Passage Of School Bill Seen Today

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders hope to hand President Johnson a tremendous plum today — passage of his far-reaching school bill.

Never in history has the House passed a bill granting broad federal aid to the nation's elementary and secondary schools, but a powerful Democratic majority in the House appears certain to reach that goal today.

The Democrats beat back all attempts to weaken the key provision of the bill Thursday, preserving intact its authorization of $1.06 billion in grants designed to improve educational opportunities for children from low-income families. Both public and parochial school students would participate in programs implemented by the funds.

Still to be acted on are provisions that would make $250 million more available for textbooks and library books, educational research, the establishment of supplemental education centers and grants to state education agencies.

Republicans are expected to offer opposition to all of them, but the manner in which they were defeated in their efforts to alter the major provision left them little hope of success.

They centered their fire on the formula by which the $1.06 billion would be funneled to the states for distribution to school districts with concentrations of impoverished children. The states would get one-half of their average per-pupil costs for each child between 5 and 17 from a family with an income under $2,000 a year. There are an estimated 5.2 million of them in 94 per cent of the nation's school districts.

State costs vary widely, from a low of $241 per pupil in Mississippi to $704 in New York. Thus New York would get three times as much as Mississippi for each eligible child.

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., a strong supporter of past school bills, led the attack on the formula, which bolstered Republican hopes that they would pick up enough Democrats to change it. But her proposal, to give each state $200 for each eligible child, was crushed 202 to 137, with only about 20 Southern Democrats joining her and the Republicans in supporting it.

Red Korea Adds Offer Of Troops

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea joined Peking today in offering to send men and arms to South Viet Nam if the Viet Cong ask for help.

The offer was made in a government statement broadcast by Pyongyang Radio. Peking made a similar offer Thursday.

North Korea said: "Under the condition in which the U.S. imperialists are steadily expanding the war, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea government will take measures for sending volunteers to South Viet Nam at any time the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front requests.

"The peoples of all Socialist countries can and must supply not only aid of all forms, including weapons, to the South Vietnamese people but also dispatch volunteers, if necessary."

The statement added that "a nationwide movement is now being unfolded in our country for aiding the Vietnamese people and a large number of people are eagerly asking to go as volunteers to aid the fighting South Vietnamese people."

LBJ Honors Gemini Pair

By STERLING F. Green

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson expresses the nation's gratitude and bestows its space heroes' medal today on the Gemini astronauts who piloted the first maneuverable spacecraft into history on Tuesday.

At a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, veteran astronaut Virgil I. Grissom is to become the first two-time recipient of the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal and his Gemini partner, John W. Young, becomes a first-time winner.

Then the spacemen, their families and parents ride with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on a Pennsylvania Avenue motorcade to the Capitol, where members of Congress are to pay their tribute.

Two of the space program's "heroes on the ground," as Johnson has called them, also are to receive medals. They are Dr. Robert C. Seamans, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Harris M. Schurmeier, manager of the Ranger project.

Seamans is being honored for his work on the manned space program, moving toward a goal of a man on the moon by 1970. Schurmeier's work at the Jet Propulsion Laboratories, Pasadena, Calif., contributed to this week's second U.S. space triumph, the moonshot which produced live photo transmissions by television until the moment of impact on the moon.

But inevitably the spotlight, both in Washington and a New York tickertape welcome next Monday, will be on Navy Lt. Cmdr. Young, 34, and laconic Air Force Maj. Grissom, 38, whose suborbital rocket ride four years ago ended in a heart-stopping drama.

On that space shot Grissom had to swim for safety when his capsule sank to the bottom of the Atlantic; that's why his latest craft was called the "Molly Brown," after the unsinkable lady of musical comedy fame.

With Grissom are his wife, the former Betty Moore of Mitchell Ind.; their sons, Scott, 14, and Mark, 11; and Grissom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Grissom, who still live in Mitchell, Grissom's birthplace.

Young's family includes his wife, the former Barbara Vincent White of Savannah, Ga.; their children, Sandra, 7, and John, 6, and Young's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Young of Orlando, Fla.

FBI Investigates Death Of Woman Marcher

Killed Driving 'Bama Highway

By ROSS HAGEN

LOWNDESBORO, Ala. (AP) — Federal agents working under a personal directive from President Johnson were hopeful of an early break today in the highway ambush slaying of a Detroit white woman, killed after taking part in a civil rights march.

The FBI mounted an intensive investigation into the death of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, attractive red-haired mother of five. Mrs. Liuzzo was ambushed Thursday night while driving from Selma to Montgomery with a Negro youth to pick up participants in the massive march.

An agent said there might be an early arrest, but the FBI officially maintained silence.

President Johnson promised the victim's distraught husband a full investigation. The message was relayed to the Detroit home by a presidential aide.

Bullets from a passing car slammed into the white 1963 Oldsmobile driven by Mrs. Liuzzo on a lonely stretch of U.S. 80 in rural Lowndes County.

Col. Albert J. Lingo, state public safety director, said the shooting occurred about 8:30 p.m. There was no official description of the type of weapon used in the killing.

The victim's companion, Leroy Moton, 19, Negro, a barber in Selma, said they were returning to Montgomery for more passengers after taking one group back to Selma following the march.

Moton said that after the shooting he flagged a passing car for a ride back to Selma.

He ran to a city policeman at Old Browns Chapel A.M.E. Church at 9:10 p.m. and reported the shooting.

Moton, a slender six-footer, had specks of blood on his face. It appeared there were tiny cuts or abrasions of the skin.

The Negro youth said over and over: "They came back looking for me."

He said a car which he thought was a 1955 Ford had followed him and Mrs. Liuzzo for about five miles. Then suddenly the car pulled up alongside and someone fired several times, he said.

"I tried to regain control of the car," Moton said.

But the Oldsmobile ran off the highway and up an embankment.

The car ran about 40 feet off the road, 26 miles east of Selma, and a few miles beyond a big swamp.

Moton said the assassin's car turned around and came back. He said a light was turned on Mrs. Liuzzo's car. He hid on the floor of the car. Then he later caught a ride back to Selma.

Moton was held in city jail as a material witness.

The window on the driver's side of the Oldsmobile was shattered. State police said a slug struck Mrs. Liuzzo in the neck and another hit the roof of the car.

