Raulston Seeking Political Power, Darrow Asserts

Chicago Lawyer Hits Back At Scopes Judge As Result of Charge

WIRES NEWSPAPER

Has His Say After Raulston Berates Him in Talk In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, defense counsel in the John T. Scopes, Tennessee evolution trial, today charged that Judge John T. Raulston who presided at the trial, used the case to further his own political ambitions.

Mr. Darrow, who is in Greely, Colo., made his charges in a telegram to the Chicago Daily News in answer to criticism of Mr. Darrow's conduct at the trial voiced by Judge Raulston, in an address here last Sunday at a memorial meeting for William Jennings Bryan. Judge Raulston in his address referred particularly to citing Mr. Darrow for contempt of court and said that Mr. Bryan asked that leniency be shown his adversary. Mr. Darrow's telegram to the News follows in part:

Elected on Fluke.

"Judge Raulston was elected on a fluke and is now campaigning for re-election this fall. The trial was part of his campaign. He called the grand jury and asked them to indict Scopes in a hurry so that the case could be tried in his district.

"On Sunday, three days before the case was closed, Mr. Bryan spoke twice in Dayton. Raulston was present at both meetings and sat on the platform at one. He paraded his fundamentalism all through the trial and has given the people of Chicago a chance to see what kind of a trial could have been held before him.

"It was perfectly proper to call Mr. Bryan, a recognized expert on the Bible to testify as to the meaning of the story of creation. The questions asked him were perfectly civil, but when the examination had only commenced, the judge came into the court in the morning and took Mr. Bryan off the stand without any motion being made in court to that effect.

May Be Ignorant.

"The judge may be glad he has a limited education. One cannot always avoid being ignorant but few boast of it.

"The incident citing me for contempt is absurd. I did feel a contempt for his unfairness. I did show it as often happens by lawyers in court. I did apolgize as I should have done. This constantly happens in court and the judge knows it, although it never happened to me before."

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Reports that Colonel Will Gray Beach, veteran chief of narcotic agents here, who was arrested yesterday with three of his agents, had revealed a secret cache where $250,000 worth of narcotics were stored were denied tonight by federal officials.

Patrick Roche of the intelligence unit of the internal revenue bureau who directed the arrest of Beach and his operatives on charges of trading narcotics to peddlers for stolen merchandise, said that Colonel Beach had made damaging admissions, but had not told of a narcotic cache or made any written confession.

Hints At Suicide.

The 53-year-old deposed chief, a native of Tennessee and for 30 years in the government service was closely guarded during the day after he had hinted that he might attempt suicide. Everything that might serve as an instrument to this end, even his neck tie was taken from him.

While government agents reported that Colonel Beach said he had the narcotic cache and also admitted that several thousand dollars worth of merchandise found in his rooms may have been stolen he denied that he had given narcotics to peddlers in exchange for the stolen merchandise.

Freed on Bond.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The Russian Speaks.

You well-fed fools who talk of hunger
Who never know it, you the younger
Who teach your elders, or would try it.
You with a flag, who do not fly it.
You with your freedom your possession
Who talk so much about oppression.
Yes, you who gather in the city
To pity selves who need not pity.
How silly, sounds your loud discussion
To such as I. I am a Russian.

For I have loved a Russian maiden,
And seen her stabbed, and seen her laid in
Her narrow grave—for what offending!
It seems that sometime heard her sending
Pray'rs to her God; it was detected
That human virtue she respected,
And human rights. She loved the masses.
The rich, the poor, and all earth's classes.
And most of all the land that bore her.
And so they signed a warrant for her.

She was so fair it seemed that beauty
Died when she died. Each Christian duty
She did because she loved to do it.

Her life was like fine satin; through it
Ran threads of gold—her quiet labors,
Her gentle care for all her neighbors;
And how the love of Russia filled her!
And so they took her out and killed her.
If Russia, then, is your discussion,
Friends, I would speak. I am a Russian.

INNER CIRCLE OF SELLERS IS FINALLY FOUND

Surprise Raiding Program By Dry Officers Started Tuesday Night

30 ARRESTS MADE

All of Mississippi Water Included in Area Visited

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—(AP).—With dissolution of the "inner circle" of New Orleans bootlegger dominion as the ultimate aim, the largest army of dry agents ever assembled here in a surprise raiding program, seized liquor valued at more than $1,000,000 and arrested thirty alleged wholesale dealers in whiskey in and near New Orleans today.

Yellowley at Head.

Acting under the direction of E. C. Yellowley, chief federal prohibition agent, approximately 200 raiders began operations at 5 o'clock this morning. Raids extended from New Orleans to Biloxi, Miss. Led by A. R. Harris, divisional chief, a squad seized the plant and property of the Union brewery in this city where a quantity of beer was reported to have been found. The Union plant, Mr. Harris said, has been the principal source of supply of the "real beer" that has been marketed in New Orleans and adjacent towns. St. Bernard parish, lying immediately south of New Orleans and frequently referred to informally as the "bootleggers' haven," was struck blow after blow when trucks manned by negroes hurriedly pressed into service and accompanied by raiders in automobiles swooped down in known resorts and brought back several thousand cases of liquor, varying from imported brands to the moonshine variety.

Near Bay St. Louis, Miss., 2,800 cases of whiskey and alcohol were taken from a sloop owned by Joseph Ory, who was arrested. At Pass Christian, a number of seizures, details of which had not been reported, were made.

Man Who Fled Wealth Of Oil Fields Finds Last Peace

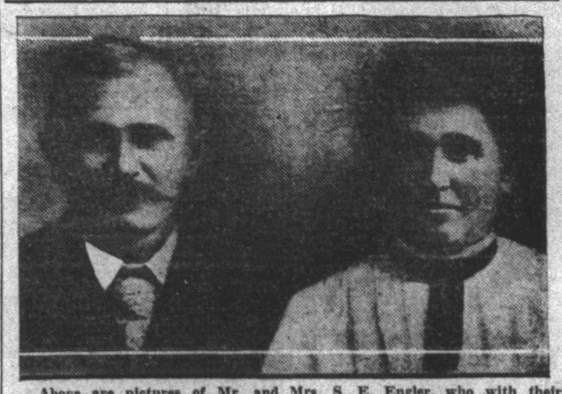

EL DORADO, Ark., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The body of "Uncle Nap" Brown, picturesque oil field character and fugitive from oil, went to its long rest this afternoon in a country cemetery six miles east of El Dorado today.

"Uncle Nap" has become almost a national figure from the fact that the wealth from oil that he did not seek, always followed him.

With oil flowing on all sides of his home west of El Dorado, he bought a farm on the east side of the city only to have oil found there and the peace he sought disturbed with the clanking rush of oil development. Later he went to Texas and bought a large farm. Current reports here are that drilling rigs were running in sight of that farm when he died.

Simple funeral service marked the passing of "Uncle Nap," who died in his 80th year.

Huge Crowd Turns Out In Austin For Funeral Services Tuesday

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—Relatives of S. E. Engler, wife and daughter, who were killed in their home near here Saturday night, offered $500 as a reward for conviction of the murderer, as chances for an arrest narrowed Tuesday. The offer added to the $250 reward offered by Sheriff W. D. Miller and a $10 reward offered by a justice of the peace, brought the total to $760.

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—Appealing for a peaceful trial, with no indication of mob law in the case the Engler murderer is found, Rev. H. Schleisser, pastor of the Onion Creek Lutheran church, pleaded with 3,000 natives of the Moore's Crossing to let the law take its course if charges are filed, in the funeral services for S. E. Engler, his wife, and adopted daughter, Emma Engler, at the St. Martin's Lutheran church in Austin Tuesday afternoon.

Daily Murders.

"We read in the papers of murder daily, yet we never think of violence until tragedy strikes at our homes, as this tragedy has done. We, who have lost our dear friends and neighbors must not leave the right course. God has said that if a man kills, that man can be killed, but that does not mean that the killing shall be done by a mob," the minister said. "We have our government to decide justice; let us support that government in this crisis."

Church Filled.

The church auditorium had filled by 2:20 o'clock with friends and spectators. Standing room was taken, and windows were filled with people looking in from the outside. Cars lined around two blocks in the church vicinity had discharged their occupants on the north lawn of the capital where the dome state representing Justice, looked down on the small church.

Mob violence was hinted in throngs which gathered at the morgue after the crime was reported Tuesday night, but after county officers had failed to fasten the guilt on anyone person during the past 48 hours, the feeling had subsided.

ON PAGE FIVE
—of this edition will be found additional pictures and news stories on the Engler murder case.

The fourth annual meeting of the Texas Conservation association will be held in Wichita Falls, is the announcement by Homer D. Wade, secretary of that organization. The dates fixed for this occasion are September 2-26. Plans have been laid to make this an educational affair in more ways than one. To that end, a trip has been planned for the delegates through the irrigated valley of the Wichita improvement district. The first business session will be held in Wichita Falls on September 25 and the afternoon will be given over to an auto caravan and trip will be made by the delegates through the farms in the irrigated valley of the Wichita river, ending with Lake Kemp.

Kemp Enthusiastic.

J. A. Kemp, president of the organization, writes from Denver, Colo., where he is spending the summer, approving of these dates and is very enthusiastic over the possibilities that obtain in the meeting. He with Wichita Falls is especially anxious for delegations to come from other sections that have improvement districts in mind. Among these are Waco, Fort Worth, Brownwood, San Saba, Breckenridge, Mineral Wells and others. Mr. Kemp says "I sincerely believe that the Wichita Falls project is an object lesson for all Texas but it is one that cannot be appreciated until it is visualized. I am therefore hopeful that all Texas interested in water conservation in any form will use this convention as an avenue for seeing and knowing what can be accomplished in this important work."

A Dream of His.

As is well known the Wichita improvement district was a dream of Mr. Kemp's and because of inadequate laws on the statute books and imperfections in the state constitution, it was necessary to go through a period of years in order to get the necessary amendments to the state constitution and adequate legislation in order to realize upon the idea. All of these defects have been cured and the only remaining thing is the enterprise and co-operation of the citizens where so many opportunities exist.

Further announcement is made that national authorities are being invited to attend this meeting and while the speaking program will be an attractive one the belief is expressed that the actual contact will be secured in the Wichita district will be the greatest good that will result from this meeting.

