Tigers Romp to Victory over Wheeler, 24 to 6

The McLean Tigers continued their winning streak by romping to victory over the Wheeler Mustangs, 24 to 6, at Wheeler last Friday night. The weather was the worst experienced this season, with a cold mist and fog handicapping players. The field was uneven, seemingly having been planted to wheat, and the sand drifted in hummocks that made running plays difficult.
The Wheeler score came as a result of a power drive coupled with offside penalties assessed against the Tigers.
Other teams kept their conference standing over the week end. The husky Shamrock Irishmen won over Wellington 18 to 0; the Clarendon Bronchos downed the Memphis Cyclones 6 to 0, and the Lefors Pirates defeated the Lakeview Eagles 6 to 0.
The Tigers go to Clarendon Friday night of this week. Clarendon has thus far been defeated only by Shamrock.

PENTECOSTAL YOUTH RALLY HERE SATURDAY

Colorful Parade Armistice Day Highlight Here

McLean celebrated Armistice Day Monday morning with a colorful parade, with a pause for a short band concert downtown, the parade then leading to the high school, where a patriotic program was given.
The parade was headed by color bearers and armed guard from the local American Legion Post, and included the high school band in full uniform, the high school drum and bugle corps in flashing gold uniforms, representatives of the boy scouts, pupils and teachers from both the schools.
Despite the cold weather, Main Street was lined with spectators during the parade, which made an impressive sight as the marchers passed by.

EASTSIDE CLUB HOSTESS HEALD-BACK CLUBS

Last Thursday evening members of the Eastside Home Demonstration Club were hostesses to visitors from the Heald and Back communities.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Greeks Stall Italian War Machine As British Occupy Island of Crete; Nazi Air Raids on England Slacken; U. S. Calls First Draftees This Month

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

In National Limelight . . .

Lindsay C. Warren, former Representative from North Carolina, is pictured as he was sworn in as Comptroller General of the U. S. He replaces Fred Bronen, former New Hampshire Senator, who retired due to illness. Warren was sworn in by Judge Vinson, U. S. Court of Appeals.

Senator Hattie Caraway (above), of Arkansas, acted as Senate Majority Leader in the absence of Senator Alben W. Barkley, regular Senate Majority Leader, thereby becoming the first woman to assume those duties in Capitol history.

GREECE:

A 'Dark Horse'

The stand that the Greeks were making against the Italian modern and mechanized army supported by considerable air strength was distinctly a surprise in the war news of the week.

Ioannina (Janina), far from falling a quick victim to the invaders, proved no easy nut to crack and instead of the Fascist troops falling over themselves on the road to Salonika, there were reports that Greeks had bayonet-charged their way into Albanian territory, capturing Biglista.

Whether or not the Italian invasion was bogging down, Count Galeazzo Ciano was rushed from Italy into Albania with instructions to speed up the Italian advance.

At last reports the Turks were sharpening their tools of warfare, all army leaves were cancelled, and it looked very much as though Ankara was getting ready for immediate action in case any of the other Axis specters "piled on."

British aid was of a concrete nature, as forecast at the outset of the Rome-Athens difficulty. Islands of strategic import have been occupied by land forces, rushed from Egyptian bases.

R. A. F. planes are aiding the Greeks in force, and the battle seems joined on a more equal footing. Where the Albanians stand is still a mystery. Rome has asserted that Albanian units are fighting with the Fascist legions. Greece simply refers to these troops as "irregulars."

British occupation of Crete is variously interpreted. Some observers saw in this move the bottling up by the British Mediterranean fleet not only the Adriatic, but also the approach to the Dardanelles.

ORDERS:

Moving Manpower

The big lottery party in Washington put some 17,000,000 young men where the breeze of conscription could blow about 10 per cent of them into Uncle Sam's uniform for a year of military training.

Those who were carrying serial and order numbers around in their pocketbooks on little white cards were putting red rings around four dates on their calendars.

Late this month the first 30,000 will move toward "21 a month and room and board for a year."

Another group will have a date with their local boards early in December, and the third and fourth allotments will start for camp, according to present schedules, in January and February.

It is taking higher mathematics to determine the ratio on which the various local boards will select their quotas. But the effort is to make it "even Stephen" according to number of registrants, each board permitted to subtract the numbers of volunteers, also those now serving in the army, navy, marine corps and the National Guard.

Of the 890,000 to be taken, 117,000-odd will come from New York state, but even the most sparsely populated sections of the nation will do their share.

How many will come back to civil life—how many will embrace the army as a permanent career—that is a big question. But the regular officers will do their best, when they find lads with a flair for the military life, to do a job of salesmanship.

The officers' training schools will do their part. When a $20-a-week clerk finds he can bark commands, and gets a yellow bar on his shoulder and a company to order around, what kind of a bet is it that he will want to go back to his desk?

FIFTY-FIFTY:

U. S. Aids British

Reports from London indicated that the pace of German air raids over that city and most of England had shown a decrease in numbers and intensity. Whether this slackening of pace was only temporary these reports could not predict. One thing was sure however: America's aid to Britain is not likely to soon slacken.

Just before the election dust settled down, President Roosevelt, in one of his final campaign addresses, brought the war right into the battle as an issue, and there it stayed for the rest of the race.

Americans were treated to the odd picture of campaign boosts for one side or the other coming, not from our own sidelines, but from across the big pond via short-wave radio.

When the Nazis issued a criticism of Roosevelt defense policies, that was translated by the candidates' supporters, from Flynn on down, as a message that the Nazis were rooting for the election of Willkie. And vice versa.

The war and peace issue, the question of taking sides with one or the other of the European combatants became a real issue.

In the closing days Roosevelt startled the nation by announcing that Britain was getting, would continue to get, one of every two planes coming off American assembly lines.

The U. S. bomb-sight turned out to be two bomb-sights, both better than any now in Europe, one belonging to the navy, one to the army. The latter, not quite so good as the former, was to be released to England, our nation hanging onto the latter, exclusively.

The army bomb-sight was to be put on all planes delivered to Britain and the navy sight was to go on all our own army and navy ships.