State medical examiners performed an autopsy on the body but their findings were not disclosed.

Mrs. Liuzzo, a student at Wayne State University, had participated in the march on the Alabama capital.

President Johnson personally ordered an around-the-clock FBI investigation. He made a series of telephone calls about the killing before retiring at 2 a.m., an aide said.

Mrs. Liuzzo's husband, Anthony, put in a call to the President. An aide, special counsel Lee White, returned the call and told Liuzzo: "The President has launched a full investigation — a personal investigation — on how a thing like this could happen."

It was the third killing of the 10-week-old Negro voter drive in Alabama.

Job Discrimination Halt Is Ordered

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, confronted by a top official's report that federal offices in the South hire too few Negroes, has ordered a halt to any job discrimination in government agencies.

Johnson got the report Thursday at a Cabinet meeting from LeRoy Collins, former Democratic governor of Florida who now heads the Community Relations Service set up under the 1964 civil rights law.

Collins told Johnson that during a recent trouble-shooting mission to Selma, Ala., he saw indications that "the principles of fair employment and nondiscrimination to which the federal government is strongly committed do not appear to be applied in the various federal agencies there."

Collins later told a news conference he was talking about the Social Security office, the post office, the agricultural services, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Justice Department and Selma's Craig Air Force Base.

Johnson responded by saying that in all government offices "there must be equal treatment, equal respect, equal service — and equal support — for all American citizens regardless of race or sex or region or religion."

The President said "regional custom, local tradition, personal prejudice or predilection are no excuses, no justification, no defense in this regard."

This was one of several Johnson statements distributed at the hour-long news conference which saw seven officials, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, report on the Cabinet meeting.

Group Seeks More Time

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Dallas delegation asked the Civil Aeronautics Board today to give it until June 15 to settle its controversy with Fort Worth over an airport to serve the two cities.

The 180-day period which the board gave the two cities to agree expires Monday.

The Dallas group met for 30 minutes in secret with Chairman Alan Boyd of the board.

Mayor Erik Jonsson said it was impossible to guess whether the board would grant the extension.

At issue is selection of a regional airport for the North Texas region. The future of Dallas' Love Field and Fort Worth's International Airport is at stake.

The board in giving the two cities 180 days to arrive at a voluntary solution said if no agreement was reached it would make the decision.

The Dallas group contended that progress is being made in talks with Fort Worth.

Texans Don't Bother With Petty Cash!

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Nashville Tennessean reporter telephoned the tax assessor's office in Houston, Tex., to ask the tax rate per $1,000 valuation.

A clerk told the reporter, Julie Hollabaugh, it was $370. Checking notes later, thinking the rate pretty high, the reporter called back.

"It's $370," the clerk confirmed, then paused. "Wait a minute," she said. "That's $370 per $10,000 assessed valuation. People in Texas always ask the rate in terms of $10,000, not $1,000."

Industrial Drive 'Plowing Ahead'

"We're plowing ahead and we're plowing deep. It looks as if we have over half of it accounted for."

That was the substance of a report this morning by Bill Wilson, president of the Scurry County Industrial Development Corp., on the drive to raise $300,000 to provide a site and building for a prospective garment factory

Wilson met briefly this morning with Felix Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Woody Forrester, Chamber Manager, along with press and radio representatives to take stock of the campaign to date.

It was noted that spontaneous response has been almost continuous since last Tuesday night's meeting in the Snyder High School Auditorium at which time the proposal was presented in detail to some 800 persons.

Wilson urged business and employe groups to make reports to the Chamber of Commerce office as rapidly as possible as they determine their pledges in the campaign. There is to be no door-to-door canvass as in welfare - type drives, it was emphasized. Instead, each citizen has been asked to study the proposal and make his own decision based on his own conclusions as to the benefits the project would bring to the community as well as personal benefits.

Several local firms have pledged substantial amounts, and, although these will ultimately account for a big share of the total, the necessity of employe groups responding to the challenge still is being emphasized. It was suggested at the general meeting Tuesday night that employes of various local businesses possibly could be counted on for $20 each. Wilson said response from such groups so far indicates that many employes will go beyond that figure

"The enthusiasm continues, and we must not let it decline before the full $300,000 is pledged," Wilson concluded.

Viet Bomb Raids Penetrate Deeper

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Navy jet bombers attacked four coastal radar stations in North Viet Nam today, one of them only 80 miles from Communist China's Hainan Island.

The raid was by far the deepest penetration into North Viet Nam of any of the 12 raids since Feb. 7.

Two Navy planes were shot down in the Gulf of Tonkin, but both pilots were rescued unhurt by helicopter.

A number of other planes were heavily damaged.

A U.S. Navy spokesman declined at first to rule out the possibility that enemy planes had been involved but said later no enemy planes had been sighted. No Communist planes have been reported sighted on any of the previous raids on North Viet Nam.

Two of the North Vietnamese radar stations were reported heavily damaged and two moderately damaged.

One of the targets was on Bach Long Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin 80 miles from Hainan. Chinese MIG jet interceptors are known to operate from an airbase on the big island.

The other three stations, all within 80 miles of the border between North and South Viet Nam, were at Ha Tinh, Cap Mui Ron and Vinh Son.

A propeller-driven A1E that participated in the raid was forced to crashland at Da Nang Air Base because the pilot could not lower his wheels. He was not injured.

Newsmen at Da Nang said two other Navy planes that landed there showed heavy battle damage. Three other Navy jets landed there still carrying bombs.

Indications were that the Navy planes had met heavy resistance, either from flak or enemy planes.

The U.S. spokesman declined to say how many planes had participated. He said more than 40 planes from the carriers Hancock and Coral Sea had flown the strike itself, but additional planes had flown on flak-suppression missions.

US Repeats Willingness To Seek Solution In Asia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a moment of mounting crisis in the Vietnamese war, the United States made it known around the world today that President Johnson is, in his own words, "ready to go anywhere at anytime and meet with anyone whenever there is promise of progress toward an honorable peace."

This presidential stand for negotiations "based on an end of Communist aggression" against South Viet Nam coincided with publication of an interview with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China in which Chou accused the United States of expanding aggression in Viet Nam and predicted that China and the Soviet Union would close ranks in the face of any wider conflict.

Johnson said he has no evidence so far of Communist readiness to negotiate an acceptable settlement and added: "There may come a change — if we all remain united."

