Quake Shakes Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska AP—An earthquake centered about 30 miles off the Alaskan coast shook the state's southeastern panhandle Sunday but caused no serious damage or sea wave.

A spokesman for the Palmer, Alaska, seismological observatory said the temblor registered 7.3 on the Richter scale, sufficient to generate a tsunami, or tidal wave, if conditions had been right.

A tsunami warning urging evacuation of low-lying areas was issued soon after the quake occurred at about 5:45 p.m. EDT, but it was cancelled about a half-hour later when no sea wave was reported.

A spokesman for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration NOAA, which operates the Palmer observatory, said the quake apparently was the strongest recorded in Alaska since a temblor shook the leutian Islands in 1965.

In 1964, a quake registering 8.5 struck the state, severely damaging heavily populated Anchorage and surrounding areas.

The earthquake was centered about 30 miles west of Sitka, an ocean-bordering community of 5,000 persons about midway up the Alaskan panhandle.

Officials said the strongest shocks were felt in Sitka, where buildings swayed, pictures fell from walls and cars bounced on city streets, but no serious damage or injuries were reported. A storekeeper said goods on his shelves were thrown to the floor.

Lesser shocks were felt in Ketchikan in the south and Juneau, the state capital, about 100 miles north of Sitka and slightly inland.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the only visible water activity was a kind of "confused whitecap" throughout Alaskan waters.

The tsunami warning had been issued for 1,200 miles of coastline from Ketchikan in the south along the coastal curve to Kodiak. A tsunami watch, a lesser form of alert, was isuued for the rest of the state.

An NOAA spokesman at Palmer said tsunami warnings are sent for all quakes of Richter magnitude 7.0 or greater. He said if a sea wave had been generated by the quake, no warning could have reached Sitka in time.

"It would have been right on them; it normally takes us about 10 minutes to get the warning out," the spokesman said. "If cars are bouncing, that should be warning enough."

US B52 Bomber Crashes Sunday

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. B52 bomber crashed Sunday night during a thunderstorm in northeast Thailand, and two Air Force F4 Phantoms went down off the coast of North Vietnam after running out of fuel, the U.S Command announced today.

The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok said five of the six B52 crewmen were killed. It said the sixth man was picked up by a rescue helicopter today.

The command in Saigon said the four Phantom crewmen also were rescued.

The cause of the boz crash was not known. The plane was on its way to a bombing attack in Vietnam, and the 30 tons of bombs aboard exploded in the crash, creating a huge fireball, sources in Bangkok said. But an embassy spokesman said there were no known civilian casualties or damage to property.

It was the second B52 crash in Thailand since the big bombers were first stationed there in 1967.

North Vietnam claimed that two Air Force Phantoms were shot down over Hanoi on Sunday, and two of the crewmen were captured. It did not identify the Americans but said one of them was wounded in his left leg and his temple.

The U.S. Command reported no losses in the Hanoi region. It said one of the Phantoms that crashed in the Tonkin Gulf ran out of fuel while maneuvering to avoid a MIG jet, while the second F4 that crashed had failed — for reasons not known to the command — to rendezvous with its refueling tanker.

The command reported also that American jets hit North Vietnam's Red River delta again Sunday, but it denied charges by Hanoi that flood control facilities were attacked deliberately on Saturday.

In Sunday's raids, North Vietnam claimed that American planes bombed a populated area six miles from the center of Hanoi and residential areas in Haiphong and its outskirts.

Bremer Jury Selected

By TOM STUCKEY
Associated Press Writer

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)-A jury of six men and six women was rapidy selected today as Arthur H. Bremer went on trial for the attempted assasination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

A panel of seven women and five men was first chosen but pre-emptory challenges by attorneys altered the composition. Two male alternates were then selected.

It took the judge and opposing attorneys a little more than an hour to chose the jury.

Bremer, 21, has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

He appeared at ease as he sat at the defense table and listened to questioning of prospective jurors.

Every person entering the courtroom was subjected to an intensive search that included a shakedown with a metal detector.

Several of the persons called for jury duty were excused by the judge after he put a dozen questions to them concerning their knowledge of the shooting of the presidential candidate and their relationship with anyone involved in the case.

A total of 36 persons were questioned before the jury was impaineled.

Absentee Vote Ends Tuesday

Absentee voting will end Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the liquor election scheduled for Saturday.

The election in which only voters who live within the corporate limits of Snyder may cast ballots, will determine whether the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption will be legalized in the City of Snyder.

The absentee vote total had reached 167 this morning at the County Clerk's office in Cogdell Center. Absentee votes may be cast at the clerk's office until closing time, 5 p.m., Tuesday.

On Saturday, five polling places will be in operation. These include the five voting boxes for all county elections. Voters in Precenct No. 1 will vote at the Northeast Elementary School, those in Precinct 17 will vote at the City Hall, those in Precinct 18 will vote at the Lamar Junior High School, those in precinct No. 15 will vote in the school administration building and those in Precinct No. 20 will vote in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Voters are being urged to bring their registration certificates to the polls on Saturday, since nobody may cast a ballot in this election except those who live inside the city limits, it is highly important that registration certificates be presented at the polls, said County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth.

Dockers Stream Into London

By PETER MUCCINI
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Striking longshoremen streamed from Britain's idle ports into London today to campaign for their job security demands in a labor crisis threatening to cause food shortages within this week.

Prime Minister Edward Heath scheduled talks on the crisis Tuesday with leaders of the Trades Union Congress, Britain's labor federation.

Their main topic will be the new labor relations act to which the unions are opposed. Last week longshoremen, miners, transport workers and other employes stopped work in protest against the law. When the other unions went back to work, the dock workers stayed out and rejected a new wage-and-security work contract.

Crowds of dockers assembled in London to lobby at the talks already started between their leaders and port officials. If these talks failed to bring an early settlement, the government was expected to take emergency measures to move essential supplies.

Talks with the port officials centered on the longshoremen's fear about job security in the era of containerized cargo. Containerizaion has caused thousands of layoffs on British waterfronts in the past few years.

The strike has stranded 170 ships in the port of London. In Liverpool, 49 freighters lay at anchor waiting to be unloaded.

British Occupy IRA Strongholds

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops and armor occupied barricaded strongholds of the Irish Republican Army early today and encountered almost no resistance. But the IRA struck back later with bombs that killed at least six civilians.

Striking at 4 a.m., 13,000 British soldiers smashed down IRA barricades with tanks converted to bulldozers and took possession of Catholic areas of Londonderry, Belfast, Lurgan, Armagh, Portadown, Coalisland and Dungannon.

By noon, reports were coming in of bombings in Londonderry and other towns.

In Claudy, 12 miles southeast of Londonderry, six persons were killed when bombs planted in three cars exploded in the main street.

Army officers believed most of the IRA gunmen had gone underground in the countryside or fled across the border to the Irish Republic.

Three hours after the troops breached the first barricades, William Whitelaw, the British administrator for Northern Ireland, announced: "The British army are now in occupation and control throughout Northern Ireland."

An army spokesman said the troops suffered no casualties but shot four gunmen during the night. The bodies of two men were brought to a Londonderry hospital.

It was the biggest military offensive in the three years of religious warfare in Northern Ireland.

The Catholics stayed inside their homes as the troops entered the "Free Derry" enclaves in Londonderry for the first time in more than a year. But after dawn they began to come out.

Children taunted the soldiers with cries of "Pigs!" "English bastards," and "Leave us alone."

Outside a church, a crowd of women who had attended Mass shouted at a convoy roaring past: "We'll rise again and you'll know about it."

Whitelaw said the purpose of the operation was to open up the areas previously closed to British security forces, "to enable the security forces to move freely through all areas and so protect the whole community."

The troops also went into the "no go" areas Protestant militants had established in Belfast in protest against the IRA barricades. But there the members of the Protestant Ulster Defense Association began pulling down their roadblocks as soon as the troops appeared.

Eagleton Presents Case To McGovern Tonight

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the new party leadership urging him to pull out, Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton says he'll take his fight for staying on the ticket to George McGovern tonight.

Whether he stays on will be a joint decision, the Missouri senator said Sunday, and if presidential candidate McGovern should ask him to get off "I can't prejudge what I would do."

Eagleton said he will present his case to McGovern at a meeting tonight—without being pig-headed, he said—but was not at all sure a decision would result from the meeting.

The Missouri senator's future on the ticket has been in question since last Tuesday when he disclosed that he had undergone psychiatric treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for mental depression.

McGovern told newsmen early Sunday "I really don't know at this point whether he's a plus or a minus" in the campaign against President Nixon but said "we might very well decide that the thing to do is for him to stay on."

Democratic National Chairman Jean Westwood and Vice Chairman Basil A. Paterson, interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday, urged Eagleton to drop out.

"It would be the noble thing for Tom Eagleton to step down," Mrs. Westwood said.

She said discussion of Eagleton's medical background is eclipsing an airing of real campaign issues.

Mrs. Westwood and Paterson were selected for their jobs by McGovern but both said on the television interview that they were urging Eagleton to withdraw on their own and had not consulted McGovern.

McGovern met at his home for 5½ hours late Sunday with Mrs. Westwood and several key members of his staff, including political director Frank Mankiewicz, campaign manager Gary Hart, and fund-raiser Henry Kimelman.

Hart confirmed the group had discussed Eagleton's future but would not elaborate.

Eagleton, appearing on "Face the Nation" on CBS, said he considers himself not an encumbrance but an asset to the ticket.

He said he demonstrated his ability last week by winning such "disenchanted" party leaders as California fund-raiser Gene Wyman and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto over to supporting the McGovern-Eagleton ticket.

One of Eagleton's questioners on "Face the Nation" was columnist Jack Anderson who publicly apologized on the program for reporting without documentary proof that Eagleton had been arrested several times for drunken driving.

But Anderson said he could not in good conscience retract the story because he has not been able to contact an unnamed person who is said to have photostats of the alleged arrest citations.

Regime Is Reshuffled

ATHENS (AP) — Premier George Papadopoulos reshuffled his army-backed regime today to include two former right-wing members of Parliament.

It was the first time that deputies from Parliament dissolved by an army take-over five years ago agreed to join the regime.

The two former deputies, Cleanthis Damianos and Spyridon Katsotas, were sworn in as undersecretary of national economy and assistant to the premier, respectively.

The new additions to the cabinet were considered a first attempt by the government to bridge the gap between the old political order and the regime in a move toward eventual elections and restoration of democracy.

It was the second major reshuffle since January.

'Mr. Europe' Dies At 73

BRUSSELS (AP) — Paul Henri Spaak, 73, Belgian Socialist leader and one of the architects of European unity, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the United Nations, died early today. A powerful figure in Europe for 34 years, Spaak served his country twice as premier and six times as foreign minister.

Death was attributed to a kidney deficiency.

Spaak had been vacationing in the Azores and became ill on Saturday. The U.S. Air Force flew him to Brussels.

Spaak was known as "Mr. Europe" for his work for European unity and also played a leading part at the founding meeting of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945. He became the first president of the U.N. General Assembly in 1946 and in 1970 came out of retirement to attend the 25th anniversary meeting of the world organization in New York.

When he retired from public life at the age of 67 in 1966, the Belgian statesman had been premier twice and foreign minister six times.

He interrupted his political career in Belgium in 1957 to serve as secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He held the post for five years.

A power in Europe for 34 years, Spaak once said: "I was told that I look like Churchill and speak English like Charles Boyer. Of course, I would rather speak English like Churchill and look like Charles Boyer."

He spent his life fighting nationalism, which he considered an evil that had divided Europe for centuries. He was also a big man physically, carrying 230 pounds on a 6-foot frame.

Auto Insurance Rate Cut Official

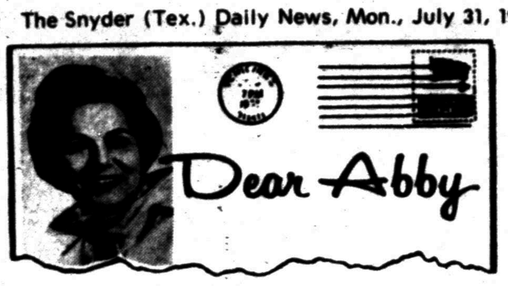
AUSTIN (AP) — An 11 per cent average car insurance rate reduction became official today when the State Insurance Board's two members put their signatures on a new rate order.

