STORM SWEEPS INLAND WITH WINDS RAPIDLY DROPPING

Celia Clobbers Corpus Christi

Few Bayside Towns Virtually Wiped Out

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Celia, smashed this city and nearby towns with a devastation a senator said hasn't been equalled in an urban area since World War II, battered its way into Mexico today, still virile and destructive.

Celia's winds were clocked at 89 miles an hour at Del Rio today—well over hurricane velocity of 75 m.p.h. But the Weather Bureau refused to maintain the label of hurricane because the wind was not sustained.

Damage at Del Rio and Eagle Pass was extensive with severe winds continuing into the morning.

Some towns were virtually wiped out in the 145-m.p.h. winds here, buildings were destroyed, and show windows popped slivers of glass into the streets like shrapnel.

Four were known dead and a fifth presumed drowned here. Ceclia caused one death in Cuba while she still was only a storm. On Florida's coasts, 12 persons drowned because of undertows and rough waters spawned by the hurricane.

About 250 miles northwest of Corpus Christi on the Mexican border, Celia set off a tornado in the Del Rio-Eagle Pass section that destroyed a barn and trees. Rains of 4.25 inches fell in the area. Streets and bridges were awash in Eagle Pass.

RELATIVES BARRED

With weapons, briefcases and tools, rescue, repair and relief experts headed for the city and its environs—whenever they could get in.

State patrolmen blocked all roads and even relatives of residents were barred. Another 200 National Guardsmen poured into the region at dawn.

There was an almost complete blackout of communications and power in Corpus Christi and surrounding areas. There were unconfirmed reports of up to 200 persons injured in Aransas Pass and another 200 hurt in Corpus Christi.

The city and its environs were cut off from almost all communications. The Texas Safety Department said at midmorning that it was unable to get through to its force in Corpus Christi. The Texas Highway Department and the Agriculture Department could not reach its own sources of information.

90 PER CENT

Newsmen touring the city by daylight estimated that fully 90 per cent of the downtown buildings were destroyed or suffered major damage.

Residential areas showed at least 70 per cent of the homes were destroyed or suffering major damage.

An oil tank fire continued to rage in the industrial section of this city with a metropolitan population of 335,000.

Floodwater stood three feet deep in homes after rains of 8.45 inches.

The city was without power, water pressure, natural gas and gasoline.

The four hospitals were damaged but still were operating.

Pieces of aluminum from the Reynolds Aluminum Plant across Corpus Christi Bay were scattered over the city.

The Small Business Administration declared the hurricane area a disaster area, permitting low-interest loans.

About 250 miles to the northwest in the Del Rio-Eagle Pass area where the wind gusts reached 89 miles an hour, electricity was knocked out at several places.

DEL RIO DAMAGE

Countless huge trees were blown down at Del Rio and there were isolated instances of houses being unroofed. Water was blown under doors into some business houses and mobile homes were blown over.

The Red Cross said 30,000 persons in the Corpus Christi area sought safety in 30 shelters Monday night.

Thousands more fled inland to San Antonio, Victoria, Wharton and other cities and towns.

The Red Cross, Salvation Army and the federal government sent mobile relief and food vans.

The storm struck Corpus Christi at the height of the vacation season. Thousands of building and car windows were blown out, and shattered glass littered the street. Palm trees were smashed, light standards toppled, power lines felled, and autos overturned. Boats were blown out of the marina.

'IT'S A SHAMBLES'

"It's a shambles," said Mayor Jack Blackmon.

The communities across the bay were hurt even worse.

"Ninety per cent of the buildings are gone," said City Manager Gay Walker at Aransas Pass, a town of 7,000. His report was echoed from Ingleside by a municipal judge, Troy Kizer.

"This place is practically wiped out," said Kizer.

Celia straddled Corpus Christi Bay as she roared into the coastline in mid-afternoon, making first landfall at Aransas Pass. The brunt of the storm's fury was felt on both sides of the bay. Boiling tides broke over Padre Island.

LOOTING STARTS

Looting started in shattered Corpus Christi before the winds had died down. A slender complement of National Guardsmen sent into the rain-drenched city was hurriedly enlarged to a total of 200 men.

The Texas Department of Public Safety rushed 50 units from Waco and Houston, and Mayor Blackmon declared a 24-hour curfew. As darkness fell and the rain subsided, the city that proudly described itself as The Sparkling City by the Sea was without electricity, telephones and water.

Hundreds of business buildings, including banks, stood windowless and vulnerable.

Wayland Pilcher, the city's public safety director, announced the deaths and said he expected more. He said 3,000 persons were staying in 14 shelters established in various parts of the city.

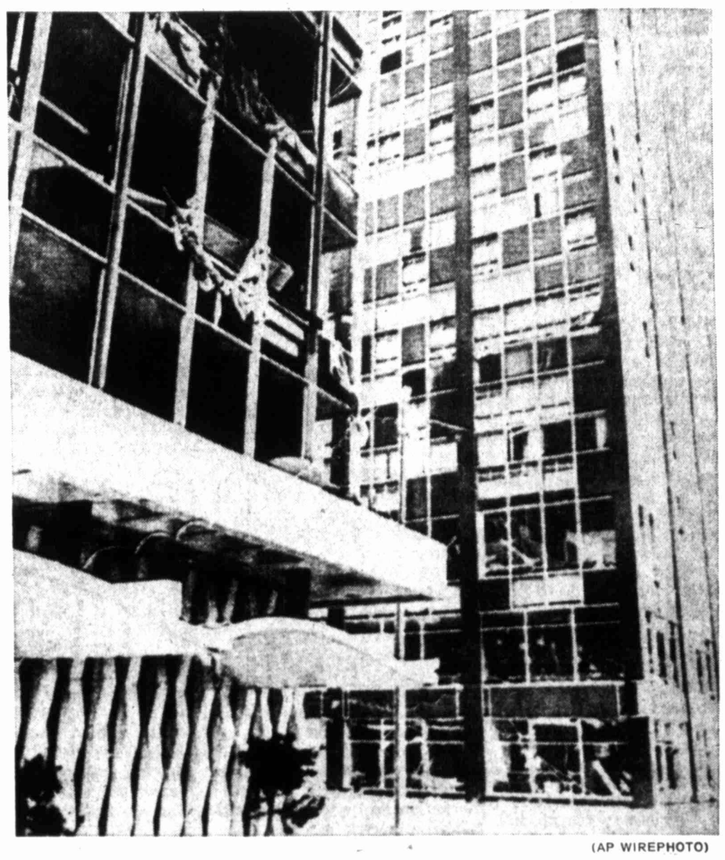

'CLOSED TOWN'

"The police just can't handle it," Sam Susser, a wholesale gasoline dealer in Corpus Christi, said of looting in the city.

The city's police force was crippled when many of its cruisers were smashed by the winds and flying debris, and its communications were knocked out.

"I think the city has had the worst hurricane in modern history," said Mayor Blackmon. "We still have no idea of the casualties. . .We have a closed town. We have enacted total curfew. . . ."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., arrived just before the hurricane struck and later requested President Nixon to declare the Coastal Bend section of the Texas coast a disaster area.

DOWNTOWN DAMAGE — Broken windows and tattered drapes attest to the strength of hurricane Celia in downtown Corpus Christi. Practically every building in the downtown area suffered some damage, as the storm lashed the Texas coast.

Plan Designed To Hike Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a crucial appeal for President Nixon's welfare reform plan, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson vowed to the Senate Finance Committee today that the measure would "motivate people to work."

The panel poses a serious stumbling block to the House-passed legislation, with chances for approval thought to hinge on Republican members who have, so far, split with the White House.

Some GOP critics view the plan, such as one feature which would provide a minimum income of $1,600 plus $860 worth of food stamps to a family of four, as a massive giveaway encouraging persons to join the welfare rolls.

But Hodgson time and again stressed that the goal was to "help make people financially independent."

"The Family Assistance Plan," he insisted, "is not . . . a guaranteed income plan or a negative income tax.

"It is, instead, a complementary array of work incentives, work requirements, training and employment opportunities, child care to enable mothers to work," as well as income allowances.

He said the administration backed several changes in the plan designed to bolster work incentives and make it more palatable to critics.

Among them is a provision for joint management of the family assistance and food stamp programs, revising the prices of stamps upward as income increases "thus removing employment disincentives."

Hodgson said that out of 7.7 million persons age 16 and over who would be covered by the plan in 1971, about 2.5 million would be required to register for job training and employment or face cutoff of their payments. Of that number, he said, about 1.2 million are already working full time.

Those exempted from having to register, he said, would include 1.7 million wives of family heads; 1 million mothers with children under six years old; 900,000 who are ill or incapacitated; 1.3 million fulltime students, and 30,000 persons needed in the home to care for someone who is ill.

Skyjacker Gigs Device

NEW YORK (AP) — A gun detection device was operating at Kennedy Airport Sunday when the armed man who later hijacked a Boeing 747 to Cuba boarded the jet.

A Pan American World Airways spokesman said Monday that crowding and confusion at the boarding gate before the San Juan flight may have contributed to the hijacker's not being detected.

However, The New York Times today quoted informed sources as saying the reason he escaped notice was that Pan Am agents said they did not have enough manpower or time to conduct the passenger screening, and that airline employes were not monitoring the metal-detector at the time.

It was the first time a jumbo jet was hijacked, and the first time the instrument developed by the Federal Aviation Administration was in operation during boarding.

Troops Guard Crash Site Of Rocket

DURANGO, Mexico (AP) — Mexican troops guarded the crash site of a U.S. research rocket containing radioactive cobalt today as U.S. and Mexican scientists awaited the arrival of equipment with which to retrieve the bits of wreckage.

The Mexican Foreign Ministry said the Athena rocket, lost July 11 on a test flight from Utah, carved a radioactive trench 50 feet long, 17 feet wide and 10 feet deep when it crashed in an isolated meadow north of Carrillo, almost 200 miles south of the U.S. border.

The ministry said peasants found the trench Sunday. It reported the rocket's head disintegrated on impact and scientists found radioactive pieces scattered about.

U.S. Defense Department officials said the rocket, which was to have landed in the White Sands, N.M., missile range, contained "minute quantities" of cobalt in sealed containers in the nose cone, but the material was harmless "unless ingested or handled for a long period of time."

Big Spring Won't Be All-American

Big Spring's entry in the All-American City contest for 1970 has been reviewed by the National Municipal League, but has been pushed aside, according to a letter from the NML review board to Paul Meek, president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

The letter indicated that entries cannot be critiqued individually. It did say, however, that Big Spring's story was outstanding, but that several factors enter into the judging for finalists.

One of the factors that may have played a large role is the criterion that one state cannot produce too many winners too often. Snyder, Borger and El Paso won All-American awards last year.

$200,000 Million Plus Damage, Mayor Estimates

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Mayor Jack Blackmon estimated today that Hurricane Celia inflicted damage in excess of $200,000 million on Corpus Christi.

"I have no early idea of the damage but it is easily in excess of $200,000 million," Blackmon told a news conference at the city hall.

"I've been through hurricanes in this city in 1942, 1945, 1961 and 1967 but never one with the force and fury of this one," he said.

Blackmon said "the city is virtually paralyzed," noting there was neither telephone nor electrical service.

"We have a bad situation everywhere," the mayor said. "The primary job at the moment is determining the danger and extent of casualties and getting water and other essential services back on."

"We posted a curfew last night and will post one each night at 7 p.m as long as necessary to protect our city," Blackmon said.

"We will have no looting. We just won't stand for it."

A mayor's aide, Bill Reed, told the news conference "not 2 per cent of the structures are not damaged to some extent."

"It's the worst hurricane damage I've seen, and I've seen them all since 1960," said George Hastings, regional director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness in Denton.

SUN REVEALS Desolation Rarely Viewed In America

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The sun shone brightly in Corpus Christi Tuesday. But all it revealed were scenes of desolation rarely viewed in America.

This was the aftermath of Hurricane Celia which struck this city late Monday afternoon with winds of 15 miles an hour and deluges of nearly nine inches.

From Corpus Christi you can see at least three large petroleum storage tanks burning on the horizon and all appear to be at Ingleside. One is an Humble plant and the other two Sunray Oil.

The fires started Monday night and firemen from Kingsville and Corpus Christi stood by, with no water pressure to put out the blazes. One official said Ingleside may have to be evacuated because of the fires.

Ingleside Badly Damaged

Officials at Ingleside said the town was badly damaged and had no emergency relief supplies. Red Cross aid had not arrived by midmorning. City Judge Troy Kizer estimated 95 per cent of the business district was destroyed and about 40 per cent of the residential section.

The hospital at Aransas Pass lost the roof of one wing and 14 patients were evacuated from the damaged section. Some were taken to Taft and Beeville and others were moved to another part of the hospital. Doctors and surgeons went from Corpus Christi to help.

Officials at Rockport, Port, Port Aransas and Ingleside said they still had to check some residences and mobile homes for possible victims.

Checking For Victims

Dr. Wendell Roberts of Aransas Pass said, "We anticipate more injured will be found. We'll be able to handle most of them."

People began returning to Port Aransas, which is on Mustang Island. Ed Nelson, the local fire chief, was one of the first to cross by boat. He said 80 per cent of the island had been evacuated.

One who stayed in Port Aransas was Police Chief D. L. Cassidy, who kept in touch by radio. Cassidy sent people over in a small boat to pick up doctors for the island. The Coast Guard also flew in a doctor by helicopter.

One Port Aransas resident who stayed said:

"You couldn't get some off that island with a log chain. They've been raised there. They've their homes there. They make a living there. And they're not about to leave."

Herman Johnson, civil defense director at Rockport, said 50 to 70 per cent of houses there were heavily damaged. There was no electricity, no telephone, no water, he said, and this situation extended as far north as Sinton and possibly further.

Several of the resort vacation spots were much damaged. Key Allegro, the millionaire playground, had about one-fifth of its houses roofless.

Trailer home parks were extensively damaged. Many mobile homes were totally wrecked. Some looked as if they had exploded. At one park, pieces of wrecked trailers which had been blown apart were festooned over the surrounding trees.

DEAR ABBY: I caught your radio program and heard you rattle off a long list of things a person stands to lose if he is arrested for possession of marijuana. I'd like to show them to a few kids I know. Thank you very much. Sign me . . .

"SIXTEEN AND NO DOPE"

DEAR SIXTEEN: He stands to lose: The right to vote. The right to own a gun. The right to run for public office. The right to become a licensed doctor, dentist, C.P.A., attorney, architect, realtor, private detective, pharmacist, school teacher, barber, or any of a number of career job opportunities.

He may be forbidden the opportunity to work for the city, state or federal government. He cannot be admitted to West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy. He would be permitted to enlist in the military service, but would not have a choice of service.

Not to mention the loss of approval of family, friends, potential friends and society at large.

This is a high price to pay for "trying grass" . . . or even agreeing to "hold it for a friend," which is often the case. Think about it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: First off, let me explain that I am no kid. I am a 23-year-old college graduate, female type.

After being engaged since last winter, my fiance and I decided to go off by ourselves and get married. (It was a religious ceremony.) My brother was best man, but that was all the "family" I had at the ceremony.

To be honest about it, the wedding plans became so complicated, nerve-racking and ridiculously expensive we decided to skip all the frills and get it over with.

