Mass Set For 23 Victims

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

YUBA CITY, Calif. AP — A Memorial Day Mass is scheduled tonight for Juan Corona, his family and the 23 transients whose bodies have been found in graves among the trees of this California orchard community. Corona is charged with 10 of the deaths.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Roy Witeaker ordered a 25-man search force to comb two ranches adjoining the J. L. Sullivan ranch, burial site of 21 of the 23 bodies found thus far.

All of the victims had been stabbed and hacked to death with a machete or similar weapon.

Deputies spent 7½ hours Sunday digging at three possible gravesites among peach trees on the Sullivan property, but found no more bodies.

"I don't believe the end is in sight. I think there are more bodies out there," Whitaker said.

The special Mass is scheduled at St. Isadores Roman Catholic Church to offer prayers for the victims, Corona and his family. The Coronas often attended services there.

Corona, 37, a farmer labor contractor in this fruit-growing region for the past 15 years, was charged last week with 10 of the slayings. Charges in the other deaths probably will be filed when the final body toll is reached, G. Daves Teja, Sutter County district attorney, said.

Asked why Corona was included in the Mass, the Rev. Joseph Bishop, St. Isadores' pastor, said: "Whether he's sane or insane, he still needs our prayers. And the poor victims, they're still part of the human race."

Corona's family-a second wife and four girls aged 4 through 8 need-all the spiritual help they can get, he added.

The family is not expected to attend the Mass. They have constantly tried to avoid newsmen and photographers.

Corona's wife Gloria, his brother Pedro and his mother, Mrs. Candida Corona of Autlan, Jalisco, Mexico, visited Corona for about two hours Sunday morning in the jail in Maryville just across the Feather River from Yuba City.

Corona was moved over the weekend to the Maryville jail because, the sheriff said, security provisions there are better than in the old Yuba City jail where he had been held since his arrest Wednesday.

Four miles north of town deputies dug up muddy orchard areas which appeared sunken in by recent rain, as were the earlier graves.

No more bodies were discovered and the only remaining part of the Sullivan land left to be searched was the northeast corner, under eight to 12 inches of irrigation water.

'Stock Scandal' Session Near Adjournment

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — A 140-day legislative session that few lawmakers or citizens have enjoyed went into its final hours today with numerous major issues still unsettled.

The session, which passed Texas' controversial liquor-by-the-drink law and its biggest tax bill, ends at midnight.

House-Senate conference committees were expected to come out with compromise proposals on new liquor-by-the-drink and other booze taxes and on congressional redistricting.

Whether a session marred from beginning to end by a so-called "stock scandal" would come up with a legislative ethics law before final adjournment was a major question.

There were doubts, too, whether legislators would finally approve plans drawing new House and Senate districts, and some thought it was just as well.

Several lawmakers openly voiced the opinion that they would get fairer districts from the legislative redistricting board—set up automatically by the constitution if the legislature fails to do the job itself. It would be the first time the board was convened. Members would be Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Speaker Gus Mutscher, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

Other issues still hanging when the lawmakers convened this morning included state aid to private colleges, four-year terms for high state officials, legislative pay and a referendum on daylight saving time.

Expected to get final approval tonight was a record $7.13 billion state budget for the next two years.

The House worked until nearly 1 a.m. today and the Senate to around 11 p.m. last night on bills left over to the end of the session.

Senate action on bills Sunday night was delayed until 9:50 p.m. by a national record-breaking 29-hour 22-minute filibuster by Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth against a bill making the University of Texas at Dallas a four-year school.

The measure was then given tentative approval, 19-11.

US 'COPTERS LIFT OUT WOUNDED

S-Viets Abandon Snuol

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) —A South Vietnamese task force with more than 100 men wounded abandoned the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Snuol today and retreated toward South Vietnam after five days of heavy fighting with North Vietnamese forces.

Field reports said U.S. helicopters helped lift out both wounded and nonwounded South Vietnamese troops from Snuol, on Highway 7 about 90 miles north of Saigon. Many of the wounded reportedly had been awaiting evacuation for several days. more

Associated Press Photographer Huynh Cong Ut, flying over the region, reported that big South Vietnamese Chinook troop-carrying helicopters also lifted out loads of wounded.

An armored column fought its way from the town southward along Highway 13 toward the Vietnanese border, Ut reported.

The armored column clashed with North Vietnamese forces seven miles southeast of Snuol during the start of the pullback Sunday night. Saigon headquarters claimed 54 North Vietnamese troops were killed. A spokesman said 16 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded but none was killed.

Two North Vietnamese regiments from the 5th Division, numbering up to 4,000, are reported to be poised around Snuol, which was defended by the South Vietnamese task force of about 2,000 men.

Last Wednesday, up to 1,000 North Vietnamese troops attacked the town, triggering five days of fighting. Fighting raged in the market place. Most of the enemy were driven back with massive U.S. air support.

The Saigon command reported at the time that most of the North Vietnamese troops had been driven out of the town and claimed more than 250 of them were killed.

Audie Murphy On Missing Plane

ATLANTA (AP) — Audie Murphy, a baby-faced Texan whose heroism as an infantryman earned him 24 decorations during World War II, is missing on a chartered airplane flight.

The twin-engine Aero Commander in which the most-decorated soldier of the second world conflict and four other men left Atlanta Friday morning was last heard from as it passed near Roanoke, Va.

The Federal Aviation Administration said bad weather was reported in the Roanoke area at the time. The pilot, Herman Butler, contacted the FAA's flight service station at Roanoke Friday and indicated he would land there at 11:40 a.m. Nothing more was heard from the craft, the FAA said Sunday.

Murphy, a post-war movie actor whose military decorations included the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest award for valor, was en route to Martinsville, Va., to inspect a plant owned by Modular Properties, Inc., of Atlanta.

Bill Spoon, sales manager for the firm, said the 46-year-old Murphy was considering investing in the company. It specializes in factory-built homes, motels and other structures.

The FAA said a search for the plane began late because the pilot failed to file a flight plan. The flight service station at Roanoke would not necessarily have expected further contact with the plane and thus made no report, the FAA said.

With Murphy were Claude Crosby, president of Modular Management, a subsidiary of Modular Properties; Jack Littleton, representing a group of investors from California; Raymond Fater, a Chattanooga, Tenn., attorney representing Modular Management, and Butler, of Denver, Colo.

Prater, a decorated World War II veteran himself, ran unsuccessfully for Congress in Tennessee in 1962.

A number of residents in the Galax area of mountainous Carroll County, Va., about 60 miles west of Martinsville, telephoned the Roanoke Times Friday to report hearing a plane in trouble during a rainstorm. Larry Chambers, a reporter for the weekly Galax Gazette, said he saw a plane "flying like it was a yo-yo at [illegible]

Telegraphers To Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strike of more than 17,000 Western Union employes is set for midnight EDT in the wake of union rejection of what the company called its final offer.

Six weeks of bargaining ended in recess Sunday after the company presented its two-year proposal in a two-hour meeting with union negotiators.

"We have our best offer up and we are prepared to take a strike if we have to," said R.H. Cobb, chief Western Union negotiator.

"Their latest proposal is unacceptable," commented E.L. Hageman, president of the AFL-CIO United Telegraph Workers. "It is much too low and it is not in accordance with the wage patterns being negotiated in other companies and industries."

