

Career Day Set For Four County High Schools

The Second semi-annual "Career Day" for the High School students of Collingsworth County will be held at Wellington High School, 1 to 3 p.m., Tuesday, December 18, Jack Gibson, Chamber of Commerce President, announced this week.

"Last spring's Career Day was extremely successful," Mr. Gibson said, "and we expect great things of this session. We do not know how many students will be present as the survey forms have not all been turned in yet, but we will have more than we did last Spring. Some of the schools in the County are sending all members of all of their High school classes, others are just sending their juniors and seniors."

Based on the survey questionnaires returned so far, the young men and women of Collingsworth County are interested in over thirty fields of endeavor for life careers. The largest group is composed of girls who would like to do secretarial types of work. They are closely followed by the boys interested in various phases of agriculture. Nursing, engineering, medicine, law, school teaching, coaching, store management, homemaking, are subjects of interest to many of the "citizens of tomorrow" also.

The "Career Day" program will consist of presentations and discussions of various fields of work by speakers engaged in those fields of endeavor, and then the students will be allowed plenty of time to ask any questions they would like to have answered about the field. Guest "experts" are being recruited by the Boys and Girls Work Committee of the Wellington Chamber of Commerce.

Bazaar Plans Near Completion

Plans are complete for the bazaar to be held by the women of the Methodist Church Saturday, December 8, at the community building, Mrs. Pink Sullivan said this week.

The Bazaar will open at 10:00 a.m. and continue through the day. Offered for sale will be a wide variety of hand-work, including aprons, pillow cases, crochet, knitted items, dolls, childrens dresses, dish towels, laundry bags, and many other items that were planned with Christmas giving in mind.

There will be a food booth offering dressed hens, jellies, jams, cakes, pies, eggs and fresh country cream.

The candy booth will offer a variety of homemade candies, along with popcorn balls and doughnuts. Coffee will be served free throughout the day. "We invite the public to attend our bazaar. Most of the things offered will make delightful Christmas gifts — and nothing is more appreciated at Christmas time than some dainty item made by hand," Mrs. Sullivan said.

SAMNORWOOD QUIZDOWN TEAM WINS HONORS FOR SCHOOL

A team of fourth, fifth and sixth grade students from Samnorwood won the weekly Quizdown sponsored by the Amarillo News-Globe and Radio Station KGNC Saturday, December 1, defeating by only 25 points Amarillo's Sanborn School.

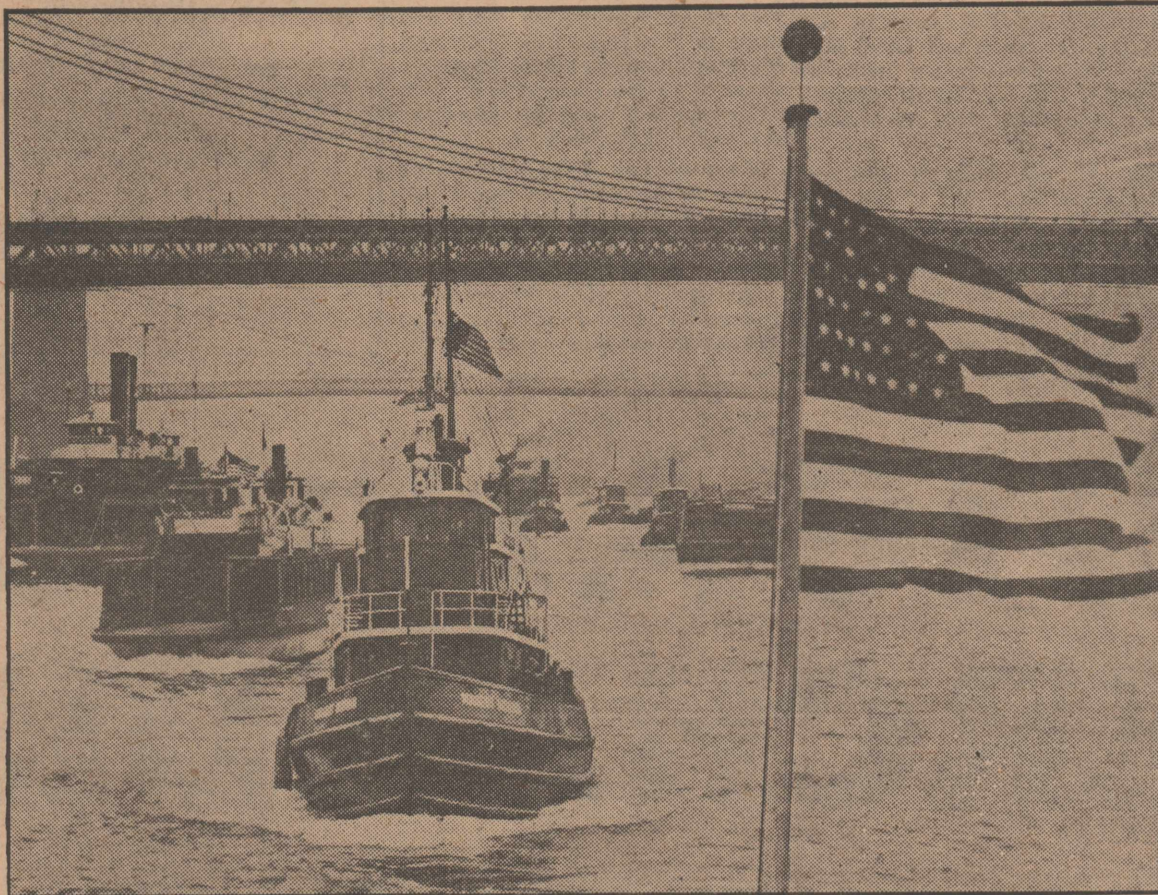

Members of the Norwood team were Maria Martindale, Jimmy Willard, and Guy Newkirk, fourth grade; Mike Vaughan, Carol Oldham and Margaret Oldham, fifth grade; and Barbara Bruton, Paul Schaub and Peggy Smith, sixth grade.

Accompanying the youngsters to Amarillo were Winston Connors, Mrs. Paul Tippie and Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hill.

The winners received gold medals and red, white and blue mechanical pencils, while the Samnorwood School received a 19-volume set of Britannica Junior encyclopedia.

The Quizdown, a regular Saturday feature, includes questions sent in by fourth, fifth and sixth graders from the Tri-state area, and answered by a team of students in those grades of some school in the same area.

The program, although tape recorded, is completely unrehearsed, and the children have had no previous training for it. Fourth graders are asked questions sent in by

His Talk Will Be Dynamic

Martin Dies Here Dec. 12 as Chamber of Commerce Speaker

Plans are complete for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet and installation of officers which will be held Wednesday night, December 12th, in the Community Building.

President Jack Gibson has announced that the banquet will commence promptly at 7:30 p.m. Guest speaker for the evening, former congressman Martin Dies, has not announced the subject of his address, but many expect that he will refer to his experiences while head of the Dies committee for the investigation of un-American activities.

The Rev. J. F. Michaels will give the invocation and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Archie Gray. Toastmaster Howard Oliphant will introduce the guests, and both the incoming and outgoing Chamber of Commerce presidents will speak briefly.

Tickets are still available for the banquet and may be picked up from President Gibson, the Chamber of Commerce office or local drug stores.

Any person in the area wishing to hear Mr. Dies' talk may do so since the banquet is open to the public. In order that persons who do not care to attend the banquet may hear Mr. Dies' speech, the balcony is being opened to the public, Mr. Gibson said.

Those who wish to sit in the balcony are urged to come between 8:00 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. as there will be no admissions at the door after the talks begin. No charge will be made for sitting in the balcony for the speech.

Mrs. Cal Sugg, assisted by Mrs. D. E. Scott, is in charge of decorating for the banquet. Miss Dora E. McClaskey, Mrs. Russell Yates and Miss Dorothy Robertson will register the guests.

A capacity crowd is expected for the banquet, and 350 plates are being prepared.

Harrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Harrison while Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Richards. Both were reared here, and Harrison is a veteran of World War II.

A. Y. Bell Named Wellington State Bank President

A. Y. Bell, bank officer, stock farmer, and Collingsworth County resident for 47 years, was elected president of the Wellington State Bank at a meeting of the directors Saturday night, December 2. J. W. Wells, life-long resident of the county and Wellington insurance man, was elected a short time earlier as a member of the board of directors.

Mr. Bell succeeds L. A. Manzer, who resigned as head of the institution recently. He becomes the fifth president the bank has had. Mr. Wells takes Mr. Manzer's place on the board.

At the time of his election, Mr. Bell was serving as a vice president and director. He remains as director, but a vice-president to take his place was not named, since D'Arcy D. McDowell of Shamrock also holds this position.

The officers of the bank now are Mr. Bell, president; Mr. McDowell, vice-president; J. C. Terry, cashier. Directors are Mr. Bell, Mr. McDowell, Mr. Terry, Mr. Wells, John R. Henard, P. E. Starr, and Pink Sullivan.

Mr. Bell came to Collingsworth County in 1904, settling at Quail. Later he moved his interests to the Seale community, but during the entire time he has lived here, he has engaged in stock raising and farming. In recent years he and Mrs. Bell have made their home in Wellington.