The cut, which will save Texans an estimated $70 million, was approved informally last week by Ned Price and Durwood Manford. The new rate goes into effect Sept. 1.

The third seat on the board has been vacant since the Senate refused to confirm the appointment of Larry Teaver by Gov. Preston Smith.

Smith told a statewide television audience last week that the rate should be cut but that any reduction less than 20 per cent would be tokenism.

Teaver has criticized the two remaining board members as being industry-oriented.



Babies available for adoption

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Every time I read a letter in your column from parents complaining because of a problem with a child I could scream! I would give my right arm to have their problem.

I am 23, married, and have been to several doctors dealing with sterility problems, and I have been told I am sterile. We want to adopt a child, but there is a long waiting list of at least three years.

People who have "problems" with their children should thank God every day of their lives that they are able to have children—no matter what kind of problems they have with them. They are blessed and don't even appreciate it. I envy them their problems with their children, and I couldn't mean it more sincerely.

HEARTBROKEN FOR REAL

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Apparently you want to adopt a newborn, American, Caucasian baby, which is not easy to come by. Babies of mixed parentage are available. Also Korean babies. Also children in orphanages, some of them handicapped. If you are sincere, and consider "problems" a blessing, you need not remain childless.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a man whose house is cluttered with pictures of himself? He has them in every room, framed and on the walls, and sitting around in expensive frames on every end table, and even on the window sills.

This man is now fat and bald, and most of these pictures were taken long ago when he was young and handsome and had lots of hair and a trim physique. Nobody would recognize him as the same person.

What is wrong with him? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Nothing need be "wrong" with him. Maybe he just enjoys seeing himself as others SAW him.

DEAR ABBY: Is it improper to put a return address on a card of sympathy?

A friend of mine said this should never be done.

HURON, S. DAKOTA

DEAR HURON: Your friend is mistaken. All mail should have a return address. And my sympathy goes to those frustrated postmasters and mail handlers who find millions of pieces of mail undeliverable because of insufficient, incorrect or illegible addresses, and NO return address.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for "Going Crazy," the wife of a man who always starts projects, but never finishes anything.

I have a solution for your problem. When your husband starts a project—painting, papering, building a patio, putting in a garden, or whatever, and then loses interest and abandons it, that's your cue to go right to work and start to "finish" it for him.

He will come running to show you how incompetent you are, quickly pointing out that you are doing it all wrong. Then he will proceed to take over the job and "show" you how an expert does it.

Just keep telling him how smart he is, and continue to marvel at his expertise. And before you know it, the job will be finished. BEEN THERE

Market Trading Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were soft in slow trading today as the news background provided little incentive for activity.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 2.41 to 924.29.

Fears about the political campaign, the international monetary situation and the Vietnam war have haunted the market for some time. Some buying interest, however, has been sparked by the flow of favorable second-quarter earnings reports and the continued signs of economic improvement.

Crocker National, most-active Big Board issue, slipped ⅛ to 31⅛ including a block of 122,000 shares at 31.

Molybdenum, second-most-active, rose 1⅛ to 16½. Molybdenum manufactures the cheaper materials that some reports have said might work as well as platinum in suppressing auto-exhaust emissions. Engelhard Minerals, which processes platinum, was halted in trading at 26⅞, off ¼, with news pending. The issue fell 3⅛ Friday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks slipped .06 to 59.07. The American Stock Exchange price-change index dipped .01 to 26.73.

Airlines Merger Collapses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed merger of American and Western airlines has collapsed, but the union of two other major airlines, Delta and Northeast, has moved toward certain consummation next Tuesday.

The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday rejected the proposed merger of Western into American, saying it would upset competitive balances without providing offsetting public benefits.

President Nixon, exercising his authority over international airline matters, endorsed the CAB's refusal to transfer Western's routes into Mexico and Canada to American.

American had agreed to pay Western about $178 million for its acquisition.

The board said that American would have undue advantage if its mainland-to-Hawaii route authority were combined with Western's trans-Pacific route rights.

In another development, the U.S. Court of Appeals here refused Friday to block the Delta-Northeast merger, scheduled to take effect Tuesday.

The court denied the joint petition of Eastern Air Lines and National Airlines for a stay of the CAB order May 19 approving the merger.

The court set a hearing on the case for Sept. 17. If a court decision should overturn the CAB, the two carriers would face the unprecedented task of unscrambling their merger.

Three Grass Fires Are Extinguished

City Fire Department answered calls to three grass fires Saturday and Sunday.

At 12 noon Saturday firemen were called to 2808 West Ridge to extinguish a grass fire and fence fire in the alley behind a residence.

Yesterday two grass fires were extinguished. The first one was at 12:25 p.m. three miles out on the Colorado City Highway. The second grass fire was called in at 8:20 p.m. on Avenue E and Thirty-first streets.

Houston Jobless Rate Climbs

HOUSTON (AP) — Unemployment in Houston hit an eight year high, the Texas Employment Commission said Friday, climbing to 4.3 per cent.

That was 1 per cent above May and one-tenth of a per cent above June of last year, A. Lee Gruhlkey, district director, said.

The July increase could be blamed partly on a large number of students seeking employment, he said, predicting that the level will drop to 3.2 per cent in September.

The national unemployment rate for June was 5.5 per cent, he said.

The unemployment rate last reached 4.3 per cent here in June of 1964, he said, a year in which it had reached 4.6 per cent in February.

Senate Fight Set On SAM-D

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was expected today to decide whether to end the Army's $5.2 billion SAM-D antiaircraft missile program during consideration of the Pentagon's $20.5 billion weapons procurement bill.

The tight three-day schedule on the bill will bring another fight on end-the-war amendments Wednesday, with other amendments contemplated to end the bombing, the draft and to increase military retirement pay.

The SAM-D project provides $171 million for engineering in the bill and some $400 million has been spent on it already. With procurement, cost of the project is estimated at $5.2 billion.

The SAM-D is projected by the Army as a successor to the Nike Hercules and Hawk antiaircraft missiles. However, its opponents favor a defense system using the portable Red Eye and Chaparral missiles and the new F15 Air Force fighter.

The SAM-D program has lagged, costs have jumped—a $1.2 billion overrun—and the money could be better spent on the other air defense weapons, said Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who offered the amendment to cut the SAM-D program.

Cranston and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., will lead the fight over the end-the-war amendment, probably on Wednesday.

The amendment would provide for a cutoff of funds for U.S. forces in Indochina four months after North Vietnam returns U.S. prisoners of war. The same amendment was successfully attached last week to the foreign military aid bill, resulting in defeat of the bill.

The procurement bill passed by the House has no end-the-war provision, so even if the Senate approves the amendment, it would still have to be settled in a conference, where prospects are considered poor.

Red Navy Praised

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet navy can detect and destroy an enemy vessel anywhere in the world, its commander said Sunday.

If war were to break out, foreign submarines would not be able to repel the Red fleets, Adm. Sergei Gorshkov said in a Soviet Navy Day article in Pravda. Gorshkov said Russia's atomic-powered submarines, "armed with ballistic missiles and long-range torpedoes and backed by missile-carrying ships and planes, are capable of destroying an enemy in any region of the world's oceans."

They can "detect and utterly destroy any submarine in all weather conditions," he asserted.

Gorshkov did not name the United States but many of his statements implied a Soviet challenge to the U.S. Navy.

The Soviet Pacific, Baltic, Arctic and Black Sea fleets contain more than 400 submarines, 95 of them atomic-powered, while the U.S. Navy has 101 nuclear-powered subs and 36 of the conventional type. However, Western experts say the U.S. Navy plans to build only 11 more this year and next, while the Soviets are turning out an atomic sub every five weeks.

Busing Foes Plan Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Busing foes will be active in two House committees this week, trying to pry loose antibusing legislation while there is still time for Congress to pass it this year.

The Rules Committee has scheduled hearings aimed at getting a quick House vote on either a constitutional amendment outlawing busing, or on President Nixon's proposal for a temporary stay in new court ordered busing.

Another bill, which would establish for the courts permanent desegregation guidelines that would sharply limit busing, is up for consideration in the Education and Labor Committee.

Both the constitutional amendment and the moratorium on new busing orders are bottled up in the Judiciary Committee, opposed by a majority of the committee members. But the Rules Committee has the power to take them away and send them to the House floor.

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., chairman of the Rules Committee, hopes to convince a majority of his 15-member committee to vote with him this week to do just that. He would prefer to act on the constitutional amendment but will settle for what he can get.

If the Rules Committee does act, civil-rights supporters also hope it is on the constitutional amendment. A two-thirds majority in both the House and Senate would be required to pass it and they are confident no such majority could be mustered in the Senate.

The Nixon moratorium would prevent the federal courts from issuing any new busing orders until next June 30 in order to give Congress time to enact permanent legislation along the lines of that before the Education and Labor Committee.

Congress already has passed and Nixon has signed into law a bill having the same effect as the proposed moratorium. It prevents any court-ordered busing plans from going into operation until all appeals to higher courts have been exhausted. The law, which was just enacted last month, is now being tested in the courts.

In the Education and Labor Committee, an effort to add a $1.5-billion compensatory-education provision to the antibusing guidelines threatens to complicate matters.

Nixon, who originally proposed the guidelines, included in his bill a provision that would target funds on ghetto schools as an alternative to desegregating them. But he didn't request any new money to carry out the program.

Study Morgage Carefully Before Signing Papers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In planning their new life together newlyweds should be vigilant in keeping debts to a minimum.

The first step may be to buy or rent a home that they can afford. Many are not doing that.

A large number of newly married people are seeking 90 per cent mortgages on expensive houses, commented one bank officer. He fears "the going will be a little rough" for those who are accepted. But they are turning down many young people for mortgages in the 80 to 90 per cent bracket, he says.

Couples signing up for 30-year-mortgages on an expensive house may be taking a status step they cannot afford. And they aren't seriously considering their future, bank men say. While it is true the real estate market is still up, bankers felt it would peak long ago. Things could change at any time.

The reasoning by young people who have assumed the large financial burden of an expensive house has been shaky but has paid off for many, he says. Those who have bought houses in good locations have managed to sell them at substantial profit and move on to another house where the debt can be reduced by the profits. This is a great plan if you manage to make it work, but he considers it risky unless one has guarantees of bigger income in the future.

A 20-year-mortgage is a far better risk. Just about the time the first child is ready to go to college, the mortgage is ready for burning, and the debt can be diverted. This has been especially fortuitous for the family with two or three children in college at the same time.

But a 30-year-mortgage means a young couple might still be paying the morgage when their children are ready to star' college.

At 4 per cent, a $30,000 mortgage for 30 years means monthly payments of $204.66. The 25-year mortgage payment would be $216.85 and the 20-year mortgage payment would be $237.12.

Why then do young couples take a 30-year mortgage when the difference is only about $10 a week to pay it off 10 years sooner. For $5 a week more they could pay it off five years sooner.

It makes sense when you realize that those few dollars make such a difference to the young house buyer, this banker comments. It is one reason he thinks current buying habits are so risky. In many instances young people are relying on the wife's salary to carry them through the early years.

The answer may be to start off with a smaller house and lower mortgage payments that may be paid off in a short time. If real estate continues to climb, the little house could be sold at a profit and the family could move to something better using the profit for a good down payment. Meanwhile they won't be tortured meeting monthly mortage payments.

... Before looking for a house, decide how much money you can afford comfortably each month. Take your time looking for a house or apartment in a good community that falls within the money bracket you have set for yourself.

... A wife's earnings shouldn't really figure in a mortgage payment plan. You may never be able to do without it, if it is a sizable amount. A far better plan is to save this money, using it as a cushion to provide a down payment on a first house in the future. Or a second house. Many far-sighted young people do plan that way, and have found it a good feeling to know they have emergency money available.

... Don't envy people with status props. There are people with swimming pools they cannot maintain and people with boats who cannot afford to take them out of port. It is far better to have those things you can afford to enjoy and a balanced account book.

Midwest Boasts Of Foreign Cookery

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

A sea of corn rolls across the Midwest blanketing that part of the world and feeding much of America. But corn is not the only offering of that area—a horn of plenty including Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

And aside from the native specialties, the vast reaches of the Midwest boast some of the finest foreign cookery in America. Kielbasa, the Polish sausage made from pork, caraway and garlic is a household word in Chicago, and the Czech-oslovak colony of Iowa has contributed old world dishes such as soup with liver dumplings.

