Scurry County Fair begins run Thursday

Entries were to be put in place Wednesday afternoon in expectation of Thursday's noon opening and the first wave of spectators at the Scurry County Fair.

From 1 until 7 p.m. Wednesday, entries were to be accepted for textiles, handicrafts, agricultural products, canned foods, open beef and dairy cattle, breeding sheep and container grown plants.

Final construction on all fair exhibits was to be completed Wednesday also. The doors of the coliseum were to close at 10 p.m.

Prior to the opening of the fair Thursday at noon, entries in the fair flower show were to be brought to the coliseum. These will be accepted from 8 until 10 a.m.

In addition, from 8 until 9 a.m. Thursday, last minute entries will be permitted in the agriculture, textiles, handicrafts, educational and community exhibits and livestock divisions.

Judging for all fair entries submitted to that point will begin at 9 a.m. The judging is to be completed prior to the opening at noon.

Once the fair is underway, features outside the coliseum will include the traditional carnival rides and a new attraction this year, helicopter rides from the coliseum grounds.

From 1 until 6 p.m. Thursday, entries for the junior lambs and steers division will be accepted.

Another afternoon fair activity Thursday will be the annual flower show sponsored by the Snyder Garden Club. Entries judged that morning will be on view Thursday only from 3:30 until 10 p.m.

Evening and nighttime entertainment is due at the fair also Thursday.

The domino tournament will begin at 6 p.m. in Room A of the coliseum.

Simultaneously, a new fair attraction is slated in the ag annex area — the Chicken Flying contest.

Individuals are asked to bring

More strikes called

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union said today it has authorized strikes against four more General Motors Corp. plants, closing about half the assembly capacity of the world's largest automaker.

The escalation of the labor conflict will put 92,000 of GM's 350,000 UAW members on the picket line and is expected to further hurt GM's parts pipeline supplying the assembly plants.

Representatives of the two sides negotiated for 16 hours Tuesday, except for short breaks, with the UAW offering a proposal which it said could end the talks and the automaker giving its response.

Already, 8,000 non-striking workers have been laid off by GM because the parts they make have nowhere to go.

The latest layoffs followed selective strikes over local issues called at midnight Friday against 12 assembly plants and one research center.

Although the strikes have been authorized on local issues, many local union leaders say the leadership is using local issues as a guise for national strikes.

The strategy of authorizing strikes on local issues allows the UAW to hurt GM without leaving the bargaining table.

UAW President Owen Bieber hasn't set a national strike deadline.

The latest union announcement, at just before 1 a.m. today, came nine hours after Bieber called a news conference to say he had made a bargaining proposal that "hopefully could conclude these negotiations."

LEADER CLASS MEETS — The first meeting for Century II: Leadership Scurry County was conducted Tuesday at the Dodson House. Teaching the group again as it starts its second class year is Dr. Jim Palmer (upper left), chairman of the Social Science Division at Western Texas College. WTC and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce jointly sponsor the group. Class members are (front row seated, from left) Jackie Greene, Gene Cutler, Darrell Stout; (middle row) Jon Derouen, Fred Cross, Mike Dennis, Bobby Beard; (standing) Mike Jordan, Palmer, Rick Cohagan, Jerry Vestal, Lee McNair, Susan Neves, Paul Gilbert, Karen Carmichael, Eddie Johnson, C.D. Gray Jr. and Donna Gray. (SDN Staff Photo)

Old record falls at Tuesday drive

Scurry County residents — in part responding to the blood needs of a local family — set a new donor record Tuesday for a locally sponsored drive.

Some 216 individuals registered Tuesday and 193 pints of blood were drawn. The previous record for a single drive was 179 pints, set last March.

Some 60-plus pints of blood were needed to aid the family of Pat Brumley, who passed away July 17 after a lengthy illness. There were 138 pints given in her name Tuesday.

The drive featured also 82 first time donors plus presentations of "gallon donor" pins to 15 individuals.

H.M. Kruse and Tommy Doyle were presented five-gallon and three-gallon donor pins respectively. In addition, two-gallon pins went to Albert Garcia and Cecil Boren.

Eleven donors received one-gallon pins to include Kim Hines, L.V. Anderson, Bobbie Combest, Vernest Tippens, Maydell Lewallen, Clyde Verdine, Cindy

Plans for a noon chamber luncheon Oct. 1 were announced Tuesday during the regular monthly meeting for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Door prizes — including the offer of a $100 bill to a chamber member who must attend to win — plus a meal of "ham, yam, corn and cobbler" will be offered.

Ticket price for the event — scheduled on the first Monday of October — will be $5.50. Chamber President John Jarrell noted that entertainment is planned also, but plans are not finalized as yet.

The luncheon will be in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum.

In addition, initial plans for the upcoming chamber banquet were discussed, including plans to send out a brief questionnaire to chamber members to determine what type of speaker would be preferred.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "People who complain about being in a rut usually are the ones who drag their feet."

Firms who specialize in finding employees are a thriving industry today. They are commonly called headhunters, and many big corporations are turning over the job of filling important positions to these firms.

