MOODY HEADS COTTON CONFERENCE
NINE DIE IN ACCIDENTS, FRAYS

CHANCE IS YET SEEN FOR P. O. BUILDING HERE

STATE G. O. P. LEADERS HERE SAY CITY IS STILL IN BUDGET

Lubbock's chance to receive a federal court and postoffice building during the forthcoming installment of the Public Building Program of Congress had a brighter outlook today following an informal conference in the Lubbock hotel last night of R. B. Creager, Republican National Committeeman, of Brownsville; Orvil Bullington, Vice-state Chairman, of Wichita Falls; Leonard Withington, director of the State Republican organization, of Dallas and T. P. Lee, prominent Republican, of Houston, Capt. Lucy, Hoover Club representative, and local postal officials, civic workers and citizens.

According to Mr. Creager, who is thoroughly informed on matters at Washington, Lubbock is still included in the next installment of the bill which comes up before congress in July and has a good chance of getting her building. It was recently understood here that Lubbock had lost out in the second installment and would have to wait for a building in the third installment of the building program.

Needs Man In Capital
"What Lubbock needs most," Mr. Creager said in his talk, "is for someone to push the matter in Washington. One good man could do more good there than a thousand letters written to various leaders will ever do." he said. He talked for an extended period with the city men and gave much valuable advice regarding the situation here. According to his remarks, it is vital that the city be represented in Washington by a committee of three or even one man.

Outlook for the procurement of the building this year was also brightened today with the receipt of a letter by Postmaster John L. Vaughan from Carl T. Shumaker, assistant secretary of the treasury, who gave notice of the receipt of the proposed plan of the city and also stated that Lubbock was being considered in connection with the preparation of the second allotment of buildings which will be up before the house this year.

Other Things Needed
In talking of other things which the city is in need of, Mr. Creager said that a municipal airport and landing field was of vital importance and that Lubbock should, by all means, establish one as soon as possible. All of the leading cities in even small towns in the north and east are now equipped with excellent airports, he said.

The Republican leaders arrived here yesterday at noon and spent the afternoon and evening in the city leaving for San Angelo and Brownsville at 1:30 a. m. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon an informal discussion of party problems was held in which more than 100 visitors were present. Last night an informal luncheon with the Lubbock men was held in which the building and other matters were discussed.

Treatment Is Royal
Upon his departure last night, Mr. Creager stated that Lubbock had always treated him more royally than any place he visited. He was here about two years ago. "You fellows, out here, just know how it's done," he said, "you just have that hospitable feeling all over the city." He expressed regret at having to be here on Sunday and not being able to stay over in the city and hold a regular meeting but that other engagements had been previously arranged in San Angelo and Brownsville.

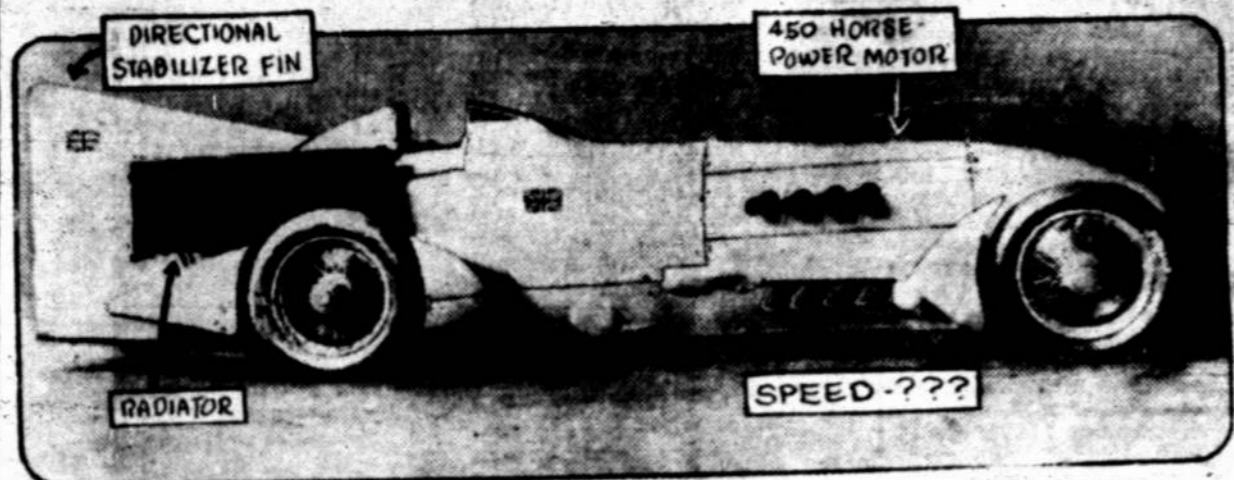

A Hoover-for-president club is likely to be formed here within a short time, Captain Lucy, state organizer, intimated upon his departure last night.

Rangers Recalled In Freestone Task

AUSTIN, Feb. 20 (AP)—Two Texas Rangers who recently were drawn from Freestone county after they had aided local officers in anti-liquor operations were ordered Monday to return and resume work. COTTON MAN HELD FOR NEAR FATAL FUSS IN CHARLOTTE

(By The Associated Press)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 20.—Leroy Springs, millionaire textile manufacturer of Lancaster, S. C., and this city, was shot in the head in a drug store here today by Eldred Griffith, a cotton merchant. An old business feud is said to have been responsible.

Suddenly Draws Pistol
Eye witnesses said the two men had conversed for several minutes when Griffith suddenly drew a pistol and fired a shot. He attempted to fire again, but was overpowered.

He has textile interest at Lancaster, Fort Mill, and other places. He is the father of Elliott White Springs, of Fort Mill, who won renown in the world war as an aviator with the British and American forces. Mrs. Springs is Democratic national committeewoman from South Carolina.

State Finishes in Murder Case Today

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dr. Charles M. McMillan, former Colorado, Texas, physician, now on trial in superior court here on a charge of having killed Mrs. Amelia Appleby, wealthy widow, may soon know his fate. Deputy District Attorney Tom Menses, in charge of the case for the state, announced that he would complete his case today and should the defense present its testimony without delay the jury might get the case this week.

Methodists' Fund Reaches $42,500

With an additional $8,000 pledged Sunday, the First Methodist church now has approximately $42,500 pledged on a $75,000 building program, it was announced at the church this morning. The building program is to include the erection and furnishing of a Sunday school building with some remodeling of the church building at Broadway and Avenue M. A report last week that $35,148 had been pledged was found to be slightly erroneous during the week as duplication of pledges in the reports received were wiped out.

Session Will Talk Traffic Problems

DALLAS, Feb. 20 (AP)—Traffic policemen and utility executives of Louisiana and Texas have been invited to confer on street congestion problems at the convention of the Southwestern Public Utilities association in Dallas, May 2-5.

SIX KILLED IN HOUSTON WITH MANY INJURED

TWO BURN TO DEATH IN ARKANSAS WHEN CAR WRECKS AND FIRES

Nine persons are known to have been killed and an undetermined number injured in a series of accidents, affrays and shootings in Texas and Arkansas during the week-end. Seven of the fatalities were in Texas, and the bulk of these centered in Houston, where six were killed. The automobile took four lives in Texas, while two died under a burning overturned car near Fort Smith, Ark. Shootings and cutting affairs were responsible for the other three deaths.