Both sides agreed to remain available to resume negotiations although the union bargaining team split up and members returned to their homes.

The union is seeking a 16-per-cent increase in each year of a two-year contract. Western Union offered a 10-per-cent hike for each year.

HEADING FOR LAKE THOMAS — Bull Creek, dry for many months, channeled torrents of water into Lake J. B. Thomas following weekend rains. This shows the channel as it enters the main lake basin, also dry at this particular site for many months.

SPREADING OUT — Lake J. B. Thomas, reduced to a mere puddle during a long dry spell, began to spread gradually as runoff from weekend rains flowed in from Bull Creek and the Colorado River. It appeared this morning that the CRMWD lake in Southwest Scurry County would catch about 7,000 acre feet of water from the rains, which would be its biggest single catch in over two years.

FROM HEAVY RAINS

Lakes Make Good Gains

Prospects appeared bright this morning that reservoirs of the Colorado River Municipal Water District would catch at least 19,000 acre feet of water from rains which fell Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Lake J. B. Thomas, the older of the two lakes constructed by the district, had picked up 6,700 acre feet early today, its biggest catch in more than two years. In fact, Lake Thomas caught only 4,500 acre feet for the entire 12 months of 1970.

Lake E. V. Spence, the newer lake at Robert Lee, also was reaping its biggest catch since its dam was closed a year and a half ago. Early today, the gain there amounted to 9,600 acre feet, and streams feeding the Colorado River above the dam were still flowing. Estimates were that the ultimate gain there would be around 12,000 acre feet.

Lake Thomas was expected to net a total of 7,000 acre feet before the runoff halted completely. Most of the Lake Thomas gain came from Bull Creek, although the Colorado River contributed some water from rains in Central Borden County.

The elevation of Lake Thomas had reached 2212.11 feet above sea level, already exceeding the level at the first of the year. Spillway level is 2258. The vertical gain was nearly six feet.

Meanwhile, the Moss Creek reservoir near Big Spring, which now is part of the CRMWD system, had picked up 300 acre feet.

Stock tanks over most of the area were nearly filled and some were overflowing. Elsewhere, farmers were poised to descend upon their fields to get crops planted.

The rainfall over a three-day period in this area ranged from three inches to over five inches. Snyder had an official total of 3.36 inches for the three-day period.

Holiday Death Toll Hits 359

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll on the nation's highways reached 359 early today as the last 24 hours of the three-day Memorial Day weekend began.

Fair weather over much of the nation sent travelers to the highways in huge numbers. The counting for the 78-hour holiday period began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

Consul Kidnapers Holding Hostage

ISTANBUL (AP) — Turkish troops today besieged two heavily armed youths holding a 14-year-old girl hostage. The young terrorists are wanted for the kidnap-murder of Israeli Consul General Ephraim Elrom.

"We are going to wait patiently," the troop commander said.

Soldiers and police evacuated neighboring apartments and houses and sealed off the third-floor apartment where the terrorists held Sebil Erkan, the daughter of Army Maj. Dincer Erkan. The youths allowed Mrs. Erkan and her 10-year-old son to leave but ignored all pleas to free the girl.

They shouted through a smashed window to the troops below that they would kill her if the soldiers attacked or used tear gas.

Jeeps mounted with searchlights and machine guns circled the apartment building as the soldiers and police kept up an all-night vigil outside.

Gen. Fail Turun, Istanbul's martial law commander, went to the building. He said he did not plan to use force but would wait the terrorists out.

Police said the two youths and two others were seen leaving an unoccupied house Sunday armed with submachine guns. When the police pursued them, they opened fire, wounding one policeman and a woman bystander.

Two of the youths escaped, but the other two invaded the Erkan apartment. The mayor was not at home at the time.

Police sources said one of the youths dropped a bag containing Elrom's passport and identity card, weapons, ammunition and some money.

Elrom was kidnaped May 17 by the Turkish People's Liberation Army, a leftist group, and was killed five days after the government refused the group's demand to free all political prisoners.

Dee Osborne, graduate of Snyder High School, was honored with a luncheon on May 22 in the dining room of the Steak House. Hostesses for the occasion was her aunt, Mrs. A. S. Partin of Waco. Special guests were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Frank P. Osborne Jr. and her grandmother Mrs. Clyde Graves of Comanche.

Class colors of purple and white were carried out with a centerpiece of purple asters and white mums. Place cards and miniature girl graduates marked each guests place. Plate favors were jeweled key rings, lollipop pens and ornmantal miniature mirrors. Miniature diplomas tied with purple ribbon and inscribed with a timely quote by the French author Victor Hugo were presented to each guest.

The honoree was presented a gift by the hostess and in turn presented the hostess with a gift.

Guests for the luncheon were Susan Ferrell, Patricia Erwin, Helga Burger, Kathy Wellborn and Pattie Osborne.

Miss Osborne was again honored May 25 with a patio supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wilson, 3404 Irving.

The black and gold floral table cloths and centerpieces carried out the school colors. The floral centerpieces were designed and arranged by the hostess from fabric identical to the tablecloths. In addition a small tiger was used to decorate the serving table. The honoree wore a gold maxi patio dress to complement the color scheme. The patio was lined with Mexican lanterns and torches to complete the festive atmosphere.

The young people enjoyed an informal evening climaxed by a sing song accompanied by Sammy Baker on the guitar.

The honoree was presented a gift by the hostess and in turn presented the hostess with a gift.

Guests for the occasion were: Scott Morgan, Kathy Wellborn, Joe Wilson, Linda Thompson, Jeff Stewart, Earlyn Perser and Sammy Baker. Special guests were the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Osborne Jr.

Forced marriages for baby's sake

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I respected your answers until you gave a put-down to that person who was all for forced marriages.

It doesn't make one bit of difference what kind of husband or father the boy will be. He can be a rotten husband and a lousy father, but at least the children will have a legal name. That is all that is important. It doesn't even matter if he lives with the girl after he marries her. If he's no good, let him clear out.

A boy should be forced by law to give his name to any children he fathers. That's the trouble with the world today, nobody is made to live up to their responsibilities.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: You are entitled to your point of view, but please read on.

DEAR ABBY: Those who think the best solution to an unmarried girl's pregnancy is to force the guy to marry her might like to hear my story.

When I was 14 years old, I "fell in love" and became pregnant. The boy was 16. Our parents decided it would be best for all concerned if we got married. You can't know the horrible disaster it was. When my baby was three months old I got pregnant again, and my child-husband went home to his mama. There I was, not yet 16, with two babies!

I was supposed to get support checks, but none came, so no organization would help me. I couldn't pay my rent or buy food. We nearly starved to death. We lived on mayonnaise and bread for two weeks. Then eviction.

My own parents turned their backs on me so I took my two babies to my husband's parents where at least they would be fed. These "kind" people refused to let me see my children after that. It has been eight years now and I am grateful that my children have a good home even tho I am not allowed to see them.

I am not blaming my parents. At the time they did what they thought was best for me, but I tell other parents: Please don't push two kids into marriage just to give a baby a name. I would have been much better off with one baby and no husband.

OLD AT 22

DEAR ABBY: One of your readers thought shotgun weddings were the only answer when a girl gets into trouble. Let me tell you my experience as a shotgun bride.