Most fascinating to me of these ethnic holdovers, is the dazzling variety of sausages produced in Wisconsin; sausages from Germany, Poland, Yugoslavia and other parts of eastern Europe.

In Milwaukee there is a Bavarian sausage house which features 72 varieties of home-made European-style Wurst. For example, there are 10 kinds of liverwurst and a round dozen of bratwurst, each typical of a specific region of Germany.

Milwaukee produces a mild Bavarian Kalbslenwurst made from calf-liver, smokey Jagdwurst which is one third veal and two thirds pork and a summer sausage from Yugoslavia known as Krakauer. The word "summer" incidentally, denotes a firm smoked sausage which requires no refrigeration and can be kept for hours at outdoor temperatures by picnic goers.

KIELBASA AND RED CABBAGE

1 medium sized head of red cabbage
1 medium Spanish onion
boiling water
¼ cup fresh lime juice
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup red wine
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
salt and pepper
2 apples sliced, peeled and cored
1 pound Kielbasa

Shred cabbage, scald with boiling water and drain. Pour lemon juice over cabbage, and diced Spanish onion. Melt butter; add cabbage and onion and next six ingredients mixing in caraway seeds. Cover and simmer for 40 minutes. Put sausage, sliced atop the mixture and cook another 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings. Good with a red Burgundy.

CRISPY CHICKEN

The coating on the chicken has savory flavor.

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
1 cup corn flake crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons cider vinegar
½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon tabasco
½ cup undiluted evaporated milk

Wash and dry the chicken. In a pie plate mix together the corn flake crumbs, salt and paprika. In another pie plate stir together the mustard, vinegar, Worcestershire and tabasco; stir in evaporated milk. Line a jelly-roll pan (15 by 10 by 1 inch) with foil. Dip chicken pieces in evaporated milk mixture, then roll at once in seasoned crumbs. Place chicken, skin side up, on prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until tender—about 1 hour. No need to cover or turn chicken while it is baking. Makes 4 servings.

Socialite Tried To Uproot Tree

By GENE LAHAMMER
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Virginia Piper, the attractive socialite whose husband paid $1 million ransom to free her from kidnapers, dug at the ground with her bare hands while trying to free herself from a tree to which she had been chained in a forest.

"I wasn't actually in fear of my life until they left me on Friday," Mrs. Piper said. "Then I thought 'I'm chained to a tree here and they'll find me in November.'"

Mrs. Piper, who discussed the kidnaping at a news conference Sunday, said she then began digging in hopes of uprooting the six-inch-thick tree.

"I thought that the only way I could ever get out was to uproot the tree and fell it and lug the tree out to the highway. At least it kept me busy. I figured that by the end of the week, I would be able to dump that tree," she added.

The 49-year-old victim had some degree of mobility since the chain, which was strung around the tree from hand to hand, had a three-foot leeway.

Mrs. Piper recalled a bit of humor after she was found by FBI agents, who went to the scene after receiving an anonymous tip. The agents unlocked her handcuffs, but could not free her from the chain. So four agents bent the small tree to the ground and she was able to slip the chain over it.

"This is terribly funny, really—four of them jumped on the tree and swung it back and forth and got it down," Mrs. Piper said.

The kidnapers have not been caught.

Mrs. Piper's husband is Harry C. Piper, 54, board chairman of the investment and brokerage firm of Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, Inc.

Piper told newsmen Sunday that the $1 million ransom in $20 bills that he delivered late Friday night was so heavy "that I could just barely lift it." The money reportedly weighed 115 pounds.

Mrs. Piper's ordeal began Thursday when two men burst into the fashionable Piper home in suburban Orono. Both wore black nylon masks over their heads and each had two pistols. Mrs. Piper said the kidnapers put tape over her eyes, threw a pillow case over her head and ordered her to lie down in the back seat of a car while they drove her to wilderness area near Duluth, about 140 miles north of here.

The FBI, which has 100 agents working on the case, said it would have no comment on whether a third man was involved.

Mrs. Piper said she was not threatened or harmed and did not fear for her life until she was abandoned in the darkness of the forest Friday night.

The kidnapers left her "some pop, a few pieces of cheese and some soggy bread."

She was found about 12 hours later.

Farmer Regrets Finding Money

PERU, Ind. (AP) — Five weeks ago today, Lowell Elliott, 64, a retired farmer, found $500,000 in a canvas bag in his son-in-law's soybean field.

Since then he has turned down a $10,000 reward, saying it wasn't enough; has received "hundreds" of harassing letters and telephone calls, and has been hospitalized for what doctors call strain.

"I wish he had never found the money," said Elliott's wife Mildred.

Elliott was enjoying retirement on his farm near here until June 26, when he went to investigate what he thought was a groundhog in his son-in-law's field.

What he found was a canvas mail bag containing $500,000 ransom money dropped by a skyjacker who bailed out over North Central Indiana two days earlier.

American Airlines offered Elliott a $10,000 reward for finding the money, but the Indiana farmer refused, saying he thought he should get at least five per cent of the loot, or $25,000. The original offer has remained open. Elliott has said he doesn't know if he will take it.

The Elliotts evaded newsmen and refused to answer their telephone since letters and phone calls followed his refusal of the $10,000.

"We've gotten hundreds of letters," Elliott said. "People are saying I'm a lousy person to represent the United States" for asking for more money.

Now Elliott is in Wabash County Hospital. His condition Sunday was listed as good.

Elliott was in the hospital about eight weeks last fall because of a heart attack, and he still was under doctor's care when he became the center of attention after finding the money.

His wife said his current illness "acted just like his heart attack" but she didn't know whether the pressure following his discovery of the money caused it.

Mrs. Elliott said, "Life was so peaceful and nice before this happened. I just hope it can be that way again."

West Virginia ranks 47th in the nation in income per capita—$2,600. Only Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi rank below the Mountain State.

Nixon Has Lead In Survey

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Republicans have an outside chance to capture the Senate majority next fall but no hopes in the House, according to the Ripon Society, a progressive GOP organization based here.

A national survey, reported in the July issue of the Ripon Forum, said President Nixon holds a commanding lead for re-election and is a clear favorite to win in 35 states.

The report noted, however, that "the President has always run well in the summer ... and done considerably worse in November."

It said the President's chances are subject to the "charisma of the McGovern crusade into the Promised Land, anticipated Democratic voter registration drive, the progress of the war and the economy, voter reaction to the President's stand on school busing and the proven ability of Nixon campaign orgnizations to reduce commanding leads."

The survey report said the GOP has chances of picking up Senate seats in New Mexico, Rhode Island, Oklahoma and North Carolina, and an outside chance in Georgia and Alabama.

But the report said there may be GOP Senate losses in Idaho, Maine and South Dakota. A net gain of three Senators would still leave the Republicans on the short side, 52-48.

The survey indicated little hope for change in the House, with the Republicans picking up three seats at best to leave the Democrats a 252-183 advantage.

The report said Republicans have good chances to take Democrat-held governor's seats in Missouri, North Carolina, Rhode Island and North Dakota, but GOP incumbents in Delaware, Washington and Illinois may be defeated for reelection.

Hanging Tree Toppled

Police said the tree, where many bad men are said to have met their end, was felled when a sanitary worker backed his garbage truck up under a limb and uprooted it.

Officials said the worker, whom they declined to identify, had his first and last day on the job rolled into one.

Officials said that within hours town merchants gathered about the tree salvaging parts to be sold to tourists.

The tree was one of two cottonwoods, both about 30 inches in diameter, used principally by vigilantes for lynching, said Wayne Winters, editor of the historic Tombstone Epitaph.

Sign Not Funny To 30 Year Old

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "Rick Maxey is 30-years-old, ha ha ha." That's what a 50-foot long sign told motorists at a busy intersection Friday morning.

Rick Maxey wasn't laughing at his traumatic birthday but his wife Madeline was. She's a youthful 27.

Mrs. Maxey, who said she got help from friends in painting the sign, wasn't sure how well her husband was taking his birthday. "I think he's going over the hill," she laughed.

Killebrew Powers Twins Past Sox

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wilbur Wood was having trouble getting used to the Minnesota mound. But Tom Hilgendorf was delighted with the way he found the one in Cleveland.

"It took me quite a time to get adjusted to the mound," Wood, Chicago's knuckleballing veteran, said Sunday after trying—and failing—to become one of the winningest pitchers in the American League.

"It's no lower or no higher than any other mound, but it's flat, it doesn't drop off at all." What did drop, though, was one of Wood's less successful pitches.

It dropped into the left field pavilion, 351 feet away from home plate, the end result of a Harmon Killebrew home run in the sixth inning that powered the Minnesota Twins to a 1-0 victory over the White Sox.

Hilgendorf, getting his first major league start as a new member of the Cleveland pitching staff, said he knew good times were ahead when he ambled out to the bullpen for some pregame warming up.

"I can tell just by walking out there," he said. "If the mound looks a long way away—then look out. But today it seemed close and I knew it was okay."

It was more than just okay. Hilgendorf hurled a six-hitter, striking out seven Milwaukee batters as the Indians beat the Brewers 6-1 to sweep a doubleheader. Cleveland had taken the opener 3-2.

In other American League games, Texas took two from Oakland, 2-1 and 4-2, Boston split a pair with Detroit, winning 4-3 before the Tigers took the second game 7-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 5-0 and California defeated Kansas City 4-3 in 11 innings.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs swept St. Louis 4-0 and 5-4, Atlanta took two from Los Angeles 14-4 and 5-4, San Francisco and Cincinnati split the Reds winning 4-0 before the Giants took the 10-inning nightcap 6-1, San Diego and Houston also split with the Padres taking the 14-inning opener 10-7 before the Astros won the second game 4-3 in 10, Pittsburgh blitzed Philadelphia 7-1 and the New York Mets beat Montreal 3-1.

Wood wound up with his 11th loss instead of the 17th victory that would have tied him with Detroit's Mickey Lolich and Cleveland's Gaylord Perry as the winningest pitchers in the majors.

Killebrew's 18th homer of the year was also the 533rd of his career, moving him within one of fifth-place Jimmy Foxx on the all-time list.

Hilgendorf, who'd spent 1969-70 with St. Louis, where he worked 27 innings in 29 games, all in relief, to post an 0-4 record, said: "I knew I could do it if I ever got the chance."

He got it just three weeks after Cleveland purchased his contract from the Kansas City organization.

Jerry Moses drove in two runs for Cleveland in the nightcap and the Brewers contributed to their own downfall with four errors in the game.

In the opener, Tom McCraw homered in the bottom of the ninth to tie it. Then Rick Auerbach's bobble of Ray Fosse's two-out grounder, let in the winning run.

Dave Nelson was a one-man gang for the Rangers, figuring in every run they scored against Oakland.

In the opener, he scored a first-inning run, then delivered the tie-breaking winner with a ninth-inning double. And in the finale, he scored twice and knocked in two more runs, one of them with a seventh-inning single that produced the margin of victory.

Gates Brown delivered a tie-breaking fifth-inning home run, then contributed a sacrifice fly to a four-run sixth that powered the Tigers past Boston in their nightcap.

Brown had also homered in the opener but it was John Kennedy's tie-breaking single in the sixth inning that gave the Red Sox their victory.

Mike Cuellar tamed the Yanks on just three singles and got all the help he needed from Boog Powell, who clouted a two-run homer in the first inning. Brooks Robinson also singled home a pair of runs for the Orioles, who cut Detroit's East Division lead to one game.

Bob Oliver, formerly of the Royals, gave his old teammates a shock when he led off the 11th inning for the Angels with his 13th homer, a game-winning blast over the center field fence.

ALL-STARS' MOST VALUABLE—Pat Sullivan, of Auburn, whose fourth-quarter passing set up the only touchdown for the College All Stars against Dallas Cowboys Friday night, was named by teammates as most valuable player on the 1972 squad. Sullivan is the holder of the 1971 Heisman trophy. Dallas won, 20-7. (AP Wirephoto)

Zarley, Hiskey Win Partnership

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — "Great—just absolutely great," Kermit Zarley replied when asked how it felt for him and partner Babe Hiskey to break the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus domination of the Professional Golfers Association National Team Championship.