Three Die In Auto Wrecks In Houston
HOUSTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Six persons were killed and nine injured in a series of accidents, cuttings and shooting affrays in and near Houston in the past 24 hours, according to a police survey.
Automobile accidents took the lives of Leroy Smith, 4; James Goodpasture, 3; and Robert M. Guinn, 2.
The accidental discharge of a shotgun was responsible for the death of Herman Krone, 25. Ethel Scott, negro, fell from a knife wounds after a cutting affray, and Senie Frazier, negro, was clubbed to death in the negro section.
Of the injured on both lists two were expected to die. Charles Terry, 28, fell in front of a moving tractor and was crushed so badly wounds attendants said little hope was entertained for his recovery. E. J. Thompson, 75, who was struck on the highway near Pasadena by a hit and run driver was in a hospital with a fractured skull and was not expected to survive.

TWO OFFICIALS ARRAIGNED ON SOONER COUNT

(By Associated Press)
BOMAR, Okla., Feb. 20.—A battery of nine volunteer defense attorneys today was prepared to fight back vigorously against the states prosecution of James C. Mathers and Wes Croy, county judge and county attorney, respectively, of Love county, who faced preliminary trial on a charge of appropriating $5,000 of the loot stolen from the Love County National bank at Marietta several weeks ago.

ATTORNEYS VOLUNTEER TO DEFEND COUNTY OFFICIALS

The defense staff was headed by James H. Mathers of Oklahoma City, father of Judge Mathers and for 15 years county attorney of Carter county. The Elder Mathers several years ago prosecuted Clara Smith Hamon, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband's uncle, Jake Hamon, Millionaire Ardmore oil man and republican national committeeman.
The preliminary trial was brought to Bomar on a charge of venue.
The state charges that Croy and Mathers, who accompanied Claude Andrews, confessed member of the bandit gang, to the spot where at least a portion of the bank loot was buried, appropriated the larger portion of the stolen $9,000 before returning a bag of money to the bank.

REED MORE INTERESTED IN HIS PARTY THAN INDIVIDUAL CANDIDATES, PLEA MADE AT DALLAS IN CAMPAIGN DRIVE

(By The Associated Press)
DALLAS, Feb. 20.—A campaign devoted to party interests rather than individual candidacies was outlined in an interview with newspapermen here today by Senator Reed, of Missouri, Democratic presidential candidate, upon his arrival to open a western speaking tour.
About the first question popped at the Missouri by Dallas newspapermen today was "what about Al Smith?"
"I am a good deal more interested in the principals of the Democratic party," he replied, "than in the candidacy of any man, including myself."
A committee of Texas Democrats warning "large buttons with the

OFFICERS JAIL THREE MEN ON LIQUOR COUNTS

Two Operated Still Is Claim; One Sale Is Interrupted
Three men, two being held by county officials and the other by city authorities, are facing charges of violation of the prohibition laws as a result of the activities of local "mop-up" squads late Saturday night. One of the three will be charged with sale of intoxicants and the other two with operation of a still used in the manufacture of illicit beverages, officers said today.
The man being held by the city officers was arrested in "Little Juarez" as he was selling a half gallon of corn whiskey to a Mexican. Officers said Sadez Olgun, one of the two Mexican policemen who patrol the Mexican settlement, made the arrest after confiscating the liquor and forcing its seller to return the $10 purchase price to the woman. Further investigation of the man's car resulted in finding another gallon and a half, which was likewise confiscated.
Still Is Caught
The other two men were arrested by Chief Deputy Verlice L. Ford, in the northeast part of the city, after a constant surveillance during the past several weeks. Officers said today that while they knew of the location of the still they had never been able to catch the men while they were operating it. The still was moved from its original location Friday night and another gallon and a half, which was seized with the small still.
No charges had been filed against any of the trio when the Journal went to press and until charges are filed officers will not divulge the names of the men held.

Two Girls Injured In Auto Accident

Oils, 17, and Pearl, 12, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roberts, of this city, were slightly injured yesterday afternoon when the Ford roadster in which they were returning from the Woodrow community to Lubbock overturned several miles south of town. The younger girl received possible internal injuries but was resting better today while her older sister was practically unharmed.
Soft dirt by the side of the road caused the car to turn over, the girls said. They were both thrown clear of the car. The car was badly damaged.

Race Track Plans At Fair Are Ready

Plans and specifications for the proposed race track addition to the Panhandle-South Plains Fair grounds have been completed by City Engineer M. R. Smith. It was learned in the headquarters of the association this morning and will be presented for approval at a meeting of the directors of the association sometime this week. Along with the plans is an estimated cost of the project.
Other needed improvements on the fair grounds as well as a building program and plans for the coming exposition will be considered in the meeting of the directors. With practically every department being inadequate for the exposition, the directors voted last fall to make improvements this year and work on the program will be started soon, they have intimated.

Elliott still was in jail today, no attempt having been made to obtain bond pending arraignment on the two charges of murder.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20.—Governor Dan Moody of Texas, who called a cotton acreage reduction conference of southern states, under way here today, was elected permanent chairman of the conference by acclamation.

In his address to the convention, the Texas governor declared the purpose was to deal with a problem affecting 90 per cent of the world's population—to secure for the farmer a return on his crop that is more than the cost of production.

State Senator W. B. Roberts of Bolivar county, Miss., discussed a proposal for limiting cotton acreage through state legislation. He proposed using taxing powers of the state to bring about decreased production through a tax for the production of cotton, exempting from this tax those who rotate their crops or plant less than half their acreage in cotton. He also proposed the use of the states' police powers in conserving soil fertility.

Urges Vigorous Action

Addressing the convention as the executive head of the world's largest farm as he termed the Texas penal farm, Gov. Moody declared the convention should take vigorous action to protect the cotton farmer from the ravages of market manipulators and teach them the necessity and wisdom of decreased production and its consequent increase in value to the crop.
"Never in the history of agriculture in the south has the farmer

MOM
Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, Dearest:
I'm glad to know you enjoyed the jelly even if I do think you have too many late parties. It may be all right for you because you can sleep all morning but is it fair to Alan? His work is sure to suffer for it. How do you think your father got ahead in business? Not by going to bed at all hours of the morning. I assure you. He had his full eight hours of undisturbed slumber every night, and he needed it. He couldn't have kept on his feet if we'd tried to go around as much as we did before we were married.

But it seems to be that you modern girls want a bean and a hand rolled into one. You don't realize that a man can't keep up the pace he sets when he's courting you. And even if he thinks he's equal to it you ought to have some common sense, you girls to know better. But show me the young wife who admits that there's any responsibility or obligation attached to marriage these days.

I hear girls say that everyone has a right to live her own life and that nobody has a right to interfere with anyone else. Maybe you think that if you interfere with your husband's over when you should, they will interfere with you whether they should or not.

Let me ask you if you'd consider it interfering if you saw Alan walking out on thin ice and warned him? It's his life just the same whether he chooses to risk it that way or through neglecting his health, but I'll bet you'd say something about the thin ice.

And if you think he isn't neglecting his health by getting to bed late and getting up just in time to drive and eat a cup of decaffeinated coffee that maybe he's made him self or got in a restaurant, why you just try it and see.

And if Alan insists that you go out you'll probably fly off the handle and tell him he has no consideration. And the last thing you'll think of, if he says he believes you're overdoing it, is that he's interfering. You'll call it loving thoughtfulness. It's all in the way it comes home to you, call it what you like.

You can tell Alan I'll send some more jelly and preserves and I want you to get up and make him a decent breakfast to eat with them.

With loving interference,
MOTHER.

