OIL COMMITTEE COMPLETES STABILIZING PLAN

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

One of Wichita Falls' biggest assets is the recreational opportunities offered by its chain of lakes. These lakes are now visited by thousands each year, many of them visitors coming from considerable distances. As these lakes are made more accessible by improved highways and as better accommodations are afforded at the lake shores and there is better stocking of fish in their waters the number of people who come to enjoy them will increase. Improvement of the recreational opportunities of these lakes is an important plank in the platform of Wichita Falls' program of work.

This is National Music week and also Child Health week. The week is being observed in this section by many special musical programs and by the physical examination of school children. People who enjoy music are more than likely to enjoy good health—mental health anyway and if they enjoy mental health that makes for physical health.

"Cultural developments of a people must proceed in step with material well-being if they are to enjoy the fullest happiness," said President Hoover. "Musical appreciation should therefore be promoted as one of the liberal arts of life."

"One of the most depressing of those who are depressed by the depression is a man who is actually better off today in a financial way than he has ever been in his life. He has a secure position and his salary has not been reduced and is not likely to be. Based upon what his salary will buy he is getting at least 50 per cent more than he did in the height of the boom. If such men, who are as well or better off today than ever before would show a little optimism right now they could make it a great deal better for those who have really suffered.

And why do people always have to be thinking and talking in terms of money? This Talker recently visited a country home in the midst of beautiful natural surroundings. It was a home, not of riches but of plenty. Nobody owed any load of debt; there were great stores of food in the cellar and in the pantry; probably a comfortable balance in the bank; plenty for every need. One would have thought: here's one place where no talk would be heard of money or of hard times. Yet the talk in that home was of possessions, money, the lack of it and hard times—all the hard, cold material things while the warm and beautiful things all about seemed to be unnoticed.

J. C. Penney, head of the J. C. Penney stores and one of the greatest merchants of America, spent several busy days in Wichita Falls. During his visit here he held business conferences, visited stores and farms and dairies, addressed clubs and Sunday schools, all the while keeping in touch with the great mercantile organization he heads.

To every meeting and to every conference he brought interest and enthusiasm, and gave of himself and his wide experience freely. We can believe Mr. Penney does that most of the 365 days of the year.

"Eighteen years ago," said Mr. Penney to friends, "my application for a life insurance policy was rejected. It looked to the insurance companies like I was about through. Well, since then I have taken out a considerable amount of life insurance, and I know I am younger today than I was 18 years ago. I am continually finding new interests and new zest in living and in attempting to do something for humanity and for individuals and I find my business prospers the more I trust and lend encouragement to my associates."

There are doubtless times when Mr. Penney talks of merchandise and bills receivable and the other things of trade, but get him away from his office and he's quite likely to talk of cows and grasses and trees and barns.

When some of us who have less money learn to talk of other things we'll be a lot happier and maybe have more money and certainly be better life insurance risks.

A SIXTEEN OUNCE CHAMPION FIGHTER

THE little Bantam rooster we are so familiar with gets his name from the town of Bantam, in Java. He was first brought to America from India. This bird is very small, weighing slightly more than a pound, but as a fighter he accomplishes big things. Cock fights are known the world over, but are most popular in the Latin countries. A Bantam cock, being very courageous, will whip a common domestic cock of five times his own weight. The most beautiful of these birds is the Seabright Bantam of mixed colors and smooth legs, first raised by a fancier, Sir John Seabright. FALL TOTALS 2.5 INCHES IN TWO HOURS

Rain, Hail and Wind Storms Whip Across Entire Wichita Area

WHEAT THREATENED

Streets Flooded in Downpour; Store's Stock Soaked for $5,000 Loss

The roof of the DeLuxe bakery was crushed, the stock of the Stovall Sales company was damaged $5,000, trees were uprooted and streets blocked by a flood of water in a violent wind, hail and rain storm which struck Wichita Falls shortly after 7 o'clock Monday night.

Rain, Hail in Oklahoma

Many electric transformers were burned out by lightning, the Texas Electric Service company reported, and repair work was hampered by flooded streets which in instances prevented crews from reaching the scene of trouble. Employes of the company reported line and transformers again in working order shortly before midnight.

The total rainfall before 10 o'clock Monday night was reported by the electric company's weather bureau as two and one-half inches. Fierce rain and hail storms also struck a considerable portion of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma Monday afternoon and early Monday evening. Rains everywhere were torrential and hail pounded the roads and fields. Although no checkup was possible Monday night, experts feared damage to the wheat crop from the bombardment.

Overloaded by the weight of water accumulated during the torrential downpour which flooded Wichita Falls about 7 o'clock Monday night, the roof of the DeLuxe bakery, 1010 Holliday, crashed through to the floor, wrecking the interior of the shop with its entire stock and endangering the family of Joe Hirscy, gathered at the front of the building. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Family Escapes

Mr. Hirscy, his wife and two daughters and Oran Hollingshead were watching the storm from the front of the store when crackling from the roof created alarm. Before they could investigate the entire structure caved in, bringing with it a flood of water three feet deep which washed heavy fixtures, crushed by the weight of the roof, to the back of the building. The family fled through the front door just in time to escape the debris. Loaves of bread, rolls, half-mixed cookies, doughnuts and fruits floated on the floor of the flooded shop Monday night, the whole stock, including supplies and fixtures, wrecked. The building is owned by W. F. Parrish.

Water which was forced through second-floor windows of the former Nathan Lynch store building at Ninth and Scott by a terrific gust of wind about 9:30 o'clock Monday night caused damage estimated at more than $5,000 to the stock of the Stovall Sales company, it was reported.

Silk Dresses Soaked

An inspection of the building made shortly after the inundation of the first floor was discovered indicated that two or more hinged windows on the Ninth street side, on the second floor, had swung open despite their latches when the sudden flurry of wind and rain came

Rumania Turns Down German Trade Proposal

BUCHAREST, May 4. (US)—Rumania today dashed cold water over German hopes for securing regional trade agreements to support the Austro-German customs arrangement by breaking off negotiations pointing toward a German-Rumanian trade treaty.

The action was taken because of pressure by Foreign Minister Briand of France and Dr. Edouard Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slovakia, who convinced Foreign Minister Ghika at an important conference of little entente diplomats that Rumania must look to France rather than Germany for leadership.

First Divorcee From Speeded 'Mill' at Reno Is Bride Again

RENO, Nev., May 4. (AP)—Reno's first recipient of a six-week divorce decree became a bride again shortly after noon today when Elsie M. Michaelis was married to Merton D. Keller of Los Angeles.

RENO, Nev., May 4. (US)—Reno's quick-action divorce mill today ground out a record grist of "freedom papers," working with the precision of a new electric clock.

The promise that divorces would be granted on an average of one every 10 minutes was kept.

The first two decrees were:

Edith D. Partridge Rilly from Thomas P. Rilly on the grounds of extreme cruelty. They were married in Danville, N. Y.

Elsie Michaelis from Arthur Michaelis, on a charge of failure to provide. They were married at Ellensburg, Wash.

Scores of applicants were at the doors of the two Reno divorce court rooms when the new mill began operation. Attorneys were briskly active.

Judge Thomas F. Moran was well ahead of his 10-minute schedule in the first hour. He granted four decrees in the first 20 minutes.

Applicants went away smiling. They were tense for a minute or two, but they soon found out that the divorce process here is just as harmless as it is supposed to be.

One of the early decrees was received by Mrs. Katherine Stone Hoyt, prominent in New York society. She divorced Richard F. Hoyt, charging extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Myrtle Hook was one who did her smiling early. She won a decree from William Hook, Los Angeles capitalist, on the grounds of extreme cruelty.

Bank Bandit Slain And Two Men Held After Calvert Raid

WACO, Texas, May 4. (AP)—John E. Cantrell, former Waco building contractor was slain and his son, Clifton, 16, and a man giving the name of Ettell Emmons, were captured shortly after Cantrell and Emmons had robbed the Citizens State bank of Calvert Monday about 1 p. m.

Cantrell was slain by City Marshal W. F. Hale of Calvert, former Waco policeman, in an exchange of shots about one mile from Calvert, after the two bandits had left their automobile and fled into the brush and across the field.

The robbers took approximately $7,000. All but a few dollars of it was found in the field where Cantrell was slain and Emmons captured.

Boy Caught on Road

The boy was taken into custody on the Calvert-Bryan road by Sheriff J. Reed of Brazos county from Bryan who was en route to Calvert shortly after the robbery. Two suit cases with complete changes of clothing were in the car, the boy identified his father's body at Calvert.

Calvert officers had known of the plan to rob the bank, having been warned a week ago by Chief of Police Hollis Barron of Waco. Chief Barron and City Detective William Buchanan had gone to Calvert Saturday a week ago and with City Marshal Hale had watched the bank all day. That was the day first set for the robbery. Since then Hale had kept a close watch on the bank.

Plot Revealed

According to Chief Barron, a man whose name he would not disclose, came to police several weeks ago and told them that Cantrell had approached him with a proposition to plant his car in East Waco and let him (Cantrell) steal it. Cantrell told the man of his plan to rob the Calvert bank, Barron said. The man who tipped police off did not let Cantrell have his car, Barron said.

Cantrell and Emmons entered the Calvert bank dressed in overalls and covered the cashier, A. H. Allen with a revolver, forcing him into the vault. Scooping up the money the men left in an automobile and a posse which formed quickly, having been warned beforehand of the robbery plan, began pursuit. Jerry Blasing of Calvert took a shot at the fleeing men and a bullet pierced the gasoline tank. The car caught fire and the men took to the woods.

Planned to Burn Car

Chief Barron said part of the bank robbery plan had called for burning the automobile and transferring to the automobile in which the Cantrell boy was waiting.

When the officers, led by Hale, overtook the pair, Cantrell and Emmons hid behind a log and began shooting. Hale told Chief Barron over the telephone that Cantrell shot at him eight times. Part of Emmons' face was torn away by a shot from the officers. Cantrell's head was pierced.

Emmons told officers that there were four men and a woman in the robbery, but his story was discredited. Only two men had been seen in the bank and the Cantrell boy was found waiting on the road.

Chief Barron said officers had also been told that Cantrell had robbed a bank at Kyle. He and another man, Barron said, had planned to rob a bank at Killeen also.

REPORTER WHO SOLVED PAYNE CASE HONORED

Pulitzer Prizes for Letters And Journalism Named By Committee

WAR NOVEL WINS

H. R. Knickerbocker Series On Soviet Commands Recognition

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—The Pulitzer prizes in journalism and letters were awarded today for achievements which ranged from a novel on war-time America to the solution of a murder by a newspaper reporter.

"Years of Grace," by Margaret Ayer Barnes, was chosen by the jury of awards as the novel published in 1930 which "best presents the whole atmosphere of American life." The prize-winning play was "Alison's House," written by Susan Glaspell and produced by Eva le Ryltgenne at the Civic Preparatory theater. Its characters disguised by fictitious names, the play deals with the belated recognition of the poetry of Emily Dickinson.

Other Prizes

Other prizes in the field of letters were awarded to the following:

In history to "The Coming of The War, 1914," by Bernadotte E. Schmitt; in biography, to "Charles W. Eliot," by Henry James, and in verse, to "Collected Poems of Robert Frost." The jury's decision marked the second time Mr. Frost had won a Pulitzer prize. His "New Hampshire" was chosen in 1924.

Prizes of $1,000 accompany all awards in the groups except in history, in which the award is $2,000.

Atlanta Graft Drive

The Atlanta Constitution was chosen as the newspaper which rendered "the most disinterested and meritorious public service" in 1930. The award was based on the fact that The Constitution conducted a successful exposure of municipal graft, with consequent convictions.

A. B. MacDonald of the staff of the Kansas City Star won the $1,000 prize for the best example of a reporter's work which accomplished "some public good commanding public attention and respect."

MacDonald was sent to Amarillo, Texas, at the suggestion of Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News and Globe, to investigate the murder of Mrs. A. D. Payne. She had been killed by the explosion of dynamite hidden in her automobile, and police had given up the case as a mystery too deep to be solved. MacDonald's work brought about the confession of her husband, who subsequently committed suicide with explosives while awaiting trial.

Newspaper Awards

The remaining prizes in journalism were awarded to H. R. Knickerbocker of the foreign staff of the New York Evening Post and the Philadelphia Public Ledger for a series of articles on the operation of the five-year plan in Russia; to Charles S. Ryckman of the Fremont (Nebraska) Tribune for his editorial "The Gentleman From Nebraska," published Nov. 7, 1930, and to Edmund Duffy of The Baltimore Sun, for his cartoon, "An Old Struggle Still Going On," published Feb. 27, 1930.

Intrepid Oil Fire Fighters Make Final Plans to Snuff Cole Monster

Kinley Brothers Will Attempt to Shoot Geyser of Flames At Dawn Today; Caution Exercised

GLADEWATER, Texas, May 4. (AP)—Strict precautions were taken tonight as final plans were completed to shoot the blazing Sinclair No. 1 Cole well near Gladewater with nitroglycerin at dawn tomorrow, in an effort to snuff out the flames that have raged since last Tuesday.