He has been associated with the Wellington State Bank since 1919, when he began work as bookkeeper. After a few months he became cashier, and in 1924 he was elected vice president and a director.

Since October 1, 1944, Mr. Bell has been secretary-treasurer of the Wellington National Farm Loan Association, a position he will continue to hold.

Mr. Wells is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wells. His father was associated with the bank from the time of its organization in 1906 until his death.

Mr. Wells graduated from Wellington high school in 1931, and after attending John Tarleton College, he became a partner with his brother in Wells and Wells Insurance Agency.

Men who have served the Wellington State Bank as president include Major Devenport, A. W. Blain, D. D. McDowell, Mr. Manzer and now, Mr. Bell.

Charge 3 With Contempt of Crt.

Three contempt of court citations for non-payment of child support were handed down by Judge Luther Gribble in a session of district court last week, and warrants for the arrest of the three men were issued, County Attorney Ed Poole reported. None of the three has been arrested.

One of the three owes $1,300 in back payments, while the other two owe $180 and $60, he said. Mr. Poole explained that under such a contempt charge, the men will stay in jail until all back payments are paid in full.

"In case of non payment of child support, it is not now necessary to hire a lawyer to take care of this. The regular law enforcement officers are charged by law to do it. This law was only recently enacted and many people are not aware of its existence," Mr. Poole explained.

He emphasized that all departments of the county law enforcement setup will see that the law is carried out to the fullest extent. The longest period for which any man has remained in jail here on a non-payment of child support charge is 61 days.

Christmas Decorations Open Holiday Season

A gaily lighted Wellington is due for the Christmas Season, Jack Gibson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced following a meeting of the Board of Directors Monday morning, when plans for this year celebration were co-ordinated.

The court house square will be decorated, and Mr. Gibson appealed for the decoration of business and homes, in keeping with the holiday spirit.

Santa Claus will schedule a visit to town to talk personally with kiddies of the Wellington trade area, and the date of his visit will be announced within the next few days. Henry Sullivan and Dr. E. W. Jones are in charge of this part of Wellington's Christmas.

Three cash prizes will be awarded for the best decorated homes and churches in Wellington during the holiday season.

Highlighting the down-town decorations, especially at night, will be Wellington's traditional Christmas Star. This year, however, it will be placed on top of the Wellington Hotel, rather than on the court house as in the past.

In charge of the court-house square decorations are Duard Scott, Bura Handley, N. C. Beam and Jim Cochran.

Wellington merchants report that Christmas shopping is in full swing, and some believe that fewer people than usual are waiting until the last minute to do their shopping.

Especially attractive to buyers of the trade area, as well as an increasingly larger number from other towns, are the number of sales which are in progress or which are being announced this week for the pre-Christmas period.

"Altogether, this is going to be a big Christmas season for Wellington," Mr. Gibson declared. "We're putting on all these Christmas activities ourselves, without sending a penny of our money outside the town for outside help. I think more and more of us are getting down to the real meaning of Christmas."

Pass City Ordinance On House Numbering

In view of the free mail delivery service which will go into effect in Wellington within a short time, the City Council Tuesday night, December 4, passed an ordinance regulating the numbering of all houses and business buildings in the city.

This was done in order to give uniform numbering over the entire incorporated portion of the town, and to eliminate some confusion that now exists, Bura Handley, city manager, explained.

The original numbering was done in 1926, in connection with the promotion and publication of a city directory, and has never been official as far as the city was concerned. On the whole, this was a good job, but numbering in some instances is incorrect, particularly on the streets running east and west.

On the east-west streets, numbering will begin at the west side of town, on Haskell Street. Houses facing north will carry the odd numbers. Houses facing south will carry the even numbers.

On the north-south streets, houses facing east will carry the odd numbers, while those facing west will carry the even numbers.

In the residential section of Wellington, one number will be assigned for each 50 foot street frontage, and this may result in renumbering in some cases, Mr. Handley said. In the business area, one number will be given each 25 feet.

"In order to determine your correct number, you may call the city office, No. 145, or anyone of the committee of the VFW which is promoting the numbering of the houses," Mr. Handley said.

"We know that it will be necessary for some to have to change their numbers, but this is a long time proposition, and we feel that it is better to do this at the beginning of city mail delivery."

Complete information will be in the ordinance, which will be printed in full in next week's issue of The Wellington Leader.

the Christmas season, Jack Gibson, Chamber of Commerce has announced. An award of $25.00 will be given for the first place home or church, $15.00 will be given for second place, and $10.00 will be awarded for the third prize.

Judges for the Christmas decoration contest will be Dr. E. W. Jones, Duard Scott and Bobo Castleberry, Chamber of Commerce directors.

Highlighting the down-town decorations, especially at night, will be Wellington's traditional Christmas Star. This year, however, it will be placed on top of the Wellington Hotel, rather than on the court house as in the past.

Capt. J. T. Thomas Home From Korea

Capt. J. T. Thomas, in Korea for the last fourteen and one-half months, reached Wellington Sunday to join his wife and six-year-old daughter, Ruth Anne, who made their home in Wellington while he was overseas.

Although he had been due to come home on rotation for several months, this had been held up pending assignment of a replacement, and Mrs. Thomas was not aware that her husband was coming home at this time until he phoned from Oklahoma City. He reached San Francisco Saturday.

Capt. Thomas was sent to Japan 20 months ago, and Mrs. Thomas and Ruth Anne were making plans to join him when the Korean war broke out. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dickson and was reared here. Her husband is an Oklahoman.

After 30 day leave, Capt. Thomas will be assigned to Fort Sill as an instructor in the Field Artillery School, and the family will make their home there.

Building Permits Required for New, Remodeled Building

A building permit will be required for all new construction or alteration of buildings already standing, under a new building permit ordinance passed by the City Council in a meeting Tuesday, November 20.

Securing the permit also entails the payment of a permit fee of $1.00, and the ordinance applies to all construction or remodeling.

Communism Has Attraction for Asiatics

Instructor in Indian University Tells of Work

Given here is the first of two articles which are a letter from Marion Baumgardner, an instructor in the Allahabad Agricultural Institute of Allahabad, India, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baumgardner, and the family. In this letter, Mr. Baumgardner tells of his own work, and also something of the feelings of the people of Southeastern Asia concerning the Western rule over Asiatics, as well as the particular appeal which communism has for those peoples.

Agricultural Institute Allahabad, U. P. India 7 November, 1951

Dearest All, I should like to make this my Thanksgiving Greeting to the family. It is now 11 o'clock on the morning of November 8 and I only got the date written yesterday. The chiprasi has just brought the mail which contained a most welcome letter from Mom. This letter tells of plans of various members of the Family to be Home on Thanksgiving. I assure you that my thoughts and prayers shall be with each of you on a day which should be so meaningful to anyone who is as fortunate as our Family is. The hunger and sorrow and need and disillusionment which I see each day makes my heart bleed, and I pray for understanding among and between men to become a reality.

It would be wonderful fun to join the festivities around the Farm, and I hope that everyone enjoys the occasion to the fullest. I must say that I am surrounded here by friends, and I never lack for company, but all of this just doesn't take the place of one's wonderful Family. Yes, quite frequently a feeling of longing or loneliness.

Bootleggers Pay $1,200 in Fines

Twelve hundred dollars in bootlegging fines were collected in county court during the past week, following raids made by representatives of the State Liquor Control Board and local law enforcement officers, Deputy Sheriff Bob Barnett reported.

Two men were charged with transportation of liquor, a white man from Shamrock, who was fined $500, and an East Texas colored man, who was fined $100, according to Judge R. L. Templeton.

The remaining four were charged with possession and fines of $100 and $200 were meted out by Judge Templeton.

Beating Draws Fine, Jail Sentence

A Wellington cafe operator was fined $75 and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a county court charge of assault and battery Friday, November 30, County Judge R. L. Templeton reported.

The man was charged with having beaten up his wife Thursday night. He in turn was badly beaten by their son, who intervened in the altercation.

The woman was injured to the extent that she required hospitalization for five days, having been released Tuesday, Judge Templeton said.

CHILDRESS REPORTER ALL DISTRICT FOOTBALL TEAMS LIST 6 ROCKETS

The Childress Reporter All-district 3-AAA football team was announced recently by that newspaper. The selection were made by the coaches of the district at the Reporter's request.

Four Rockets, Farrell Kent, Floyd Hood, Vesta Lee Orr and Hoot Gibson, placed on the first team, and Virgil White and Seldon Wood were listed on the second team.

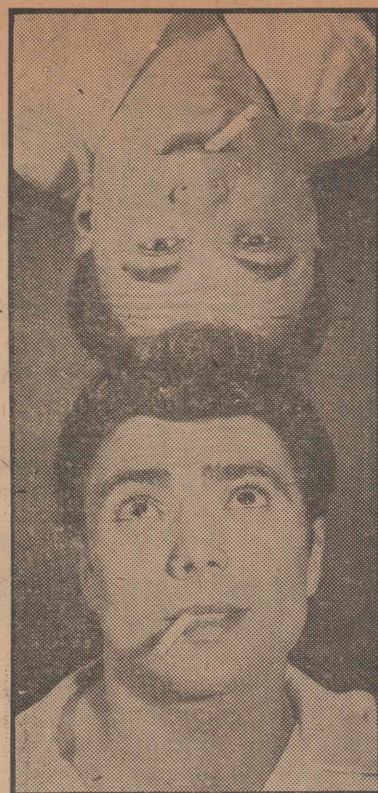

After each player's name is a number. This represents the number of points received. The players were selected on the basis of 8 points for first team selection and 2 points for second place selection. Some coaches named two men for one position, thereby causing the votes to be divided between them.

