Tax Break Due In Nixon Report

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon was expected to ask Congress today to begin removing the nation's poor from the federal income tax rolls and to give a better tax break to middle income workers.

The White House planned to send Nixon's interim tax reform proposal to Congress at 11 a.m. CST. The specifics of the Nixon program, however, probably will not be available until Tuesday when administration officials appear to testify before the House Ways and Means Committee on the tax reform package.

In his message to Congress the President was expected to ask enough loopholes in the federal tax law be either reduced or closed to permit at least some of the nation's five million poor families to be exempt from taxation.

The goal was revealed last week by Arthur F. Burns, Nixon's top domestic White House adviser, who said it was the eventual aim of the administration to take all persons in the poverty category off the income tax rolls. Burns said this would be done by eliminating or reducing the "tax shelters" and using the added revenue to offset the loss from removal of the poverty category from taxation.

Treasury officials indicated the cost of this would initially be slightly more than half a billion dollars, with a maximum of approximately $2 billion if all those officially designated as living in poverty were removed at once. The poverty line for an urban family of four is considered to be an income of $3,300 per year.

There was some indication the President's tax reform message would contain a call for some form of minimum income tax that would end the present system in which some persons earning a million dollars can completely escape taxes.

The proposal today was the first in a three-step plan by the Nixon administration to reform the tax laws. The message today is an interim move and is expected to be followed in June by a second set of loophole closing proposals. Between the two messages, according to Burns, Nixon can be expected to appoint a blue ribbon commission to begin a review of the entire internal revenue code with instructions to come up with recommendations that can be submitted to Congress by January.

Nixon spent the weekend at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, keeping a close watch on troubles in Czechoslovakia and the resumed reconnaisance flights off Korea.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today asked Congress to reduce the income tax surcharge from 10 to 5 per cent midway in the next fiscal year and to repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit immediately to help curb inflation.

At the same time, in a special tax reform message to Congress, Nixon called for removal of the poor from the federal tax rolls by the enactment of a "low income allowance," along with a minimum income tax for those in upper income brackets.

Sirhan Jury Eyes Penalty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Whatever the penalty decided by the jury for Sirhan B. Sirhan —life imprisonment or the gas chamber—it could be more than a year before his fate is certain.

Should he be sentenced to death, the sentence would be automatically appealed under California law. If the defense decided to appeal the conviction, it could take a year before the case is resolved.

The seven men and five women who convicted Sirhan last week of first degree murder for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy today heard arguments on what should be his punishment.

Chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper contends Sirhan was mentally ill and the slaying was "a political act growing out of the mind of a child."

He entered the case with a declaration his sole aim was to save the 25-year-old Arab from the gas chamber and he was expected to stress today testimony by psychiatric experts that Sirhan was a paranoid schizophrenic. He said his presentation would be "extremely brief."

Deputy Dist. Atty. John Howard said he would leave it up to the jurors to fix the punishment. He was expected to stress Sirhan's evident lack of remorse over Kennedy's death and ask the jurors to consider

Sniper Shot To Death in Texas Town

SAN BENITO, Tex. (UPI) — A sniper fired eight rounds from a .22 caliber rifle from atop a tortilla factory Sunday, wounding two men slightly before being shot to death from the street.

Police Chief Bat Cortez said the sniper was Jorge Fernandez. He was in his late 30s.

Cortez said Fernandez had a criminal record and had been under a doctor's care for alcoholism at the time of the shooting.

The wounded men, Joe Elizarde, 25, and Enrique Ybarra, both of San Benito, were not seriously hurt. Fernandez was Elizarde's uncle.

Police began climbing the stairs to flush out the sniper, and told dog warden Abraham Tamayo, 37, to fire from the street if he saw a man appear from the roof. Tamayo fired just as officers were naring the roof. Fernandez died of wounds at a San Benito hospital.

Rivers On Rise in Midwest

Old Man River kept rolling along today to one of the highest crests of the century in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. The Mouse River will be a bit tamer at Minot, N.D., officials said.

The mighty Mississippi, its floodwaters rolling southward, closed bridges and roads today. North of Las Crosse, Wis., high winds whipped up waves which eroded banks Sunday.

At Minot, where 12,000 of the town's 35,000 residents had left their homes, civil defense officials said Sunday the Mouse River would not crest as high as had been feared.

With flood stage about 14 feet, the Mouse was at 13 feet early today. It had been expected to rise two more feet by about Wednesday, but officials said they now expected it to rise only a few inches more.

Thirty mile an hour winds caused waves that Sunday eroded the banks on Lake Onalaska, north of La Crosse.

Bids Due Today in Bond Issue

Pampa school trustees will receive bids today for sale of the school district's $900,000 school improvement bonds, Bob Davis, of Columbian Securities of Amarillo, the district's fiscal agent, will direct the sale at 7:30 p.m. at Cerver Educational Service Center.

"Anyone interested in the bond sale, or in progress of the school district's improvement program may attend this meeting," Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent, said. "The type of firms usually elegible to buy school bonds are banks and investment firms."

After the bond sale, the next step is to write specifications on the 13 projects, get low bids and start construction, Dr. Malone said.

The district's architectural firm, Brasher, Goyette, and Rapier of Lubbock has started work on specifications, for Mann and Wilson Elementary School cafeterias, but probably the lights and track will be the first project started, he said.

"It isn't because we think lights and a track are the most important, but we have a time bind on that to have it ready for the football season," Dr. Malone said.

Other projects included in the district's $900,000 school bond issue election which was passed by voters April 1, are several improvements for Pampa High School- a new science and library wing, band and music hall, auditorium renovations, third floor classrooms, vocational-technical wing and girls' gymnasium.

Other projects approved were school parking lots, parkings and playground improvements for Pampa Junior High School, miscellaneous heating, ceiling, restroom, and roof repair at Baker, Mann and Wilson Elementary schools, and administrative offices for Carver Center.

Outlawed IRA is Blamed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Northern Ireland police today blamed the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) for a wave of post-office firebombings and water supply sabotage during the country's worst weekend of civil rights disorder.

A spokesman in Dublin denied the IRA had any "hand, act or part" in the incidents. Police in Belfast said, "We regard these explosions and fires as the work of the IRA."

A police spokesman said, "We do not know if they were local IRA or flying columns from the South (Republic of Ireland)."

The IRA seeks a united Ireland but has not used violence in Northern Ireland since 1956. It was born after the 1916 Easter Rebellion against Britain and led the fight for independence against the Black and Tans—British troops.

British troops were ordered to guard vital installations in Ulster. Army chiefs and Ulster police were holding secret talks this afternoon to make final plans for using the 2,500 army men based in Northern Ireland to reinforce security at "key points."

The decision to ask for troops from British units stationed in Northern Ireland came at a six-hour Ulster cabinet meeting Sunday night after a weekend of violence in which:

—About 10,000 Roman Catholics gave police two hours Sunday to get out of a riot-torn region of Londonderry or face a mob attack. The police retreated.

—Two 30-inch pipelines carrying water to Belfast were blown up Saturday and authorities ordered rationing for all but hospitals.

—At least 200 protestors and as many police were injured in a night of rioting Saturday.

—Civil rights demonstrators staged sit-downs across the troubled country.

