Workers in Relief Office Sustain Minor Injuries Monday

May Close Office

Office May Be Closed Here Should Further Outbreaks Occur

Horace Finley and J. C. Milam were held in jail today on charges of disturbing peace following an outbreak at the relief office Monday shortly after noon. Charges had also been filed against Mrs. Horace Finley.

Amarillo Officers

Complaints were filed against the three Monday afternoon following the outbreak, in which Miss Winnie Joe Keen, office worker, sustained scratches and bruises. Finley was arrested and placed in jail Monday, but was released Tuesday and went to work with the relief crew. The appearance of officers from Amarillo Tuesday afternoon, however, resulted in the re-arrest of Finley and the arrest of Milam.

May Close Office

A possibility of the state permanently closing the relief office here was seen by John C. Harper, local administrator, should another outbreak occur.

The complaints followed an attack upon Miss Keen as she returned to the office from lunch Monday afternoon, and was reported to have resulted because relief officials refused to grant disbursement orders before Finley had worked on the crew. Mr. and Mrs. Finley contended that they

Seven Broken Hips In One Family

Brother-In-Law Breaks Hip Just As Elmore Dodson Recovers

J. R. "Uncle Rex" Blessing, formerly of this county, is reported to be in a serious condition at Memphis as the result of a broken hip. The accident occurred in March.

this area, having resided here for many years.

As a matter of coincident, Mr. Blessing is a brother-in-law of Elmore Dodson of Dodsonville, who is also recovering at the present time from a broken hip. Mr. Dodson was the sixth member of the family who suffered a broken hip. Mr. Dodson broke his hip while branding a range cow on his ranch near Dodsonville on January 24. Previous to this time his grandmother, brother, two sisters and one of his daughters had suffered broken hips—but not from the same cause. Now Mr. Blessing, a brother-in-law, brings the total to seven members from the same family. Mr. Dodson recently improved to the extent that he is able so be up and to walk around the house.

Local Officials Attend Highway Meeting Monday

No Definite Prospects For Early Letting On Pavement Here

Members of the Commissioners' Court last week attended a meeting for all county judges and commissioners of Texas in Mineral Wells, and discussed the highway allotment for this state.

Those who attended from here were County Judge Luther Gribble, J. D. Hill, M. F. Hunter, W. C. Ketner and W. M. Davis, commissioners. The group reported that the convention voted to send their president and secretary, along with the highway commission of the state, to Washington for the purpose of contacting federal authorities in regard to seeking a hundred million dollar appropriation for Texas highways.

No discussion was brought up concerning any specific road in the state, but the state commission seems to be facing a problem in that their federal allotments must be used with 90 per cent on labor and 10 per cent on materials, while materials run around 60 per cent of the cost in laying pavement.

Although no immediate action has been indicated on the completion of the paving work for highway No. 4 across this county, commissioners feel that all gaps are to be closed before new lettings are made—and for that reason the local road is expected to hold attention as soon as federal aid is received. When the aid will be received and when the letting will be made is still a question to be decided.

Amateur Weather Prophets Are Bolstered By Recent Rainfall In State

Amateur weather prophets who predicted that Texas' record drought of 1934 would be followed by flooding rains can find justification for their faith in the soaking rains that have fallen in many parts of the State this spring.

Weather Bureau experts say that drought years are not necessarily followed by excessive rains the next season. They can point to 1909 and 1910 in Texas, for example, when the State rainfall averaged 7.32 inches below normal in 1909, 9.31 inches below in 1910, 1.64 below in 1911 and 4.65 inches below in 1912. When this long dry spell was broken in 1913 the moisture averaged only 5.28 inches above normal for that year.

A severe drought that was broken by excessive rains, however, was that of 1916-18. In 1916 Texas stations averaged 6.18 inches below normal, in 1917 the average was 14.56 inches below and in 1918 1.87 inches below. The following year, 1919, however, the average rainfall in Texas was 14.56 inches above normal, or nearly 50 percent more than the State average, which is 30.77 inches.

Last year's drought, even though the worst in many years for a large part of the State, did not show a marked deficiency for the State as a whole because some coastal sections had excessive rains. The State average in 1934 was 26.78 inches, 3.99 inches below normal.

Year's Supply Since May Rains since May 1 in Texas have been exceedingly heavy and furnish material for those who argue that heavy rains follow a drought. Uvalde, in South Texas, is a striking example of this. Total rainfall last year was only 16.70 inches, compared with the normal annual of 23.31 inches. But since May 1 Uvalde has received 20 inches, nearly 4 inches more than the entire 1934 rainfall and almost a normal year's supply.

Lamesa, in Dawson County of West Texas, was another drought area last year, receiving only 8.91 inches compared with the normal of 17.85 inches for a year. From May 1 to June 12 this year, however rains have totaled 12.31 inches, nearly 4 inches more than in twelve months last season.

Many Points Flooded Childress, with 12.68 inches since May 1 against 16.78 during the entire year of 1934; Plainview with 9.40 inches since May 1 against 13.75 during 1934; San Antonio, with 21.01 inches, against 27.65 in 1934.

Returning from a party at which he won a goose, Ernest Hirner of Hamlin Township, Mich., discovered that thieves had stolen all of his chickens.

NIGHT and DAY you're safe on CONCRETE

At night the superiority of concrete becomes most apparent because of its visibility. Its light gray surface with sharply defined edges reflects light but is not glossy. Concrete conforms precisely to the formula for the ideal pavement set up by the International Illumination Congress of 1928 and by the Illuminating Engineering Society in 1934. The importance of this is emphasized by the fact that the rate of death per accident is 43% higher during hours of darkness. Concrete, smooth but non-skid, insures a quick, certain stop even in the rain. Blow-outs, spring breakage, steering gear failures, accidents of all kinds are less apt to happen on concrete. Yet concrete is not only safe—it is more comfortable—it saves in driving costs—it costs less for upkeep—and cost of construction is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

Expect 12c Stamp To Bring $5,000 At Auction Sale

LONDON—A 12-cent American stamp, issued in August, 1861, and bearing a portrait of Washington, is expected to bring thousands in a stamp auction here.