Chou asserted "the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam (North Viet Nam) into negotiations by intensifying the war."

The President's readiness to engage personally in peace talks if his conditions are met was declared in a statement he made to a Cabinet meeting Thursday and subsequently made public. It is being circulated to American embassies abroad and broadcast around the world by the Voice of America.

The President spoke out after several days of growing tension here and abroad over the possibility that a much bigger conflict may develop in Southeast Asia.

Within the week, warnings have come from both Peking and Moscow that Soviet and Chinese fighters may enter the war. U.S. officials are inclined to take these warnings seriously for the long run, although they think at the moment Moscow and Peking may be trying primarily to put pressure on the United States and on other countries to restrain the American war effort.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think is wrong with a husband who, having slept in the same bed with his wife for thirty years, moves into another bedroom and has only been back to sleep with her twice in two years? And when it was only because they had overnight company and he was forced to sleep with his wife. On those occasions he slept on the edge of the bed with his face to the wall. The wife is not unattractive. In fact, she is used to getting compliments on the way she dresses and the way she looks. She bathes every day and gets her hair done once a week. She can't understand the reason for his sudden coolness. Is it any wonder she is —

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: No, it's no wonder. But the wife need not go on being miserable for the rest of her life. She should have made an effort to find out the reason for her husband's "sudden coolness" two years ago. But it's better late than never.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a girl who is dirty? We are freshmen in high school and one of our classmates comes to school dirty every day. She doesn't comb her hair, she just "rats" it and lets it go. We would like to tell her as politely as possible that she is dirty, but we don't know how.

FROM INDIANA

DEAR GIRLS: There is no "polite" way to tell a girl she is dirty. Perhaps there is a reason why she is "dirty." Do any of you know what her home is like? Are there proper facilities for cleanliness? If there are, and the girl simply does not know better, then one of the girls with whom SHE is close should have a frank talk with her — but in the spirit of kindness and helpfulness. And the same girl could help her improve her hair style.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I know that no one is perfect, but I simply cannot tolerate supposedly well-bred intelligent adults who display poor table manners. The number of grown-ups who do not know how to hold a knife and fork properly when cutting meat is astounding. I have even seen people sop up gravy with a piece of bread. Little things like buttered a whole roll or piece of bread without breaking it up into three pieces first is commonplace. Isn't there a nice way to correct people without hurting their feelings?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Speaking of manners: The essence of good manners is to make your guest feel as much 'at home" as possible, even though his table manners strike you as intolerable. Annoying as they are, "bad table manners" do not necessarily reveal an individual's more significant qualities.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: The young lady who wanted that airline pilot to wear his uniform when he dated her might be interested in knowing that it is against airline regulations for any member of its company to appear in a uniform in a night club or bar.

Finance Planners Go Into Huddle

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—State senators and representatives trying to write a compromise 1966-67 spending bill huddled today in an almost empty Capitol.

Work on ironing out differences between the House and Senate versions of a general appropriations bill continued although both houses were adjourned until Monday.

The 10-man conference committee held its first session Thursday.

Senators worked past noon debating pay raise proposals for the House speaker, lieutenant governor—and themselves.

As finally approved 29-0 and sent back to the House, the measure proposes to raise salaries of the speaker and lieutenant governor from $4,800 to half the governor's salary, which now is $25,000 a year.

A raise in their own salaries from $4,800 to $12,000 was adopted by senators, but another vote wiped it out and the senators' pay hike was withdrawn.

"This is bad judgment," Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo said about the senators' pay hike amendment. "You are not only putting yourself in a box as far as school teachers are concerned but also on redistricting."

The measure must go back to the House for approval of Senate changes.

Senators adopted earlier this week and sent to the House a proposed constitutional amendment that would increase the size of the Senate from 30 to 39 members and give them six instead of four-year terms. They also approved a measure that would give the governor and other statewide officials four instead of two-year terms.

In the only committee action Thursday, the House Liquor Regulation committee quickly approved for floor debate a plan to extend the Texas drinking curfew to 2 a.m. every night of the week.

Sales of alcoholic beverages presently must stop at midnight six days a week and at 1 a.m. on Sunday. Another 15 minutes is allowed for consumption of drinks.

The House committee also approved a bill that would stop liquor package store sales at 8 p.m. instead of 10 p.m. However, hotels and motels would be allowed to deliver bottled goods to guests' rooms until 10 p.m.

ON THE MOUNTAIN

Close Call For Robert Kennedy

By DALE NELSON

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and two mountaineers, who kept him from plunging into a crevasse near the summit of Mt. Kennedy, say the climb was tougher than they expected.

James W. Whittaker, Seattle, and Barry Prather, Ellensburg, Wash., veterans of the 1963 American Mt. Everest expedition, said the previously unclimbed mountain was not an easy peak, and expressed admiration for the stamina of the New York senator.

"He climbed as if he were born to it," said Whittaker.

"He's a pretty rugged fellow," echoed Prather.

Kennedy said he slipped up to his armpits into a crevasse about 800 feet below the summit of the nearly 14,000-foot mountain named by the Canadian government for his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy.

The senator, making his first climb, was roped between Whittaker and Prather when the snow crust gave way under his feet and he tumbled into the crevasse. Whittaker said he anchored himself with an ice axe and Kennedy pulled himself out of the huge crack by digging his crampons into its sides.

Whittaker said the crevasse curved so he couldn't see how deep it was, but some in the area go as far down as 300 feet.

"I'm glad I did it, and I'm glad it's over," Kennedy said after the trio returned here from Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, 150 miles east of the glacial peak.

He brought back the flag he had carried with him to his rendezvous with a memory atop the mountain.

"They told me it would have disappeared in another 48 hours if I had left it there," Kennedy said.

He had planted the flag, made for the Kennedys in Ireland and bearing the family crest of three yellow helmets on a black field, at the summit as a memorial to his brother.

The eight who climbed to the summit left Tuesday from an 8,500-foot base camp and spent the night at a forward camp about 3,000 feet higher. The ascent was completed in 4½ hours Wednesday.

Before leaving Whitehorse, Kennedy said: "I thought it was a wonderful looking mountain. It is marvelous looking from a distance but tremendously impressive at the top. I am grateful to the Canadian government for naming it for President Kennedy. I was grateful before I climbed it, but I am even more grateful now."

