill Friend

FARMERS of the Woodrow community—some of them held out of their own fields by lack of moisture and apparently pleased at the prospect of getting into a field where they could do some belated work—put 18 four-row tractors into the 320-acre field of the ailing S. C. Bourland Thursday and planted 300 acres of it to Plainsman and Martin maize and hegari.

The "tractor party" was arranged to assist Bourland, 64, who today has been in St. Mary's hospital five weeks. He underwent major surgery. His condition Thursday was termed "very satisfactory" by his physician. The farm is six miles south and three-fourts west of Lubbock, just off the Tahoka highway. An estimated inch and a quarter of rain fell there Monday night and Tuesday morning, but farmers living south and west of his place have received insufficient moisture for planting.

Those who owned or drove tractors were:

Dinner—reminding one of log-rollin' spreads in the deep South—was served by wives of several of the farmers, at the Bourland residence. There were four kinds of meat, for instance . . .

Farmers whose land is too dry to plant "went on record" in the inevitable round-table that followed dinner as favoring irrigation farming. Those who have irrigation wells suggested that dry land farmers wouldn't do well to change to a method that has required "14 to 24 hours of work a day." Johnson grass, they agreed, could be whipped out by continued turning under and oil "poisoning" treatment, and that the campaign to eradicate the grass is progressing satisfactorily. The

Drafting Of 'Job Jumpers' Is Halted

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—Selective Service tonight discontinued the drafting of "job jumpers" over 26 who fail to meet the regular Army physical standards.

It announced immediate cancellation of so-called secondary calls which had put these men in special groups that did not qualify for regular duty.

Provisions for the induction of other job-jumpers are being retained. This means that registrants over 26 who are physically fit will continue to be inducted if they change jobs without permission of their draft board.

Jap Humor Falls Flat As Yanks Go Aboard Sickening Hospital Ship

By EDWARD L. THOMAS
United Press War Writer

GUAM, July 10. (Delayed). — Death, dirt and disease—and a Nipponese skipper bursting with curiosity about Babe Ruth and the New York Yankees—were the strange cargo of a Japanese hospital ship boarded by an American naval party off Wake island last week.

The stench of death and corruption hung over the entire ship and trailed it like a foul cloud, so strong that the odor permeated the American Destroyer USS Murray standing by more than 1,000 yards away.

Pathos And Humor

Members of the Murray's boarding party who went aboard the Takasago Maru on July 4 and 5 revealed today some of the pathos and humor they found among the crew and the nearly 1,000 starved, sick Japanese soldiers who had just been taken off Wake island by the hospital ship.

The Takasago Maru's skipper, a former third baseman on a Japanese Navy team, wanted most of all to know if Babe Ruth was still alive and how the Yankees were doing in the pennant race.

He was assured that the Babe was still alive and doing somewhat better than the Yankees—now in third place.

They "Treat" Party

The skipper eagerly offered the Americans tea, beer, sake and whiskey—in that order—in exchange for their information, according to Lt. Frank Huggins, Hollywood, Calif., who served as interpreter for the boarding party.

But humor, conversation and the fate of the Yankees fell flat in the atmosphere of death that filled the ship.

The American officers and men were sickened by the "odor of stravation, like a sweet, sickly odor of rotten fruit, so strong it made the men cough, cover their noses and mouths and hesitate before entering the wards," recalled another of the boarding party, Lt. (jg) Robert E. Estlake, a Navy doctor from Oakland, Calif., and Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Meagor Medical Supplies

Westlake said the luckless Japanese troops removed aboard the Takasago Maru from Wake showed all the symptoms of starvation. The ship, he added, apparently had medical supplies enough for only about 150 cases, and he agreed with the Japanese doctor who said: "Many will die tonight."

Westlake estimated that 15 per cent of the cases would be dead before they reached Japan, although he said most of them, with proper treatment, could be in shape to fight again within 60 days.

School Man Gives Segregation View

LOS ANGELES, July 12 (U.P.)—Racial segregation in public schools is harmful to both Mexican and Anglo-Saxon children, Dr. Ralph Beals, head of the anthropology department at the University of California at Los Angeles, testified today in federal court.

He appeared in a suit brought by Mexican-American parents who said their children were placed in separate schools by four Orange county school districts.

"The disadvantage of segregation primarily is the reinforcing of stereotypes of inferiority and superiority in the population," said Beals, who has done extensive research on the Mexican people.

Racial intermingling in such places as New Mexico has broadened the understanding of people of different cultures, the anthropologist declared.

Beals refuted a defense claim that language differences necessitated segregation of Mexicans.

"The best way to learn any foreign language is to go among people who speak that language," he said, "so the learning of English is not accomplished by segregation."

Woman Taking Baby Confesses Motives

MARION, O., July 12 (AP) — Mrs. Phyllis Anne Webster, pretty 29-year-old wife of a soldier overseas, was quoted today by Marion county Sheriff Leroy Retterer as giving these motives for taking Baby Jean Eileen Crevistion from her hospital bed Sunday night:

"I wanted to make sure I got a divorce from my husband and I wanted to make sure Estel Lanman would marry me."

The sheriff said Mrs. Webster, who gave the name Mrs. Phyllis Lanman when first arrested after a wide search for the missing baby, said she and Lenman "planned to be married. I tried for a divorce from my husband and failed to get it, but Lanman's divorce went through all right."

She added, said Sheriff Retterer, that she had a miscarriage and "feared Lanman's affections would diminish. I felt that if I could get a baby, I could make sure I got a divorce from my husband and I wanted to make sure Lanman would marry me."

The idea that temperatures on earth are controlled by the sun was held by ancient Greek philosophers.

Guardian Angel Rides With Officer On His Shell-Loaded Jeep

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE TWENTY-FOURTH DIVISION NEAR DAVAO, Philippines—Sometimes it seems almost fantastic the narrow escapes a soldier can have in the normal functions of his job and how far a man can press his luck.

First Lt. Matthew Sabatine of Stroudsburg, Pa., supply officer for the veteran 21st Infantry regiment, is a case in point. Even the super-imaginative Hollywood dreamers would be hard pressed to match the chills and thrills Sabatine went through one day in the fighting around Davao gulf.

Call From Front

It started when Sabatine's phone rang and a strained voice pleaded: "Enemy attacking strong. Ammunition needed badly. Rush ammunition forward at once."

Then the phone went dead. Sabatine checked the origin and within 15 minutes was driving an overloaded jeep and trailer up the road to the front.

As he threaded his careening load of ammunition through the white-flagged course of a mine field, Sabatine was stopped by an officer in charge of a de-fusing crew.

"That road is heavily mined with 500-pound bombs," the officer said. "They aren't tagged or defused yet and its suicide with your load to . . ."

But He Drives On

But Sabatine didn't hear the rest. He jammed the jeep in gear and roared on up the road, trying to dodge any portion that looked suspicious. Four hundred yards from his distination he was stopped by an engineer outfit rebuilding a destroyed bridge. Impatiently Sabatine waited until the bridge was clear, listening to sporadic fire of Americans just across the river and wondering how long their ammunition would last.

While he was waiting, the defusing crew arrived.

"Get out of that jeep," the officer in charge ordered.

Sabatine climbed out and the other officer got in and carefully drove the jeep about 20 yards forward. Then he ran back, grabbed Sabatine by the arms and exclaimed:

"Look what you were sitting on." The jeep wheel marks covered a buried 500-pound bomb.

Trappers Break Up Paradise Of Wolves

McALESTER, Okla., July 12 (U.P.) Federal trappers have broken up a paradise for wolves on this huge 72-square mile naval ammunition depot reservation.

Wolves, the non-whistling variety, became very bold in killing sheep, poultry and young calves near the reservation south of McAlester. They would scamper to the restricted area to escape the wrath of the farmers and their dogs.

A committee called on Capt. Elmer Woodside, commanding officer of the depot, who promptly brought in federal trappers. Thus far a total of 30 wolves have been trapped on the rugged terrain of the reservation.

Taft Opens Bretton Woods Fight, Says Device Would Drain Savings

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—Opening a Senate floor fight against the Bretton Woods agreements, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) declared today the proposed international bank would become a "device for draining our savings out of the United States for the benefit of the rest of the world."

He drew an immediate reply from Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) who said the agreements represent "at least a fair chance" of avoiding the sort of mistakes made after the last war. These mistakes, he said, led to the 1929 depression.

Can't Prosper In World Chaos

"No nation can preserve prosperity for itself if there is chaos in the rest of the world," the Kentuckian asserted.

Officially, the legislation for American participation in the international monetary fund and the international bank, proposed in the agreements, will not reach the Senate floor until Monday. It has passed the House.

Taft opened the fight ahead of time with a 5,000-word prepared speech against the proposed $9,100,000,000 bank (U. S. subscription $3,175,000,800). He said he would deal in detail later with the $8,800,000,000 international stabilization fund (U. S. quota $2,750,800,000).

Representatives of 44 United Nations worked out the proposals at the conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., last summer.

The bank was conceived as an institution which would guarantee loans from private interests for rehabilitation and economic development of member countries.

Taft asserted that the whole $9,100,000,000 of potential loans could be sold in the United States.

"In effect, therefore, the bank is a tremendous plan, under the guise of international cooperation, to lend our people's and our government's money abroad," he said. He went on to argue that the bank would be only as good as the credit of the United States since "few foreign nations are on a self-supporting basis."

Passengers Increase On Continental Lines

DENVER, July 12. (U.P.) — Air travel is increasing in popularity. Continental Air lines reported today that during the month of June they had the heaviest business in the history of the company.

Donald A. Duff, general traffic and sales manager, reported that during those 30 days 4,971,027 revenue passenger miles were flown —an increase of 34 per cent over May and an increase of 123 per cent over June of 1944.

Nearly all of the 23 cities served by Continental showed a very sizeable increase in number of passengers that boarded at the point compared with the same month a year ago. Kansas City was up 407 per cent over June of 1944; Albuquerque showed a 180 per cent increase; San Antonio increased 265 per cent; Denver had a 246 per cent increase, and El Paso had a 157 per cent increase.

Air express showed a 154 per cent jump over June, 1944.

Yugoslavs Returning Home At Heavy Rate

BELGRADE, July 12. (AP)—Repatriated Yugoslavs from central European territory occupied by British and Americans are reported arriving at Jesenice, near the Austrian border, at the rate of 6,000 daily.

Details for the return of approximately 250,000 Yugoslavs in SHAEF territory, former prisoners and conscripted workers, were worked out at a conference of military and UNRRA officials in Belgrade last week.

Medals Awarded Two San Antonio Generals

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12 (U.P.)—The War department announced today that two San Antonio, Tex., generals have been awarded Distinguished Service medals.

Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the Sixth Army in the Southwest Pacific area, received an Oak Leaf cluster to his medal: and Brig. Gen. Roy C. L. Graham was awarded a DSM for his service in the Persian Gulf command.

The department's citation for Krueger's cluster said, "He has an outstanding record of brilliant accomplishments." The general has been the commanding officer of the 6th Army since Feb. 16, 1943. During this time he directed amphibious operations, among many others, which liberated Luzon and other Philippine islands.

As assistant chief of staff for supply in Iran, Graham organized a supply network to serve the entire 700 miles of the Persian corridor. This task involved the maintenance of proper relationships between the United States, British and Russian forces.

Texas U. Professor Banned From Campus Under Court Order

AUSTIN, July 12. (U.P.)—Dr. John Leo Abernethy, brilliant young chemist, was under temporary ban from the University of Texas campus today.

A temporary restraining order was issued by Dist. Judge Roy C. Archer late yesterday at request of the attorney general's department through a petition attested by acting University President Theophilus S. Painter.

Gist of the complaint was that Dr. Abernethy persists in trying to carry out his former duties at the university though he was suspended and discharged about June 29 under the president's emergency powers.

The situation came to a crux, university offices said, when Dr. Abernethy insisted upon participation in the registration of students for the summer term.

Portions of the petition say that Dr. Abernethy erroneously thniks he is being persecuted by various persons and that there is a conspiracy or league against him to harm him in person and in his position at the university.

By reasons of his beliefs, the petition avers, the professor constitutes himself a "general nuisance and threat to the tranquility, well-being and personal safety of such persons."

Judge Archer set a hearing on issuance of a permanent injunction for July 20. Dr. Abernethy was not available for comment.

Another "Sky Fire" Reported In Spain

MADRID, July 12. (AP)—While scientists, reporters and movie cameramen waited today in La Roya, Almeria province, for a glimpse of the recurring "sky fire" reported to have terrified villagers and scorched buildings, another mountain village announced a similar occurrence.

The mayor of Lechon, in southern Zaragoza province, wrote that during a storm on June 5 a whirling column of air struck the ground near the village "with a tremendous noise like a gigantic bomb bursting" while "flames more than 30 yards high leaped in the sky."

The Lechon phenomenon was witnessed by a nearby weather observatory which called it "a complete mystery."

Inequalities Cited By Solon

West Texas suffered several inequalities in the last session of the Texas legislature but failure of solons to carry out the mandate of the Constitution and redistrict the state, along with the continual remission of taxes for certain South and East Texas counties, were two of the most notable ones, according to State Rep. Preston E. Smith's talk to the Kiwanis club at the Lubbock hotel Thursday at noon.

Smith cited the efforts of Rep. Harley Sadler of Sweetwater to get redistricting legislation through the House and told how it was killed by a motion to table only after ten minutes deliberation in spite of the fact that each representative took an oath to uphold the Constitution as he was sworn into office.

"I believe the only way to redistrict the state is for the governor to call a special session for that purpose alone," Smith said, pointing out that the last redistricting was passed in a similar special session called by former Gov. Pat Neff.

Other Areas Get Legislation

Regarding the tax remission bills, Smith declared "there is a bunch of counties in South and East Texas that come before the Legislature for tax remission legislation for flood control after every hard rain . . . and get the legislation passed because they have the most votes."

"It's hard to get any legislation passed that's beneficial for West Texas," he declared. "When the chips are down, the boys just vote against it, just as they do against redistricting."

Smith explained the Constitutional amendments up for vote of the people this year and then told how his proposed amendment allowing state-supported colleges to share in the permanent university fund was defeated. He traced the original intent of the fund through studies of the minutes of the Republic of Texas and early legislatures and said he believed it was the intent of our forefathers that the fund was to provide for "higher education" and not for one or two schools alone.

Urges Study Of Constitution

Smith closed his talk by urging closer study of the Constitution by citizens of this section of Texas.

"It is the law of the land, the authority under which our laws are made and enforced and I believe every school child in the state should be taught and inoculated with its precepts, for they're going to be the citizens of tomorrow."

Smith was introduced by Dr. L. C. Riethmayer, who with T. W. Sawyer, was program chairman. Out-of-town guests at the luncheon included: Cecil Mills, Dallas; L. A. Smith, Austin; Tom E. Popplewell, Fort Worth; Polly Parrott, Amarillo; and Lt. H. P. Stock, Big Spring.

Exiled Poles To Remain In Arms

LONDON, July 12 (U.P.)—Lt. Gen. Wladyslaw Anders today ordered his 50,000 Polish soldiers in Italy to remain loyal to their discarded London government-in-exile and resist all "enemy" attempts to lure them back to Poland.

In a biting order of the day issued to the Polish Second Army corps, Anders reiterated his support of the London regime and denounced the action of Britain and the United States in recognizing the Polish provisional government in Warsaw.