Texas rangers and special officers tramped through hundreds of acres of pine forest, watching for camp fires and grass blazes started by sparks from the furnace that still roared as lustily and burned as scorchingly as when friction sparks suddenly set it off a week ago, fatally burning nine men.

Kinleys in Warning

M. M. and Harry Kinley, Oklahoma oil fire fighters of renown, who contracted to shut off the flames at the casinghead, warned that unless the woods were free of fire a still greater conflagration might result when the gusher began spouting its inflammable contents over the countryside.

Tom Cole, owner of the land on which the wild gusher was brought in, was moving from the home in which he and his family had lived 12 years. They did not plan to return to the farm to live.

Harry Kinley, younger of the fire-fighting brothers, had the bulk of the responsibility on his shoulders, M. M. having fallen and broken a leg the second day he was on the site.

Harry went almost into the flames, while many streams of wa-

U. S. Grounds 35 Passenger Planes Following End of Rockne Inquiry

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—Most drastic order in the history of federal air regulation was issued today as an aftermath of the recent Knute Rockne plane crash in Kansas when the department of commerce ordered all Fokker F-10 and F-10-A transport planes "grounded" immediately for passenger service.

About 35 ships on four of the nation's largest air-lines are involved. The order covers two entire series of Fokker tri-motor transports, and will stand until each of the ships is thoroughly inspected by commerce department inspectors.

Announcing the order, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics Young said the step is the result of investigations of the Bazaar, Kan., crash in which the wing of a Fokker F-10-A tri-motored transport of the Transcontinental Western Air corporation broke off in the air, plunging the craft to disaster.

The four lines affected by the order are the Pan-American Airways, the Transcontinental Western Air Line, the American Airways, and the Western Air Express, all of which are crippled by the edict with millions of dollars in equipment tied up so far as passenger service is concerned. The planes, however, can be continued in service for freight or mail.

The order, it was learned authoritatively, is due to the fact that the Fokker wings—which are covered with laminated wood instead of metal or fabric—are not available to regular daily inspection.

CONSERVATION PACT DESIGNED FOR STATES

Program to Be Submitted To Legislatures of Oil Districts

PRICE CONSIDERED

Market and Prevention Of Waste Linked, Experts Point Out

AUSTIN, May 4. (AP)—The oil states advisory committee tonight completed a proposed interstate conservation pact designed to stabilize the petroleum industry.

The pact would be submitted to the legislatures of the various oil producing states. It would become effective when ratified by Texas and Oklahoma, two of the biggest producers.

Details of the proposed pact were explained a short time later to legislative committees of Arkansas and Texas, in session here. The session will be resumed tomorrow.

Uniform Law

The pact embodied a uniform conservation law for all oil states. The oil states committee would serve as a liaison group among the various states, with powers largely advisory rather than actual.

A sub-committee composed of Cicero I. Murray of Oklahoma City, chairman of the committee, and Warwick M. Downing of Denver did most of the work on the proposed agreement. Members of the committee stated they hoped it would bring about equitable proration among all the oil states and hold the oil supply within the demand. They pointed out that it was in the interest of oil and gas conservation to maintain a fair price because otherwise many wells would have to be abandoned. Nine states were represented at the sessions here, which continued tonight.

States Curb Waste

The proposed law would empower the regulatory commissions of the various states to prevent the production of oil above market demands. Such overproduction would constitute waste, the suggested measure said.

The oil states advisory committee would ascertain facts concerning the relation of production to demand and would recommend more stringent curbs in the state or states which were producing too much.

Downing made it plain the recommended law constituted merely a working basis for legislative committees from the several states. He suggested that legislatures of states other than Arkansas and Texas appoint committees and that these committees come to Colorado for a meeting soon.

Small Wells Exempt

Under the proposed measure, the state commission would be authorized to prevent price discrimination between pools. Unnecessary drilling would be prevented. The market outlet would be equitably apportioned among the pools so the settled pools would be preserved. Small wells would not be prorated.

Any state could pass a conservation law of the nature suggested regardless of the action of another state. The compact features, however, necessarily would require similar action on the part of other states.

The oil states advisory committee would cooperate with the federal government inequating domestic and foreign production.

C-C CONGRESS HEARS HOOVER

President Urges Scrapping Of Armaments

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Scrapping of armaments was advocated by President Hoover today as a major means by which the world can encourage business revival.

The congress of the International Chamber of Commerce heard from him that nearly five billion dollars is spent yearly on arms, 70 per cent more than before the great war.

This he called a burden upon economic recuperation, which gives rise to fear and threats that contribute "to all forms of instability, whether social, political or economic."

The president took his stand in an address of welcome, which opened a week of discussion by the congress on ways to alleviate international business dullness.

In the brief speech in Constitution hall, three blocks southwest of the White House, he did not mention the tariff or war debt questions. The thousand delegates rose to applaud his remarks at the conclusion and he left immediately.

An attack on high tariff policies came shortly afterward from Georges Theunis of Belgium, in his report as the retiring president of the world business organization.

Without referring to the Smoot-Hawley law, he expressed a belief that high tariffs are "one of the fundamental causes of our economic troubles."

"A liberal customs policy might be expected to lead to better business," he said. "But the present depression itself has the effect of increasing the protectionist temper of the various states."

John H. Fahey, Boston publisher, reminded the congress at this afternoon's session that foreign dealers have a recourse to the tariff commission under the Smoot-Hawley law, if they consider its rates unfair.

Special to The Record News

'RIGHT MEDICINE; HIT THE SPOT!'

So Tens of Thousands Have Exclaimed, After Putting Konjola To the Most Severe Tests

Is life made miserable by indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness? Then give Konjola a trial. This remarkable medicine of 29 ingredients is no experiment; seven million bottles were used in two years.

Read what Mrs. Lizzie Ross, P ½ street, Galveston, says of Konjola: "Three years I suffered from kidney trouble and neuritis. There were times when I could hardly move about. Neuritis pains kept me from sleeping. But in less than a week after starting on Konjola my health began to improve. I am on the third bottle and already feel like another person."

And Mrs. B. P. Dickens, 711 N. St. Paul street, Dallas, declares: "For eight months I had rheumatism throughout my body. Kidney trouble bothered me, too. My back hurt and night risings were frequent. Now I am on my fifth bottle of Konjola and am improving every day. I rest fine and my kidneys do not bother me. I am feeling better in every way."

And what encouragement there is in the words of Mrs. Mary Schmitz, 4210 Washington street, Houston, who says: "More than a year I suffered tortures from rheumatism, unable to go outdoors. My legs ached and my hands were sore and stiff. I tried many medicines with only temporary relief. Then eight bottles of Konjola diminished the pains from rheumatism; kidneys are strengthened and I can do my housework. I wish that I had known of Konjola long ago."

Plans Completed To Shoot Well

ter played on him from hose in the hands of workers, and hooked steel cable to the separator, elevators and other pieces of steel that had to be pulled out to remove danger of the well igniting anew from hot metal after the blaze was cut away with explosive. M. M. coached him from the sidelines and the two had their heads together at intervals as they rehearsed the minute details of the blast to be undertaken tomorrow.

Plans were to set off the nitroglycerin soon after daylight, in order to permit a long period of daytime in which to attempt to cap the flowing oil. It was while workmen were seeking to bring the well under control last Tuesday that the fatal explosion occurred which started the fire.

A 96-foot rig was anchored to four pine trees, ready to be skidded down over the hole when the fire was out. Experts will assume the task of bridling the flow of oil, taking up the work where it was left off by the nime men who perished in the flames.

City Approves 1931 Budget

actment because of the absence of Mayor Walter Nelson Jr.

The budget provides that $374,463.63 be appropriated from the general fund for the payment of expenses of the city government.

A sum of $92,328.92 is appropriated out of the street fund for street maintenance and repairs.

From the park fund $62,509.63 is appropriated for the maintenance and construction of parks.

To the Kemp Public library $14,055 is appropriated.

Funds for the operation, maintenance and construction of the water department were appropriated to the amount of $145,364.56.

A sum of $262,546.49 is appropriated from the interest and sinking fund for the purpose of paying interest due on bond indebtedness and creating a sinking fund for the payment of outstanding and maturing bonds.

The budget, estimating the expense of all city departments during the year, was prepared and submitted by George D. Fairtrace, city manager. The budget provides for material reductions in the expense of operating the city. Its outstanding feature is the reduction in salary of all city employes. Salaries of $3,500 or more per year are reduced 12½ per cent, and salaries under that figure are reduced 10 per cent.

A group of Wichita Falls electricians and representatives of electric companies protested a proposal before the city commissioners asking that the electricians occupation tax of $25 be reduced to $10. Concurring with the group of electricians that the tax should remain at $25, the city council definitely tabled the ordinance.

At the request of property owners, an ordinance passed in 1926 and providing for the paving of North Third street from Broadway to the entrance of Scotland park was repealed.

from the south. The water poured in great volume through the stamped-metal ceiling of the ground floor salesroom, and fell directly on a long rack carrying hundreds of silk dresses. Other merchandise, on both the first and second floors, was materially damaged, according to the management of the store.

The same gust which accounted for the damages sustained by the Stovall company picked up the heavy building-board likenesses of Charlie Chaplin in the lobby of the Strand theater and slammed them to the side walk with a resounding slap which brought patrons hurrying from the theater in alarm.

Almost an inch and a half of rain, accompanied by a sharp peppering of hail, and ominous electrical disturbances, temporarily cut off traffic on Brook, Holliday, Monroe, and Harrison streets at the Wichita Valley railway crossings and inundated streets in the lower sections of the city.

Wallace C. Taylor, data clerk of the Texas Electric Service company weather bureau, reported 1.49 inches of rain after this first driving shower. The downpour was resumed in less than an hour, and in 30 minutes more than an inch of rain fell, bringing the total to 2½ inches.

The warmest weather of the year occurred here Monday when the thermometer climbed to 83 degrees, according to information furnished by the weather bureau maintained by the Texas Electric Service company.

The previous record for the year was 82 degrees, which was registered three times in April.

Lake Wichita Rising

A violent wind accompanied the second storm, uprooting trees over the city. A giant cottonwood, blown across Taylor street in the 1400 block, halted traffic on that street. Southland street cars and bus service was temporarily suspended, and one bus was stranded on Harrison street by water that ran high up on the motors of cars and trucks. At Avenue E and Monroe street a fire truck was used to pull cars through the water, while Country Club Estates was swamped in portions for a time and water ran hub-deep to cars on Indiana, Scott and Lamar between Eleventh and Tenth.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company reported a number of lines down in the Electra area, although the company was able to maintain service. Both Electra and Burkburnett were soaked in the heavy downpour.

Lake Wichita was reported rising, and within four inches of the spillway. Water department employes were unable to determine if the lake's over flow would again inundate lower sections of the town as the rise was not expected to reach its peak before early morning. The duration of the two storms was approximately two hours.

In Iowa Park the rain was preceded by a fierce hail storm that piled up in drift and bruised field and garden crops in the area. Eldorado, Okla., reported huge hail stones an inch and a half deep over the main street of the town along with a two-inch hard rain. Rain and hail fell in Altus, Okla., and hard showers were scattered all over southern Oklahoma. Eldorado reported considerable damage to wheat.

Dispatchers for the Fort Worth and Denver railroad reported heavy hail storms at Goodlett and Harrold during the afternoon Monday. No rain reports came from Quanah but there were showers, accompanied by light hail at Vernon. The rain swept south later in the evening and Henrietta reported a heavy downpour at 9 o'clock. Showers fell at Bowie and Decatur in the afternoon.

Along the Valley road, Anson got a heavy shower shortly after 7 o'clock and a light rain fell at Abilene. No downfall was reported at Stamford.

Katy dispatchers said rain, wind, and hail covered Oklahoma all along the line through Altus, Elk City, Forgan and on to Woodward. No rain had fallen to the east in Texas early in the evening.

SCHOOL SUIT SET FRIDAY

Ouster of Two Boards Sought in Petitions

Efforts to remove members of existing school boards in two districts of Wichita county were revealed in two petitions filed Saturday in district court here, a hearing on one of which was set by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Monday for next Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Removal of four members of the Fairview school board is sought in a petition brought by James S. Ross, Walter Bohner, J. A. Sessums, L. D. Studyvin, George E. Beavermeyer, J. P. Barron, M. E. Conkling, F. G. Spicer, C. E. Lundberg and D. G. Winkle. The plaintiffs classify themselves as property owners in the Fairview independent school district, and patrons of that school. Their petition would remove John C. Wells, Will Teel, J. M. Morrison and M. A. Walker. The petition was filed by Luther Hoffman, Wichita Falls attorney.

Another suit was filed by Grady McKenzie, and seeks to declare the recent school board election in the Iowa Park district illegal because of an alleged misconduct in holding the election. George and Brannan, of this city, are attorneys for the plaintiff. Defendants in the action are R. C. Acuff, John M. Murphree and M. B. Cain.

The Fairview petition is to be heard Friday morning, Judge Martin said.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Allison Drug Store says one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must end your pile agony or money back.—Adv.