Bernadette Devlin, 21, elected last week to parliament from mid-Ulster, said she thought the House to Study Split On Parks, Wildlife Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Splitting the State Parks and Wildlife Department into two separate organizations will prevent one of the functions being treated as a "stepchild," Rep. Rayford Price, D-Palestine, said today.

Price predicted the House would approve his plan today for dividing the department and creating new boards to direct activities of the two new organizations.

He said a poll of most House members last week showed his proposal was favored about eight-to-one over the present parks and wildlife alignment.

"I think it will do away with one of the functions being a stepchild," Price said. "I don't think one department can handle both the parks and the wildlife functions without one of them being dominant."

Parks Separate

Price's bill would dissolve the Parks and Wildlife Department and set up a Department of Wildlife and a separate Department of Parks.

The parks department would be governed by a six-member board, with the six members appointed by the governor to represent all geographical areas of the state.

The wildlife department would have a nine-member board chosen on the same criteria. No two members of either board could come from the same county or the same senatorial district, Price said.

If approved by both houses and signed by the governor, the bill would become effective Sept. 1, 1969, Price said. It would do away with the present three-man parks and wildlife board.

Senate Tough

Price predicted the proposal will have "rougher sledding" in the Senate, but declined to predict its outcome there. Sen. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, is the Senate sponsor. He is expected to ask for a Senate committee hearing on the bill this week.

Price said legislators cannot delay final approval of the bill too long, because its adoption would require changes in allocation of funds in the appropriations bill for the next biennium.

The appropriations bill is now in the hands of a 10-member conference committee.

The Parks and Wildlife Department was originated in 1963 at the urging of Gov. John Connally. It was created through the merger of the old Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission and the State Parks Board.

Price said splitting the department into two separate organizations "will not cost any more, and I think it will give us agencies that are more responsive to needs of the state in sporting and conservation activities."

Gov. Smith has recommended separating the two departments.

Police Probe Pampa Rape

As she was walking from her home on east Kingsmill to her pastor's house, a 17-year-old housewife told police, she was attacked, thrown to the ground and raped by a "large white man" who threatened her if she made an outcry.

The alleged attack occurred about 10:30 p.m. Sunday as she walked south from Kingsmill to Russell, the girl said.

Police Officers T. J. Hill and J.E. Woods were dispatched to the scene aafter the girl had telephoned, and reported they tried to question her.

"But she seemed in a state of shock," the patrolmen's report noted, and could give little additional information.

The young woman said that she and her husband were estranged and that she had not seen him since Saturday afternoon. She agreed to undergo a medical examination.

The young woman accompanied patrolmen to police headquarters where she was further interrogated by Lt. Jesse Goad. Her husband also was called in and admitted that he had left home the previous day.

No suspect had been apprehended as of this morning but one of the police officers investigating the case said he had seen "several hobnes" in cruising the area Sunday.

The girl went home with her father and was to be questioned further when her condition had improved.

The young woman also agreed to a polygragh test.

Speech, Hearing Clinic Starts Here Tuesday

Proceeds from the Junior Service League's 1968 Charity Ball will finance the 1969 annual Speech and Hearing Clinic for pre-school children Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

As a community service, the free speech and hearing tests will be given to all Pampa children who will be first graders in September. Buddy Stephens, director of the Amarillo speech and Hearing Center, and his personnel will administer the tests in the First Christian Church according to Mrs. James Evans, chairman.

Testing time is from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day for the 430 children enrolled in the clinic. Enrollment information was taken from the school census. Letters were sent to parents of the children with appointment cards for each child. Pampa public schools, St. Matthew's Day School and St. Vincent parochial schools are participating in the annual clinic.

League committee members who are arranging the clinic are Mrs. James Evans, chairman; Mrs. Jack Curtis, Mrs. John Warner, Mrs. A.S. and Mrs. James C. Smith.

Eight Marines Killed In Raid

HAPPY MARINE has good cause for cheer. Pfc. Sam Hampton points to an enemy .50 caliber round protuding from his helmet. Hampton was flying as an aerial gunner near Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone when he had his close call.

Heavy Fighting Near DMZ

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops firing machineguns and antitank rockets stormed a U.S. Marine outpost overlooking the demilitarized zone today and captured part of it, killing eight Leathernecks and wounding 25.

Military spokesmen announcing the battle said the embattled unit of the 9th Marines called in "Spooky" gunships and artillery barrages that drove the North Vietnamese from the battlefield lit by flares. Thirty-five Communist bodies were found.

It took the Leathernecks two hours to break the North Vietnamese attack on the camp they had set up for the night 200 yards below six-mile-wide DMZ that serves as a border between North and South Vietnam.

It was the second time in four days that the guerrillas had seized part of a U.S. outpost below the DMZ as the focus of war action turned to the northern front.

Last Friday, about 150 North Vietnamese partially overran a Marine camp two miles south of the DMZ. They killed 11 Marines, wounded 23 and lost 13 of their own slain, U.S. war communiques said.

The increase in combat to the north was accompanied by reports from U.S. military sources that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were pulling away from cities further south to regroup and rest for another offensive thrust.

According to these sources, the Communists will continue their shellings of towns and military camps but will not mount a major drive until they come out of their hideouts with fresh soldiers and new equipment.

American soldiers pushing into those hideouts Sunday killed 77 guerrillas northwest of Saigon and captured a Communist base camp containing a

DOWNING TO YANKEES

NEW YOR K (UPI)—Left-hander pitcher Al Downing rejoined the New York Yankees Sunday from their Syracuse farm club in the International League.

Downing, who reported late to spring training because of a salary dispute, will accompany the team to Boston bu' will not be put on the team's 25-man roster yet.

Bucher's Wife Says LBJ Remiss in Duty

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Rose Bucher, wife of the captain of the Pueblo, accused former President Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday of being "remiss in his duty" to rescue the captured Pueblo crew and said American servicemen "now have good reason to question whether they will be supported" in misfortune.

In a copyrighted article in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, Mrs. Bucher complained that she got the brushoff from civilian and Navy officials from Johnson on down. She said Capt. James Otis Mayo, political and military adviser to the State Department's Bureau of East Asian and Pacific Affairs, accused her of "harassing" him when she called him for news of her husband, Cmdr. Lloyd M. (Pete) Bucher.

'Get a Rocking Chair'

"When I asked him 'What would your wife do if she was in my position?' he told me, 'If you were my wife and I were Pete Bucher, I'd like you to get yourself a nice rocking chair by a quiet lake and stop asking questions.'"

"The Pueblo incident shows our country did not stand behind its men," she wrote. "Our mistake is that we didn't react in the first 24 hours after the ship was taken. My husband feels as I do: The only action for the United States to take was to retaliate with military force. This was what he and his crew were sure would happen in those first few days, and they were prepared to die for their country."

Johnson Remiss

She said the facts show that Johnson was "remiss in his duty to bring back our men and in tolerating the illegal seizure of an American Naval ship on the high seas . . . by permitting a pipsqueak country, North Korea, to embarrass our great nation."

"It appears to me that servicemen everywhere now have good reason to question whether they will be supported should they also fall into misfortune," she said. "It further haunts me that the morale of the American fighting men cannot help but be negatively affected."

Mrs. Bucher said that when her husband realized the United States was not going to retaliate, he told the North Koreans they could kill him if they sent his men and the sh p back home.