"But, you know," Zarley reflected, "they probably would have won again if they teed up."

The longshot partners, close friends since their college days at the University of Houston a decade ago, forged a better-ball score of 66, five under par, in the final round to score an easy victory Sunday.

Their 262 total was 22 strokes under par on the 7,045-yard Laurel Valley Golf Club, Palmer's home course where he and Nicklaus had combined to win the two previous team crowns.

Nicklaus withdrew this year because of a badly infected finger. Palmer tapped obscure Jack Lewis, 25, as a last-minute replacement and they were never a factor. They had to rally for a final-round 70 and were a distant 13 strokes back at 275.

Hiskey and Zarley moved into a share of the lead after 36 holes, took sole control at the end of the third round and weren't headed as they strolled in with a relatively unexciting triumph.

Johnny Miller and Grier Jones, a pair of 25-year-olds, made the only major challenge in the final round that began in drizzling rain and finished in cool and cloudy weather.

They combined for an eight-under-par 63 and took second alone at 265. Gibby Gilbert and Lanny Wadkins, just one stroke off the pace going into the final 18 holes, couldn't get anything going. They finished with a 69 and third at 266.

Tommy Aaron and former Masters champion Charles Coody were next with a 64—267.

Hiskey and Zarley, both members of a Bible study group that meets weekly on the pro tour, have had long years of struggle.

Each has won only twice in 10 years. Hiskey ranked 100th on the season's money list going into this tournament with only $13,000.

But they combined almost perfectly here, each picking up $20,000 from a total purse of $200,000. They had 23 birdies in the four rounds, 16 by Hiskey, and a single bogey. In the team event the score is kept only on the team's better ball on each hole.

"It's kind of easy to win when your partner is always on the green, 15 or 20 feet from the hole," Hiskey said, "When he's in that position you can really go for the pin and try to make birdie."

Ticket Holders Receive Notices

Snyder Public Schools have mailed notices to season ticket holders of last year offering them the opportunity to reserve the same seats in Tiger Stadium for the 1972 football season.

Tickets are priced at $2 per person per game, which means that a season ticket will cost $10 for the five home games the Tigers have scheduled for the upcoming season.

Last year's season ticket holders have until Aug. 18 to purchase the same seating facilities they had last year. After that date, all reserved seats will be made available to the general public on a season ticket basis.

Evert May Turn Pro

By JOHN R. SKINNER
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Australians won the inaugural Bonne Bell Cup matches over the United States over the weekend, but surrendered some of the glory when Floridan Chris Evert triumphed over Evonne Goolagong.

The seemingly nerveless teen-ager fired a butchering volley of deep court shots at Miss Goolagong to win the third set of their match 6-0 after capturing the first set 6-3 and losing the second 4-6.

Miss Evert, who had lost to Miss Goolagong in the semi-finals at Wimbledon this year, said after the match she'll turn professional "whenever I can." Rules allow it on her 18th birthday on Dec. 21.

The Fort Lauderdale high school senior, who might have been one of the richest teen-agers in sports history had she been able to claim prize money for some of her triumphs over the last year, doesn't see herself changing her values when she turns pro.

"I hope I never play just for money," she said. "I think that would be stupid."

Her drawing power is undeniable. A crowd of 7,428 watched Sunday's final three matches in the Bonne Bell and a total of 20,936 saw the three-day event, both records for women's tennis matches in Cleveland. And, as at Forest Hills last summer and at Wimbledon this year, a great number of the fans were present just to see her.

Miss Evert, who conquered Margaret Court of Australia 6-3, 6-3 on Friday, stayed in the backcourt and made Miss Goolagong trade shots with her until the Australian erred.

Miss Evert's victories were the only ones mustered by the United States in the best-of-seven event. Mrs. Court halted Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., 6-1, 6-1 and the doubles team of Kerry Melville and Mrs. Court whipped Miss Ziegenfuss and Wendy Overton 6-1, 6-2 in other matches Sunday.

Casey Celebrates His 82nd Birthday

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — "I was born July 30, 1890, in Kansas City, Mo.," said Casey Stengel.

That date made him 82 when he observed his birthday at his home here Sunday.

It also represented one of the shortest complete, absolutely coherent sentences Charles Dillon Stengel, a baseball Hall of Famer, has ever uttered.

Casey said he was aware that some baseball record books list him as having been born in 1889.

Dates other than July 30 are also listed. In typical Stengel fashion, however, he has an explanation for the seeming confusion, and if anyone can confuse the confusing, Casey is the man.

"When I was a young man of fine looks," began Casey, elaborately palming back his ice-white locks, "I used to look at the schedule . . ."

He meant the baseball schedule, of course.

"In those days we'd hit a town for three or four days, and if my birthday was approaching, I'd see that it was observed in one of several cities.

"Once in Kansas City, they baked a big cake which was so big they had to haul it to the ballpark in a truck. Now things weren't doing so good in Kansas City so they offered everybody a piece of cake if they'd come into the ballpark."

Stengel didn't identify the year but it must have been in the late 1920s when he was finishing his playing career in the old American Association following his legendary years in the National League.

"Then there was the time," Casey continued with barely a pause for breath, "I was managing Milwaukee for Bill Veeck. He was out somewhere in the islands during the war and I told him if I had another pitcher I could win the pennant for him.

"So there was my birthday, or thereabouts, and out comes a truck onto the playing field, and sure enough, there was this immense cake, only it wasn't a real cake because out of it steps the new pitcher, who was from, I think, Puerto Rico or someplace."

The Stengels, Casey and his bride of 47 years, Edna, have three "birthday dates" on their calendar. One was a small family party at the Robin Hood Inn, Saturday night.

Next, by invitation of American League president Joe Cronin, they'll be honored guests at the Baseball Hall of Fame celebration at Cooperstown, N.Y. Aug. 6-7.

Finally they'll be feted at an Old Timers' dinner and game in San Diego Aug. 17-18 by Casey's old friend, Buzzie Bavasi president of the Padres.

Flames Fourth In Kermit Tournament

The Snyder Flames finished their second straight tournament this weekend, taking fourth place in the Kermit Invitational. The Midland Talk of the Town team won the weekend tourney.

After winning their first round opener against Andrews 27-6 the Flames dropped a 7-4 decision to Odessa's Western Insulation. Jan Kruse and Barbara Moffett both collected two hits and Evelyn Wesley hit a two run homer in the bottom of the second, but it wasn't enough to save Gwen Brunson from her second pitching loss of the season.

In the third game the Flames bounced back to beat Ft. Stockton 9-8. Evelyn Wesley was again the leading hitter with two hits, and Brunson chalked up her 11th win of the season. The Flames took another close one from Odessa Petro in the fourth encounter, winning 10-9 on the hitting of Jan Kruse, Regina Lewis, and Barbara Moffett. Kruse had three hits, a single, double, and triple, and Lewis had two hits. Moffett was the heroine with a two RBI triple that sent over the tying and winning runs. Helen Rios went the first inning and started the second, but was relieved by Brunson. Brunson finished the game to record an even dozen wins.

In the final outing the host team Kermit took a 12-7 victory over a weary Flames team. Brunson pitched for the first four innings before being relieved by Regina Lewis who yielded the mound to Helen Rios. Jan Kruse, Terry Watson, and Regina Lewis all had two hits in that game. Brunson finished the tournament with close to 30 innings of duty from the mound.

Jan Kruse collected 12 hits during the tournament and was named to the All Tournament team. Helen Rios played outstanding defense and also earned a place on the honor team.

Snyder's next home game promises to be a thriller. It will feature a pitching duel betyween Gwen Brunson, 12-2, and Midland's Norma Stegall, an All Tournament selection in the Snyder tourney and the Kermit meet. Game time for the meeting with Midland is 8:30 Tuesday night in Winston Park.

Gabriel Is Back With The Rams

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Roman Gabriel is back.

The quarterback took part in light workouts at the Los Angeles Rams' training camp Sunday for the first time since he suffered a collapsed lung.

On the field with him were three newcomers making their first appearances in Rams uniforms.

Running back Jim Bertelsen of Texas and tight end Bob Christiansen of UCLA, the Rams' top two draft choices, took part in their first workouts Sunday after playing in the College All-Star game at Chicago Friday night.

John Williams, a veteran offensive guard acquired in a trade with Baltimore, also went through his first practice with Los Angeles.

Gabriel, the Rams' first string quarterback, put on pads a day earlier than expected and took part in noncontact drills, including some short passing, with no ill effects. He suffered a collapsed right lung in the team's first drill two Mondays ago but is expected to be ready to go full speed in another week.

Los Angeles plays its first National Football League exhibition game Friday night hosting the Cleveland Browns.

Lectures Begin For Coaches

HOUSTON (AP) — The first full day of lectures began and registration continued today at the 40th annual Texas High School Coaches' Association Coaching School.

Registration reached 5,046 Sunday night at the close of the first day and the figure is expected to soar well above year-old record of 5,964 which was reached at Fort Worth.

Bob Debaney, who coached the University of Nebraska football team to a national championship last fall, delivered a lecture of physical fitness to highlight first day activities.

Other lecturers during the five day meeting include Bill Battle, University of Tennessee football coach; Guy Lewis, University of Houston basketball coach; Gerald Myers, Texas Tech basketball coach; Ken Kelley, Texas A&I track coach; and Lynn Laird, West Texas State trainer.

The All-Star basketball and football squads went through workouts Sunday. The basketball game will be played Wednesday night at Hofheinz Pavilion and the football game Thursday night in the Astrodome.

Rain halted a portion of the Sunday's football workouts but coaches appeared happy with the progress of their teams.

South football coach Jack Hayes of West Columbia was particularly impressed with what he called the "exceptional moves" of Port Arthur Lincoln running back Joe Washington Jr.

South basketball coach Ronnie Truitt of Cypress-Fairbanks praised the play of Gary Brown of Chiereno and David Brown of Silsbee. Tommy Barker, the 6-11 star from Wellaco, began to shake the effects of a sprained knee and was impressive during the evening workout.

Bill Phillips of Plainview, North basketball coach, and Tommy Watkins, North football coach, were similarly pleased with the progress of their players.

Phillips said Dallas Roosevelt great Ira Terrell "had one of his better workouts" as did John Saffel of Irving MacArthur.

Joe Rust of Dallas Carter and Shae Southall of Brownwood were quarterbacking Watkins' 1-wing offense.

Cardinals Are In Missouri Caverns

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are represented in the Meramec Caverns on route 66 here. Pictures of the baseball and football players on both teams hang in the cave. Cave manager Bob Hudson says "that's really co-existence."

Wholesale, Retail Prices On Different Courses

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For nearly five years wholesale and retail prices rose in tandem, with the former rather accurately forecasting the latter by a month or more.

Now they're heading off on different courses. The rate of increase for wholesale prices has been rising while that for consumer prices is falling. Not the prices themselves, but the percentage of increase.

The latest figures for wholesale prices show about a 4 per cent rise. Consumer prices, meanwhile, are rising at only a very small rate—two-tenths of one per cent in June and less than 3 per cent higher than a year ago.

As a result, there is considerable curiosity and some dismay among those who review economic statistics. It hardly makes sense, they say, for retailers to stabilize prices while their costs—wholesale prices—are rising.

Is the middleman absorbing increased costs rather than passing them on? It's unlikely; you don't do things like that and remain in business. Maybe the retailer is responsible? The price freeze?

The most plausible explanation now circulating is this:

The Consumer Price Index measures actual prices at which goods and services are sold in retail markets. Government shoppers, just like housewives, go up and down the store aisles checking the prices.

The Wholesale Price Index, however, measures list prices, which actually are the maximum prices at which goods are sold. List prices are not necessarily the prices at which goods change ownership.

Some companies, it is said, foresaw thelikelihood of price controls being imposed and so jacked up their published or catalogue prices—just in case they needed to sell at higher prices.

Those listed prices, though, are merely the uppermost point from which negotiated prices are scaled down.

If this is indeed the case, the WPI is rarely an accurate indicator of inflation—at least for the duration of the price freeze.

Reforms Urged

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County Dist. Atty. Carol Vance urges major changes in the state's criminal justice system.

He said present "horse and buggy" procedures should be overhauled to meet today's society.