He made an apology for the short coming of the republican constitution, but asserted that he believed it would be perfected as the years passed.

Narcotic Chief Jailed As Raids Are Launched On Chicago Vice-Dens

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.— (AP) — While twenty squads of detectives and federal agents, comprising more than 100 men in all, swooped down on a score of southside resorts suspected of selling narcotics, Colonel Will Gray Beach, head of the narcotic agents in this district was formally placed under arrest and turned over to the custody of a deputy United States marshal tonight.

Colonel Beach was charged with grafting it being alleged that he had disposed of narcotics to narcotic peddlers in exchange for both money and jewelry.

The raids as pretentious as any started in Chicago recently, followed a long investigation, part of it said to have been conducted by Chinese secret service men.

Patrick Roche, special agent of the intelligence unit of the department of internal revenue tonight enlisted the aid of the police in making the raids and when they were under way placed Colonel Beach under arrest.

Among those especially sought in the raids was John Gilhooley, whose wife, Kitty, was arrested last week after narcotics valued at more than $150,000 were seized in the flat where she lived. Much of the information on which the raids were made was obtained from lists of names and telephone numbers.

Lightning a Sure Cure for Paralysis

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Aug. 11.—(AP)—It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, but a freak electrical storm today brought to Noah W. Miers, 67, a measure of good luck for which he is duly grateful.

For nearly three months Miers suffered from a paralytic stroke which left his left arm useless.

While lying in his tent today a bolt of lightning struck the tent, hit a metal cooking utensil near the suffering man and then struck Miers. A spot about six inches in diameter was burned under his left arm and he was taken to a hospital. A physician was called in who declared the patient would recover and Miers is chiefly pleased to find that he has regained the use of his paralyzed arm.

Riffs Burn Out Prisoners' Stomachs

CASA BLANCA, Morocco, Aug. 11.—(AP)—One of the forms of torture to which the rebellious Riffian tribesmen subject their prisoners is burning out of their stomach. Consequently the French fliers try always to prevent being captured alive. The casualties among them, however, are heavy, for the Riffians are excellent marksmen.

As the bombing planes frequently drop as low as 50 feet from the ground to use machine guns against the enemy after loosing a cargo of bombs, the Riffian snipers are given good opportunities which they rarely neglect.

HUGE SUM IS SPENT DURING RAIL HEARING

Exhibits Put on at Plainview Cost Tens Of Thousands

PLAINVIEW, Texas.—Tens of thousands of dollars were expended and months of time consumed in fashioning the 63 exhibits filed with the interstate commerce commission during the railroad hearing held here July 20-25, in which plans of various railroads for extensions into the South Plains were disclosed. T. B. Gallaher, Amarillo, general passenger agent of the Panhandle and Santa Fe, one of the five railroads represented at the hearing, estimated the cost of the exhibits to be at least $50,000. A number of additional exhibits are certain to be filed before Sept. 1, 1925, the final day for filing, because Examiner C. E. Boles asked that several exhibits be filed in order that the record of the hearing might be more complete.

The history and hopes of the South Plains area are bound in the exhibits which were prepared with so much technical skill and wealth of detail for the perusal of the members of the interstate commerce commission. Earnings of the Panhandle and Santa Fe over a long period of years, detailed tonnage reports, construction estimates, crop and rainfall reports covering many years, and at least 30 maps are included in the exhibits.

One of the most interesting exhibits is the map filed by the Dallas chamber of commerce, an organization that supported the application of the Fort Worth and Denver City to build a line into the South Plains calculated to give a more direct haul to Dallas and Fort Worth. This map represents by black dots every shipment sent out by Dallas wholesalers during 1924 to territory not now directly served by a railroad but which would be served by the proposed Denver extension. Each black dot represents ten of the several thousand shipments sent out from Dallas. According to Albert Reed, traffic counsel of the Dallas chamber of commerce, many of the shipments in question were hauled by truck as far as 50 miles.

EX-COWBOY GOES TO CHAIR IN NEB. PRISON

Walter Simmons Electrocuted for Murder of Garage Operator

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Walter Ray Simmons, former Montana cowboy and deputy sheriff, was electrocuted at the state prison here today for the slaying of Frank Pahl, Spencer, Neb., garage man.

Simmons left a last letter with his sister, Mrs. Emily Bateman of Pompey's Pillar, Mont., addressed to his son, Walter Ray Simmons Jr., saying he was leaving $500 in currency to be used for his son's education. He also left a statement for the public declaring he was innocent.

Thanks Reporters.

A few minutes before the execution he called reporters to his cell and thanked them for the courtesy he was shown. When asked how he felt, Simmons replied: "All right. I go without cracking."

Simmons, a former cowboy, baseball player, deputy sheriff and bootlegger, was arrested in 1922, after investigation of one of the most sensational murders in Nebraska.

The body of Frank Pahl, Spencer, Neb., garage owner, was found May 15, 1922, in a shallow grave under a bridge near Spencer. A coroner's jury decided death was due to a blow over the left ear. Pahl was known to have carried $480 in currency when he left the garage and robbery was established as a motive.

Several days later a rancher nearby reported a man had slept in his barn yard and had fled when awakened, leaving a blood spattered automobile. Through the machine Simmons was traced to Norfolk, Neb.

TEXHOMA POSTS CRUDE PRICE AS PRAIRIE

Texhoma Oil and Refining company has posted a crude price schedule in accordance with that of the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Texas company. For several months beginning last spring it was the policy of the Texhoma and other independents here to pay a 15-cent premium for their crude. This has been discontinued for some time now in most cases, and with the Pennsy cut yesterday announcement was made of a new schedule to conform with that of the major crude buyers.

Oil Rate Claim Nearing, Nov. 10

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—(AP).—Hearing was set today by the Texas railroad commission of the $248,419 claim made by various oil companies against 15 Texas railroads for reparation on shipments of casinghead gasoline during July 22, 1921, and March 8, 1923, for November 10, 1925. The petition charges that rates on casinghead carload shipments from north Texas oil fields to southeastern points and ports are exorbitant. Six per cent interest on the sum also is asked.

Oil Gossip

J. V. Howell, Marland geologist, was in Carson county yesterday, superintending the completion of the Marland No. 2, Burnett, in section 107 ,north of their No. 1, which has had casing set on a granite wash at about 3,100 feet and in a semi-completa stage for the past several days.

White Brothers have completed one well for about 300 barrels flush and are drilling a second in the Selby extension district to the old Teter pool in Greenwood county, Kan. He Has Plan to Eliminate Weevil

HOUSTON, Aug. 11.—For years Texas cotton crops have been subjected to the scourge of the boll weevil. For years many kinds of poisons have been used at a great expense and the boll weevil lives on.

Now comes H. M. Madison, new agricultural agent of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railroad, offering the simple expedient of fall plowing to rid the fields not only of the boll weevil bu of that other great pest, the cutworm.

That will starve the weevil, he asserts, for he eats only green food; and turns him out into the world with no home, for he lives above the ground during hibernating time.

Death Penalty Losing Favor

DALLAS, Aug. 11.—That a sentiment against capital punishment in Texas is growing stronger each year was the opinion expressed today by Representative T. K. Irwin of Dallas. Though he declared he was fundamentally opposed to "the state taking a man's life for crime," he advocated strict enforcement of such law as long as it remained in effect. He predicted abolition of capital punishment.

When it is abolished, he said, he would favor laws providing for incarceration of the type of persons "who prey upon society."

F-H-E, Dunnagan

The F-H-E Oil company brought in its No. 6 well on the G. W. Dunnogan farm in Young county, about 3 miles southwest of Olney, which is now being swabbed. Indications are it will make about a 60-barrel pumper. The No. 1 is going on the pump for about ten or twelve barrels with some water from sand at 964-90 feet with a five-foot break. The rig which burned the other night over this well was almost a total loss. The friction between the swab line and the casing head ignited the gas from the well and caught the derrick, the whole burning in just a few minutes.

Girl Blocks Entry Of Men; May Die

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 11.—Odessa Wallace, 12, who barracaded herself and two younger sisters in their home at Camp Wood Monday night against the advances of three Mexicans, lies in a critical condition in a local hospital with a charge from a shotgun in her breast. The girl was wounded by her younger sister, who shot at the intruders.

The trio of men fled after the shooting.

The children are motherless and were being taken care of by the eldest while their father, T. T. Wallace, was at his night work.

Three men came to the house and demanded entry. Odessa immediately barred the doors and herded her little sisters into a room.

The Mexicans then went to a window and tried to open it.

While Odessa piled furniture against the window one of the younger sisters secured the father's shotgun.

As the window crashed open and a Mexican entered the room the younger child fired, but her aim was untrue.

Odessa fell with a full charge from the gun in her breast.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP).—Albert Fink, prominent Chicago attorney, and his bride, formerly Miss Lucile Rhodes, were continuing today the honeymoon which coast guardsmen interrupted last Saturday when they seized the gasoline yacht Stroller and 23 bottles of liquor aboard.

The celebration continued until late at night. Then with only the honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. Goddard and the crew the yacht set out for anchorage near Traverse Island. Coast guardsmen clambered aboard the next morning.

CHICAGO LAYS A CLAIM TO RADIO FAME

Windy City Says It Is "Capitol of World" For Fans

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Chicago is the radio hub of the world, both in number of Class B broadcasting stations and in superiority of equipment and type of station, declared E. A. Beane, federal supervisor of radio of the middlewestern states, with headquarters here.

The city has about reached the saturation point, he said, and with the exception of one or two permits already given, it is closed to further development.

Chicago and Illinois now have 45 broadcasting stations of the first class, Mr. Beane said. Thirty-seven stations, in both A and B classes, are located in Chicago and a 40-mile radius. Sixteen stations are operated within the city limits.

Twenty stations were put in operation in 1924, a year which Mr. Beane described as phenomenal in growth. The newest station to come on the air here will be WJAZ, the Zenith plant.

The city is similarly situated in the manufacturing and distributing field of radio equipment and supplies, Mr. Beane explained. It is the home of seven large radio instrument companies, three manufacturing concerns and upward of 200 smaller houses.

States with large numbers of broadcasting stations, as shown by the supervisor are Illinois, 45; California, 43; Pennsylvania, 40; Ohio, 35; New York, 33, and Texas, 25.

