Officers Halt Fijis Creating Disturbance

Phi Gamma Delta's Fiji Island Dance Saturday night is off to a good start — or maybe it's not so good.

While distributing invitations to their dates Wednesday afternoon, some of the members became a little too rowdy and were hauled in by Tech Security officers.

President Calls

The move came after Tech President R. C. Goodwin called the Security office and said several complaints had been turned to his office.

"They were just getting a little rowdy without really realizing it," Bill Daniels, chief of traffic security, said. "There were several complaints turned in, so Dr. Goodwin called us."

The offenders were taken to the Security Bldg., lectured by Dean of Men Lewis Jones and released—to quietly distribute the rest of their invitations.

'Hoss' Arrives At Tech

By MARY ALICE NABORS
and JACQUE GILL
Staff Editors

The press men and women sat crowded in a small motel room, awaiting the celebrity. Suddenly the room shrank when a tremendous hulk of a man ambled in. This was Dan "Hoss" Blocker.

The actor, who stands six feet four, weighs 285 pounds and wears a size 13½ boot, will appear in the Tech Rodeo today, Friday and Saturday.

Blocker said he had signed another six-year contract to continue in the "Bonanza" series. The show has just completed its sixth season, he said, and has been rated number one for the past three years.

Surprisingly enough, Blocker admitted he does not watch his own show. Studying oneself leads to mimicking oneself and this leads to cataloged responses, the actor said.

Senate Names Committees

Student Senate President Roland Anderson named members of the allocations and election committees for next year at Tuesday night's initial Senate session.

Named to the allocations committee were Senators Chris Adrean, Gary Rose, Susan Waits and Johnny Knowles. Chairman of the committee is business manager Jerry Rawls.

Senators Jerry Bawcom, Diane Naylor, Marcia White, Jill Philbrick, Sam Henry and Johnny Walker will compose the election committee. Sara Cox, secretary of the Senate, is chairman.

The allocations and election committees are the only two standing committees under the new Student Association Constitution.

Applications for executive positions on the Senate must be turned in to the Senate office by May 8.

Blocker said acting, like any other job, gets routine and boring. "Much of its romance and glamour is lost when you have to rise at 5 a.m. and work 14 hours each day," he confessed.

The majority of the shows are filmed on permanent sets at Paramount Studios, Blocker said. Shots for interior scenes are made on Stage 17 and exterior scenes are filmed on Stage 16. Only 10 per cent of shows are done on location.

Scripts for "Bonanza" are written by free lance writers, the star said. Anyone can submit a script for the series.

In filming the show, Blocker said he occasionally gets banged up. Because he and Pernell Roberts were seriously injured during the filming of one show, now the top stars are not allowed to participate in any "rough stuff."

Each of the stars is insured for six and a half million dollars. Now an insurance representative is on set at all times to see that the actors don't attempt any dangerous feats.

Blocker said he accidentally stumbled into acting when he appeared in a play during his junior year at Sul Ross State College. At the time he was majoring in P.E., but he liked acting so much that he graduated with majors in both P.E. and drama. He later acquired a M.A. degree in English.

Blocker saw combat duty during the Korean conflict; he rose to the rank of company first sergeant during the short time he was in the service.

When Blocker was first approached about a starring role in "Bonanza," he was under contract with CBS and was appearing in the short-lived series, "Cimarron City."

After reading several of the "Bonanza" scripts, Blocker disapproved of the character of "Hoss." "The original 'Hoss' was a complete buffon," Blocker said. "I was afraid people would tire of him after several weeks." The script was rewritten, and "Hoss" became the good-hearted, loveable, unpretentious character he is today.

Ratings for the "Bonanza" show have been unique, Blocker said. Usually, shows begin to decline in popularity after the fourth season, but "Bonanza," now in its sixth year, remains number one, seven points above its nearest competitor.

Asked if he intended to remain with the show, Blocker commented, "I'll stay with it until it dies or it will stay with me until I die."

HOSS CARTWRIGHT—Dan Blocker, better known as Hoss Cartwright of "Bonanza," is surrounded by Tech beauties at his press conference Tuesday afternoon at the KoKo Inn. Hoss will appear in the Tech Rodeo Thursday, Friday and

Montoya Presents Guitar Wizardry

By MARGARET EASTMAN
and DAVE BRUCE

Carlos Montoya's guitar wizardry entertained a small but enthusiastic audience at Municipal Auditorium Wednesday night. In fact, the audience rose to two standing ovations.