Whittaker and Prather accompanied Kennedy today on a flight to New York where the senator said they would hop a shuttle flight for Washington.

Viet Women In Training Prove They're No Sissies

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

PHUTA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Red dust from the drill ground was streaking the green fatigue uniforms, but the girls didn't seem to mind.

While a platoon leader barked out the cadence count, they drilled as if they enjoyed it. The ranks and files often were ragged, but that didn't seem to matter, either.

The 105 girls at this camp near Saigon were in their third week of training as the first members of South Viet Nam's Women's Armed Forces Corps — WAFC.

Watching and sometimes joining in to demonstrate a drill maneuver were two American Women's Army Corps — WAC — members, the first assigned here as advisers with the Vietnamese women troops.

One is Maj. Kathleen Wilkes, 39, whose 16 years of Army service have included a tour of duty in Germany.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Wilkes, live at Cobbtown, Ga.

The other is Sgt. Betty Adams, 32, a veteran of 13 years service whose last post was the Army recruiting station in Albany, N.Y.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adam, live in Wodside, Queens, N.Y.

They came here a little more than two months ago in response to a Vietnamese request to help organize the WAFC.

"The WAC never had done anything like this before and we feel honored to be called on to help set it up," said Maj. Wilkes.

The two Americans live in billets in Saigon, but put in a long day at the camp here.

Before the WAFC was formed, South Viet Nam had about 650 women in jobs connected with the military, mostly as social welfare workers and nurses. They all have been made a part of the WAFC and later will receive some military training here.

But the first six-week cycle that started March 1 is made up of girls, mostly 18 or 19, who volunteered for the WAFC. They were picked from among more than 1,000 applicants. Applications still are coming in, and it is hoped that expansion of the camp will permit 300 girls to be trained in each cycle by the end of the year.

"The objective," Maj. Wilkes said, "is the same as that of the Women's Army Corps in the States in World War II. They will supplement manpower — that is, release men for combat."

Sgt. Adams explained that the basic training course is patterned largely on instruction given in the States, but on a speeded basis. She and Maj. Wilkes, serving in an advisory role, have been accepted warmly by the Vietnamese women soldiers.

When the Vietnamese WAFCs finish their basic training they will receive advanced individual training and then be assigned to military units as typists, clerks, and in other administrative jobs.

St. John's Episcopal

The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 a.m. and at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday. The Rev. Truman E. Bennett, Vicar, will be the celebrant and preacher.

The fourth Sunday in Lent comes midway in the course of the season, and is called Mothering Sunday or Refreshment Sunday. Mothering Sunday is derived from the Epistle, Gal. 4:21-31 in which St. Paul is teaching on the two covenants. The first made at Sinai, in the country of Hagar and the Hagarens, who are born in bondage; it corresponds to the earthly Jerusalem, still in the bondage of the law; the second covenant is that of the Jerusalem which is above, which is free from this bondage, and which is the mother of us Christians. The Christian Church is indeed the Jerusalem of promise. Refreshment Sunday is derived from the Holy Gospel, St. John 6:1-14, in which the miracle of the five thousand is recorded, and its significance to the connection with the Holy Eucharist.

Phil Lammert will serve as Acolyte, and Dennis Holden will serve as Crucifer. Gerald Pullig will serve as usher. Miss Diane Hargrove will be organist. Mmes. Bill Line and Gerald Pullig will have Altar duty the week of March 28.

Lewis Considered Big Man

MERIWETHER LEWIS, a Biography. By Richard Dillon.

If you understand the need for a biography of Lewis without Clark, Dillon's volume is more than a sitisfactory book.

It is carefully done by the head librarian of San Francisco's Sutro Library, a competent historical job.

If your consider Lewis and Clark and Damon and Pythias, stay away. Dillon does not so consider them.

Although he goes out of his way to be fair to William Clark, the author makes it plain that he thinks Lewis the bigger man. As he puts it, "If any one man deserves to be considered as the person, who opened the Far West, it is Lewis."

Most hisotrians and biographers have not held Dillon's view. Neither did Lewis. But in this volume of 364 pages, Dillon makes it a point for his views and even if the reader does not agree, it still makes for good reading.

The best parts remain, the 1804-06 trip of Lewis and Clark up the Mississippi and Missouri, on across the Rockies and down the Columbia River to the Pacific Ocean.

As with others, Dillon can describe that trip well mainly because he can fall back on the journals kept by Lewis and Clark. The men come alive as they write.

Other parts of Lewis' life remain sketchy and probably always will. Why he took so long to assume his new duties as governor of the Louisiana Terrifory is not satisfactorily explained.

Nor do we get a satisfactory explanation of his tragic death. Dillon, of course, cannot be blamed for that. Whether it was suicide or murder is an open question. Dillon thinks it was murder, but can't prove it. He does show that the case for suicide is unconvincing.

This book tells just about all that is known concerning Lewis. It arouses a desire for more knowledge.

TRY IT DURING LENT — A main-dish pie that has a delicious filling.

Salmon Souffle Pie Is Delightful Lenten Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

WE ADMIT to having been slightly skeptical when the following recipe came our way. The idea of putting together salmon and cottage cheese in a cracker crust didn't entrance us, but because an epicurean friend had highly recommended the dish, we gave it a try.

Was our skepticism misplaced! This Salmon Souffle Pie turned out to be, just as our friend said, "A really good recipe — one of the best. Economical and high in protein." The only note we can add is that its making is fool-proof.

Salmon Souffle Pie

1 cup fine unsalted cracker crumbs (25 2-inch crackers)
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
⅛ plus ¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry dill weed or basil
1 can (7¾ ounces) salmon
1 cup small-curd creamstyle cottage cheese
3 eggs, separated
½ cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon chopped chives fresh or freeze - dried
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Stir together the cracker crumbs, melted butter, ⅛ teaspoon salt and dill weed. Press over bottom and sides (up to rim) of a buttered 9-inch glass pie plate; reserve. Turn salmon (including liquid and bones) into a mixing bowl; add cottage cheese and egg yolks; beat until well - mixed. Stir in cream, flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, chives and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until they hold stiff, straight peaks; fold into salmon mixture. Turn into reserved crumb crust; bake on a low rack in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 35 minutes; remove and let stand for 5 to 10 minutes so center will finish setting. Serve at once. Makes 4 large servings.

