TALK ORGANIZATION

Davis Plans To Spend Short Vacation With Others Complying

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Before leaving late tonight for what he hoped would be a quiet week-end at his country house at Locust Valley, Long Island, John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, put in a busy day, receiving a continuous procession of callers, among them William G. McAdoo, Governor Smith and Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee.

After an hour's conference alone with Mr. Davis, Mr. McAdoo said he had called simply to pay his respects to the nominee, whom he had known for many years. When asked whether he would support Davis and Bryan, the Californian replied: "I'll deal with that question in a statement that I shall issue before I sail for Europe tomorrow if I can find time to prepare it."

Mc-Leader Favorable

Simultaneously with Mr. McAdoo's call at the house of Frank L. Polk, where Mr. Davis spent the day, David Ladd Rockwell, who had charge of Mr. McAdoo's campaign for the nomination, made public at a hotel a letter to Mr. Davis in which Mr. Rockwell pledged his support and asserted that no candidate ever had a clearer title to a nomination than Mr. Davis. Mr. Rockwell told correspondents that it was inconceivable to him that Mr. McAdoo should decline to give his support to his successful rival.

Though Mr. Davis discussed party organization, especially the selection of a national chairman and campaign manager, with Mr. Hull and George White of Ohio, who had charge of the Cox campaign in 1920, he reached no decision as to the choice of a democratic field marshal for the forthcoming campaign.

Old Friend Present

Mr. Hull said after his visit to the nominee that he would not continue as national chairman after the opening of the campaign and Mr. White said he thought it very unlikely that he would again take charge. Clem Shaver, Fairmont, West Virginia, a resident of the nominee's home town and an old friend of the family, who by reason of his being a member of the Davis club of Clarksburg that launched the Davis boom had been considered a possible chairman, spent a large part of the day with Mr. Davis.

The nominee so far has been receiving suggestions from these and other leaders, but probably will not make a choice until next week.

Many Callers

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy; George Brennan, Chicago leader; David Hunter Miller, a member of the legal advisory staff of the peace commission; Herbert C. Pell, New York state chairman; Hollins Randolph, chairman of the Georgia convention delegation; John S. Cohen, Georgia national committeeman and publisher of the Atlanta Journal, and J. B. Cotton a son of Mr. McAdoo's law partner, were others who paid more than perfunctory visits to Mr. Davis.

After selecting a national chairman and arranging for the notification ceremony, Mr. Davis hopes to be able to turn the machinery of party affairs over to his manager long enough to take a vacation of perhaps two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson today invited Mr. and Mrs. Davis to visit them at their summer home at Isleboro, Maine, for this interim, and the nominee will accept if he can clear up organization problems by the end of next week.

When the Davis motor car drove up amid the hedges, trees and flower gardens of his Long Island home tonight, the nominee stepped out hoping to associate chiefly with golf sticks and books for a couple of days.

Among the hundreds of congratulatory messages received by Mr. Davis today, was one from Lady Nancy Astor which said: "There will be only one better day, and that is the day you win."

MacDonald and Herriot Finish Paper On Conference

SAYS NOT BINDING

Frenchman Says He Will Depend On Allied Equity

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, July 11.—The joint text drawn up in Paris by Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot during their interview in connection with the interlallied London conference represents all the progress that has been made up to the present time, according to France and Great Britain, the premier declared before the senate today, explaining his negotiations with the British prime minister.

He said the Chequers interview bound neither country.

Senator Dausset, who preceded M. Herriot, declared that the Dawes plan surely reduced Germany's debt to the allies, and that France consequently was justified in asking a reduction of her inter-allied war debt. He asked the premier if he was taking steps in that direction and also whether he his interview an early funding of the war debts without which the stability of the French currency was impossible.

Equity Is Appeal.

M. Herriot answered that he was powerless on the question of the war debts and could only appeal to the spicit of equity of the allies, which he had done at Chequers. He agreed with Senator Dausset that it was impossible to stabilize French currency before the debts, which were hanging over the country, were disposed of. But he added that he had no other means of action than repetition of the argument that in the common fight into which the allies had put their resources in common, France was the heaviest loser.

FIRE DAMAGES LOCAL BAKERY

Nafziger Establishment Is Scene of Blaze Early Saturday

Fire over one of the ovens in the Nafziger bakery between Tenth street and Eleventh street this morning about 1 o'clock succeeded in attracting as much attention as a large conflagration, although little damage was done, and the fire was quickly extinguished by firemen from both stations who answered the call.

Tarviated roofing backed with oil soaked pine boards was ignited, it is supposed from an overpeated oven, and due to the confinement of the flames caused more smoke than fire. The smoke spread and covered the whole section of the city before the flames were seen and the alarm turned in.

Bread being cooked was removed from the ovens. Damage was slight although there was no estimate made last night, nothing but a small portion of the roof above the oven being burned. It was not believed this morning that the ovens would be thrown entirely out of commission.

San Antonio Seizure of Single Bottle Brings Big Haul

Ranger Captain Says Big Conspiracy Now Exists

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 11.—Starting with a one-quart bottle of liquor in San Antonio as a clue, arrest of a dozen persons in a giant liquor conspiracy case extending from New Orleans to North Texas and beyond is expected to take place, according to prediction of Capt. B. C. Baldwin, state ranger, here tonight.

Seize Steamship.

Claud A. Keenan, wealthy Victoria county ranchman, was arrested Friday at Victoria and arraigned before the United States commissioner on charges of violating the tariff act of 1922 and the prohibition act. Filing of complaints against him followed the seizure of the steamship Olga at Port Lavaca, Texas, Thursday suspected of having participated in the liquor trade.

Two other men also were arrested at Victoria late Friday, Captain Baldwin reported.

Quart Uncovers Plot.

The uncovering of the conspiracy was made possible by the seizure of a quart of liquor in a San Antonio home, where later an entire truck load of goods was captured by state rangers. The load, more than 300 quarts of bonded liquor, was hidden under camping equipment.

Two hundred and thirty-five quarts of bonded goods labeled "shoe polish" was seized at another location by the rangers.

Anderson, who received a one to two year term, will be eligible for release on December 24.

'Stoo Bad For Women Registered In Blue Book As "Masculine Type"

By The Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, July 11.—Page the court of international justice—Mexico is in collusion with Parisian modistes.

This is indicated from a ruling, disclosed today. Mexico, the land of the chile bean and the bull fight, does not approve of women wearing men's trousers.

The secret came out when Mexican officials refused to permit a party of tourists to cross the international bridge because some of the women in the party were wearing men's knickers.

Entreaties were of no avail, international law, though cited, was useless, and—the knickerbockered women remained in America.

Abused Her Cruelly On Stage, Says Wife of Actor Schildkraut

CHICAGO, Jul 11.—He took advantage of the fact that they were playing on the stage and cruelly abused her every night and two afternoons a week, avows Elsie Bartlett, who is preparing to file suit for a divorce against Joseph Schildkraut, famed stage and movie hero.

They have been married two years. Lately they have been appearing together in "The Highwayman." Schildkraut, who first won stardom in Europe, is noted in this country for his playing of the thuggish hero in "Lilliom," and for romantic roles on the silverscreen.

Friends say there will be a reconciliation, but Schildkraut denies it. All he has to say is this:

"I love my wife and always shall. And I repeat now that there can be no reconciliation. Can a headless man be rebended? Can a reconciliation take place when there has been no friction?"

36TH N. G. IN SECOND REVIEW

Galveston Cheers 5,000 Troops Commended By Officers

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 11.—Five thousand Galvestonians greeted the citizen soldier of the Thirty-sixth division encamped at Fort Crockett as they marched in review past the commanding officer, Major General John A. Hulen of Houston, and his staff officers. Mayor Baylis E. Harriss, stood on the reviewing line as the guest of General Hulen and his staff. After the last unit had marched past, Mayor Harriss paid a stirring tribute to the Texas national guard.

"I have never seen a finer and more spiendid body of men," said Mayor Harriss. "Such a scene as I have just witnessed, makes us feel proud of the fact that I am an American and especially that I am a Texan."

Favorable

General Hulen and his staff officers were very pleased with the condition and the appearance of the men. "Very good," said General Hulen, "the men are doing fine. They are whipping into shape in a manner that meets all of my expectations."

Work—Play?

The review, the second of the Thirty-sixth division since the guardsmen established encampment here last Saturday, came as a climax to a day spent by the guardsmen in hard work. Setting-up started today's work, and, after breakfast, the men fell into their regular drills. While the One Hundred Forty-fourth infantry, commanded by Colonel Holman Taylor of Fort Worth, was shooting on the rifle range, the other regiments were studying combat principles, and the One Hundred Eleventh engineers devoted their efforts to trench building, demolition, bridge building, barbed wire entanglements and map work.

Thus the whole 36th division is getting its training, each outfit doing its own particular work.

Maneuvers Planned

Next week, regimental and brigade and division maneuvers will be staged. Plans for these manouvers are being worked out by Major L. W. Bryan and Captain George D. Sears, of General Hulen's staff. It is expected that these maneuvers will attract large crowds of Galvestonians, this being the first time the 36th division had maneuvered as a division since its return from France.

Athletics Sick.

The schedule of training is so tight that there is very little time for any extensive program of athletics, Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, said.

FOREST FIRES IN TWO STATES

Montana And Idaho Conflagrations Out Of Control

By The Associated Press.

MISSOULA, Montana, July 11.—With flames sweeping over thousands of acres of forest lands in western Montana and northern Idaho and high winds fanning them beyond all established control lines, forest service crews today feared the worst forest fire situation in years in this district. Extremely low humidity has increased the fire menace, they said.

Brief reports from forest supervisors to district hearquarters of the forest service here told of three large fires in the Kootenai forest with 262 men fighting them. The Smith creek fire in the Pend Oreille forest jumped the control lines and is spreading rapidly in the high winds. Forty men were sent to fight another blaze in the forest.

Eighteen hundred acres have been burned over by the Dear Creek fire in the Neperce forest which tripled in size overnight. There is no relief in sight from weather condition, forestry officials said.

McAdoo Breaks His Silence For Crowd at Theatre

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—William Gibbs McAdoo who has been more or less non-committal as to the course he would pursue during the presidential campaign when speaking to newspaper men was induced to break his silence tonight by Will Rodgers from the stage of the Follies at the New Amsterdam theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo were in the audience and when the comedian, with his usual raillery pointed Mr. McAdoo out, there was an outburst of applause and the Californian was finally brought to his feet and made the following statement:

"I am leaving for Europe with my family tomorrow for a little diversion but now that the convention is over we must all get together and make sure that we elect a democrat."

Both actor and candidate were given an ovation following the announcement.

GRAND JURORS HEAR STORY OF BRUTAL CRIME

Black Implicates Self and Accomplice in Boy's Death

OFFICERS SKEPTICAL

Not Satisfied With Present Status of the Case

Purported statements of J. D. Thomas, negro, in which he implicates another negro as the actual slayer have been obtained by the grand jury as a step in what may lead to a complete solution of the murder of Wesley Ashmore.

Negro Spirited Away.

Thomas and the other negro, who flatly denies his accuser's tale, are now in jail in a nearby county. They are scheduled for further questioning in an effort to clear up a number of points which, it is frankly admitted, cast considerable doubt on the veracity of their admissions.

The confessions, which came with stunning suddenness Friday afternoon, were first made at the constable's office and later reduced to writing in the grand jury room. The negro who is making the accusations, has been in the constable's custody since 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He was taken to the officer by a white man to whom he had made a remark concerning the attack on Ashmore and the robbery of the C. G. Johnson cash register.

Constantly Grilled.

Since that time he has been grilled constantly in the constable's office, at the scene of the attack, at a secluded spot in the country at once, for a short time, in the morgue where the lifeless form of the boy victim lay. The break is said to have come early Friday afternoon and to have been made complete by intensive questioning by Constable Morgan, District Attorney James V. Allred and State Ranger Aldredge.

His story is decidedly incriminating; it links him with the man he accuses of the actual murder; it makes him an accessory to the crime, and yet it is not being accepted at its full face value.

Second Negro Reticent.

The negro branded as the slayer has told a story that weakens, in part at least, the evidence against him. He has not been grilled at any great length, however, since it was deemed best to get him out of the county when it became known that such damaging evidence had been procured. In the few brief periods in which he has been under surveillance, though, he has not admitted anything and has vehemently denied the accusations.

What actually happened last Tuesday afternoon in the Johnson cold drink stand on Ninth street is still being held a secret. It was related in substance to Record News reporters last night with the understanding that it not be printed, and in this connection it was declared that the grand jury was prepared to resume today its investigation of other angles of the case.

Others Being Held.