A romantic story is attached to the stamp. It once belonged to the late Prince Oldenbourg of Russia, a notable philatelist, who on escaping to Sweden from the Bolsheviks sewed the "12-cent" in the lapel of his coat.

The prince however, forgot all about the stamp and gave his old coat to a poor Russian who took it to a tailor to have it turned. The stamp was found and given back to the poor Russian, who for many years remained ignorant of its value.

It is estimated that about half a dozen of these specimens remain in existence. The series was superceded a month after issued.

In the most recent sale one of these 12-cent stamps, the price was nearly $5,000.

WAS I WORRIED 'til Daddy learned gasolines are different!

"MY OLD MAN—my father, I mean—thinks he knows everything! Why, gee whizz... he reads the gasoline ads, specially the ones with pretty girl pictures in 'em, and then he gets a tankful of stuff nobody ever heard of. Yeah, a swell guy but a poor picker."

"Boyohboy, was that motor hot! Clouds of steam sizzling out of the radiator. Funny gurglings and thumpings under the hood. For crying out loud, was Dad's face red when Auntie's car passed, and they saw us stuck there! But the real bad news is the bill we got for towing and for two new bearings."

"No sir, for the life of me, I can't see the economy of using cheap gasoline... especially when Phillips 66 is engineered for specific summer weather, same as it is for definite winter cold. Anyone can see that a gasoline made different for the different seasons of the year is gonna give better results. What's the sense of trying to save cents and wasting dollars, when you can get 100% custom-tailored gasoline—yes, I mean Phillips 66—for the same price as ordinary gas?"

"P.S. Since writing the above, the car's been fixed and we're using Phillips 66, and Mother says the budget's in better shape than ever because we're getting more miles and less repair bills."

For That Royal Thirst

This world is so full of a number of things That I think we should all be as thirsty as kings! But we've lots of drinks—fizzes and rickys and slogs And cordials and punches to give our thirsts wings!

A royal thirst is the kind that develops on a hot, dusty day after a long hike, a prolonged set of tennis, a ten-inning game of baseball, or something like that. On that principle many of us who are far from being royalists can develop many a royal thirst these torrid summer days.

Fine Fizzes

Four Fruit Fizz: Have the juice from a No. 3 can of fresh prunes, one cup canned pineapple syrup, one cup of orange juice, one-fourth cup lemon juice and two bottles charged water ice cold. Mix together and serve over cracked ice. This makes sixteen punch glasses.

Loganberry Fizz: Boil two and a half cups water and three fourths cup sugar three minutes, cool and add one-half cup lemon juice and a cup of canned loganberries. Ice well, and just before serving add one pint bottle ginger ale. Makes six glasses.

Cooling Cordials

Sour Cherry Cordial: Simmer one cup of sugar and one of water to make a syrup, add two cups tea, one cup orange juice and one-half cup lime juice. Press the red pitted cherries from a No. 2 can through a sieve or run through a food chopper. Add both the cherry pulp and juice. Just before serving, add one quart ginger ale. This makes about three quarts.

Tomato and Cucumber Cordial: Slice a medium cucumber thin with the peeling left on. Simmer together for thirty minutes, three cups strained tomato juice, two cups water, one clove garlic, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and a few grains of pepper. Strain and cool the juice. Serve ice cold in cocktail cups. Serves eight.

Summer Punches

Lime Punch: Dissolve one cup sugar in one quart tea infusion while the tea is hot. When cold add one 8-ounce bottle of lime juice, the syrup from a No. 2 1-2 can apricots and the syrup from a No. 2 1-2 can grapes (reserving the fruits for salads, cocktails, etc.) Just before pouring ice cold into thermos bottles to serve wherever you want outdoors, add three ice cold pint bottles charged water. This makes twelve large glasses, or about twenty-four punch cups.

Prune Punch: Mix together the juice from a No. 3 can of fresh prunes, one-half cup bottled lime juice and two cups water. Pour over ice and serve in punch glasses. Makes ten glasses.

Sen. Bankhead Predicts 13-Cent Cotton This Year

Alabamian Believes World Crop Will Be Short As Crops Gather

WASHINGTON. — A prediction of 13-cent-a-pound cotton this year was made in a statement today by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama.

He said the world crop promised to be sufficiently short to cause a drain on the American pool cotton which, he added, cannot be moved at less than 12.75 cents a pound.

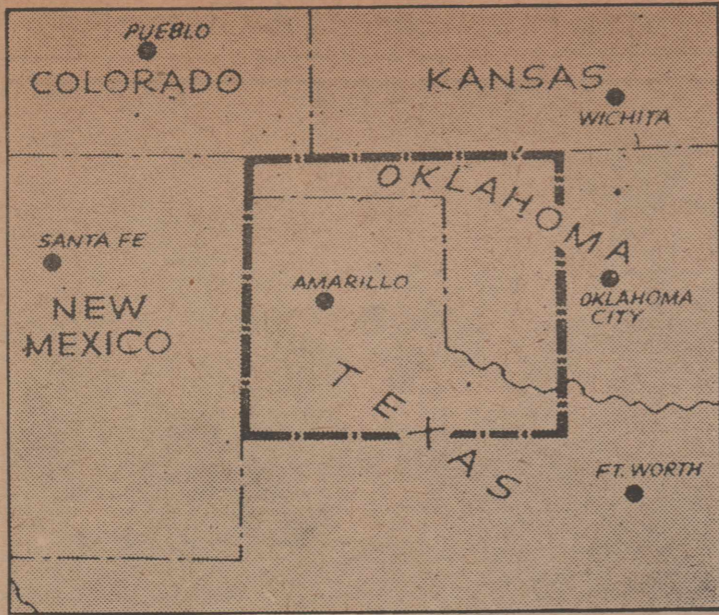

Only farmers have the right to sell American cotton below the commodity credit corporation loan of 12 cents a pound, he said, and predicted today "can easily be organized under existing circumstances to hold their cotton for 13 cents a pound."

