Q—When did new drivers quit having to take a driving test to get a driver's license?

Q—A law went into effect June 1 which states that prospective drivers can complete 15 hours of driving with a Texas Education Agency certified instructor and skip the actual driving test. They must still take the written test. Also, if they are underage, their parents can still require them to take an actual driving test.

In Brief

Flight aborted

NASHVILLE. (AP) — An American Airlines' jetliner preparing to take off aborted the flight today when a warning light falsely signalled a fire.

There were no injuries and the 107 passengers on board walked off the plane at the boarding gate inside Metropolitan Nashville Airport, airport spokeswoman Beth Fortune said.

Fortune said there was no fire or no smoke.

"There was a warning signal of a fire and the pilot taxied back to the gate," she said.

The MD-80, en route to Memphis as flight No. 1159, taxied back to the gate around 10 a.m. CDT, she said.

"The people walked off the plane," Fortune said.

Shortfall in SJHS activities account revealed in audit

Approval of a tax rate for 1992-93 was overshadowed by results of an audit of the junior high activities fund, accepted by Snyder public schools trustees Thursday evening.

The audit indicated shortages from the fund of $7,824.36 over a two-year period when Gary Patterson, current high school principal, was principal at the junior high. The audit did not place blame on Patterson or any other individuals or groups in the school system, but rather a lack of established procedure for control of the funds.

Superintendent Dalton Moseley refused to answer questions about whether any district employees had been reprimanded, saying he had been advised by Attorney Pete Greene not to do so. Moseley, who requested the audit, said that all vending machines have been taken out of the junior high building. He said all other vending machines at other campuses will be placed on a commission basis.

The shortages amount to $1,620.50 for the year ending Aug. 31, 1990 and $6,203.86 for the year ending Aug. 31, 1991.

In its report, the accounting firm listed several findings. Among them was that cash from soft drink and candy sales was placed into a petty cash fund before it was deposited and formal records of amounts or dates and purchases made from the fund were not kept. Approximately five people had keys to the storage areas where soft drink and candy inventory was kept and there was no established procedure for collecting the cash from the vending machines.

The audit also found that there was evidence of extra pay for employees, which may violate IRS requirements for withholding. Also, there were several envelopes containing cash in the school safe which had not been turned in to Central Accounting at the end of May, 1992.

The audit report recommended that all cash be deposited and accounted for through Central Accounting and that petty cash be maintained at a constant amount and reimbursed only when expenses can be accounted for.

Reached for comment this morning, Patterson responded, "I want to make it clear it is my responsibility to supervise that entire procedure and obviously it was not controlled as it should have been. We have already taken steps to improve the process in the areas of vendor commissions, in-

Shooting occurs in Amarillo

AMARILLO (AP) — Six teenagers were shot, one in the chest, and one trampled today when another teen-ager opened fire in a hallway at Palo Duro High School, authorities said.

The injured, ages 15-18, were taken to Northwest Hospital, all were in stable condition, spokeswoman Kathy Dodson said. The teen wounded in the chest was in surgery, she said. No identities were available.

A 17-year-old male was in custody shortly after the 10 a.m. shooting, said Police Sgt. Gerald Bailey. The teen, a new student at Palo Duro, was in custody at the Potter County Jail. His identity was being withheld.

A pep rally was under way in the gymnasium at the time of the shooting, Bailey said. Bailey said police had recovered a .22-caliber handgun.

School remained in session following the shooting, said Betty Preston, a spokeswoman for the Amarillo Independent School District. No decision had been made about tonight's scheduled football

CMH to sponsor Health Fair at women's club on Saturday

Area women are invited to a Women's Health Fair from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The fair is sponsored by Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Lunch will be available for $4.50. Those who do plan to eat are asked to purchase tickets in advance to assist the caterer in planning. The lunch tickets may be purchased at the outpatient/ER registration department of the hospital, Martha Ann Woman's Club (MAWC) or the Senior Center. All proceeds from the lunch will benefit MAWC.

Registration will begin at the club at 9:30 a.m. Free health screenings and videos will be held and a lab test will be available at a discount of $5. All women age 35 and over who register for the fair will receive a discount certificate for $15 off the price of a mammogram. The normal fee is $70 for a base-line mammogram and interpretation.

Area health professionals will present a variety of seminars beginning at 10 a.m. Each will include a question and answer period. Dr. Paul Thompson, chief of staff, will welcome guests and have some opening remarks. He will be followed by Dr. Matthew Lambert, psychologist, speaking on time and stress management; Dr. David Ivy, gynecologist, speaking on menopause and osteoporosis; and Dr. Ted Scott, general surgeon, speaking on breast cancer.

There will be short breaks between presentations to allow time for health screenings, labs tests, videos and to conduct random drawings for prizes.

Following a noon lunch, Marca Dempsey, registered dietician, will give tips on healthy eating. Matt Cross, who holds a degree in exercise science and is coordinator of the Heart Gym at Cogdell, will discuss total body fitness.

The Heart Gym, located at the hospital, will be open for tours from 2-3 p.m.

Wilma Dillard, health fair coordinator, said the fair will provide women with many answers about questions they may have.

"For instance, osteoporosis is a word women hear often these days, and with good reason. It's a disease that will affect one of every four women over 50," said Mrs. Dillard. "Fortunately, there is a lot women can do to lower their chances of getting osteoporosis, and they can learn more about the disease and what causes it at the Women's Health Fair."

A complete Hemogram laboratory test will be available one day only for $5, regularly $30. This blood test provides information about white cell count and gives an overall picture of possible in-

Diez y Seis celebration slated here

Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church will sponsor an annual Diez y Seis celebration Saturday on the church grounds.

The event is held in honor of two Catholic priests who fought for Mexico to win its independence from Spain in the early 19th century. Diez y Seis means "the 16th" which is the day in September of 1810 that Mexico issued a proclamation declaring it a sovereign nation.

Locally, the event is being celebrated on the 12th, so that more people can attend.

Coronation of the queen, 15-year-old Misty Molina, will be held at 7 p.m. Misty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Garcia. Crowned as princess will be Melissa Martinez, 14. She is the daughter of Johnny Martinez of Snyder and Anita Martinez of Corpus Christi. She is the granddaughter of Juan and Irene Martinez of Snyder.

There will be scheduled activites throughout the weekend. The event will host a dance, food booths and games.

After years of being a professional couch potato, Crabtree is not only watching his diet, but he also is walking at least two miles a day.

He recently read a medical study which revealed that for every mile a person walked, it addes 21 minutes to their life.

Crabtree suggested that the route as well as the length of the walk is important. "The longer you walk, the closer your route gets to the place where they sell Blizzards."

Impressed with his speed, Dykes asked if the boy wanted to go to college. Not quite sure what college was, he said he might be interested.

"Can you pass a football?" the coach asked.

"How big is it?"

The coach tried to describe a football with his hands. The boy thought for a minute. "It's kinda big, but I think if I could swaller one, I could."

First Lady makes husband's defense

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — First Lady Barbara Bush has promised the president would not make any cuts in Social Security or Medicare if re-elected.