Style Romps With Florida's Youngest Set

JACK McLEAN FLORENCE WIRTH-FRANZISKA FRAZER CHARLES PIERCE
By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer
PALM BEACH, Feb. 20.—Grown-ups may think they enjoy Palm Beach. But just watch the juvenile social register registering unmitigated joy as they romp on the sands and courts and wallow in the Atlantic's blue if you don't think they are the real revelers! Incidentally they register quite as much in the way of style as do their parents. For while mamma is planning her grown-up wardrobe, she never seems to forget Cicely or Gordon. Their juvenile sports togs, daytime clothes, informal little afternoon attire and more formal costumes for parties are perfectly charming.

Simplicity is the outstanding feature of all the clothes of little Miss Someday Flapper and her little boy playfellow of the eastern coast of Florida. Washableness seems an unerring characteristic for immaculate linen frocks, English prints and other tubable clothes are ubiquitous. The beret is the favorite headgear for general wear—be it wool, linen or crocheted straw.

Hand Work Galore
As for color—if you please there is the same preference for plain white, or clear, pale blue, pink, lavender or yellow that adults show. All hand work galore—fancy seaming, hemstitching, smocking and embroidery.

Simplicity reaches its sublimation in the children's bathing suits at Palm Beach. Girls of boys—its all one-piece when it comes to jersey swimming suits. Gauzy colors—yels, reds, oranges, blues, and green dot the sands vividly. Black, white stripes, polka dots and other monogrammed or embroidered patterns say a snappy crab crawling up one side, abound too. Little Marie Chadbourne has an intricate monogram on her continental blue suit. Little Persifer Frazer, 4th, usually wears a suit with a blue and white striped upper and blue shorts, peep-toe like the suits his brother Robert and sister Bettina wear when they all romp daintily with their charming mother.

Little men, like big ones, prefer gray or cream flannels for tennis, with open throated shirts and perhaps a gay blazer of jaunty vivid stripes. Jack McLean, son of Edward B. McLean of Washington, romps over the Royal Poinciana courts often wearing grays. His brother, Ned, is somewhat dressier and wears all-white with a soft angora sweater of navy, with oxfords with a navy blue calfskin saddle.

Master Charles Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Pierce, of three regular colony here, wears white every day—usually a cute linen suit, perhaps with long sleeves and neatly pressed little English shorts. Often he is gallantly leading his little sister, Lola, who has the cutest frocks—always hand worked. One is white handkerchief linen with diminutive mandarin collar and sleeveless armholes all hand stitched in white. Their footgear is ever as simple as their costumes—usually one-strap white buckskin or black patent leather.

For Tennis, Golf
For tennis or golf older girls invariably wear bloomer frocks. Florence Wyeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Wyeth of New York, seems to have an endless number of pretty printed ones, all washable. One such was a pretty green background with white figures making diamond figures inside diamond figures. The collar and cuffs of white

Republicans Will Session In Dallas

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20.—Approximately 75 Fort Worth voters will go to Dallas Tuesday for an organization meeting of Texas members of the republican party who are opposed to sending an inconclusive delegation to the national convention. James M. O'Hara, temporary state chairman announced Congressman Harry W. Woodcock will be the honor guest at a luncheon that day. O'Hara said he expects 1,500 persons to attend the meeting.

Little Senia Phipps, teeing off in one of her golf lessons on the Palm Beach Country club, wore a sweet hand made, hand hemstitched sporty linen bloomer frock with smocking on the shoulder and a cute round collar that tied under her chine with a small bow.

TECH MEETS BUFFALOES TONIGHT IN FIRST OF TWIN BILL

BITTER CLASH SEEN BETWEEN COURT RIVALS

SERIES CLOSES SEASON FOR MATADORS AND SCRAP EXPECTED

The Texas Technological college basketball final series begins this evening at 7:30 o'clock when Coach Payne's flaming jersied bull-fighters meet their bitter collegiate rivals of West Texas, the Buffaloes of West Texas State Teachers college. In the initial game of the final indoor twin bill of the 1928 schedule, Sammie D. Burton's Melvin head of stampeding Buffaloes arrived in Lubbock shortly before lunch today and seek to maintain their winning streak over the scarlet and black wearers.

Matadors Want Win

It is anticipated that the Matadors will put forth extra effort and ability to score victory over the T. A. A. champions and undoubtedly the series with the teachers holds more interest for the fans than any previous games here this year or in the previous seasons. Interest is at a high pitch on the pickador campus and the largest turnout of fans is expected by athletic officials of the college.

Vic Payne will fire his strongest bet into the game against the highly headdressed Palo Duro cagers with Leslie (Al) Jennings and Melvin Hunter at forwards; Andy Hemphill at center, and Gilbert (Dope) White and Jim Kerr at guards. Burton's lineup will too be the strongest bet with the probable lineup as follows: Hale and Crump, forwards; Lowrey, center; Gerald and Ward, guards.

NORWAY TAKES OLYMPIC MEET IN ICE GAMES

U. S. WINS SECOND AND SWEDEN THIRD FOR TOTAL SCORE

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—The rugged athletes of Norway have successfully defended their Olympic winter sports championship. The United States finished second and Sweden third.

On the final day of competition the American contingent won the bob-sleigh finals yesterday, William Fiske landing first place and John Heaton second. The sleds hummed over the ice at a sixty mile an hour clip.

Heaton is Fastest

Heaton registered the fastest descent in a slide down the chute with a time of one minute, 38.7-10 seconds which is only ten seconds behind the world's record for the track held by Martineau of England. The others in the toboteigh event finished as follows: Third, Paul Killian of Germany; fourth, Gramajo of Argentina; fifth, Hope Argentine; sixth, Ernest Lambert, Belgium.

BRITISH DRIVER SETS NEW RECORD OF 206.95 MILES AN HOUR IN TEST SUNDAY; LOCKHART, WHITE TO RUN

(By Associated Press)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—The figurative laurel which signifies attainment of the highest speed at which an automobile has yet been driven had been lifted today from the brow of one Englishman and rest on that of another. Captain Malcolm Campbell of London yesterday flung his huge Napier Blue Bird special over the hard packed sands of the Beach here at the rate of 206.95662 miles per hour, eclipsing by more than three miles an hour the mark established on the same sands last year by Major H. O. D. Segrave, likewise of England.

Two Others Await Tests

The new record for earthbound vehicles came while two others also awaited opportunity to test their machines against time. Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis with a State Blackhawk special and J. M. White of Philadelphia with a 36-cylinder triplex which had not yet been accorded official sanction for the try because of mechanical discrepancies.

Captain Campbell after his successful dash of a mile up the beach in 16.78 seconds, a rate of more than 60 miles per hour ran back down against a stiff gale exceeding 199, to make up his official mile. He had not anticipated a formidable effort at the record when he started out. But for the fact that he took only a four mile rolling start, said the captain, he would have bettered the record still more.

Motor Picking Up

"My motor had not even begun to pick up good when I crossed the mile stretch," he said. "It was making about 308 miles an hour when I crossed the wire and did not pick up until I had passed the half mile mark. Just before I finished the mile, I glanced at my instruments and saw 320 when an hour. Before I could look up I had crossed the final wire and was headed for the soft sand dunes."

At this juncture the 5,000 spectators feared a fatal accident and Mrs. Campbell, in the stands, covered her face with her hands until a tense moment of anxiety passed.

ed her face with her hands until a tense moment of anxiety passed. The captain tells the story: "My machine struck a terrible hump in the sands and I lost complete control of my steering. I bounced half way out of the seat. My feet left the accelerator and brake completely and my goggles were nearly torn from my head by the wind."

Recovers and Rights Car

"It happened so quickly that for an instant I looked for a bad spill. I recovered myself quickly, however. Captain Campbell gave major credit for the recovery to a rigid fin, similar in appearance to an airplane rudder, which had been set up at the rear of the automobile to prevent tail-wiggling at high speeds."