Those who deal in personnel enjoy some of the reponses put on job applications and a national firm has started to collect these one-liners. Everyone knows about the woman who filled in the blank space after sex with "sometimes."

One Boston accountant wrote, "My consideration would be given to relocation anywhere in the English-speaking world and/or Washington, D.C.

One fellow added to his resume, "Please call me after 5:30 p.m. because I am self-employed and my employer does not know I am looking for another job."

A bookkeeper probably didn't get this job when she typed, "I am very conscientius and accurite."

Confidence is important and one fellow wrote, "I am the best qualifed for any position that might be available. I have no reservations about stating this."

Honesty is important and one applicant wanted money, not title, when he said, "I want it completely understood that my objective is money. If there were two jobs available, one as corporate treasurer, and the other shoveling manure, I'll take the shovel if it pays more."

One computer programmer said he would relocate anywhere--except Russia, Red China, Vietnam or New York City.

Reason for leaving last employment is always interesting:

"No special reason."

"The sales manager was a dummy."

"Responsibility makes me nervous."

"The company made me a scapegoat just like my three previous employers."

"They were unreasonable. They expected everyone at work by 9 a.m."

Our favorite occurred recently here at the newspaper. The young lady who asked about a job was asked to fill out an application.

She sighed and said, "I didn't want to do anything hard, just answer the phone or something."

Jail sentence in local trial

A nine-man, three-woman jury sentenced 33-year-old James Roy Wolf of Snyder to four years in the Texas Department of Corrections for aggravated assault Tuesday.

Wolf was accused of threatening his ex-wife with a knife in May of this year. He had been on trial in 132nd District Court since Monday.

Assistant District Attorney Ernie Armstrong and defense attorney Steve Payson gave final arguments in the case Tuesday morning and jurors returned a verdict of guilty around noon.

The jurors were called back to the court room around 1:30 p.m. for arguments in the sentencing phase of the proceeding.

The panel retired to deliberate for more than one hour before returning the four-year sentence for the defendant.

Ask Us

Q. — How many churches in this area are going to have a voter registration drive?

A. — Apparently none in Scurry County. County clerk's office personnel note that under the law, an individual may register their mother, father, wife or children. To register other individuals, the person must be sworn in as a deputy registrar through the clerk's office. They note no churches have applied for the privilege.

In Brief

Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bargainers for the United Mine Workers and the soft coal industry continue to strive for agreement on a new contract, but time is running short.

Because it takes roughly 10 days for the union to complete the process of conducting a mail referendum ratification vote, any agreement reached after this week would bump up against the Oct. 1 expiration of the current pact.

Four shot

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men, a woman and her 3-year-old daughter were shot to death and another man was wounded late Tuesday in what police believe may have a robbery or burglary attempt at a house in far southwest Houston.

The shooting, in an upper middle class neighborhood, was under investigation early today.

SCS Notes

By Ricky Linex
Range Conservationist

Bobwhite quail usually have adequate native food supplies during the spring and summer months. During this time ripening seeds, juicy insects and tender green vegatation provide excellent food for adult and young quail. With the coming of frost, however, their food supply begins to diminish. During late fall and winter, other birds and small animals compete for the available forage. The quality of the remaining feed drops as seeds become weathered and vegetation coarse. The period from late winter when seeds become scarce until vegetation greens up in early spring is critical for survival of quail brood stock.

Habitat management to provide food plots will help quail through this winter period in addition to quail in your area. A quick and positive method is to identify the contents taken from quail erops during the hunting season. Quail will eat seeds from many plant species but usually only a few species make up the bulk of the quail's diet. Quail prefer smooth, hard seeds of grasses such as vine mesquite, sand dropseed, alkali sacaton, plains bristlegrass, and forbs such as ragweed, croten or doveweed, carelessweed, bundleflower, snow-on-the-mountain and pricklepoppy.

The most dependable food development is to increase native plants rather than introducing new ones. Discing to a 4 inch depth will reduce grass competition and givm forbs a jump in growth. A benefit of native weed or forb seeds is their high resistance to deterioration. This benefit is debatable by many, I suppose it depends if you're growing them for quail food or trying to keep them out of your garden or cropland. Many weed seeds will remian dormant when buried deep in the soil but germinate when brought near the surface by disturbances like disc-

FREEZING FRUITS

Selection and preparation

Most fruit can be frozen satisfactorily. Select sound, ripe fruit which is riper than for canning but which is not soft or mushy.

In general, fruit is prepared for freezing as for eating. Keep fruit cool from the time it is gathered until it is frozen. Wash fruit in cold water, but do not allow it to stand in the water. Some fruit loses food value and flavor and some gets water soaked.

It is best to prepare only enough fruit for a few containers at a time, especially if it tends to darken rapidly. Two or three quarts is a good quantity to work with at one time.

How to prevent discoloration

Some fruits, such as peaches, apricots, apples and pears, discolor easily. There are ways to prevent discoloration.