"Every campaign year the opponents always say you are going to cut Social Security," Mrs. Bush told reporters during a West Texas campaign swing Thursday. "We are not going to cut Social Security or Medicare. That is the biggest campaign gimmick in the world.

"George Bush and President Ronald Reagan strengthened Social Security. It's not going to be touched."

While touring a senior citizens home, the first lady also defended the president against Democratic attacks that his view on parental leave for medical emergencies is anti-family.

Democrats on Thursday challenged Bush's "family values" platform by passing a parental leave program, requiring companies with 50 employees or more to provide up to 12 weeks of leave for childbirth or a medical emergency.

The House on Thursday sent to the White House the emergency leave bill that Democrats said would boost family values. But the vote fell far short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto by Bush.

The House approved the measure 241-161.

"George is for family leaves but it should be voluntary, not mandatory," Mrs. Bush said Thursday in Lubbock responding to questions from reporters.

Bush vetoed a similar bill two years ago, claiming it would be a burden on business.

"This bill is about decency, giving working men and women the right to be at home in time of emergencies," said U.S. Rep. William Clay, D-Mo. "Let's vote and we will see who is opposed to family values and who supports them."

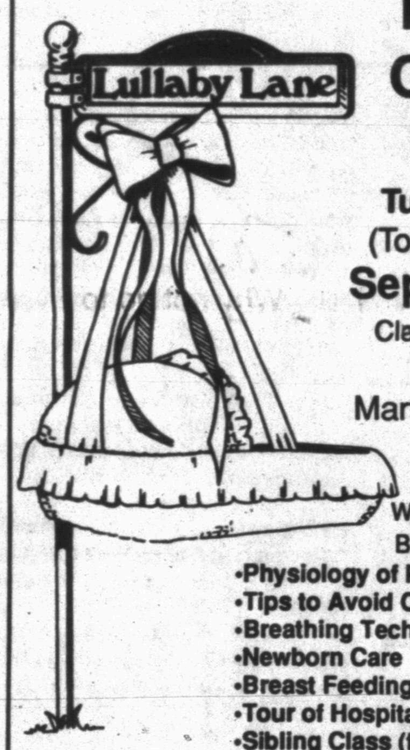

When asked if she thought the president would veto the updated bill, Mrs. Bush responded, "I have no idea ... but he feels it would break many, many businesses."

Mrs. Bush criticized Democratic challenger Bill Clinton as a tax and spender who robbed from Arkansas' social programs as governor to beef up that state's economy.

Girl's Drinking History Proves That Any Teen Can Be a Drunk

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1992 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-age girl who is an alcoholic, now faithfully attending AA meetings, and I'm here to tell a lot of teen-agers that it can happen to them.

I kept telling myself it could never happen to me. I only drank on weekends — but the weekends turned into weekdays. I drank by myself and with friends. More than once I showed up drunk, or hung over, at school, and I never thought I had a problem! I mean, I was only 15 at the time.

But my drinking got worse, my grades and school attendance went down, and I missed 53 days in one class. My parents yelled only about the grades and never even knew about the drinking. There are still people today who don't believe I could ever have had a drinking problem because I come from a very good home, my parents don't drink, and I look like the "little good girl who would never do anything wrong."

Well, I'm now 17. I'm happy to say I haven't touched a drink in seven months and I never want to drink again! I'm having way too much fun now, and I'm also trying to keep those younger than I am from making the same mistake I made two years ago. I now go from school to school talking about my problem, hoping that someone will listen, and at the same time giving myself more confidence knowing I no longer need a drink.

One thing I would like to end with: "An alcoholic is not a bad person; he or she is sick and needs help!" So please, if you know people who have drinking problems — help them to get help. You will be saving lives.

A TEEN WHO DOESN'T NEED A DRINK FOR A GOOD TIME IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR MILWAUKEE TEEN: You are to be commended for your courage and intelligence in facing up to your alcohol problem before it does more harm to you — or to others. You are an important example to the many other young people already in trouble with their drinking. Anyone who thinks he or she is "too young" to be an alcoholic doesn't know the facts. But they can learn the latest statistics by calling 1-800-729-6686 for the free government publication, "Too Many Young People Drink Too Much." And the same number can provide local help for alcohol — and drug — problems for people of all ages.

Good luck in your clean and sober life!

DEAR ABBY: I was going out with this guy a few months ago. I just saw him again recently, and he said he couldn't get over how good I looked.

He gave me his new telephone number. I called him a couple of times and we talked, and he seemed interested in seeing me.

I just now called him again and his phone has been disconnected!

I don't know how to get in touch with him. I know his address, but he also knows mine. I like him a lot and think of him constantly. What should I do?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You should do nothing, and consider yourself lucky. If he calls you — or shows up at your house with a reasonable explanation — listen; but don't pin your hopes on a guy who had his phone disconnected and didn't bother to let you know.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for the mother who wanted to conserve water by reusing the bath water. But if it's such a great idea, I think Mother should volunteer to take the last bath.

State to probe game warden who took part in hunt

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — A veteran game warden is the subject of a state inquiry after he attended a dove hunt that was raided by federal agents, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

An "administrative inquiry" of Capt. Carlos Vaca began when he informed his superior, Charles Hensley, of his participation in last weekend's hunt, Jim McElroy, director of the TPWD internal affairs division, said Thursday.

Six U.S. Fish and Wildlife agents, assisted by TPWD, descended on the 250-acre Bell County farm of former State District Judge Don Busby during the Saturday hunt and barbecue.

Agents contended the hunt violated federal migratory bird laws, which the TPWD also enforces.

Federal officials said Vaca, a 20-year TPWD veteran, was among about 100 guests at the Bell County farm. Guests also included Bell County Sheriff Dan Smith.

About half of the guests at last weekend's hunt and barbecue were said to have participated in the hunt. An estimated 100 birds were reportedly confiscated during the raid.

Smith and Busby did not immediately return telephone calls today from The Associated Press. Vaca's number was not listed.

Agents contended Busby's farm was illegally baited prior to the hunt. Baiting, the practice of leaving grain or other food in one area to attract waterfowl or other animals, is illegal when used to tempt a protected species.

Agents said they investigated the farm last week after receiving an anonymous tip and that citations could be issued within the next 10 days.

Busby denied his property was baited. He said he has had an agreement since 1989 with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to feed and protect wildlife on his farm.

He called the raid on his farm near Nolanville, about 15 miles west of Temple, miscommunication between agencies.

Agents in the raid took names, hunting license numbers and gun registrations of those with weapons. Among them were Vaca and Smith, they said.

Vaca is a mid-management level employee who has been serving as TPWD's law enforcement equipment coordinator.

Smith said he took his 12-year-old son to what he thought was a legal hunting exercise. The sheriff said he and his son bagged five doves between them in an hour.

"There were a lot of county officials. There were a lot of well-known business people, attorneys. Kind of a general cross-section of the community. Some police officers," Smith said.

City's mayor is indicted

HOUSTON (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Baytown Mayor Bobby Joe Credille in a 6-year-old girl's molestation.

Credille said he would surrender to Harris County sheriff's deputies and post a $15,000 bond after a court completed processing paperwork, said his Houston attorney, Allen Isbell.