He told his troops, who are under the British supreme command and paid by British funds, that they must remain a closely-knit, militant body until conditions inside Poland are changed.

Anders' order of the day was made public in London by the Polish forces press bureau, which received it from the general in Rome.

"All our basic rights as a nation are being wiped out," he said in direct reference to the Big Three agreement establishing the Warsaw coalition government.

"The powers of the world trample over our constitution and over our rightful authorities. For the temporary sake of convenience, they accept a fait accompli which was imposed on Poland by foreign might."

Anders declared that the continued existence of the Polish Army is "an eyesore to our enemies" and he warned his troops that an effort will be made to "destroy" them.

Navy To Buy Research Facilities For Plant

MARSHALL, July 12 (AP)—The U. S. Navy will spend "several million dollars" on special research facilities to be installed at the Lone Star Steel company's plant near Daingerfield, Tex., Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex) has announced.

The congressman told the Marshall News Messenger that he is not at liberty to elaborate on the nature of the facilities, but added they were "of much importance in connection with the war program."

Capital Expansion Endorsed By Bankers

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—The American Bankers association today endorsed legislation expanding capitalization of the export-import bank from $700,000,000 to $3,500,000,000 as a means of expanding foreign trade.

W. Randolph Burgess, ABA president, told the House banking committee the expansion is needed principally "for meeting promptly deserving credit needs prior to the setting up of an international bank," under the proposed Bretton Woods agreements.

Simmons Mentioned For Supreme Court

HOUSTON, July 12. (AP)—D. A. Simmons of Houston, president of the American Bar association, is being mentioned for the United States Supreme court, the Chronicle learned today.

He is being endorsed for the position vacated by the recent retirement of Justice Owen Roberts. Telegrams on behalf of Simmons have been sent to Washington from all parts of the nation, Simmons' friends told the newspaper. Among the messages were telegrams from some of Houston's labor leaders and business and professional men.

Simmons was a former first assistant Texas attorney general under former Attorney General Dan Moody, later Governor Moody, and a former assistant United States district attorney. His father, the late D. E. Simmons, was once attorney general of Texas.

Simmons served as consultant of the United States delegation at the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

PRIME MINISTER

PERHAPS we have not read as closely as we should, but we do not understand the reason that lies back of the method England follows in not announcing the returns of the July election until late this month. How different that is from our presidential elections when candidates and voters sit up late, eagerly awaiting returns that are hardly dry from the ballot box.

Aren't you curious to know the outcome of that election?

* * *

WE remember hearing a British citizen say postwar England would retire Winston Churchill. He said Britons who revere Churchill as their incomparable wartime leader are opposed to him as a peacetime politician. In the days of the retreat from Dunkirk, the blitz, the "retreat to victory" in Africa and Asia, Winston Churchill symbolized the bulldog strength and fighting spirit of the unbeatable people. His "blood, sweat and tears" oratory gave a thrilling greatness, a newness, if you please, to the English language.

But now that those days are in the fast receding past, and Britons are thinking in terms of peace, of reconstruction, the prime minister may be retired. In campaign speeches he seemed to reveal a petulant side to his nature that was not seen during the era of war with Europe.

In his famous "liquidation" speech the prime minister said he did not become first minister to preside over the liquidation of his Majesty's empire. According to that speaker we heard here several months ago, he indicated he is opposed to changes which would gave freedom to Britain's subject peoples. He was an exciting figure in wartime; will he be an opponent of progress in peace? It will be interesting to see what his countrymen decided at the polls.

HELPFUL HOBBIES

IF you feel that you are growing stale or that your personality is closing in instead of sprouting out, then perhaps you need to get in unfamiliar surroundings or to plunge into unusual activities.

If you could get away on a vacation that would help but you remember Uncle Sam says better stay at home this season. If you are looking for a hobby, there are plenty of books to guide you.

We know a woman who is studying a language and she is having fun mastering a new tongue. Her pronunciation may not be exactly correct, but then we had a few teachers in our school days who had only a classroom accent, so far as that goes.

Although we've never done it, we think that keeping a scrapbook must be a lot of fun. Some of the most interesting books we have seen were made by relatives of servicemen. Those clippings will grow more interesting through the years.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER:

Will you please help me locate a copy of "Skyways Magazine" for May, 1945? This issue contains an article describing the work of the Second Troop Carrier squadron in the recent campaign for Burma. My husband has been with this squadron for the last year and I am anxious to obtain this article for his scrap book.

Thank you.
Mrs. J. J. Bonner,
1707 Eighteenth.

WE'VE an idea Mrs. Bonner that someone will read about this request and call you or write you.

* * *

WE WONDER

RECENTLY we've noted a trend among commentators and certain writers of a the "Germans-can-do-no-wrong-they-are-people-just-like-us" attitude. They are trying to write off the memories of those revolting atrocities, later confirmed and documented by generals, visiting parties of congressmen and senators and a group of American editors and publishers.

The line they are taking seems to be that those living skeletons, madmen and those graves found in Buchenwald and other German camps were not Americans, but only Germans, Russians, Poles, Belgians, Jews, Czechs, Jugo-Slav, etc., so what is all the shouting about? They were not Americans they are saying and the Americans who were prisoners were treated according to the Geneva convention.

When the boys are putting out that engaging line, they are forgetting about those several hundred American prisoners butchered in an open field by SS troopers during the Bulge break-through last December. That has not been explained away. We are remembering it. Are you?

Flak Shatters Liberator's Nose And Lt. Foster Lands A Prisoner

By JAMIE HYATT
Avalanche Staff Writer

Directly over their target—the Fararra railroad bridge in the Po valley—flak hit the nose of the B-24 Liberator on which 1st Lt. Joe Bob Foster was bombardier, knocked out two engines and left the nose of the ship open. Ten minutes later he bailed out; 40 minutes later he was a German prisoner.

FOSTER

Flying at high altitude over the target, it was necessary to use oxygen masks. When the nose of the big plane was shattered, the lead navigator, who had his position in the nose, was hit by flak and wedged into his turret, which crumpled all around him. His oxygen mask was knocked off and the wind carried it out over the ton of the plane.

Oxygen Administered

Lt. Foster and the crew navigator got to him and took turns giving him oxygen from their masks. "It was colder than blue blazes in that altitude with the whole front of the ship gone, and we thought the navigator would freeze to death before we could get him out. The pilot took a straight dive down to 15,000 feet as soon as we were hit, so that it wouldn't be necessary to use masks.

"We pulled and tugged on the navigator until we got him out of the nose and had dragged him about halfway down the narrow passageway to the flight-deck in the rear of the ship when the pilot gave the order to abandon ship.

"We didn't have our parachutes on, because there isn't room in some of the turrets to wear them, so we turned around and started back to the nose to get them.

Chutes Are Moved

"Back in the nose, we found that somebody had moved the 'chutes to the flight deck to give us more room for our work with the seriously wounded navigator.

"After finding a parachute, we got the navigator revived enough that he knew what he was doing and then literally threw him out of the plane. He pulled his ripcord and landed safely.

"I still didn't have a 'chue, so I reported to the commander pilot. Incidentally, he was Maj. William T. Bolt of Big Spring. He told me to take his 'chute and get out, because he was going to crash-land the plane. I took it and jumped.

Lands Near Germans

"Thirty minutes after I landed in a pea-patch a mile and a half from a German garrison, two of Mussolini's Blackshirts and a German officer discovered me and greeted me with two shots over my head. The German spoke fairly good English and kept telling me to give him my pistol. To be sure that I wasn't concealing weapons, they stripped me for their search.

"When I got to the garrison with my escort, most of the crew were already there. But by the next day we were all together again. In favor of the Germans, I will say that they gave excellent medical care to the navigator, who was so seriously wounded that he had to stay in the hospital six weeks before he joined us again.

Moved To Frankfurt

"After another day in the German garrison, we were moved to an interrogation center at Frankfurt on the Main, where we were asked a lot of questions that were more foolish than anything else. From there we went by third-class railway coach to Stalag No. 1 at Barth. The trip took four days and was completely miserable. We were packed into six-person compartments in groups of nine, and since most of the men were badly wounded and it hurt them for anyone to even touch them, you can imagine how awful it was. For food we were issued bully beef and black bread.

"From then on for the next eight months until the Russian army liberated us May 1, it was the usual prison routine. But except for the last six weeks of prison we weren't hungry. From the middle of February until our liberation, we had nothing but German rations of potato soup and black bread. Before that we ate well from Red Cross packages."

Russian Enthusiast

Lt. Foster spent 13 days with the Russian army before being flown to Reims. His enthusiasm for his liberators is immense. "The Russians are the friendliest, happiest people I ever saw. Every wagon in their army must have had an accordian as part of its equipment, because there was always a Russian playing a polka on his accordian. Nothing was too much trouble for them to go to for you. They're really a wonderful people."

Lt. Foster will report to Miami Beach, Fla., August 29, one year exactly from the date he was captured, where he will be reassigned or given a discharge. He is visiting his mother, Mrs. Bonnie E. Norwood, 1911 Eighteenth, while here.

Two Mentioned As Padilla Successors

MEXICO CITY, July 12. (AP) — The names of Octavio Vejar Vazquez, former secretary of education, and Francisco Castillo Najera, ambassador to the United States, were mentioned prominently today as possible successors to Ezequiel Padilla, who resigned as foreign secretary (secretary of state) yesterday.

Vejar Vazquez is en route home from an extended Latin American tour. Castillo Najera, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, had planned to return to his post immediately, but decided to remain here a while longer after he and Padilla conferred with President Manuel Avila Camacho Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Manuel Tello took charge of the office as acting secretary.

Padilla, who extended a challenge, simultaneously with his resignation, to his critics to speak in concrete terms, was in seclusion at his Cuernavaca country home. Although he asked his supporters to cease a presidential campaign on his behalf, observers wondered whether he was not "shutting himself up in his room and thinking over" political possibilities, as he recently said he would.

GI Midwife Finds Business Booming In Okinawa Cave

TEMPLE, July 11 (AP) — GI midwife on Okinawa.

"When I turned around, I saw a whole row of prospective mothers," said Pfc. Claude E. Livingston as he told of his part in delivering 15 Okinawa babies in a period of 16 hours.

The Houston, Tex., boy, a front-line medic attached to the 96th division on Okinawa told his story at McCloskey General hospital here.

Ordered To Help Out

"One morning early in June we came to an L-shaped cave in the side of a hill," he said. "We started to throw a satchel charge inside when some civilians came out and said they needed medical care inside; they indicated that one of the women inside was about to give birth to a child. My CO told me to go in and help.

"'But, I don't know what to do,' I said."

"'See what you can do,' he answered.

"I went into the cave with Cpl. Jack Lambeth, another medic from Texarkana, and a number of GIs. When we got inside I noticed that most of the civilians there suffered from burns.

"By this time I was quite nervous. The old women, who seemed to know just what to do, looked at me kind' a funny. When the first baby was born, it started crying like the dickens, and I felt just a little proud to see that it was living.

She Starts Walking Away

"I turned around for a minute, and the mother got up and started walking off. While I was still trying to persuade her to lie down another old woman came up and tugged at my sleeve.

"When I turned around, I saw a whole row of prospective mothers. Right then I told one of the boys to get word to the battalion aid station that I had run onto a maternity ward. Then I really got to work. We stayed there all day, in fact about 16 hours and during that time I delivered between 11 and 15 babies. I was working so hard I lost count."

Memorial Service To Be Held Today

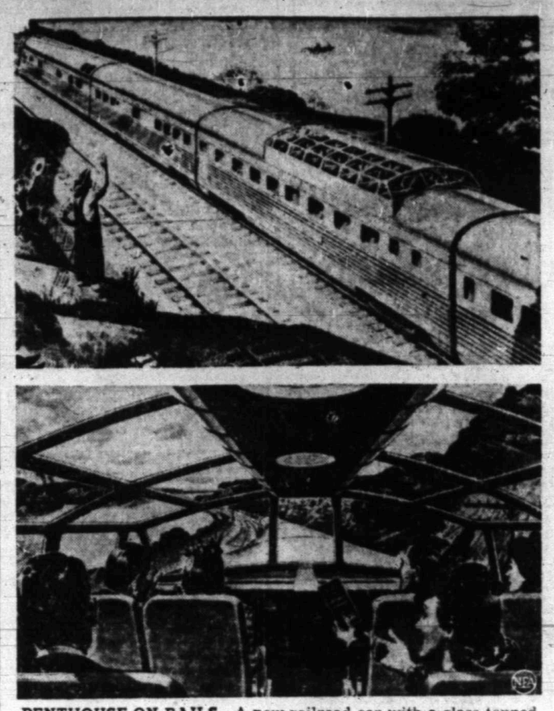

A telegram from the War department to Mrs. Alice Ross, living with her parents at Levelland, has announced the death of her husband, Pfc. Birtleyn Ross, on Okinawa on June 11.

A memorial service will be conducted at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Broadway Church of Christ, with Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister, officiating.

Pvt. Ross, 27, was reared in Lubbock. He and his wife lived here before he entered the Army. Details of his death were not given in the telegram.

Survivors, beside his wife, include a son, Frank, and a daughter, Kay; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Ross of 419 Wolffarth; three brothers, Wintford and J. T. of Lubbock and Pfc. Willis Ross, who is stationed at Fort Worth, and two sisters, Mrs. Ted Weathersby and Mrs. Floyd McCloskey.

Checks Made Of C Gas Issuance

A survey is being made in the Lubbock district of the Office of Price Administration to determine whether C rations are being over-issued, Earl Kerr, district-director said Thursday afternoon.

Each of the 72 war price and rationing boards in the district is to check records to determine whether amounts issued check with mileage.

Results are to be turned in to the district office next week.

Measures that may be taken in cases of over-issuance have not been announced.

An Associated Press story was received from Dallas Thursday, stating that H. F Carmichael, district director there, said there was a possibility the value of A gasoline coupons might be reduced due to what he called over-issuance of gasoline to C card holders.

Carmichael declared that a spot check of 100 C card gasoline issuances would made at each of the boards in that district to determine whether or not such gasoline for preferred mileage is being seriously over-issued. Indications, he said, are that it is.

Kerr said there was a possibility of such action, but that no official announcement has been made of action that would be taken to counteract any over-issuance.

Hedley Rolls Over Morton In American Legion Opener

Hedley's American Legion junior baseball nine went one up Thursday afternoon at Chapman field, winning the opening round of the District 1 playoff with a resounding 10 to 5 victory over the Morton post team.

Lubbock's American Legion nine will go into action this afternoon, playing a twin bill with the two teams that fought through the opener. Both will be seven inning games, with Lubbock facing Hedley at 4 o'clock, and following with Morton in the nightcap.

AUSTIN GETS TOURNEY

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—The Arizona, New Mexico, Louisiana and Texas American Legion junior baseball regional tournament will be held here the week of Aug. 12-19, state legion officials announced today.

For several years, the regional tournament has been held in New Orleans.

The state play-offs will also be held here, possibly Aug. 2-5, said J. E. McClain, director of the state tournament. The dates will be definitely set when state divisional champions have been selected.

Hedley Starts Early

Hedley opened up a salvo from their big bats in the first inning, and three sharp singles and a zooming double produced three quick runs for the winners.

Morton started a comeback drive, and broke the ice in the third inning when Kenneth Willis banged out a triple after a walk and an error had put two men on the base paths. Willis was cut down at the plate, trying to extend his hit into a homer.