AVIATION:

Mishap

Ten persons were killed as an east-bound airliner crashed in a blinding snowstorm in the Wasatch mountains, ten miles north of Salt Lake City, Utah. Bound to Salt Lake from San Francisco, the huge transport was carrying seven passengers and a crew of three. Air officials stated after their first investigation that the crash probably was due to the "failure of the range or radio beam." Last word from the plane came as the pilot radioed he was approaching the Salt Lake airport following the radio beam.

Inspection

LONDON, ENGLAND.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his rarely photographed wife are shown as they watched firefighters during a tour of London docks after a German bombing raid. A special target for German raiders, the docks are important military objectives for their destruction would hamper or eliminate shipping facilities.

HISTORY:

Still Repetitious

During the World war, the nation's fledgling airplane industry was unable to cope with the need for Liberty motors to drive American fighters and bombers.

The work was "farmed out" to auto factories, geared to mass production.

Today the airplane industry is a giant—but the orders for planes and parts for their manufacture have come on such a gigantic scale that history has repeated itself, and once more the industry has proven inadequate to meet the situation.

The industry had geared itself up to better than 1,000 planes a month, but when orders began coming in for 20,000 bombers of one type alone, it bogged down again.

Now Washington is giving orders for plane parts to auto makers, and they are hard at work, tooling up for this process. Even as in 1918.

TRAVELER:

With Umbrella

Sir Neville Chamberlain, umbrella man of appeasement, who saw the Nazi dogs of war howl him out of his post of power in Britain and send him down into the limbo of nonentity in his native land, may end his days in sunny California.

Traveling in utmost secrecy and unheralded, he is said to be on his way to the land of climate and peace, accompanied only by his wife.

Chamberlain's departure from his home shores had its paradoxical side. At Munich he had signed a pledge with Hitler that would mean, as he put it later, "peace in our time"—a phrase that was hurled back in his teeth later when bombs dropped on London.

TWO MEN:

Saga of the Sea

Fishermen, wandering among the dunes on Eleuthera island in the Bahamas, saw a boat with tattered sail grounded on shore, and two spectral forms crawling painfully across the sand.

They were Robert George Trapscott, 19, and Wilbert Roy Widdicombe, 24, able seamen of the late British steamer Anglo-Saxon, shelled and sunk by a Nazi raider 500 miles off the Azores August 21.

Seventy days later, the sole survivors of seven who had cut their way loose from the sinking freighter, they had landed safely on British soil.

Later, somewhat recovered, they were flown to Nassau and told their story, a tale that recalled Charles Reade's novel "Foul Play," and brought reality to the visions of the Ancient Mariner, Robinson Crusoe, Treasure Island and other yarns of sailor men.

NAMES

. . . in the news

KING CAROL, desperate of improvement in his affairs, went out and bought 1,000 sheets of white paper, started to write his memoirs.

AMBASSADOR JOSEPH KENNEDY, who returned from Britain just in time to give support to President Roosevelt by declaring the English needed his reelection.

JACK KNIGHT, airline official, who reported one of his test pilots had flown an army machine at 520 miles per hour, and had driven it straight up in the air, 6,000 feet a minute. (Ed. Note—the fastest elevators go up about 120 feet a minute; and 6,000 feet a minute is close to 120 miles an hour.)

MARY and ITALIA D'ARPE of Brooklyn, charged with throwing an onion at the President. It turned out that they were having a picnic lunch on a roof, tore up newspapers for confetti and the onion got mixed up in the mess.

Last Step in Draft Lottery

Col. C. R. Morris, left, stirs the blue lottery capsules containing the draft numbers of 16,500,000 registrants, while Capt. R. B. Davidson pours the last of the capsules into the historic bowl. Note the "second story" added to the famous goldfish bowl after it was discovered the bowl was not large enough to hold the 8,500 capsules.

American Girls in Battle of Britain

These five girls are members of the personnel of the first two units of the American hospital now operating "somewhere in southern England." The hospital is sponsored by the Allied Relief fund. There are 17 Americans on the staff, 12 of whom are doctors, surgeons and technicians. The British caption did not give the names of these girls.

Breaks Neutrality

Frank McElherron of Philadelphia, who was arrested on returning from a trip to Scotland, for breach of the neutrality law. The law forbids any American citizen, with certain exceptions, from going into war areas defined by the President. This is the first case of arrest for violation of this law.

Plowboy Champ

Fred Timbers, 33, of Stouffville, Ont., who won the first national plowing match recently held at Davenport, Iowa, a prelude to the annual corn-husking championship.

Pre-views

National 4-H Club Congress Meets

The nineteenth annual 4-H Club congress will meet in Chicago November 20 to December 7. Scenes shown above will be repeated again this year with contests in judging (upper left) and live-stock raising (lower left). The 1939 Health Kings and Queens are pictured (right) beneath their crown. The congress will be attended by about 1,400 rural boys and girls.

Conscript

This week the first group of conscripts will be mobilized. A private displays the clothing and equipment conscripts will receive. He carries all these in the field.

A. F. of L. and C. I. O. Convene Same Day

The third annual convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., on Nov. 18—This is also the opening date of the American Federation of Labor's convention at New Orleans. Above, (left) William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and (right) John L. Half-Way Mark

The Philippine Islands, under the guidance of President Manuel Quezon, pass the half-way mark to independence on Nov. 15. In 5 years they will be free in accordance with the Tydings-McDuffie bill passed five years ago.

NIBLETS . . . of the week's news

☛ Vichy, France, reports the birth of quintuplets to a French mother, four boys and a girl. The girl died, but the boys are said to be healthy, well-formed and likely to survive. ☛ A rare book sale was held in New York. An early Robert Burns edition brought $15,000, and a presentation copy of "Alice in Wonderland" by Lewis Carroll went for $18,300.

☛ In fall and winter storks migrate from Holland to South Africa. Johannesburg reports finding one that had eluded Nazi censorship. Attached to a leg was the message from a Dutch citizen: "We, inhabitants of Bergen-Op-Zoom tell you that life under Nazi occupation is hell." Another message said, "The Dutch people are dying under injustice."