Jordan, Israel Troops Continue Heavy Fighting

By United Press International

Israeli warplanes attacked Jordanian positions battling Israeli troops along a 20-mile front today. Jordan said it shot down two of the aircraft. Egypt announced its commandos were raiding Israel across the Suez Canal.

A Jordanian spokesman said two Israeli planes were downed during five hours of fighting involving tanks, artillery, mortars and machineguns. He said 40 Israeli soldiers had been killed or wounded and put Arab casualties at one dead and 10 wounded.

There was no confirmation from Israeli sources that any planes had been lost or that casualties were heavy.

1968 Robust One For U.S. Papers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Daily newspaper circulation grew during the last year at a rate faster than that of the adult population and advertising revenue rose faster than the growth of the national economy, newspaper executive of the United States and Canada were told today.

The annual report of the American Newspaper said: "The year 1968 has been a robust one for the daily newspaper business."

More than 1,500 executives were expected to attend the four-day meeting which this year "has an accent on youth," according to ANPA General Manager Stanford Smith.

One of the confention panel sessions will feature journalism students and interns looking at the business from the standpoint of youth. Another will be composed of management men under 35 from the editorial, business, and advertising fields.

ANPA membership stood at an all-time high of 1,037 newspapers, a net game of 20 since the last convention.

The opening event of publishers week today was the annual United Press International breakfast meeting of publishers and editors in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, with addresses by Merriman Smith, UPI White House reporter, and Louis Cassels, a UPI senior editor in Washington.

The featured speaker at the annual associated press luncheon today was Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Stanford Smith's report to the ANPA membership said that advertising, circulation, employment, and newsprint consumption all had increased in 1968.

Peace Rally Ends in Riot

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A "Teen-Agers Rally for Decency" which drew 45,000 persons degenerated Sunday into a battle of fists and rocks between white and black youths. At least 200 persons were injured and 133 arrested.

Some 650 police, including riot units and mounted patrols, swept Memorial Stadium parking lots and nearby streets to rout the youths.

Authorities said at least 200 were stabbed, beaten or pelted with rocks in the fighting which spread to the nearby Greenmount Avenue area, scene of last year's most severe rioting.

Police said they arrested 133 persons at the stadium area and in pars of the downtown section. They were charged with disorderly conduct and assault.

Scores were treated at a first aid station at the stadium, and nearly 120 were taken to five nearby hospitals. Three youths were admitted, one with a stab wound and two with concussions. Eight policemen also were hurt.

Deputy Police Commissioner Wade H. Poole said there was no organized outbreak, "just rotten kids."

"It's the same all over the country, 10 per cent of the kids start the trouble and the other 90 per cent get blamed for it," Poole said.

City Councilman Dr. Emerson Julian, a Negro, scoffed a the percentage figures. "There were too many hoodlums in the stands," he said. "There was too much emphasis on rock 'n' roll music and not enough on decency."

Organizers of the rally, a group of teenagers backed by city comptroller Hyman Pressman, wanted to outdo a similar rally held in Miami which attracted 30,000 teenagers to the Orange Bowl.

State's Atty. Charles Moylan said the organizers "were extremely ill-advised, to say the least, to bring 45,000 teen-agers together on a hot Sunday afternoon."

Ten thousand sandbags were thrown into one gap in two hours.

"There is no water pouring over but the emergency is still on," an official said.

Parts of Prairie du Chien Wis., have been flooded for some time now. Parts of the town are too low for dikes to be practical.

Flooding in six upper Midwest states had been blamed for at least 10 deaths, driven 25,000 persons from their homes and caused more than $70 million in damage.

Minnesota had nine deaths and Illinois one. North Dakota had counted 15,000 homeless, South Dakota 4,000, Minnesota 3,10, Illinois 950, Iowa 90 and Wisconsin 800. Flood damage was estimated at $46 million in Minnesota.

"the effect on the democratic process of political assassinations."

Howard said he would sum up the state's case "in 20 minutes."

Should the jury decree Sirhan die in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison, Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker could reduce the sentence to life imprisonment.

Death sentences are automatically reviewed by the California Supreme Court. There have been no executions in the state for two years and 80 condemned men are on death row.

Cooper said he intended to file a notice of appeal on the verdict, but he indicated it was uncertain whether he would press the appeal immediately.

"Partly it depends on whether someone comes up with some money to conduct a defense," said Cooper, who served without fee along with attorneys Russell E. Parsons and Emile Zola Berman.

Cooper estimated it would be at least a year before Sirhan's appeal—if there is one—would be completed.

Meanwhile, preparations continued to ready a three-cell suite for Sirhan at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville. Authorities said Sirhan would be incarcerated there indefinitely while he is examined by prison officials.

Skies Clear Over Most Of Texas

The skies were clear over Texas early today but the view from the ground in some places was not so open.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said today patches of ground fog covered parts of the Texas Gulf Coast and portions of East Texas but was predicted to clear up after the sun got a good crack at it.

A high pressure area covering the state dried up most of the moisture that dumped up to an inch of rain in parts of the South Plains, Central and East Texas Sunday.

The forecast called for fair weather at least through Tuesday and a tiny drop in temperatures in the wake of a cold front plowing through the state.

But in advance of the front the temperatures picked up from Sunday's cool readings. The Weather Bureau said the front would reach the coast by late Tuesday and the skies were expected to be clear and fair at least until then.

Abilene was the wet spot in the state Sunday with just a shade more than an inch of rain.

Temperatures across Texas were cool with readings in the 50s and 60s crowding the charts.

hospital, a bicycle repair shop, rice milling equipment and bunkers enough to house 600 men.

Marines southwest of the nation's second biggest city, Da Nang, turned up a North Vietnamese equipment cache that contained eight trucks without engines or tires, two truck engines, 20 switchboards and one printing press.

The fighting and discovery northwest of Saigon Sunday coincided with a 25-round rocket attack against the U.S. military bastion at Da Nang, 380 miles north of Saigon. Overall losses were described as light.

A similar Viet Cong mortar salvo Sunday into South Vietnam's southernmost provincial capital, Ca Mau, killed eight persons and wounded 60, most of them at a center for Viet Cong defectors, spokesmen said.

American headquarters said U.S. infantrymen and paratroopers accounted for the 77 Communists slain in two battles 27 and 28 miles northwest of Saigon Sunday. Four GIs died and five were wounded.

The heaviest clash near Trang Bang, long a village fostering Viet Cong, raged four hours with U.S. 25th Infantry Division troopers calling in air strikes and artillery salvos that helped kill 41 Reds.

Troopers of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division nearby killed 20 North Vietnamese soldiers, again behind barrages from big American guns and helicopter gunships spewing bullets.

Three Die, Six Hospitalized in Gas Explosion

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (UPI) — A gas leak at the American Oil Co. Sunday night killed three and hospitalized six others, spokesmen said today.

A company spokesmen identified the dead as Clarence W. Lester, 28, of Texas City. Collis Lee Wenning, 23, of Galveston, both employes, and an ambulance driver for Emken-Linton Funeral Home, Terry Garris, 20.

He said the employes were working atop a tower about 9 p.m. Sunday when "a gas" yet to be identified, leaked to where the men were working. The spokesman said the ambulance driver was apparently overcome by the gas when he went to retrieve the victims.

No cause for the gas leak has been released.

Man Say's He's Beaten, Robbed Here

A strong-arm robbery early Sunday morning was reported to police by Lupe Galaris, 1011 E. Gordon, who said he was attacked Saturday night by three Negroes thrown to the ground and robbed of his billfold and $60.

