

City Population Up, Says Guesstimate

Olton's population is unofficially set at 2152 as a new decade, the Seventies, unfolds. The figure is 11 persons more than reported for 1968.

The population "guesstimate" is derived from a method used by the Enterprise in prior years, by taking the number of electric, gas and water meters at the time of the last official census and dividing each number into the number of persons officially counted in that census, arriving at the average number of persons per meter for each type meter.

The present number of meters of each type is then multiplied by this average to figure the approximate population.

According to the 1960 federal census, Olton had an official population of 1917. At that time, 916 electric meters were in service, 524 gas meters and 676 water connections were found according to Southwestern Public Service Company, Pioneer Natural Gas Company and the City of Olton Water Department.

Dividing the population at that time by the number of electric meters, an average of 2.09 persons per meter were found. Applying the same ratio to gas users, there was an average of 3.66 persons per gas meter and an average of 2.84 persons per water connection.

According to Dec. 1 records there are 1030 electric meters in use, 632 gas meters and 700 water connections.

Multiplying each of these figures by the respective persons per meter according to the official census, an approximate population of 2152.70 is found according to the electric meters; 2313.12 according to the gas meters and 1988.00 judging from the water connections.

When these figures are added together and divided by three, the guesstimate then indicates a population of 2152.

Cotton Bales Number More Than Last Year

Cotton harvest for another year is almost completed with only a small number of bales yet to be ginned at Olton Co-Op Gin and Thompson Gin north of Circle.

Gins in and around Olton have ginned the biggest majority of the '69 Lamb county cotton crop. Most gins in the county have ginned much less than their count a year ago, with gins in the Olton, Earth and Hart Camp areas showing an increase over last year.

Co-Op, as of Tuesday, had ginned 13,870 bales; Jack Straw Gin, 2600; Farmers Gin, 882; Circle, 2546 and Thompson, 612.

Spokesmen for the gins report that the '69 crop had milled much more than had been expected.

Lamb County Savings Bonds Totals Told

November sales in Lamb County totaled $5,559, according to C. O. Stone, chairman of the Lamb County Savings Bonds Committee. Sales for the eleven-month period were $100,290 and this is 77 per cent of the 1969 goal of $130,000.

Texas sales during November totaled $12,962,108 while the first eleven month sales amounted to $161,490,677 which is 95 per cent of the 1969 goal of $170.1 million.

Recently the interest rate on United States Savings Bonds were raised to 5 per cent when held to maturity of 5 years and 10 months (4% for the first year and 5.20% when held to maturity). Freedom Shares will be removed from sale on June 30, 1970, so be sure to put your note allotment into "bigger" E Bonds. Buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or at your bank," Chairman Stone said.

Sec'y Of Treasure Announces New Interest Rates

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy today announced an increase in the interest rate on United States Savings Bonds from 4.25 per cent to 5 per cent.

The new 5-per-cent rate applies to all outstanding Series E and H Bonds sold on or after June 1, 1969, if held to maturity. The higher rate also applies to older Bonds. Beginning with the first semiannual interest period starting on or after June 1, 1969, rates on outstanding E and H Bonds will be increased to yield 5 per cent, when held to maturity or extended maturity. The original maturity of the Series E Bond has been shortened from 7 years to 5 years, 10 months; H Bonds will continue to mature in 10 years.

"Freedom Shares" (U.S. Savings Notes) -- sold in combination with E Bonds, since May 1, 1967 -- will be removed from sale effective June 30, 1970.

Attached are a copy of the Secretary's announcement, fact sheet and questions and answers concerning the higher Savings Bonds rate.

Means Of Eliminating Hail Studied By Nine Area Counties

A nine-county study has been initiated which may provide the means for eliminating damaging hail storms, a plan which could save the Texas Panhandle a multi-million dollar crop loss.

Atmospherics Incorporated of Fresno, Calif., conducted the initial hail suppression study. Counties included in the study were Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Briscoe, Swisher and Castro. The study involved investigation into the climatology of the area, accumulated data on hail damage to agricultural and personal property, on-site investigations in the area, personal interviews throughout the area and compilation of data related to a hail suppression program.

In November, the report of the study was submitted to the Texas Water Development Board. According to the report, other areas of the United States and abroad, a significant correlation had been found between the months which produce maximum cumulonimbus cloud activity and months which produce maximum hail frequency.

