Thrifty Groom Pours Out All His Meager Savings For License And Finds That He Is Short—By A Cent! Bride To Rescue

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 17—A prospective bridegroom gave Miss Thelma Smith, deputy clerk, a bag full of pennies and asked for a $2 marriage license.

"You only have 199 pennies here," said Miss Smith after a laborious count. "And this isn't bargain day."

The youth, red-faced, fished unsuccessfully in his pockets. Turning to his wife-to-be, he whispered: "You have one?"

She did.

Demos Attempting To Salvage Wage-Hour Bill And Tenancy Plan Before Congress Ends

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Dissatisfied Democrats tampered with the program of house leaders today by attempting to salvage the controversial wage-hour bill and appropriate funds for a farm tenancy program.

The insurrections raised possible barriers to adjournment by Saturday night, but party chieftains minimized their importance.

They countered by deciding to hold the house in session today until it has passed the final appropriation bill of the session—with or without the farm tenancy funds.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the agriculture committee raised the demands for the money after an economic - minded appropriations committee refused to authorize it. He pointed out that congress has approved a farm tenancy program and argued that $10,000,000 would be granted for loans to tenants and a similar amount for retirement of submarginal land.

Representative Hope of Kansas, ranking Republican on the agriculture committee, joined Jones in his appeal for the funds, which the agriculture department had requested.

The campaign to revive the wage-hour bill was more complicated. After leaders reluctantly had agreed the measure would go over until next year, 88 Democrats signed a petition yesterday for a party caucus on the issue and submitted it to caucus Chairman Doughton (D-NC). It urged a study of "all effective means" of bringing the bill to the floor.

Some influential Democrats said privately the petition was only a gesture.

A bill to place the air mail service under the interstate commerce commission started a one-man filibuster in the senate yesterday. Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), declaring it would "turn air mail over to the

Man Is Charged After Car Crash Monday

A charge of operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated, a felony, was docketed in the court of S. E. McMillian, justice of peace, this morning naming W. W. Stanley about 55, said to be a farmer of near Abernathy.

Stanley, set out a complaint prepared by Robert J. Allen, county attorney, and sworn to by Lewis Kittrell of the police, drunkenly drove his automobile on Broadway late Monday. Police said his machine struck a paked car occupied by Mrs. Lattie Rankin of Hilton hotel, which was in front of a drug store in 1100-block Broadway, after striking another car near a theater in that block.

Driven Onto Sidewalk

The Rankin car was driven onto the sidewalk, but Mrs. Rankin suffered only minor injuries, police said. A parking meter was broken.

Stanley had not been arraigned a few minutes before noon.

Police said they picked up a possible lead in a burglary Sunday night of Leftwich Food Market at 1806 Avenue H, when they found three men in the Mexican section of Lubbock and "found too much smoking tobacco," snuff, and a can of Vienna sausage. One of the men had $33. They told police they were from Ralls. Investigation was being continued this morning.

Young Girl Held

The sheriff's department held a 17-year-old girl in lieu of $1 fine and costs, assessed in the court of Walter Davies, justice of peace, for disturbance.

Bare Interest For Election

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 17—A preliminary survey today indicated Texas voters were but feebly interested in the election next Monday on six proposed constitutional amendments.

The attitude was attributed mainly to the current "off year" in political activity. In 1938, state office candidates will "beat the bushes" with their own brands of "political thunder" to get the electorate to the polls.

Light In Harris County

In Houston, with Harris county the subject of one proposal, County Clerk Henry M. Dudley expected only 6,000 votes out of a potential 60,000. Other estimates ranged downward from 10 per cent of the voting strength.

Selection of a fiotorial representative in district 112, composed of Wilbarger and Wichita counties, boosted activity in that section. The legislative seat left vacant by the resignation of Albert G. Walker, appointed assistant attorney general was sought by three candidates.

Klan Issue Raised In Senate Against Black

Copeland Says Proposal Is An Outrage

Crowded Galleries On Hand As Debate Is Launched In Effort To Block Approval

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Senator Copeland (D-NY) raised the Ku Klux Klan issue against Senator Black (D-Ala) in the senate today with a statement that he felt "outraged by this proposal to put a klan sympathizer" on the supreme court.

Opening the debate before crowded senate galleries on the nomination of Black to the supreme court, Copeland said the nomination should be rejected "if the Klan relationship is accepted as true," but that if there was doubt about it in senatorial minds it should be sent back to committee for an investigation.

Defeat Almost Certain

A small group of Republicans and "old line" Democrats facing almost certain defeat were lined up in the fight against Black.

When Copeland concluded, after speaking for an hour and a half without a single interruption, Senator Burke (D-Neb) arose and carried on the attack.

Criticizing the precedent for quick senate confirmation of a nomination of a senator, Burke said that "immemorial rule" was "unwise and dangerous." He urged special caution in confirmation of nominations of senators.

Lacks Impartial Mind

He asserted that Black did not possess an "impartial mind" and questioned whether he was "able to administer even-handed justice to all who come before him, regardless of religion or race."

Black himself was absent from his usual seat in the center of the Democratic side of the chamber as the bitter attack went forward.

The senate was called into session an hour earlier than usual, because Roosevelt leaders wanted to reach a vote by nightfall.

Foes of the nomination, claiming only 20 votes, said the 13 to 4 favorable vote yesterday by the senate judiciary committee had broken the opposition campaign.

Copeland brought into the open this subject, previously discussed guardedly in senate cloakrooms, with a statement in New York yesterday that "no man who was directly or indirectly connected with the Ku Klux Klan or was the beneficiary of its sympathy or support is fit for a place in any impartial tribunal and certainly not for a place on the supreme court bench."

The only cognizance taken of the subject by Black's friends came yesterday. Senator Minton (D-Ind) filed at the desk a letter from Jacob Weiss, whom he described as "one of the leading Jews of Indiana," criticizing the methods of Black's foes.

Weiss wrote that those who opposed the nomination on the ground Black was "at some time a member of the Ku Klux Klan" were "employing the ill-famed methods" of that organization. He said those using such methods were "not friends of the Jewish people."

LONDON, Aug. 17. (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden broke his vacation because of the gravity of hostilities in Shanghai today and returned to London for an emergency conference with some of his ministers.

Chef Is Hard To Restrain From Making "Feast Doves" Out Of "Peace Doves"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—The hotel where senate Democrats recently held a harmony dinner decided today to give the gate to a couple of hangers-on—the party peace doves.

"They're beginning to cause trouble," said Manager C. C. Shiffler. "We've had them in the kitchen ever since the dinner, and the chef is getting tired of them."

The two birds—which were released in the banquet hall when the dinner was at its gayest—were supposed to have been the white symbols of new found peace among the senators.

Shiffler said he has been having a hard time restraining the chef from converting the star boarders into an inspiration called dove pie a la Democrat.

"I keep telling him they're peace doves," explained the manager, "and he keeps telling me they're feast doves."

Rather than turn them over to the chef, Shiffler has decided to hold a little ceremony on the roof and turn them out upon the world.

Shiffler said he wants to tie

Tall Fishing Tales Of 1937 Season Are Dished Up

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 — Tall fishing tales hooked during the 1937 season were ready for serving today to all who would listen. They indicated story telling was still the logical aftermath of every fishing trip.

Here are some of the entries for this season's mythical fish tale title:

Clarence Schuff, of Allentown, Pa., caught a blue heron instead of a fish on his hook. The bird dived into a creek and came up with a minnow he was casting.

L. J. Gagnier of Waukegan, Ill., hooked a wildcat on a night fishing trip. The line was baited with liver. The wildcat was hungry.

Three Aurora, Ill., friends vouched for Bob Judd's story that a three pound black bass

Bullet-Riddled Body Located

(By The Associated Press)

COVINGTON, Tenn., Aug. 17—The bullet-punctured body of a 35-year-old negro slaying suspect was found hanging beneath a highway bridge 12 miles east of here early today.

The negro, Albert Gooden, was taken from Sheriff W. J. Vaughan by a band of six masked men late yesterday, while the sheriff was bringing his prisoner by automobile from Memphis to Covington.

Officer Was Slain

Gooden was accused of slaying Marshal Chester Doyle of Mason, Tenn., July 17 and was being brought here for a hearing today after having been held in Memphis for safekeeping.

Sheriff Vaughan said an automobile carrying the six men drew abreast of his car about eight miles from here and forced him to stop. While two of the masked marauders held pistols on the sheriff and a companion, Gooden was hauled from the officer's automobile.

Attendance At Annual Event To Be Large

West Texas Pharmacists Will Face Round Of Entertainment During Three Days In City

Terming the meeting one of the most important of its kind yet held and predicting a record breaking attendance, President Joe Bowen of Sweetwater arrived this morning for the formal start this afternoon of the three-day convention here of West Texas Pharmaceutical association.

Registration tables were established in the lobby of Hilton hotel, headquarters for the convention, and among the first to register additional to Bowen, were Dr. W. J. Danforth, Austin, secretary of the state pharmaceutical association; J. W. Bryant, Lamesa, secretary-treasurer of the West Texas association; Gerald Allen of Robert Lee, vice-president of the association; and J. M. Penland of Dallas, head of Southwestern Drug corporation and scheduled for one of the principal addresses of the convention.