The first team contains 13 players. This is because three guards received the same number of votes and were given first place positions. The second team contains the names of 14 players. This was because two ends tied in points, two guards tied in points, and two backfield men tied in points.

Following is the All-District team:

University of Texas to Honor Panhandle Editor

AUSTIN — David M. Warren, Panhandle newspaper publisher and banker, will be honored for his interest in local history in ceremonies December 6 at the University of Texas.

An Award of Merit will be presented to Warren and his Panhandle Herald by the American Association for State and Local History. The presentation will be made by Dr. H. Bailey Carroll, Texas State Historical Association director.

Dr. Carroll believes Warren, who is vice-chairman of the University's Board of Regents, is the first man ever to receive the award on recommendation of two state historical bodies. Both the Texas State Historical Association and Missouri Historical Society

He was a life member of the Texas State Historical Association before being named to the Board of Regents in November, 1944. He was re-appointed to the board in 1949 for a six-year term.

Warren received a bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Missouri in 1917 and came to Texas in 1918, beginning his newspaper career in Amarillo. Prior to 1931, he operated a chain of newspapers which blanketed the entire North Plains area.

As a member of the University's Board of Regents, he has taken special interest in the School of Journalism and its new building which will open in 1952.

His son, David M. Warren, Jr., is a senior business administration student at the University.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Skaggs and son, Jones Skaggs, of Willow, Oklahoma, were visitors in the county Wednesday, November 28. They lived in the Quail area before moving to Willow.

Social Security Card Needed for Holiday Work

Do you expect to work during the Christmas holidays? If so, you will need a social security card, and here are facts the Social Security Administration would like for you to know. If you go to work for wages in private business or industry, you must show your social security card to your employer promptly. If you have never had a social security card and are going to need one soon, or if you have lost your social security card, you should go to the local post office and get an application. Fill it out and mail it to the Social Security Administration, Amarillo, Texas. You will receive your card in just a few days.

Be sure you always have just one social security number. See that your employer copies your name and number from the card each new place you go to work. Then when you or your family apply for payments based on your social security account there will be no delay. Do not apply for a card unless you are fairly sure to need it. Then get one promptly. A representative from the Amarillo social security office will be in Wellington at the County Court Room on Wednesday, December 12, at 9:00 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. Darvin Nix were hosts to a group of quail hunters from Amarillo during the week end. They included Hugh Tull, owner of Plains Machinery Co., and eleven employees of that company.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Christmas may seem a long way off to the children; but as you read this there remain only 16 shopping days until Christmas.

Nearly fell out of my chair last week when I glanced at a proof and saw that Wellington had edged by Samnorwood in basketball 37 to 36. For either Samnorwood or Quail to defeat Wellington in basketball is not much news; but for Wellington to beat either one of them is something like the man biting the dog.

Suggest you people in town do your shopping on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The other three days of the week will be busy enough for the merchants.

The stores of Wellington are full — literally full — of a most delightful and inviting variety of gifts. I don't believe that I have ever seen anything quite like it in all the years that I have been with the paper.

The new Texas drivers responsibility law requires you to show that you can pay $15,000 in case you have a wreck. The solution for that is rather easy and that is to buy an insurance policy. You do not have to buy an insurance policy; but it is the easiest way out for the man of limited means. There are a number of established agencies from which you can get reliable policies.

What has me puzzled is the outcome of another new law regarding drivers. It is the one that concerns having your car tested for safety features, brakes, lights, windshield wipers and about ten other points. I have checked all of the repair shops in Wellington and none of them have the slightest intention of qualifying as a certifying agent for the state. Here is the way they explain it: They pay their mechanics on the average $1.50 an hour. It will take at least 45 minutes for one mechanic to check one car properly. For this service the state specifies that the agent shall collect one dollar; but seventy-five cents of this is retained by the shop and the other twenty-five is sent to the state. The seventy-five cents won't begin to pay for the mechanics time. In addition there is overhead such as taxes, insurance and a hundred other things plus the extra record keeping. So up to date I have not found a single repair shop that is going to qualify as an agent of the state under the new law.

Where does that leave the drivers of the jalopies. I have a 1940 Plymouth in which I cruise all over the town section of Wellington. It is probably a much safer car than the Buick I drive at times. It has good brakes, good lights and it would not run very fast very long under any circumstances. What am I going to do about it, I would not think of trying to drive it to Chil-dress or to Amarillo or to any other testing station farther away than that; but it is a good, safe, useful car here on the town section where I am using it. What am I to do? Are they going to put my ancient — but safe — Plymouth off the streets because I think it is too old and too ancient a car to drive to some other town?

There might be shops in Wellington who would undertake the testing job if they could do the job in the slack summer months. It could mean some extra repair business; but apparently none of them want it now at the present price of mechanics.

The City is going to clamp down on those who have been shooting off fireworks in violation of a city ordinance. They have appointed G. N. Scruggs police judge. You can be fined as much as $25 for this offense.

These exploding firecrackers are a danger to pedestrians on the streets. They are a nuisance to older people who want to sleep after nine o'clock and early in the morning. The thing that gets me down in spirit, however, is the use of firecrackers, bombs or fireworks at Christmas at all. It is totally out of keeping with the true feeling of the season. They are O.K. on the Fourth of July if used in legal manner and in legal limits; but they are not in keeping with any of the things that many people associate with Christmas. If you want to get the opinions of some of those who are bitterest against this disregarding the true spirit of the Yuletide, then just talk to some of the veterans who have been under fire long hours on front lines. It is not their conception of Christmas. Parents should so inform their children and so limit their purchasing power.

Quail are plentiful in the Panhandle this year.

The classified section of the paper took a sudden spurt in volume during the last two weeks. It came from farmers and ranchers putting in posted and no trespassing notices. They are downright tired of the way in which certain hound dog men have overrun their lands and especially the manner in which quail hunters have moved in without permission.

Of course I do not object to hunting quail. Just like the Game Commission of the State of Texas, I think that the hunting and the dispersion is a factor in keeping them healthy. Let them grow in too great numbers in a certain area and you get something like what happened to jackrabbits in the Panhandle. Plague seems to overtake them.

Next Friday is December 7. Do you remember what you were doing on that day ten years ago? It was Sunday. I was sitting in the office of The Wellington Leader talking with Ray Nichols of the Vernon Record, Dave Warren of the Panhandle Herald and Ed Carlock of the Paducah Post. We were discussing the affairs of The Texas Press Association when the grim news came that the Japs were bombing Pearl Harbor. In one sense it seems like a long time ago. Each of these able editors knew that we were at war. In another sense it seems as if it were only yesterday. In the meantime our fighting men have won many valiant and heroic victories; but it is tragic to realize that we are still at war.

"LOVING A SOLDIER" A POEM TO A MAN IN KOREA

Editor's note. Cpl. Richard Marinelli, with the 11th Field Artillery Battalion in Korea, sends this poem to Pacific Stars and Stripes. It was written by his sweetheart, but Corporal Marinelli thinks that it expresses the feelings of every woman who loves a soldier and wants his fellow soldiers to have an opportunity to read it.

Loving a soldier is not all play, in fact there's very little of it gay, it's mostly having and not to hold, it's being young and feeling old.

Loving a soldier is all milk and no cream, it's being in love with a misty dream.

It's getting a valentine from a ship, or camp and sending a letter with an upside down stamp.

It's hoping for leaves you know would not come, and wondering if he'll ever get home again.

And when he does, it's laughter and tears together, unconscious of people, of the time or the weather.

It's hearing him whisper his love to you, and your answering whisper you love him too.

And then comes the ring, a promise of love, and knowing you're watched by the Father above.

Loving a soldier is saying goodbye at the train, and wondering when you'll see him again, and reluctantly, painfully letting him go.

Then you watch for word that he's "well," and wait through a long dragged "no letter" spell and your feet are planted on sand and sod, then your source of strength comes slowly from God.

Loving a soldier is undefined fears, and crying until there are no more tears, and hating yourself, the world and the war. You stamp and kick 'til you can't fight anymore.

and then, giving up, and kneeling and praying and really mean the prayers you're saying.

And when the mail comes you babble with joy, just like a baby with a shining new toy.

But you know he's oceans away. But you just keep loving him more every day.

You're proud of the new job he's helping get done, you don't care anymore if living is not fun.

Then you grind your teeth, and muster a grin, we've got a war and we better help win.

And then comes the birthday, you are a year older today, but you feel just the same as you did yesterday.

You are your charger, you're wiser and stronger, you can weather this war, if it's 20 years longer.

Your job will be hard and you'll sure earn your pay and waiting for him some bright sunny day, you're helping your soldier to win over there so someday in happiness you'll share.