Harris County grand jurors in Houston issued the indictment Thursday after hearing two days of testimony.

Credille is accused of sexual assault of the child on Feb. 1 and indecency with the child on March 1, said Assistant District Attorney Marie Munier.

She said the investigation began after the child made allegations to a teacher at her Baytown school.

The first charge involves a first-degree felony, with the last a second-degree felony.

Credille, 43, has denied any wrongdoing. He testified before the grand jury on Aug. 31, with additional evidence heard Thursday.

"My client is very disappointed. He's devastated," Isbell said.

Court records during a protective custody hearing for the girl showed that authorities videotaped her statement in May that Credille allegedly attacked her at his home while his wife was away.

The child said Credille told her to keep the attacks secret, according to the records.

Credille, a former Baytown councilman who was elected mayor in April, also serves on the board of directors of the Greater Baytown Chamber of Commerce. He has vowed not to resign his post.

Chamber of Commerce manager Tracy Wheeler and Councilman Rolland Pruett said they were concerned about the east Harris County city's image.

"It's hard to move forward, not knowing what will happen," Wheeler said.

Hurricane relief bill becomes battleground

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal effort to help Florida and Louisiana rebuild from Hurricane Andrew is fast becoming an election-year contest between President Bush and Congress over who can be more benevolent.

Just a day after President Bush proposed $7.6 billion in payments and loans for the storm's victims, House Democrats trotted out an $8.8 billion plan of their own that was — of course — bigger than Bush's.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $7.5 billion version on Thursday that followed Bush's lead much more closely. But senators confronted Bush on another front: his pledge to rebuild the demolished Homestead Air Force Base in South Florida.

Many of them have had military bases in their own states shut down for budget reasons, and resent the president unilaterally deciding to rebuild Homestead at a time when he needs every vote he can get.

Hence, the panel voted 12-8 to remove $480 million from the bill to rebuild Homestead. They left just $26 million to remove rubble and plan its possible reconstruction.

"When President Bush went down and said he'd rebuild Homestead, you're talking about politics of the rankest kind," Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said in an interview after the vote. "Florida is a very key state in this election."

Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., returned the favor. He said the committee's vote to knock out the funds for Homestead — a keystone of the region's economy — was "the cruelest thing that has happened to the people of South Florida."

Mack also criticized appropriations Chairman Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., for producing a bill that did not exceed Bush's figure.

"For the first time politics has been interjected into the relief assistance to the people of South Dade County," Mack said.

Andrew's sheer devastation — billions in damage and tens of thousands homeless — virtually ensures that a relief package will pass relatively quickly.

But while the relief measure is not likely to become as hotly partisan as issues such as the economy or taxes, no one has forgotten that Election Day is less than two months away.

As a result, the House bill ignores Bush's request for a $350 million contingency fund for unforeseen costs, fearing that the president would use it to bestow election-season grants to his political advantage.

The House measure would provide $520 million for farmers whose crops were destroyed by Andrew, $200 million above Bush's request.

It would also provide $400 million for food stamps for people battered by the storm. Conspicuously, Bush did not request any money for the program.

That could make the Democrats look good to many storm victims. But that didn't stop Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, from trying to score some points for his side.

"Anytime Democrats see a problem they think in terms of a permanent expansion of government," he said in an interview.

Bush could gain politically from the Senate panel's vote to remove the Homestead funds. In that vote, nine Democrats and three Republicans voted to strip the Homestead money, while three Democrats and five Republicans voted to protect it.

Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., said he feared that Bush would veto the storm-relief measure, pressure lawmakers to restore the money for Homestead and then take credit for it with Florida's voters.

Sasser said that was a reason he voted against the effort to remove the Homestead funds from the bill.

After veto...

President to offer leave alternative

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, seeking to blunt backlash from a veto of family leave legislation, suggests President Bush might offer tax incentives to encourage employers to offer the benefit voluntarily.

The House on Thursday sent the president a bill guaranteeing many American workers up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave a year to care for newborn and sick children, ailing spouses or aging and ill parents.

Democrats hailed the measure as the very embodiment of the family values that Bush and the Republican National Convention placed at the center of his re-election effort.

But the 261-141 vote by which the measure passed the House fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a presidential veto. Those voting for the measure included 203 Democrats, 37 Republicans and one independent. Forty-two Democrats and 119 Republicans voted no. The Senate passed the bill last month.

Democrats said repeatedly that Bush's decision on whether to veto the family leave bill will show his true colors. He vetoed similar legislation in the last Congress.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Al Gore, campaigning in Lexington, Ky. said Bush can either change his mind and sign the bill into law or "he can hold onto the status quo and force Americans to read his lip service to family values."

And as Thursday's vote neared, White House aides passed word on Capitol Hill that the president might be ready to offer a compromise in the form of several hundred million dollars in tax incentives to encourage small employers to provide family leaves voluntarily.

A senior White House official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Bush would like to provide the tax break to companies with up to 500 employees. Such a program could be financed for under $500 million, the official said, but the final terms of a proposal are not set.

But he said that how Democrats respond to the overture will disclose their motives.

"Do they want a political issue or do they want to help families," the official said.

Bush and his Republican allies in the House and Senate have objected to the family leave bill on grounds it imposes a new regulation on business and will force employers to compensate for its costs by cutting jobs.

Many Democrats said they viewed the tax exemption idea with skepticism.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., said backers of family leave have been seeking to negotiate with the White House on the issue for years only to be repeatedly rebuffed.

During floor debate, many Democrats portrayed the family leave issue as one that should compel Bush to match his words with deeds.

"Let's vote and we will see who is opposed to family values and who supports them," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

But many Republicans accused Democrats of delaying action on the measure for months and bringing it to the floor now as a political weapon, not as a genuine attempt to help working men and women.

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said he believes Democrats value the family leave bill not so much for its ability to help working families but as "ammunition against their political enemies."

Towns with military bases face reality

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Sylvia Lee wonders how she will cope when Carswell Air Force Base, its commissary and other amenities shut down.

On the other hand, 120 miles away, Denny Smith can't wait until new soldiers start arriving at Fort Hood because his business will improve.

Mrs. Lee and Smith are affected by the same thing: the realignment of the nation's military facilities in the aftermath of the end of the Cold War.

Fort Worth's Carswell is being closed; Fort Hood near Killeen is getting more soldiers as the 5th Infantry relocates from Fort Polk, La.

"We estimate $700 million as the economic impact," said Fort Worth Mayor Kay Granger. "It's huge."

Six-thousand soldiers will be displaced and 2,000 civilians will lose jobs, she said. The wallets of the small, surrounding businesses on Fort Worth's west side also will be sorely hit.

"What we're working hard on in Fort Worth is replacing those jobs. Also, 100,000 retirees-plus came to this community to retire to be close to the base. We've been working hard to keep these people,"

"I'm irritated with all of it," said Mrs. Lee, 73, a military dependent since the late 1940s. Her late husband was a retired Air Force warrant officer who had begun military service before World War II.

"I am very upset because I have used the commissary and have used the hospital for prescriptions and so forth," she said.