BUTLER FLIRTS WITH POLITICS

Marine General May Seek Senatorship

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, May 4. (US)—Major General Smedley Darlington Butler, stormy petrel of the United States marine corps for nearly 30 years, in all probability will be a candidate for the senate from Pennsylvania next year.

Butler will retire from the marines in October. He has been flirting with the suggestion of Pennsylvania friends that he seek the seat now occupied by Senator James J. Davis, former cabinet officer in the administration. Butler has the Pennsylvania politicians worried.

To date the fighting marine has maintained silence, probably waiting for Davis to reveal whether he will be a candidate to succeed himself. Butler is not expected to make up his mind until Davis makes his position explicit.

It's Up to Davis

Should Davis, as many have hinted, withdraw, Butler may be expected to throw his hat into the ring with customary vigor. On the other hand should Davis again seek the seat originally won by William S. Vare, "boss" of Philadelphia in the memorable 1926 elections and subsequently denied to him, Butler's friends do not anticipate he will make the run.

Governor Pinchot might be expected to take up Butler's cause. The marine officer also could count upon the dry vote in the keystone state. But just now, that about ends the support he could look for.

Butler would have a hard row to hoe towards the senatorship. At present he has no organization backing him but a number, including the powerful Vare machine, are known to be in opposition to any hopes he may entertain to enter the senate.

Quaker City Hostile

When General Butler obtained a leave of absence from his corps a few years back to "dry up" Philadelphia, he did not arouse any particular friendship among the Quaker City's powers-that-be. Philadelphia is, or was, notoriously wet and the politicians there did not take kindly to Butler's efforts.

Offsetting this dislike which, doubtless, would be reflected in a vastly diminished vote from the Vare coteries, Butler would count upon an almost solid dry vote in the rest of the state. Yet even his most ardent friends, familiar with the Pennsylvania political situation, hold little prospect of success solely upon the dry strength being given en masse to the outspoken soldier.

There are, of course, other things which commend General Butler to the Pennsylvania electorate. Few politically minded in the eastern part of the state, have forgotten the valiant services rendered the state in congress by "Uncle Tom" Butler, the general's father who at the time of his death a few years ago was dean of the house and for many years chairman of the powerful naval affairs committee. General Butler might be expected to profit some, if he runs for the senate, because of this.

Senator Davis, it is pointed out, would get little or no support from Governor Pinchot's political machine and it is freely predicted that the governor and his allies would strongly favor the marine general if he will seek the office.

Montague Farmers Study Cucumbers

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, May 4.—Many farmers in northern part of Montague county are very much interested in cucumber raising and are well organized for the business. Arrangement for a market here has been made, it is learned and a fair price is expected for the vegetable which comes up to specifications. Farmers are being instructed on variety and method.

Another meeting of cucumber raisers was held here recently and about 150 farmers were reported present. The school gymnasium was used for meeting place. Speeches by those in a position to give valuable instructions were made at meeting. Among them were R. R. Reppert, insect specialist from A. and M. college, who discussed the insect problem and how to deal with it in cucumber raising. County Agent C. E. Jameson made an interesting talk. Those who attended the meeting manifested much interest and many questions were asked and answered pertaining to best methods of cucumber raising.

Most of those who planted cucumbers report a good stand and very small damage was done by late cold weather.

Amarillo Helium Plant Proves Fully Capable of Filling Government Needs

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The government's Amarillo, Texas, helium plant which was designed, built and is operated by the United States bureau of mines, department of commerce, established a new record in average daily output in March.

Operating 22 2-5 days, the plant produced 1,297,000 cubic feet of airship gas of substantially 98 per cent helium purity, containing 1,271,000 cubic feet of helium. This averages 56,740 cubic feet of contained helium per day, which is the highest rate ever maintained by any helium plant over a like period. The plant has amply proved its ability to take care of the government's demand for helium.

Half Capacity

The most remarkable feature of the record made in March is that the entire output was produced with only one of the two separation units of the plant in operation. This unit could have been operated at substantially the same rate for the entire 31 days of the month, producing about 1,750,000 cubic feet of contained helium, but was shut down for 8 3-5 days to to avoid exceeding the government's demand for airship gas. Formerly the rated capacity of each unit was 1,000,000 cubic feet of helium per month, giving a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet per month for the plant. However, improvements that have been made by engineers of the bureau of mines, and experience that has been gained by the operating staff, have made it possible to raise the output far beyond the original rated capacity without lowering the efficiency or overstressing the plant equipment.

The Amarillo plant has never been operated at full capacity because the government has not required all of the helium it can produce. The only month when the production of 1,271,000 cubic feet of helium was exceeded by any helium plant was in June, 1930, when the Amarillo plant turned out 1,407,800 cubic feet of contained helium. This production was obtained by operating the full 30 days of the month, and using both units most of the time. The present ability to turn out a larger production with only one unit, and the fact that the percentage recovery of helium in March, 1931, was about 6½ per cent higher than in June, 1930, gives some indication of the improvements that have been made in the past nine months.

Low Expenditure

The total net expenditures for operation and maintenance in March were $9,888.89 or $7.78 per thousand for the 1,271,000 cubic feet of contained helium produced. Much better unit costs could be attained if the demand for helium justified operation at a rate nearer the plant's full capacity. The 1,407,800 cubic feet produced in June, 1930, required net expenditures for operation and maintenance of only $6.23 per thousand, although the plant was not then as efficient as it is now.

For eight months out of the past 12, the plant's production has been limited to about 750,000 cubic feet per month by the restricted government demand for helium. Nevertheless, in the year ending March 3, 1931, it produced 11,002,630 cubic feet at a net operating cost of only $121,197.50. This is about one-third of what it would have cast to produce the same amount of helium at the Fort Worth plant, which supplied the army and navy before the plant at Amarillo was constructed. During the fiscal year when unit costs at Fort Worth were the lowest, expenditures of $318,446.40 for operation and maintenance were required to produce $9,355,623 feet of airship gas of about 94 per cent purity, containing about 8,800,000 cubic feet of helium. Thus it will be seen that the Amarillo plant is now saving the government about $200,000 per year in operating expense.

Mystery Bomber Soon to Undergo Its First Tests

SEATTLE, May 4. (US)—Guarded from all eyes save those of the expert workmen employed upon its construction, a "mystery" bomber, built by the Boeing Airplane company with utmost secrecy during the last few weeks, is soon to undergo its first tests, it became known today.

It is understood the great plane embodies new and revolutionary features, and that if it is accepted by the United States army a huge contract will be given the Seattle plant.

Following the test flights the mystery ship, which has been nicknamed "death angel" by employes of the plant, is scheduled to be shipped to Washington, D. C., where the army will put it through a series of tests.

The craft has a wing spread of 76 feet. This is smaller than some other types of bombers but the plane is said to make up in speed what it lacks in dimensions. With engines of so far greater horsepower than are usually used in planes of this size, the bomber, according to reports, is capable of carrying a 2500-pound load of explosives in addition to its crew.

New principles of construction, making for greater lifting power and speed than heretofore have been possible, are said to be incorporated in the plane.

Fair at Childress Gets New Support

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 4.—There is some discussion at this time concerning the annual exhibition of the Childress State fair. On account of the drouth and depressed condition of the country the exhibition which was to have been held last fall was canceled. But at this time there is a growing sentiment in favor of launching the fair again. It is believed with farming prospects and general conditions the fair next fall would be a success and would draw a large crowd. The matter is to be discussed by the business men and the local chamber of commerce within a short time.

AH! Pain Stops

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

CHEAP CUTS OF MEAT IMPROVED BY USING SUGAR

Sugar Blends Deliciously with Meat Juices and Seasonings

One of the most inexpensive meat stews to make is the famous Mexican dish—Chili Con Carne. The recipe, which is very simple, follows:

Slice fine, two onions and cook slowly in four tablespoons of fat in a covered kettle until soft—not brown. Then add one and one-half pounds round steak or cheaper beef cut in small cubes and cook until the meat starts to fry. Stir in one to three tablespoons Chili powder, mixed in a little water, one teaspoon salt and two teaspoons sugar. Next add one quart hot water and one-half cup tomato puree or juice. Simmer until meat is very tender and the stew is of a thick consistency. Serve with potatoes, rice, corn or hominy and a salad. This meal topped with a sweet dessert is most satisfying and properly balanced.

Sugar can be similarly used when you stew, braise or pot-roast cheap cuts of beef or lamb; and a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt noticeably improves the flavor of vegetables. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

And the folks will tell you that Chesterfield won them and continues to win smokers on its unvarying and dependable good smoking quality. Mild, ripe, choice tobaccos, mellowed by natural ageing, are blended and cross-blended to give to Chesterfield smoke an aroma, flavor, and smoothness that is just what smokers want. No mere claims will stand up against genuine quality, and more and more Chesterfield smokers are proving this for themselves every day.

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

What Reds Yell About Unfortunate Mr. Diamond Hypocritical Labels

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Calm gentlemen advising Mayor Walker who, in a fight, usually doesn't need any help, should tell him he can win his battle without dragging the "reds" into it. Rabbi Wise and Rev. John Haynes Holmes should not be called Bolshevists because they are protesting about corrupt conditions in New York. The patriotic thing to do is to clean up the mess. As it is the "reds" have plenty to yell about.

Mr. Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster with nine lives, is shot in the back by certain underworld gentlemen would would like to succeed him in his racket. Police will not mourn if he dies this time. The funeral of this gang leader will be a pretentious one, like the funerals of all racketeers. A certain glamor attaches to this marauder because he has lived a dangerous life. But the moment he is gone the memory of him will go with him. The evil that he has done will live after him but nothing of the man himself.

When the United States went to war on the side of the allies, first distrust then hatred of the "Hun" was intensified by tales of German atrocities. French and English atrocities, which were probably just as numerous, were labelled "defense measures" and excused.

That the same kind of propaganda was used in the time of the Crusades to inspire thousands of Christian warriors to depart for the Holy Land against the Moslems, is the contention of Prof. Dana C. Munro of Princeton university. He points out that "although Christian writers who lived in the Holy Land at the time gave favorable accounts of the Mahometans, the common belief in atrocities remained unchanged, and the church, in order to kindle the zeal for new crusades, continued to vilify the Moslems."

People believe what they want to believe, and they put labels on things as "betrayals," "atrocities," "injustice," "paganism," "atheism," "immorality," when such labels help to defend their interests. Truth is the last thing in the world that seems to count.

Capt. Frank M. Hawks, having broken speed records in America, now breaks them in Europe. In 59 minutes he accomplished the Paris-to-London flight, a distance of 218 miles, or 220 miles an hour. The previous best time was 78 minutes. To Hawks, who has the happy faculty of breaking his own records as well as those set up by others, no achievement is final. So long as the blood flows in his veins, and he has a machine in which to fly, he will keep on attempting what other men insist is the impossible. Like Napoleon, he has ruled that word out of his vocabulary. He believes with Goethe that "the deed is everything, the glory naught."

When the word "head-hunter" is spoken, the mind immediately jumps to such places as the island of Formosa or regions in Central Africa, and northeast India, where that sport is still being carried on. A recent feud in Formosa netted 199 heads, according to a Saturday cable. But the mind need not jump so far. New York and Chicago have their own quota of head-hunters. There are gangland chiefs who can boast of more decapitations than any tribal chief among the Dyaks of Borneo. The Dyaks at least have the excuse of religion.

Painters like poets seem to be born, not made. In support of this history has provided many illustrious examples. The most recent is the case of Victor A. Ledger, a boy of 16, whose painting, "On Board the Hispanola," has been accepted for exhibition by the venerable Royal Academy of London.

Young Ledger never went to an art school. He works at the Covent Garden market and dabbles with paint after his day's labors are done. His "studio" is his humble bedroom in a London ghetto. The canvas he executed "for fun" and submitted in the same spirit, never dreaming that it would be taken. At the annual exhibit his work will be hung alongside of the work of such distinguished English painters as Augustus John and Sir William Orphen.

We have our own Victor Ledger in the person of John Kane, the untutored Pittsburgh house and sign painter, whose landscapes are hung in our foremost galleries, and whose work has elicited the highest praise.

England's Farm Ills

WHEN crippled little Philip Snowden stood up in the British parliament to announce a pending increase in the rate of taxation on British land values, he brought one step farther along a process that began about the time that Napoleon was sailing down to St. Helena.

The tax increase, of course, was devised to gain more revenue for the government. One of its chief effects, however, will be to turn the screws a little more tightly on the landed proprietors whose vast estates have given a tone to English civilization since the days of Elizabeth.

Taxation has been ruining the landed gentry. Each year some of the old, established families quit the manor houses where they and their forebears had lived for two or three centuries and seek cheaper and less pretentious quarters. Some of the estates are subdivided into small holdings. Some are bought by the post-war rich; some pass to wealthy Americans. It is quite certain that Snowden's new tax, if it goes through, will still further narrow the steadily-shrinking circle of landed aristocrats; and as this class vanishes, the English civilization that we have known, and that our civilization stems from, must take an entirely new tack.

Yet it was not the world war, with its accompanying financial burdens, that started the landed gentry on the downward path. As much as anything, it was the steam engine.

Until the time of the Napoleonic wars, England was primarily an agricultural nation. The landed gentry were, in essence, large-scale farmers. They set the tone for the nation because of that fact. They were a sturdy ruling class, made secure by the unwavering stability of land values and of the price of farm produce.

