Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, Feb. 29.—The opening of the market this morning found 1,500 cattle yarded for Monday's trade, with practically nothing in sight to increase the day's supply above this mark. In a general way the quality of the offering was good, with a fair demand salariness were able to obtain steady prices with last week's close.

Choice heavy fed steers, averaging 1,142 pounds, sold at $2.70; heavy well-fatted steers at $2.50; and the light medium early weight kinds at $2.50; 2.80.

Cows sold steady with a top of $2.50 for good fed butcher cows, averaging 1,322 pounds; medium butcher stock at $2.25, and the ordinary run of common light thin cows and canners at $1.50; 1.85.

Calves showed up in good proportion and found an active demand at last week's prices. Choice light veal calves brought $5, with the bulk at $3.45.

Bulls sold slow at current quotations.

At the hog division of the yards trading was slow and dull at a decline of 1c to 2c with the market in rather an erratic condition. The indifference of buyers was due largely to the heavy supply, which including live arrivals, reached the 3,000 mark.

Best heavy hogs found more favor with the packers, and sold slow at 5c to 6c, with a top of 32.50 for those weighing 375 pounds. Medium weight good quality hogs, sold at 25c to 30c, and pigs and butts at $1.00; 2.50.

The approximately run of hogs for this month, including the previous month's stock, shows the total opening of live hog packeries here.

There has been no feed wheat for the range sheep process. There has been enough snow in the country to supply the sheep wintering there and the other winter ranges have hardly had enough to cover the ground. Thus far there have been practically no losses and winter may come for the two months left will hardly change the situation. There are a few spots where crowded ranges continue to cause trouble, and others where more moisture would be welcomed, but on the whole the range-man has little complaint to offer. Prices have been holding up fairly well, but there is, of course, nothing moving to the extent of the present time as far as sheep is concerned, and trade talk is more in relation to the outlook than to actual transactions at the present time. The fact that the feed lot stuff is being fairly satisfactory prices, however, is reflected on the range as an indication that there will be a good market for lambs next fall, for when the feeder makes money he will try to get and only when he has been a feeder for some time does he lose his hat.

There has been considerable complaint of crop in the San Angelo country and the disease seems to be much more prevalent by some ranchmen. It is estimated by some ranchmen that the disease is met with only on high, hilly land, but this is contradicted by sheepmen who claim that the disease is present to a considerable extent along the valley and

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

An Austin dispatch says the plans of President Youkin of the Prisoners' conference for the purpose of arriving at an amicable settlement of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass, M. V. Yorkum conferred with the Texas railroad commission regarding the matter and advised the commission that the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico road will be built 50 per cent to Brownsville. He asked the commission if it would be satisfied as a basis of settlement of its complaint against the San Antonio and Aransas Pass if that company accepted its 50 per cent of bonds, thereby foregoing the requirement that it extend its line to Brownsville. It is Chairman L. J. Storey's opinion that the San Antonio and Aransas Pass does not necessarily have to build its own line to Brownsville to comply with its obligation to the commission. He says that the same object may be obtained by it being purchased by the Pisco and going into Brownsville over the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico.

NOTES AND PROVISIONS

Charles Leslimier, train dispatcher of the International and Great Northern, headquarters at Mari, is in the city today.

Traveling Passenger Agent A. M. Hill of the Katy, was in the city today from Dallas. He reports business over the Katy as being first class.

R. E. Logan, traveling freight agent of the Rock Island at Dallas; Charles G. Gilling, commercial agent, Houston; T. H. Wilbur, commercial agent, San Antonio; and E. M. Glendon, commercial agent, Dallas, all representing the great Rock Island system, are in Fort Worth today, making their regular monthly visit to headquarters of the company.

W. E. Hoffman announces that there will be a riding and roping contest given at Haines' Park on March 8, 9 and 10, during the cattlemen's convention and fat stock show. Mr. Hoffman makes this announcement to correct the report circulated that there would be no roping and riding during the convention.

The largest cow ever received at the local market was brought in today for exhibition at the Fat Stock show. This cow weighs between 1,700 and 1,750 pounds and if well fattened would easily weigh 2,400 pounds. This animal is of ordinary breed and has no qualities of any of the leading grades of fancy live stock.