Two other negroes, in no way connected with Thomas and his supposed accomplice, are still being held in the county jail. A white youth, one of the two arrested at midnight Thursday in connection with the case, is also be-

ANGLO-FRENCH AGREEMENT IS PROGRESS TEXT

MacDonald and Herriot Finish Paper On Conference

SAYS NOT BINDING

Frenchman Says He Will Depend On Allied Equity

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, July 11.—The joint text drawn up in Paris by Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot during their interview in connection with the interlallied London conference represents all the progress that has been made up to the present time, according to France and Great Britain, the premier declared before the senate today, explaining his negotiations with the British prime minister.

He said the Chequers interview bound neither country.

Senator Dausset, who preceded M. Herriot, declared that the Dawes plan surely reduced Germany's debt to the allies, and that France consequently was justified in asking a reduction of her inter-allied war debt. He asked the premier if he was taking steps in that direction and also whether he his interview an early funding of the war debts without which the stability of the French currency was impossible.

Equity is Appeal.

M. Herriot answered that he was powerless on the question of the war debts and could only appeal to the spirit of equity of the allies, which he had done at Chequers. He agreed with Senator Dausset that it was impossible to stabilize French currency before the debts, which were hanging over the country, were disposed of. But he added that he had no other means of action than repetition of the argument that in the common fight into which the allies had put their resources in common, France was the heaviest loser.

Poincare Points at U. S.

Senator Raymond Poincare, former premier, interrupting, said that the Americans when they were ready to ask for payment of the sum owing to them would surely propose arrangements running over a considerable number of years "and as long as we continue to pay. Germany must be made to continue to pay us."

FIRE DAMAGES LOCAL BAKERY

Nafziger Establishment Is Scene of Blaze Early Saturday

Fire over one of the ovens in the Nafziger bakery between Tenth street and Eleventh street this morning about 1 o'clock succeeded in attracting as much attention as a large conflagration, although little damage was done, and the fire was quickly extinguished by firemen from both stations who answered the call.

Tarviated roofing backed with oil soaked pine boards was ignited, it is supposed from an overheated oven, and due to the confinement of the flames caused more smoke than fire. The smoke spread and covered the whole section of the city before the flames were seen and the alarm turned in.

Bread being cooked was removed from the ovens. Damage was slight although there was no estimate made last night, nothing but a small portion of the roof above the oven being burned. It was not believed this morning that the ovens would be thrown entirely out of commission.

Ranger Captain Says Big Conspiracy Now Exists

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 11.—Starting with a one-quart bottle of liquor in San Antonio as a clue, arrest of a dozen persons in a giant liquor conspiracy case extending from New Orleans to North Texas and beyond is expected to take place, according to prediction of Capt. B. C. Baldwin, state ranger, here tonight.

Seize Steamship.

Claud A. Keenan, wealthy Victoria county ranchman, was arrested Friday at Victoria and arraigned before the United States commissioner on charges of violating the tariff act of 1922 and the prohibition act. Filing of complaints against him followed the seizure of the steamship Olga at Port Lavaca, Texas, Thursday suspected of having participated in the liquor trade.

Two other men also were arrested at Victoria late Friday, Captain Baldwin reported.

Quart Uncovers Plot.

The uncovering of the conspiracy was made possible by the seizure of a quart of liquor in a San Antonio home, where later an entire truck load of goods was captured by state rangers. The load, more than 300 quarts of bonded liquor, was hidden under camping equipment.

Two hundred and thirty-five quarts of bonded goods labeled "shoe polish" was seized at another location by the rangers.

Friends say there will be reconciliation, but Schildkraut denies it. All he has to say is this:

"I love my wife and always shall. And I repeat now that there can be no reconciliation. Can a heedless man be reheeded? Can a reconciliation take place when there has been no friction?"

36TH N. G. IN SECOND REVIEW

Galveston Cheers 5,000 Troops Commended By Officers

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 11.—Five thousand Galvestonians greeted the citizen soldier of the Thirty-sixth division encamped at Fort Crockett as they marched in review past the commanding officer, Major General John A. Hulen of Houston, and his staff officers. Mayor Baylis E. Harriss, stood on the reviewing line as the guest of General Hulen and his staff. After the last unit had marched past, Mayor Harriss paid a stirring tribute to the Texas national guard.

"I have never seen a finer and more splendid body of men," said Mayor Harriss. "Such a scene as I have just witnessed, makes us feel proud of the fact that I am an American and especially that I am a Texan."

Favorable

General Hulen and his staff officers were very pleased with the condition and the appearance of the men. "Very good," said General Hulen, "the men are doing fine. They are whipping into shape in a manner that meets all of my expectations."

Work—Play?

The review, the second of the Thirty-sixth division since the guardsmen established encampment here last Saturday, came as a climax to a day spent by the guardsmen in hard work. Setting-up started today's work, and, after breakfast, the men fell into their regular drills. While the One Hundred Forty-fourth infantry, commanded by Colonel Holman Taylor of Fort Worth, was shooting on the rifle range, the other regiments were studying combat principles, and the One Hundred Eleventh engineers devoted their efforts to trench building, demolition, bridge building, barbed wire entanglements and map work.

Thus the whole 36th division is getting its training, each outfit doing its own particular work.

Maneuvers Planned

Next week, regimental and brigade and division maneuvers will be staged. Plans for these maneuvers are being worked out by Major L. W. Bryan and Captain George D. Sears, of General Hulen's staff. It is expected that these maneuvers will attract large crowds of Galvestonians, this being the first time the 36th division had maneuvered as a division since its return from France.

Athletics Slok.

The schedule of training is so tight that there is very little time for any extensive program of athletics, Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, said.

GRAND JURORS HEAR STORY OF BRUTAL CRIME

Black Implicates Self and Accomplice in Boy's Death

OFFICERS SKEPTICAL

Not Satisfied With Present Status of the Case

Purported statements of J. H. Thomas, negro, in which he implicated another negro as the actual slayer have been obtained by the grand jury as a step in what may lead to a complete solution of the murder of Wesley Ashmore.

Negro Spirited Away.

Thomas and the other negro, who flatly denies his accuser's tale, are now in jail in a nearby county. They are scheduled for further questioning in an effort to clear up a number of points which, it is frankly admitted, cast considerable doubt on the veracity of their admissions.

The confessions, which came with stunning suddenness Friday afternoon, were first made at the constable's office and later reduced to writing in the grand jury room. The negro who is making the accusations, has been in the constable's custody since 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He was taken to the officer by a white man to whom he had made a remark concerning the attack on Ashmore and the robbery of the C. G. Johnson cash register.

Constantly Grilled.

Since that time he has been grilled constantly in the constable's office, at the scene of the attack, at a secluded spot in the country at once, for a short time, in the morgue where the lifeless form of the boy victim lay. The break is said to have come early Friday afternoon and to have been made complete by intensive questioning by Constable Morgan, District Attorney James V. Allred and State Ranger Aldredge.

His story is decidedly incriminating; it links him with the man he accuses of the actual murder; it makes him an accessory to the crime, and yet it is not being accepted at its full face value.

Second Negro Reticent.

The negro branded as the slayer has told a story that weakens, in part at least, the evidence against him. He has not been grilled at any great length, however, since it was deemed best to get him out of the county when it became known that such damaging evidence had been procured. In the few brief periods in which he has been under surveillance, though, he has not admitted anything and has vehemently denied the accusations.

What actually happened last Tuesday afternoon in the Johnson cold drink stand on Ninth street is still being held a secret. It was related in substance to Record News reporters last night with the understanding that it not be printed, and in this connection it was declared that the grand jury was prepared to resume today its investigation of other angles of the case.

Others Being Held.

Two other negroes, in no way connected with Thomas and his supposed accomplice, are still being held in the county jail. A white youth, one of the two arrested at midnight Thursday in connection with the crime, is also be-

FOREST FIRES IN TWO STATES

Montana And Idaho Conflagrations Out Of Control

By The Associated Press.

MISSOULA, Montana, July 11.—With flames sweeping over thousands of acres of forest lands in western Montana and northern Idaho and high winds fanning them beyond all established control lines, forest service crews today feared the worst forest fire situation in years in this district. Extremely low humidity has increased the fire menace, they said.

Brief reports from forest supervisors to district headquarters of the forest service here told of three large fires in the Kootenai forest with 262 men fighting them. The Smith creek fire in the Pend Oreille forest jumped the control lines and is spreading rapidly in the high winds. Forty men were sent to fight another blaze in the forest.

Eighteen hundred acres have been burned over by the Dear Creek fire in the Nesperce forest which tripled in size overnight. There is no relief in sight from weather condition, forestry officials said.

NEW KIND OF BOLL WEEVIL

Threatens Texas Cotton From Slopes of Arizona Peaks

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 11.—West Texas may be threatened with a new cotton evil in the discovery in Arizona of an entirely new brand of boll weevil, according to R. E. McDonald, state entomologist, who left today for Arizona, to assist state authorities there. The new weevil has been discovered in the mountains about Tucson and is able to withstand high altitudes, making it especially dangerous to some parts of West Texas.

Wild Animals.

The new pest is said to be ravaging the cotton fields near the mountains, having come down from the wild cotton of the higher altitudes. The state of Arizona has attempted to stop its spread by creating a non-cotton area near the mountains. This action has caused an injunction suit by property owners. Mr. McDonald has been summoned as a witness for the state of Arizona.

And Hardy.

Unless the pest is checked it will spread and soon will be in West Texas, Mr. McDonald said. The new weevil is said to be a very hardy creature with power to withstand both cold and heat. Mr. McDonald departed for Prescott, where the injunction proceedings are in progress.

ACTION MOVES TOWARD PIRATES

Ameircan Runners Said To Have Boarded Foreign Ships

NEW YORK, July 11.—Following a Halifax report that the French steamship Mulhouse was boarded off the New Jersey coast two weeks ago by rum pirates who took a cargo of liquor valued at $500,000, prohibition officers here today received word that a second ship also was boarded by pirates who killed the captain and threw his body overboard. The identity of the steamship was not revealed, but it was said to be also of foreign registry.

The raids were directed by one of the biggest bootleggers in this country according to the report, in retaliation for the cutting of rum price by the foreign ships. The liquor seized in the raids was brought to New York for marketing, said the report. The liquor seized on the second ship was said to have consisted of whiskies, brandies and cordials valued at more than $250,000.

French consular officials at Halifax are investigating the raid reported by Captain Ferrene of the Mulhouse, which put into Halifax on Tuesday.

MURDER

ing held on orders of District Attorney James V. Allred, Jr. The other boy was released late Friday afternoon following his signing of a statement concerning his whereabouts the afternoon Ashmore was beaten down.

These facts are taken as further indication of official belief that their case as even now developed may go awry.

Find Billiard Cue.

It was learned yesterday, that the finding Thursday morning of a sawed-off billiard cue in the shack occupied by the supposed slayer has had an important bearing on the case. Until the cue was uncovered, officers were working merely with circumstantial evidence and with a "hunch" that they were on the right track. The negro's actions, despite his protests of innocence, did not thoroughly satisfy officers. Later, when one story that he told was proven beyond doubt to be a pure fabrication suspicion against him was strengthened.

His original tale implicated the negro he now accuses and another black on whom he has since retracted. He held to this first story until Thursday, it is said, when he switched off and asserted that he was "mistaken."

Kept Under Guard.

He has been constantly in custody, although until his incarceration in a nearby county jail last night he had never been behind the bars. At night he was kept under guard at the home of the constable or one of his deputies.

The first real sign of his weakening came Thursday, it is said, when he was led before the corpse of young Ashmore. He held his ground, even then, however, and not until Friday noon did he indicate a willingness to tell something of importance. He was taken by Constable Morgan to a secluded spot in the woods east of the city, where, with tears in his eyes, the black boy began to unfold his tale. Convinced that his prisoner was finally telling the truth, the officer brought him back to town and drove to the Johnson stand where young Ashmore was attacked. The negro began to trace the steps leading up to the robbery and murder again and told a story that sent Mr. Morgan to the court house in search of District Attorney Allred.

Again Taken to Stand.

The two officers and State Ranger Aldredge then went back to the stand where the supposed details of the affair were again gone over. Thomas was immediately taken before the grand jury where his oral statements were reduced to writing. At 6 o'clock he was placed in an auto and together with the man accused of the slaying was rushed from the city.

This latter negro who now appears to be in a fair way to command the central part of the picture, was arrested last Tuesday a few hours after the robbery. While he has been guarded closely, he has not been questioned as intensively as other suspects in the case and as a matter of fact has succeeded in diverting any great degree of suspicion.

Until the veil of secrecy surrounding the entire affair is lifted by official order, details of the inhumane attack on the 12-year old clerk will not be publicly known. Officials, who even now have not been let in on the complete affair, have been sworn to silence.

Considerable skepticism was expressed last night as to the exact status of the case. In some quarters, and they were authoritative ones, too, it was frankly admitted that Thomas' tale had serious defects and might not stand the acid test of an unrelenting grand jury investigation. In other quarters, however, optimism was radiated freely and officers declared that a solution of the thing was in sight.