Then, a little more than a century ago, the mechanical age began to develop. England discovered that she had enormous coal deposits. Factories and factory towns sprang up like boom towns in a new Texas oil field. Ships began to carry English manufactured goods to all quarters of the earth, bringing back raw materials—and, especially, bringing back wheat and corn and meat from countries where these things could be grown more cheaply than in England.

The bottom fell out of agriculture. From that moment, though no one realized it, the landed gentry began to decline. They had no place in a factory era.

Now their decline is all too visible. The terrific taxation England has suffered since the war has hastened their dispersion. Snowden's new plan will knock some more old families out of their ancestral estates. But the job really began a long time ago. James Watts, and not Snowden, is primarily responsible.

When "Ignorance Is Bliss"

WHOEVER coined the expression, "ignorance is bliss," was apparently years ahead of his time.

Within the space of a month two of this country's most eminent men of medicine have come to the identical conclusion that brains aren't so healthy for us.

Dr. Harvey W. Cushing of Boston finds that the brain is responsible for stomach ulcers—of all things.

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland accuses this highly developed organ of ours for a goodly share of man's neurotic diseases, one of which goes so far as to produce "gangrenous spots on the body."

Says Dr. Crile: "The large brain which man has developed to his advantage often becomes his chief liability." Brains, as you see, can be a curse as well as a blessing.

Of course there will continue to be those among us who will never be in any danger of contracting diseases of an intellectual origin. But it will seem strange to be advised that if you would not expose yourself to grave physical dangers, why just don't think too hard.

Economy vs. Individuality

A WRITER in the current issue of The American Architect complains that the federal government, in standardizing many of the smaller postoffice buildings that it is now erecting in all parts of the country, is running the risk of putting up buildings that may not meet local requirements at all. A building designed for a small New England town, he says, may not be suitable for a town in Louisiana; and he questions whether any one design can be found that will be adaptable to all parts of the country.

Unquestionably, there is a great deal to this argument; but it probably will lose in a head-on collision with our everlasting desire for economy. Doubtless it is cheaper to build these small postoffices all from one plan; and the taxpayer is doing about all he can right now.

Yet it is a pity that individual designs cannot be had in every case. If that were possible, the federal building program could add a great deal of beauty to towns throughout the country.

Flashback

Surely these nights, no matter where you are,
Or what you do—you must have thoughts of me;
And though you may not bear the faintest scar—
I like to think, my dear, that when you see
The April night aflame with all its lure,
That suddnely the vision of my face
Steals back and leaves you saddened and unsure
That you were right to part from my embrace.
For, after all, I think that our affair
Was worth the while—I know for one, that I
Still revel in the wine of April's air,
And tremble at the lovers passing by—
Remembering, with quickened pluse
and heart,
The fate of two who strangely grew apart!

The Retort Swelegant

Samuel Thompson, bless him, of Pittsburgh, submits the following gag as a sequel about the Messrs. Reichenbach and Hershfield, who have very white hair. (Oh, look up the files, then!)

Thompson tells of the well known and hard-boiled Pittsburgh banker who was seen ankling down the street by two struggling business men, who had received a cold shoulder every time they asked the banker for a loan.

"Hmmm," hmmm'd the first partner, "his hair sure is getting white."

"You're all wrong," groaned the other, "that's nothin' but frost."

Incidentally

Then there's the one about another banker, who had the same rep. So when he was critically ill with typhoid fever, some one remarked that he had heard the banker's temperature had gone up almost to 40!

The Revised Version

Boiled-to-the-ears husband caught tip-toeing into the house later than ever: "Shorry, honey, I was visiting a hic friend."

Burned-to-a-crisp wife: "You told that story last week!"

Plastered-beyond-recognition husband: "Well, thash my shtory and I'm shtuck on it!"

By Way of Report

A goodly number of subscribers have written in to say that they enjoyed the jokes uttered by Mrs. Holtz, the mother of the "You Said It" star. Some others, however, would like very much to know "how much does Holtz pay you for that stuff?"

As a matter of fact, Holtz doesn't pay us anything. But his old mother, who gets $100 weekly from her boy, cornered him last night and demanded an extra "tventeh-fife dollehs."

"Why" asked Lou, "should I give you an extra $25?"

"Becuss," she explained, "furr de publiceety wot I'm gatting you show!"

Havanother

Incidentally, Lou was in a sentimental mood when his mother reminisced about the Holtz tribe the other night.

"Tell me, ma," said Lou, "there must be some one I resemble in our family. Which one of our ancestors do I take after?"

"Wal," replied the old Joosh lady, "from you granfadder you got de nose. Frum you own fadder you got de eyes—and de dialect you got frum me."

Not New, but Clean

One of the more amusing of the older gags is the one Arthur Berbert is telling again in the late places. You'd be surprised how many people laugh loud at it, and who tell you they never heard it before.

It's the one about the two Irishmen who lived across the way from a church. They were leaning out of the window watching the worhipers exit. "There goes Clarence Mackay," said one of the window leaners, "he's a big man, you know. And that fellow in the carriage is J. P. Morgan, and there's the president of the national bank!"

Presently two fellows came out of the church. They were in tatters. Their hats were torn and they had on no collars.

"Golly!" golly'd one of the Irishmen, "wonder who those guys are?"

"Those two guys," replied the other, "are two of the country's greatest dice cheaters!"

Merciless Truth

What a lotta people call a merger, says an ex-World reporter, is really a submerger.

Heheheh

The definition of a dimple, take it from Carolina Buccaneer, is a lump inside out.

O, Mr. Herrick!

"Dear Walter," writes Arthur Heyman of 20 Laurel Hill terrace, N. Y. C., "when you see Commissioner of Parks Herrick about the piegons who have to be fed by strangers because the city has no appropriations for their feedings, throw in a word about the poor kiddies who can't find any free drinking water in Central park.

"In the trek from West 72nd street across to the menagerie there are plenty of absolutely dry drinking fountains. Yet one can always find a refreshment stand within 50 or 100 feet of each disconnected fountain, where for the sum of 10 cents, one dime, two nickels, each howling kid receives a bottle of pop and two straws!"

Well, Now!

The Philadelphia Inquirer says, among other things, "the langest word in the English language, according to a N. Y. paragrapher, is incomprehensible. The longest word is antidisestablishmentarianism—and we know what it means!"

JILTED —By Margaret Widdemeyer

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

Helen Heather, living in the Pennsylvania town of Kingsway, becomes engaged to Tommy Delamater, son of the president f the bank inw hich Helen works. Tommy takes a job in Wisconsin, and unceremoniously breaks off the engagement. Helen's grief is shortlived, as Ethan Kingsway falls n love with her. Ethan's more stable affection makes her forget the irresponsible Tommy. Fire is fanned by Helen's counsin, Nina Higginson, an attractive young widow who wants Ethan for herself. Nina intimates that Helen and her stepson, Ronny, were once in love. Ethan makes Helen promise that she will not see Ronny without letting him know. Tommy returns home just as Helen goes to visit her married sister, Jessica, who is soon to become a mother.

Twins arrive at the debt-burdened home of Jessica. Helen leaves for Kingsway.

Instalment XXVII

She was blamed—lovingly, though—when she stepped from the train at Kingsway into Ethan's arms.

Ethan established her in the car. She had forgotten how handsome Ethan was; how strong, more than all, how kind! But he was scolding her a little, none the less.

"My darling, you've tired yourself all out," he said. "What have they been letting you do?"

"This is the man who used to look at me severely, because I was such a wild and useless flapper," she teased him. "Ethan, what an extremist you are, my dear! Either I'm a butterfly or a martyr."

"You're a dozen girls in one," he told her as the car drew up at her home. "I'll never understand you. Helen darling, here's your house, and I haven't half finished talking to you. I haven't begun. Let me come down tonight."

"Why, weren't you going to?" she asked him innocently, and then laughed.

He laughed with her.

"Helen, I'd forgotten how to be gay since you went away. I'll be over at 8, darling."

She ran upstairs singing. She had not known it was possible to miss anybody as she has missed Ethan. To be back—to be at home—Patricia and Ada Kingsway tomorrow morning, and the lovely estate of Kingsway to wander in; spring beginning to edge shyly in through the late winter; and marriage to Ethan coming closer . . .

That was the only thing she did not like to think about. Being married to Ethan—that would be wonderful. But the thought of the actual marriage, and the preparations for it, frightened her a little.

"If I could only go to sleep and wake up married," she thought. . . But that was silly. . . . After all, just because things had happened that way once they needn't again. The thing to do was not to be a scare-cat; to go ahead and set a day as Ethan wanted, make plans, and generally be the sort of Helen that Jessica and Doris thought she was.

Accordingly, she did. When Ethan, overprompt, awaited her downstairs in the little Birch parlor, she went down to him with her mind made up. And when he said ardently, "When are we going to be married?" she laughed and told him to take out his pocket calendar and she'd figure it out with him.

He produced the calendar promptly, and said, "What do you think of the first of March?"

"Very well, then, Ethan. March first."

Ethan thrust the tiny calendar back into his pocketbook, and caught her to him with a cry of triumph.

"I thought I'd never manage it! You're the hardest bird to snare that ever flew! . . . Darling, you've promised!"

"Well, I always knew it had to be sometime," she said naively, "only—"

"Well, only—"

"Only I was a little frightened."

"I'd suggest your stopping work with Patricia, if it weren't that I see you more that way," he said.

"Oh, no. I'm marrying Patricia along with you," she said gayly.

"Not the least in the world," Ethan said peremptorily. "You are marrying Ethan Kingsway, nobody, nothing, else, Helen. I've told you I'm jealous, I couldn't even divide you with the child, fond as I am of her."

She looked at him wonderingly; Helen had never been a very jealous person.

"But you know you'll never have to," she said wonderingly.

"I don't know anything of the sort! As long as I live I am hardening myself to sharing you with all sorts of lame ducks and sisters in affliction—"

"But that isn't anything," she said, to his face against hers. "I expect to have to share you with the whole town of Kingsway."

"I don't love Kingsway. Not that way. You do love so many people, Helen!"

"And I shall continue to," said Helen with spirit. "You the most."

He sighed a little. "I suppose it's the best you can do for me!"

They laughed together. But Helen wondered afterward, how much of it was teasing—and how much true.

The first of the second week, Doris Milliken came creeping in, standing watching her and Patricia as they played their afternoon game of hide-and-seek over the grounds.

"Why, Doris dear, how ill you look," Helen said concerned. "Sit down there on the marble seat, and we'll finish this game. Then I'll come home with you, or you with me. Yes, Patricia, I'll have been here till 4 o'clock then. That's perfectly fair, my dear."

The two girls walked on together in silence till they gained Helen's room at the Birch house. Doris huddled down on the bed, just as she was, staring before her.

"Helen," Doris suddenly burst out, "You have to go over to Wayne and see Ronny for me. He's over there, working in a garage. He said last time he tried to make me come to him he was done with me forever. He thought I was lying when I got him on the telephone, he rang right off. Helen, we were married last May and I'm going to have a baby. I've got to go to Ronny. And he won't have me."

Helen could only stare at her in surprise for a moment.

"But, Doris," she said, "what about your father and aunt?"

"I daren't tell them—I daren't! I'll drown myself if you do! I couldn't stand the way they'd treat me if they knew! Not till I had somebody to be kind to me—somewhere to go! Aunt Louisa—you don't know how she talks about such things—a clandestine marriage is a disgrace, and she'd never have anything to do with anybody belonging to her that had anything to do with it. . . And father nodded and said it was so. I couldn't—I couldn't—"

Finally Helen had to promise that, after talking it over with Ethan and getting a release from her promise, she would go over and see Ronny the next day.

By the trick that rules life sometimes, Ethan was away next day. Helen telephoned Doris, only to be answered in terror and agony. "I can't wait," Doris said. "I can't wait another day! I'm simply desperate, Helen, and you talk of waiting! I'll drown myself—that's all—"

There was only one thing to do: to leave a note for Ethan in case by any chance he returned before he was expected, and to go have it out with Ronny.

She went through her day's work with Patricia; wrote her note; weighed it down with a paperweight.

"Patricia, will you see that Ethan gets this the minute he gets back?" she said, pointing to it.

"The very minute," Patricia answered idly, rocking back and forth lightly where she stood by the window.

Patricia was curiously trustworthy. So Helen kissed the child good-bye, ran up to see Mrs. Kingsway, as had come to be her habit, and took the bus for Wayne. She had broken her promise to Ethan; but only the boy on the burning deck would have kept it in a case like this. Ethan would understand.

She found Ronny, a dark look on his face, which was helped into the expression of a young villian by the smudges of grease and soot incident to his new profession.

"If Doris has sent you to try to keep me dangling any longer it's no use," he said in a low angry voice. "Besides, I'm busy."

"I'll wait till your lunch hour," she said doggedly.

He gave in.

"Half an hour. Come back, and I'll be here."

"Honest?"

"Honest. You won't change anything, but I'll listen."