AN EDITORIAL

By Raymond Bonner

Democracy as I See It. Democracy is a form of government of the people, by the people, for the people. This government gives equal rights to each individual, both political and social. I believe democracy as the only true form of government, and I sincerely believe that the American people would be satisfied with any other form of government.

Democracy means the freedom of the press. It means life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Democracy means to me the peace, not only among our people, but with foreign countries. We have fought several wars, but we have only to preserve our democracy.

The people have the right to elect their own leader, the President, for four years. We also elect other government officials. These officials are impeached, if they are not true to the United States in every way. A democratic form of government, such as ours, would allow this to men and women, called the "Columnists" and "Reds," to circulate their slander, in newspapers and in speech, and to want the Americans to believe in their sort of government.

Democracy in a country such as ours, as a system under which we worry about how the next game will come out, whether we have the car tonight, or whether I will pass English, rather than worrying about when the air raid will be, where my car is, when I will eat a meal again, or whether I will ever be able to live in peace.

NEVER KNEW TILL NOW

Olan Back is fascinated by organ football—B's—cornets—chillies and bugle corps—and chewing gum.

He was born in McLean, May 8. He has attended school only in McLean.

He admits he has had a few embarrassing moments but they were embarrassing he refuses to tell to anyone.

He plans to spend the first few years of his college life at A. C. C.

SCHOOL BOY DIRECTS BAND

Thursday morning when three bells for chapel and the student body assembled, Mr. Cryer said we have a pep rally if the band members would get their instruments. The band members assembled in the auditorium with their instruments, they found they didn't have a director. Eugene Smart took over and conducted in a very personal manner.

The band received some new folders and their concert music. The band has been practicing a formation which will be used Nov. 15, at Clarendon.

QUARTET AT PERRYTON

A quartet composed of Evonne Mary Evelyn Foster, Ruth and Frances Sitter, were in Perryton on Tuesday night, Nov. 12, to sing at the Lions Club banquet. Their numbers were "God Bless America," "Trade Winds," "God Bless America."

The quartet sang at the banquet given by the Lions Club Wednesday night. They sang "We Three," "Trade Winds," and "Ferryboat Sere."

TIGERS UPHOLD CONFERENCE TITLE

McLean Tigers passed another milestone in their march toward championship last Friday night by defeating the Wheeler Mustangs.

Tigers dominated the whole game which was played on a wet, field in foggy weather. Tigers scored twice in the first half. Two passes, Cooke to Braxton, accounted for both scores. Braxton scored both extra points. Cooke scored twice in the last half on a 60 and a 45 yard run through the center of the line. Both tries for the extra point failed. Wheeler scored late in the fourth quarter from the one-yard line after an intercepted pass set them deep in Tiger territory.

This Friday night the Tigers will play Clarendon at Clarendon. Clarendon has been defeated only once, by undefeated Shamrock.

FASHIONS OF THE WEEK

Senior: J. M. Montgomery holds the highlights this week. He wears a green suit, black football sweater, brown socks and brown shoes.

Junior: J. D. Roth is king of the juniors. He wears blue trousers, blue pin striped shirt, brown leather jacket, blue socks and tan shoes.

Sophomore: Gayle Montgomery stars for the sophomore class, wearing black trousers, light tan shirt, a brown and green jacket and tan shoes.

Freshman: Johnnie Chilton wears a blue shirt, khaki trousers, blue socks and black shoes.

This morning (Nov. 11) as I write, most of the student body seems to be wearing either band suits or drum and bugle corps uniforms.

ON THE SHELF

Two books which have been added to the library are "Sylvia, Inc." by Margaret Thomeen Raymond; and "Wuthering Heights" by Emily Bronte. "Wuthering Heights" is a story of unbridled passions and aversions over which broods a horror of great darkness. Of the characters, Heathcliff, with his mysterious origin, his vengefulness and the terrible quality of his cruelty; and Catherine, the girl he loved, whose strange beauty dominated him, are the most fascinating. "Sylvia, Inc." is the modern story of two girls who grew up in the same town, went to school together and finally joined forces in an unusual business venture. Sylvia, gay, impetuous, clever, was the daughter of the owner of Linton Pottery, the source of livelihood for practically everyone in Clayton. Julianna was earnest, sweet, quiet. The dim world in which she walked, with a threat of blindness, added to her sensitiveness. Julie's people were laboring people. The grandfather had turned level farms on his potter's wheel until machinery and mass production took the place of his fine hand work. The book is known for a special added quality in its blending of the admirable spirit of the old craftsmanship with the efficient new.

F. H. T. CHAPTER

The F. H. T. members held their regular meeting Tuesday, Nov. 12, in the home ec room. The meeting was called to order and the minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll was called. Discussion was made about the party planned for Monday night, Nov. 18, at the grade school gym. The rest of the period was spent practicing the club song.

BOOK WEEK

To celebrate National Book Week, which is from Nov. 10 to 16, the freshmen made posters. The best of these were placed in the two libraries and in the business houses. To create more interest, a prize was given from the McLean public library for the first and second place posters. First place was given to the poster made by Frances Hardin, and second place to a poster made by Verena Sargent, Edward Henley and Frank Simpson.

SCHOOL OBSERVES ARMISTICE

Tuesday, Nov. 11, was observed by the faculty and student body of both of the McLean schools. The school's part in the day's activities was a parade in which the whole student body of the high school marched behind the high school band. They were followed by the drum and bugle corps, with the students and teachers of the grade school behind them.

After the parade, both student bodies, the band, the drum and bugle corps, and many visitors, some of whom were members of the American Legion, marched back to high school where a program was given in memory of those men left in France and in honor of the boys now being called to the colors.

Taking part in the program were the following: Dr. Batsch, speaker of the morning; the band under the direction of M. J. Newman; girls' quartet, which is composed of Evonne Floyd, Ruth Bond, Frances Sitter and Mary Evelyn Foster, and directed by Miss Dale Smith; Miss Virgie Hall's speech class gave "America" as a choral reading; Otto Riemer and Ida Mae Stockton made speeches on democracy; the grade school's part on the program was a reading by Bobby Black; and Orville Cunningham, high school principal, spoke on the Unknown Soldier.

