San Antonio Man Killed In Accident Saturday

A San Antonio man was killed instantly and the young woman accompanying him was injured Saturday morning, March 15, about 12:30 a.m. when their car crashed into the back of a truck 2.7 miles south of Wellington on Highway 83.

Dead is William Thomas Hill Jr., 27, of 314 Drexel, San Antonio, while Laura Mae McDurmon, 25, 116 Tolle Place, San Antonio, is in St. Joseph's Hospital receiving treatment for multiple lacerations. Attendants said she is expected to recover.

The driver of the truck, James Little, 23, of Arkanda, Ark., was uninjured.

Highway Patrolman Noel Calloway said that the 1939 Chevrolet coach driven by Hill crashed into the truck as it was "reportedly" parked on the pavement. The 1948 International truck and semi-trailer was loaded with creosoted fence posts. Two men riding with Little were uninjured.

Patrolman Calloway said little told investigating officers that the butane in his truck tank froze up, causing the motor to die.

Hill and Miss McDurmon were en route to Lefors to visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Hill.

Hill's body was brought to the Kelso Funeral Home and taken to the Burns-Bain Funeral Home at Clarendon.

Funeral services for Hill were held Monday aftternoon at Lefors at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Dan Beltz of Erick, Oklahoma officiating. Burial was at Pampa.

Dances From the Comanches

Indian Dancers to Appear Here Sat.

"The Kwahadis are coming."

A century ago that would have struck terror in the minds of settlers and sent men scurrying with their long rifles, making preparation for an attack by the fiercest Indians of that time. For the Kwahadi, or Antelope, clan is part of the great Comanche tribe, that were the greatest obstacle in the progress of the early settlers of the country.

Today's Kwahadis are awaited with keen delight by children of Collingsworth, and scarcely less interest by their parents, who enjoy the dances and rituals of the Indians.

The Kwahadi Indians, a group of older Boy Scouts of Amarillo, will present their colorful dances at the Wellington high school auditorium Saturday night, March 22, at 7:30. Their appearance here is sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls of Wellington, and advance ticket sales are now under way by the girls.

Wellington people who have seen the performance in other towns call it one of the most fascinating entertainments, either youth or adult, in the Panhandle.

The Kwahadi Indian Club is a group of Boy Scouts, and girls of Amarillo who have studied Indian Dancing for the past seven years under the direction of Ralph E. Irelan, their advisor. Their colorful costumes and the dances they do are copied from the Indians as they live today and are those handed down in the tribes from yesteryear.

Purposes of the Kwahadi Indian Club are to provide a program for older scouts and encourage tenure in scouting, to bring to the community fine things of artistic nature in entertainment, to further the course of archaeology and anthropology, to help perpetuate arts and crafts and to help encourage interest and appreciation of their beauty, and to develop the boys physically and mentally.

"This is an entirely new type of entertainment for Wellington, and one that we feel will delight and please everyone from young children to the oldest adults," Mrs. Clyde Drake, who is helping with the plans, said.

The court, in the same session, named Davd Robinson, now deputy tax assessor-collector, and a candidate for the office of county clerk, to fill out Mr. Moore's unexpired term.

In announcing his intention of resigning, Mr. Moore said that he has bought land in northern Arkansas and will enter the livestock business there. He, Mrs. Moore and their daughter, Lynn, will move to Arkansas a short time after his resignation is effective.

Born and reared here, Mr. Moore was one of the first men to see action in the Southwest Pacific area during World War II. He was stationed in Java with the Air Force at the time the United States was brought into the war. He rose to the rank of Major by the time the war ended. He now holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Air Force reserve.

Mr. Moore is also an officer in the Wellington CAP squadron.

Mr. Robinson is also a World War II veteran, and is active in veterans affairs here. He has been employed as a deputy in the tax office for the past two years.

Contracts Drawn Up For Area Moisture Program

Representatives of the Western Water Association, the organization of 14 Texas and Oklahoma counties in a program to increase moisture in the area, in two meetings at Hollis Monday, March 17, drew up the contract under which it will operate with the Western Resources Development Corporation of Denver.

Terms of the contract were discussed and agreed upon representatives from each of the 14 counties in an afternoon meeting. W. R. Breeding, one of the directors of the county unit, represented Collingsworth County.

The contract was agreed upon by the association representatives, headed by Floyd Roberts Jr. of Hollis, chairman, and representatives of the Denver Corporation at the night meeting. The contract has been sent to Denver to be signed by Dr. Irving Krick, head of the corporation, and when it is returned here, Western Weather Association officials will then sign.

Representatives of the Western Resources Development Corporation told the group Monday night that the moisture increasing program would get under way within about 10 days after the contract is signed. That time is required for setting up the silver iodide generators with which clouds likely to contain moisture are bombarded.