She strolled aimlessly about the pretty little town till the time he had set, then returned. Sure enough, Ronny was awaiting her, washed and tall and pallid, his jaw set. He led the way to the little restaurant and bakery that was nearest them, and said: "Go on," in a voice which was as encouraging as a stone wall. But he was not prepared for what she said.

"Ronny, Doris' one idea is to come to you. You and she are going to have a baby; and she seems to think her place is either with you or in the Wissahickon. Take your choice."

His tense, handsome young lantern-jawed face turned very white.

"You're not lying?—No. You don't, Helen, are you sure—"

"As sure as I can be of anything on earth. I tell you, Ronny, she is desperate. And she wants to come to you more than anything on earth, only she's frightened."

"Yes, that's it—poor Dory, she's always frightened," he said, but he spoke tenderly. "Helen, you're a good sport."

"And you'll go to see her, and take her away?"

"I'll go this very evening. Wait. I think I can switch my day off."

Helen did not want to let him out of her sight, so she waited till he had made his arrangements, and took him back with her. She called up Doris first.

"Ronny's coming back with me," she said briefly. "It's all right. Meet us at the bus-top."

All the way over Ronny sat holding on to himself visibly, occasionally beginning to say something and then being stopped by the recollection that there were other people in the bus.

"Won't it ever get there?" he said under his breath at intervals. When it finally arrived Helen saw a little figure in a heavy squirrel coat standing quivering at the stopping place, saw Ronny jump out over everybody's feet, saw the tall figure and the little one fall into each other's arms, and go out, into each other's arms, and got out, making her way toward her own home happily.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Many readers send in questions signed only with initials, asking that the answers appear in the newspaper. The space is limited and would not accommodate a fraction of such requests. The answers published are ones that may interest many readers, rather than the one who asks the question only. All questions should be accompanied by the writer's name and address and two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send your question to The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Who received the 1930 Spingarn medal?—L. D.

A.—Richard Harrison was awarded the honor for his outstanding performance as the Lord in The Green Pastures. He is the second negro actor to receive the award, Charles S. Gilpin of Emperor Jones fame being the other.

Q.—What is a flapper?—F. P.

A.—Webster's New International dictionary says: A young girl of about 15 to 18 years of age, especially one who is not yet "out" officially; probably so called with a double allusion to "flapper," a young duck, and to the braid of hair worn hanging down the back of young girls.

Q.—Please give a list of cargo-carrying ship's crew.—M. J. B.

A.—The crew of a ship is divided into three departments. The first is the deck department. The captain, first, second, third, and fourth mates, the boatswain, able seamen, ordinary seamen, and radio operators belong to this department. In the engineering department there are the chief engineer, second, third, fourth, and junior engineers, firemen, greasers, water tenders, and coal passers. Those belonging to the steward's department are the chief steward, second steward, cook, second cook, mess steward and mess boy.

Q.—Who owned the land on which Walden Pond is situated at the time Thoreau lived there?—A. McL.

A.—Emerson had purchased land on both sides of Walden Pond with an idea of building a summer house. It was on a wood lot belonging to him that Thoreau built his cabin.

Q.—What was Capt. Campbell's speed going south, and speed going north when he broke the record? How many speeds had his car?—T. R. B.

A.—Captain Campbell, who broke the world's automobile speed record, made 246.575 miles an hour in the run in the southern direction. His time coming back was 244.897 miles per hour. His average time for the measured mile both ways was 14.65 seconds. The Blue Bird has three speeds ahead and one reverse.

Q.—How can colors be set in cotton goods?—E. C. S.

A.—The bureau of home economics says the household methods of soaking fabrics in salt, alum, vinegar, and various other solutions as a means of "setting" the color are largely a waste of time and materials. Though the color will not run from a dyed fabric as long as it remains in a saturated solution of salt or alum, this has no permanent effect on the dye. A fabric after treatment in this way is just as likely to fade when washed later in the ordinary way. No successful household methods of setting the color in dyed fabrics are known.

Q.—What letter of the alphabet is used most often?—N. D.

A.—The letter "e."

Q.—How fast does a snail travel?—B. D.

A.—It is estimated that a snail travels one foot in two and one-half or three minutes.

Q.—How high above the earth does the highest cloud float?—T. S. S.

A.—Prof. Humphreys of the United States weather bureau says that rising masses of air cannot ascend beyond the level of the highest cirrus cloud, that is, in middle latitudes above an elevation of about 6 or 7 miles.

Q.—Please give some information concerning the new federal prison for women.—M. P.

A.—The Woman's Federal Industrial Institution is located in West Virginia, on the Greenbrier river, at Alderson, with a high, invigorating altitude and singularly free from evil surroundings of any sort. While female offenders of every kind are punishable here, this institution is not, in the usual sense, a prison, but is a well-managed and orderly reformatory where the restoration of erring women is of first concern. It is the result of a sincere effort on the part of American women throughout the country, as well as by the department of justice, to improve conditions under which female prisoners are detained.

Q.—How much does water expand when freezing?—A. C. B.

A.—Nine hundred seventeen cubic centimeters of water becomes 1000 cubic centimeters of ice.

Floral Heights Methodist W. M. S. Studies Peace

"Peace" was the topic for study at the all day meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of Floral Heights Methodist church Monday. Mrs. Robert Walker spoke on "Why I Hate War" saying that practically all books and all pictures written and shown on war, especially the recent world war, seem to depict the horrors occasioned by conflict with an idea of bringing about a greater desire for peace but when one has come to the end of the book or picture he usually has a feeling of awe or bewilderment, similar to that of the taxi-cab driver who said after seeing a recent war picture, "Gee it must have been some show, I would sure like to be in the next one." Thus the question is raised as to whether the book or show created the right effect or its direct opposite.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Grady Payne and the devotional talk on "Christlike Habits" was given by Mrs. Dudley Foy. The second chapter of the society's study book, "The Turn Toward Peace," was discussed by Mesdames T. S. Mabry and E. D. Malone. A special solo, "Peace, Peace Wonderful Peace," was sung by Mrs. Murrell Hooper accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Clifton Deaton and on the violin by Mrs. Joe Austin. Mrs. Clyde Tittle's circle won in attendance at the morning session.

Luncheon at noon was served by circle number seven, led by Mrs. Rhea Howard, and was followed by the monthly business meeting. Mrs. A. L. Lane, in charge of the devotional service, was assisted by Mrs. P. B. Cox who talked on "The Spirit, Motive and Objective of Christian Stewardship," illustrating her subject with appropriate stories. Reports were given by all department chairmens and circle leaders. Mrs. Cox reported on the recent luncheon served by the missionary conference and stated that all food left over was given to the city's bread line. Mrs. J. A. Curtis announced that Mrs. E. A. McCarty has consented to take charge of the junior church which has a membership of 160. Mrs. Melat stated that she has sent a box to the Valley View institute included in which was a quilt made and quilted by members of the Suzanna Wesley class of this church. Mrs. Ferguson gave a splendid report of gifts made during April by Floral Heights organizations to the two day nurseries, April being courtesy month for this church. A motion was carried that the missionary society give some kind of an entertainment for the young people of the church within the next two weeks. Mrs. Hal Yeager and Mrs. W. H. Barton being appointed as a committee to give this party.

Thursday afternoon and all-day Friday were selected as the days for members to meet at the church and make bandages for Miss Dora Armstrong to take back with her to the leper colony in Africa. These bandages are to be cut and made from old sheets, pillow cases, etc., and members were asked to also bring some used dresser scarfs to the church that these may be sent to the hospital at this colony to make the bare rooms more cheerful.

Thanks for flowers were given by Mesdames Richardson, Connelly and Lane, and cards of thanks were read from Mesdames W. W. Riley, W. C. Chapman, R. D. Dixon, R. J. Davenport and Milton Gaines. Mrs. Tittle's circle also led in the afternoon attendance. Mrs. Austin F. Leach, president of the society, presided.

Those present were Mesdames Austin F. Leach, Perry Browning, Craig Gardner, Grady Payne, Dudley Foy, Hal Yeager, C. E. Deaton, Joe M. Austin, S. V. White, H. Mosteller Jr., V. A. Huff, Fay C. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

In going over my notes on Pat Neff's address given before the first district T. F. W. C., I find "Confucius said if you would know the morals of a people, know their songs." A flash of memory made me whistle.

How the world has changed since the day of "Darling Nelly Gray," "Grandfather's Clock," "Billy Boy" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." I was a very small child when people were singing "A Bicycle Built for Two," and "Two Little Girl's in Blue,"—one so chirpy and the other so cheerfully sad. Then came "After the Ball," melodrama set to fine waltz music. I emphasize the waltz for I learned to dance to that tune in school all unbeknownst to a father who'd have thought me "hell-bent."

These songs were sung when many southerners still talked about the civil war daily; when you could buy a big roast for 25 cents and a dozen pounds of coffee for a dollar. Life was simple. The most elaborate hose were lace lisle and there were such things as toe slippers for dress up. Lettuce hadn't begun to be headed.

Strange that a "Hot Time in the Old Town," and "Hello Central, Give Me Heaven," came in the same period—and oh yes, "A Picture That Is Turned Unto the Wall." Vague as they are, there's a suggestion in my memory that probably the statements in the first brought about conditions in the second and third songs. But they were sung when the Christmas plum pudding still blazed blue with brandy and though there were saloons on many corners, my lips, in common with those of my friends, had never touched liquor.

The songs that were particularly the songs of my youthful hey-day center round "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree." Has any one the music? I remember the band playing it in a Dixie moonlight beneath the trees of a shady park. But simple and sweet as it was, people at that period ate Swiss cheese sandwiches and drank a mug of beer therewith. In such manner, I was started on a downward path.

With "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own," and the ragging of Mendelssohn's Spring Song, dances began to change. One questioned if it were really proper to do the "Turkey Trot," but one wavered and did it. The first good swinging rag dance I ever heard was "Alexander's Rag Time Band,"—wish I could hear it through again. Cooks were still $3 per week and they were wizards at good cookery.

Came the war, (I dote on sounding like a silent movie sentence)—and "The Long, Long Trail," and "Tipperary." Music haunted by the greatest tragedy of time. Then the boys came home and with them the songs of France. The "Shimmy" began, with whispers behind discreet hands. "It will never be done in decent society," they said. It was done in society at least.

The 18th amendment began to tighten down. Youth swaggered to the front. Horrified residents on highways began to ask "What will the world come to?" Strange, with all the specter of dishonor stalking the public paths, I never saw any but sweet clean girls and upright boys.

The song that every one sang when I came to Texas was "It Aint Goin' to Rain No More," with a thousand variations from profane to seraphic. It didn't for several months.

Who is there who does not know the theme songs of the last 10 years? Preceding and with the depression, rags, blues and love songs besieged the land. Tunes range from "Mammy," to "This Is Baby's Birthday Party Day," and the radio never halts.

But the music of a nation? That's a different thing. It is a truth that "The Star-Spangled Banner," still brings an audience to their feet and there's a cheer and a sob in southern groups when the band plays "Dixie." In Texas let them join in "Texas Our Texas," the legally announced state song, and even adopted sons and daughters get a thrill in the heart and a choke in the throat. So long as the music of a nation is patriotic, the nation is safe.

Pretty Spring Wedding Unites Popular Couple

A wedding marked by the sweet simplicity of spring was solemnized Sunday morning when Miss Maxine King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert King, became the bride of Leslie Neill of Tyler, Texas. The impressive ceremony was read by Dr. O. L. Powers of the First Baptist church before an improvised altar of ferns and palms. Masses of pastel spring flowers brightened the bride's home.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, was a radiant picture in her bouffant frock of white organdy with which she wore a becoming garden hat of white lace and carried an arm bouquet of white rose buds. Her sister, Lucille King was maid of honor and was charming in green organdy and hat of ecru lace. Her shower bouquet of pastel colored daisies were exquisite with the pretty dress. Ed Gossett of Vernon was best man for Mr. Neill.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of The Times and Record News recently, Mrs. Frances Northcross stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

His spelling was awful but his Eggs Polonaise are grand!

IN THE little hotel where I found this interesting recipe it was listed on the menu as Eggs a la Pollonaise. And the recipe I coaxed away from the chef was as complicated as his spelling. I simplified the name when I simplified the recipe.

But call it whatever you like—it's particularly appropriate for Sunday night suppers, and not too fussy for any day in the week. Deep fried in Crisco, it comes piping hot to the table as delicately flavored as this sweet fat it was fried in.

POLISH EGGS

6 eggs, beaten
½ cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 tablespoon cream
2 tablespoons Crisco (melted)
1¾ cups small bread dice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Mix eggs, cheese, parsley, onion, seasoning, cream and melted Crisco. Add the diced bread. Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot, deep Crisco (360°-370° F., or when one-inch cube of bread browns in 60 seconds) and fry a light brown (about 2 minutes). Serve plain or with Tomato Sauce (1½ cups) or Tartar Sauce (1 cup).

If you've lost your recipe for SALMON CROQUETTES

Pink inside—brown outside—these salmon croquettes make my mouth water just to think of them! They make a delicious main dish—salmon and potatoes, well seasoned with chopped parsley to lend color and add flavor, wrapped in a golden crunchy coating that only frying in Crisco can give. Foods deep fried in Crisco always taste fresh flavored and good, for Crisco itself tastes sweet and fresh—and comes to you in an air-tight can.