He said, it appears certain that the 1935 crop will have practically no competition from American cotton so long as the market remains below 12 cents. The 12-cent loan cotton will not be moved until that price is reached."

American mill stocks are low," he said, "and then went ahead to analyze foreign crop prospects to back up his prediction the world supply would not permit a price below 13 cents."

"The size and grade of the San Paulo crop," he said, summarizing foreign prospects, "have been materially reduced, recent expectations, by climatic conditions. The exports will not exceed 350,000 bales. These exports will be low grade and inferior in value as compared with American cotton."

Is This The 49th State?

Pictured within the black line in the center of the map above may be seen the portions of Oklahoma and Texas now under consideration as the 49th state of the Union. Plans say the state should be called "Texlahoma." Closer inspection will show that Wellington is located near the geographic center of the proposed area. However, Amarillo is considered for the capitol city.

Movement Considered For Creation Of 49th State From Texas And Okla.

A 49th state, Texlahoma, is being sponsored, according to reports from the United Press service this week.

A move is underway to disassociate 23 western Oklahoma counties and 46 counties of the Texas panhandle—thousands of square miles with some 1,000,000 citizens—from the two states.

Capital city of the new state, according to A. P. Sights, Clinton, Oklahoma, chairman of the projected secession, probably would be Amarillo, Texas.

Sights is polling legislators on the proposed move, and says the answers have been favorable by a 2-to-1 majority.

Sponsors of the movement argue that the Oklahoma "secession sector" is so far from the state capitol—in some instances 300 miles—that theirs is the "forgotten people" insofar as state benefits—roads, hospitals and relief—are concerned.

Sights declares that the 28 Oklahoma counties "are $9,000,000 behind in road improvements."

The plan is for a huge convention of representatives of the vast area proposed for the new state.

The Wellington Leader:

What has become of the proposed highway through Wellington and Memphis to the southwest?

I was in Memphis sometime back and talked with Sam Harrison and county judge. They said they were very anxious for the road. I suggested the route to run from Wellington on the Quail road to the point where the road turns north to Quail then crossing the creek near the bridge. They were willing for the road to run anywhere our people wanted it to run but expressed themselves as being very anxious to get our county to work with them to secure it. They seemed to think there was a good chance to get the highway commission interested in the road. I understand some think maybe it would be best not to try to secure that road until we get No. 4 finished through the county. Of course we want No. 4 paved but it will take a good while before we can get the Memphis road ready to pave, we need to get it located.

Now I suggest going up the Quail route. I believe it could be built cheaper as we have the right-of-way secured. But I am for the road anywhere we can get it as it will give us a route through to the southwest to New Mexico and it would give us connection from Memphis up to No. 5 to the northwest. Of course I wouldn't favor bonds but get ready to build it with the gasoline tax and I want to say here that I believe Senator Small is right in using the gasoline tax exclusively for building roads. I had a short talk the other day with Commissioner Hill. I was glad to find him anxious to work for that road. He says let us all pull together for it regardless where it might be located.

Now according to nature, I could hardly be expected to live for it to be of much if any great benefit to me, but I believe to Wellington it would be a great benefit after my day, so let us back Mr. Hill in his efforts to secure the road.

Respectfully,
I. T. Goodnight.

Blind Stagers Outbreak Feared

A warning to farmers to be on the lookout for encephalomyelitis, an infectious disease that caused losses among horses and mules last year in Texas and a number of other States, has been issued by the Department of Agriculture. The disease also is known as "sleeping sickness" and "blind stagers."

The department recommends that affected animals be isolated and stables and equipment disinfected with a formalin or lye solution. Present evidence indicates that mosquitoes or other blood sucking insects carry the infection. First symptoms are lack of spirit and weakness, followed by sleepiness, grinding of the teeth and walking in a circle upon the part of the animal.

A vaccine has been developed by the department and other agencies that appears to give partial protection against the disease. A commercially prepared serum gives immunity of short duration; its use is recommended, but it should be administered by a competent veterinarian.

ON TEXAS FARMS

CLARKSVILLE—From four and one-half to six tons of alfalfa per acre have been harvested by Martin Stiles of Annona in Red River County who has 21 acres in alfalfa, according to C. M. Knight, county agricultural agent. The lowest price paid for alfalfa hay, according to the county agent, is $20 per ton.

"This new feed crop almost eliminates the need of corn and other grain crops that are selling at such high prices. It permits me to sell a few bushels of corn that I would otherwise have to feed my livestock in order to finish spring farming operations," Stiles says.

PLAINVIEW—"It's easy to make rugs from the threads of burlap sacks," says Mrs. O. E. Faver of the Stoneback Home Demonstration Club, according to Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Hale county home demonstration agent. "You pull three threads, twist them, and thread your needle. That's much quicker than cutting one-fourth inch strips of materials to use. Good burlap sacks are plentiful and easy to dye. They do not drink the dye as woolen materials do, so this makes them cheaper."

Mrs. Faver has sent one of her burlap hooked rugs to the Extension specialist in home industries for standardization.

Plant now for trench silo filling. Three tons per cow is what will be needed. Cane or grain sorghum can be planted on the oat stubble if there is enough moisture.

Cows need dry feed, too, Eudaly says. And roughages are cheaper than grain. So plan for one ton of hay or bundled feed for each cow.

The Government's drouth relief cattle buying removed about one million dairy cows from Texas farms, according to Eudaly. Remaining milkers should now be tested to be sure they are "worth their board and keep."

With the help of 20 men, and locks and shingles donated by other citizens, the Arbor community in Houston County has built a relief canning center at a cash expense of $16. Six more dollars for materials came from the home demonstration club which initiated the project.

Robertson County had terraced 3,805 acres of land in 1935 by the end of April. Relief labor has been used and the Commissioners' Court furnished machinery at actual cost of operation.

Keystone Cops Are Back Again!