I married because I was pregnant, and my husband really had a gun in his back. Before my fifth anniversary, I had five babies, three of which were in diapers at one time. I had no running water, no toilet facilities, inside or out, and we all lived in three small rooms. I never got to go out, with or without my children. Yes, my children have a legal name, but I don't know if you would call them legal or not. You see, their father never paid the doctor's delivery fees. A marriage doesn't mean your husband will support you, or love you, or take care of you.

I'm now separated, not divorced, because he claims he "loves" me and the children and he won't give us up. But he hasn't visited us or paid me any support in two years.

If my unmarried daughter ever gets pregnant I will never insist on a shotgun wedding. What's in a "name"? I have TWO names, but what good are they when I have five children and no husband?

STUCK

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic and I'm proud of it. Since Catholics don't believe in divorce, even a baby on the way is not a good enough reason for me to use up the one marriage I've got coming if I didn't really love the guy and planned to stay married to him for the rest of my life. I am only 14, but I am . . .

Bob Hope Says 'Squares' Okay

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) —"There's nothing terrible about being square," comedian Bob Hope has assured the graduating seniors of St. Bonaventure University.

"The squares are the ones who make the clothes, bake the bread, build houses, and even make the motorcycles," he said.

Dressed in academic robes and motarboard for the school's 111th commencement Sunday, the entertainer reminded the graduates they would be the establishment of tomorrow.

"Before you know it, your kids will be asking you why they have trouble breathing. Why are the streets unsafe at night? Why are people still going hungry?" Hope said.

"How are you going to answer them? Tell 'em you were too hip to be bothered?"

Colleges Given Land

HOUSTON (AP) — Eight Texas colleges have been given 3,096 acres of land valued at an estimated $4 million.

The gift was announced Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Willard L. Russell, Houston philanthropists who made similar gifts totaling $550,000 in 1966 and 1968 to Baylor University of Waco and Texas Wesleyan College of Fort Worth.

The property is in Harris and Brazoria counties.

Russell said the first stage of the gift plan has been completed and that the total plan probably will be completed over a period of several years.

"Some of the amounts to be received by the various beneficiaries may be changed, but there is no intent to change the total amount to be received by all," he said. "In fact, the total amount probably will be increased."

The new gift includes about $1,500,000 for Baylor University, $1 million for the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, and $250,000 each for Houston Baptist College, Howard Payne College at Brownwood, Lon Morris College at Jacksonville, Mary Hardin-Baylor College at Belton, Southwestern University at Georgetown and Texas Wesleyan.

The 176.37 acres in east Harris County front for about a mile on the north side of Interstate 10. The 2,920 acres about 15 miles south of Houston in Brazoria County are on the west bank of Chocolate Bayou and front on Texas 1462.

Russell is an attorney, author, and lecturer and former mining engineer, printer and linotype operator. He is a native of Hallettsville.

Most N-Viet Prisoners Against Repatriation

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Only 13 of the 600 North Vietnamese prisoners of war tapped for repatriation this week have agreed to go home, official sources said today.

Nevertheless, the sources said, the Saigon government plans to go ahead with the release of prisoners off the coast of the demilitarized zone on Friday. North Vietnam has agreed to the arrangements.

The 647 POWs who have refused to be repatriated have until Thursday, the day before the turnover, to change their minds. One source indicated expectations that this might happen on orders from Hanoi, saying: "The prisoners have their own grapevine, and it's very good. They might get orders to return rather than stay."

The Foreign Ministry canceled a news conference today at which it was to outline arrangements for the transfer of the prisoners. Asked whether the cancellation meant the release of the POWs might also be delayed, a government official said: "It is [illegible] to tell at this time."

The press briefing was tentatively rescheduled for Wednesday.

U.S. officials have been concerned about any delay in the POW turnover because it marks the first time in the Vietnam war that the North Vietnamese have openly agreed in advance to receive repatriated prisoners. The Americans think this might be a step toward release of some of the 339 Americans known to be held prisoner in North Vietnam.

For this reason, some sources said, U.S. officials have put considerable pressure on Saigon officials to carry out the POW release according to the plans agreed upon by North and South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese government originally offered to repatriate 570 prisoners because that was the number of "sick and wounded" North Vietnamese POWs on Phu Quoc island, the Saigon government's biggest POW camp.

When South Vietnamese officials began to count those willing to return home, however, they found only a few, the sources said.

"When that happened, the call went out to find any and every prisoner who might fit into the category of sick and wounded," said one source. In the process, the number of those eligible was raised to 660.

The International Committee of the Red Cross is supervising the interrogations. To process them as speedily as possible, the POWs are assembled in groups and asked to volunteer to go home. Those who refuse are then questioned individually.

High School Class Of '51 In Reunion

The Snyder High School graduating class of 1951 held an informal reception Saturday afternoon at the Scurry County Coliseum. That night, a banquet was held at the Snyder Country Club.

The class colors of yellow and brown and the class flower, the sunflower was carried out in decorations.

The program was given in honor of the high school principal of 1951, T. D. Wiman, now of Colorado City.

"This Is Your Life," was the theme of the program for the evening. Wendell Autry and Patsy Sitton were master and mistress of ceremonies.

A review was given of the year of 1951. All of the favorite students of 1951 were presented: the D-E Queen, Peggy Lundy; football sweetheart, Barbara Lewis; class favorites, Ann Richardson and Jerry Allen; Mr. and Miss SHS, Max Coffee and Islasu Blakely; and, president of the student council, Grant Teaff.

Highlights of the parties, banquets and senior trips and many other activities brought treasured memories to all of those who attended.

Out of town guests were from Lubbock, Odessa, Big Spring, Lamesa, Perryton, Abilene, Midland, Johnson City, Perrin, Fort Worth, San Angelo, and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Ballots were cast at the banquet by class members and plaques were awarded to the following students: Barbara Lewis, "Changed the Least"; S. D. Parks, "Changed the Most"; Freida Whitehurst Devers, "Traveled the Farthest Distance."

Grant Teaff was voted the outstanding classmate of 1951.

Bomb Hits Tax Office

SAIGON (AP) — A giant explosion, apparently a bomb, destroyed the Saigon tax office building in the city's downtown section tonight.

A few minutes later a huge chunk of roof and wall collapsed, possibly trapping a number of firemen inside the building.

There was no immediate count of casualties but at least three Vietnamese were known injured in the explosion itself.

Firemen and police, aided by South Vietnamese and American military police, sought to control confusion at the scene as the hardest storm of the month-old monsoon season hammered the city.

Unser Wins 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A subdued but happy Al Unser accepted a check for $238,454.31 at the Indianapolis 500-mile race victory dinner here Sunday night.

The 33-year-old driver from Albuquerque, N.M., displayed a mood in striking contrast to his bubbling acceptance of last year's winner's check of $271,697.72. The younger brother of 1968 winner Bobby Unser said, "It's a great pleasure to be up here in the same position again this year. I owe a lot to everyone and I can hardly believe this."

The dark-haired, long-sideburned Unser, who dominated United States Auto Club racing for the past two years, thanks everyone for his success, particularly his chief mechanic George Bignotti, who has been chief mechanic for five Indy 500 winners.

"This was a difficult month for all of us. My speeds went up and down like a yoyo," Unser said. "There were times when George couldn't figure out what I was doing wrong and there were times when I couldn't figure out what George was doing wrong. But we were able to pull it out and I have to thank George for it."