My problem is my mother. She wants to send out engraved marriage announcements and "at home" cards to the 368 people we had on our wedding invitation list. I told her I didn't want to do that, but her reply was, "Your father and I have been giving wedding gifts for 30 years, and these people owe us a gift for you." Furthermore, she says the parents (she and Dad) announce the marriage, and the bride (me) has nothing to say about it. Is she right?

MARRIED IN CONN.

DEAR MARRIED: The parents do "announce" the marriage of their children, but rarely without the approval of the bride. Since you don't want announcements and "at home" cards sent, I think your mother should respect your wishes.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Booze Cruise Is Bad News

CHICAGO — Man is considered to be a very smart animal; he prides himself on his common sense and logic. Then he has a few drinks and can become an illogical and dangerous menace to himself and society.

Boating and alcohol is a topic not often discussed because statistics imply that it is a minor problem in boating safety. Current U. S. Coast statistics show that of 1,351 boating fatalities in 1969, there were 31 due to drinking. Alcohol was also the cause of 76 of the 5,239 boating accidents. However, one must realize how boating statistics are gathered.

States may vary on accident-reporting requirements. However, according to the federal government, the boat operator must report his own accident if it results in loss of life, serious personal injury, or property damage in excess of $100. Therefore, if an operator has been drinking, it's very unlikely that he'll admit it in his report.

Fatalities and other serious accidents are investigated by the proper authorities, but even then alcohol detection may be difficult. The natural safety council observes, however, that "you're bound to lost if you cruise and booze."

County Raises Would Add $3,000 To Monthly Pay

By LINDA CROSS

County Commissioners will hold a public hearing Monday to consider a 7½ per cent pay raise for all county employes, including themselves. Based on the 1970 six months report, the average total monthly salary expenditure for all employes was $42,571.68. The increase will raise this average $3,192.87 a month. Next year's average monthly salary expenditure is estimated at $45,764.55.

Based on the six months' figures, the total funds allocated for county annual salary in the 1971 budget will be $549,174.60, if the pay hike is approved.

County Commissioners presently receive $376.20 a month plus $75 a month car allowance. With the new increase, they would receive $461 plus the car allowance, a monthly salary of $536.

Elected county officials currently receive $660 a month. These officials are county judge, county sheriff, county clerk, district clerk, county auditor, county attorney, county tax-assessor collector. County treasurer, although an elected post, does not pay as much as the other offices. It currently pays $539.

If the pay raise is approved, elected officials will then receive $709.50 a month. County treasurer will receive $579.50 unless commissioners approve the request that the salary be raised to that of other elected officials.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS

District officials are not paid by the county with the exception of the district clerk and the deputy district clerks. District clerk also receives $660 a month and will receive $709.50 under the new pay schedule.

The Justices of the Peace receive $357.50 a month now. They would receive $384.25. The Coahoma Justice of the Peace receives $110; the office will pay $118.25 a month with the pay hike.

Deputy district clerks' salaries currently totals $645 per month. With the new raise, the figure would be $694.25.

The Sheriff's Department currently has a total monthly payroll of $5,753.50 for its deputies and part-time employes. The pay hike would raise that figure to $6,184.40.

Salaries for the deputy county clerks total $1,600.50. The new monthly total would be $1,729.75.

Salaries for the deputy tax assessor-collector's office would total $2,931.50. The current total is $2,728.

COUNTY JUDGE

The county judge's secretary currently receives $330. The new figure would be $354.75. The county attorney's secretary receives the same salary.

Employes in the district attorney's office, not including the district attorney who is paid by the state, currently receive $1,648.61. The new monthly total would be $1,772.

The juvenile probation officer receives $600 a month. The proposed increase would raise the salary to $645. The county welfare agent receives $341 and would receive $366.50. The secretary who works for both officials receives $275 monthly. The new salary would be $295.50.

Workers in the county agents' office receive $970.55. The new total monthly salary would be $1,004.50.

ROAD AND BRIDGE

Salaries in the roads and bridges department would be raised from $11,173 to $19,450.75. The roads and bridges department has the largest number of employes of all the county departments.

The employes' salaries of the county library totals $1,315 monthly at the present rate. With the proposed raise the total would be $1,413.

Courthouse maintenance has a current total salary of $1,309, not including employes who are paid by the hour. The new figure would be $1,406.50.

According to County Judge Lee Porter, this year's budget will be based on the same 80 million dollar revenue as the past budget. The salaries will not be hiked by a tax raise.

"We're anticipating lowering the tax rate one cent per $100 evaluation on the 1965 road bond taxes," said Judge Porter. The money allocated for the budget will be reapportioned but taxes will not be increased, said Judge Porter.

Fly Before You Buy Slap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., proposes that the Pentagon's recently-announced "fly before you buy" policy be made binding by writing it into law.

"I thought that the policy was already in effect," Proxmire said in remarks for the Senate. "About a year ago when the Defense Department was under great criticism for its vast deficiencies in procurement, it announced it was turning to the 'milestone' system of procurement."

But the problems have continued, Proxmire said.

"My best judgment is that one of the public relations officers devised a new slogan. Fly before you buy is certainly snappier than milestone."

Sweetwater Plant Will Be Closed

SWEETWATER — The Sweetwater Manufacturing Co. has announced to its 300 employes that the plant will close in six to eight weeks, according to the manager, Grover Arnold.

The company produces men and women's wearing apparel and is a branch of Spartan Industries. All of the Spartan plants across the national will be closed, Arnold said. The building is owned by the Sweetwater Industrial Foundation.

Top 10 Dirty Cities Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — The small Ohio community of Steubenville and metropolitan New York City have one thing in common: the federal government says each leads the nation in a category of air pollution.

Tentative 1970 pollution ratings show Steubenville has the dirtiest air—clogged with dust, smoke, soot and the like—while New York's air is worst in content of sulfur oxides.

However, the National Air Pollution Control Administration—NAPCA—can't say yet—as it did three years ago—which metropolitan areas are most plagued by air pollution in all its forms

'MISINFORMATION'

The reason is that 1970 statistics are not ready on the hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxide that pour from motor vehicles.

Reaction to the report came quickly from the metropolitan areas named.

Steubenville Mayor Andrew W. Miller said much of the pollution in his area comes from plants in West Virginia.

Two West Virginia metropolitan areas—Huntington and Charleston—were high on the lists and Carl G. Beard II, director of the state Air Pollution Control Commission commented, "We are trying to ascertain as quickly as possible the source of the misinformation."

'CAN'T BE TRUE'

And in Syracuse, N.Y., which tied for No. 5 on the particulate list, the county public health engineer said, "It can't be true, probably 50 others are dirtier."

The NAPCA working report says nationwide particulate levels—visibly dirty air—gradually have declined in the past decade. But the sulfur oxide load is expected to increase by three million tons this year to a total of 33 million tons.

"National average levels of ambient urban air concentrations for both particulates and sulfur oxides are close to levels that have been observed to have an adverse effect on our environment," the document says.

Particulates collect on windows and homes and coat the exterior of cars. Sulfur oxides form corrosive sulfuric acid in the air and attack clothes, corrode statues and building exteriors, and dull paint.

TEXAS READINGS

The burning of coal and fuel oil is the major source of particulates and sulfur oxides.

The industrial Northeast is hardest hit by sulfur oxide. But oil refineries and ore smelters account for pockets of high oxide readings in Texas and Arizona.

The top 10 cities in composite particulate levels are: 1. Steubenville, 2. Charleston, W.Va. 3. Scranton, Pa. 4. Niagara Frontier, N.Y (Niagara Falls—Buffalo area) 5. (tie) Bakersfield, Calif., and Syracuse, N.Y. 7. Johnstown, Pa. 8. Louisville, Ky. 9. Milwaukee 10. Pittsburgh.

The top 10 in sulfur oxides are: 1 New York City 2. Chicago 3. Huntington, W.Va. 4. Philadelphia 5. Pittsburgh 6. (tie) Cleveland and St. Louis 8. Washington, D.C. 9. Detroit 10. Providence, R I.

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Today's Oldsmobile:

The year-end buy that pays off three ways.

Cutlass S Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's—and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!

2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer . . . rustproof inner fenders . . . aluminized exhaust system . . . bias-belted tires . . . many more!

3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment—traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile ...it's time to think again.

Russian-Piloted Jets 'Killed' Over Canal?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bits and pieces of evidence have convinced some U.S. sources that Soviet fliers lost an aerial battle to Israeli airmen when four MIG21 jets were downed over the Suez Canal area last week

Neither Israel nor the United States has confirmed reports that Russians were piloting the four warplanes.

If the reports are true, it would be the first known occasion in which the Israeli air force tangled directly with Soviet pilots in combat.

BLACK HAIR

American sources said they understood the MIGs were flown more aggressively than has been the case when Egyptians were known to be in the cockpits. And they said one pilot who bailed out from his stricken MIG was shown to be a blond when his helmet fell off. Many Russians are blond. Arabs have black hair.

Other reports indicate monitored radio conversations in Russian came from MIGs fighting with Israeli warplanes over Egypt last week.

The U.S. officials did not say where they got their information. But obviously they consider it accurate.

The Israelis, it is believed, are likely to avoid any public boasts of victories over Russians for fear the Soviets would be stung into a bigger and more direct battle role.

The United States is anxious to tamp down the already explosive Mideast Crisis, especially since there is movement toward a truce along the Israeli-Egyptian front

NO SURPRISE

Prospects of the truce are pegged to a U.S. cease-fire plan which prompted Israel's right-wing Gahal party to quit Prime Minister Golda Meir's coalition government early today. The walkout effectively toppled the coalition government formed more than three years ago.

Sources said they were confident at least two of the MIGs in last week's battle were piloted by Russians, and possibly all four were Soviet-flown.

Professionals said they would not be surprised at Russian defeats in aerial combat with the Israelis because the Israelis are battle veterans while the Soviet air force has not fought since World War II.

The Russians were understood to have sent about 100 pilots to Egypt, some of them specifically for training the Egyptian air force and the others to fly combat patrols, apparently designed to protect surface-to-air missile sites and bases where Russian advisories and hardware are located.

'Influence Peddling' Showdown In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears near a showdown vote on whether to revoke a congressman's cherished prerogative to announce defense contracts awarded to firms in his district.

When a congressman makes such an announcement, argues Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., it leaves the impression of influence peddling.

Williams's amendment, attached to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill, would require all defense contract awards to be announced first by the Pentagon.

Under present practice, the Defense Department gives advance notice to the representative or senator who makes the announcement—whether or not he had anything to do with the contract.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania disagreed with Williams. He said he considers himself an ambassador to Washington and intends to continue telling his constituents what's going on.

Williams said that because it is a crime to award a contract on the basis of political pressure or influence, the practice of congressmen appearing to take credit for a contract award is doubly misleading.

With its vote on the Williams amendment taking first priority, the Senate has not yet begun serious consideration of an amendment likely to prove the first major obstacle to passage of the military bill: a move to limit expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

That amendment, sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., would cut from the bill plans to expand the ABM system to a second phase at two new sites.

It would retain $1.27 billion to continue development of the first ABM phase.

Measure Of Community Concern

The city of Dallas recently has been given a report on a special study on the "quality" of the city, as compared with other major metropolitan areas.

Studies have been made to give the cities ranking in such things as unemployment, air pollution, social disintegration, housing, public order, income, mental health, education, poverty, health, citizen participation, traffic safety, and "community concern."

Guidelines on establishing comparisons admittedly are in some areas vague, and it is not the purpose here to list the status of cities in all the areas listed above.

The item of "community concern," however, seems interesting. The per capita local contribution to the United Fund was used as the indicator of this factor. It was shown that Dallas had a per capita giving to its UF of $5.95, and this put it in the median bracket of the several major metropolitan areas studied. For example, Cleveland's per capita giving was up to $8.85.

We do not know if a town the size of Big Spring should be rated in the same system as the larger cities, but if it were, then our standard of "community concern" ranks low.

Assuming there would be, to use round figures, 30,000 individuals in Big Spring and environs. If their per capita giving to our United Fund reached $5, then the United Fund would have $150,000. That's a good $40,000 more than has been obtained in any year's campaign, or would represent an increase of more than one-third.

Think what the 15 or so welfare and youth agencies could do with a third more added to their budget requests! They could meet the pressures of inflation, could carry on and enlarge their worthwhile programs, and quite likely could eliminate those worrisome and unwelcome supplementary campaigns. In short they would be functioning with the sort of community support they deserve.

Perhaps Big Spring ought to think about its "community concern" as it thinks about its other standards as a viable city. We ought not to be satisfied with being less than average.

The Pocketbook Issue

Regardless of how different economists see it — and they can have many different versions — most of the experts in the capital are gloomy about any chances of a business upturn this fall. The Republican strategy, of course, is to try to bring about a brighter picture before the congressional elections.

The biggest cloud hanging over the business horizon is the threat of a general auto strike, which at this time cannot be ruled out.

It is true that such a strike in the biggest non-war user of steel could have far-reaching impact. The labor people take their loss, as do the manufacturers, but the wave spreads out to affect suppliers, transporters, and local dealers. A prolonged auto shutdown could only worsen the business picture.

The administration has not really gotten off the ground with any sort of stimulus for the housing industry. Plans have been proposed, but few results are being shown.

Some economists say the consumer price index will not move as low as the Nixon administration predicts by fall, and they predict more unemployment, with as many as 800,000 workers being laid off in the next few months.

All this has political impact, and more and more the "pocketbook" issue looms as the major one in the November elections.

Art Buchwald

The Busy Housewife

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Art Buchwald took off for Tahiti before anyone could catch him. He left behind what he claims are some of his more memorable columns.)

WASHINGTON — Many husbands don't realize it but their wives are suffering from "household fatigue," a state similar to the battle fatigue of World War II, only more difficult to recognize. I probably would have never realized that my wife was a victim of it if I hadn't decided to taker her with me to Cincinnati, where I had to make a speech. She seemed quite normal preparing for the trip and even appeared to be excited about getting away from the house for a few days. But then when we arrived at the airport, I noticed her behavior had started to change.

AS I PAID for our airline tickets, she said to the man behind the counter, "Just a minute. Where are our green stamps?"

"Madam, we don't give green stamps to our customers for using our airline."

"Is that so? Well, we'll just use another airline that does."

"Mother," I said, "none of the airlines gives green stamps and besides, this is the only airline that goes to Cincinnati."

I calmed her down and thought nothing more of it until we got on the plane. The first thing she did was start to dust the seats.

"Mother, you don't have to do that," I said.

"I'M NOT GOING to have the neighbors think I keep a dirty plane."

"But they have people to do this sort of thing. Now sit by the window and fasten your safety belt."

I got her to sit down quietly and gave her a magazine to read. Soon as the plane was in the air she was up. "I've got to prepare lunch," she said.

"They have stewardesses to prepare lunch. You don't have to do anything."

SHE SAT BACK for a few moments, but then one of the stewardesses spilled a cup of coffee in the aisle. My wife jumped up and said, "Don't worry about a thing." She took a container of Mr. Clean from her make-up kit and on her hands and knees, worked on getting out the spot.

"There," she said after 15 minutes, "Mr. Clean does everything."

Everybody looked away in embarrassment.

An hour later, luncheon was served. There were two children sitting across the aisle from us, but they didn't seem to be eating their vegetables.