Joe Munoz, 48, an Air Force retiree who once served at Carswell, echoes her concern.

"Retirement is nothing that was promised to us when they make these drastic changes," said Munoz, now a postal worker in Fort Worth. "We gave half of our lives to the military then all of a sudden they make these drastic changes.

"Why did they decide to close a base that has been here for 50 years when San Antonio still has four bases? That's the big question and anger that we have."

Bits and pieces of Carswell will soon begin filtering off. Sgt. John Van Winkle, a spokesman for the base, said the exchange and commissary will close July 1, 1993. The whole base will be closed Oct. 1, 1993.

"I picked the base for its location," Van Winkle said about his own move to Fort Worth two months ago. "I'm a Cowboys fan. When the closure list came out I about screamed."

In Killeen, the shouts are ones of joy as 33,000 soldiers and their families move to Fort Hood from Fort Polk and several other installations.

"We all welcome it because this time last year, with Desert Storm and the deactivation of the 2nd Armored Division here, there were literally hundreds and hundreds of vacant houses and businesses," said Bill Doss of the Killeen Building Department. "It's either hamburger or steak."

Smith, who manages a beauty and barber supply store, is looking forward to the arrivals. As the soldiers gets hair cuts at barber shops and salons, his business increases he says.

"I know it sure made a difference when they pulled a lot of them out" last year, Smith said, adding that the recent realignment has local businesses overjoyed.

"A lot of little businesses have openings anticipating they're going to have troops," he said.

In 1861, Maryland's House of Delegates voted against seceding from the Union.

Deception wins again

By Phillip Alder

Former American world champion Michael Passell found one of the best plays of the inaugural Pan American Championships, which were held last June in Corpus Christi, Texas. The deal occurred during the Open Pairs, which Passell won with Denis Sorensen.

Passell, sitting West, made a negative double on the first round, showing hearts. North's raise to three spades was pre-emptive, implying offensive, not defensive, values and at least four trumps. East's four-heart rebid was aggressive. South, with little defense against four hearts, had an easy four-spade bid. Even if it didn't make, it rated to be a cheap sacrifice. Finally, West made a penalty double.

It looks as though declarer should make his contract. By playing East for one diamond honor, South can come to these 10 tricks: six spades in hand, two heart ruffs in the dummy and two diamonds. However, he was deflected by a resourceful deceptive play.

Passell opened with the club ace, leading ace from A-K, and switched to a trump. Declarer won in hand with the spade nine, played a trump to dummy's 10 and led a low diamond to his king. It held the trick!

Now declarer played a diamond, finessing dummy's nine and losing to East's jack. Sorensen cashed the heart ace and continued with the heart king, forcing dummy to ruff. Convinced that East must have the diamond ace, declarer led the diamond queen and discarded a heart when East didn't cover. Imagine his chagrin when Passell produced the diamond ace to defeat the contract.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Does a person ever die from a hiatal hernia? The pain I experience seems so severe I find myself totally incapable of functioning at times. Donnatal seems to help after a while, but the episodes are increasing in severity.

DEAR READER: No one dies from hiatal hernia, although sometimes the pain from reflux, which I'll describe in a moment, is severe enough to mimic a heart attack.

Hiatal hernia is a weakened opening in the diaphragm that permits part of the stomach (or at least, the junction of the esophagus and the stomach) to protrude up into the chest. Ordinarily, the hernia itself causes few, if any, symptoms — except occasional bloating and gas.

However, many cases of hiatal hernia are complicated by esophageal reflux, the backwash of highly irritating stomach contents into the esophagus. This may cause heartburn and indigestion which, at times, can be severe, even incapacitating. The heartburn of reflux resembles the pain of peptic ulcer, and it may be misinterpreted (by both patient and physician) as angina or acute heart attack.

There are many treatments for this condition, all of which are directed toward reducing stomach acid and keeping it out of the esophagus.

First, you may have already discovered that certain foods — such as caffeine-containing beverages, spices and alcohol — may worsen your symptoms. Although diets in general are not particularly effective in relieving this heartburn and gas, the avoidance of certain foods may help.

Second, antacids (preferably in liquid form) will neutralize acid, leading to improvement.

Third, drugs known as H2 receptor antagonists, such as Tagamet and Zantac, reduce production of stomach acid, thereby relieving symptoms.

Finally, drugs (such as Reglan) that stimulate the stomach to empty quickly may be used if the above methods don't work.

In my experience, Donnatal (an anti-spasmodic) is not appropriate therapy for hiatal hernia.

Large hernias, associated with intractable indigestion, may require surgery.

If your physician has been unable to relieve your symptoms, request a referral to a gastroenterologist for further testing and advice.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my updated Health Report "Hiatal Hernia." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Borden County looks for second 6-man win

The Borden County Coyotes hope their season continues just as it went in Week One while loop foes Ira and Hermleigh each hope for a quick change in direction on Friday night.

This week, Borden County, a 43-30 winner over New Home a week ago, will travel to Grady for a non-district tilt, Ira, which fell to Aspermont, 58-21 in its opener last Friday, battles Midland Christian Academy, and Hermleigh, a 50-0 victim at Sands last week, faces Southland in the Cards' home opener.

In other games involving District 6 squads, Highland (0-1) is at Blackwell (1-0), Loraine (0-1) is at Sands (1-0), and Trent (0-1) is at Guthrie (0-1).

All area six-man games kick off at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Borden County (1-0) at Grady (1-0)

The Coyotes, led by two touchdowns each from Clint Wills and John Paul Harris, jumped to a 1-0 start on the season.

Harris scored on a 54-yard fumble return and on a 23-yard pass from Wills after Wills opened the scoring with a 41-yard TD run and added a four-yard blast to put the Coyotes ahead, 22-0 at the end of a quarter against New Home.

Borden County's defense will have to keep an eye on Grady's Hewtty brothers. Tommy and Chris Hewtty combined for five touchdowns and over 300 yards rushing in the Wildcats' 36-24 win over Southland last Friday.

Tommy Hewtty scored on a four-yard run, a 44-yard run, and a 30-yard interception return. Chris added touchdown dashes of 10 and 20 yards.

Ira (0-1) at Midland Christian (1-0)

The Bulldogs hope to regroup after last week's season opening loss and give the 1991 Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools state champion a run for its money.

Ira showed flashes of its 1991 offensive form last week as Mike Hughes hit paydirt from 12 yards out, Toby Haynes scored on a 10-yard ramble and Bryan Luna got six points from seven yards away.

Ira's defense allowed Aspermont's Michael Reyes 252 rushing yards, a fact that won't be lost on MCA standout quarterback Andy Awtry and running back Kyle Jackson, a 6-1, 185-pound talent with 4.9 speed.

Midland Christian beat Abilene Christian in last week's opener, 61-16.

Southland (0-1) at Hermleigh (0-1)

Coach Mike Minor's HHS Cardinals had the misfortune to open a new year, with a lot of new faces, and a new system against an old hand at six-man football.

The Cardinals can still have a successful season if they can put last week's loss to the perennial playoff-bound Mustangs behind them.

Southland will also be hoping to rebound from a season-opening loss, following their 36-24 disappointment to Grady Sept. 4.