Jones Will Referee The Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 20 (AP).—Tom E. Jones, head track coach at the University of Wisconsin, will referee the sixth annual Kansas relays, in the University of Kansas memorial stadium April 21. Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics, has announced.

Jones is one of the best known Western conference track coaches. He formerly coached track at the University of Missouri. Knute Rockne, Fielding H. Yost and Harry Gill are among those who have acted as referee at the Kansas relays.

Horseshoe Pitching Tournament Starts

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP).—Some three dozen of the country's most talented tossers are here to seek the honors now held by C. C. Davis of Columbus, O., defending his title as champion in the national horse shoe tournament beginning today.

While Davis' incumbency installs him as favorite there are many who look for a herculean battle from Jimmy Risk, Indiana school boy.

Mr. Ruth's between-seasons avoirdupois is receiving rough treatment at the hands of the Babe and his trainer, Arthur A. Here, left to right, you see pictured a sparring match between Ruth and McGovern; then Ruth looking very demure in his sweating outfit; and finally a little muscle-losing by McGovern.

M'GRAW DEFENDS HORNSBY-GRIMES TRADES AT CAMP

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—John McGraw has arrived at the Giants camp at Hot Springs, Ark., and promptly defended the trades which sent Rogers Hornsby to the Braves and Burchleigh Grimes to the Pirates. He said the youngsters received in the deal for Hornsby, Catcher Frank Hogan and outfielder Jim Welsh, were very promising. But the Giants' manager was very reticent in regard to why the Rajah was let go.

As to the swap which brought Vic Aldridge from Pittsburgh in exchange for Grimes, McGraw said that he wanted a hurler to win games in April and May. Grimes did not get started until late last season.

Travis Jackson is expected at the training quarters shortly. McGraw said Jackson could have the captaincy if he so desired, filling the position created by the transfer of Hornsby.

IDALOU COACH FILES PROTEST IN CAGE PLAY

SITUATION SCHEDULED FOR DISCUSSION IN LUBBOCK TODAY

It looks like the Lubbock county basketball championship has been a night-mare throughout the entire schedule. First, the runner-up of the Class C protested on the eligibility of the Posey team; second, the runner-up of the Class B tournament filed protest as to the eligibility of Canyon; and now, Idalou has filed protest against the eligibility of three players of the Lubbock high school team, winners of the Class A division and county champions.

However, in the two previous protests neither were allowed, and this afternoon in the offices of W. M. Preehouse, county superintendent of Lubbock, the officials of the Lubbock Interscholastic League will meet and discuss the protest filed by Lloyd Sweeney of the Idalou school against Lubbock high school members. The meeting will be held at five o'clock.

WRESTLERS TO MEET TONIGHT IN BITTER ROW

LEWIS, STECHER FIGHT TO FINISH IN FUSS OVER CROWN

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—Before the rosters start crowing in the dawn of tomorrow, the world's heavyweight wrestling throne will have a legitimate occupant for the first time in seven years.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher, two of the foremost grapplers of the heavyweight division, each claiming the title, will wrestle to a finish here tonight to settle the issue over the championship. The prospects are that the match will draw $85,000 to $90,000.

a record "gate" for wrestling. The bout will be staged in the Coliseum, which has been used by Billy Sunday for revival meetings. When the Rev. Mr. Sunday's last prayer died away last night, a force of carpenters swarmed into the place to transform the building into an arena.

The match will be a positive finish, with the winner getting two falls. There will be no time limit or other tricks of the wrestling game imposed. Harry S. Sharpe of St. Louis, a ring official of 25 years' experience, will referee.

With three preliminary matches to precede them, Lewis and Stecher are scheduled to settle down to their task about 10 p. m. If the match lasts as long as most contests of major importance, the first rays of tomorrow's sun may be streaking through the windows before either register the required two falls.

Dash For Culture
A generation or so ago, every newspaper editor used to retire in seclusion every so often, to ponder deeply on the time and space to write an editorial entitled, "Whether we are drifting?"

As far as can be learned, none of these long Jeremiahs ever had any appreciable effect on the country's movements. But the habit of sitting down occasionally and musing on our ultimate goal was a pretty good one nevertheless. Even if you can't stem a current, it is a good idea to see where it is carrying you.

During the last few years one of the most marked traits of our civilization has been the tremendous growth of the average citizen's yen for culture.

High schools, colleges and universities have been jammed. Noted educators have publicly wondered how they ever were going to accommodate all the would-be students. City and state budgets for education have gone sky-rocketing.

Nor is that all. There have sprung up, like mushrooms, hosts of organizations that seek to fill in with a few easy lessons any gaps in your culture. You cannot read a magazine without being implored to study French, to read Conrad, to enjoy the pick of the world's literary classics in homesteadish doses, to get a working knowledge of the great philosophies, to steep yourself in everything from relations to psychology.

All of this being so, it might pay us to sit down and ask ourselves the old-time editors' question: "Whether we are drifting?"

Now is not an American that to go for something that has no cash value. And the scramble for a material is no exception. We seem to be struggling for culture so that we can better ourselves in business, we read of salesmen who got promotions because they could speak French, of advertising writers who forged ahead because they had read Thomas Hardy of farm houses progressed to big city offices because they were familiar with Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

This sort of thing isn't culture at all, and it is time we realized it. One can be educated to one's finger tips and still lag far behind the uncouth man who doesn't know Plato from Ring Lardner. One can be versed in the world's greatest music and still be outstepped by a rival who never heard anything higher than a jazz band. Intimacy with Virgil need not necessarily increase one's earnings, as a real estate salesman's.

But culture does give one advantage. It broadens a man so that his enjoyment of life does not depend on a high salary. It gives him a rich reward, not by boosting his earning power, but by enabling him to get along without boosted earnings.

For it doesn't matter that you can't afford a trip to Europe, if you are free to enter the Forest of Arden any night after dinner. Lack of a high-priced automobile won't bother you if you can sail with Ulysses past the baths of all the western stars. A three-room flat can be elegant if you can summon Sir John Falstaff or Christus of Alexandria or Doctor Faustus to your parlor at will.

THE PLAINSMAN

That Girl on Broadway says most of us owe the Lord more than we do anybody else but He's often the last to be paid because He doesn't push us like our other creditors.

Three persons were killed in Macon, Georgia, Saturday, when an airplane capsized 7,000 feet and landed in the center of a business street. Everyone newspaper that The Plainman has seen carried the story under a banner of editorially pronouncedly displayed it upon page 1.

But let's look ahead a few years—a couple of generations, perhaps. Do you think an airplane dealing death and destruction in a plunge to a city's street will be as big a story as it is today? The Plainman doesn't believe that it will be.

Of course, such an occurrence will be a big story in the community in which it occurs—and also in the surrounding territory. But unless The Plainman misses his guess, such stories will not be of national importance. They will receive little or no attention and display that a serious automobile accident does today.

And here's why. It's not going to be many more years before the airplane and its accompanying accidents, will be as much a part of our life as automobiles, matter-of-fact as automobiles, and their numerous crashes, are today. In other words, the use of airplanes will be usual rather than the unusual thing—and accidents are bound to occur in the operation of anything mechanical.

Which reminds us—what has become of Lubbock's plans to get an airport? A short time after Colonel Lindbergh made his epochal flight from New York to Paris, Lubbock, with the balance of the nation, went "airplane wild." An aero club was formed and plans were so rampant for a port here that at least one plane manufacturing concern sent a salesman and a demonstrator to this city in an effort to interest the local aero club in the purchase of their particular type of machine. The aero club were so excited and plans were so rampant for a port here that at least one plane manufacturing concern sent a salesman and a demonstrator to this city in an effort to interest the local aero club in the purchase of their particular type of machine.