SNOOPER

We wonder why Joyce D. has become so interested in football. Could it be because Kenneth D. plays? We heard Ruth talking about Junior Windom's Willys; now we wonder if she likes Junior or his Willys.

Every time anyone starts to ask Marian a question, we find her deep within a letter—sometimes reading one; sometimes writing one. Where do they come from?

We wonder where Madge and Benjie Mae were after church Sunday night? Wayne, why were you standing in front of the theatre Monday night.

SMITHS ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Smith entertained members of the board of education and their wives, members of the school faculties and their wives, at a venison dinner Wednesday evening, Nov. 6, at the high school. After the invocation offered by Rev. Troy A. Sumrall, Supt. Cryer introduced everyone present. Orville Cunningham, high school principal, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced students of the McLean schools who furnished the entertainment. The program was as follows:

Accordion duet—Glenda Joyce Smith and Mary Beth Steph. Piano solo—Bonita Chilton. Violin solo—Robert Gibson, accompanied at the piano by Evonne Floyd. Numbers by the girls' quartet—Mary Evelyn Foster, Ruth Bond, Frances Sitter and Evonne Floyd.

Those attending were: Messrs. and Mrs. James Ruel Smith, E. L. Sitter, H. W. Brooks, Chas. E. Cooke, S. L. Humphreys, Geo. Colebank, C. A.

Cryer, Orville Cunningham, C. J. Magee, C. E. Christian, Dick Dunlap, F. M. Shawver, M. J. Newman, Troy A. Sumrall.

Joe Guinn; Misses Wilma Richardson, Lorene Winton, Eloise Lane, Mildred Williams, Helen Heath, Ruby Ercy, Ruth Hart, Mannie Wilson, Dale Smith, Jewell Cousins, Helen Hanshu, Lucille Beatty, Mary Lou McIlhenny, Jane Alice Cryer; and the above-mentioned students.

Miss Helen Hanshu and members of her home economics department assisted in preparing and serving the food.

Rock Island Agent E. J. Lander has our thanks for a subscription to the home paper.

Making Your Own Hook Rug Designs

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANTIQUE hooked rag rugs have a special charm because their designs show so much individuality. The women who made them, marked out their own designs on burlap, planned their own color schemes and dyed the rags. To draw a floral design, first make a circle and then a spiral line inside which becomes a rose. Two ovals with a triangle at the base become morning glories. Real leaves from plants and trees become tracing patterns for leaf designs. An oval cut from paper makes a pattern for a center medallion.

When making your own hook rug designs, always leave a hem allowance at least two inches wide to be turned under after the rug is hooked, and be sure to overcast the edge of the burlap as soon as it is cut. Center guide lines through the length and the width of the burlap will be helpful in balancing your design. The flowers and leaves may be cut out of paper pinned on the burlap, this way and that. When you get an arrangement that pleases, trace it to make your pattern.

NOTE: Mrs. SPEARS' SEWING BOOK 1 gives more rug hooking designs and further suggestions about how to draw your own flower designs. Also directions for a hook rug in the old-fashioned shell design. No. 5 contains descriptions of the other numbers in the series. To get your copy, address:

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

THANKSGIVING

(Associated Newspaper WNU Service.)

"AN OLD-FASHIONED giving dinner?" said bell doubtfully, know. Do you think Mr. Pa?"

"I ain't sure's we ha consider'ble the last few an' I guess mebbe I'd both like it. Ye see, m' now, an' there can' more times. We've been Florida twelve years a Thanksgiving dinner

"I know, pa," huskily never seemed like I co kind o' felt you would ether. We've never together—but you ren last time."

"Fifteen years ago," keep his own voice firm but turning his face aw "Sometimes I've trie mebbe I was too hara an' too hasty; but when it all over, fair as could I'd have to do jest the same way. There black sheep in the Hu from the time Great Hubbell's brother ran sailor, till—till our Enc

Ma Hubbell did not s were twinkling silent cheeks.

"I've tried to think I the old farmer rep couldn't. think will make good Thanksgiving company."

It was a full fifteen miles to the stores at Clearwater that Pa Hubbell had in mind, and though he started fairly early, and had a good truck, it was well toward noon when he slowed up and began to study the store fronts he was passing. At length he stopped before one.

"Fine big show of everything except turkeys," he thought, "an' they seem sca'se. Guess mebbe the owner will be glad to buy mine."

He swung his truck to the curb, clambered to the sidewalk and went inside. The store was well filled with customers and he went forward and began to look over some boxes of oranges and grapefruit marked "From Owner's Grove."

"Fine's I ever seen," he thought admiringly. "That owner must have grown up a farmer an' fruit-grower, sure. Must take home a dozen of these for ma."

The talk of the customers was coming to him from all sides and he listened interestedly. "Why, you seem to know all about turkeys, sir," he heard one woman say.

"I ought to," laughed a voice which made Pa Hubbell start and crane his neck. "I was brought up on a farm and learned to know turkeys from the egg to the Thanksgiving table. Why, I almost believe I could look at a turkey and tell just how long it took to grow and what it fed on. But I'm sorry I've such a poor stock to show you, madam, I wish I had one of the birds my old father used to—"

A shaggy gray head suddenly loomed up beside the customer.

"I've brought a flock of 'em, son," Pa Hubbell announced grimly. "Just tell the lady to wait till I bring 'em in."

He started toward the door, but before he reached it a hand was on his shoulder. "Father," a voice said huskily. "I didn't know—I thought—I went back to the place and—is mother—"

"We sold an' moved down here," briefly, "and your ma is alive an' well. No, you needn't say a word, son. Tomorrow's Thanksgiving an' we don't want any old sours opened. Your ma told me to bring out somebody to eat with us an' I'll take you. Now help me with the turkeys an' then ask your boss to let you off till day after tomorrow, when I'll bring you back."

The son laughed shakily, his hand slipping caressingly across the other's shoulders.

"I have no boss," he said. "You don't understand, father. I'm not dancing clogs now, nor drinking. I quit that more than ten years ago. I just couldn't keep it up, remembering all you and mother had taught me. Then I tried half a dozen other things and went broke on them all. At last I settled down to something I knew—something you had taught me—eggs, poultry, beef, mutton, farm produce, fruits and the like, and I've made good."