He called the Texas Penal Code "an illogical hodgepodge of 100 years of piecemeal legislation."

He noted that at present, possession of a marijuana cigarette carries a two-year to life sentence while murder without malice carries a two to five-year sentence.

Junior Editors' Quiz on SUGAR

QUESTION: Where does sugar cane grow and how is it made into sugar?

• • •

ANSWER: Sugar cane is a tall perennial plant of the grass family. It grows in warm, moist areas of the world. It first grew in India. The chief countries now engaged in the cultivation of sugar cane are Cuba, India, Brazil, Hawaii, the Philippines and Puerto Rico. It is also raised in Louisiana in the U. S.

The refining of sugar is a complex process. The sugar cane is cut close to the ground and the leaves are stripped off. Then the stalks are brought to the refinery. Here the stalks are washed and cut into small pieces and run through heavy rollers to extract the juice. The fibers of the cane are separated from the juice and used as fuel or pulp for making paper. The juice is combined with lime water and heated to remove impurities. Carbon dioxide is added to eliminate the lime water. Then the purified cane juice is evaporated by boiling it down to produce a syrup. This syrup is boiled in vacuum pans, and slowly changes to crystals, leaving a residue of a thick syrup. The heavy syrup is separated from the sugar crystals, through the rotation of cylinders. The sugar crystals are further purified and refined. The thick syrup is boiled down to form molasses.

Columnist Learns From Mail

You use salt not only because your body needs it physically, scientists say, but because it also helps make you feel good emotionally. But don't try to salt your way to happiness. You're more likely to wind up with high blood pressure.

Penguin parents have their troubles as well as human parents. One of them is that at three weeks a baby penguin can eat half its body weight at a single meal. Leaving baby behind in a day nursery, papa and mama have to fly long distances to catch enough shrimp to feed it. When they return, they often have trouble identifying which chick is theirs. This doesn't mean they're dumb. Can you tell one penguin from another?

The more complicated the business world becomes, the easier it is to embezzle. Security experts estimate that embezzlers now loot U.S. firms of $5 million a day.

Car Theft Big Biz

DALLAS (AP) — Car theft is a $7 million a year business in Dallas.

An estimated 2,150 cars have been heisted in the first five months of 1972. On an average day some 50 cars are taken from their owners.

Of 10 major cities listed in FBI figures, only Atlanta and Miami have fewer stolen cars than Dallas.

New York City, where a car is stolen every four and a half minutes, leads the list with more than 96,000 cars stolen in 1971. Dallas seems almost small-time in comparison, with one stolen every 90 minutes, but that is little solace to the owners.

Many cars are recovered, but 20-25 per cent of the stolen cars are never seen again, or are returned with tires, engines and other parts missing.

Police said owners can discourage inexperienced thieves and "joyriders" by locking their doors and keeping their car keys with them.

However, officers said a determined car thief is an expert at outfoxing Detroit's safety devices. Anti-theft devices like the locking steering wheel and transmission can be foiled by pros who know which wire to "spark" to remove a locking bolt in the wheel.

Waxahachie Plant To Double Facilities

WAXAHACHIE, Tex. (AP) — Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. will double its present manufacturing and warehousing facilities at its plant here.

Manager Fred R. Coumbe said Friday the 184,000-foot addition to the construction materials plant will mean an additional employment of 200 persons to the current 257-employe force.

Coumbe said the latest electric glass melt furnace, will be installed, eliminating essentially all emissions from the melting process.

The original plant was constructed in 1963 and is one of 17 plants of the company in the nation.

Nurserymen Stay Planted

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I would appreciate information concerning nursery operations (trees, shrubs, plants and flowers -- not children). I am especially interested in how to determine if a nursery might be successful in a particular locale, a typical size of area and investment needed, and how one goes about finding wholesalers for seeds, bulbs, etc. -- E.B., Odessa, Texas

Although many nursery owners work every day of the week, they generally enjoy their work -- plants, the outdoors, being one's own boss. Nurserymen and women often stay planted even though the money might be greener elsewhere.

GOOD STABILITY. Recessions don't wither the green goods market as much as other types of products, and the value of nursery stock (if you don't count a slump in '67) has been steadily increasing. Two additional factors add to a favorable future: increasing interest in the environment, and an expanding population (more structures to be landscaped, more people to smell the flowers). Even apartment dwellers are showing interest in plants and window-box gardens. Still, there are . . .

PROBLEMS. Land prices and taxes are higher than ever. The competition has decreased in numbers, but their sophistication has increased tremendously. More capital investment is needed to start today. Some reports foresee difficulties for the little guy from nursery chains and franchise operations. The industry authorities whom I contacted say that franchising hasn't proven to be a threat so far, but may provide stiffer competition in the future. Most of the retail sales today are made by small, independent retailers whose average sale is under $10.

NURSERY TYPES. You can be a wholesale producer (growing and selling nursery stock for retailers and florists), or a retailer (generally a sales outlet, such as a "garden center" without growing grounds except for limited production and holding of plants). Or, you can combine both types of activities, as many nursery owners do. Others grow their own stock to landscape homes, office buildings, factories, parks and roadsides -- and may sell surplus stock.

FOR WHOLESALE PRODUCING, you need expert knowledge of horticulture more so than for retailing. This also takes greater initial capital than for any other type of nursery operation. The amount varies. For instance, if field-grown shade trees, shrubs, and evergreens are your products, you'll need more acreage and equipment than for growing plants in containers. Growing nursery stock takes from 1-3 years on the average (and as much as 10 years), so you'll require enough money to carry you for a couple of years, or more.

FOR RETAILING, most nursery associations and retail nurserymen agree that the individual nursery will be able to hold its own if it modernizes, steps up efficiency, advertises, and emphasizes quality and service, and does not try to meet price competition from nursery chains and discount stores. The answers to all your techincal questions are found in the following resource suggestions.

Three Killed In Park 'Shootout'

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A Norman police officer and two other persons were dead today in the wake of a double slaying and a Sunday evening trailer park "shootout."

Held in connection with the killings is Orbin Gill Jr., 33, of nearby Noble, Okla. He is uninjured. An Oklahoma City newspaper, The Daily Oklahoman, says he was reported to be an outpatient at Central State Hospital, a mental institution.

Dead are his parents, Orbin Gill Senior and Julia Gale Gill, and officer Melvin O. Minor, 25, a rookie policeman who had been on the force just six months.

Minor suffered a massive head wound inflicted by a shotgun. For hours he had hovered on the brink of death, listed in "acutely critical condition."

Also wounded in the fray, though not seriously, was officer Robert Brown, 33. He was hit in the arm and hand by a few shotgun pellets.

An all-points bulletin was broadcast for Gill Sunday evening after a brother notified police that the parents had been killed with a shotgun at their farm home about 10 miles east of Noble in Cleveland County about 6 p.m.

Brown spotted Gill's car in Norman shortly after 8 p.m. near his estranged wife's home. At 8:23 he radioed the police dispatcher he was being fired upon.

Police said the car fled as the officer tried to halt it, and raced toward a trailer park two miles away. Brown, who led the chase, radioed other units that the fleeing driver was attempting to roll down his window and aim a shotgun at pursuing cars.

Officers said the driver jumped from the car at the trailer park and fired away at Brown.

Brown returned the fire but could get off only three shots without endangering children in the area, they said.

Witnesses said after his ammunition was expended and Minor lay in a pool of blood, the driver laid down his gun and "spread eagled" himself in the road.

Police, Motorists Cowed By Bull

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A 450-pound bull cowed police and motorists on Interstate 75 near here for 90 minutes Saturday.

A service station attendant called Butler County police when he saw several cars stopped on the northbound side of the road blowing their horns at a bull who feinted charges in all three lanes.

More than a dozen officers responded, and the animal began chasing them back and forth across both the north and southbound lanes. At one point he rammed the car of Willard Samuels of Southgate, Mich., who tried to drive through.

Police used their cars to nudge the animal off one side of the highway and it ran across a field.

STILL 100 PER CENT—Sen. Thomas Eagleton, speaking to news people in the lobby of his hotel, declared Saturday, "I'm going to stay on the ticket. That's my firm, irrevocable intent." Earlier he said he talked with George McGovern, who told him he still backs Eagleton 1,000 per cent. Eagleton is taking his fight for staying on the ticket to McGovern tonight. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Eagleton's Intensity Evident To Friends

(Editor's Note: Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton interned for the political big time in Missouri's capital city. The following, from The AP Special Assignment Team, reports on how Eagleton is remembered there.)

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Tom Eagleton was so intense at work he wound up in the hospital and so intense at socializing he wound up in the rumor mill.

As the always-ebullient center of attention at parties, friends say, he simply exhibited the same characteristics off the job that marked his political campaigning and his work.

But in Missouri, a state of many staunch, dry religious fundamentalists, the combination of hearty joke-telling and a drink in hand can be stiffly viewed by some as drunkenness.

Add the hazy explanations that surrounded hospitalizations in 1960, 1964 and 1966, and the result became rumors of an Eagleton drinking problem. The hospitalizations were for nervous exhaustion, but Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton didn't say so until after Sen. George McGovern picked him this month as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Now, after whisperings of a drinking problem in past Missouri campaigns, the twin questions of drink and health have erupted in the fledgling Eagleton campaign.

To this point, and in the face of scores of interviews by newsmen and extensive checks of public records, no document nor eyewitness account of any drunken behavior by Eagleton has surfaced.

Past Missouri associates say the Eagleton intensity at work and on the campaign trail manifested itself in long hours, breakneck pace, rapid decision-making and esprit de corps. They say they saw no effect in his work of the nervous exhaustion for which he was hospitalized.

One source told columnist Jack Anderson he had seen copies four years ago of traffic records charging Eagleton with drunken driving. But no such records have been located.

Contrary to such an account, people who knew Eagleton over the years all say firmly, and with a consistency of detail that adds to their credibility, that they never saw him drunk and that he has no drinking problem. Eagleton has steadfastly denied any such problem.

John H. Denman, who was an assistant attorney general under Eagleton though a Republican, said that Eagleton "has—and I hate to use the word—charisma. When he comes in, he dominates a party. He cracks jokes; he likes to needle the people he likes best. You see somebody that dynamic and maybe you assume he drinks."

Denman, now an oil association executive, said "I've never seen him out of control. I don't believe there's any drinking problem whatsoever."

James C. Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state, campaigned alongside Eagleton all through the 1960s. He said that on the campaign trail, "I never saw Tom take more than one drink."

Scott O. Wright, a Columbia, Mo., attorney and longtime friend of Eagleton, said "I can definitely say he doesn't have a drinking problem. But he's wound up a lot tighter than the ordinary person. That's just his nature—he's really cranked up."

Eagleton himself, announcing last week that he had been hospitalized three times for nervous exhaustion, characterized himself as "an intense, hard-driving person, and as a younger man I must say I drove myself too far . . . I still push pretty hard but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years."

Eagleton's intensity was always evident to his friends and associates.

Observed Wright: "Until his mind gets really occupied, if he's just sitting around, he can't throw his leg over the chair and relax. His mind is churning all the time."

Kirkpatrick, the secretary of state, said Eagleton "has a terrible amount of nervous energy. I've seen him time and time again on the podium perspire until his shirt was soaking."

He said Eagleton would frequently dry his hands with a handkerchief and that his hands would occasionally tremble slightly when he held a speech text.

"But since he's been a senator he appears to have lost that; he seems more relaxed," said Kirkpatrick.

Yet even Saturday, when he returned to Missouri, Eagleton's face dripped perspiration and his hands shook slightly as he held a microphone.

Robert D. Kingsland, who operates the senator's Jefferson City office, speaks of the Eagleton intensity but said "I've noticed he has mellowed."

"He's a more tolerant guy," said Kingsland. "When people do something to him, he's more philosophical. In the past, you could tell something hurt even if he didn't say anything."

Obviously hurt by the Anderson charge, which he labeled a damnable lie, Eagleton, within 48 hours, was getting off one-line jokes about the matter.

Kingsland recalled him "generally beating everybody to the office, frequently he ate at his desk, he just throws himself into any job he's done."

On the campaign trail, Eagleton usually worked his most tortuous hours, up to 20 a day.