Montoya played his own arrangements of gypsy music and sounded more like an orchestra than a one-man show.

He amazed his audience as he played number after number with melody in both his left and right hands.

Native Spaniard

Carlos Montoya was born in Madrid and started playing guitar at the age of eight, learning first from his mother and then from a local barber. By the time he was 14, he had studied under some of the greatest flamenco guitarists and was playing in the "cafes cantantes" during the height of flamenco dancing and singing.

But it was not until 1945, after an already brilliant career accompanying many of the greatest dancers, that Montoya broke precedent by playing a full concert recital of flamenco guitar music. Although this was something never before attempted, Montoya felt such concerts should succeed, and judging from the last 20 years, he must have been correct.

Interview

The Daily Toreador interviewed Montoya and his wife preceding the Wednesday night performance. When asked about unusual experiences, Mrs. Montoya told the following story:

"I think the funniest thing that ever happened was in New York City after a concert at Town Hall. We were in a taxi and Carlos' guitar was in the front seat with the driver. The cab driver started making rise remarks like: 'What's that? A banjo?' The man who was with us took it all very seriously and told the driver that he was with a great flamenco guitarist.

"The driver said, 'Well, I'll bet he's not as good as that Montoya.' When we told him it was Montoya, he stopped the car to get an autograph and we nearly got into a traffic jam."

When asked how Montoya avoided cutting his fingers before a concert, his wife answered, "The way Carlos has avoided cutting himself is by letting me do all of the dirty work."

Montoya said his favorite audiences were college students and extended his greetings to Texas Tech. His wife said they had over 100 concerts to perform this year.

When asked why he thought a one-man solo concert would be successful, Mrs. Montoya told of an incident when Montoya was 14 years old.

"He was then accompanying Spanish dancers on his guitar. At one of the performances he did a solo number and the headline the next day read: 'Montoya Stars in Performance.'"

Surprisingly enough, Montoya's fingers are not at all calloused. In fact, they are softer than the fingers of most non-guitar players.

His wife explained that his advanced technique allowed for him to relax so that his fingers would not callous.

Engineer Lecture Series Continues

Fred Bucy Jr., vice president of the Dallas-based Texas Instruments and general manager of the firm's apparatus division, arrives on Tech campus today as the final speaker in this year's engineering lecture series.

Bucy, a native of Tahoka and a 1951 Tech graduate, will deliver a 4 p.m. address on "Responsibility and Authority of a Projects Engineer" in the Architecture Auditorium.

Parade Kicks Off Tech Rodeo Today

By MIKE LUTZ
Assistant Sports Editor

Texas Tech's annual Intercollegiate Rodeo kicks off at 4 p.m. today with a parade through downtown Lubbock and the Tech campus, beginning three days of top rodeo action.

The parade, led by the Red Raider, will begin at 14th and Avenue D and proceed down Broadway through the Tech campus, and end at Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, where all four performances are scheduled.

A total of 176 rodeo contestants will compete for a berth in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association finals in Douglas, Wyo., early this summer.

The top two individuals in each event and top three teams will advance to the national event. Eleven teams are entered.

About 27 entries will march in the parade including six riding clubs, Tech officials, two sheriffs' posse groups and two bands.

Beauties Appear

Also appearing in the parade will be Miss Rodeo of Texas for 1964, Rebecca Ramsey, a Tech sophomore from El Campo, Kay Burleson, Miss Lubbock 1965, and the six finalists in the 1965 rodeo queen contest.

Feature attraction at all four performances of the rodeo will be Dan Blocker, "Hoss Cartwright" on the "Bonanza" television series. Blocker will not appear in the parade, however.

Evening shows tonight, Friday and Saturday will begin at 8 p.m.

A matinee performance is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Dub Parks Memorial award will be presented during tonight's show.

The award is presented each year to the Rodeo Association member who accomplished the most for the club during the school term. Parks, president of the Tech rodeo group in 1954, was killed in an automobile accident during that year.

The rodeo queen will also be crowned at this evening's opening show. Finalists are Diana Cahill, Mag Garland, Susie Gayle, Jan Yates, Susy Ferrell and Myfe White.