The report indicates that within the study area, weather data indicates June, July and August as the months producing the greatest frequency of cumulonimbus cloud activity and April, May and June producing the maximum hail frequency.

The area northwest of Plainview has a higher hail frequency than any other area in Texas. The report stated the reasonable estimates indicate that in the larger 23-county Panhandle area, hail produces a $15 million average annual crop loss.

Insurance claims for the 1969 season provided an additional indication of hail damage. Cited was a report of a single insurance company office in Plainview which paid out over $1 million in payments for hail damage claims during the May-August 1969 period.

The company's estimate of total claims paid by all agencies in the area on damages received from hailstorms June 10 and June 13 is $4.5 million.

An informal meeting was held in Littlefield last week for Lamb County residents interested in learning more about stopping severe hail storms. F. F. Calhoun of Plainview, a member of the Texas Water Development Board's weather modification advisory committee met with the group to explain the proposed program. If the program becomes a reality, every cloud that looks like it might attack the area will be seeded with silver iodine which will melt the hailstones. Studies show that the artificial nucleation of clouds seems to cut down on the amount of turbulence in clouds as well as producing more rain.

Calhoun explained the program isn't designed to stop every hail storm, but that a 50 to 70 per cent reduction in hail damage over the target area could and would work.

Second phase of the program would be an applied hail suppression research operational program in the area. The Texas Water Development Board lacks funds to carry out such a program. Funds to start such a program will be secured in a manner similar to Water, Inc.

The Technical Action Panel has called a meeting of all interested persons in the nine-county area involved in the report to look for ways to implement the research program. A meeting for all interested persons is slated for 2 p. m. Tuesday, Jan. 6 in the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview.

Olton Taxpayers May Deduct City Tax From Income Tax

Taxpayers in Olton will be entitled to deduct the city sales taxes paid if they itemize their deductions on Schedule A Form 1040 this year. The tax instructions received in the mail provide a handy table for deducting the Texas state sales tax. However, district officials have prepared tables showing the exact amount deductible for both state and city sales taxes. The optional state and city sales tax table has been posted in local Post Offices and provided to the banks as well as being available at all Internal Revenue offices in Texas according to Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for North Texas.

(Editor's note-- For your convenience we are printing the sales tax table for Olton. We advise you to cut this out and save it to use when you prepare your income tax return. If you do not live in Olton, check the sales tax table posted in your local Post Office for your city sales tax deduction or ask your IRS office for a copy of the table.)

Farmers May Appeal Projected Cotton Yields

A revised procedure for appealing projected cotton yields, announced last week by USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, has drawn mixed reactions from cotton producers and others in the High Plains cotton industry.

Price support payments under the current cotton program are based on projected yields determined for individual farms by County ASCS Committees. Producers who feel their assigned projected yield is too low may appeal the Committee's action by proving actual yields over a three year period. For 1970 if a producer can prove an average actual yield for 1966, 1967 and 1968 that is higher than the assigned projected yield, ASCS is legally obligated to raise the projected yield.

Last week's announcement made two changes, one good and one bad, in the procedure for proving yields.

On the bright side, producers who for one reason or another had a total crop failure in one or more of the three years now have a way to compensate for such a loss improving a three year actual yield average. Previously the actual yield average under these conditions was figured by dividing three years' acreage into two or less years' production.

The new method of calculating the three year average provides that "if no acreage was harvested in one or two years of the three year base period, the proven yield will be determined by multiplying the allotment or base for the applicable year times the current year (1970) projected yield. The product will then be weighted with the actual production data for base years in which acres are harvested."

With this new provision many producers who did not appeal their projected yield during the initial 15-day period following their yield notice from the County Committee may now be in a position to do so. And County ASCS offices have been instructed to allow a "reasonable" time for the filing of late appeals after publication of the new procedure in newsletters.

Producers generally feel this change will make the proven yield system more equitable. However the rules still make inadequate provision for adjusting proven yields when crops are severely damaged but not totally destroyed by hail or other weather conditions.

According to the announcement "All production for each of the base years where harvesting occurred must be included and weighted to obtain the proven yield." In other words, if a low-yielding crop was harvested in one of the base years, the production evidence for such a year cannot be omitted. This part of the procedure was not changed.