Lubbock will have an airport some day. Of that there is no doubt because Lubbock is going to make a real city and wherever a real city of the future is founded, there also will be an airport. The question of whether or not Lubbock will have an airport is not as important as HOW SOON will Lubbock have that airport.

Commercial aviation has not yet defied its swaddling clothes—but the time for it to step out on one of the world's greatest transportation methods is not far off. The cities which HAVE the airports when air transportation first buds forth as a commercial affair are going to benefit and benefit well. They are going to glean a profit while others are progressive in this line—prepare themselves for later participation.

The Plainman believes that the securing of a recognized airport for Lubbock should be one of the planks of the Board of City Development's platform for a better and better Lubbock. We're going to come to it some day—and we might just as well reap the harvest which will go to other cities which are far-sighted enough to get in on the ground floor.

City Commissioner J. H. Hankins told those present at the annual banquet of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce that Lubbock will soon have a better system of parks than it ever has had—that the members of the commission are turning their attention towards beautifying the city and also toward furnishing well equipped recreation grounds for young and old. The Plainman hopes that nothing comes up to deter the commissioners in this plan of theirs. Carrying it out will mean a great deal to the city of the present—but it will mean still more to the city of the future.

By from that viewpoint, a wild duck, brought to the table, is a very tasty article; but a wild duck in flight over a moor, or swimming on the surface of a wilderness pond, is a thing of beauty, worth saving for its own sake. Why not save our birds for the simple reason that they are a charming part of the outdoor scene—and give the hunters a little rest?

Pitfalls Beset The Average Measure As It Goes On Its Rocky Road Through The Channels Of Congress—Dutcher

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—"Killers" no longer operate from the seamy streets of Manhattan. The agents of thuggery and the boys of the blackjacket brigade may still be recruited from the city's dark spots but they report to generals quartermasters and sergeants in respectable clerks who return to their offices as lawyers, doctors, theatrical managers and bootleggers go to their offices. They walk through the fancy facades of the elevators that flash gold and black lettering on their frosted glass windows.

Once inside the offices they have conferences on such little social matters as the stock-up of a jewelry store, the "bumping off" of someone—or other for a price or the supplying of a crew of skull crushers at a strike, breaking up a strike in the flouring industry that keeps the tills of the thrifty general well filled. Supplying "tough guys" for labor wars is a profitable business. It has been responsible for most of the gang feuds, gang killings and gang fortunes. In between little jobs of strike breaking the racketeers can be kept busy selling out "for such private enterprises as slugging somebody's enemy, "for a price," or engaging in a hold-up or two.

The other night a policeman was slain in Brooklyn while defending a store against half a dozen on stick-up men. When detectives set forth on their roundup, it was not to the dark corners of the tenement they went, but to the lobby of one of the swankiest new buildings in the Times Square belt. Waiting in the lobby, a spotter of "known crooks" counted almost a dozen "police record" men walking nonchalantly by, headed for a double office above—an office that reflected quite as much dignity as any other, an office equipped with a stenographer, telephones, desks and other office appointments.

The same condition now obtains in the world of bootlegging. Addressing his fellows in Washington, Congressman La Guardia stated the other day that one of the nation's most powerful rum kings could be found quartered in a dignified edifice in the Wall Street district. Here, said the congressman, negotiations were entered upon for getting liquor out of government storehouses, bringing endless rivers of beer into Manhattan, and otherwise flirting with the prohibition amendment.

In the world of night-clubdom, a more sinister game is played, though its participants are clad in tuxedos and starched collars. That is, some of them are! Some of their wait in the street, blackjacks ready for instant use. Their signals come from a handsome man in a silk hat, as he steps into a taxicab.

These are the wars of the "inner" tenement, and they are entered upon frequently with the obvious intent of putting some place out of business. It was said that young Roger Wolfe Kahn came in contact with these underworld figures when he stepped innocently into the Broadway scene a year ago with a fashionable and police night club. SWAPPING DOLLARS
If I had a dollar and you have a dollar and we trade, neither is the better off; we still have a dollar apiece—but if I have an idea and you have an idea, and we swap them, we each have two. Every one of these fellows did not walk the first time they tried it. They fell, and tumbled around considerably we imagine before they finally succeeded in making a go of it.

The same might be said of every Chamber of Commerce organization. They all failed the first time, with very few exceptions, and probably several times, but that is no reason that they are not good and useful organizations, and should be put over. No town can get along without some organization to take the lead. Everybody's business is somebody's business, and it is responsible for any town to make progress necessary without they have some sort of organization, and call it a Chamber of Commerce.

Flapper Fanny

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:
AFTER the conference committee agrees on the final form of the bill, it goes back to both House and Senate in its new form. If both houses vote for it the enrolling clerk enrolls it on parchment paper and is signed by both the speaker and the president of the Senate. If the vice president isn't handy, the president pro tem of the Senate can sign it.

The committee on enrolled bills then takes the thing and sends it by a messenger to the White House. Not counting Sundays and holidays, the president has ten days in which to sign it. If he ignores it, it becomes law without his signature. The exception is when Congress has adjourned. Then all bills sent to the White House within ten days of adjournment and remain unsigned are automatically vetoed—this being called a pocket veto. If it is formally vetoed it goes back to Congress with a message stating the presidential objections. If signed, the State Department procures the new law and puts it in the state archives.

Prosecutors Would Aid Condemned Man

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 20 (AP)—Anastacio Vargas, condemned to die for the murder of Mrs. Luisa Garcia and saved temporarily at the last moment by the men, who prosecuted him, was given another chance at life today by the same men when the case was again placed before Governor Moody.

After Vargas' conviction some doubt arose as to the extent of his guilt. His case had already run through the courts and there was no redress in that direction, so Governor Moody was persuaded by prosecutors to reprove him until another trial could be held on a minor charge, growing out of the same offense.

CHICAGO TRADING

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Buying for houses with European and eastern connections lifted wheat prices early today to the highest point since the first part of December. Reports of food scarcity in Russia appeared to be acting as a decided incentive to purchase.

Opening 3-8 1/2 cent to 7-8 cent up, wheat later scored additional gains. Corn rallied with wheat, starting unchanged to 1-2 cent off but subsequently showing a general advance. Oats were firm. Provisions also tended upward.

BOWEN RESIGNS HIS PASTORATE IN CHURCH HERE

After nine years of service in the local pulpit, Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist church, announced his resignation in services at the church yesterday morning. His health and a desire to seek a lower climate were the reasons assigned for the action of Rev. Bowen.

He will leave Lubbock in the near future, he said today, but stated that he had no definite plans to announce other than that he must go to a lower altitude. Next Sunday's services will be his last appearance in the pulpit here, he said.

Rev. Bowen came to Lubbock from Big Spring nine years ago, and has been active in civic work as well as the ministry here until the past year when he was seriously ill for several weeks.

Much Interest In Contest Is Shown

Indicative of a goodly number of entries from Lubbock county in the State Garden Contest, Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent, sent in an order for 750 pounds of Chilean nitrate of soda, a fertilizer to be used in the contest. Saturday night, she said today. The order was based on requests for the substance. The county will have a number of entries in the contest and Miss Baird predicts that the women will make as good showings in their work as the taster farmers have in the past two years.

Finance Companies Upheld In Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Automobile financing companies were sustained today by the supreme court in their contention that they should have an opportunity in the courts to preserve their equity in cars seized while transporting liquor, when the drivers were prosecuted for illegal possession and the possession was incidental to transportation.