Note: You may use any grade of salmon you wish in this recipe.

Fable Favors The Bee And We Savor The Honey

If a prize for prudence and industriousness is to be awarded, who shall receive the honor?

In the ancient fable the Ant and the Bee were the contestants and the god Apollo, the judge. Apollo granted that the Ant was a most worthy candidate since by his unique foresight and labor he was self - sufficient and did not burden others with his needs. However, the Ant's industriousness benefited only himself the god declared. The Bee, on the other hand, by his meritorious and ingenious ways bestowed a blessing to the world in the form of Honey. 'For this reason, I must judge in favor of the Bee," said Apollo.

Whether you care to set the bee up as Chief Industry and Prudence, however, is immaterial in your pursuit for the enjoyment of Honey. Honey may be relished in and on a great variety of foods.

For the coming Easter season try Honey Hot Cross Buns. Honey in the dough will help to keep your baked products fresh longer since Honey has the ability to absorb and retain moisture. Honey will give Hot Cross Buns a special flavor, a hint of flowers.

So don't debate the conflict of the Bee and Ant, but hasten to your own industry, that of creating a bundle of Hot Cross Buns for the family.

HONEY HOT CROSS BUNS

2 packages yeast, compressed or dry granular
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
¼ cup shortening
½ cup honey
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup currants or candied orange peel
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
6 cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add shortening, honey and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add currants, spices and enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly-floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. When light, shape into small buns and place on greased baking sheet or in pan. With knife or scissors, cut a small cross in the top of each bun. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. While hot, ice with uncooked icing, following the cross cut in the buns.

Yield: 3 dozen buns.

Making blankets and rugs is a relatively new art to Navajo Indians. They didn't learn weaving until the 18th Century.

Meatless Tomato Sauce

½ cup olive oil
1 pound (5 medium-small) onions, chopped to make 2½ cups
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 can (1 pound, 12 ounces) tomato puree
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 can (6 ounces) chopped mushrooms, undrained
½ cup minced parsley
1 teaspoon dried crushed basil
1 teaspoon tomato seasoning
Salt and pepper to taste

In a heavy kettle over low heat, heat the olive oil; add the onions and garlic; cook, stirring often until wilted but not brown. Add the tomato pure, tomato paste and undrained mushrooms; cover and simmer, stirring occasionally for 30 minutes. Add the parsley, basil, tomato seasoning and salt and pepper; continue to cook for about 15 minutes. Makes about 1½ quarts which may be served "as is" for a thick sauce or diluted with clam or shrimp broth; in the latter case clams or shrimp may also be added. The undiluted sauce may be freezer - stored.

Memories Of 1930s Girlhood

REAPERS OF THE DUST. By Lois Phillips Hudson.

There are two aspects to Mrs. Hudson's well - delineated collection of stories.

In one sense, this is a carefully observed recollection of a time and place — the 1930s, when a depression choked the nation's economy and terrifying dust storms wrecked the hopes and physical endurance of many Western farmers; the place was North Dakota, and later the fruit country in the state of Washington.

In the other sense, this is like an autobiographical novel, a look backward into the time of little girlhood. In this respect, it has many sensitive evaluations of the human equation.

There are stories about drought, destructive dust storms, an eccentric old water douser, and about a vicious cold wave; pictures of a boisterous, old - fashioned Halloween and a comically unorthodox Christmas entertainment in a village; stories about migrant workers and the class distinctions that enchained them; picturer of old school days in many schools.

But woven into the fabric of these themes are touching vignettes of a little girl's trusts and fears, her heartbreak over a doll, her feelings about her family, her pride in learning to work and earn.

As a chronicle of a certain scene, it is a valuable record. As a glimpse into flesh and blood personality, it is attuned to universal values. In either case, it is a well-told story.

Spain produces one-third of all the world's olive oil. Olive trees grow in 37 of the country's 50 provinces.

While Other Crises Pass, Asia Problem Only Grows

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The needle got stuck.

Things were going badly in Viet Nam and on Feb. 7, when the Red guerrillas attacked an American air base, President Johnson ordered bases in North Viet Nam bombed. The White House explained "we seek no wider war."

The Reds didn't seem to listen. They kept on banging away in the south.

But things were going brilliantly for Johnson at home. Congress was being more than kind in its response to his programs of health care for the aged and federal aid to education, which no one would have bet on before.

The American bombing of North Viet Nam didn't stop with that first "reprisal." It became routine and Johnson explained "we seek no wider war," although there were demands he say more.

The Reds still didn't listen.

Congress gave Johnson's war on poverty a big boost by passing his Appalachia bill, speeded up his education bill, and gave signs of handing Johnson an even broader health-care bill than he had asked. And he got a good reaction all around when he appointed Nicholas Katzenbach attorney general.

The administration let it be known that its continuing war on North Viet Nam was simply an attempt to force the Communists to let South Viet Nam alone. And this country said it wanted some "indication" the Reds would come to terms.

They didn't, although Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the administration, said "If Hanoi stops molesting its neighbors, then peace can be restored promptly and U.S. forces can come home."

In Selma the boiling racial crisis made Johnson uncomfortable. But he overcame that in a very spectacular way.

He addressed a joint session of Congress, strongly supported the Negroes' civil rights cause, got a big ovation, submitted a voting-rights bill which seems sure to pass, and was credited with being very shrewd in naming Henry Fowler his secretary of the Treasury.

In Asia the strikes against North Viet Nam continued. Johnson told a news conference all this country wants is for the Vietnamese Communists to stop picking on their neighbors. But the Red guerrillas kept on picking.

But these past few days have been sensational for Johnson at home. Ranger 9 hit the moon, sending back more than 5,800 pictures before it crashed; two American astronauts orbited the earth three times in their Gemini spacecraft; a House committee which had always bottled up the health-care bill now approved it; and the education bill had moved through the congressional machinery so fast that now the full House was ready to vote on it.

But there was still a war in South Viet Nam. The Red guerrillas were reported preparing for a showdown on the ground, and somebody, an Army spokesman, goofed in the way he told American newsmen, without telling them fully, the United States had been using some experimental nonlethal gas on the Reds.

There was a quick and bad reaction around the world.