The Eagles were paced by running back Daniel Morales who gathered 123 yards on 15 carries and scored twice.

Crippled Tigers set for MHS

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder football coach David Baugh has a lot to think about with the Monahans Loboes heading into Tiger Stadium for tonight's homecoming football game.

He's got to think about the 0-4 record he has as a head coach against MHS. He has to think about sophomore running back "Boo" Jessie, who made a shamble out of the El Paso Eastwood defense last week. He has to think about Monahans quarterback Reagan Ratcliff, who was a perfect 10-of-10 in a 35-33 win in Week One. And he has to think about fielding a patchwork offensive line against one of the top rated teams in powerful District 3-4A.

"The entire left side of our offensive line is questionable," Baugh reported. "My number one concern is just being consistent on offense. I'm afraid we may have lost too many (starting linemen) to really move the ball effectively. We had a real good quick side last week.

"We've got people who can step in and do the job when they're called on," coach Baugh continued. "We coach that way and we talk all the time about being prepared. It'll be interesting to see how they'll respond."

Missing from this week's starting roster is left guard Ricky Sollis, who suffered a head injury in last week's 13-6 win over Sweetwater. "Ricky won't start," Baugh said. "That much we know. The rest of them are questionable."

Included in the questionable file are starting tackle Brad Hart and center Brian Lickey.

Jimmy Henry, a 6-4, 175-pound junior, will take Sollis' place to start. Henry got over a quarter of playing time last week after Sollis got his bell rung against the Mustangs.

Hart's fill-in will be starting defensive lineman Bradley Williams.

"Brad Hart might be able to play," said Baugh. "I'm just not sure he'll be able to push off with that ankle.

Lickey, who sustained a sprained wrist in this week's workouts and is having difficulty gripping the ball, will be replaced this week by junior Jeff Armstrong.

Sollis, a solid performer at linebacker, as well, will see starting fullback Wayland Harrison line up on defense in his position tonight.

"With Wayland playing at linebacker, too," Baugh said, "we'll be using Gilbert Orosco a little more at fullback."

Orosco spelled Harrison last week after Sollis went down, gaining nine yards on a pair of carries.

Harrison was Snyder's main offensive weapon in their season-opening win, picking up 87 yards on 13 carries.

"We've got to play good defense," coach Baugh explained, listing Snyder's priorities in tonight's game. "Jimmy Henry has to do a good job and Bradley Williams is going to have to do a good job on the quick side, or they'll load up on us on the right side and we'll be dead."

Coach Baugh feels like Monahans may offer some challenges that the Tigers didn't see against Sweetwater.

"Their top plays are sweeps, like Sweetwater, but they run more of a power sweep. They also have a play-action passing game that is excellent."

Ratcliff, who hit all 10 of his throws last week, rolled up 131 yards and two touchdowns through the air.

"You have to keep him contained," the SHS coach related, "because he'll pull it down and run with it."

Monahans runs a mirror-image of Snyder's wing-T offense with Jessie as the featured runner in the attack.

Jessie rushed for 189 of the Loboes' 284 rushing yards a week ago, averaging seven yards per attempt and scoring once.

Another standout for the Green and White is tight end Joe Flores, a 6-2, 180-pound talent who grabbed both of Ratcliff's scoring strikes against El Paso Eastwood.

"He blocks well and he catches the ball well," reported Baugh. "He's a good football player.

"I don't think they'll score 35 points on us," said coach Baugh, reflecting on last week's 35-33 final score in the Monahans-Eastwood tilt.

"We don't have the explosive offense that the El Paso team had, but we're better defensively."

The Loboes bring a 4-3 defensive alignment into tonight's non-district battle.

Armando Portillo, Monahans' 5-9, 227-pound defensive tackle and middle linebacker Felix Molinar, a 5-8, 180-pound junior, are the Loboes' key stoppers.

"I think Monahans is a bigger team and will fight us a little harder than Sweetwater did," Baugh said. "I think, maybe, they're in a little better condition. I think Sweetwater got tired at the end last week.

"I don't see Monahans doing that."

In addition to the wounded linemen, Snyder backup linebacker David Krenek will be sidelined for three to four weeks with strained knee ligaments suffered while serving on the Tigers kick-off coverage team.

No. 7 Aggies host Hurricane

by The Associated Press

They need no reminding.

Seventh-ranked Texas A&M plays host to the Tulsa Hurricane at Kyle field Saturday and Aggies coach R.C. Slocum won't let them forget what happened last time they met.

The Hurricane won 35-34, handing the Aggies their only regular season loss.

"When they beat us last year it was characterized as a major upset but after the game I didn't see it as a major upset," Slocum said. "They played well enough to beat us and they lost only one more game and that was to the national champion, Miami."

The Aggies (2-0) carry their own aspirations and those of the Southwest Conference into the weekend. They are favored by 211/2 points.

In other games, No. 12 Colorado goes to Baylor as a 9-point favorite; Texas is a 14-point underdog at Syracuse; Texas Tech is host to Wyoming; Southern Methodist is host to North Texas and Western Michigan is at Texas Christian.

Rice and Houston have open dates.

"We played a pretty good team a year ago and they've got 15 starters back," Slocum said of the Hurricane, which beat Houston 28-25 in its opener.

Aggies quarterback Jeff Granger, getting into a football mode after a summer of playing baseball, recalled the 1991 shocker at Tulsa.

"We just lost that game," Granger said. "The defense and the offense lost it. We overlooked them and they had a great team and they have just as good a team this year."

Snyder 8th B blanks Clack

Michael Rangel scored a rushing touchdown and a two-point conversion and Patrick Jordan scored on a quarterback sneak as Snyder's eighth grade B team knocked off Abilene Clack Middle School, 14-0, Thursday at Travis Field.

Snyder's eighth grade A team fell to Clack, 24-14, in spite of a Russell Riggan TD, a score from Tywayne Rivers and Matt Fambro's two-point run.

Snyder has an open date next week. The Tigers travel to Big Spring Sept. 24.

7th graders sweep Abilene teams

ABILENE — Snyder seventh graders took a pair of wins from Clack Middle School Thursday in games played at Madison Middle School here.

Snyder A blanked Clack, 26-0, while the SJHS B squad took an 8-6 decision.

D.J. Garcia scored twice and added a two-point conversion and David Smith scored a TD in the A team win.

Defensive back Jeremy Fudge earned Defensive Player of the Game honors with his interception return for a touchdown.

Offensive standouts also included running backs Casey Doyle and Curtis Clay.

Kyle Beck was named the Offensive Player of the Game in the B team win, rolling for 127 yards on 20 carries and scoring Snyder's only touchdown.

Chris Riggins rushed for 30 yards in the contest and also scored the two-point conversion that wound up being the difference.

The seventh grade teams are open next week before hosting Big Spring Thursday, Sept. 24.

Lightning halts JV football game

MONAHANS — Thursday's Snyder-Monahans junior varsity football game was called at the end of one quarter of play due to lightning.

Storms in the Monahans area forced the teams from the field with the Loboes holding a 6-0 advantage.