The total sum is the same as that filed July 1 by Judge Robertson's campaign manager, Larry Mills of Corsicana, which was held in a legal opinion yesterday by Austin attorneys not to be a compliance with the law requiring the candidate himself to file an expense account.

Among the items listed by Judge Robertson are $49.40 for new tires, $174.03 for gasoline, oil and storage and $180 for car drivers. The remainder of the money was spent in hotel bills, and telegrams, the statement said.

STANDARD FOR COTTON IS HIT

Foreign Agents Now Dissatisfied With Agreed Scale

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Some dissatisfaction having arisen in England in connection with the universal cotton standards, agreed upon more than a year ago by the principal foreign cotton interests, officials of the United States department of agriculture and representatives of the American cotton industry, when the United States official standards were adopted as universal standards, another conference of all interests has been called to meet in London, July 21.

Calls Experts to London.

Dr. H. C. Taylor, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, who has been abroad conferring with the foreign cotton interests, called the meeting and at the same time telegraphed for his assistant, Lloyd S. Tenney, and Chester Morrill, another department of agriculture official and an expert on cotton, to come to London for the conference.

The object of the conference is the discuss with the foreign cotton representatives, who have agreed upon the universal standards, all questions of difference and reach a supplemental agreement covering them. It is understood the English cotton interests are desirous of holding a meeting in the spring of each year to compare and overhaul all copies of the official standards.

Representatives Meet.

Representatives of Liverpool, Manchester and Bremen cotton associations have been in Washington three weeks working with American officials in preparing "key sets" of the standards for the European cotton exchanges maintaining arbitration boards, one set for a safe depository, probably the vaults of the bank of England; sets for each of the ten designated American spot markets, The New York cotton exchange, and the principal arbitration committees in the United States. The work is now about completed.

No changes have been made in the universal standards and none can be made without formal agreement and one year's notice in advance of their promulgation.

Problem of Swapping In Middle of Stream Looks Bad

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 11.—Legal methods by which Dr. Walter Splawn, president-elect of Texas university, may take his name off the democratic primary ballot as a candidate to succeed himself, on the Texas railroad commission, are in much doubt and confusion, according to an opinion rendered today by L. S. Sutton, assistant attorney general. The opinion intimates Dr. Splawn will find it harder to get off the ticket than to get on.

The opinion holds that the state executive committee has no power to substitute another candidate prior to the primary election.

Two Ways.

There are two alternatives in this unusual case, which has no precedent in Texas. Dr. Splawn may remain on the ticket and then resign after the last primary and the democratic state executive committee may name a substitute candidate to be voted on in the November general election; or he may withdraw now and the voters may write their choice on the ballot, but this latter method is subject to be contested in the courts, the opinion stated. The fact that most of the ballots already are printed seriously complicates the situation, it is said.

Situation.

"The situation," read Mr. Sutton's opinion, "appears to be this: If you take action to withdraw your name from the ballots you will in all probability, be the nominee, in which case you could resign and the state committee would then select some person to fill the vacancy and the latter would be the regular democratic nominee to be placed on the ballot in the general election. On the other hand, if you now withdraw and should succeed in having your name omitted from consideration in the primary altogether, the people would be given an opportunity to select the nominee with the possibility that the right of the voters to write the names of candidates on the ballot would be contested, and if you were not successful in the attempt to have your name entirely eliminated complications would result as before mentioned."

The opinion states there is no rule of law dictating proper proceedure and declines to lay down a course of action.

Air Mail Service Is Now Available to Wichita Patrons

Any person living in Wichita Falls may send a letter by the air mail service if he desires, according to the officials at the local post office. As Wichita Falls as yet is not on the air mail service route it is necessary to send a letter part of the way by train. If a person desires to send a letter to New York and wants it gotten there quicker than by train he may do so by placing a six-cent stamp instead of a two-cent one on a letter and mark on the letter "air mail service," according to local officials. The letter would be sent to Chicago by train and transferred at that place to the mail airplane.

There are three zones in the United States and it costs eight cents to send a letter over any one of these three zones. The zones are designated by Chicago, New York, Cheyenne and San Francisco. A letter sent from Wichita Falls to San San Francisco would therefore cost 16 cents. A letter sent from New York to San Francisco would cost 24 cents.

Local post office officials say that although the new ruling has only been in effect since the first of the month, people in this city are beginning to take advantage of it to send their mail in a hurry. Each ounce costs eight cents per zone and insured or C. O. D. mail is not allowed to be sent.

GERMAN FIEND INDIFFERENT

Recalls Over Dozen Crimes But Says Others Passed By

HANOVER, Germany, July 11.—While popular indignation over the alleged indifference of the police to the case of Frederick Haarmann, confessed mass murderer, is growing, the slayer himself is taking his situation with calmness and poise and is asking to be beheaded "as I deserve to be."

"I don't remember the names of all my victims," Haarmann told interviewers today. "You see they came so fast that I really did not have a good chance to get well acquainted with them."

He recalled having slain not less than a dozen boys and young women and was certain there were many more whom he did not recall.

Mob Forms.

As a result of the alleged indifference of the police with respect to the inquiries of parents whose sons are missing, a popular mass meeting was called at which the indictment was demanded of police officials who are believed to be in possession of accurate knowledge of Haarman's wholesale butchery.

Hundreds of letters are arriving daily from all parts of Germany, in which frantic parents report the suspicious disappearance of members of their families and ask the police to search for possible traces of them among Haarmann's belongings.

River Mystery.

The room in which the "modern Gilles de Retz" slaughtered his victims is in a decrepit tenement house facing the river Leine. The bodies of the slain persons were thrown into this river, the bottom of which is now being dragged for further evidence.

WHITE HOUSE OPENED AGAIN

Daily Routine Again As Sorrowing Family Return

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Except for the regular semi-weekly cabinet meeting, there were no engagements at the White House today and both President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the day in seclusion after returning from Vermont where the younger son was buried yesterday.

The special train with the president and his family, members of his cabinet and others who accompanied the body to its last resting place, returned to the capital early this morning. The White House was at once reopened to visitors, the flag run to full staff and the usual routine of official life resumed.

The executive and his family, however, spent the entire day in resting. Late in the afternoon, the president and his father, John C. Coolidge, who returned with him from Vermont, went for an automobile ride and to the naval dispensary to have the father's eyes examined. The latter is to remain at the White House for an indefinite period.

More than 10,000 telegrams and letters of sympathy have been received at the executive mansion since the bereavement.

New Indictment In Robbery Made

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—A new indictment charging twelve persons as participants or conspirators in the $2,000,000 holdup, June 12, of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train at Rondout, Illinois, was returned today by the federal grand jury. The grand jury was called into special session to rush the indictment so that Jess Newton and Herbert S. Holliday under arrest at Del Rio, Texas, and Little Rock, Ark., respectively, and who have not been indicted previously, might be brought to Chicago.

The new indictment charges besides naming Newton and Holliday, names all of those mentioned in a previous indictment including three brothers of Newton who are in custody here.

Church of Prohi Pastor Bombed

JOLIET, Ills., July 10.—The Ottawa street Methodist church of which the Rev. Henry E. Rompel, dry raid leader, is pastor, was damaged badly by a dynamite explosion early today. Police attributed the bombing to bootleggers.

The entire rear end of the church was blown out and many plate glass windows in the business district, in which the church is located, were shattered.

The Rev. Mr. Rompel's raiding activities began last December when he piloted twenty Chicago prohibition agents through ten Joliet saloons, where large quantities of liquor were seized and the proprietors arrested. Twice in April he headed raiding parties which visited saloons and roadhouses.

The pastor and his wife left two weeks ago for an European tour. No one was injured in the explosion.

That Dr. Thomas C. Blaisdell of the State Normal school of Pennsylvania says that college men can not write a creditable business letter and that there is too much cramming of classics in English courses?

That Mexican land owners drive peons away from their homes when the peons petition the national government for land?

That the real cause of Mexican emigration to Texas and other American states is lack of land and that there is virtually no emigration from sections of Mexico where the peon has been given land?

That General George W. Goethals, famed as builder of the Panama Canal, was the most persistent advocate of the nomination of the Governor Al Smith for president by the Madison Square Garden convention?

That Sweden is rich in shale and its experts estimate that 245,000,000 tons of fuel oil can be refined from the bitumous deposits?

That since Sweden is entirely dependeht on imports for her coal and petroleum Swedish engineers have found a way of producing fuel from her vast deposits of alum shale?

That the American wage earner was about one-third better off last spring than he was at the outbreak of the war in 1914 as regards his pay, and that his working hours were less?

That American jews have contributed eight and one-half million dollars toward the rebuilding of the Jewish home land in Palestine under the British mandate?

That William Jennings Bryan has survived all the prominent men he met and delegated with a single speech at Chicago in 1896. To quote from the vocabulary of the critic: "They are all gone and most of them are forgotten."?

That five of the men balloted for in the Baltimore convention in 1912 are dead, that the two great democratic bosses who figured in that convention are dead, and that none of the power of 1912 remains except that held by Senator Oscar W. Underwood and W. J. B.

That in 1932 the democrats will hold their centenial—a hundred years after the first formal convention of the party named Andrew Jackson by acclamation for a third term and in 1932 W. J. B. will be only 72 years of age?

MAN FROM MISSOURI.

Colonel Nicholas M. Bell of Missouri attended the Madison Square Garden convention. He had been a delegate to seven national conventions and secretary to five. He rooted for Governor Jonathan Davis of Kansas for first place. He sticks to the Missouri corn cob pipe and insists that corn fed statesmen, now out of fashion, should come back and direct governmental affairs.

This Missouri colonel, who is only eighty-two, was a delegate from Oregon to the national convention in the city of New York in 1868 that nominated Horatio Seymour for president of the United States. A man who has been able to smoke a cob pipe for seventy years should be able to live forever.

Jonathan Davis of Kansas is a dirt farmer but he did not get far in his race for the presidential nomination.

IF BATTLING BOB REALLY MUST FIGHT AGAIN WHY NOT GET A NEW BULL?

"OLIVER OCTOBER"

"He did not say good-by to me," corrected Oliver. "We parted in anger."

"Do you know a man named Peter Hines, Mr. Baxter?" asked Malone abruptly.

"Pete Hines? Certainly. He is a tenant of my father's. Lives in a shack up at the other end of the swamp. He has done odd jobs for us since I can remember. He also does most of the drinking for the estate," he concluded dryly.

"A souse, eh?"

"I've never known him to be completely sober—and I've never heard of him being completely drunk."

"By the way, have you ever seen me before today?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Well," said Malone, with a twinkle in his eye. "I've been hanging around this burg since last Monday—five days, in all. I'm the fellow that sold Mrs. Grimes the beautifully illustrated set of Jane Austen's works day before yesterday. I also sold an unexpurgated set of the Arabian Nights to Mr. Samuel Parr. He tells me your father carried a $15,000 life policy. I tried to sell a set of Dickens to the Rev. Mr. Sage, and succeeded in having a long talk with his daughter. I've had dealings with Mr. Sikes and Mr. Link, Banker Lansing, John Phillips and a number of other citizens, male and female." He laughed quietly. "Of course, the books will never be delivered, Mr. Baxter. Shall we stroll down to the swamp, Mr. Baxter, or would you rather wait a day or two? We're in no hurry, you see."

"This is obvious," said Oliver curtly. "I must notify you, Mr. Malone, that if you or any of your workmen slip into one of those pits of mire out there and never come up again, I am not to be held accountable."

"Right-o!" said Malone cheerily. They were well around the corner of the house on their way to the swamp road before Oliver spoke again.

"You are at liberty to go as far out as you please, however, Mr. Malone."

"I shall," said Malone crisply. "I am an old hand at this business. I don't believe such a thing exists as a bottomless pit. Now, just where was it that you and your father parted company that night? As I understand it, you and he sat for some time on that log over there. It was a clear night and the road was very dusty. There had been no rain in over three weeks. Am I right?"

Oliver stared at him in amazement. The other detective had turned down the slope and was striding off toward the nearest ditch.

"You seem to be pretty well posted," said he, his eyes narrowing.

"Well, I am an inquisitive sort of cuss," drawled Malone. "And I'm not what you'd call an idle person."

"Who told you we were sitting on that log? We did sit there for 10 or 15 minutes. That was before we began to quarrel. Then we got up and walked on a little farther down the road. We stood there arguing for nearly half an hour. But who told you we sat on that log?"

"If you don't mind, I'll not answer that question," said Malone.

"You asked me a while ago if I had seen Pete Hines that night. Was it Pete Hines?"

Malone hesitated. "Well, it was Pete Hines who is supposed to have seen you, Mr. Baxter, but it was not he who told me about it."

CHAPTER XIX
A Blow for Sammy

Malone changed the subject abruptly. "That's a great fish story they tell about the gypsy prophesying you'd be hung before you were 30."