Kingsland recalled one example from the 1960 campaign: "He flew into St. Louis at 4:30 one afternoon after a day of campaigning to meet with the grand jury on a delicate case. Right after that we went to a hotel and had a sandwich and milk.

"Then we went to a rally where, and I think it was a surprise to him, he turned out to be the M.C., introducing all the candidates. It lasted until past 11. Then we had a couple of beers and he went home about midnight.

"And then he was up at 5 a.m. starting again."

Hospital Costs Up 13.9%

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Hospital Association reports that the cost of one day's care for a hospital patient increased 13.9 per cent in 1971.

The cost was $92.31, the AHA reported Sunday in its annual survey of the 7,097 registered hospitals in the United States.

The 1970 average was $81.01, which was an increase of 15.7 per cent over 1969.

Total expenses for community hospitals rose 14.5 per cent during 1971, compared with 17.7 per cent in 1970. Payroll expenses were up 14.3 per cent in 1971 compared with 16.4 per cent in 1970.

The AHA noted that the wage-price freeze and Phase II of the President's Economic Stabilization Program did not have a significant effect on the 1971 figures because the association's statistical survey period ended Sept. 1.

Outpatient visits rose 18 million to 200 million, an increase of 10.1 per cent, the hospitals reported.

Emergency visits rose 10.5 per cent in community hospitals, and clinic outpatient visits were up 9.3 per cent, while referred outpatient visits rose 14 per cent.

Party Supports Spock

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Peoples Party has reaffirmed support of Dr. Benjamin Spock for president.

A total of 250 delegates from 30 states gathered here Saturday for the party's convention.

The delegates claimed the two major parties were too corrupted by industry to respond to the needs of the people.

Spock, 69, a baby doctor, will be joined on the ticket by Julius Hobson, a black educator from Washington, who is the party's vice presidential candidate.

The party was born last November in a meeting at Dallas.

One of the highlights at the gathering here came when supporters of Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic nominee, walked out.

"There's only a dime's worth of difference between the Democrats and Republicans," Spock said, charging that both are controlled by industry. He said the Peoples Party has little hope of making a strong showing in the Nov. 7 election although it will be on the ballot in at least 10 states and possibly 30.

Spock said the long term goal—to run candidates at the local level—was more important.

AP, China OK News Exchange

PEKING (AP) — An agreement was reached Sunday on the exchange of news and photos between the Associated Press and Hsinhua, China's news and photo agency.

The exchange agreement between the two news services marked the first time in 22 years that an American news organization had established a regular news and photo channel with China's People's Republic.

Direct news links ended in December 1949 with the departure of the last Associated Press correspondent, Fred Hampson.

The agreement provides both radio and mail exchanges.

The agreement was reached in negotiations between top Hsinhua officials and Wes Gallagher, president, and Paul Miller, chairman of the Associated Press, over a period of several days. The Associated Press party of five has been in Peking and other cities as the guest of Hsinhua.

Jane To Shelve Acting Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda, back from a two-week visit to North Vietnam, says she plans to shelve her acting career until after the presidential election in November.

Miss Fonda told newsmen greeting her Sunday she would be working with the California-based Indochina Peace Campaign, a group which plans to promote the Vietnam war as a major election issue.

The antiwar activist said she was allowed to visit American prisoners of war during her visit.

"I looked carefully in their eyes and they were not glazed," she said, emphasizing that she did not think they were brainwashed. "They said, 'As long as Nixon is in office, we are going to be in here for a very long time.'"

Price Of Gold Jumps

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold jumped one dollar an ounce to record highs in early trading in Europe's free bullion markets today but both the U.S. dollar and the British pound was firm.

The new rises took the price of free gold close to the $70 an ounce level at which President De Gaulle of France wanted to fix official gold backing world currencies more than two years ago.

In Zurich today, the price of free gold was up a full dollar to $69 an ounce during early trading. The dollar improved slightly to 3.77675 Swiss francs.

In London, gold opened at $68.85 an ounce and then was fixed at $68.90. The pound opened at $2.4490 down slight from Friday's $2.4495. Then it moved up to 2.4502 dollars.

Plaza Hotel Is Heisted

By DICK RILEY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Five armed men in business suits and moustaches called at the posh Plaza Hotel early today, herded 20 employes and guests into a back room and rifled 15 to 20 safe deposit boxes.

Police said they had no immediate estimate of the haul.

A similar robbery at the exclusive Hotel Pierre last New Year's weekend netted an estimated $1 million to $4 million in gems — most of which have not been recovered.

In today's heist, the bandit team pulled up at the Plaza, located on Fifth Avenue at the southern edge of Central Park, about 4 a.m. They rifled the boxes and drove off an hour later in a tan station wagon.

Edner Smith, a bellman at the Plaza, said he was standing at his post in the lobby when a tall, heavy-set man with a moustache, dressed in a suit and carrying a suitcase, walked up to him.

Smith said he asked the man if he wanted a room.

"No," the man said, "this is a holdup."

"Then he showed me his gun," Smith related.

Jimmy Conway, an elevator operator with the Plaza for 44 years, said the men locked him along with other employes and guests in a back room while they rifled the boxes.

"They were real nice about it," Conway said. "They saw my gray hair and told me to sit down. They didn't even handcuff me."

One inadvertant witness was taxi driver William Leins, who was standing by his cab when he noticed the five men get out of their car and go inside.

Leins said he noticed the men had left a bottle of liquor in the back seat and, assuming the men were checking in, went inside to tell the night manager that they had forgotten it.

When he walked in, he said, one of the men turned him around, put a gun in his back and directed him to the office where the others were held.

He said that when the men left, they told the employes to wait five minutes before calling police.

"We gave them 10 minutes," Leins said. "We gave them all the time they wanted."

Jack Craver, general manager of the Plaza, said there were about 125 safe deposit boxes in the rear of the offices but he did not know the number that were opened.

Carbon Monoxide Fumes Kill Two

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — Carbon monoxide overcame six persons sleeping aboard a Lake Texoma cruiser Sunday night and two died before reaching a hospital.

Attendants said the others were in critical condition.

The fumes claimed the lives of Bill Gafford, 51, a Sherman construction man, and Mike Reinig, 52, who made his home at Lake Texoma and managed the Johnson & Johnson pharmaceutical plant in Sherman.

Others taken to hospitals were Gafford's wife Dee, 48; Reinig's wife Dorothy, 48, and Dr. and Mrs. Martin Cralicke of Munester.

They were overcome aboard the Reinigs' cruiser. Authorities said a leaky exhuast pipe permitted the toxic gas to spread through the sleeping quarters.

Marines Order End To 'Voluntary Segregation'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., the Marine commandant, has ordered an end to "voluntary segregation" practices which have grown up in the corps.

"No racial segregation is to be permitted in the barracks or other living areas," Cushman said in a letter to all Marine generals and commanding officers.

"This includes voluntary segregation which extends beyond a reasonable request by a few friends to bunk together."

Marine sources explained that some unit commanders have allowed black and white servicemen to separate into racial groups living in different parts of their barracks.

As a result, the sources said, racial polarization has deepened and on occasion black and white factions have squared off against each other.

"Violence by Marines both on and off base must be stopped," the Marine commandant said. "The responsibility of leadership makes it mandatory that every effort be made to prevent acts of violence."

At the same time, Cushman called on his commanders to be "tough, aggressive, and demanding in eliminating racially segregated bars, liberty 'hangouts,' restaurants, etc." by placing them out of bounds to Marines.

The commandant emphasized that a unit leader's future in the Corps may well be influenced by how he performs in assuring equal treatment and opportunity for subordinates.

Effective immediately, Cushman directed, "fitness reports will include a statement of the officer's or staff noncommissioned officer's contribution and leadership in human relations."

In the same letter, he ordered a series of actions designed to eliminate grounds for complaint by blacks and other Marines alleging discriminatory treatment.

"Quotas for transfer will be filled in such manner that all will share equally with respect to the individual Marine's ability, personal desires and desirability of the assignment," Cushman wrote.

Also, Cushman said that punishments and work details handed out to individual Marines will be made public at daily formations.

This publicity appears aimed at minimizing the possibility that certain Marines will be picked on by vindictive or prejudiced commanders.

US Laws Won't Stop Whale Slaughters

MIAMI (AP) — Laws to keep Americans from killing sea mammals won't stop the wholesale slaughter of whales and dolphins unless other countries can be convinced to follow suit, says an expert on sea mammal biology.

"What we've proposed is emotional legislation. It's really not particularly practicable," Dr. Jesse White said Sunday.

"It's nice that this country wants to stop killing the animals, but we don't even have a whaling industry any more."

White, one of a handful of veterinarians in the world who specialize in whales, dolphins, sea lions, seals and other marine mammals, said the proposed legislation before Congress may prove useful as a starting point to get other nations to limit the killing.

Last Wednesday the Senate passed a bill which would make it illegal for Americans to kill or import sea mammals for the next 1t years. Earlier the House passed a similar bill.

The major difference between the two bills is a provision in the Senate version which would exempt American tuna fishermen from terms of the act for two years.

Experts estimate that American tuna fishermen in the Pacific kill as many as 250,000 dolphins each year when the dolphins get trapped in the tuna nets and drown.

"But even if you stop Americans from killing sea mammals any kind, you won't have any impact on the species that are in danger of extinction," said White.

"Take the big whales. The blue whale and the white whale are extinct for all practical purposes."

"There are several thousand sperm whales, fin whales, sei whales and others that are hunted commercially. But they are being hunted so heavily by the Norwegians, Australians, Japanese and others that they will become extinct as well if something isn't done to limit the killing."

"Now it's easy for the American Congress to pass bills against whale hunting, because you don't have a domestic whale hunting industry that's going to rise up in arms," he said. "But you try to tell Norwegian whalers who are dependent on these animals for a livelihood that they've got to stop. And the owner and employes of a Japanese whale meat canning factory aren't going to take too kindly to being told they're out of business."

"In the long run, about the only way that men will stop hunting whales is when there is no longer any money in it," White said.

Storms Hit Southeast Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes heavy thunderstorms pummelled much of Southeast Texas during the night, hanging on into this morning from around Houston, Beaumont and Lufkin into Louisiana.

There also were occasional showers in West Texas from around Plainview and Guthrie southward past Sweetwater. Skies were clear to only partly cloudy elsewhere across the state.

Packing hail in some areas, the storms whipped through half a dozen counties near the Upper Texas Coast during the night, causing official observers to issue a series of severe weather alerts.

Somewhat earlier the same kind of weather struck near Victoria down the coast, loosing briefly torrential rain at the town of Nixon. There also were showers here and there in East Texas.

Rainfall amounts Sunday ran as high as 1.09 inches at the Beaumont-Port Arthur airport station. Houston measured .73, Tyler .47, Lufkin .44 and Longview .16.

As usual, the turbulence built up after a day of temperatures reaching well into the 90s at most points and topping 100 degrees at several. Rain-cooled Beaumont was an exception with a high of 85.

The mercury climbed to 100 at Austin, 101 at Del Rio, 102 at San Angelo and Wink 104.

Forecasts looked for clear to partly cloudy skies and more warm weather the next couple of days with occasional showers continuing in Southeast Texas and near the Upper and Middle Texas Coast.

Long range predictions, for the period through next Friday, held out prospects for even less moisture and possibly higher temperatures.

Experts To Debate Solar System

HOUSTON (AP) — The world's foremost authorities will debate questions on the dynamics of the origin and future of the solar system, the motion of the moon and the million-year behavior of our and other galaxies.

Dr. Victor Szebehely, professor of aerospace engineering and engineering mechanics at the University of Texas, has received a $25,000 grant from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to conduct an advanced study institute in dynamical astronomy in Europe.

The university's Center for Celestial Mechanics is cosponsoring the institute which will deal with the motion of natural and celestial objects such as planets, satellites and stars.

Cotton To Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than three million acres of cotton will be checked this summer by persons trained to identify and count insects, the Agriculture Department reports.

These people will walk down cotton rows on a regular schedule to provide growers the pest population information they need to time insecticide applications properly. The department said use of this information is expected to reduce production costs and reduce environmental impact.

"Total acreage of cotton planted in 1972 has been estimated at 13.7 million acres, which means that about 25 per cent of the acreage is being scouted by private consultants, growers and extension-trained scouts to accurately determine the degree of insect infestation and the need for insecticide use," said Dr. John Thomas, Extension Service entomologist.