In other action Thursday, Snyder's freshmen lost to MHS, 35-12, in a game played at Tiger Stadium.

The Tiger JV and freshmen will both host Abilene Wylie next Thursday.

Oilers, Dishman come to terms

HOUSTON (AP) — Pro Bowl cornerback Cris Dishman has signed a two-year contract with the Houston Oilers but admits he made a tactical error that will require him to show up at training camp next season.

"I guess this means I'll have to be getting up at 5:30 a.m. at training camp next year," Dishman joked Thursday. "I'm not took big on training camp."

Dishman, also a holdout prior to last season, finally agreed to terms and signed his contract in time to work out with the Oilers and he plans to play in Sunday's game against the Indianapolis Colts.

SHS spikers face SA Central, Pecos

San Angelo Central High School will host a three-way non-district volleyball match between the host Lady Cats, the Pecos Lady Eagles and Snyder's Lady Tigers, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The varsity and JV squads from SHS will compete Saturday while the freshmen team is in the Abilene Tournament.

Coach Patty Grimmett's varsity squad is coming off a split with Big Spring and Midland Lee in their own three-team match Tuesday.

Snyder defeated the Lady Steers, 15-11, 7-15, 15-8, in their opener, before falling to the Lady Rebels, 15-7, 7-15, 8-15.

Grimmett saw some positive things and some things that need work in her girls' efforts.

"We got more blocks in these two matches than we've been getting," she said, "which is good, because once district starts, we'll be needing some major-league blocking.

"Our serves need some work," she said. "We missed three serves in all three games of both matches."

The Lady Tigers enter tomorrow's matches with a 7-6 season record. Pecos' last outing, a three-team affair on Tuesday, resulted in wins over Seminole, 15-7, 15-10, and Midland High, 10-15, 15-11, 15-3. Central is fresh from the consolation championship in their own San Angelo Invitational Tournament last weekend.

Plan B free agency scrapped

Jury in NFL trial finds system too restrictive for players

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The NFL promises more appeals. The lead attorney for the NFL players talks of more lawsuits.

It seems the one sure thing to come of this lastest decision in the long series of legal skirmishes between the league's owners and its players is a quick return to court.

The NFL said it will appeal Thursday's federal court verdict, in which eight jurors tossed out the league's restrictive Plan B free agency system and awarded $543,000 in damages to four of the eight players who brought the lawsuit.

Both the NFL and the players claimed a measure of victory in the verdict. The league took heart in jurors' finding that some restriction on free agency helped maintain competitive balance in the NFL.

And the players' side pointed to what they say is an important legal precedent for 1,079 current or former players who would qualify for damages under the jury's verdict.

"There will be other cases moving forward," promised Jim Quinn, the players' lead attorney.

Frank Rothman, the league's top lawyer, said the case should not have gone to a jury.

"It showed why the problem should be solved in the collective bargaining process and not by a jury," he said. "This will end up in appellate court. It's nonsense."

The Plan B system at issue allows each team to retain limited rights to 37 players each season. A protected player is unable to sign with another team without giving his old team the first chance to sign him. If he signs with a new team, that club has to compensate the old team with two first-round draft choices. No restricted players have changed teams under the Plan B system.

Juror Wendy McClelland said the panel found the Plan B system too restrictive on players.

"I believe they should have more freedom," said McClelland, 35, a mother of four and part-time worker in a jewelry store. "I tried to compare it to another job. I know there have to be some restrictions, but they're still human beings."

The other jurors who could be reached declined to comment.

The verdict indicated jurors agreed that the four players who won damages were underpaid compared to similar players.

San Diego Chargers guard Dave Richards was awarded $240,000, while New York Giants defensive back Mark Collins got $178,000, now-retired Cleveland Browns running back Lee Rouson, $75,000, and Browns cornerback Frank Minnifield, $50,000.

Richards, for example, was paid less money in 1990 than his backup, Mark May, who was signed by the Chargers as a free agent.

"Dave Richards was a key witness," Quinn said. "He testified early (in the trial) and they remembered him."

The other plaintiffs in the lawsuit were Freeman McNeil of the New York Jets, Don Majkowski of the Green Bay Packers, Tim McDonald of the Phoenix Cardinals, and Niko Noga, recently waived by the Los Angeles Raiders. None were awarded damages.

A source close to the out-of-court settlement talks told The Associated Press on Thursday that the eight plaintiffs had been offered $20 million to drop the suit. A spokesman for the players said the offer was untrue.

"There were discussions about damage settlements for a thousand players and these guys," said Doug Allen, NFLPA assistant director. "But that's totally ludicrous."

Giants hold off Houston, 5-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It takes a lot more than a bases-loaded ninth-inning situation to scare closer Rod Beck.

"I'd sure rather have two out and nobody on, but whatever," said Beck, who shook off a throwing error by shortstop Royce Clayton in the ninth which helped load the bases and saved San Francisco's 5-2 victory over the Houston Astros on Thursday.

"It doesn't seem to matter to him," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "Even though an error helped load the bases, it just doesn't seem to bother him."

With runners at first and third, Beck worked cautiously to Jeff Bagwell, issuing a walk and filling the bases. Beck then struck out Eric Anthony and Ken Caminiti for his 14th save of the season.

"I didn't want to let Bagwell beat me," Beck said. "And I have enough confidence in my control that I won't walk two guys an inning. I haven't done that yet this year."

The save was the first for the Giants since August 21, when Beck preservesd a victory over Pittsburgh. The Giants are just 3-13 since then, so the opportunities have been few.

"When he gets ahead of you in the count, he's tough with that forkball," Bagwell said.

"We had a good shot in the ninth," Houston manager Art Howe said. "We made Roger's heart skip a beat there."

Ryan Bowen (0-5) lost in his first start since being recalled from the minors. Bowen gave up three runs and five hits in 5 1-3 innings.

John Burkett (12-9) ended a two-game losing streak by allowing seven hits over six-plus innings. He is 9-1 at home, but just 3-8 on the road.

Cory Snyder led off the sixth with a double and scored one out later on Kirt Manwaring's double as San Francisco broke a 2-all tie.

U.S. Open...

Edberg, Lendl resume battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Stefan Edberg couldn't finish off Ivan Lendl at the U.S. Open and neither could beat the rain.

The two former champions — Edberg is defending the title he won last year; Lendl has captured the crown three times, the last in 1987 — were to resume their quarterfinal battle today, weather permitting, after their match was suspended by rain in the fifth set Thursday night.

Actually, Edberg could have moved into a semifinal berth opposite Michael Chang by winning the fourth set. He had four match points in the 10th game.

But Lendl, supposedly near the end of his career at age 32, revved his game into high gear and battled back from love-40 to hold serve and begin a three-game streak that knotted the match and sent it into a fifth set.

Chang, in a day match that, because of a rain delay, almost lasted as long as the Edberg-Lendl marathon, overcame 12th-seeded Wayne Ferreira of South Africa 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-7 (4-7), 6-1.

The women's semifinals also were on top for today, with fifth-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario meeting No. 9 Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere and defending champion and top-seed Monica Seles taking on No. 7 Mary Joe Fernandez.