Ascorbic acid (vitamin C) prevents discoloration and is available in tablet, crystalline or powdered form. Ascorbic acid tablets are more difficult to dissolve than crystalline or powdered ascorbic acid. Powdered or crystalline ascorbic acid is dissolved in the cold syrup just before pouring it over the fruit. Use ½ teaspoon per quart of syrup. Ascorbic acid comes in 25, 50 and 100 milligram tablets. Use 1,000 milligrams (or ten 100 miligram tablets) for each quart of syrup.

For a dry sugar pack, sprinkle dissolved ascorbic acid over fruit just before adding sugar. Use ¼ teaspoon (or five 100 milligram tablets) ascorbic acid in ¼ cup cold water to each quart of fruit. Use same proportion for an unsweetened pack.

Some special commercial antidarkening preparations of ascorbic acid are on the market. These usually contain added sugar and citric acid. Follow the manufacturer's directions when using them.

These materials may be obtained from druggists or where other freezing supplies are sold.

Packaging

Most fruits have better texture and flavor if packed in sugar or syrup. Some may be packed without sweetening for use in special diets.

The method selected to pack fruit will depend on the intended use. Fruit packed in a syrup is generally better for dessert use; fruit packed in dry sugar or unsweetened is better for most cooking uses because there is less liquid in the products.

Dry sugar pack:

Add 23 cup sugar to each quart prepared peaches. Mix gently until sugar has dissolved. Package, seal and freeze immediately.

Crushed or pureed:

Add 1 cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon (or two and ½ 100 milligram tablets) ascorbic acid to each quart of crushed fruit. Package, seal and freeze immediately.

Pears

Peel, cut in halves or quarters and remove cores. Heat pears for one or two minutes, depending on size of pieces, in boiling syrup made from three cups of sugar to four cups of water. Drain and cool. Treat for discoloration. Cover with cold syrup in which pears were heated. Seal and freeze immediately.

Pineapple

Wash, peel and slice. Remove cores. Leave in slices, crush or cut in chunks. Cover with cold syrup using two cups sugar to four cups juice and water or freeze without sugar. Seal and freeze immediately.

Plums

Wash and remove stems. Slice large plums and remove pit if desired. Soft plums may be made into puree. Press through a sieve or colander. Cover with cold syrup using three to four and three fourths cups sugar to four cups of water, or freeze unsweetened. Add ½ to one cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon (or five 100 milligram tablets) ascorbic acid to each quart of plum puree. Seal and freeze immediately.

Watermelon

Slice, peel and remove seeds. Cut into slices, cubes or balls. Cover with cold syrup using two cups sugar to four cups water.

Farmers and ranchers may elect to postpone for one year reporting the proceeds from a sale of livestock, including poultry, if the sale was due to drought conditions. This election applies to all livestock held for sale, whether raised or bought for resale. It also applies to livestock used for draft, breeding, dairy, or sporting purposes and held less than two years in the case of cattle and horses, or less than one year in the case of livestock. A drought sale of livestock held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes may be an involuntary exchange, regardless of how long you have owned the animals.

If, because of drought conditions, farmers and ranchers sell more animals than they would have sold in usual business practice, they may elect to include the sale proceeds in the next year instead of the tax year the income is received if the following conditions are met:

-Their principal business is farming.

-They use the cash instead of accounting.

-They can show that, under usual business practices, the sale would not have occurred this year except for the drought.

-The drought has resulted in the area being designated as eligible for assistance by the federal government.

Sales made before the area became eligible for federal assistance still qualify, as long as the drought that caused the sale also caused the area to be designated as eligible for federal assistance.

The number of animals that would have sold if you had followed your usual business practice in the absence of the drought needs to be determined. The sale does not have to take place in a drought area to qualify for this postponement. However, the sale must occur solely because of drought conditions that affected the water, grazing, or other requirements of the livestock to the extent that the sale became necessary.

Taxpayers must make the election separately for each type of animal--for example hogs, sheep, cattle, and must figure separately the amount to be postponed for each type of animal.

Follow these steps to figure the amount to be postponed for each type of animal.

-Divide the total income realized from the sale of all livestock in the type during the tax year by the total number sold.

-Multiply the result obtained above by the excess number sold solely because of drought.

For example. A calendar year taxpayer, normally sells 100 head of cattle a year. As a result of a drought, he sells 135 head during 1984. He realizes $35,100 from the sale of the 135 head. On Aug. 5, 1984, as a result of the drought, the affected area was declared a disaster area eligible for federal assistance. The income that may be postponed until 1985 is determind by dividing $35,100 by 135 and multiplying by 35 which equals $9,100.

To make the election, attach a statement to the tax return for the year of the sale. The statement must include taxpayer's name and address and must give the following information for each type of livestock for which the election is made:

-A statement taypayer is making an election under Internal Revenue Code section 451(e).

-Evidence of the existence of the drought conditions which forced the early sale or exchange of the livestock and the date, if known, on which the area was designated as eligible for assistance by the federal government because of drought conditions.