He said the major cotton states responded rapidly to establish scouting programs to take part in the pest management program for which the Agriculture Department has funded $2.3 million for a three-year period. A total of 1,363 scouts have been trained this year.

Wrong Clink

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Police said Ivory Ferguson learned Sunday that slapping a policeman would satisfy his desire to get put in jail. Unfortunately, it was the wrong clink.

Officer David Blough said Ferguson flagged him down at an intersection and asked, "What's the penalty for slapping a policeman?"

Blough replied, "Well, you'll probably get some time in jail."

The officer said Ferguson promptly slapped him on the face. Minutes later, he was handcuffed and in Blough's squad car en route to jail.

Sgt. Daniel Major said Ferguson was one of three men who were injured last week when an assailant threw caustic lye in their faces. He said Ferguson "wanted to go to the Sarasota County jail so he could get the guy who threw lye in his face."

Ferguson was charged with assault and locked in a cell in the city jail from which he had a good view of the county jail — 50 yards away.

Spiro Watch Is Modified

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mrs. Thomas Eagleton, wife of the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, is sporting a modified Spiro Agnew wristwatch.

Barbara Eagleton showed the watch to newsmen here Friday. Pasted over the face of Agnew on the watch is a photo of Sen. Thomas Eagleton.

Beaten Youth On Critical List

CHICAGO (AP)—It will be a while before Joseph J. O'Shea, 11, can get out of his hospital bed and attend a Chicago White Sox baseball game again.

The youngster was still on the critical list Sunday, five days after two youths invaded his South Side home and beat him.

He suffered a shattered jaw, a broken cheekbone, severe eye injuries and head lacerations. The boy told police he was beaten with a telephone, which his attackers ripped from the wall.

Making matters worse, Jose suffers from a hemophilia-like sickness called Christmas disease. The boy has a deficiency of one of the blood clotting elements, Factor IX, and he bleeds profusely from even the slightest wound.

Dr. Peter J. Talso, medical director of Little Company of Mary Hospital in suburban Evergreen Park, said there was a fear of complications from the disease.

The youth's father, Joseph B. O'Shea, said Joe spoke a few words Sunday.

"All he wants is to get out and see a White Sox game before the season ends," the father said. "He's got two heroes: Pitcher Wilbur Wood and outfielder Carlos May."

In the meantime, an eye specialist was being brought in today to determine if Joe has suffered any damage to his eyesight. His left eye has been closed since the assault.

Joe had been left alone in the O'Shea house for the evening. He was discovered by his mother in a pool of blood.

The house had been ransacked. A fire started in the rear of the home was doused.

Joe was able to make photo identifications of two suspects Sunday. One was arrested and the other was being sought.

Police said the arrested boy, 12, already had been charged in the June 2 burning-match torture of a 7-year-old. He was charged Sunday in a delinquency petition with armed robbery, attempted murder, aggravated battery and arson.

Father, Son Drown In Canal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Lawrence Tealer, 39, of Corpus Christi tried in vain to save his young son and both drowned Sunday evening in the Intracoastal Canal.

The father, watching from the beach, saw a raft carrying Lawrence Jr., 6, drift from Corpus Christi Bay into the canal's swift current and tip over, spilling the youngster into the water.

Tealer hurriedly tried to swim after his son, only to be pulled under after him. Police recovered the bodies about two hours later.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

This is the time of the year when many people like to hit the open road. A growing number of these vacationers use recreational vehicles in their travels to the quiet spots away from it all.

Most of the vehicles are equipped with propane gas appliances. While the propane gas cooking, heating and refrigeration systems are a real convenience for the modern traveler, there are some common safety precuations which should be taken.

I would like to point out that propane is perfectly safe under normal conditions. But, should leaks occur, it can be highly explosive. And if the propane gas system in the recreational vehicle is not properly maintained, then these vehicles can definitely be very hazardous.

You should check to see that all propane connections are well sealed, but do not overtighten since this could split the joints and cause a gas leak.

The LP gas containers should be mounted outside the vehicle. Be sure that both top and bottom of compartments for LP gas containers are ventilated and completely sealed off from the interior of the vehicle.

All valves should be turned off during travel. Vibrations can cause gas connections to loosen allowing gas to leak.

If you smell propane gas, air the vehicle. Never light a match under these conditions and be sure all pilot lights are turned off when gas leaks are present.

Check for proper venting of all appliances. Be sure there is adequate air for appliances to function correctly and for occupants to breathe.

Use common sense and learn how to handle your vehicle with safety. Drive carefully and insure that your return will be as pleasant as your departure.

Garbage Pipeline Is Developed

NEW YORK (AP) — The days of bickering over whose turn it is to take out the garbage may soon be over.

A pneumatic pipeline system developed in Sweden to carry refuse from housing complexes to central waste processing facilities is being used effectively in several countries, reports the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

Such systems are being installed in the U.S. at Disney World in Florida and in an apartment development in New Jersey, the institute says. The systems operate on the same principle as the pneumatic tubes sometimes used in banks and department stores.

The institute says that such systems will facilitate the economics of recycling by cutting down on the high cost of collecting garbage by traditional methods.

An acre of growing trees in a commercial forest consumes 14 tons of carbon dioxide a year, gives off four tons of oxygen and produces four tons of new wood, according to the American Forest Institute.

Black Group Nix Eagleton

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine black leaders who held a secret caucus here have agreed that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton should step down as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson said after the Sunday night meeting that the group had concluded that "blacks feel that Sen. Eagleton has got to go."

Jackson, president of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), last week called on Eagleton to get off the ticket after the Missouri senator disclosed that he had been hospitalized three times for psychological therapy.

Dr. Carlton Goodlet, president of the National Negro Publishers' Association, said Eagleton's failure to tell Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, of his previous psychiatric history weakens the ticket's image on the "credibility issue."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said the meeting was called to show support for Jackson, who is feuding with Mayor Richard J. Daley over influence in the Illinois campaign.

Jackson was a leader of the challenge delegation which ousted Daley and 58 other uncommitted Illinois delegates from their seats at the Democratic National Convention.

Stokes said Jackson's victory at the Miami convention was "symptomatic of nationwide black political assertiveness. Those of us who are part of that movement insist that his achievements not be violated."

Harrelson Leaves UN With Many Memories

Editor's Note—Max Harrelson came out of Arkansas to be a reporter in New York and then an AP reporter in Europe in the '30s. Assigned to U.N. headquarters in 1946, he has been AP's chief correspondent there 22 years. Retiring this week, he recalls some high-spots and personalities of U.N. history.

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. charter, written during the final months of World War II, set forth goals reflecting the rhetoric of war-weary leaders who dreamed of a just and peaceful world.

A generation later the world organization is still here although many of its hopes remain unfulfilled and its charter is battered.

Whether it will save "succeeding generations from the scourge of war" remains to be seen, but it certainly has provided a stage for a parade of world figures who engaged in an unending war of words.

Looking back over a quarter century, I remember the drama provided by these personalities. Some are recalled for their antics, but there also were the tense moments when representatives of the superpowers confronted each other while the world seemed to teeter on the brink of an abyss.

In 1946 I sat in the gallery as Andrei Gromyko, then a youthful-looking 37, gathered his papers and walked out of a Security Council meeting.

I saw a black cat walk across the rostrum in Paris while Anthony Eden was addressing the General Assembly.

I saw Henry Cabot Lodge startle the Security Council by displaying a large wooden eagle which he said had been bugged while mounted behind the desk of U.S. Ambassador Averell Harriman in Moscow.

The list of personalities who have appeared at the United Nations reads like a world who's who: Adlai Stevenson ... Andrei Vishinsky ... Fidel Castro ... Che Guevara ... Nikita Khrushchev ... Jawaharla Nehru ... Pope Paul VI ... Tito ... Queen Elizabeth II of England ... Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia ... Golda Meir ... Nasser ... most of the recent prime ministers of Britain and France ... and every president of the United States from Harry Truman on.

No one will forget how Khrushchev kept the General Assembly in an uproar for an entire month in 1960 with his shoe-pounding act and other antics.

Of course many incidents had small significance. There was the time the Shah of Iran started reading a speech before the Assembly and got well along in the opening salutation before he realized he was reading the text of another address scheduled for a group of businessmen. He met the crisis by folding his manuscript, pulling the other one from his pocket and remarking simply: "Wrong speech."

There was a more dramatic incident when the Indian delegate, V.K. Khrishna Menon, fainted while taking part in a Security Council meeting. Menon was famous at U.N. headquarters not only as the man who made the longest speech in the organization's history—something over seven hours—but also for the frequency of his interventions. His readiness to speak on any occasion led one wit to observe, as the U.N. doctor worked over Menon's limp form: "If they would just wave a microphone before his face, he would sit up immediately and start talking."

Most deeply etched in my memory is the image of the regulars—the diplomats who represented their governments in the day-to-day debate and whose personalities became identified with weighty decisions.

There is no doubt that Adlai Stevenson ranks high among these. In my opinion the two-time presidential nominee was the most witty and the most eloquent of the thousands of diplomats I heard speak during 26 years at the United Nations.

At the height of the Cuban missile crisis in 1962 he broke the tension in the Security Council by telling a joke.

It was during this debate that Stevenson told Soviet Ambassador Valerian Zorin that he was ready to wait "until hell freezes over" for a yes or no answer as to whether the Soviet Union had placed offensive missiles in Cuba.

Later on, defending the U.S. naval quarantine of Cuba, Stevenson quoted an Abraham Lincoln story about a passer-by who was charged by a farmer's ferocious boar.

Here is the way Stevenson told it: "The man picked up a pitchfork and met the boar head on. The boar died, and the irate farmer denounced the passer-by and asked him why he didn't use the blunt end of the pitchfork, and the man replied: Why didn't the boar attack me with his blunt end?"

Stevenson's 4½ years as chief U.S. delegate—terminated by his unexpected death in 1965—were not always happy ones for him although they were exciting for the public and his colleagues.

He was saddened by President Lyndon B. Johnson's policies on Vietnam and by his own inability to help end the war. He also was disillusioned by the performance of the United Nations which he had strongly supported from the beginning.

Just a few days before his death he expressed his disappointment. At the 20th anniversary session he said: "In the bright glow of 1945 too many looked to the United Nations for the full and final answer to world peace. And in retrospect that day may seem to have opened with the hint of a false dawn."

Going back a bit before Stevenson's appearance in 1961, one of the big attractions was the battling of the "cold warriors"—notably John Foster Dulles, Dean Acheson and Lodge on one side, and Jacob Malik, Vishinsky and Gromyko on the other.

Dulles and Acheson joined the fray only occasionally, during General Assembly sessions. The others fought long and furiously over the years.

The dour Gromyko has outlasted them all, serving as the Soviet Union's first permanent representative and in recent years attending assembly sessions as foreign minister.

Malik, now back at the United Nations for a second tour as Soviet delegate, proudly claims the record for casting more vetoes than any other individual. Many still talk about his performance as president of the Security Council in August 1950, when he paralyzed the council for a month by parliamentary maneuvering.

Vishinsky and Lodge were the most colorful of the group and the most talented in the use of invective and other cold war weapons. A Soviet foreign minister, Vishinsky already was famous for his sharp tongue when Lodge became President Dwight D. Eisenhower's U.N. representative in 1953. Shortly afterward Vishinsky became Soviet delegate and for two years, until his death at the end of 1954, the sparks flew.

Both Lodge and Vishinsky knew how to slug it out and how to grab a headline, although their backgrounds could not have been more different.

Vishinsky as a veteran Bolshevik revolutionary had served as prosecutor in one of Stalin's ruthless purges. Lodge is the handsome and aristocratic descendant of Boston's Cabot clan, grandson of the Henry Cabot Lodge who helped block U.S. entry into the League of Nations.

Typical of Vishinsky's style was a speech he made as foreign minister during the 1951 General Assembly session in Paris.

Commenting on a Western proposal outlined by President Truman, calling for a census of all nuclear and other weapons, Vishinsky said it reminded him of the English saying that "the mountain has brought forth a mouse."

"I will amend this," he said, "only by saying that it brought forth a still-born mouse."