1 cup salmon, canned or left-over, boiled
1¼ cups mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

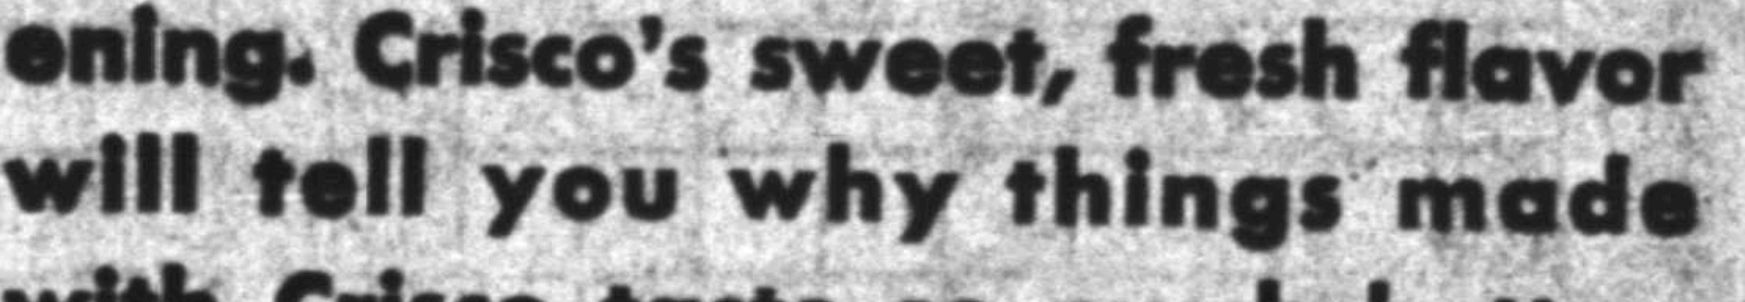
1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water Dried bread crumbs

Mix ingredients thoroughly and shape into croquettes about the size of an egg—roll in dried bread crumbs, dip in egg, then in crumbs again. Fry in deep hot Crisco (390° F., or when an inch cube of bread browns in 40 seconds)—drain on unglazed paper. Serve plain, garnished with lemon rings or serve with cream sauce.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by cooking authorities. Crisco is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Company.

©1931, P. & G. Co.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.



In its new airtight can—as fresh and sweet as the day it was made

Health and Diet Advice

INCREASING ELIMINATION THROUGH THE KIDNEYS

This is the first day of the fruit diet for those who are taking this spring eliminative diet course. The instructions for using the acid fruit to increase elimination appeared in yesterday's article and if you have not seen it you should obtain a copy of the paper.

The acid fruits which I listed for this diet course act as diuretics, that is, they increase kidney elimination. Every one who lives on the ordinary mixtures of foods continues dietetic mistakes from which the body will suffer is commonly called auto-intoxication. This may not produce any serious illness for many years, but sickness can be avoided if one will adopt a regimen to produce an extraordinary amount of elimination of the toxins which have been accumulating within the body. By using the acid fruits and drinking a large amount of water, you give your kidneys added fluid to carry off waste from the tissue of the body and from the blood. The best water for you to use on this fast is distilled water, but if you cannot obtain distilled water use ordinary hydrant water. This water helps to dissolve the impurities so that they can be eliminated.

The one who is ill may use an extra large amount of water while only eating the acid fruit. The blood is thus more liquefied and better able to eliminate impurities through the lungs, kidneys, skin and intestines. The fluid eliminated by the kidneys is diluted with more water and does not irritate them as much, and more waste products can then be passed out. It is possible for you to drink two or three gallons of water a day while on this diet. If you do so, you will greatly assist elimination. Do not be alarmed if your bladder works frequently, as this is necessary in order to pass the accumulated toxins out of your system.

It is very easy to see the improvement of the blood during this fruit fast. This is very easily discovered by blood examinations. There is an increase in the color of the hemoglobin and in the number of red blood cells. There is a decrease in white blood cells if they have been in excess. The white blood cells are body scavengers and they rapidly decrease in numbers as soon as the elimination of toxins is well established. The blood, at the same time, receives a great deal of benefit because of the mineral salts and vitamins which can be absorbed from the fruits with very slight effort and the digestion is not interfered with during these two days with the use of other foods.

The first day of this fruit diet may be the hardest in some respects, because as the toxins in the body's tissues are dissolved and suddenly thrown into the blood stream, you may have at least a slight headache. The tongue may become coated, and the breath will have a decidedly offensive odor. The elimination will then be increased through the skin, as well as the kidneys, and for this reason it is advisable to use frequent sponge baths two or three times a day at least.

Do not continue with the laxatives which I advised in yesterday's article, which were simply for the purpose of dislodging any accumulations which may have been in the intestines, but begin to use enemas, using a quart of warm water both morning and evening. If you should develop a headache it will pass away after the first day or two and it must be endured without using any headache remedies or you will interfere with the elimination of toxins.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Varicose Veins

Question—Mrs. C. A. R. writes: "In the treatment of varicose veins by the absorption method, what effect does it have on the veins and the entire system. Does this treatment affect the health in after years? Would you advise it?"

Answer—The injection method for destroying varicose veins is usually to be preferred over surgical removal of the vein. The substance injected tends to dry up the vein and stop the circulation to that part. Most varicose veins can be partially cured through certain physiotherapy treatments so that there is usually no need for either the injection or surgical methods. A good home treatment is to apply ice several times daily directly to the enlarged vein. The cold of the ice tends to contract the muscles in the veins and also the muscle fibers in any surrounding tissue, but allows the circulation to continue. There are many cases of shrunken limbs where the injection or surgical treatment is used. This is due to complete stoppage of the blood going to certain muscles.

Two or Three Meals?

Question—J. T. writes: "In one of your articles you state that people with good assimilation should have two meals a day, but that people with poor assimilation should have three meals a day. Will you please explain why?"

Answer—Those with a good assimilation can get enough good out of two meals so that they are fully nourished. Those with a poor assimilation are not able to use all of the food that they eat and if only two meals are used, then not enough food is taken in one day.

BUFFS WIN NIGHT SERIES OPENER WITH PANTHERS, 7 TO 5

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Well, when we read in Sunday morning's paper that the Dazzling Brainstorm, Mr. J. Dean, had been returned to the Houston Buffs, we gave a lurch toward the kitchen and brewed a cup of coffee to steady our nerves.

Then when the Rambler found out that Dizzy had arrived in time to pitch against us Sunday afternoon, I consumed a pound of headache powders. When Sunday's three-hit performance of Dean was over, I asked the boss to finish editing my page and sought my couch, a nervous wreck.

Some fans, when they read that Mr. Dean had been cast off temporarily by the Cards, figured that such treatment would leave Dizzy disgruntled and sore, and that the resultant mental state would keep him from being such a hot number in the Texas league this year. But Mr. Dean didn't seem at all put out by the transfer. If anything, it appears, Dizzy is out to show Gabby Street what a whale of a mistake the Cards made in sending him to the minors for another year.

If I don't miss my guess by a mile or more, baseball critics all over the state who picked Fort Worth to walk off with the pennant this year started making radical changes in their estimate when they heard that the Buffs had got Dizzy again. We are included in the gang that was whooping it up for the Cats, and for one, we now think that Dean is going to provide enough pitching punch to land the Buffs right up there on top, provided the Buffs can match the club's pitching with such hitting and fielding as Fort Worth is now dishing up for the edification of fans. And Houston is not so far behind the Cats in a fielding and hitting way.

Incidentally, Joe Schultz, Houston skipper, proved he was a real showman in rushing Dizzy to the box just an hour and a half after the self-acclaimed pitcher had arrived from St. Louis. There were 5,000 people in the Houston stands Sunday, and all but the most uniformed had read in the morning newspaper that Dean was due in any time. They were given a real treat, doubtless, when the rangy right-hander who only a few moments before had dropped his suitcase, rushed out and picked up a ball and started pitching. And the way he pitched made it a perfect day for all concerned.

The incident reminds us of the arrival of Ted Gullic here as the Spudders opened the season with the Cats. There were about 5,000 people in the stands, and nearly all of them recognized Gullic as he raced from the clubhouse over to the Spudder dugout. He was even given a round of applause. It had been taken for granted that if he arrived in time, he would be sent into the game. And the crowd was disappointed that he was not. If Joe Schultz, or any other skipper with an element of showmanship in him had been in charge, Ted Gullic would have seen service of some kind the opening day, just to give the fans a thrill.

Of course a manager, in such cases, takes a chance. The arriving hero, after a long train or automobile drive, is rather stove up, and might not be in condition to render his best services. But the element of chance is what makes such an exhibition thrilling. Dean had been on a train all day, and part of the night before, but he turned in a perfect day's work. Gullic is not exactly a weakling, and it might be supposed he could have done just as good a day's work in the outfield, despite his fresh arrival. At least, Ted could have been used as a pinch hitter. Anything to get him in there, and give him a chance to "shake hands" with his friends in the stands.

The great Mr. Dizzy is a great pitcher, and despite the fact that he no doubt will make Spudder hits considerably fewer this year, we are glad to see him back in the Texas league. He gives the most colorful performance of any pitcher the Rambler has ever seen, and it will give me great joy to see him in action once again. His notoriety, and his ability, in addition, will be a great help to the league, for there are thousands of fans who get just as much kick out of his pitching as I do, and they will flock to the parks to see him work. The way Dizzy is starting off, it looks as if he will be the main drawing card in the league this year. (Unless Garland Orr's wicked bat cheats him of the honor!)

The Buffs in particular, and the league in general, got a lucky break when they found Dean chucked back by the Cards. The fact that the Cards couldn't use him this year is not to be taken as a reflection on Dizzy's ability. The Cards have about the best pitching in the National league at present, and they simply couldn't find room for the lithe Texan. Had there been even a fragment of a berth up in St. Louis, we believe Dean would have couched thereon this season, and for several to come. This year will be his last in the minors, if he keeps on going at his present rate, for next year the Cards will not be legally in position to farm him out again, as he is now in his second year as a farm hand.

Dean hails from Holdenville, Okla. The "Holdenville Sniper" as Grantland Rice affectionately dubs him, won 26 games and lost only 10 last season while performing in three leagues, the Western, the Texas and the National. He pitched only one game in the National, towards the close of the 1930 season—but what a game it was! It was against the Pirates, and he allowed the sea-rovers exactly the same number of hits the Spudders got last Sunday. Dean will not go through the season undefeated this year by a long shot, but he's going to make each and every club snap in to it if they expect to win off him.

SPORTS 6, INDIANS 4

SAN ANTONIO, May 4. (AP)—Two errors in rapid succession helped the Shreveport Sports to five runs in the sixth inning to win the opening game here today, 6 to 4, breaking the four-game winning streak of the San Antonio Indians.

Bill Hargrove was pitching a good game and only one earned run had been scored off him when Chief Moore was sent into relieve him. Pat Moulton held the Tribe to five hits and aided in the Indian scoring with a wild throw to second base. Score:

BRAZOS VALLEY LEAGUE OPENS

Goree, Knox City and Munday Win Initial Contests

The Brazos Valley league made its bow to fans of this section Sunday afternoon with the six teams in the newly-formed circuit staging entertaining battles in Goree, Knox City and Sunset.

At Goree, the home town boys won a 13 to 9 decision over the Rhineland team, with Moore going the route for the winners. His receiver was Wright. The Loran brothers, August and Al, tried to stem the tide for Rhineland, but were unsuccessful, the Goree sluggers accounting for 13 hits to Rhineland's seven. It was a far from perfect contest in the field, both teams making one boot after another, and in this respect the winners fared worse than the losers, Goree making seven misplays to Rhineland's five. Keeler and Rayburn caught for the Rhineland team.

The most sensational game in the league was played at Knox City, where Weinert lost a thrilling 2 to 1 decision. Knox City team pushed over the winning run after Norman of Weinert, with a crashing triple, had scored a runner to deadlock the count in the fifth. Earp and Pittman pitched for Weinert with Furrh receiving. Hill went the route for the winners, with Keith on the other end. Knox City got four hits and Weinert three. Each side made three errors. Lewelln and Abernathy were the umpires.

Burton, Sunset right fielder, nearly broke up the game at Sunset, which Munday won, 7 to 2, when he banged out a triple and tried to stretch it for a home run. Umpire Houser ruled he was out at the platter and there was an uproar, but the umpire prevailed and the game went on. Milton pitched a good game for Munday, letting the opposition down with six hits, while Garvin also turned in a fine performance for Sunset. Had he been given better support things might have ended differently, but the seven errors his mates were responsible for made it tough going for the pitcher. Munday got nine hits off Garvin. The winning team committed only one error. White was the backstop for Munday while Lawrence and Yost backstopped for Sunset. Houser and Hackney were the umpires.

The league warfare will be resumed next Sunday.