Denny Zimmerman of Glastonbury, Conn., accepted the award as rookie of the year at the dinner. His eighth-place finish was the highest by any of the four first-year starters in the race.

Zimmerman won $1,000 and the 20-year-old Stark & Wetzeltrophy in succeeding Donnie Allison, Hueytown, Ala., for the honor.

Allison, who finished sixth Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, surprised nearly everyone at the victory dinner by showing up after taking second place in the Charlotte, S.C., 600-mile stock car race only hours earlier.

The total prize money for the Indy 500 was $1,001,604.22, the second straight year the checks have totaled more than $1 million. However, Tony Hulman, Speedway owner, said accessory prize money dropped more than $30,000 and had to be made up by increased prize checks from the Speedway.

The overall total for this year's race, which attracted a gate of about 300,000, was a record payoff.

Peter Revson, New York City, who finished 22nd last year and won $16,627, finished second in this year's race and pocketed a substantial $103,198.24. This year's third-place finisher, three-time Indy 500 winers A.J. Foyt Jr., took home a total of $64,759.24, while fourth-place Jim Malloy won $38,669.24.

It actually is the car that wins the prize money and the driver usually pockets about 50 per cent of the take. Unser said earlier this month that of his first place winnings of $271,697.72 in 1971, he would end up with less than $75,000.

The co-owners of the car, Vel Meletich and Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., will have the job of distributing the record earnings to their team.

Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., was well below his earnings of last year. Donohue, who finished 25th this year after his second-place finish in 1970, won $23,697.24 compared to $86,427 last year.

Donohue dominated the race for the 66 laps in his McLaren Mark 16 car until teeth sheered off his high speed transmission gear on the next lap. The 34-year-old graduate engineer, who's practice speeds were the talk of the Speedway the whole month, set a new lap record at 174.961 miles per hour on the lap before he lost his high gear. The old record was 168.666 by Lloyd Ruby in the 1968 race.

Donohue's car, parked in the infield in the fourth, corner, was later involved in the crash in which Mike Mosley, Brownburg, Ind., was injured. Mosley, 24, suffered a broken elbow and leg and burns on his left arm and his face. He was the only driver seriously injured in a race marred by three major crashes.

Also involved in that wreck was Steve Krisiloff's McNamara-Ford which had blown its engine earlier in the race and was also parked in the infield.

The Speedway management's discussions in the future probably will include the inadvisability of parking dead cars along the race course.

The only important adjustment of the standings Sunday saw Malloy move past Bill Vukovich into fourth place. Richard E. Sauer, chief timer and scorer for the race, said Malloy was 1.12 seconds ahead of Vukovich, the son of a two-time Indy winner, the late Billy Vukovich. Malloy was given back a lap that was overlooked in the preliminary scoring.

Margaret Court Loses At Paris

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Court's dreams of a second consecutive women's tennis grand slam crumbled on a side court at Roland Garros Stadium Sunday before the determined assault of Mrs. Gail Chanfreau, an Australian transplanted to France through marriage.

Mrs. Chanfreau, 26, the former Gail Sherriff, had never before taken a set off Mrs. Court in what she estimated at about 10 previous duels. She won 6-3, 6-4 after completely dominating the match.

The defeat of Mrs. Court—who had won the Australian, French, Wimbledon and Forest Hills championships last year—overshadowed a day in which Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Bob Lutz, of Los Angeles and defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia won their third round singles matches.

The results gave the United States six places in the final 16 of the men's singles.

Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., won her third round match to give the United States two of the final eight places in the women's singles.

Richey, seeded No. 4, defeated Colin Dibley of Australia, 6-1, 6-3, 8-6. Richey plays Tuesday in the fourth round.

Lutz, seeded No. 9., had a struggle all the way with Jun Kuki. Japan, Winning 6-1, 5-7, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4. Lutz also plays Tuesday.

Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia eliminated Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5 while Kodes, seeded No. 1, took a 6-4, 9-7, 6-2 victory from Bob Carmichael of Australia.

In mens action today Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., meets Frank Froehling, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., seeded No. 2, meets Georges Goven of France, and Stan Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., seeded No. 6, meets Patrice Dominguez, a French Davis Cup player.

Giants Sweep Montreal

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays' homing instincts are rubbing off on the rest of the San Francisco Giants.

Mays socked a two-run homer in the opener of a Sunday doubleheader to become the National League's all-time scoring leader and give the explosive Giants the first leg of a 5-4, 8-7 sweep over the Montreal Expos.

The San Francisco superstar, whose seventh inning homer capped a three-run comeback, cross the plate again in the second game—won by the Giants with a three-run salvo in the ninth—for a career total of 1,951 runs.

He passed Stan Musial 1,949 on the all-time list headed by American League Hall of Famers Ty Cobb (2,244) and Babe Ruth (2,174).

In other NL games, Pittsburgh blasted the Chicago Cubs 10-0; San Diego upeneded the New York Mets 4-2; St. Louis whipped Atlanta 8-3; Los Angeles nipped Philadelphia 2-1 in 12 innings and Cincinnati shaded Houston 2-1.

In the American League, Baltimore edged Minnesota 6-5; Detroit trimmed Milwaukee 9-5; the Chicago White Sox squeezed by Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings and the New York Yankees downed California 7-4. Rain forced postponement of the Oakland-Boston and Kansas City-Washington games.

The Giants trailed 4-2 in the first game when Jimmy Rosario opened the seventh with a single and Bobby Bonds was hit by a Bill Stoneman pitch. Chris Speier forced Bonds at second, but Rosario scored when second baseman Gary Sutherland threw away the relay for an error.

Mays then walloped his 638th career homer and 10th of the season, sending Speier home with the tying run and scoring the winner—and record-breaker—himself.

A five-run burst in the fourth inning of the second game gave Montreal a 6-3 lead and Bob Bailey homered for the Expos in the seventh. But Bonds slammed a two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh and singled—for his fourth hit of the game—between two outs and a pair of walks in the ninth.

Mike Marshall wild-pitched one run home, walked Allan Gallagher on a 3-2 count to refill the bases and was tagged for a two-run single by Tito Fuentes that gave the Giants their fourth consecutive victory and seventh in eight games.

They lead the NL West by a whopping 10½ lengths.

Bob Moose, backed by an eight-run uprising in the fourth, pitched a three-hitter for the Pirates against the Cubs.

Roberto Clemente drilled a three-run homer, Willie Stargell followed with a tape measure blast and Bob Robertson hit a two-run homer in the fourth, which also was marked by Ken Holtzman's three wild pitches—one of them on a third strike to Richie Hebner with two out and no runs in.

Ivan Murrell switched from the controversial Japanese-made bat he had been swinging to a conventional American model and smashed a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fifth that carried the Padres past the Mets.

Clay Kirby checked New York on seven hits as the Padres snapped a five-game losing streak.

Lou Brock stretched his hitting streak to 26 games with a triple and single as the Cardinals pounded the Braves for their sixth consecutive victory.

Left-hander Steve Carlton posted his ninth triumph—tops in the league—with the help of Joe Hague's three-run homer and a two-run wallop by Jose Cardenal.

Willie Davis lifted the Dodgers into a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring single in the sixth, extending his hitting streak through 22 games, and they pushed over the tie-breaker on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Willie Crawford in the 12th.

Johnny Bench scored the winning run for Cincinnati on a seventh inning error by first baseman John Mayberry, who had homered for the Astros in the fifth.