Morton tied the score in the top half of the fourth, but Hedley's power hitters took over in the last half of the inning, exploded for three runs, and then were never headed off.

Pre-Game Ceremony

A colorful pre-game ceremony was unfurled as the Texas State Guard presented the colors to the Lubbock, Hedley and Morton teams along with the assembled American League junior baseballers. H. J. McCabe led the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

A. C. Jackson, American Legion commander elect of the 19th district, read the Legion code of sportsmanship to the teams assembled on the field. L. A. Smith, field representative of the American Legion department of Texas, spoke briefly on the progress of Legion baseball.

Mayor O. W. Ribble, with L. A. Smith catching and "Stoney" Wall hitting, threw the first ball to open the game.

Whitmire, Ambart, Kenneth Willis, and Cadenhead all tried to put out the Hedley scoring spree during the course of the nine frames. Everett hurled the first six innings for Hedley, giving way to Owens in the seventh.

Chandler Takes Job As Baseball Leader

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler was formally and unanimously approved today as baseball's high commissioner by the 16 major league club owners in joint session here.

After a harmonious meeting which lasted only one hour and 15 minutes Chandler told newsmen that there was "not a single dissent" on any of his suggestions.

Chandler discounted rumors that he would not have as much power over baseball as that exercised by the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, his predecessor.

He was specific in declaring that he will have authority to rule on any and all matters that may be "detrimental to baseball."

"I told them that if they ever made an issue on a matter that I said was detrimental to baseball that I would win or they would have a new commissioner," Chandler said.

Park Netters To Get Instructions Today

Young tennis players of Carlisle and Wagner parks, who are interested in learning to play the game, are offered the chance to get free instructions at 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Dupree courts.

The boys and girls are invited to bring rackets and balls and meet with Miss Francys Peters and Mrs. Gladys Sims, who will be on hand to give instructions.

Nelson Rallies To Beat Turnesa

DAYTON, O., July 12 (AP)—Byron Nelson, the Toledo umbrella man was the Cinderella man today as he steamed into the quarter-finals of the 7th National Professional Golf tournament.

Time was running out on Nelson as the scoreboard showed him two holes down to Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., with only four holes to go. But Byron beat the clock by clipping four strokes off par in just three holes to win from the veteran Easterner, one up.

Two straight birdies put him on even terms with Turnesa and then a great eagle three moved Nelson out in front on the 35th hole. They halved the 36th with par fours and Turnesa was out of the tournament.

Joining Nelson in the quarter-finals were Ky Laffoon of Miami, Okla., Clarence oser of Hartsale, N. Y.; Sam Byrd of Redford, Mich.; Vic Ghezzi of Atlantic City, N. J.; Denny Shute of Akron, O.; Ralph Hutchison of Bethlehem, Pa., and Claude Harmon of Grosse Point Wood, Mich.

Most of the day's drama was wrapped up in that Nelson-Turnesa match, however. Nelson was only a little matter of ten under par for the 36 holes of action. He fired a 68 this morning and then fashioned a 66 this afternoon in the best round of the tournament thus far.

Turnesa had the heart-breaking experience of being seven under par for 36 holes and still losing a match.

Doser, continuing his giant killing activities, was carried to the 37th hole before he eliminated Toney Penna, the veteran from Dayton, O.

Another extra hole match was the one up victory recorded by Laffoon over Jack Grout of Hinsdale, Ill. That match went 38 holes.

One other match went the full 36 holes. It was Ghezzi's two-up triumph over Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y.

The day's easiest victor was Harmon, who breezed past Sgt. Jim Turnesa of Mamaroneck, N. Y., eight and seven. Hutchison licked Sterling Johnson of Norristown, Pa., 6 and 5.

The all-Ohio battle between Shute and Bob Kepler of Columbus, the Ohio State university golf coach, resulted in a 5 and 4 triumph for Shute.

Byrd came from behind to nip Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., tournament co-medalist and 1935 champion.

Holmes, Cubs Both Stopped As Braves Split Double Bill

CHICAGO, July 12. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs halted Tommy Holmes' consecutive game hitting streak at 37 today in a 6-1 opening triumph, but in turn had an 11-game win string snapped by the Boston Braves, 3-1, as Carden Gillenwater belted a ninth-inning, two-run homer in the finale on a twin bill witnessed by 29,513 fans.

Holmes was handcuffed in four trips by Henry Wyse, who hurled a three-hitter in the opener to gain his 11th victory.

The Braves' outfielder, however, started Claude Passeau's downfall in the finale with a single, his first hit in eight trips, and Gillenwater followed with his homer. It was Passeau's third setback and snapped a nine-game victory string.

In the finale, veteran Nate Andrews tamed the hard-hitting Bruins with five blows, three of them in the sixth when the Cubs scored their sole marker.

San Angelo Claims District 3 Crown

SAN ANGELO, July 12 (Special) —They still were arguing into the late night hours here tonight as San Angelo lay claim to the American Legions junior baseball crown in District 3.

San Angelo based its claim on having beaten Ballinger and Lamesa in round robin play at Goodfellow Army Air field's diamond.

San Angelo defeated Ballinger 15 to 7 in a morning game today, then returned to push back a stubbornly fighting Lamesa nine, 7 to 3. In the final game of the round robin, Lamesa knocked off Ballinger 21 to 6.

Lamesa contends it has a right to play San Angelo Friday for the championship. San Angelo contends that after downing both Ballinger and Lamesa, it is already the champion.

Lamesa, Ballinger and San Angelo were the only teams entered.

Competent Leadership Seen As Big Need Of Post-War Cotton Industry

DALLAS, July 12 (AP) — The great postwar challange to cotton is one of competent human leadership, President Gibb Gilchrist of Texas A. and M. college today told a group of farmers and specialists at the first day's sessions of the sixth annual Cotton Research congress.

Speaking at a luncheon sponsored by a group of agricultural and cotton organizations of Dallas, Dr. Gilchrist said that in this country cotton is a "most gigantic industry from producer through the wholesale merchant."

Competent Leadership

"This aggregation of thousands of enterprises and personalities," he said, "could well use the binding or cementing influence of competent leadership in order that a cohesive body might result with a capacity to cope more effectively with its many problems. The needs of the cotton trade must be logically presented, recognized and made effective. We must design and construct a new channel of commercial intercourse, anticipate hazards and guard against them. But always will we need the services of a pilot to navigate the channel. This means that all of us interested directly and indirectly in a livelihood from cotton must enlarge our perspective and assume a greater load of responsibility."

As president of A. and M. college, Dr. Gilchrist said he was a member of the statewide cotton research committee. This body, consisting of the presidents of the University of Texas and Texas Technological college besides himself, was required to administer the act, form policies and plan for the direction of the work done by the research organization.

Legislative Endorsement

The original appropriation made in 1941 by the 47th legislature, was $250,000 and for the present biennium, $134,800, Dr. Gilchrist explained. "The act of the recent legislature in increasing the appropriation to $210,390 may be considered an act of endorsement of the committee . . . to do something more about cotton.

"The responsibility which the cotton leadership must carry is concerned principally with an economic utilization of our cotton productive plant" Dr. Gilchrist continued. "Conservatively, our national cotton production plant has a capacity of 15,000,000 bales, and about 6,000,000 tons of cottonseed as crushed stock It is responsibility of cotton leadership to merchandise these products through channels which will yield a consistent revenue. We may well expect this to be around $1,-000,000,000 and one third of this production and income should be Texas' goal."

New textile fabrics, new machinery for making them and the effect of pending and possible legislation upon the economy of cotton after the war were discussed by other speakers.

"Prompt approval of the Bretton Woods proposals by Congress would provide the first practical and statesmanlike step toward achieving a sound economic foundation for a world peace organization," said Lieut. Col. Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro, general chairman of the congress.

Face Tough Competition

He predicted that after the war cotton will face competition far exceeding anything the industry has known previously. To survive, he added, it is essential that cotton overcome its competitors on the battlefronts on quality of products, and price.

For cotton to compete on the price front, he added, it is going to be essential that the cost be reduced. Such reduction must be achieved through lowering production cost to a point where the cotton grower can sell his product at competitive prices without sacrificing the fair and reasonable profit to which his work and investment entitle him.

"The most important, and possibly the most difficult, problem which confronts cotton today is to get the producer to realize cotton's real plight," Col. Jackson declared. "Many producers simply still do not believe that the artificial price through the government loan and purchase programs are gradually costing cotton its market."

Col. Jackson condemned international and state trade barriers. He said he believed Congress should act promptly to eliminate the restraints to free exchange which have developed among the states in recent years.

With George W. Pfeiffenberger, cotton research supervisor for a Massachusetts cotton mill presiding, John T. Wigington, director of technical service for the cotton textile institute at Clemson college of South Carolina, opened the program with a discussion of new machinery and methods.

Farm Neighbors

threatened meat shortage, most agreed, will become more acute. Most of them expressed appreciation that they would not have to give up "red points" for meats grown on their own farms, and voiced belief that the government's reassurance in that direction would cause the farmer to produce enough meat for his own families without having to buy in butcher shops and some for market.

From C-47 To Tractor

They talked of "how slow it will be for them when some of our sons get out of a C-47 or a fighter and have to get back on a tractor." Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Barrett, for instance, of three-quarters mile southwast of Woodrow, have five sons in the armed services—three of them fliers. Capt. Morris Barrett, 28, is en route home after service with the Eighth Air force; Capt. Howard Barrett, 25, is transferring Sunday from Nashville to Atlanta after 14 months overseas with the Air Transport command; First Lt. Doyce Barrett, 23, flies with the Marine Air corps in the Pacific; Glenn Barrett, 22, a petty officer, 2/c, is on Guam, and Genie, 18, S/2c, is in radio school at Corpus Christi.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gill of a mile south of Woodrow have a son, Clyde Gill, 21, a Marine private on Okinawa. He has been overseas six months. His wife, formerly Faye Cummins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cummins of two miles east of Woodrow, is living with her parents now.

Meet In Germany

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fielding of route 1 Slaton have three sons, two of whom met by chance the other day at Kassel, Germany, after having been separated more than two years. First Lt. R. L. Fielding, 29, first pilot, dropped his C-47 ATC plane over a Kassel pool where Pfc. Herschell, 22, was taking a dip with others of the 69th infantry division, and soon they were "chewing the fat." In India, Pfc. Vernon Fielding, 26, sent home souvenirs and described the difference in tractor farming here and water buffalo plowing in India.

Speaking of points, one of the drivers of tractors unfamiliar to him, reached for a non-existant hand clutch and "skinned off hide worth 20 cents and 10 red points."

Nor was the Bourland cooperative party the only one that was in progress in the community. Another group of farmers were cleaning the yard and windows of the Woodrow Baptist church, where Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of Lubbock's Calvary Baptist church, will commence a 10-day revival.

had approved $250,000 for FEPC, the same amount the Senate agreed to when Bilbo dropped his filibuster.

Language Changed

The Senate did so, however, in language directing that FEPC must use the fund for liquidation. The House today changed this language in a manner which Senator Chavez (D-NM), a champion of FEPC, interpreted as meaning the agency does not have to liquidate

McKellar was trying to get Senate approval for this change when Morse launched his fight. Meantime, the House was standing by waiting for the Senate to act and return the bill for its dispatch by the House to a conference committee for compromise of other disputed figures.

Removal Of Gas Is Approved By Navajos

GALLUP, N. M., July 12 (U.P.)—The federal bureau of mines today had authorization of the Navajo tribal council to take helium gas from a 7,800-acre field near Shiprock for the next 25 years at a total rental of $147,799.

Only gas below the 7,000-foot level will be taken, while gas and oil at higher levels can be leased to other operators.

John Hinsel, who represented the bureau of mines, pointed out to the tribal council that thousands of blimps on submarine patrols use helium to keep afloat.

"Not one of the blimps has been shot down," Hinsel said, "and helium is playing a big part in getting our boys safely across the ocean and back again. It also helps to keep supplies moving and thus is helping to shorten the war."

The 7,800 acres involved in the transaction with the Navajo council is located within the Indian reservation.

Air War Mounts

bombed munitions city of Nagoya.

Tsuruga, 55 miles northwest of Nagoya on the coast of the main home island of Honshu.

Uwajima, on the west-central coast of the southern home island of Shikoku.

The blows on the home islands coincided with new successes by U. S. air blockaders in the Yellow sea and came close on the heels of heavy strokes at the empire climaxed by a 1,000 carrier plane raid on Tokyo's air fields.

Convoys Turned Back

Two heavily-gunned enemy convoys trying to run Nipponese troops from China to invasion-menaced Japan were driven back into port by the U. S. air blockade that is steadily throttling the island empire.

This operation, announced yesterday, underscored the words of a Japanese military commentator who declared that unless the aerial challenge to Japan could be met it would be impossible to repel the expected invasion.

Rear Adm. John Dale Price, retiring commander of Fleet Air Wing One, said the troop-laden convoys put out from Shanghai into the Yellow sea, once the main link between Japan and its conquests in China.

They were jumped by bombers and rocket-firing fighters. The convoys threw up a curtain of antiaircraft fire that prevented effective bombing attacks but not a ship reached Korea.

Put Back Into Port

Presumably, the convoys, which turned back, put into the former German port of Tsingtao, more than 300 miles north of Shanghai.

The aerial blockade of the Yellow sea and the straits between Korea and Japan has been extended to northern Korea itself, where an important supply railway line has been cut by bombers.

With the Yellow sea unsafe, the Japanese have been trying to route men and supplies up through northern Korea and thence across the Sea of Japan, which also now is being swept by American air power.

The course charted by Adm. William F. Halsey's powerful Third Fleet since its bold strike on Tokyo's guardian air fields Tuesday remained a mystery.

Formosa Also Lashed

Today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported a score of Liberator and Mitchell bombers pounded factory and warehouse targets at Bokushi, Formosa's west coast.

Three grounded planes were destroyed at Tainan.

A small freighter laden with oil was sunk and three other freighters were damaged in attacks on Suo bay on the northeast coast of Formosa.

Fires visible for 30 miles were started by a single bomber that dropped incendiaries on Mako naval base, in the Pescadores west of Formosa.

Other sweeps were made from Indo-China to Malaya in the Dutch East Indies and eastward to the northern Celebes.

tralia and New Guinea. He has been a flier since World war I, when he served in Europe with the old 91st Aero squadron.

The Seventh Air force now under his command is led by Brig. Gen. Thomas D. White of Springfield, Ill. It already is represented on Okinawa with a force of Liberator heavy bombers and Mitchell mediums.

Have Gone Long Way

In the past sizzling year of warfare the Seventh has moved its base 2,000 miles nearer to Japan, hitting the Marshalls and Marianas for the landings on Kwajalein, Eniwetok, Saipan, Tinian, and Guam.

Its bombers have ranged over thousands of miles of ocean, neutralizing Yap, Woleai, Iwo Jima and other enemy bases.

White, who recently took command of the Seventh from Maj. Gen. Willis D. Hale, previously served as deputy commander of Kenney's 13th Air force, the so-called "Jungle Air force," under Maj. Gen. Paul B. Wurtsmith.

Five Jailed In Burglary Wave

Five persons, including an ex-convict and his wife, were jailed Thursday in Lubbock and Plainview in connection with burglaries Tuesday night in Plainview and Abernathy.