These generators are portable and may be moved from place to place. Their location with reference to the Texas-Oklahoma project has not been discussed, but it is pointed out that this is not at the immediate site of the project.

The contract drawn up Monday, according to Mr. Roberts, set the cost at a penny an acre, eight mills being the assessment and the remaining two mills being set aside for the cost of administration.

Fourteen counties are in the association at present and three additional Texas counties are considering joining. More than 5,000,000 acres has been lined up, and Mr. Roberts estimates that when the work is complete, there will be a total of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres.

Already in are Collingsworth, Childress, Donley, Hall and Armstrong counties in Texas, an Harmon, Jackson, Greer, Beckham, Roger Mills, Wichita, Kiowa, Tillman and Custer counties in Oklahoma. Texas counties planning to join are Cottle, Foard and Hardeman, according to reports here.

The Texas division of the association, the Red River Weather Improvement association, came into being Saturday at Memphis when the charter was drawn u The separate divisions for Tex and Oklahoma are necessary obtaining charters as non-profi

You're off in a Swirl of Power!

WE'RE willing to wager that not one person in a hundred knows what really goes on inside an automobile engine—so let's take this by easy stages.

The instant you nudge Buick's Fireball 8 Engine into action—a whole string of things starts to happen.

Eight sparks begin to crackle in well-timed sequence. Eight pistons start gliding up and down with rhythmic precision. Eight pairs of valves dance open and closed—to let fuel charges in, exhaust gases out of cylinder after cylinder.

All right, you say, what's so complex about that? Can't anyone build an engine that does this to perfection?

Well, we'd better add, these things happen at the rate of more than 10,000 times per mile—and that's 100 times per second at 35 miles an hour!

So—it's important to know that Buick uses a deep-breathing valve-in-head design that shoots a fuel charge in—cleans exhaust gases out—in a hurry.

It's important to know that all the power released by the fuel concentrates its driving force right on the head of each Buick piston. (Everyone who has recently built "new" high-compression engines copied this "Buick first.")

But most important of all—Buick adds one more twist which others still haven't copied.

Every charge of fuel rushing into a Buick engine becomes a twisting, swirling, high-compressed ball that flashes with sudden, consuming completeness the instant the spark sets it afire.

And to add this all up: clean, complete combustion—10,000 times per mile—is the secret of getting more power—more miles—from each gallon of gasoline.

So we're not simply using picture words when we tell you that Buick—and only Buick—has a FIREBALL ENGINE—or that you're off in a swirl of power with one of these high-powered performers under the hood.

1952 has brought a lot of sparkling new improvements which you'll want to see and admire when you come to our showrooms.

But the thrill of thrills is still what you and a Buick—and a Fireball 8 Engine—can do out on the road. When do you want to try a sample?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

WICHITA FALLS EDUCATOR LAUDS TEACHERS FOR WORK BEING DONE

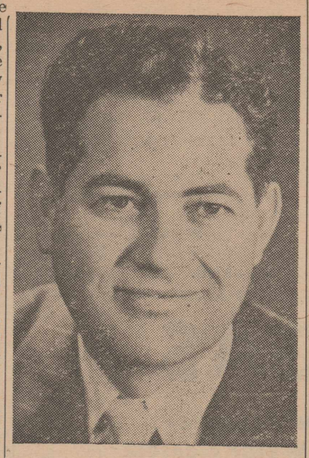

Prepare children to live in the present, and they will be prepared to live in the future, G. H. Kirby, assistant superintendent of the Wichita Falls schools, told county teachers at their recent supper and business meeting in Wellington.

Taking as his subject "Community and School Relationships," Mr. Kirby brought out the importance of conduct and dress of teachers and its influence on the community.

"Teachers should look no different from other people and should be among the best dressed people of the community," he said.

Teachers are doing the best job of teaching the Three R's that they have ever done, Mr. Kirby believes, and the boys and girls are better than at any other time.

Children should be permitted to enjoy life instead of frightening them with air raid practices and fear of what might happen to them, it was brought out. "In the light of past history, I think we will come out of this situation better than we have ever been before, although it is trying at present," he told the group.

CHARLES T. ROBERTS

Mrs. Helen Hurst took her mother, Mrs. R. C. Ritchey, to Quanah last Thursday. Mrs. Ritchey has been here under medical care.

Donald Leroy Ayers, serving in Korea with the 45th Division, was promoted to sergeant first class a short time ago. He is a squadron leader with the 120th Engineers. He has been overseas a year.

Work of his group includes building quonset huts for infantrymen returning from the front lines, and these are located about 15 miles behind the fighting line.