Golf Tourney Held

Most of the arrivals today were at Lubbock Country club this afternoon for the annual golf tournament of the association, for which valuable merchandise prizes have been offered. Bert Pinson is in charge of arrangements for that feature.

High spot of tonight's program will be the annual drummers' banquet given by drug salesmen in the main ballroom of Hilton hotel. State Sen. G. H. Nelson will be principal speaker. The dinner will be followed at 9:30 p. m. by a dance.

Bowen reported that he has heard directly or indirectly from almost every section of the huge area represented in the West Texas association and that all reports bear out the indication of an all-time record attendance. Area represented in membership extends eastward to Fort Worth, Dallas and Waco, southward to Brownwood and San Angelo, westward to El Paso and northward to embrace the entire Panhandle.

Important Business

Perhaps most important of the business topics confronting the convention, he related, is that of the departmentalization of drug stores, which is proceeding, he added, on a scale representing many thousands of dollars and includes almost every store from the smallest to the largest.

Departmentalization has been forced on the druggist," he insisted, "by the encroachment of other lines of business upon the fields that once were considered exclusively those of the drug store. The druggist has had to act in self defense."

Real business of the convention will start Wednesday morning at 9 a. m. when Bowen will call the first session to order in the Hilton ballroom. Two business sessions during which important topics will be discussed, a luncheon, the annual association banquet and the annual dance will be included in the day's activities.

McCraw Will Speak

The outstanding feature of the entire convention will be the banquet Wednesday night at which William C. McCraw, Texas attorney general, will be principal speaker, and James P. Stinson of Abilene will be toastmaster. Annual elections will take place at the final business session Thursday morning.

Wednesday's program in detail follows:

10 a. m.—Call to order.

Welcome, Mayor Ross Edwards.

Response, "Shine" Phillips of Big Spring.

Addresses — "Retail Merchandising," by John McPherron of Chicago; "Retail Merchandising of Vitamin Products," by Dr. Jim DePree of Holland, Mich., and Charles Fisher of Dallas; and "Fair Trade Acts from Legislation Standpoint," by state Rep. J. Doyle Settle of Abernathy.

Hit-And-Run Driver Is Sought After Mishap

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 17—A Wichita Falls man was killed, six were injured, and officers sought a driver of one of two trucks following a collision early this morning three miles west of the city on highway 5.

Jodie Ireland, 27, unemployed oil field worker, died almost instantly when he was thrown from the sedan he was driving. Four other Wichitans in the machine were not seriously hurt. They were returning from a roadhouse dance.

Car Meets Truck

The accident occurred when Ireland's car met a truck passing a second truck, going in the same direction. Officers took conflicting statements regarding whether the passing truck was hit by the automobile before striking the side of the other vehicle.

The driver of the passing truck stopped, got out of the cab, and then stepped back in and drove on westward, officers were told.

Two of four in the other truck were slightly injured. Walter Wood, 26, driver, said they were en route from Houston to Salt Lake City, Utah, to find farm work. Their home is in Seattle, Wash.

Cure For Love Spats Sought

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 17.—So you've found the one and only?

That's great—but how long will it last?

Dr. W. A. McKeever of Oklahoma City's "lovers church" hopes he can help a god many of his proteges to stay happily married.

Deal With Problems

"It's time we dealt with the problems of married life," announced Dr. McKeever.

"Married love is quite as big a problem as unmarried love.

"A large percentage of married couples are in a row most of the time, and in not a few cases they don't get along together because they don't recognize the little causes and problems with which to deal.

He said this three-point teaching program would be instituted:

1. Detailed methods of conciliating quarrels.

2. How to tolerate each other's irregularities.

3. Definite ways of side-stepping divorces.

"She Loves Me, She Loves Me Not," And Disgruntled Rooster Squawks Protest

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Max Berger, 70, sat on a subway train plucking a live four-pound rooster given him by a friend.

"She loves me," he murmured dreamily, pulling out a handful of feathers, "she loves me not."

The rooster squawked in protest. Women subway riders looked dagger-eyed at Berger. He plucked on.

Finally, Kay Nelson, a passenger, stopped Berger.

"You're torturing that bird."

"I'm not hurting him," denied Berger. "I'm a retired barber and hairdresser. I could do this to a canary without hurting it. I could pluck your eyebrows and you would go to sleep while I was doing it."

The rooster squawked in disbelief as he lost another feather. When subway guards separated them, Berger and Nelson were tugging over the rooster. That impartial fowl was pecking at both.

At the police station Berger and Nelson explained. The

Terror Reigns As Guns Roar Through City

French Quarter Where Most Of Americans Live Sprayed With Jap Bullets Today

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Aug. 17—Shell splinters sprayed peaceful foreign home areas with death by day and great guns roared out terror tonight for the Chinese-Japanese battlefield of Shanghai.

One hundred thousand men with guns and bombs fought on to a goal none could foresee.

Fires ringed the city.

Japs Hard Pressed

Unconfirmed reports said Chinese troops had pressed hard on Japanese positions along the lines northeast of Shanghai facing the Whangpoo river beyond the international settlement. In some places they were believed to have penetrated Japanese advance positions.

Dark also disclosed three huge fires started by Chinese bombs and shells within Japanese lines.

One raged in Chapei, across Soochow creek from the international settlement. The other two roared skyward uncontrolled in the mill district northeast of Shanghai.

Blaze Is Unchecked

International settlement fire fighters withdrew to south of the creek, leaving the Chapei blaze unchecked, to protect the settlement itself from the advancing flames.

Japanese big guns boomed after dark in a renewal of the duel which earlier today threw shell fragments into the French concession, where most Americans in Shanghai live.

Concession police were unable to learn the number of dead or injured, but estimated fifty persons, all Chinese, were struck by shrapnel or shell splinters.

Business utterly collapsed.

Women, Children Flee

More than 2,000 American and British women and children fled from Shanghai. They played hide and seek with death down the Whangpoo river to reach waiting liners under the blazing guns of the Japanese fleet.

Sunset found "French town" ready for another dark night of siege. Foreigners and Chinese alike feared a repetition of last night's terrific battle over Pootung, industrial area across the Whangpoo river from the concession.

At dusk, guns of Japanese warships in the river began a terrific bombardment. The direction of the shells could not be ascertained.

Many Believed Dead

There were no estimates of casualties in outlying areas, but it was believed many were added to the thousands already killed and wounded in the five-day battle.

Chinese-Japanese air duels shook the city until early in the afternoon, spraying hot steel throughout the French concession.

Disease Fight Gets Results

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Dr. Sidney David Kramer, director of the infantile paralysis commission of the Long Island college of medicine, said today science is prepared, for the first time in history, with what it hopes will be a method of protection against the disease.

"Although there is still much experiment to be done we can say definitely that an effective method of control has been found, there is no doubt but that science has made important advances along this line during the past few months," said Dr. Kramer, who formerly was associated with poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) research at Harvard university.

Results Are Shown

"Tests with nose sprays on the rhesus monkey, only member of the animal kingdom that reacts to infantile paralysis in the same way as human beings, have given hopeful results. We know that the poliomyelitis virus enters through a tiny door in the nose where are exposed the hairline endings of nerves that lead to the brain. Therefore, we have been seeking a method of blockading this little door in the nose against the infantile paralysis germ."

The commission of which Dr. Kramer is director is aided by a grant from the president's birthday ball commission on infantile paralysis of which Henry L. Doherty is national chairman.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood, 2. Preparing for motherhood, 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

School Election Is Set On Wednesday

Election on the proposal to transfer first grade pupils of Carlisle and Hurlwood grade schools of Frenship rural school district to the Frenship building at Wolfforth will be held Wednesday, according to announcement Monday at the office of Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent.

The election does not involve the tearing down of the two buildings at the grade school locations, it was explained. It involved only the transfer to Wolfforth, where there is plenty of room and where each grade will have one teacher instead of a teacher having from three to six grades.

If the election does not carry, there will be no change in present arrangements, with each teacher having not to exceed 27 pupils.

Under these arrangements there will not be more than two teachers at each school, based on the number of enrolled children.

Jon Lindbergh Has Birthday

WEALD, Eng., Aug. 17 (AP) — Jon Lindbergh, a healthy little boy who likes to climb trees and wade in his father's pond was five years old Monday.

He spent the day in the rambling old Kentish house where he lives with his mother, and father and baby brother, Land Morrow Lindbergh. Ever since his parents, saddened by the kidnaping and death of their first son, Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., came to England on the blustery last day of December, 1935, they have lived in deep seclusion.

Not even a garrulous tradesman would tell whether little Jon had a birthday cake or a party.

Colonel Is Traveling

Jon has not seen much of his father lately, Col. Lindbergh has been traveling a great deal, for a time at least preparing for the recent experimental flights for ocean air service across the Atlantic.