COTTON MEET

been able to dictate at what price he will dispose of his crop," the Texan said. "They can only attain that position of prestige which is enjoyed by other industries through cooperation in holding production to a minimum of necessity."

Raps Federal Reports

Gov. Moody devoted considerable of his speech to an attack on the department of agriculture for its cotton reports which he said had a restricting effect on the market and had resulted in losses of over $5,000,000,000 to the growers.

Branding the government's acreage forecasts as "idle guesses" affecting the fortunes of others," Gov. Moody said he was prompted to call the conference when reports emanated from eastern interests of an increase of from seven to ten per cent in cotton acreage during 1928 and the subsequent drop in the market.

Jardine's Removal Asked By Exchange

DALLAS, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Dallas cotton exchange today sent a telegram to Governor Dan Moody of Texas and chief executives of other southern states in a cotton-acreage reduction conference at Jackson, Miss., urging that the meeting to take all possible steps of agriculture, ousted from office. The telegram declared that "the various statements of Mr. Jardine have cost the producer of cotton hundreds of millions of dollars. We believe Mr. Jardine acted beyond any authority vested in him and warrants immediate dismissal from the influential position he holds, and we earnestly urge you to use every effort to bring this about."

Bank Co-Operation Urged By Ousley

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20 (AP)—Co-operation of bankers and merchants, who influence the credit upon which the "cotton-mad" farmer operates, will be necessary for a successful reduction program, Clarence Ousley of Texas said here today at the conference of representatives of states in the old south seeking a solution to over-production.

"If we conclude at this meeting, as I anticipate, that we require a reduction of cotton acreage, then we should do all we humanly can to induce the bankers and credit merchants of each cotton state to assemble immediately and adopt a credit policy based upon reduced or restricted cotton acreage," Ousley said.

Leaders Can't Govern

The leaders of the co-operative organizations and other farm organizations cannot govern cotton acreage. There is not time enough to organize a great public movement such as we had last year. This is a job for those who hold the purse strings. The cotton-minded, cotton-mad, cotton-speculating farmer will not heed the counsel of statesmen or economists. He is amenable to only one influence, and that is the influence of the credit which he must have to operate.

"To produce cotton in 1928 as the sole source of income is unsafe farming; extending credit upon it is unsafe banking and I shall have no sympathy for the farmer or the banker who goes broke on it."

Tariff Adjustment

Legislation is needed to secure an equitable adjustment of tariff rates that will maintain a standard of living for agricultural workers equal to that of industrial workers, Ousley said. But, we also need legislative restraint of the economic theorists of the department of agriculture who "think they can forecast the price of cotton six months in advance."

"The average cotton-minded farmer," Ousley said, "plants to the limit of his bank credit and if he is east of the Mississippi river he prays for a drought in Texas, and if he is west of the Mississippi he prays that a boll weevil will prevail in 'the sticks.' This is downright gambling. It is not even respectable gambling, because the professional gambler would take no such chances as the all-cotton farmer."

Farmer Organization
It is idle to talk of organizing a million cotton farmers to carry a surplus. Co-operative marketing is to be encouraged and it is making progress, but co-operation to that extent is not humanly possible. Whatever merit there may be in other proposals, the only hope of relief is the McNary-Hauger bill for the single and potent reason that no bill is possible without a concert of action between the farmers of the west and the farmers of the south to exercise a balance of power in congress. The farmers of the west are committed to this method of relief and will accept no other. The west is ready to cooperate with us, and we should forget our party prejudices and embrace the opportunity to save what remains of our small fortunes."

Former Official In Corsicana Called

CORSICANA, Feb. 20 (AP)—Judge Hawkins Scarborough of the thirteenth judicial district, today took the witness stand here on a defense motion seeking his disqualification as trial judge for the case seeking removal of J. L. Woods as county attorney, when the case was called.

Formal style of the suit is: State on relation of T. H. Benton et al vs. L. J. Woods, county attorney. Defense attorneys attempted to establish the fact that Judge Scarborough had discussed the case with prosecution attorneys and the grand jury prior to the returning of indictments against Woods, and that he had taken an active part in the investigation prior to the filing of the ouster against Woods.

Denies Allegations
Judge Scarborough denied these allegations from the witness stand, declaring he was neither a political nor a personal enemy of the defendant, and that he had no personal interest in the case.

The defense also attempted to prove that attempts had been made through Judge Scarborough to secure a resignation from Woods on the consideration that the ouster proceedings would be dropped.

Woods recently was indicted by the Navarro county grand jury on six counts and suspended from office. He filed a damage suit of $50,000 against the members of the grand jury, and announced for reelection.

Allen Clark and Joe Brown, assistant attorneys general, are leading the prosecution.

Jazz Age Going

NORTHAMPTON, N. Y.—The popularity of the derby hat is regarded by William Allen Nelson, president of Smith College, whose students are all girls, as an indication that we are reverting to Victorian formalism. "We have turned the corner and are now moving with our backs on the jazz age," he says.

Attitude Changes

NEW YORK—The slogan of theatrical producers has changed from "jazz it up" to "tone it down," says James G. Wallace, assistant district attorney.

Flying Gopher

BELLEAIR, Fla.—A lot of birds should now be expected from a beautiful and clever birdwoman, Glenna Collett recently took a flight over the links at Pinehurst and proceeded to break some record or other on the links there. Now she has flown hither for golf, with Ruth Elder's Captain Haldeman as pilot.

Mailed By Air

NEW YORK—Miss Margaret Bartlett is planning to mail herself from Hadley Field, N. J. to San Francisco via air. She hopes to fly from coast to coast in 22 hours with a stop at Reno to see her father, Superior Judge George A. Bartlett.

Downward Scale

NEW YORK—Latest quotations on Lindbergh's autographed photographs are $110 and $100. They were sold here for charity in France. The price has gone down quite a bit. The first sold in France for $6,000 francs.

Mother To Rescue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The arrest of Paul Marye, fugitive postmaster of Arlington, Va., has revealed that his mother, Mrs. Annie C. Marye, 65, went to work when he vanished three years ago and repaid $1,000 which he had taken from postal funds.

Helm Is Called To Trial At Eastland

EASTLAND, Feb. 20 (AP)—Henry Helms, charged with robbery by firearms, December 23 of the First National bank of Cisco, was brought to trial here today in the auditorium of the city hall. Although there was a special venire of 250 men on hand with the prospect that calling the list would consume most of the morning, a large crowd sifted into the building. The auditorium of the city hall is larger than the court room in the old courthouse where the trial of Marshall Radliff was held.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—New examinations will be required in all prohibition districts except two or three before a full prohibition personnel can be obtained under the civil service requirements.

The fatalities in the civil service examinations have been extremely heavy. Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today and until new examinations are called, the civil service commission has agreed to permit temporary appointments.

Part Of Jewelry Loot Found Today

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20 (AP)—Pinning of gold wrist watch bands valued at $150 near Handley gave impetus today to the hunt for three young men who it is believed switched trunk and robbed Joe Optican, New York jewelry salesman, of unmounted gems and jewelry valued at approximately $60,000. The trunks were switched somewhere between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth Friday night, or Saturday.

The jewelry yesterday was found by the small son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Webb at the side of the road near Handley where it evidently had been thrown out of an automobile in which the thieves were riding. About $3,000 worth of jewelry and two jewel cases were recovered in a Dallas hotel Saturday. Two men who had registered in the room in which it was located failed to return.