OLD-FASHIONED STOMACHACHE

Keep your stomach right and the chances are you will enjoy good health. Stomach troubles are easily cured if you know how. The great mistake people make is in trying to relieve Dyspepsia and indigestion instead of curing them. Artificial pepsin and soda preparations simply assist in digestion.

Floyd's Dyspepsia Tablets DO CURE—they tone up the weakened organs—supply new life to the debilitated stomach and give perfect health through perfect digestion. The first tablet gives relief, and if after a reasonable length of time you are not positively cured we will return every cent you have spent for Floyd's Tablets. Two days' treatment will be sent free. 50 large tablets 50c, at druggists' or by mail.

DAKOTA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Last night the special train upon which members of the Dakota Press Association had been making a tour of the state, passed through this city on its return trip to the north, several weeks having been spent by the party in this state and California.

All the members of the party were enthusiastic about Texas and said that although prepared for surprises upon coming here were not prepared for the surprises they met. "With a state big enough for an empire and a hustling, busy population no one can realize the possibilities of the future here," said a member of the party.

J. H. Zimmerman, owner of the Shoe-Bar ranch in the Panhandle, has sold his 2-year-old steers for spring delivery to a Kansas buyer at $20 around. NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Fort Worth Telegram will be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given at the office, 1010 and 1012 Houston street, Fort Worth.

IN OUR NEW HOME This issue of The Telegram is published at the new location, corner of Eighth and Throckmorton streets, where the new home of the paper has been erected. The Telegram Company, having confidence in the future of Fort Worth, has built a handsome building which it will occupy, and while it is not as great an investment as that put into the office building of the Fort Worth National Bank, it is just as important comparatively as is that improvement.

The publisher of The Telegram has come to this city and invested capital he brought with him. It is in no sense home capital which has gone into this new building and the new and improved plant. The Telegram has been built by outside capital, and therefore Fort Worth is benefited by the coming of more money to this city. No Fort Worth concern has been asked to contribute to the making of the newspaper, except that all have been asked to investigate the merits of the paper as an advertising medium, and patronize it according to that merit. The paper and all its attaches are proud of the home it now occupies, and the word goes out to the people that this is but a beginning of the expansion which it is expected will follow.

THE SUN AND MR. ROOSEVELT.

There is no indication that the New York Sun will give its support to President Roosevelt in the coming campaign. The Sun has been for Hanna all the time. For months it has done all it could to urge the late senator from Ohio to take the field against the present incumbent of the executive chair. To Mr. Hanna that paper pinned its faith, and had he lived it is believed by many that he would have yielded to the pleadings of those in his party who sought to take the organization from an endorsement of the "man on horseback" now in the White House. The republican party does not endorse the Roosevelt policy. It is strictly a Roosevelt brand of government, and it does not compete with the honesty which is preferred by the rank and file of the republicans. The Sun, in comment, says:

When Mr. Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency Mark Hanna gave him his unflinching support. The president's generous impulses, when he pledged himself to carry out the policies of William McKinley, won his heart, and he proclaimed his staunch adherence to Mr. Roosevelt's fortunes, so long as he should adhere to that course. He kept his word. But when he found that Mr. Roosevelt had forgotten all about the promise, so drastically and so effectively uttered at Buffalo, and had no other thought but to convert the whole power of his great office to securing his own nomination, then Mark Hanna halted. He said the Constitution delegated to him the duty of rights ignored, lawlessness, prostituted, class arrayed against class, greed and distrust, showed where had been peace and confidence, and the patronage dispensed with an eye single for what it would secure.

These and many other things he saw, and in common with all patriotic republicans and all men of sound principles and good sense, he deeply deplored them. And Mark Hanna no longer adhered to Mr. Roosevelt. He thought he was not a safe man to be entrusted with the duties of the president of the United States. He did not know what he might do when he entered upon the presidential office after four years with none of the restraints upon him that the necessity of being elected might impose by the consequences of inherent obligations. He thought Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy implied a condition of uncertainty. If not of actual peril, to which the country ought not to be exposed. And Mark Hanna held aloof.