He was not here to help Jon celebrate because he still was on the continent, presumably conferring with Dr. Alexis Carrel, Nobel prize winner of the Rockefeller institute, at the scientist's home on lonely St. Gildas island. It is believed that Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Carrel have reached an important stage in the development of the "mechanical heart" which they built together.

Jean Francois de Rozier made in 1783 the first balloon ascent.

DOTS AND DASHES - - - - .

A no-hit, no-run pitching performance is a no-hit, no-run pitching performance, even if it is in softball—and Pitcher Soape of the Idalou Softball club has the bouquet coming his way. . . . Idalou drubbed the Acuff team of the Slaton City league, 9-0, last night, and Soape had his way. . . . We haven't heard of any other hitless runless softball games, and only one baseball game of that kind on the South Plains this season. . . . .

Two very fine Texas Tech football boys are assured of employment for at least another year. . . We congratulate Alvin "Bull" Katrola, the large tackle who came to Tech by way of Taylor, Texas, and points in New Mexico, to end his collegiate career last season, and Charley "Nig" Duval, otherwise known as "Squarehead" and further known as one of the best blocking halfbacks in Texas Tech football history. . . . Bull and Nig have been elected instructors and assistant coaches at Burkburnett High school, where Volney "Satch" Hill, another former Texas Tech star, is head coach. . . .

This football business is just about upon us again. . . . Coach Weldon Chapman asks us to ask the Lubbock High football candidates for 1937 to meet with him Friday night at the high school gymnasium to discuss plans for the spring training camp, which is to open at Raton, N. M., next Monday. . . . So Westerner candidates, please note: You will be at the gym at 8 o'clock Friday night to talk things over with your coach, and you'll be leaving Monday morning for the mountain country. . . . Coach Chapman and Assistant Goober Keyes are there now, making final arrangements and preparations . . . They'll tell you all about it Friday night . . . And listen, guys: put all you have into this training camp, show Chapman that you mean business, and come back home ready to play football. . . .

THANKS TO Mr. E. C. Kuykendall, of the Ft. W. and D. R. R. Co., we have a copy of the Denver Post giving results and highlights of the recent Post Baseball tournament, once won by the Lubbock Hubbers, most recently by the Cuidad Trujillos, who defeated the defending champions, the Halliburton club of Oklahoma, in the final game. . . .

Texas teams figured heavily in the Denver Post tournament, clubs of Pampa and Borger coming away with money won for tying for third place. . . . and a Texas player, Dutch Prather, playing for Pampa, won the "leading hitter" prize. . . . Prather batted .524 in the tournament, which is good in anybody's tournament. . . . Sammy Baugh, playing for Pampa, was second with a .467 average . . . . Prather won the home run prize, or prizes, because there were three of these. . . . and distinguished himself generally. . . . Which reminds that the Pampa club will be with us here, playing the Hubbers, before the season is over. . . .

Borger's Huber Carbons, considered the leading North Plains Texas team, also came away with honors. . . . They also tied with Pampa for third place, and when you see the Borger club here in action a week from next Sunday, August 29, you'll see the best catcher at the Denver Tournament—Frank Warren of the Hubers. . . .

The Denver tournament lasted until 1 o'clock in the morning of the day following the "final" day. . . . A double header was necessitated when the Oklahoma team defeated the negroes, then had to play again, losing the second . . . . and there's many an interesting story of the sidelights accompanying the final session . . . Thanks, Mr. Kuykendall, for the paper. . . .

AND THAT PAPER reminds us of another left by Sport Wooldridge, a copy of a recent Texarkana Gazette in which is recounted old times in Texarkana sports. . . . The most interesting story is that of a ball game played in 1902 when the Corsicana team defeated Texarkana, 54 to 2, setting a scoring record, and numerous individual records that have never been surpassed. . . But an argument comes up. . . .

The Gazette at hand reminisces that the game was played on July 19, 1902, and was a Texas League game. . . . that three world records were set which have never been equalled. Most home runs in one game by one player, Nig Clarke of Corsicana, seven; number of extra bases in one game, 91, and the biggest score ever made in one game—54-2 by Corsicana. . . . The box score and J. Walter Morris' story of the game is reprinted in the recent edition. . . .

Which defies William Ruggies' book called "History of the Texas League." . . . In his 240-page history, Ruggies, who has been statistician of the Texas and other leagues for goodness knows how long, submits that 1902 was the first year of continuous Texas League activity, and that Corsicana, which won the pennant, had a wonderful team . . . He recalls the game with Texarkana, but gives the score as 51 to 3.

The record book, however, upholds the Corsicana team of that year as one of the sensations of all-time baseball. . . . It won 58 of its first 67 ball games, "setting with a percentage of .866 an enduring record for either half of a Texas League split season. . . . It's final winning percentage of .793 still stands as a record. . . . In its first half, it set a world's record with a run of 27 consecutive victories. . . .

And Jack Gorman, who doesn't rate preliminary mention here, is holder of a championship belt in San Angelo . . . . . Inconsistency, thou art a rassler!

INSTRUCTOR SIGNED

WACO, Aug. 17 (AP) — L. C. Wood of Cameron, president of the Texas High School Football Coaches' association, announced here today that Lynn Waldorf, head coach of Northwestern university, had been signed as one of the instructors of the coaching school for 1938.

Old Favorites On Mat Card

Jack Hagen, recently turned terror of the circuit, meets another Jack—"Terrible" Terry—in the next to last event of this week's wrestling card, which will be presented tomorrow night at the Auditorium.

Terry, the blond Canadian, hasn't been around for several weeks, but the fans no doubt remember him. He's a capable fighter when he gets ready, but he is slow to anger. If Hagen continues the tactics he has adopted in the local ring, it will be a battle, otherwise a wrestling match.

Dale Haddock Back

The Hagen-Terry battle comes on a few minutes before an old "favorite," Dale Haddock, enters the ring to do main event battle with Frank Wolfe, the terror of South Africa.

Haddock has been doing his wrestling in California this summer and doing quite well at that. He's quite well known here-abouts, and his presence is pretty sure to bring forth a goodly crowd of the faithful.

In the preliminary, Promoter Sled Allen presents El Pulpo, the Mexican who looked better than fair a few weeks ago here, versus Tex Hager, who lost to Jack Hagen in last week's special event. The Pulpo is pretty fancy, pretty rough and reasonably tough. So is Hager, when he sets his mind to it.

Mrs. Dean Fires A 78 In Qualifying

A snappy 78 fired yesterday by Mrs. C. L. Dean appeared good enough to win the medalist prize in the first annual Meadowbrook Women's Open golf tournament.

Today is the last day for qualifying. Match play begins Wednesday, continues Thursday and Friday, with finals on the latter day.

A goodly number of local women golfers have yet to register and qualify. Only ten had registered and only six had posted scores last night.

Mrs. Dean shot a 38 on the front nine, a 40 on the back for the best score turned in thus far. Other Country club golfers to qualify yesterday were Mrs. Glen Smith, Mrs. Guy McAfee, Mrs. Charles Akey and Mrs. Bill Helwig.

Meadowbrook golfers registered were Mrs. Bob Crawford, Nancy Leaverton, Ruth Bell, Mrs. Cliff Widener and Miss Boone.

Sport Scribes Think Negro Too Tough

LONDON, Aug. 17. (AP)—There's a suspicion in Britain that maybe it's just as well that the future of the empire doesn't depend on Tommy Farr.

Which is to say that if Joe Louis mangles him August 26, the commonwealth will be braced for the shock.

If it isn't braced, it won't be the fault of the British sports writers. They have spent much time and many shillings looking at the pictures of the Louis-Braddock fight, and, though generally inclined to let their patriotism get in the way of their judgment in decisions of this kind, they are picking Louis.

Nice Fellow Anyway

"Nice fellow, Tommy, courageous and all that sort of thing, but he really can't attack, can he?" they say. The critics don't believe their boy is good enough to stay 15 rounds with Louis without getting hit too many times.

There also is a tendency here to regret Tommy's recent eloquence. It's all very well for Farr to make a hit in America, but what Britain wants to know is, "is it dignified?"

Tommy's been quoted as saying he wants to win so he can have a family and his opinions on the old school tie have been printed. Ordinarily, one just doesn't have public opinions on having a family or on the old school tie!

No-Hit, No-Run Set Up In Idalou Game

IDALOU, Aug. 17 (Special) — A no-hit, no-run softball pitching performance went down in the books here last night when Idalou's team blanked the Acuff club of the Slaton City League, 9 to 0.

Pitcher Soape of Idalou allowed not a single hit, and nary a run was scored by the invaders. In addition to his hot pitching act, Soape smashed a home run, with mates aboard, to help win his own game. Another homer by I. Pruitt, combined with Soape's, brought in five Idalou runs.

The Idalou team is to play Post, tonight, and plans to enter the district softball tournament at Post next week.

Paving Of Three Blocks In Spur Being Done By City

(By Staff Correspondent)

SPUR, Aug. 17.—Paving of three blocks of streets as a part of a "loop" from the down town section to highway 18, east of town, is being done by the city, L. B. Burrow, city manager, reports.