The complainant said he had offered the three a ride as he was leaving a local lounge. They had driven around several minutes, he said, when the three assailants told him to stop. It was then that they attacked and robbed him, he said. He received several kicks to the abdomen.

Galaris returned to his car after the men left and another Negro, Willie Mills, friend of Galaris, stopped and told him to summon police. He found his wallet empty in the road.

He could not name his attackers, the man said, but he believed he could identify them personally.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—CBS-TV has become the first major commercial network to adopt a general policy permitting 'advance reviews of its programs by professional television critics.

The policy goes into effect this week, although it was announced too late to include advance reviews of tonight's one-hour CBS-TV special, "Spoon River," a dramatized version of Edgar Lee Masters' classic "Spoon River Anthology."

To television viewers, the new policy means columnists will be able to provide readers with critiques of some programs before they are shown rather than merely afterward.

In short, many viewers will be able to get an advance line on whether certain CBS-TV shows are worth tuning in at all, instead of finding out by hard experience.

CBS-TV's two chief competitors in the network business are, however, not as yet going along with the breakthrough. An NBC-TV memo has indicated that network is not at all in sympathy with the CBS-TV decision. And ABC-TV is presumed to be pretty much in agreement with NBC-TV.

One of the events that apparently provoked CBS-TV's decision for advance reviews was the recent senate investigation into video sex and violence.

A Senate suggestion in this investigation was that the three networks submit shows for pre-screenings by the code authority of the National Association of Broadcasters.

CBS President Frank Stanton opposed this suggestion strongly, seeing in it a seed of possible censorship. He noted that CBS-TV has its own pre-screening procedures for both the network and its affiliate stations.

With all the networks under severe government and public pressure, however, the advance reviews by critics—if they wish to write them—tend to divert heat from broadcasters as the sole arbiters of the quality of their programs.

In other words, CBS-TV now can say that it is indeed offering pre-screenings to those in the public outside its own intramural bailiwick: in short, to critics.

The premise, obviously, is that it is better to get some bad advance notices from critics—and perhaps lower ratings—than to be a singular target for pressures from government, parts of the public and a few industry quarters.

In the past, there has been a sort of gentlemen's agreement between networks and critics concerning advance screenings. All the cards belong to the networks since they don't have to show programs in advance if they don't want to.

However, in order to accomodate tight schedules by critics, they have agreed to pre-screenings so long as reviews don't appear until after the shows have been seen by viewers—thus protecting a net work from possible loss of audience.

On rare occasions, invariably when a network has a fine broadcast it knows will get good notices—and wants to promote it strongly—the edict of no advance reviews has been relaxed.

Unquestionably the best part of CBS-TV's new policy is that some quality shows that might otherwise be overlooked by audiences will benefit from advance notices calling wide attention to them. CBS-TV's chief job, of course, is to provide the quality shows to call attention to.

"We don't expect all the reviews to be good," says Robert D. Wood, president of CBS' video network. "But we do expect that the public will be the chief beneficiary of good reviewing."

According to Wood, critics will be able to review, in advance, special programs, the premieres of new regular series in the fall and, occasionally, episodes of continuing shows.

"The only programs which will not be made available for advance screening," he said, "will be CBS news broadcasts of 'breaking' stories and those involving last-minute editing."

Window on the World:

Romania Next

Having achieved the ouster of Alexander Dubcek, liberal-minded first secretary of the Czechoslovak Communist party, the Kremlin now may be expected to tighten the screws on Romania's Nikolai Ceausescu, whose outspoken criticisms frequently have aroused Russian wrath. Romania has told Moscow she cannot accept any of its new ideas about limited sovereignty for Communist nations.

Sabrejets to Malaysia:

Neither Britain nor the Philippines are happy with Australia's gift of 12 Sabrejet fighters to Malaysia. The Philippines sees it as support for Malaysia against Philippine claims to a large chunk of Malaysian Sabah. The British had plans of their own for the Malaysian air force, beginning with sale of the British made sub-sonic Hunter fighter and later of the more sophisticated and costlier Harrier Jump jet. A five-nation conference in Canberra in June is supposed to discuss defense plans for Southeast Asia after British military withdrawal in 1971. It is more likely now that it will turn into a British sales pitch.

Closing Missile Gap:

Reliable military sources in Paris say that France is closing the gap in her missile program after successful testing of her Polaris-type rocket in her Atlantic Coast testing ground. Technical difficulties with the flight stabilization system have delayed for months the construction of the two-stage solid fuel rockets which will arm the three nuclear submarines now under construction in French arsenals.

De Gaulle Warning:

President Charles de Gaulle, worried about the lack of popular enthusiasm for his April 27 constitutional referendum, may go on nationwide television to warn again that he will resign if French voters turn down his proposal to decentralize the government and reform the senate. Latest public opinion polls show that 55 per cent of the 28 million French voters favor the plan. Forty-five per cent oppose it.

Vermont has had three different State Houses in its history.

WANDA MAE HUFF, WOMEN'S NEWS EDITOR

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A very dear friend of mine has three children all in school. Her husband is begging her to go to Florida with him for a two-week vacation, but she is the type who "can not leave" her children.

Her husband works hard and he needs a vacation, but she says she won't go without the children. He says with the children it's no vacation.

It's not like she'd be leaving them on a doorstep. She has good help in the house and her own mother has offered to move into the house to supervise, but no, this foolish mother won't go.

How can I convince her that it's her duty to go with her husband? She says if she goes, she'll worry. I am only thinking of her poor husband.

A DEAR FRIEND

DEAR DEAR FRIEND: I am thinking of her "poor husband," too. And I can not imagine anything worse than being with a martyred wife who vacations with her husband out of "duty." She will have a rotten time because she's all set to worry. And he'll have a rotten time, too. She'll see to that. Stay out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my Sweet Sixteen party and have run into a problem. My best girl friend is going with a boy who, quite frankly, I can not stand. I want her, but not him. Should I invite them both, or just my girl frjend?

PLANNING MY PARTY

DEAR PLANNING: You will not have a "successful" party unless all the guests have a good time. If you do not invite your best friend's boyfriend, she won't have any fun. Invite him. At age 16, it's time you learned to "stand" people you "can't stand" occasionally to please good friends.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister's daughter is getting married in June and they're having a big wedding for her.

I don't know if I'm wrong or right, but I'm not going. I didn't tell her that, I'm going to wait until the time comes. Here's the reason:

Two years ago my daughter eloped. I was very unhappy about it, but all is forgiven now. I tried to help them get started so I bought them a refrigerator, sheets, pans, etc. My mother and friends gave her little things for housekeeping, too.

My husband's mother and sisters said they were going to buy her something and kept asking me what she "needed." I said she needed most everything and I told them what she already had as a guide.

Well, none of them gave her so much as a dish towel.

Now, here's the way I look at it, what's good for my daughter is good for their daughter. In their words, an eye for an eye. Am I wrong?

TURN ABOUT

DEAR TURN ABOUT: I think you are. The only thing wrong with the "eye for an eye" game is that it results in total blindness. Do not punish your sister-in-law's daughter for her mother's thoughtlessness.

DEAR ABBY: A woman recently asked you if she should "give" her husband a divorce, and you said no.