Boy Breaks Arm In Old Time Cob War

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the story "The Jazz Singer" Starring Al Jolson.
Copyright, 1927, by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Sabinowitz has trained his son, Jakie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the synagogue. On the eve of the day of atonement, he finds Jakie singing ragtime in a "beehive garden." He whips the child and Jakie runs away. Ten years later, Jakie, now Jack Robbins, a jazz singer, down on his hands and knees, begs for help from his father, who is a miserly old man in the New York Ghetto. The Cantor still refuses to read his son, refusing to read his name, but his wife deprecates the idea of their only child. White City Chicago theater.

The silver curtain stage worked in feverish activity during the next scene. Backed by tall, white brick walls, like the tower of Babel, rose toward a sky domed by inch wide iron staves, clouded by painted canvas, swinging from long ropes. Starred by pendulous sandbags, these figures of earth moved silently with the precision of a Ballet Mechanique. In the semi-larkness long shadows wavered amid the gaudy lines, until the air was filled with writhing undulations as if the shadows of the Brooklyn bridge seen of a misty evening.

As the curtain fell the house orchestra jazzed into a rousing air. The audience still called. Up went the curtain and Mary Dale took her bow, gathering the lavender rain-roy of tinsel closely about her. As she bowed she could see standing in the wings the black face and great, painted lips of Jack Robin. With his white cotton gloved hands, too, was showering his congratulations. Again and again the house lights went up and down on the curtain call.

As she took another bow Mary turned in the wings to face Jack Robin. They smiled, gazed into each other's eyes. A strange content that they made to work. The blonde coloring of the girl, accentuated by the dark mascara on her eyes and the lavender of her costume that reflected some of its lights on her shell-pink arms and neck. The black oiliness of the negro make-up on the boy's face; the little white line revealing the skin of the forehead where, on the stage, the curly black wig had covered it. But so accustomed were they to seeing each other in this guise of the theater that the sight did not strike them as at all incongruous.

"I don't know what I'd do, Jack. It isn't worth the encouragement you give me," Mary laughed up at black face before her, a little smile, a little provocative. "But I love to watch you dance." She attempted to ease his presence in the wings, realizing that he was laughing at him.

"Well, it's something to know that someone appreciates your work," Mary resumed the conversation where they had left off. "But her words embarrassed Jack and a little during the time they had been traveling together he had never once forced his attention on the girl. They had been good companions in fair weather and foul. Mary appreciated Jack's reserve, but she knew, too, with the innate consciousness of every woman, that it was her duty to ease his presence in the wings, realizing that he was laughing at him.

Mary smiled and pushed Jack toward the dressing rooms. "Open up and dress," she told him, opening her own door. "I've got something to show you as soon as I get out of this make-up, but hurry off, or change, but before several of the chorus depending their way up the circular staircase to the dressing room on the balcony had noticed them together and had caught Jack's frank avowal of interest in Mary. They entered the dressing room, began unhooking their buttons and slipping out of their costumes.

"He sure is goofy about her," nodded a short, plump brunette who had recently joined the show. "Lassie, babe, we got that before. Hush was a pup, put in a tall, red haired girl who affected a pale make-up. He's been cheering from the side lines ever since we left 'Prisco."

"Ta-dee-da-de... Ta de-e-da-dee," the plump brunette hummed the opening bars of the Wedding March. "Aw, he ain't go a chance," interrupted a fuzzy haired peroxide blonde, carefully drawing on a pair of sheer silk stockings. "I should tell the world not," the red haired girl added. "No 'mammy' singer for Mary. She's got brains, she has."

"Pipe down, you two," screamed the peroxide blonde, "and give me a chance at that rag." She snatched the make-up cloth from the slim girl. And Mary and Jack were forgotten for the moment. Down stairs Jack was sitting before his dressing table creaming his face and removing the grease paint. Beside him, energetically rubbing his chubby features, sat Buster Billings, who had, as he hoped, caught up with the show, and because of their old friendship the two were still dressing together and sharing the same mirror. Jack was dreaming forgetfully of Mary. After a while he turned on his chair and looked at his friend. "I wonder what it was Mary had to show me, Buster," he questioned thoughtfully. "Can't imagine. Maybe it's an engagement ring," Buster teased. Jack's heart stopped beating for an entire second and then leaped frantically into his mouth. Then he caught the levity in Buster's wide grin and he smiled, but it was not a particularly successful attempt at merriment. "Oh, it could hardly be that. Not that I'd blame anybody for being so foolish," Jack blundered helplessly. "But you know what I mean, Buster. But Mary's so interested in her work, and—and—" He looked frantically at his friend for help and assurance. "Aw, was only jokin', Jack," Buster rose to hand up his costume. He came and laid a friendly arm across the singer's shoulder. "But you'd better forget her, kid. She's wrapped up in her career—you said it. An' you got a chance for Broadway yourself if you keep goin'."

Jack sighed and turned away. He felt that what Buster had said was true—still, that didn't keep him from dreaming his dreams; it didn't keep the ache out of his heart; it couldn't paralyze those sharp little needles that ran up and down his spine each time he looked at Mary. He changed from his ludicrous costume into a street suit. "I'm just going to see Mary for a few minutes, Buster. I'll be right back," he called, closing the dressing room door. He walked along the passage and knocked at the door of dressing room number one. "Come on in, a little fearful of what he might be going to hear, and yet anxious to hear it that he might relieve himself of his anxiety. Mary's eyes were shining and she was humming a little tune. "Look, Jack. Read that!" She picked up a telegram from her dressing room table and handed it over. Jack took it and opened it mechanically. Then his eyes, too, brightened. (To be Continued)

Pipers Who Went Overseas With Legion Are Biggest Hit Of The Year In Paris

The Hamm brothers, from Watsonville, Calif., are pictured entertaining children at an American Legion party in Paris. Billie is the cornetist and Emil plays the accordion.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS NEA Service Writer

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Although nearly all of the American legionnaires who attended the convention here last September have managed to get back home, two of their most picturesque members are still here, and they are still making a big hit.

These two are the Hamm brothers, Billie and Emil, the "Cowboy Musicians" from Watsonville, Calif. Wearing their big sombreros and dressed in their vivid cowboy clothes, with riding boots and spurs, they have become familiar figures around the streets, but they always attract attention. Paris is blasé about strange visitors, for men come here from many lands and often wear weird garments, but the touch of western atmosphere about the Hamm brothers remains a novelty.

Billie plays an elongated cornet, which he straps over his shoulders. The pair was a knockout in the legion parade and now they are much in demand here as entertainers. They are called to all sorts of functions, have played to the war wounded in the Invalides, at swanky dinners and banquets and in popular cafes.

Children follow them about, eyeing with astonishment the ugly but harmless "gat" that Billie wears in the approved cowboy fashion at his hip. At night they are usually to be found at Johnny's American bar and restaurants, near the opera, which is popular with American war veterans now resident here. Johnny of Rochester, N. Y., being a seasoned veteran himself.

No puns are permissible about the family of these cowboy musicians, for they play very well and within a few minutes can start everybody in a place dancing. They are both husky, and Emil particularly likes to engage in feats of strength, at which he is expert.

WORK STARTED ON NAVAL BILL BY COMMITTEE

ONE EXCEPTION IS SEEN TO RECOMMENDATION GIVEN BY WILBUR

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Having heard a great deal of testimony for and against the administration's proposed $740,000,000 naval construction program, the house naval committee is prepared to begin drafting the necessary legislation to put before the house.

Prediction that the committee would follow the recommendations of Secretary Wilbur except in one respect, was made last night by Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking Republican on the committee. In his opinion the committee will include in the bill provision for 25 cruisers to replace 22 obsolete craft; five aircraft carriers and 35 submarines.