"If you will excuse me, Mr. Malone, I must be getting back to the house. It's nearly 7 o'clock and I am expecting people to dine with me," said Oliver a little coldly.

"I'm sorry I've detained you," said the detective apologetically. "I'll stroll back with you, if you don't mind."

"Where is your partner?" inquired Oliver, looking out over the swamp.

"Charlie? Oh, he'll be along directly. He is seeing about how long it would take a man to walk out to the edge of the mire and back," said Malone cooly.

Oliver looked at him sharply. "So that's the idea, eh?" he remarked, after a moment.

"We intend to conduct this investigation in an open and above-board manner, Mr. Baxter."

"And I shall be open and above-board with you, Mr. Malone," said Oliver, a trace of irony in his voice. "I hope, therefore, that you won't take it amiss if I suggest that the sensible thing for your man to do would be to make his calculations at night, when progress would naturally be a great deal slower and infinitely more hazardous."

"I've taken that into account," announced the detective, looking straight ahead. "I was about to say that it's going to take a good deal of tight squeezing, Mr. Baxter, to get you indicted, tried and executed inside of the next 30 days. The time is pretty short, eh?" He lauged jovially.

Oliver turned on him. "I'll knock your damned head off, Malone, if you make any more cracks like that. Remember that, will you?" he cried hotly.

Malone was genuinely surprised. He went very red in the face.

"Yes," he said thickly. "I'll be sure to remember it."

Oliver apologized to Malone as they were on the point of separating in front of the house. They had traversed the hundred yards or more in silence.

"I am very sorry I spoke to you as I did, Mr. Malone. I hope you will overlook it."

Malone held out his hand. "I've been spoken to a good bit rougher than that in my time. Mr. Baxter, and never turned a hair," he said good-naturedly. "I don't blame you for calling me down. I guess I was fresh. But I assure you I didn't mean to be."

A little later on Oliver sat on his front porch waiting for his guests to arrive. Mrs. Grimes, in her snug-fitting black silk dress, rocked impatiently in a chair nearby. The guests were late.

"It's Josephine Sage," she observed crossly, breaking a long silence. "She's the one that's making 'em late."

He looked at his watch. "It's only 7:30, Aunt Serepta. They're only 15 minutes late. I've been losing my temper again," he said gloomily. "Probably made an enemy of that detective, Malone."

"What difference does that make? He's not a voter in this county," said the old lady composedly. "Here they come. Goodness! The way that Parr boy drives! He ought to be locked up for ——"

But Oliver was at the bottom of the steps waiting for the automobile. Swung around the curve in the drive and came to an unbelievably gentle stop.

"The best trained automobile in America," said Sammy, with his customary modesty. "Kindness is what does it."

"So sorry to be late," said Mrs. Sage, as Oliver ceremoniously handed her out of the car.

"What is that I hear, Oliver?" said the minister as he stepped out of the car. Jane and Mrs. Sammy had preceded him. "Is it true the detectives are here and expect to start this ridiculous search tomorrow.

"They're here all right," replied Oliver. "One of them tried to sell you a set of Dickens the other day."

"What!" cried Jane, gripping Oliver's arm. "What, that man a detective?" She was startled.

"No less a person than Mr. Sherlock Hawkshaw Malone, the renowned sleuth," said Oliver, smiling.

"The beast—the beast!" she cried hotly. "Good heavens! That accounts for the interest he took in your father's disappearance."

"At any rate," said Mr. Sage, complacently, "he did not succeed in selling us a set of Dickens."

Jane started to say something, but instead, abruptly turned away and joined the other women on the porch. A queer little chill as of misgiving stole over her.

"Hey, Oliver!" called out Sammy from down the drive where he was parking the car. "Come here a minute, will you?" Say," he went on, lowering his voice as Oliver came up. "I've just picked up something rich. Fellow came in day before yesterday and showed me a volume of the Arabian Nights, absolutely unexpurgated—"

"I know. And you fell for it, didn't you?"

"Sh! Not so loud. My wife doesn't know a thing about it. But say, who told you about it?"

Then Oliver told him. Sammy leaned against the mudguard and swore softly.

"Say, I wish I could remember what I said to the guy about—about your father. Lord, he had me talking a blue streak. Darn my fool eyes! You'd think I'd have sense enough to— Oh, well, go ahead and kick me, Ollie. Right here. Just as hard as you like."

"Come on. They're waiting for us. You needn't worry, old boy."

As each day passes the lot of the voter becomes more complicated. La Follette, Coolidge and Davis running, the so-called independent voter has first to pick out his favorite party.

After that he will have to decide whether he likes the way the different candidates part their hair, and whether he approves of their running mates. These are busy days for the voter.

The chief complaint growing out of the democratic convention appears to be that the delegates didn't have any time or enough spare change to see the sights.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

CANCER

Good planetary aspects prevail today until late in the afternoon; they are adverse in the evening. During the day, they favor all efforts along lines of public usefulness, community service or civic occupations, they counsel renewed energy and active prosecution of any cause signifying betterment of conditions or reform. It should be a splendid opportunity for any attempt to stem the tide of discontent, or settle labor disputes. In business, conservatism and prudence is advised. Later on during the day, when the aspects are not so benign, rest and moderate recreation are recommended.

A child born today will, given normal conditions and surroundings, enjoy average health, and will probably develop into a physically perfect maturity. Its disposition will require careful handling, owing to temperamentality. Its character will be generous, but disposed, at times, to be "moody." The ordinary pastimes and recreations of childhood will not make much appeal to it, and, if encouraged and helped, it will develop strong artistic, rather than either business or domestic tendencies.

Is today your birthday? If so, your character is a strong one; your disposition, under ordinary conditions, attractive; your personality a pleasing one. You, however, lack self-control.

Self-control forms the chief distinction between man and the mere animal. It is at the root of all virtues. To be morally free, to be more than a mere animal, you must be able to resist instinctive impulses, and this can only be done by the exercise of self-control. The stronger man or woman is he or she, who, by discipline exercises a constant control over thoughts, speech and actions.

Washington was by nature ardent and impetuous; his mildness, gentleness, politeness, and consideration for others were the result of rigid self control and unwearied self discipline. It was said of him "his temperament was ardent, his passions strong, and, amidst the multiplied scenes of temptation and excitement through which he passed, it was his constant effort, and ultimate triumph, to check the one and subdue the other."

Self control is the power which constitutes a real distinction between a physical and a moral life, and that forms the primary basis of individual character.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

YOU CAN NEVER TELL

When Helen was a kid in Troy,
Her ways were rough and rude,
And calculated to destroy
Her parents' quietude.
It gave the old folks quite a jar
To watch the things she'd do,
And often they exclaimed "What are These young girls coming to?"

And though they did the best they could,
She still was flip and pert,
And when she grew to womanhood,
She proved a dreadful flirt.
In fact she was a hopeless case,
She drank, and rouged her lips,
And some years later with her face
She sank a thousand ships.

When Joan of Arc was but a child,
Her parents were afraid
That she was but a wayward, wild,
And headstrong little jade.
Yet now her face is carved in stone,
Her deeds are praised in song,
Which shows, that in the case of Joan,
Her parents both were wrong.

Today most parents feel the same
About the kids they rear;
For raising children is a game
Of shifting hope and fear.
We thought these cases might help out,
When youngsters raise the deuce,
But now, on second thought, we doubt
If they will be much use.

Crime Is a Disease

A striking case of kleptomania occurred in Chicago recently. The wife of a millionaire was arrested for stealing.

She lived in a palatial home, and had maids and butlers and other servants to wait upon her. She had no need for money, and her husband willingly supplied all she could reasonably spend, even for luxuries.

But a strange impulse obsessed her. She applied for a position as a maid in a strange house, and was accepted because of her refined appearance. This she did at several places. In each instance she looted the home during the absence of the family and carried the things away in her own automobile. A neighbor woman saw the maid going away with the sedan full of plunder and notified her employer. The kleptomaniac was arrested, and at police headquarters she broke down and confessed.

The woman was 44 years old and had four children of her own.

Her husband, although dazed by the shock of seeing his wife a kleptomaniac, hurried to her side and declared that he would stand by her.

This incident is full of instruction for those who are capable of learning. It emphasizes the tauth that crime is a disease to be cured and not an act which calls for retribution.

In such a case we already acknowledge its pathological character by giving it a medical name; kleptomania. We are recognizing that it is a mental disorder, something to be healed.

In former ages any one who stole would have been seized and afflicted more or less cruelly.

Little by little the world is learning that vengeance, punishment and retaliation cure nothing. Kerosene will not put out a fire.

This unfortunate woman, surrounded by the protection of her husband and her loyal friends, will probably be treated by scientific means in a hospital or elsewhere until her affliction is removed.

She is not only unfortunate, but also very fortunate, for there are thousands of other lawbreakers who have no such friends, who are seized upon by the agents of society, haled into court, thrown into prison and treated with every form of harshness as enemies to be punished, and not as cripples to be cured.

Some day or other we are going to get the normal, sane and healthy view in regard to all crime.

SOILS AND SOIL PHYSICS
COMPARING SOIL SAMPLES

This article continues the account of the experiments conducted to determine whether or not it was the lack of soil bacteria that caused crop failures on a newly drained portion of a western irrigation project that had been water logged and alkalied.

After chemical analysis had shown the large sample of soil to be in a condition similar to the soil in the field it was divided up into a number of smaller samples.

These samples were to be treated in various ways. Some of them were left just as they were, others were mixed with varying proportions of earth from fertile fields where crops were being grown. A certain number of them that were not mixed with other soils were treated with water leached from earth taken from fields that were growing good crops.

After this preparatory work was done several different kinds of seed were planted in the sample. Wheat, rye, barley and sweet clover were some of the crops that were to be tried.

After planting these seeds in the various samples it was decided to water them with two kinds of water. One was to be just ordinary irrigation water and the other water that had been passed through fertile soil.

It was desired to ascertain whether or not the soil bacteria could be transported from one soil to another by means of water.

Today's Poem

JUST BOYS.

Each day and every day, this is what I hear:
"I can whip the boy next door, can you?"
"Yeh! He thinks he is the cat's own whiskers,
But I can lick him too."
And, "Feel my muscle, Mother."
And, "Watch me chin this limb,
If I could meet a giant
I sure would wallop him."
"Oh Mother! after lunch time
We want to see Tom Mix
How I wish I was a sheriff,
And could tote a great Big Six."

Ah! I wonder how we mothers
Can hope for world wide peace,
When our boys are ever turbulent
And their warfares never cease.
Then I realize this energy
And their efforts to be strong
Will give them more endurance
When the trials of life are long.
That they'll settle down as Fighters
But the battle that's to be
Will hold them in a Brotherhood
Throughout Eternity.

New Conscription Terms Favor Japan's Athletes

TOKIO.—To encourage athletics, and in the hope of raising Japan's international athletic status, the government has announced changes in the regulations governing conscription for military service. Hereafter young Japanese who go abroad for athletic competition will have their conscription terms postponed until their athletic tour is finished. This, it is claimed, will encourage international competition, as heretofore promising athletes have been prevented from going abroad by the imminence of their conscription terms.

The members of the Meiji University baseball team, which is touring the United States this spring and summer, the athletes who take part in the Olympic games in Paris, and the members of this year's Davis Cup team will be the first to benefit under the new ruling.

Another change permits Japanese emigrants living abroad to return to Japan temporarily without fear of conscription.

Alaska Bishop Will Visit His Parishes by Dog-Team

SEATTLE, July 9. —When the Right Rev. Peter T. Rowe, bishop of the Episcopal church in Alaska, reaches Point Barrow, Alaska, this summer it will be the first time he has made an official visit within the Arctic Circle for three years.

Preparations have been made by Bishop Rowe to sail from Seattle July 5 on the steamship Victoria for Nome, Alaska, and thence to Point Barrow in the revenue cutter Bear.

After a call at Point Barrow, Bishop Rowe will travel by dog team southward, crossing the mountains and traversing the Tanana and Yukon rivers, visiting his white and native congregations along the route. He expects to be absent from Seattle all next winter.

Hats, Etc., for the Pretty Maid

By MME. LISBETH.

I do not recall a summer season when silk and felt hats were so much worn as they are this. In any collection of hats we see as many or more of the aforementioned types than the usual straw ones. Occasionally we are shown the large or medium wide brims, but most of the chapeaus sponsored by Paris milliners are narrower of brim and higher of crown than ever. Bobbed heads and those with thin locks are in luck while the woman who has always considered her long, thick hair her "crowning beauty" and refuses to sacrifice it for what she fears may be a fad, is in despair. She can find no hat to fit.

On the left is an illustration of one of the silk hats so popular with milady. It is fashioned of green taffeta, and is faced with grey. The sole ornament is one of cock's feathers which droops from the brim.