-A statement explaining the relationship of the drought area to the early sale or exchange of the livestock.

-The number of animals sold in each of the preceding years.

Look homeward, America. Frenetic travel is distracting only while it lasts. Where you are is nothing any more.

In an era of instantaneous communication and mach three transportation nobody is more than half-a-second from anywhere.

Look homeward, America.

Sociologists have been urging you to "stand alone." Peer pressure on school-agers has coaxed, "Get your own apartment."

Most any day's guests on Donahue are preoccupied with self and selfishness: "My identity," "I'm worth it," "I've got to be me" separate vacations individual recognition, independent careers.

So now all the new evidence relating to emotional stress and physical distress confirms that our nation's number one killer is "Loneliness."

Non conformity, for its own sake, makes unhappy people — rootless, restless, shiftless.

Independence has been touted as essential to modern marriage. Independence is the world's worst reason for marriage.

The herd instinct is deep in our animal ancestry.

The tribal culture "bunched us" for good cause.

Historically, the Oriental family epitomized filiality. The young were always home for dinner. Until East met West and shattered that and scattered them.

While history tends to romanticize "explorers," they were mostly intinerant misfits. It was the homesteaders who made us strong.

America's early immigrants flocked. In unfamiliar neighborhoods but among familiar people they found strength eventually to elevate themselves into society's mainstream.

The labor union was a surrogate "family."

So, if we are agreed that the chronic mental ill of our century in loneliness, let's challenge the presently prevalent motivation for going it alone.

Biologically, sociologically and in a primal sense — it does not make sense.

The young, over-eager to bolt the nest, fly the coop, make it on their own, assert their individuality — promptly flock to one of the kookie cults where each can feel a part of "a family."

Interesting...

Television, in spite of itself, reflects the universal hunger for "family," for "belonging," "Dynasty," "Dallas," "Falcon Crest."

Look homeward, America.

Coexist with technology. The new horizon in medicine is "Home care."

Push back the walls of Desmond Morris' human zoo.

We have a second chance to homestead Walton's Mountain. Let's do it.

We who severed the apron strings to our own detriment — we might even get our own parents back!

New farm program draws praise along with criticism

By The Associated Press

President Reagan's plan to aid debt-ridden farmers was praised as "innovative and positive" by some farm groups, while others said it was an election-year ploy that skirts the problems of high interest rates and low prices for farm goods.

The four-point program announced Tuesday called for deferring portions of federal farm loans, accelerated processing of new government loans, federal guarantees for private loans and financial advice for farmers at the local level.

Wayne Walker, head of the Des Moines, Iowa-based National Pork Producers Council, said the directive to the Farmers Home Administration to defer up to 25 percent of the principal and interest on government loans for five years was especially good news.

"For the first time the administration has given us something we can get our teeth into," Walker said. "Instead of talking about the problem, they are talking about the solutions."

Some farmers took the president's plan with a grain of salt.

"The election is coming up," said Wendell Ebright, 68, who farms about 1,000 acres with his son near Lyons, Kan. "I think that in a couple of more months we'll see why he did this."

Reagan, in announcing the plan, denied that it was motivated by politics.

Dear Abby

Home Improvements at Son's Make Mess of Family Relations

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our son, his wife and our only grandchildren live in a distant state, and we visit them once a year for 10 days. We plan this trip far in advance to suit their convenience. It's our vacation.

After we had been in their lovely home for five days, we were informed that the painters were coming in at 7:30 the next morning to start painting the downstairs. They told us that good painters were hard to get, and they had to take them when they were available.

Well, we made the best of it, but the rest of our trip was ruined because the place was a mess and the entire house smelled of paint.

We are not demanding parents, Abby, but since they told us when we could come, and with 365 days in the year, don't you think they could have had the painters while we weren't there? We visit only once a year, and it's the only chance we have to see our grandchildren.

Are we wrong to feel hurt? We sacrificed to put this son through medical school.

HURT PARENTS

DEAR HURT: Are you wrong to feel hurt? No. Good painters may be hard to get, but they are easier to replace than good parents. Your son and his wife should be ashamed of themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I am sick of hearing women complain because they don't think they're getting enough child support. My husband was paying his ex-wife $270 a month child support (one child). Last month the court increased the amount to $330!

We are living in a cramped trailer and can barely make ends meet. I just had a baby and most of our baby's things are hand-me-downs from friends.

Meanwhile, my husband's ex-wife lives high on the hog in a $100,000 condo in Houston, drives a Mercedes and shops at Neiman's.

Don't you think the courts should investigate the lifestyles of the people involved before increasing the child support money?

MAD IN DALLAS

DEAR MAD: They should. And some do. But with inflation, the cost of leaving increases along with everything else.

DEAR ABBY: I am so furious I can barely write this. Recently, after my husband suffered a heart attack, several non-family members entered the intensive care unit through deceitful means—even after visiting hours. Fortunately, the head nurse realized what was happening and she put a stop to it.

Abby, please allow me to address these well-meaning friends through your column.