Amateur Golfers Vie Today

By THOMAS A. REEDY

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — A field of 250 golfers, including 58 Americans, collided today in the opening round of the week-long British Amateur Golf Championship, and the Scots felt power-driving youth would win it.

The young American Walker Cup stars were among the favorites, even though the U.S. lost the trophy to the British Isles at St. Andrews last week.

Carnoustie's brutal 6,861-yard par 72 links on the North Sea Coast, is probably the most demanding layout in the world.

"It's a real one," said 21-year-old Tom Kite of Austin, Tex. "It's much tougher than St. Andrews. You've got to hit the ball here. One mistake and you're done. I like it and I have a chance."

Steve Melnyk, former U.S. amateur champion from Florida, echoed the sentiment and so did the reigning U.S. amateur king, Lanny Wadkins, 21, of Richmond, Va.

Whoever wins will play probably upward of 140 holes in eight matches to Saturday's final decisions, in chill weather with winds that can change from hour to hour.

Softball Tilt On Tap Tonight

McKinney Construction, managed by J. B. Lee, will tangle with Furr's Food, managed by Lee Prescott, at 8:30 p.m. today in Winston Park. It will be the opener for the softball season.

June 1 Marks Start Of Hurricane Season

Editor's Note: Dr. Robert Simpson disappears from public view for six months each year. Then you may see his name on Page One of your newspaper with more frequency than you like. Why? Because he's the hurricane expert. He discusses here the problems of safety and why he fears as many as 50,000 persons may die sometime in one hurricane if something isn't done.

By GRADY PHELPS
Caller-Times Staff Writer
Written for Associated Press

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Next Tuesday — June 1 — marks the official start of another hurricane season.

For coastal residents from the southern tip of Texas northeastward across the Eastern Seaboard, six long storm months stretch ahead—time for alertness to save life and property.

In Corpus Christi, it is a time also for hoping another one like Hurricane Celia of 10 months ago doesn't come.

Dr. Robert Simpson, the hurricane expert, says that the Gulf of Mexico is in a maximum storm frequency cycle now.

Dr. Simpson knows, for he is a native of Corpus Christi and was a refugee of the great storm which took 184 lives here in 1919.

Sinpson recalls that he was six years old and his father carried him to the safety of the county courthouse when 9-foot tides thrown up by the hurricane threatened their downtown home.

Simpson called the plays last August for the national weather warning system as Celia made a direct hit here where his parents reside.

Simpson, here recently for the Hurricane Preparedness Conference, talked on a wide range of topics involving hurricanes.

One was a strong recommendation about mobile homes which were severely damaged by Celia Aug. 3.

"In a hurricane such as Celia there is nothing that can save a house trailer," Simpson said. "Planning officials should insist on evacuation of mobile home residents when a hurricane is threatening. Officials should require also that storm shelters be nearby.

"And house trailers should be strapped down to concrete holdfasts so they don't become lethal projectiles themselves. In Corpus Christi there was an incredible mincemeat of destruction of mobile homes, trailing literally miles downwind from the trailer park that was obliterated."

Simpson also spoke about good and bad points of weather radar equipment.

"Coastal radars provide a picket line of defense. They give the forecaster a precise track of the hurricane as it approaches the coast and gives him an aiming point for landfall.

"It tells him during the critical last hours whether the storm is intensifying or diminishing, expanding or contracting," he noted.

"One problem with radar is that it may give an inexperienced viewer a false notion of where the eye is. Frequently on the radarscope the eye will change shape, from circular to a horseshoe shape, to an elongated, pulsating ellipse.

"Inexperienced observers such as those viewing radar scopes displayed by some TV stations can be fooled into thinking the eye is somewhere it isn't—a very dangerous thing, in my opinion. It could lead people who have been warned to evacuate to stay at home," he said.

Simpson said the National Weather Service's average error in predicting where a hurricane will cross a coastline when still 24 hours offshore is about 100 nautical miles.

"This is because we cannot predict closer than about nine degrees the actual path of a hurricane," he said. "This is the frailest part of our forecast."

Drowning, by a ratio of 9 to 1, remains the principal cause of death in hurricanes, Simpson said. More than half of the 13 persons who died in Celia in Texas apparently drowned.

"People get trapped by the storm surge," he said. "They try to wade to safety and they drown. Others drown because they foolishly try to enjoy a swim in the heavy surf generated by hurricanes. Powerful undertows and riptides can sweep even strong swimmers to their deaths."

Simpson said he often asks citizens exactly how long they'd wait before evacuating.

"The most common answer is that a man will tell me he'll wait and watch the water rising. When it gets into his street, that's when he says he'll pack up and leave. But the sad thing is that he doesn't remenber that about a mile or so down the road the street dips a couple of feet ... impassable to his car and he will be trapped."

A Junior Editors Quiz About AVOCETS

QUESTION: What is an avocet, and where is it found?

ANSWER: Along the shallow edges of ponds, streams and marshes, many small insects and other water-loving creatures are found, some living in the oozy mud. A number of birds often wade there on long stilt-like legs, using their long bills to probe after the food under the water or in the mud. The avocet is one of these wading birds. Its special method of feeding resembles that of the spoonbill which we illustrate. Both types, as they wade through shallow waters, keep swinging the long bills from side to side. The spoonbill is really equipped with a spoon, or rather two spoons hinged together. The birds can spoon up a billful of water and mud and strain this out, leaving the food animals inside. The avocet's bill is different, being narrow and curved upward. This is particularly efficient for moving through underwater mud in order to catch crustaceans and small water insects. A western bird, the avocet breeds from California and Texas north to Saskatchewan, being rarely found east of the Mississippi.

Eight Months Is Confusing

By PEACE STERLING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a long, long way from the night you decide to get married to the day the rings are slipped on, and being just halfway there is like something of a cross between a blushing bride and a hard-nosed personnel manager.

It all began when he proposed, and the only thing we had to toast each other with was oysters on the half shell. By the time our luscious dinner of lobster and wine finally arrived, we were too excited to eat a bite.

Then we had to tell my parents. I thoughf it would be the revelation of the ages, and all my mother said was, "I knew it." When my newly announced husband-to-be called his mother, all I heard was, "Mom, I'm getting married." And the next thing I heard him say was, "No—not tomorrow."

We came up with a date for the big event eight months in the future. I figured there would be plenty of time for the "minor" preparations, since we only wanted a small wedding. Little did I know.

I had no sooner gotten back to work than the "mailed approach" began—with great packets arriving every day from my parents—full of information on china, crystal, decorating your first home and most important—recipes for beginners.

However, the folks soon gave up trying to communicate with me by mail, and the "phone approach" began.

But since I ended up talking more to my mother, my father soon began calling me at work on Monday mornings for equal time. Then, in the middle of the week my grandparents would call.

I did become the recipient of a beautiful diamond ring. Only trouble was it was about three sizes too big. I had to con a jeweler into cutting it down for me on the spot.

Not long ago we went back home for an engagement party—replete with more confusion.

I am getting used to the constant hassle. However my bridegroom is just now starting to become traumatized. He'll be all right though—as soon as he stops having his recurring nightmare about losing his shoes and having to wear combat boots to the wedding.

It will be part of a series commemorating the Guatemalan Revolution of 1871.