So, loving a soldier is bitterness, tears, loneliness, sadness and unidentified fears, which will long be remembered in hundreds of years.

No, loving a soldier is really not fun but is sure worth the price, when the battle is WON!!!!

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henard and children, Margaret Sue and Frances of Plains, and Billy Nelson of Odessa visited over the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nelson.

PROVE YOUR FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

under the new Texas Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law with AUTO LIABILITY INSURANCE!

Under this new law, your driver's license and registrations will be suspended following an accident in which persons are injured or killed, or property is damaged in excess of $100, if you fail to deposit *security with the State as proof of your financial responsibility to satisfy any judgments that may result from the accident.

(*Security as proof of financial responsibility is an automobile liability insurance policy, or a bond, or up to $15,000 in cash or in securities.)

The least expensive and most practical way to avoid suspension of your driver's license under this law, is to have an Auto Liability Insurance policy to file as security to prove your financial responsibility.

Garrison Clears Up Confusion

PRESENT SYSTEM OF REPORTING ACCIDENTS CHANGED SLIGHTLY

AUSTIN — Public confusion over the method of reporting traffic accidents under the state's new Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law was cleared up today by Public Safety Director Homer Garrison, Jr., who showed that any change in the present system is so slight that it should cause no difficulty among motorists.

The present confusion was brought about by the discrepancy in time for filing regular accident reports, which must be sent to the Texas Department of Public Safety within 24 hours, and the time for filing additional information under the Safety Responsibility Law, which may be sent to the Department within as much as 10 days. This gave rise to belief among motor vehicle owners and operators that they would be required to file two lengthy reports, which is not true.

Here are the rules for reporting traffic accidents beginning January 1, when the Safety Responsibility Law becomes effective, as explained by Director Garrison for the guidance of all motorists:

Under the state's Uniform Traffic Law, the operator of every motor vehicle that is involved in an accident resulting in death or injury to a person, or total property damage to an apparent extent of $25 or more, must file a complete written report with the Texas Department of Public Safety within 24 hours, exactly as they do now. Official forms for this purpose may be obtained from any sheriff's office, local police station, highway patrolman or the Texas Department of Public Safety, as at present. In other words, there is no change whatever in the present rules for reporting accidents of the type just described.

When you obtain a regular accident report, beginning January 1, there will also be furnished along with an Insurance Information form, labeled Form 21, which must be filled out completely and accurately should the accident in which you were involved result in death or injury to a person, or property damage to any one person, including yourself, in excess of 100 since this will bring the accident under the provisions of the new Safety Responsibility Law. If the accident did not involve death or injury to a person, or property damage to any one person, including yourself, in excess of $100, you may disregard this Insurance Information section. If you are required to file it, however, be sure that you still get the regular accident report section off to the Texas Department of Public Safety within 24 hours, despite the fact that you may take up to 10 days to send in the insurance sec.

The simplest procedure, Director Garrison pointed out, will be simultaneous filing of all required information, but this will require a motorist to be prepared to answer the insurance and security questions promptly and file the combined report within 24 hours. Any motorist can do this, however, if he follows these suggestions of the Director:

- 1. Carefully read the state's leaflet about the law and keep it handy in your car.
2. Get a report form, study the questions, and keep it in your car; you may need it in a hurry.
3. If you are insured, keep the name of your insurance company, number of your policy and amount and kind of insurance it provides, in your car for immediate reference.
4. If you are not insured, make up your mind in advance how you will meet the new law's security requirements by other means, as explained in the state's leaflet, if you are involved in a traffic accident.

"It cannot be repeated too often," Director Garrison said, "that the driver of every car involved in an accident must file all required information with the Department of Public Safety within the brief periods stated. Any question of who was at fault must not even be considered — the law says every driver, regardless of fault. The penalty for failure to report is a fine of $25 and suspension of your operating license until the report is filed. If an operator is physically unable to report, and was driving another person's motor vehicle at the time of the accident, the owner of the vehicle must file the report."

FOR DEEP READING — A member of the Paris Fire Department's Seine River Brigade, Andre Theis, above, reads a magazine while resting on the river's bank. Theis, in his diving suit, is ready for any emergency call. Whenever a would-be suicide jumps into the Seine or an auto plunges from one of the city's bridges Theis, or one of his co-workers, is called into action. What a low life!

Lord Jim Says--

By Bill Hughes

People often run from argument on the grounds of its being useless for it never solves anything, wasteful for the time can be more pleasantly spent, and possibly most of all on the ground of its being often upsetting and most discomforting. The reason for this last is that too often sheer reality breaks through the morphine of our habitual, often wishful, sometimes dreamy, most often copied thinking. This is very painful to the ego. It is only natural to shy away from any sort of pain and the pain of the mind is no easier to bear than pain of the body.

Since obviously there is nothing to be gained in going around beating ones skull on brick walls, I suppose it may be reasonably asked, why should one go around flexing the brain and deflating the ego in useless argument.

Argument can certainly be most useless and unpleasant if the sole purpose of that argument is to willfully shovel an idea down another's throat. This is useless because it cannot be accomplished. This is unpleasant because it only generates ill will. Hence there is such a thing as useless argument that is a waste of time because it serves no good motive.

However that is not to say all argument is useless, accomplishes nothing, and though even painful cannot do good.

Any person who thinks, no matter whether looking at pictures, at live action, or reading the printed word, or listening to the spoken one, is mentally arguing his preconceived ideas against what he hears, sees and experiences. By this process of argument he discards, adds to and arranges his ideas and hence readjusts the point of view from which he acts.

The whole point and purpose of this process is the eternal search for truth. All argument be it with oneself or between individuals or groups of individuals so long as the basic motive of argument is in search of the truth it serves to profit all. But when the basic motive of argument is to justify past action or to impose man's will upon unwilling nature it changes from a positive force to a negative one.

Now in this world wide argument that has spread chaos, fear, doubt, and inflamed hatreds over the entire face of the earth, why are the Christian nations backtracking and struggling so hard to justify everything they have done and are doing.

The Communist deny God and practice the theory that material power alone concentrated and controlled by a dictator is the common man's only salvation. The Communist makes no apology. He moves in and conquers first. If the cry of wolf is loud enough then he justifies later if it suits his purpose by the simple expedient of twisting and distorting the facts and then cleverly imposing it upon you using your own concept of morality which holds no meaning for him at all.

Though supposedly you profess to believe in God as Almighty and swear to your faith in Him, you justify your appeasement of tyranny, sacrilege, and human blasphemy completely on the very atheistic and materialistic theory of the Communist himself.

If you don't hold the 39 degree parallel in Korea, Asia and the Pacific are lost. If you don't keep the industrial might of Europe out of Communist hands you are doomed. If you don't hold Africa, Suez and the Middle East you are lost. You don't dare fight any place TO WIN because you are not prepared to match the forces of Communism anywhere, let alone everywhere. If you don't feed and defend your allies because they are tired, shot and won't defend themselves, they will side with Russia.

Therefore you must buy time to get prepared. You must have more dollars to keep 'em loyal. You must have higher wages for organized labor and more butter, sugar, and cream for you and me. You must have more teen agers, and incidentally an increased trickle of guns, tanks, and planes.

That the unapologetic Communists are also not only employing this time to catch up in atomic appliances, out-producing and out-manning you but at the same time they are also increasing the tempo of their music to which you have no choice but to dance faster and faster.

Why?

Because you play another's game. Because you argue to justify your weaknesses. Because you have sold out your faith in the soil from which you grew so great SPEED TO SPARE—Hermann Boehm, Germany's top motorcycle side-car racing specialist, rides his streamlined bike in a world record-breaking speed run on the Autobahn, near Munich. The 500cc. and strong. You are lost and caught only half believing — half in God, half in dollars, atom bombs and taxes. But the man whose game you play believes completely in himself and in the material power that he grabs and controls. Regardless of how or what he believes, he believes. You only half believe — you are divided and so you dance to his tune.

Letters From The PEOPLE

Bakersfield, California
Dear Deck,

Here in San Joaquin Valley we are almost surrounded by mountains and entirely surrounded by cotton. The cotton is irrigated and grows tall with spreading limbs. In places it is down and matted together. Picking is three dollars and a half per hundred. A large portion of it is defoliated for mechanical pickers. At a short distance they look like giant insects. Free cabins, fuel, lights and water. At times the fog comes down from the mountains.

Very good schools in California. Some of the towns, schools and stores have pretty names. We are about 30 miles from Bakersfield. There is Oildale, Greenfield, Panama, Manicopa and Taft. There is Lakeside, Lakeview and Old River. Then there is Pumpkin Center and Weed Patch!

There are dairies here, too. A great deal of alfalfa is grown here. Around Arvin grapes are grown, also sweet corn.

Will soon bid California good-bye and kiss Texas hello.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Ruby Havron

Texas Has Billion $ Farm Income

Texas was among six mid-American states to make the "billion dollar farm income" club in 1950, according to a survey made public by Capper's Farmer.

Texas farmers received $1,993,263,000 in cash farm income last year, including $806,100,000 from livestock and livestock products and $1,187,163,000 from crops, says the survey, based on U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics.