Sheriff Ted Andrews of Hale county said here last night that possibly four of the suspects would be charged today at Plainview. It was reported the investigation was not complete and it was not yet clear who or how many persons would be implicated.

Most of the suspects were rounded up in Lubbock yesterday by the police and sheriff departments and Texas Rangers.

Found In Hotel Room

The former convict, described as a "several times loser," and his wife were arrested in their hotel room. A loaded automatic revolver was found in their belongings. He is 44 years old.

Between $300 and $400 was taken from Owens Electric Co., and Shepherd Chevrolet Co., in Plainview, and the Consumers Oil Co., in Abernathy.

There was a possibility that Terry county officials might attempt to link the suspects with the $500 burglary there Monday night of the Ford Motor Co.

Tucker Resigns

I believe with my new position, working with the public resources, I can render a very substantial service to the sportsmen of Texas and help contribute to the food supply of our people.

"I am pleased with the appointment of Mr. Dodgen as executive secretary and Mr. Faubion as assistant. They are able men of very much experience, thoroughly acquainted with the wildlife problems of Texas. They deserve the co-operation of everyone interested in wildlife conservation.

"I have no regrets. I am more than pleased."

Effective At Once

The resignation and new appointments were effective immediately.

Buckner said Tucker's letter of resignation was sent to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, who orally transmitted it to members of the commission.

Tucker said in the letter, Buckner reported, that he felt he had been executive secretary too long for the good of the department.

"I think it will work out for the good of all," was Buckner's comment.

Tucker has been at odds with some members of the commission over policy matters for a year.

Late in the afternoon, T. S. Reed of Beaumont, D. K. Martin of San Antonio, Gordon Stewart of Sonora and Frank Jones of Marfa appeared.

Gene Howe of Amarillo, a commission member regarded as friendly to Tucker was not present. Buckner said Howe was out of the state.

Reports Of Year Ago

Reports of Tucker's intention to resign were rampant a year ago but thereafter the board approved his bond for two years to October 1946.

Other actions by the commission today:

Setting of antelope hunting dates for Oct. 1 and 2, 4 and 5, 8 and 9, and leaving the number of permits to be issued at 500.

Leaving to the executive secretary promulgation of Texas open seasons on migratory birds, including doves, ducks and geese, to conform with federal regulations. The commission's approval will be secured by a mail poll. This same procedure will be followed in regard to deer and bear seasons of Pecos, which must be set up annually.

She spoke for a dozen nationwide women's groups, including the American Association of University Women, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the national board of the Y.W.C.A., the National Women's Trade Union laegue and the United Council of Church Women.

The daughter of the late Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, Mrs. Brice Clagett, appeared to support Dr. Reid on behalf of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Scarcely A Question

The committee listened quietly as the witnesses presented their views in rapid order, and scarcely a query was asked.

Clark Eichelberger of Washington, D. C., told the committee the American Association for the United Nations believes the new charter excels the old league in four major ways: (1) The security council can restrict its efforts to security alone; (2) It will be in continuous session; (3) It can take steps to prevent as well as stop aggression; (4) It will have military forces to back up its decisions.

Eichelberg is a director of the organization which formerly was called the League of Nations association.

Pair Charged With Assault With Pistol

Two persons were held by county officers Thursday night on complaints charging assault with a pistol, theft of an automobile by bailee and forgery.

Sheriff Grady Harrist said a complaint had been prepared by District Attorney Burton S. Burks naming Frank Trimm, 26, for assault with a pistol on Jack Perdue. He said they were taxicab drivers.

The complaint alleged that Trimm assaulted Perdue with the pistol, then pointed it at him and threatened him. The incident occurred June 28 or thereabouts.

Ranger Capt. Maney Gault signed the complaint.

L. T. Crawford, 19, of Lubbock, was charged in one complaint with theft by bailee and in another with forgery. Crawford, it was charged, disposed of an automobile belonging to Virgil Scanes, operator of a second-hand store, after forging title papers.

Then he disclosed that Army doctors had diagnosed his ailments as tuberculosis of the stomach as well as of the lungs, malnutrition and after effects of beri-beri.

"You're better," his physician, Dr. Jack Daly, told him. "You're going to improve. It'll be slow. Eat all you can and don't worry."

OPA 'Finds' Big Cache Of Meats

DALLAS, July 12. (AP) — The OPA reported today that 100,450 pounds of illegal meat had been found in 7,500 frozen food lockers in Kansas in a preliminary test of the investigation which starts Monday in the six-state region.

Owners of the meat already have surrendered 500,000 red points and hundreds are coming in daily, said Harry Hall, regional enforcement attorney.

Instituted As Test

"The Kansas locker program was instituted as a test to determine the best procedure of carrying out the investigation in the other states of the region," he said.

The OPA agents who start going into frozen food lockers Monday will write to owners of what they believe to be illegal meat to appear at a certain date before their local war, price and rationing board. The owners will be asked to be prepared to surrender points or give reasons why they should not.

Persons who can show that they raised the meat themselves and either butchered it on the farm or had it custom slaughtered need surrender no points. Persons who can show their meat is veal and was purchased during the time OPA required no points may keep it.

Two Other Alternatives

All others must have surrendered points or send the meat into regular channels.

In the case of baby beef bought at 4-H club sales, the OPA explained it permitted purchase of such cattle above ceiling prices to stimulate 4-H activities.

All buyers of such cattle are required, under the regulations, to charge only the ceiling price if they sell them on the hoof. If they butcher the beeves they are required to surrender points if they keep the meat for their own use or collect points if they sell it.

In the House, Rep. De Lacy (D-Wash) demanded that use of private cars be discontinued by the railroads until war transportation needs are satisfied.

Parlor Car Vacations

De Lacy said he had learned that members of the Weyerhauser lumber family, officials of the Great Northern railway and other were using private cars for action trips, while returning veterans are crowded into hot day coaches.

"If we are to provide luxury, let us provide it to those who deserve it most—the returning, battle-weary GIs," De Lacy insisted.

Execution Of Soldier Staved By Governor

AUSTIN, July 12. (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today authorized a 30-day stay of execution for Joseph W Oglesby, soldier, who was convicted of rape in Reeves county, where he was stationed at an Army camp. Oglesby was to have been executed Aug. 3. He was tried in civil court.

Clemency appeals have been presented to the governor on behalf of Jose Rocha and L. C. Akins. Rocha had a 30-day stay and his new execution date is Aug. 1. He was convicted of rape in Caldwell county.

Akins has not been sentenced. He is a negro and was convicted in Dallas of killing a policeman, V. L. Morris, Sept. 15, 1941. His case attracted attention because of a contention that one negro on the grand jury that indicted him was not sufficiently representative of Dallas county negro population. His case was carried to the U. S. Supreme court and he cannot be sentenced until that court's mandate is received. Commutation to life sentence has been asked.

Slain Nazi Prisoners Are Buried Thursday

FORT DOUGLAS, Utah, July 12 (AP)—Nearly two scora of German prisoners of war watched stoically today as the bodies of eight comrades machine-gunned by a U. S. Army private were lowered into graves close to Oak Brush foothills of the Wasatch mountains.

Burial services were held in the southeastern corner of the Fort Douglas military cemetery. Some of the prisoners squinted in the hot sun, but otherwise were expressionless. No tears were shed. No German flag of any sort was displayed.

After it was over, prisoners who had sung three songs of requiem peeled off their jackets and shoveled the sandy earth into the graves.

Pvt. Clarence V. Bertucci, 23, of New Orleans, who fired three bursts from a machine gun at the Salina camp 150 miles south of Salt Lake City Sunday, is confined to Bushnell General hospital for an extended examination.

Imogene Stevens Is Released On Bond

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 12. (AP) — Raven-haired Mrs. Imogene Dumas Stevens, 24, held at the Fairfield county jail since June 24 on a charge of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a young submarine sailor at New Canaan, was freed today on a surety bond of $15,000 secured by her husband, paratroop Maj G. Ralsey Stevens, III.

Originally held on a coroner's warrant in bonds of $50,000 after she had admitted firing the shots that killed Albert Kovacs, 19, of South Norwalk, Mrs. Stevens was bound over to the September term of the Fairfield county superior court. On a plea from defense counsel David Goldstein on Wednesday, superior court Judge William Comley ordered bond reduced to $15,000.

Taken to the county courthouse by a deputy sheriff and a matron, the Texas-born mother of a six year old daughter by a previous marriage met her husband there and left with him after signing the bond.

Neither Maj. Stevens, who flew home from his European station on a 30-day leave, nor Mrs. Stevens would make a statement as they left the courthouse arm-in-arm.

Two Charged In Trade Violation

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson signed a complaint charging Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore, Md., with violation of government trading limits in buying rye futures on the Chicago board of trade.

Named with Martin as his agent was Henry L. T. Ullrich, Wilmington, Del.

Walter L. Miller, executive officer of the department's office of investigatory services, identified Martin to reporters as the airplane manufacturer.

The complaint said that on June 9, Martin and his agent bought 3,300,000 bushels of rye futures on the Chicago market.

This figure, the complaint added, exceeded a 2,000,000-bushel daily trading limit on speculative transactions established by the department under authority of the commodity exchange act.

The complaint gave Martin and Ullrich 20 days within which to file an answer showing why an order should not be issued directing that, until further notice, all commodity contract markets refuse them trading privileges.

Loss of such privileges is the only penalty provided by law for exceeding trading limits on grain futures. Hearing on the complaint before an agriculture department referee was set for August 9.

This is the second complaint issued by the government in recent weeks charging Chicago market traders with violation of the commodity exchange act.

MARTIN SAYS HE IS SURPRISED, MYSTIFIED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12 (AP) Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore, Md., airplane manufacturer, was both surprised and mystified, he said, when informed here today that he had been charged by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson with violation of government trading limits in buying rye futures on the Chicago board of trade.

Martin said his agent, Henry L. T. Ullrich, Wilmington, Del., had been operating for his account, but that he knew nothing of the transactions.

"My business is not buying and selling rye, my business is building airplanes, so I don't pay much attention to the account," Martin said in an interview.

Man Held In Mailing Of Infernal Machine

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 12. (AP)—Postal Inspector George T. Heaberg said today a man identified as Maurice Knapp, 34-year-old blind war plant worker of New London, Ohio, was under arrest here on a charge of sending a home-made bomb through the mails to a Beaumont, Tex., girl acquaintance.

Heaberg said the man was held in city jail pending a hearing Friday before U. S. Commissioner W. E. Estes.

At Beaumont, records show that on July 9 Postal Inspector D. W. Boyd filed in federal district court there a charge alleging that Knapp knowingly and wilfully placed in the mails in Ohio an infernal machine.

Boyd said that on July 2 19-year-old Doris Peveto, route 3, Beaumont, received through the mails a package containing six shotgun shells and a quantity of powder with a mouse trap arranged in such a manner as to set off an explosion. This failed when a small brother reportedly stuck a finger through a hole in the package to upset the trigger.

The girl declined to discuss the affair with newsmen, but it was understood she once visited a relative in Ohio.

Henberg said Knapp was arrested at a bus station here last night after Heaberg was informed by Beaumont postal officials that the man might pass through Hattiesburg en route to Cleveland from Beaumont.

The Hope Of Potsdam

New "Big Three" Era Possible

CLOSE observers of the Washington scene are unanimous in forecasting that the American participation in the Potsdam "Big Three" meeting will be both more realistic and more outspoken than in preceding confabs between the highest officials of the U. S., Great Britain and Russia.

Flanked by a larger number of experts than his predecessor, the late President Roosevelt, ever took with him to such conferences, President Truman, indications are, will present this country's ideas and suggestions "right across the board," relying more on marshaled facts and statistics than upon personal powers of charm and persuasion.

If Mr. Truman does enter into the Potsdam conversations in a straight-from-the-shoulder manner, he will only be doing over there what he has been doing over here ever since he became President of these United States. Those who have had official connection with the President these last several months are unanimous in describing his dealings as crisp, practical and right to the point.

Those who know Russia best, and those who have had the most success in dealing with the Russians, are of the opinion that J. Stalin & Co. are easier to get along with by being starkly realistic. Certainly, the Russians are that—and so is Winston Churchill to a degree greater than that of most Britishers.

Perhaps out of Potsdam, and at least partially due to a new realistic tack by the American delegation, will come a new era of better understanding between the great powers which were successful allies in war and should continue as successful allies in peace.

There are grounds for hope in this direction.

One Frenchman Remembers

IT IS refreshing to note that one Frenchman knows that his country owes its existence as a nation today perhaps to the grace of God and the efforts of Britain and America. In a stormy debate over the Syrian question the other day, Pierre Cot, former member of the cabinet, said:

"We reproach Mr. Churchill for having taken a little too much interest in our affairs in Syria. But if Mr. Churchill, at a certain period, had not taken an interest in our affairs, General de Gaulle would not have been able to make his appeal in 1940."

Needless to remark, Mr. Cot did not bring down the house with his frank and honorable admission. General de Gaulle, who was taking the "other side," was given the applause. General de Gaulle is coming to the United States soon. May he come in the spirit of one who appreciates the saving of his country and his obligation therefore to his hosts, rather than in the arrogance of a conqueror.

Let him not forget, furthermore, while spouting his criticisms of Churchill, that England gave him and his few soldiers haven after France fell into the grasp of the Nazis, and that England fought for France when France, rotten to the core because of political and social difficulties of her own making, was unable to lift a hand to fight for herself.

The Future Course Of Food

WORLD-WIDE developments on the food front raise the question whether peoples ever will eat again according to prewar customs.

Denmark announces it is cutting its diet to the level of Britain's. The British and Americans sacrifice what they might have so that others may eat at subsistence levels. Whether any people will permanently deny itself to help the low diet nations remains to be seen.

Many theorists have contended there should be a leveling off of menus to lift up the semi-starvation countries. That is being practiced now in the United States with a vengeance.

The British, who have always been well fed in peace times, are thinking in terms of synthetic foods for postwar meals. One British scientist advances the theory that cattle should be diverted to dairy products and steaks replaced by a new type of yeast which can be produced from waste materials.

But our guess is that when the food difficulties arising out of the war have disappeared, people will go on eating pretty much as they did before.

In this country, you can bet your bottom dollar that yeast from waste materials will never gain favor over thick and juicy steaks which, it may be hoped, will be Americans' right again after victory over the Japanese—and over the bunglers in the War Food administration and OPA, who, although in the minority in those agencies, have caused more food woes on the home front than those chargeable to the war itself.

The expedition to the hill had originated with Lem Gott, who had chosen the spot, presumably, for convenient ascension into heaven. Once the word had got around, others decided it would be just the place for a good view—not only of the comet, but incidentally of Lem, making his preparations. Finally half the town agreed to go. The bold regarded it as an outing. The timid were not willing to be left behind. There would be plenty of fresh air on the hill, they said; just in case . . .

My father approved of the expedition. Comets didn't come very often—he appeared thankful for it—and this was a good time to clear up a lot of nonsense about them If people were together, he said, a few couldn't start a lot of foolish stories. He would go himself. Benjamin would drive all of us to the foot of the hill.

That morning Benjamin hauled his last load of gravel. When he came in for dinner, Mrs. Guptill was ready for him. He had promised to change the stove. Well, he could do it that very afternoon before he got tied up with something else. She started out again about her and Job.

He'd do it, Benjamin said. He wasn't one to go back on his word. But it would take two men for lifting. Boshy was no good. He was shaking so much now he couldn't lift a feather. They would have to wait for Jay.