MY WIFE LOOKED over and shouted at them, "If I've told you kids once, I've told you a hundred times. You don't eat your vegetables, you don't get dessert."

"Mother, mother," I said gently, "those are not our children."

"I don't care," she said, "I'm sick and tired of preparing meals on this plane that nobody wants to eat."

Fortunately the parents of the children were preoccupied, and my wife decided to go back and help the stewardesses wash the dishes. By the time we reached Cincinnati, she had cleaned all the windows, washed the ash trays, laundered the napkins and changed the curtains in the bar.

BY THE TIME we arrived in Cincinnati the plane was neat as a pin.

Happily, after a few days her household fatigue has started to leave her. She hasn't yelled at anybody else's kids in 24 hours and just this morning she let the chambermaid make up our bed. In another day or two she may even stop clearing the dishes in the hotel room. At least she promised me she'd try.

Billy Graham

I want to ask you a question which is important to me. I have a desire to be good, to be God's man, and to be all I should. But, I also have another side: a bad, evil side. My thoughts at times are so sordid, I would not dare repeat them. Why is there this conflict in my nature? M.P.

A young man murdered a woman and her young daughter, and when questioned said: "I didn't want to do what I did. I want to pray and everything, and inwardly I feel that I want to be the best person in the world. But outwardly I'm a maniac and I can't control the outward part, I don't know why."

To a degree, we all have this rift, this duality in our nature. We are all, in a sense, schizophrenic — with a good nature, and a bad. Life, therefore is a conflict, a war, a civil war — with most of us losing the battle. Carl Jung said: "What drives people to war with themselves is the knowledge that they consist of two persons in opposition to one another. The conflict may be between the sensual and spiritual man. Healing may be called a religious problem."

The Bible spoke of this problem long before modern psychiatry. The apostle Paul wrote: "Who will deliver me from the body of this death? . . . For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do." (Romans 7:19-24)

But Paul found an answer in Christ. "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus has made me free from the law of sin and death." (Romans 8:2.) Christ cancelled out the law of sin and death, and when we receive Him the problem is solved.

UAW Shooting For Pay 'Bonanza'

By A. F. MAHAN
(Substituting for John Cunniff)

DETROIT (AP) — Three-year pacts front-loaded with substantial first-year wage increases now are anticipated in current contract bargaining in the automotive industry.

With preliminaries barely out of the way, it virtually is agreed, even among major company negotiators, the United Auto Workers already have a 26-cent hourly pay boost in hand.

That comes to slightly more than 6 per cent on a current average hourly wage of $4.02. But the union says that's far from enough.

The UAW is shooting for something like the 13.4 per cent which the Department of Labor reports was the first-year average in collective bargaining agreements negotiated in the first six months of this year.

On top of that, the UAW wants some added fringes, like a minimum $500 monthly pension after 30 years service and a company-paid dental plan.

It also wants to return to an unlimited, quarterly adjusted cost of living wage escalator and to improve on a so-called "annual improvement factor" that automatically raises wages three per cent in each of the last two years.

The union has fixed no firm percentage goal, but UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said General Motors, Ford and Chrysler only "would be getting warm" if they put another 8 per cent on top of the 6 per cent which the "in-hand" 26 cents represents.

The UAW has threatened to strike one of the Big Three if there is no new contract by midnight Sept. 14, when current agreements expire.

But long-time followers of auto bargaining point out that the offer of a visible, substantial pay boost in the first year almost always has made rank and filers a lot less militant.

The "in-hand" 26-cent hourly increase stems from current agreements written in 1967. Union negotiators are convention-mandated to see that it all goes into wages.

As bargaining got under way in mid-July, company bargainers were arguing that the 26 cents—which would add $824,400 a day to giant GM's payroll—could be used for either wage and fringe increases or both. There was some indication the companies would insist on diverting part toward paying for fringe boosts.

That now has subsided. As one company negotiator pointed out, "Whatever we take away from the 26 cents for fringes, we'll have to add later on to the wage package to get a settlement—so moneywise we're right where we started from."

Sex, Suicide, Soap

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Overweight people are less likely to commit suicide or suffer severe mental disease than thin people or those of average weight. But they pay a heavier toll from most other illnesses, accidents and surgical operations.

Those Good Old Days: When he was only 21 and needed a pair of trousers, Abraham Lincoln paid for them by splitting 400 fence rails for each yard of cloth. At those rates today, young Abe would probably settle for a pair of shorts.

Someone has estimated that there are now some 60 million hangovers in the United States every week. If this figure is anywhere near correct, it raises the suspicion that some sneaky fellows are getting more than their fair share.

The question also has been raised by science as to whether foul air may not drive some people to drink excessively. Rats were subjected for three weeks to auto exhaust fumes typically breathed by Los Angeles human residents during rush hours. At the start of the tests the rats all preferred to drink plain water. At the end they all preferred to drink alcoholic solutions.

Quotable notables: "No woman has ever stepped on Little America— and we have found it to be the most silent and peaceful place in the world."—Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Antarctic explorer, in 1955.

Attractive: If you want to be bitten by mosquitoes, who have an eye for color, wear black, blue or red clothing. These are the colors they go for. If you wear white or yellow clothing, they are more likely to shun you.

The healthier sex: A man at 42 can look forward to living to 72, a woman of 45 to 77. In terms of absenteeism, one study found women miss work because of disabling illness only half as often as men between the ages of 45 and 64. One reason: men's greater susceptibility to heart attacks.

Worth remembering: "The most disappointed people in the world are those who want what's coming to them—and get it."

It was Cecil Beaton, noted English photographer and designer, who said: "What is elegance? Soap and water!"

Sprained Ankle Is Five Months Old

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any point in seeing a doctor about an ankle sprain that occurred five months ago? It doesn't pain badly, just an ache and cramps in the leg especially when I am in bed at night. —Mrs. H.M.

There are good reasons for not waiting that long! But yes, there's still something to be gained by seeing a doctor now.

A sprain, which of course can vary in degree, may involve a torn tendon, or tendon detached from the bone.

These injuries can be just as painful as a fracture and can take even longer to heal.

There is also the possibility that you may have fractured a bone in the ankle along with the sprain. An X-ray would reveal that and perhaps other conditions in the ankle. Depends on just what happened, but it's best to find out.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Kindly send me your booklet on "How to Control Emphysema," for which I enclose 20 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Does emphysema make your stomach stick out — in other words a big belly? I used to have a 34-inch waist and now am 44. —H.J.W.

Waiting at least an hour after eating is an old-fashioned rule, but that doesn't make it any less valid. Your body diverts circulation in response to needs. For example, your face gets red in cold weather because more circulation is drawn to the exposed skin surfaces to warm them.

When you eat a meal, considerable circulation is diverted to the digestive tract. This means somewhat reduced circulation elsewhere, and that becomes one factor in making cramps more likely. People still drown because of cramps. Waiting an hour (or more if possible) before going in the water is a safety precaution.

Emphysema, in some cases, can cause a "barrel chest," the chest and lungs expanding in nature's effort to compensate for lost efficiency of the lungs. That should make very little if any difference in waist measurement. Better look elsewhere for the reason for that. Are you putting on weight? How long did it take for you to gain those inches? And how old are you?

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any truth to the old saying that swimming "saps your strength"?

Also, how about the rule, "No swimming until one hour after eating"? Is it old-fashioned, or wise? — N.W.

No, swimming doesn't "sap your strength." It's a good form of exercise. Of course, if you stand around too long in the water, your body burns up a good deal of energy just keeping you warm, but that isn't "sapping your strength."

Around The Rim

An Observation Of Yesteryear

"The great rule of conduct for us in regard to foreign nations is, in extending our commercial relations to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop.

"EUROPE HAS A set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enemies.

"OUR DETACHED distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain one people, under an efficient government, the period is not far off when we may defy internal injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon to be scrupulously respected; when belligerent nations, under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving us provocation; when we may choose peace or war, as our interest, guided by justice, shall counsel.

"WHY FOREGO the advantages of so peculiar a situation: Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosbition, rivalship, interest, humor, or perity in the toils of European amcaprice?"

(IF THE PHILOSOPHY expounded above is of interest to you, perhaps you would like to read the presentation from which it is taken. Check your home book shelves or local library for the complete paper. You'll find it listed under "Washington's Farewell Address.")

Sweating Out A Quiet Summer

WASHINGTON — With fingers carefully crossed, officials in the Nixon Administration responsible for race relations and civil rights are noting that half of the long, hot summer is over with no major unheaval in the cities. And it has been a fiercely hot summer, with atmospheric inversion producing on the Eastern seaboard a nasty blanket of heavily polluted smog.

A GREAT DEAL can happen between now and mid-September. It can happen tomorrow night or next week as the heat presses down and jobless, restless young in the ghettos prowl the streets. But the belief is growing — so tentative as to be hardly spoken out loud — that the phase of the mass ghetto riots such as occurred in Detroit and Newark may be past.

The blacks have seen what this mass destruction means to their own way of life. Burned-out and looted streets are still unrestored. The massive destruction worked severe hardship on ghetto dwellers. The extremists have reportedly found it much more difficult to enlist moderates in far-out action.

SEVERAL STEPS taken by the Administration have won praise from moderates like Roy Wilkins, head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who are resisting the apartheid drive of blacks wanting to create a black world entirely separate at every level. Like a bolt from the blue to the still segregationist South came the warning served by Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights Jeris Leonard that the only choice was to comply voluntarily with legal and judicial requirements for integration of the schools. Without this compliance court orders would be enforced and Federal funds shut off.

THEN FOR LARGE areas of the South came another and equally great shock. The Internal Revenue Service ruled that tax exemption would be denied as a matter of right to private schools established to escape integration. They would have to declare an open-admissions policy with both blacks and whites accepted on the same tuition basis.

To many Southerners this seemed to violate at least an implied pledge. Sen Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the front man of the Republican Southern strategy, came roaring out of his den to denounce the Nixon Administration and to predict that President Nixon would never be re-elected in 1972 if things went on like this. The President back-pedaled a bit, sufficient at least to give Thurmond an opportunity to say that perhaps he had overstated the case.

BUT NOTHING essential had been changed. After months of pulling and hauling, confusing to both friend and foe, the Administration seemed committed beyond retreat to enforcing the law and the fundamental Supreme Court decision of 1954, Brown versus the Board of Education of Topeka.

THE VIOLENT upheaval in Chicago's Grant Park the other evening, now attributed to deliberate provocation by extremists, shows how shaky is the structure of society beneath the noisy surface. The fantastic increse in bombings as revealed in Senate hearings was a shocker even though daily headlines tell part of the story. How to bring violence under control without destroying freedom — that is the desperate need of the times. As history has shown, repressive laws will not do it.

Relief For Migrant Workers?

WASHINGTON — Around and about the admininstration and the Congress, it is now being said, piously and comfortably, that something will be done about the nation's one million migrant workers who live like sickening animals.

That, I hope, is fine. But I am striking no medals for our so-called political leaders — give or take a Sen Walter Mondale or two. Most of them, beginning with the John Kennedy administration, have sat too long on their larded hams. Their sudden benevolence, after more than 10 years of indifference, should be greeted only with the question: What took you so long?

WELL, they've been busy, of course. Their system of priorities perforce has required them to appropriate billions of dollars to keep American troops in Europe and thus sustain that continent's wild prosperity. Congress and the Nixon administration had to raise their own salaries. New limousines had to be bought for high-level feeders at the public trough. There is an unpopular war to be fought, and millions of dollars to be spent on campaigns to win political office.

MEANWHILE, down on the farm in sunny Florida, there were these 200 fruit and vegetable pickers, employes of one George Wedgworth, past president of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association. Two hundred of these workers lived — if a euphemism may be forgiven — in a 50-room boardinghouse. They lived "free, at no cost," said Wedgworth. They were overcharged.

Wedgworth admitted it was marginal housing, a comment that will make the list of the year's understatements. There was no indoor plumbing, although there were two outside showers. There was no fire escape James M. Pierce of the National Sharecoppers Fund, described the facility as a "monstrosity."

WHAT IS INCREDIBLE and shocking is not that there was this Wedgworth dormitory, or concentration camp, or whatever, but that migrant workers live in those conditions wherever they are found.

In another camp, ailing workers were not permitted to miss work unless their illnesses were certified by a camp doctor. Children as young as 5 years were forced to help pack oranges because their families needed the money. Besides, day care for the kids was nonexistent.

THESE MISERABLE people should not be compared with the professional "poor" of our big cities, who buy TV sets and periodic holidays with their relief checks. The migrants work for a living — an average of 85 whole, fat days a year. Their annual wage is $890. In New York City, the able-bodied unemployed male with no dependents can pick up $80 a week from the city for sitting on his duff.

Largely due to the efforts of Minnesota's Mondale, Congress and the White House apparently are prepared to do something for what Mondale calls people who are treated "as though they are trash."

Extra Pedal

LONDON (AP) — At last, British motorists have a gadget dedicated to absolutely nothing except keeping their left feet from feeling bored and unneeded.

The Auto Left Foot Pedal Co. of Manchester has marketed a pedal for automobiles with automatic transmissions which leave the left foot with nothing to do. The pedal may be pushed in or let out and nothing happens except a happier left foot.

"People with a touch of arthritis find the pedal very helpful," said its inventor, Charles Austin, an optician. "It gives them somewhere to put their foot and keeps it active."

It was the second marriage for Rodgers, 36, and the first for Miss Buck, 22.

NIXON FAILS TO USE WORD 'ALLEGED'

Manson Labeled 'Guilty'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has backed away from an off-the-cuff comment that Charles Manson, the California hippie-cult leader, was guilty, directly or indirectly, of "eight murders without reason."

While Air Force One circled Washington for nearly a half hour Monday night on a flight from Denver, Nixon drafted a statement that declared, "The last thing I would do is prejudice the legal rights of any person, in any circumstances."

MISTRIAL BID

Hours earlier, Manson's defense attorneys had asked a Los Angeles judge to declare a mistrial, alleging prejudicial publicity. The court denied the initial motion "without prejudice," wanting to make certain what Nixon actually said.

The defense was free to renew the motion under that ruling, which it said it would do today.

If such a motion were approved, a new start would be required in the trial of Manson and other defendants in the celebrated Sharon Tate murder case

Stopping in Denver en route back to the White House from a working holiday in San Clemente, Calif., Nixon went before newsmen prior to conferring in the Colorado capital with state law enforcement officials and said of Manson:

'GLAMOR' GIG

"Here is a man who was guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason.

"Here is a man, yet, who, as far as the (news media) coverage was concerned, appeared to be rather a glamorous figure . . . ."

Many reporters who heard Nixon, an attorney, were aware immediately that the chief executive had assumed Manson guilty before completion of his trial. Some thought they saw a quick facial reaction from Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who was standing at the President's side.

Fellow lawyer Mitchell, however, made no move to suggest that Nixon amend his impromptu remark.

Shortly afterward, press secretary Ronald L Ziegler stated, after extended questioning by newsmen, that Nixon "failed to use the word 'alleged'," in referring to Manson's case.

The eighth "murder" Nixon referred to presumably was that of musician Gary M. Hinman of Malibu. Manson is charged in that slaying last summer along with a co-defendant in the Tate case, Susan Atkins.