A little white felt hat in a sports type is shown on the right. With it is worn a handsome scarf of Russian sable, which demonstrates the fact that interested as women are in the graceful scarfs of silk and other materials so much featured, they are still loyal to the furs that have been chief aids to beauty from time immemorial.

What could be more appropriate or more becoming for the pretty young girl to wear with her dancing frock than the crown of flowers to bind her curly locks? The headband illustrated is made of rambler roses and is as simple and girlish as one could desire.

Flowers seem to be more popular in the guise of headbands and as frock trimmings than they are for hats. Feather fancies and ribbons seem to take first place on the latest Parisan chapeaus.

Dorothy Dix

Are the Daughters "Supporting" a Mother Who Makes Their Home, Cooks, Sews, Washes and Cleans for Them?—The Jealous Wife Who Ruins the Doctor's Career. Shall They Risk Disinheritance to Marry?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a mother, living with my girls. I do all the housework, the washing, cooking, ironing, cleaning, and run all over town hunting them groceries and vegetables to save them money. I am happy to do all this, but what hurts my heart is that my daughters think that they support me. I do not ask them any pay for what I do, but I don't like them to feel that they take care of me, and that I should be grateful to them for doing so. I think I earn my own way.

My girls make good money and should be happy to have a mother to do all the work at home, and make a nice place where they can bring their friends, for mother always has a good dinner for them, no matter how tired she is.

Now please tell me if I am wrong when I say that my daughters do not support me, that I support myself.

—A POOR SOUL

Answer:

You certainly are an independent, self-supporting woman, Poor Soul, for if there is another human being on earth who earns his or her own board and keep, and a good fat salary besides, it is the woman who does the never-ending labor of making a comfortable home. If your ungrateful daughters had to cook their own meals and make their own beds and wash their own clothes in addition to earning their own living —as many other girls do—they would realize how lucky they are to have a mother who does all of this for them.

And if they had to pay the price that any sort of a competent cook and laundress and housemaid gets in these days, and settle the staggering bills that hired help runs up with its wastefulness and extravagance, they would realize that the mother who works for her food and a few clothes is no object of charity whom they generously support. They would find out that she saved for them a hundred times over all that she costs them.

There is nothing more pitiful and nothing more reprehensible than the way so many daughters make unconsidered slaves of their mothers. In thousands of households you will find mother doing all the housework, mother nursing the children, mother making the clothes, mother doing the work that it would take half a dozen servants to do, and getting for it neither thanks nor pay. On the contrary, the very daughters who make an unappreciated drudge of mother talk about mother, being a burden on them, and expect everybody to throw bouquets at them for being so good and kind as to give mother a home.

I always wonder why such mothers as you are, Poor Soul, do not teach their daughters a good lesson. Why do you not throw up your unremunerative job in daughter's kitchen and get one in somebody else's, where they will be only too glad to give you good money for doing the work that you are now doing for nothing? There are thousands of strange women who are longing for just such household treasures as you are, and who would consider it a privilege to pay you a handsome salary for giving them good home cooking, and keeping down the grocery bill.

Stage your walkout, and leave your daughters to find out whether you were a self-supporting woman or not. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a professional man, very interested in my profession, very ambitious, and am beginning to gain distinctin in it.

But my wife is ruining my practice by her jealousy, her false accusations, and her nagging. I am at my wits' end to know what to do, as I am not qualified to make a living in any other way, and yet if my wife persists in her course I will soon be ruined professionally and will have to turn to something else.

Can you suggest any cure for her?

M. D.

Answer:

No. Who can minister to a mind diseased?" A woman's jealousy of her husband's business is insanity because her welfare is wrapped up in it just as much as his is, and when she ruins him she ruins herself. Any sane person would see this for herself. When one doesn't, it is because she is bereft of reason, and there is no use in arguing with her, or trying to get her to view the matter in its proper light.

Unfortunately, the wives of physicians seem very prone to his malady. A young woman who was engaged to a doctor told me that it drove her crazy to think about her fiance going from one pink negligee-clad woman to another, holding their hands and listening sympathetically to their symptoms.

"Well, then," I told her, "at least be honest enough with the man not to marry him, if you feel that way. You know in advance what his profession is and you have no right to interfere with his life work, or to torment him to death with your jealousy and suspicions. And if you had any sense the more pink-negligeed ladies he went to see, the better you would be pleased, for it means just that much more prosperity for you."

"Furthermore," I went on, "no other men in the world have so few illusions about women as doctors, because no other men see them under such disadvantages. A sick woman is at her worst, physically and mentally, and if you think there is anything alluring about a nervous, neurotic, hypochondriacal female, you have another guess coming your way. The wonder to me is that any doctor ever marries at all. I would think that they would be off of the woman proposition for life."

The young woman took my advice and broke off her engagement with the physician, which saved one man from having his career wrecked by a jealous wife. And a woman can do that very effectually, for she cannot only nag her husband until she destroys his efficiency, but no woman wants to call in a physician who has a jealous wife, because it is too dangerous. There is no telling what unfounded scandal may start.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What do you think of a father who threatens to disinherit his two sons if they marry while he lives? Both sons have found The Girls.

Answer:

Why, I think it sounds like an old-fashioned melodrama. Disinheriting sons because they won't marry to please a stern parent simply isn't done now, and I think the sons would just laugh at father and go along and get married anyway.

But any man who tries to keep his sons from marrying nice girls and living a normal, domestic life is not only cruelly selfish, but lacking in good, hard, common sense. For it is not the old bachelors who make the finest men, but the men who have wives and children, somebody to work for and achieve for.

Father married and had children that he loved enough to want to keep them for himself. Why does he want to deny his sons the same source of happiness? Why does he wish to impose his tyranny upon them so that they will look forward to his death as something that will free them from bondage? But at any rate, any man who doesn't think more of a girl than he does of his father's will won't be much loss as a husband.

German Shipping Still Far From Pre-War Efficiency

PLYMOUTH, England.—It will be a good many years before the German mercantile fleet attains its pre-war standard, in the opinion of Carl Stinming, director-general of the North German Lloyd.

"For some years," Mr. Stimming said on his way home from a shipping conference in London, "we must be content with the progress we have made up to the present time."

Leider Keep, managing director of the Hamburg American line, returning from the same conference, declared there was not the slightest chance of his line resuming its fast pre-ward standard of sailings to and from New York for many years. There are no steamers available, he said, and construction costs have risen so high that the building of ships with speed must wait awhile.

Captured Turkish Sword Present to Queen Marie

LONDON, July.—There was an interesting little incident at the Rumanian legation recently, when Queen Marie, on her visit here, was presented by Captain Locker Lampson with a sword captured in Turkey by the unit of British naval armored cars which served in Russia and subsequently fought in the Dobrudja retreat.

The sword was to have been presented to the queen when peace was declared, but the ceremony was postponed until she could visit England officially as queen of a restored Rumania.

Ft. Worth Bank Teller Poses Here As Pug Champ

It was discovered Friday locally that Dick Gullion, who substituted for Fred Whittington in the main event of the legion boxing card Thursday and was knocked out in the second round, has practiced practically all of his right crosses and left jabs pushing and taking money through the teller's window of a Fort Worth bank. It is said that the banker took the fight promoters for a rather neat sum by signing a nom deplume to a big contract, and then holding the promoters to the deal.

TWO BOYS HELD IN THEFT OF LOCAL CAR

Two boys who are alleged to have confessed to stealing the machine are in jail in Ardmore, Okla., held in connection with the theft of an automobile from the streets of Wichita Falls last Wednesday night. Their arrest was brought about at the instance of the city police department.

The car was the property of a Fort Worth man, it is said.

One of the two men held was recently released from the county jail where he had been serving a sentence on charges of auto theft.

WICHITA VALLEY GIVEN SPUR TRACK FRANCHISE

A franchise was granted the Wichita Valley railway at a special meeting of the city council Thursday night, called for the purpose of considering the application of the road for a spur track in the southern part of the city. The matter has been up for consideration for several weeks and last night's action merely makes it a law.

The new spur will be built down the alley between Scott and Lamar and will extend from Sixteenth to Thirteenth streets. It will serve a number of warehouses in that vicinity.

GOOD START MADE ON NEW SEWER LINE

A good start has been made on the Sunset Heights sewer lines, according to reports from the city engineer's department which is busy with the project. The line has been started at the river and is being built south toward Eighth street which will be its southern terminus. Laterals will be run out through the Sunset Heights addition, which heretofore has been without sewer service.

The new line, in all, will be considerably over a mile long.

Mothers AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Real Play Yard

One Mother Says:

My husband put up a combination exercising and play apparatus in our yard for the children this summer. A frame was made of two strong uprights and a cross beam. On this were placed a swing, a hanging rope, and a rope ladder. The children can now climb and "chin" to their hearts' content, without trying it in dangerous places.

Bralley be dismissed was filed Friday by Mrs. Ida Merrell, mother of Lota Merrell, who Thursday morning filed suit for $5,000 against the juvenile officer and Sheriff W. W. Murphy. Motorman Says Two Held Tried To Rob Him

Charges of robbery with firearms were filed Friday against D. C. and John Evans, brothers, who were arrested Thursday night on representations of F. A. Robbins that they were the two who on May 14 attempted to rob him as a local street car on which he was motorman neared the end of the North Wichita line. The two wouldbe highjackers were driven off in a gun battle with the motorman.

The two men stoutly denied their guilt yesterday but the motorman was so positive in his identification that the charges were filed.

At the time of the robbery it was believed that one of the two men had been struck by a bullet fired by the intended victim.

HOG PRICES TO RISE, PREDICTS

Head of Chicago Livestock Exchange Tells Why

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Everett C. Brown, president of the Chicago Livestock Exchange, indicated today that hogs would bring $10 a hundredweight before October 1.

He said: "It is plainly evident that hog prices have seen bottom for this summer. Today's market is 55 cents to 60 cents higher than Monday, with a broad general demand from both local packers and eastern shippers."

"On the basis of the present price of corn, matured hogs are worth at least $10 per hundred, and I would not be surprised to see that figure reached before the first of October. These good 90 to 120 pound hogs that are selling for from 4 1-2 to 5 3-4 cents per pound if fed a little corn or grass by the hog feeder will make more money in the next sixty to ninety days than anything he could handle."

"Hogs have been losing from $400 to $500 per car on the basis of the present price of corn. In other words, if the farmer had not fed his corn to the hogs, but had sold it at the present market for corn, he would be $400 to $500 better off."

"Hogs have always eventually reached a corn basis of value and they are going to do it now. I do not think we will see as low prices for hogs during the next two or three years as we have seen this summer."

PLAN TO CUT RY. CROSSINGS

Would Eliminate All In Four Neighboring States

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 11.—In an effort to check the growing toll of life in grade crossing accidents the Texas-Southwest Claim Agents association in session here today launched a movement to eliminate grade crossing and check the construction of new crossings in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Figures were quoted showing 2,208 fatalities and 6,314 injuries at grade crossings in 1923; the elimination of 105 crossings and the construction of 3,855 new ones. Proposals advocated by the association also provide for the re-location of highways crossing and recrossing tracks; jurisdiction of the state railroad commission over motor vehicles driven for hire, with full authority to compel such drivers to stop for all rail crossings.

A deck of cards, on the corners of which are numbers from 1 to 100, making possible the playing of 50 mathematical games, was recently patented.

Largest Citrus Crop In History Will Be Grown In California This Year

FRUIT EXPERT VISITS WICHITA

Tell of Efforts of Growers To Sell Big Yield

B. O. Parker who is in Wichita Falls this week in the interest of the California Fruit Growers exchange, states that the largest lemon and orange crop in history will be grown this year. He states that during the season just closed there were approximately 113,000 car loads of oranges, lemons and grape fruits shipped and marketed with success in the United States and Canada, which was the largest crop ever grown; this from the report of E. G. Dezell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

Orange Crop.

This year will find at least 1000 car loads, or 400,000 boxes, or 80,000,000 oranges more than has ever been grown before from California alone. While Mother Nature has grown the fruit small in size it will be of unusually fine quality, being thin skinned, full flavored and juicy. Oranges this year in size follow our national sports, running from the size of a baseball to that of a golf ball.

Lemon Crop.

According to an estimate just completed by Mr. T. H. Powell, lemon sales agent for California Fruit Growers exchange, this year is to show the largest lemon crop in history also. Mr. Powell states that there will be about 13,000 car loads or about 5,000,000 boxes shipped from California this season, and that the quality and size will be exceptionally good.

The Sunkist Fruit Juice Extractors.

Necessity is the mother of invention, therefore the Sunkist Fruit Extractor. Considerable effort is being put forth by the California Fruit Growers exchange around the soda fountain and cafe industries. This organization has taken over the patent rights of the Blessing Fruit Juice Extractor, changed the name to Sunkist and is placing them in all places where juice drinks are sold, at actual cost.