If you have a friend in an intensive care unit of a hospital, do not sneak in to pay him a visit. He's much too sick to enjoy your company. Instead, show your concern and friendship by helping his family. Some suggestions: Offer to run some errands, do some yard work, sit with younger children, take a batch of cookies or a covered dish to his house, etc.

Please print this, Abby. It needs to be seen by many.

NAMELESS IN MARION, ARK.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Mexico City now has a population of 16 million people. Half are under the age of 18, assuring a tremendous future growth even with a lowered birthrate, says National Geographic. About 400,000 rural immigrants pour into the capital to live each year. By 2000, the city may be home to 30 million people.

WTC rodeo team set to begin fall season

Southwest Region runnerup Western Texas College opens the 1984-85 rodeo season in Portales, N.M. this weekend, hoping to get off to a good start.

The single go-round rodeo begins Thursday and runs through Saturday evening.

Coach Bob Doty brings back two from his three-member girl's team, and an equal number from the six-member men's squad which competed in the national finals last year.

On the girl's team for the first rodeo will be sophomores Judy Cox, Comanche, Okla., and Canita Cass, Clint, and freshman Niki Moist, Star, Idaho.

Returning from the men's squad are Van Hale of Snyder and Gary Rowe of Colorado City. Donnie Yorks, Mount Morris, N.Y., is also a sophomore. Freshmen on the squad this weekend will be David Jones, Llano; Tony Hecksher, Australia; and Bliss Mayhan, Kim, Colorado.

"We've done a lot of rebuilding. Hopefully, I've picked the right guys on the team because there are a lot of guys we could use. A lot of how we do will be how well they can handle the pressure," said Doty. "We'll see how the competition shapes up."

Other girls competing this year will be Nixie Brewster, Snyder; Tana Whatley, Commanche; Kimberly Wilkerson, Wink; and Lori Byrd, Snyder.

Boys are Tobin Tate, Clovis, N.M.; Chris Carpenter, Charlotte, N.C.; Glenn Jordan, Charlotte, N.C.; John Beckmeyer, Conroe; Jason Phillips, McKinney; Cody Foster, Memphis; John Foster, Sterling City; Mark Mauldin, Roby; Jeff Reynolds, Hudson Falls, N.Y.; Ben Reynolds, Hudson Falls, N.Y.; Todd Small, Welch, Okla.; Don Eddleman, Newcastle; Greg Rhodes, Stamford; Max McGuire, Seminole; and Jim Forbes, Silverton.

The rodeo program held an intramural rodeo Tuesday evening here. Results were as follows:

Bareback: 1. Tony Hecksher, 66; 2. Max McGuire, 64.

Breakaway: 1. Tana Whatley, 3.38.

Calf Roping: 1. Todd Small, 11.41; 2. Tobin Tate, 11.89.

Saddle Bronc: 1. Van Hale, 73.

Chute Dogging: 1. Benton Easter, 1.7; 2. Gary Rowe, 3.21.

Goat Tying: 1. Niki Moist, 9.1.

Team Roping: 1. Mark Mauldin and David Jones, 7.38; 2. Todd Small and Don Eddleman, 8.29.

Calf Dressing: 1. Judy Cox, Mark Mauldin and John Foster.

Barrel Race: 1. Niki Moist, 17.67; 2. Tina Morris, 18.2.

Open Bull Riding: 1. Tobin Tate, 70; 2. Jason Phillips, 63.

Cowboy aggressiveness improving, says Landry

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas defense is a far cry from the "Doomsday" destroyers of the early 1970s, but Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry is happy with the 1984 version.

"We're playing aggressive football," Landry said. "We're a lot better in that area than we were last season."

One of the reasons is rookie Eugene (The Hittin' Machine) Lockhart, the sixth-round draft pick from the University of Houston. Lockhart has been filling in for injured veteran Bob Breunig at middle linebacker.

Breunig is again doubtful because of back problems.

"We won't have any problems starting Lockhart again," Landry said. "He made a lot of tackles and never got out of position. I have a lot of confidence in Lockhart."

Landry said the Cowboys could finish strong if they can get by the first half of the season.

"We're just trying to keep our heads above water right now," Landry said.

He added "you have to streak by winning four or five games in a row to win the division. This can come at any time. We don't want to be out of the race when that comes.

"We're just trying to stay ahead of the game."

The Cowboys are 2-1 and tied with the New York Giants atop the National Conference Eastern Division after a hard-earned 23-17 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles last Sunday.

Dallas hosts Green Bay, 1-2, at 3 p.m. Sunday in Texas Stadium.

Green Bay Coach Forrest Gregg gave his Packers a severe tongue lashing after last Sunday's 9-7 loss to Chicago and Landry said "I'm sure they (the Packers) will respond. They have a lot of offensive weapons and can explode at any time."

Cat gridders ready to play

Snyder underclassmen football teams are in full action Thursday, playing Brownfield and Big Spring.

Snyder junior varsity, 1-0, will trek to Brownfield to play the Cubs at 7:30. In other away action, Snyder's seventh grade teams will play in Big Spring at 4 and 5:50.