* * *

Now that spring had come Jay was on an earlier schedule. He came in at 6, and he and Benjamin changed the stove at once. He was just finishing his supper when I went down into the kitchen to tell them that the teams were almost ready.

"I'm not goin'," Mrs. Guphill said. "It's Wednesday, and I've got my bread to bake.'

'Course you're going'," Jay told her. "Your bread can bake without you hangin' over it. I'll come back myself and take it out in an hour."

At first she wouldn't hear of it. Other people could go gallavanting off to mountain tops, she said. She could hear the Town Clock strike 9 from where she was.

Jay winked at me. "I believe she wants to be left alone with Mr. Cutter," he said slyly.

That settled it. She went off for her coat, leaving Jay to build the fire. He crammed the stove with excelsior, put in some edgings and opened the draft. "You go on outside," he told me. "I'll stay here to shut it up when it gets goin'."

At 7 o'clock we started off, nine of us, filling a buckboard and a surrey. On the way we passed groups of people on foot. The Pettigrews. The Bowdens. The Sawyers. The Giddings boys.

'Give us a ride," they called out, laughing.

At the foot of the hill a number of teams were already standing. Benjamin tied the span, and we started up the narrow, winding path that led along the side to the top. Trees cut out any real view of the sky. It was still dusk.

"Seen anything yet?" we called to those ahead.

"Not yet."

I hurried to catch up with Benjamin. "Think, Benjamin," I said soberly, "I may never see you again."

He laughed and took my hand. "I wouldn't count on that," he said. "Come on, let's keep our eyes open for Lem."

* * *

We found him at the very top of the hill, surrounded by an interested group of spectators. (No one was bold enough to laugh at him then. They would wait until 9 o'clock for that.) He was dressed in his best suit and reading aloud from the 12th chapter of Revelation. Every few minutes he would stop, look at his watch, and call out the time in a very loud voice.

"Half past 7. Just an hour and a half more to repent in!"

"Twenty minutes to 8. Just an hour and 20 minutes more!"

A few small groups stood apart, scanning the west. Mr. Havens was in one of them, offering comfort to Lily Poindexter, who had brought wet towels to protect her from breathing in the gases. In another Mr. McKinley, the principal of the Academy, was giving instructions to some of his students. "First find Regulus, at the end of the sickle." Sue and my father—keeping a tight hold on Boshy—joined them. Ada sat indifferently on a rock. My mother and Mrs. Guphill stood admiring the view.

In the west the last of the sunset had colored Wood's Pond a bright crimson. Ducks made dark lines against the sky. Frogs sounded like sleighbells. Now and then you could hear a loon crying.

Benjamin and I walked on. Just over the crest we came upon Jay and Julia, setting up the bottles. "Lands, I used to have notions myself," Jay was saying.

"Seen anything?"

"Not yet."

I had seen something, not in the west at all, but in the south, where the village lay. It came again—a long, red tail of flame.

"Look! The comet!"

They looked.

"That's no comet," Benjamin said. "That's a fire!"

"It's high," Jay broke in. "Do you figger . . ."

"That's jest what I was figgerin'."

It was the American House.

Self-Rule Hopes Of India Thought Dashed

SIMLA, India, July 12. (U.P.)—Informed sources said today that Lord Wavell, viceroy of India, was understood to have told both Moslem and Hindu leaders that the negotiations on Indian self-rule have failed.

These sources said both Mohandas K. Gandhi and Mohammed Ali Jinnah, leader of the Moslem league, have refused to accept Wavell's proposed list of members for the new governing council.

"It's all over," one informant said. "On Saturday we will read the funeral oration at the leaders' conference."

The mail rate was $5 a half ounce at the beginning of the Pony Express service.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

OH, for the wisdom of my barber who knows exactly what is wrong with the country, how the food shortage could be ended in twenty-four hours if he were President, what to do with the Germans or how to solve any other problem that is bothering you!

BRANDEIS

Or for the wisdom of my fellow columnists who can solve so many riddles that are way beyond my understanding!

For instance: I am writing this on my porch, and as I look out I see cattle grazing all around me on the neighboring farms.

Yet, last night I had baked beans for dinner because no meat was to be had.

There must be thousands of chickens within a mile of my place, yet it is almost impossible to buy eggs and I heard from a very reliable source that a New York woman offered—and paid—seven dollars for a roasting chicken which she needed to feed some guests.

We, ourselves, had to take some visitors out to eat the other evening, because we had nothing decent in the house to give them, and, in a nearby inn, we served four delicious steaks—at $3 each.

* * *

I love cheese, but we haven't enough points to buy any. Yet, a friend of mine came home from Stamford, Conn., last week with three pounds of swiss cheese, two pounds of blue cheese and a pound of store cheese—which he had bought, without a single point, in a black market.

And, just to be a good fellow, the black marketeer had sold him six cans of tomato juice and a whole case of meat loaf, at exorbitant prices but without a point.

Maybe my barber or my fellow columnists can explain all this. I can't and I am sure you can't.

By the way a friend of mine who lives in New Jersey, told me that there is a regular gang of hijackers stealing cattle off the farms in the dark of the nights. The farmers have tried to catch the fellows, but so far without success.

* * *

I AM all for patriotism.

But sometimes I, myself, feel tempted to go to the black market. I haven't yet. But I am getting hungrier every day.

The Danbury News-Time, my local paper, had a very good editorial on food a few days ago.

The writer was wondering where all the steaks and chops and roast beefs go—certainly all of it does not go to the armed forces.

The same cows and steers and lambs and pigs that have necks and feet and hearts and brains have other parts that taste much better.

If we can get the insides, what's the matter with the choicer cuts?

We should help feed the liberated countries and even keep the Germans from starvation.

But if we can eat inferior parts why must they have steaks?

And food should not be used as nutrition for greedy pocket-books.

The National Whirligig

Pre-View Of Action In Pacific

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

IN EUROPE and the United States the Army High Command has started the retraining of six million troops who will be redeployed to fight the Japs. The purpose of this vast system of reeducation of men green to the wiles of Pacific warfare is to make every odd in their favor in their new assignment.

Officers are receiving their instruction from Far Eastern veterans at miniature war colleges. The GIs are getting it in barracks and on a thousand fields stretching from France to San Francisco. For the redeployment of the men who crushed Hitler must be mental as well as physical. In a sense they must get the same sort of briefing that a salesman shifted from Berlin to a Tokyo branch office would need.

TUCKER

For the benefit of mothers and fathers whose sons will now fight in the Orient, it can be said that they will be battling a foe decidedly inferior in spirit, savvy, supplies and equipment to those of the Prussians whom the so-called "drugstore cowboy" chased from the Nile to the Rhine and a bit beyond that historic stream.

And don't worry too much about their supposed exposure to disease or discomfort. Chief of Staff George Marshall began preparation for the Japanese campaign long before Hitler was polished off. He has taken every precaution for holding down casualties from bullets or boredom.

There follows a short summary of the differences and likenesses of warfare which the doughfoot will encounter when he is shifted from the European to the Far Eastern theater of operations.

* * *

DULL: The climate in the new "Over There" will be better than that in Europe in some respects, for our forces have moved northward from the swamps and jungles ridden with snakes, insects and malaria. It will be no hotter than the sands of North Africa and the Campagna in the daytime, and no colder than nights in Tunisian deserts, in the mountains of Italy or on the wet, damp plains of France and Germany.

The hours of combat will be intense, but they will be shorter, and the rest periods will be longer. Our concentration of power against a single enemy enables us to provide more frequent relief. We will enjoy the enviable advantage of Knute Rockne's famous Notre Dame football teams. He could rush onto the field a new team every 15 minutes of the 60.

The greatest enemy will be ennui. Even a sleepy Italian town or a one-street French hamlet, with its estaminets and hippy belles, is more exciting than coral or volcanic dots on the awesome Pacific Ocean. But the Army and Navy plan to step up recreational diversions—sports, theaters, libraries, educational centers — far beyond past activities in this area.

Nevertheless, redeployed veterans must become reconciled to a dull and drab job. Tracking buck-toothed Japs through porous caves will not match the thrill that came from conquest of Europe's historic cities — Rome, Paris, Marseilles, Brest, Orleans, Cologne. It will be the kind of weary-Willie war depicted in "GI Joe," the new Ernie Pyle movie.

* * *

TRAMPS: Jap strategy and tactics are modelled on the German pattern in some respects, but they are remarkably different in many ways. Hitler and Hirohito, although members of the same low lodge, did not speak the same language or swap many secrets. There is no honor among dictators.

A Nip outfit looks like a bunch of tramps; Coxey's Army were gentlemen of fashion by comparison. Their small arms, artillery and motorized equipment are second-rate. But they have the tremendous advantage of fighting on terrain which they have mapped and studied for years. They know every range. That statement applies to every island we have seized — from Guadalcanal to Okinawa — but it will be even more true when we descend on the mainland.

It is for this reason that their mortars, heavy guns and even their undersized rifles have been so effective. Their knowledge of the geology and geography of the battleground makes up for deficiency in materiel. And the little brown men have developed sniping and shadow fighting to a deadly art. Redeployed Americans must resort to back-alley caution and stealth which their forefathers used against the Indians in colonial days.

The Japs are far behind the Germans in the employment of mines and booby traps, Nazi tricks which crippled so many of our men on the continent. They are amateurs at demolition, as our engineers discovered when we recaptured oil wells in Borneo. These can be put in operation with a few weeks, whereas it had been thought that there would be a three-month delay.

Doughfoots now under retraining will enjoy several distinct advantages over their pioneering pals. Save for a few suicide planes, the Jap air force and navy are virtually destroyed, while ours grow stronger every day. Hardly a week passes that a hundred B-29s, a carrier and a destroyer do not roll out of the factory or shipyard.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

BY AUTHORIZING Pan American World Airways, American Export Lines and TWA to engage in transatlantic service, the Civil Aeronautics board has settled only one phase of the explosive ocean flight problem.

There is still plenty of dynamite lying around. Applications for air routes across the Pacific and to South America are pending. No decision has been announced on the request of steamship companies to operate planes.

Rumors are rife in Wall Street that one or more airship concerns are being organized to carry passengers and freight by dirigible. Congressional committees are still in angry deadlock over postwar aviation policy.

For months a bitter row has raged in commercial flying circles on who or how many would be permitted to rake in the lucrative transocean trade, which will be around eighteen per cent of all air traffic, CAP's verdict is a compromise.

LEMAN

Executives of Pan American, the pioneer overseas company, have realized for a long time that after the war they could not hope to monopolize international business.

Domestic airlines have been holding public protest meetings and flooding Washington with complaints that they are being squeezed out of the global field.

To offset the clamor and to save the foremost position for Pan Am, President Juan Trippe proposed that hereafter our national effort should be concentrated "behind a single American international operation." This has been dubbed the "chosen instrument" policy, a term which Trippe dislikes because it is the phrase applied to air operations by foreign government owned lines.

Rivals charged that Trippe's plan was a clever stratagem to funnel all overseas commerce to his company. This he denied heatedly, explaining that his proposal was "a community company in which all American transportation interests able to contribute would be permitted to participate in an arrangement approved by the government." Objectors contended that by whatever name the rose was called, it would still be dominated by Juan.

* * *

COMPETITION: During the past year 31 applications for transocean certificates were filed in Washington, among which were requests from 14 domestic airlines including Transcontinental & Western Air, financed by Howard Hughes' millions, and American Export Airlines, backed by Lehman Brothers, powerful New York investment bankers.

Pan American, however, starts off in an advantageous position. Even now it operates commercial flights to 46 countries over 80,000 of the firm's prewar 100,000 miles of routes. Four times a week its planes fly between New York and Europe.

"It Pits War Veteran Against Unionists"

Rankin Bill Is Called Dangerous

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — It's not nice to think about, but there are those who are promoting legislation which will set two powerful segments of our postwar population one against the other—the ex-service men and labor unionists.

The object of promoting this dangerous cleavage is to weaken labor unions.

It happened after the last war, contributing to the wave of intolerance that swept the country in the early '20's. During this war there have been manifest attempts here and there to set the soldier against the worker at home. Some attempts were made in Congress, some outside.

STOKES

The postwar period, because of its natural confusions, will offer opportunities for those who would use the veteran to fight unions. Both the returning soldier and the worker are suffering from war tensions. They can find sources of friction, if they look hard, or if they are encouraged.

* * *

Labor Seeks More

As the nation emerges from the war, labor naturally is going to try to get more money in the pay envelope. That might as well be expected. Labor has seen the price of things rise, with its income fixed. Labor organizations have been pushing at wage ceilings, with occasional, and limited success. They are beginning to push more energetically.

All during the war, businessmen and farmers have been pressing, too, to break through price ceilings. They operate through their organizations and their representatives in Congress, and they have had some successes also. Both also have had nice profits.

* * *

ALL of these conflicts will add up to enough troubles in the postwar period of adjustment without exploiting the tensions of war's aftermath by setting one group against another—for example, the war veteran against the union worker.

Typical of the latter technique is the current activity of Rep. John Rankin (D., Miss.). He is sponsoring a bill which would provide that war veterans cannot be required to join a labor union or pay union dues and assessments. Innocent as it may look, this is designed to break down the structure of unionism by setting off the war veteran against the union worker.

Mr. Rankin's purpose is clear from his own record. It is in keeping with the philosophy he has exemplified in recent years. It is more easily understood by taking into account his background and his locale in a poll-tax state and a state where labor has little influence.

* * *

Rankin Is Criticized

Labor bills are handled in the usual course by the House Labor committee. Mr. Rankin is chairman of the House Veterans committee. In a characteristic, high-handed manner he put the bill before his committee, without any previous consideration or testimony. And without the full membership being present. Then he called for a vote and announced it had been approved. Thereupon he reported it to the House.

Now he is confronted with a "minority report" signed by more than a majority of his committee disapproving the bill. That is quite a rebuke to a committee chairman. One member, who voted with him on the voice vote in the committee, said he thought only he and the chairman and one other member voted for the bill.

The measure may now be recalled, since a majority has signified its opposition.

* * *

IN its "minority report," the committee majority pointed out that Gen. Frank T. Hines, chairman of the War Veterans Placement Training board, has been holding conferences with representatives of labor, industry, veterans and government to work out problems incident to the re-employment of war veterans and that there is every reason to believe this will bring a solution. General Hines recommended that legislation be deferred.

The committee majority says the necessity for the Rankin bill has not been established and "there has been no convincing demonstration that the proposal will be in the best interest of veterans." It said also that "the effects of this measure would be so many and varied as to be unenforceable; the changes in contracts, agreements and laws would be so numerous as to be incalculable without study."

Mr. Rankin has discredited himself, but he will not be stopped so easily, nor will others with similar aims.

Soong Confers With Stalin Fourth Time

MOSCOW, July 12. (U.P.)—Premier T. V. Soong of China conferred for the fourth time today with Premier Stalin, and the Chinese mission to Moscow was reported drawing to its close.

Soong expected to see the American and British ambassadors, W. Averell Harriman and Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, before they leave for the Big Three conference at Berlin.

The Chinese delegation declined to drop the slightest hint regarding the conferences. But reliable quarters reported a cordial atmosphere and expressed confidence of early results.

Digger And His Tea Inseparable Despite Heat And War Guns

WITH AUSTRALIAN TROOPS IN BORNEO (AP)—It doesn't take a second glance to tell when you are with Australian instead of American troops.