BIG 'GOOF'

Nixon said in Denver he was concerned with "the attitudes that are created among many of our younger people and also perhaps older people as well, in which they tend to glorify and to make heroes out of those who engage in criminal activities."

"This is not done intentionally by the press," Nixon continued. "It is not done intentionally by radio and television, I know. It is done, perhaps, because people want to read or see that kind of story."

The President said he noted while at his San Clemente home last week that the newspapers in California reported the Manson trial on the front page each day and that "it usually got a couple of minutes in the evening news."

Ziegler said the newspapers whose coverage of the trial had been read by Nixon were the Los Angeles Times and the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren subsequently was asked to cite specific newspaper accounts or television-radio broadcasts to which Nixon took exception. He said he could not supply that information.

RAPS MEDIA

The President also complained about news media coverage of the overnight jailing last week of two defense lawyers found in contempt of court.

He spoke of "two lawyers in the case, two lawyers who were, as anyone who could read any of the stories could tell—who were guilty of the most outrageous contemptuous action in the courtroom, and who were ordered to jail overnight by the judge, seem to be more the oppressed, and the judge seemed to be the villain."

In the statement issued upon arrival Monday night at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Nixon said:

"I've been informed that my comment in Denver regarding the Tate murder trial in Los Angeles may continue to be misunderstood despite the unequivocal statement made at the time by my press secretary.

"The last thing I would do is prejudice the legal rights of any person in any circumstance.

"To set the record straight, I do not know, and did not intend to speculate as to whether the Tate defendants are guilty, in fact, or not."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SAYS NIXON'S COMMENT 'UNPRECEDENTED' — Paul Fitzgerald (center), one of the defense attorneys in the Sharon Tate murder trial, tells newsmen yesterday that President Nixon's comment earlier in the day about the guilt of one of the defendents was "unprecedented in the history of jurisprudence." Nixon later said, in a prepared statement, he did not intend to speculate that Charles Manson was guilty.

Defense Fears Jury 'Tainted' By Talk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Sharon Tate murder trial say they'll ask again for a mistrial today because President Nixon said defendant Charles M. Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

One of the lawyers, Paul Fitzgerald, said of Nixon's comments: "We know this is unprecedented in the history of jurisprudence. Seldom if ever has a president taken an interest in a state murder trial."

"I am shocked and bewildered," Fitzgerald said. "If the President of the United States is going to say this, then the ball game is over."

JUDGE ALARMED

Nixon issued a statement later in Washington saying that he didn't intend to speculate about Manson's guilt or innocence.

"The defendants should be presumed to be innocent at this stage of their trial," he said.

Nixon's original remarks, made to newsmen at Denver, reached the courthouse at lunch recess Monday. When court resumed, all attorneys approached the bench for a conference with Superior Court Judge Charles Older. Court sources said Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, made a motion for a mistrial on the basis of prejudicial publicity. He was joined by attorneys Daye Shinn and Ronald Hughes.

The motion, Fitzgerald said later, was "denied without prejudice," meaning it could be renewed at a later date.

"The judge was alarmed," said Fitzgerald, "and the judge's main concern was to verify what the President had said. The judge said he wasn't sure that the President had said that."

HEADLINE GLANCE

He said the judge—who had no public comment—indicated he would rather rule on the matter after studying the President's statement.

Fitzgerald said the defense fears the jury, although sequestered, may be "tainted" by the comments, and possibly the judge as well.

He said that although the jury doesn't read newspapers or see television accounts of the case, "there are many possible leaks." Among them, he said, are visits from jurors' spouses on weekends and the chance a juror might glance at a newsstand headline while riding to and from court.

Nixon's remarks in Denver came as he arrived for a conference on law enforcement. His lengthy statement to newsmen included this comment:

"As we look at the situation today, I think the main concern that I have is the attitudes that are created among many of our younger people and also perhaps older people as well, in which they tend to glorify and to make heroes out of those who engage in criminal activities.

WITHOUT REASON

"This is not done intentionally by the press. It is not done intentionally by radio and television, I know. It is done perhaps because people want to read or see that kind of story.

"I noted, for example the coverage of the Charles Manson case when I was in Los Angeles was front page every day in the papers. It usually got a couple of minutes in the evening news.

"Here is a man who was guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders without reason."

Manson, 35, and three women followers—Leslie Van Houten, 20, Susan Atkins, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22—are on trial for the slayings of Miss Tate and six others last August. Manson also is charged in a separate case with the slaying last summer of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman.

In his remarks, Nixon further said of Manson: "Here is a man, yet who, as far as the coverage was concerned, appeared to be rather a glamorous figure."

Late Monday, Fitzgerald said he couldn't understand the President's remarks about "glamor" since most media had depicted Manson as "a murderous marauder and other such terms . . . He's been maligned quite viciously. I don't know how you could call that glamorizing."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent T. Bugliosi said he felt the press hadn't glamorized Manson "but perhaps a segment of the public has."

The defense has contended from the outset that publicity had precluded the possibility of a fair trial.

Meanwhile, the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, 21, resumed the stand for defense cross-examination. She was accused of murder-conspiracy with the others but was granted immunity from prosecution when she agreed to testify for the state.

The green-eyed mother of two children has testified that Manson ordered the murders of Miss Tate, a blonde, pregnant actress, and four visitors the night of Aug. 8.

MILKSHAKES

The next night, she said, he took members of his clan roaming through Los Angeles in a random search for more victims.

After the slayings of a wealthy market owner, Leno LaBianca, and his wife, she said, Manson took members for a walk on the beach. He bought them milkshakes, she said, and then ordered her to slit another man's throat. She says she thwarted that plot by knocking on the wrong apartment door.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Kasabian became angry at questions suggesting she might have been more involved in the Tate murders than she claimed in testimony.

PREGNANT

Q. Were you pregnant at the time of the killings?

A. Yes, but not showing. I didn't know it at the time."

Q. Is that why you didn't go in the house to participate, because you were pregnant?

A. Whether I was pregnant or not, I would never have killed anybody.

To a suggestion that she, as driver of the car, might have picked the LaBiancas as random victims, Mrs. Kasabian nearly shouted: "I certainly did not!"

Just before court recessed for the day, Kanarek told Mrs. Kasabian to hold up the long barrelled revolver that figured in the Tate murders.

"Hold the gun as if to shoot it," said Kanarek.

As Mrs. Kasabian pointed it at the ceiling, she burst into tears.

Fail To Halt Fuel 'Racket'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office says the military generally has failed to halt thefts of millions of gallons of U.S. combat fuels in Southeast Asia.

The congressional investigating agency said that lax controls still result in petroleum products winding up in the black market.

In 1966 the GAO, prompted by a complaint by John McGee, a Navy petroleum inspector in Bangkok, reported that at least 5.5 million gallons of fuel had been stolen in Thailand alone.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today that the latest GAO probe indicates the problem "continues uncorrected" and that "For his efforts, McGee has been placed in a less important job by the Navy in Pensacola, Fla."

A LOVELIER YOU

Fall Fabrics, Colors Diversify To Please

By MARY SUE MILLER

The best of fall fabrics are supple and soft to touch. But their similarity ends there and distinction takes over. Types and colors are so diversified as to please individual looks and tastes. See how:

Pile Fabrics, varying in depth, are brushed and plushed to include melton, wool broadcloth, ribbed corduroy, velvet, velours, mohair and fleece.

Prints on all grounds from sheer challis to winter coatings reflect worlds of inspiration — American Indian, Persian, Burmese French country themes and pointillist dots, tie-dyes via India, English end-paper designs, florals both large and small. Plus animal patterns.

Conservationist (synthetic) Furs and Reptiles — Bearskin, rabbit, chinchilla, tiger, leopard, zebra, cobra, lizard and 'gator.

Still with us and welcome, jersey, crepe de chine and wool crepe — all the Clingies and Slinkies in fact.

Knits on the fashion beam, even more so — silky and supple, crinkled and bubbled, ribbed and cabled, crocheted and doubled. Classic and beloved — tweed, tattersalls, plaids, menswear heather mixtures, cashmere, flannel.

Color, singularly lovely: Autumnals like russet and curry; rich winter darks such as forest green, slate blue and deep aubergine; highlights of purple, American beauty and cyclamen; powdery shades from pale to midi — creamy peach and mushroom, silvery eucalpytus or silvery gray; black; all colors in combination.

From so wide a range, flattery is implicit. So do adopt your complements, forsaking all others.

BEAUTY FOR DRY SKIN

For ways to keep past-30 skin smooth and dewy, order my leaflet, "New Beauty For Dry Skin." It tells in personalized steps how to cleanse, correct, protect and make up for dryness. Bride-Elect Introduced In Lamesa

An introductory coffee honoring Miss Lanelle Etchison of Ackerly was held Saturday at Lamesa in the home of Mrs. J. V. Burdett. Other hostesses were Mrs. Richard Crawley, Mrs. M. R. Calhoun, Mrs. Bob Crawley, Mrs. Dick Collins, Mrs. Stanley Wilkes, Mrs. Fred Flaniken, Mrs. Robert James, Mrs. Skeet Noret and Mrs. J. C. Norris.

Miss Etchison, fiancee of Chris Boyd of Lamesa, received guests with her mother, Mrs. Bill Etchison, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Wright G. Boyd. The honoree was attired in a long-sleeved white knit dress with sleeveless companion coat in gray and white. She was presented a corsage of turquoise daisies, as were the mothers and grandmothers.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of turquoise daisies.

The couple plans an Aug. 22 wedding in the First Baptist Church at Lamesa.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

This morning I heard a voice from the past among the network reporters describing the havoc of last night's hurricane on the Gulf Coast. Gordon Baxter — a compadre and confidante of countless journalism classes — a red-haired city slicker with country boy charm.

The sensitive style was the same, and I couldn't help thinking that he has probably become sort of a hurricane specialist by now. I remember the ending of an earlier AP story after an all night watch on the water while he helped build sand bag dikes — "we bring a bag; the sea takes a bag."

I happened to mention Gordon recently during an evening with Bob and Susan Lewis, and it seems Bob was already familiar with the name and planned to look him up during his next swing through the coastal cities with his "Tumbleweed" program. Incidentally, "Tumbleweed — The Sound of Texas" had its first birthday Aug. 1 and is already being aired by 45 stations in Texas.

TIDBITS: Postcard from Mrs. Glenn Person says she and Glenn, along with Glenn Jr., are enjoying their trip to Atlantic City, N.J., where Mrs Person is attending a women's club convention. . . . a long newsy letter comes from Mrs. Camille Patterson from New Orleans where her daughter, Elena, is letting grandmother share the new baby, Kristin deSha Massey. The Massey's pride and joy weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces. . . . Coffeed with Vance and Bobbie Lebkowsky, former Big Springers who are now in Odessa, and they say son, Robert, was home for the weekend from his busy Air Force schedule. We were at Holiday Inn, and in walked two more ex-residents, J. L. Wood of Austin and his sister, Mrs. Mary Louise Wood of Monahans. Bobbie and Mary Louise were school chums, I think, so they all had a good visit. Mrs. Modesta Simpson came by, too, attired in a smart black and white outfit . . . Roy Worley, who will become principal at Lake Worth this fall, and his Helen joined the D. L. Dorlands of Midland for a two-week spree in Hawaii. The Worley's trip was a gift from their son, Bill (Helen, who reportedly was accused of "spoiling" that son, said that all the time she was on the beach she asked herself "Where did I go wrong with that kid?") . . . Pert and Pretty Glynna Williams of Chatteau de Coiffure and Harvey Richardson of Hereford were planning a Denver wedding when I saw her last week, but no date yet because of busy schedules.

Desk And Derrick Notes Club's Anniversary

Members of the Big Spring Desk and Derrick celebrated the club's 16th anniversary Monday night at the KC Steakhouse. The club was founded in August, 1954, three years after the first Desk and Derrick club was established in New Orleans, La. The Big Spring club's first president was Mrs. Arch Ratliff.

Visiting for the occasion were Miss Patsy Darden, Abilene, region 5 director, and Mrs. Anna Brooks of the Breckenridge Desk and Derrick Club. Miss Darden discussed her aims as regional director which are to have "better programs for greater knowledge and, therefore, give better service to the oil industry."

Mrs. W. L. Thompson Jr. vice president, presided and introduced guests who included Mrs. Bill Malinovsky, a house-guest of Mrs. Stanley Ballou. Dining tables were decorated with miniature derricks with clusters of yellow daisies at the bases. Miss Darden and Mrs. Brooks were presented corsages.

Eight charter members of the club were present. They are Mrs. H. R. Gollnick, Mrs. Leslie Green, Mrs. Bill Kay, Mrs. Herbie Smith, Miss Margueritte Cooper, Mrs. G. C. Broughton Jr., Mrs. Chester Matheny and Mrs. Paul Sheedy. The next meeting will be Oct. 5. The national Convention will be in Atlanta, Ga., in September.

Honored At Gift Party

A bridal gift shower was given Saturday to honor Miss Sharon Allen, Canyon, bride-elect of Eddy Harvell, in the home of Mrs. Don Tolle, 2104 Alabama.

The honoree was presented a yellow floral corsage tied with gold ribbon and wedding rings. Also given corsages were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Ted Allen, Canyon, and her fiance's mother, Mrs. Tommy Harvell.

Miss Allen wore a yellow A-line knit shift with short sleeves and accented by a yellow and turquiose scarf.

The refreshment table was covered with a floor-length white cloth and centered with a bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers in a milkglass bowl. A crystal punch service was used.

The gift table was covered with a white floor-length cloth and overlaid with yellow netting gathered at the sides in a flounce by gold ribbon bows decorated with white bells.

The couple plan an Aug. 13 wedding in St. Anna's Catholic Church in Canyon.

MRS. A. L. WEATHERRED

Tea Held On Sunday

Miss Nancy Stewart of Austin, bride-elect of Charles Macklin, was honored at an introductory tea held Sunday afternoon in the home of the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Macklin, 1403 E. 19th.

Hostesses with Mrs. Macklin were her daughters, Miss Theresa Macklin, Miss Patricia Macklin and Miss Catherine Macklin.

The honoree, attired in a light gray silk dress, received guests with her mother, Mrs. Harold Stewart of Austin and Mrs. Macklin. She was presented a corsage of yellow pompon chrysanthemums, and the mothers and hostesses wore similar corsages.

A royal blue cloth, overlaid with an ecru crocheted cloth, covered the refreshment table which was appointed with silver and crystal. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow flowers and gold candles on a gold pedestal.

The couple is planning a late December wedding in Austin.

Acne Problems Require Care

Acne is a frequent teenage problem that requires constant care. Though acne is not caused by dirt, it is very important to wash your face carefully at least twice a day with soap and hot water. This takes away the surface material forced through the skin from blocked duct systems.

Washing should be thorough, but gentle, in order to cleanse without irritating. Always use a clean wash cloth and towel.

Pythian Chief Visits Temple

Mrs. A. L. Weatherred, grand chief of the Texas Pythian Sisters, made an official visit to Sterling Temple 43 Monday evening discussing her project to finish floors in the girls' dormitory at the Pythian home in Weatherford. She asked members to recall her motto, "Love and Cooperation," to advance work done by Pythians, and to assist the home for the aged they sponsor in Greenville. Mrs. Weatherred encouraged the group to recruit new members this year.