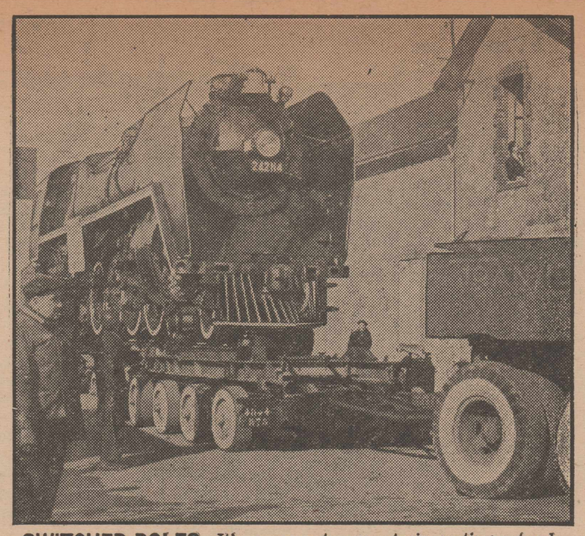

His wife, the former Shirley Baird, and their son, Tommy, 10 months old, are making their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baird, at Dodson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ayers of Hollis, and that was the home of the young couple when he was called to duty with the Hollis National Guard unit.

Ayers has written that he has been enjoying good food, since his group was eating with the 180th Infantry, and they were house in large squad tents, each with two big stoves to keep the men comfortable.

Mrs. Ayers expects her husband to start home about mid-April.

Pfc. Hargues work is issuing parts to a motor vehicle squadron.

SWITCHED ROLES—It's common to see a train carting a truck, but the roles were switched recently in Nante, France, when a truck was elected to pull this locomotive from the yard in which it was built to a port for shipment to Brazil. The truck is pulling a load of 82 tons.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger-car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences. Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/8.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

Dr. Green explaining how interference with nerves that supply the head and face can cause headaches, defective breathing, etc.

YOUR NERVES

Health is the result of Normal Nerve function. Ill health or disease is the opposite of health. It is a departure from a state of health, of body or mind. Characterized usually by a disturbance of junction. When disease appears, it is evident that the nerve force causing health has dimished its activity. Something is interfering with the normal nerve currents essential to normal structure and action.

Nerve function operates through the nervous system which is widely distributed throughout the body enabling all organs to receive this nerve force so necessary to normal true and action.

The cause of nerve interference directly concerns the modern Chiropractor because his Science is founded upon the well proven promise that interference with normal nerve function is the primary cause of many types of illness. Diminished nerve function impairs normal action of organs and thus ill health results. The modern Chiropractor locates and removes interference with pinched nerves, thereby restoring the normal nerve function employed by Nature in making all cures and maintaining a state of health.

Has your spine been thoroughly examined? It may well be that your spinal condition is the cause of your ill health. Your modern Chiropractor is a spine specialist.

Cooperation to do Something About the Weather

Blowing sand of the last few days brings farmers closer than before to the realization of the need for co-operation on an area wide basis in combatting conditions that, while they are not likely to bring about a return to the dust bowl, would nevertheless lead to loss of much valuable soil.

The fine co-operation of nine counties in the Southwestern Oklahoma and Southeastern Panhandle in their moisture increasing project bringing results that all concerned with it believe will be most profitable. Already a movement is under way to increase the area to include Hardeman, Foard, Cottle, Motley and King counties.

That the counties in the two states must operate as separate units is due to technicalities envolving laws of Texas and Oklahoma. For all practical purposes, it will be one organization.

The Texas organization, the Red River Weather Improvement Association came into being Saturday at Memphis, when the charter was drawn up.

A similar meeting in Oklahoma will be held shortly. All counties now collecting money to defray their expenses report almost no opposition and little indifference to the plan. True to the spirit of this area, these farmers are ready to go ahead.

Over and over, those concerned with the movement warn that miracles are not to be expected. The moisture improvement program cannot bring down rain if there is no moisture in the atmosphere. What it can do, and the only thing it can do, is to get more moisture on the ground than would ordinarily fall when conditions are favorable.

Such a project is already in operation in the Guymon, Oklahoma, area, and its operators are pleased with their success. During the past week end, that section, with the silver iodide generators in operation, received a greater amount of moisture than outside areas where weather conditions were similar. This is heartening to the people of this area who believe that now there will be times when something can be done about the weather.

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

Farm Labor Problem

Texas farmers and ranchmen can agree only in part with the two churchmen who spoke to the National Farmers Union here on the problem of seasonal labor from Mexico. They were right, of course, in holding that the interests of permanent farm workers here must be protected and that the braceros who enter the country for seasonal work should be kept in check and should have safeguards against exploitation.

