TEXANS FLOCK TO HEAR NEFF DESPITE RAINS

People Wade Mud in Order to Meet Governor

By H. N. F.

CANADIAN, Texas, April 27.—Governor Neff began his speaking campaign at Wichita Falls April 23, and neither the floods nor the bad roads discouraged him or the people of the towns and country which he had visited in the West. He has addressed large audiences everywhere and explained to the people wherever he spoke of the cost of the state government including all the departments from the judiciary to the penal system of the commonwealth. He has spoken of the possibilities and perils of the commonwealth all along the line and his picture of the possibilities has won the applause of the people wherever he has spoken.

Doesn't Mention Klan

He has never once criticized law makers or system of government; never talked politics, never mentioned the senatorial race or the Ku Klux Klan and has just given what he calls an account of his stewardship for the first year that he has held the office of governor. Governor Neff dearly loves to get away from the railroads and the railroad towns. With the exception of a short run by rail from Chillicothe to Quanah the entire trip from Wichita Falls to Canadian was made in big touring cars supplied by the friends of the chief executive.

Regardless of the almost continuous rain he has had large audiences. His American flag speech at Quanah, where 3,000 people assembled in a large tabernacle, was a big hit. Tip Jones of Quanah was sergeant at arms when Pat M. Neff was a member of the legislature and later speaker of the lower house. Tip was christened A. B. Jones. He is a native Texan, a product of Collin county. And a son was born to him when he was sergeant at arms. Neff was his friend and political idol and the boy was christened Pat Neff Jones. This youngster is a grown man now,

FINDS FORTUNE

By Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., April 27.—A search of several months for a "buried treasure" ended successfully today for Marion Newton, a farmer residing in Moore's Prairie township, near this city, when he found a wooden box containing $11,880 in gold, silver and currency, hidden in a stall in his barn. The money was left by Newton's father, Wm. Newton, who died several months ago.

It's a Pretty Fight—Dem. Disorganization—How Did It Happen?—

By H. N. F.

SENATOR HARRY S. NEW OF Indiana, says that the Republican administration found the farmers in the bottom of the pit of despair and have lifted the farmers to the top notch of prosperity. Senator New isn't a farmer. He is a publisher and a politician and a very successful publisher and politician. If the farmers are sitting on the top of the world how is it that they are organizing everywhere for relief legislation, modern marketing systems, emancipation from the thralldom of the gamblers of the world and determined to overthrow the political warts of the world? A most adroit politician is Harry S. New of Indiana who will know his fate on the night of May 2. Beveridge is on his trail. Behind New are the federal administration, the state administration, the corporations of Indiana and the machine politicians. Behind Beveridge are the women of Indiana, the former followers of Roosevelt and the independent Republicans. It is a beautiful fight.

BLIND BOSS CHRIS BUCKLEY of San Francisco is dead. He was born in Ireland seventy-seven years ago. His father brought him to America when he was an infant. At thirty-seven he was the boss of San Francisco and California and for eighteen years he never lost a political battle. He had been blind for years but he never lost the sceptre of power. In 1890 the Republicans swept all before them and became the controllers of city and state. Blind Boss Buckley went to Europe where he remained several years. He returned to America in 1893 and gathered his old followers about him. He placed the Democrats in all the offices of city and state. Then he called his lieutenants about him and said, "I have finished my work." He was as good as his word. He retired from active politics and never played again thereafter. Now the Republicans control San Francisco and they control California. What the California Democrats need is another blind boss and the Democrats of other commonwealths appear to be in need of blind bosses to get the donkey out of the ditch. In many states the party is an organized appetite and in many other states a disorganized mob. How did it happen after eight years of continuous control?

ORGANIZED LABOR OF Texas has a memory. At the El Paso session of the State Federation of Labor a resolution was adopted approving a movement to endow a chair at the State University in honor of the late Governor James Stephen Hogg. Hogg was the first native Texan to fill the office of governor. He was the first and the last constructive statesman that Texas has known. He was a stalwart champion of civil and religious liberty, ever for the enforcement of the written law and ever the friend of the under dog. Men of the Hogg type do not come often. He builded his monuments while he was on earth. Would that there were more like him in Texas.

HOOPER NEW RAIL HEAD

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Ben W. Hoper, member of the public group of the United States railroad labor board and former governor of Tennessee, was today elected chairman of the board at the annual meeting succeeding Chairman Barton. ## SUES FOR CHILDREN'S LOVE

Mrs. Mabel Gunther and her two children, Henrietta and Charles.

Two hundred thousand dollars for the love and affection of her two children, Henrietta, 15, and Charles, 13, is what Mrs. Mabel Gunther asks in her suit against Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vieter. She alleges that the children came into possession of the Vieters under a codicil to the will of their grandmother, which left them an annual income and made the Vieters trustees, and that they have alienated the children's affections. She charges the Vieters plan to take the children to Germany and bring them up as Germans. Mrs. Gunther lives in Orange, New Jersey.

NAPIER ENTERS GOVERNORS RACE

Says He Would Drive Out Klan

DALLAS, April 27.—Judge E. W. Napier of Wichita Falls, presiding over the seventy-eighth district court there, announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor while in Dallas today.

Judge Napier severely criticized the Ku Klux Klan in a statement issued following his announcement of candidacy.

He called the Ku Klux Klan a "challenge to every principle for which Americans have stood for 150 years", and promised that in event he is elected he "will drive such organizations out of the state of Texas." His platform will be announced soon, he said.

Judge Napier recently sentenced to jail three citizens of Wichita Falls when they refused to testify as to their alleged affiliations with the Ku Klux Klan before a grand jury called to investigate that secret order.

DENVER MAN COMES BACK

By Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., April 26.—Alva Swain, well-known Colorado newspaper man, and former republican national committeeman, who disappeared several weeks ago on the day he was removed as a director of the estate for the late I. N. Stevens, of Philadelphia returned to Denver tonight, according to a statement issued by his attorneys.

B. F. Reed and Horace N. Hawkins, Swain's attorneys, declared that he had been ill and was not yet entirely recovered but "is very much better." Swain disappeared March 16.

HENRY'S GOT NEW FLIVVER; SO HAS THIEF

By Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 27.—Henry Ford was driving a brand new automobile today. This followed the theft last night of his machine while it was parked downtown.

Mr. Ford personally called the police by telephone and notified them of his loss.

"What kind of car was it?" the police clerk asked.

"Why a Ford, of course," Mr. Ford answered.

As the police had been unable to find the stolen machine by this morning, there was nothing left the manufacturer to do but to go to one of his factories and take a new car from the store room.

IRISH OUST IRREGULARS

DUBLIN, pril 27A.—The Irish irregular troops at Mullinger at 8 o'clock this evening vacated the public buildings they had been holding and left Mullinger. The movement was in answer to an ultimatum issued by General McKeown of the regular Irish forces, who motored to Mullinger after having attended the funeral of Brigadier General Adamson at Athlone and gave the irregulars five hours notice to leave the town or surrender.

HARDING LAUDS GEN. GRANT AT HIS BIRTHPLACE

He Would Have Put O. K. on Plan to End Wars

By Associated Press.

POINT PLEASANT, Ohio, April 27.—Standing in the shadow of the spot where General Grant was born 100 years ago today, President Harding brought forth great aplause from thousands of people when he expressed his belief that the great Union leader would have approved "all the republic has so recently done in poining other nations in lifting the burdens of armament and promoting understandings which make war less likely."

The audience, composed mainly of Ohioans, who had journeyed here to celebrate the centennial of Grant's birth, cheered also when Mr. Harding ernment tug "Cayuga" was made wide service in the world war revealed the common American soul."

Mr. Harding spoke from a stand immediately adjoining the spot on which stood the cottage where General Grant was born.

Simple Life Wins.

"I would rather come to a spot like this," he said, "than to any other in the republic that I could choose. Not but what I have great reverence for the genius and the determination and the capacity which belongs to great cities, but if my observations in life count for anything, I want to say to you that the one everlasting anchorage of this republic is in the communities like this in which we are gathered. In the simple life of the hamlet and the village there is the typical sturdy life of our America and I rejoice to come among you and participate in this celebration."

Cheers and handclapping came from his hearers when Mr. Harding said of General Grant that he only wanted to sustain Lincoln whom God inspired to bestow freedom. And again when he declared, "he fought for a preserved union and restored nation and succeeding generations are richer because of his example."

Thousands Cheer.

The trip of the president and his party to Point Pleasant on the government tug "Cayuga" was made through a continuous ovation from tens of thousands of people who lined the Ohio river on both the Kentucky and Ohio Banks.

WICHITA BANKS FULL OF WATER

Stream Still Rising at Midnight

Water was running bank full in the Wichita river at midnight last night following the rain of early Thursday evening, brief, but attaining torrential proportions. The river was rising rapidly at midnight. There was no means of judging its future condition, on account of inability to get reports from points up the valley. The valley has had little share in the rains heretofore, and the river has hardly covered the bottom of its regular channel. Unless the upper valley shared in the heavy rains the rise may disappear as rapidly as it came. If it should residents in the lowlands along the river are in for a ticklish period.

Rainfall of Thursday night in Wichita Falls was estimated at 21-2 inches. Although the rain fell only a short while, its volume can be appreciated from the fact that paved streets in the downtown section were partially covered with swirling water, water running inches deep at Scott and Ninth.

KLAN HE[illegible] 'NOT WEA[illegible]Y'

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 27.—J. G. Camp of Atlanta, Georgia, lectured tonight at an open air meeting before several thousand Austin citizens in defense of the Ku Klux Klan. He charged that the klan was being subjected to a "campaign of villification" and asserted that the officers of the klan were not "merely promoters seeking to become rich." He declared that the heads of the organization received a compensation barely sufficient for their needs and that the ideals of the organization were of the highest.

60 PERISH

By Associated Press.

Burk Trembles As Big Tornado Roars O'erhead

JAZZES IVORY IN RACE FOR PIANO TITLE

By Associated Press.

GARY, Ind., April 27.—David "Jock" Livingston, of Edinburgh, Scotland, who is making an attempt to beat the long distance piano playing record of 72 hours and 9 minutes established by Elbert Pugne, of Lille, France, completed 48 hours of his grind here this afternoon. He began playing Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and expects to play until Saturday for a 96-hour record.

Twister Breaks Just As It Comes Down On Town and a Heavy Rain Follows

The town of Burkburnett shuddered for a few seconds last night as a mammoth, funnel-shaped cyclone swooped down upon it from the northwest at a terrific speed. Just before the powerful gust reached the town, it broke and a wave of wind, accompanied by a downpour of rain followed.

The cyclone seemed to disappear quite as suddenly as it had gathered, the only trace of it being the continuous rain which fell for several hours.

People Huddle in Homes

Women and children ran into their homes and prepared for the worst, while men stood with anxious faces watching the heinous-looking cloud, as it twisted its way toward the city.

When the rain had subsided, reports from the vicinity surrounding Burkburnett indicated that no damage of serious proportions had been done. Oil derricks standing to the northwest and in other sections of the territory were reported intact, while no traces of destruction had been reported to a late hour last night as being in the wake of the hurricane.

Electra Sees It

The cloud was first noticed by residents of Harrold. Telegraphic communication with that place last night revealed that the cloud had passed over without damage.