Pa Hubbell's mouth opened and shut and a great light came into his eyes. But all he said was, "Ma'll be glad. Of course you'll go right off!"

"Of course. I'll speak to the chief clerk about a few matters, and then—But I'm glad you have a truck, father, large enough to hold the whole bunch."

"The what?" looking bewildered. "All of us. But I forgot. I suppose you don't know there are seven of us, wife, children and myself. The oldest boy is twelve, and named after you. Then there are girls of eleven and ten, and the youngest boys. We live in rooms over the store."

Pa Hubbell lost command of himself. "Five children—for Thanksgiving!" he shouted. "An' one of 'em a boy twelve years old!"

Then he whirled to the wagon. "Come, help me out with these, quick!" he cried. "Then take me right upstairs to see 'em. Five! What will ma say?"

Imitation of Weathered Pine Produced by Stain.

A country house of the English type near Philadelphia holds new pine woodwork finished in exact imitation of weathered pine. The stain used to produce the effect was made by mixing one pound of raw sienna with one pound of burnt umber and an even teaspoonful of burnt sienna. All of these were oil colors. A half gallon each of turpentine and boiled linseed oil was added very gradually to thin the mixture thoroughly. The stain was then applied and immediately wiped away again with rags or waste. Each door or window was completely finished before leaving it. The following day, when the stain had dried, a small dab of quick drying black, ground in coach japan, was applied with the thumb for irregularity in each panel and blended with a dry rag or blender. When the entire finish became hard, another coating was added—this time of white lead barely tinted gray and thinned with turpentine and a small quantity of drier. Again each unit of door or window was entirely completed and rubbed before leaving it. The next day three coats of wax were applied, with polishing between coats. The floor was finished with the ground stain, applied evenly without lapping, and waxed. No wipe-off coats or daubs of black were used on the floor. It is possible to create the same effect by applying crude bichromate of potassium dissolved in water for a ground stain instead of the sienna-umber mixture.

New Flair for Satin Increases As Women 'Rediscover' Fabric

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A FLAIR for satin has developed that extends throughout the entire program of fall and winter fashions. Not only is its smartness recognized but women are rediscovering how marvelous satin of pure silk dye feels in the wearing. It has even come to be regarded as an enthusiastically accredited year-round fabric.

Satin is being importantly used in the realm of costume design in combination with other materials as in the styling of fashionable bolero and long-coat ensembles. The vogue for satin also reflects in everything from hats to shoes, bags, gloves and countless other accessory items. Ever so chic are long satin evening wraps in black or colors.

Designers who know, declare that the satins they handle must necessarily be of the pure-silk type in order to arrive at the lovely effects in shirring, draping and general manipulation achieved in the stunning modes illustrated. Then too, they point out the economy and practicality of all-silk satin in that it wears so satisfactorily, cleans so beautifully and proves up to the mark from every test angle.

Jerkins Transform Costume Magically

Jerkins are becoming increasingly popular. You can have anything from a sports jerkin of colorful suede, velveteen or corduroy to an esthetic evening type that can be slipped over any simple frock. Jerkins, with their long torso lines, look stunning slipped over frocks with all-round pleated skirts and are dramatic when worn over slinky long pencil-slim evening gowns trailing long skirts or the new harem skirts that slit up the side.

Fasten Dress, Blouse With Jeweled Buttons

The smartest way to fasten your dress or blouse in the new to-one-side way is with a single large fur covered button. These fur buttons play into the scheme of furred ensembles cleverly, the button matching the hat of fur or the fur buckles that are so new for pumps. Jeweled buttons are important this season, especially on blouses of rich fabric. Many black velvet dresses are enhanced by the sparkle of rhinestone or jewel set buttons.

Match Sweater, Crepe Skirt for Evening Wear

Colorful crepe evening dresses are selling with matching sweaters to serve as formal jackets. Embroidered sweaters that sparkle or that are gorgeous with metal thread and beadwork take on the new long-torso lines. Smart afternoon dresses have pleated skirts with form-fitting hip-length slipover sweaters that are all-over sequin embroidered.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

NEW YORK—This reporter was in Washington in June, 1931, when Pierre Laval made his visit to President Hoover in the interest of a debt adjustment. M. Laval quite innocently handed us a nice little nosegay of a story. The story withered and died because its publication might have been tactless at the time, when with psalter and harp we hymned a new international brotherhood. Today, however, the story seems pertinent to M. Laval's accurate appraisal in the Europe which we "see through a glass darkly."

The newspapers were making quite a fuss over M. Laval and his pretty daughter, Josette. When a grand limousine called to take him to the White House, he was done up in a morning suit and an ascot tie.

There had been a mix-up in the chauffeur's orders and he had arrived far ahead of schedule. "How much time have we before we are due at the White House?" asked M. Laval.

"A little over two hours," replied the chauffeur. That is time enough for a drive. Is there anything that you would particularly like to see?"

M. Laval pondered this a moment and then said: "Well, if we have all that time, I certainly would like to see Hollywood."

M. Laval's ideas of geography may be more important now than they were then. As vice premier of France, he throws his weight with the Axis powers, which he frequently has done, in a general European hegemony under Germany.

M. Laval's ideas of geography may have remotely influenced his decision. It's a small world—only a short drive to Hollywood. And, by the grace of Chancellor Hitler, he may be France's next strong man.

It will be noted that M. Laval's name is reversible in spelling. So is his career. His translations from left to right and back again have been easy and frequent, but mainly from left to right. The swarthy, thick-set, one-time butcher's boy and hack driver of the hill country of Auvergne, always shrewd and diligent, squirreled enough odds and ends of learning, without formal schooling, to send him in his early twenties as a beligerent Left-Wing union labor lawyer. He entered politics with a "Soak the rich" outcry which advanced him rapidly, planted him in Paris as a wealthy and successful lawyer and made him thrice premier and foreign minister. He did not serve in the army during the World war, then tagged as a "radical," and Malmé, minister of the interior, was accused of pro-Germanism because he failed to have Laval arrested for criminal syndicalism.