In the first place, anybody who has been through a divorce knows that it's not a "gift." It's pretty expensive. And in the second place, it's the judge who "gives" the divorce. In most states anyone who wants a divorce can get one.

When a man tells me that his wife won't "give" him a divorce, I laugh, because I know he really does not want one. I think any time a man asks his wife for a divorce, he wants her to say "no." If he really wanted one, he'd get one in spite of everything.

Very truly yours,
A LADY LAWYER:

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

FOR TUESDAY, APR. 22
YOUR BIRTHDAY Tuesday: — The year ahead: time to consider and put into effect the great adjustments. There is more responsibility than in most years and more authority. Your home and regular working place become increasingly important and require attention. These may even be important changes to improve both. Tuesday's natives usually pay little attention to rules and customs. Travel interests these people.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): — Property deals, buying or selling antiques, or signing long leases are greatly favored. At short range, the associated tensions are apt to upset your partner or family members.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) : — This is one day where your personal response to the needs of others could be tested. By day's end you may have added additional stewardship or guardian type chores to perform all through the coming year of two.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Romance is out Tuesday altogether, along with any important business beyond routine. Everybody prefers to manage his own affairs and wants to be left alone. Consideration has its rewards in subtle terms.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — The temptation is to sulk. Be glad of a chance to work alone or to have privacy. Do some writing, just to see what comes of it.

LEO (July 23 Aug. 22): — Arrangements still are not stabilized around your homestead, so delay a bit while people decide what they want and how to plan it. (New friends should not be taken as authorities.)

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Anything you say Tuesday will be contradicted if in clear terms. Wait until people are in the mood to listen rather than oppose. It's much easier now to work alone with matters not requiring close cooperation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Move with all the energy at your disposal — mainly in business channels. Get a deal settled, then celebrate in solitude. All tend to have a chip on their shoulders (which falls off if you so much as look at it).

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — The urge is to recapitalize, to borrow for refinancing. Be sure to check with financial specialists on what is involved in the deal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Settle down, put in a day of consistent work. Make up for details skipped recently, add a note of apology where appropriate. Your hobbies beckon for the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — The day is tense, so that energy is better focused on practical matters. With a good day's performance behind you, the stress is eased and you can settle to a nice evening of home life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Nobody is available for full cooperation, and there is nothing specially difficult to watch for. So do the things you have been planning keeping records. There is a chuckle in the late evening!

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — Tuesday levels out to fairly comfortable achievement and healthy pleasures. Make the most of it while this atmosphere prevails.

STONEMAN GETS CAR

MONTREAL (UPI)—To mark the outstanding no-hit performance of Montreal pitcher Bill Stoneman, a car was presented to him Sunday between games of the Chicago doubleheader.

Mrs. William Stoneman, Bill's mother, and Rick Stoneman, his brother, just returned from Vietnam, were present at the ceremony honoring the southpaw's masterpiece over Philadelphia last Thursday night.

National League Roundup

Red Isn't Worried

By United Press International

Red Schoendienst says he isn't worried, but his St. Louis Cardinals are struggling through one of the costliest slumps in baseball history.

Their inability to win at home already has cost them the 1968 World Series and the same affliction is hampering their chances at this year's National League pennant.

The Cardinals fell before the New York Mets 11-3 Sunday, marking their 10th consecutive loss in St. Louis. They lost their last three home appearances to Detroit in the World Series, including the pivotal sixth and seventh games, and are winless in all seven St. Louis starts this season.

Only a better than averag road record is keeping the Cardinals out of the Eastern Division cellar, but they're still 6½ games behind the league-leading Chicago Cubs, who split a doubleheader at Montreal Sunday, winning the first game 6-3 but dropping the nightcap 4-2. St. Louis is a game behind the expansion Expos and only a half-game ahead of last-place Philadelphia, which beat Pittsburgh 7-1.

"I'm not worried yet," Schoendienst said after Sunday's loss. "We've been in every ballgame except three. We can't get started. The boys aren't down, they just can't get going."

Asked if he was ready to read the riot act, the Cardinal manager said, "No, I try to tell them to do the best they can, and as long as they go out and try, I'm not worried. It's too early in the season."

However, just a few days ago, Schoendienst told his players: "You can lose only so many games a season if you're going to win the pennant, and we're losing more than our share."

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Atlanta Braves 7-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Houston Astros 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants edged the San Diego Padres 3-2.

Kevin Collins smashed a two-run homer and Ron Swoboda doubled in another pair to highlight a five-run fifth inning outburst for the Mets after St. Louis had taken a 3-0 lead in the first. New York wrapped it up with three more runs in the ninth on a bases-loaded double by Jerry Grote. Reliever Nolan Ryan gained credit for his first victory.

The Cardinals have a team batting average of .217, 32 points less than their figure of last year.

Donn Clendenon, appearing in his third game for Montreal, hit a three-run homer in the first inning to give the Expos their second-game victory and snap Chicago's winning skein at seven. The Cubs, who have an 11-2 record and a 2½ game lead over runnerup Pittsburgh in the East, won the opener behind the strong pitching of Ferguson Jenkins and three runs batted by Al Spangler.

Reserve third baseman Rick Joseph drove in three runs with a bases-loaded groundout and a pair of singles to help Philadelphia overcome the pirates. Rick Wise evened his record at 1-1 with eighth-inning relief help from Barry Lerch.

American League Roundup

Chisox On Move With Lusty Hits

By United Press International

The exploding scoreboard at Chicago's Comiskey Park was given its heaviest workout in years Sunday and White Sox Manager Al Lopez is beginning to love that noise.

The White Sox smashed five homers Sunday, duplicating a feat accomplished just a week before, in sweeping the Seattle Pilots twice, 3-2 and 13-3.

The usually light-hitting Sox have now hit 16 homers this season, 10 at the expense of the expansion Pilots.

Bill Melton's homer with one out in the 10th inning gave Chicago a victory in the opener. Melton connected again in the second game, one of three homers during an eight-run, sixth-inning rally.

Duane Josephson had a two run homer and Buddy Bradford a solo blast in the inning after Ron Hansen had slammed a three-run shot during a five-run, fourth-inning burst.

"The myth is over," said Lopez. "At long last, we have a hitting club. The homers last week in Seattle were supposed to be because of the short fences. That wasn't the case today.

"We now have three top-flight hitters in young Carlos May, Bradford and Melton. When Tommy McCraw comes back from his injury, I can honestly say we're going to be a big contender for the American League's Western Division championship."

Lopez, whose team hit only 71 homers last season, lowest in the AL, was enthusiastic about Melton, his young third baseman. "That kid isn't swinging for the fences either. He's just got a great swing for a young kid." Melton, 24, now has three homers, one more than he hit in 34 games with the Sox last season.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston crushed Cleveland 9-4, Minnesota ripped California 12-1, Kansas City beat Oakland 7-5 after losing 5-1, Washington downed Baltimore 5-2 after dropping the opener 2-1 and Detroit beat New York 5 2 before dropping a 2-0 decision.

Gerry Moses, a rookie catcher, hit his first career grand slam homer, and Ray Jarvis, a rookie left-hander, pitched 82-3 innings of two-hit relief to help the Red Sox hand the Indians their ninth loss in 10 games.

Player Edges Trevino By 2

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI)—Gary Player commutes between the United States and his home in South Africa to earn a living at golf and it pays off.