The other procedural change relates to the evidence acceptable to ASCS in proving actual yields. And it is here that many are saying ASCS has "plowed up a snake."

Producers in the past have been required to furnish ASCS with a production "summary"

Blakely Named Coach Of Year, Two Mustangs On A-J Team

Two members of the football team which was picked to finish last, the 1969 Mustangs, have been chosen to the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's All-South Plains Class AA football team. The two, Steve Stockdale and Luis Rey, also helped land their coach, Jerry Blakely, Coach of the Year honors.

Topping the dream team, Stockdale is the only sophomore to be named to the list which includes 18 seniors and four juniors. Rey, a junior, was named deep back on the defensive team.

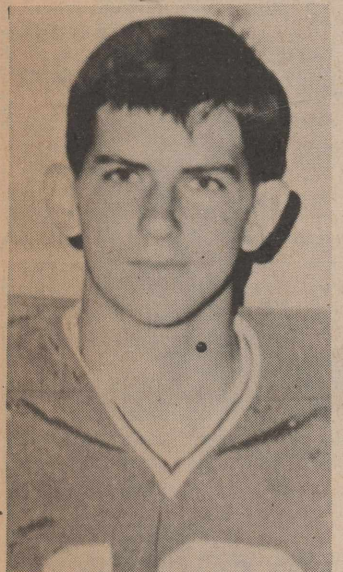

Stockdale, for the season, hit on 101 of the 225 passes for 1,427 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Blakely molded an inexperienced team with only two lettermen returning from a district champion squad into a team which almost made it to the bi-district playoffs.

A graduate of Eastern New Mexico University, Blakely came to Olton from Clovis where he had served as first assistant varsity offensive backfield coach and was responsible for the offensive football played in Clovis schools including the varsity, junior varsity, B-team and junior high teams. He was also head track coach, physical education instructor and summer recreation instructor.

Selected for honorable mention to the All-South Plains team were Gary "Bull" Durham, offense, and Ronnie Sanders, defense.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

Parental rights and the cause of quality public education in the United States suffered a severe new blow recently when the Congress voted against the Whitten Amendment which would have prevented the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from cutting off funds to school districts that didn't go along with its plans.

HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch's opposition to the Whitten Amendment—indeed his all-out fight against the freedom of choice principle—also represents a breaking of faith with the millions of voters who heard and believed presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon promise support for freedom of choice school plans. It is deeply dismaying that President Nixon didn't abide by his campaign promise.

Nothing could be more American than the concept of freedom of choice in education. As worked out in practice, this concept means that a child attends the school his parents desire him to attend. It is the embodiment of individual freedom. Yet this freedom doesn't satisfy the ideologues in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. They apparently don't believe parents have any rights when it comes to school attendance. And they aren't satisfied with any school attendance plan that doesn't achieve strict racial balance.

Emotion, not reason, lies behind HEW's position. Certainly, there isn't any measure of justice in HEW's opposition to freedom of choice. As a matter of fact, HEW can't point to any standard of logic in espousing its school plans. If it is unjust to bar a student from a particular school because of his race, how can it be just to compel a student to attend a particular school in order to meet a fixed racial formula decreed by HEW? Obviously, HEW's approach isn't grounded in rationality or justice. Instead, it is grounded in politics and fanaticism—the notion that there must be carefully calculated mix of students of different racial groups in order for the ends of democracy to be served.

This is an absurd position, for precise racial balancing won't be in effect in other areas of a child's life or in his existence as an adult. His parents are free to establish his home environment and to regulate a child's friendships. An adult cannot be coerced into making friends on the basis of a sociological formula. Or maybe HEW aspires to do just that—take over the home and plan adult relationships. That's the type of thing George Orwell wrote about in his book "1984," in which he described the horrors of totalitarian society that controls every moment of people's lives.

The American people certainly don't want a "Big Brother" society, but HEW is doing its best to achieve just that with its school plans. It is tragic but true that Congress is permitting HEW to engage in government by edict, to practice coercion against parents.

Congress has lost sight of the fact that children belong to their parents, not to Big Government agencies. The final say-so on a child's education should belong to parents, not to some bureaucrat whose mind is full of socialist notions regarding the way people's lives should be managed.