Presiding was Mrs. W. L. Thompson, who introduced Mrs. I. V. Middleton of Lamesa, grand senior, and Mrs. Choc Smith, past grand junior.

Mrs. Weatherred's colors of pink and turquoise were used in decorating the refreshment table. A pink cloth, overlaid with a turquoise, floor-length net skirt, covered the table, and an arrangement of roses formed the centerpiece. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

Hostesses were Mrs. Hugo Campbell and Mrs. A. F. Hill.

A gift and the silver drill fund were presented to Mrs. Weatherred. The fund was to be applied to her project at the Pythian home. Mrs. Weatherred was the guest of honor at a dinner at Furr's Cafeteria prior to the meeting.

Mrs. J. V. Anderson won the capsule prize, and Mrs. Charles Herring won the silver drill prize. The next meeting will be Aug. 17.

Robert Boyers Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Cooper, former residents who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Canning and other friends here, had good news today. DOZEN DROWNINGS

She Leaves Her Mark In Florida

By The Associated Press

Deadly undertows and rough waters spawned by Hurricane Celia sucked 12 swimmers to death along Florida's Gulf Coast authorities said Monday night.

Three persons drowned Monday in the Fort Walton Beach area, one died in waters off St. Petersburg and another was trapped in the Gulf at Pensacola, adding five to Sunday's drowning toll of seven.

The hurricane's winds, up to 145 miles per hour, zeroed in on Corpus Christi, Tex. Monday night, kicking up boiling swells and increasing the dangerous undercurrents which run below the Gulf's surface in the opposite direction from the top water according to the Tampa Weather Bureau.

Escambia County Sheriff's deputies patrolled Pensacola Beach and bordering Okaloosa County authorities did the same as officials placed the Florida Panhandle beaches off limits to swimmers.

Danger flags warning bathers to stay away from the swift under-sea river currents were posted at beaches as far south as Tampa

Bernard Smith of Fort Walton Beach lost his life while trying to save Aldo Crema, 20, an airman stationed at Eglin Air Force Base. Both men drowned as three other persons attempted to form a human rescue chain to reach them in the churning waters off Santa Rosa Island near Fort Walton Beach.

Billy Joe Mandrell, 44, of Dallas also died near Fort Walton Beach when he was dragged under while swimming with his son. The boy escaped harm.

A St. Petersburg man identified as Lester Scheier died while swimming alone at the municipal beach on Treasure Island near St. Petersburg.

A Memphis, Tenn., man, James E. Lockhart, 22, died while swimming off the Pensacola Beach pier Monday. Life guards said a float he was using wrapped around him in the rough seas and the current dragged him under.

Earlier, the body of Curtis Trull, 22, of Pensacola was recovered after a Navy helicopter spotted it about 50 yards offshore. Officers said Trull drowned Sunday night.

The two other Pensacola Beach victims who died Sunday were Andrew Hanley of Tampa and David McKenzie, 15.

Officers said Hanley was washed off a sandbar and McKenzie disappeared while on a swimming party.

In Manatee County Sunday, two members of a Tampa family were killed off Holmes Beach about the same time a father and son drowned at Terra Ceia Bay north of Palmetto.

The Holmes Beach victims were Debra Diaz, 15, and her cousin Louis Caldez, 19.

The second family mishap occurred in the same area when Henry Vicks, 49, and his son Paul, 6, of Palmetto, drowned as the boy slipped off an inner tube and his father died trying to save him.

DEATHS

MRS. ANNIE CHRANE

Mrs. B. T. Chrane, Rites Wednesday

Mrs. Annie Belle Chrane, 60, mother of Bill Chrane, died at 2:25 p.m. Sunday in the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston, where she had been for the past three weeks.

Last rites will be said at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Elliott Chapel of Memories in Abilene with the Rev. Bill Odell, pastor of the Berea Baptist Church here, officiating. Burial will be in the Dudley Community Cemetery south of Abilene where two children, Maxie Odell Chrane and Anne Chrane, who died in infancy, are buried.

Mrs. Chrane was born Annie Belle Hector in San Saba County, March 12, 1910. The family moved to Abilene in 1924, and she was married there to B. T. Chrane in 1928. They lived on a farm in the Dudley community before moving to Big Spring in 1941.

She had worked here for Mead's bakery, managed the Rainbow Drive Inn and did alterations at Swartz. She returned in 1963 to Abilene and worked for a bank there, then came back here two years ago to make her home with her son. She was a member of the Berea Baptist Church.

Surviving her are two sons, Bill Chrane, Big Spring, and Bobby Chrane, Austin, her mother, Mrs. Emma Stitts, Lawn; three brothers, Irvin Hector, D. N. Hector, and Millard Hector, all of Abilene; and 10 grandchildren.

A Trip To See Celia

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Aerospace Writer Paul Recer normally mans his own AP office across the street from NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center south of Houston. But on the weekend Recer was tracking a hurricane instead of a spacecraft — as a veteran of the 1967 Beulah coverage team, he knew his experience would be needed for the coming disaster. The following is his personal account of his trip to meet Celia).

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

SINTON, Tex. (AP) — As I backed out of the driveway at my home near Houston, I felt foolish as hell: my house's windows were boarded up against a hurricane that wouldn't come any closer than 180 miles.

But the fickle lady named Celia had headed my way, and now I was heading hers.

The road south from Houston was wet occasionally, but mostly dry, and the weather was mild and nice. The wind was hardly blowing.

West Columbia, Tex., marked the change. Ditches along Texas Highway 35 began to look choke with water and rain periodically blocked my visibility as it came down like a waterfall.

The wind would gust and then slack off. The calm periods got shorter and shorter as I drove south towards Corpus Christi.

At Port Lavaca the car rocked as wind gusts hit it. The radio announcer spoke of the eye approaching Corpus Christi now only a few miles south of me.

There was a feeling in the very marrow of my soul that something was wrong: at the height of the tourist season on a usually heavily travelled road for fishermen and surfers, I was all alone.

The houses along the way were boarded up and dark. The trees writhed menacingly. Telephone poles whipped like fly rods.

In fingers of water leading toward the bridge over Copano Bay, shrimp boats were parked like cars in a parking lot for a mile on either side of the highway.

As I started over the long bridge, the winds blew steadily so that the steering wheel had to be cocked at an angle to keep the car on the road. After one near miss of the right-hand guardrail, I began straddling the center line, since I had the highway to myself, I hoped.

As I started up the bridge I realized I was in real trouble. The height of the bridge allowed the 100-mile-an-hour wind to lift the car slightly on its shocks and it bounced again and again, but I kept going.

Ahead I realized the bridge went even higher as it allowed for passage of ships in the bay. The car started rocking violently and again I almost hit the righthand guardrail. I began to slow and the rocking became more extreme. I accelerated until the needle reached 70 and the jarring decreased. Soon I was off the bridge.

I passed through the town of Fulton, dodging a roof which blocked one lane of the highway. The town was a shambles and Rockport, the next town, was worse off.

Telephone service was gone and I had to have a phone.

From Rockport, Highway 35 to Corpus Christi was under water. To the west was Sinton. I tried to get to Sinton, but even on this route I had to wait for a break in the hurricane tide to get through.

When the water receded, it left the wreckage of the hurricane behind. The road was piled two and three feet deep in patches with seaweed, lumber, parts of boats and houses, telephone poles and utility lines.

The first few power lines I ran over, I instinctively raised my feet as if to avoid a charge. Later I realized this was foolish, as lines whipped against the car.

It was dark and headlights cut only a small cone through the deluge.

Too late, I saw beams of wood—part of a roof—across the road. I smashed on through it, the car seeming to leap through the barrier, hitting my head against the roof of the car.

Farther on, a telephone pole blocked one lane and a corner of a house, floated there by the hurricane tide, had to be dodged.

Sinton was dark, rainy and hurt.

Brick downtown stores spilled out onto the street. The rain kept coming, and coming, and coming.

$355,379 'Pill' Suit Filed Here

A $355,379.66 damage suit arising out of the use of an oral contraceptive has been filed in 118th District Court here.

E. J. Hargett and his wife, Leona, of Boerne, lodged the suit against G. D. Searle and Company of Chicago, Ill. The company has no registered agent in Texas, hence the attorneys, Brown and Hamby, filed the case here.

The pleadings allege that Mrs. Hargett developed cancer of the cervix as a result of having used the company's oral contraceptive between the period of April, 1964-August, 1968

On Aug. 20, 1968, the petition claims, Mrs. Hargett was discovered to have cancer of the cervix, which occasioned surgery.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant company, claiming that the product contained one or more ingredients which acted either singularly or collectively to cause cancer; that the product had been offered for sale without adequate testing and experimentation; and without warnings or publicity as to possible deleterious effects. The defects claimed in the ingredients were not specified.

In event negligence is not established, the plaintiffs contend that the company is still liable as warrantor of the fitness and merchantability of the product.

Damages in the form of lost income, medical expense and anticipated continued drug expense were asked in the amount of $5,379.66, plus $250,000 for pain and mental anguish, and $100,000 exemplary damages.

Early Morning Fire Causes Heavy Damage To House

By GORDON ZEIGLER

Clint Henry stood beside a charred divan on the west side of his heavily smoked residence wearing pants and a shirt loaned by a neighbor this morning after the Henry family left their burning home through a second story window.

The Henry home at 415 Edwards was damaged by fire and smoke early this morning. Now they will be salvaging items and finding temporary quarters elsewhere until Henry decides whether to remodel or move into a new home.

Tense moments for the six-member family had begun shortly after 6 a.m. when Henry awoke finding himself choking on smoke as heat filled the second story of the home.

Henry tried to go downstairs but was confronted with the smoke and heat arising from below and could go no farther.

Evacuating the family began after 16-year-old Ricky heard his father yelling at them and woke up brothers Steve, 13, and Phillip, 9, sleeping in the same room. Ricky left through his window, climbed down the television antennae and produced a ladder from the garage, which he propped up for others to come down.

Daughter Marla, 14, was awakened and the Henrys fled down the ladder.

"It was hard to breathe," Henry explained, "until we got into Ricky's bedroom, closed the door, and leaned out the window."

"That fresh air was all that saved us," Henry, who was last to leave, said, "Fifteen more seconds and I might not have made it."

Two units of the Big Spring fire department answered the call at 6:40 a.m. "When we got there smoke was coming from almost every window," said Capt. John Waddell. "The Henrys were already out. We don't know what started it. After applying water to the flames downstairs we checked the other areas for fire and opened the windows to let out smoke," he said.

The fire was contained in the lower southwest corner of the house but smoke and heat damage was heavy. Smoke damage was present in the bedroom area upstairs.

Henry had remodeled the home only weeks before, tacking up pre-finished paneling and installing a new executive desk and chair in his office area.

"I guess it could have started from the air conditioner," Henry theorized, as he looked at the charred desk and chair he had placed near the air conditioner.

The four bedrooms upstairs were not damaged by flames but smoke damage was heavy.

As Henry stood on his lawn where several burned items lay a neighbor walked over to ask if "I can do anything to help."

"We were just lucky to get out," said Henry as he surveyed the damage.

Evidence of the intense heat of the fire is striking. Most window panes in the home are cracked in several places and somewhat blurred to look through. A vinyl easy chair was sticky to the touch. Light bulbs in a chandelier were melted out of shape. Carpet was blackened. Furniture was charred. Paint was cracked away from the woodwork.

What to do now is a question Henry said he will have to answer in the next few days. "I carried insurance but hadn't increased it enough when I remodeled," said Henry wistfully. Ironically, he is an insurance man.

"I will probably take the children except for the oldest one to their grandmother in Vernon, and my wife and I will stay here probably living in a motel."

Recalling the early morning exit from his home, Henry injected a bit of humor saying, "I didn't know my wife was so light until I lifted her onto the ladder."

He then went to visit with neighbors.

The fire was the first major house fire within the city limits of Big Spring this summer.

July Marked By Hot, Dry Weather

July weather records indicate the Big Spring area is continuing to have hotter and dryer weather than usual.

Maximum temps averaged 97 degrees and that was above the 55-year average of 95.

Minimum temps were 71 for the average, one point above 70 for 55-year tabulations.

Highest reading in July was 104 degrees on the 11th. Lowest reading of 59 degrees came on the 20th.

Evaporation was up to 13.92 compared with a 55-year average of 10.86.

Precipitation for the month was a meager .01 inch which compared with 71-year average of 2.02 inches is almost nil.

Total rainfall for the year stands at 8.06 inches compared with the normal average of 10.76, leaving a 2.7 inch deficit.

The only measurable rain fell July 4th.

Winds were clocked at 5 mph average and that compares with a 52 year average of 4.1 mph.

Vet Recognition Group To Meet

The Veterans Recognition Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. today to discuss the program for making returning war veterans feel welcome in Big Spring.

Chairman Bud Porter said that when the committee was set up, 11 service organizations named representatives to meet with the committee to organize receptions for groups of veterans as they return.

The committee presents each veteran with a framed letter of welcome from the mayor and furnishes him with an information packet on veteran's opportunities in Big Spring.

The packet contains information on deadlines for receiving various GI benefits, a folder from the Texas Employment Commission, and information from the Veterans Administration on their benefits

In addition the committee originally planned to have area service organizations plan social receptions so the men and their wives could make new friendships more readily.

20¢ Dividend By Pioneer Gas Co.

AMARILLO — The board of directors of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, meeting today, declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share on the common stock, payable September 1, to stockholders of record on August 18.

The board announced the acquisition of the Jess McNeel Machinery Corporation of San Antonio became effective as of August 3, 1970.

Street Sealcoating Starts Wednesday

Street crews will begin sealcoating several blocks of city streets Wednesday in a program which will last two or three days, according to Public Works Director Nolen Chafin.

Work will begin on Abrams at West Third and progress south to West Tenth, Chafin said. The first day's work is also to include sealcoating Douglas from West Ninth to West Third, Aylford from West Third to West Eleventh, and Pennsylvania from West Eleventh to West Seventeenth

This will complete 27 blocks of the 100 planned for sealcoating. Chafin explained that the crew can sealcoat between 25 and 30 blocks a day, depending on the width of the streets and the condition of the surface.

He said residents of areas to be sealcoated may have already noticed crews patching cracks and covering them with sand.

"We use a petroleum derivative to fill the cracks, to give the asphalt greater penetration when we sealcoat. The sand is to keep the sealing compound from sticking to the tires of passing autos when it is softened by the sun," Chafin said. He said that patching the cracks is a further step toward protecting the streets against winter weather.

"We regret the inconvenience caused by blocking off the streets temporarily while we are sealcoating," Chafin said, "but this will protect the streets and save the taxpayers' money in the long run."

FOUR-PAGE EXTRA

Caller-Times Moved 150 Miles To Presses

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The hurricane - battered Corpus Christi Caller-Times was moved 150 miles to the presses of the San Antonio News-Express today to keep the Corpus Christi paper publishing.

Hurricane Celia knocked out electricity to the Caller - Times building shortly before 5 p.m. Monday and halted preparation of the Tuesday morning edition of the Caller. Newsmen and photographers kept working, however, covering the storm that ravaged the sprawling industrial and tourist center.

Monday night, after Celia had passed on north of Corpus Christi, Dennis Lomasney, director of retail advertising, loaded four Caller newsmen into a station wagon and drove them 150 miles to the News-Express, another member of the Harte-Hanks Newspaper Group. The four were News Editor Glenn Elkins, Assistant City Editor Ben Goodwin, Copy Editor Max Vanderveer and reported Jim Wood.