He invested $1,400 last week in a roundtrip air ticket between Johannesburg and San Diego, Calif., and is on his way home with a $30,000 return—first prize in the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

Player, the most gentlemanly of gentlemen who even calls a sports writer "Mr.," said Sunday as he smilingly accepted his check after 72 holes of tough golf at La Costa Country Club:

"I can use the money. I've got a wife and five kids and 30 horses."

Player's score was 69-74-79-72—284, four under par for this course which has bottleneck fairways, deep rough and sometimes a brisk wind, and places a premium on accuracy from the tee.

U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino finished second with 74-68-70-74—286, good for $17,000. He was tied with Player after 54 holes but was wild from the tee and got into the tenacious rough, taking bogeys on three holes.

Only two of the field of 28 were under par 288—Player, the reigning British Open king, and Trevino.

Frazier May Change Style For Zyglewicz

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dave Zyglewicz' manager predicted Sunday that champion Joe Frazier would rather switch than fight in Tuesday night's heavyweight title bout.

Perry Payne said he expected Frazier, a knockout artist, to change his style and start boxing.

"He's going to switch because he's not going to be able to outfight this guy (Zyglewicz)," Payne said. "He (Frazier) did it (boxed) against Scrapiron Johnson."

Johnson is the only man other than Oscar Bonvena to go the distance with the unbeaten Frazier in 22 pro fights. He has knocked out 12 of his opponents in the first three rounds.

Frazier is recognized as champion in five states and several foreign countries.

Frazier does not figure Zyglewicz will last much longer. Although Ziggy has never been knocked down in compiling a 28-1 record, Frazier said the challenger has never met anyone who can hit as hard as he can.

Frazier and everyone else knows Ziggy can be hit, although Payne insists Zyglewic does not block as many punches with his head as he once did.

Zyglewicz and Payne base their hopes on the theory the challenger can take a punch better than anyone Frazier has ever fought.

Ryun to Run In Drake Relays Friday

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The Drake Relays next Friday and Saturday are assured of an added attraction with world premier miler Jim Ryun of Kansas competing in his specialty.

Ryun, who holds the world records for the mile, metric mile, and 880, blazed an anchor mile in the distance medley Saturday to pull Kansas to a world standard of 9:33.0 in that baton race in the 44th Kansas Relays.

Although Ryun was voted the carnival's outstanding performer for the third time, he shared the spotlight with former Kansas great Al Oerter, four-time Olympic champion, who performed in a special discus event and set a stadium record of 189-7½.

Philippines Discontent

Arthur Krock recently ended a long career as Washington correspondent for the New York Times and has written a book about his experiences. It is called: "Memoirs: 60 Years on the Firing Line."

Krock ends his book with the observation that America's tenure as a world power probably will be one of the shortest in history. History and circumstances support his conclusion.

The United States has managed to lose friends, singly and in groups, ever since the end of World War II for one reason or another. Mostly because of blundering foreign policy.

The ultimate aim of the Communists is to take over the United States and that makes us the hate target of all nations, in the international Communist conspiracy. Trouble is, we've been alienating neutral nations outside the Communist bloc one by one until there are few countries in the world we can honestly call our friends.

U.S. News & World Report says signs are growing that Asia's most durable East-West partnership—the close alliance between the Philippines and the United States—is beginning to fall apart.

USN&WR says nationalism and ultranationalism are on the rise in a country that traditionally has been friendly to Americans and has usually supported key U.S. policies in the Pacific.

However America's indicision and failure to win a decisive victory in Vietnam is viewed by many Filipinos as weakening U.S. resolve to stay in Asia. Americans in the Philippines are being told that their pledges to defend Vietnam are worthless.

Public opinion polls indicate 79 per cent of the Filipinos still like Americans and 42 per cent forsee increased danger of a Communist attack once U.S. protection is withdrawn. Yet it is clear that more and more Filipinos are becoming discontented with the "special relationship" that has tied them to the U.S. in war and peace for more than 70 years.

The Philippine government has been considering establishing diplomatic and trade relations with Russia and other Communist countries, including Red China. But few Filipinos believe this will be the first step toward "neutrality."

The USN&WR story continues:

It is equally clear that an end to the alliance would hurt both partners.

The Philippines have figured in U.S. defense planning for decades; hundreds of millions of U.S. dollars have been poured into facilities in the islands.

Subic Bay, strategically situated on the South China Sea, is forward repair base and store-house for U.S. Seventh Fleet warships operating off Vietnam. Harbor facilities are large enough to handle the entire fleet at one time.

Clark Air Base is a major supply and aircraft-maintenance center. It is the primary staging area for material and airmen flowing to Vietnam, Thailand and Taiwan. The base hospital is an important receiving point for Vietnam casualties.

The Thirteenth Air Force, with large responsibilities extending from Taiwan to New Zealand, has its headquarters here.

A pullback from the Philippines would undercut U.S. defenses in the Western Pacific. But the biggest loser probably would be the Philippines.

Why, then, when the outlook for Asia is so uncertain, are Philippine leaders willing to risk a break with the U.S.?

One answer is that old grievances still rankle in a country that has been independent from the U.S. for only 23 years.

There is widespread belief that the U.S. was niggardly in settling Filipino claims for damages suffered in World War II. Benefits paid to Filipino veterans of that war were smaller than those paid to American veterans.

The American bases, so Filipinos say, occupy too much valuable agricultural land. The Philippines have sovereignty over the bases, but the nation's flag is not flown there.

Most Filipinos believe the U.S. has treated its old enemy, Japan, more generously in defeat than its old ally, the Philippines in victory.

There is resentment that Americans enjoy "national status" here and belief that they dofinate the economy and much of the nation's resources. Many Filipinos would like to see Americans required to forfeit the property riyhts acquired here sinec independence.

Jeopardized by the Philippine threats, if carried out, are American holdinps in land, timber, oil and mining interests valued at 400 to 600 million dollars.

What worries some Filipinos and most Americans is that nationalism out of control would endanger the economic future of an underdeveloped nation that badly needs outside help. A top-rank Philippine official comments:

"Sticking pins in American investors is lunacy. If we paint ourselves into a corner the only way out may be expropriation, and that would be disastrous."

The 'Crime' Of Ownership

If ever there was a city that has given socialistic bureaucratic controls a fair test and found them wanting, that city is New York: Zoning, annexation, the granting of monopolistic franchises, business licensing and inspection, building, sanitation, safety and "fair" housing codes; you name it, Gotham has it. A veritable bureaucratic planners' paradise.

With what results? Well, New York City, where these restrictions on the voluntary market place and individual freedom of choice have existed perhaps longer than anywhere else in the U.S., is one of the worst planned, sprawling, ill-conceived corruption and favoritism ridden, high taxed, dirty, rat infested, unsafe, ill-housed and racially tensioned cities in the entire nation.

If planning and bureaucratic controls are going to work in New York, one would think that it's about time it started to produce.

Take rent controls, for instance. Virtually alone among major U.S. population centers, New York City continues to impose rent ceilings on all apartment buildings put up prior to June 1, 1947. Commenting on the results, Barron's, the National Business and Financial Weekly, in its March 3 issue, noted in part:

"Urban blight, in short, usually begins at City Hall. . . The result (of rent control) is a textbook case of economic cause and effect. Statutory tenants — including much of Gotham's bureaucracy, judiciary and otherwise well-heeled liberal establishment — have enjoyed a vast windfall at the expense of landlords, some of whom are far from rich. (One poignant victim of the system, a $12,000-per-year Negro video-tape operating engineer who has sunk his life savings into a rent controlled building in the Bronx, is pressing a lawsuit against the Rent Commissioner on the basis of the Thirteenth Amendment, which bans slavery and other forms of involuntary servitude.)