Residents of Electra stated that a dark funnel-shaped cloud twisted its way over the city, turning to the east. Reports had been current here earlier in the evening to the effect that the cyclone had blown half the town away.

The cyclone was next seen at Iowa Park, it being reported to have passed over the community at a rapid rate, and as being at a low altitude, with an apparent funnel turned toward the ground. No damage was reported from any of the territory around Iowa Park.

Clara Watches It Boil

Residents of Clara reported that the cloud had passed over that vicinity, and that it was a "boiling, twisting mass of black and white."

Whether the twister struck any of the outlying vicinity in the country districts is not known, but it is believed that no damage was entailed, and that the cloud had expended its force when it reached Burkburnet.

Slow rains began falling here last night at 8:30 o'clock, and a mass of heavy dark clouds covered the skies. A rising temperature which brought heat that was keenly felt indicated that the firmaments had prepared another downpour.

HARDING PARTY ESCAPES CRASH

Deck of Boat Caves in With 200

CINCINNATI, April 27.—According to the Cincinnati police tonight 28 persons were injured in the collapse of the deck on the steamer Island Queen while on the voyage to Point Pleasant, Ohio, today.

POINT PLEASANT, Ohio, April 27.—President Harding's adventures some 30 mile voyage up the Ohio river today to participate in the one hundredth birthday anniversary of General Grant, narrowly escaped serious disaster when part of the third deck of the steamer Island Queen crashed to the deck below, carrying with it some 200 persons. Only half a minute's warning by cracking timbers gave a school children's band and many others on deck below time to get from under the crashing deck. Only three persons were injured.

That the president and Mrs. Harding and other distinguished personages in the presidential party were not aboard the Island Queen was due to advice of government inspectors late last night. They advised against the president making the trip on the old pleasure boat because of her condition. Consequently the president and his party were assigned to the Cayuga, a government boat which led the flotilla of seven steamers from Cincinnati bearing between ten and fifteen thousand people.

I. Shaw announced here today.

By Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, April 27.—Practically all of south Texas today was covered by a heavy rain amounting in some places to more than three inches. ## BOUNDARY SUIT NEARING CLOSE

Line Must Follow Channel—Bailey

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Oral argument in the Texas-Oklahoma boundary dispute which has been proceeding in the supreme court since Tuesday was closed today with the hearing of former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, as counsel for the litigants claiming title under Texas, and S. P. Freeling, representing Oklahoma.

Senator Bailey declared that the river was not eccentric as contended by counsel for the federal government, but has only one channel, which slightly changes from time.

When a river is the boundary between two states, the supreme court has held, he stated, that the line must follow the main channels.

GAS PIPE LEAK WRECKS STORE IN FORT WORTH

Employes and Many Customers are Injured

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 27.—Twelve persons were seriously injured and property damage estimated by the owners at $100,000 resulted, when a gas explosion wrecked a grocery store at 502 Houston street, late this afternoon. Among the injured were:

E. I. Watson and W. H. Hearon, butchers; George Hale, Walter Glass, Mrs. Gene Hornback and Miss Hornback, employes; Mrs. Ethel Jones, Mrs. J. Fisher, Mrs. E. P. Freeman, Ed Bailey (negro), J. E. Coleman and Henry Adams (negro.) Several others were slightly injured.

The explosion was caused by a leak in a gas pipe in the basement, according to Henry Dingee, manager of the store, which was one of a chain. He denied first reports that an ammonia tank had exploded. Nearly a score of shoppers were in the store when the accident occurred.

FLOOD LIST IS INCREASED 13

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 27.—Increased by the addition of 13 names late today, the latest toll of missing in the flood here reached 45. The list, while changing every few hours, is lower than last night. Further scouring of the lowlands by searchers, with traffic extending through greater portions of the flood sites, is expected to reveal the location of most of the missing.

The names added to the report of missing tonight are:

Octavia Barton and child, Robert Caldwell, wife and six children; Oliver Pinkerd, negro, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yates.

Two of the three flood victims whose bodies were recovered were buried today. They were Mrs. G. W. Pettis and Mrs. Lenora Ferguson.

RAIL SHOPS NOT TO OPEN

By Associated Press.

DENISON, April 27.—After an order had been posted announcing that the Missouri Kansas and Texas railroad's car shops here would be opened Monday by the A. S. ## 3 HURT IN STRIKE FIGHT

By Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 27.—One mine guard and two striking coal miners were wounded when an altercation started this afternoon between mine guards and strikers at Scofield in the Carbon county coal fields of Utah.

Bonds Unsteady With New Issues

NEW YORK, April 27.—Technical conditions accounted mainly for the further irregularity shown by today's bond market, the recent upward movement of prices halting as new issues were being distributed among investors.

Dealings in liberties were large, but offerings exceeded the demand, practically the entire series closing at nominal declines.

French government's and municipals were heaviest of the foreign groups. There was no disposition to associate their relatively moderate reaction with developments in the international situation. Mexican and Brazilian issues also eased, the latter probably being influenced by delay in the placing of a new loan here.

Louisiana People Flee to Boxcars When Gash in Levee Puts 10 Towns Along River 20 Feet Under Water

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—As a result of the breaking of the levee of the Mississippi river near Ferriday, La., eight to ten small communities as far north as Sicily Island, along the Missouri Pacific railway are already inundated.

The towns of Panola, Junks, Clayton and other communities will have 20 feet of water within 24 hours, engineers estimate.

People Move In Box Cars.

Train crews have removed from the stricken area all men, women, children and household effects that could be reached. Some fear is felt that in some parts of Concordia and Catahoula parishes, isolated families may be unaware of their danger. Fifty or more families are today occupying railroad box cars and improvised houses at Sicily Island.

Boats Pick Up Many

Boats are plying over various parts of Southern Catahoula and most of Concordia parishes in an effort to pick up refugees. Scores of flood sufferers are said to have been saved in this manner. Rescue workers report that at least three-fourths of Concordia and Catahoula parishes are already inundated, and that the water is rapidly spreading.

Refugees from the flooded area are being taken to Jonesville and Harrisburg.

Thousands of Turtles Leap Into Air as Mysterious Ground Swells Rock Bottom Out of Ocean Coast

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—An unusual phenomenon was today puzzling naval officers attached to the hydrographic office of the navy department.

An abnormal ground swell off the North Carolina coast was reported to the hydrographic office as occurring yesterday afternoon by the naval collier Prometheus in a dispatch which said:

"At 2 p. m., April 26, 1922, in latitude 35 degrees 50 minutes north, longitude 74 degrees west, with smooth sea and light northwesterly airs, suddenly encountered extremely heavy ground swells from 65 degrees (true.) The swells are approximately 30 feet through to crest. The disturbance lasted about two hours.

"Continuous soundings at intervals of four minutes showed no bottom at 130 fathoms. At one time thousands of porpoises were leaping into the air. During remainder of afternoon experienced extraordinary currents varying in direction and strength but generally setting northeastward; verified by astronomical observations and radio compass bearings."

stays precisely upright from sheer velocity for the distance of a few yards—and then it begins to wobble and go wrong.

It's the same way about advertising—a little spurt will make a showing—but it's the constant, persistent, frequent user who keeps the business from "wobbling."

This is no time to take risks in business wobbles. But it is a good time, after making the proper analysis of your business, to realize, in all probability, that it needs much more advertising.

HENRIETTA PAYS MILLER HONOR

Resolutions Will be Drafted by Baf

Special to the Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, April 27.—Announcement was made in the 30th district court by Judge H. B. Wilson, this morning, of the death of Judge George E. Miller, of Fort Worth, who for several years was district judge of that court.

The attorneys of the Henrietta bar immediately elected Judge Wilson chairman of a meeting to pay tribute to the memory of Judge Miller who was held in high esteem and greatly loved by the people of Clay county. Feeling remarks were made by Judge Wilson, Judges P. M. Stine, Wm. Wantland and J. S. Dickey and upon motion a committee, consisting of three oldest members of the local bar, Judges Stine, Wantland and Chestnut, was appointed to draft suitable resolutions upon the death of Judge Miller.

District court will stand adjourned the day of Judge Miller's funeral out of respect to the distinguished lawyer and jurist.

TEXANS—

married and a well known citizen of Paducah, Cottle county. Tip Jones has a beautiful home in Quanah and a 3,000 acre ranch in Cottle county. He made the arrangements for the trip covering the territory between Quanah and Childress.

Uses Rum Runners Cars

He did more than this. He was one of the delegation of Quanah citizens that journeyed to Chillicothe to extend a welcome to the governor. This was on Monday, April 24. Tip Jones was the pilot on the trip across Foard and Cottle counties and W. A. Galloway was the driver of the car. This car was captured from a bootlegger by the sheriff of Hardeman county after shots had been exchanged between the sheriff and the bootleggers. The rum runners escaped, but the car was confiscated and is now a service car instead of a rum running car.

At Crowell the governor talked an hour and a half in the open air. All the people of Foard county who could get to town through the mud must have been present. His address which was half speech and half sermon, appeared to make a deep impression and his story of the 500 young white men who have been sent to the penitentiary during his reign was most appealing. He was free in his denunciation of the suspended sentence act and he warned his hearers that the "moral misfits" and "curbstone crooks" always participated in the elections while 250,000 men and women armed with poll tax receipts and representing the very best element of society failed to vote two years ago when tremendous issues were submitted to the people. In all his speeches he urged men and women voters who believed in "the righteousness that exalteth a nation" to participate in the affairs of state and to elect men to office loyal to their oath, to the commonwealth and to the laws of the commonwealth.

Talks at Paducah.

It is forty miles from Crowell to Paducah, Cottle county, but the run was made without accident or incident. There the governor addressed another large audience in the public tabernacle where District Attorney J. Ross Bell gave him a very flattering introduction. All the people of Cottle county that could get to town were in town that day. Speaking began at 3 o'clock. At 4:30 despite the warnings given of heavy roads and the signs of the coming storm, the governor decided to make the run and keep his apointment at Childress at 8 o'clock that evening. This was another forty-mile journey through the canyon and valley of the Pease river country. At the Pease river bridge the governor remarked to the writer, "Pease was governor of Texas when my parents came to the state and his name is attached to the original land grant of the old homestead. Just before her death in her 93rd year my sainted mother said, 'A governor conveyed to us the old homestead; it seems to me just the thing for me to deed it to another governor, his successor and my son.'"

There are three of her children living. Governor Neff made the necessary financial arrangements with the two others and the old homestead in McLennan county taken by his sire in the pioneer days when his father was a frontiersman is now the prized possession of the successor of Governor Pease for whom the Pease river was named and where Quanah Parker and his Comanches in the long ago hunted antelope and buffalo.

Sam Neff, Cowboy, Presott

In the audience at Paducah was Sam Neff, a cowboy at Matador. Sam is a nephew of the governor and came all the way from Matador to shake hands with his uncle, the governor of Texas. It was a wild run from Paducah to Childress, the last hour through the driving rain and mud six inches deep. It was raining at Childress when the governor and his party drove in and it continued to rain all night long.