Ethel Kennedy Goes Canoeing

ATLANTA (AP) — Ethel Kennedy said she wanted to "do something fun" before leaving Atlanta, so she went canoeing down the Chattahoochee River.

"Beautiful. It's really nice," Mrs. Kennedy said Sunday after the canoe trip and a picnic on an island in the river.

The widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was accompanied on the outdoor jaunt by Jim Whittaker, first American to climb Mt. Everest; Olympic Decathlon champion Rafer Johnson; Fran Tarkenton, quarterback of the New York Giants, and members of the Georgia Canoe Association.

Texas Violence Kills 24

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the long Memorial Day weekend, violent deaths in Texas were occurring this holiday period at a rate about like a normal weekend.

The Associated Press began its holiday death tabulation at 6 p.m. Friday and is to continue counting until midnight tonight.

By midnight Sunday, the death toll stood at 24 with 15 killed in traffic accidents.

Inez M. Tippitt, 56, of Pharr was killed in a two-car accident on U.S. 281 near McAllen.

Henry C. Black, 55, of McAllen was killed in a two-car accident on Farm 495 near McAllen Saturday night.

Bobby Green, 16, of Karnak was fatally injured Saturday night in an motorcycle accident five miles north of Marshall on State 43.

Ernest Hellums, 20, of Dale, Tex., was killed Sunday when his pickup truck hit a tree near the town of Plum, which is near LaGrange.

Artemus White, 56, was killed Saturday night in a robbery of a filling station south of Sulphur Springs. He was an attendant. Police said they recovered $56 when they arrested a 21-year-old man in connection with the robbery.

Lewis Jordan, 25, was fatally injured Saturday night when struck by a car as he crossed a street in Texas City.

A Houston man and his son were shot to death and a third man stabbed early Sunday in a fight outside a bar. Killed were Gilbert Garcia, 51, and his son, David C. Garcia, 30. Frank Ramirez, 40, who was stabbed was released from a hospital after treatment. Police said they had arrested one man and hoped to arrest others.

John Duke, 3, of San Antonio drowned in the swimming pool of friends he and his mother, Mrs. Sheila Duke of San Antonio, were visiting in Austin.

Gerald Cisneros, 21, of Cambellton, Tex., was killed Sunday when his car ran off a farm road and hit a tree.

Bobby Lee Bell, 27, of Houston, was caught in the undertow Sunday as he was fishing on the bayside of the San Luis Vacek bridge on the west end of Galveston Island. He had waded 30 yards into the water to fish. His body was recovered by shrimp boat.

Carroll E. Johnson, 38, of Austin was shot to death Sunday in a night club in northeast Austin.

Elton Ray Sanderson, in his 20s, of Houston was killed Saturday night in a 2-car crash on U.S. 59 near Lufkin.

US Inks Aid Pact

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The United States signed an agreement today to furnish $50 million more economic aid to Cambodia this month.

The agreement, signed by Ambassador Emory C. Swank and Foreign Minister Koun Wick, brings U. S. military and economic aid to Cambodia to more than $225 million in the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Meanwhile, Chief of State Cheng Heng opened a new session of Parliament and told the legislators the government would try to negotiate an end to the war with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. But he said peace talks could take place only if the enemy agreed in advance to withdraw all his forces from Cambodian soil.

SAY SCIENCE EXPERTS

There's Minerals In Them There Oceans

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Experts in science from 18 countries say there is growing evidence that the world's oceans contain sufficient minerals to meet the world's [illegible] at least a century.

In a report to the U.N. Economic and Social Council's Council's Advisory Committee on the Application of Science and Technology to Development cites estimates that:

—The earth's 300 million cubic miles of sea water contains an astronomical amount of dissolved solids.

—More than $7 billion worth of minerals were produced from the sea in 1969.

—Oil and gas deposits under the seabed may exceed those [illegible] on land.

"Recent discoveries point to the possibility of exploring and exploiting new resources of minerals in the future," the committee says.

It notes that a U.S. project has shown that a hole drilled in the ocean floor more than three miles under water can be used again and again in exploring [illegible].

It mentions the discovery more than a mile down in the Red Sea of three pools of hot brine estimated to contain over $2.3 billion in gold, copper, zinc and silver dissolved in the top layer alone.

The heavy investment needed for undersea mining has retarded its development, the report says, but "a pattern of technological feasibility and profitability is emerging, especially for the petroleum industry."

Undersea wells now produced 17 per cent of the world's crude oil, the experts report, and by 1980 they are expected to be producing upward of 33 per cent.

Minerals are harder to find the farther out they are from shore, the committee says, so "improved techniques are required for offshore exploration."

"Base maps and accurate marine data are required for the exploitation of mineral resources of the sea," it says. "No significant areas of the oceans have as yet been surveyed thoroughly enough to produce a detailed picture of the bottom."

The committee says another thing that has to be settled is who owns the resources on or under the seabed. It notes that the U.N. Committee on the Peaceful Uses of the Seabed and Ocean Floor has been working on that problem.

Scholarship To WTC Awarded

Michael Rae Huddleston, 1971 graduate of Snyder High School, has been awarded a scholarship to Western Texas College.

He received a $246 scholarship sponsored by Mrs. J. E. Snipp.

The Zoological Society of London says only five out of every 20 animals so far have been bred in captivity.

Petroleum Industry Is Facing A 'Capital Gap'

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The producing and refining segments of the domestic petroleum industry recognize that supply and environmental demands of the 1970s will require the expenditure of billions of dollars.

Producers have been told they will have to make an outlay of about $70 billion by 1980 if they are to find new reserves sufficient to meet the spiraling demand for oil and natural gas.

Refineries have been told the demands by some federal agencies and environmentalists for widespread use of unleaded gasolines will require sharp increases in capital expenditures.

A recent American Petroleum Institute report indicates the industry's annual expenditures to reduce air and water pollution increased from $271 million to $449 million between 1966 and 1970 and exceeded $2 billion for the five-year period. The institute estimates the industry's anti-pollution measures now are costing more than $1.5 million a day.

A new report placed before the midyear meeting of the institute's division of refining says production of unleaded gasolines will require additional processing steps and increase refinery costs sharply.

A study made by the Foster Wheeler Corp. of Livingston, N.J., indicates increased capitalization for unleaded gasolines will range from $13.2 million for a 30,000 barrels a day refinery to $55.8 million for a 240,000-barrel facility.

Production cost increases, it is estimated, will range from 1.12 cents a gallon at large refineries to 1.95 cents at relatively small plants.

G.C. Hann, vice president of the Apache Corp. of Minneapolis, told the midyear meeting of the institute's division of production the industry spent about $45 billion in its search for and the development of new oil and gas reserves in the 1960s.

The indicated average annual expenditures for the 1970s, he said, will be $7 billion compared with $4.5 billion in the 1960s.

"During the 1970s, demand forecasts indicate we must produce about 46 billion barrels of oil if our reliance on undependable and increasingly expensive imported oil is not to skyrocket to unacceptable levels," Hann said. "To preserve a reasonable reserve cushion, we must find by 1980 a total of 55 billion barrels."

Hann said gas forecasts indicate production requirements of 220 trillion cubic feet in the decade. This, plus a reasonable reserve cushion, he said calls for the discovery of 260 trillion cubic feet of new reserves.