"Low valuations on rent-controlled property rob New York of an estimated $200 — $300 million per year in real estate taxes; much of what is due, moreover, remains uncollected.

WASHINGTON:

United States Can Slash Viet Forces

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Evidence available to this reporter indicates that up to 20 per cent of American troops in Vietnam could be withdrawn with no unfavorable effects on the progress of the war or on the South Vietnamese government.

In fact, the withdrawals, if properly announced and correctly timed, would probably strengthen the South Vietnam government and the forces of democracy within that country and weaken the position of the Communists.

It would be practical for such a withdrawal of 100,000 Army, Air Force and Marine Corps troops to begin in July or August and continue at a rate of 10,000 to 15,000 a month.

The withdrawal of naval units at this time is more problematical, because of the large scale Communist use of the sea for bringing in supplies and the difficulty of patrolling the long South Vietnamese coast.

The U.S. experience in Laos is indicative. So long as the Lao army could lean heavily on U.S. aid it was almost completely ineffective. When American aid was slashed, the Lao found new strength inside themselves and the army found it could (falteringly, it is true) begin to stand on its own feet. High American officials believe there is a lesson in this.

During the past year there has been a remarkable upgrading of South Vietnamese regional forces in most areas in South Vietnam's Delta, where 40 per cent of the people live. These National Guard-type units are the forces which often bear the initial thrust of local Viet Cong attacks.

In the mainline South Vietnamese armies, some corrupt officers are being replaced by men less corrupt. Some political officers are losing their commands to officers who have proven their military ability. The junior officer corps is being improved by sergeants (previously held back because they were from wrong class of society) given battlefield promotions.

South Vietnamese units are gradually being supplied with arms and equipment equal to that carried by the enemy.

The South Vietnamese draft system has been overhauled, insuring an improved flow of young men into the services.

Thus, the South Vietnamese army and air force are ready to carry a heavier share of the war. Just as importantly, perhaps, American commanders are now ready to believe the South Vietnamese are ready for a larger role.

Indications are, too, that the American forces in South Vietnam are too large for today's job. In past years large numbers of American troops have been required for construction. The building has been enormous. Now, a considerable number of field grade officers believe we are overbuilding. Most of the troops used for construction (those not already withdrawn) are now excess.

But most important of all, ONE there are indications that as the leadership of South Vietnam's army units is improving and as the Americans gain experience there is a slow but significant deterioration in the quality of the Viet Cong and local North Vietnamese officers, noncommissioned officers and troops. The newer men are less experienced, make more mistakes.

The Unveiling

Inside Washington

Job Corps Mourners
Just Politicians
—The Record

ROBERT ALLEN JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The anvil chorus of wrathful complaints and protests against the proposed closing of 59 Job Corps centers has the hollow ring of partisan politics.

The record of these training camps is anything but glittering. Certainly it does not call for anguished shedding of crocodile tears and headline-making breastbeating.

The plain act is the Job Corps has long been one of the most controversial and censured of the anti-poverty programs.

In the four years of its existence, it has been under repeated fire in and out of Congress on numerous charges — excessive costs, waste, gross mismanagement, bungling, scandals of various kinds and very meager results for the more than $1 billion expended so far.

Some centers had to be closed because of the outraged grievances of the communities in which they were located.

Latest instance of official condemnation was a voluminous report by the General Accounting Office, watchdog agency of Congress, flatly recommending drastic curtailment of the Job Corps program.

The GAO's unpublicized findings are graphically summed up in the following pronouncement:

"In light of the costly training provided by the Job Corps, we doubt that the resources now being applied to this program can be fully justified. . . We recommend that Congress consider whether the Job Corps program is sufficiently achieving the purpose for which it was created to justify its retention at present levels."

This bluntly critical evaluation played a leading role in the decision of President Nixon and his Cabinet lieutenants to slash the Job Corps program, approximately in half — lopping 59 from the 113 centers.

The GAO report was the result of a 15-month study expressly ordered by Congress. It cost $1.1 million and covered all the so-called anti-poverty programs. Copies of the huge report, titled "Review of Economic Opportunity Programs," were sent to every member of Congress.

From the nature and tenor of the partisan outcries against the administration's shutdown plan, it is evident the protesting legislators either have not read the GAO report or are blandly ignoring it.

THE UNCONTROVERTED FACTS — The survey warrants far more consideration.

The GAO's conclusions are restrained and deliberate, and based on exhaustive first-hand inquiries by an army of trained investigators and researchers. Their detailed accounts of the management and operation of centers in different parts of the country are printed in full and make revealing reading.

It is highly significant that not one of the remonstrating legislators has challenged one word of this report or taken exception to any of its findings.

It stands today as uncontroverted as when issued earlier this month.

The GAO indicts the Job Corps program on a number of counts, foremost among them the following:

(1) High cost of training enrollees, estimated for the last fiscal year at $8,300 —enough to put a student through four-years of college; (2) large percentage of enrollees who quit in less than six months — average stay last year was around five months; (3) Job Corps trainees displayed no "clearly attributable" improvement in securing employment; (4) net average wage increment atributable to this costly program is estimated at 7 cents; (5) a study of 211 enrollees who did get jobs revealed that 75 per cent left in the first four months. Of the 211, 59 were fired and another 59 quit for unknown reasons. The discharges were for absenteeism, dishonesty, failure to perform adequately, violation of rules and policies.

Throughout, the GAO study is dubious and critical of the worth and high cost of Job Corps training.

"Weaknesses in the policies and procedures under which the program has been administered have detracted significantly from its success," says the report. . . "Considering both direct and indirect costs for the centers in operation as of June 30, 1968, enrollee man-year costs for fiscal 1968 were $8,300. . . In light of the costly training provided by the Job Corps program, we doubt that the resources now being applied to it can be fully justified.

"The reasons most readily identified for the failure of Corps members to stay at the centers until completing the program were (1) dissatisfaction with the center or Corps as a whole, (2) inability to obtain vocational training, and (3) fear of bodily harm."

Not mentioned in the report are the numerous complaints from members of Congress, based on letters from enrollees and their parents, of extortion, physical assaults, robbery, gang fights, terrorism and personal indignities.

The survey pointedly stresses the questionable value of Job Corps training in securing employment.

STILL STALLING — The Justice Department is still "studying" what to do about taking forceful action to collect the $71,795 owed the government by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference for cleaning up after the month-long "Resurrection City" encampment.

That's what Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, has been told by Asst. Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus in response to a pointed inquiry as to what is being done on this long-pending matter.

In a recent blunt letter to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, Gross pointed out that the Interior Department, after repeatedly trying to collect this obligation, turned the matter over to the Justice Department last November. Gross also noted that Dr. Ralph Abernathy, "the alleged leader of this encampment, has stated that SCLC had no intention of paying this bill."

In replying, Ruckelshaus contends the Justice Department is giving the case "active attention," but provides no clue on what if anything will be done and when.