This did not prevent the Rotarians of Childress giving a dinner in honor of their distinguished guest and the members of his party at the Presbyterian church. J. C. Thomas and Fred Hesketh, newspaper publishers, and the latter postmaster, were among those who welcomed the visitors. Judge John W. Davidson introduced the governor to the Rotarians and introduced him a second time an hour later at the Lagrande Theater where the possibilities and perils of Texas were presented to another large audience.

Judge Davidson is a former citizen of Van Zandt county. He served as county judge of Van Zandt for several terms and then decided to take the advice of Horace Greely and go West. He pitched his tent in Childress county and is mighty glad of it. His father, at fifty-nine, began the practice of law and served Van Zandt county two terms as county judge so proud was he of the success of his son as a lawyer and a judge.

Rain Interferes

Childress chamber of commerce and boomers of the town and country had arranged to send 40 cars on the run from Childress to Canadian but Jupiter Pluvius smashed the program. To the disappointment of all only three cars were ready Wednesday morning. All the others said that the roads were so sloppy and the weather so uncertain that they did not care to undertake the long drive.

Governor Neff was as fit for the run as Jack Dempsey is fit for a fight and announced ready. Three cars announced ready too and J. W. Mitchell, J. M. Crews and J. O. McMinn were the owners and drivers of the cars. State Comptroller Lon Smith and Captain J. D. Fauntleroy of the state highway department joined the governor at Childress.

Regardless of the threatening outlook the start was made at 8:30 o'clock. At Wellington there was a big audience assembled at the Baptist church and there the governor made an appeal for co-operation in giving the people of Texas a better and more economical government. He was introduced by County Judge C. C. Small. It had rained all the morning, but this did not dampen the ardor of the travelers or keep the people at home.

Offers Flood Aid.

While at Wellington, the governor wired E. R. Cockrell at Fort Worth asking that official if the state could offer any assistance to the flood sufferers. There is no finer agricultural country in Texas than the governor glimpsed on his run from Childress to Canadian. All the farmers predicted bumper crops and all the business men a prosperous season. It was a busy day to say the least.

There was another large crowd at Shamrock where the party arrived at 4 o'clock just four hours behind schedule time. There was more speaking along the same line. After leaving Shamrock the governor officiated at the dedication of a new bridge over the north fork of Red river. The cost of the bridge was $130,000 and a large delegation from Shamrock convoyed the governor's party to the river. Judge L. D. Miller of Wheeler county headed the delegation.

After the dedication the run was made to Canadian where another address was delivered by the chief executive devoted mainly to modern highways and the needs of the people along these lines. Many historic places were touched on the trip including Old Mobeetie, a famous cattle town in the long ago.

Now prosperous farmers are everywhere in evidence and growing towns remind the tourist that the big ranch and the buffalo have disappeared and that the man with the plow and the hoe is the conqueror of the range.

Governor Neff will close his speaking tour at Hereford on Friday 28th. Then he will join the regents of the State Normal school at Canyon City for an inspection of that noted teachers' training institution of the West. He plans to spend Sunday at Amarillo and to accompany the regents to Denton where there is another flourishing state normal as well as the College of Industrial Arts for girls. After an inspection of this state institution has been made, the governor will return to Austin to resume the regular grind while the regents will go to Huntsville.

It has been a memorable trip to say the least and the chief executive has penetrated sections never before visited by a Texas governor during his term of office, although Hon. O. B. Colquitt visited Mobeetie and Canadian in his campaign for the office of governor of Texas.

It is certainly remarkable the size of the audiences that has greeted him everywhere since his opening address or sermon on the duty and responsibility of the citizens at Wichita Falls. There have been receptions and dinners and barbecues everywhere. And while never once mentioning politics the governor in all his stops placed before the citizens a vast mass of information touching the cost of state government, the need for all men and women who are qualified voters, to take more than a passing interest in public affairs and lastly touching upon the marvelous resources and magnificent possibilities which he predicted would some day place the Lone Star state at the head of all the states as to population, intelligence, wealth and patriotic endeavor.

BAPTISTS HEAR OF BIG DRIVE

At the First Baptist church Thursday morning a good congregation from Wichita Falls, Electra, Henrietta, Iowa Park, and other places gathered to hear discussions of the 75 million dollar campaign movement. Dr. Scarborough spoke on the campaign—its products and by-products. He said in substance that the Baptists in two and one-half years had raised $30,358,000 for missions, education and benevolence. During this time 2,000 churches have been organized in the south, 440,000 baptised into Baptist churches; 119 Baptist schools have been helped in the homeland and 150 new schools have been organized in the foreign field and 440 other schools in the foreign field have been assisted; 13 new hospitals have been built in the two one-half years in the south, making now more than 20. 17 orphanages have been assisted. Home and foreign missions and education have been promoted in a large fashion. 700 new missionaries have been put into the home field and 200 in the foreign field.

All the Baptists in this section were asked and urged to pay up their campaign pledges; and those who have not made pledges urged to make contributions between this and next Sunday.

The revival meeting at the First Baptist church goes on with increasing power. Eighty-six have joined the church up to date, many of them strong men and women. The meeting goes on morning and evening until Sunday night. The public generally is cordially invited to come.

HENRY SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

Robert L. Henry, senatorial aspirant, and avowed champion of the Ku Klux Klan, will outline his position for a Wichita Falls audience at the Wichita theater tonight at 8 o'clock.

Henry has always been popular with Wichitans, a fact which without the interest aroused by his recent stand on the Ku Klux Klan, would assure a well filled house to hear his message.

Support of Henry by a number of prominent Wichitans and prominent Masons is indicated in the signatures affixed to the announcement of the Waco's ex-congressman's appearance.

Henry spoke at Vernon last night, and is expected to spend the greater part of today in Wichita Falls.

200 BOYS HERE FOR CONVENTION

Older Youths Meet for Three Days

With over 200 boys expected to arrive here today and all arrangements complete for their entertainment, officials in charge of the district older boys' conference which will be held here today, Saturday and Sunday predicted Thursday a meeting rivaled only by the state convention of the older boys which was held at A. and M. college recently.

Upon their arrival here, the delegates will go direct to the chamber of commerce, which has been designated as headquarters for registration and information, and register, being assigned to quarters.

The program today includes:

Registration at the chamber of commerce and assignment to rooms, from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

Opening session, First Methodist church, Polly Clark presiding, 3 o'clock. Song service led by R. E. Shepherd. Devotional led by J. D. Pinkston. Addresses of welcome, Frank Collier, mayor; J. W. Loving, pastor; Edward Kane, Hi-Y club. Response, Graham Hi-Y representative.

The opening session will include the appointment of nominating committees, special music, remarks and announcements to be delivered by J. E. Lewis, state boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and an address on "Why We Are Here," which will be delivered by H. P. Demand, regional boys' work secretary, representing the international committee on such work as conducted by the Y. M. C. A.

The evening service includes a song service led by Mr. Shepherd, the meeting beginning at 7:45.

Election of officers, special music and an address on "Training," delivered by J. C. Watson of Oklahoma, will feature the evening session tonight, the meeting closing with a social hour.

Work on the conference began some time ago under the systematic leadership of Lee Clark, superintendent of the Wichita Falls public schools, and Mr. Lewis. Numerous committees were designated to have charge of the preparations, all of which have been worked out.

The purpose of the conference, according to those in charge, is to enlist and train leaders for "the church and the community of tomorrow."

The state executive committee of the Texas Young Men's Christian association is responsible for the promotion of the conference, which is the third to be held in the state since January 1, 1922.

Because of the increasing demands for leadership in civic and social life, the directors of the work assert, and because this leadership must be supplied from the ranks of the older boys, the conference is considered of tremendous importance to northwest Texas.

Delegates to the convention include boys 15 years and older, of "good moral character." The delegates represent high schools, athletic associations, Sunday schools, Sunday school classes, young people's societies, county agricultural clubs, Hi-Y clubs, Boy Scout troops, churches, De Molays, and luncheon clubs.

Practically each delegation which is expected to arrive here this morning is under the leadership of an adult leader, only a few groups being permitted to attend unchaperoned.

The program outlined for the conference includes busy hours from the inception of the convention until the close Sunday night.

FLOOD—

The other, W. C. Gentry, who lost his life in rescuing persons from the lowlands, will be buried tomorrow. The Red Cross, under whose directions he was said to be working, will have charge of the funeral.

Property damage was estimated at $2,000,000 as residents in the disaster areas began digging out of the mud.

Flood refugees being cared for at relief stations numbered 2,500 tonight. Progress in the relief work made outside aid unnecessary. Fifty families were removed today from the Arlington Heights school to the First Christian Church, from which they will be transferred to homes, hotels and rooming houses. The refugees will be fed, clothed and given shelter until the river bottoms are dry.

Reward for Dynamiters

Result of an investigation into the alleged dynamiting of the levee is being awaited.

A $500 reward has been offered by the levee board for information on the reports of dynamiting.

Railroad traffic was approaching normal tonight, although the service on some roads, particularly the Texas & Pacific, was still crippled. Street car service was restored to the flood sections today.

Efforts to move a Texas & Pacific passenger train, stranded at Aledo for two days, will be made tonight, it was stated here.

COLORADO CONTINUES UPWARD TREND.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 27.—The Colorado river's rise continued at Austin until late this afternoon when the gauge reading showed a high mark for the water of 20.3 inches above normal.

Late tonight the river slackened its rise and at 11 o'clock was rising at the rate of about one inch an hour. It was expected that the crest of the flood would pass at midnight.

Low river valley lands were flooded below the Austin lake dam. No estimate has been made of the damage but it was said to be confined to the destruction of crops on the lowlands.

Footprints on Wall of Deserted Tumble-Down Ranch House Guide 3 Sleuths to As Many Copper Stills

With three unique copper stills safely under lock and key in the county building and Charlie Wilson, 24, behind steel bars in the county jail charged with manufacturing whisky in connection with the stills, Frank Morgan, constable of Wichita county, believes he led a raid Thursday afternoon which establishes a record for this vicinity, when he, E. S. Richardson, special deputy and W. W. (Pat) Murphy raided an abandoned ranch house five miles out on the K. M. A. road.

Following up a lead established several days ago, Constable Morgan said that he had his officers approach the ranch house yesterday afternoon at a high rate of speed in order that the suspected operators could have no chance of escape.

Deserted House.

The ranch house, which has not been in use for over a year, was hidden behind a thick array of mesquite bushes, which possibly aided the officers in their approach.

The automobile which Constable Morgan was driving, was headed into the front of the house.

Covered with guns, Wilson was asked what he was doing at the place, and who was with him, Wilson, according to the officers, stating that he "didn't know if anybody was there."

A hurried search of the four-roomed house revealed that the premises were bare except for a mattress in a front room, placed on a floor, and a cooking outfit found in an abandoned kitchen.

Constable Morgan stated that he could smell "corn liquor," and that he was not willing to give up the search because the aroma was so conspicuous. He remembered, he said, that he had seen windows to the apparent upper story, as the officers had approached the house. No stairway to such a story was to be found in the house.

Footprints Betray.

An investigation outside revealed that a stairway which had once lead to the attic of the house had been torn down. Footprints on the side of the house leading up a plank nailed to the house and which had once supported the stairway, indicated that some one had been making an entrance into the attic by the aid of a rope.