Yet the expanding role which the left-wing Department of Labor is taking in this field is open to question. The pending bracero bill, like that of last year, was drawn up without much regard to the needs of southwestern farmers and ranchmen for seasonal help. Seeking on its face to curb the flow of wetbacks, it imposes so much red tape on lawful entry that it encourages unlawful entry.

The situation threatens to become even worse this year. The bracero bill, as revised by a conference committee in Congress, would allow search without warrant in a belt twenty-five miles wide on this side of the border. It provides for a fine of $2,000 and imprisonment for five years for every farmer or ranchman harboring a wetback. The bill does not protect adequately innocent harboring.

We shall have a workable law on braceros only after the needs of southwestern farmers and ranchmen are taken into account. In time, machines may take over much of the seasonal work now done by imported Mexicans. Meanwhile, the best way to check the entry of wetbacks is to make lawful entry easier—The Dallas Morning News.

False Gods of Today Destroy as of Old

All through the Old Testament runs the story of the conflict between true worship and the worship of idols — the moral and intelligent worship of a Supreme Being and the superstitious bowing down to wood and stone.

Among the Hebrews, God was a growing and developing conception. Yet in the most distant times and to the dimmest perception, the worship of God was related to man's moral nature and spiritual welfare.

It was a boldly noble concept in which man dared to say that he was made of the image and likeness of God. That was intelligent faith and spiritual daring. It was man reasoning from all that was best in himself, and setting before himself in worship and devotion all that he wished to become.

Wherever men had this concept of God, no matter how dimly they perceived it, and even though their lives were marked by ignorance and sin, they were lifted toward something better.

Why were the people drawn to idolatry when their religious heritage ought to have kept them true? For precisely the same reason that people turn to false gods and false ways today. It was the line of least resistance.

It was the way to indulgence and immoral allurement. The heathen rites had licentious and sexually degrading aspects. When Israel turned to idolatry it was not only a foresaking of their religion but a moral descent.

What does all this mean in terms of today? The idols and images are different, but the allurements and the moral degradationr are the same. Every newspaper, as its columns reflect the moral and religious life of our time, reveals how much of paganism is in our midst.

And it is true, as it was of old, that sin seeks out individuals and peoples. False gods and false worship can destroy us as surely as they destroyed of old, unless the good that is in us prevails over evil.

Course in Photo Reading Planned For CAP Members

Commencing Monday, March 24, a two weeks course in photo reading will be taught at the regular Wellington Squadron, CAP meeting, John Pound, training officer, has announced.

Courses in communications and meteorology will follow the course in photo reading and are scheduled for April 7-21.

Joe Gregg, soil conservationist, will instruct the course in photo reading. The courses in communications and meteorology are under the direction of Harold Rudasill, squadron communications officer, from the CAA office in Childress.

These courses are included in the training program designed to meet the ground instruction requirements for cadets and senior members who wish to qualify as Civil Air Patrol observers.

Ground instruction courses completed by squadron members include chart reading, panel reading, search and rescue procedure.

In addition to completing the ground courses, it is required that both cadets and senior members complete twenty hours of flight training as an observer or navigator on a Civil Air Patrol mission.

Applications for aeronautical ratings must be approved by the squadron flight proficiency board headed by the Operations officer. They will then be sent to Texas Wing Headquarters for approval and finally on to the National Headquarters of Civil Air Patrol in Washington. National headquarters will issue the appointments to the rating.

Only one member of the Wellington Squadron, CAP, has the aeronautical rating of observer from national headquarters. This member is William W. McClaskey.

Wellington

Wellington's Camp Fire Girls this week join with others throughout the nation in observing the forty-second birthday of their movement in the United States.

Highlighting the week was the ceremonial Sunday, March 16, in which approximately 50 girls from all the tribes took part. Three older groups were awarded honor beads by their own guardians, symbols of accomplishments in the seven crafts, each with its distinctive color.

The Blue Birds, a group for younger girls, took part in the first part of the ceremonial and following this, Mrs. Ed Poole sang "Indian Love Call," accompanied by Mrs. Donnitta Jones.

Taking part in the Camp Fire lighting ceremonial were Joline Groves, Judy Glenn, Barbara Shanks and Varue Sweat. Lighting the craft candles were Sandra Wooldridge, Patsy Flint, Glenna Brewer, Jeanie Martin, Janette Bell, Barbara Denley, Anne McCarver and Elouise Bowen.

Camp Fire's program emphasizes the importance of home and family life. Its law is Worship God, Seek Beauty, Give Service, Pursue Knowledge, Be Trustworthy, Hold On To Health, Glorify Work, Be Happy.