There are numerous unmistakable identifications—even if you didn't notice the Aussies stopped beside the road, making tea over a fire under a tropical sun. There is the jaunty slouch hat. It identifies a "Digger" the world around.

Those Steel Helmets

Then there are the steel helmets. Remember those shallow ones that characterized the Yanks of World war I—the kind that seemed to balance atop the head, waiting for a gust of wind to blow them off. That's the kind the Aussies wear up in the front lines. Besides the American helmets that drop down around the ears, they seem now to have a quaintly old-fashioned tone about them.

The Aussie soldier's appetite for tea ("tie," he pronounces it) is a never-ending source of wonder to an American. The sun will be beating down mercilessly. Men will be dropping to the ground to rest, perspiration dripping from their sopping shirts. The advance elements will be engaged in a machinegun fight only 100 yards up the road. But out come matches to start the tea fires burning.

They eat the rations cold but get the tea steaming hot.

"It's a great feeling to get a hot cuppa tie inside of you on a hot day," comments a fat lieutenant who looks as though he were going to melt.

If anyone tried to put a tax on their tea, these "blokes" (as the Aussies say) would revolt quicker than the boys in Boston did. But they'd throw the tax collectors into the bay and keep the tea.

They're as rough and tough as any bunch of American GI's. It's always "bloody" this and "bloody" that.

There is one thing they have in common with Yanks—a souvenir craze. They got sore at American naval personnel at Victoria, on Labuan island, because the Yanks went in behind the first Australian troops and did the town over for souvenirs.

Officials Make Light Of Strange Balloons

MEXICO CITY, July 12. (AP)—Defense officials today made light of conjectures that two strange cigar-shaped balloons reported during the past two days over widely separated points in Mexico might be of Japanese origin.

The second of the balloons was reported to have passed over Polotitlan, about 100 miles northwest of Mexico City, yesterday afternoon at a great height.

The day before a similar balloon was reported to have exploded in the air after passing over Cadereyta de Montes in the state of Queretaro.

STOCKS TURN TO RECOVERY

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP) — The stock market turned to the recovery side today with the aid of selected steels, motors and rails although many leaders failed to join the comeback. Sales were 970,000 shares compared with 810,000 Wednesday.

Timidity of liquidation encouraged optimists and further congressional steps toward enactment of reconversion tax relief were viewed as bullish. The outlook for quickening civilian production buoyed some motors. Skeptics regarding foreign affairs and Washington's intentions regarding curbing markets still held aloof or trimmed accounts.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .2 of a point at 66.9, eliminating the fall of the preceding session.

Better performers included Bethlehem, Columbia Gas, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Willys-Overland, Studebaker, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Texas Co., and American Distilling.

Among losers were Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Edison, Standard Oil (NJ), American Can, Du Pont, Deere, Anaconda, Pan-American Airways and American Waterworks.

Rails bonds improved at the last.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Cotton futures fluctuated in a narrow range today and closed steady with net gains of 20 to 40 cents a bale.

Volume was curtailed pending further developments on crop prospects and renewed mill buying in spot cotton. Some quarters turned cautious in view of the hedge selling evidenced during the past few sessions.

Mills were fair buyers in the near months and some replacement commission house demand appeared in the later positions. Hedging and profit taking held rallying tendencies in check.

Jap Actions Hint Most Of Better Troops Cut Off By U. S. Blockade

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

Hardly had Navy Undersecretary Gates released his final report as air secretary announcing "complete domination o fthe air" over all the seas that surround Japan than there came convincing proof.

Navy patrol and search planes combing the Yellow sea intercepted and turned back troop laden convoys bound from China to Japan. They were driven to refuge in the shallow waters of the port of Tsing-Tao far up the Chinese coast. There is good prospect that most of the ships will end their sailing days there under naval air attacks.

SIMPSON

None escaped eastward to Korean or Japanese waters. That means that the air and submarine isolation of Japan from powerful Japanese armies of occupation in northern China is complete. But the mere fact that Tokyo was endeavoring at whatever risk to recall fighting forces from China for home defense use is perhaps the most significant aspect of that action in the Yellow sea.

Best Troops Caught

It reemphasizes the fact that the American advance across the Pacific to Japan's own doorstep and into the Philippines has probably moved so swiftly that she has been caught with relatively few first line troops available to man home defenses. Her seasoned veterans are mostly in China or annihilated or trapped in isolated portions of her once vast conquest zone. There is no official information available on the composition of her homeguard armies; but the effort to recruit them from China under such dubious circumstances as the event in the Yellow sea demonstrated smacks of desperation. There may be no more than a sprinkling of Japanese regular Army units to stiffen the reserve levies upon which the invasion attack will fall when it comes.

Non-Agricultural Employment Less

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP) — For the first time in six years, non-agricultural employment decreased between May and June. The decrease in the first month after V-E day was almost half a million.

The census bureau, reporting this today, said the reduction reflects cut-backs in certain war production programs. The bureau added that the net decrease does not measure the full impact of cut-backs because "many workers laid off in one industry, shipbuilding for example, have found employment in other industries."

Agricultural employment increased more than usual during the month.

About 64 per cent of the land area of the Philippines is forest.

Soldier Is Rewarded For Finding Body

LAWTON, Okla., July 12. (U.P.)—Pvt. William H. Kilby, Long Island, N. Y., a Fort Sill replacement center trainee, today was presented $450 by relatives of Tillman Roberts, 77-year-old Altus, Okla., man who was found dead in a ravine in the Wichita mountains wildlife preserve Tuesday.

Kilby found the body of the aged man who had wandered away from a family picnic at Craterville Park, July 4. An extended search was conducted for the missing man for six days.

A reward of $500 was posted by the five sons of the lost man and today Kilby was presented with $450 for finding the body.

The additional $50 of the reward purse was divided and $25 was presented to Pvt. William Neal, Chicago, another army trainee, who found Roberts' hat on Sunday during the search, and the other $25 was given to Jennings Adams, a youth living near the preserve gate, who reported that he had seen the man July 6 in a pasture beyond cache gate, near the area where the body was found.

Saka Gives View On Dardanelles Status

LONDON, July 12 (U.P.)—Modification of the present status of the Dardanelles as proposed by the Soviet union would have to be decided by international agreement rather than by a bilateral accord between Turkey and Russia, according to Turkish Foreign Minister Hassan Saka.

Saka told a press conference last night that the future of the Dardanelles and revision of the existing Turko-Russian pact were two distinct questions which must be treated separately.

He emphasized that maintenance and strengthening of friendly relations with Russia is one of the mainsprings of Turkey's foreign policy.

Saka discounted reports that he might remain in London until Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden return from the Big Three conference in Berlin in order to discuss the Turkish-Russian situation with them. He indicated he would leave London in the next few days.

Traffic League Asks Quicker Rate Action

DALLAS, July 12. (U.P.)—A request in the form of a resolution adopted by the Texas Industrial Traffic league at its annual meeting here yesterday, asked the Interstate Commerce commission to speed up action to establish new uniform freight rates for the nation.

The original ICC rate decision contemplated a two-year period for rail carriers to issue a uniform classification so that the same ratings would apply between all points in the United States. Meanwhile a temporary measure, effective Aug. 31, would provide a 10 per cent decrease in rates on merchandise moving within the Southwest and from Southwest points to other sections.

Leland Smith of Houston was continued as president. Other officers re-elected were: L. M. Shepardson, Waco; F. H. Fredericks, Beaumont, and Wallace Green, Dallas, vice-presidents, and Frank A. Leffingwell, Dallas, secretary-treasurer. Frank W. Higginbothem of Amarillo was added to the board of directors.

State Guard To Make Drive For Recruits

A recruiting drive will be staged Saturday afternoon by the 39th Battalion of the Texas State Guard when equipment will be displayed west of the postoffice and demonstrations given on the lawn south of the court house.

A recruiting tent will be set up and Dr. L. D. Wood, a major in the guard, will give examinations on the spot.

All companies of the battalion, from Levelland, Tahoka, Crosbyton, Floydada and Plainview, along with the Lubbock group, will be here to aid in the demonstration which will include a smoke screen, which company members will use in an attempt to completely cover the court house.

Recruiting drives of late have been very successful, said Roy McEachern, public relations officer.

Bankers Open State Advertising Program

DALLAS, July 12. (AP)—An advertising program for Texas, through financial cooperation of Texas banks, has been launched by the Bankers Digest.

The cooperative plan calls for national magazine advertisements stressing Texas' climate, lack of state income taxes, more favorable freight rates promised, cheap fuel and power, air transport facilities and proximity to Latin America.

Four-Ton Fish Is Identified As Manta

NEW ORLEANS, July 12. (AP)—An odd, four-ton fish which was hauled from the Mississippi river on the anchor of the merchant steamship Amhearst Victory has been identified as a manta.

Dr. James Nelson Gowanloch, chief biologist of the Louisiana department of wildlife and fisheries, said the fish was a manta birostiris, or two-horned manta.

He said the fish, one of the largest known species, was approximately 18 feet square and weighed 8,000 pounds.

Statements On Forms Are Said Misleading

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—The Republican congressional food committee said today that "four out of five" statements made by the Office of Price Administration in application forms for home-canning sugar are "false or misleading."

In a statement released through Representative Gwinn (R-NY), the committee said OPA was seeking to divert attention "from itself and its political purposes by making accusations against the housewife."

Letter Almost Like "Voice From Dead"

HARTFORD, Conn., July 12. (AP) —Almost like a voice from the dead read this word today from distant China, from a condemned Hartford boy—"I'll be coming home soon . . . maybe another six months or so . . . but I'll be there. . . ."

The letter was dated China, Saturday, May 26—only a day or two before Pvt. John V. Brennan became involved in an altercation that resulted in the death of an elderly Chinese woman and his own court-martial sentence of death.

It was only four days after Brennan wrote that letter to Bill Savitt, Hartford jeweler, that a second to his aunt, bluntly announced: "I was just tried for first degree murder and I'm going to be shot."

Savitt found Brennan's letter today, as the War department, having ordered the execution stayed, awaited a full report from China.

Texas Ready To Lay Real Siege To Typhus Scourge, Gets U. S. Aid

By MARY L. KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 12.—After two years of fighting the spread of typhus fever with a bucket-brigade, Texas is ready to attack it with the effectiveness of a fireman's chemical gun, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, said today.

Participation in over half-a-million dollar federal grant, plus 113,000 pounds of the "miracle" insecticide DDT, are the weapons the state department of health now has to combat this rat-flea borne disease which soared in Texas from 13 cases in 1930 to 1,740 cases in 1944.

36 Counties Pre-Approved

Thirty-six counties have been pre-approved and are eligible for participation in vaccination, poisoning and DDT dusting programs. Permanent rat eradication programs are now underway in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Laredo, Lubbock, Corpus Christi, Austin.

"The desperate need for such a program is apparent," said Dr. Cox, "when it is realized there are three rats to every person in Texas, that the toll they take in lives runs into the hundreds, and the amount of food, merchandise and furniture they destroyed and defile reaches the astounding figure of $120,000,000 annually."

Typhus fever was first reported in Texas in 1915 when an outbreak occurred along the border. It spread westward and then north. Infected rats have been found in some sections of the Panhandle.

Pawed Air For Help

"After carrying on sporadic rat-eradication campaigns over the state with but little success," said Dr. Cox, "we pawed the air for help."

"Then we called on Maj. John J. Essex with the Public Health service. With his help, rat-proofing programs were instituted in a number of cities."

Dr. Cox went to Washington and with the help of Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston, secured designation of Texas as one of nine states to participate in a $700,000 federal grant for typhus control.

Three phases of the program to fine-comb rats from Texas, are:

1. Vaccination (limited to communities within a 100-mile radius of Hallettsville, center of the typhus research project.)
2. Poisoning with DDT—this insecticide to be furnished by the state department of health.

Education Program

3. Permanent eradication, through education of the public as to the danger of rats, starving rats by proper garbage disposal and clean grocery and feed stores, rat-proofing buildings to seal them out permanently.

The pre-approved counties for the programs are: Lavaca, Harris, Bexar, Webb, Nueces, Tarrant, Jefferson, Waller, Fayette, San Patricio, Comal, Madison, Milam, Galveston, Washington, Dewitt, Cameron, Guadalupe, Henderson, Wilson, Taylor, Travis, Victoria, Houston, Lampasas, Jim Wells, Dallas, Gonzales, Howard, McLennan Wharton, Jasper, Erath, Runnels, Jones, Bee.

"Twenty years from now," said Dr. Cox, "if our rat, fly, flea and mosquito program is carried out, not only will hundreds of lives and thousands of dollars be saved, but the cow won't need a tail and your dog can rest in peace."

Husband Shooting Said Too Rampant, Scarcity Is Cited

CHICAGO, July 12. (AP)—Too many women are "shooting their husbands" and "expecting judges to be chivalrous," Judge William V. Daly today told a 26-year-old mother charged with assault with intent to kill.

"No wonder husbands are getting scarce," Judge Daly commented after George Leenheer, 26, a war worker, testified that on June 12 his wife shot him in the chest with a revolver.

Leenheer testified that on that date he borrowed $50 from Mrs. Frances Leenheer, mother of his four children, to arrange for a divorce.

Instead, he took the money and got drunk," Mrs. Leenheer told the court. "When he came home he started to beat and choke me. When he fell asleep, I tried to make him comfortable by taking his shoes off, but he got up and chased me. I shot him to protect myself."

Judge Daly changed the charge to assault with a deadly weapon, entered a motion for probation, continued the hearing to July 25, and ordered the Leenheers to consult a court psychiatrist.

Sudan Soldier Gets Three Japs In His First Combat Action

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY ON LUZON — Pfc. Charles F. Stark of Sudan, Tex., came to 38th division's 151st Infantry as a replacement with no combat experience, but became a veteran almost overnight when he bagged three Japs in his first action in the mountains northeast of Manila.

Stark joined his rifle company and pushed off with the veterans of Zig Zag pass and Bataan against the Shimbu line. The unit was assigned to take Hill 400.

Stark and his buddies reached the hill's crest when a machine gun opened up. One bullet pierced Stark's helmet and two others ripped through his sleeve and pack.

He fell backwards, rolling toward the edge of a 200-foot precipitous cliff, but the trench knife tucked in his boot caught in bamboo, halting his fall.

After the company responded with mortar fire, Stark's squad took the hill.

That's how he earned the Combat Infantry badge.

Stark is the husband of Mrs. Venita Stark, Sudan. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stark, also reside there. He entered the Army in July, 1944, and sailed for overseas duty in January, 1945.

CHARTER APPROVED

SAN SALVADOR, July 12. (AP)—The constituent national assembly approved today the United Nations charter, making El Salvador the second country to act. Nicaragua was the first.

Jap Prays With, And Fetes Yanks But Refuses To Surrender His Men

By WILLIAM F. TYREE
United Press War Writer

OKINAWA (Delayed) — On a tiny island in the Ryukyus there is a neutralized Japanese garrison which refuses to surrender, but its soldiers were willing to kneel side by side with Americans and pray.

Furthermore, the Japanese commander said, "we will refrain from harming any parties engaged in non-military pursuits such as swimming, picknicking, or shell-gathering on the shores of this island."

The commander, bushido-minded Major Watanabe, hopelessly cut off from supplies and communications, rejected a U. S. 10th Army offer for honorable surrender.