At home, the local freshmen entertain Big Spring at 6:45, on the heels of two eighth grade games, slated for 4 and 5:15.

All local games will be held at Travis Field.

Host Pecos Saturday...

Lady Tigers claw Maidens

SAN ANGELO – Coach Penny Bane's Tigers rolled over Lake View's Maidens here Tuesday evening in district volleyball action, 15-11 and 15-7.

Sabrina Sullivan and Donna Anderson scored four points each on serves in the first game. Anderson had five in the second game.

"They (Snyder) didn't play as well as they could have but well enough to win," said Coach Bane. "Lake View had improved. They played real well the first game. Our defense looked good; our offense was a little off."

Snyder junior varsity lost, 16-14, 4-15 and 15-9.

"They missed a lot of serves," said the coach of the underclassmen. "They just didn't play very well."

The Tigers, now 7-7 for the season and 3-0 in District 2-4A competition, will host always-tough Pecos at 3 p.m. Saturday. Snyder, Pecos and Monahans - the only three undefeated 2-4A teams - are favored to fight for the district crown. A junior varsity match will be held at 2.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

In other volleyball action, Snyder underclassmen teams won one match and lost four in competition with Sweetwater this week.

The eighth grade Black team won 15-11, 15-11, with Nellie Rodriquez serving for eight points.

Snyder 8th Gold was defeated 5-15, 15-9 and 16-14.

The local 7th Black fell 15-13 and 15-10 while the 7th Gold squad went down 15-10, 8-15 and 15-12.

All four squads play in the Big Spring Tournament this Saturday.

Detroit clinches AL East

by The Associated Press

It started as possible, then the possible became probable. The probable became obvious and the obvious, at last, became certain.

The race that never was ended Tuesday when the Detroit Tigers shut out the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0 and won the American League's Eastern Division. The 1984 Tigers, with their record-breaking 35-5 start, became the first team since the 1927 Yankees to lead from wire to wire.

They turned the traditionally dramatic AL East race into a summer-long waiting game. Only in its end was there any drama to the story.

"Magic Number - Zero" blazed Tiger Stadium's electronic scoreboard when Willie Hernandez struck out Jim Sundberg to give Detroit its first division crown since 1972.

Several hundred fans burst through a line of stadium security and Detroit police officers, literally stealing bases and touching home plate.

Players had begun sprinting from the Tiger bullpen toward the dugout before the inning ended to escape the impending onslaught, tossing souvenir baseballs into the stands as they ran.

"This is what all ballplayers shoot for and now we have it," said Tom Brookens, whose solo homer provided one of the game's runs.

"This is a great feeling. It's greater than I ever thought it could be."

"This has been my No. 1 team as far as I'm concerned," said Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson, who guided the Cincinnati Reds to five titles and two world championships.

None of the other AL scores Tuesday were very close. Kansas City creamed California 10-0, Boston crushed Toronto 10-3, New York trounced Baltimore 10-2, Seattle beat Cleveland 6-3, Oakland defeated Texas 5-2, and, in the night's squeaker, Chicago beat Minnesota 5-3.

Royals 10, Angels 0

Pat Sheridan drove in three runs and Steve Balboni and Buddy Biancalana cracked two-run homers while Dane Iorg added a bases-empty blow. Kansas City, alone in first place for only the third day this season, has its largest lead of the year - two games.

Bret Saberhagen, 9-10, Joe Beckwith and Dan Quisenberry pitched the Royals' fifth combined shutout of the season, helped by five double plays turned on the Angels.

San Diego blanks Cincy; magic number now four

by The Associated Press

Terry Kennedy is glad to have his pitching staff in fine form once again. The San Diego Padres are thrilled to have Kennedy's bat back from a long vacation.

With Kennedy behind the plate, left-hander Dave Dravecky twirled a three-hit, complete-game as San Diego blanked Cincinnati 2-0 Tuesday. The victory enabled San Diego to reduce its magic number to four for clinching the National League West title. Any combination of San Diego victories and Houston losses totaling four would gave the Padres their first-ever division crown. San Diego has 12 games remaining, Houston 11.

"I'm just glad the staff is back," said Kennedy, whose two-run homer provided all the offense San Diego needed. "That was my main concern. Those guys got us here, and those are the guys who are going to win it.

"At the start of the year, people said the Padres would go as far as their starters go," the veteran catcher added. "They've taken us a long way."

Chicago's magic number for clinching in the East remained at four as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cubs 6-2 while the New York Mets stopped Philadelphia 8-5. Chicago, however, leads New York by eight games with only 12 to play.

In other games, Houston needed 10 innings to subdue San Francisco 5-4, Atlanta edged Los Angeles 6-5, and Montreal beat St. Louis 7-4.

The same experts who figured San Diego's pitching was a key also thought the burly Kennedy would probably have to approach his 1983 batting figures - a .284 batting average, 17 home runs and 98 runs batted in. But he hasn't come close to that kind of production until recently.