"We're going to get out a four-page newspaper that will be printed at the Express-News," Elkins said. "It will be trucked to Corpus Christi.

"We brought film for photographs of the damage and Jim Wood wrote most of the main story in the back seat of the station wagon coming up here."

Elkins said the Tuesday edition would combine the morning Caller and the afternoon Times, with 89,000 copies to be distributed to the subscribers of the two papers.

GAS BURIAL PLANS — Col. John Osick (left), of the Army chemical and nuclear operations office, explains at a Miami, Fla., news conference Monday plans to dispose of nearly 3,000 tons of nerve gas rockets encased in concrete in the Atlantic Ocean 280 miles east of Cape Kennedy. At bottom is a photograph of the concrete encased rockets now at Anniston, Ala., and Lexington, Ky.

Army Defends Plan To Dump Nerve Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defending its plan to dump 15,540 concrete-encased nerve gas rockets in the Atlantic, the Army has told Congress the rockets are virtually harmless and—in the same breath—increasingly dangerous.

"We can conceive no accident that would set the rockets off," Brig. Gen. William W. Stone told a House oceanography subcommittee Monday.

He said the Army had tested mock-ups of the rockets' 418 steel-jacketed coffins by setting off a 50-pound dynamite charge under one and firing armor-piercing bullets into another. Neither set off any test rockets which contained live explosives but none of the deadly, odorless gas, Stone said.

MORE DANGEROUS

By contrast, however, Army Undersecretary Thaddeus R. Beal said the Army did not want to delay getting rid of the rockets because they were becoming more dangerous.

He was asked to delay the Aug. 10 date for shipping the rockets from Anniston, Md., and Lexington, Ky., to Sunny Point, N.C., where the Army plans to load them aboard a barge to be scuttled 282 miles off Florida in 16,000 feet of water.

"We do not wish to take the responsibility of doing that," Beal replied. "Our plan is to proceed."

He said a committee of civilian specialists headed by Dr. Paul Gross of Duke University had recommended the decade-old rockets be jettisoned "without delay" because their explosive and propellant charges might be getting dangerously unstable with age.

NO DOUBT

"Time is of the essence," Beal said. He said the Gross committee's first proposal—vaporizing the rockets in an underground nuclear blast—was rejected because the Atomic Energy Commission said it would take 15 months.

Later in Miami Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., said Army Secretary Stanley Resor had given him "absolute assurance" the rockets would not be shipped until the subcommittee hearings ended.

Beal said the Army planned to take maximum precautions in shipping the rockets. He said the trains would creep along at 35 miles an hour, following pilot trains that would scout the tracks for dangers. Aerial observers would keep watch over the trains by day and searchlights would probe the night, he said.

PUBLIC OUTCRY

Beal said any damage to marine life would be minimal and preferable to endangering human life ashore. "The maximum adverse environmental impact would be temporary contamination of approximately one cubic mile of water," he said.

The obsolete M-55 rockets were encased in concrete 18 months ago when they showed signs of leaking. Public outcry prevented dumping them at sea, as had been done with other such obsolete gas weapons.

The Army has found other ways to get rid of similar weapons, but is stuck with the 418 steel-and-concrete coffins because it says it cannot safely dispose of them in any way but dumping.

Officials Admit U. S. Bombing In Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — American officials in Saigon admitted today that U.S. planes are bombing in Cambodia in response to requests from Cambodian authorities.

"We are responding to anyone's request for interdiction missions in the area of Cambodia," one official said. Informed sources disclosed that as many as 50 American fighter-bombers, each carrying about eight tons of bombs and rockets, are taking part each day in raids on Cambodian territory.

'SIDE BENEFIT'

The U.S. Command repeated its earlier statement that U.S. air attacks in Cambodia are directed at "enemy troops or material which could threaten U.S. and other free world lives in South Vietnam." But other officials gave the impression that American planes are also attacking Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops that threaten Cambodian forces.

"If the Cambodians say there is an enemy troop concentration or supply area at a given point," said one source, "and U.S. bombers go in to interdict, this seems well within President Nixon's ground rules."

"We sometimes get a peripheral or side benefit," said another official. "If it happens to be enemy troops, we're not going to complain. But officially it's interdiction."

The Cambodian deputy commander in the Kiri Rom area southwest of Phnom Penh told newsmen Monday that U.S. Air Force Phantoms were supporting his troops by regularly bombing enemy forces in his area, which is miles west of any known enemy supply route to South Vietnam.

PLANES HITTING

Cambodian commanders in the Siem Reap-Angkor area, at the other end of Cambodia from Vietnam, reported last weekend that U.S. and Thai planes from Thailand were hitting the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in that area.

American air attacks in support of Cambodian forces also were reported at Skoun, an important road junction 40 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and at Kompong Thom, the largest town in central Cambodia 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian military spokesman in Phnom Penh reported today that government troops after three days of heavy street fighting had driven a large Communist force out of Kompong Thom. But he reversed a previous announcement that Skoun had been retaken and said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese continued to hold that town.

Former Police Chief Lands Job

SAIGON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, the former national police chief who startled the world by executing a Viet Cong prisoner on a Saigon street during the 1968 Tet offensive, has been named a special assistant in the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry.

Loan's appointment was one of 30 promotions and transfers of high-ranking South Vietnamese officers announced Sunday by President Nguyen Van Thieu as part of an army reform program.

It is Loan's first job since he was seriously wounded in the Communist offensive of May, 1968. He was hit by a B40 rocket while directing national police in street fighting in Saigon.

Senate Votes To Hike Savings Bonds Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted the Treasury Department authority to raise the interest on U.S. savings bonds to 5½ per cent.

The proposal, still subject to House approval, would raise the rate from 5 per cent, effective last June 1. Such action by the Treasury would be subject to approval of the president.

Sen. John Williams, R-Del., tacked the provision onto an unrelated House-passed bill. He said the boost would help the average American who cannot get higher yields available to wealthy investors in the bond and real estate markets.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., suggested raising the savings bond rate to a level equal to or higher than that paid by savings and loan associations might further reduce the availability of money for new housing.

The provision passed on a voice vote.

Red Cross Asks 'Celia' Donations

The Red Cross is taking donations from persons who wish to contribute to disaster relief in the Corpus Christi area after damage caused Monday by Hurricane Celia.

Mrs. Louise Allen said this morning that checks can be brought to the Red Cross office in the basement of the courthouse or mailed to Hurricane Celia, American Red Cross, P.O. Box 1970, Big Spring. All donations for the victims of the hurricane should be plainly marked "for Hurricane Celia," Mrs. Allen said.

That's His Name

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A watchdog at a used car lot stood his ground against all comers Sunday night.

He chased off a would-be burglar, then took out after police officers summoned to investigate the disturbance.

The dog held one officer at bay atop his patrol car for about five minutes before other patrolmen managed to calm him down.

South, holding 26 points in high cards and distribution and a six card suit, opened with a demand bid of two hearts. North properly raised to three hearts with eight points in support. With the trump fit confirmed and holding the controls in every suit, South proceeded without further ado to a small slam.

West opened the deuce of hearts and South won the trick in his hand. He cashed the ace of hearts next and when West discarded a club, declarer switched to the ace of diamonds before leading a third round of trumps to North's jack.

The queen of spades was led and finessed. If West wins the trick with the king, South is in position to claim, for he can discard one club on the king of diamonds and the other on dummy's long spade. West realized, however, that it would not be prudent to release his spade control too quickly, and he followed suit smoothly with the three.

The king of diamonds was cashed, declarer discarding the five of clubs and then the jack of spades was led to repeat the finesse. West produced the king and exited with a spade, placing the declarer back in his hand. At the end South was obliged to surrender a club for the setting trick.

Declarer's timing was faulty. He should be willing to give up a spade trick early in the play in order to retain full control of the proceedings. It is suggested that the five of spades be led at trick two. If West puts up the king, it is the only trick he can take. South draws trumps when he regains the lead and discards his clubs on the king of diamonds and North's long spade.

If West plays a small spade at trick two, dummy's ten will win the trick. A club is returned and declarer finesses the queen, losing to West's king. South wins the return, cashes the ace of diamonds and the ace of clubs and then ruffs a club in dummy. The six of spades is discarded on the king of diamonds, trumps are drawn and declarer claims his slam, having lost only one club.

Zales Founder's Son Is President

DALLAS — Marvin Zale has been elected to the board of directors and 14 incumbent directors have re-elected at the 46th annual stockholders meeting of Zale Corporation here last week. Zale replaces Jacob Feldman who retired from the board. The son of founder M. B. Zale, he has been active in the corporation for 21 years.

Shareholders were told that in anticipation of future requirements for growth and to improve its over-all liquidity, the company has completed a Eurodollar loan of $20 million. It was also reported that 68 new retail outlets are slated to open by the end of the fiscal year, most of which will be ready for the Christmas season. President Ben A. Lipshy pointed to increases of seven per cent for sales and four per cent for earnings in the quarter ended June 30.

Liquor Sales

NEW DELHI (AP) — Despite heavy custom duties and local excise taxes, the import of foreign liquor into India almost trebled during the past three years to seven million rupees ($930,000), a government spokesmen told Parliament. Despite all measures taken to encourage prohibition, the consumption of local-made liquor also has been going up, he said.

NUMBER FIVE ON THE BALLOT (HJR28)
General Election Nov. 3, 1970

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 52, Article III, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows:

"Section 52. (a) Except as otherwise provided by this section, the Legislature shall have no power to authorize any county, city, town or other political corporation or subdivision of the State to lend its credit or to grant public money or thing of value in aid of, or to any individual, association or corporation whatsoever, or to become a stockholder in such corporation, association or company.

"(b) Under Legislative provision, any county, any political subdivision of a county, any number of adjoining counties, or any political subdivision of the State, or any defined district now or hereafter to be described and defined within the State of Texas, and which may or may not include, towns, villages or municipal corporations, upon a vote of two-thirds majority of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon who are qualified electors of such district or territory to be affected thereby, in addition to all other debts, may issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit in any amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property of such district or territory, except that the total bonded indebtedness of any city or town shall never exceed the limits imposed by other provisions of this Constitution, and levy and collect taxes to pay the interest thereon and provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof, as the Legislature may authorize, and in such manner as it may authorize the same, for the following purposes to wit:

"(1) The improvement of rivers, creeks, and streams to prevent overflows, and to permit of navigation thereof, or irrigation thereof, or in aid of such purposes.

"(2) The construction and maintenance of pools, lakes, reservoirs, dams, canals and waterways for the purposes of irrigation, drainage or navigation, or in aid thereof.

"(3) The construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof.

"(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of Subsection (b) of this Section, bonds may be issued by any county in an amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property in the county, for the construction, maintenance, and operation of macadamized, graveled, or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof, upon a vote of a majority of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon who are qualified electors of the county, and without the necessity of further or amendatory legislation. The county may levy and collect taxes to pay the interest on the bonds as it becomes due and to provide a sinking fund for redemption of the bonds."

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1970, at which election the ballots shall be printed to provide for voting for or against the proposition: "The constitutional amendment authorizing any county, on the vote of a majority of its qualified property taxpaying electors, to issue road bonds in an amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property in the county."

PUBLIC NOTICE
Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (HJR30)
General Election Nov. 3, 1970

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Subsections (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (11), (12), and (13), Section 1-a, Article V, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows:

"(5) The Commission may hold its meetings, hearings and other proceedings at such times and places as it shall determine but shall meet at Austin at least once each year. It shall annually select one of its members as Chairman. A quorum shall consist of five (5) members. Proceedings shall be by majority vote of those present, except that recommendations for retirement, censure, or removal of any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section shall be by affirmative vote of at least five (5) members.

"(6) A. Any Justice or Judge of the Appellate Courts and District and Criminal District Courts, any County Judge, and any Judge of a County Court at Law, a Court of Domestic Relations, a Juvenile Court, a Probate Court, or a Corporation or Municipal Court, and any Justice of the Peace, and any Judge or presiding officer of any special court created by the Legislature as provided in Section 1, Article V, of this Constitution, may, subject to the other provisions hereof, be removed from office for willful or persistent conduct, which is clearly inconsistent with the proper performance of his said duties or casts public discredit upon the judiciary or administration of justice; or any person holding such office may be censured, in lieu of removal from office, under procedures provided for by the Legislature.

"B. Any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of this subsection who is eligible for retirement benefits under the laws of this state providing for judicial retirement may be involuntarily retired, and any person holding an office named in that paragraph who is not eligible for retirement benefits under such laws may be removed from office, for disability seriously interfering with the performance of his duties, which is, or is likely to become, permanent in nature.

"(7) The Commission shall keep itself informed as fully as may be of circumstances relating to the misconduct or disability of particular persons holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, receive complaints or reports, formal or informal, from any source in this behalf and make such preliminary investigations as it may determine. Its orders for the attendance or testimony of witnesses or for the production of documents at any hearing or investigation shall be enforceable by contempt proceedings in the District Court.

"(8) After such investigation as it deems necessary, the Commission may in its discretion issue a private reprimand, or if the Commission determines that the situation merits such action, it may order a hearing to be held before it concerning the removal, or retirement of a person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, or it may in its discretion request the Supreme Court to appoint an active or retired District Judge or Justice of a Court of Civil Appeals as a Master to hear and take evidence in any such matter, and to report thereon to the Commission. If, after hearing, or after considering the record and report of a Master, the Commission finds good cause therefor, it shall issue an order of public censure or it shall recommend to the Supreme Court the removal, or retirement, as the case may be, of the person in question holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section and shall thereupon file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court the entire record before the Commission.

"(9) The Supreme Court shall review the record of the proceedings on the law and facts and in its discretion may, for good cause shown, permit the introduction of additional evidence and shall order public censure, retirement or removal, as it finds just and proper, or wholly reject the recommendation. Upon an order for involuntary retirement for disability or an order for removal, the office in question shall become vacant. The rights of an incumbent so retired to retirement benefits shall be the same as if his retirement had been voluntary."

"(11) The Supreme Court shall by rule provide for the procedure before the Commission, Masters and the Supreme Court. Such rule shall afford to any person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section, against whom a proceeding is instituted to cause his retirement or removal, due process of law for the procedure before the Commission, Masters and the Supreme Court in the same manner that any person whose property rights are in jeopardy in an adjudicatory proceeding is entitled to due process of law, regardless of whether or not the interest of the person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section in remaining in active status is considered to be a right or a privilege. Due process shall include the right to notice, counsel, hearing, confrontation of his accusers, and all such other incidents of due process as are ordinarily available in proceedings whether or not misfeasance is charged, upon proof of which a penalty may be imposed.

"(12) No person holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section shall sit as a member of the Commission or Supreme Court in any proceeding involving his own retirement or removal.