The United States has come a long way down the road to serfdom—in totalitarian government—in the last 20 years. As the 1950s opened, public education was strictly a state and local responsibility. And both states and counties were making progress on upgrading the school systems. The neighborhood was a central feature of the American scene and contributed greatly to community solidarity.

Today the situation is utterly changed. Big Brother in Washington has taken over all the key functions of local school boards and state boards of education. School officials have to spend much of their time checking as to whether they are obeying Washington's latest edicts or answering to the demands of the federal courts.

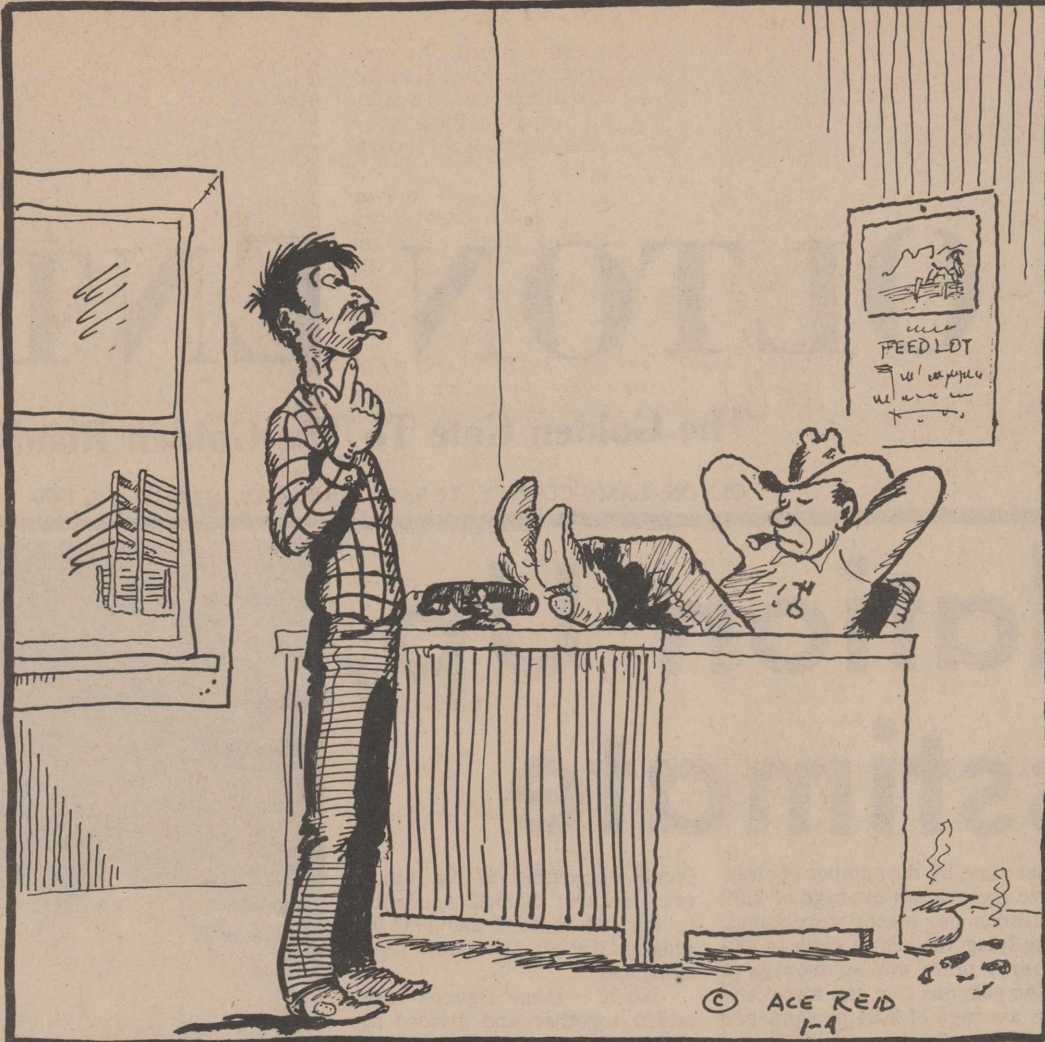

Parents see the public schools as centers of hurtful sociological experiments, in which the best interests of their children are sacrificed to the demands of politics or the peculiar ideas of extremists.