"Recently, members of my staff met with an authorized representative of SCLC," Ruckelshaus advised Gross, "for the purpose of discussing this matter. As a result of that meeting, further discussions are expected to follow. In the meanwhile, we are continuing with our investigation."

In congressional circles, the prediction is being made that the debt will never be collected.

MISSING CRUSADER — Sen. Eugene McCarthy is again confounding both partisans and critics by his strange aloofness from the raging battle over the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system.

The Minnesota "peacenik" has yet to utter a word or take any part in this intensifying bipartisan controversy.

Last year at this time he was hectically scampering about the country declaiming and fulminating against the Vietnam war, the "military industrial complex," and soaring defense costs. No day passed that he wasn't making or trying to make headlines on these vote-wooing issues.

But it's very different this year — now that he is not running for anything for the time being.

Not only has McCarthy said nothing about the raging ABM question, but very little about Vietnam. In fact, he has said very little about anything. Since the session started in January, his appearances in the Senate and at committee meetings have been few and brief.

One of his longest stays, although he said nothing, was when the Senate voted to increase congressional pay from $30,000 to $42,500. He favored it.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: What is a good test to determine if someone really believes in capitalism and a free market?

ANSWER: Examine the person's ideas and actions and if there is no difference other than degree between what that person wants the government to do and what Castro or any other dictator wants the government to do, then he does not believe in capitalism or free enterprise.

But if there is absolutely no similarity in what he wants the government to do and what a dictator wants government to do, then he does believe in respecting the lives and property of others and in a free market economy.

Taxes Foundations Don't Pay

By PAUL HARVEY

It sounds like no skin off your nose when a "foundation" spends a large sum of money chasing moonbeams.

It is.

Foundations do not pay taxes. You and I have to make up the taxes they do not pay. Our taxes are higher because they pay none at all.

Thus, when a foundation is extravagant or wasteful, it is skin off your nose.

Many multi million aire businessmen set up foundations for the specific purpose of avoiding estate taxes when they die. The William Bentons expect to leave their Britannica shares to a "Benton Foundation."

Mr. Benton concedes, "There has been a hell of a lot of tax-dodging and illegal racketeering by some foundations" but, he says, "that can happen in any field."

A congressional committee considering tax reforms has considered taxing foundations, limiting their investments in outside businesses, and so on.

But I've heard nobody demand that these tax-free foundations be required to keep our money at home.

I can't get comprehensive figures on how many billions the big foundations have spent outside the United States in recent years, but assuredly they have contributed considerably toward our uncomfortable gold-dollar imbalance.

Just recently, for example, the Ford Foundation granted more than $10 million to British schools for management training and for "various European research projects."

The Ford Foundation is not spending all its money overseas. That same month, it allocated $1.3 million to assist minority group businesses. For example in Philadelphia, two community groups headed by former juvenile gang leaders received more than $200,000.

I cannot consider such homefront investments wasted. Even though this one mentioned would appear to be a gamble with your money against bad odds, at least this money is going to continue to circulate in the United States.

It is when these foundations scatter their considerable resources overseas, worsening our dollar drain, that they abuse their exemption.

If the foundations are truly interested in humanitarian causes on which to spend money, they don't have to search any further than our own deplorably understaffed hospitals, our own underpaid farmers and overpaid loafers.

Foundations could further relieve government of its burden of payments for scholarships, low or no-interest slum clearance.

Foundations could invest larger sums in researching air and water pollution, noise abatement, traffic congestion.

As is, most foundations do just "enough" of these things to justify their tax exemption while diverting sometimes larger sums to subsidies in other countries.

While there remains chronic neglect of so many homefront problems, foreign involvements and foreign spending—public or private—appear unwise and inappropriate, if not downright immoral.

Antibiotics Successful In Scarlet Fever Fight

Streptococcal sore throat, rheumatic fever and scarlet fever or scarlatina are all caused by the same germ. Scarlet fever occurs two to four days after an exposure to the germ and is ushered in by a fever of 102 or 103 and a sore throat. The germs produce a toxin that gets into the circulation and causes a generalized rash. The toxin may also be responsible for heart, kidney and joint complications.

After recovery, the child will be immune to the toxic rash of scarlet fever but, since he will not be immune to the causative organism, he may have future bouts of streptococcal sore throat or rheumatic fever.

Antibiotics have gone far in reducing not only the prevalence of scarlet fever but also its complications. When given early in the disease they also shorten its course.

Q—In a recent column you said that brain damage will quickly result in a newborn from lack of oxygen. By quickly, do you mean 30 seconds, five minutes, or what? I heard that at times the bones of the skull overlap at birth. What causes this? Does this harm the brain? How much space is there between the brain and the skull?

A—Irreversible brain damage is likely if anyone is deprived of oxygen for eight minutes. During delivery the head is the largest part to pass through the birth canal. If the infant's head is larger than the canal, some overlapping of the skull bones must occur since the canal can't appreciably expand. Fortunately, if the disproportion is not too great, the skull regains its proper size and shape after delivery and no harm to the skull or brain results.

There is no air space between the brain and skull. What little space there is is filled with membranes (meninges) carrying blood vessels.

Q—In a recent column you said that stimulating drugs improved some hyperactive children. Our son, 5, has been taking Mellaril for hyperactivity but now he refuses to take it. What do you advise?

A—Since Mellaril is a tranquilizer, not a stimulant, it may be that he would be benefited by taking methylphenidate, a stimulant which requires a prescription. But, in any case, if he needs a medicine, it is up to you to see that he gets it. Tell him gently but firmly that unless he takes it you are withholding his favorite toy or some other privilege.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The new watchword of the Republican party is "involvement"—a term that seems to be borrowed from militant students on college campuses.

"Great involvement . . . massively involved . . . totally involved" are words often heard from Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, the new GOP national party chairman and Nixon administration spokesman to and for the party.

He is talking about getting his party more closely identified with young voters, Negroes, minorities and other groups in its still groping efforts to overcome its weakness in the big cities.

Republican leaders have recognized this weakness for years but with more concern since 1960 when they concluded that Richard M. Nixon lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy in the big cities of the industrial states.

After faltering starts and the election debacle of 1964, the national GOP began to try to improve its showing in the cities with a series of organizational projects put in motion in 1965.

Nixon was elected to the White House in 1968, although he again was weak in the cities.

Morton frankly acknowledged to the GOP national committee last week that recent Republican gains should be attributed to voters dissatisfied with the Democrats rather than enthusiastic about the GOP.

He has spoken frequently with approval of trying to gain converts to Republicanism with "action centers" like those set up in Detroit.

The Detroit project, identified with the GOP, was intended to enlist activists to help people solve local problems. It was exported to Connecticut without a party label. Morton now wants to experiment with it in other cities.

But 1968 offered no clear evidence that there was an immediate payoff in Republican votes. Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic presidential nominee, carried Detroit and its suburbs easily; his margin in the Detroit area was about twice his plurality for the entire state of Michigan.

Whatever is done by the new Morton political team, its mandate is to broaden the base of the GOP and to buck the historical political tide by gaining congressional seats for the party in control of the national administration in the 1970 elections.

And the debt-burdened Democrats already are scared by reports about money the GOP will spend in the congressional elections next year—aimed at House seats to win Republican control of Congress.

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the party's congressional campaign committee, reported last week that his committee has a record budget of $4.3 million to spend in 1970 in the drive to win control of the House.