The nationally-circulated farm magazine reports that the five other states in the billion dollar farm cash income bracket were: Iowa, with $2,058,101,000; Illinois, $1,720,080,000; Minnesota, $1,164,558,000; Missouri, $1,009,281,000; Kansas, $1,000,790,000.

Total 1950 U. S. cash farm income was $27,920,746,000, comprising $15,598,222,000 from livestock and $12,322,524,000 farm crops.

Farm income for 1951 is likely to set an all-time high of $35 billion, or $7 billion above last year's level, the magazine estimates.

What is Scouting?

MOST IMPORTANT FUNDAMENTAL OF SCOUT WORK IS ITS IDEALS

The most important fundamental of Scouting is the Ideals of the Movement. These include for the Cub Scouts, the Cub Scout Promise and Law of the Pack.

THE CUB SCOUT PROMISE I, _____, Promise to do my best:

- To do my duty to God and my country, To be square, and, To obey the Law of the Pack.

With Boy Scouts it is the Scout Oath, or Promise, and Scout Law. In Exploring it is the Scout Oath, or Promise, the Scout Law, and in addition they use the Sea Promise and Citizenship Pledge.

THE SCOUT OATH On my honor, I will do my best— To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law;

To help other people at all times; To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

THE SCOUT LAW A Scout is: Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful, Friendly, Courteous, Kind, Obedient, Cheerful, Thrifty, Brave, Clean, and Reverent.

Explorers (young men 14 years of age and over in Scouting) subscribe to the Scout Oath and Law. In addition, certain specific pledges supplement these, as set forth in the publications of Exploring. There are five ideals of Exploring: (1) To live up to the Oath and Law of Scouting, (2) To recognize the tools for living, (3) To train in the use of tools for living, (4) To gain actual experience, (5) To test that experience.

The Ideals of Scouting, as outlined above, are the basis, the foundation upon which all the phases of the Scout Program are built. In his daily living, in accordance with these ideals, the boy builds much of the character, and is trained in the citizenship which are two of the fundamental purposes of Scouting.

Next: THE CHARTERED INSTITUTION AND ITS RESPONSIBILITIES.

ness finds its way into my conscious mind, but the spirit of mutual love and understanding unites us and shortens these thousands of miles which separate us.

It seems that each day here becomes busier than the day before. I have written no letters for a week now, and I can hardly face myself in the mirror when I remind myself what a heel I have been lately.

amounting to more than $500. Minor repairs are exempt.

The caption of this ordinance reads: An Ordinance requiring a building permit for the construction or alteration, moving or removing of any building within the City Limits of the City of Wellington, Texas, requiring the payment of a permit fee and providing for a penalty for the violation of this ordinance.

Most towns of the size of Wellington already have such an ordinance in effect, City Manager Bura Handley explained.

"With it, we will be able to keep up with the amount of building we have each year and we will also be able to regulate the other ordinances relative to building," he added.

Odessa Children Visiting Here

Four Odessa children are visiting in the Wellington for the duration of that town's polio epidemic.

Mrs. Lawson Holton arrived with her small son and will visit in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Judge Holton, until the disease incidence drops in Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pollard brought their three children, Hays, six, Barbara, four and Mike, 21 months old, to stay with her mother, Mrs. J. L. Hays. Mrs. Hays said the children probably remain here until after Christmas.

L. A. Sachse Gets Severe Burn

By MRS. GEORGE ADKINS L. A. Sachse received a painful burn right leg Friday morning while helping to service a catapillar tractor.

The leg of his trousers became saturated with gasoline and a spark from the engine ignited it. His leg was severely burned from hip to ankle.

The accident occurred north of Hollis, where Mr. Sachse was operating a deep-braking outfit.

Mrs. Ham Holton and son of Odessa are in Wellington visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Judge Holton.

EVANGELISTS Evangelists Doris Fisher and Wanda Sanders of Dumas will conduct a 10-day revival at the Assembly of God, beginning Wednesday night, December 5.

Presbyterian Board. She has just come from the U. S. where she attended a several-months seminar on Communism in New York City. Part of her course there was actual study in the pro-Communist college in New York. Also helping in this seminar here is a Mr. Thampe, an Indian and an ex-leader of the Communist party in India. I am enjoying this study very much and am thrilled with the opportunity to study the subject under these two well qualified leaders.

Tomorrow is a holiday, so about eight boys in the Student Christian Movement and I are going out to a village tonight where we will meet with some villagers and have some organized discussions on village sanitation, evils of drinking and gambling, improved agricultural methods and implements. We will also meet with an Adult Literacy Class. We will spend the night in the village and will begin work at 5:30 tomorrow morning in one of the villages, helping to clean up around the village well, clean up the paths between the village houses, and to dig manure pits, and do other sanitary practices about the community.

Some of the things which occupy my time other than official duties in the Agronomy Department are quite a deviation from teaching soils. Very often I am asked to drive to the station to meet someone, or to take some visitor on a tour of the Institute, or to teach some subjects in short courses, or to arrange for seating accommodations for a special tea for about 80 guests, or to take a group of the Home Ec ladies shopping (my most enjoyable extra curricular action), or take pictures for special occasions, or serve on the Farmers' Fair Committee, or do some typing and mimeographing for the SCM or some such thing. Occasionally I am asked to referee a basketball game.

State Debt and National Debt

Taxes, a bitter pill to any taxpayer, were seen in a new light recently when it was called to attention recently that of all states in the Union, Texas is one of the most solvent from this standpoint. In few states do the taxpayers and voters have such a strong hold on the public pursestrings as in Texas.

The recent vote approving the issuance of an additional $75,000,000 for the veterans land fund points this up. Public indebtedness was curtailed from the beginning in Texas when there was written into the Constitution of 1876 the provision against increasing the public debt except by Constitution amendment. Not so the National indebtedness. A clear comparison of the two has been given by The Dallas Morning News:

At the present time, Texas has an old state public debt of $4,100,000, all of which is owned by the University of Texas, public school and other permanent funds of the state. In addition, it has a $25,000,000 veterans' land debt, and there was recently voted permission to issue an additional $75,000,000 veterans' land bonds, plus 4 millions of the old state debt.

The people of Texas also owe about $50 million dollars in total public debts of all civil subdivisions. This makes a total of about $1,504,000,000 state and local debt. Some people think it is pretty high.

But the Texas obligation under the national debt is about twelve times as great, or a little in excess of twelve billion dollars. While Texans have been foresightedly raising barriers against state bonded debt and at least requiring public consent for the issuance of all local bonded debt, they have had thrust upon them twelve times as much obligation in the form of the national debt. There is a commentary on the way things work in this big country of ours in the fact that the big national debt has piled up without any constitutional restrictions and without any specific vote of the people in the matter.

Fortunately, Texas is still a theoretically solvent state because it has fore-sightedly denied itself the temptation to make future generations pay for today's expenditures. But Texas is not very far from bankruptcy in view of its share of the national debt, nor is any other state in the country.

Castor Beans Grow in Importance

Every time a jet plane leaves its vapor trail across a Collingsworth County sky, it's indirectly encouraging the newest crop to grow in Collingsworth County land. Castor beans, until recent years valued chiefly by the paint industry, now furnish the castor oil that is the base for a lubricant for jet engines. Its value for this purpose is its property for remaining stable at extremely high or extremely low temperatures.

For Collingsworth, castor beans are proved although growers have learned that they're not the wonder crop, and a farm that blew away in 1935 isn't going to grow an abundant crop of castor beans any more than it will an abundant crop of cotton. They do have the advantage of hardness in some of the county's deep sandy land where it's less profitable to raise cotton or feed.

This year's yield is showing what the area will produce in a bad crop year.

Castor beans aren't new in Texas. Back in 1869, an Austin editor described a head of castor beans brought him, grown from seed brought from Brazil. He predicted the crop would become more profitable than cotton.

Castor beans didn't catch on, hardy as they were, on account of competition from cheap tung oil from China. That source is in communist hands, now, and home grown castor beans are filling in the lack.

Out of the picture as far as county production is concerned at present are the by-products of the oil has been extracted from the bean itself, the remaining pomace is converted into fertilizer. When some of the leaves are mixed with this, it not only enriches the soil but kills the larvae of harmful insects.

The Old Master Painter

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek gets off into national politics this week, which he's no authority on, but who is?

Dear editor:

As you probably know, I'm not lookin for a job, my trouble never has been findin a job so much as overlookin the ones already starin me in the face, but if I was, there is one job I don't believe I'd care for.

That's been national chairman of the Democratic or the Republican party.

I noticed from the newspapers that turned up out here on my farm some weeks ago that both parties have been havin a little trouble with their chairmen, bad health, bad judgment, bad publicity, one thing and another, but findin a new one ain't always an easy job.

For one thing, as I understand it in the light of the latest turn of events, the chairman shouldn't have had any deals with the RFC or other government leadin agencies or influence centers, and it seems like one of the hardest things on earth today is to find a man with enough prominence to head a party who ain't been callin on Washington for his company in one capacity or another.