American Warships Drop Anchor In New Zealand Harbor

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Aug 11.—(AP).—After the spell of stormy mid-winter weather there was a touch of spring and almost clear sky and a smooth sea as eight American battleships and three auxiliaries arrived here at noon today.

As they passed through the magnificent land-locked gulf, for 20 miles great crowds watched from every point of vantage. The harbor was dotted with excursion boats and small crafts. Guns saluted and airplanes ascended from the warships.

Admiral S. S. Robison, commander of the United States battlefleet, replying to the civil welcome, declared:

"One of your writers commenting on the ever-memorable visit of 1908, said, 'Friends today, the two nations may be comrades tomorrow in the conservation of mutual rights and privileges against possible aggression by a foreigner.' So if we have proved we come now not only as friends but as comrades in the World war we greet you, treading now the pleasant paths of peace, but always ready to uphold the right."

IS ROCKEFELLER MONEY TAINTED?

Wisconsin is a proud American commonwealth and the Wisconsin university is one of the foremost. It is supported by the people of Wisconsin and very liberally supported at that. Now its board of regents has adopted a resolution refusing to accept donations from such institutions as the geenral education board, a Rockefeller institution, in the future. Regent Daniel Grady offered the resolution. He won by a six to nine vote.

Now what is wrong? Is the Rockefeller money tainted? Rockefeller money was used to destroy the hookworm in the south and to free from hookworm bondage ten million natives. Rockefeller money has established many colleges and universities. Rockefeller money has established many churches. Rockefeller money has kept many missionaries going in foreign lands.

Deacon John Senior is 87. He is a harmless old man. Golf is his most ferocious past time. Why not take his money whenever offered for the good it will do and the shrubs of civilization that it will sprout? Are the followers of LaFollette determined that all tainted dollars shall be driven from Wisconsin? If so, why?

Young Bob LaFollette is to be a candidate for a seat in the United States senate in early October. He is thirty and his friends say he is amply qualified. If he hadn't been the son of a distinguished father would he be amply qualified? This is a democracy. There are no political God-annointed in this country. Why should widows be picked as the successors of their husbands? Why should sons be picked as successors of their fathers?

Sentiment isn't logic. Emotionalism isn't state craft. William Jennings Bryan, the apostle of emotionalism, has passed on. He was not the apostle of logic or a master of concrete ideas. His tongue was his fortune.

What this country will need for the next quarter of a century will be successful business men in high place, men who will be safe and sane at all times and lead the republic out of the wilderness. There is a federal government debt of twenty-three billions. There is a combined state debt of nearly two billions.

Eloquence never yet led a democracy out of the wilderness. Emotionalism never won a great battle and then held it. Sentimentalism is neither a creator of wealth nor a payer of debts.

SOUTH COMING INTO ITS OWN.

Is the south coming into its own? It would seem so. The first six months of 1925 witnessed the greatest building progress that the sixteen southern states have ever known, totals from 130 cities from these states amassing the huge total of $386,883,283 during the period. This figure is $90,000,000 in excess of the figures for the same period in 1924 or a gain of thirty per cent. Florida led all the sixteen states in building operations and capital invested.

Although the sixteen set a new high record in actual building construction this sum was exceeded by more than a hundred million dollars in the amount invested in expanded facilities for industry, power, transportation and communication. It is said that the estimate made can not be questioned or doubted as the figures were gathered by the survey department of a leading New York financial concern.

If the capitalists of the east who are wild about Florida would visit the Magic Valley of Texas they would desert Florida for the lower Rio Grande country. Promoters of these Florida enterprizes know the value of intelligent publicity. They have spent a vast sum of money in advertising the attractions and the resources of the Everglades state. Advertising pays. There are great newspapers in Florida because there are great cities in Florida. All these have been created in recent years. Florida has been made a paradise for tourists, not American tourists alone but the rich globe trotters of the world.

And why not Texas? Texas has the magnificent gulf coast. This coast has the finest beaches in the world. Texas has a climate unrivaled and the best fishing that can be found anywhere in the lower gulf and the bays and bayous which abound. When deep water comes to Point Isabel steamers will touch there and in the fall and winter time the fishermen of the world and huntsmen who love to bag feathered game will be introduced to a paradise for sport.

All this is coming some day and when it does come there will be coast resorts which will open the eyes of the tourists to the beauties of the Magic Valley and its mighty possibilities as a creator of rich dividends on large investments.

DONE IN OIL.

An economist says it will take seven billion gallons of gas to supply motor vehicles in 1925 in the United States. He says at twenty cents a gallon that would mean $1,400,000. He says that in 1900 or twenty-five years ago, gasoline production was only seven million barrels. He says that this year's production will probably surpass 250 million barrels.

He says $8,000,000,000 are invested in the oil industry as compared with about $1,000,000,000 fifteen years ago. Furthermore there are big men in the petroleum world who say that in the territory surrounding Austin, the capital of the state, there are untapped reservoirs of oil and they predict that these rich fields will be developed in the near future.

Combined the motor vehicle industry and the petroleum industry and the amalgamation would result in a gigantic corporation that would have driven mad the dwellers on earth less than fifty years ago.

WHERE CALIFORNIA STANDS.

Fundamentalists appeared before the state board of education in California and demanded that all books on biology should be excluded. Two of the books were found acceptable by the board and on the third was deferred. How come?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

The Mechanics of Living.

Think of the body as a machine.

To do work it must be supplied with fuel first.

To get the most energy out of the fuel, it must take it regularly, and in just the right amounts.

There is a difference in human machines at the beginning, as there are differences in any other machines.

Some are more firmly adjusted, and easier to keep in repair than others.

Some, however carefully they are fed, will be capable of a greater mental and physical output.

But there is a great deal more in the stoking than we generally believe.

And there is a continuing need for instruction and education in the matter of diet.

Our appetite supplies us with the inclination for food. That we inherit.

Unfortunately we do not always inherit the intelligence to take it properly, or to keep our bodies in such a condition that it will be assimilated and converted into nervous and muscular force.

There are abundant indications as to how this should be done.

But we are a heedless race, and pay little attention to them.

Headaches, stomach trouble, dyspepsia, all are signs that we are eating improperly.

We take medicines for these, but it occurs to very few of us to stop eating, even though we may feel hungry, until we have got rid of the trouble.

We know, by experience, and from the old proverb that "one man's meat is another man's poison" yet we continue to eat things that we know will disagree with us merely because we happen to like the taste of them.

Most doctors agree that more ailments are taken in with the food than in any other way, and that even the germ maladies that are epidemic attack most often and most savagely those people who have badly functioning digestive tracts.

More and more, eating as a science is being taught by physicians.

Yet after the dyspeptic, whose greed or addictions to indigestible food has put his system out of condition, has been set straight in a sanitarium, he will go right back to the old way.

Sick stomachs make unhealthy brains, and unhealthy brains do not do good work.

Indeed what work they do is done with difficulty.

It is proverbial that a sour stomach means a sour disposition.

The good natured man, who is pleased with life, and filled with vitality, is always a healthy man.

Eating has much to do with health. Most of us eat too much. Practically all of us eat too indiscriminately.

It is worth any person's while to talk to his physician about his diet—having first chosen an intelligent and progressive physician, and then stick to that advice as firmly as he would stick to the advice of his lawyer if he were involved in a serious legal difficulty.

LEA OF LEBANON.

It is Lea of Lebanon at present. It will be Barrister Lea of Orange after June 1st, 1926. Who's Lea? Why Col. Bill Lea of the governor's staff, former mayor of Orange, former manager of the Underwood forces in Texas and just to be exact about it former service man in the American expeditionary forces.

Col. Bill has crowded a lot into a young life. He has felt the urge many times, first to be a soldier, then to be chief executive of his home city, then to be a political Warwick and lastly to be a full fledged follower of Blackstone, qualified in every way to pursue the law. After he has pursued the law for a while he hopes that the law will pursue him—that is, crowds of litigants in quest of a sharp witted barrister who will show them the way to the promised land.

Col. Bill has had an exciting career for one so young. Now he is fitting himself or rather equiping himself for a career that will be peaceful and clients who will be rich and generous in their dealings with the barrister who gives them advice and just how to do it. The exact English of all this is that the Hon. William A. Lea is at Lebanon, in good old Tennessee registered as a student at that very noted school of the south.

Lebanon has many distinguished sons. Some few of the famous lawyers of Texas were branded at Lebanon and turned loose upon an unsuspecting world. In fact the Lebanon law school is about the best and the best and the oldest manufactory of lawyers the south boasts. It is not often that a full fledged colonel goes away from home to perfect his legal education but Colonel Bill broke the ice and he is going to stay in the old Volunteer state until he is ready for the slide away down here in Texas.

He takes to politics like a duck takes to water. He may take to law as fleas take to a dog and just now it is safe to place a wager of $100 to $1 that when Colonel Bill becomes a full fledged lawer politices will be his side line and nothing short of the governor's chair will satisfy his bounding ambition

LATIN AMERICANS LARGE BUYERS.

Latin Americans are large buyers of American goods. Our trade with the Latin American and Spanish American countries shows an increase of more than 100 million dollars in the eight months ended with February when compared with the corresponding period last year. Cuba, accoeding to a New York bank, holds the highest rank among our customers in the Latin American section.

There are more than seventy millions Latin Americans. They are our neighbors. They are not paupers. Their trade with the United States is increasing by leaps and bonds. Before the coming of the world war England, Germany and France and Belgium controlled the South American trade.

We exported to the Latin American nations almost six hundred million dollars worth of goods in the eight months mentioned and imported goods from the same countries having a value of more than six hundred million dollars.

Mexico is a large customer of the United States and Mexico in the years to come will be one of the best customers of Texas and other American states bordering on the Rio Grande.