Seven rodeo events, including calf roping, ribbon roping, bulldogging, bullriding, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding and wild cow saddling on tap.

Barrel-racing and a goat tying contest are slated for women.

A special feature of each performance will be a wild cow saddling contest with fraternity and sorority groups providing the opposition.

Teams entering the three-day event are: Oklahoma State, Panhandle A&M, New Mexico University, Eastern New Mexico, West Texas State, South Plains College, Hardin-Simmons University, Sul Ross, Midwestern University and Texas Western.

Tech's team includes Terry Scott, Garland Weeks, Richard Snyder, Fred Schmidt, Dan Redding, Jerry Blocker, D'Lynn McGinty, Jan Yates, Wanda Boatler and Skipper Driver.

Sheppard Back In Prison

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Sam Sheppard's new freedom was jolted Wednesday by a federal court which ordered him back to a life prison term for his wife's slaying, but his attorney vowed to keep him permanently free.

The 41-year-old osteopath, convicted after a trial which drew worldwide attention in 1954, was guaranteed 20 more days of freedom with the German divorcee he married soon after a federal judge ordered him released from prison last July 15.

His lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, said in Boston an appeal would be carried to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

"We are satisfied still that the end result will be that Dr. Sheppard's freedom will become permanent," Bailey said.

TACT President Will Speak Here

Dr. Emmie Craddock of San Marcus, president of the Texas Association of College Teachers, will be guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Texas Tech chapter of TACT at noon today in the Coronado Room of Tech Union.

Dr. Craddock is expected to discuss current legislation affecting higher education, said Dr. Kenneth W. Davis, president of the Tech unit.

'Menagerie' Opens As Last Production

"The Glass Menagerie," considered by most critics as Tennessee Williams' best play, will open at 8:15 p.m. today at the University Theater.

Believed to be autobiographical in many respects, Williams' poignant drama hinges around the efforts of young Tom Wingfield, played by Richie Smedley (Snyder freshman), to escape from the frustrations of family life.

His mother, Amanda, is a fading Southern belle who constantly forces her dreams upon her children. Her tyranny, in the name of love, leads to many heartaches. The role will be portrayed by Juanice Myers, Lubbock senior.

Laura, the crippled daughter, will be played by Cheri Brownlee, Lubbock freshman. Laura wants only to spend her life in the solitude of her records and her glass menagerie. Her mother, however, has other plans for her which lead to constant conflict.

Amanda's efforts to make her daughter a "belle" lead to Tom's bringing home a friend who is Laura's first gentleman caller. The role is played by Charles Kerr, Lubbock sophomore.

The play's action is set in St. Louis in the 1930's. The set includes the outside of the Wingfield apartment—brick wall, windows, etc., the interior of the apartment and a fire escape.

Dr. Clifford Ashby, who designed the set, said, "It would have cost us over $400 for professional assistance—so we're doing the whole thing ourselves."

The action of the play will be enhanced by the delicate strains of "The Glass Menagerie" theme. The music is reduced to mere tinkling as Laura polishes her precious glass menagerie.

Ronald Schulz, director, said, "This should be one of the most successful productions in the history of the speech department."

Subsequent performances will be at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets are 50 cents with Tech ID and are on sale at the University box office at Ext. 2154. Admission is $1.50 for the general public.

AIRLINER CRASHES

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—A four-engine airliner of the Spanish Iberia company crashed near here Wednesday night and at least 23 persons were killed, aviation officials said today.

Home Economics Club Will Install Officers

Tech's chapter of American Home Economics Association installs 1965-66 officers today at 7 p.m. in the Home Economics Bldg. dining room.

Marge Eubank, Idalou child development major, will be installed as president.

Miss Eubank served as social chairman and Home Economics Awards Banquet chairman this year. She was recognized as Outstanding Sophomore for 1964-65 and attended the State Home Economics workshop last fall in Austin.

A delegate to the state convention last year, Miss Eubank will attend the National convention this summer. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Devotional chairman for Doak Hall, Phi Upsilon Omicron, HE honorary, Junior Council and active in the Church of Christ Bible Chair.

Other officers are Ross Lynn Spradling, vice president; Judy Ann Banduch, corresponding secretary and Glenda Israel, recording secretary.