The way it is, it takes a smart man to be national chairman, but man who ain't found his way to the RFC these days, why there's some doubt about how smart he is. It's a problem too big for me to handle, but I wish to report that while we folks out here on Buck Creek might not measure up when it comes to smartness, we could fill the bill otherwise, in case anybody is lookin for a national chairman from here, as our slate is clean, up to now hasn't anybody out here applied for an RFC loan, tried to get a special allotment of steel, bought any surplus for resale to the government, re-negotiated any contracts, handled any legal business worth sellin to a partner for $150,000 on the installment plan, influenced anybody's secretary, given or received any free automobiles, even gotten a free hotel room. We got a perfect background for a national chairman from the clean slate standpoint, but when it comes to bein smart, I ain't sure.

Why even while most cities in the country have been in on some kind of a junket to Washington for loans for highways or dredgin out a river or buildin a ship channel or controlin high water or buildin an airport, we folks out here have let things sort of slide. You might say we have been sittin on our haunches, and you can see there ain't much likelihood of anybody comin out here lookin for an astute chairman for anything. Try Dallas or Fort Worth or Houston or Philadelphia or Kansas City.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The State Farm and Ranch Safety Committee reminds rural residents that when the 1952 resolutions are made, one of the first should be to make every day during the coming year a safe one. Every able bodied member of every family will be needed during the year to carry on the production activities on the farm and ranch.

Advice to Future Ministers: Know Thyself

For any theological student who sincerely wants to be a part of God's ministry the best preparation that can be suggested is the age-old advice: "Know thyself."

This greatest of all students of religion, Jesus, started His education with Himself. He found His preparation in His own soul. And His first step was the fulfillment of the outward rite of baptism.

Jesus' next step was in His mind the only logical second step — to conquer temptation. This is something that usually has to be done alone because temptation is an individual thing — a fierce thing Temptation, no matter where it may be found—in a single person, alone many miles from civilization, or in the midst of the greatest crowds in the world's largest cities — must be fought in the soul. It is a battle that every man must fight for himself.

And Christ was "in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin," the authors of the Hebrews tell us. And it was because Jesus had Himself suffered the agonies of temptation that He was "able to succor them that are tempted."

This greatest of all teachers began His ministry in Galilee and Nazareth and soon His fame had spread far and wide. His townsmen marveled at the truths and wisdom revealed by this humble carpenter's son.

But these same people cried out in derision and attempted to cast Him down a hill when Jesus declared that the democratic realities of religion that the prophet Isaiah preached were being fulfilled in Himself.

His townsmen had failed Him, but Christ knew that others of more noble stature of soul would respond to His teaching.

To all who seek truth and who would begin their pursuit of learning with a knowledge of themselves, which is the only right way, Christ stands as their foremost inspiration.

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

Censorship

President Truman says he has an open mind toward changing his recent publicity order to which the nation's press objects. The order gives civilian agencies of the government power to suppress information involving national security.

This information is classified as "top secret, secret, confidential and restricted." Editors think these classifications out to be clearer. But what they most object to is the power of an agency head so to classify any information.

For instance, a scandal in the State Department—with no relation at all to military security—can be suppressed. So can a scandal in the Department of agriculture, on the grounds that it might cause farmers to lose faith with their government, thus endangering the "crop effort" of the nation.

The President challenges the editors to work out a better system. It they can, he indicates he would have an open mind toward adopting it. Here he is on firm ground. And the press ought to formulate its program for his study.

It is doubtful if he will accede to all of the editors' suggestions, but at least there should be an attempt. Voluntary censorship worked well during World War II. Surely something comparable can be worked out as World War III approaches—Dallas News.

Village Concerts Heard in Many Of Nation's Communities

Of course we were one of the many people of the community who spent an hour in the park last Thursday evening listening to the first band concert of the season given by the local band and directed by Wm. Robbins.

If it weren't for the fact that it gave us such a self-satisfied feeling with our town, we'd say that it was thrilling. But thrilling isn't really the word, as anyone knows who's ever been at a band concert in a small town.

Instead, it seems that the local band, tooting away up there in the bandstand, promotes some sort of intimacy between neighbors. You stand there and chat, playing the dual role of listening to the music and talking at the same time.

Yes, band concerts are fun. And this year the band is again pleasing to the ear. Thanks to Mr. Robbins and the musicians who devote their time to making the cents possible. Thanks to the village dads for supporting the concert in a financial way — Clarisse (Minn.) Independent.

STRICTLY FRESH

An open mind gets one into far less trouble than an open mouth.

Perhaps the movies would be better if they shot less film and more actors.

New 1952 Pontiac Goes on Display at Gibson Motor Company This Week

PONTIAC MICH.—Pontiac Division of General Motors today lifted the curtain on its models for 1952 which feature an entirely new power train consisting of a new dual-range Hydra-Matic transmission, higher compression engines and the lowest rear axle gear ratio (3.08 to 1) yet to appear on American passenger cars.

The combination, according to engineers responsible for the development, results in new standards of performance and economy for the 1952 cars, at the same time provide two separate driving ranges, a flexibility in driving that meets extreme conditions of heavy city traffic or safe, smooth travel on the open highway.

In addition to the new power train, the 1952 Pontiac models, now on display in dealer showrooms throughout the country, feature a number of important styling changes and refinements. There are new colors available both for interiors and exteriors of all models. Interior colors are provided in a choice of grey, blue or green to match or harmonize with the color selected for the body. These interiors combine solid colors with matching tri-tone check patterns used for seat upholstery. Window mouldings and instrument panels are similarly styled according to body color.

The newest Silver Streak models are offered with six and eight cylinder high compression engines, each series having five standard and five deluxe models, and one super deluxe, the Catalina.

Throughout the entire line a number of innovations have been made in ornamentation which quickly distinguish the 1952 models from their predecessors. There is a revised edition of the characteristic Pontiac Indian head hood ornament, modifications of the radiator grille, and other changes in the belt moulding, trunk handles and interior fittings.

While these and other appearance changes combine to distinguish the new models, the highlight among new Pontiac features is the Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive. The owner of the new 1952 model is provided with two complete optional driving ranges, each having individual characteristics which make it suitable for two different classes of driving conditions.

One of these systems provides the usual first, second, third and fourth gear speed range permitting smooth, economical performance for country and boulevard driving. The second is a new first, second and third gear range particularly adapted for driving in congested traffic or mountainous territory.

When driving in the 1-2-3 traffic or mountain range, the car will normally remain in third gear and cannot shift into fourth except at very high speeds. According to the engineers, this gives greater flexibility in normal traffic, provides engine braking in mountains or on steep hills, and because of the greater reduction in the gear box allows for a lower rear axle ratio. This permits the car to accelerate more quickly and at the same time assists in braking, a safety factor and a marked contribution to longer brake life.

In the 1-4 range, most forward driving or cruising is done in the fourth gear speed which brings the new 3.08 to 1 rear axle into full economy service. The new axle ratio is a 15 per cent lower reduction than the previous 3.64 to 1 which results in corresponding reduction in engine revolutions per mile of travel. The result is quieter operation, improved fuel economy on the highway and driving more nearly approaches the effect of "coasting."

Selection of either of the drive ranges is made, without reference to the speed of the car, by moving the Hydra-Matic Selector Lever into the desired driving position. The gear shift indicator has been redesigned in the new cars so that the driver will have no difficulty in making his selection. The drive (DR) range is split into two positions — 1-2-3-4 gear range is to the left of DR and the 1-2-3 range is to the right.

Typical use of the dual-range is cited by the engineers as follows: the car may be driving along a fairly level road in the 1-2-3-4 range and hit a hilly section which makes it desirable to shift into traffic range. All that is necessary is to move the control lever to the right side of the DR position.

If it is desired to shift down to a lower gear ratio, where conditions call for maximum downshift acceleration, pressing the accelerator pedal completely will accomplish the shift in either drive range. When in the left hand or 1-4 range with the car speed below 60 miles per hour, the transmission will shift down to third gear. When in the traffic or 1-3 drive range, and at a car speed below 20 miles per hour, the transmission will automatically shift down to second gear.

Another improvement in the new Pontiac Dual-Range Hydra-Matic concerns the LO range. This has now been changed so that with the control lever at "LO," start and drive will be in second gear only, providing a surer start on icy pavements. Should first gear operation be desired at a car speed of 10 miles per hour or less, such as in heavy sand or mud, automatic shift to first gear results when the accelerator pedal is fully depressed.

Smoother shifting has been attained in the new transmission through the introduction of a new timing valve in the valve body, and it is easier to "rock" the car in sand, mud or snow because the shift is more readily made from "LO" to "R" due to the introduction of an exhaust valve in the rear servo.

In connection with the new Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive, Pontiac moves into top position in the industry with the high engine compression ratio of 7.7 to 1. With this compression ratio power output has been increased and advantage taken of the high octane fuels now commercially available. Premium fuels are required with the 7.7 to 1 compression ratio. Lower compression ratio of 6.8 to 1 for (Continued on Page Six)

Mr., Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Whitson Win Open Class

Arts, Crafts Show Attracts 350 Exhibitors of Outstanding Work

A complete bedroom suite, hand-made in western style, along with chenille bedspread and draperies, made by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bowen of Wellington won the grand award in the open exhibit of Saturday's Arts and Crafts Hobby Show.

Awards in the school division were shared by the Wellington and Samnorwood students.