More and more these days, public schools are ceasing to serve in an educational sense—and are becoming mere custodial institutions. Parents who can afford to do so are enrolling their children in private and church schools where standards are higher and politics don't control.

HEW's latest victory will accelerate the process of ruination of the public schools. Secretary Robert H. Finch of HEW seems destined to preside over the destruction of the traditional system of locally controlled public schools. Big Brother's gain is the nation's loss.

showing total bales ginned and total weight. A percentage of these summaries were then spot checked and if no irregularities were found they were accepted as evidence of each producer's actual yield.

Thousands of producers on the Plains already have followed that procedure and had assumed the production evidence was accepted as presented.

But the new regulations appear to have made that assumption false. The latest ASCS announcement states "For cotton, only sales receipts, price support loan records or copies of warehouse receipts are acceptable."

DINNER GUESTS

Mrs. O. T. Crosby had as dinner guests Sunday her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Mickey, Diann, David and Scott of Lubbock and her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Crosby, Gregg, Jim and Genice of Hart. Another guest was Miss De Rhonda Brown of Hart.

This is further amended by saying "If voluminous, a summary of these or a certification and summary from the ginner may be accepted but such a summary must show the bale number, gross weight of each bale and total weight of each year's production."

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., says requiring producers to supply individual bale numbers and weights will place a heavy load of extra work and expense on gin offices. A quick check with a few ginners over the area reveals this observation to be correct.

And he added "Unless I'm badly mistaken when all this extra work is done we'll come out with virtually the same proven yields we now have."

Johnson said PCG would commend ASCS Administrator Kenneth Frick on the new provision for adjusting proven yields on farms where total losses have occurred, "but at the same time we will strongly protest the requirement that individual bale numbers and weights be presented as production evidence."

For each of the three years 1966, 1967 and 1968, aggregate proven yields for Lubbock County come to less than the county's production as reported by the U. S. Bureau of Census, even after taking into consideration the small number of farms not reporting yields.

In answer to a question as to the administrative expense that the change might entail, Lubbock County Office Manager Walter Wells said "All I can do at this point is guess, but we are talking about numbers and weights on almost 500,000 bales, and I wouldn't be surprised if this would necessitate the work of about 10 people over a period of two months."

And he added "Unless I'm badly mistaken when all this extra work is done we'll come out with virtually the same proven yields we now have."

Johnson said PCG would commend ASCS Administrator Kenneth Frick on the new provision for adjusting proven yields on farms where total losses have occurred, "but at the same time we will strongly protest the requirement that individual bale numbers and weights be presented as production evidence."

Mendoza-Casares Vows Pledged Saturday In Catholic Church

Double ring vows were exchanged Saturday evening in St. Peter's Catholic Church between Miss Eloisa Casares and Santana Mendoza Jr.

The Rev. Clarence Huber, pastor, directed the exchange of vows before an altar flanked with baskets of white gladioli. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Serbando Casares and Mr. and Mrs. Santana Mendoza Sr.

Mrs. Art Tollett presented the traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length princess styled gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long petal point sleeves with insets of lace. Appliques of lace, encrusted with seed pearls, enhanced the neckline and chapel length train which was attached at the waistline with a large bow.

A lace petaled headpiece held her shoulder length veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses. For the traditional "something borrowed", she wore a strand of pearls belonging to her maid of honor. She carried an "old" penny in her shoe and wore the traditional blue garter. "Something new" was her wedding gown.

Miss Nadine Nabarrete was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Eva Zamora of Tahoka, Janie and Angie Vera of Plainview, Rosa de la Cerda, Jackie Castillo, Polly Garcia, Maria Leyva, Louisa C. Cordova and Modesta Nabarrete.

Five of the female attendants were dressed in yellow and carried long stemmed yellow roses. Four attendants were gowned in moss green and carried green roses.

Robert Casares was best man. Antonio Nabarrete was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the parish hall. The bride's colors of yellow and moss green were used in decorations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Casares chose a dress of hot pink with white trim and matching church scarf. The bridegroom's mother wore a white dress with silver trim and matching hat.

The bride's going away dress of aqua was fashioned with v-neckline and long sleeves with fur trim.

The newlyweds, both graduates of Olton High School, will make their home in Plainview.

What if we told you to cough up $18.75 or else?

You wouldn't like it, of course.