Mr. Parker states that this little machine is a god-send to anyone who uses fruit juice for any purpose, as it bursts and shreds the millions of tiny vein cells which contains the rich juice and takes from the fruit all the digestive acid, organic salt and vitamine qualities which are found in abundant quantities in citrus fruits. Mr. Parker states that there are now about 20,000 of these machines in use.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Luncheon Eggs—One-half cup chopped celery and onion, one-half cup chopped cooked meat, one-half teaspoou salt. Fry in two tablespoons butter, add one-fourth cup boiling water and simmer for five minutes. When cool add one tablespoon cornstarch, three well beaten eggs, mix well and drop by spoonfuls on hot greased griddle. Turn when firm, as you would pancakes, and keep heat moderate, as eggs burn easily. These are similar to egg foo yong served in the Chinese restaurants.

Fairy Ring Salad—One small cucumber, one bunch radishes, two small onions. Slice all very thin and place in bowl of ice water to crisp. When ready to serve, drain off water and add: One teaspoon salt, two teaspoons sugar, three teaspoons vinegar and mix well. Arrange on lettuce leaves. Additional salad dressing is not necessary but can be used if wanted.

Iced Coffee—Two cups cold coffee, two cups milk, three teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla. This is better if mixed some time before serving and placed on ice in a bottle or pitcher than if cracked ice is placed in the glasses. A little whipped cream in each glass makes it quite a treat.

Cream Puffs—One cup hot water, one-half cup butter, one and one-half cup white flour, five eggs, one-half teaspoon salt. Heat butter and water to boiling. Add flour, mixing thoroughly and cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Set aside to cool. When cool add the unbeaten eggs, one at a time, and mix thoroughly before another is added. Drop from a tablespoon upon a buttered baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes, or until light when lifted from the pan. Fill with either a boiled custard or whipped cream.

VACATIONING WHILE AT WORK

If you are a busy housewife and cannot leave home to get a change of scene, change your home as much as possible with a view to eliminating work and loosening the strain of continuous duties. If it is practical put away your heavy rugs and carpets and have only light coverings on the floor. Put light and easily washed curtains at the windows, if any. See what bric a brac may be removed without giving the house too much the appearance of a barracks and so solve part of the dusting problem. No matter how industrious one may be there is always a vacation feeling in the air in the summer, and it behooves us to give way to it as much as possible for our good as well as that of the family.

Germans Like Hockey

BERLIN. — Hockey and cricket, played by few in Germany before the war, are gaining in popularity, but tennis continues the game most in vogue. While the number of golf players has greatly increased in the last few years, the spread of this game is hampered by the lack of ground for links. Berlin, for instance, has only two courses.

By The Associated Press.

Ed Pickett, another brother, last night was taken from his hiding place in the woods near this city. He is said by the authorities to have admitted being at the still which Cleveland and Sheriff H. L. Cannady attempted to raid, but denied that he took part in the shooting.

Many shots were exchanged in the fight, but none took effect, except the one load of buckshot, which killed Cleveland.

Taxable Wealth Of Texas Increase

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, July 11.—The taxable wealth of Texas has increased about $27,000,000 this year over last fiscal year and will reach about three and one half billions of dollars, according to estimates of Lon A. Smith, state comptroller. The estimate is contained in a statement to S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, showing the amount of the available school fund which is estimated for this year at $23,304,802. Upon this estimate of the school fund, the board of education yesterday determined that the school apportionment fund next year would be $14 per capita of school population, an increase of $2 over the year just closed.

Both men are in jail, having been captured after an exciting chase. One of the men remained outside in an automobile in which the bandits were to escape while the other entered the bank only to be fought off by Cashier Reichle. The bandit car was wrecked an hour later and the two men captured.

LA FOLLETTE HAS TEXAS PROBLEM

Candidate Must Organize Party or Get 4,000 Names

AUSTIN, Texas, July 11.—Two legal courses appear to be open for placing Senator Robert M. La Follette's presidential electors on the general election ballot in Texas, according to a verbal opinion of the attorney geenral's department. He may organize a party in this state, hold a state convention and have the convention name the electors, which would then be certified to the secretary of state and by the secretary to the counties, which print the ballot. The only other course is to file an application with the secretary of state containing signatures of qualified voters not less in number than one per cent of the votes cast in the last general election. Since about 400,000 votes were cast in the last election, the application would have to bear at least 4,000 names.

The names of presidential candidates do not appear on the official ballot in Texas. The names of the electors only are placed under the party designation. The official ballot for national and state offices is certified by the secretary of state to the various counties, which print the ballot for their county after adding names of candiadtes for county offices.

None Here.

No statute specifically provides for placing of independent candidates for president on the ballot, but there are provisions for getting independent candidates for governor and lesser offices before the voters. It is assumed the same provisions would apply to candidates for president.

In 1920, the American party, which was headed by James E. Ferguson, obtained a place on the ballot by holding a convention and electing their own electors. The same was true of the black and tan party, a negro branch of the republican party, and the socialist party also has always folowed this proceedure in Texas.

No Precedent.

Either course might be legally followed, according to L. S. Sutton, election law expert of the attorney general's department, but there is no clear provision governing and the secretary of state is without precedent since La Follette seems not to have a party organization.

John Davis Is Golf Bug, Too

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—If the democratic nominee is elected there will be another golfer in the White House. Wilson and Harding played golf, but Coolidge does not.

Thousands of duffers won't envy John W. Davis' score. He's happy when he breaks a hundred on the Piping Rock course near Locust Valley.

Beau Brummell Walter Hagen has nothing on Mr. Davis when it comes to sartorial perfection on the links, however. Those who have seen Mr. Davis in knickers recall the seconding speech of Mrs. Isetta Jewel Brown to the democratic convention in which she pointed out he was a handsome man and that it was necessary to consider the women's vote.

M'ADOO CALLS ON DEMO NOMINEE

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—William G. McAdoo called on John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, at the home of Frank L. Polk late this afternoon. Mr. McAdoo, who alighted hurriedly from a taxicab and entered without speaking to the correspondents assembled at the Polk home, is to sail for Europe tomorrow.

Color Cut-Outs

Everything Comes Out All Right.

After the Indian had disappeared from the stage, at the Wild West Show the Color Cut-outs were giving, Jack again appeared, this time as a cowboy.

He looked all around to be sure the Indian was gone. Then he called, "Come ahead. All is safe." The little stage coach, pulled by the two dogs appeared again. The dogs trotted across the stage as they had been trained to do. (Someone had started them off from behind the tent.)

"Well," said Jack, "I have saved the stage coach. Now I will go find the sheriff and collect the reward offered for saving the trunk of gold which they thought the bandit had." And away he went, after the stage coach.

And that was the end of the Color Cut-outs' circus.

The cowboy wears brown leather trousers with gray fur, a brown shirt and hat, and a blue handkerchief.

Moslems Turn To Grape Juice, But Strictly Made "Without"

JERUSALEM.—Wine growing in Palestine, an industry which was revived in 1882, has had a relatively bad year. The receipts are $110,000 less than they were three years ago. Two markets have been lost, the United States and Russia, but it is hoped the latter will come back.

In vintage days the scene near the weighing machine is a busy one, hundreds of carts await their turn to unload, while a continuous stream of heavily laden camels from more distant vineyards slowly approach the wine presses from all directions.

A new market has been found for grape juice free from alcohol. This is sold in the Moslem countries of the Near East.

Monument to Song Writers

SALZBURG, Austria.—One hundred years have elapsed since the song "Silent Night, Holy Night," now sung as a Christmas carol throughout the world, was composed in the little village of Oberndorf, near here. In commemoration of the event a monument is to be erected in Oberndorf, the foundations of which are to be laid this summer. The unveiling is to take place on Christmas day.

The words of the song were written by the chaplain of the Oberndorf parish, Rev. Dr. Mohr, and the music by the teacher of the local school, a man named Gruber.

Self-Help Student System Grows in Universities

GOETTINGEN, Germany, July.—The self-help student, unknown in Germany before the war, is increasing in the universities because of existing economic conditions. It is estimated that one-half of the student body of the country receive less than $15 a month each from home, so that the American custom of part earning by college students became a necessity.

The universities and allied organizations have taken keen interest in the matter, establishing employment bureaus, tailor shops, shoe shops, bothouses, book stores, laundries, printing shops and even small factories where students are employed in off hours. The usual pay is one meal for an hour of wofk.

At Goettingen university for instance, 1,000 students earn their noonday meal and about 500 their supper by manual and clerical work.

One effect is said to be the gradual disappearance of the old time student aloofness and attitude of superiority toward the town folk.

SCOTCHMAN BREAKS RECORD IN 400-METRE FOR BRITAIN

Swiss and American Stars Break Same Record, But Lose Out in Final Competition

OLYMPIC STADIUM, COLOMBES, France, July 11. Eric Liddell, thin-legged Scotch divinity student, won Olympic glory for Great Britain today when he sped to victory in the 400 metre run with a worlds record that brought to a climax the most sensational series of races ever witnessed in any international event.

The Swiss and American stars before him had shattered the world's mark for the distance, but Liddell, undaunted, came back to the final test, with an even greater speed that broke the heart of his nearest rival, Horatio Fitch, long limbed Chicagoan, who himself had set a new record only an hour before in the semi-finals. Diddell's time for the distance was 47 3-5 seconds.

When the world's record toppled for the third time in two days, Liddell stepped into a niche among the other Olympic heroes, embracing the greatest array any game has ever known. His victory was as decisive as it was startling, for leading from the crack of the gun, he fought off his only real challenger, Fitch, in the stretch, and won, going away by eight metres. On the stretch behind lay the prostrate forms of Joseph Imbach, the little Swiss locksmith, who virtually broke down after having been the world's record holder for 24 hours, and J. Coard Taylor, the gallant American, who despite an injured ankle had third place clinched with a closing rush when he tripped over a lane marker and swirled heavily to the ground. Taylor's fall enabled G. M. Butler of Great Britain and Johnston of Canada, to gain third and fourth places, but the American, semi-conscious, responded to the appeals of the onlookers to rise and staggered across the finish, winning fifth place. Then he collapsed.

Imback Sick At Start

Farther down the track, almost unnoticed in the pandemonium that broke loose when Liddell broke the tape, another tragedy was enacted as Imback lifted himself painfully from where he had fallen exhausted. He went to the starting pole ill and showed over the first half of the distance that he was badly off form. His collapse came as he was stumbling into the stretch. His condition tonight was said to be not serious, but Taylor, who had to be carried off the field, was under medical care for a badly pulled ligament and lacerations of both knees.

U. S. Leads Decathlon

America fared well, however, for Emerson Norton of Georgetown, and Harold Osborne, Illinois A. C., the decathlon aces of the United States, were one and two in a brilliant battle for points over the first of the gruelling 10-event contest, which will be completed tomorrow. The United States also captured the second heat of the 3,000-metre team race trials. The first heat saw Finland's cracks, Nurmi, Ritola and Tala, finishing one, two, three, giving the Scandinavians a clean sweep of the heat.

The United States, aided by the six points tallied in the 400-metre race, while Finland added nothing to its score, increased its point lead to 80½ over its nearest rival and assumed a position which tonight seemed so strong as to virtually assure continuance, unbroken its string of Olympic track and field triumphs since the modern revival 28 years ago.

The total score now shows the United States with 183⅓ and Finland with 103, while Great Britain, through its third spectacular track victory, jumped to 60⅓ in third place.

The victory of Liddell in the 400 metre run, today's only final event, made the British total an imposing third among the point scores, which follow:

United States 183 1-3.
Finland 103.
Great Britain 60 1-2.
Sweden 24 1-5.
France 13 1-2.
Switzerland 11.
Hungary 7 1-2.
Canada 5.
South Africa 5.
Norway 4.
New Zealand 4.
Denmark 3 1-2.

Baptist, Bryan's Classification

NEW YORK, July 11.—Although he is not a member of any church, Governor Charles W. Bryan, vice-presidential nominee of the democratic party, wishes to be classed as a Baptist, he said last night when questioned as to his religious affiliations. Mrs. Bryan and the governor's children are members of the First Baptist church of Lincoln, Neb., and Governor Bryan attends this church regularly with them, he said.

Governor Bryan's parents were Baptists and the governor was brought up in that religion, although he has never formally affiliated with any church. The vice-presidential nominee is a believer in Christianity and a believer in what the church stands for, he said, but he is not a modernist.

The bambino cracked his 24th homer. New York by virtue of the victory now holds first place undisputed.

VETERAN NORMAN BROOKES MADE RACQUET HISTORY FOR ANTIPODES

Australian Is Greatest Cause of Defeats Sustained By American Net Teams

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

It will occupy but a line in the tennis records for 1924 but the victory of Norman E. Brookes over Francis T. Hunter in the championship matches at Wimbledon stands out as one of the most interesting incidents in the year.