Elizabeth Jackson, treasurer; Patricia Hayes, financial chairman; Carolyn Moore, social chairman; Rebecca Pena, AWS representative; Kay Gessling, BSO representative; Sharon Green, historian and Sharon Edgeworth, publicity chairman.

Marie Carano, home economics instructor, will serve as faculty sponsor.

A Potential Promise ..

AS NEW AND UNTRIED as the Texas Tech Student Senate is, this group of representative students shows a lot of promise for next year.

In their first and last meeting of this school year Tuesday night, the newly-elected Senators:

- Passed a measure backing the United States' stands in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.
- Heard a State of the Student Association speech by President Roland Anderson which outlined an ambitious, but obtainable, set of goals for next year.
- Revised the controversial "food committee" report to make it more accurately reflect the majority of student opinion.

All of these actions are important, but the one dealing with the U.S. foreign policy is the most significant.

Finally, student leaders at Tech are focusing some of their attention to matters outside of the college and the state, and this is good.

Students in colleges and universities in this day and time need to pay more attention to world affairs. That is the purpose of colleges and universities—to make us more aware of our surroundings and to prepare us to take an active part in them.

But no matter how much this place of higher learning teaches us, students must still acquire that necessary amount of responsibility to make their interest and concern really mean something.

Only in this way can we prove to our "elders" that we really understand what is going on and that we are not all of the hairy, unwashed breed.

The Student Senate has begun to prove themselves as responsible students-citizens. We hope they will fulfill this potential.

Copeland Wonders About Food Pleas

Dear Editor:

The problem of food at the dormitories here on campus—is it really a problem?

The suggestions made concerning the food are usually of the negative point of view and are never in favor. I propose that the trite complaints made against dormitory food be handled under an organization of the new Student Senate.

This organization could function as a coordinating group for the Food Service Committee and the students. Instead of riotous exchange of words and views, I believe that this group could handle the problem in a more civilized and democratic way.

With so many complaints against dormitory food, I still see students rushing to get in the cafeteria lines. If the students are so eager to eat, then there must be something they are in favor of. I agree that the food is not always sirloins and souffles, but very few people have a menu that is comparable to this.

Another complaint is the dress in the cafeteria. I believe that this change came about in the best interest of the students.

If the students show enough pride to dress decently while in the cafeteria, I believe that the cafeteria personnel will take pride in the food they prepare and serve to us. I am not saying that sloppiness in the students is reflected in the food, but through environmental conditions some good is bound to rub off.

This may seem rather controversial in that I say there are no major problems and then I say that the students should take more pride to better the food.

It is not at all controversial; it is one answer to the problems that exist in the minds of the students who eat in the cafeterias.

Enjoys Cartoons In Daily Toreador

Dear Mr. De Leon,

I have thoroughly enjoyed the cartoons in the Toreador. It is funny to see the problems of Texas Tech played on.

Through this medium some people might take a more serious view of some of Tech's problems. Any thing that a person can get a good laugh from is worthwhile.

Yours truly,

Busiest Place Around

By Cecil Green

The busiest place on campus this week is a small trailer parked near the Municipal Coliseum.

That's the spot where plans for this year's Tech Rodeo are being coordinated.

And don't kid yourself, coordinating this spectacular event is nothing to be passed over lightly. Ever since last May, even before the gates closed on the 1964 edition, members of the Tech Rodeo Association have been making preparations for the '65 showing.

Today, the end result of their work will be presented to the public when THE Rodeo in Lubbock opens. The affair will run through this weekend; don't miss it.

What exactly goes into preparing a rodeo, especially one on the scale of the Tech Rodeo?

I asked this question of Garland Weeks and Skipper Driver in the cramped confines of the trailer-office, and their answer was "a heck of a lot of work."

Leaning back in his chair, Weeks began to tick off all the "minor" details that have to be tended to:

—"First we have to get the dates approved. This involves planning far ahead with coliseum officials and with Tech officials to make sure there are no conflicts. Right now, we have the dates set for '66 and we're in the process of determining the days for the '67 Rodeo."

—"Then we started sending bids to stock contractors, clowns, announcers and other personnel needed for the show. When replies started coming in, the members of the Board of Directors of the Rodeo Association selected the men they thought could help the rodeo the best."

Also about this time, the intricate dealings to find an appropriate guest star were begun. For the last couple of years, the Rodeo Association has worked with an agency in California to get a big name.