This is a very strong indictment of the president by one of the leading newspapers pers of the country. That it will have an effect there is no doubt, and it is an argument which will have an effect in the coming campaign. The voter will read this, and remembering that the Sun has always been a devoted supporter of the cause of the republican party, will stop before he exercises his suffrage in behalf of one who is so strongly condemned by one of the leading papers of the nation.

THE POSTAL FRAUDS.

In the World's Work, an article by M. G. Cuniff presents a new phase of the postal frauds. He insists that the real postoffice scandal is the price paid by the government for carrying the mails. He shows that the sum paid by the government for this purpose is greater than that paid by all the rest of the world. As evidenced by the official records, 35 per cent of all matter mailed in this country requires railroad carriage, and the proportion abroad is not less. Yet the cost of our mail transportation is greater than that of the rest of the world, while our freight and passenger rates are cheaper to individuals than in any other country.

Here is Mr. Cuniff's showing:

In 1921, according to the latest statistics of the International Postal Union, Great Britain, France and Germany alone sent to speak of the other countries, mailed more than 2,000,000,000 pieces of matter, as compared with more than 7,000,000,000 pieces mailed in the United States.

The other countries of the world, omitting Great Britain, had 18,000 miles of post-routes more than we. Great Britain's post-routes added to this total would make the difference even greater. Thus, notwithstanding the cheapness of American railroad rates on other traffic than mail, foreign postoffices, taken all together, handle yearly more mail than we, and it further over a greater number of routes and pay less for the service. It cost our government in 1921, in round numbers, $24,000,000 for railroad transportation under the rest of the world for all their domestic transportation, by railroad, by wagon and by messengers, paid but $37,000,000—$1,500,000 less.

The United States postoffice department reports a deficit for last year of $4,000,000. The real deficit is about $1,000,000 greater, for in the peculiar bookkeeping used in recording postal accounts, the salaries of the postoffice department, the rent of large city postoffices and other postal items are not charged as postal expenses. But even at $4,000,000 the postal deficit is a national disgrace when we consider the inadequacies of the postal service. It is caused in the main by the inordinate railway mail pay.

The mail contracts with railroads are conducted on a peculiar plan. There is a plan followed, that at certain periods the mails in transportation are weighed and it is upon the basis of these weights that the railway companies are paid. At such times large business interests have been known to assist the railroads by flooding the mails with much literature so that it will bring the weight up to a higher amount than usual, and the railroad companies themselves send out large quantities of mail. This is a trick which is not secretly done, and the result is that the total weight is far above the average. It is a species of fraud, and the people themselves are assistants in carrying it out.

At the druggists' banquet a few nights ago, Dr. Frank Douglas Boyd made an address in response to the toast, "The Press." It is used for a newspaper man to take a fall out of this time-honored "sentiment," but Congressman Grammer, called on Dr. Boyd for the talk, saying that "We all know how valuable is newspaper advertising to the druggists and the doctors, and to all other business interests for that matter." Dr. Boyd discussed the merits of advertising from several standpoints, and while he explained that ethics prevented the practicing physician from entering into a contract by advertising for patients, yet he realized that a business which did not advertise was not giving its best endeavor to get patrons. Dr. Boyd complimented the newspapers of this city, and made a little home industry talk on this line which was to the point.

The entrance of Dr. H. S. Briles into the athletic race in the Seventh ward promised to add interest to that campaign, but the democratic nomination will stand with the people throughout the contest. Alderman Henderson is one of the best men in the council. He has the confidence of all the people, and there is no one who will deny that his efforts have been in the best interests of the city. Dr. Briles came back into the city campaign after an absence of several years. He was mayor of this city at one time, and then he showed up at Houston as one of the prime movers in a good government campaign. He assisted in the organization of a good government club which had for its purpose the revitalizing of the city of Houston.

The ground hog prophesied that six weeks of bad weather would follow February 2 has been disproved. What about the bright sunshine of the present and the pretty moonlight of every night? Great is Texas and pleasant is Texas weather.

The next big thing is the Fort Worth fat stock show and the cattlemen's convention. Let everybody in Texas dress up and come to the chief city of Texas for a few days' pleasure.

The fellow with smallpox generally has all the room he wants and he has it by himself.