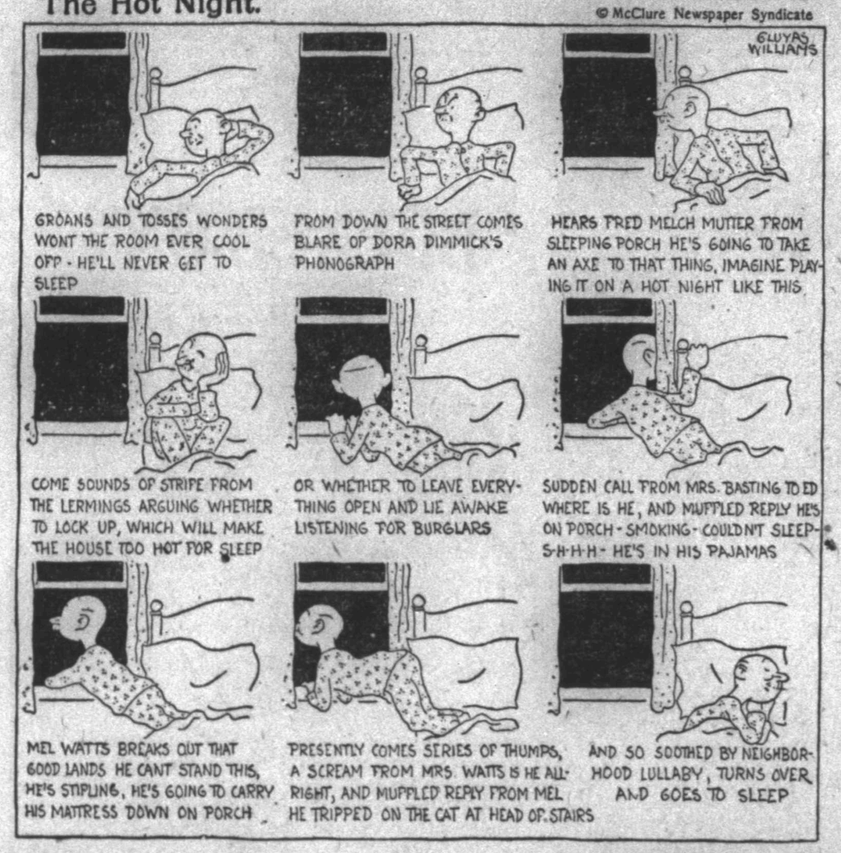

GERMANY AS A COPPER BUYER

For the first five months of the year, Germany imported from the United States an average of 20,094 tons of copper a month, a tremendous increase over last year. Where is the man who said that Germany was broke?

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Leo.

Today's planetary aspects are rather complex and variable. There is too little continuity of conditions to justify any general forecast. In the early part of the day, there will be engendered a spirit of activity and restless energy, that would appear to warrant launching out in new, and even untried, enterprises. At about noon, however, the signs denote a feeling of depression and an entire lack of self-confidence or reasonable courage. Towards the evening, this condition will have disappeared, and there will be experienced a conviction that things are neither so rosy nor complicated as they appeared, and, the conviction will force itself on your mind that it is better to let well enough alone and, in the meantime, to drift.

A boy born today will be more than ordinarily subject to the vicissitudes of infancy, and, not only must his nutrition be carefully regulated, but much vigilance must be exercised in order to avoid the risk of accident. A girl born today will experience practically no illness during her early years, but will be liable to suffer a serious setback during maidenhood. In disposition and temperament, they will both leave much to be desired, unless forceful steps are taken, at an early stage, to remedy their shortcomings. They will have little control of their tempers, be very self-willed and extremely selfish and show an utter disregard for the wishes of others. Evidences of this will be shown in infancy; these outbreaks, however, must not be glossed over as cute. They must be effectively and effectually curbed.

If today is your birthday, you need to bear in mind that flies are more often caught with molasses than with vinegar, and that a soft word often turneth away wrath. You are too prone to speak abruptly, thereby hurting others feelings, although this is the very last thing you want to do. This has, so far, proven to be your stumbling block, and has succeeded in estranging many, who, with the exercise of a little more tact and diplomacy, would have been favorably impressed by your more than ordinary ability.

You are fearless and self-confident, as well as methodical and careful in your plans. You are very fond of travel, but on indulging this taste, always want the companionship of those who are near and dear to you.

Your affections are constant, so long as their object is as demonstrative as you are yourself.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A tentative valuation of $17,057,586 was placed by the interstate commerce commission today on the property of the Pecos and Northern railroad, a unit of the Santa Fe system. The railroad's capitalization is $14,494,000 while its property investment account is $14,500,000.

Kid Party Seven At McGregor Home

Monday evening at the McGregor home, 1715 Elizabeth Street, Mrs. Homer McGregor entertained members of the Amoma class of the First Baptist Sunday school with a "kid's" party. The class colors of blue and white intermingled in the decorations and the costume of the hostess embodied the same colors. The guests, of course, were in costume.

They reached the party in time to join in playing such juvenile games as hiding the thimble, London bridge, puss wants a corner, drop the handkerchief, etc. During the evening, Miss Mamie Raborn rendered some delightful piano music and little Miss Marporie Hines gave as a reading, "Papa's Letter."

Mrs. McGregor was assisted in the entertainment by her daughter, Miss Adelyn McGregor, and included among the guests enjoying the hospitality were Mesdames Loudie Gilbert, J. N. McKay and Eddie Kalish; Misses Ruth Bentley, Ethyle Gilbert, Marjorie Hines, Mary Janeway, Elizabeth Miller, Mayme Raborn, Susie Snow, Mary Sykes, Montague Thompson, Flora Weatherbee and little Miss Katherine Kalish.

Prizes were awarded for the most kiddish costumes, Miss Miller winning as being the youngest girl, and Mrs. Kalish the kiddiest boy.

HOW IT STARTED

"Bugaboo"

"Bugaboo!" one child says coming on another playfully from behind. And then he has his bugaboo or special fear with which one can subdue him if he is in a recalcitrant mood. It may be that the sandman will get him, or just the policeman on the corner!

The term, however, is not limited to the parlance of children. It is not uncommon to read in newspapers, in legislative reports, for example, that the threat of certain action on the part of one faction in politics was a mere bugaboo held over the heads of their opponents.

The word is a combination of the interjection "boo" with the now obsolete "bug," meaning a goblin or spector. So "bugaboo" is an imaginary object of fear.

TO DISCHARGE RECEIVER

Francis Coffey Ousted as Head of Steamship Line

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—An application for the discharge of Francis G. Caffey as receiver of the New York and Cuba mail steamship company, the Ward Line, was approved by Federal Judge Knox.

The plan presented by Hubert E. Rogers, counsel for the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies steamship company and a director in that company and the Ward Line, was accepted by the court. It includes the purchase of $5,103,000 in bonds of the Ward Line by the A. G. and W. I. and control of 90 per cent of the stock, insuring full payment of every recognized claim, according to Mr. Rogers.

MILLIONAIRE IS DEAD

J. D. Sugg of Chickasha Dies; Had Valuable Holdings

CHICKASHA, Okla., Aug. 11.—(AP)—J. D. Suggs, 74, reputed to be a millionaire, died here today after an extended illness. He was president of the First National bank of Chickasha and had extensive real estate holdings here and in a number of Texas towns, including San Angelo, Gainesville and Ranger.

Mr. Sugg came to Chickasha first in 1912 from San Angelo and established business connections here. Four years ago he removed his residence here.

IRRIGATION

The Pollution of the Waters of Lake Kemp.

Pollution of water used for drinking purposes is something that the state and city officials are constantly guarding against.

Water may be polluted with many things which render it disagreeable for drinking purposes without causing it to become dangerous to the health. To render water unhealthful or disease breeding to human beings, it is almost essential that the pollution be caused originally by human beings.

A water may be dangerously polluted, but if exposed to the action of sunlight or if it is mixed well with air the germs and bacteria will to a large extent be killed if the action continues long enough. This fact is the basis of the popular belief that running water purified itself.

The contract between Mr. Waggoner and the irrigation district provides against the pollution of the waters of Lake Kemp, but certain things are excluded arbitrarily as not causing pollution as follows:

"The use of said land for farming and grazing purposes, and for cattle drinking the waters impounded by said dams mentioned, and the development of the lands down to the water's edge, on the lands hereinabove mentioned for oil and gas and other minerals, in a prudent manner, shall not be construed as pollution of the waters of said reservoirs, and is permitted."

If Mr. Waggoner is to be granted that the development of an oil field, no matter how prudent it may be, would not cause pollution of the waters of Lake Kemp it is hard to see how anything else that he might do would cause pollution.

Again Mr. Waggoner exhibits some good keen business sense. Any protest of the irrigation district against pollution is very apt to amount to very little.

RAPS FEDERAL JUDGES

Green Says Type of Men Appointed to Benches Is Lowering

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Senatorial courtesy which thrives on the policy of "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours," was attributed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech here last night before the Ohio Federation of Labor as being responsible for lowering the quality and capability of judges appointed recently to the federal bench.

Green declared that insofar as he could make his influence felt the five million workers of the nation will never sit still until they curb the judiciary of the state and nation and "bring back freedom to American citizens."

STRANGE WILL PROBATED

Last Testament of Late Field Marshal Filed in London.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—When the newspapers term "the strange will" of the late Field Marshal French, the earl of Ypres, a document of eight lines in which his entire estate of 25,161 pounds sterling is left to Edward Godfrey Cox, the field marshal's solicitor, was filed for probation today.

The will does not mention the earl's widow nor his two sons and daughter. It is recalled that in 1918 the house of commons made the earl a grant of 50,000 pounds as a testimonial of his services to the nation.

HAMLIN BOND IN HASKELL

HASKELL, Texas, Aug. 11.—Twenty-five cars of Hamlin boosters reached Haskell at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon and after circling the Haskell square a number of times, parked their cars and mobilized on the corner in front of the Hardy Grissom Store. A number of talks were made by Hamlin business men when they invited all of Haskell to their three-day picnic at Hamlin; Aug. 13, 14 and 15.

By instinct and training he was a worker. And for two years he had labored like a galley slave to master the intricacies and management of the vast estates which he had been brought up to consider as a sacred trust.

To maintain the traditions of his ancient name and to be a model landlord had been his only ambition, while sport had been his only relaxation.