The Wichita Amateur Baseball league, organized Monday night at the office of C. C. Bunnenberg, city park commissioner, with six teams forming the loop. The Wichita Poster Advertising, Seymour Roadsters, the Rookies, East Side Spudders, Empire Paper and Spoonts Drug store were the six clubs entering into the league. A schedule calling for 38 games will be drawn up with games on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Carl Moore, of the Bailey-Moline Hardware company, was elected president of the league with Roy Golden, Zundelowitz Junior High school athletic coach, as secretary. The board of arbitration will be composed of Al Parker, Jim Galloway and Bill Lea. The games will be played on the Jalonic street diamond No. 2, York street diamond and the Third and Broad diamond.

The season was to have opened Tuesday but last night's rain caused a postponement until Wednesday. Opening day games: Rookies vs. Empire Paper, Spoonts vs. Wichita Poster and Seymour Roadsters vs. East Side Spudders.

New Golf Ball Tested in Match

LONDON, May 4. (AP)—A match designed to test the comparative merits of the old golf ball and the new larger and lighter sphere adopted as standard in the United States today proved hardly conclusive as Abe Mitchell defeated young Henry Cotton, one up, in 36 holes.

Whatever advantage there was lay with the old ball as Mitchell gained his one up lead on Cotton while playing the old ball on the first 18 at the Wentworth club and then only held Cotton even in the afternoon playing the new.

Cubs and Cats Fight for 10 Rounds

Chillicothe's 4-3 Win Ends Tough Tussle

By THE GROWLING CUB
Record News Special Correspondent

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, May 4.—Grrrrrrrrrr; Psttttttt, Meow! And the fight was on.

The Cubs went out of their cave Sunday and into a den of Wildcats and boy, howdy, was it a fight? Ask anybody that was there and they will tell you that it was a battle from start to finish, no quarter asked and none given.

The fight went 10 rounds with three rounds a draw, then Crowell took three rounds and then the Cubs started with their second wind and took four and the game ended four and three in favor of the Cubs.

Now just as a friendly tip, don't let any one tell you that the Cubs won an easy game because both teams were in there fighting from start to finish, nobody had a frown, every one had a small smile on their face that meant do or die.

It was a game that pleased the fans of both teams. The Cubs and their fans were pleased because they won, and the Cat fans were pleased because they saw their boys in there fighting all the way and when the game was over they had a smile and were all asking when we would give them another chance to stick their claws in the Cubs' ears. Which will be Sunday the 24th, at Chillicothe.

The only unpleasant thing about the game was the lack of support of the Crowell fans. The few Crowell fans that were there were doing all they could, but the small crowd doesn't speak very well for the little city of Crowell.

The Crowell ball club is a nice club and it certainly is no boy's job to beat them. They are certainly a credit to any town and deserve more support than that small crowd that was there Sunday. There were about 100 people from Chillicothe at the game, and I don't believe that the Crowell fans near doubled that. There was no admission charged. The manager asked for a donation and I think that the response was very liberal for so small a crowd.

Come on, Crowell, get behind the boys over there and remember this, when you maintain a good ball club you are advertising your town and boosting it in as effectual a way as can be found.

Course now, you people may say that it is none of my business but I hate to see a good club, a good bunch of sports, and an organization as good as the Crowell club go unsupported.

Rain Stops Games In Commercial League

The two commercial league games scheduled for Monday afternoon were postponed. The Texas Electric Service company and the Malones Beauty shop postponed their game, which may be played today. The Dixon Sign company and Noble-Little Hardware nines made a brave start, but one and one-half innings was all that could be played before the rain washed out the battle.

Noble-Little was leading 7 to 3 when the rain came ending the battle. Cotton Eubanks, who was on the hill for Dixon, was wild and had walked six men in two innings.

Injury Jinx Plays Strange Capers In Landing Chisox Among Big Four

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, May 4.—The injury jinx has played strange capers among the ranks of Donie Bush's hustling White Sox.

It has sent their hopes of crashing first division in the American league race to the highest peak since the halycon days of 1918 and 1919. It has convinced them and White Sox fans alike that no longer are they to be a doormat in front of the circuit's throneroom.

At the start of the pennant campaign, the White Sox outlook was of approximately the same complexion of those of the past 10 years. As manager Bush groaned, the injury jinx stepped in, sending Ted Lyons, Willie Kamm, Smead Jolley, Al Thomas and Carl Reynolds to the bench. The rookies delivered unexpectedly and the White Sox jumped into first division on the surprising tide of five straight victories.

The comeback has electrified the south side fans, who have been loyal notwithstanding defeats. Attendances, though small compared with the north side Cubs of the National league, have been the best for many years and the "Old Roman," Owner Charles A. Comiskey, has been supplied with a great tonic for his illness. Harry Garibner, secretary of the club and a conservative man when it comes to baseball predictions, even said he thought the White Sox would have a great pennant chance after the regulads get back.

"If we can do that well without our best pitcher, Ted Lyons, and the hitting of Smead Jolley, we're going to get into first division sure this time," Garibner said, "and it wouldn't surprise me if we spilled the dope and nailed that pennant. And this isn't bologna, either. We've got a young team and it has proved its stuff under fire so watch out."

Thomas, one of the best pitchers in the American league in 1929, has come back and looks excellent. Lyons, out since the start of the season with a sore arm, expects to get back in a week. So do Reynolds, victim of a bad cold, and Jolley, who has been out with an epidemic of boils. Kamm, once more the spirited Kamm of 1928 and 1929, should be back in the lineup toward the end of the week unless his sprained ankle fails to heal properly.

ROMANCE AND REALITY

SOMETIMES, when you turn the pages of a book, your mind is seeking romance. You long to leave a too-familiar world . . . to travel with the speed of thought to far-off purple lands . . . to bathe in tepid, lotus-scented surf.

But your daily paper finds you in a more practical mood. Interested in real people, in the facts of the day. Looking for news of things that you may buy and enjoy—here and now.

You may find in the advertisement just what you want in the way of a better breakfast food, or a new radio, or an improved face powder. If the thing fits into your living, is practical and possible and promising—you are vitally interested. Because you are reading about yourself!

Today, a great many things that were romantic dreams only ten years ago are common realities. Life has more color, more charm, more adventure. And the things that give it all these may be found in the advertising columns.

Advertising discusses realities—romantic ones often enough—but actual articles you can have for your own, new joys for your family, stepping stones to your happiness.

The advertisements in this paper are written for you. They are real. They are reliable. Take their advice.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Cotton was higher today on covering combined with some trade buying and local or commission house buying for a reaction.

This demand was accompanied by talk of a firmer technical position following last week's declines and was promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of a steadier tone in the stock market. July contracts sold up from 9.94 in the late trading, or 30 points net higher, and closed at 9.92, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 28 to 32 points.

A report by the New York cotton exchange service indicating that sales of fertilizer tags in eight southern states for the period Dec. 1 to April 30, represented only 2,794,000 tons against 3,915,000 last year was considered about in line with recent estimates of the reduction.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental and Bombay buying in that market but reported an unsettled sentiment in Manchester with order lists running down. Egyptian futures in Alexanderia were 2 to 14 points higher but the Indian spot quotation in Liverpool was 6 points lower. Exports today 18,659 making 6,068,511 so far this season. Port receipts 2,630. U. S. port stocks 3,468,724.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. (AP)—The cotton market was only moderately active here today; but prices developed an upward trend. The stimulating influences were higher cables than due and an improvement in stocks which induced covering by shorts and some trade buying.

The general market showed net gains for the day of 29 to 30 points.

Liverpool cables came in 7 to 8 points better than due and private cables reported that the continent and Bombay bought against which was long liquidation. Manchester cabled that the cloth and yarn markets were unsettled and that order lists were running low.

The market became quite active in the late trading on shorts covering and made new highs for the day at 9.91 for July and 10.28 for October, or 30 to 32 points above the previous close. The close was at or near the top, July showing a net gain of 29 points and October a net gain of 30 points.

Port receipts 2,630; for week 4,800; for season 8,638,579; last season 8,312,200; exports 18,659; for week 26,257; for season 9,389,029; last season 6,157,401; port stocks 3,529,735; last year 1,651,372. Market Values Climb Above Last Week's Lows in Sluggish Trading

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 4. (US)—Trading on the stock exchange today approached the lowest volume of the year and prices in all principal departments of the list improved over last week's closing levels. More than anything else, the market appeared to reflect at least temporary suspension of professional bear activities.

This explanation fit in nicely with the widespread reports that the past week witnessed the culmination of large-scale operations by one and possibly two important bear syndicates. In any respect, the dullness was accepted as indicating that no additional distress liquidation was overhanging.

The death of the nation's wealthiest banker had no reflection whatsoever in the market, since it is generally recognized that his affairs had been fully arranged so as to cause not a ripple upon the security markets upon his death.

The volume totaled 1,400,000 shares, less than half the turnover of last Friday.

Regardless of the longer-term prospects, it has become more generally accepted that a rally in the market has been fully warranted. Considerable short-covering has taken place over the past 10 days, as recorded here, and together with this buying there has been a revival of speculative buying for a rally. With the withdrawal from the market of some of the bear factors, such light demand as now exists for stocks could effect a sizeable advance, without in any way influencing the longter-term trend.

The advances today were generally modest. The most impressive action was that of the railroad shares, which moved up an average almost of a point. Industrials, especially the more speculative issues with sizeable short accounts, improved the most, while utilities followed the leadership of the rails and industrials.

Lacking any other logical explanation, the market's firmness was naturally ascribed to the short interest, and this theory was given added weight by the continued premiums for many active stocks.

Steel common remains at 1-16 premium, as do also Union Pacific, Westinghouse Electric, Bethlehem Steel and Royal Dutch. American Can, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific, Western Union, Steel preferred, and Wheeling & Lake Erie common and preferred 1-32 premium; General American Tank Car, 1-128.

California Packing advanced 2½ points net on short covering. A premium of ¼ was demanded for lending this stock. Earnings of the company for its last fiscal year equaled 9 cents a share.

Copper shares were subject to additional pressure, forcing most of the group to new low ground. The selling was attributed to the Anaconda statement for 1930, showing heavy inventories, and $47,000,000 in short-term loans. Obviously, Anaconda will be required to do substantial financing to care for these bank advances.

Kennecott was forced to a new low under 20, at which price the yield exceeds 10 per cent, but there is considerable doubt concerning continuation of the $2 rate. Kennecott will be among the first of the copper shares to reflect powerful buying. At present, buying is chiefly on a scale downward in price and for the long-pull.

Oil stocks were also laggardly and irregular. It is understood that Standard Oil company of California directors at their meeting tomorrow will vote the regular quarterly dividend. This is one of the best managed enterprises in the oil industry, but large-scale investment buying of the stock is being delayed until the entire oil situation assumes more promising aspect.

Dullness and narrow fluctuation in prices would be welcomed by the best friends of the market. But their wish hardly will be fulfilled if, as reported, numerous manipulative operations are inaugurated shortly.

Many "jigglers," professional manipulators concerned primarily with marking stocks up for liquidation, are already showing signs of renewing their activities. Unwarranted speculative activitiy on the upside will serve only to delay sustained improvement. A quiet and creeping advance of modest proportions would be hailed as evidence that discriminating investment buying is taking place.

Kroger Grocery enjoyed the largest advance of the active group. This stock, although attracting of late a highly speculative following, has been persistently bought for the long-pull by interests impressed with the company's prospects. The new management, installed last year, already has effected numerous economies and estimates, obviously premature, are being made that earnings will exceed $3 a share. Maintenance of sales volume, however, on estimated current profits, would result in such earnings.

Motor shares participated in the day's firmness, with Auburn staging another of its violent movements, gaining over 16 points net.

Allied Chemical was up four points. Steel common closed up a point, Bethlehem 1⅜, American Can 1⅞, and American Telephone 2⅛.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Despite Canadian reports of showers and some snow, wheat scored price advances today, largely owing to indications that drouth perils were little if any abated. Crop authorities asserted that only frequent heavy rains would ensure an average crop of domestic spring wheat, that in many sections the surface moisture was almost exhausted, with no subsoil supply, and that in Canada the conditions were even worse. Late Canadian advices told of high winds and soil drifting.

Wheat closed nervous ⅛@¾ cents higher, corn ½@1⅛c advanced, oats ⅛@¼c up, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents off.

Announcement of 807,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply helped to offset late profit-taking sales based on the fact that this was the sixth successive day the market had gone upward, and that prices were about 5 cents per bushel over last week's bottom level.

Houses with eastern connections absorbed wheat on price dips, and when early sellers tried to switch to the buying side, the pit at times was almost bare of offerings. The result was to dislodge not a few stop-loss orders to purchase. During the late dealings, Kansas City advices were circulated referring to danger of much insect damage to winter wheat Southwest, and noting that farmers were continuing without let-up to unload their wheat on farm board auxiliaries.

Corn and oats acted heavy most of the day, but offerings dried up near the close, influenced by wheat strength.

Provisions weakened owing to a drop in hog values.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May 4. (US)—The fact that of the heavy world shipments of wheat, over 16,000,000 bushels, 7,500,000 bushels was from North America, was a favorable symptom in today's wheat market. It was more than 3,000,000 bushels in excess of Bradstreet's estimate, which gave it added color.

Additional importance of this feature was that it was taken as an indication Montreal clearances have gotten underway.