Sanchez Vicario's lone Grand Slam tournament title came in 1989 when she captured the French Open. And this was her second trip in three years in the semifinals on the hardcourts at Flushing Meadows.

Edberg was breezing along the semifinals of the year's final Grand Slam tournament when he reached triple match point against Lendl. Seven points later, Lendl was ready to serve for the fourth set.

Minutes after the Chang-Ferreira match ended, the rains came for a second time Thursday, forcing suspension of the Edberg-Lendl match with Edberg ahead two sets to one and down 5-6 in the fourth set.

Lendl had held serve in the 10th game, saving the four match points. He then broke Edberg to take the lead when rain halted play.

After a delay of one hour, 10 minutes, Lendl returned to the court and broke Edberg to capture the set and send the match into a fifth set.

It apparently was exactly what Lendl wanted.

He won a five-setter against Jaime Yzaga of Peru in the opening round, downed Jimmy Connos in four sets, needed four sets to eliminate Chuck Adams and went five sets to oust Boris Becker.

Chang, who had never gotten past the fourth round here, beat a slightly hobbled Ferreira, who played from midway in the fourth set with his left thigh heavily taped. He had pulled a quadricep muscle.

What's a U.S. Open women's tennis final without Martina Navratilova? It hasn't happened very often in the past decade. Now 35 years old, Navratilova, last year's runner-up, has made it to the final match in seven of the past 10 U.S. Opens. She's won four of those tournaments.

Celtics acquire Knicks' McDaniel

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics launched their first move of the post-Larry Bird era, snatching Xavier McDaniel from the New York Knicks.

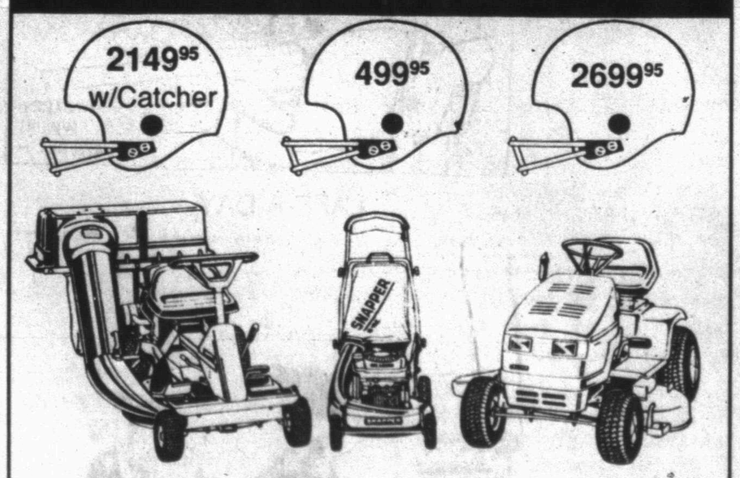

Twenty-three days after Bird retired, the Celtics signed McDaniel, an unrestricted free agent, to a five-year contract, with three years guaranteed, after he grew impatient with the Knicks negotiating pace.

David Falk, agent for the big-talking small forward, said he thought the Knicks weren't convinced when he told them McDaniel had received "very strong interest" from two or three other teams.

In seven NBA seasons, the 6-foot-7 McDaniel has averaged 19.1 points and 6.8 rebounds per game and hit 49.3 percent field goals. He averaged 13.7 points and 5.6 rebounds last season but improved to 18.8 points and 7.2 rebounds during the playoffs.

After more than five seasons with Seattle, he was traded to Phoenix in December 1990. The Suns sent him to New York before last season.

Local taxing entities to get benefit

DALLAS (AP) — Local taxing entities throughout Texas stand to benefit from a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling last week holding the FDIC accountable for back taxes on properties seized from insolvent banks.

The New Orleans appeals court's ruling on Sept. 1 affirmed a lower court ruling issued in April of last year.

That ruling by a federal district court absolved the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. of penalties or interest associated with delinquent taxes owed prior to the agency's takeover. But it said any unpaid taxes are not wiped out and remain against the property until paid.

Also, the court added, base tax and interest are collectable from the FDIC for 1992 and subsequent years.

"This is a major victory for local taxing authorities. The court's decision makes it clear that the payment of taxes must be a priority for the FDIC just as it is for every other taxpaying citizen," said attorney Sydna Gordon of Dallas.

Her law firm, Heard, Goggan, Blair & Williams, represented Dallas County in the case, Irving Independent School District and Dallas County vs. Packard Properties.

At issue, she said, are millions of dollars due local governments statewide.

"The 5th Circuit's decision guarantees local governments the ability to enforce the collection of its tax revenues that provide such services as fire and police protection, teachers, schools, emergency medical and health care services, civil and criminal justice services," Ms. Gordon said.

Your Birthday

Sept. 11, 1992

Partnerships for non-commercial purposes should work out rather well for you in the year ahead. When it comes to business matters, though, you're apt to do better on your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The quickest way to inhibit your attributes and abilities today is to compare yourself negatively to others. Be grateful for your gifts and use them without fear. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Virgo's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually, your logic and sound judgment are two of your most admirable assets. However, you might not use either today, putting yourself in a position where the odds are stacked against you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Because of intense feelings, Scorpios sometimes express themselves in an manner which others find offensive — even when no ill will is intended. Be careful you're not guilty of this today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If for some reason your objectives are unfulfilled today, don't start looking around for scapegoats. Your failure could be due to your own faulty tactics.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A hard lesson in learning not to talk when you shouldn't might be brought home to you today when you're forced to prove that the frail statements you're making are indeed facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not take anything for granted in your business dealings today, even if you're involved with friends. Each could interpret the terms from an erroneous perspective.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a situation today that requires a team effort, don't step out and try to lead the parade — unless you really know what you're doing. If misguided, you may take everyone down the wrong path.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful today that those you're involved with don't accuse you of trying to manipulate them into doing things for you which you can do for yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's best not to volunteer to manage funds for an endeavor today in which friends are involved. The probabilities for something going wrong are high.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Extra consideration on your part could be required today regarding individuals with whom you're striving to achieve a common objective. Don't try to make it a one-man show.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your presentation is too emotional, an issue you feel strongly about is not likely to win support. Base what you have to say upon facts and logic.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Handling resources, whether they're your own or others', might not be your long suit today. If you do get involved, though, be sure to keep impeccable records.

Game prayer may result in lawsuit

TULSA (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union in Oklahoma may sue school districts or the University of Oklahoma for conducting prayers before football games, its executive director says.

Joan Bell said her group is investigating reports of prayers before high school football games in recent weeks and may seek legal action to stop the practice.

"We're definitely looking into it," Ms. Bell said Thursday. "If they do that, they're going directly against the Supreme Court ruling."

The Tulsa World's Capitol bureau reported the story.

An attorney for the ACLU said he does not plan to sue the University of Oklahoma but contends prayer would be just as illegal there as at a high school

"I'm not spoiling for a lawsuit," Micheal Salem said. "But I'll tell you this, I'm holding two tickets to the OU football game."

Oklahoma's home opener is Saturday against Arkansas State.

The ACLU has received complaints about prayers or plans for prayers at several high school games, Ms. Bell said.