And it was of this, his one amusement, that he was thinking while Saint Hubert still wrote steadily on. Even sport seemed denied to him in this rotten country, he reflected, his mind turning regretfully to the gun cases in the adjoining room that had remained strapped since leaving England. "Wait until we are farther south." He was growing rather tired of the reiterated remark. It was all very well for Uncle Raoul, who snatched every available moment to continue this interminable writing—whatever it might be—he grumbled to himself. And Uncle Raoul was French; it was hardly to be supposed that a Frenchman would be as keen as an Englishman. And yet, that wasn't true either—Caryll checked his mental criticism with a contrite glance at the stooping, preoccupied figure at the table—Uncle Raoul was a dashed good sportsman, if every there was one. It was only a case of waiting then, waiting until they got "farther south." Farther south! oh! damn the south! that was delving into the pigeonhole again, and he thought he had slammed the door on that for a day or two at any rate. The famous Caryll scowl deepened as a rush of unwelcome thoughts crowded back into the young man's mind. It was the melancholy outpouring of the forlorn little donkey that, startling as it was unexpected, put a period to his painful reflections.

With a smothered ejaculation he got up and went out to the tiny balcony that projected from the window and stared down into the street.

And his face hardened as he watched the wretched little quadruped pursue its hungry, stumbling way towards the empty market place.

"Dead on its feet, almost. And an open sore on its back you could stick your hand into," he muttered wrathfully. "My God, what a country! My God, what a people!"

Sickened, as he always was by the sight of an animal in pain, he swore violently, and, swinging on his feet, flung back into the room.

"How much longer shall we have to wait in this Godforsaken little hole?"

There was something in his tone beyond the mere words that made Saint Hubert, looking up from his work, peer at him for a moment before answering. And when he did speak it was no answer to the question that had been hurled at him. "What's the trouble now, Caryll?" he inquired quietly, and sympathy and an intense understanding made him, contrary to his usual practice, voice his counter question in English.

A faint flush crept over the younger man's face, and his angry eyes wavered under Saint Hubert's scrutiny.

"Oh! only the usual thing," he muttered impatiently, as if half ashamed of his own feelings and typically English in his reluctance to admit them. "A poor little brute of a donkey, this time, that it would be a charity to shoot." His voice rose with sudden indignation. "Why the devil can't they put the wretched beasts out of their misery? It's worse here than any place we've been in yet. I can't get away from it. It fairly makes me sick. Good God, it's revolting—it's damnable! For Heaven's sake why can't we leave this beastly town and push on?"

Saint Hubert shrugged slightly and began to gather up the mass of papers that littered the table. Humane himself, but inured to the distressing sights the other found unendurable, he did not choose to reopen a controversy that was already worn threadbare.

"I can't say any more about that than I've already said," he replied patiently, "and we can't very well push on when we don't know yet where to push on to. We must wait until we get definite news where the camp is. We are very lucky to be able to go on at all," he continued, stacking the loose sheets of manuscript and tilting back his chair while he lit a fresh cigarette. "In view of these recent disturbances the authorities are refusing everyone permits to go south—vide the grumblings of those commis-voyageurs downstairs who have had orders to leave the south alone for the time being. It is only because your father is so well known and because—well, because I am rather well known myself, that there are no difficulties put in our way. As it is, the Commandant has insisted on an escort to go with us until your father's people meet us. I, personally, don't consider it necessary; but Colonel Mercier is most anxious to avoid any contretemps, and make everything as smooth for you as possible," he paused for a moment, looking keenly at his companion. "I don't think you quiet realize what your position is here," he went on slowly. "It is something in this country to be the son of Ahmed ben Hassan. You have reason to be proud of your father, Caryll." It was a quiet but direct challenge. But, though he expected a retort, he was not quite prepared for the violent outburst his words provoked. Starting as if Saint Hubert had struck him, Caryll's clenched fist crashed on the table between them and his face went livid.

"Proud—of my father!" he cried passionately, "proud of being the son of a hybrid Arab . . ."

"Caryll!"

But even Saint Hubert's stern reproof failed to stem the flood of bitterness which, pent up for years, burst out at last.

Pacing the floor now with quick, uneven strides, Caryll flung out his hand in a gesture of supreme scorn.

"What else is he?" he flashed, "and what has he ever done that I should be proud of him? Am I to be proud because he has neglected me all these years? Am I to be proud because he broke his father's heart, because he let the poor old man die without seeing him? Do you think I can forgive him for that? Do you think I can forget my grandfather's death—and his voice, at the end, only a whisper 'my son, my son.' God, how it hurt! And you ask me to be proud of him! I was only a tiny chap when I realized what was the trouble in my grandfather's life, when I began to understand what your visits meant to him. It was pitiful to see his agitation when you were coming, it was worse to watch him after you were gone. And when you were with us, when I sometimes happened to be in the room, I used to hear him speak to you of my father, envying you because you could see him and he could not. And, kid as I was, I used to curse the man who had made him suffer. My God, how I hated him! And do you think it has been pleasant for me, all my life, or be known as 'the son of those extraordinary people who live in the desert'? It's a trifle perhaps, but I hate unconventionality. At my prep school my life was a misery, and it followed me to Eton. I grew to loathe the sound of my own name and the mystery that was connected with it. And everyone seemed to know, or thought they knew. I was pointed out as a kind of oddity to other chaps' mothers and sisters. I was 'one of the queer Caryll's, and my father was a crank or had done something fishy and been kicked out of the family. How could I explain that he was an Arab Chief! An Arab Chief—good lord! I wanted decent, ordinary parents who could be produced like other fellow's people. But it isn't that that rankles so much. It doesn't matter what a lot of damned inquisitive gossips say. It's knowing myself the son of a man who . . . who . . ."

He broke down completely and dropped into a chair by the table, burying his head in his arms.

It was a frank avowal at last of what Saint Hubert had often suspected, but never before had the shy, sensitive lad raised the barrier of reserve he had built about himself and laid bare his innermost feelings, never before had he given the least inkling of the morbid brooding that had poisoned his young life.

And now, as he watched his heaving shoulders, Saint Hubert found himself again confronted with the problem that had troubled him for years.

Was he justified in withholding the knowledge he posseeed, or was it his duty to enlighten Caryll as he only could enlighten him?

The love between grandfather and grandson had been wonderful, and for Caryll the old man had stood as a type for all that was honorable and upright. Must he destroy the lad's faith and sully his ideal by brutally acquainting him with the naked facts of the pitiful old story? Once before he had had to tell that story. But would Caryll receive it as his mother had done? Then it had been told to justify the man who was Saint Hubert's dearest friend. And was there not the same reason now for its telling, and an even greater reason? It was impossible that Caryll should be allowed to remain in ignorance, that he should not be given the chance of judging for himself, after he knew the actual facts, between his father and his grandfather.

Saint Hubert went slowly to the other side of the table.

But as he laid his hand on Caryll's shoulder he paused in frowning indecision, checking the revelation that was on the point of utterance.

Not yet. He would wait a little longer, wait until the difficult family reunion was accomplished, until the knowledge of his mother's love and a better acquaintance of the father he now hated should have paved the way and made the story easier for him to bear. But something he had to say.

"My dear boy," he began, and then stopped, for once totally at a loss for words.

And, already restless under his hand, it was Caryll's husky voice that filled the blank.

"It's all right, Uncle Raoul," he said, jerkily, his head still buried in his arms. "I'm sorry I made a fool of myself. Forget it, please. I just couldn't help it. I had to speak—it's been choking me for years. And I don't mind making an ass of myself to you. You always understand. You've always been such a—such a dam' good friend to me." His voice trailed away in a hard sob. Then he raised his head suddenly, gripping Saint Hubert's hand with a force that made the Frenchman wince. "Why are you so good to me, Uncle Raoul? Why have you always done so much for me? You, and the old man between you, have hardly let me realize the need of a father—and you taught me even more than he did, much as he loved me. I wish I could tell you how grateful I am. But I'm a tongue-tied rotter and I can't express myself. You've been more than a father to me, Uncle Raoul—by God, I wish you were my father!" And behind him Raoul de Saint Hubert stood silent, thankful that his face was hidden, struggling with a rush of emotion that almost overpowered him.

These last few words, a mere spontaneous expression of affection to him who uttered them, held a deeper, more poignant meaning for the man to whom they were addressed. His son, that might have been! The living image of the woman he adored. The thought of it was like a sharp sword turning in an open, unhealed wound. His dark eyes drawn with pain, he fought again with the undying love he had kept hidden so long and the constant aching longing that never left him.

For twenty years he had played a part, and kept his secret, and had remained her friend.

It was Ahmed's love, not his, she had wanted. And to give her her heart's desire he had wrestled with death to restore to her arms the man who had wronged her so greatly. And the happiness he had prayed for had come to her, and her happiness was more to him than his own.

And even Ahmed had never guessed. Unselfish, there was no bitterness in his heart, and his friendship for the Sheik had survived the greatest test of all.

The friend of both, he had visited them as often as circumstance allowed and his own courage permitted. And no one but himself knew the pain of those visits.

The village is a mass of ruins. Both churches were demolished and not a single house escaped damage.

Austin Officers Seek Solution to Murder Mystery

Artist Tells Murder Story

Here is an artist's sketch of the Engler slaying at Moore's Crossing Saturday night. The sketch was made after a brief survey of the scene of the murder Sunday night, but is a fairly accurate picture of the crime. Figures show the following: (1) Slayer approaches house, shoves open window screen and shoots elder Engler; (2) shoots Mrs. Engler in the bed on the opposite side of the room; (3) leaps through window and rushes into living room, meeting Miss Emma Engler; (4) girl fights off assailant and runs to garage; (5) is caught at garage but again breaks away and flees to gate; (6) here she either runs to barn or breaks away and runs back toward home; (7) is again overtaken by slayer and shot to death.

MAN, HIS WIFE AND DAUGHTER SHOT TO DEATH

Murderer Fires Fatal Shots As Peaceful Family Sleeps

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 11.—Travis county officers are working in what has so far proven a futile attempt to solve a triple murder mystery that will go down as one of the most brutal and wanton in the history of central Texas. Up to a late hour Tuesday afternoon numerous clues had led to nothing definite.

An unidentified assassin crept stealthily up to a quiet farmhouse setting high upon a hill, all to itself, a mile from nearest neighbors, at Mooresville, two miles southeast of Del Valle, after dusk had fallen Saturday night and after the happy family of S. H. Engler, his wife and his pretty 25-year-old adopted daughter had fallen asleep.