A section about 1,000 feet long, from the city limits to the highway, is expected to be paved by Dickens county, if funds are available.

The highway department routed the road along the east side of town instead of through the business section. Paving of it is well along.

Football Bug Begins To Bite In Lubbock And 1937 Hopefuls Looking Forward To Training

The storm signals of football are being waved, and footballers who hope to "make" the two major league teams at Lubbock this fall are tramping about anxiously.

Lubbock High school's Westerners will quit the home turf Monday and do a ten-day training and conditioning stint in the shadows of New Mexico mountains.

Players Moving About

On the same day, tickets will go on sale for Texas Tech's 1937 home games, although actual preparation will not get officially underway at Tech Stadium until September 5. That is five days earlier than usual, and is permissible under a special ruling handed down by Border conference officers to benefit the Red Raiders and the Arizona State Lumberjacks. The Jacks will be here September 18 to open the season with the Raiders.

At the moment there is a movement about this part of the country of football players. Some of Tech's prospects already are in the city and doing setting up exercises of their own accord each day. Others have quit summer jobs in order to visit their families briefly before coming to the campus for the long grind.

Lubbock High school gridders will congregate Friday evening at the high school gymnasium to hear instructions from Coach Weldon Chapman and Goober Keyes regarding the training camp which opens Monday at Raton, N. M. The coaches went to Raton yesterday to make final preparations. They will return in a day or so, meet with their subjects, then they'll all pack their bags and be off.

Meanwhile, a committee of local business men, headed by W. O. (Dan) Daniels, is making headway toward helping finance the training camp. The school itself is doing most of the financing, but the business men's committee is aiding each of the boys to raise necessary individual funds.

Bo Williams, graduate manager of athletics at Texas Tech, announced last night that season tickets for Tech's home games would go on sale Monday at Hotel Hilton.

Save On Tickets

The season ticket will consist of six individual tickets, Williams said, and the package will sell for $7.50, for grandstand seats, or $8.50 for box seats. This means a saving of nearly 35 per cent, or $3.75 for the season, if one plans to see all the home games.

Williams said that all season ticket holders of last season who wished to reserve the same seats for the coming season would be accommodated if they would call him at the office in the Tech gym before Monday.

There will be no limit to the number of season tickets offered this season. In the past, only a certain amount have been offered.

National Leaguers Are Promised Bitter Medicine In The Coming World Series

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—President William Harridge of the American league offered President Ford Frick of the National league a friendly little tip on the coming World series today—and it sounded suspiciously like "don't forget to duck."

Prexy Harridge let it be understood he looks for (1) an interesting series (2) a swell turnout by the fans and (3) an enjoyable time for most everybody concerned.

He then wound up and burned in a warning to Mr. Frick that the National league champions very likely aren't going to enjoy themselves one bit when they run up against those terrible American league New York Yankees.

"O' my, I'd hate to predict who'll win," he said as he warmed to his subject "but while I don't say that it will go only four games I don't think the National league champions will have a chance."

Texas Lineup Remains Unchanged By Battles

(By The Associated Press)

Texas league standings today remained unchanged in spite of three doubleheaders and a single tilt played yesterday to make up for Sunday's washed out affairs.

Perched loftily out of shouting distance from the rest was Oklahoma City which floated even higher yesterday by annexing two well-played affairs from Houston's seventh-placers by scores of 2 to 0 and 2 to 1. Brilliant hurling featured both contests.

Steers Again Defeated

San Antonio's second-place Missions helped their cause by defeating the lowly Dallas Steers 3 to 0. Pitchers Woods of the cellarite Mavericks and Theis of the Padres continued the good work of their series predecessors.

Beaumont and Fort Worth split double bills as did Tulsa and Galveston.

Scores in the former's games were 4 to 2 and 10 to 2, while the latter chalked up counts of 1 to 0 and 3 to 0.

Swimming And Diving Event At Country Club Is Cancelled

Because of football training camps and vacations, Bob Clark of Amarillo Country club will be unable to assemble his regular team for a scheduled trip and swimming and diving exhibition at Lubbock Country club tonight, so the event is cancelled.

Charles Akey, pro-manager at the Lubbock Country club, announced last night that Clark, who previously had promised to bring a team of expert water artists here for a special exhibition for Country Club members, had telephoned that he was unable to do so.

A farm association in South Dakota distributed 7,000 posters in rural areas urging farmers to "play safe; plant feed crops."

'Oldest Mayor'

TRENTON, Tenn. (AP)—Trenton's 86-year-old mayor, W. E. Seat, thinks he's the oldest living mayor in the United States.

In any case, he's Trenton's oldest citizen, has run for city and county jobs 34 times and been elected to 31.

He was just a child at the time of the Civil war, but he remembers distinctly the time General Nathan Bedford Forrest, the Confederate cavalry leader, rode into Trenton.

"I was only 12 years old," he says, "but I went to the general and told him I wanted to enlist. He looked down from his horse and said, 'You young scamp! You run home to your mother.'"

He's lived here all his life and says he'd rather be mayor of Trenton than of New York.

Chicago Faces Tough Pirates In First Bout

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Charley Grimm, leading his stumbling but still first-place Cubs into Pittsburgh today to open a three-game series with the Pirates, believes that on September 4 the Bruins will have as good a margin in the National league race as they now command—four games.

September 4 is the day the Cubs return to Wrigley field, with 17 road games behind them and a balance of 21 at home and 10 away ahead.

Caged By Pirates

Grimm might, off the records, have put a shorter time limit on his forecast—until the end of this series with the Pirates and the subsequent one with the Reds, in fact.

It's the Giants, of course, who, in second place and bolstered by the heavy-hitting comeback of Hank Leiber and the spark-plugging of demon Dick Bartell, are making a race of it. But it's the Pirates, nine games off the pace in fourth spot, and the Reds, 20 games down in the shadows of the second division, who have been able to cage the Chicago Bear most consistently.

Their latest Cub-caging feats came in the just-concluded engagements at Chicago, where the Pirates won two out of three and the Reds three out of four. Between them, they forced Grimm to toss 20 pitchers into the seven games. Only one, Clay Bryant, managed to go the route, pitching a five-hitter that beat the Buccaneers.

Hard After Cardinals

The Pirates, sneaking back out of a mid-season slump and breathing hard on the necks of the third-place Cardinals, are the only club to hold an edge on the Cubs over the season, having won eight of 14 games. The Reds are the only club to hold the Grimm (grim if you prefer) crew even, at six-all.

From the Giants, to be met twice on this trip, and the Dodgers, with whom three games are scheduled, the Cubs have won 11 to 17; from the Phils, whom they will play twice, 11 of 18; from the Bees, to be faced three times, 11 of 18, and from the Cards, whom, much to their disappointment, they don't play at all this time around, they have won 10 out of 12.

The Cubs carried into action today with a three-game losing streak, the Pirates a three-game winning streak.

Elsewhere along the big league wheel, the Giants visited the Bees, the Dodgers were at home to the Phils, the Cards were at Cincinnati, the American league-leading Yanks met the Senators, boasting an eight-game string, in a doubleheader, the Red Sox were at Philadelphia, the Tigers at Chicago, and the Indians at St. Louis.

Amendments Coming Up On Aug. 23 Explained For Plains Voters

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles explaining the constitutional amendments upon which Texans will vote in a special election next Monday, August 23.

AUSTIN, Aug. 17 (AP) — The people of Texas will vote Aug. 23 on six proposals to amend the State Constitution.

Two would authorize financial assistance to adult needy blind and to destitute children and thereby enable Texas to participate in another phase of the federal social security program.

The others would eliminate double liability for stockholders in state banks, give the Legislature power to prescribe a new system of remunerating district, county and precinct officials, permit a discount method of paying taxes and allow Harris County to levy a tax for a master road plan.

A peculiarity is that the election will be on Monday instead of Saturday as usually is the case in Texas.

The proposed amendment to aid the blind would authorize the Legislature to provide for payment of not more than $15 a month to needy blind persons more than 21 years old, with some exceptions. Because the federal government will match the state money, an individual might receive a maximum of $30.

Criminals Not Eligible

Habitual criminals, habitual drunkards and inmates at any state supported institution will not be eligible and additional restrictions would be an applicant for assistance must have lived in Texas five years of the nine immediately preceding his application and continuously for one year just preceding it.

The Legislature specifically would be given the power to extend aid under such limitations, regulations and restrictions as it deemed expedient, and these have been set forth in an enabling act adopted at the session which submitted the amendment.

The act creates a division of public welfare in the state board of control to administer the assistance to needy blind and destitute children, as well as certain other social welfare work.

It also provides for examination of applicants' eyes each two years for treatment in an effort to restore sight and for disqualification from receiving aid if persons refuse to permit the examination or the treatment. Public beggars are barred.

District or county agencies would determine the amount of aid granted after taking into consideration the individual's resources and necessary expenditures, and a person in need would seem to be one with insufficient income or other resources "to provide a reasonable subsistence comparable with decency and health."