You see, one of the nice things about buying U.S. Savings Bonds is that you don't have to.

That's because you happen to live in a free country where nobody forces you to do anything.

Rather, your country asks that you simply consider the many advantages of Savings Bonds.

First of all, if you think they're a get-rich-quick scheme, forget it. Bonds aren't for you. They only pay off in the long haul. For a quick return, there are a lot better ways to make a buck.

They do pay off, however. Handsomely, as a matter of fact.

A little over 4 dollars for every 3 you invest. Plus, the privilege of buying the new 5% Freedom Shares along with your Bonds.

But these are the selfish reasons for buying Bonds. Good, but selfish.

There's one other very important reason why Americans already own over $52 billion in Bonds.

It's called pride.

It just so happens that most Americans still choose to think this is the best piece of real estate going.

If you happen to be one of these Americans who thinks there's something to this country of ours, why not buy into it.

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Or go to your bank. And cough up that $18.75. Please.

A weekly public service feature from—the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Most of us have plenty of resolutions for the making, but any resolution regarding your health is a resolution well made, advises the Texas State Department of Health.

Plan ahead this year. Maintaining good health requires a little time and forethought, but it's much cheaper and simpler than trying to get well again. Resolve to lead a balanced life with plenty rest and exercise. Weight lifting or running the mile daily may not be your dish, but almost anyone can take a leisurely walk each day. Simply walking from the supper table to the bed is scarcely enough exercise for any well person.

Resolve to eat a balanced diet. Nutritionists recommend regular mealtimes with some of the basic four each day. Specifically, this includes a meat or meat substitute, bread or cereal, milk or dairy product, and fruit and vegetables—especially one rich in vitamin C. Foods come in many colors, textures and flavors, and can be easy on the eyes and tempting to the palate, as well as fuel for your body.

Resolve to see your doctor and your dentist for yearly check-ups, unless you need them more often. They can detect many danger signs, and in many cases prevent serious problems. Many types of cancer, for example, can often be cured if detected early.

Resolve to see that you and your family are protected against today's preventable diseases—smallpox, lockjaw, whooping cough, polio, measles, etc. . . . Keep your immunizations up to date.

Resolve to use your head where your health is concerned. Nothing cures everything. Beware the peddler who says it does, or who comes bearing fancy gadgets, radiation cones

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Have your New Year's resolutions made yet? I've only made one, I resolve not to make resolutions which I know I cannot keep!

It's fresh on my mind that I cannot keep them, even tho I'd like to do so.

I really meant all I said in my Christmas column about wanting some sweetness and tranquility but Christmas Eve I was reminded, "Mama, remember what you wrote."

The impudence of my number one son!

Sure enough, I was in quite a stew. If Christmas had been just one hour nearer I'd never have made it!

If I hadn't resolved not to make any resolutions, I'd resolve never to wait till the last minute again! (At the time, I vowed, "I'm going to start my Christmas shopping for next year next week. But I nixed that idea pretty soon—I couldn't keep any gift a secret for a year!)

Was Santa Claus good to you? He was too nice to me. In addition to such wonderful material gifts, it was even more wonderful to celebrate the best time of the year with those I love. I know I'm rich to live amongst my kin!

And now for one of the cutest stories I've heard. It came from one of our exchange papers. A Sunday school teacher asked her class of youngsters to draw their interpretations of the Nativity story. One little boy drew a picture of a mother, a baby and a very fat man. "What is your picture about?" she asked the little boy.

"Well," he said, "this is Mary and this is the baby Jesus and this is Round John Virgin."

advertising advice . . .