Here was a man who gave Australia its first taste of world tennis fame in 1905 come back in 1924 to claim his own again. And while England's king and queen and scores of tennis and world notables looked on, this veteran whose name is linked with victory in the history of the Davis cup matches, showed what a master of the net he still is.

Brookes was a member of the first team to represent Australia in the Davis cup matches. It was also the first Australian team to meet the United States in the games. Anthony Wilding, who later gave his life in the world war, and Dunlop were the other active members of the team. The Antipodean team turned back the Austrians in the preliminary matches that year and then met the U. S. team in the challenge round.

Faced America's Best.

Brookes was Australia's main hope. On him fell the responsibility of winning the singles matches. Alone he took on Bill Larned and Beals Wright. He lost both maches but his work carried a threat—a challenge that he would draw revenge later. With Dunlop he fought a losing fight in the doubles, that year, too.

Brookes' value to the Pacific team was indicated when, the following year, Australia, without him met defeat in the preliminary round when it tackled the American squad.

The next year Brookes was called back. Strengthened by his presence the Antipodes crew defeated America in the final round and Great Britain in the challenge series for the cup.

In 1908 Brookes, with Anthony Wilding engaged in one of the grandest exhibitinos of tennis ever displayed in a cup series. Australia and the U. S. met in the challenge round. Brookes won his singles matches with Alexander only to lose to the crafty Beals Wright. Wilding also fell a victim to Wright's play and had beaten Alexander. The thrilling victory of Brookes and Wilding in the doubles match gave the champions the cup.

In 1909 America won the right to challenge the Austrian team by defeating the British Isles, only to be completely submerged in the challenge round by Brookes and Wilding. Both men won their singles matches from Long and McLoughlin and repeated their triumphs in the doubles.

Triumph Is Repeated.

No cup matches were played in 1910. But 1911 found Brookes still winning. With Heath he turned back Larned, Wright and McLoughlin in the singles, Wright losing two matches, one to Brookes and one to Heath. Then Brookes and Dunlop, made it a clean sweep by turning back Wright and McLoughlin in the doubles.

The next year came—1912. The British Lion was hungry. He hadn't tasted victory for two or three years. That fall found the Britishers and Australia meeting in the challenge round. The Australians went down to defeat—Brookes won his singles match, turning down Dixon. Brookes and Dunlop won the doubles. Three singles victories, though, gave the Lion the cup.

Brookes Leaves—Defeat Comes.

Then Brookes stepped out of competition—and the Australian team met defeat at the hands of Uncle Sam in the early rounds in 1913. Uncle Sam won the cup, too.

Coaxed back the next year he helped Australia defeat Canada, Germany, and Great Britain in the preliminary rounds and the U. S in the challenge round. Brookes, with Wilding, won the singles and the doubles matches also.

Came the war and a cessation of tennis hostilities until 1919. Brookes tried to comeback. America's Bills, Johnston and Tilden, however, whipped Brookes and Patterson in the singles and doubles.

Greatest All-Around Athlete Title Goes to Bob Legendre

The selection of Bob Legendre, former Georgetown star, to represent the U. S. in the pentathlon in the Olympic games and his consequent showing in that event stamps him as America's greatest all-around athlete. Legendre also set a new world's record for the broad jump in leaping 25 feet 6 inches. He's shown above in action and as he appeared when receiving scholastic honors at Georgetown.

Top O' the Mornin' Stuff

BLONDY CROSS

It'll be Spudders and Beaumonters again this afternoon, and then one more tomorrow. Houston after that for three.

Spuds failed to capture contest first half of the season on the Exporter lot. Buddy's men now out to keep the Shippers from winning a game on the local field the remainder of the year.

San Antonio turned Hippo Hodges back to Wichita Falls Friday. No disposition of the big pitcher has been made as yet, stated President Harvey last night.

Don Wofford, legion boxing promoter, is in a quandary as far as his main event for next week's fight card is concerned. Always trying to please local fandom, as much as possible, he intends to bring Roy Fisher of Oklahoma down. Fisher is a welterweight flash who has whipped a number of classy battlers. It might interest Wichita Falls fans to be informed that Fisher on two occasions poured it all over Leonard Fox, supposedly Oklahoma welter champion.

But where Wofford is balked is in just whom he should select to do battle with Fisher. Both Joe Denton of Amarillo and Harmon Rich of Wichita Falls are rearing to get at Fisher. Rich and Denton have twice scrapped to a draw in local rings. Either fighter would doubtless make it a tough bout for the Oklahoman, but which one should receive the call, Wofford doesn't know.

Any fans desirous of pitting Denton, or who would rather have Rich fight Fisher, could help the cause along nicely by either notifying Wofford or the Record News sports editor their choice some time today.

The legion fight card Thursday was more or less a fizzle outside of the Monte-Levine duel, but fans shouldn't rear up and voice unkind opinion of the referee, promoters, et al. In all walks of life there are days when the breaks are bad, and days when they're worse, and the fight game is not excepted.

Whenever legion promoters here pull off a poor card, and this is rare, it isn't because they aren't trying to give fans the best possible. Wichita Falls fans on the whole witness weekly the best boxing bouts staged in Texas. This is no hearsay. The writer has followed the game in practically every fight town in the state, and is still in touch with these towns in the way of sporting events.

It's seldom that a fighter tries to carry a boxer along for a few rounds, but knocks him out accidentally. But that is what happened Thursday night here when Speedy Sparks, heeding the pleadings of the ringsiders, attempted to hold up Gullion for a few cantos. Promoters received a bad break there, because Gullion substituted for Whittington who ran out on the match. Gullion came from Fort Worth highly touted by Tex Ray, ex-boxer and manager.

Wofford is going to do his best to bring in some battler soon who will lick the tar out of Sparks. No animosity between Wofford and Sparks, but an effort to get the Gotham glovester into a ring with a fighter who will put on a real battle for local fandom.

Spudders Squeeze Out Beaumonters In First, 3 to 2

STEENGRAFE BUCKS BUSH IN BOX DUEL, BUT FAILS TO WIN DECISION

Jungle Heave in Fourth By Joseph Gives Shippers Their Only Markers of Contest

By T. T. HUNT.

Uncle Joseph Bush turned bushwhacker for fair against the Beaumont boys Friday afternoon and got away with it to the exent he and his fellows took first-off the opener with the Exporting gentry, 3 to 2.

Herr Steengrafe was in no slouch, himself, and cooperated to keep the contest from assuming any untoward proportions. He was donated with a nice two-ply starter by his opponent, Bush himself, in the fourth, which he accepted with affability and went on with his pastiming.

The Spudder hurler kept Beaumont's hits scattered in all but that threatening fourth, when after allowing a double and a base hit, he uncorked a grounder which hit nothing but the grandstand. Two Exporters loped home, from third and second. Tightening up then to stave off disaster, he managed to have the next two retired and polished off the last with a whiff.

Spuds Threaten Often.

Several times did the hometownsmen hang a showing of crepe at the slab occupied by Steengrafe, but all but twice did the threat go by, due to fast fielding, general misunderstandings and the turn of the wheel.

Nothing happened until the fourth, barring the third when two singles failed to produce for the Wichitans. To start things off, Taylor slammed out a double that bounced against left field wall. Stansbury followed with a base hit, the ball being grapped 'way off by Turgeon who held Taylor at second. Burns sacrificed for both runners, Knapp filed out to Coombs. Situation better. The Bushwhacker was pitching to Devireros. On a low one, it went real low, bounced just at the plate, and Jonnard and Bush gathered for consolation while two of the Exporters were imported without port license and without revenue, two tallies. Steengrafe whiffed.

Homeling Score Two.

Buddy's bunch grew radical when they came to town and started something. Callaghan opened with a hot one past Steengrafe. White laid a level one over into the left field daisies, Callaghan halting at the keystone. Jonnard flied out to deep right center, and Bush followed with a grounder to first that advanced the runners. Fitzgerald was walked, and took the last vacancy on the paths. Oldfolks Coombs did his little stunt, and lammed the hide off the ball straight through the third-short midriff. It was good for the two runs held ready by Callaghan and White. However, Cecil took a hand in the game from first and in the very dawn of a double steal that failed, was caught and so went out.

Tie Busted.

Nothing of particular interest followed until the tie was broken in the most dramatic manner in the sixth. White singled, Bubber filed out. Bush uncorked a single through the box, sending White on to second. Rabbit hoisted the throw-in some feet too high, Stansbury stopped it, but not in time to tag White at third. The Bushwhacker robbed second meanwhile in the most appealing sprint of the day. Fitzgerald stepped into the hero's column when he lofted one high behind second, which five men could not handle. White came in with the game in his hip pocket.

Pitchers Tighten Up.

Growing more and more unrelenting under the peculiar circumstances attending, both moundsmen grew miserly and kept all safe ones widely marshalled. Bush became thorough in his easy taking of the game, and threw the stands into an uproar when he struck out Pinch-hitter Foreman and Herr Steengrafe to close the ninth and the contest, after Knapp had flied out to Fitzgerald.

Outside of the double play accorded each aggregation, individual stunts such as sweeping up high short ones by fielders were the sensational drawbacks to a high scored game. Art Weis and Osterward were particularly adept and were also right at this. Weis saved many a run when he scooped up Ostergard's high fly behind third near the line in the third frame when two men were running full blast toward home, two down and nobody after it, they thought.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—The cotton market, after a tame opening and an early decline on favorable weather except along the Atlantic coast, coupled with reports that considerable amounts of cotton were headed towards New York from the south and from Bremen for delivery on July contracts, developed a sensational advance in the last hour of trading, which carried July up 124 points from 26.74 near the opening to 27.98 at the close, a net gain for the day of 105 points.

The new crops months which were easier in the early trading later advanced on reports of heavy rains in Alabama and Georgia and rainstorms in South Carolina. Weekly statistics were also bullish. October, which had traded at 23.38 early, or 17 points below the previous close, advanced 79 points to 24.17. December advanced 71 points from 23.26 to 23.97. The close was at the top, showing net gains for the day of 105 points on July and 53 to 59 points on new crop months.

In connection with the big advance of July, it was reported that the spot firm mainly interested in the long end of the near month option had bought up 20,000 bales of spots in southern markets, including 1,500 in the local market, to prevent the cotton being shipped to New York and tendered on July contracts.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds, and Investments

The rate of interest which an investment pays is always directly proportional to the risk it represents.

Whenever a stock or bond salesman offers to sell you a bond or some stock which is reported to yield a large return, look into the element of risk carefully. The only reason for paying large interest on a bond is because the money cannot be borrowed at a lower rate of interest. A share of stock which pays a fat dividend is usually the stock of a well organized company, the shares of which are selling above par, thus making the net return on that stock a nominal return.

This rate of interest is governed by that old economic bugbear "the law of supply and demand." When the demand and risk are great, interest rates soar. When demand and risk are low, interest rates tumble. That is best proven by government bonds. They bear a comparatively low rate of interest, but they are the safest investments which a person can make and consequently do not have to pay high interest.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Stock prices developed moderate strength in today's market after an early period of irregularity resulting from several unsuccessful attempts of professional operators to bring about another general reaction. While profit taking sales were in substantial volume and diligent efforts were made to uncover weak spots, all offerings were well absorbed and the main trend was decidedly upward at the close.

Chief speculative interest again centered in the public utilities, which contributed one third of the 21 new 1924 high records established during the session. American Water Works common, which established a record price for all time at 115 1-2 yesterday, was run up from 102 1-2 to 108 today and then dropped back to 105 for a net gain of three points. Montana Power, which is expected in some quarters to be the keystone of a big western public utility merger, touched a new top at 71 and then eased to 69 5-8 for a net gain of 2 1-8.

Railroad shares came to the fore when a sudden demand developed for the coal carriers, new peak prices being established by Erie common and second preferred, Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and Eastern Illinois. Other strong spots in this group included St. Louis-Southwestern.

Standard industrialists were inclined to heaviness in the early trading, but stiffened later when a brisk demand developed for American Locomotive which climbed more than three points to a new year's maximum figure at 79 7-8. This led to active short covering in Baldwin and American Can, each of which closed about two points higher at 116 5-8 and 116, respectively. U. S. Steel common closed at par, up 1-4.

Oil, rubber, tobacco and sugar shares were rather sluggish. American Sumatra Tobacco common and preferred broke to new low levels for the year. Unsatisfactory trade reports also caused some unsettlement in the textile issues.

Rumors of another general cut in Mid-Continent crude prices cast a shadow over the oil issues, Sinclair breaking through its previous low level to 17 1-4.

WHEAT MAKES FRESH UPTURN

Candian Crop Is Reported Cut Short This Season

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—With the Canadian crop reported as being curtailed several million bushels daily through lack of rain, wheat made a material fresh upturn in price today. Closing quotations here for wheat, although unsettled were 7-8@1c to 1 3-8c net higher, September 1.16 3-8 and December 1.19@1.19 1-8 to 1.19 1-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3 3-8c advanced, oats 1-4c to 5-8c up and provisions at 5c to 27 gain.