Police tumbling all over a patrol wagon and getting in one another's way, Ben Turpin practicing his "come-hither" look on a damsel, and bargages of custard pies cluttering the atmosphere—these and other features of the slapstick era will be revived in a new series of comedies, Hollywood announces. Ready for the call to duty, the new edition of the Keystone Cops is pictured above. The two gentlemen clothed in the height of fashion are Chester Conklin and Ben Turpin. On the running board is Ford Sterling.

Picking up, a Williamson county garden demonstrator has put down a hundred feet of tin can irrigation. It is more work than concrete tile and not permanent, but beats no subirrigation at all, is the report.

Collis Bouldin of Gonzales County has 150 acres of terraces which he allows paid for themselves in one April day when seven inches of rain fell—three and one-half of that within less than one hour. Without the terraces, erosion would have carried off his whole crop as well as the top soil, he says.

"Knee deep in June" is okh for the poet but apparently not for the dairyman if he is knee deep in Sudan grass gone to seed.

Mow the permanent pasture too. Twice a year mowing will kill the weeds Eudaly says. Cut high the first time—three or four inches off the ground—and low the next time to get the suckers and new branches.

According to Extension Dairyman E. R. Eudaly, the value of Sudan grass is reduced about half if it is allowed to form seed.

Extra! Extra! Extra!

"Shall we give preferential consideration to American producers in the domestic market, or shall we give this consideration to the Asiatic producers?"—Congressman Richard M. Kleberg of Texas.

With the prospects for limited cotton crops in the near future, the value of cottonseed necessarily depends upon the price obtainable for the cotton oil, cottonseed meal, hulls and linters. During the past year the value of cotton oil represented about sixty percent of the total value of the by-products of cottonseed. This was largely due to the reduction in supply of cotton oil and its greater use as a food.

A little more than a year ago a process was discovered for making a superior quality of margarine out of cotton oil. Its trade acceptance has been so rapid that we are now consuming cotton oil in this new industry at the rate of more than a hundred million pounds a year. The February consumption this year was 12,171,313 pounds which is more than eight times as much as a year ago. The opportunity for enormous consumption of cotton oil for making margarine is to the benefit of both producer and consumer as it will increase the price of cottonseed for the producer and lower the price of margarine to the consumer.

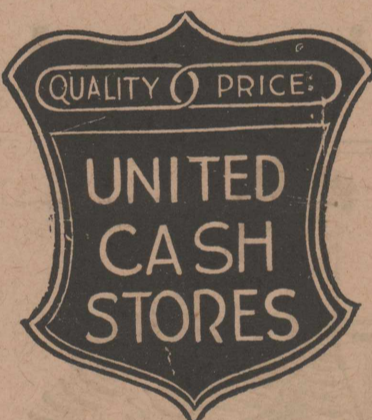

In the past it has been necessary for manufacturers of margarine to buy their oils, such as soybean, corn oil and other oils from foreign countries. Now that is not necessary, they can use cotton oil. For every one cent that the price of vegetable oils increase, the price of cottonseed increases $3.00 per ton.

The point is this, Congressman Kleberg has a bill before the House known as H. B. 5587, which would compel every manufacturer of margarine to use fats and oils produced on American farms by taxing margarine 10 cents a pound if it contains imported oils. And he also has before the House, H. B. 5586, which compels all manufacturers to make a high quality product by fixing an 80 percent standard fat content. By the passage of these bills we will be assured of a large consumption of cotton oil, and our own American farmer will benefit and not the Asiatic.

DO THIS: Write or wire your Congressman, care of House Office Bldg., and your Senator care of Senate Office Bldg., at Washington, D. C., and urge that he vote for the passage of these two bills.

This is your problem, and here is your opportunity to deal with it in an effective way. Will you sit idly by and permit your products to be crowded out of the best market, or will you fight for your rights?

Salt Fork Ends Successful Year Friday, June 14

Outstanding Work Done By Students During Past Term

The Salt Fork school closed last Friday, June 14, with a delightful school picnic, the closing school program having been rendered on Friday night, June 7.

Many of the pupils did very creditable work through the year. The outstanding pupil of the high school section is Estelline Johnson, one of the most industrious students that has ever attended school in Salt Fork. In both the primary and intermediate sections a greater percent of the pupils did excellent work, many having an A average.

Since school was so late in closing, caused by the delayed beginning in the fall, due to crop gathering, Miss Ruby Johnson, the teacher of the primary grades, was forced to leave for summer school at Canyon a week before the term expired.

Salt Fork has become an integral part of the Quail consolidation; so let us hope that the patrons of this district will lend their whole-hearted support to the school for without this nothing can be accomplished.

To those thirty-eight who were promoted in the various grades, let us borrow a phrase from Joaquin Miller, "Columbus," and say: "On sail on," and then you to will make a discovery—that education is really worth all the effort expended on your voyage.

Control Of Indians Was Constant Problem For Early Settlers

AUSTIN, Texas—The Indians—how to control them. This was the problem that constantly faced the authorities in charge of the defense and development of Texas. From viceroy down to the lowliest corporal and back again repeatedly and with increasing insistence shuttled the question and even the answer came, "I do not know what to do but something must be done or we face extermination." These perplexities are voiced over and again in the official documents of Spanish officials whose headquarters were in San Antonio de Bexar during that first troubled century of colonization in Texas. These records, known as the Bexar Archives, are deposited in the University of Texas library, and are now being translated for the first time.

Finally, in despair, the viceroy, Conde de Revilla Gigedo, appealed to Estevan Miro, Governor and Commandant General of Louisiana, for suggestions. This S. O. S. was relayed to Louis De Blanc, commandant of Natchitoches, Louisiana. Moreover, he asserted to the Indian threat was added that of renewed French interference. The door thus skillfully opened for the entry of French traders—the greatest possible menace to the continuance of Spanish control, save that of the pressing hordes of the Americans on the border who longed for homes in the rich region. The coming, however, was to be delayed for a short season.