Export business was restricted today with Winnipeg closed, but sales of 300,000 bushels were reported by seaboard. A London cable said it was hard to buy Australian wheat in any quantity.

The forecast for more unsettled weather during the coming week was slightly bullish on corn. It held possibilities in delay of planting which up to the present has made unusually good progress.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 4. (AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—With prices varying from steady to 50c higher, the trade on lambs at the 11 principal livestock markets presented the most cheerful spot for the selling side of any of the three markets. Mature sheep failed to join in the advance, values generally comparing steady with last week's close. Total supply was estimated at 76,200 as compared with 100,509 a week ago.

Arrivals of cattle were not excessive, but a slow trade was reported at most points. Today's estimates call for 68,300 as compared against 74,311 a week ago. Fed steers and yearlings at most points ruled steady to 25c lower, but the trade was irregular and most of the loss was suffered by the plainer kinds. Stockers and feeders were generally unchanged.

An uneven market prevailed in the hog division, prices ranging from steady to 35c lower. Total offerings aggregated 117,200 as compared with 79,177 a week ago and 57,137 a year ago.

Russia's Millions Constantly Fear Ocean of Blood Will Sweep Land

Horrors Become Commonplace in Country Where Immorality and Misery Go Hand in Hand, Woman Says

By JOSEPH MULVANEY

NEW YORK, May 4. (US)—"Russia is wondering today what tomorrow will bring forth.

"Nobody knows.

"But the millions of people fear that any morning they may waken to see an ocean of blood sweeping the land.

"They would not be surprised if they were flung suddenly into that state of starvation which would drive them to become cannibals—to eat their own children for food."

Months of Horror

As calmly as if she were discussing unemployment or the weather, Mrs. Clarence Warren, who has just returned from Russia, told me that today. She was talking about the country where she had lived for 11 months and the things she had seen through an American woman's eyes—the things to which the months of horror had so accustomed her that they had become commonplace.

Mrs. Warren is the wife of a California engineer, whom she accompanied to the Soviet republic, and she commented:

"Wild horses would not have drawn me there if I'd known what was waiting us. But I'm not sorry, for I saved my husband's life—I saw that he got food fit to eat."

Russia is a realm of superlatives. No traveler comes from there with a positive or comparative adjective left.

World Upside Down

Mrs. Warren said:

"Russia is not merely what we call a revolution—it is a world turned upside down. They have abolished God there and you would have to be there to understand what that means.

"Russia offers no substitute for God. They have tried to destroy spiritual hope as they destroyed earthly hope. There is no recognized religion and churches are mocked at. No feast days nor fast days nor Sundays remain. Marriage is a civil ceremony and often not that.

"Russia is the most immoral country I ever entered and I've been through most European countries. Even Americans are contaminated.

Girls Shrewd and Pretty

"They encounter the Russian interpreters who travel with Americans employed there and the interpreters are usually girls, young, pretty, shrewd and without morals. There are Americans in Russia now who are going to find it difficult to get out when their babies are born.

"And, of course, the government encourages that sort of thing. If a young man and woman want to live together, they just live together. If a child is to be born and she desires an operation, the Soviet hospitals take care of that. If she prefers motherhood to that, it is arranged a month before the child's birth. If the man wants to marry her, all right. If he doesn't, all right, too, except that he must pay a certain small amount toward the child's support.

"But the peasants are treated like dogs and the peasant women like animals lower than dogs. Russian women are stronger physically than Russian men. They become strong because they do hard work while the men try to get clerical or other easy jobs.

Babies Not Encouraged

"The women work long hours in mills and mines. If they are to have babies, they are allowed a month off. If they must nurse their babies, they get half an hour off twice a day. But babies are not encouraged.

"Social diseases are sweeping the country because of the open, unrestricted immorality. The natives virtually live on black bread, cabbage, potatoes and salt fish, and live only from day to day, hopelessly.

"There is no laughter left in Russia and nobody smiles. All know that the people were far happier under the czars, but none dares to say so. Those who do, die. Russia can teach Chicago and New York a lot about taking people for a ride.

"Milk and butter are so scarce and expensive as to be beyond the reach of the people. I have traveled five or six miles in a train to get a pint of milk for the baby of a friend.

Peasants in Misery

"We tried to give our servants some of the food that Americans are allowed. We were threatened by the police for that. We found that our servants were supposed to sleep on the bare floor. None of the peasants take off any clothes, asleep or awake, until they fall off."

Mrs. Warren and her husband visited Moscow first. Thence they went to Kalata in the Ural mountains, where copper is mined.

In the big cities, Mrs. Warren said, Soviet officials strut the streets or ride in costly foreign automobiles with their mistresses and dine at the old Savoy and Metropole, obviously supported by a vast system of graft—and out in the country they charge a ruble admittance to see the bullet scarred walls where the Romanoff dynasty was destroyed. Mrs. Warren added:

"They are building a Babylon—and Babylon could not survive without God!"

DOG'S LIFE

Only Two of 130 Pets Rescued From Pound, Report Says

A dog's life in Wichita Falls is becoming less and less valuable, it was revealed in the report of the dog catcher for the month of April.

A total of 130 canines were caught; two were paid out while one was kept in the pound and the remaining 127 were killed. Ninety-four animals were killed on the streets during the month.

KIWANIS PARTY 'RAINED OUT'

Club to Set New Date For Park Dedication

Zero hour for Kiwanians all over the world Monday night was zero hour in Wichita Falls for a terrific downpour of rain, and members of the local Kiwanis club quickly postponed the picnic planned for the evening at Kiwanis park to a date to be selected Tuesday by the board of directors.

Plans had been made for an extensive program for Monday night, in which the 15th anniversary of the organization of International Kiwanis to be celebrated, and the park formally presented to the city. Several members of the club congregated at the site shortly before 6:30 p. m., the hour announced for the dinner, but abandoned the grounds in time to get to paved streets before the deluge fell.

About one dozen picnickers, rounded up by Secretary Don Haynes, retired to the basement of the Highland Heights Christian church with well-filled baskets planned for a larger gathering and held a consolation meeting over their dinner. Mr. Haynes stated that a meeting of the directors probably would be held Tuesday, and that plans for holding the picnic and presentation ceremony later would be adopted.

Cotton Men Study Needs

District Leaders Named At Grandfield

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Texas, May 4.—W. H. Hutchison, Frederick, was re-nominated director of the district Cotton Growers association in a convention here Monday. John Cohourt, Cotton county, was named teller to the state convention and A. S. Patton, Tillman county, chosen alternate.

Approximately 50 cotton growers assembled to discuss district production and marketing problems. Resolutions urging the use of cotton for bagging to replace the jupe imported from Inda were passed. It was pointed out that such a use would provide a market for 200,000 additional bales of cotton.

The conference studied other new uses for the product in an effort to enlarge markets and raise prices.

Growers heard the annual address of the director and were entertained at dinner by the Frederick compress. Women of the Blue Valley club served. Frank Patterson, editor of the Grandfield Enterprise, was toastmaster.

PASTORS HELD FOR FLOGGING

Ministers Use Stern Measures on Imbiber

MENA, Ark., May 4. (INS)—The Rev. Sid Wise and Rev. P. R. Larimore, apostolic ministers, were under indictment here today for the "Christian act" of flogging Bud Ralls last month when the latter disregarded their warnings that he stay sober or they would whip him.

The action of the ministers in beating Ralls with a switch when he returned to his home here during the recent Red Cross drought distress campaign and abused his family, was pronounced by Sheriff John E. Joplin as a "Christian act."

Sheriff Joplin said that in the event the ministers are fined for their "Christian act" that he personally would raise funds with which to pay their fines.

The indicted ministers are scheduled to go to trial on the charges of whipping Ralls during the October term of court here.

According to Sheriff Joplin, Ralls has been sober since the flogging by the ministers.

BOOSTERS PLAN MARKET HERE

I. O. Dealers to Encourage Sale of Produce

Efforts of the I. O. Boosters club, comprised of business men on Ohio and Indiana avenues north of the central business district, will be centered during the next few weeks upon the establishment of a public retail produce market as an outlet for Wichita county farm products, according to plans discussed at the weekly luncheon held Monday noon at the Holt hotel.

Monday's discussion was opened by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, who was presented by R. S. Fidler, president of the club, to outline some of the obstacles commonly met in connection with establishing such a market as that proposed. Others who participated in the parley were C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park, Dr. Fred Gross, E. F. Riley and Grank Schram.

Some proposals relative to a location for the proposed market were made. It was stressed that such a market should offer curb service, in order that housewives may drive by the display booths and select desired produce with the least inconvenience.

Mr. Fidler appointed Sam Hord, F. W. Work, C. C. Hudson and Mr. Schram as a committee to further plans for establishing the public mart.

Ray Maier, implement dealer, was elected to membership in the club. Visitors included Ray Jenkins, district manager for the J. C. Penney company.

Many Improvements Being Made at Kell Field Airport

Wichita Falls Plant Declared One of Best in Southwest

Work of modernizing the airport at Kell field on the Burkburnett road is showing much improvement and is continuing rapidly, Fulcher Armstrong, manager, said Monday.

Buildings and furnishings at the port have been renovated and exterior and interior repainting has just been completed, it was said.

Construction of walks will be commenced soon and will extend to a 50-foot concrete slab, completed Sunday by the Waggoner Refining company, which will be used as a base for plane operations at the field and where passengers will board their ships, Mr. Armstrong said, explaining that this improvement has long been needed at the airport here to prevent the necessity of passengers walking through mud to reach planes. Walks, he said, also are to be constructed around and between buildings.

Wireless Telephone

With the recent installation of wireless telephone service at the port, the municipal field is now equipped with every type of communication, telephone, telegraph, wireless telegraph and wireless telephone. Wireless telegraphy service has been used for some time at the port, the other installations having been made recently.

An expensive set of weather instruments has been placed by the federal government at the field, from where daily weather reports are sent out to Dallas. A restaurant has been opened to serve passengers.

Mr. Armstrong expressed the opinion that with the improvements already made, and others that are planned, the airport and its facilities soon will rank among the most convenient in the southwest. Mr. Armstrong was made manager of the municipal port upon its consolidation April 1 with the Wichita Falls Transport company's Staley field. He was formerly manager of the latter field.

The municipal port is now used as a landing field for all air activities here. Two passenger services, the Western-Midcontinent Air Express and the Texas-Oklahoma Airlines, use the field as a depot and as a base of activities. The Wichita Falls Air Transport company operates a commercial aviation service and maintains a flying school, a shop where airplane repairs are made, and an airplane supply store. The Wichita Falls Air Transport company operates the municipal field. Its commercial service includes an airplane agency and commercial flights to any points in the United States, Canada or Mexico. The supply store contains a complete line of supplies for every type of motor and ship repair.

The passenger service of the Western-Midcontinent line extends from Denver, Colo., by way of Wichita Falls to Dallas. O. L. Dockum is division agent here. The Texas-Oklahoma Airlines recently took over the route abandoned by the Braniff Airways, from Wichita Falls to Oklahoma City, by way of Lawton. Wichita Falls is headquarters for the line. R. H. Tarbutton, owner and operator, formerly of Oklahoma City, recently moved here. J. Glen Groves is local manager. Both lines have excellent connections along their routes with other lines which give service for practically every city in the United States served by air.

Officials and personnel of the municipal airport are Fulcher Armstrong, manager; C. M. Roth, wireless telephone operator; Joe Blackman, wireless telegraph operator; Jack Overstreet, pilot; Gordon Wooley, mechanic and pilot; Ted Spangler, assistant.

Junior C-C Gets Early Start On Program for 1932 Convention Here

Plans for the annual convention of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce got under way here Monday, following the selection of Wichita Falls Saturday at Dallas as the 1932 convention city, it was announced by T. J. Waggoner Jr., president of the local Junior chamber.

The chief objective for the convention, Mr. Waggoner said, will be to form a program of such merit to assure the largest attendance ever had at a convention of the state organization. Invitations will be extended not only to members of Junior chambers of commerce in Texas but also to organizations in Oklahoma, he said, as well as to young executives of both states who are not affiliated with the Junior chamber of commerce.

Non-members will be asked to attend, Mr. Waggoner explained, in an effort to create a closer relation and spirit of friendliness between young business men of Texas and Oklahoma. A program is to be arranged that will appeal not only to members of the Junior chamber but to the young men who are outside the ranks of the organization.

A bulletin to be issued monthly to Junior chambers of commerce of Texas and Oklahoma will be commenced immediately, it was announced.

Only 29 More Pianos to Loan
FREE

Twenty-nine Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Wichita Falls and vicinity, and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. This offer is caused by lack of floor space, due to the reason we are overstocked and a larger demand now for certain styles of Grand and Upright Pianos. Our warerooms are crowded and other Pianos constantly arriving are taxing our floors to the utmost. We must have the room. Our entire stock has been priced at greatly reduced figures, and any one contemplating the purchase of a Piano in the next few months cannot afford to miss the opportunity. All Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a Piano in the immediate future and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these Pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge for Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. No phone orders. You must call at the store to make your selection. No matter if you live out of town, you are just as welcome to one of these instruments as those residing right in the city. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.