The constable immediately secured a rope, managed to attach it to a brace nailed at the top of the house, and began his ascent to the attic with his pistol drawn, he said.

Breaking down the door, the officer said that he viewed a miniature distillery.

Still Warm When Found.

According to Constable Morgan, ten 60-gallon barrels of mash ready for the run, which the officers destroyed, were found in the room, as were the three large stills. Constable Morgan said that in one corner sat an old air tank, which was in use as a receptcle for gasoline, and which furnished gas for the operation of the stills. One of the stills, he said, which sat on bricks was warm when it was found.

The stills were lowered from the attic by a rope and placed in the car, the officers bringing them to the county building yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Wilson, who refused to make any statement and who denied to the officers, they said, that he had any knowledge of the stills, will be arraigned before J. A. Lantz, United State commissioner, this morning. He was placed in jail immediately upon his arrival in the city.

A large calibered pistol which Constable Morgan found on the mattress in the abandoned house, together with its fancy-scrolled scabbard, is in the custody of the authorities.

Ousley at Decatur

Special to the Record News.

DECATUR, Texas, April 27.—Clarence Ousley, candidate for U. S. Senator, in a speech here tonight spoke earnestly in protest against what he called, "a passing spasm of racial and religious intolerance."

After discussing the issues which he regards as paramount, and answering in detail the remarks made about him by Mr. Thomas in a recent speech here, he said:

"We seem to be passing through an attack of the age-old intermittent disease of religious and racial intolerance. Like the present type of influenza it is less virulent than heretofore but it is the same old germ of bigotry that has scourged the human race from the beginning of government.

"In this land of freedom, under a constitution guaranteeing the political equality of all men without discrimination against race or creed, we hear people inquiring whether candidates for office are Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant. The mere inquiring is a plain violation of one of the most positive prohibitions of the constitution of the United States which declares that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

PETE ROGERS ROTARY HEAD

Hamilton Reviews Work of Club

Pete Rodgers was introduced to 200 Rotarians and guests as the 1922 president of the Rotary club of Wichita Falls, the introduction coming as a climax to one of the most "spirited" of the annual meetings in the history of the local club.

The new president, elected a week ago, was unknown except to the members of the board of directors until he was presented tonight.

The other officers are: C. C. Kirby, first vice president; R. E. Shepherd, second vice president; Al Biedenborn, treasurer; John Gould, secretary; John W. Bradley, chaplain and Tom Smock, sergeant at arms.

Work of the local Rotary club during the years of its existence was reviewed by W. B. Hamilton, who summed up the achievements of the club in the building of Wichita Falls during each of the administrations of past presidents, including the retiring presidents administration. Former presidents of the club sat with the retiring president during the evening—in order, George Keith, Tom Smock, Q. B. Lee, J. M. McFall, C. R. Hartsook and I. H. Roberts.

The achievements mentioned included material support and a share in the initiation of the program which resulted in the paved highways now completed or under construction; the donation to the school board of a home for the superintendent of schools—this and aid in securing a home for teachers coming during the boom period—with various other phases of work down to and including the erection of the knot hole grand stand at the ball park, characterized as the biggest step in local boys work to date.

The speaker also laid emphasis on the work of a Rotary committee of one—the one Tom Smock—with the aid of Red Cross nurses and of the members of the medical and surgical profession in the club, which has brought hope and confidence again to many children who previous to their being taken in hand by this committee had little to hope for by reason of physical handicaps from their birth.

This committee has been quietly functioning for several years, but until its mention in reviewing the work of the club its work has been kept strictly outside the ways of publicity.

Horrace Robbins, the retiring president, was presented with a handsome chest of silver as a testimonial of the club's appreciation of his work during the year. The presentation talk was made by Rev. Nat Grafton, and brief responses were made by "President Horrace" and Mrs. Robbins.

Musical numbers under the direction of R. E. Shepherd, assisted by Mrs. Shepherd and the Rotary "choir" were features of the program.

SCHOOL CENSUS TAKER WANTED

Warrant Signed by Corpus Men

By Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, April 27.—Warrants were issued today with complaints signed by six members of the Corpus Christi school board for the arrest of Joe Fitzsimmons, charging him with misappropriation of funds of the board.

Fitzsimmons was the census enumerator, tax assessor and collecter for the school board. An audit of the books is now being made by the state department of education. The grand jury has also been re-convened to make an investigation.

This comes as a sequel to charges last year by Miss Annie Webb Blanton that the scholastic census of Corpus Christi had been padded. A recensus was made by men from the department and it was said that the census count was only 2,381, instead of 6,042, as was reported in the school board census.

Later an agreement was made by the board and Miss Blanton that her figures were to be accepted and that a new enumerator must be named and an audit be made by the department. This audit was recently begun and the complaints were issued signed by six members of the board.

Miss Ruby Avis Weds Ralph Dunkelburg in Beautiful Church Affair

At the First Presbyterian church, a beautiful wedding took place Thursday evening at 5 o'clock when Miss Ruby Avis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Avis, was united in marriage to Ralph Dunkelberg of Fort Wayne, Indiana, Dr. N. F. Grafton, the pastor officiating. The church was artistically decorated in gladoli, roses and ferns, with tall wicker baskets and vases containing huge bouquets of the flowers, lending the effect and fragrance of a pretty spring garden.

A beautiful musical program preceded the ceremony in which Mrs. Bruce Greenwood gave a violin solo, Cadman's "At Dawning," and Mrs. Louella B. Thompson sang as the pre-nuptial solo, "All For You." Mrs. O. E. Maer presided at the organ and played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered. During the ceremony she played softly, "Tendresse" followed by Mendelssohn's Recessional.

The bride who was charming in a three-piece afternoon gown of rust color with slippers and hat to harmonize, was given to be married by her brother, Jake Avis. She carried a bride's bouquet of roses. Mrs. Fred Weeks was matron of honor and Miss Gretchen Avis, maid of honor, both sisters of the bride. Mrs. Weeks wore a handsome hand-embroidered white fillet gown with beaded sash and carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. Miss Avis wore an orchid chiffon trimmed in handmade flowers and carried a shower bouquet.

Misses Lula Wood, Cecelia Adickes and Willie Lois Moore were brides maids and were attractive in gowns of canton crepe. Miss Wood's and Miss Adickes wearing flesh color and Miss Moore, orchid. All wore dainty garden hats and silver slippers.

Mr. Dunkelberg had for his best man, George Dwyer, Harry White and Dr. N. H. Coleman were groomsmen and Henry C. Welch and T. S. Richardson, ushers.

The bride, who is a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families in Wichita Falls, has won for herself an enviable position in the younger social set since her return from school at Ward-Belmont. The bridegroom, formerly of this city, is a prominent young business man of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunkelberg left immediately after the ceremony for their home at Fort Wayne.

Mesdames Fred Weeks and Harry Baum, sisters of Mrs. Dunkelberg, were hostesses at the Kemp hotel Tuesday at a beautifully appointed luncheon complimentary to the bride. The private dining room was lighted with snowy wax tapers in silver candleholders and the table was decorated with a centerpiece of Easter lilies. Covers were laid for 22 guests including members of the wedding party and friends.

FASHIONS

Here's a Charming, Flower-Trimmed Dance Frock.

What girl couldn't make herself a dance frock as simple as the one shown in the sketch, especially when she may go into the millinery department of the store and buy the trimming for it all ready to put on? This little frock was shown in a pale yellow georgette trimmed with artificial bachelor buttons in a darker yellow sewed around the edge of the skirt and armholes and in clusters of three dotting the surface of the frock all over. A narrow black velvet ribbon girdled the waist, being tied in a short loop and long-end bow at the side back, while two streamers of the ribbon extended down either side, forming a sort of panel effect.

The color and flower scheme could to varied in numerable ways. Pale lavender georgette might be dotted with purple violets and purple velvet ribbon used for girdle and panels; yellow would be good with the violet trim or a pale pink might be trimmed with deeper pink roses and so on. Using the flowers as a border for the skirt is particularly effective.

A velvet or metal ribbon bandeau matching the trimming of the frock may be worn in the hair with very good effect, and the straight bands, such as the one worn by the girl in the sketch, are favorites with girls who have bobbed hair—and their number is said to be increasing.

Not only as a dance frock, but as a suggestion for a bridemaid's frock, the little model sketched is excellent. A very lovely color scheme could be worked out for a June wedding with the bridesmaids' frocks flower-trimmed in this fashion, fresh flowers of the same kind to be carried by the girls.

CENSOR VAMP KISS IN MOVIE

CHICAGO, April 27.—Suggestive movie closeups where the villian registers passion, the hero gazes into the contents of a cocktail glass and the hero implants a six-foot "vamp" kiss on the heroine's lips, were censored today by parents and teachers attending the twenty-third annual convention of the Illinois Council of the Parent-Teachers' association. "Close-ups are objectionable because they leave the wrong impressions on the minds of children and the producers are responsible, speakers said.

CHAPTER LXII.

The winter was a gay one, in spite of Annette's delicate health. She insisted upon keeping up her social activities, although Howard often begged her to spare herself. When she refused, he laughingly urged that she have pity on him.

Often when he looked at her his eyes would cloud, then take on a tenderness such as one might show toward a child. She was so dependent upon him. Much of the old passionate love, showing itself in embraces and caresses, was gone, and a quieter affection had taken its place. Annette did not so often tell him that his only duty was to make her happy. Not so often did she impress upon him that she was alone but for him. And because she did not he felt that he was in duty bound more than he ever before had felt it, and except for the one hour a day in his office he scarcely was absent from her side. He sat with her at home, went driving, shopping or visiting the homes of their friends, went to the theater, the opera.

"What a life for a man with his abilities," Claire Gordon said to herself, her lip curling. Then her face saddened, as she thought of what he was and what he might have been.

"We will go to the country early, Howard," Annette said one lovely May day. Howard gladly agreed. As the winter had worn on, a great weariness of the life he led had possessed him, making it almost impossible at times to hide it from Annette and leaving hom out of conceit with himself as well as with his wife.

So one lovely day about the middle of May they took possession of their country home. It was a wonderful spring, and Annette took a notion to wander in the woods near the house, to gather trailing arbutus, and other early wild flowers. Daily she seemed to grow stronger, and Howard rejoiced to see the calm contentment she evinced.

It was June. The month had done wonders for Annette.

"We must ask some people down," she said to Howard as they sat on the porch sipping their coffee in the early twilight. "Claire and Hayden Drew and Nell and Ted Delong. I think Hayden Drew is in love with Claire. It would be a nice match, don't you think?"

Howard felt a sudden stab. He never had thought of Claire Gordon as married. And since that day when she had so taken him to task he had felt in a way she was more to him that she could be if she were married. Howard Blake was monogamous in his life; he had been a faithful husband; but in his thoughts he was perhaps—as are many men—polygamous. He had desired Nadine Norwell; he felt a thrill of possession whenever he thought of Claire Gordon. She had confessed she cared for him, even though at the same time she had declared she despised him. So it was a disturbing thought Annette had projected—that Claire might marry.

"I wouldn't ask them all at once if I were you," was all he said. "I am afraid you will tax this new-found strength too heavily."

"Always thinking of me, dear." Her hand rested lightly on his for a moment. "I tell you what I'll do. I'll ask Claire down for a month, and ask the others for the week-end. Perhaps I'll ask Hayden for the last week she is here. He is very clever, rich, and good-looking," she mused.