Texas can furnish more sorts of weather than any climate on earth, but—did you ever stop to think that she furnishes more of the good sort than any other kind?—Corsicana Courier-Light.

And Texas can be more uncertain about what kind is coming next than any unknown quantity than has ever learned of in the algebra, dear sir.

Four thousand independent telephone companies in the middle west have combined for long distance service.—Granbury News.

You may think talk is cheap, but you will find out it is not when you go against the long distance line.

There is talk of grafting in Texas. Of course there is grafting. The man who is just now discovering it has been sleeping very soundly. When all the legislators of a state have their pockets full of railroad passes and telegraph, telephone and express tickets, there is something doing. No commotion is giving out "don't talk" just for the fun of it.—Denison Herald.

And many of those accepting the courtesies know it is not for fun. The legislators are not the only ones, however, look to your county officers. Brother Thompson, and see if they are not similarly provided.

bed out of a long-term membership in that body. He denounced the trickery on the floor of the senate, and served notice that he was a candidate for lieutenant governor, the presiding officer of that body. He has scarcely begun his campaign as yet, but when he takes the stump it is safe to venture that the people of Texas will be told many things which staff correspondents at Austin of some of the big dailies know, but which the papers, they represent will not print. In the meantime the Journal will give Colonel Henderson assurance that the Jefferson county bond deal will be thoroughly ventilated before the democratic primaries are held in the good old summer time.—Beaumont Journal.

The Telegram does not believe there was any jobbing done in the drawing for the long and short terms, but Colonel Henderson has made enough investigation of state affairs to enable him to tell some very wholesome facts.

The reaction has set in. Jeff McLemore's charges against Governor Latham, as printed in State Topics, are being condemned by a number of state papers and Jeff is charged with being guilty of a desire to get even for certain failures to secure favors from the official, he is condemning. However, some of his charges are true and even if he has made mistakes he has opened a keg of nails and the people are taking a tumble to the fact that certain state officials are guilty of nepotism and other irregularities. All praise to him for his nerve in exposing them so far as he has gone.—Cuero Record.

It does not matter what causes Jeff to make the fight. If he is telling facts it is good for the people that he has fallen out with the administration.

Real dwellings are rather scarce in Denton and have been for some time. With the coming of spring and summer a good many new homes will probably be erected. The population of the town is decidedly on the increase.—Denton County News.

Denton deserves all the prosperity which is promised. It is one of the great North Texas towns.

Text: 'The Soldiers of the United States Army Preserve Their Health and Lives in the Philippines and Cuba by the Use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. On account of change in diet and eating at irregular times food that was often improperly prepared, the soldiers of the United States Army were often subject to serious stomach trouble in Cuba and the Philippines. Their distress and danger were great, but they found relief and a certain safe and positive cure in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. All sufferers from dyspepsia or indigestion likewise find certain relief and cure in this great safe and harmless remedy. The work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is no longer confined to any one country or nation. Their fame and popularity are now world-wide and they are relieving the sufferers of every land. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it. On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their ac-

Politics, Then and Now.

(Copyrighted, 1903, by Wm. R. Miller.)

The Politics of Patriotism and the Politics of the Saloon.

We have in this country our various diversions, recreations and tendencies, but the one interest that takes up the most time and reaches the largest number of people of both sexes is politics. In one way or another it is in every home and at the meeting-places of all our people.

And yet it is the habit to attach to this great matter all the opprobrium and much of the worst language that we can find in human speech. For more years than this country has been a nation it has been said that in politics nothing is contemptible, and our own Emerson, who was probably the most careful man in selecting his words we ever had, declared "Politics is a deleterious profession, like some poisonous handicraft."

It must be confessed that there is more truth in the arraignment than we like to admit. Within the past half century there have arisen conditions which are painful to all lovers of clean government. This is particularly the case in regard to cities. The home of the political worker, the forum of his eloquence and the hatching place of his schemes is the saloon, and the cheap and low-down saloon at that, the resort where the atmosphere and the liquor are as poisonous as the ideas which find expression.