To celebrate its birtrday each year, Camp Fire Girls selects a project with a theme that is carried out during the whole year in all of the Camp Fire activities.

"Design for Friendship," this year's project seeks to help its members — of all religions, races and economic backgrounls — to make better friends within their Camp Fire groups through understanding and appreciating each other more.

Girls taking part were Judy Glenn, Anne McCarver, VaRue Sweat, Barbara Denley, Patsy Flint, Jeanette Bell, Jeannie Martin, Barbara Shanks, Joline Groves, Sandra Wooldridge, Glenda Brewer, Elouise Bowen, Wanda Bowen, Celia Ray Anderson, Patricia Sullivan, Sharon Campbell, Kay Peeples, Lynda Orr, Myrna Henry, Glynel Elbert, Jo Marie Barnett, Barbara Hackler, Sonja Stall, Carolyn Scott, Sally Beth Lee, Sherrie Smith, Judy Smith, Betty Patton, Novelle Branch, Carolyn Keller, Molly Ann Denley, Linda Singley, Mary Beth Kelso, Elizabeth Ann Hurst, Sandra Faulkner, Cynthia Watkins, Peggy Henry, Frankie Sue Campbell, Betty Elliott, Vada Bell, Carolyn Couch, Francis Drake, Joan Henry, Janet Jones, Mary Parsons, Faye Pope, Carolyn Joyce Wright and Hannah Clark.

Following the ceremonial, candles were blown out on the Camp Fire birthday cake, and refreshments of cake and punch were served.

Three exhibits were shown: the Indian dolls and their teepee, which will be sent to National Headquarters in New York for exhibit at the triennial conference for leaders; an exhibit of hand-made memory books and an exhibit of cuptowels and candle snuffers.

Mrs. Lula Hoffman of Dallas is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. A. Richards.

Bride of Early Spring Season

A popular bride of the early spring season was Mrs. J. W. Dickens, the former Miss Nancy Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pink Sullivan. Mr. and Mrs. Dickens will make their home in Big Spring after April 1, when they return from a wedding trip to points in South Texas.

Nancy Sullivan Weds J. W. Dickens Here Saturday

Dignity and simplicity marked the quiet ceremony Saturday. March 15, when Miss Nancy Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pink Sullivan, became the bride of J. W. Dickens of Big Spring, the son of Mrs. Rhoda Montgomery of that city. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sullivan, in the presence of members of the immediate families.

The Rev. J. F. Michael, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated.

For the recitation of their vows, the couple stood before the fireplace, decorated with arrangements of white stocks and palms, while tall candelabra held lighted cathedral tapers.

Mrs. Luther Gribble, pianist, played "To a Wild Rose," McDowell, softly as Henry Sullivan lighted the candles, and accompanied Mrs. Jack Kopp as she sang "I Love You Truly," and at the end of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer." "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was used as the processional.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Sullivan, was charming in a magnolia chantilly lace bridal gown. Over the delicately shirred strapless bodice she wore a minature matching lace jacket accented with a wide collar that extended to deep points on her shoulders. The sleeves were crushed just at the elbow. The graceful flared skirt was worn over crinolines and was demi-length. Her veil of matching French illusion was caught to a scalloped half hat of magonlia lace, and drifted over her shoulders. She carried a bouquet of gardenias clustered in white maline and loops of white satin tubing.

Mrs. Vernon Ratzlow of Phillips was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a dress of dusty rose taffeta shantung, styled with a fitted bodice with square-cut neckline and sequin trim. She carried a cascade bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

The bride's four small nieces were members of the wedding party. Junior bridesmaids were Patricia Sullivan and Janis Ratzlow, who wore dresses in dainty pastel shades and carried nosegays of pink feathered carnations. Susan Sullivan and Linda Ratzlow, the flower girls, also dressed in pastel colors, carried white stocks and pink roses.

Ernest Rice of Big Spring was his cousin's best man.

Mrs. Sullivan, the bride's mother, wore a dress of dusty rose accented by a corsage of white carnations, while Mrs. Montgomery, the mother of the groom, was dressed in navy and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a cutwork linen cloth, while table decorations and the wedding cake carried out the bride's favorite colors of blue and white. Mrs. Henry Sullivan and Mrs. Charles T. Roberts, cousin of the groom, presided at the coffee service.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to Houston, Galveston and other points in South Texas, Mrs. Dickens was wearing a suit of navy sheer wool by Ted Stein, fashioned with a short cape and polka dot ascot tie. Her accessories were navy and her corsage was a tailored gardenia.

The bride is a member of a family prominent in the development this county for the past half-century. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Lucy B. Wells and the late Henry Wells, who was a leader in banking and business circles for many years. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sullivan of Chico. The bride's father is a former mayor as well as a business leader of the city.