When the request for aid reached De Blanc, he promptly wrote the Governor of Texas recommending the re-inauguration of the system that had enabled the French so long to make fortunes in the Indian trade. His letter of August 1, 1781, reads as follows:

"I can now only say to you that, from the letter of His Excellency, the Viceroy, it would seem that a move is on foot to try to re-establish friendly relations with the Lipans in spite of the fact that we are forced to wink at the depredations they commit under cover in order to avoid the greater danger of open warfare. If this is done and peace is actually made, I would still like to say that for the safety of all the other tribes under your charge it would still seem absolutely necessary to maintain trade relations with them. However, this should not be carried on as it is at the present time, for I know that this is contrary to humanity and good order. The present system of giving the privilege of trade to one individual is very unjust. It deprives all other upright vassals of the King of a chance to make some small sum with which to feed and maintain their families. The Indian trader who has a monopoly lays down for the Indians the "law of his own profit." He makes them pay for goods the prices that suit him and, as a result, the Indians are always disgusted and dissatisfied. This leads to quarrels between them and the traders and no good comes of these disputes. I know this from the frequent complaints the various tribes have made to me.

"The solution I propose is to re-establish for this trade the regulations used by my ancestors—regulations that were followed up until the time that Don Athanzio de Mezieres went to San Antonio de Dexar (where he died). These regulations were: (1) that trade with the Indians should be open to every honorable vassal of the king; (2) that the commandant of this post should have general supervision; (3) that there should be an equitable schedule of prices for said trade; (4) that definite instructions should be issued; (5) that those departing from these regulations should be punished; (6) that no troublemaker, no foreigners, no travelers should be sent out to spy upon the tribes; (7) that, from time to time, some one should make friendly visits to them to explain to them the necessity of maintaining union, and friendship with us and with the governor of Texas; and (8) that they were to be told to keep in touch with the Spanish authorities and advise them of everything that might happen to the end that the royal servant might be more effective and successful.

"You can decide whatever you may think best in this matter. If my proposal is adopted and if we do make peace with the Lipans, it still seems to me that it is absolutely necessary to keep up trouble between the aforesaid Lipans and the rest of the tribes of Texas. In this way they will be afraid of our combined force of soldiers and friendly and allied Indian tribes and they will not dare to commit hostilities under cover as they have been doing but will be forced to come out in the open.

"I will do everything for the service of the King and the welfare of his subjects. This is my promise and the object of all my endeavors."

The mere possibility of sharing in this lucrative trade lured many Frenchmen into Texas. In a census taken a bare ten years later, approximately three score foreigners had gained access to the Texas frontier in the Nacogdoches region alone, despite the laws and orders providing for their exclusion. Of these approximately half were of French blood or of French descent. Three of them had actually received that coveted post of Indian trader: Pedro Bosque, native of Bordeaux, married, 49 years of age, resident of Texas for nine years, trader for the Tankawa Indians; Pedro Engle, native of the capital of Louisiana, widower, 53 years of age, residence of 26 years, trader for the Tankawa Indians; Franco Bart, native of Punta Cortaga, bachelor, 38 years of age, residence of six years, trader for the Nacogdoches and Anadarko Indians.

WHAT AILS US

All diseases have scientific names, most of which would not be recognized by the layman. If your doctor asked you if you were troubled with anorexia, you probably wouldn't know. But anorexia is merely the scientific term for loss of appetite.

Similarly, otalgia is ear ache, notalgia is backache, nostalgia is homesickness, cephalgia is headache, odontalgia is toothache, varicella is smallpox, varicella is chickenpox, pertussis is whooping cough, and so on throughout the long list of ills to which human flesh is heir.

And if your physician suggests that you are cacothic, he is merely using a scientific way of saying you have a rotten disposition. If he tells you you are inclined to atony, he means you are just plain lazy. An unscientific way once described laziness as involuntary inertia.

But whatever ails us, the doctors, like the Greeks, have a strange name for it.

WOMEN DRIVERS

For years women have been subjected to gibes because of their supposed inferiority as automobile drivers. But a recent survey by a national board of casualty underwriters reveals that women drivers figure in far less accidents than men, numbers considered.

Estimates from various sources, including government statistics, indicate that women constitute approximately one-fourth of the total number of drivers in the country. Yet, while women represent 25 percent of the number of drivers, last year they were involved in only 7.63 percent of the accidents recorded.

In the observance of traffic regulations, women made an even more impressive record. While full statistics are not available, in a dozen large cities only 2.53 percent of those charged with violations of traffic rules were women. While it may be argued that traffic officers are more lenient toward women violators, an inquiry addressed to a large number of these officers brought responses decidedly favorable to the ladies.

Of the replies received 78 percent of the officers considered women more careful drivers than men; 11 percent thought women equally careful, and only 11 percent believed women less careful.

So, in the face of the record, it appears that women are much safer drivers than men, after all, when they are actually at the wheel. How safe they may be as back seat drivers is an entirely different matter.

FAKE ANTIQUES

As Barnum so truly said, people like to be humbugged, and few fields offer a greater opportunity for indulging their love of humbuggery than buying of antiques—paintings, fiddles, furniture and what not.

A Missouri paper tells of vast quantities of "ancient" candlesticks which have been sold to tourists as relics of pioneers settled the Ozark country. It declares that more "antiques" of one kind and another have been sold than could be crowded into all of the present homes and barns of that region. It relates that one man paid $1,400 for a walnut stump to be manufactured into "antique furniture used by Missouri pioneers."

Which recalls the statement of a wag to the effect that the natives of Samoa make a living by selling copra and Robert Louis Stevenson's inkstand.

A LINK FROM THE PAST

Down in the village of Plateau, near Mobile, lives Cudjo Lewis, described by W. H. Blumenthal in the New York Evening Post as "the most historic Negro in the United States," a title well bestowed.

For Lewis is the last living of all the slaves brought from Africa to this country, and made the trip on the Clothilde, last of the slave ships to bring a cargo to our shores, on the last trip of her unholy traffic in 1859. Lewis is supposed to be 96 years old.