6,000 Said To Be In Need

No one knows how many persons would be eligible under the amendment and the enabling act, but Rep. Lon E. Alsup of Carthage, author of the proposal, estimated there were not more than 6,000 needy blind in Texas and probably not more than 3,000 could qualify. Other sources have estimated the number of adult blind in the state at between 3,000 and 5,000.

The Legislature decided on the age of 21 as the starting point for receiving assistance because the state school for the blind accepts pupils between the ages of 6 and 21, although many are graduated at 18. Some legislators took the position the three-year gap would serve as a stimulus toward self support.

The proposal for aid to children would empower the Legislature to assist those under 14 years old who were "destitute" but the assistance could not exceed $8 a month for one child or $12 for a family, and, moreover, the total for the entire state could not exceed $1,500,000 annually.

The Legislature would be given blanket authority to impose residential and other restrictions and limitations as it wished. The federal government would add to the financial assistance an amount equal to one-third of that put up by the state.

Administered Through Boards

As in the case of aid to adult blind, assistance to destitute children would be administered by the public welfare division of the board of control through district and county agencies, which would consider the individual's resources and necessary expenditures for the purpose of providing "reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health."

To be eligible, children would not have to be orphans but merely deprived of parental support, which might be by continuous absence or physical incapacity.

Estimates as to the number of children who might be eligible have ranged from 30,000 to 50,000, generally, although when the subject was before the Legislature some persons predicted the total might be 80,000. A number of sharper restrictions were included in the amendment and enabling act at the last moment because of the evident fear the situation might get out of hand.

For example, the amendment originally provided for aid to "dependent" children, but "destitute" was substituted; in addition, the original age provision of 16 years was lowered to 14, and a maximum cost to the state was fixed.

Military Rival

With militarism ever increasing in Europe, this sternly martial picture of Archduke Albrecht of Hungary, assumes greater significance. The son of the late Archduke Friedrich, he is the chief rival of Archduke Otto for the Hungarian throne. Albrecht recently divorced his commoner wife.

Employes of the War Department are scattered through 19 different buildings in the District of Columbia.

That Girl on Broadway says why pray for wealth or fame when you can develop a case of swell-head and be just as happy?

All in all, the opposition to Comrade John Lewis has been fair. It has never claimed his eyebrows were false.

WELCOME druggists! Welcome druggists! The Plainsman is mighty glad to greet you because, along with the newspaper boys, you are the hardest working men in all West Texas!

That's one thing we have in common — we newspapermen and druggists. We work day and night; we aren't clock-watchers or whistle-listeners and you don't hear us squawking about 30-hour weeks and 2-hour days.

We like to work, or we'd get into an easier racket. The guy who doesn't like to work never even gets close to a drug store or a newspaper office.

The druggist is the butt of many a joke because his store offers so many different kinds of merchandise.

But you can mark it down on your cuff, he wouldn't be carrying everything he carries unless his customers demanded it — and we've all learned that the fellow who pleases the customer is the fellow who gets ahead!

THE PLAINSMAN hopes nobody pulls a joke during the West Texas druggists convention about drug stores selling sandwiches.

This is the honest truth — and The Plainsman can prove it.

The writer went into one of the largest eating places in Lubbock for lunch the other day and couldn't get a club sandwich because there wasn't a scrap of chicken in the kitchen!

No wonder the drug stores are in the restaurant business!

But anyhoo — as the Scotch would say — here's to members of the West Texas Pharmaceutical (we hope that's the right spelling) association and to a good convention here in Lubbock, the favorite gathering place of all West Texans.

And here's also hoping all you boys have a good time, because you sure don't get away from the grindstone long enough to enjoy yourselves when you're home!

OH boy, oh boy, oh boy—but did The Plainsman get a sock in his self-complacency the other day! And did he learn from first-hand experience that the smart-elick is only riding for a fall?

About a week ago this column pointed out an error in grammar, perpetrated by Governor James V. Allred in his column, "The Rest of the Record".

A few days later The Plainsman turned around and pulled a swell one himself—using "whom" when he should have used "who".

A member of the english faculty at Texas Tech, who asks that his name not be used, sent in a note nailing us to the mast in a great big way.

And was our mugg—already beet-colored from the August temperature—redder!

Arthur Bullock brought this in:

"Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you're doing, but nobody else does."

MAYBE the President would agree to a truce if the Supreme court justices promised to wear red robes.

Nudists in California — it would have to be California where there are more goofs per square mile than anywhere else—have formed an organization with a constitution, bylaws and a slogan.

Next, we assume, they will select an official un-button.

That Man on Avenue Q says maybe men are heroes but they endure no more to win freedom than women do to win beauty.

Herbert Ralls is telling this one around:

Over in the "backest" of the the East Texas backwoods an old settler got hold of a pencil and some paper. After laboring with the materials for some time, he howled for his wife:

"Hey, woman," he hollered, "come yere, come yere!"

When the old lady got to his side he pointed, with pride, at his work.

"See yere. I've done learnt to write."

The old lady inspected it carefully and then retorted:

"Thet's right, pappy, you shore is learnt to write, but whut's that you has writ?"

"I dunno, mammy," he said. "I ain't learnt to read yit!"

In another part of today's Journal will be found the first of a series of three articles bearing upon the special election to be held over Texas next Monday, August 23.

On the ballot will be found listed six proposed amendments to the state constitution and the chances are not five per cent of the electorate knows what the proposals are or what they mean.

Hence The Journal is printing the series of articles, "breaking down" the various amendments and explaining just what they set out. The series comes from the Austin bureau of the Associated Press.

Each of the articles deals with two amendments and there is no effort made to sway the decision of the reader. They are merely explanatory and leave with the individual the right to make up his own mind.

The Plainsman recommends the entire series to those who would be informed before going to the polls.

Speaking of elections, let us point out to one and all that the changes made by county commissioners in consolidating various voting precincts, as announced in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal, do not apply to the election on Monday. Voters will go to their regular voting places, where they have been going for years.

The commissioners very wisely cut Lubbock county's number of voting precincts from 33 to 18, but the change does not go into effect until February of 1938.

"Flame Trail"

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD
(Copyright, 1937, Marie De Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine impulsively hires Ted Gaynor, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor, who wants to get her ranch and marry Kay. Ted and Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molests Kay, shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Arrested Ted is tried for Scrap's murder, but Kay stops the trial by technical protest. When the posse is taking Ted back to Montana for a second trial, he escapes and races to rescue Kay, whom Hastings has kidnaped and locked in a cellar, trying to force her into marriage.

Chapter 45
Proof At Last

Kay clung to him with muffled sobs as his grasp involuntarily tightened.

"Ted! Ted! It isn't you! It can't be you!"

"There, there!" he soothed, and again following his involuntary impulse, he kissed her hair.

With a breathless gasp of happiness, Kay raised her lips to meet the kiss that must next inevitably find its way to that goal, but with a startled oath, as though awakening from a dream, Ted drew back.

"I've got to get you out of here," he said gruffly. And before Kay could answer, he stooped and grasped her about the knees, raising her to the ceiling opening.

"Hang on," he ordered, "and I'll hist you up."

Puzzled and hurt, Kay grasped the edge of the opening, and the next minute found herself on the floor above. A second or two, and Ted was beside her.

"Quick!" He grasped her hand and pulled her to her feet. "The first thing is to get out of here."

Together they made for the dim opening that led to the starlit night outside. As they stepped into the street, Ted shoved Kay sharply to the right.

Glancing down to discover the reason for his abrupt movement, Kay's eye caught sight of the crumpled black form, slumped against the edge of the road. She shrank back against Ted, clutching his hand still more tightly.

"Is it Josh Hastings?"

"No. Worse luck," Ted growled, leading the way to his mount.

Kay hesitated as he motioned her to the saddle. "What are you going to do?" she whispered, in sudden fear for him, as the significance of his appearance became clear to her. "How did you come here? Have you escaped? They'll get you again!"

"Never mind that now." As she still hesitated, he stooped and lifted her bodily into the saddle, swinging up behind her. The next moment, they were headed for the open range.

A Note Of Bitterness

A wild fear ran through Kay as she remembered that former ride with him. For the second time, he had saved her! She felt again that certainty that he cared for her as she did for him, and she relaxed in his arms. What did it matter where she was going, as long as it was with him?

For some minutes they rode on without speaking. Ted walking his horse so as to make the least possible noise. The silence of the mesa closed over them like a caress, and as Kay looked up at the stars, a great happiness and peace stole over her. It didn't matter if neither of them ever spoke again! Nothing mattered but that this moment should stretch out to eternity!

"I'm taking you to Cedar Gulch," Ted broke the silence at last, and his voice had a strained, unreal sound. "A train goes through there at 4 a. m. It will stop if you flag it. Get back to Seth and the ranch as quick as you can."

"And you?" Kay breathed.

"I'm clearing out. There's nothing to stay here for, except to be framed for a necktie party." His tone had a note of bitterness that made Kay shrink back as though he had struck her.