She was born and reared in Wellington, and graduated from high school here. Later she attended Texas State College for Women at Denton, where she received her degree. She has made her home at Pampa for four years, having been secretary to the superintendent of schools two years and a secretary in the safety and insurance department of the Cabot Company for the past two years.

The groom was reared at Moss, Oklahoma, graduating from high school there. Later he attended East Central State College at Ada, Oklahoma and served in the Navy for two and one-half years. For the past three years, he has been with the Cabot Company.

Upon returning from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dickens will establish their home at 2201 Johnson Street, Big Spring.

The Domestic Science Club met Thursday, March 13, in the home of Mrs. J. M. Orr, for its annual birthday luncheon. This was the 37th anniversary of the club.

The club began with twelve members, but now has sixteen. About four years ago the members decided to take in relatives as the members of the club.

The new members were: Mrs. L. C. Hill, daughter of Mrs. Cleo Templeton, Mrs. Deskins Wells, sister-in-law, of Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Dale Watkins and Mrs. Jim Lorente, nieces of Mrs. L. E. About a year later Dr. Darlene Hunter came into the club as a new member.

This is the only federated club in Wellington. The club started meeting in different homes and they still do.

The purpose of the club when it began in 1915 was to learn how to cook. All the members were about the same age and wanted to know more about cooking when they had the idea of a Domestic Science Club.

The centerpiece for the anniversary luncheon Thursday was yellow daffodils and white snapdragons. The place cards were little Pan-American flags of the twenty-one different countries in Pan-America.

The white birthday cake was decorated with yellow candied flowers.

Mrs. Sullivan gave the program on Pan-American Relations.

Those present were: Mesdames J. Frank Johnson, W. R. Orr, L. E. Gribble, Pink Sullivan, Harold Watkins, S. R. Pinkston, Henry Sullivan, Cleo Templeton, L. C. Hill, Dale Watkins, Tom Hunter, Deskins Wells, J. B. Stevenson, J. B. Llorente, a guest, Miss Nancy Sullivan, and the hostess, Mrs. Orr.

A New Grass for Collingsworth

Farmers to Introduce Buffelgrass in County

A group of farmers this year re adding a new grass to their list of plantings, keenly interested to see if it will prove another means by which they can tie down valuable Collingsworth top-soil.

Buffel-grass will be grown here for the first time in 1952 as a field or pasture crop. Only one farmer, so far as is known, has grown any at all. Harry Leonhardt planted an experimental plot in 1951 on his sandy-land farm east of town and is now waiting to see if it winterkills.

A number of farmers in various parts of the county are arranging to make plantings this spring, County Agent J. W. Thomas said.

"There's tremendous interest in buffelgrass," he commented. "There are some disadvantages, such as small seed that may offer some difficulty in getting a good stand, and the possibility that the grass may winterkill here.'

Farmers here are securing their seed from a source at Greenville for $6 per pound.

Buffelgrass is a perennial warm-season bunch grass, growing from two to four feet high, Mr. Thomas explained. It is related to such plants as pearl millet, the common millets, green and yellow foxtail and sandburs. The plants of all these are known to be excellent forage plants before the burs or seed heads form.

Buffelgrass is known to exist through Africa and the introductions here have apparently all come from South Africa. The northern limit of the grass is believed to be about the north end of the Panhandle.

The plant was introduced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture years ago and plots were grown at Angelton as early as 1917, and at Chillicothe in 1928. Interest was renewed following World War II, and in 1949 five introductions were planted at College Station. Work toward improvement and the development of new strains will continue.

The only introduction grown in Texas commercially in 1951 grew 30 inches high, a third of the plants were killed during the 1950-51 winter, there were no rizonmes to develop (underground stems like Johnson grass) and it was rated fair in comparison to others in drouth resistance.

Another type grew 48 inches high, no winter killing, large short rizonmes, and was rated very drouth resistant. This selection had larger stems and leaves than others, thus was called as coarse. Another strain was 20 inches high, had no winter killing, no rhizomes and had fair drouth resistance.

On one of the demonstration plots at College Station, one-half acre was planted in late May in 36-inch rows with a cotton planter equipped with picker wheel. Rain on June 3 and 4 totaled 1.22 inches, and three additional showers fell up to September, totaling 1.32. September rains totaled 4.53 inches, which was sufficient to produce the October seed crop of 84 pounds on the one-half acre. The seed was harvested with a combine. Germination and purity tests are not complete, but purity is estimated at 65 per cent. Research men consider this entirely satisfactory, but purity is estimated at 65 per cent. Research men consider this entirely satisfactory, but they want more information before making suggested adjustments on the combine.