The Johnson administration tried to repair the damage with explanations. Russia and Red China hinted they might send volunteers to help the North Vietnamese, and once again, Thursday, Johnson said, "We want no wider war."

But all this time the North Vietnamese refused to listen and, instead of being broken or chastened by the bombing, said they would call for international military help.

Boyle Says He Enjoys Being Stingy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by a Pavement Plato:

There's fun in being stingy. Try it and see.

In his youth, man is a waster and a destroyer. He likes to tear down things, throw things away. He believes he is surrounded by a limitless plenty.

"After all, you can't take it with you," he says.

But after the free-wheeling years pass, a subtle change comes over most people. The squirrel side of their nature comes to the fore, and the ant in their makeup replaces the grasshopper.

One begins to measure his success by the number of things he can accumulate — children and chattels, cars and mortgages, a home with crabgrass that he can proudly call his own.

At 50, a man is known by his possessions. But whether he be poor, rich, or merely getting along, he probably is no longer the carefree spendthrift he once was.

Now, seeing the years closing in on him, he feels a blind, increasing urge to hoard something against the long dark.

This is man's "stingy stage." I am in it now—and am having the time of my life.

To be stingy you don't have to be a mean-tempered miser, skinflint or tightwad. All you have to be is sensibly thrifty.

That's why the stingy man stays out of night clubs. They aren't worth the money.

That's why the stingy man avoids bores. They aren't worth his time.

Saving is the chief characteristic of the stingy stage. You have to save something. Saving money, of course, would be nice, at least from the viewpoint of your heirs, but the government has made that unpatriotic if not impossible.

Many people first discover they have entered the stingy stage by noting they have started to save string.

I haven't gotten around to string yet. But you should see my fine collection of brown paper grocery bags — enough to stock a small supermarket.

I also hoard Christmas wrapping paper, political campaign buttons, old jury duty notices, warning letters from the public library about overdue books, toothpicks that have been used only on one end, and messages found in Chinese fortune cookies eaten over a 30-year period.

But my special prize is my clothes closet. There rest in honored glory such treasures as a jacket I bought when Adolf Hitler was still in power and a pair of slacks I got in Bombay in 1945. If wide lapels and pleats come back in style by next month, I'll be the hit of the easter parade.

To the properly stingy man nothing is ever really out of date. He lives by the motto, "To each his own." And he keeps his.

Junior Editors Quiz on PRISM

QUESTION: How does a prism work?

• • •

ANSWER: A prism is a solid which can have a number of shapes, the most familiar of which we show at upper right, these being generally made of glass. Sir Isaac Newton, the great scientist who discovered the laws of gravity, made a startling experiment with a glass prism. He found that if a beam of white light (sunlight) came through a small opening as a narrow beam onto the prism, it would fan out on a card, into a brilliant band of colors. Newton realized that all these colors had been contained in the beam of white light. The colors had separated because each color had been bent, or "refracted," as it passed through the prism, and each color had a slightly different amount of refraction. Look at the diagram below, where we see a cross-section of a prism, white light coming in from the left. The dotted lines show the bending of the light rays. You can see that the upper ones, which become blues and violets, are bending the most, while the lower rays, oranges and reds, bend least. Much scientific knowledge came as a result of this discovery. By a principle called "internal reflection," a ray of light can also be made to come out at right angles to the direction in which it entered the prism.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can buy or borrow a glass prism and repeat Sir Isaac's famous experiment. You can produce the same colors we see in the rainbow. 3/26

Everything Going Great For Spahn

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roberto Clemente has malaria, Hank Aaron is recuperating from an ankle operation, and Bill Mazeroski has a broken bone in his right foot.

But there's nothing wrong with Warren Spahn.

Mickey Mantle has some leg trouble, Tim McCarver has a broken finger and Wayne Causey has a shoulder separation.

But there's nothing wrong with Warren Spahn.

Spahn, the ageless wonder of the Amazin' Mets, demonstrated his fitness Thursday with a light workout against the Mets' favorite foes, an outfit called the Yankees from the other side of New York.

The 43-year-old lefty spaced out three walks and four hits and allowed one run in six innings at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He also stroked a single, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and hit a homer.

His performance helped the Amazin's run their winning string to four while the troubled Yankees, busily denying published reports of a club rift, now have lost eight of their last nine.

While the old southpaw made a major stride in his projected comeback from a dismal 6-13 season with Milwaukee last season, the dispatches from baseball's spring training camps were liberally sprinkled with reports of injury and ailment among front line players and overshadowed by the Yankee "feud" story.

The reports had a major rift developing between manager Johnny Keane and Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. All concerned said there was nothing to it. Mantle played left field — and Keane's shifting of the outfielder from center to left was supposed to be what the feud was all about — without comment against the Mets.

Mickey did admit, however, he was having a little trouble with his oft-injured right leg, just one of many injury reports that are cropping up.

One of the biggest ones concerned Mazeroski. The Pittsburgh Pirate second baseman broke a bone in his foot while running the bases against the Chicago White Sox in Fort Myers, Fla. He'll be out five to six weeks. The Pirates also lost the game 10-4, with the White Sox getting homers from Tom Agee, Manly Johnston, Ken Berry, John Romano and Don Buford.

On a more positive note, Yankee castoff Ralph Terry became the first pitcher of th spring to go the route, scattering eight hits and one walk in pitching Cleveland to a 6-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels' "B" team in Tucson, Ariz. He struck out seven.

In the others out west, the Angels' varsity beat Boston 8-4 in Scottsdale, Ariz., and the Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco 8-7 in Mesa, Ariz.

In Florida, Baltimore benefited from four unearned runs in a 7-4 edge over Detroit at Lakeland, Milwaukee whipped Minnesota 9-5 at Orlando, St. Louis nipped Houston 8-7 in St. Petersburg, Cincinnati clipped Philadelphia 7-6 in Clearwater and the Los Angeles Dodgers took Kansas City 8-5 in Bradenton.

TANGLED UP IN THEIR WORK—Second baseman Dal Maxvill, foreground, of St. Louis Cardinals, and George Smith, Detroit Tigers, get tangled at second in exhibition game at St. Petersburg, Fla. In this first out in double play, Smith is forced — and Maxvill made throw to first in time to get the batter. (AP Wirephoto)

7 Years Is Long Time

DETROIT (AP) — Sid Abel, his steel-grey hair smartly in place, had to ask somebody how long he had been coaching the Detroit Red Wings.