Await Emperor's Orders

He replied, "as long as there are no orders from the emperor, or his representative, surrender is impossible."

But when the time came to give this decision Watanabe stayed behind in his tent and sent his adjutant to meet with the Americans because to quote the adjutant, "he feared he might be swayed to surrender."

The island isn't really worth a fight and, since the Japanese have agreed to call off their snipers and trouble-makers, this part of the Ryukyus has been marked off the battle list.

This is what happened:

On June 13 a group of Navy officers and several Japanese prisoners of war went ashore to negotiate a surrender. Two Japanese officers broadcast a report on the Okinawa situation and urged Watanabe's garrison to quit.

Flag Signal Planted

Later American Lieut. (jg) D. L. Osborn swam ashore alone and planted three white flags on the beach. Instructions said for the Japs to leave one flag if no negotiations were desired, two flags if a personal interview was wanted, and three flags if further information was needed.

The next day there were two flags on the beach, but no emissary. Later it developed this was a Japanese form of joke.

Finally, after more broadcasts, the Japanese sent a sergeant to confer with one of the American-held prisoners—a lieutenant. They agreed that the U. S. outposts would withdraw to the beach after which the sergeant would report the situation to Watanabe.

Decision Promised

Then Wanatabe's adjutant arrived and said the major would give his decision after talking to a friend, a wounded Japanese major who had been mentioned in the broadcasts.

So on June 26 the Americans brought Major Hirakatsu, the wounded friend, ashore on a stretcher. Wanatabe arrived in full dress uniform. He was told of Japan's defeat on Okinawa and the Americans emphasized the possible role that Wanatabe and his staff could play in providing leadership to rebuild "a strong, friendly, and peaceful Japan."

Watanabe and Hirakatsu held a long discussion and the island commander agreed to give his reply the next morning.

Lieut. (jg) Henry C. Morton and Lieut. Osborn accompanied Watanabe to his command post. Unarmed, they walked into the headquarters with the Japanese armed guard. There Wanatabe signed their short-snorter bills and served them canned Formosan pineapple.

Afraid He'd Surrender

The next morning Watanabe's adjutant met the Americans and gave them the major's rejection of surrender, explaining that Watanabe didn't appear because he was afraid he would be swayed to surrender.

In concluding the interview the Americans asked if the Japanese officer would join in a "prayer to the supreme being of all faiths."

The entire party, both Americans and Japanese, knelt while a Navy chaplain offered a short prayer.

The adjutant then gave each American officer a double handclasp and, with tears in his eyes, called them "good friends."

Then he called his guard to attention, saluted the Americans, and withdrew.

Return Of Park To Family To Be Sought

SAN ANTONIO, July 11 (AP)—Otto Koehler was laying plans today to have San Antonio's Koehler park returned to the family because, he said, revenue from the 3 1-2-acre tract was not being spent for improvements and maintenance of the San Antonio zoo.

The late Mrs. Emma Koehler, who trust-deeded the park to the city of San Antonio in 1915, had specified in a supplement filed with the deed that the park would revert back to the Koehler family should it be used for other purposes than stated.

Koehler said the provisions of the deed had been ignored and that he had instructed his lawyer to take whatever steps might be necessary to recover the property. "I have investigated and I fail to find where the revenue from Koehler park is being used for the zoo. I have therefore instructed my attorney to take steps to seek restitution of the park as provided in the original provision of the deed," Koehler said.

Meantime, the office of City Auditor Walter Tasch explained that all revenue from San Antonio parks had been turned over to the general fund to meet general city expenses. No one in Tasch's office could remember when any revenue from Koehler's park had ever been used for zoo maintenance or expenses.

Pullman Service Is Partially Cancelled

Under the order of the Office of Defense Transportation which restricts use of Pullmans between cities of less than 450 miles apart, Lubbock's direct Pullman connections to Dallas and Ft. Worth and return will be cancelled on July 15, according to an announcement by H. C. Vincent, traffic manager of the Santa Fe.

The sleeping car was operated in connection with the T. & P. Railway at Sweetwater and leaves Lubbock nightly at 9:45 p. m. and returning to Lubbock at 9:20 a. m. over Santa Fe trains 94 and 95.

The Pullmans being used on these schedules will immediately be made available for the movement of military personnel, Vincent said. "We are sure our many patrons will be willing to make this sacrifice in behalf of the war effort," he said.

Pullman cars being used on schedules to be canceled will immediately be made available for the movement of military personnel, it was stated.

Pullmans will continue to operate on the Houston-Oakland route, both ways through Lubbock, and on the Dallas-Oakland route by way of Temple, and between Clovis and Los Angeles, for which reservations may be made here.

Russia Ranks Second, Britain A Poor Third, Surveys Shows

Six-Nation Public Opinion Poll Sets U. S. Up As Most Influential Postwar Power

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Which nation will have most influence in world affairs after the war—the United States, or Russia?

An international poll conducted jointly by affiliates of the Institute in four foreign countries shows that the people of France, Canada, Sweden and Denmark rate the United States first in future world influence, with Russia second, and Britain a lagging third.

GALLUP

These results—evidence of the extent to which the peoples of the world look to the United States for leadership — give added emphasis to President Truman's speech to the Senate in which he said that the eyes of all nations are focused on the Senate debate over American adherence to the San Francisco charter.

One interesting sidelight of the international poll is the extent to which the people of France have been impressed by Russia. The figures show that although America is named most often as the influential power, Russia is a close second and gets about twice as many votes in France as in any other country polled on the question.

Six Polls Co-Operate

Studies of international opinion have been made possible by the forming of permanent poll taking organizations in a total of six countries besides the United States.

The results of today's poll were gathered by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, the French Institute of Public Opinion, the Svenska Gallup Institutet, the Dansk Gallup Institut, and the American Institute of Public Opinion.

"After the war, which country do you think will actually have the most influence in world affairs?"

Ralls Soldier Among Ground Crewmen To View 'Flak Valley'

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE SERVICE COMMAND STATION, England—The Japan of tomorrow was mirrored in the targets of yesterday for Cpl. Leonard M. Ashley, Route 1, Ralls, Tex., as he, along with nine other ground crew members of the Eighth Air force service command with whom he served, flew over devastated and defeated Germany in a B-17 Flying Fortress on an eight-hour "sightseeing mission" to witness the great part they played in the eventual victory over Hitler's Germany.

From altitudes ranging from a couple of thousand feet to treetop level in ideal weather, the Fortress skeleton crew and its passengers saw the results of 30 months of intensive strategic bombing. The men were all "briefed" on what they would see on the flight over the Rhur valley which once was considered one of the most highly industralized areas in the world. Airmen referred to it as "Flak valley" due to the very heavy concentration of anti-aircraft defenses.

The flight covered approximately 1,000 miles round trip and the men flew over parts of England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. The Reich's ruins were given special attention on the flight.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Rab Ashley of Ralls, Cpl. Ashley is stationed at this strategic air depot bomber repair base. Prior to his entry into the Army in October, 1942, he was a civil service mechanic at Lubbock Army Air field. He has served overseas since September, 1943. His wife, Mrs. Beulah Mae Ashley, is living at 2413 Sixth, Lubbock.

Four more services of the revival at the First Baptist church will be conducted by Rev. Grady W. Metcalf, pastor of the First Baptist church at Temple, who is assisted in the meetings by Harry W. Miner, jr., educational director of the First Baptist church here, as music director.

Rev. Metcalf will deliver a message on "The Branding Marks of Jesus" at 10 o'clock this morning. Gleaners and Rebekah Sunday school classes are to be recognized.

"The Inevitable Question" will be Rev. Metcalf's subject at 8 o'clock tonight. Special emphasis will be given young people's work.

Rev. Metcalf's sermon subject at 11 o'clock Sunday morning will be "God's Attitude Toward the Sinner" and that night, "The Great Invitation."

Special music is planned for each service and the public is cordially invited, it was announced.

Food, Nutrition And Rationing News . . .

Milk Drinks, Soups And Milk Suppers Will Contribute To Full Health And Vigor

In this coffee-drinking nation, the average homemaker has the eternal problem of getting milk into her husband's diet in some form other than a plain beverage. A pint of milk a day is just as indispensable to the full health and vigor of an adult as is the daily quart for growing children.

The old-fashioned supper of crackers and milk is one well worth remembering. Especially after a long, tiring day, a bowl of steaming milk, and a plate of crisp crackers to slide in and out of it, is relaxing to taut nerves.

This is a nourishing supper, too, for milk contains many of the needed minerals and vitamins, and the crackers are packed with quick-acting food energy.

Milk drinks are often popular with those that don't relish plain milk. Coffee eggnog, served ice cold, is a welcome change for dinner.

Coffee Eggnog

1 egg beaten
2 teaspoons sugar (optional)
Dash of salt
½ cup cold milk
2 tablespoons cream
¼ cup chilled strong coffee

Combine egg, sugar and salt. Beat in milk, cream and coffee. Serve cold. Serves 1.

Root Beer Frost is a summer refresher that couples with rich brown pretzels for a snack with get-up-and-go to it. Time out for long, luxurious sips of this creamy drink punctuated with frequent reaches into the pretzel bowl helps increase pep for either work or play.

Root Beer Frost

1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 cups milk
2 cups root beer

Soften ice cream, add milk and beat with egg beater until creamy. Add root beer. Serve at once in tall glasses. Serves 4.

Iced cocoa can be made well in advance and stored in the refrigerator, ready for breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Iced Cocoa

2 tablespoons cocoa
1½ tablespoons sugar
½ cup water
4 cups milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla (if desired)

Mix the cocoa, sugar and water together. Boil for 1 minute. Scald the milk and add it to the cocoa mixture. Heat the mixture to the boiling point, but do not boil after the milk is added. Add vanilla. Cover tightly and chill in the refrigerator. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

There is also an endless array of cream soups that are lavish with milk. Try different recipes and be adventurous with seasonings in making these soups, for that is their secret of success. Serve them often in deep bowls with plenty of crisp crackers on the side.

Green Bean Chowder

2 cups raw potatoes, diced
2 cups green beans, finely cut
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon onion, minced
1 tablespoon flour
1½ cups milk
Salt and pepper
Paprika or cheese garnish

Cook potatoes and green beans separately until tender. Melt fat and brown onion in it. Stir in flour. Add milk slowly and stir until thickened. Continue cooking for three minutes. Add drained potatoes and beans. Heat thoroughly, pour into soup tureens and garnish with paprika or grated cheese. Serve with crisp crackers. Makes 4 portions.

Salmon Soup

1½ cups fresh salmon, cooked and flaked
1 quart scalded milk
2 tablespoons margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mash salmon with a fork or rub it through a coarse sieve. Make a thin white sauce of the margarine, flour and milk. Add salmon and seasonings. Heat thoroughly. Garnish servings with paprika and serve with crisp soda crackers. Makes 6 portions.

MEAT STRETCHER

A thrifty-trick for these meatless days is a meat loaf, fashioned sandwich style, with a cracker crumb dressing between the two layers. Crumble crackers finely, add egg, milk and condiments. Then sharpen the dressing with a dash of mustard and place between two layers of meat loaf mixture in a baking pan. This ribbon of dressing in the meat loaf adds wholesome wheat, shortening, milk and egg solids from which the crackers are made, and stretches the small amount of meat as well.

MEAT STRETCHER

A small quantity of meat will sharpen interest in salad meals and make them more satisfying. Lace the top of a tossed salad with pencil-thin strips of cold cuts, chicken, tongue or left-over meat. Bolster the salad further with plenty of crackers, jelly or jam, and a hearty milk drink. A salad provides a generous amount of needed vitamins, but it needs to be balanced with substantial energy-providing foods such as these.

Prune Cookies Are Ideal For Kiddies

Plump tender prunes wrapped in a peanut butter crust and baked to a crispy brown make intriguing cookies. So wholesome and good, Prune Half-Moons are an ideal confection for the young fry and one that grown-ups will go for, too.

These prune cookies are easy to make and sparing of these scarce items, sugar and shortening. As the fruit is sweet, just a bare touch of sugar is used in the crust—and the peanut butter which gives the irresistible flavor to the crust also replaces part of the shortening. Pitted dates may be used in place of prunes and make delightful cookies, also.

PRUNE HALF-MOONS

1 cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1/3 cup peanut butter
¼ cup evaporated milk
Stewed prunes, pitted.

Sift flour with sugar and salt. Cream shortening and peanut butter together. Work quickly but thoroughly into flour with fingers or dough blender. Add milk all at once and stir quickly with a fork. Roll out on floured board to about ⅛ inch thickenss. Cut with a biscuit cutter. Place a prune on one half of each round. Fold dough over prune and pinch edges to secure. If prunes are large, they can be halved. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in a hot oven (450 degree F.) until brown, about 10 minutes. Yield: About 3 dozen.

Prune Half-Moons together with a milk drink make a tempting mealtime dessert, simple party refreshments or an in-between snack. Molasses Milk Shake is a grand accompaniment—and one that the youngsters can stir up themselves.

MOLASSES MILK SHAKE

2 cups evaporated milk
2 cups water
¼ to 1/3 cup molasses
Nutmeg.

Milk and water should be cold. Mix and stir in the molasses. Top off each serving with a dash of nutmeg. Yield: 6 servings.

Serve Stuffed Beef Loaf As Economical And Tasty Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

WITH only one-half pound ground round steak, you can give "meat flavor and substance" to a gelatin loaf that serves 8 to 10 persons. Served with hot creamed potatoes, or stuffed baked potatoes, or baked macaroni, this loaf furnishes a substantial "meat" course in these meat scarce days.

Stuffed Beef Loaf
(Serves 8-10)

Part 1: One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold tomato juice or water, ½ pound ground round steak, 2 tablespoons minced onion, ½ teaspoon poultry seasonings, ½ teaspoon garlic, 2 cups tomato juice or water.

Part 2: One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup cooked carrots, 1 cup cooked whole green beans, ½ cup cooked minced celery, 1¼ cups liquid from vegetables or water, 3 tablespoons mild vinegar, 1 tablespoon finely minced green pepper, salt and pepper to taste.

Soften one envelope gelatin in cold tomato juice or water. Combine round steak, onion, seasonings, and tomato juice or water. Simmer very slowly until meat is tender. Add the softened gelatin to the hot mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool until syrupy. Pour half of mixture into a loaf pan that has been rinsed out in cold water and chill.

Soften second envelope gelatin in cold water. Cut carrots in Julienne strips and cook. Cook whole beans and celery, saving liquid from cooking. Dissolve gelatine in hot liquid from vegetables. Add vinegar, salt, pepper, and cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in cooked vegetables and green pepper. Spread vegetable mixture over top of meat layer in loaf pan, and when almost set, top with remaining meat mixture. Chill until firm.

Food Locker Examination To Open Monday In Lubbock OPA District

District OPA Enforcement Attorney Sam H. Allred announced Thursday that investigation of frozen food lockers of the Lubbock district Office of Price administration would begin Monday, July 16. Details of the program were received late Wednesday afternoon from the regional OPA office in Dallas.

Enforcement attorney on foods, Charles Blount, will have charge of the campaign described by OPA as a move "to aid in killing the black market and to provide better distribution of supply." Roscoe H. Collier, supervisor of meats with the OPA, will be in charge of the investigations.