With 109 others of the peaceful Tarkar tribe in Africa he was captured by the more savage Dahomeys and sold to the white slave trader, Captain Billy Smith of the Clothilde. The unfortunates suffered indescribable hardships during the 70-day voyage, being kept most of the time in the foul hold of the vessel with only a scanty allowance of bread and water for subsistence.

They were finally landed on the Alabama coast and soon after sold to various masters, whom they served faithfully. After the Civil War they gathered together to form a colony at Magazine Point, where they were employed in a shipyard. Later they bought some land and engaged in truck raising.

But one by one they passed away, leaving Cudjo Lewis as the only link between the African slave traders and the present. He still cultivates his garden and serves as sexton of a nearby Negro church, in the the graveyard of which his wife and six children are buried. He told Mr. Blumenthal: "Some of dese days I tek time to die. When I go, I ain't got fur to go."

TEN MILES FROM BROADWAY

If a recent newspaper correspondent is to be believed, one of the most primitive settlements in America is only 10 miles from Broadway. It is on what is known as Sour Island, in the Hackensack Meadows of New Jersey.

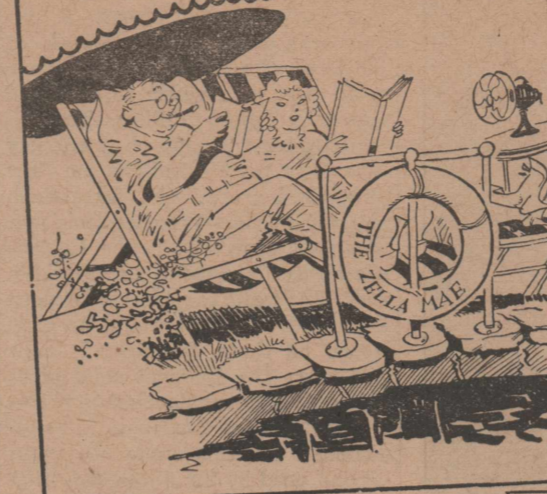

This settlement it is said, consists of 32 families, who have up to the present time lived without schools, churches, telephone, movies, running water, sidewalks or any modern conveniences.

All the inhabitants know of New York City, only 10 miles away, is the nightly glare of the electric lights in the sky. Once in a while some of them visit the nearby village of Secaucus to make a few purchases, but otherwise they are as remote from civilization as if they lived on an island in the South Seas.

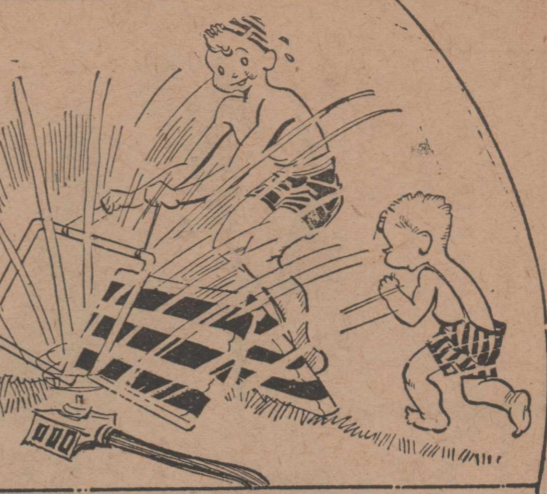

Possibly they are as happy as the average New Yorker at that.

VACATION HINTS FOR THE STAY-AT-HOMES!

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

The driving of cattle to Northern markets and ranges began immediately at the close of the Civil War and by 1870 the business had gotten under good way. The price of cattle in Texas was very low, while beef was selling in the Eastern Cities from 25c to 40c per pound.

Just about the time the cattle drives were getting well started, there came to Texas a young hardware salesman with a vision. This man was John W. Gates, and he brought with him samples of a newfangled thing called "barbed wire."

He proposed to induce the Texas cattlemen to use this wire for fences. Gates arrived at San Antonio in 1871, and he proceeded immediately to tell the cattlemen of the advantages of barbed wire as fence material.

When he showed the wire to some of them, however, it caused great amusement. In fact, the cattlemen laughed loudly in the young man's face. It was a great joke that anybody should think that the funny-looking wire could restrain a bunch of Texas longhorns.

It might be all right for gentle milk cows of the East, but a small herd of longhorns would make short work of it, but it aroused his sporting blood, and so he decided to show them. He proceeded to build a barbed wire fence around one of the plazas at San Antonio and then challenged the cattlemen to bring on a bunch of longhorns that could get out of it.

Accordingly twenty-five of the wildest South Texas cattle that could be found were brought forward and driven into Gates' pen. A lot of folks gathered to see the fun, for practically everybody but Gates expected the cattle to get out with very little trouble.

However, it didn't turn out that way. The cattle tried to get out, all right, but they didn't make any progress. During the whole afternoon those wild steers were kept safely enclosed on the plaza and finally the cattlemen were convinced.

Thus it was that the future millionaire and plunger, while a twenty-five dollar a week hardware salesman, opened up a market for barbed wire in Texas.

During the next ten years barbed wire fences increased with great rapidity and "free" grass began to disappear. The increasing price of cattle in time caused overstocking and there was demand for every inch of grazing land within the state.

In the days of the open range, when unbranded cattle and calves might be found anywhere, the cowboy was paid a specified sum for every marverick he branded with his boss's brand. It was this practice that gave rise to the term "Rustler." A rustler was a cowboy who rustled for marvericks and there was no reflection on a person's character for rustling marvericks, because a marverick was an unbranded cow and

Value Of Christian Missions

Text: Acts 1:6-8; 13:1-12
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 23.

There would have been no Christianity at all, had it not been for the missionary spirit in Christianity.

Jesus Himself instituted Christian missions when He sent His early disciples forth two by two into the villages of Galilee and Judea proclaiming the Gospel of the Kingdom.

This was the beginning of Christian home missions, but it is the characteristic of a missionary religion that it cannot be confined to home bases or kept within some borders. In the very nature of the case it must expand. Its impulse is to go forth and tell the good news that it has received.