The group also has received complaints from football fans upset that prayers have been scrapped and blaming the civil liberties group.

Many school districts stopped pre-game prayers last week because of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in a Rhode Island case. Justices ruled prayer at a voluntary graduation ceremony at a junior high violated a ban on establishment of a state religion.

Ms. Bell noted football game attendance is mandatory for players, cheerleaders, band students and others.

Trustees accept audit

ventory accountability and collection procedures to try to prevent anything like this from happening in the future."

Moseley said that the district has not yet received a bill for the audit, performed by Joe E. Morren of Colorado City.

An announcement of the results of the audit and a unanimous vote to accept the document were made in open session following a 1½ -hour executive session.

In open session, the board accepted a 1992-93 tax rate of 43.3 cents per $100 valuation. The rate is the same rate as 1991-92 and well below the effective rate of 50.59. Last month, trustees accepted a 1992-93 budget of $14.7 million.

The board also accepted recommendations to hire Christine Bane, RN, as school nurse and Nancy Peterson as a high school social studies instructor.

Bane received her RN degree from Jewish Hospital School, St. Louis, Mo. in 1980. She worked at Greenwood Manor Nursing Home from 1977-80 and Wood River Hospital in Illinois from 1980-81. She has been employed at Cogdell Memorial Hospital since 1981.

Peterson has a bachelor's degree from Southwestern State University. She is certified to teach social science, government and political science. She is a first year teacher.

The board also granted a leave of absence for elementary teacher Wanda Hudgins Crownover, effective Sept. 25.

Woman says lewd messages are reason for damage suit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An attorney for entertainer Kenny Rogers says a countersuit will be filed against a woman who claims she was damaged by "lewd conversations" from Rogers.

Sue Ann Lenderman filed a damage lawsuit Thursday against Rogers and Dallas stockbroker Billy Bob Harris. She said Harris had given her telephone number to Rogers and she heard Rogers' allegedly sexual "fantasy" messages by calling a 1-800 number.

"We feel this is a case of extortion and a countersuit will be filed in response to her lawsuit," said Rogers' Dallas attorney, James A. Rolfe.

Rogers, in a statement released by his publicist, Cheryl J. Kagan in Nashville, Tenn., said he did have conversations "with this woman at her request. She had to directly access a phone number in order to receive my messages."

"This matter has been going on for 18 months," Rogers said. He said he had tried to settle the case out of court "with a reasonable figure and she had the audacity to request $1 million. It seems obviously clear that she is doing this for the money."

Ms. Lenderman's lawsuit does not specify an amount sought, but states the amount exceeded the $50,000 level needed for federal jurisdiction. She also asked for punitive damages.

"I can tell you we will resist this mightily," said James Paul Linn, one of Rogers' Oklahoma City attorneys.

Harris could not be reached for comment.

Ms. Lenderman said at a news conference with her attorney, Gary Richardson of Tulsa, that she called the 1-800 number three times during a three-week period and was "sickened" by what she said she heard.

Richardson would not respond to a question on whether they had tried to reach an out-of-court settlement before the lawsuit was filed.

Ms. Lenderman, who said she had met Rogers only briefly at a concert and did not know him, said the messages "made me not trust people."

As a result, she said, she has been in therapy.

Ms. Lenderman and Richardson said she had tape recordings of Rogers' comments. Asked whether they could prove in court it was really Rogers, Richardson said, "We are extremely comfortable that will not be a problem."

In recounting the episode, Ms. Lenderman said she met Harris at the wedding of one of her best friends. She said she was a senior in college and Harris offered to help find her a job with an advertising agency in Dallas.

Harris told her he had given her telephone number to Rogers and that Rogers "will call me," she said.

Rogers did call several times and those conversations had no sexual connotation, she said. She said Rogers gave her the 1-800 number and a personal code by which she could retrieve messages.

Ms. Kagan said Rogers "said she had to call that number and use an access code" to get any messages.

When she called, Ms. Lenderman said, she was "sickened" by the sexual content of the "fantasy" conversation.

Asked why she called back, she said she said she thought he would quit that sort of conversation. And, she said, Harris told her that Rogers "is harmless" and to "play along" with him.

At that point, she said, she was still hopeful Harris would help her get a job, she said. She said Harris did not help her after she stopped making the calls to the 1-800 number.

She said she is working for a Dallas advertising firm but Harris did not help her get the position.

Dog's demise nets its owner $5,000

LEAGUE CITY (AP) — A woman whose impounded dog was sent off for medical research before the required waiting period had ended has been paid $5,000, Mayor Joe Lamb says.

Amy Smith filed a complaint in July after her Australian shepherd was impounded for running loose and then shipped to the University of Texas Medical Branch in nearby Galveston.

Records show Smith's dog was impounded July 20 and was taken to UTMB two days later despite a city ordinance that animals be kept three days before being killed or sent for use in research.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

HOW THE BIBLE HELPED WIN A WORLD WAR I CAMPAIGN!

THE TURKS, UNDER GERMAN HIGH COMMAND, WERE A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE BRITISH-HELD SUEZ CANAL, ENGLAND'S LIFE LINE TO HER COLONIES DURING WORLD WAR I! IT FELL TO GENERAL SIR EDWARD ALLENBY TO SQUASH THIS THREAT! IN A SERIES OF BRILLIANTLY EXECUTED BATTLES, ALLENBY SUCCEEDED! IN PLANNING HIS BATTLE ENGAGEMENTS, HE AND HIS STAFF STUDIED, ALONG WITH THEIR TACTICAL MAPS, ALL THE RECORDED BATTLES IN THE BIBLE AND, IN SOME INSTANCES, FOLLOWED THE SAME TACTICS THE ANCIENT JEWS HAD EMPLOYED....

ONE SUCH EXAMPLE OCCURS IN THE BATTLE FOR THE PASSES OF MEGIDDO, INTO THE PLAIN OF ESDRAELON, DURING SEPTEMBER OF 1918. TAKING A TIP FROM SUCH ANCIENT GENERALS AS JOSHUA, KING DAVID, AND KING OMRI, ALLENBY ATTACKED ON A BROAD FRONT BUT MASSED HIS CAVALRY AT ONE POINT TO BREAK THROUGH THE TURKISH LINE—THIS DONE, THE CAVALRY RACED HARD, DUE NORTH, TO CUT OFF THE TURKS' ONLY MEANS OF RETREAT AT THE PASSES OF EL AFFULE AND BEISAN, THUS ENTRAPPING THE ENTIRE ARMY SO THE ADVANCING INFANTRY COULD FINISH THEM OFF!

ALLENBY'S STAFF PLACED MUCH CREDIT FOR THE SUCCESS ON CONSTANT STUDY OF THE ANCIENT TACTICS IN THE BIBLE, AND AS ONE BRITISH "TOMMY" PUT IT..."H'IF TH' BLOOMIN' TURKS 'AD STUDIED OUR BIBLE TH' WAY WE DID, THEY MIGHT 'AVE MADE H'IT A LOT FLIPPIN' ROUGHER FOR US!"

NEXT WEEK: DID JESUS REALLY CURSE THE FIG TREE?