He has staggered most of the season in the .220s and his home run production has been helped by the five homers he has slugged since Aug. 28.

'Living will' originator reflects on progress

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Kutner's musings about death anticipated the day when medicine would cross the line from prolonging life to prolonging dying.

More than 50 years ago Kutner wrote his first "living will," a legal document that allows a person to specify under which conditions the use of life-support systems should be discontinued.

Today, some 17 years after a New York-based organization decided to promote the acceptance of Kutner's "living will," laws have been enacted in 22 states and the District of Columbia recognizing the legal validity of some form of such a will.

Earlier this month, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws drafted a "Right to Decline Life-Sustaining Procedures Act" aimed at making the "living will" a legally enforceable document in the remaining 28 states.

"People do not want to accept the notion of death being final and doctors, for differing reasons, have become obsessed with denying it," said Kutner, 76, an attorney specializing in international law.

"But where there is the possibility of continuing a life without value, when heroic measures will keep someone alive without any hope of restoring that life, it is barbaric, cruel and costly to do so," he added.

"He certainly deserves credit for the concept (of the living will)," said Alice Mehling, executive director of the New York-based Society for the Right to Die, a national, non-profit organization which promotes such laws. "The language in the jurisdictions varies, but the concept is the same — to extend the common-law right to end medical treatment if an individual so wishes."

"As much as anything, the proliferation of life-prolonging technologies in medicine made death with dignity an issue," she said. "This society, for instance, was founded in 1938 and many writers and thinkers had taken up the cause before the (Karen) Quinlan case put the issue before the public."

Miss Quinlan, now 30, remains in a coma, eight years after she was taken off a respirator in a landmark case that tested the right of a family to allow a seriously ill person to die. She lapsed into a coma in 1975 and, after doctors said she would never recover, her parents sought court permission to disconnect her from a respirator.

The New Jersey State Supreme Court agreed in March 1976, and the respirator was disconnected two months later. Miss Quinlan has remained in what has been described as a "chronic vegetative state" since then.

Later that year, California became the first state to pass a law that specifically recognized the "living will" as enforceable.

As early as 1906, a bill that would have legalized voluntary euthanasia was introduced in Ohio.

The intervening years, said Mrs. Mehling, were filled with fights between well-meaning organizations, many of them religious, battling misunderstood and sometimes-ridiculed pioneering groups like the society for public sympathy over the controversial issue.

Kutner's involvement began in 1927, when his friend and mentor, Dr. George Thilo, was attacked and fatally beaten by robbers while answering a phony house call.

"They kicked him in the groin, severing his urethra and gangrene had set in," Kutner recalled. "He said he knew enough that he didn't want any life-support systems used to keep him going and he extracted a promise from me to fight efforts to do so."

Three years later, Kutner helped found an American chapter of the Euthanasia Society, modeled after an English counterpart that included such members as playwright George Bernard Shaw, author Julian Huxley and economist Harold Laski.

The idea did not catch on. By 1938, however, when the Rev. Charles Potter founded the Society for the Right To Die, the well-known writers Sherwood Anderson and Rex Stout and poet Robert Frost were receptive to the idea. Their credibility, in turn, gave the movement a foothold on this side of the Atlantic.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Sept. 20, 1984

Take advantage of any opportunities you get this coming year to join worthwhile organizations. Many valuable contacts can be established that can help you in other areas of your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Social involvements should work out pleasantly for you today, as long as they are not overly expensive. When going out on the town, leave your credit cards at home. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year. To get yours mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An important objective can be achieved today, but be extremely careful you do not step on the toes of others in order to accomplish your aim.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have points you want to get across to others today, do not be coy or beat about the bush. However, make certain you state your case diplomatically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have the ability today to improve upon the basic ideas of associates. If your efforts turn out successfully, be sure to share the credit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Partnership situations hold promise today, but only if you and your cohorts are in total agreement, down to the smallest of details.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's important today that you establish reasonable objectives for yourself. You're capable of doing a lot but you still have your limitations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In order to maintain a harmonious relationship with a valued friend today, it's best that you don't pry into matters he or she wishes to keep secret.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) To achieve maximum productivity today, you'll have to keep your nose to the grindstone. However, still take time to be of service to those who need you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your fertile imagination will furnish you with good ideas today, but you must implement them yourself, not delegate them to others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your financial prospects are beginning to brighten a bit, but do not use this as a signal to loosen your purse strings for extravagant expenditures.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Self-interests can be successfully promoted today, provided you do not permit negative thinkers to dissuade you from your purpose.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your potential for personal acquisition looks good today, but there is also a danger you could let what you gain slip through your fingers.

ing. Discing simply allows a quail food crop that is already planted to sprout and grow.

Disc is a pattern about 20 feet wide within ¼ mile of good cover. The length is variable but several small plots are better than one large one. Next year plow a new strip adjacent to the first. Most plots will remain healthy for two years and having two strips will provide a steady supply of seeds by plowing each strip every other year.