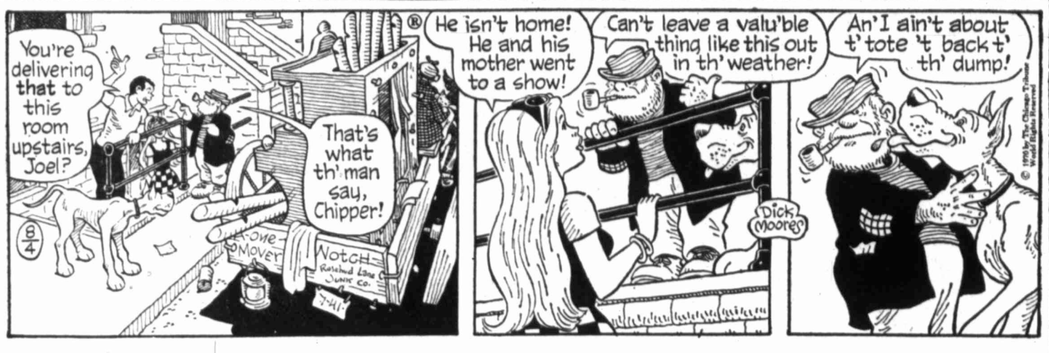

"(13) This Section 1-a is alternative to and cumulative of, the methods of removal of persons holding an office named in Paragraph A of Subsection (6) of this Section provided elsewhere in this Constitution."

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1970, at which election the ballots shall be printed to provide for voting for or against the proposition: "The constitutional amendment relating to the removal, retirement, or censure of Justices, Judges, and Justices of Peace under prescribed circumstances."

NEW YORK (AP) — From a quiet command post in a spacious suite 13 stories above the rumble of Park Avenue traffic, Pete Rozelle guides the violent world of professional football with fingertip control.

Still youthful at 43, the 6-foot-2 commissioner of the National Football League is a low key executive with a firm grasp of a sport that has surmounted constant crises during his 10 highly successful years at the helm.

Crisis is the name of the game in pro football. If it is not a $10 million law suit, it is a Paul Hornung-Alex Karras gambling problem. If it is not a new television contract, it is Joe Namath and Bachelors III. If it is not expansion, it is merger and realignment.

TOPS IN NATION

Through it all Rozelle stands tall in the saddle, guiding the sport to the point where it generally is accepted as the top spectator diversion of the nation.

In recent days the player strike and pension dispute challenged his position by attacking certain aspects of his power. The players had attempted to line him up with management as an employer but later dropped the request. He agreed to name an arbiter in injury grievance cases but all other aspects of his authority remained unchanged.

If it were not for Rozelle's persuasive powers there would have been no federal mediation by the owners in this bitter struggle that shuttered training camps and threatened to wipe out the preseason schedule. Take this from one who knows.

"Pete Rozelle certainly was important to the situation," said Curtis Counts, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service Director. "It's a good thing they used his offices to settle it. The football commissioner is sort of a czar over 26 owners who are independent individuals, tied together in the bargaining. The 'czar' role of the commissioner has no counterpart in other industries that engage in collective bargaining."

PETE ROZELLE

Take your time. Talk to all sides. Listen carefully. Let others project their ideas. Then step in quickly. That is the Rozelle formula.

It worked once again in the pension dispute. The two groups debated for months. Rozelle did his best to keep in touch with both sides. After federal mediation was tried, the two groups withdrew and sparred at sword's length. Rozelle made the moves that helped bring them together over the weekend.

ALWAYS INVOLVED

At 1:30 a.m. Monday the 26 NFL club executives and the seven members of the players' committee were all in Rozelle's league office. Pete, in and out of the office all day and night, was constantly involved.

It is worth noting that when the dispute finally was settled, there was not the usual news conference. Each side issued a brief statement and went hone. Rozelle remained in the background.

This was to have been a year of stabilization, a season to solidify gains and start planning for the end of the decade when six more teams will be added to form a balanced 32-team league, split into eight four-team divisions.

Conflict with the players rocked the boat. Now that calm has been restored, the master plan for the future will be implemented step by step.

SUCCEEDED BELL

A little more than 10 years ago, Jan. 26, 1960, the NFL owners, reaching out for a compromise candidate after days and nights of dispute, selected Rozelle to succeed the late Bert Bell as commissioner. Under Bell, the NFL had survived World War II and a fierce dollar skirmish with the All-American Conference to establish itself as a flourishing sport with an awesome future.

Under Rozelle, the league expanded from 12 teams to 16 and finally to 26 after a peaceful merger brought an end to the baby sitting bonus war with the American Football League.

Television revenue, equally divided among all the clubs after Rozelle persuaded Congress to legalize single network contracts with sports leagues, has increased from $1.8 million to an estimated $150 million four-year contract with all three networks. Attendance has boomed to the point where fans leave season tickets to favorite heirs in their wills and sellouts are the order of the day.

Rozelle, of course, didn't do it all by himself. But he has been the guiding hand behind most of the gains. As Art Rooney, the pioneer owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, once said, "Pete Rozelle is a gift from the hand of Providence."

The commissioner's real given name is Alvin Ray Rozelle but a kind uncle nicknamed him Pete at the age of five and, as he says, "considering my real name, I'm forever grateful."

Rozelle is a California product, born in South Gate, a suburb of Los Angeles, March 1, 1926. He was brought up in Compton, Calif., where he played schoolboy tennis and basketball. His first public relations job was making Duke Snider, a friend and teammate, an all-league prep selection in Los Angeles. Snider, who won fame as a Dodger home run slugger, still is a close friend.

Rozelle's first pro football job was as public relations director of the Los Angeles Rams.

Twins Keep Streak Alive In 2 Games

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins barely managed to keep their run-scoring streak alive, but still found it easier than keeping their pitcher's healthy.

After putting Dave Boswell on the 21-day disabled list earlier in the day, the Twins lost ace Jim Perry to a pulled groin muscle in the ninth inning before they completed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the opener of their twi-night doubleheader, Monday.

In the nightcap, the Twins pushed across two runs in the ninth inning before losing 4-2, but managed to keep intact their string of having scored in 120 straight games, including the last 18 in 1969.

Elsewhere, the California Angels managed to retake sole possession of second place in the American League West behind the Twins by dropping Oakland to third with a 5-0 victory over the A's, Washington blanked Detroit 4-0 and Kansas City beat the Chicago White Sox 7-2. No other games were scheduled.

RASH OF HURTS

If Perry should be sidelined—the injury wasn't believed serious—it would only keep going Minnesota's bad-luck string of injuries to its pitchers.

Boswell, 3-6 with back trouble this season, departed and was replaced by Luis Tiant, who made his first start in the second game since being sidelined with a shoulder injury May 28. The Twins also lost reliever Stan Williams for several games and rookie Bert Blyleven for two starts with arm trouble earlier this season.

Perry was breezing to his 16th victory against nine losses with a five-hitter entering the ninth, but he left with a count of 2-2 on the first hitter. Tom Hall came on and struck out the side.

Rich Reese drove in both Minnesota runs, the first with a double in the sixth and the second with a tie-breaking infield single in the eighth against loser Marty Pattin, 8-10.

But Lew Krausse, 11-11, stopped the Twins cold on four hits for eight innings in the nightcap, and even singled in a run in the ninth for a 4-0 lead.

But the Twins broke the shutout on their final try with two runs on hits by Danny Thompson, Harmon Killebrew and Tom Holt.

GIVES UP HOMER

Tiant looked good, giving up only one run in five innings before leaving. However, Williams came in and gave up Bob Burda's two-run homer in the sixth.

The unhealthy, but run-scoring Twins still managed to hang onto a seven game lead over the Angels, who rode Rudy May's four-hitter to a one game lead over Oakland, which suffered only its third loss in 14 games.

The Angels jumped on Jim Hunter, 15-9, for four runs in the fourth inning as Jim Spencer drove in one run with a triple and two more came in on doubles by Jay Johnstone and Bill Voss.

Dick Bosman, 11-8, scattered eight hits—two of them to start the seventh inning—and Joe Grzenda came on and allowed only one more as Washington dropped the Tigers into third place, a half game behind idle New York in the American League East.

The Senators scored their four runs on five singles in the third inning off Mike Kilkenny, 5-2. Mike Epstein singled in the last two.

Must be for TV closeups and ball players, because nobody else gets close enough to read them. Why not simply put the name of the ump on the back of jackets and shirts, the same way the clubs do with players, and right under put the appropriate number, like 20-40."

A front-office man for the Oakland Raiders:

"I don't see how the players can call Pete Rozelle an owners' man. The owners certainly don't. Many of them think he bends backward on the side of the players. Paul Brown, for example, told us he carried four matters to the commissioner for arbitration and Rozelle decided for the players on all four. It seems to me the players are only hurting themselves attempting to reduce his powers."

We have to spend more time teaching fundamentals at the major league level, but the skills of the youngsters are much greater. I may be more enthusiastic over this club than I have been over others because of our young players. I know they have kept me on the edge of the bench."

HULL HURLS LOCAL WIN

LUBBOCK — Noel Hull pitched the Big Spring Americans to a 4-1 victory over Crane in the first round of the Little League Sectional tournament here Monday evening.

The win qualified the Big Spring team to oppose the Fort Bliss club of El Paso in a 7:30 o'clock game this evening.

In another contest Monday, Abilene's Eastern rallied for six runs in the fifth to topple Graham, 9-4.

The tournament extends through Thursday night, with the winner qualifying for the State tournament at Austin Aug. 12-15.

Brave Hopes Bouyed By Hurler Ron Reed

By The Associated Press

Out of the shambles of a lost weekend, like a phoenix rising from the ashes of what once was Atlanta's pitching staff, suddenly appeared Ron Reed.

Shell-shocked by 37 runs in three games—the last seven in Houston's 7-5 opening game victory Monday night, Braves' Manager Luman Harris probably still can't believe what happened when he handed the ball to Reed for the second game against the Astros.

A six-hitter is what happened. A real, honest to goodness six-hitter, and it was a complete game too. That, in case you haven't been paying attention, hasn't been routine around the Braves lately.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-1, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 4-1, San Diego battered Cincinnati 10-3 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Reed, whose broken collarbone made a mess of Atlanta's pitching before the rest of the National League got around to it, throttled Houston and got all the runs he needed on consecutive second inning homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hal King.

It was only the fourth complete game in the last month for the Braves' pitching staff which was shredded for 30 runs in two games against the Pirates Saturday and Sunday.

It looked like more of the same when Houston bounced from behind to overtake Atlanta in the first game of the doubleheader. Bob Watson drove in three runs with a single and a home run and pitcher George Culver's two-strike bunt single started the winning rally in the seventh inning. But Reed turned the tables in the nightcap.

Pittsburgh roared into Montreal and was promptly cooled off by Dan McGinn, who spun a three-hitter for the Expos. It was McGinn's first victory since July 8 and his first complete game since May 15 when he also beat the Pirates.

Bob Bailey hammered a three-run homer that climaxed a six-run Expo explosion in the fourth inning.

The Pirates' one-game lead in the NL East remained intact when New York bowed to Chicago and Ferguson Jenkins on a three-hitter.

Jenkins held the Mets hitless for six innings and Johnny Callison tagged a homer for the Cubs. Chicago moved to within 2½ games of first place but suffered a serious blow when pitcher Bill Hands was taken to Roosevelt Hospital suffering from acute appendicitis

St. Louis used home runs by Carl Taylor, Julian Javier and Jose Cardenal to beat Philadelphia.

Homers by Willie McCovey and Jim Hart moved San Francisco past Los Angeles as rookie Lee Pitlock bested Bill Singer. McCovey's 26th of the year climaxed a four-run first for the Giants.

STEERS PICKED TO FINISH SIXTH IN FOOTBALL RACE

HOUSTON — Odessa Permian has been picked to win the District 5-AAAA football championship by league mentors.

The revelation came to light at the Texas Coaches Association school under way here.

Big Spring was tabbed for a sixth place finish.

Abilene High School was elevated to second place in the poll while Abilene Cooper and San Angelo tied for third. Midland High was chosen to lead the second division, followed by Big Spring, Odessa High and Midland Lee in that order.

Odessa Permian has 21 lettermen returning from last season, including three offensive and as many defensive starters. Permian finished with an 8-1-1 record last year.

Baroid Chemicals Place Three On All-Star Team

The Baroid Chemicals team, winner of the recent Sterling City Softball tournament, winds up its season this evening in a single game at Vincent.

Vincent, along with Morton's Chippers of Big Spring, is marking time for the State ASA tournament, which gets under way Thursday in Brownwood.

Robert Prescott likely will pitch for Baroid.

* * *

Three Baroid players were named to the all-star team at Sterling City, along with three from Forsan, two from Havilik Roofing of San Angelo and one from Sterling City.

The three Baroid players honored were center fielder Tommy Arista, catcher Albert Mendoza and pitcher Albert Limmer.

Baroid now has a 27-10 overall record.

Rod Roberts and Tommy Young, both of them former Big Spring High School players were among the Forsan players honored at Sterling City.

Roberts played third base for Forsan and Young second base.

The honored players were awarded trophies. In addition, Baroid Chemicals was awarded a big trophy.

Johnny Tonn Is Tourney Winner

The YMCA open ping pong tournament, staged during the past weekend, was won by Johnny Tonn.

Runner up was Louis Bustamante, while Stanley Shanks captured third place. This was an all-singles event and was stated under the direction of Larry Moreno. Twenty-six players took part.

Oilers Open Heavy Work

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — It didn't take long for the action to get fast and thick at the Houston Oilers' training camp at Schreiner Institute here after the player-owner contract dispute ended.

Within hours after the settlement was announced Monday morning, head coach Wally Lemm scheduled two afternoon workouts.

The Oiler veterans, who had been working out on their own in Houston, had to drive through torrential rains brought on by Hurricane Celia, which collided with the Texas coast Monday afternoon.

Hervey Won't Be Stampeded

HOUSTON (AP) — There is at least one player on the North basketball squad who isn't awed by south terror Dwight Jones of Houston Whatley in Wednesday night's Texas High School Coaches Association basketball all-star game in Hofheinz Pavilion.

The doubting Thomas is Sammy Hervey of Dallas Crozier Tech who has never played against the 6-foot-10 "Big D", who averaged 24 points and 24 rebounds a game last winter.

"I feel like I can drive on him if he takes me one on one," said Hervey, a 6-foot-7 deadeye who averaged over 30 points a game.

"If we can keep Jones off the boards we will beat 'em."

The South is a heavy favorite to whip the North, coached by J. D. Menasco of Carrollton. Menasco is expected to resort to a full court press and a fast break in an effort to keep Jones away from the bucket.

Menasco said, "He is kind of like Bill Russell, former Boston Celtic great. He blocks anything you put up from the inside."

Bill Tatum of Carthage, South coach, is expected to use a man for man defense and put the umping Jack Jones on a low post offensively near the bucket.

Jones, still miffed because he feels the Texas High School Coaches Association kept him from being selected for the touring U. S Olympic basketball team, said that of the North presses the South full court, "we'll chop 'em up."

Several months ago Jones was asked what he thought of Hervey and he replied "Oh, you mean that Dallas kid. He never made it to the state playoffs did he?"

Hervey put it this way: "It's going to be a personal battle between me and Jones."

Jacklin Honored By Englishmen

LONDON (AP) — The British Professional Golfers Association singled out Tony Jacklin today for a unique honor.

Winner of the 1969 British Open and the 1970 U.S. Open, Jacklin was nominated by the PGA to be an honorary life vice president.

He is the first professional accorded this honor in Britain where not too many years ago the pros weren't even allowed in the clubhouse.