Two years ago, it was Rex Allen; last year it was Mike Landon, "Little Joe" of Ponderosa fame. And this year, the rodeo will feature possibly the biggest man in show business, literally. Of course it's Dan Blocker, also of the Ponderosa and formerly a resident of nearby O'Donnell.

To get "Hoss," the Tech group had to send an itemized proposal, listing the previous year's attendance and receipts and the estimate of success of future shows.

Then, the agency sent a contract that would be suitable to them. This was aired by the Rodeo Council (headed by Dean Lewis N. Jones), the legal aspects were discussed with a local lawyer, and finally it was signed and returned for Blocker's signature.

—"After the guest star is known, the costly process of advertising begins," said Weeks.

But making known the rodeo does not stop with just ads in the local papers; there are radio spots, television spots and even large billboards in Lubbock and the surrounding area.

Still, the cost for the extravaganza does not stop with advertising, and the Rodeo Association has to pay for the stock contractors, the clowns, the announcers, the dirt that covers the floor, the rental of the Coliseum, the judges, the star and the timekeepers, to name a few.

—"All the cost of producing the rodeo is borne exclusively by the Rodeo Association," Weeks said, "and we have to work on credit quite a bit until the rodeo closes and all the receipts are in."

But that doesn't make the Tech show any less spectacular. It's currently billed as "The Largest Indoor Collegiate Rodeo in the World." And the indications are that it is the largest in the world, period.

Yes, the Tech Rodeo has come a long way since it was founded in the mid-'30's; it draws more top rodeo talent from the Texas-New Mexico region, it attracts huge crowds from everywhere, and now it can afford to bring really good personalities in to be the calling card for the affair.

This is quite a different picture than was presented about 10 years ago when the Tech Rodeo was banned from campus because of the actions of some of its members.

Since then, the maturity, business sense and desire have molded the rodeo into one of the top annual affairs at the coliseum.

We all feel that a word of praise is due the leaders of the Rodeo Association (the largest club on campus, by the way), their sponsors and all its 364 members.

The rodeo officers are Dan Reding, chairman, Dick Zachary, Steve Cochran, Ep Epperson, Jan Vaughn, Driver and Weeks. Sponsors include Clyde Prestwood of the athletic department, Mrs. Lenore Tunnell of the English Department and Dr. Frank Hudson of the animal husbandry department.

Oh, and a special accolade to Conrad Brumley, parade chairman, who has also spent many hours arranging for the gala parade this afternoon.

Russell In Support Of LBJ Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., says he supports President Johnson's Dominican Republic actions but believes the bombing of North Viet Nam "will not have much effect one way or the other" on the war there.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee and is a close friend of Johnson, said in a telephone interview Wednesday from his Winder, Ga., home that he expects to return to the Senate this month.

He has been absent since Feb. 2 when he was stricken so severely with bronchitis and emphysema, a lung ailment, that a tracheotomy operation was performed at Walter Reed Army Hospital here to aid him in breathing. He was released from the hospital March 9 and reported that he now is "feeling fine."

Commenting on a range of subjects in his first interview since he was stricken, Russell:

—Showed reluctance to comment on the administration's course in Viet Nam. His position has been that the United States never should have become involved there. But asked if he backs the strategy of air strikes against North Viet Nam, he replied, "It is my opinion that the bombings will not have much effect one way or the other. I don't think we will gain much by it or lose much." He did not elaborate.

—Said the President "couldn't do anything else" but send troops into the Dominican Republic.

—Assailed the administration's Negro voting rights bill, but expressed doubt he will be back in Washington in time to vote against it.

—Accused Senate liberals of "trying to carry water on both shoulders" by delaying—until after their planned filibuster against a legislative reapportionment amendment—their effort to lower the present two-thirds majority vote requirement to cut off debate.

Russell, who has been consulted in frequent telephone calls by Johnson, said he sees no present hope for ending the Viet Nam conflict.

SWC Track Meet Begins Friday

DALLAS—Competition involving representatives of championship contenders and the presence of Randy Matson, the Olympic silver medalist, places about half of the Southwest Conference track and field records in jeopardy in this week's Golden Anniversary meet at College Station.

Performances to date indicate that Rice University will repeat as team champion with Texas A&M generally ranked as the chief challenger. Baylor and Southern Methodist likewise have impressive team strength.