Professor Hooking of Harvard University, in addresses in connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement, has emphasized this world-wide aspect of truth as the deep and essential missionary motive. If this had not been true of Christianity it would need to be true today if religion would keep abreast of science and other departments of inquiry into truth.

Today, when some great truth is discovered in one land, or some great invention is developed, inevitably it spreads to other countries. It is in the very nature of anything that is important that it becomes worldwide in its scope and influence.

We shall bear this in mind at a time when missions, and especially foreign missions, are being disparaged, through the deep motive in missions will always be the elemental Christian impulse.

Where Christian faith is deep, intense, and strong, missionary movements will always flourish, and only such faith can keep them permanent and effective.

Our lesson may be taken as a New Testament foundation. It is the story of the church "sending forth" its preachers and prophets to proclaim the word of God.

One charge against Christian missions has been that the work of the missionary has been carried on in the midst of much superstition and hypocrisy. The faith of converts has been challenged, and it has been claimed that such converts turned to Christ and the Christian missionary for some advantage that they could get out of doing so.

It is interesting to know that here in the early days of Christian missions the same factors were present. There were sorcerers and pervertors of truth who sought to make their own profit out of the movement.

But how little effect they had, and how little their supervision and hypocrisy had to do with the true motive and work of missions in making known the reality and power of the gospel!

The work of Christian missions is to be judged by its triumphs and not by its failures. It is to be judged no less by its converts than by its great preachers and prophets.

A spiritual leader, like Kagawa in Japan, stands out as a great example of what the Christian witness has achieved. The Gospel in its power knows no bounds of race or nationality. It is a power adaptable to all the world and it is the only power that can save the world.

Knight Holds Electrics To Six Hits In Game At Childress

The Collingsworth Gassers dropped their second game to the Childress Electrics Sunday by a score of 5 to 1, after nine innings in which the Gassers threatened to score in several periods.

Players in the Gasser outfield were faced by the handicap of playing on rough ground, but turned in one of the best games they have played this season. In the first inning Urb Brown made one of the most sensational catches of the game after racing to get under the ball.

The Gasser infield also played jam-up baseball. Brisbin held down right field with a stellar performance and made two beautiful catches in the second period to retire the Electrics in short order as they threatened to score.

Jack Knight, veteran pitcher, gave his best performance on the mound during the 1935 season in Sunday's game.

Childress made their first tally in the initial inning. Wellington threatened in the third after Alvin Horton got hold of the ball for a double, but the attempt was thwarted by the Electrics who played air-tight ball.

The Gassers evened the count in the fourth, however, when Morris singled. A wild pitch from Hall into home passed Morris to second, and Newman smashed out a single to bring Morris across the plate for the lone Gasser score.

The Electrics took the lead again in their half of the fourth after Hale reached first when he was hit by a pitched ball and then scored from second on a double by Moore.

The Gassers made a serious threat in the eighth when Brisbin clouted a triple into right field, but with two out he failed to score. The Electrics, who had counted for another run in the fifth, took two additional runs in the eighth for the 5 to 1 score.

The game was played before a large crowd and the mound work of Hall and Knight was one of the features of the game. Hall struck out 9 men and Knight struck out 6. Hall walked two players and Knight walked two.

The Gassers will play Shamrock in a double-header on the Wellington diamond next Sunday.

League Officials Uphold Paducah's Protest Against Gassers Last Week

Paducah's protest to officials of the Red River League voided the 17 to 8 drubbing the Gassers handed the Paducah nine here Sunday, June 9, according to announcements this week.

Last week, the Paducah club took its first indoor victory when Childress' protest on the eligibility of Pitcher Lefty Cogdell, who defeated the electrics in the second game of the double bill at Paducah, was turned down.

The Gassers' victory over Paducah was voided on the grounds that Wade Wilson, new Wellington player, had not been signed eight days previous to the game.

League officials announced that Wilson's contract had not been received at the secretary's office until the day following the game, while the league constitution provides that the contracts must be accepted by the secretary eight days before the player is eligible.

The game, which was played at Wellington, was ordered replayed as part of a double header when the two teams meet in Paducah July 14.

Childress' protest on Cogdell was on the same grounds, but the protest was turned down after a heated discussion.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone Tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped.

When you realize that there were 882,000 automobile accidents in 1934, injuring 954,000 people and killing 36,000, and that 43,000 of these accidents were caused by blowouts, punctures and skidding, you will be more interested in the make of tires you use on your car.

Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—"Are they blowout-proof?"

ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Kelly Petillo won the race and broke the record over this 26-year-old rough brick track without tire trouble—in fact, not one of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles in 23½ hours, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. This is made possible by the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This thick, rugged, scientifically designed tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread. This is a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee

1 University tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker

2 Gum-Dipped Cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires

3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear

Byrne College training gives you both. One hundred sixteen Byrne graduates secured employment the first five months of 1935 — an average of twenty-three per month, or one plus for every school day. When the work on the Big Texas Centennial buildings gets into full sway, the demand will materially increase; Byrne College needs at least one hundred students to enter at once to meet the demand for their graduates in September and October.

Please remember that Byrne College is positively the only place you can begin now and be thoroughly trained and at work on a good position in September or Oct. If you know a Byrne graduate anywhere who has his diploma, and has paid for his course that is not working and wants work promptly, please tell him to come to Dallas that we may place him.

Byrne College has eighteen standard courses from which to select just the course you should have to qualify you for your chosen work.

Art Association At Texas Tech Seeks Museum

Lubbock Art Association Is Absorbed By New Organization

LUBBOCK, Texas.—A Texas Technological College Art Museum association was organized June 14, with recent approval of the college board of directors, and has an initial collection valued at between $5,000 and $6,000. Ninety drawings, with an estimated value of $1,000, have been given by the federal government for use of the association.

The new association absorbed the membership of the Lubbock Art Association, and its officers are serving the new group which has been approved by the College Art Association of New York. Dr. Bessie League, faculty member of the college, is president.