It was in the post-war years that Laval took his sharp swing to the right, moving along with Flandin, Tardieu, Francois-Poncet and others of the powerful cartelization and comite des forges groups, which sought financial accommodation with Germany, before and after the advent of Adolf Hitler.

DEMETRIOS SICILIANOS, the Greek minister at Washington, takes calmly the news of Italy's assault on Greece. This is perhaps understandable. During his 35 Washington Leans years in the diplomatic service of his country he has encountered not only wars, but periods of exile and jail, with everything coming out all right in the end, at least so far as he was concerned.

His occasional jail and exile troubles have been due to being temporarily on the wrong end of arguments involving the proper form of government for Greece. He is a staunch royalist and a firm believer in monarchial government, and is skeptical about the working of democracy in the United States, or elsewhere; But he makes it clear that he is not for dictatorship. He thinks freedom thrives best under a king.

Sicilianos is an optimist. Repeatedly in interviews he has set forth the unity and fellowship of the Balkans. Rumania, Jugoslavia, Turkey and Greece have been to him a solid front of brotherly interests "which not even Adolf Hitler will ever be able to break." He has denied allegations that Premier John Metaxas is a dictator, insisting that all of the traditional freedoms of the press, speech and assembly are still zealously guarded in Greece, with no invasion of personal liberties.

THANKSGIVING

(Associated Newspapers.) WNU Service.

AN OLD-FASHIONED Thanksgiving dinner?" said Ma Hubbell doubtfully. "I—don't know. Do you think we'd better, pa?"

"I ain't sure's we had or not," Ma Hubbell said. "It's been on my mind lately, but the last few weeks, an' I guess mebbe I'd like it; we'd both like it. Ye see, ma, I'm over now, an' there can't be many more times. We've been down here to Florida twelve years, an' never a Thanksgiving dinner in all the time."

"I know, pa," huskily, "but it—ever seemed like I could. An' I kind o' felt you wouldn't like it, either. We've never spoke of it together—but you remember the last time."

"Fifteen years ago," trying to keep his own voice firm and steady, but turning his face away from her, Pa Hubbell said.

"Sometimes I've tried to think mebbe I was too harsh with him, but all over, fair as could be, I've felt I'd have to do just the same thing, the same way. There never was a black sheep in the Hubbell family from the time Great-Grandfather Hubbell's brother ran off to be a sailor, till—till our Enos—"

Ma Hubbell did not speak. Tears were twinkling silently down her cheeks. "I've tried to think I was ha'sh," the old farmer repeated, "but couldn't. I tried to train Enos up to be a good farmer, to know the best way to grow things, an' the best way to sell 'em. An' Enos learned it all, too, with reminiscent gratification in his voice, 'an' we were both proud of him. He was a good boy an' a good, sensible grower an' seller. Then all at once he commenced goin' wild, an' then he learned to play tricks so he could join the circus. Said he was tired of diggin' dirt an' wanted to see the world."

Ma Hubbell nodded. It was all just as fresh in her mind as in his, though neither of them had spoken of it in the long fifteen years. "Then he came home for that Thanksgiving day," the old man went on, after a long silence, his face growing a little harder, "an' we killed the biggest turkey, an' after dinner I talked with 'im 'bout what we hoped an' the Hubbell family, an' what chances the world offered to strong young men. An'—an' he laughed in my face, an' used some pretty strong language. An' that night he went off an' got so drunk we had to bring him home. The next day I told him to go an' not come back any more. Then we sold the farm an' came down here. Seems as if neither of us could live on the old place after that."

Pa Hubbell walked heavily to a window, repeating to himself as he did so: "Mebbe I was too ha'sh with him, mebbe I was, though it never seemed so."

A slight drizzle was beginning to fall and already the ground was wet. Many turkeys and other poultry were pecking in a desultory manner about the kitchen door and between there and the barn, and out under the long shed the hired man was preparing some of the fowls for market. The farmer looked at him with unseeing eyes. At length he turned back into the room.

"I'm over seventy," he repeated, "an' you're pretty close to me, ma. We can't reasonably count for much longer. An' I've been thinkin' a lot about New England an' Thanksgiving dinners lately. I don't want to go back, but seems like I could relish a real old-timey dinner once more. Enos is likely dead long ago. Circus folks don't live long, they say. We—we can imagine him sittin' at the table with us, jest a little boy, like he used to be."

Ma Hubbell's lips quivered, but by a strong effort she stilled the quiver and turned to him what seemed a calm face.

"All right, pa," she agreed. "I'll start in at once, an' with the whole day before us I think Betsey an' me can get pretty much everything cooked up. The turkey we'll leave till mornin', for it'll taste better fresh-baked. But you'll have to buy me some cran'ries in town, an' some raisins an' other things. I'll set 'em down. We can stew cran'ries, an' mix an' bake some mince pies this evenin' after you get back. An' say, pa, if you should see anybody on the road, you'd specially like, you might ask 'em to dinner. 'Twould make it more sociable for you."

Pa Hubbell nodded and glanced through the window. He didn't see anything in particular because his thoughts were far away. "Get your list ready," he said, "an' I'll go an' be gettin' the big farm truck ready. It's goin' to be a regular rain by an' by. Up on the farm it would be snow now, an' the truck would be a sleigh. Well, I want to be gettin' back if it's goin' to be an all night's rain. I guess there's enough poultry dressed for a nice truck-load by now, for Bill an' I picked forty turkeys an' lot many hens last night. This lot I think I'd better take to the fashionable street, which has nice stores an' high-priced trade. Such turkeys as ours ought to sell well, bein' the best before Thanksgiving. An' I'll keep my eyes open for anybody I

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank hotel house, managed by officious Tim Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her son, a young man named Paget. One day, talking in the lobby, David is alarmed to find a man in the Ferriter apartment, a man who came from the Ferriter apartment, a man who came from the Ferriter apartment, a man who came from the Ferriter apartment...

"It wasn't completed," Shannon replied. "If it had been we'd have been here an hour sooner. He was talking Police Headquarters when he was killed."

He jumped up and began to walk toward the room, his jaw hard. Miss Agatha, leaning forward in her chair, watched him with the interest of a spectator at play.