"Approximately 350 individuals had entries in the show," Mrs. John Lee, chairman, said. "The open divisions had 70 individuals entering from one to a dozen different pieces. We gave only two awards in the open division as we were not stressing competition in this division. Every piece exhibited in the open class looked like a winner in its field."

The elementary division of the show had 97 students participating, with one or more pieces on exhibit. The Wellington Elementary School won the grand award. The individual awards included:

First grade: first, Harlan Nelson, Wellington, a hand-painted picture; second: Raymond Sanders and Peggy Shanks, Wellington, a doll bed; third, Vicki Glenn, Wellington, pair of painted dolls.

Second grade: first, Glynell Elbert, Wellington, cup towel; second, Donna Curry, Wellington, doll; third, Bwrl Ledbetter, barrel train.

Third grade: first, Lynda Orr,

Wellington, picture; second, Weldon Cleveland, Wellington, book ends; third, Bobby Joe Langford, rug.

Fourth Grade: first, Neal Russell, Wellington, picture; second, Carole Taylor, picture; third, Tommy Aikins, Wellington, bow and arrow.

The junior high division of the show had 135 pupils represented. Wellington Junior High School won the grand award in this division with Samnorwood giving keen competition. Individual awards in the grades were:

Fifth, Alice Johnson, Samnorwood, aluminum tray; second, Alice Johnson, plaque; third, Joan Henry, Wellington, picture.

Sixth grade: first, Frances Drake, Wellington, picture; second, Bonita Tate, Samnorwood, cup towels; third, Dickie Sweat, picture.

Seventh grade: first, Molly Ann Denley, Wellington, ceramic deer; second, Ada Carole Thomas, cup towels; third, Ada Thomas, blouse and shorts.

Eighth grade: first, Barton Groves, Wellington, lamp; second, Doris Sweat, ear screws; third, Don Scott, truck.

The High School Division of the show had students from Dodson entering a group exhibit and six individuals represented from Wellington and Samnorwood. Dodson won the grand award in this division and the individual awards were:

Ninth grade: first, John Thomas and Barton Groves, an exhibit of bees. Tenth grade: first, Bill Warrick, painting.

Eleventh grade: first, Jimmy Thompson, model airplane.

Twelfth grade: first, Charles Michael, Wellington, drawings; second, James Massey, Samnorwood, hand-tooled leather belt.

The Camp Fire Girls had two exhibits and were judged as a group. The Tejas Tribe won first on their doll teepee; Carolyn Keller won second on a wooden plate and Vada Bell won third on her jacket.

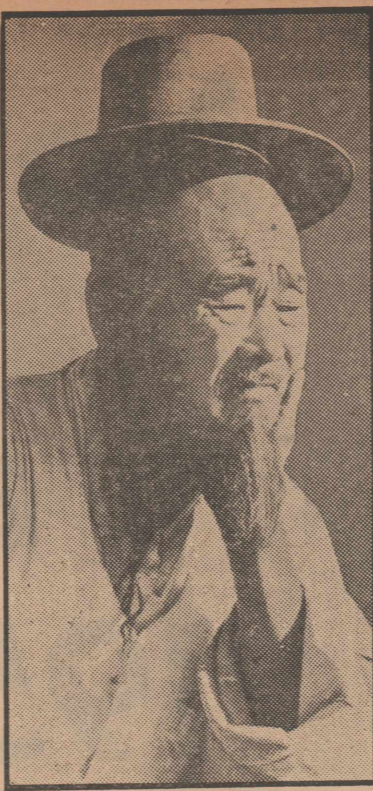

Included among the exhibits in the open division were hand-made tables of modern design, by Moonie Stall. Mrs. Z. H. Wilhite of Dodson entered two pair of unusual lamps. One pair had as bases gnarled tree roots, the base of the other pair was formed from the hubs of wagon wheels. Mrs. Mary Stall entered a collection of antique items, and other articles that have been included in collections made by her, and paintings done by her.

The Ceramic Club exhibited as a group, and included such items made by the members as lamp bases, picture frames, dishes, vases, figurines, and bowls.

Hand-crocheted bed spreads and hand-made quilts highlighted the exhibit of needlework.

The art exhibit included several of the county's better known artists as well as several whose work has not been exhibited previously.

Mrs. Walter Starr included with her group of oil paintings a still-life done with tempera paints (show card paint.) Mrs. Gene Glenn included rural scenes of Collingsworth County.

Alan Humphries, high school instructor, was an exhibitor, as was Burl Brim, county youth now serving in the Navy.

Outstanding among the exhibits was that of the Dodson school. A portion of the school museum was displayed, including collections of insects, mineral bearing and common rocks, and Indian artifacts. Both teachers and students have co-operated in working up this exhibit, which is kept at the school.

The exhibit of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen, which took the grand award in the open group, represents a hobby of this couple. Mr. Bowen does the woodwork, using pine finished in natural color for the bed, chest of drawers, and combination desk and dressing table. To carry out the western design, horseshoes were used as drawer pulls. The chenille curtains and bedspread were made by Mrs. Bowen, who has had this work as a hobby for a number of years.

Mrs. Whitson's dolls were exhibited once before here, in the window of Cochran Drug during the Old Settlers Reunion. Mrs. Whitson buys the heads, arms and legs of the dolls from a company specializing in making these from molds used some 75 to 100 years ago. She completes each doll and dresses it in authentic costume.

Judges were Mrs. Emma Mae Hastings, Wheeler Homemaking teacher, Mrs. Deskins Wells and Miss Jo Wylie.

Finland - The innkeeper where I was staying had a great interest in student life. She wanted to know all about America colleges. She began by telling me that Finnish students, after they have passed certain examinations, are permitted to wear student hats.

"A student hat", she said, "is a little white cap with a colored band that shows everybody you are not yet employed by any of the companies".

"Lots of my friends in America are like that", I said. "They aren't students, either."

"Well, in Finland this hat gives you special privileges with prices and hitchhiking. For example, if you are a student of medicine... what do you call a student of medicine?" she suddenly asked.

"A medicine man", I said.

"Oh yes, if you are a medicine man you get to wear a hat".

"Certainly", I answered, "every medicine man wears a hat".

"And when you are the best in school", she said, "what do you call that?"

"At the top of the class", I said.

"Oh yes", she continued, "when you are at the top of the class you get a different kind of hat".

"A top hat, maybe?" I asked.

"I guess that's what you call it", she said.

"Well, I know several people in America who wear top hats and they were always at the bottom of the class".

"I know", she said, "but America is like that".

"I have a son", she continued, "and he is studying music and library. When he graduates, what will he be called?"

"Well", I said, "in English you just add 'ian' to the word — so we call him a musician or a librarian".

"He has a friend who is studying to become a barber, so what will people call him?"

"That depends upon what he does to the hair, Madame", I answered.

"My son never tells about his studies. He is a quiet type, intellectual, won't talk much. He's studying music, library, sex, art and some philosophy, I think. He says he'll have a kind of arts diploma when he graduates. I'd like to know what he is doing up at school there. What kind of a job will he get?"

"Well I suppose if he learns a liberal philosophy and applies it to sex, which I understand is one of the arts, he should become quite a popular figure with some of the ladies, and perhaps notorious with some of their less progressive husbands".

"You sound like you know everything about everything", she said, "so I want to ask you something. What do you call a man that paints, builds, sweeps and does work like that?"

"You just add 'er' to the word like painter, builder or sweeper".

"Is that right for people that study history, mathematics and stuff like that?" she asked.

"For them you just add 'ian' like historian or mathematician," I said. "If they just work with their hands you add 'er', but if they work with their heads you put 'ian'."

"Did you say you were a writer?"

"Yes, Madame".

"Oh", she said thoughtfully.

Antelope Hunting Not What It Looks

AUSTIN — The Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission said some reaction to the Texas method of hunting antelope in the Big Bend country indicates need for those who have not hunted pronghorns to try their hand at it.

He said the opinion of some persons who have NOT participated in the short shoot of the West Texas game animals seems to sense similarity "to shooting fish in a barrel."

"It's not that easy," he explained, "and you may need more ammunition than you took along."

"From published reports, it is indicated that some folks associate antelope hunting with buffalo hunting in some Western states where the huge animals are rounded up and executed," continued the Executive Secretary.

"First of all this limited herding project is necessary to manage and maintain vigorous herds, in the process of restoring antelope."

"Secondly, the Commission has to carefully supervise the shooting for the safety of the herds, the landowners' cattle and the hunters themselves."

"Ranchers and the warden force have to cooperate to guide the hunters because of the vast areas involved. Just the other day, two men got lost in their automobile in a 300,000 acre pasture. Imagine the human toll in that desolate country if hunters struck out afoot or without proper guidance."

"There is more sportsmanship involved than many people believe and as a general thing ordinary marksmen have to hustle to get their bucks."

WHAT'S UP?—That's what the look on this sad-faced seal seems to ask as the creature pops its head out of its zoo pool to peek at a cameraman who had been waiting patiently for something like this to happen. The flipper, as far as is known, merely wanted to know what the weather was like.

use with regular fuel in connection with Dual-Range power transmission, is available at the option of the purchaser.