Entering first the bedroom of the man and wife, the prowler shot and killed Engler, 60, before he could show resistance. Then he turned to Mrs. Engler, 55, and fired upon her. Badly wounded, he left both to die in their beds.

Girl Seeks to Escape Fiend.

Then he went into the room occupied by the pretty adopted daughter, the cherished idol of the contented little family. The girl, aroused by the shots, fled for her life, but the assassin finally ran her down, wounded her and later stacked her. He killed her before leaving the farmhouse.

This happened Saturday night out there on this isolated hill within view of the illuminated capitol dome, with two hound dogs whining their doleful appeal for help to the lonely countryside.

Sunday morn dogs were still at 9:30 o'clock the barking, but John Sternnadl, blacksmith, who lives a mile down the road at Mooresville or Moore's Crossing, and his son, Bohamel, 14, thought nothing unusual of their noise when they drove up to the Engler place to transact business with Engler.

John Sternnadl First on the Scene of Murder.

"They're not at home," Sternnadl decided after crying for them several times and then riding away.

Again at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon Sternnadl and his son went back to the Engler home. Engler and Sternnadl were partners in making cotton choppers and Sternnadl went for the usual weekly business settlement.

The Boy's Story.

"Papa sent me into the yard and I went around the house and looked in the room. The screen was pushed out. It had been shut down, almost. And when I looked in, I saw Mr. Engler killed. I called to papa and told him that Mr. Engler was killed. Blood was all over his face. Then papa came a-running into the yard and he looked into the other window and saw Mrs. Engler killed too. Then we went to the front of the house and we saw Emma Engler dead too. She was lying with her feet in the door leading to the parlor. She didn't have on any clothes and she was bloody. She had hay in her hair and held some of it in her hands."

The boy said that he and his father left the place immediately and notified others that all three of the Englers had been murdered.

Tells Graphic Story.

The youth's graphic description of the triple murder is just about as complete an account of the affair as can be given.

Reporters, finding their way to the scene after dark, found bloody clothes strewn all about the house.

Miss Emma Engler's nightgown, spotted with blood, was found torn and soiled in the front room or parlor, where it evidently had been snatched from the helpless girl. A pool of blood on the floor marked the resting place for her wounded head.

But the girl died only after a fight.

Bullet in Wall.

Part of a leaden bullet wedged in the front of the house, indicating that the assassin fired at the fleeing girl as she left her bedroom and sought an opportunity to hide in the barn from this crazed killer.

Whether the girl was first wounded by the assassin and then escaped, or whether she fled the house upon hearing first reports of the gun will never be known.

Trail of Blood.

The bloody trail, the stains on the door to the front room, the stains on the porch, the stains on the side of the house and on the window and on the gate leading out of the yard and the hay in the girl's hair indicate the fight she made to overcome her attacker.

It is presumed that she fled from the house and went to the barn, where she hid in the hay loft. The desperate killer, however, sought her out and either attacked her in the barn or brought her back into the house, fighting all the way, as the bloodstains on the gate and the porch and the door leading to the parlor indicate. Footprints in the yard bore further evidence of the girl's struggle.

Girl's Body Cruelly Bruised.

The girl had been sorely manhandled, her head and body being marked with huge bruises. She was shot only once, shot to bury the identity of the man who had already killed two others and leave none to tell of the triple Saturday night murder.

The girl's nightgown bears unmistakable signs of powder burn, showing that her attacker had held the gun at close range in his premeditated plot to murder her, after assaulting her.

Engler Dead in His Sleep.

Engler died in his sleep. He was shot through the right temple, according to evidence of powder burns on that side of his face. The expression on his face is calm and peaceful.

Mrs. Engler was shot twice. She apparently raised up in bed upon hearing the first shot. Then the assassin turned on her. The first shot went through the back of her head. The second entered the mouth. Physicians say the first shot would have killed her. Her face was wrinkled in fear.

While there seems to be no tangible clues for the officers to work on, it is reported that a strange negro was seen about the place on Saturday and that this negro evaded passers-by.

Fritz Heine, one of the four men left by Sheriff Miller to guard the Shouse, told a reporter that Mrs. Engler had reported to his wife that the Englers had trouble with a negro tenant some four years ago.

That negro left the place dissatisfied at the time and declared:

"I'll get even with you-all yet. My day is coming."

Another Negro Suspect.

Another clue points to a tall black negro with a mustache who had been working at Pierce's Lane on a road gang. The negro was paid off Saturday, but he did not go to town with the others, explaining that he was going to walk on to Elroy. The road to Elroy would take him by the Engler homestead. The negro was armed with a .38 special revolver. He commented that he was going to see a woman at Elroy that night and he refused a ride to Austin. Pierce's Lane is about a mile from the Engler place.

Adolph Walenta, Frank Walenta, Manuel Smith and Frits Heine, the four farmers left by Sheriff Miller to guard the Engler house, were kept busy until midnight taking care of the curious who thronged to the scene of the murder all through the night. Several of the men were armed with shotguns and it was first reported that a posse was being formed to hunt down a strange negro seen in that section late Saturday afternoon.

Girl Engaged to Be Married.

Emma Engler, 25, and a pretty blond, adopted daughter of the ill-fated Englers, was soon to be married, according to information secured by Austin American reporters at the Engler home Sunday night.

Willie Geiss, her fiance, of Kimbro, visited the scene of the gruesome crime Sunday afternoon and bent his head as he walked about the blood-stained rooms.

Miss Engler was educated at St. Mary's academy. Her room, although disarranged, was neatly decorated and the wardrobe door, swung ajar, displayed a dozen flimsy frocks made up in the latest modes. These bright pink and delicately purple party dresses told of the happy girl's social life at the church festivals throughout the broad countryside and also in Austin.

"They gave that child everything she desired," Ben Morgan, who operates the store at Mooresville, told reporters.

"She had a big Buick touring car, a Victrola, plenty of dresses and everything that she desired. She could want for nothing."

Another native of the community said that he had also heard Miss Engler was engaged to be married, as "Mr. Engler was spending a great deal of time learning to drive the car."

Miss Engler has never known any parents other than the Englers and she did not know that she was their adopted daughter.

Prosperous Farmer.

Engler was one of the most prosperous farmers in the Mooresville section. He owned his homestead and 100 acres of good land that surrounded it. He had in his barns 40 bales of cotton which he had been holding over for a good price. He is believed to have a prosperous bank account, although Engler, of the stolid German type, was not given to discussing his business affairs with his neighbors.

Discovers Tragedy

Bohamel Sternnadl, 14, son of John Sternnadl, neighbor and partner of the Englers, peeped through a window of the Engler home late Sunday afternoon and discovered the gruesome tragedy that had been enacted in the farm home hours before. He screamed for his father, giving the first alarm of the triple slaying.

More Truth Than Poetry

A SIGH OF RELIEF

I never thought much of the dear old farm
  Or the hay that I had to stack there.
I've always been filled with profound alarm
  At the prospect of going back there.
It irked me greatly to stick around
  Where there always was nothing doing,
And never a more enticing sound
  Than a short-tempered heifer's mooing.

But I always have thought, should my health break down
  From urban struggle and worry,
I must leave my home in the good old town—
  And back to the country hurry,
Where the country food and the country air,
  Though they don't in the least allure me,
Would put my nerves into good repair—
  And thus completely cure me.

But my doctor says I had best beware
  Of leaving the healthful city,
For malaria lurks in the country air,
  And the country food is gritty.
The man of the town is clad in strong
  And thoroughly germ-proof armor—
And usually lives three times as long
  As the average corn-fed farmer.

And so in the city I'm going to stay,
  No more again to perch in
The dusty stacks of the new-mown hay
  That stifled me as an urchin.
No more I need lie in my snug warm bed,
  And think of the farm—and dread it.
I am going to do what my doctor said,
  And golly! I'm glad he said it!

Spuds Make Hits Count In Pinches, Take Second From Sports, 10-9

THREE HURLERS FOR EACH SIDE ARE HIT HARD

Schick of Shreveport Has Field Day at Bat; Puts Over 6 Runs

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 11.—The sports outhit the Spudders in the second game of the series today, but the visitors hit better in the pinches and won by a score of 10 to 9. Outfielder Schick of the locals accounted for six runs with two homers and a double. Each team used three hurlers. Turgeon of the Spudders hit a homer in the first when McCauley was under heavy fire.

Metzler opened the first inning by walking, and scoring on a three-base blow by Distel. Distel scored on Fitzgerald's fly to center. Bonowitz made a great catch of Bodie's long drive. Turgeon hit a home run over the left field fence.

Sports Come Back.

The Sports smashed back into a tie with the Spudders in their half of the first inning. Singles by Westerzil and Kirke, an infield out, and Schick's home run over the left field fence scored three runs.

A single by Benton and a double by Schick scored the Sport's run in the fourth to give them a lead.

The Spudders piled up four runs in the fourth inning to take a three-run lead. Dorman walked, Jonnard was hit by a pitched ball. Adkins was called on to take the hill. Dorman scored and Jonnard went to second on Metzler's single to left. Jonnard took third on Distel's foul to Kirke in deep territory. Metzler took second on the throw. Fitzgerald singled to center, scoring Jonnard and Metzler and taking second on the throw in. Bodie walked. Turgeon singled to center, scoring Fitzgerald.

Shreveport counted one more in the fourth. Turegon's error, an infield out and a single by Ostergard scored the run.

Add Three More.

The Spuds added three more to their column in the fifth. Dorman doubled to center, took third on Jonnard's infield out and scored on Roberts' single to right. Roberts jogged over the pan ahead of Metzler after the Spudder recruit from Ardmore had poled one over the right field fence.

The final four of the Sports was equally divided in the sixth and seventh. The two in the sixth were scored on a single by McGaffigan, an infield out, stolen base and Adkin's single. Ostergrad smashed a double to center, scoring Adkins. A single by Benton and Schick's second home run of the game scored the two in the seventh.