A group of investigators will be chosen from the district office staff Monday and training begun for their work. Blount said that those chosen would be ones "with a deep background in the meat field and ones that have been associated with the OPA for a considerable length of time."

Blount's answers to other questions concerning the program were mostly "I don't know as yet." The enforcement attorney said that the program had only arrived late yesterday and that he was as yet unfamiliar with the complete details of carrying out the drive.

To Seek Health Certificates

He said that the investigators will apply for health certificates before entering lockers. This statement came in answer to City Health Officer Dr. J. W. Rollo's emphatic statement that no persons would be allowed in lockers without these certificates.

Blount had "no comment" to make on the possibility that keys to lockers might be refused when demanded by investigators. He said that if locker plant owners refused to give up keys to customers' lockers, then "that would be taken care of if and when it arose."

J. G. Wilkerson, owner of Wilkerson Cold Storage plant at 809 Twenty-third, said that OPA could have his books to check, that "there is no way to refuse this." But, Wilkerson added, "I have no right to give keys to customers' private lockers to any stranger who demands them." The plant owner said that investigators would have to see the locker owners, themselves, before entering lockers at his plant.

Paul Faulkner, owner of the Independent Produce and Cold Storage at 2427 Ave. H and The Food Mart at 1904 Nineteenth, said his "attorney would handle the situation for me."

"Hopes For Co-Operation"

Blount also had no comment to make on the attitude of OPA, or its actions, toward this problem. He said that he hoped for the co-operation of the public, but that they would continue without it. Blount added that he felt the problems that shall arise will be very small, and saw "no cause for the public becoming aroused over the campaign."

Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner, said that no warrants giving OPA permission to search the lockers could be given from her office unless "definite proof is presented of a violation of the law."

Blount again refused to comment when asked the authority of OPA entering these private lockers.

He said no instructions to the type of questions to be asked locker owners had been received. Harry Hall, regional OPA enforcement officer at Dallas, told the Dallas News Tuesday, however, that instructions of this type had been sent all district offices.

Owners of what appear to be excessive supplies will be notified to report to the local War Price and Rationing board and be prepared to surrender red points if unable to establish previous point payment or the fact that they were entitled to the meat on a point-free basis.

Blount said that it might be a week or more before actual investigation of locker plant books, and the lockers, was begun. Investigators will have to be trained first, he said, and the full details worked out for the campaign.

According to an Associated Press announcement Thursday morning, only those who have surrendered points or raised the animal slaughtered will be exempt under the OPA frozen food investigation.

A livestock producer was defined in instructions given investigators, the announcement said, as follows:

1. One who operates a farm at which he resides more than six months of the year, or supervised the raising of the animal on the premises at least one-third of the life of the animal.

2. One who raised the animal from birth until the time of slaughter, or owned and fed it 60 days preceding slaughter, during which the animal's weight was increased by at least 35 per cent.

3. The meat is from the owner's own household and he does not intend to sell or transfer it. For instance he can serve the meat to his hired hands, but can not give them any to take home.

The announcement added that these rules apply equally to meat killed at home by the individual or to meat he had handled by customs slaughterers.

Plant Construction At Marshall Halted

MARSHALL, July 12. (U.P.) — "Approximately two-thirds" of of the construction work being done on Longhorn ordnance works plant No. 2 was ordered halted today by the War department.

Work on the gigantic project, designed for the manufacture of propellants to be used in rocket bombs, was curtailed by the government in an official notice received here from the War department.

"A curtailment in the plant No. 2 construction is effective this date," Maj. J. H. Walker, commanding officer, said in making the announcement. "Under present plans," he added, "approximately two-thirds of the originally scheduled quantities (of propellants) are not to be made available. A partial termination of the plant No. 2 program is proceeding on this basis."

Longhorn plant No. 1, manufacturing TNT, will continue to operate according to schedule, Walker said.

Contractors and sub-contractors were advised of the cancellation and employment schedules were being studied, but Walker did not reveal how many workers were now on the job and how many would be retained.

BRITONS CAST VOTES

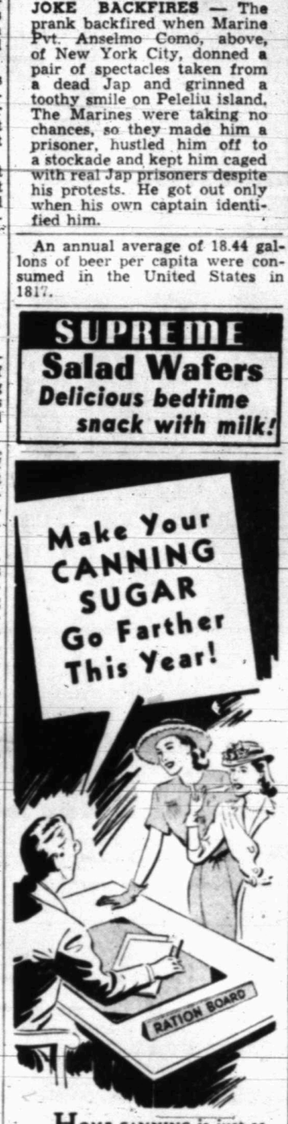

TERRELL, July 12. (AP)—Votes of cadets and officers at the British Flying Training school here, cast in Great Britain's general election, have been forwarded to RAF headquarters in Washington, from where they will be sent to London to be counted with other British servicemen's ballots July 26.

JOKE BACKFIRES — The prank backfired when Marine Pvt. Anselmo Como, above, of New York City, donned a pair of spectacles taken from a dead Jap and grinned a toothy smile on Peleliu island. The Marines were taking no chances, so they made him a prisoner, hustled him off to a stockade and kept him caged with real Jap prisoners despite his protests. He got out only when his own captain identified him.

City To Buy Second Engine, Bids Due Soon On New Electrical Unit

Decision to purchase an additional engine for the new city power plant now under construction in northeast Lubbock was taken by city commissioners in a regular meeting at City hall Thursday afternoon.

One new engine for the plant is now under order and is scheduled to be installed in October and the second one is expected to be in operation by next April, should present plans be carried to completion.

The commission voted to draw up plans and specifications for the new unit and to meet in a special meeting next Thursday to order advertising for bids. The engine is estimated to cost approximately $260,000.

Session Routine Otherwise

Consideration of the purchase of the new engine highlighted an otherwise routine meeting which lasted less than two hours, one of the shortest sessions of the year.

The commissioners voted to accept the low bid of the Harnischfeger corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., of $14,575 for a ten-ton electrically operated P & H crane for the new plant. The bid was f.o.b. Milwaukee.

Purchase of a new one-half ton pickup Chevrolet truck from the Kuykendall Chevrolet company for $880.05 was also approved.

City Manager Marlin Smith and City Attorney Vaughn Wilson were authorized to negotiate for the purchase of a library for the legal department at a cost of approximately $1,500. Wilson was attending his first meeting Thursday with the commission since he assumed duties as a full-time city attorney July 1, replacing Durwood Bradley, resigned.

Trenching Machine

City Manager Smith was authorized to seek information on a small trenching machine to be purchased for the water and sewer department.

Appointments approved during the session were: John T. Glover as a commissioner of the Lubbock Housing authority, filling the unexpired term of H. C. Pender ending Dec. 27, 1945; and Homer D. Grant, as a director of the Board of City Development, succeeding H. Van Aken. Both men have moved from Lubbock.

Two ordinances were passed at first reading: Ordinance No. 716, closing an east and west alley and reserving utility service rights in Block 126, Original Town; and ordinance No. 717 extending the parking meter zone to include meters and 45-degree parking on the west side of Texas avenue from Tenth to Main and 78 feet south of Fourteenth to Fifteenth and the east side of Avenue H from Broadway to Thirteenth and meters and parallel parking on the east side of Ave. J from Thirteenth to Fourteenth and both sides of Ave. L from Main to Thirteenth.

Stop Signs Approved

Recommendations of the police department that stop signs be placed on both sides of Ave. T at Eigteenth were approved.

The commission agreed to the closing of the alleys in block 2 and 7, Richmond second addition after Tom E. Popplewell, owner of the site, had orally granted a permanent easment to the alley in block 7 for utilities service and to storm sewer service on Ave. N in the block, already closed by ordinance. The site is across the Santa Fe railway tracks north of the Burrus elevator and will be the location for Lubbock Building Products.

A general contractor's bond for R. S. Hensley was approved.

Mayor O. W. Ribble presided at the session and members attending were: J. Ray Dickey, W. B. Price and Fred H. Childress, comsioners; City Secretary Lavenia Williams, Smith and Wilson.

COMMUNITY TAX SET

MEXICO CITY, July 12. (AP)—The first national revolutionary congress of Agrarian law, in session here, approved yesterday a recommendation to establish a 20 per cent tax on the earnings of community lands, to be applied to irrigation works for their benefit.

Weather In State Varies To Extremes

AUSTIN, July 11 (U.P.)—Weather conditions in Texas ranged from drouth to flood for the week ended Monday, the federal crop and weather bulletin announced here today.

Conditions in western areas were reported improving over the preceding week. Grasshopper damage appeared to be spreading. Ranges were improved in many drouthy areas.

There was considerable flooding in the Pecan Bayou watershed below Brownwood and also locally in the Dallas area. Temperatures were generally moderate, but with summer readings in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Heaviest reported rain for the week was 7.49 inches at Brownwood. Dallas was credited with 5.36 inches and Big Spring with 4.89 inches.

Donna Rachele Mussolini Recalls Stormy Life With Ill-Fated Duce

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following exclusive interview is one of the few public statements ever made by Mrs. Benito Mussolini. It is her first to an American correspondent since the death of her husband and her removal to a British internment camp).

By ANN STRINGER
United Press Staff Writer

A BRITISH INTERNMENT CAMP, Terni, Italy, July 12—"I was never close to him when he was high; I was always near him when he was down."

With that weeping epitaph, Benito Mussolini's gray-haired widow summed up her life with the flamboyant duce who left her for a younger, prettier mistress at the height of his Fascist power.

Pouring out her words between choking sobs, Donna Rachele revealed in an exclusive interview that she spoke to the doomed duce by telephone only six hours before he was slain by a band of Italian partisans near Milan last April.

Speak Informally

We spoke informally in the six-room apartment in an abandoned synthetic rubber factory, where she and her two youngest children are being held in British protective custody.

Throughout the interview, Donna Cachele defended her dead husband against every accusation —except his final infidelity with Clara Petacci, who shared his death and humiliation in the bloody public square in Milan.

For the red-haired Clara, Mrs. Mussolini had nothing but hatred and a fierce satisfaction that Benito's mistress was dead.

Her eyes literally flashed when Clara's name was mentioned. She pushed herself far back in her chair, sat up straight and spat out:

"They've done well to hang her. She was the only one around Mussolini who had anything really to do with the Germans."

Calls It Propaganda

Then, speaking even more furiously and pounding the table before her, she almost shouted:

"Mussolini (she always referred to him that way) never had anything to do with women. He never let them have any influence over him. That was propaganda just to ruin him.

"Mussolini at the most had five minutes with a woman, then he would leave her."

She trembled with anger and emotion as she spoke. But the frail widow, still attractive in spite of her 56 years, maintained her dignity, presenting a far different picture from the hulking, peasant-type woman I have been led to expect.

"I last saw Mussolini about eight days before he was killed," she went on, holding a clenched handkerchief before her face. "I talked with him by telephone about six or seven hours before he met death.

Telephoned Warning

"He called me at three a. m. at Como that morning and told me to try to get into Switzerland, but that if I failed, to turn myself and the children over to the American authorities.

"Of course I knew something was wrong. I knew he was in danger, because he told me he was with the partisans. But I did not know he was going to be killed."

She broke down again at that point and began beating on the table with her clenched fists, sobbing bitterly.

Her ash-gray hair was bound up in a light blue, printed silk kerchief, Aunt Jemina style, and her startlingly-blue eyes contrasted prettily with her pale, transparent skin.

She wore a little, black real silk dress with a deepish V-neck, slightly puffed sleeves and a smart pleated skirt. Although stockingless, she had on high-heeled open-work black sandals that were the last word in style.

Different To Picture

Her entire appearance was far different than the general public had been led to believe.

Asked if she believed she had had any influence over Mussolini, she laughed almost gaily, and shrugged her shoulders.

"Of course," she replied, "in a way. He really trusted me. He was very, very sincere. He had a lot of affection for me. Probably I was the only woman who really thought something of him. And I was the only woman he ever thought anything of.

"He really did like his family —to such an extent that no other man in the world could."

As she spoke, she tugged gently at a tiny, double-strand gold chain around her neck—probably a gift from her dead husband. She wore Mussolini's plain gold wedding ring and a cheap-looking rhinestone and silver band on her left hand. On the ring finger of her right hand she wore a plain pewter or lead ring such as il duce once awarded to Fascist wives.

Started To Write Book

"I started to write a book, the story of my life and his life," she recalled. "I lived 36 years with Mussolini. I knew him better than anyone else in the world."

She broke into tears again and said, half to herself:

"I was never close to him when he was high; I was always near him when he was down."

I asked her when she was happiest with Mussolini.

"In the old days," she sobbed. "We never had a home, really, since 1925 when we lived in province Romana. We were happy there."

Then she revealed for the first time that she and Benito once planned to emigrate to the United States — long before Mussolini started on the road to empire and death.

Planned To Live In U .S.

"We should have gone to America when we first got married," she said. "We had planned to and we talked much about it. We planned to live there and raise our children there. But then Mussolini changed his mind."

Mussolini's decision not to go to the United States came about because he felt himself growing powerful politically in Italy, and because his friends persuaded him to "betray the proletariat, although his sympathies always were with the working class," she said.

Asked why il duce signed the Axis pact that led Italy into war, she shouted passionately:

Everybody To Blame

"Everybody is to blame for that. Everybody, from Badoglio (Marshal Pietro Badoglio, premier of the post-armistice government) up to the king.

"They all blame Mussolini. They killed him while Badoglio's mistress is now living in Switzerland with millions of dollars."

Donna Rachele and her two children, Anna Marie, 16, and Momano, 17½, have an apartment in the internment camp hospital and Rachele does all the cooking for the 42 hospital inmates.

Great Britain manufactures 500 different kinds of safety razors, according to estimates.

GI's To Get Best Blend Of Coffee

SAN ANTONIO, July 11 (U.P.)—The GI's will now get the best blend of coffee there is, the Eighth Service command announced today.

The command has hired three official "tasters" who, after the coffee bean arrives, and is ground, taste the beverage that is derived from the bean.

It is tasted and blended until the "experts" think it has attained perfection. The "tasters" actually devour only very little coffee though as they only sip one teaspoonful from each cup.

BRADLEY APPROVED

WASHINGTON, July 12. (U.P.)—The Senate Finance committee today unanimously approved President Truman's nomination of Gen. Omar Bradley to be administrator of veterans' affairs. Bradley was named to succeed Brig. Gen. Frank Hines.

No three presidents of the United States have ever been related.

TEXAN TAKEN TO TOKYO

HILLSBORO, July 12. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Griffing of Milford have been advised by the War department that their son, John W., captured in the Philippines in 1942, has been moved to Tokyo. The family had the last direct word from him a year and a half ago.

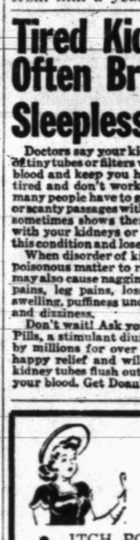

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