"There's the fire escape," I suggested, "or the dumb-waiter."

"Stabbed him with what?" I asked and only made him angrier.

"Ever see that before?" he demanded and, scarcely waiting for my denial, plunged on. "We found this under Blackbeard's armpit—empty. Where's the knife? Gone with the murderer."

"I don't think so," Higgins said, and he growled. "Higgins goes in and messes up that damn receiver with his big paws and still there's not a clear fingerprint on it. Wait a minute."

"Where was Higgins when you saw that call?" I asked.

"I saw Miss Agatha shift a little in her chair, start to speak and check herself. I said: 'Upstairs on the elevator.' 'Doing what?'

"He was pacing the floor again and the old lady was smiling oddly at me. I felt Miss Agatha would confide in Shannon when I was gone."

"You don't think," I asked and the words sounded foolish, "that Higgins is tied up in this thing?"

"That's what made me wonder," Eddie muttered. "You know that smart little trick on the fourth floor—Mrs. Arnold's maid? Well, Mrs. Arnold's out this afternoon and Mrs. Higgins is away till tomorrow. And two and two makes four."

A half-hour went by. A couple of the homicide men went away with their black satchels. A few indignant tenants worked through the blockade beyond the front door and hurried along the foyer talking to themselves. Eddie turned the car over to Boone of the night shift and went home, and Fineman, my relief, had just come in when Higgins came downstairs again.

He looked sick till he saw me and then he looked hearty once more. "Hey," he called. "You. Come here."

I had been through a lot that afternoon and I suppose my mind had glowed up. I really thought he wanted to thank me for saying he had been on the roof, so when he spoke I stood and stared. His voice sounded as if he was afraid someone would overhear, but he could have been no angrier if he had screamed.

"You had your chance," he told me. "You didn't want it, eh? All right. I don't want you. Get your things and scram."

"Wait a minute," I stalled. "If you're canning me, what's it for?"

"After what I've been through upstairs," he wheezed and his big fists were clenched, "you've got the guts to ask that. Slandered me and a poor innocent girl, so ye did. You ought to thank me I'm just kicking you out into the gutter where you belong, instead of calling a cop."

His voice had got away from him. A blond young man—one of our tenants but I didn't know which—paused an instant and stared at us before he went into the elevator. He looked so sleek and handsome and contented and so much else I was not, that the anger Higgins had kindled blazed up in me. I didn't even try to keep my voice down.

"You two-timing tomcat," I told him. "Go ahead and kick me out and we'll see who lands in the gutter first. Now get this, I never knew where you'd been this afternoon till I came down here. Now that I'm wise that leaves just one in the house who isn't—Mrs. Higgins!"

"Will you be still!" he asked in a hushed voice, and I knew from his eyes he was going to hit me.

"Go ahead," I invited. "There's plenty of reporters outside. It'll make a good story. The tabloids will have pictures, too. One of you in Wilson's uniform, maybe."

I never found out what he was going to say for Fineman, at the switchboard, called: "Hey, Mallory. You're wanted up in Three A right away."

Without it. When you're my age, David, you'll take to the small vices remaining, as compensation for others you've missed. Have a drink?"

"Grove," she began, "tells me you've been discharged."

"I didn't know Grove but I said: 'I have. I'm supposed to have bared the amours of the basement Casanova.'"

"You quote Kenneth Grahame; you want to punch Timothy. What other recommendations have you?"

"I did not understand. She prompted. 'You've been a reporter. What else can you do?'

"I could not see where all this led, but I answered: 'I'm a fair blocking halfback and a good fencer. I also ride, swim and know a couple of card tricks.'"

"I wondered if this was her idea of amusing herself. 'B. A.' I told her. 'The diploma is in Omaha. I also had a Phi Beta key but I haven't now—there are rules against hoarding gold, you see. I can ransom my dress clothes though, if you feel you need a butler. They're in the trunk my former landlady is keeping for me. She insisted on it.'"

I had begun to feel like a laboratory specimen under her regard. It bothered me. When Miss Paget asked: "Would you care to work for me?" I shook my head.

"Kind of you," I told her, "but I think not. I've got relatives in Nebraska if I want charity."

"My boy," she said through a smoke cloud, "I'm beginning to understand why Higgins doesn't like you. It isn't charity. People I help have to work for what they get. Is that clear?"

"I'm working, with Mr. Ferriter, on a genealogy of the Paget family. You've heard of the Pagets."

"Sorry," I said and hoped my denial would irk her. Instead she grinned and for an instant it seemed time had worn her old face so thin that a valiant spirit shone through the mask.

JESUS' CONCERN FOR LIFE AND HEALTH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 7:2-15. GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.—John 10:10.

Physical life and bodily vigor are secondary in importance to spiritual life and health. Most people do not believe that, but it is true. Nevertheless our physical well-being is of great importance, for it is evident that the spiritual and mental side of man can function in a physical world only through a physical body. That makes it a primary concern of man to keep his body alive and, what is more, keep it as well and strong as possible, an effective instrument for the service of God and man.

With his emphasis on the physical, man tends, when sickness comes, to seek the help of man in overcoming the difficulty. Soon they find that only God is sufficient for their need, and He whom they have hitherto ignored is appealed to in prayer. Men and organizations quick to grasp an opportunity to set themselves forward appear as so-called faith healers. We need to stress the fact that men may come direct to Christ who is concerned about their bodies and their health and that they may come without intermediary, simply by faith in Him.

I. The Outreach of Faith (vv. 2-8). Three things appear here and they each have value and importance.

1. Action (vv. 2-5). The centurion was a good man and so kind toward the Jews that he had built them a synagogue. (One wonders whether a Roman soldier of today would show such a spirit.) He was compassionate, stirred by the illness of a slave. He had a need which no man could meet. Where should he turn? Someone told him about Jesus. Blessed and fruitful testimony! He acted in faith and sent word to the Master. He acted on his knowledge. Let your faith also become active.