By A Banker

— IN —

American Bankers' Magazine

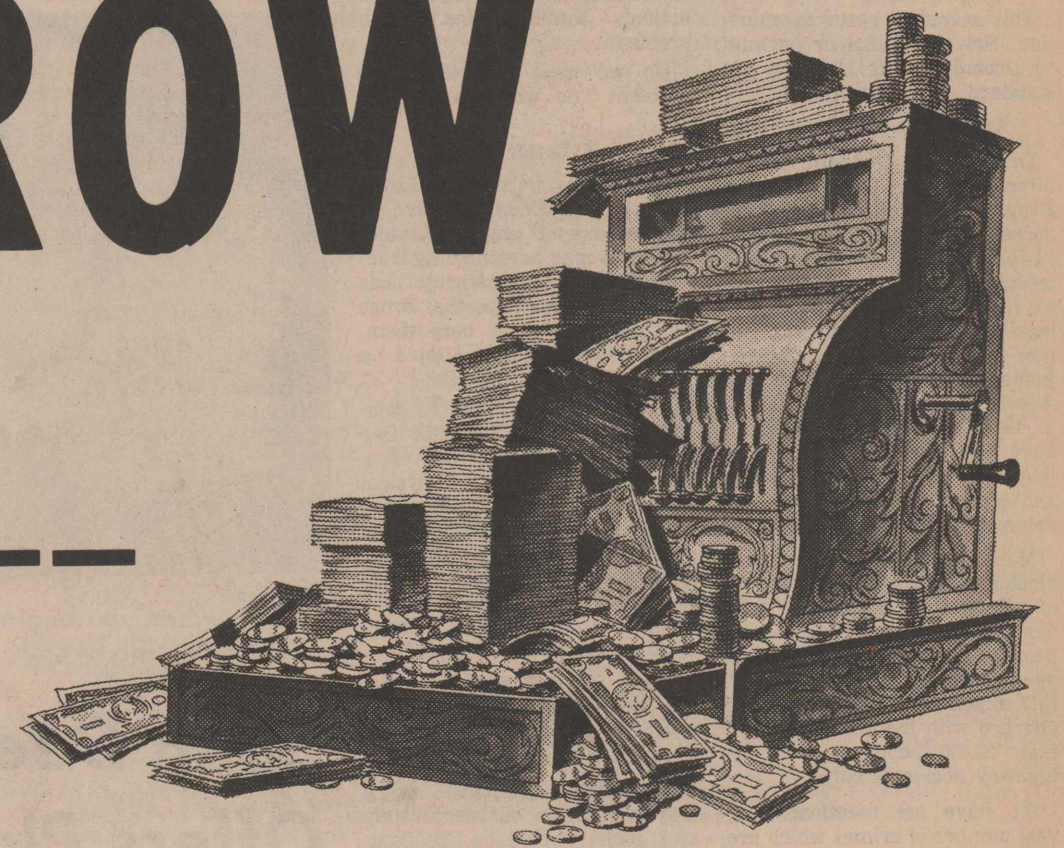

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and address being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, even if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and to the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town The life of a town depends on the life, wide-awake and liberal advertising man."

Should Marijuana Be Legalized?

Should marijuana be legalized? This question is being widely debated, with prominent people on both sides of the issue.

Dr. Margaret Mead, internationally known anthropologist, has stated on national television, "It is my considered opinion at this time that marijuana should be legalized."

Some have declared that "pot" is no more harmful than alcohol and that, therefore, it should not be against the law to use it.

This argument needs examination. How beneficial or harmful is alcohol—if this is to be the standard of comparison?

Another Health Hazard

Dr. James L. Goddard, former director of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, has said, as reported in "Life" magazine, "I believe that if alcohol and tobacco were not already legal, we might very well decide not to legalize them—knowing what we now know. In the case of marijuana . . . if we legalize it and it turns out to be quite harmful—a distinct possibility—we shall have introduced yet another public-health hazard that for social and economic reasons might become impossible to dislodge."

Many studies have shown that alcohol is involved in about half of all deaths in highway accidents. Since the total number of people killed on our highways is now well over 50,000 each year, this means that alcohol must be charged with the killing of more than 25,000 people a year—in highway accidents only.

We have not mentioned the vast number of crimes which are alcohol-connected—or the enormous waste of production caused by alcoholism, or the cost of expensive centers all across the nation for the treatment of alcoholism.

If marijuana is no worse than alcohol, let us ask, "Do we need another element added to our culture that will kill another 25,000 or more each year and cause more sorrow, more disaster, more economic loss, more mental illness?"

Alcoholism has been identified by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare as the nation's Number One health problem.

Do we need another health problem "no worse than alcohol"?

A Better Way

Writing in "Christian Life," Dr. A. D. Dennison, Jr., a prominent physician, said, "Every young person going from immaturity to maturity has problems. Some hope that drugs will either solve or bury them. They look for their Utopia in marijuana."