"Has all the attributes of a good husband?"

"Yes." If Howard had meant a sneer it had passed harmlessly over Annette. "I don't think Claire could be happy with any but a clever man, and Hayden has done wonderful things. The magazines have written up his radio work, and he has done all sorts of marvellous things, she says."

"No, Claire would not be happy with any but a clever man," Howard said, more to himself than to Annette.

"If a man is too clever, to much bound up in his work, he never should marry," Annette said after a bit.

"It is, you think, a choice between a profession and a wife?"

"I have always thought that. If a man is poor, of course he has to work hard, and his wife is alone through the day. But when people with money marry it should be because they want to be together. Then their money allows them to be companions. That is the nicest part about having money, to my mind. The one you love has no excuse to leave you."

"What a child you are, Annette Your reasoning always amuses me—now."

He had added the last word so low she did not hear. Only too well did he recall the time when that same reasoning awoke all the resentment, the anger—suppressed, perhaps — within him.

"It shows my decadence plainly enough," he muttered as she left him to go upstairs for Hayden Drew's address so he might send off the invitations.

Whether she caught her heel in her trailing housedress, or whether she became dizzy no one knew. But when Howard picked her up from the foot of the stairs he thought she was dead.

Reddy Fox Almost Gets a Dinner

You've often heard the saying old about the famous slip
That unexpected occurs between the cup and lip;
'Twas even thus with Reddy Fox
when most he would be fed;
On Meadow Mouse he thought to dine, but hungry went instead.

When Danny Meadow Mouse darted right in front of Reddy Fox to save little Miss Nanny Meadow Mouse, on whom Reddy was just about to spring, he did one of the bravest deeds that any one could do. Reddy was so surprised that for just a teeny, weeny minute he didn't know just what to do, and in that teeny, weeny minute little Miss Nanny ran out from under the little bunch of grass where she had been sitting, and where Reddy had known that she was sitting, and away to a place of safety. Then Reddy sprang. He sprang straight at bold Danny Meadow Mouse, just as Danny had expected he would, and because he was so excited and surprised he missed Danny, which was also as Danny expected.

Danny dodged and ran along the little path that led through the thickest grass, and then began one of the most exciting races of all the exciting races Danny had ever run. The grass was so thick that Reddy could not see him, but he could see the grass move as Danny ran, and so he kept jumping just ahead of the place where the grass was moving. Time and time again he almost landed on poor, frightened Danny. Once his toenails actually tore Danny's trousers and made Danny squeal with pain and fright, but he wriggled free and ran harder than ever.

Now, Danny had had a great deal of experience in his short life, and he knew the ways of Reddy Fox quite as well as Reddy knew his ways. He knew that it was his wits against Reddy's wits. He knew, too, that if he just ran Reddy would soon catch him, for, of course, a great big fellow like Reddy can run a great deal faster than a little bit of a fellow like Danny. So he knew that if he would escape he must fool Reddy Fox. So once as Reddy sprang Danny stopped short, and, of course, Reddy sprang completely over him. Then Danny darted back the way he had just come. For a minute Reddy was fooled. Then he heard the rustle of Danny's scurrying feet behind him and knew what had happened. Instantly he whirled about and was after Danny once more.

Now, if Danny had been near his own home he would have had plenty of safe hiding places, but over here at the home of little Miss Nanny he didn't know where the hiding places were and he felt quite helpless. He was getting quite out of breath and he felt lame and very sore where Reddy's claws had hurt him. But his courage was good and he was found that he wouldn't give up. He had been in tight places before, and he was sure that somehow he would get out of his present trouble if he only kept his wits about him and tried his very hardest. He dodged into a little side path just because it was handy, and then he remembered that this little path led straight to the old brush pile, under which little Miss Nanny had so many little galleries, and where he had tried so hard to find her. If he could reach that he would be safe.

Danny drew a long breath and ran harder than ever. He didn't stop to look behind him. He didn't need to. His ears told him all that he needed to know. Reddy Fox had discovered which path he had taken and was right after him. There was the old brush pile just ahead! Could he get there in time? How tired his legs were. It seemed as if he couldn't run another step. He gritted his teeth and just made himself run faster than ever.

Plump! Down came the paws of Reddy Fox, and one of them landed on Danny's funny, little stubby tail. He squeaked with fright and pain. The skin of his tail slipped off, and with a last frantic jump Danny was under the old brush pile. Reddy Fox had almost caught a dinner, but not quite.

PLEDGES

It is admitted that government money matters are in a jam and that huge deficits are in sight. Secretary Mellon says that one deficit will be half a billion dollars. If higher taxes are to be avoided then the government must go into the market as a large borrower. Seven billion dollars in securities are maturing in a little more than a year and must be refunded. Mellon warned the congress; Madden warned the congress; McCumber warned the congress but the large appropriations were made without providing any way of raising the money. And yet in 1920 the people were told that if they voted for a change of administration business men would adopt business methods and the country would be saved from Democratic disaster. It is one thing to pledge; it is quite another to redeem the pledge or pledges.

FERGUSON'S START

Former Governor James E. Ferguson opened his senatorial campaign in the city of Honey Grove before an audience of 1,000 men and women. He flayed the reserve system; he flayed "the tyranny and hyprocrisy" of all Sunday laws and blue laws; he denounced the open shop and declared himself a firm believer in the existence of labor unions; he announced his opposition to the open saloon, but favored the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer under proper restrictions. Great applause was provoked by Ferguson when he attacked the University of Texas and the A. & M. College and made an appeal for better support for the country schools. He said the last legislature appropriated the magnificient sum of $2.50 a year for each one of the children in the public schools and a $1,000 a year for every student in the A. & M. College and the University of Texas. His denunciation of blue laws is said to have won the applause of his audience. In closing he declared he wanted to restore liberty to the people; to prevent oppression of the masses by rent robbers and money grabbers; to extend real help to the real farmer; to fire half the blood sucking office holders and save 500 million dollars and to tax the banks for the privilege of keeping other people's money and get 500 million more and to tax liquor and get $1,500,000,000, making in all $2,500,000,000 "saved to the people" which they will otherwise have to pay and thereby keep them in slavery for the rest of their lives. This former governor was the presidential candidate for the American party two years ago. He is running for senator this year as a Democrat, "and he feels it in his bones that he is going to be victorious." On with the battle. There is a free field and the people are said to be the masters.

"So called higher education is cheating the children of Texas out of their just heritage," said Senatorial Candidate James E. Ferguson at Honey Grove. And Honey Grove is the home of Buttermilk Lowry and he never squawked.

COW SAVES FAMILY

MONROE, April 27.—The bellowing of a cow is believed to have saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wanger and their baby boy.

Fire broke out in the house, probably from a spark from a chunk stove and half the house was in flames when Mrs. Wanger was awakened by the bellowing from the stable. They were able to get much of the household equipment out, with the assistance of neighbors.

The house was an old one of local historic interest. The property loss amounts to $2500.

MAN WANTED

I sometimes wish that I could find a patient man and strong, a fellow of receptive mind, who'd listen all day long, while I relate how tough I feel, describe the aches and pangs that torture me from roof to heel, and hurt my ancient fangs. I know it isn't good or wise to tell such tales as these to neighbor people, who despite all stories of disease. The cops at once impatient grow, when I get on their beat, and spring my narrative of woe, of aching head and feet. I tried it on a crippled gent who could not get away., and on my head his staff was bent; it spoiled for both a day. And strangers, when they hear me talk, remark, "You are a bore; you'd better take a good long walk and come this way no more." And yet I feel the pressing need of some one who will hear my tales of vitals gone to seed, of toothache in my ear; of all the divers aches and pains my system can disclose; of fever in my seething veins and chillblains in my nose. I'd pay a man a decent wage if he would calmly sit and listen to me while I rage about my latest fit. But no one seem to want the job, men sigh and turn it down; I've offered it to every swab who hangs around the town. The poorest fellow shakes his head, and says, with aspect sour, "No! Either you or I'd be dead before you'd talked an hour."

The Daily Story

The Crooked Way

(Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.)

When Flavia Glyn moved out of the old house into the new one which Darius had built for her she thought that she was going to be perfectly happy, for the old house had been low and plain and small and had little to recommend it save coziness and the purple lilac trees over the door and a view out across the river, while the new house lacked nothing. It was, indeed, very new, with its slippery floors and modern plumbing and high ceilings, and all it held was new, too, for Flavia had to buy furniture, rugs, and hangings. There was almost nothing that came out of the old house which could go into the new one. Flavia stored most of the old things in her great attic and lived underneath them, forgetful of the time when they and Darius had made up her little world for her.

The new house entailed many new obligations. Flavia, because of it, had an entirely new status in the town. People who had never noticed the mistress of the old house on Cherry street came clamoring at the doors of the Oak avenue residence. Even Mrs. Ladru bowed to Flavia as she swept by in her superb motor. And Flavia hoped that all her neighbors observed this recognition on the part of the town's great lady.

Soon Flavia was going to everything, club meetings, bridge parties and cozy, informal little affairs. This meant new dresses and plenty of them. It also meant entertaining, and every time she did so Flavia found that her house lacked something which some other house had, and so the expense piled up mightily.

Darius, mean while, made money just as fast as he could, but never quite fast enough. They were always a little behind, but at first, he thought nothing of that. At last, however, he discovered or thought he did, that the real trouble lay in the fact that his business wasn't keeping pace with his new house or his wife, but that he gradually went deeper into debt because of it all.

Flavia was charmed with her exalted station. She was proud when she drove out in Mrs. Ladru's French brougham—as she did once in a while—to see the new front and the new sign in Main street. It all looked as if Darius was a big man. But in some way or other Flavia was not quite happy. There always was something she wanted and which she could not have and always something she wished to do she could not accomplish. And this bred in her a reckless spirit.

"I wish we could take a trip somewhere," she said to Darius. "Everybody goes somewhere every summer. I believe I'm the only person on Oak avenue who hasn't climbed Manitou or done Yellowstone Park. Mrs. Watson is just back from there. Did you ever stop to realize, Darius, that we've never been anywhere? Why, we didn't even have a wedding trip. You've owed me that for fifteen years."

"Have we been married as long as that?" mused Darius. "What a long way we've come since the day I went over to your home with Harley Cobb and you got up from the piano and came to meet us. I can remember every detail and see now just how you looked in that green dress you wore."

"Green! It was robin's-egg blue," Flavia laughed. "But, honestly, we ought to take a little journey somewhere. Aren't you tired of sticking so close to business?" she smoothed back her hair. It was getting a little streaked over the top. Yes, Darius did need a good long vacation. She'd insist on his having it.

So they had their trip and came back short of purse and tired, but as far as Flavia was concerned, inexpressibly triumphant. She could now look Mrs. Watson and the rest of them in the eye and talk as loudly as they of sights and scenes.

Winter came and as it was particularly cold a great many people went to Florida. Flavia's restlessness again began to express itself in a longing to travel. She gave Darius no rest until he had consented to join a party going south for the month of March. Flavia brought home an alligator bag, and other mementoes. Only the bag endured as a constant reminder of her sojourn in the south.