She made no comment, and again they lapsed into silence, but this time the magic was gone from it. Once more Kay felt the bewildered hurt that Ted's inexplicable change of mood gave her. Inexplicable at least, except from one angle, that he was in love with Marion Howell, and that what he did for her was simply accepting the chivalrous necessity of getting her out of a mess.

If that was the case, she certainly wasn't going to let him guess her feeling for him, Kay told herself proudly. She drew slightly away and straightened up.

"How far is it to Cedar Gulch?"

"About seven miles."

"You haven't told me how you escaped." Kay said after another long pause.

In a few words, Ted related his getaway from Farley's posse.

"After I leave you, I'm going back to the mountains to lie low until the hunt lets up. First I've got to see that everything's all right with Marion Howell, though. I've got a hunch something's mighty wrong." These last words came out in a musing tone, almost as though he was talking to himself. He gave a sudden start as he heard them uttered aloud. "That's a dangerous thing to tell you though isn't it?" he added bitterly. "Maybe you'll want to use it again."

"What do you mean?" Kay's voice was both hurt and indignant. "I don't understand you!"

"Oh no! Sure you don't."

Kay winced at his biting irony.

"I don't!" she declared hotly. "What do you mean?"

"I haven't thanked you for thinking up that clever way to get me a delay." Ted abruptly changed the subject. "And you haven't told me how you got into Josh Hastings' hands."

Kay told her story in her turn, starting with her finding the steel nail head, and tracing it to Josh Hastings' gauntlet.

Ted gave a sharp exclamation. "That fits in! Right along, I've been sure that while I was lying wounded by the water there, I came to, and looked up to find him bending over me!"

"And he said you were by the water!" Kay excitedly repeated Josh Hastings' slip to her. "Ted! Do you suppose——"

"I haven't a doubt that he murdered Scrap Johnson," Ted declared. "But what can you do about it? Or about what he did to you?"

"I can show him up to the whole world!" Kay asserted recklessly.

Ted slowly shook his head. "You can't do it! It'll be only your word against his, and he'll talk you down."

"But you can witness I was there, in the cellar of that blacksmith shop!"

"I won't be here. And he could easily point out that I have only your word for it that he was the one to bring you there."

Dead Girl's Diary

A sudden memory of the notebook she had found flashed over Kay. Reaching in her pocket, she drew it out. She explained to Ted how she had found it, and also repeated what Josh Hastings had said in his rage about having used that place before.

"He said that!" Ted's every muscle tensed, and his voice vibrated with so strong an emotion of some sort that Kay twisted around in surprise. "My God! I wonder—" He reached for the notebook. "I've got to see this!"

He pulled his mount to a halt and swung out of the saddle. Gathering up some dry bits of brush, he struck a spark against a stone with a flint he had in his pocket.

Kay slid down beside him, and with bated breath leaned over his shoulder as he opened the notebook and read it by the flickering light of the tiny blaze.

The first pages seemed to be shopping lists and bits of unrelated memoranda. Then, suddenly, the writing became cramped and uneven, the lines sometimes crossing, as though it had been written at random in the dark.

It was all incoherent and meaningless at first, but as Ted read on, Kay's heart began to pound. Then, as Ted finished, he turned to her with a triumphant exclamation.

THE WAGE AND HOUR BILL IS STYMIED

From all indications, the Black-Connery Wage and Hour bill is shelved as far as the present session of Congress is concerned.

That is good news to the South and lends hope that the next session of our national legislators will continue to see a return to sanity and that then, once and for all, the administration's latest regimentation plan will be thoroughly junked.

The wage and hour bill, briefly, is another of those efforts of the administration to socialize the country.

Further, it is a plan which would set the South back into an economic position comparable with that of reconstruction days.

Since it has been proven over and over again that the South cannot economically compete with the North in the matter of labor and industry, it is puzzling to note President Roosevelt's insistence upon its passage. He should know—he must know—that the Black-Connery bill would result in paralyzing the South's economic life and wipe out the progress it has made since the days following the Civil war.

The firm stand against the bill by representatives and senators from below the Mason-Dixon line should, in itself, be enough to prove to the average Southerner that the wage and hour bill is against his best interests. The Journal says "Thank heaven for that stand; thank heaven for the courage Southern lawmakers have shown in refusing to bend the knee, even in the face of threatened political reprisals and in the withdrawal of patronage."

As in the Supreme court fight—although less spectacularly—at least a portion of the Congress has stood for the right as against the pork barrel!

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Short takes: Ann Sothern's contract with KRKO had been torn up. Nothing serious, though—her temperamental terrier, which seems to have the instincts of an agent, got hold of it the other day.

Strictly Hollywood

For weeks a search was made for a girl who looked like Shirley Temple to work in a sequence in "Heidi." Several applicants were tested, and executives were beginning to fear that production might be delayed.

Then somebody suggested using Mary Lou Isleib, Shirley's stand-in, who had been on the set all the time. . . . Hollywood is like that.

The same thing happened when they were looking for a Jean Harlow double and finally used Mary Dees.

The Upkeep—And The Cost

At a preview of Walter Wanger's "Vogues of 1938," the producer sat in the theater with his art director and held whispered consultations on various scenes.

A regular patron, who had paid to see the advertised feature, but not the surprise preview, tapped the whisperers and asked them to keep quiet.

Wanger said, "You're watching this for nothing, mister—but I paid one million, five hundred thousand dollars to see it!"

Roosevelt-Farley Stand In Gotham Mayor's Race Shows They're Not Loyal Democrats

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Hypocrisy in politics—although it is virtually universal—seldom blooms into its quintessence more voluptuously than at times when a national administration insists it is taking no part in the mayoralty politics of New York City.

This year's New York fight also indicates what a mess politics is coming to, when you recall that Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia probably will be running on the Republican, Fusion, American Labor party and Communist tickets. And that the Roosevelt administration covertly will be working for LaGuardia—probably openly in case anti-administration Senator Royal S. Copeland, Tammany's candidate, should win in the city's Democratic primaries. Copeland has also entered the Republican primary.

Out To Beat Copeland

From now on there will be emissaries shooting in and out of Washington with various assurances that the President is sincerely backing Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, or that he is really behind LaGuardia, whom he sees as an important cog in the anticipated big progressive-conservative split of 1940. No one will ever suggest that there's any chance that the President or Farley will wholeheartedly support Copeland, although some tipsters will assert that Roosevelt will keep hands off if Copeland becomes the Democratic nominee.

Dutcher

The hottest tip this writer gets is that Roosevelt is for LaGuardia, and will quietly help him—or certainly not get in his way—in any event, whereas he would do everything in his power to beat Copeland. The senator "took a walk" in the last campaign and his wife made pep talks to Republican groups, so administration opposition will be more than a reprisal based on Copeland's prominence in the fight against the court plan.

Sees Court Reprisals

Copeland has no illusions. He publicly declares that Roosevelt is breaking up the Democratic party and he demands a constitutional amendment limiting a President to two terms. Although Vice President John Garner told opposition senators that in ending the court plan fight there would be no reprisals by the administration, Copeland knows better and is publicizing the fact that there will be. He has made the mayoralty fight, although it seemed sure to be anyway, a test of New Deal strength in America's largest metropolis.

Both Copeland and his Tammany cohorts have begun to shout that LaGuardia, not Mahoney, is Roosevelt's real candidate.

New Deal Is Issue

Four years ago Farley, Ed Flynn and other leaders ganged up behind "Holy Joe" McKee and backed him against the Tammany candidate on an "American party" ticket. LaGuardia won in a three-way fight. Since then it has always been a question in the minds of politicians and political students as to whether Roosevelt allowed Farley, who sincerely wanted to break up the Tammany leadership and bring the machine under his control, to back another strong ticket so that LaGuardia could slip through to victory by virtue of a division of the opposition vote.

There has been much happy, childish excitement among the New Dealers ever since it became known that Copeland might run. Few anti-New Deal senators are so distinguished as objects of administration hatred as he. Roosevelt made a

LOCAL RADIO TALENT

Dear "Plainsman": I think that it was high time that someone has had the courage to speak up about radio talent in Lubbock. I am another questioner writing on this subject. I am not intending to tell you how you should run your paper any more than I would tell Mr. Landis how he should manage the radio station. But I am bringing these questions to you in the interest of the other many talented young men and women in Lubbock. What do you think of the talent rating of Lubbock? Do you think that there are many young men and women talented for opportunities in the field of radio? How many can you number that have entered the field already? Do you think that there are many who are talented enough to enter moving pictures, stage, or music?

Of course, I am confining this information to radio. But if you will excuse me for this statement, I think you overlooked the fact that when KFYO was installed in Lubbock about five years ago, a statement was made by the first production manager on the staff at that time. He quoted that this town had the talent of a city of 200,000. This may sound a bit exaggerated, but if you will look about you, you will find that the churches, the college, the schools, the public institutions, and also the local civic clubs and organizations contribute largely to the talent offered.