"If we find oil at the rate of the 'sixties, we will find about 35 billion barrels and this will leave us 20 billion short," he said. "If we find gas at the rate of the 'sixties, we will be about 80 trillion cubic feet short."

The forecasts indicate, he said, the industry within the decade will have to discover a little more than 40 per cent as much oil and gas as was found in the past 110 years.

Hann said the forecasts mean the industry faces a "capital gap" even with the gas and oil products price increases that are bound to develop.

"But the industry has proved that given incentives, almost any physically possible job can be done," he said.

US Troops Are Reduced

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that American troop strength in Vietnam was reduced another 3,600 men last week, bringing the total to 255,700. It is the lowest level in more than five years.

Under the withdrawal program announced by President Nixon, U.S. troop strength will be pared to 184,000 men by next Dec.1.

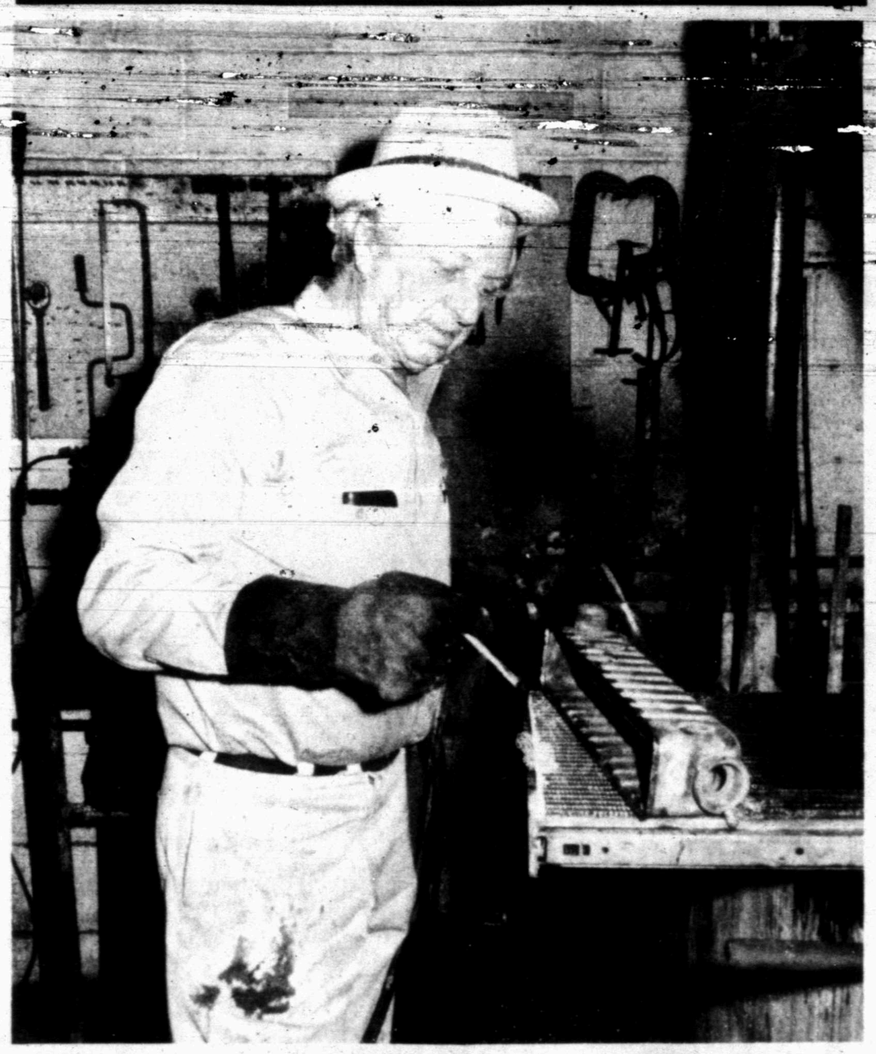
BUSINESS and INDUSTRIAL NEWS



"THE RADIATOR MAN" — Frank D. Stephenson, owner and operator of Snyder Radiator Service, 1105 Avenue T, is observing his 22nd year of business in Snyder. His prompt and efficient service have earned him the title of "the Radiator man." Here, he is shown repairing a radiator. His firm has radiators for virtually every make and model of passenger car, truck or tractor.

'Radiator Man' Marks 22nd Anniversary Here

Frank D. Stephenson, owner and operator of Snyder Radiator Service, 1105 Ave T, will observe his 22nd anniversary of doing business in Snyder on June 1.

Over the years Frank has earned a reputation for straight and honest dealing with his customer. His fast and efficient service have resulted in his being known as "The Radiator Man" in Snyder.

Whatever the size or type of your radiator, Frank D. Stephenson, "the Radiator man," is the person to see if it needs to be repaired or replaced.

Frank has over 35 years experience in the automotive industry, and he is a specialist in the repair of radiators. He can tell you whether a radiator should be repaired or be replaced.

"We have new radiators for nearly every make of passenger car, truck or tractor," said Frank. His firm also has industrial radiators for oil field equipment as well as farm equipment. And his prices, both for repair and new or replacement radiators are reasonable.

Replacement cores also are carried in stock, and steel overflow tubes may be replaced for better all around performance.

"Now is the time of year when every motorist should take a long hard look at his radiator to see if it can stand up to the increased pressures of summer," he said.

Looking back over his 22 years of dependable service in Snyder, Frank said that he is grateful for the support the public has given him.

Armstrong Gets Honorary Degrees

HEILDELBERG, Germany (AP) — The University of Maryland's European division has conferred an honorary doctor of science degree on Astronaut Neil Armstrong, the first human to set foot on the moon.

The Apollo 11 crewmember, now 40, is deputy administrator for advanced research and technology of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Mariner 9 On Way To Mars

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "Looks like we'll be at Mars in 5½ months," a space agency official said as America's Mariner 9 spacecraft joined two Russian probes hurtling toward the red planet to search for life and to unravel scientific mysteries.

Mariner 9 rode the flawless performance of an Atlas-Centaur rocket into space Sunday to start a 247 million-mile voyage to the planet.

Within hours after launch, the payload's navigation equipment locked on two guide points, the sun and Canopus, brightest star in the southern hemisphere. This stablized the craft for its outward journey.

If all goes well, Mariner 9 will fire into Martian orbit on Nov. 14 and begin an extensive photographic and scientific mission expected to last three months. More than 6,500 pictures of the surface are to be transmitted as the craft sweeps as close as 750 miles to the planet.

Two Russian probes, Mars 2 and Mars 3, were launched earlier this month, but U.S. tracking experts believe the American satellite, traveling a slightly different and shorter course, has a chance to beat the Soviet vehicles to the target.

They estimate Mars 2 will arrive in mid-November and Mars 3 later than months.

The Russian payloads each weigh more than 10,000 pounds, considerably more than Mariner's 2,200 pounds. There is speculation they may attempt to land on Mars.

Whatever happens, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration express confidence that data obtained by the three missions will be shared.

"We're optimistic about this," Dr. George Low, NASA deputy administrator, said after the Mariner launch.

"Last January we and the Soviets established a framework for an agreement on exchange of data from our planetary programs, from all our science programs, Low said. "We agreed to exchange samples from the moon and we're to the point where we're arranging the dates when we'll exchange some of our Apollo samples for some of the lunar samples obtain by their Luna 16.