It is idle to discount the hold that the saloon has upon the government which we get in this country. The man who has wasted his life, who is bankrupt in morality, who has failed to do his duty to his family, who has let go of those standards of honor which made him respectable, is always bold enough amid the fumes of alcohol to plot for political power and to use his oratory in behalf of the party to which he may belong and which he seeks to drag down to his own miserable level.

Big political bosses are almost without exception men who are careful of their personal habits. They keep sober because that is the only way they can keep their heads. They hold the power because they do not surrender their mental and physical energies for the cheap gratifications of beer and whiskey.

But, however high they may stand or however luxurious may be the palaces in which they live, the factotums on whom they depend for their ascendancy, the men on whom they stand are the criminals and half criminals in the cheap saloons, who do the dirty work when the party machine is in danger.

These demoralizing conditions have brought their legitimate fruits.

Business competition makes each age a bit more selfish than the other, and politics influenced by this tendency easily develops into that universal desire which we now call "graft."

Recently it was the itching palm; now it is all the fingers grasping for what they can get.

And thus we have the modern dishonesty extending all the way from the garbage man, who extracts fees from the alleys, to the precious scoundrels who have been trying to loot our great postal department.

There are exposures, of course, and there are a few indictments and there is an occasional conviction, but the legal punishment of the political grafter is so infrequent that it scarcely affects the multitude.

Naturally, people with weak souls grow discouraged and helplessly exclaim: "What's the use of trying to stem the tide of corruption? Why should we bother about it? Why not let things take their course and get along as comfortably as they can?"

That is the philosophy of an animal that does not want to be disturbed in its feeding or its sleeping.

So far as comfort was concerned it would have been far better for Washington and the other patriots of the Eighteenth Century to "get along," to bear the evils which came to them from across the sea, to accept the injustice of taxation without representation and to eat three meals a day with the feeling that the land would yield enough until they were ready to die.

But in their case the soul was above the stomach, and they fought their fight and won it, and they built upon their sacrifice a scheme of liberty which vitalized mankind.

In those days the politics that ruled came from the home and the office and the field, and not from the beer tables.

Still, we should not make the contrast too wide or too deep. There are as good men in the country today as there were a hundred and thirty-three years ago. Their ideals are as high and their ambitions as pure. The great trouble is that these excellent ones have found employment in other directions; that they have left politics too much to the baser elements and have failed in the larger duties of party and nation.

Perhaps the largest and most pitiful evil is the widely distributed idea among even good people that crookedness and graft, which are one and the same, are "smart," and that it is "clever" to handle money and power gotten politically, even though tainted by the methods which produced them.

In real business, men would not trust this smartness as far as the front door. In politics they trust it even to the choice seats of the national Legislature.

But a change is coming. For several years it has been well on the way. The base abuse and the intolerable evils which disgraced the campaign of 1886 reached the climax of party excess in the United States. Since that time politics have become cleaner. We can now have Presidential campaigns in which personal vituperation is not the main employment. There is in State and municipal affairs a higher average of argument and conduct.

And the finest hope of all is in the larger participation of young men and in their increasing belief that clean politics offer a career for clean manhood.

More than once within the past decade we have seen unselfish politics rise to the top in national crises. What we need to do is to get this domination in every contest, whether it concerns city, State or nation.

There has been a splendid gain in better municipal government, which was long the weakest point in our system. In at least three of our large cities the improvement has amounted to a revolution, and evil has been made to know that at last decency has secured the upper hand.

We must look for the complete restoration of high ideals in public life to one thing. It is so simple and so familiar that there should be no necessity for mentioning it. If our good people will go to the primaries, will attend the caucus, will control the preliminaries, there will never be any doubt as to their triumph on election day. The gratification is that the good people are doing this, and thus our politics gains each year and our proper pride lifts its head with hope and with joy.