Acute scarcity of immediate supplies of corn forced July and September deliveries to a new high price record for the season. Hot weather favoring corn growth, however, eased December and May.

Oats averaged higher with corn.

Provisions, keeping pace with corn and hogs, reached new top prices for the season.

Cattle Trade Very Sluggish At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, July 11.—Sluggishness was in evidence in most departments of the fat cattle trade today but prices were not acually lower. Receipts amounted to 2,600 head of cattle and 700 calves. Cows and mixed shipments represented the chief quota of the day's supply. Calves sold to a fairly good outlet at prices that were in line with the week's advance. Good cows were slow at a range of 3.50@4.00.

An advance 10c placed the hog market back up to the high level of the year. One sale was made at 7.75, and the big end of the receipts went at 7.27 to 7.65. Total receipts were 2,000. Pig values were up 25c, most of the good kinds selling readily at 6.25@6.50.

Buyers were good bidders on sheep and lambs, a supply of 1,250 head clearing early on a fully steady basis. Wethers brought 7.00 and ewes sold at 6.00.

DUN'S REPORT

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Nothing in the week's report indicates any fundamental change in general business, but none is so expected at this period. It is normally the time of year for abatement of operations, except in the sale of summer specialties and the further slowing down in most directions in a seasonal trend. Some revival of buying interest in certain textile divisions is an encouraging phase and the packer hide market is more active and firmer, but the main condition is still one of limited demand and lower prices. The prospect of smaller grain crops this year has caused appreciably higher prices for the principal cereals, yet Dun's list of wholesale quotations for the nineteenth consecutive week shows more reductions than increases. The excess of declines is, however, much narrower than in the recent past, and these is evidence that prices in some quarters have reached the point where sellers are not disposed to make additional concessions.

Candidates In Speeches Here Center Attack On Ku Klux Klan

ALL DENY ANY MEMBERSHIP

Speakers Appear At Invitation of County Democratic Club

In speeches characterized by flaying of the ku klux klan, several candidates for office subject to the democratic primary in July spoke at the American Legion open air arena Friday evening. Practically every candidate announced at the beginning of his speech that he was not and had never been a member of the klan. Judging from the nature of the speeches it appeared that each candidate realized that the klan question would play an important part in the coming election.

Joe Hatchitt had charge of the meeting and introduced each speaker. In his opening speech Mr. Hatchitt praised John W. Davis, the democratic nominee for president and predicted that Davis is the logical man to carry the democratic party to victory in November. Mr. Hatchitt also paid a glowing tribute to former President Wilson.

Parnell.

J. D. Parnell, candiate for state senate, was the first candidate to speak. He traced his record as state representative and told the audience what he had done for this district. Mr. Parnell said it was his object to protect the small operator in this district. Mr. Parnell also said that he was not and had never been a member of the klan.

Martin.

C. L. Martin of Seymour, candidate for the state senate was the next to speak. In beginning his speech Mr. Martin declared that he was not "and never will be" a member of the klan. Martin told the voters that he would support a fair child labor law in Texas. He also added that he was an advocate of good roads, criminal and educational reforms.

For County Judge.

C. M. McFarland, candidate for judge of the county court at law, traced his record as a resident of Wichita county. He said that he had lived in Wichita Falls for a number of years and had been practicing law in this city during that time. He added that he was not a member of the klan and there was no possibility of his being a member.

Humorous Side.

O. E. Bean, candidate for judge of the county court at law, kept the crowd in a roar of laughter during his entire speech. He said that he had not practiced law in Wichita Falls for two years although he had hung his shingle over his door. During those two years he had "practiced economy." He said that "he sympathized with the klan as he was sorry for anyone that had been misled. If the members of the klan are planning on dying and going to heaven I hope they do so before the election in July. I do not believe in any secrecy in any government."

West Pointer.

R. J. Daniels, candidate for the legislature place No. 1, traced his history. He told the audience that as a young man he had attended West Point and had enlisted at the opening of the war and "believe me when I say that there is no glory in war but the glory of conclusion." Mr. Daniels said that he was a teacher in one of the local schools and said that it was his intention, if elected, to serve the people at all times.

Against Moon Parties.

F. G. Swanson, candidate for legislature place No. 1, told the audience that he was "against midnight pasture proceedure. Such members of a party that meet in the pastures at night have disqualified themselves as members of the democratic party. I do not believe in a man that can be a daylight democrat in the day and a midnight pasture democrat at night." Mr. Swanson said that he had been opposed to the klan since its organization and asked anyone who was a member to rise to his feet and say "that he was not ashamed of it." He traced what work he would do for this district if elected.

Figures On Floggings.

E. Van Deventer, candidate for legislature place No. 2, said that he was not a member of the klan and was not in sympathy with any of its principles. "It is a contest between a visible and an invisible government. It is a contest between the court house and the pasture laws. There have been 40 whippings in Wichita Falls during the past seven months." Mr. Van Deventer said that he would support any law that would take the children from the factories and place them in the schools.

Sartin On Record.

B. D. Sartin, candidate for re-election for county judge, traced his record while in office. He said that two years ago he had promised the people of Wichita county three things and that he was appearing before them at the present time with those promises fulfilled.

"I promised to reduce the tax rates and I have done so," he asserted. "Property valuation has decreased from 77 to 67 million dollars in this county while I was in office. I promised the people of this county good roads and they have them. The Seymour road is under construction, the Petrolia and Charley roads are being improved, an extension of pavement is being added to the Burnett street road to the Iowa Park pike and an extension is being made on the Holliday street road to the Clay county line. More than one-half million dollars has been expended on roads in localities that were getting practically nothing when I went into office. I promised a fair trial to every man, no matter how low or how high in life and I have done this to the best of my ability."

Judge Sartin said he had been re[illegible] president of the county [illegible] and that it was his [illegible] with other counties in securing

Mail Brings Money For Aid To Mother Who Fights to Keep Her Six Children Together

Numerous donations came Friday to the Record News Milk and Ice Fund to be used to help support a mother and her six children who had been left to shift for themselves by the husband and father.

The mail brought several donations, while others brought their donations in person to the newspaper office.

At times the deserted mother with her six small children of whom an article was written in Wednesday's paper, was forced to go without bread because of the great call of the Salvation army. A certain citizen of Wichita Falls, hearing of the plight of the mother and her babies, went to the Salvation army and offered to supply the family with two quarts of milk daily for the remainder of the hot summer months. This will mean just another cup of milk for the hungry children every night and a few more pounds monthly added to the slender frame of the three months old baby. Other also have responded and the mother obtained wood and was washing Friday to support her children whose father deserted them several weeks ago.

Any money sent to The Record News Milk and Ice fund will be turned over to the welfare organization and distributed to needy cases from that place.

Six dollars were received at the Record News office Friday to be given to the deserted mother. The letters are as follows:

Gentlemen:—

"Please see that the mother and six children spoken of in this morning's paper get this little lift enclosed.

Very truly,
Uncle Charley."

Bridgetown, Texas.

"Record News:—

I saw in your paper this morning about a woman with six children in need of funds. Find $2 enclosed and please see that she gets the money.

Yours truly,
A Smithson."

"Record News:—

Enclosed please find check for $2 for the lady with the children I read about in your paper. If you put this in print please don't use my name. Just put it cash and I thank you.

A sender."

STOLEN AUTO IS RECOVERED

Theft Charge May Be Filed Against Former Electra Agent

Charges of theft of property over the value of $50 will probably be filed today against a man, former Overland automobile agent at Electra, who was arrested Friday morning by State Rangers McCormick and Aldredge in connection with the supposed theft of an automobile over a year ago. The man was taken in custoday in Electra yesterday morning and is now held in the county jail.

McCormick has been at work on the case for over a year.

Early in 1923, it is said, the man took several cars from the local agency to Electra in an effort to sell them. Shortly afterwards he reported to the office that one of the machines had been stolen. Eventually the insurance on the car was paid by the insurance company.

Later however, it was found that the machine had been taken by the agent to Abilene and stored in a garage there for over a year. A few days ago it was brought to Electra and stored there.

The man now under arrest is said to have confessed storing the car at Abilene and to have made the false report as to its theft.

ADJUTANT SWANSON SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Officials at the Salvation Army headquarters Friday said that the condition of Adjutant David G. Swanson is rapidly improving and that he will be back at work within a few days. Adjutant Swanson recently underwent an operation to have his tonsils removed and for the first two days improved very slowly. He has been in ill health for several weeks as the result of a breakdown he suffered following the Japan earthquake in which country he was working at the time.

PROGRESS ON BURNETT ROAD

Still Have Hopes For Eighth Street Paving Project

Good progress is being made on laying of base for the new brick pavement on Burnett street and it is expected that actual laying of brick can be started within a short time. The concrete foundation has been poured on Burnett between Eighth and Seventh and work is now going ahead between Sixth and Seventh.

It was reported yesterday that some hopes were now held out for the eighth street paving between Denver and Filmore. This project, which has been held up by a shortage of brick brought on by a manufacturer's war, has been pending for over a year. The contractors now, however, have hopes of obtaining sufficient brick from a Kansas factory.

Laying of concrete base has started on the east end of the stretch.

FAIR PREMIUM LIST IS READY

Will Be Mailed Out Next Friday, Officials Say

The premium list of the third annual Texas-Oklahoma Fair association will be ready for mailing and distribution by Friday. Practically all of the catalogue has been printed and the remainder is expected to be off the press by Wednesday, according to R. E. Shepherd, fair secretary.

The catalogue will be a marked improvement over the one of 1923. Every feature of expositions and fairs will be included. In most departments the premiums have been increased, and this has added prestige to the fair.

Wide Interest.

Many requests for the catalogue are being received by Mr. Shepherd. The premium list is to be sent into practically all state of the union. Many of the requests are from breeders of the north and east.

A color section will be one of the features of the premium list. The more important features are to be displayed in the section.

Window, football, and auto and horse racing cards have been received and will soon be displayed. Most of the billboard advertising has been received from the printers. A contract has been let for the posting which is to start July 20.

Fair Trips.

A large territory will be included in the itinery of the fair trips this year, to start about Sept. 1, and continue until the opening day of the fair Sept. 29. It is planned to use many automobile banners and these are to be put on the back of cars beginning August 10.

A more extensive publicity campaign will be carried out this year than the two previous expositions. The advertising appropriation is larger this year. Every effort will be made to make the exposition equal to any fair of the southwest.

BODY OF GIRL SENT TO HICO

Sidney Youngblood, Driver of Car, in Statement to Officers

The body of 12-year-old Ada Lois Weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Weeks of 1302 Sixth street, who was struck down and fatally injured by an automobile Thursday at 1 p. m. at Seventh and Lamar was shipped to Hico this Saturday morning at 2:45 o'clock for burial.

Sidney Youngblood, driver of the car, appeared at the police station Friday morning to make a statement in connection with the accident. He was taken to the county court house where he told officials details of the affair.

He was quoted as saying he was going east on Seventh street at a slow rate of speed. A Cadillac car was coming west on Seventh and attempted to make a left hand turn at Lamar stopping near the center of the corner. A Ford car dashed across the intersection, going north on Lamar, he said, and when he turned slightly to the right to avoid hitting the Ford, the little girl appeared. Someone called to her, he said, and she stopped and started back to the curb. The right fender struck her.

He helped the girl into an automobile which took her to the hospital, the statement continued, adding that he did not believe the girl badly injured at the time.

No charges had been filed last night.

ROGERS TALKS AT COUNTY LINE

Traces Growth of Ballot Method Of Government

The development of the ballot and its importance in any form of free government was discussed by Judge Guy Rogers at a meeting held Friday night at the County Line school house. The affair was one of the community events held regularly.

In his remarks, Judge Rogers took up the various forms of government and traced the growth of the ballot form of government down to its present state. He touched on the evils of the lethargy shown by the average voter of today and pointed out that the exercise of his franchise at the polls was practically the only way the average man could have a voice in his government.

The address was wound up with a discussion of the fundamentals which should guide a voter in making his selection of public officials.

Negro Bell Boys Sell Liquor To Prohi Agent

The world was as black as their own dusky hides for two negro bell boys at a local hotel Friday.

Both knew that they were simply out of luck, and both bemoaned the fate that had made them the goats instead of putting in their pockets a sizeable profit from the sale of spirits ferment.

As a result of their inadvertent zeal, both were hounden to the United States of America in the sum of $750 each, while pending against them are federal charges of sale of intoxicating liquor.

One of the two, giving his name as Wallace Sam, sold a pint of liquor to Federal Prohibition Agent Weipton Thursday night and the other, Melvin Barton, made the same mistake Friday morning, the agent asserts.

Both were given hearings before U. S. Commissioner Lantz yesterday morning and their bonds set at $750. They were perfected and the negroes released.

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason.