"Seven years," said a nimble-minded public relations man.

"It seems more like 17," mused Abel, who until Thursday, had never finished better than fourth in regular-season National Hockey League play.

Detroit clinched its first league title since 1956-57 with a 7-4 victory over the New York Rangers. It was the only NHL game scheduled.

"Well, we did it," Abel said in receiving owner Bruce Norris' congratulatory handshake. "I'm sure glad this race is over."

The victory was Detroit's 14th straight on home ice, setting a record previously held by Montreal.

Houston Cage Star To Play At Baylor

WACO (AP)—Steve Bartels, who won all-city and all-state honors at Houston Waltrip, has announced he will sign to play basketball at Baylor.

Bartels, 6-foot-6 center, averaged 18 points last season and is a top rebounder.

Indiana Tankers In Strong Start

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Indiana's graceful divers and its record-breaking relay team had the Hoosiers off to a strong start in a bid for their first National Collegiate swimming title today.

Defending champion Southern California trailed Indiana 100½ to 75 with 12 events left despite a great performance by the Trojans' Roy Saari.

Bidding for a repeat of his triple triumph last year, Saari powered his way to NCAA and American records in the 500-yard freestyle Thursday night.

But that was not enough to offset Indiana's depth. The Hoosiers scored 37 points in diving and 28 more with the record victory in the 400-yard medley relay.

The Hoosiers, led by a flashy butterfly leg performance by Fred Schmidt, were timed in 3:30.7, a collegiate and American record.

Even more impressive was the margin of victory scored by diver Ken Sitzberger, who dethroned Indiana teammate Rick Gilbert as the one-meter champion.

Sitzberger, a 1964 Olympic winner and beaten by Gilbert in the recent Big Ten meet, scored 551.25 points, nearly 41 more than Gilbert, the runner-up.

Indiana's Rick Early was fifth and Dick Morse 11th in the diving in the strongest team showing in any of Thursday's five final events.

Southern California's team hopes sagged when Michigan sophomore Carl Robie took the 400-yard individual medley in 4:16.6. That was two-tenths of a second slower than the record time posted by the Trojans' Rich McGeagh a year ago.

Saari, a brawny junior just rounding into form, won the 500-yard freestyle handily in 4:43.6. That clocking shattered his 1964 collegiate mark of 4:45.8, and also bettered the American standard of 4:45.5.

The American mark was set a year ago by Don Schollander, who won four gold medals at the Olympic Games. Schollander now is a freshman at Yale and not eligible for this meet.

Wrestling Champ Licks Handicap

By JIM TANKARD

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dicky Bryant, the North Carolina high school wrestling champion in the 98-pound class, has one disadvantage — both his legs have been cut off above the knees.

Gene Abercrombie, Dicky's wrestling coach at West Mecklenburg High School, said the youngster's opponents have some problems, too.

"Dicky is stronger in the arms and shoulders than most 98-pounders," he said. "But he does, of course, lack the advantage of legs."

"He has to do all his movements with his hands, and he has trouble pinning people because of his lack of balance. But the guy who wrestles him has a disadvantage, too."

Dicky's opponents also find the number of holds they can use restricted, the coach said.

"Myers Park High School put a man on his knees in practice to get ready for Dicky. But they lost anyway."

Dicky normally walks very well on artificial legs, but he takes them off when he wrestles.

The 15-year-old boy became interested in sports after he lost his legs in a train accident when he was 10.

"I never did become too athletic until after my accident," he said. "But then I couldn't just sit around home and do nothing."

For a while, the youngster said, he was very depressed. He gives his physician, Dr. Edward R. Hipp Sr. of Charlotte, credit for snapping him out of it.

Now the friendly youth jokes about his handicap.

Dicky showed interest in wrestling for West Mecklenburg last summer. Abercrombie checked the rules, and found no reason why he could not wrestle.

Abercrombie said Dicky received help from Dr. Sam Barnes, wrestling coach at the University of North Carolina.

"Barnes gave Dicky self-confidence," Abercrombie said.

Dicky won his state championship in Boone, N.C., Feb. 26-27. He won three of three matches, after winning three of three in regional competition and seven of eight in the regular season.

The youth likes all sports. In his spare time, he plays football, basketball, and baseball with his friends. He wears his artificial legs for these sports.

Knicks Eye Better Days

NEW YORK (AP) — There may be brighter nights ahead for the last-place New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. Three of their rookies were picked for the NBA's All-Rookie team.

The choices, made by the league's coaches, and announced Thursday, were: Willis Reed, already named Rookie of the year; Howard Komives and Jim Barnes of the Knicks; Lucious Jackson of the Philadelphia 76ers, and Detroit's Joe Caldwell and Baltimore's Wally Jones. The team was expanded to six because Caldwell and Jones tied for fifth with four votes each.

The nine coaches were not allowed to vote for any of their own players. The three Knicks and Jackson each received the maximum of eight votes. Barnes drew six votes.

Lamar Teams To Abilene

Lamar Junior High's 8th and 9th grade track teams will see action again tomorrow in the Abilene junior meet.

Lamar 9th finished second last Saturday in the Sweetwater junior meet, being nosed out by Abilene Franklin, while Lamar 8th placed 5th in its division of the Sweetwater meet.

Travis Junior High tracksters will be idle this weekend, but both Lamar and Travis will have entries next weekend in the West Texas Junior Relays at Midland.

Hilario Valdespino of Atlanta led the International League in batting last season with .337.

Ex-Collegians In Tournament Lead

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Sturdy ex-collegians who starred in football and basketball were running one-two as the $28,750 Azalea Open golf Tournament moved into its second round today.

Claude King, 32, who caddied here at the Cape Fear Country Club, was $600 richer after picking up a bonus award for his seven-under-par 65 that won him the first-round lead Thursday.

The 6-foot-2, 207-pound former East Carolina College fullback was only one stroke ahead of Glenn Stuart, part-time touring pro from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Stuart, who has played only the winter tour for four years, returning each spring to his club job, finished spectacularly with a birdie and an eagle to shoot 66.

Stuart, 30, was a basketball star at Central Michigan in his college days. He also stands 6-foot-2, and weighs 195.