Athletics Make It Two Straight In Win From Browns

Rommell Takes 20th Victory of Season, Poole Saves Day at Bat

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics made it two straight over St. Louis today by winning the second game of the series, 3 to 2. Jim Poole's home run smash in the sixth inning and his stop of Robertson's smash in the ninth with the bases full saved the day for the Mackmen. The triumph marked Rommel's 20th of the season. Over the first five innings the knuckle ball star did not allow a hit and the only man to reach base got there on an error. The score:

Matsuda, Champ Welter Wrestler, Here August 25

Wrestling bugs of the city will be treated to a real chance of August 25, when Promoter Ross brings into the ring Matty Matsuda, world's champion welterweight wrestler and champion of Japan in all classes. Promoter Ross is trying to locate the best that can be obtained to meet the Jap here on that date.

Matsuda accepted the offer and if Ross can get any man of the Jap's weight his title will be at stake. The Jap also stated he would meet any welterweight in the world that Ross would put in the ring.

Several wires are now out to obtain wrestlers to meet Matsuda, and the man that will meet him probably will be announced within the next few days.

MAY TRY AGAIN

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Lillian Harrison may use woman's prerogative and change her mind and make another attempt this year to swim the English channel.

The Argentine girl, who on Monday night was taken from the channel in a semi-conscious condition after a swim from Cape Gris-Nez to a point about eight miles off Dover was examined today by a physician who pronounced her fit to try again if she so desired.

"I think I shall try again," she said afterward.

Gertrude Ederle said tnight she hopes to make her attempt to swim the channel some time around August 17, when tidal conditions probably will be good.

The Passing Hour

by Wm. B. Ruggles

NOMECLATURE

(Suggested that a more dignified name be given to umpires.—News Item).

Swart toiler in the sun of afternoons,
Ruler of destines of ball and strike—
Some one may find the sort of name for you
You like.

But yesterday when as the ninth rolled round
And out at home you called the tying run,
And thereby cost the club a game,, I thought
Of one!

RATES on peanuts held to be too high by the interstate commerce commission refer only to the retailer, not to the consumer. Rates will continue to be too high at circuses and ball yards.

THE homely goober, however, is the best proof of insanity. Gents who have amassed fortunes retailing peanuts, 4 per bag, to baseball bleachers and watching ball club magnates go broke always turn around and buy ball clubs.

May Presage New Club.

THE sale of Gus Foreman to Fort Worth and of Stewart Jacobus to Houston may forecast Beaumont's passing from membership in the Texas league held ever since 1912. If the Exporters intend to face the barrier in 1926, it hardly seems possible that they would dispose of the two most effective pitchers on the staff.

Beaumont went to the Shreveport meeting of the Texas league with a plea for financial aid last January and was accorded certain concessions in the line of its admission receipts that met every request the club could ask for. The team evidently has not been able to weather the financial storm even with that assistance, as it is seeking further aid by disposing of its ball players to best advantage.

With Abilene putting in big claims of its drawing power, it is obvious that overtures might be under way now for the Beaumont franchise.

Beaumont has had only one lapse in membership. This was in 1917 when the club was dropped in June after Galveston surrendered its club and the league had to drop another.

The club is an example of the many in organized baseball—the majority in fact—carried at a loss by business men as a matter of civic pride. Evidently they are tired at last of holding the bag.

THE bandits who tried to hold up the Drake hotel must be inexperienced gentry. Hotel holdups are conducted from the inside, not outside, the cashier's cage.

THEY said they were from Texas. All the Texas hotel bandits are in the hotel business.

Mere Scenery.

WHO will be Mr. Dempsey's next opponent for the heavyweight championship?

You've guessed it—Mistah Harry Wills, a black party.

It could be no one else. For the student of the ballyhoo, or as it is sometimes referred to in more polite circus circles, the "drum up," will readily perceive that all o fthe fistic events in the press as far as the heavyweight situation is concerned is for over a year, have been carefully constructed to build up the meeting between black and white.

It occurs that the New Yorkcommission, undoubtedly a body of reputable gentlemen, but perhaps not as astute as they might be, have merely succeeded in lending themselves as props to the scenic staging. In other words, they fell for the layout.

Their act has tended to convince the public that only a Dempsey-Wills fight is the only heavyweight engagement worth while. Tunney will not do. Greb is too light. And so it goes. Dempsey must meet Wills.

Authorities are mostly agreed that the way to get a child to do what you want is to tell him not to do it. Mr. Dempsey seems to have played the New York commission on the same basis and succeeded.

They have always called William Muldoon "the solid man." Recently he has acted like it.

ONE thing about these attempts to swim the English channel. The old adversary is always there for you to try again.

THE channel had a good rest, 1914-1918, when the swimmers never knew whether they would straddle one of Von Tirpitz's subs or go to kingdom come on a depth bomb.

MR. DEMPSEY appears to have become one of the great letter writers of history.

Our Own Corner.

MR. ROCKNE of Notre Dame concedes that the southwest has been overlooked in the matter of All-Americans and due recognition of its football and otherwise athletic merit, a fact of which the section itself has been painfully aware for a good many years. Mr. Rockne's suggested solution of the problem, however, is more of a kill than a cure. He wants southwestern teams to engage in more intersectional competition and thereby improve its prestige abroad.

This solution would be very fine for the athletic prestige of the colleges—if the teams won—would be of no value if they lost and, win or lose, would be bad for the colleges themselves. Notre Dame, recognized as one of the finest gridiron combinations of the country, has never improved its reputation with the collegiate world by its famous traveling teams, which have always left the suspicion, just or not, that the players can not spend much time in the college curriculum.

One intersectional game a year is about all the average athlete can stand in the way of absence from the classroom.

The point is that the southwest merits advertisement of its own corner more in its own press. What has made eastern and mid-western athletic prestige is the willingness of each section's newspapers to ignore other parts of the country in favor of its own. Here is the southwest, abetted by the generous space of the AP, UP, and other news services, devote to the east and socalled west, the newspapers try to play up the supposed "big fellows."

Give the southwest its own four-poster ads in its own country and it will get somewhere.

Walker Facing A Suspension If He Fails to Sign-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will be indefinitely suspended by the state athletic commission at its meeting Friday unless Walker or his manager definitely sign contracts or post a bond for a title match with Dave Shade of California at that time. This ruling was made by the commission at its meeting today.

The welterweight king who was given a license to box Harry Greb, middleweight champion at the Italian hospital fund matches upon assurance from him that he would meet Shade before August 25, has constantly refused to sign for the match despite a $10,000 bond posted for him by Hubert J. Fugazy, promoter of the Italian hospital fund bout, binding the match. The commission intimated that the bond will likely be forfeited unless the match is closed by Friday.

Battling Siki, Sengalese heavyweight whose antics in a match against Joe Silvani at a local club last Saturday night, resulted in his disqualification by the referee appeared before the commission with his manager, Robert Levy, today and was given a suspended sentence upon Levy's word that Siki would leave the country inside of thirty days.

PIRATES EVEN SERIES WITH GIANTS, 7-4

Dean Massacred in Eighth When Five Runs Are Scored on Him

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Pittsburgh evened up the series with New York today by winning the second game, 7 to 4. The Pirates got to Dean in the eighth and scored five runs on doubles by Carey, Barnhart and Moore, passes to Cuyler and Gooch and Morrison's single. Kremer started for the Pirates but was relieved in the seventh when a pinch hitter batted for him and Johnny Morrison took up the burden. Dean pitched well until the eighth, Glenn Wright's home run in the second inning being the only damaging clout obtained off his delivery prior to the disastrous eighth. A crowd of 22,000 witnessed the game. Score:

MARKETS

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The cotton market was somewhat two-sided today and prices fluctuated freely within a moderate range but the general trend was upward, following an opening dip of 14 points on December. Trading was not so brisk as on the preceding day. Professional traders continued bearish but the interior was more disposed to buy at the decline and finally shorts covered, running prices up sharply from the opening break for a gain of 24 points and although the market lost much of the gain during the course of the day, a final rally made new highs 33 points for December above the low and the close showed net gains for the day of 15 to 16 points.

At the start Liverpool was lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 4 to 6 points. Prices continued to ease off in the early trading until October worked down to 22.68 and December to 22.90 or 13 to 14 points under yesterday's close.

In the second hour prices brallied on a dry weather map and forecast, coupled with reports of a better inquiry for interior spots.

Exports for the day also helped the rally which carried October up to 22.91 and December to 23.14, or 23 to 24 points above the early lows. The market ruled quiet after mid-session and gradually eased off 13 to 14 points from the highs of the morning but a sharp rally on covering in the late trading forced October up to 23.00 and December to 23.23, new highs for the day, and 32 to 33 points above the lows of the morning. The market closed near the top.

Exports for the day totalled 22,411 bales, of which New Orleans cleared 13,351 bales and Houston 6,199 bales.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Violent fluctuations in high priced industrial shares overshadowed all other developments in today's irregular stock market. Trading was in larger volume the day's sales aggregating about one and one-half million shares.

General Railway Signal was the sensational feature soaring 44¾ points to a record high of 300 and then slipping back ten points from the top on realizing. Buying of this stock, trading in which started on the "big board" at $144 a share two months ago, was in response to the publication of a semi-annual report showing net earnings in excess of $17 a share on the common in the first six months or double those of the corresponding period of 1924.

A sharp run-up of over ten points in American Can, which attained a new record peak at 234¾ revived rumors of an early split-up of the stock, but these lacked official verification and the stock closed slightly more than two points from the top. General Electric jumped over eight points to a new top at 316⅝ or within four points of the maximum established before the segregation of the electric bond and share holdings. Westinghouse Airbrake closed 5¼ points higher at 119¼ after attaining a new high at 119½. General Baking also showed an extreme gain of over seven points at 175½ and then eased to 172½.

Fresh weakness developed in the oil shares. Atlantic Refining broke four points on unconfirmed rumors that the common dividend would not be resumed and the Pan-American issues each closed about 3½ points lower. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by Colorado Fuel, Houston Independent Oil and Gas, Pacific and a few others in that group.

Extensive liquidation of the public utilities was inspired by the statement of Samuel Insull, public utility magnate, that many of these stocks were selling too high. Havana Electric closed 4¼ points lower at 189½ and net losses of 2 to 3 points were recorded by American Waterworks, American foreign power, electric power and light certificates, Montant Power and International Telephone.

U. S. Steel common reacted about 1½ points to 105⅝. Wall Street appeared to be having difficulty in appraising the Virginia-Carolina chemical reorganization plan the common closing ⅝ higher at 3¼ after fluctuating between 2 2-3 and 3½ and the preferred showing a net gain of 2 at 111¼ after selling between 94 and 14. Call money held steady at 4¼ per cent. Time money and commercial paper markets were unchanged with 4 to 4½ per cent the ruling rates.