Darius was never quite the same after that southern trip. About the third day after returning, his face began to have a drawn, worn look, though he appeared well enough while he was in the south.

Flavia became quite worried. "I wish you'd tell me what's the matter with you, Darius," she begged. "Is your stomach out of order? It must be that or you wouldn't look so. And you don't eat a thing."

No, Darius did not eat, nor did he sleep, either. Once Flavia was awakened by what she thought was the sound of groans, and once she found Darius walking the floor when she came in from a late club meeting. He accounted for his distracted air by saying that he had the toothache.

Summer came and Flavia made plans to go to the famous Chasm House. She began to buy materials and set Miss Towel to work on her frocks. In the mean time at club meetings and the like she noticed a new attitude toward her among the women of her acquaintance. They looked at her a great deal and once or twice she was sure that she heard them whispering about her. And Mrs. Ladru no longer took particular pains to notice her.

However, Flavia got ready and went to the Chasm House with Mrs. Watson. Darius and Herb Watson were coming for the week-end. She had a glorious time until the moment when Herb Watson arrived alone. "Did you lose my husband?" she inquired gayly as he came up the veranda steps.

He shook his head. "Couldn't get him to knock off business," he replied evasively, smiling.

But later Flavia heard him say something to his wife in an undertone that troubued her. "Smashed—busted up completely. I understand Darrin's going to take the stock. Don't you let her catch on though. Mind me," he whispered.

She remembered then that Darius had not written all the week save for one postcard. This and the memory of the thing she had just heard haunted her through a tedious evening at bridge. At 10 she went to her room and there, being quiet and alone, she could think: 'Smashed—Darrin's going to take the stock—don't you let her catch on." Suddenly, it was all clear to her. Darrin was the rival grocer, her husband's keenest competitor. A stock of groceries would be the only stock that Darrin would handle. Of course! And then here was herself. Why it was Darius that has "busted up completely." And here she was spending $8 a day for very indifferent cooking and a sky-high room.

Half an hour later Flavia stole downstairs with her bag in her hand. She asked the clerk to tell Mrs. Watson that she had gone home. Then she had him call a cab for her.

At 5 o'clock of a dingy, wet morning Flavia stood at her door. She unlocked it with her own key and went in. The house was still and terrible in its quietness. She went upstairs. Her door stood open. On the bed lay her husband, fully dressed. Flavia had a bad moment when she saw Darius lying there.

But he sat up and looked at her. "I declare, I've been asleep," he muttered.

Flavia sat down beside him and put her arms about him. He rubbed his head in a dazed way, then he yawned widely and looked at her dully.

"I went to sleep," he said. "It was the reaction, I suppose. Well, Flavia, what do you suppose has happened"?

"I know," was all Flavia said and she held him tight.

They never said a word of blame to each other. From that moment they went calmly on making the great change. The tenants in the old house were told to go, and they did so quickly. Then Flavia took the old stuff out of the attic of the new house and furnished the old house again just as it had been in the first days of her housekeeping. And one day she went to live there very quietly. As for Darius, he got a job of selling his old stock in Darrin's store at a salary they could more than live on.

One day about three months later Flavia and Darius were out bedding down the lilacs against a hard winter. "Mrs. Ladru called today," Flavia told Darius. "She never was so friendly. And what do you think she did when she went away? Put her arms about me and said in the sweetest tone: 'You'll find you've come home to your happiness. It cannot be caught by chasing. I who have been the world over know that. My happiness lies buried with my husband. But your husband lives. You are a luckier woman than I.'"

They were both silent a moment and then Darius spoke slowly:

"We do seem to have come to an awfully long crooked way to all this, don't we, Flavia?"

HOW TO MAKE A RADIO SET

MATERIALS NEEDED FOR AERIAL OR ANTENNA

By WILLIAM G. H. FINCH,
Associate Member Institute Radio Engineers.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Now we come to one of the most important items that enter into the success of any radio station—the aerial, or antenna (means for absorbing or radiating electric magnetic waves, as used in a radio telegraph or telephone.)

As mentioned in one of the previous articles, an aerial, or antenna, is a conductor supported in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects. There are many types of aerials, such as the flat-top "T" type, Fig. 1; inverted "L" type, Fig. 2; umbrella type, Fig. 3. However, most of these types are made up of a plurality of wires (four or six wires, or even more). These types of aerials are used mostly for transmitting purposes; but for receiving purposes only a single wire, suspended in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects, will serve our purpose well. To obtain the best results with this set it would be advisable, where it is possible, to have an aerial from 100 to 150 feet in length and thirty or forty feet high at both ends.

The necessary materials are:

One hundred and fifty feet, or more of No. 12 or 14 B. and S. gauge bare copper wire.

Two to four insulators, depending upon the conditions that must be met.

One porcelain tube.

How to Make Aerial.

The drawings are self-explanatory, and with a little advice you will be able to construct your aerial so as to obtain successful results.

First. Always bear in mind that the effectiveness of your aerial and the success that you will derive from your set depend mostly upon how effectively you have insulated your aerial. Spare no pains to do this job right.

Second. Avoid kinks, turns, twists in your aerial and lead-in wire.

Third. The aerial or antenna wire can be put through the hole at one end of the insulator and the stay wire through the other. A lead-in wire can be fastened to any part of the aerial or antenna, or simply brought off as an extension of the main wire. Where the wire runs around a corner of the building, or under similar circumstances, an insulator can be fastened by means of a large screw to a wooden supporting stick. Then the lead can be put through or fastened to the hole at the extended end of the insulator.

Fourth. If due to conditions you must cut your wire, be sure that when you make the connection it is soldered.

Fifth. If a support can only be found for one end the wire can be run from the house to a short pole twenty-five or thirty feet high near by. On apartment house roofs, chimneys, pipes and other objects offer good natural supports.

Tomorrow's article will tell all about grounds and grounding.

THE ORACLE.

G. Gerrity, Syracuse, N. Y., states that he has an office on the twentieth floor of a downtown building and wants to know if he runs a ground wire from the aerial switch to a half load of dirt on the roof whether this would be considered by the underwriters as a ground.

A. No. Tomorrow's article on ground and grounding will answer your question fully.

G. Forbes, Binghamton, N. Y., wants to know whether it would be proper to use the same size wire as the aerial for grounding his lightning switch; also wants to know where he can buy galena and silicot for his detector.

A. No. See tomorrow's article. Questions of this nature cannot be answered in this column. If answer is desired send the necessary postage.

Henry Watson, Cincinnati, Ohio, wants to know what kind and size switch he should use for grounding his aerial.

A. A 600 volt, 100 ampere, single pole, double-throw knife switch.

COURT ASKED TO FIX PRICE OF BUTCHERING CALF IN SUIT HERE

Litigation over four cows and calves, charges that the defendant refused to accept milk which he is accused of taking from the cows as compensation for pasturage, and the question of whether $2 or $4 is a just price for butchering a calf, alleged to have been killed, feature a suit begun in the county court at law before Judge Guy Rogers Thursday afternoon.

The suit is styled O. T. Nix vs. J. E. McKinney.

The defendant, it is stated, admits that he milked two of the cows in his possession, but that the other two cows were not milked, and on this ground, he contends that he is entitled to receive compensation for pasturing the cattle from July 8, 1921, to Dec. 14, 1921.

The plaintiff, on the other hand, claims that he is entitled to free pasturage for the entire lot because of the milk which the defendant received from the two cows.

The case was submitted to the jury on three special issues.

TEXANS FIGHT FLOOD WATERS

Danger Point Passed at Stamford

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, April 27.—With Clear Fork of the Brazos river higher than any time it has been in 40 years, the Stamford dam held up under the immense pressure against it today. The back flow against the dam caused considerable uneasiness early this morning when the rear of the dam began to sluff off. The entire population of Leuders, near the dam, went to the dam and filled sacks of sand and repaired it until help could arrive from Stamford.

The waters in the river reached their crest soon after noon and when the waters began to recede, all possible danger had passed.

$1,084 Judgment In Land Case

Judgment for the plaintiff for $1,084—the difference between 53 acres of land and 25.9 acres at $40 an acre—was rendered by Judge P. A. Martin in the 30th district court Thursday morning in the case of G. I. Dorrance vs. W. O. Baber et al.

The suit which took on the aspect of a triangle affair resulted from the sale of a lease of property supposed to contain 53 acres of land. The plaintiff contended that he had purchased the land from the defendant, Baber, at a price of $40 an acre, and had paid him that amount discovering later that the lease contained only 25.9 acres.

Baber claimed that he had purchased the lease for 53 acres of land, and that if he was liable for the difference in acreage, that J. S. Haynes, from whom he had purchased the lease, was responsible to him. Baber asked judgment against Haynes in the event the court held that he was liable to Dorrance.

The court, however, held that Baber should pay Dorrance for the difference in acreage, and that he should also pay costs of court in his suit against Haynes.

Following the decision of the court, the 30th district court was adjourned for the day.

Music and Labor

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

Organized labor ought to turn its attention to music.

Music is perhaps the best recreation in the world. It cheers, inspires and drives away the glooms.

It is also the best unifier in the world. It is the best bond of comradeship.

If labor unions would devote their efforts toward music instead of crying for beer it would be better.

We speak of music particularly in reference to group of laborers because theirs may be the finest music in the world, which is choral singing.

We have somehow fallen into the erroneous notion that music is a luxury and an accomplishment of the idle; or at least it is something that can be taken up only by a favored few.

The contrary is true. Music is essentially universal, democratic and human. Anybody can learn it. It requires no unusual gifts, and not even an education.

James Hodson describes the musical activities of the weavers in Lancashire, England.

In Lancashire and Yorkshire almost everybody is an amateur musician. The weavers there recently gave a production of Balfe's "Bohemian Girl." A loom tackler took the part of Florestein. A moulder's laborer was Count Arnheim and a weaver was Arline. The other principals, the chorus and the dancers were all mill hands, boy and girl mill workers.

These workpeople, who are all good union members, have given a number of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, besides very creditable performances of "The Messiah," "Elijah," and "The Crucifixion."

The result is good fellowship and refreshing democracy. Often a subordinate in the shop commands his superiors in the chorus of the orchestra.

Some of the singers as well as the instrumental performers, learn their parts entirely by ear. That is a laborious process, but they enjoy it, and the results are surprising.

There can be no reason why the delights of music and its civilizing and refining advantages should not be enjoyed by every class of people. And if the workers in a factory or a mill were enrougared to take up this sort of thing it would increase the pleasure of living emphatically.

BENEFICIENCY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

To Professor George C. Whipple of Harvard university we owe a word—beneficiency—which should certainly gain a considerable place in the vocabulary and thought of business men. It was coined by Professor Whipple as a correlate—and corrective—of the familiar word efficiency.

"It is well known," he explains, "that the movement for efficiency has not been received in a friendly spirit by the laboring people. Why? Because they believe that efficiency considers the work and the product and leaves them out.

"Beneficiency would mean placing the product and the effect on the worker in equal regard. Beneficiency is efficiency plus humanity. The world is demanding that this change be made.

"Will it be made? Are we going to hold to the old idea of efficiency and make the product of the nation the object of our work? Or are we going to take the new view of beneficiency and place the welfare of the worker on an equality with his product, bending our present organizations to this view, lest they be broken altogether?"