One Exception Seen The one exception in prospect concerns the Secretary Wilbur's recommendation for nine destroyer leaders. Britten said they might be left out of the bill because there remain 12 destroyers authorized under the 1916 program, and these might be converted to the leader class later if the navy desires and when the treasury balance will permit.

Representative Britten said he did not believe that fixing of a time limit for laying down of some of the ships would meet with serious opposition by President Coolidge, and he suggested that such a limit might be established in the bill for ten or fifteen of the cruisers and one or two of the aircraft carriers.

Not Up to British Completion of the new cruisers in 1936, British said, would give the United States only 330,000 tons of 8-inch gun cruisers against the British proposal of the Geneva Arms conference of 500,000 tons, and that 35 submarines to replace the old ones would aggregate 9,000 tons less than the 93,365 tons now in that type of craft. Britten characterized the program as "almost entirely a replacement one."

Representative Howard, Democrat, Nebraska, also issued a statement opposing the naval program, declaring it constituted a "most serious military challenge" and "serves notice that the United States government is not in sympathy with the sentiment of civilized humanity."

Power Of Public Opinion Stressed GENEVA, Feb. 20 (AP)—What they saw as the power of American public opinion forcing the government to reduce its naval program was the subject of much comment here among delegates to the international committee of security which convened today. Commenting on dispatches from America, the delegates said there was no reason why the American move, which they said sprang from the people, should not spread over Europe and prove a potent force in causing statesmen to prune ambitious armament projects.

Disarmament Urgent Another element which tended to spur members of the commission in their labors was a communication from the international peace bureau declaring that disarmament was the most urgent problem before the world.

Alluding to the American initiative in proposing the outlawry of war and the abolishing of submarines, the communication declared reduction of international naval forces was imperative and that all conflicts should be submitted first to conciliation and, this failing, to compulsory arbitration. "Only by this means can security of the peoples be achieved," it said.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cromolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cromolium is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Cromolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Cromolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EVOLUTION IS LOSER IN FUSS OVER BIG TUSK

MUCH-PATCHED TOOTH CLAIMED MOLAR OF SPECIES OF PIG

(By Associated Press)
 NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—A much-patched "million dollar tooth," hailed by the American Museum of Natural History as proof that a forerunner of man lived in Nebraska, has now been identified by the museum as the molar of an extinct species of wild pig.

The retraction has been made by Professor William K. Gregory of the museum after discovery of several similar teeth in the same locality in association with the remains of a prosthennope or extinct peccary.

Found in 1922
 The tooth was found in a riverbed in 1922 by Harold J. Cook, a Nebraska geologist. It was subjected to every test known to the February, 1925, bulletin of the museum said, and every suggestion made by scientific skeptics was weighed and found wanting.

The tooth, which often was thrown up to William Jennings Bryan in the course of the evolution controversy because it came from his home state, got its name "million dollar tooth" from an incident in the laboratory where it was being X-rayed.

As Professor Gregory handed it to an assistant who was to make the pictures he said:
 "Now be careful, that tooth is worth a million dollars."

The assistant, flustered, dropped the tooth to the tiled floor. It broke into many pieces, but these were picked up and cemented together and the X-raying and the controversy went on.

The tooth was known as the Hesperopithecus, Harold Cook, the latter name in honor of the geologist who found it. The molar closely resembled that of a known tooth of Pithecanthropus, the Java apeman.

Scores of learned and popular magazine articles were written about it, sermons were preached against the tooth and it was an arsenal of ammunition for the evolutionists in their war with the fundamentalists of the churches. The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton and Billy Sunday were among those who scoffed at the million-dollar molar.

Levine Flight Is Again Postponed

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The long-delayed flight of Charles A. Levine, either to Havana or for the endurance record, has been postponed again.

Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the Columbia for its proposed flight, announced early today that the soft condition of the runway at Roosevelt Field, L. I., would make a hop-off with a maximum gas load impossible today. He said, however, he would test the plane with a normal load.

Levine and Stultz had been hoping for frozen ground which would enable them to take off at least with enough gasoline to make the Havana flight. If they had come to Havana, Miss "Mabel Bell," the "Queen of Diamonds," had intended to go along.

Laborers In Japan Given First Vote

TOKYO, Feb. 20.—Thousands of rickshaw pullers voted today for the first time in Japanese history.

Most polling places were crowded in the first national election under the full manhood suffrage act which gave some 2,000,000 additional persons the right to vote.

The weather was bright and sunny and therefore favorable to a huge turnout. Strong police guards were maintained everywhere.

Laborer and rickshaw puller cast their votes the same as the proud descendant of the ancient Samurai. The last national election was limited to taxpayers and only 3,000,000 persons were entitled to vote. Today any sane male citizen 25 years of age, who had resided in one place for a year previously, who was not dependent upon the state for support, who never had been convicted of a felony and who could read and write could cast a ballot.

Arms Parley Opens At Geneva Today

GENEVA, Feb. 20.—The official drive which has as its goal reduction of armaments began vigorously at Geneva today when Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia opened the session of the special international committee on security. He sketched the existing situation in regard to international security and outlined his hopes for the future.

The session brought many delegates prominent in League of Nations activities, including M. Paul-Boncour of France, Lord Cusden of Great Britain, B. O. Unden of Sweden, General De Marins of Italy and Viscount Saito of Japan. Boris Stein, a studious looking bespectacled Russian, was present as observer for the Soviet government.

LOCAL RESERVE OFFICERS WILL MEET THURSDAY

Every one of the 20 or 25 members of the Reserve Officers association of Lubbock—in fact, every reserve officer, whether he be a member of the local unit or not—will be urged to attend a reorganization meeting of the association Thursday night in the Temple Ellis building basement, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

That was the announcement made here today by Lieut. H. E. Killin, head of the department of military science at Texas Tech, and a member of the Lubbock association. According to Lieutenant Killin the Thursday meeting will be short and will be given over largely to reorganization of the association and the laying of plans for future activities.

Captain Clark M. Mullican is president of the association.

Negroes Pay With Lives For Murder

BELLEFONTE Pa., Feb. 20.—Two negro murderers, both from Philadelphia, were executed in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary today.

Frank Edward Lockett went to the chair for the murder of a Philadelphia policeman. Frank Arnold was executed for the killing of his common law wife.

Proposal Is Made To Former Husband

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Edna Davenport Tinney, prior to leaving for Hollywood where she expects to make her future home, has revealed that she has assumed the leap year prerogative and proposed to her former husband, Frank Tinney, one-time popular black-face comedian.

Mrs. Tinney, who was granted a divorce in March, 1926, said she has written to her former husband at Philadelphia, where he is convalescing at the home of his father, inviting him to go west with her.

"It's leap year," she said, "so I suppose I have a right to propose to Frank. In 1910 he begged me to marry him."

Mrs. Tinney is taking west with her 10-year-old son, Frank Tinney, Jr., whom she says is quite willing she marry again as long as she marries his father.

Colorado Miners To Return To Work

DENVER, Feb. 20.—The striking miners of Colorado voted 9 to 1 Sunday to return to work pending the decision of the state industrial commission now conducting an inquiry into conditions in the coal fields.

The strike was called Oct. 18, 1927, and tied up the industry several weeks. During the time eight strikers were killed in battles with police.

Six Japanese Die In Smuggle Effort

TOKYO, Feb. 20.—The bodies of six Japanese who attempted to smuggle themselves into America were found today in the hold of the Yahiko Maru, which arrived from Seattle, Wash., Friday.

The ship's cook confessed to hiding them in the hold on Dec. 20 when the Yahiko sailed for Seattle. From later the men left it was believed suffocated before the ship, Yokohama after which the co-charge frightened and kept death secret until the ship returned to Japan.