Except for the brisk rallies in the Norwegian and Danish currencies, which sold around 18.55 and 22.95 cents respectively, there were few changes of importance in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was firm around $4.85½ and French francs held fairly steady around 4.68 cents.

FARM ACREAGE IN U. S. DROPS REPORT SHOWS

Texas One of Few Points Where Increase Is Found

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A survey just completed by the department of agriculture showed that the number of farms in the United States decreased last year by 30,000 or one-half of one per cent while cropped lands decreased 1,200,000 acres, or one-third of one per cent.

The idle acreage exclusive of summer fallow was estimated at 25,000,000 acres. Enormous areas of idle land were reported in the southern states, Michigan, Wisconsin, Montana, Washington and Oregan reports from 14 states each averaging a million acres.

Plains Increase.

The largest acerage of new land brought into cultivation was in the dry farming areas of the great plains and was estimated at 11,000,000 acres.

A large part of the area abandoned for cultivation was turned into pasturage, indicating increased livestock raising. Pasturage increased in southern Georgia, northern Florida, Mississippi, Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma, eastern Kansas, southern Illinois, eastern Washington, Indiana, Ohio, California and Michigan.

Farms Consolidate.

The decrease in the number of farms is believed by the department to be due partly to consolidations. It was generally in central and outhern Georgia, southeastern Alabama, Michigan, Missouri, southeastern Idaho and eastern Washington.

The number of farms increased along the northern and western margins of the cotton belt in the lower coastal plain of the Carolinas, southern Florida, Texas, Minnesota, eastern South Dakota, central and southern California and Nebraska.

Boll Worms Here Worrying Farmers

An organized effort to combat a real menace to northwest Texas cotton crops, the boll worm evil, is getting underway throughout the Wichita valley and on the dry land farms in Wichita and western Clay counties. Large numbers of the boll worms have made their appearance at various places in the county and throughout the irrigated valley and with furthur cloudy weather, which is favorable to their rapid multiplication, in prospect, the safety of the crops that have thus far successfully fought off dry weather and other adversity is feared for unless steps are taken now to get rid of the worms.

Open lights which traps the millers which deposit the eggs are being placed in the fields by many of the farmers where the worms have been seen. It is believed that a few hot dry days will serve to kill most of the worms that already exist if further egg laying can be stopped.

Drouth a Blessing In Disguise—Walsh

DALLAS, Aug. 11.—Drouth conditions in Texas will prove "a blessing in disguise," because they will see that they can produce feed crops advantageously, Col. C. C. Walsh, agent of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, said today in discussing financial conditions in the drouth area of the state.

"When the farmer can raise his own feed he will be in far better condition to stand a poor crop," he said.

Federal Reserve Bank field agents have for a number of years advocated gran crops in east and central Texas, results of their work being evident in many places, he pointed out.

"The general opinion that in the moisture climate the grain will rust or fail to mature seems to be an unfounded one, since a number of farmers have been very successful in such ventures. Cotton will always be the essential crop in these areas, but feed crops are a necessary supplement."

Farmer Owes His Life to a Cow

MERCEDES, Texas, Aug. 11.—E. W. Sprague, a farmer who lives near this place, owes his life to a fighting cow. A vicious mule kicked and bit Sprague as he was leading the animal to water and it is believed would have killed the farmer had not a shorthorn come to the rescue. Actuated by a desire to get into the fight or by a desire to do its owner service, the cow charged the mule and put it to rout.

Mr. Sprague suffered two broken ribs from the kicks of the mule and lost an ear that was bitten from his head by the mule. He will recover.

Picture World Taking Greater Care in Selecting Films

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Through a recently established system of selecting plots that conform to the covenant of 14 dramatic points, motion picture producers here now practically assure the success of a photoplay before it is made. Of thousands of films produced in the past many were failures from the standpoint of audiences.

Irving Cummings, director, under whose direction several productions have been filmed through this new method, declares that in the future failures will be almost completely eliminated. In this manner more pictures that appeal to the audiences will be turned out, he said.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

Waco Man Meets Death on Santa Fe Track at Brownwood.

BROWNWOOD, Aug. 11.—E. L. Harris of Waco, Texas, 27, is dead, and T. A. Keel of Wall, Texas, is in a hospital here as the result of being struck by a freight train on the Santa Fe near Bangs last night. The accident occurred on the curve, making it a matter of difficulty for trainmen to see vehicles until almost upon them, and the wind blowing in the opposite direction to which the trucks in which the two men were riding made it a hard matter to hear the approach of the train.

Free Bridge Aid From State Sure To Come, Belief

Confident that the state highway commission would stick to promises it made some time ago with reference to assisting financially in building of a free bridge across the Red river at Burkburnett, Attorneys C. C. McDonald and B. Y. Cummings and J. W. Chatham, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce, returned Tuesday afternoon from Austin after a hearing with the commission.

Speaking of the conference yesterday, which included a short hearing with former Governor James E. Ferguson, Mr. Chatham said that indications had been given the highway board would give heed to the plea that it go on through with the free bridge program. All legal objections to the state's aiding in the project have been cleared away, it is said, and members of the commission, it was found, were disposed to look with favor on the idea.

The commissioner will announce its result on the bridge matter August 24 at the next regular meeting.

Members' Derby Results in Doubt

WHEELER, Texas, Aug. 11.—With Kinninghams Frank winner of the shooting dog races yesterday, 70 sportsmen took the field early today for the running of the members derby.

Early tonight the winder had not been announced by judges, C. W. Campbell of Belton and E. T. Cole of Ferris, nor would the best of the dog men attempt to say.

In all 18 races were run for the Q. C. Burkett memorial cup. Tomorrow the members all age will be run for the Amarillo $1,500 trophy. The memorial cup is in memory of Mr. Burkett of Altus, Okla., an active vice president. The Amarillo cup is given by sportsmen of that city. New Sales Head Takes Up Work With W. S. Curlee

B. R. LEMON

Announcement was made Tuesday by W. S. Curlee, realtor here, that B. R. Lemon, for several months the local representative of Henry L. Doherty and company, investment bankers, had accepted a position with him as sales-manager.

Mr. Leman has had wide experience in the real estate, bond and investment business. He was the Fort Worth representative of the Doherty interests prior to coming to Wichita Falls.

In commenting on Wichita Falls, Mr. Lemon said he was impressed with the energy and evident business activity of the city; that it presented a fruitful field for future development and that he knew of no city in Texas that was accomplishing the things being done in Wichita Falls.

In addition to caring for the needs of the company's real estate clients, Mr. Lemon announces that a high class of investment stocks and bonds will be placed on the market here in a short time to give an outlet for some of the cash surplus that may be acquired in the city.

Goodners Honored at P-T Reception Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Goodner were honores Tuesday night from 8 until 10 o'clock at a reception given in their honor by the Parent-Teacher association of the city, on the lawn of the Central Presbyterian church. Mr. Goodner, for years a member of the Wichita Falls school board and Mrs. Goodner, past president of the P. T. A. council here, are leaving August 18 for California, where Mr. Goodner will take charge of a large new business. The reception was given by their former comrades in their work with and for the Wichita schools as a token of regard for their past services. The affair was sponsored by Mrs. Homer McGregor, president of the P. T. A. council for the coming year, and the presidents of the associations of the various schools over the city.

Presented a Motto.

The Goodners were presented with a handsome framed motto by Mrs. McGregor on behalf of the P. T. A. Both Mr. and Mrs. Goodner in accepting the gift expressed their regard for Wichita Falls and for the people with whom they had worked for so many years.

A musical program included songs by four Campfire girls, Misses Jean Fisk, Helen Wilgus and the two Pitman sisters, a violin duet by Mrs. Jouette Bonner and Ray Eyssen, a piano solo by J. S. Pitman, songs by Alva Wilgus with Mrs. Wilgus at the piano and songs by Mrs. J. S. Pittman. Punch was served to the guests.

A wire was received yesterday from George A. Alexander, Jr., who was called to Birmingham, Ala., last week at the illness of his mother, stating that she died Monday morning. Friends here are trying to get the wire on through to W. W. Silk and family, hoping to catch them at Clayton, New Mexico, as Mrs. Alexander is Mr. Silk's sister. The Silks are on a tour en route to California.

FISHER TAKES EASY FALL IN NEAT BATTLE

He Disposes of Chief Wow Wow Quickly; McMullin Wins

Jack Fisher of Chicago, light weight champion wrestler of America, won an easy decision, two best out of three falls over Chief Wow Wow, welterweight wrestler of Frederick, Okla., in the main event last night at the Eleventh and Indiana street coliseum. Jack won the first fall in 32 minutes and 30 seconds, with a reverse wrist lock and head lock. The second fall was won in 10 minutes and 10 seconds with a head and wrist lock. The event was interesting and exciting from start to finish, both boys showing great stuff. It looked for a few minutes of the first go that Chief Wow Wow had the better of the going, being several pounds heavier, and it seemed impossible for Fisher to hold him. Both wrestlers resorted to rough tactics in the last but no material damage was done.

Tuffy McMullan of Breckenridge won the two best out of three falls against Jack Fields. The first fall was won in 22 minutes with a double arm roll hold. The second was made in 22 minutes and 20 seconds with a lapover scissors. The boys put up a good scrap and worked hard during the entire performance. McMullan had Fields bested several pounds in weight.

Numerous challenges were telegraphed in for the winner of the night performance, some from the best boys of the country, and from the general outlook next week's bill promises to be exciting.

Interest Grows In Visit of Bishop

Considerable interest is being manifested here in the visit the latter part of this week of Bishop M. T. Maze of Harrisburg, Pa., one of the outstanding figures in the Evangelical church of the country. Bishop Maze is to be in Wichita Falls for a busy program Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday night he is to appear at the Scotland addition church, Sunday morning at the First Evangelical church, Broad and Fifteenth, Sunday afternoon at the Bowman church in Archer county and Sunday night at the Yale Evangelical church. A special musical service is being arranged for the latter period.

From here Bishop Maze goes to Galveston to conduct services in the Evangelical churchs of that city.