Purpose of the new organization is to promote building of an art museum at the college, to bring fine arts exhibitions and lectures to the college, and to promote other art projects.

F. A. Kleinschmidt, college architecture and allied arts department head, is association director, according to a constitution approved by the college directors. Mr. Kleinschmidt selected 66 drawings given by the painting and sculpture department of the United States treasury in Washington, D. C., about two weeks ago. Other drawings were sent the college several weeks previous. All were made under the public works art project. Edward B. Rowan, superintendent of the painting and sculpture department, has promised others in the "near future."

The Carnegie corporation of New York gave 2,200 reproductions of paintings and sculpture to the college in 1933. These will become property of the association. Others in its collection will be a 14th century Flemish manuscript: "Eliza," by Mrs. L. M. Tonkin of Oklahoma; "Portrait of a Young Gentleman," by Bronzino; "Matafor Ranch," loaned by Robert Butler; "Portrait of a Lady," by Manet.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, college president, will appoint three trustees for the association and six members on the association committee, on which he and the association director will be ex-officio members.

Stampede Underway To Lake Which Is Reported To Flow Pure Gasoline

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Hundreds of persons started a wild stampede to the harbor district last week after an underground lake, said by Fire Chief Ralph Scott to consist of pure gasoline, was discovered.

The rush was started when persons found that by digging shallow wells at Anaheim road and Badger avenue in the Wilmington district they could bale out gasoline in buckets.

Chief Scott said the underground deposit of gasoline was too great to be accounted for by seepage from the near-by tank farms where numerous oil companies store gasoline in huge metal tanks.

The official believed the only other theory to account for the mysterious reservoir seemed to be that deep oil deposits, forming the basis for Signal Hill deposit, had begun self-distillation.

Scott said the gasoline was bubbling up to the surface of the soil here fissures occurred permitting the liquid to rise.

"The fire hazard due to the presence of the gasoline is enormous and acute," Chief Scott declared. He left for the district to lay down strict fire regulations.

Billye Smith Is Bedroom Contest Winner In County

Billye Smith, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Smith of the Houselog Community has been named as the bedroom winner in Collingsworth County, according to the announcement of Miss Annie Mae Donaghey, home demonstration agent, today.

As first prize she will receive a free trip to the short course at A. & M. in July and Miss Campbell, district agent, will be in this county July 10, to score the winning room in competition for the district prize.

Billye received the prize on the grounds that her bedroom was more improved than any other in the county. She refinished all of her furniture, papered the walls, made sheets of standard size, and re-arranged the entire room at a cost of only $9.41; she won $4.00 of this amount as prizes in the Junior Fair. Pictures of the room and complete floor plans were submitted to College Station.

A. J. Turner of Paris, Texas, left Thursday morning for an extended visit in Lubbock and Lamesa, after visiting here for several days in the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. O. Short.

the one putting his brand on the animal first had a perfect title to it.

The barbed wire fence made rustling unnecessary, for the cattleman's herd was enclosed, and all the cattle within his fence, whether branded or unbranded, were his property.

Thus we give the name to cattle thieves as that of a rustler, today, even though he does not place a brand on the animal. Most of the modern methods used by the rustlers is that of hauling cattle from their home range to market in trucks.

vision of some reliable lady. They will rent a house at College Station and will take with them necessary items of food to do them during the year. After Wednesday, when the number from here has been ascertained, a budget will be made out and each of the boys will be notified of the exact amount of canned foods, cured meats, etc., that he should carry with him. The budget is planned so that no two will bring duplicating items and by working out the plans now it is believed that the parents will have ample time to can the necessary garden goods this summer.

Following their arrival at the school the house is rented and the housemother does the cooking for the group, thus eliminating high costs for the boys.

Mr. Cummings and Mr. Stovall estimate that boys can attend the college for approximately $150, since one uniform, books, and many other items are furnished by the college. They also stated that it was probable that the boys might secure jobs and pay this amount by working at times when they were not attending school.

They said that they wanted as large a class as possible from this county and urged that all boys interested must attend the meeting. They also stressed the fact that the boys must be of high character and really want to get a college education, because they would be inspected regularly by college officials—and would have to comply strictly with the regulations. Last year 352 boys attended A. & M. under this plan, which was advanced by Dr. Russell, professor of rural sociology in the college. The number is expected to be greatly increased this year.

Miss Keen sustained only minor scratches and bruises as a result of the conflict and expected to resume her work Wednesday afternoon. H. A. Phillips, office employee, also sustained bruises said to have been inflicted by Milam, when Phillips tried to separate the two women.

"We do not intend to show any favoritism in anyway and just as in the past we will disburse the money on a pro rata basis. However, the funds have been cut and we realize that only a meager living if that is possible for the clients.

"The relief office will operate at all times with the rules and regulations as specified by the Texas Commission. We do not want to have any trouble, but there are laws which cannot be violated.

"It is my opinion that should further trouble occur the office will be completely closed here by the relief commission."

Stewart, wardrobe demonstrator, the guests will view a demonstration on the storage of winter clothes. The final stop will be made at the home of Mrs. John Starr, Quail cooper, for a demonstration on labor saving fixtures in closets.

Miss Donaghey stated that no two of the demonstrations would include the same features. All interested parties were invited and encouraged to make the tour, which will be educational, interesting and entertaining.

The Kiwanis Club baby show is expected to also attract unusual attention and furnish much humor for the occasion.

where he will place statistics in regard to additional PWA projects for the city. Applications on these projects will be made after he returns if prospects for their approval are favorable.

The surfacing and street work is expected to start as soon as the asphalt arrives here, and council members said that they thought work could be actually started early next week. This surfacing will be carried out as a PWA project with the PWA furnishing labor and the city furnishing materials. The asphalt will meet with government requirements as the best available for road surfacing. The contract was let with the Allied Materials Corporation of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Relief labor will be used in placing the street topping. The council also selected members of the equalization board, including R. L. Gillentine, J. S. Dorn, and Eli Haralson.