2. Humility (vv. 6, 7). Socially and officially the centurion was far above Jesus, but he recognized His Lordship and knew himself to be unworthy that Christ should enter his house. True faith is humble. It has nothing to do with the brazen commanding of God which some seem to regard as such a magnificent evidence of faith. Watch for the mark of genuine and courteous humility if you would find men and women of faith.

3. Confidence (vv. 7, 8). There is nothing like this assurance of faith anywhere; in fact, Jesus said He had not seen it in all Israel. Knowing the manner in which his commands were carried out within the realm of his authority and recognizing Jesus as the Son of God, the centurion without hesitation accepted His absolute power over sickness. "Thank God! the centurion was right about that. Sickness is absolutely subject to the word of Jesus and so also are demons, sea and wind, and death itself (Luke 4:35, 36, 39; Mark 4:39; John 11:43, 44) (Bradbury).

II. The Reward of Faith (vv. 9-15). First of all we note that faith in God brings not only the individual but those round about him a real

1. Blessing (v. 9). The faith of this man delighted the heart of Jesus with a great joy. He commented on it and commended it to those round about. The story of it has come down through the centuries to stir us and stimulate us to belief in Christ. Faith in Him brings blessing, not only to the immediate beneficiary and at the moment, but lives on in blessing to others. Do we have that kind of faith? We also note that it resulted in

2. Healing (v. 10). Faith gets results because it releases the omnipotence of God. The young man was healed at the word of Jesus, in response to the centurion's faith. In the closing verses of our lesson we see also the

3. Raising of the Dead (vv. 11-15). The mighty and compassionate Son of man met a poor widow from whom death had taken her only stay and comfort—a young man. She was apparently too deeply stricken to even call on Jesus for help, but one can almost feel her faith leap to His words, "Weep not." His divine voice then reached into the next world and called the young man back to life. The day that had started as the saddest and darkest in her life closed as the most blessed and joyful in her experience, because she had met Jesus.

Reader, have you met the tender, loving, omnipotent Jesus? He wants to be your Saviour, Lord, and ever-present friend. Will you let Him into your heart? Now?

A Wise Evaluation What things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ. Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ.—Phil. 3:7, 8.

Dee-vine Jumper In Pinafore Style

JUNIORS are simply mad about jumpers this season, and their great favorite is the pinafore jumper! If your clothes budget is just about used up and you're still pinning for a pinafore jumper or two, send for design No. 8797, and make yourself this perfectly charming style at practically no expense. It's dee-vinely flattering to your figure, with soft front fullness in a skirt that sways and ripples gracefully with your every step, and a corselet waistline, topped by gathers.

The wide straps button across in the back, you see, making it stay put securely on the shoulders. Make the jumper of plaid wool, corduroy, jersey or velveteen; the blouse of flat crepe, challis or jersey. Detailed sew chart included.

Pattern No. 8797 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material for jumper; 1 1/2 yards 38-inch material for short-sleeved blouse; 2 yards for long-sleeved. Send order to:

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT. Room 1324 Chicago 211 W. Wacker Dr. Enclose 15 cents in coins for Pattern No. Size Name Address

AROUND THE HOUSE

To cook dried prunes, wash them well, cover with four inches of cold water and let soak overnight. Simmer very slowly for one hour.

While boiling milk, if a small pinch of baking soda is added it will keep the milk from curdling.

To shorten the baking time for apple pie 20 minutes, first cook the apples five minutes in a small quantity of water, then cool them and proceed as usual.

Powdered borax added to the water when washing fine white flannels helps to keep them soft.

Cream a little butter and prepared mustard together brush onto slice of cold cooked ham and let heat quickly in oven. Serve with creamed potatoes and green peas.

Hang small household articles, used frequently, on screw-eyes placed on inside of hall or bathroom cabinet or closet. They are then out of sight but within easy reach.

HIGH PRICES Do Not Go WITH ADVERTISING

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what you are getting more for your money—more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

with herb laxative, combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

HE REALLY SAW SNAKES

A Newton resident recently struck at a snake on a log and before he left the spot had killed fifteen rattlers, some of them with as many as 23 rattles. When he struck at the snake on the log a larger one emerged. He got his gun and cleaned out fifteen rattlers. While he was concentrating on the rattlers, a wildcat ran out of the other end of the log, believe it or not!

A GLARING INCONSISTENCY

One of the most glaring inconsistencies of our modern American civilization is the promotion of extensive and intensive safety campaigns while the attitude of government is favorable toward the greatest single cause of accidents that cripple and kill. Newspapers and magazines often publish liquor advertisements in the same issue with safety appeals. In one breath radio announcers often urge care in driving, and in the next urge the use of something that makes care unlikely, if not impossible.—Senator Morris Sheppard.

"To what do you attribute your start on the road to success?"

A minister tells of a strapping fellow who brought his demure young bride to the church for matrimonial purposes.

"According to my usual custom," said the minister, "I turned to the bridegroom at a certain part of the ceremony and said: 'John, this is your lawfully wedded wife.' In the excitement of the occasion, John turned in the direction of his newly-acquired life-mate and stammered: 'Pleased to meet you.'"

With the exception of the artist, poet, patriot or scientist, who labors for the joy of satisfying an inner hunger, there are, and always have been just two incentives for the creation of wealth, the hope of reward or the lash of the slave.—Samuel B. Pettengill.

Deliver the Goods

If a member of your family died, would you print the resolution on a billboard?

If your wife entertained, would you send a notice of it to the theatre program man?

If you were going to enlarge your business, would you advertise it in a hotel register?

If you were going to have a wedding in your family, would you get out a handbill?

Then why don't you put your advertisements in a newspaper?

The newspaper builds your town. Why not help the newspaper? There is no better advertisement in the world for a town than a good newspaper. Show us a good newspaper full of advertising, and we will show you a good town, full of live merchants.

Newspapers are town builders, town advertisers, fortune makers, news disseminators, sermon deliverers, prosperity forecasters. They are a necessity, not a luxury. They must be maintained. Without them we would retrograde to the medieval days.

Don't patronize them from a charitable standpoint. Patronize them because they deliver the goods—that is, if they are the right kind.

Cut out the foolishness and work for the upbuilding of your town, and start by upbuilding your newspaper.—Augusta (Kansas) Gazette.