If Mars 2 and 3 do land, their data on surface conditions could be compared with that gathered in the atmosphere by the orbiting Mariner. If all three are orbiters, the paths of the ships could be adjusted to obtain the greatest coverage of the planet.

A combined exploration would have a better chance of determining whether a primitive life form, such as microbes or rudimentary plants, exists in Mars' cold, dry climate where temperatures plunge below 200 degrees below zero.

Check On Using Home For Business

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I am thinking about going to cosmetology school and when opening a beauty shop in my home. A friend tells me that a home business where I live might not be legal. How can I find out? – M.A., Dallas

By checking the zoning laws and deed restrictions which apply to your home. The city or county determines zoning laws. Deed restrictions are usually set up by the land developer when he builds the property. (A deed restriction may limit the use of each lot to a single-family residence, for example.)

Numerous legal cases involving home businesses have created problems for operators of such ventures as day nurseries, music lessons, dressmaking, merchandise shops, and others.

Ask your local zoning board or other local authority (call city hall) for a copy of the zoning laws which apply to your address. Deed restrictions information may come from the property recorder's office, real estate agent, title company (although zoning and deed restrictions may not appear in a title report), or from your lawyer. To be on the safe side, you really should consult a lawyer before opening a business in your home. And even if you're not within zoning or deed restriction limits, a lawyer may act for you in requesting a legal exemption.

BOOKLET: The U.S. Small Business Administration has revised and expanded a helpful pamphlet: "Checklist For Going Into Business." The new version includes worksheets to help you figure initial cash outlay, and the cost of furniture, fixtures and equipment.

You can get a free copy from an SBA field office. Or, by sending me a long white, stamped (8 cents 1st-class postage), and self-addressed envelope. Write "Checklist" on your outside envelope and mail your request to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper -- within 30 days. I can't send the booklet if you forget the return envelope.

Dear Joyce: I have been trying to get some information on starting an import business with merchandise from Iran. I tried contacting several city and State offices, plus the Immigration Department. I got no results, except several pamphlets from Immigration on duty items, but this is only part of the information I need. – E.H.T., Chicago

Readers who want to get into importing or exporting can get help from the U.S. Department of Commerce's 42 field offices. If you can't locate the field office nearest you, write to the Commerce Department, Washington, D.C. 20230, for referral.

Dear Joyce: I would like to know about a dog (small dogs) business. Not a kennel, but a place where people who want personal, loving care for their pets may leave them while they are on vacation, etc. – H.F., Phoenix

To operate a pet caretaking service of any size (more than a dog or two at a time), you'll need to construct several dog runs (wire fencing and animal shelters). In inclement weather, you might house the dogs in your basement, garage or shed. You could charge a flat fee per day and package price by the week. One animal caretaker in an Eastern large-city suburb charges $3/day; $17/week. You provide the food unless the dog eats steak. Exercising and grooming should cost extra.

Determine in advance (1) your liability for the pet's injury or illness while in your care, and the dog's veterinarian, and (2) the owner's liability if the dog bites you or damages your property.

You could also care for pets in their own homes, visiting once or twice a day to feed, exercise, or clean-up accidents.

Montalban's Life Threatened

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Ricardo Montalban says his efforts to help his fellow Mexican-Americans have resulted in threats on his life and jeopardized his acting career.

Montalban, 50, said since he helped found "Nosotros," a civil rights organization, he has been depicted by the news media as an "ugly, bigoted man," the phrase "Montalban must die," was scrawled near a "Nosotros" workshop and he has received threatening phone calls.

He said he has also been criticized by other actors and has been offered only Mexican film roles lately. Montalban, whose acting career spans 25 years, is known for his romantic leads.

The Mexico City-born actor spoke Saturday to the annual convention of the California Associated Press Television and Radio Association.

Man Sells Car For Donation

NEW YORK (AP) — The Environmental Defense Fund office here received a letter from a young man in Bloomington, Ind., announcing that he had decided to sell his automobile and donate the proceeds to EDF. A check for $850 was enclosed. The anti-pollution organization saluted the young man by voting him a lifetime member.

There is no federal income tax on the first $100 earned as stock dividends.

BILL SEEKER

Bill Seeker Is Promoted

TULSA, — The promotion of W. H. (Bill) Seeker to Assistant District Sales Manager at Hobbs, N. M., was announced today by Jones & Laughlin Supply Division President, Jack Judd.

Seeker replaces R. L. (Leo) Daniel who has retired after 46 years with J&L Supply, the last 12 years as District Manager at Hobbs.

Seeker, a native of Wichita Falls, joined J&L at Wichita Falls in 1943, and has served as store manager at Big Spring, Snyder, and, since 1961, at Hobbs. In his new position, Seeker will have the responsibility for J&L's store operations at Kermit, Sundown and Hobbs.

Kidnapers Hunted

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police were searching today for two men who kidnapped a 15-ear-old girl late Saturday night and raped her.

The girl was sitting in a parked car with her 19-year-old date in Houston's Memorial Park when two men approached with guns.

The youth told police the men made him strip, took his wallet and watch, then drove off in the car with the girl.

She was later released by the men.

She told officers the pair drove to a nearby, car, from where they drove her to another location where both of them raped her. She said she was struck in the face at one point when she would not stop screaming.

The girl told police the men let her out of their car about 3 a.m. Sunday on a Houston freeway. She called her family who came and picked her up, she said.

South Africa Has Nurse Shortage

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A serious shortage of nurses in the Johannesburg-Pretoria area has made it necessary to hire more non-whites for domestic chores in white hospitals.

Kidnaped Man Treated Well

By HORACIO FINOLI

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP) — An Anglo-Argentine meat packing executive, freed by guerrilla kidnapers Sunday, says he was treated very well during his week of captivity.

Stanley M.C. Sylvester stopped to buy a newspaper while riding home in a taxi.

"Please don't ask me any questions. I cannot compromise myself," Sylvester, 58, told newsmen. "They treated me very well."

Sylvester, the honorary British consul in Rosario, was kidnaped by the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army. To ransom him the Swift De La Plata meat packing company, of which he is a director, distributed $62,500 worth of food, blankets and clothing to shantytown poor in Rosario.

The leftists said they kidnaped Sylvester to call attention to the "unimaginable anguish" which they alleged the Swift plant had caused its 6,000 workers and their families here.

After his release, Sylvester hailed a taxi driven by Santiago Mugeta, 47, in downtown Rosario shortly before 8:30 a. m.

"He asked me to stop so he could buy a newspaper," Mugeta said. "After he had the newspaper, he asked me if I knew who he was. I didn't and then he said: 'I am the consul, and they treated me very well.'"

Sylvester was wearing a red pullover sweater and gray slacks. Arriving at his home in the wealthy Fisherton suburb, he was embraced by his wife, Sally, and two sons, Jaime, 30, and John Stanley, 28.

Born in Argentina of British parents, Sylvester holds British and Argentine citizenship and has been honorary British consul in this city of a million people for eight years.

The distribution of food, [illegible] and blankets was made Friday and Saturday. Thousands massed before the trucks hired by Swift for the distribution.

The guerrillas also demanded the reinstatement of Swift workers laid off or suspended, reduction of minimum production scales in Silver sections of the packing house and an end to "police methods" allegedly used by the management in its relations with the workers.

The firm announced its willingness to comply with most of the demands a few minutes before the terrorists' deadline, noon Friday.