Referring to Truman he added: "After reading this speech I could not get to sleep all night—because I was choking with laughter. I am not by nature given to laughter, but even on this platform—although I am refraining from laughter—I am unable to restrain my irony over this sensational peace offensive by which the United States delegation hoped to wrest the initiative from the Soviet Union. I trust they will accept our congratulations."

Pair Weds On Mountain Top

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — More than 400 persons witnessed a wedding Sunday at the summit of Mt. Adams after completing the seventh annual mass ascent of the 12,307-foot peak, a spokesman for the climbers said.

The Rev. Ronald Leder of Sunnyside, Wash., officiated at the ceremony in which Jennie Tablott, 23, of Virginia, was married to Barry Reed, 22, of Yakima.

Climbers began the ascent at 2 a.m. Sunday and reached the summit about noon. The climb was led by Orne Daiber, 64, of Bothell, Wash., a veteran Northwest mountaineer. The oldest person to make the ascent was 74-year-old Ross Messer of Naches, Wash. The youngest were three 7-year-olds.

SAYS API PRESIDENT

Energy Shortage Calls For Consumer Discipline

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the American Petroleum Institute says the nation's energy shortage problem calls for consumer discipline.

"But it is not the full answer," says Frank N. Ikard of Washington, adding that only increased oil and gas reserves and the development of new supplies of low-sulphur coal can solve the problem.

"Even if Americans stopped using all household appliances tomorrow—all washers, dryers, vacuums, toasters, electric and gas ranges, all of these appliances—our national saving in energy would be only 11 per cent of the total," says the former Texas Congressman.

A study report just released by the energy economics division of the Chase Manhattan Bank agrees.

Chase Manhattan's "Outlook for Energy in the United States to 1985" acknowledges there have been recommendations in some quarters that the United States should curb its use of energy as a means of alleviating the shortage of supply.

"However, an analysis of the uses of energy reveals little scope for major reductions without harm to the nation's economy and its standard of living," the report says.

"The great bulk of the energy is utilized for essential purposes—as much as two-thirds is for business related reasons. And most of the remaining third serves essential private needs."

The report states it is conceivable the use of energy for such recreational purposes as vacation travel and the viewing of television might be reduced but not without widespread economic and political repercussions.

"There are some minor uses of energy that could be regarded as strictly nonessential but their elimination would not permit any significant savings," the report continues.

"In an emergency, of course, there would be no alternative to a reduction in the use of energy. But, curbing consumption at other times would represent no more than a temporary expediency that would have the unwanted effect of lessening the incentive to find a lasting solution to the problem of an adequate energy supply."

Ikard said it is hardly realistic to think people will elect to consume less energy in the future.

"Those who have it will want more, and those who don't will direct all their efforts toward getting their share of it," he said.

The Chase Manhattan report says a lasting solution to the problem of an adequate energy supply must be found because, without enough energy in the future, the United States could not possibly retain its foremost rank.

"There is no basis for thinking a lasting solution is impossible," the report continues.

"Actually, there are sound reasons for believing the United States has within reach vast energy resources. Although the proved reserves of petroleum—both oil and natural gas—are small relative to future needs, geologists believe there is a potential for finding a great deal more, particularly in offshore areas. How much more actually remains to be found, no one really knows. And the answer cannot be known without a truly exhaustive search."

Denver was founded after prospectors located gold in the area during the Pike's Peak gold rush of 1858.

Third Party Platform Panel Meets Tonight

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Party's platform committee meets tonight to start drafting, among other things, a specific proposal to halt school busing.

William Shearer of La Mesa, Calif., cochairman of the committee, said he was not sure whether the final proposal will call for a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing or a federal law achieving the same goal.

He said Alabama Gov. George Wallace has endorsed the constitutional route, yet also has said an amendment takes a long time.

"And of course if you try a federal statute you're not sure it will work," he said.

Another key proposal before the platform committee will be the election of U. S. Supreme Court justices.

Shearer said "periodic confrontation with voters" is necessary to "oust those who run roughshod" over the Constitution.

The cochairman also indicated he would try to insert a "negative stand" against President Nixon's attempt to improve relations with Red China and Soviet Russia—on the ground it is premature while those countries aid North Vietnam.

The platform and credentials committees will meet for the next three days. The American Party convention starts Thursday and ends Saturday night.

About 2,000 delegates and alternates from 45 states are expected for the proceedings in Freedom Hall at the State Fairgrounds a few miles South of downtown Louisville.

Wallace's announcement he would not head a third party ticket in November left delegates with the option of trying to draft him or turning to other prospects.

The American Party was formed in 1969 from groups which supported the Alabama governor's presidential bid in 1968.

Some insiders said a draft appeared unlikely and that U.S. Rep. John Schmitz of California, defeated for renomination last month in a Republican primary, had the inside track for the nomination Friday.

Schmitz, from Santa Ana is a member of the John Birch Society. He is a 41-year-old former Marine pilot.

Schmitz congressional office at Washington said he would attend at least part of the convention.

Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, another presidential prospect, is scheduled to address delegates Friday.

Actively campaigning is Richard Kay, a Cleveland lawyer who helped defend Lt. William Calley.

Hot Weather Slows Work At Airport

DALLAS (AP) — Summer temperatures have slowed concrete pouring at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and the delay might keep 45 on-site contractors from earning a total $20 million they expected.

Since contractors are paid as they complete work, the construction slowdown has delayed progress and paychecks.

"We must get up to $18-$20 million in monthly contract earnings to meet our scheduled on opening the airport in mid-July 1973," said Ernest E. Dean, deputy executive director of engineering.

Dean told the airport board recently that July monthly earnings were at $14 million but would reach $20 million by August, September or October.

Dean said that because the maximum tolerable temperature for pouring concrete is 85 degrees, pouring is now being done between midnight and mid-morning. Daytime schedules will be resumed in the fall.

Dean said he didn't think the pouring delay would postpone the airport opening. As he put it, "We'll be in good shape in a couple of months." The concrete work is chiefly for the runways and taxiways at the giant airport.

Papers Trial Stalled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon Papers trial is stalled over a complicated wiretapping issue, and the defense says it will oppose any government attempt to cancel a delay that has been granted in the case.

"There is a profoundly important constitutional question," U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said in granting the 30-day delay.

The Justice Department said it would petition the Supreme Court to set aside Douglas' ruling.

The delay was to give the defense time to ask the full Supreme Court for a review of defense claims that wiretapping information should be revealed in open court.

The Supreme Court is on vacation and not scheduled to meet again until October. The U. S. solicitor general, Erwin Griswold, said after Douglas' ruling Saturday that he would not ask the court to reconvene but would "leave it up to the chief justice on how he wants to handle it."

The government charges Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo with espionage, theft and conspiracy in connection with the leak to newspapers of the classified Pentagon Papers, which concern U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The defense contends that officials routinely leak classified material to newsmen and that Ellsberg and Russo, former Rand Corp. researchers, are being prosecuted because of their antiwar views.

The government has admitted that its agents overheard a phone call involving a defense lawyer or consultant. But prosecutors, the trial judges and eventually the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals refused to tell the defense who was overhead or what the wiretapping was about. The government said the wiretap involved a "foreign intelligence installation" and that it was authorized only by the attorney general, not by a judge.

IRS Has Some Blind Agents

Cambridge, Mass. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has service representatives who are blind, but a new computer device may help them "see" as well as their sighted colleagues.

The service representatives field telephone queries from taxpayers, and get their information from a regional computer.

Up to now, the blind service representative has had a sighted coworker read him the information.

But the device now being tested at Little Rock, Ark., hooks up to IRS computers to produce a printout embossed in braille on heavy paper.

The braille printout device was developed at the Sensory Aids Evaluation and Development Center at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The computers, which serve multiple functions, are being installed in IRS offices across the country to replace written records.

If the blind-aiding device proves successful, its use will be extended to others of the 48 IRS regional offices.

COLOR FOR FOOTBALL SEASON—Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle D. Strickland of Strickland's T.V. Service, 2413 College Avenue, have a showroom full of Motorola Quasars, the scientific color set with the "works in a drawer." A season of football is approaching and a Quasar would make it even more exciting for you.

Strickland's Is Dealer For Motorola Quasar

The Quasar is television with Insta-Matic color tuning that automatically balances color hue, intensity, brightness, and contrast with the touch of one button.

Motorola has eliminated all tubes in the chassis through a system of solid state circuitry. The chassis is contained in a drawer that slides forward, making the circuit modules readily accessible for service. Usually all repairs are as simple as plugging in a new module, and in most cases repair is done right in the home. This saves you, the customer valuable time and money. You won't miss that crucial Cowboy game while your set is in the shop.

Another feature of Motorola is the dependability and workmanship of all the Quasar models, from console to portable. The famous solid state circuitry is in them all, regardless of size or price range. Motorola does not compromise on quality and they back this quality with the best guarantee in the business. Labor is guaranteed for a full year and parts are guaranteed for two years.

Hoyle D. Strickland, owner, is an authorized dealer and serviceman, and has had the Motorola franchise for only five months. In that short period of time he and his wife Pauline have done a prosperous business; and have been awarded by the Motorola company a free trip to Mexico City.

Strickland's also sells and repairs all makes of used televisions and offers a rental service on a weekly basis. New and used radios and stereos are also sold. Motorola and Capehart consoles and even tape decks for your car or boat are sold at Strickland's. If your radio or stereo needs repair then Strickland's can fix it. Free pickup and delivery of your television or stereo is just another service of Strickland's.

This weekend Mr. Strickland will attend a seminar in Dallas sponsored by the Texas Electronics Association. The annual seminar will deal with quick service techniques. By attending such seminars Mr. Strickland stays on top of the latest service techniques so that he may better serve his Snyder customers.

With the football season approaching, you're bound to get the color TV fever. When you do, be sure to come by Strickland's TV Service. They're open 9 a.m. through 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday. The Motorola Quasar with its "works in a drawer, its solid state circuit modules for dependability and easier service, and its unique one touch Insta'Matic color tuning is just the television that could make your viewing more enjoyable. Strickland's has a large supply of the Quasars, but if by chance they don't have exactly what you want, they can order it for you.

So call 573-6942, or come by 2413 College Avenue and see for yourself the difference that Quasar offers you.

Snapper Mowers Part Of Cox Key Services

The name Cox Service may imply to you a business dealing with the locksmith trade, and you'd be correct, but only partially. Cox Key Service, owned by L.R. Cox and located at 1411 College Avenue, has offered to Snyder many additional services for over 20 since 1949.

In addition to making keys, Cox, who is a bonded locksmith and member of the Insured Locksmiths and Safe-men of America, sells all kinds of locks—house locks, pad locks, and cam locks or locks for desks and drawers. Cox can also make keys from your locks by either the impression method or code number. He carries one of the largest stocks of key blanks in west Texas, including every type and brand. Luggage keys are also stocked and can be made for your piece luggage or travel equipment.

Perhaps one of the best bonuses of Cox's business is his dealership of Snapper lawn mowers and the lawn equipment. The Snapper is the mower with the exhaust and basket positioned on top of the mower and between the handles rather than on the side like conventional mowers. This improved design give the Snapper a balanced construction and provides for smoother cutting. Because of the Sanpper's vacuum effect, your yard will look very much like a carpet.

Another advantage of this unique construction is the improved maneuverability of the mower. When you come to a bump or rise in your yard, the Snapper conforms to the terrain.It won't bog down or catch on that bump like mowers with side baskets. Getting into corners, next to curbs and fences, and mowing around trees and shrubbery are also made easier because of the Snapper's body design. Because of these many advantages your yard won't have sections of unequal length. It will be somooth, even, and well trimmed rather than a hacked or chopped.

Other types of mowers are are also sold along with all types of small engine for lawn mowers, tillers, and garden equipment. Sometimes used mowers are available, and new blades for lawn mowers are also stocked.

If your lawn mower needs repair or needs to be sharpened, bring it to Cox Key Service. You can't always find this service available, but Cox has been repairing and sharpening every type of mower, even the reel type, for years. He also sharpens saws and scissors.

You'd be surprised at the additional services that are offered by Cox Key Service. So now when you hear the name Cox Key Service, think not only of keys, but of locks, lawn mowers, repairs, blades, small engines, and the sharpening of blades and tools. Then when you have something you need done, come by 1411 College Avenue and see if Cox can help you. Business hours are 8:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and the business phone number is 573-5150.