The freshman division is much more difficult to handicap, since there has been a minimum of competition, but Southern Methodist generally is rated a slim favorite over Baylor and A&M.

Matson is expected to fashion new SWC records on his efforts with both the shot and the discus. Last week he bettered his pending world record in the shot put by more than a foot (69 feet, 0 3/4 inch) and his best effort of 201 feet, 5 1/2 inch with the discus, is well past the national collegiate record. SWC marks for the shot and discus, respectively are 58 feet, 5 3/4 inches (set last year by Baylor's Jim Lancaster who will be defending) and 177 feet, 10 inches (established in 1963 by A&M's Danny Roberts).

League records also have been bettered thus far in the 3-mile run, the mile relay, pole vault and equalled in the 120-yard high hurdles. Three schools—Rice, Baylor and SMU—have been under the existing mark of 3:10.7 for the mile relay, with the Owls owning the best time (3:09.8).

Warren Brattlof has equaled the 15-6 pole vault record he set as a sophomore on several occasions this year and bettered it on one occasion by 3/4 of an inch. Teammate Bobby May has equalled the hurdles mark of 13.8 and bettered it with an assisting wind in winning the Texas Relays in 133.7.

Ken Sunderland of Texas has posted the best three-mile time, and his 14:28.7 is well under the record set last year, but a siege of mononucleosis will prevent his participation. Rice's George Stroup, fourth-place winner a year ago, also has been under the record (14:49.4) with a 14:30.2.

SMU's sprint combine, led by Steve Clayton and Bruce Cameron, may threaten freshman division marks, as could Hurdler Jerry Utecht. The bulk of the freshman records, fashioned by the likes of Matson and other heroes of yesterday, appear to be out of reach of this year's new crop, however.

26 Thinclads Prepare For Meet At Aggieland

Texas Tech will have 12 varsity track and field competitors and 14 freshmen in the Southwest Conference Meet at College Station Friday and Saturday.

Coach Vernon Hilliard is taking these varsity participants:

Frank Barker of Monterey, Calif., discus; Kenneth Coleman of Dallas, sprints and relay; Ronnie Davis of Brownwood, distance; Terry Diveley of Midland, distance; Russell Durham, Comanche, high jump; Bill Gilbreath of Muleshoe, 880.

Jerry Gilbreath of Muleshoe, 440 and relay; Bobby Kitchens of Silverton, relay; Donald Parrish of Daingerfield, sprints and relay; Richard Vogan of El Paso, sprints and relays; Clark Willingham of Dallas, sprints and relays; and Scott Wood of Stockton, Calif., 880 and relays.

Picadors include Jim Arnold of Tulia, 440 and relay; John Boughner of El Paso, weight events; Art Carroll of Lubbock, hurdles and relay; Larry Foreman of Odessa, high jump and broad jump; Bobby Garst of Midland, pole vault; Barry Gray of Lubbock, mile; Jimmy Hobson of Lubbock, 880 and relay.

Tom Hutton of Richardson, sprints and relay; Rich Kay of Orinda, Calif., mile; Foster Miller of Llano, hurdles and high jump; Chris Noble of Dallas, hurdles; Wayne Perrin of Haskell, sprints and relay; William Reed of Lorenzo, weight events; and Joe Terry of Midland, Javelin.

Davis is Tech's best bet for varsity points, since his 4:11.8 at Kansas Relays is the fastest mile run by a conference performer. Carroll's 14.3 in the high hurdles at Plainview last week makes him dangerous in the freshman division.

Golf Team Sends Two To SWC

A pair of golfers from the Panhandle will represent Texas Tech in the Southwest Conference tournament at College Station Thursday and Friday.

Junior Steve LeCrone of Amarillo, conference runner-up in last year's medal play here, and sophomore Jimmy Wilcoxson of Childress were picked by Coach Danny Mason. By finishing third in the conference round robin, a half point behind Texas Christian, the Raiders were allotted two entries in the tournament for individual honors.

Wilcoxson was undefeated in match play this season. After four matches he pulled ligaments in his left knee while practicing and missed a pair but came back to win his finale with Baylor. He was medalist against the Bears, shooting two under par in winning 6 and 5.

Tech Tennis Duo Seeded Second

The No. 1 Raider doubles team probably will be seeded second at the Southwest Conference tournament, but Coach George Philbrick will be quick to point out that pre-tourney rankings aren't everything.