Being related to millet, rapid growth is expected from Buffelgrass. Under good conditions, grazing management may be somewhat difficult in view of the rapid growth, and it will need to be cut from hay or silage as with alfalfa, making a new hay crop in four to five weeks or less when moisture is available.

Information available on the grass is for sandy or sandy loam soil.

Mr. Thomas does not recommend the grass as one that will grow on poor worn out soil without fertilizer treatment. The roots produced by perennial grasses and organic matter to the soil, but pasture grasses and legumes are soil depleting insofar as minerals and nitrogen is concerned when top growth is removed from the soil. The amount of depletion depends on the volume removed.

The county agent is putting all the information he has before those farmers interested in trying buffelgrass this year, bad points as well as good. But so far, they are still enthusiastic enough that a number plan to try it.

Maintenance Low, Performance High

HUDSON IDEAL CAR FOR PATROL DUTY SAYS MONTANA HY. PATROL

To hear a real Hudson "booster" in action, just stop any member of the Montana Highway Patrol and ask him what he thinks of the Hudson he's driving.

He'll likely tell you (A) that his Hudson can overtake any American made stock car on the highway (B) that his Hudson "corners" better on sharp mountain curves at high speeds than any other car (C) that his Hudson covers more miles with less maintenance cost than any car ever used for patrol duty (D) that the vast territory he patrols requires long hours behind the wheel of a car and that Hudson riding comfort reduces fatigue and strain to a minimum.

And if you've got time to spare, Montana's finest will talk on Hudson performance until you're convinced, as he is convinced, that Hudson offers everything desired in a motor car.

Listen to Jack England, Montana Highway Patrol Chief, who recently retired:

"We use 70 Hudson Super Sixes and five Hudson Hornets to patrol Montana, the third largest state in the union. With a relatively small force of 83 men, this means that each man must patrol an average of 1,200 highway miles.

"Patrol efficiency depends to a great extent on our cars. Before we began using Hudsons, our cars were frequently in the repair shop. Every car off the road means a corresponding decrease in patrol strength. Hudson durability solved this problem for us. Since our first Hudsons were delivered in October, 1949, the patrol's law enforcement efficiency rating has risen 22 per cent."

England stresses Hudson economy in fleet operation.

"Average mileage for the light cars previously used was 13 plus miles per gallon. Our Hudsons deliver an average of 18 minus miles per gallon. To date, fuel operation cost for Hudson cars is 1.12 cents per mile as compared to 1.53 cents per mile for the lighter car. As each car averages 60,000 miles per year, the savings to our rather limited operating budget can be appreciated."

Hudson gasoline economy, the Patrol has equipped 47 cars with new two-way FM radios for which no funds had been allotted, according to England. New firearms for the entire Patrol have also been purchased with these savings.

Members of the Patrol tell of Hudson durability with glowing enthusiasm. They cite many cases where Hudsons have been driven over 100,000 miles without major repairs.

A Hudson used by a patrolman stationed at Harden showed more than 118,000 miles when turned in. The motor was still in excellent condition and oil consumption negligible. Another Hudson driven by a Great Falls patrolman had rolled up 112,000 miles when traded. But Patrolman Glenn Stevens stationed at Whitehall, Montana, probably set a mileage record when he drove his Hudson 143,000 miles without major repairs.

"Maintenance costs for our Hudsons averages less than $50 per car for the first 55,000 miles," says England.

With the heavy increase in tourist travel through Montana in recent years and the increase in highway miles to patrol, the Patrol is more than ever dependent on the durability of its cars to maintain its efficiency.

The state of Montana covers more than 146,000 square miles of rugged terrain. Hudson's ability to "take it" is demonstrated daily from the tortuous plateaus of the Big Hole area in the southwest to the Bad Lands in the southeast anr north to Flat Head Valley and the mountainous mining and lumbering country.

Hudson roadability was an important factor in its selection as a patrol car. Competitive tests with nine cars of other makes were made on mountain passes at altitudes over 6,000 feet and over winding roads with sharp 30 to 40 degree turns. Hudson's "step-down" design, low center of gravity and ease of handling on sharp curves walked off with top honors. No other car came close to Hudson's hug-the-road performance.

Economy and speed runs on a 104 mile course on Highway 87 further convinced England that Hudson was the ideal car for patrol duty. Gasoline consumption for the Hudson ran 3 to 5 quarts less than any other car tested.

As for Hudson speed and power, the Highway Patrol members are almost fanatical in their praise. They speak of Hudson's in-line, high compression engines in the manner a horseman speaks of a brilliantly performing thoroughbred.