Already, happily, the change has been made in many industrial establishments. In fact, long before Professor Whipple first emphasized the importance of beneficiency in industry it was being practised in not a few factories and stores and offices.

But that it has generally ousted the less humane concept of efficiency is far from being the case. And it must out it everywhere, not only for humanity's sake, but for the good of industry itself. Nay, for the nation's good, too.

The efficiency principle is essentially an outgrowth of the ever-increasing utilization of machinery in industry. Unconsciously this has influenced the business world to think of workers in much the same terms it thinks of machinery, and to demand from them a machine-like performance.

But human beings are not machines. To regard them as such—to try to treat them as such—is both to provoke them to resentment and to subject them to nerve-racking strains. Social unrest and a weakening of the national morale are bound to follow.

When, however, the principle of beneficiency is substituted for that of the cold, impersonal, unhuman efficiency, than all concerned in industrial production are advantaged, and production itself is improved. As every manager knows who has wisely applied the beneficiency principle in his own business.

To be sure, it is not always as readily applicable as it would have been had there not been an earlier overemphasis of the efficiency idea. This has bred in many workers a suspiciousness and distrust hard to overcome.

Yet it may be overcome—through patient, persistent demonstration that the welfare of the worker is accounted of first importance—if industry is ever to be established on the one sure foundation of mutual good-will between employers and employed.

Only thus, moreover, may be realized the great ideal of social solidarity and social peace. There is no other way.

JAKE AND FRED HIT HOMERS IN VAIN

Gassers Get Away to Lead in First

Special to the Record News.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 27.—Billy Smith's tail end Gassers took advantage of Bowman's lack of control in the first inning and counted three runs which gave them the margin in a 6-4 game, the first of the series to be played. The opening game was rained out yesterday.

The Spudders threw a scare into the Shreveport fans when they threatened to send Flaherty to the showers in the second. Beck was first man up for the visitors and poled one over the right field fence for the first run. Miller followed suit with one over the left field fence for another run. Adams drew a walk and was sacrificed to second by Sorey. Kitchens also walked. After Bowman had taken one swing, Bescher was sent in to hit for him and advanced both runners when he grounded out to Eibel. O'Brien took four wide ones and the bases were filled. Summa shot a fast one to Flaherty which he recovered in time to force Adams at the plate.

Salm sent Knadler to the mound and the Gassers went out in order. McDonald was the only Spudder to connect safely in the third and was left stranded at first. In the last half, Knadler continued his work and the Gassers were easily out.

The Spudders counted another in the fourth when Sorey doubled to right and counted on Kitchens' single. Knadler's sacrifice sent Kitchens to second where he was stranded when O'Brien and Summa went out.

In the last half of the fifth the Gassers regained the three runs with which they had started. These three proved too much for the Spudders. Williams beat out an infield hit and scored when Eibel's drive got away from Miller and went for two bases. Eibel went to third on an infield out by Felix, to score when Knadler overran a slow roller by Hartford. Hartford stolen second and scored on Vann's single to center.

In the sixth, Sorey singled to center and Kitchens walked. Knadler hit to Hartford who engineered a double killing which retired the side.

The Gassers threatened to score again in the sixth, but were retired when the Spudders tightened up their defense.

The ninth looked as though the Spudders would knot the count. O'Brien got a hit and Summa walked. O'Brien scored from second on a passed ball and Summa advanced to third. McDonald struck out. Beck popped up to Kane and Eibel took a foul from Miller for the final out.

DEMPSEY TO FIGHT CARP

PARIS, April 27.—Jack Dempsey this afternoon received an attractive offer from a group of prominent English sporting promoters to meet George Carpentier, the French champion, in London some time in the summer, provided Carpentier defeats "Kid" Lewis, May 11. Neither Dempsey nor Manager Kearns would disclose the terms of the offer, but Kearns said it involved an immense purse and that Dempsey would probably accept.

Here are the three best jockeys of the present racing seasons. They have been making a fine showing at the spring meeting at the Bowie track in Maryland. This photograph made at Bowie, shows (left to right) Lang, one of the youngest but the best rider there; Morris and Thomas. Lang was such a consistant winner early in the meeting that players discarded past performances of the thoroughbreds and bet on Lang's mounts.

HIGH SLUGGERS BEAT JUNIORS

By "HANK" HAYES

For the second time this season the Wichita High sluggers tounced their underclass rivals, but by a bigger score this time. The Red and Black nine greeted the Junior Hi squad on their own lot by 10 to 6 in nine fast innings, with hitting and booting playing the principal role on the part of both teams.

Harris, on the mound for the Seniors, pitched excellent ball, except for a couple of bad innings when the youngsters pounded and lucked him out of a quintet of tallies. Glidwell of the losers was in good form but a trifle wild in stretches that, with the errors of his co-workers, paved the way for their defeat.

Baldwin, Quilliam, Roberts of the long-enders were the heavy swatsmiths of the day, while Martin, Woodson and Pearson all 'horse-shoed" doubles and triples in their visits to the platter.

HARDING JOINS SCRIBES' GOLF CLUB

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Washington newspaper Golf club recently organized by golf playing correspondents in the capital today received a formal application for membership from Warren G. Harding "representing the Marion Star" and "Mail Ads, the White House."

Enclosed with the application were three one dollar bills in payment of club dues for as many years.

"I send this amount," Golfer Harding wrote, "in order to have a clear certificate and a closed account for the three years I have yet to serve."

"And I hope," he added, "to be able to show some of the younger fellows how to make a good score."

In answer to the question on the application blank as to what clubs the applicant belonged, Mr. Harding wrote:

"Probably all of them."

THOMAS SPEAKS ON COAL STRIKE

Sees Problem Here Like Europe

Special to the Record News.

SNYDER, Texas, April 27.—Cullen F. Thomas, candidate for the United States senate, delivered an address here this afternoon at 2 o'clock in which he discussed the present coal strike and other matters pertaining to the political problems of the day.

Mr. Thomas first reviewed his platform in detail. He urged as one of the changes he would make in the Federal Reserve Board would be the appointment of a farmer as one of the members thereof.

Discussing further his claims for the senatorship from Texas, Mr. Thomas said in part:

"The political problems of our time are economic. In national legislation many battles are to be fought out between the masses of the people and the corporate plunderbund.

"The present coal strike is but a type of the struggle between the privileged few, greedy for swollen dividends, and every day men struggling against poverty and rags.

"What is the contest between the coal owners and the coal workers? On the one side a few men have gobbled up the great coalbeds of the country. They have outraged decency as they piled up their unscionable profits. The coal profiteers robbed coal consumers last year of more than a billion and a half dollars. They now seek to curtail production and further inflate prices. To make coal scarcer they deny the coal workers the right to full work.

"This situation is not the problem of West Virginia or Ohio or Pennsylvania. It is an American problem. It shames twentieth century civilization. The issue presses upon congress for some way out of it. Count me not on the side of the coal kings, but rather on the side of the men who dig the coal, deep down in the damp, dark mines.

"In the sight of men, as well as God, let human flesh weigh more than tons of coal."

RISING WATERS NOT FEARED

Reports of rising water on the Brazos river were received at the Wichita Falls & Southern railway offices Thursday. The rise, which was said to be approximately 24 inches, was not considered serious, however, and was reported as probably being the highest the Brazos will rise as a result of the recent rains.

Officials of the M. K. & T. railway said Thursday that the only washout on the entire Katy lines had occurred at Bridge 154-S, near here, delaying a passenger train for over an hour. The bridge was repaired Wednesday afternoon, opening all the Katy route for service.

No damage was reported at the Wichita Valley headquarters.

COTTON GAINS REACTS LATER

Southern Selling on N. Y. Market

NEW YORK, April 27.—Rain and flood news failed to create any general or aggressive buying in the cotton market today and moderate early advances were followed by reactions. July sold off from 17.75 to 17.57 and closed at 17.60, with the general market closing steady at a new decline of 1 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 11 points, and the early buying movement carried prices 5 to 12 points above the yesterday's closing figures. This was promoted by reports of overflows in Louisiana and of further heavy rains in the south west, which naturally increased the apprehension of floods. The late cables from Liverpool were firm, also contributing to the advance, but demand seemed to taper off around 18.11 for May contracts and 17.78 for October. This was evidently a disappointment to old longs and the market turned easier during the afternoon under scattering liquidations. There was also some southern selling here and probably some selling for a reaction, but the offerings did not become heavy and the market showed a disposition to steady around 17.97 for May and 17.61 for October.

The close was a few points up from the lowest on covering. A less favorable view of European affairs growing out of reports from the Genoa conference, with the reactionary tendency of the stock market, probably tended to modify the influence of bullish crop and weather advices. A private crop report was published pointing to an increase of only 6 per cent in acreage, which compared quite bullishly with an earlier weekly report of 10 per cent increase, but had no appreciable effect on the market, although it claimed that only 35 per cent of the crop had been planted, compared with a normal of 50 per cent at this season. Reports from Louisiana indicated that much rich cotton land had been flooded owing to the crevasse in the levee in Concordia parish.

There were 33 May notices today, apparently promptly stopped. Port receipts today 11,956; United States port stocks 949,828. Exports 13,383, making 4,680,177 so far this season.

STOCKS DROP ON BIG DEALS

Declines General in Entire List

NEW YORK, April 27.—Recent reactionary tendencies on the stock exchange became more accentuated today. Virtually every branch of the list figured in the extreme declines of 1 to 3 points, on dealings approximating 1,450,000 ashres.

The coal strike, which affected a further decrease of car loadings, persistent reports of freight rate reductions by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the less favorable aspects in the International situation were among the day's restraining influences. Railroad earnings were favorable, however, both Norfolk and Western and Atchison showing large March gains.

Despite the substantial revival of activity in the steel and iron trade, gossip in trading circles dealt with the dividend status of various prominent companies in that line of industry.

Most of the steels and equipments were under pressure, as were also utilities, tobaccos, food specialties and numerous unclassified issues. Domestic oils were comparatively steady, but Mexicans and kindred shares sustained additional losses.

Announcement of the retention of the regular dividend on Bethlehem steel common shares, made just before the market closed, helped to bring about a partial rally from lowest quotations. Net declines among leaders were limited to a point, Studebaker losing 1 3-4.

Among rails the only exceptions to the setback were Lake Erie and Western preferred and Chicago and Eastern Illinois new common and preferred, these finishing at advances of 3 to 4 1-4 points. Lake Erie's extreme rise of 5 points was accompanied by reports that new interests were seeking control from the New York Central.

The money market held to its recent course, call loans being made throughout the session at 4 1-2 per cent. Time funds were sore plentiful, but unchanged as to rates for either the short or long maturities.

WHEAT PRICES GOING UPWARD

Market Unsettled at Close of Day

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Wheat went upward today, helped by word of active export demand. The market finished unsettled at a net gain of 3-4c to 1 3-4c, with May $1.41 1-8 to 1.41 1-2 and July 1.26 to 1.26 1-8. Corn closed half to 7-8@1c higher. Oats up 1-4@3-8 to half and provisions down 5c to 50 cents.

Foreign purchasing of wheat was estimated at 1,500,000 bushels including both old crop wheat and new. It was said Germany was in the market, and paying the best premiums of the season.