Now then, if there be so much talent existing in Lubbock, particularly in the schools, what is being done to bring this talent before the public? The school officials speak about the opportunities of youth. But are these officials seeing to it that the students are being justified by granting opportunities so that students may express themselves. It is true that the Tech and high school edits a newspaper, but what do the students do that are fired with enthusiasm of radio? Are they allowed to produce, announce, and present their talents freely by way of the radio? Mr. Plainsman, this is a new age, an age of expression. Must our young men and women who have interests in talents and vocations go unheeded in radio? You remember when you first became aroused in the newspaper field. You can remember the first edition that ran an article by you, and how proud you must have felt. Can you not help us?

Get behind us. Pass the good word along for us to Mr. Landis. Here's my idea. The schools should find the students that have radio talent; they should let those who are interested in production arrange the broadcasts; for those interested in announcing, let them announce; for those in dramatics, allow them to put on drama; allow the journalism department to write the program continuity; those in the music department, put on musical programs, etc. Then broadcast these programs on an amateur basis. The public will not expect too much, then, and will be satisfied. Also broadcast these programs by remote control from the respective schools. The high school assembly program from the auditorium, the Tech convocations, and Tech's talented students will contribute nicely to these broadcasts if the students are allowed to handle them. At Tech there is going to be a new library. Why not point out this suggestion? Turn the old library space into a college studio for dramatics and broadcasting when the new library is finished.

Respectfully yours,
James S. Henninger,
Lubbock.

(Dear Mr. Henninger: Thanks for your letter. Let me suggest that you take the matter up with Mr. DeWitt Landis, lord high executioner of KFYO, who knows the radio business. As for local talent, I have no doubt there is some here which should be given a waiting world. Neither do I doubt that the woods (figuratively speaking) are full of people who think they have talent but whose entertaining efforts would be a terrific pain in the neck to the listening public. You'd be surprised how many people think they have talent—and how many parents think their kids have talent—when, as a matter of fact, they haven't anything but a mistaken idea. However, that's not my worry. See Mr. Landis. He is a very gentlemanly, agreeable and sympathetic young man who wants to make just as many people happy as he possibly can. Very truly yours, The Plainsman.)

County Budget Gets Approval

Lubbock county commissioners court Monday approved a 1938 budget of $250,440.64, approximately $12,000 more than the current budget, but only about $7,000 greater than that for 1936.

Tax rate for the current year was set at 50 cents per $100 valuation. This is the same as for 1936. Valuation for last year was $22,321,186. This year's valuation has not been announced, but is believed to be slightly greater than last year.

Taxes Set Monday

Monday the commissioners set a poll tax of 25 cents, to be collected at the same time the state collects its $1.50 poll tax. An occupation tax for the county, equal to one half of the state rate, was likewise approved.

County Auditor Joe Y. Boyd submitted a budget, which was given approval. It includes the following estimated figures for 1938: current ad valorem, $94,953.50; delinquent taxes, $36,157.93; other resources, $119,445.21; total revenue, $250,-440.64; cash balance, $58,789.80; total resources, $309,230.47; approved budget, $250,440.64; excess $58,-789.83.

Costs be divided into the following groups; administrative, $40,-463.99; judiciary and legal expense, $23,784; charity, $10,150; health and sanitation, $1,500; agriculture and livestock, $4,245; bridge and building, $63,237.50; capital outlay, $51,-978; payment of debt, $20,932.15; reserve, $13,550; transfer to salary funds, $21,000.

Sinking Earth Crust Dooms Valuab'e Farm Land In Idaho Section

Bubble ground, settling into a great cavern between the outer crust and the earth's core, gave H. A. Robertson, Buhl, Idaho, farmer, a scenic canyon in his own back yard. But to Robertson, shown surveying the damage, it was anything but grand, for the muffled boom of subterranean landslides and the crack of splitting rock sounded the knell for valuable farm land. More ominous was the fear of geologists that the phenomenon might be followed by an earthquake in south central Idaho. There were indications of an underground air pocket 1500 feet deep and 100 miles long. The canyon developed in 10 days from a small crack to a fissure 300 feet deep.

Idaho's "Sinking Land" Phenomenon Found To Be More Extensive Than First Thought; Damming Of Little Salmon River Feared

By The Associated Press

BUHL, Idaho, Aug. 17.—Hazardously exploring and washed into deep crevaces by queer geological disturbances, newspapermen discovered today that the area of the Buhl "sinking land" phenomenon is more extensive than at first estimated.

Climbing over earth that "trembled when we stomped our feet," newsmen found the disturbed area originally thought to include approximately five acres a region one and a half miles long and half a mile wide.

Rivers Course Narrowed

Explorations revealed that the course of the nearby Little Salmon river is being narrowed. In several places it is now four feet wide where formerly the stream flowed through a 250-foot channel.

A large area of farm land, bordering the river is breaking away and leaning over the water, explorers said.

"When that section falls," one newspaperman said, "it will dam the river to a height of 50 feet. The backwater spreading out, will seep through the crevaces and the area, softened by water likely will collapse."

Further collapse of the land would rob farmers of even more valuable acreage.

Two infant canyons already formed, have not spread during the past two days, H. A. Robertson on whose farm most of the phenomena is occuring, reported. The canyon bottoms, one of which is now 200 feet below the original surface, are continuing to sink gradually, Robertson said.

Geologists explained that washing out of supports in subterranean lava cavern and alleviation of air pressure is causing the sinking.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP) — Cotton futures opened quiet, 1 to 3 higher with steadier Liverpool cables partly offset by foreign and southern selling. Oct. 10.33; Dec. 10.26; Jan. 10.31; March 10.37; May 10.44; July 10.45.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17 (AP) — The cotton market continued to move uncertainly and without definite trend at the opening today.

First prices here were 1 point up to 3 points down.

The entire trade was hesitant about entering upon new business until the government makes a definite decision on the proposed loan.

A private source said it was expected that Secretary Wallace would wait until after adjournment of congress to announce a loan of 9 cents a pound with a three cents a pound subsidy. Oct. opened at 10.25, Dec. at 10.32, Jan. at 10.36, March at 10.43, May at 10.50, and July at 10.52.

Active options lost a few point additional in the first half hour of trading, but the movement was indefinite.

Deaths Of Two Men At Corpus Probed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 17. (AP)—No arrests had been made here tonight as Corpus Christi police continued their investigation of death of two men in a trailer camp early Monday morning. The men are Marion Lemuel Dickey, 43, and Ivan Yarborough, 27.

Dickey's body was found just outside his trailer home a few minutes after he had been called outside by an unknown man who told him that the Cozy Inn of which Dickey was half owner, was being burglarized. Two bullets passed through his body and officers were of the opinion that they had been fired from a small-bore rifle. Dickey's revolver was found lying under his body with three shells fired.

Forty-five minutes later an elderly woman stumbled across Yarbough's body about 100 feet from where Dickey's body was found on the opposite side of the trailer camp. A revolver bullet was found in Yarborough's body.

Officers were searching for a third man believed to have killed Dickey with a rifle. They were working on the theory that Yarborough probably intervened in Dickey's behalf and may have been killed accidentally.

National Guard Plans Leasing Of Land At Palacios For Oil

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Railroad commission, announced today the leasing board of the Texas National guard would consider soon the leasing for oil development of the 36th division reservation of 1,280 acres near Palacios.

"Four good wells have been brought in near this property, wells drilled by Glenn McCarthy of Houston," Thompson said through his office here. He is training with National guard troops at Palacios.

"The last well brought in this past week is 41 gravity and promises to make a splendid one. A plan of development will be decided upon this week by the leasing board and later bids will be called for."

Quezon Launches Attack Against Critics After Return From Trip

MANILA, Aug. 17. (AP)—On native soil only a few hours, Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon launched into a bitter attack today against critics who were caustic about his extended trip to the United States and other countries.

He pointed out that none of his critics had been killed or jailed, and declared "this goes to show there is liberty and democracy here."

Health Unit Office Goes To Floydada

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—The board of health today selected San Angelo, Bryan, Floydada, Mineral Wells, Kaufman and Kingsville as headquarters for the six district health units authorized by the legislature at its regular session.

The units will begin functioning September 1. The personnel in each district will comprise a director, sanitary engineer, two sanitarians, two nurses, a food, drug and milk inspector and a stenographer. The legislature appropriated $97,500 a year for the work.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, announced that Dr. L. P. Walter of Big Spring would be district director at Floydada.

Allred Posts $500 Reward In Attack

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred sharply denounced today the tarring and feathering of a Socialist organizer in Dallas recently and posted a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone connected with the offense.

The governor acted at request of the American Civil Liberties union. The state department of public safety already had begun an investigation and rewards of $1,000 and $100 had been offered by the union and the Socialist party of Texas, respectively.

Declaring the mistreatment of Herbert Harris, the organizer, "a shameful thing" governor Allred said neither "flogging nor the tarring business" would be tolerated in Texas. We do not want violence from any source. If local authorities can't stop violence, then we will for them."

Three measures on the administration program were meeting little resistance.

The senate finance committee, taking charge of a bill to close tax law loopholes, was expected to give it quick approval today and bring it before the senate tomorrow. Leaders said it probably would be sent to the white house that night.

The house passed the measure late yesterday, 173 to 0.