England tells of one wealthy Montana rancher who tried several makes of cars in an effort to outrun the Patrol's Hudsons. He finally gave up on American cars and bought himself a foreign sports car.

The reputation of the Hudson fleet has been the cause of many unscheduled road races on Montana's highways. England himself once overtook a speeding car in a race that hit 100 miles per hour. The driver identified himself as police chief from a neighboring state who had heard that Montana's patrol cars were the fastest in the country and he was only testing them out.

"He still got a ticket," England said.

Hudson riding comfort also comes in for its share of praise from patrolmen. With such vast areas to cover, many frequently spend twenty hours at a stretch at the wheel. When speaking of the pre-Hudson days in a light car, the patrolmen groan in unison.

England cites Hudson riding comfort as an important factor in Patrol morale. With the light cars, driving fatigue was a major problem. The switch to Hudsons stopped these complaints.

"Long distance driving in a Hudson is like sitting in an easy chair in your own living room," is the way one patrolman summed it up.

England tells of three "bad back" cases assigned to light duty because they could not take long hours in a lighter car. The men are now back on full patrol duty in Hudsons and never miss the opportunity to tell anyone who will listen about Hudson riding comfort.

Needless to say, many patrol members own Hudsons as their personal cars. England estimates that some 20 troopers are Hudson owners. His charming wife, Lee, drives a Hudson convertible which was borrowed for her to drive in a civic celebration. So impressed was she with Hudson ease-of-handling that she persuaded England to buy the car for her personal use.

Shortly after, England was glad that she had "sold" him on the convertible. He was following his wife on the highway when her convertible blew a tire. "At the speed she was traveling, a lighter car would have rolled over," England declared. "But she brought the Hudson to a stop with no trouble — a most convincing demonstration of Hudson's perfect balance."

England has answered many inquiries from police officials of other states on the subject of Hudson performance.

"Hudson performance and economy is a matter of record with the Montana Highway Patrol," he states. "I make no reservations in recommending Hudsons as the ideal cars for all law enforcement agencies or any big fleet operation where superior performance and low operating costs are required."

In patrolling Montana, third largest state in the Union, each member of the Montana Highway Patrol must cover an average of 1,200 highway miles. Patrolmen spend long hours in their cars and acclaim Hudson riding comfort as a key factor in the 22 per cent increase in the Patrol's law-enforcement efficiency rating since switching to the heavier car.

News of Men in Service

A Wellington solder n Korea, SFC LaVell McKinney, in a letter received by his wife and two children this week described how it feels to be attacked by Chinese Reds. But he told, too some of the things that a family can send that mean the most to a man on the fighting front.

A part of his letter follows:

"I got all the pictures that you sent. They are O. K. When you get pictures processed, you should get two each made. Keep one set and send me one set. The ones I have won't be much good when I get back anyway. Be sure and keep sending them. The boys in my section enjoy looking at them, too. Every time I get a letter they ask me if I got some more pictures. I had rather you send pictures than packages, because I get plenty of candy and things.

"I just got off O. P. today. Stayed up there three days. I am up three days and down six now. Those last ones were the roughest I've spent since I've been over here. You liked to have lost a husband. The second day I was up they started mortaring at around 9 o'clock in the morning. I couldn't locate the morters and couldn't call a fire mission in on them. They finally knocked my phone line out and I had to go out and fix it. I had to go about a hundred yards to fix the break and they zeroed in on me. Sure thought I was a goner. You should have seen me trying to find a hole. It was funny after it was over with, but wasn't so funny while it happened.

They throwed around 20 morter rounds all around me and didn't hit me a time. But the good thing about it is, I located them after I had got the phone line fixed. I got back to my bunker and called a fire mission in on them. Old "C" Charley Btry. fired three rounds and knocked out four morters, one 76 mm gun and gilled 12 chinese. That stopped the morters from coming in.

"Some of the days are a little warmer over here now. It rained a little today. Sort of smells like spring. Sure hope spring comes pretty soon.

"If I miss a few days writing don't think anything of it. I'm working pretty hard now."

Pfc. J. R. Godbey Jr., who recently finished his course of instruction in aircraft mechanics at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, is now stationed at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., with the 3348th student squadron for advanced training.

He will finish this work about the 28th of this month, his mother said this week.

Godbey has been in the Air Force since June 14, 1951.

Water Well NPA Ruling Cited

The attention of farmers, ranchers, water well drillers and pump distributors is called to a new provision in CMP Reg 6 by the US Department of Commerce, National Production Authority District Office in Lubbock, Texas.

This means that a farmer or owner of a water well may use without application 5 tons of new casing or other mill forms and use an unlimited amount of used casing to supplement this amount without application.

Second hand casing may be used throughout a well now without making application regardless of the weight of casing involved.