"Taking drugs is not the solution," he adds. "There is One Who can . . . make us new creatures . . . without physical damage. . . . He stands above the dangers and shallowness of drugs and offers a new life. Therefore if any man be in Christ he is a new creature. Old things are passed away. Behold, all things are become new."

There is a way for young people to find the help that they need in solving the problems of life—but it is not in drugs.

Legalizing marijuana as a way to improve our desperately sick society would be like fighting a fire by pouring gasoline on it.

Rev. and Mrs. Gene Davis and Paul attended a Christmas dinner party in the home of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Dale and Don of the Oklahoma Lane area.

"Wonder if Guy Lombardo could use me?"

"Well, guess I'll call it a day. Happy New Year!"

Grain Sorghum Producers Seeks Advisory Committee

The Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board has asked the assistance of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in its effort to establish an advisory committee in the 29 county High Plains area.

The committee was proposed by the TGSPB immediately after the Board members were elected in early October in order to give the Board broader representation and to develop a closer working relationship between the Board and local producers.

Extension Service District Agricultural Agents Billy C. Gunter of Lubbock and W. W. Grisham, Jr. of Amarillo pointed out that they would encourage all county agricultural agents in the 29 counties to consult with their County Program Building Committees on the appointment of advisors to the TGSPB.

"It is hoped that the Crops Subcommittee of each County Program Building Committee will select one producer as an advisor," said Gunter and Grisham. "This individual would then serve in an advisory capacity from that particular county to the 12-man Board. We would also encourage the Crops Subcommittee to invite a representative of the Board to present an annual report and discuss other matters involving the TGSPB."

K. B. Parish of Springlake, chairman of the Board, in explaining the advisory committee pointed out, "This program is for farmers, directed by farmers, and we feel this committee will play an active and important role in our administration of research and market development. We want to assure each grain farmer that his investment will work to give the best possible return."

The TGSPB was formed following the passage of a referendum for assessing five cents per ton on grain sorghum production.

OUT OF THIS WORLD
A short item in CIPSCO News, a house organ of the Central Illinois Public Service Company, helps to bring into proper perspective the cost of the moon programs: "...Some people may still complain that the $24 billion spent since 1961 to put man on the moon could have been put to better use here on Earth. Imagine, however, five times that amount — $120 billion — for use in improving the lot of mankind. That's the amount paid in interest on the national debt since 1961 — a figure clearly out of this world."

It would be difficult to think of anything less productive than interest payments on the national debt. They are the price of political squandering of the nation's substance. If anything, the space program and the technological advances resulting from it, may help to make the burden a little easier to bear.

Murder Without Motive

"We've got to find the motive!" cry hundreds of detectives in hundreds of murder novels.

It is true that finding the motive may point the finger of suspicion at the murderer. But motive is not an essential element of the crime. In the eyes of the law, a man may be guilty of murder even though his motive is never discovered. As one court commented in convicting a man for an apparently motiveless murder:

"Sometimes knowledge of the secret motive may die with the dead man, or be locked up in the breast of the slayer."

Does this seem unfair? To understand the law's reasoning, consider an oft-overlooked distinction between two common words: "intent" and "motive."

Suppose a man enters a store, fatally shoots the proprietor, and makes off with the contents of the cash register. He had both an intent and a motive.

His intent—that is, his immediate purpose when he pulled the trigger—was to shoot the victim. Proving such an intent is indeed essential to the state's case. It would not be murder if the gun had gone off by accident.

But his motive—that is, his underlying purpose—may have been perfectly proper. Perhaps he wanted money to buy a new car. Or to take his wife on a vacation. After all, a desire to become richer is the very motive that inspires millions of law-abiding citizens in their daily activities.

Clearly, therefore, guilt or innocence should not depend on the underlying motive that leads a man to kill. Whatever his motive, good or bad, known or unknown, it is still murder to kill with intent to kill.

Of course, even though motive is not an essential element of murder, it may still be an important piece of evidence in a particular case. By showing that the defendant had a strong incentive to kill, it may help to convince the jury that he really did kill.

Thus, proof that the butler stood to profit from the victim's will, or that he coveted the victim's wife, would make it more plausible that he administered the fatal poison.

Motive alone is not decisive. But motive, when added to other evidence of guilt, may spell conviction for the defendant. And lack of motive, added to other evidence of innocence, may set him free.