Among other improvements in the new cars are a "flipper" weather door seal on the new Catalina models which prevents water dripping into the driver's compartment when the door is opened, new generator frame and improved armature shaft construction, new "cooler" operating spark plugs with stronger structural features, new fuel pump, and other innovations.

As an extra cost option, in connection with radio installation, Pontiac this year has introduced a motor-driven antenna, which permits raising or lowering the antenna from within the car. With this convenience it is no longer necessary manually to adjust the antenna for remote area reception or for clearance in and out of the garage.

Important among accessories available on the 1952 Pontiacs is heat resistant (E-Z-Eye) safety glass. This tinted glass reduces glare as well as radiant heat in the car interiors. It keeps the car cooler on sunny days and since the windshield has a graduated intensity of tint from the top down, it eases eye strain on the driver.

Cpl. Charles W. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sullivan, arrived in Japan about two weeks ago and within a short time will go into Korea for duty, his mother said Friday.

Friends who have requested Cpl. Sullivan's address may write to him as follows:

Cpl. Charles W. Sullivan, US 54065509

He has been in service since November 3, 1950.

Glendale, Calif. — Curtis V. Richards, 18, son of Elbert Richards, Quail Route, Memphis, Texas, has arrived at Cal-Aero Technical Institute for a 36 week course in aircraft maintenance.

Pfc. Richards will take the intensive technical course along with nearly 200 other airmen as part of his specialized Air Force training.

The course includes basic mechanics, repair and overhaul of aircraft and aircraft engines and maintenance and operation of aircraft under flight line conditions.

The young airman was assigned to Cal-Aero as part of an extensive Air Force program calling for technical training by civilian contractors.

Cal-Aero, which trained more than 7500 mechanics and 25,000 pilots for the Air Force during World War II, was one of two schools in the country selected to participate in the first postwar reactivation of this type of training.

Cal-Aero is located on its own 200 acre airport, Grand Central Air Terminal, in the heart of the Southern California aircraft industry, just a few miles from Los Angeles.

Pfc. Richards attended Quail, Texas, High School. He has been a member of the USAF for three months.

Quail Chorus Ranks High In State Choral Contest

By SHARLENE SAUNDERS Reporter for the Chorus

The Quail High School Chorus was sent to Houston to participate in a Choral Contest sponsored by the Farm Bureau. The Farm Bureau of Collingsworth County was responsible for our being in the contest and financed the trip. The following is a brief resume of the trip which was taken by a party of forty-one.

Nov. 18th — The group left Quail High School at 4:45 p.m. on a chartered Cap Rock Bus driven by Glenn Bell. We were routed by Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, and Huntsville; arriving at Houston the following morning for breakfast.

Nov. 19th — Room reservations were waiting at the Texas State Hotel having been arranged early that morning by the Farm Bureau delegates from this county.

After a brief rest the party went to the Rice Hotel cafeteria for lunch. Following lunch the girls divided into shopping and sight-seeing parties, reporting back to the hotel by 3:00 p.m.

At 4:00 enrollment and practice at the Rice Ballroom.

At 5:00 began a mad rush to get our robes pressed and get ready for the contest by 7:30.

The contest was held at the Rice Ballroom. We had stiff competition from adult choruses as well as another youth chorus. Castro County Chorus of mixed voices placed first. No one was awarded second or third prize, but the Quail Chorus was rated second place with a superior rank by Bill Turner who was in charge of the contest. Mr. Turner is director of the A&M Singing Cadets.

He gave Mrs. Wells our rating sheets which showed the following estimations of performance as marked by the judges.

Appearance — (possible 20 per cent) we made 20 per cent with an excellent rating in posture, neatness, stage grouping, and effec-

SC-ARF!ARF!—When she unpacked her beach bag at Miami Beach, Fla., lovely Rae Stratton was disappointed to discover she had forgotten half her bathing suit. However, the keen desire to swim (she went in up to her ankles) brought forth a quick solution to her problem. She merely arranged her scarf in such a way as to cover up her forgetfulness.

wonderful.

We drove along the sea wall, walked out on a pier, and took a ride across the bay on the S. R. Sterling Ferry. Large cargo vessels, battleships and schooners were seen. A British freighter from Great Britain was docking as we returned. Quarantine Island was passed and large fish were seen from the deck.

We left by way of the huge Washburn Tunnel at Pasadena. This tunnel is tiled on the walls with indirect lighting and was once a ship channel.

The next stop was at Sam Houston Monument. A ride of 570 feet in the elevator to the top of the monument was thrilling. Souvenirs were bought and the museum visited.

Interesting items at the museum were: pioneer printing, documents of the development of Texas, old money, Civil War and Mexican War uniforms, Santa Anna's uniform, collection of firearms, the bell collar worn by the lead camel of the 2000 camels bought by Texas in 1856, and a collection of Sam Houston's letters and manuscripts.

Mr. Moseley lectured on the battle of San Jacinto as we went over the grounds. The cemetery, the surrender spot and markers were noted with interest.

The SS Texas, a battleship with a historic log, was visited and explored from top to bottom. The ship was one of the most interesting phases of the trip. The Captain's Cabin, the trophy room, the prisoners' hble, the insane cell, the hospital, the bunks, the dentist office, the post office, the morgue, the kitchen, the engine room, all proved that a ship is a miniature city afloat on the sea. The girls turned the big guns on their turrets and climbed to the look out tower. A few brave ones descended into the hold of the ship and went down five floors into the boiler rooms.

Returned via Shamrock Hotel which caused ohs and ahs from every one.

Supper was eaten in the Ranch Room at Bill William's Chicken House.

Every one was tired when we got back to the hotel. Miss Riggs was asked to sing at the banquet given at the Rice for the Farm Bureau Convention. We were proud of her and heard many compliments on her singing after the banquet.

Nov. 21 — Breakfast at the Round Up Room after which a rush for luggage and the bus. Mr. and Mrs. Willie Knoll, Mr. and Mrs. Monty Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Breeding, Mr. Riley Garner, and Mr. J. W. Thomas were in the lobby to help us get off. We appreciated that because forty girls with luggage and souvenirs took a great deal of managing to get them checked out and on our way.

We finally left Houston at 8:30 A.M.

Arrived at Huntsville and visited Museum, Sam Houston's home, the steamboat house and Carriage house. Highlights here were:

Santa Anna's saddle, Indian relics, money, Tombstone of Houston, Santa Anna's spy glass, Houston's powder horn, sugar bowl made from 500 silver dollars, and bracelet made of Mrs. Houston's hair.

Antique furniture in Houston's home was very interesting. It consisted of: Spinning wheel, square grand piano, cradle, bedwarmer, old sewing machine, beautiful china, trundle bed, outdoor kitchen with huge pots and pans over an open fireplace. Houston's law office with Masonic Emblems.

Carriage house: Pipe organ built in 1877, an old hearse, carriage, Steamboat house: Original paintings of Santa Anna's surrender, Stone carvings of the surrender and the room in which Houston died.

We arrived at Quail Wednesday night, 12:45. The whole town was up to welcome us and all the girls were glad to be home, we even got a little homesick.

The following girls went on the trip:

Sharlene Saunders, Jo White, Fern Neeley, Barbara Weaver, Sonia Atkinson, Shirley Robinson, Elizabeth Wilson, Janelle Langford, Janetta Bruce, Doris Cummings, Vivian Minatrea, Alice Wilkerson, Juanita Boen, Wanda Phipps, Mary Jo Phipps, Patsy White, Fayteen Peeples, Johnnie Bruce, Barbara Norman, Mildred Beall, Joan Kirkland, Marion Wilkerson, Ruth Bradshaw, Glenda Phipps, Peggy Clay, Melba Langley, Erma Lee Farris, Betty Lou Gollighugh, Frances Whitehead, Beatrice Claunch, Joyce Kennedy, Billy Kennedy, Cieta Clay, Nancy Stevens, Medra Wells, Joan Lacy.

Others in the party were: Mrs. L. W. Wells, director; Miss Peggy Riggs, assistant; Mr. and Mrs. Moseley, chaperones.

The Girls of the Quail High School Chorus wish to thank the men of the Farm Bureau who made this trip possible. Not only did we gain untold value from the music contest, but we learned lessons in history, geography, and manners which will stay with us forever.

Many of us had never been to the coast and will probably never have the opportunity to go again. We feel that in the years to come we will always have a feeling of good will toward this organization and will do everything in our power to keep high the Farm Bureau Spirit. Especially are we indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Monty Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Knoll, Mr. Lefty Thomas, Mr. Riley Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Breeding, members of the Collingsworth County Farm Bureau and the merchants who helped finance our trip.

ONE PLANE... doesn't make an Air Force

Many special types of aircraft . . . built in many different plants . . . are assembled in our nation's Air Force to assure an air arm that will not fail.

In a way, that's how the natural gas business operates, too. "Multiple sources of supply," we call it, but it simply means we have pipe line connections in many different gas fields to assure natural gas service that will not fail.

United Gas is producing or purchasing gas in more than 200 gas fields—and is adding new sources of supply all the time. That's why we can tell the communities and industries that are our present customers, as well as those who are connected to our lines in the future, they can be sure of dependable, low-cost natural gas service from United Gas.