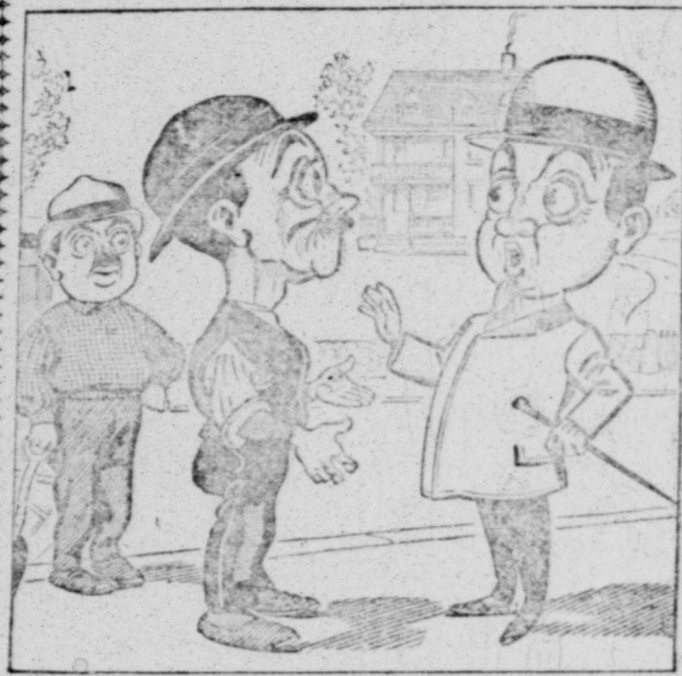

We read in the Old Testament: "Where there is no vision, the people perish."

There is in the United States the vision of clean politics, and the nation will not perish.

Mr. E. Z. Mark Strikes a Bargain in Coal.

1. THE MAN—Mr. Mark, wouldn't you like to buy a lot of the finest coal in the market at five dollars a ton put in your cellar?
MR. E. Z.—FIVE DOLLARS! Good heavens, man, you are up to some flim-flam game.

2. THE MAN—Not a bit, sir. You can watch the coal put in, and if it is not as represented and full weight, you needn't pay for it.
MR. E. Z.—Well, there CAN'T be anything crooked about THAT. I'll take twenty-five tons.

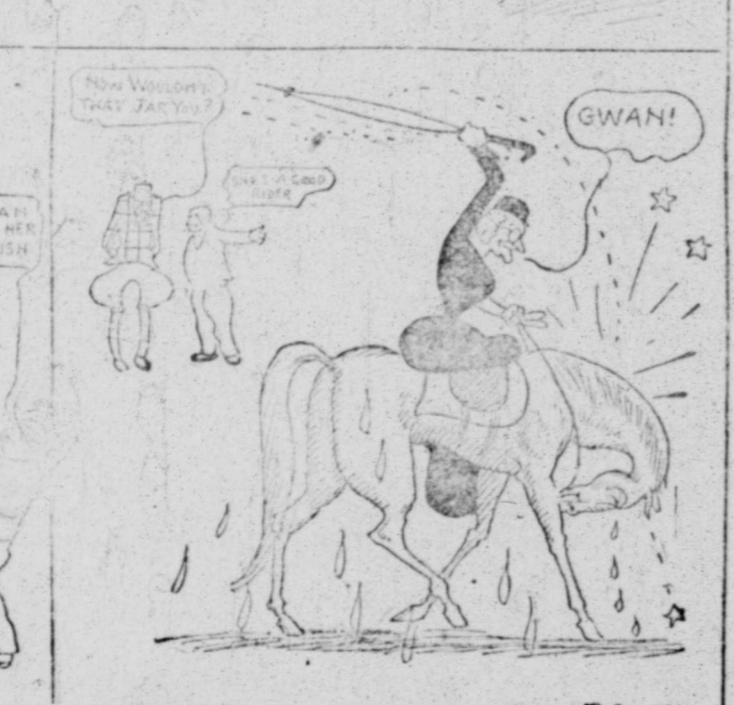

3. MR. E. Z. (some hours later)—Mary, I struck the greatest bargain while you were out. I'm not stuck this time. I put in twenty-five tons of coal at five dollars a ton. I paid the men cash down. Whoop! Whoop!
MAID (entering)—Mr. Mark, there be a man downstairs as wants to see you. He appears to be excited like.

4. IRATE PARTY—Mr. Mark, my name is Klinker, the coal dealer. To-day two men in my employ (who have since decamped), while under orders to deliver twenty-five tons of coal from my yards to a customer, delivered that coal to YOU. I will not say y'u were or were not in the game, but you will pony up seven dollars per ton spot cash for that coal, or I'll have you arrested.