The senate-approved housing bill, pared down by the house banking committee from a $700,000,000 to a $500,000,000 basis, must pass the house promptly if the Saturday night adjournment goal is to be reached.

Even there, however, interest was termed only "fair."

Voting At Low Ebb

Absentee voting, generally indicative of the total count, was at a low ebb over the state.

The six proposals are:

Authorization of financial assistance to the needy blind;

Same for destitute children;

Elimination of double liability for state bank stockholders;

Return to the fee system from the present salary plan for remuneration of district, county and precinct officials, and,

Permitting Harris county levy a tax for a master road plan.

Governor Back From Mexico

AUSTIN, Aug. 17 (AP) — Home again after a vacation in Mexico, Governor James V. Allred picked up the reins of his office today, admittedly somewhat reluctantly.

He showed little "pep" about a special session of the legislature scheduled for this fall and questions about taxation and governmental economy failed to stir his interest.

"I don't think anyone wants a session while it's still so hot," he said. "I haven't even thought about a session. We have been resting and enjoying a vacation. We couldn't have had a more royal time. Mexico is a wonderful country."

He planned to go to San Antonio today for a convention of Knights of Columbus and to Palacios at an early date to inspect national guardsmen in training.

Trammel Loses Clemency Plea

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—Two men under death sentences received commutations from Governor James V. Allred today, but both the board of pardons and the executive decline to interfere with a similar penalty assessed a third.

The board refused to recommend clemency in behalf of Luke Trammel, sentenced to die in the electric chair August 20 for the slaying of Felix Smith, a prison guard, and Governor Allred said he would take no further action.

Killed In Prison Break

Smith was killed when Trammel, a notorious criminal serving sentences aggregating more than 150 years, and other convicts made a break from the Retrieve prison farm.

On the board's recommendation, Governor Allred commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of Humphrey Henderson and Harry Aley, both negroes. Aley also was to have been executed August 20, while the date for Henderson's execution was August 20.

The board recommended clemency for Henderson, convicted of slaying his wife, in Galveston county, because of "serious question as to misconduct of the jury," which was said to have read of the killing of a prison guard while deliberating on Henderson's fate.

Governor Allred said the trial judge, C. B. Dibrell, and Rabbi Henry Cohen of Galveston had advised clemency.

The manner of jury deliberations also was a consideration with the board in passing on the case of Aley, convicted in Wharton county of killing his landlord, another negro. The board said the jury might have been influenced by newspaper accounts of the slaying of a white officer at a negro dance in El Campo.

Unless the board and Governor Allred should interfere for a second time, the death sentence given Pio Quesada, a Mexican citizen, for slaying Fernando Ramirez in Willacy county, likewise will be carried out August 20. At request of Mexican officials, the governor granted Quesada one 30-day reprieve. The board said it had no further communications in the case and at this time contemplated no further action.

In the international settlement the empty Broadway Mansions Apartment hotel and Astor house hotel began to bar their doors.

However, before it could close the Japanese military quartered 1,500 Japanese refugees in the Astor house, virtually ejecting the management and taking over the property.

Many foreign households were virtually without food.

The first bombardment today came when Japanese warships sprayed the western edge of the foreign areas with shell fragments as they sought to down a Chinese pursuit plane.

Later 13 Japanese bombers launched a powerful reprisal raid against the Chinese Chapei and Kiangwan areas to the north and the Chinese lines. The bombardment centered about the commercial press building near the northern edge of the international settlement.

Among the refugees who left Shanghai today were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., and her son Quentin, who went down the Whangpoo to the President Jefferson bound for Manila.

semi-nude bird hung its head.

"I just wante dto get the rooster ready before I got home," said Berger. "It takes time to cook a mature bird like that."

The police lieutenant asked the advice of a patrolman, a chicken fancier.

"You better kill it," said the policeman. "It's dying of shame anyway."

disturbing incompatibility.

"Some times such a situation might not appear prominently at first. But they seem to grow worse. Then the worst part of all comes—each one begins to remind the other of faults."

Teaching couples to avoid such a fault-finding attitude, he said, was difficult to do.

Can Smooth It Over

"But if they'll give it up, they'll go a long way toward smoothing the troubled waters," he added.

He said children probably hold some discordant couples together, but declared "they are no sure cure."

Dr. McKeever said he would continue to devote part of the church's time to problems of unmarried persons when its fall sessions begin September 5. The psychologist said the lovers church, now in recess, has brought many couples together, none has married.

Texas Girl Is Facing Charge In Shooting

WHARTON, Aug. 17. (AP) — A charge of murder today was placed against a 17-year-old girl in the slaying of her stepfather, Jack Watkins, 40, oil well driller.

The girl, Moselle McDaniel, formerly of Carthage, was in jail pending a hearing set for tomorrow.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Stebrecht quoted the girl and members of the family as saying the shooting followed a quarrell between her and Watkins.

The officer said he had been informed Watkins had given the girl permission to take the automobile to Wharton, but to return early. When she failed to return, he said, Watkins went to town to get her and the quarrel followed. Stebrecht said the girl told him Watkins said he would punish her.

Eleven shots from a .22 rifle killed Watkins.

TIMELY TIPS ON How to be Charming

"IF YOU have it, you don't need anything else," says Sir James Barrie, speaking of that evanescent thing we call charm.

o

This Summer let's all be charming! Good taste in dress, perfect grooming, poise . . . these any woman may acquire at the cost of a little time and determination. And in planning our campaign let's not forget some of the surest aids of all—the advertisements in this newspaper.

o

For advertisers are in the conspiracy too! Never have they been so lavish with hints and helps to charm and beauty: style news and fashion firsts . . . excitingly different "hair-dos" and make-ups . . . ideas for summer entertaining . . . short-cuts to leisure hours for the cultivation of mind and manner.

Read the advertisements, diligently, often. Make them your charts to charm. Set your course by them, and sail happily into your port of dreams. Bon voyage, madam!

ingless to Kay, but Ted muttered a curse as he turned the pages. When he finally closed the book and spoke his voice trembled.

"Proof at last!" He turned to Kay. "This changes everything! I'll be there for the trial! But you've got to let me have this! I've got Hastings where I want him."

"What is it?" Kay begged. "You must tell me!"

"It was written by a girl he kept prisoner there in that cellar just as he meant to keep you. She knew he had committed a murder—the murder of the son of the man I was working for. When she finally got out, she was insane and she committed suicide. He managed to pin it on me, at least enough so I had to clear out." He suddenly grasped Kay's hand. "Look here! Do you want to help me now? In spite of what you did before?"

"Yes, yes!" In Kay's eagerness, she overlooked the last part of his sentence. "What can I do?"

"Get back to Seth, and keep in hiding so Josh Hastings won't know where you are. I've got to see that Marion's all right. Then, I'll give myself up to Zeke Farley. You keep out of sight until the trial. Then turn up and tell your story. Will you do that?"

"Yes," Kay promised quickly.

"Then hurry!" Ted glanced up at the stars. "We mustn't miss that train."

Swinging her up before him again, he raced at full speed for Cedar Gulch. At the outskirts of the town he pulled his mount in and lifted Kay to the ground.

"I don't dare go any farther," he said. "The station's at the end of this street. You can't miss it." He swung into the saddle and grabbed the reins. Wheeling his horse, he headed for the mountains.

"Remember!" he called back over his shoulder. Then without waiting for an answer, he was off at a hard gallop.

Kay lies low at the Lazy Nine, tomorrow.

They Say:

"Crappie Will Not Bite This Time Of Year"

"They say" may be right in some instances, but this rule seems not to apply to Buffalo Springs Lake, because it is a fact that just mediocre fishermen such as "Brownie" Hamilton and Bedford Shearer (who are trying to become as expert at fishing as they are at putting on ten-year roofs), Guy Victory, Abie Davis, Tom French (who will sell you anything you wish to buy and some things you shouldn't) and even Will Rodgers himself, have been for the past ten days taking up to or near the limit of these gamey fish every time they tried—and, really, eleven- and twelve-inch lengths are not so rare.

No attempt will be made to explain why these crappie are biting when they shouldn't, but it is well known that they have a fightin' disposition, and perhaps when they look up through the clear water of this lake at the ugly mugs of those guys, they just get so aggravated they can't control their temper and snap at anything in sight.

Anyway, fishing is good.

Fish if you choose, boat-ride in the moonlight, and enjoy the facilities of the excellent bathing beach at—

Photographing Of Checks Is Started By Floydada Bank

FLOYDADA, Aug. 17 (Special) — The absent-minded bank customer who misplaces checks to which he might later wish to refer need no longer worry.

He may see a motion picture of any check drawn on his account at the First National bank here.

The bank recently completed installation of a Recordak system which photographs checks on a tiny motion picture film. The machine can photograph 100 checks a minute. A film 100 feet long and five-eighths inch wide will photograph 7,000 checks and can be filed in a small space.

Checks can be fed into the machine in a steady stream, and the mechanism regulates the pause and drops the check out the bottom.

The machine was invented by George L. McCarthey, vice president and general manager of the Recordak company, which rents the equipment to banks.