FACES CHUVALO

Foreman Seeks 22nd Ring Win

NEW YORK (AP) — When George Foreman takes his perfect 21 for 21 record into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight against George Chuvalo, the 21-year-old Canadian heavyweight has to be thinking about what happened to Mac Foster in June.

Foster, another California heavyweight, came East with an even more impressive record of 24 knockouts in 24 winning fights. He was knocked out by Jerry Quarry in 2:09 of the sixth round, June 17.

Some may think Foreman is being rushed a little too fast. This will be only his 22nd pro fight in about 14 months. He won the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968 and fought his first pro bout June 23, 1969, in a preliminary on the Joe Frazier-Quarry title show.

They have made Foreman a slight favorite for Dick Sadler has picked his way carefully up the ladder, choosing his opponents with a fine sense of timing. He knocked out Roger Russell in the first round, July 20, but Chuvalo is no Roger Russell.

The durable Canadian had fought them all and never has been knocked off his feet. Frazier stopped him July 19, 1967, the only time he has failed to last the limit in 76 fights.

In his last Garden outing, Chuvalo startled the fans by knocking out Jerry Quarry who (1) either missed the count or (2) was too dazed to get up. The unexpected win put Chuvalo back in the swim of things and he currently is ranked No. 3 in the division with a six knockout win streak.

A crowd of about 10,000 is expected to pay $100,000 to see the 10-round match which will be carried on a special 80-station television network with the New York area blacked out and also will be beamed on network (Mutual) radio.

THE F-111: ONE READY, OTHERS WAITING — The first of the controversial F-111s returned to the Tactical Air Command lands at Nellis Air Force Base, Nev. Other F-111s are lined up on the runway waiting to go to Texas for the extensivie testing ordered after the 15th F-111 crash last December. Easy Presidential Access To TV Called 'Dangerous'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that easy presidential access to television represents a "dangerous, unchecked power."

"There is nothing in the Constitution which says that, of all elected officials, the President alone shall have the right to communicate with the American people," declared the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"That privilege was a gift of modern technology, coming in an age when chronic war and crisis were already inflating the powers of the presidency," he added.

Fulbright testified as a Senate communications subcommittee opened hearings into a bill he is sponsoring to require television networks to provide Congress and the judiciary a minimum of four free opportunities each year to lay their views before the public

"As strongly as possible," Fulbright said, "it should be emphasized that the focus of this bill is institutional—not partisan."

Fulbright said whatever the argument for or against broadcast time for political parties, there can be no justification for denying equal time to co-equal branches of government.

"Although the bill does not say so explicitly," said Fulbright, "it is implicit in the proposal that congressional access to the media would not simply be a matter of responding to presidential speeches or interviews.

"It might of course be used for that purpose, but, under this bill Congress would have the right to report to the nation on its own initiative," he said.

On such occasions, he added, the President would be given a chance to respond if he wanted to.

Commission Items Routine

Land development and the laying of oil pipe were routine issues concerning County Commissioners in Monday's regular session.

Charles Butts notified commissioners that he was going to split some acreage he owns on the Midway Road into smaller plots to be used as a site for a home development. After a land-developer has built roads to a site in the county, the roads become property of the county and are maintained by the county.

Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. was granted permission to lay pipe in section 11, block three, township 1-South by commissioners.

Dramatic Tryouts Set For Tonight

Persons wishing to try out for speaking parts in "We Hold These Truths," are asked to meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the City Park Amphitheatre.

Al Scott, who is directing the program for the Little Theatre of Big Spring, said he needs two men with some acting ability. However, women who want to try out will be considered.

The program of great words of great Americans will be presented Aug. 15, at City Park Amphitheatre as the LTBS's Contribution to the "Starlight Specials."

Special dramatic mood music and solos will be provided by the Big Spring High School Stage Band under the direction of Bill Bradley.

Marijuana Charge Against Local Man

The Odessa Sheriff's Office has sent a warrant to the Howard County sheriff's office charging Lloyd Nichols, 23, 431 Hillside, with possession of marijuana.

Nichols is currently in county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond on a similar charge. Bond on the Odessa charge is set at $15,000.

Hurricane Area Traffic Action

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Highway Department reported today that all traffic in the hurricane area around Corpus Christi is restricted to emergency vehicles only.

U.S. 181 between Corpus Christi and Gregory was closed by high water.

The highway department suggested that persons wanting to travel to the Rio Grande Valley should travel through San Antonio and then take Texas 16 to Hebbronville, Farm 1017 to San Manuel and then U.S. 281 to the Valley.

The Department said all roads in the Yoakum district northwest of Victoria are open.

Voters Select Candidates In Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan voters select candidates for the November general election today, with the top primary race matching the wife of a Nixon Cabinet member and a conservative state senator for the Republican nomination to the Senate.

The feature race on the Democratic side of the ballot was a four-man run for the party's gubernatorial nomination.

Mrs. George Romney, 61-year-old wife of the U.S. secretary of housing and urban development, faced state Sen. Robert Huber of Troy in the GOP Senate race.

The winner will meet Sen. Phillip A. Hart, running unopposed for the Democratic nomination, in November.

The Michigan primary was one of four on the election calendar today, with polling also scheduled in Missouri, Kansas and Idaho.

In Missouri, Sen. Stuart Symington, the largest vote-getter in the state's history, faced nominal opposition from four opponents in his bid for the Democratic nomination to a fourth term.

In the Republican race, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth was favored over Doris Bass, a member of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen.

In Kansas, Atty. Gen. Kent Fizzell was given a slight edge in a five-man field seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination. The incumbent, Democrat Robert Docking, was running unopposed in the primary as he sought an unprecedented third term.

Idaho's Gov. Don W. Samuelson, a Republican in his first four-year term, had primary opposition from former state Sen. Dick Smith. The Democratic primary for governor had a three-man field.

In the Democratic race for governor in Michigan, the favorites were former state party chairmen Sander Levin and Zolton Ferrency. Other candidates were state Rep. George F. Montgomery of Detroit and Macomb County Prosecutor George Parris.

On the GOP side, Gov. William Milliken faced only token primary opposition, from James Turner of Howell, a political unknown who publishes a magazine attacking wrongdoings in the legal profession.

Demo Vows Oil Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre Monday called the oil import quota system "unjustifiable and indefensible" and said he would force an unprecedented Senate showdown if the House incorporates the plan into the new trade bill.

The New Hampshire Democrat said he would offer an amendment to "permit the president to implement, if he chooses, the recommendations of his own Cabinet-level task force" which urged phasing out the quota plan and setting up a tariff system.

McIntyre said his amendment would mean that "for the first time in the history of the oil import program, the Senate will have the opportunity to vote on it. We will be challenged to make a clear choice between a program which benefits private profit and a program which would better serve the public interest.

"This vote will speak directly to the issue of how this government works — and for whom it works," he said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

Kent State Probe Call

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes announced Monday the state will direct a special grand jury probe into disroders at Kent State University last May.

Four Kent State students were shot to death during a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen who were on the campus to quell disturbances.

This would be the latest of several probes into the shooting incident, which also left nine persons wounded.

Whatever Happened To Hurricane Seeds?

MIAMI (AP) — Whatever happened to government plans for having Navy and Marine planes seed the next hurricane?

The Commerce Department in Washington explained Monday that Celia didn't fit into established guidelines for seeding, since land areas were already threatened by the time the tropical storm got upgraded to hurricane status.

And the same explanation goes for this year's two earlier hurricanes, Alma and Becky. Like Celia they formed in the northwest corner of the Caribbean bounded by the Yucatan, Cuba and Jamaica.

McGovern Accuses VA Chief Of 'Mindless Slur'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., has accused the Veterans Administration chief of a "mindless slur" in saying antiwar senators favor a surrender to communism.

McGovern released today a letter he sent to VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson. McGovern said he was replying to a statement made by Johnson against 26 Senate members seeking to fix deadlines for U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

Johnson's statement, McGovern said, was "a mindless slur far beneath the standards of conduct we should be able to expect from responsible government officials."

McGovern quoted Johnson as saying in a speech to Disabled American Veterans in Los Angeles a week ago that antiwar senators are "in favor of surrender to the forces of communism and totalitarianism, not only in Vietnam but also almost everywhere else in the world."

The South Dakotan wrote, "Among the senators you slurred are at least 17 combat veterans who hold many decorations for their valor and courage under fire.

"I am surprised that with the enormity of (veterans') problems and with the clear inadequacy of present programs, you can find time for vituperation against members of the Senate on an issue not within your area of responsibility," the letter said.

McGovern added it was "gravely disturbing to see the highest office in an agency which has always enjoyed broad bipartisan support used as a platform for hysterical political rhetoric."

Multiple Listing Service

MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE DOES SELL EQUITIES:

Some of the important advantages of a MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE are: (1). BUYERS & SELLERS receive the benefit of cooperation between REALTORS rather than being restricted to the offerings of a single agent or series of agents. (2). NEGOTIATIONS ARE carried on under rules of procedure designed to assure ethical practice, thus furthering the interests of clients and the public, while extending adherence to high standards of practice. (3). CURRENT MARKET information which is readily available through Multiple Listing, means that REALTORS, their clients and the public are better served and informed.

Sometimes we get the feeling we're being followed.

Everybody's getting into the act.

Everybody's making a small car.

And since we've made more of them than anyone else, we thought we'd pass along some things we've learned about the business over the years:

First off, there's no doubt about it, the only way to make an economy car is expensively.

So Rule No. 1, don't scrimp.

Get yourself the best engineers in the business and then hire 9,000 or so top inspectors to keep them on their toes.

Next, try to develop an engine that's not a gas-guzzler. If you can get it to run on pints of oil instead of quarts, great. If you can get it to run on air instead of water, fantastic.

Work on things to make your car last longer. Like giving it 45 pounds of paint to protect its top and a steel bottom to protect its bottom.

Important: Make sure you can service any year car you make. There's nothing worse than having someone find out that a part they need to make their car go is no longer available.

Finally, spend less time worrying about what your car looks like and more time worrying about how it works.

Perfecting a good economy car is a very time-consuming business. So far it has consumed 25 years of our time.

Mouthwash Makers Rap FDA's Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Three mouthwash makers affected by a government directive to halt certain advertising claims say their products are no longer on the market and another says he is baffled by the order.

The Federal Drug Administration said Sunday it was ordering eight manufacturers to stop saying within 30 days that their mouthwashes ended bad breath, sore throats or some irritations of the common cold, or face possible removal of their products from the shelves.

A Merck Co. spokesman said Monday the Tyrollaris Mouthwash cited by the FDA "has been off the market for three years," and two other companies reported that they haven't marketed the mouthwashes in question for more than six months.

Lever Bros. said of Pepsodent Antiseptic Mouthwash: "We discontinued the product over half a year ago and haven't advertised it in 10 years—in excess of 10 years. We have almost no inventory out in the field."

Pepsodent Antiseptic Mouthwash was one of eight products a National Academy of Sciences study showed to have little or no germ-killing power and "to be ineffective for preventive or therapeutic claims," the FDA said.

Sub-Committee Appointed To Write Model Charter

Meeting at 5:30 p.m. Monday under chairman R. H. Weaver, the Charter Action Committee agreed to the creation of a sub-committee to write a "model" charter for Big Spring incorporating changes suggested by other committee members and the city attorney.

Fourteen of the 20 committee members were in attendance, and a large majority indicated to Weaver that they believed some changes in the present charter were needed.

They then decided that the revised charter could be written better by a smaller group, then submitted to the committee as a whole for final changes prior to going before the voters.

A seven-man sub-committee was chosen, with John Taylor named chairman. Other members are David A. Brazel, John Burgess, Clyde McMahon Sr., the Rev. Robert L. Parramore, Bill Sheppard and Bob Whipkey.

The sub-committee will consider the suggestions in two lengthy memoranda, one prepared in 1965 by then City Attorney John Burgess, the other prepared this month by present City Attorney Herb Prouty. Both deal with areas of the charter that should be updated to fit Texas statutes passed since the charter was written in 1926.

Suggestions may also be submitted to the sub-committee in writing by any committee member during the next two weeks. After that time the sub-committee will begin to work the suggestions into a finished product.

Proposals offered at last night's meeting included revision of the election process for city commissioners, a suggestion that the city manager be required by charter to keep tabs on the receipt and disbursement of all supplies and equipment from one department to another, and a suggestion that vacancies on the commission of 90 days or more be filled by special election within 60 days.

Another recommendation was for specific limitations on the creation of a deficit by the city government, that would tend to keep the city running on a cash basis.

Paul Meek Named To College Study

Paul D. Meek, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., has been named to a committee designed to evaluate the technical-vocational programs now in operation on campuses of Texas public community colleges.

The Technical-Vocational advisory committee for the Texas Public Junior College Association includes 25 successful and influential people in business and industry over the state Dr. Marvin L. Baker, president of South Plains College, Levelland, served as chairman of a special committee making appointments.

Reduce Waste

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kitchen appliance can compress a week's accumulation of trash and garbage for a family of four into a small disposable bag.

The appliance, put out by Sears, Roebuck and Co., should help lower waste collection costs by reducing the volume of trash collected by city sanitation departments.

Going To Ban Sunday Traffic

TOKYO (AP) — Traffic is going to be banned on Sundays and holidays from some of the busiest streets in the world because of the success of a Sunday experiment.

A huge crowd—estimated by police at 785,000—swarmed into the Ginza, Shinjuku, Ikebukuro and Asakusa as traffic was kept from the area for staggered periods of five to 11 hours between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday.

Officials said this cut air and noise pollution sharply—the purpose of the experiment and the reason the traffic ban will continue.

Mysterious Man Top Clue In Bombing

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — After 10 days of investigation, police report their only significant clue to the murder of Phillip J. Lucier is a mysterious man seen sitting in the telephone executive's car shortly before it was blown apart by a bomb.

There is little else to go on and "There really is no new development," says Police Maj. Herbert Johnson.

Lucier, 49, co-founder and president of the Continental Telephone Corp., died July 24 when a black powder bomb exploded directly under the driver's seat of his car. Continental is the nation's third largest phone company.

The explosion ripped a wide hole in the car seat and shattered the rear window and windshield.

Johnson has directed the investigation with seven men from his department and an equal number from the St. Louis area major case squad, which withdrew Sunday. Normally the squad devotes only five days to a case.

St. Louis County Police determined the bomb was made from a piece of cast iron pipe with steel, threaded caps wired to a windshield wiper fuse slot.

"It was a very professional job and could have been installed in a few minutes," Johnson said.

Capt. Nicholas Valenti, director of the major case squad, said the only hint of progress in the investigation has been testimony of one witness who said he saw a man in a business suit sitting in Lucier's auto about 30 minutes before the explosion.

The witness was identified only as from out of town.

Police said the witness's description was vague and only fragmentary fingerprints were lifted from Lucier's car.

Continental has posted a $50,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for Lucier's murder.

Lucier was the father of 11 children.

Didn't Understand

HOUSTON (AP) — A dishwasher at a Houston drive-in cafe who didn't understand English was shot to death by bandits when he failed to obey their order to lie down on the floor Monday night. He was Bernard Cardenas, 65.

Don't Race Engine To Fight Pollution

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — There are many simple ways Americans can help fight pollution, Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has told a Republican convention.

"Get your car tuned. Don't race the engine," advised Murphy. "Be thoughtful about this. This is everybody's problem."