If food is the limiting factor on your ranch you should see an increase in quail population a couple of years after discing the strips. If food is not a limiting factor and your quail population is still low, look at correcting a shortage of scape or nesting cover to increase quail numbers. Quail are no different from other wildlife species in that they need the basic necessities of life: food, shelter and water.

For assistance in evaluation and planning your habitat management practices for quail contact us to set up a date to evaluate your land for managing quail. Our office is located at 3423 Ave. T or call 573-0171.

Roy Baze, chamber director, suggested the plan. He proposed keeping the questionnaire very short. He noted it should be designed so that the member need only check a particular category, then drop the preaddressed card into the mail.

Reagan offering credit aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is offering a program of loan guarantees and debt deferral to ease the credit squeeze on financially stressed farmers, but Democrats in Congress say it is little more than a political gimmick.

The White House announcement of the farm debt program came Tuesday, just two days before the president planned to travel to Iowa for a campaign swing through the farm belt. Reagan discounted the political implications of the program, however, and characterized it as an effort to provide farmers "more secure hope for the future."

Democratic members of Congress disagreed.

"This is nothing more than eleventh-hour pandering to a constituency Mr. Reagan has ignored for the past four years. It's too little, too late and the American farmer knows it," said Rep. Bill Alexander of Arkansas, the fourth-ranking Democrat in the House.

The program, as outlined by Reagan and the Agriculture Department, calls for:

— The Farmers Home Administration, the lender of last resort to producers, to defer up to 25 percent or $100,000 of the unpaid principal and interest on government loans for five years.

— The FmHA to make available $630 million to 650 million to guarantee repayment of loans made to farmers by private lenders.

Add rest days to weightlifting

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been running for more than two months and have only had three days off during this period. Right now I'm averaging four and five miles a day. I'm 16 and weigh 136.

I've lost seven pounds this summer. Is this from water loss during running? I lift weights three times a week, but don't seem to be building any muscles. It seems to me that running firms the muscles, while weightlifting tries to build them up. My muscles are firm, but I would like to put some shape into them.

Am I receiving maximum benefits by running seven days a week, or should I run only five or six days? I'm getting ready for a 10-kilometer race and want to know how to best prepare for this. I've heard that one should run four or five miles until the race so that you will be at a peak for the six-mile race. I've also heard that you should run eight to 10 miles a day so the six will seem easy.

DEAR READER — You can lose fat while growing muscle. Your firmer muscles may mean that you have done this. Some larger muscles are fat muscles, not strong muscles, like marbled beef. Good exercise programs and sensible diets prevent this from happening.

Don't expect maximum benefits from a muscle-building program if you exercise daily the way you describe. Your muscles need a day of rest between exercises to form new protein and grow.

The best way to train for any exercise event, such as your race, is to develop the capability to do more than the event requires. That is also sound medical advice. The people who get into trouble are those who try to do more in one day than they have trained themselves to do. It is the person who has not run a step in 10 years, but suddenly tries to run a mile, who is in trouble.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is dried milk really harmful? Does this include nonfat dried milk? I mix it with water and use about a quart a day.

DEAR READER — Most people find that they have no trouble using dried milk powder if they have no trouble with regular milk. There are differences in what is available. Preparations that contain coconut oil or palm oil or hydrogenated oils may have more saturated fat than most heart specialists would like people to consume.

Nonfat dried milk is one of many good products. It does not contain any significant amount of fat, so there is no saturated fat problem. It provides complete, good-quality protein, no cholesterol, and is a good source of calcium. Because you can add extra amounts to dishes requiring milk, you can actually increase the protein and calcium intake in your diet with such a product, compared to the amount you would get from regular milk.

Reagan shuns steel imports, quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, resisting election-year pressure to limit steel imports, has devised a limited voluntary program to help the depressed U.S. steel industry fight overseas competition.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., which had sought import quotas and tariffs in a complaint to the U.S. International Trade Commission, called Reagan's program "a major step" to help the steel industry.

U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman David Roderick said it showed "a resolve to rectify" the industry's plight.

Reagan's 10-point plan, announced Tuesday, includes stepped-up enforcement of existing unfair trade laws and negotiated voluntary agreements with nations that have sharply increased steel shipments to the United States.

The so-called "surge control" arrangements are to be worked out with countries that are subsidizing imports, dumping them at discounted prices, or diverting them to the United States.

American steel importers, meanwhile, said the president's "wise decision" would benefit the nation's consumers, in addition to farmers and manufacturers who export their products.

"The president has put the interests of the many ahead of those of the few," said Ernst Wimpfheimer, director of the American Institute for Imported Steel.

A spokeswoman for the United Steelworkers of America, which joined Bethlehem Steel in filing the ITC complaint, said the union was studying the Reagan plan and had no immediate comment.

The ITC had recommended that quotas and tariffs be imposed on several types of steel products making up 70 percent of steel imports. But Reagan said that the commission's proposal would "put at risk thousands of jobs in steel fabricating and other consuming industries."

The president said other sectors of the economy such as agriculture might be affected by retaliatory measures if quotas were imposed on foreign steel.