The opening here was higher sided by comparative strength of Liverpool quotations, but profit taking sales together with favorable crop reports from the southwest caused the market to drop soon to the lowest level touched of late 1.38 3-4 for May delivery.

Houses with seaboard connections led the wheat buying on the irregular price advance which followed, and which showed its chief energy near the end of the day. Gossip was current that longs were chartering vessel space and otherwise preparing to take care of wheat that will be delivered to them next week. On the other hand, willing demand for wheat was slow and flour prices lower.

Seaboard messages telling of 500,000 bushels of corn taken for Europe tended to lift the price of corn and oats as well.

Provisions were weak in line with hog values.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the First Christian church, of which he was a member. Interment was in the Willow cemetery.

Williams-Morgan Debates Called Off

Joint debates between S. A. L. Morgan and Guinn Williams, candidates for congress for this district, are all off, according to Mr. Morgan, who returned here Thursday to attend the funeral of Judge Miller, and following the calling off of the Thursday dates.

His opponent, Mr. Williams, has some places he wishes to visit in the east end of the district, Mr. Morgan said, so the remaining dates for the joint debates, scheduled to run the rest of this week, were all called off. Morgan announces that he intends to fill the dates set for Friday himself, speaking at Henrietta at 1:30, at Byers at 4:00 and at Petrolia at 7:30.

Mr. Morgan expressed himself confident with respect to his race, following the reception accorded him on his swing around the district.

"I am more than pleased with the reception I have received everywhere," he said. He also expressed himself as particularly pleased with the reports from various parts of the district coming from friends who are in charge of his campaign in these counties.

DOLLAR BUYS DRAW CROWDS

Generous Bargains to Make Day Popular

Thousands of Wichitans flocked to the business sections of the city yesterday; thousands of men and women visited numerous places of business—women looked over bargained stocks, while men took chances at prize packages. And the reason was: A dollar-day sale was on in Wichita Falls.

Merchants from every section of the city who had advertised in the Record News, announcing the vast bargains which could be obtained, only had messages of praise for the guests their stores had claimed during the eight-hour period.

Managers of the P. B. M. company declared that "three thousand persons have been in our store today, and the dollar-day idea, which is of course responsible, brought many customers who spent more than $40."

Dave Paul, who announces himself as "your jeweler," declared that he had a regular "grab-package contest," and had the largest crowd in his store that he had had since he has been in business in Wichita Falls. A diamond ring and a handsome man's watch were among the prize packages which "I gave away at a dollar a throw," Mr. Paul said.

Three thousand five hundred business guests was the record obtained at Anderson's store, the management asserted.

In speaking of the dollar day idea, Mr. Anderson said:

"Dollar day is a splendid idea; it gives the women customers the opportunity to go from store to store and find bargains offered by the merchants, and it gives them an opportunity to see the different stocks which Wichita Falls has for sale."

The merchants were agreed all over the city that dollar day could be "overdone here," but that twice a month is not too frequent to hold such a sale.

NEW TRAFFIC MAN TAKES UP WORK HERE

H. N. Roberts, who has been appointed to fill the office of traffic manager for the Wichita Falls & Southern railway, which has been made vacant by the resignation of C. L. Fontaine, arrived in Wichita Falls Wednesday night on a trip of inspection from Ranger, Texas, and occupied himself at the railway office yesterday in becoming acquainted with his new duties.

Mr. Roberts will return to Ranger Sunday, and will not take up his office work here until May 1, he said yesterday.

Mr. Fontaine, who plans to go into a business of his own, said yesterday that he will hold the office at the railway for at least ten days longer, aiding the new manager in thoroughly familiarizing himself with the tasks before him.

Roberts, whose home is in Oklahoma City, has been a railway employe and official for the past twelve years, having been in the Cotton Belt and M. K. & T. railroad services.

DRAGNET GETS 9

Nine arrests resulting in nine charges of vagrancy was the outcome of a dragnet formed by county authorities when members of the sheriff's department scoured the city Wednesday night at a late hour.

Several of those arrested entered pleas of guilty yesterday and were fined and dismissed.

COX DENIES CHILD GIVEN UP VOLUNTARILY.

Denial that the minor child for whose custody habeas corpus proceedings were started Wednesday was given up by him before the serving of the papers, and assertion that it was taken from his home in Petrolia during his absence, was made by Clarence L. Cox Thursday. Attorneys here reported that Cox had given the child up before the papers were served.

The papers were asked for on the grounds that he had kept the child longer than the 30 days allowed in divorce decree. Cox said that he had had the child only three days and that the contention for its recovery was based on the claim that the visit was not the month visit due under the court decree—that that would come later.

HEAGLE CHARGED

Charges of grand larceny were filed against "Doc" Heagle Thursday by the sheriff's department.

Heagle was arrested in Electra Thursday afternoon, on an indictment issued recently against him.

NO NIGHT SHOWS AT BIG ROUND UP

Work on the chutes, pens and corrals from which wild longhorns and bucking broncos will be handled and saddled in the Round-Up next week is progressing rapidly and will be completed by Monday. The chutes and corrals for this year's Round-Up will be built on a more elaborate scale with what is known as breakaway chutes, which permits a more rapid saddling and handling of the most unruly broncos. When the animal is saddled and the rider mounts, the gates swing back on either side, leaving the horse in the open and lessens chances for accidents.

A statement was given out from Round-Up headquarters Thursday that there would be no night performance during the Round-Up and neither will there be any carnival attractions handled in connection with the contest.

NURSERY HOME PLANNED HERE

Mrs. Perkins Heads Committee

Discussion of a permanent home for the Day Nursery and the election of officers featured the quarterly meeting of the Federated Missionary society held Thursday afternoon at the Sacred Heart Church hall with the Catholic women hostesses. Mrs. J. J. Perkins was appointed chairman of a committee to see about the permanent home which the society will either build or buy in the near future, and the kind of home wanted was discussed by the members. A drive in which members at $1 each will be solicited was suggested by Mrs. R. J. Goodale and the plan will probably be carried out shortly.

Mrs. J. C. A. Guest was elected president; Mrs. J. A. Kemp, first vice-president; Mrs. R. E. Strange, second vice-president; Mrs. W. B. Chauncey, third vice-president; Mrs. R. J. Goodale, treasurer; Mrs. H. M. Larkum, recording secretary; Mrs. Alvin Horwitz, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Fred Barron, press reporter. Mrs. Wiley Robertson was elected chairman of the program committee, with members including: Mesdames H. A. Allen, G. Clint Wood, J. D. Moulder and E. S. Goodner.

Mrs. J. J. Perkins talked on the kind of a home needed for the Day Nursery and Mrs. J. A. Kemp spoke interestingly on "The Day Nursery Covering Every Phase of Missionary Work."

Mrs. Wiley Robertson talked on the prospects for the permanent home for the nursery.

A social half hour followed in which Mrs. M. M. Bates and Miss Frances Oeschner gave a duet, and refreshments served. Ninety-eight members were present.

McDonald Speaks At Morgan Rally

Wichita Falls people will have an opportunity of hearing C. C. McDonald, former assistant attorney general and one time secretary of state, who had won his spurs as a political stump speaker, at the S. A. L. Morgan rally Saturday night. Announcement that Mr. McDonald would be one of the speakers was made Thursday afternoon by John Davenport, Wichita county campaign manager. Several other speakers will also be heard. The meeting will be an open air meeting, and will be held at the Moore & Richolt corner, Ninth and Indiana.

Mr. McDonald has not had occasion to make a political speech during his three years of residence in Wichita Falls. Many of his old time friends here, however, frequently refer to a now somewhat historic occasion in a large Texas city when the "boy orator" as he was dubbed by opponents of O. B. Colquitt, entirely unknown to fame, and at that time employing his talents in teaching school, arrived to speak for Colquitt against one of the accomplished political orators of Texas.

When McDonald got through with the opposition speaker it could no longer be said that he was entirely unknown, and he stumped the entire state for his candidate. He became secretary of state and later served for years as the assistant attorney general representing the state in the cases before the court of criminal appeals, a position which he held until a short time before his removal to Wichita Falls for private practice of his profession.

SWANSON ASKS TOM QUESTIONS

He Differs With Cong. Blanton

F. G. Swanson is unable to agree with statements made by Thomas L. Blanton, Abilene congressman, that the latter had saved great sums of money through the elimination of proposed appropriations on points of order raised in the house, he writes the congressman in an open letter.

The appropriations might have been eliminated through points of order raised by others, or have failed when the whole bill was under consideration, or might have been introduced in regular form later, in neither event according reason for claim of a saving. Blanton or the others raising the point of order are due credit only for insisting on the house living up to its own rules, he declares.

He charges further that there is only a qualified objection by Blanton to graft, charging by inferences that Blanton's statements show that he finds it permissable to accept perquisites which he deplores in others since "everybody's doing it." He likens this to the property owner who fails to make full and true rendition for his property, because he knows that all other taxpayers will render their's at less than its worth. Swanson commends Blanton's methods of "open forum" discussion of issues, agrees with his characterization of perquisites used and applied differently than originally intended by law as reasonably coming in the classification of petty graft, and agrees with the congressman's deploring the attaching of "riders" to appropriation bills.

PARK HEAD MAY BE GIVEN BIGGER JOB

Request that J. E. Dobson, park superintendent, be given a larger job, taking in work now supervised by other men, in lieu of the proposed reduction in salary, will be made by the city park board to the city council Monday night, it was decided at a meeting of the board Thursday morning. Dobson, the park board sets out, has in the past year secured remarkable progress in providing the city with real and permanent parks and they express the belief that he should be retained, and placed in charge of the landscaping and upkeep of school grounds and cemeteries in addition to his present duties in connection with the parks.

Why Women Get Despondent

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.—(Adv.)

Calomel Good But Treacherous

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. —Adv.

NO VERDICT IN $55,000 CASE

Jury Dismissed to Reassemble Today

No verdict having been reached at noon Thursday in the case of James H. Kepley vs D. E. Weaver et al, suit for title to oil cases and for damages in the sum of $55,000, the jury in the 78th district court was dismissed yesterday morning, to reassemble this morning at 9 o'clock.

The case was submitted to the jurors on six special issues yesterday morning at 10:25 o'clock.

Testimony produced at the hearing before Judge E. W. Napier tended to show that the defendant had made a 50-50 drilling contract May 3, 1920, with the Riverland company, a corporation on 100 acres of land. Weaver claimed that he began drilling at once to save the lease on the land at issue for the Riverland company.

The lease expired May 10, 1920, after the well which Weaver was to have drilled had been begun, it was claimed.

A third party named Temple, who was interested in the lease, tried to forfeit it during the drilling process, and had Weaver enjoined from completing the well. As a result of the injunction, a new lease was given on the property under litigation to the Riverland company, however, it was made for 50 acres instead of 100.

The question then arose as to whether or not he still retained a 50-50 interest in the lease under his contract, and was entitled to the privileges of all the clauses of the new contract.

The Riverland company then sold the 50-acre lease to James H. Kepley for $20,000, without the consent of Weaver, he contended in the hearing. Weaver still claimed a half interest in the lease, this claim resulting in the litigation and suit brought by Kepley.