The most success Tech ever enjoyed in the tournament came in 1962 when unranked Daryl Allison and Beau Sutherland captured the SWC doubles championship.

Allison and Sutherland had never been paired before in competition, so it was no surprise that they were not seeded at all. Philbrick had lost a member of his squad the final week and moved the sophomore Sutherland up to the No. 1 team with Allison, a junior, for experience as much as anything.

They eliminated Texas Christian in the first round, disposed of a Rice duo in the semi-finals, and knocked off another Rice team for the championship.

Tech's other doubles team has a similar record, although, of course, it was achieved at the expense of other schools' No. 2 teams. Basketballer Dub Malaise and Charles Bower are also 5-1, losing last Saturday to Rice's Ed Turville and Chip Travis 6-4, 12-10.

All four will also play singles at the tournament being held at College Station Thursday through Saturday.

Texas Tech, with Peterson and Kothmann the only lettermen, completed the conference season with a 22-14 mark, good for third place, just two points behind runner-up Texas. Tech downed Baylor, Texas A&M, Southern Methodist, and Texas Christian, losing only to Texas and Rice.

Holly Takes Bat Crown

Junior Ronny Holly, a 5-11, 145-pound second baseman, took final batting average honors in a route in final Raider baseball statistics released Tuesday with a .373 mean.

Second best to Holly's average was third sacker Lee Watts' .308.

Holly also took first place in four other departments, those of hits, walks, fielding assists, and slugging percentage. The wiry little second sacker totaled 25 base hits, nine walks, 35 assists, and a .567 slugging percentage.

Eldon Frost, a sophomore outfielder, led in the most departments however, taking the prizes in seven departments. He compiled a .973 fielding percentage to lead regulars, six triples, 20 runs scored, 89 at-bats, tied for most games played at 23 with Foy Williams, tied with Bob Fielder at 14 RBI's, and notched 43 total bases.

Tech's final pitching statistics were featured by a host of ballooning earned run averages, but Larry Thorne, a junior lefthander from Andrews took honors here with a 3.78 mark.

Chips Removed

NEW YORK (P) — Elston Howard, New York Yankee catcher, underwent a successful operation Wednesday for removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, team physician who performed the surgery, said two chips were taken out of the joint—one the size of a pea and the other smaller.

"The operation appears a success," the physician said. "If everything goes according to schedule, Howard should be able to start exercising in three weeks."

Raider Defense Pulls 'Big Plays' In Drills

Most fans watching for "big plays" in Texas Tech's intra-squad game Saturday will be noting the lengthy runs and long passes.

But coaches Matt Lair and Jim Wright, directing the defenses, cite as "big plays" the loss-producing tackle, a last-man stop by the safety or a pass interception.

It's been that way throughout spring training. After each Saturday intra-squad scrimmage the coaches have tabulated the big play by the defense.

The most defender has attained in one game has been four—managed in the opening scrimmage by guard Doug Young of Brownwood and in last Saturday's workout by end Joe Hurley of Midland. Other leaders have been linebackers John Carrell of Lovington, N.M., and Rick Jones of San Antonio, second scrimmage; Young, tackle Jesse Pruitt of Glen Rose, and fullback Jim Haney of Hereford, third scrimmage.

Tackles are also totaled. Leaders by Saturday scrimmages have been safety David Baugh of Rotan, first scrimmage; Carrell, second; halfback Jimmie Edwards of Royse City, third; and linebacker Kenneth Gill of McKinney and Dennis Tucker of Albany, fourth.

Red, White Tri-Captains Announced

Tri-captains will head the Reds and the Whites as Texas Tech completes football training with its annual spring game here Saturday.

Coach J T King said that the Reds would be led by tackle John Porter of Lamesa, quarterback Tom Wilson of Corsicana, and guard Chester Howard of Longview; the Whites by linebacker Kenneth Gill of McKinney, safety David Baugh of Rotan, and halfback Johnny Agan of Albany.

As coaches, King has assigned John Conley, Joe Blaylock, David Rankin, and Jim Wright to the Reds; Matt Lair, Burl Bartlett, Bill Shaha, and Bill Worley to the Whites.

Kickoff in Jones Stadium will be 4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for all others. (ID cards will suffice for Tech students.)