King, who coached and taught at a high school in Virginia Beach before becoming a touring pro four years ago, had a dream round, missing by two shots the tournament record Bob Toski set over the 6,700-yard, par-72 course 10 years ago.

Forty-three-year-old Hampton Auld, who quit the tour several years ago to take the job at the Cape Fear club, came up with a 67 to hold third place.

Five men were tied at 68, including Jacky Cupit, who is trying to clinch a berth in the Masters two weeks from now with a high finish here.

Ten men shot 69. Dow Finsterwald, Doug Ford and Tommy Jacobs were the touring regulars in this group.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties tonight for the final rounds Saturday and Sunday.

HERMLEIGH — The World Famous Harlem Stars, known as a group of basketball magicians, will appear in an exhibition Monday night in the Hermleigh Gymnasium.

Hermleigh Boy Scout Troop 77 is sponsoring the group's appearance here.

The exhibition will begin at 8 p.m. and admission fees will be $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children under 12 years old.

Advertised as the greatest and funniest basketball team in the country, the Harlem Stars are a combination of Negro basketball wizards who tour the world making fans laugh. They feature fancy, razzle - dazzle ball handling, intricate 'routines, both planned and impromptu, with all sorts of 'shenanigans."

Boid Buie, the well - known owner of the Stars, said their philosophy is "Send them home laughing and we can continue to return for years to come.

The Stars launched their season in September in Alaska. They will have hit 36 to 40 states, plus Mexico, Canada, Australia, Japan and Europe before they quit for the year.

Royals Face Crucial Test

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Royals face a must game at Philadelphia tonight as the National Basketball Association divisional semifinal playoffs resume.

Philadelphia won the first game of the best-of-five Eastern Division series at Cincinnati Wednesday night 119-117 in overtime. Jack McMahon, Cincinnati coach, commented: "It's going to be tough for us going into Philadelphia one down. The next game is a must for us."

The St. Louis Hawks, playing a second straight game at home, will try to even the Western Division semis at 1-1 by beating the Baltimore Bullets. The Bullets gained what Coach Buddy Jeannette termed "a psychological advantage" by defeating the Hawks Wednesday 108-105.

How big Wilt Chamberlain of the 76ers and Oscar Robertson of the Royals perform probably will be a vital factor in the game at Philadelphia. Chamberlain has been hampered by a stomach ailment and the Big O with an injured leg.

The third game of the St. Louis-Baltimore series will be played at Baltimore Saturday night. The Cincinnati-Philadelphia series shifts back to Cincinnati for a Sunday afternoon televised game.

Tiger Baseballers To Host Andrews In Doubleheader

The Snyder High School baseballers get their second opportunity of the season to perform before the homefolks tomorrow, and they hope they can pick up where they left off in their only other home appearance this year.

It was the second game of the schedule when Lubbock High came here, and the Bengals captured a 2-0 decision. That evened the local record at 1-1.

Since then, the Tigers have been on the road, and except for an even break in a doubleheader at Andrews, the locals have had more than their share of trouble.

Andrews will repay the visit tomorrow, and another doubleheader is on tap with the first game scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. on the Towle Park Diamond.

In their set at Andrews, the Tigers won the first game, 7-0, and the Mustangs came back to take the afterpiece, 5-2.

The Tigers have won only once since then, capturing one game in a three - game series with the San Angelo Central Bobcats last weekend. Thus, the Snyder record now stands at 3-5, which means that the locals will have another chance to even it up tomorrow at the expense of the Mustangs.

Coach Speedy Moffett said the batting order for the first game in the Saturday doubleheader probably would find David Cadena leading off and playing rightfield, followed by J. N. Wall, leftfield; Drew Bullard, second base; Leslie Brown, third base; Ken Gay, catcher; Jay Williamson, centerfield; Ray Kizer, first base; Terry Holt, shortstop, and Bobby Clardy, pitcher.

The Snyder coach said he would probably make a few changes for the second game, but would decide on them after the first game is played.

Jerry Owens is scheduled to pitch the second game.

Griffith Doesn't Need A Warning

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Emile Griffith is truly a fighting champion.

The 26-year-old native of the Virgin Islands doesn't have to be warned by any of the boxing bodies to get busy and defend his world welterweight crown.

Dapper Emile, a onetime milliner's helper who wears clothes a half year ahead of the current fashion, is fighting his 11th title scrap next Tuesday against Jose Stable, the No. 1 contender, as the first half of the doubleheader championship card at Madison Square Garden.

In the second half, light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano of Miami risks his crown against Jose Torres, the Puerto Rican-born New Yorker.

The Griffith-Stable fight goes on first for the Garden and theater-television audience. It's scheduled to start at 9:30 p.m., EST.

If it goes the distance, the second half won't go on until after 10:30 p.m., EST.

Griffith, a pro since 1958, has an 8-2 record in welterweight title fights. He first won the crown by knocking out the ill-fated Benny (Kid) Paret on April 11, 1961 in 13 rounds. He lost the title back to Paret and then regained it on the tragic night when Paret was battered into unconsciousness and never came to.

He also lost, won and won in three title fights with slick Luis Rodriguez of Cuba.

Nobody has to tell Emile to fight. He has a family of 13 to take care of even though he is a bachelor with an apartment in Weehawken, N.J. He has a long, sleek, expensive convertible to take him to Long Island, where he quarters his family of mother, sisters, brothers, and cousins from his native Virgin Islands.

"They all have problems," said Emile while training at the Concord Hotel for his defense against the streaking Stable, winner of nine straight. "I try to keep them happy but I wish they wouldn't bother me when I'm training so hard for a title fight.

"After all, Stable is the No. 1 contender. He is a tough boy and deserves the chance. I must concentrate on him. I am confident I will win but I know I must be in top condition to beat him."

Jay Trump Ranks 3rd

LONDON (AP) — "You've got to watch those horses running wild," commented American amateur jockey Tommy Smith.

He was talking about the 124th running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree on Saturday — a race that will wind up with about 50 horses.

Smith is 27, comes from little Middleburg, Va. and is trying to make history for the United States in what may be the last Grand National at Aintree.

He's riding an American-bred horse called Jay Trump, owned by Mrs. Mary Stephenson of Cincinnati — and if he wins then it will be the first time such a thing has happened.

Never before has an American bred, owned and ridden horse won the National.

Jay Trump now is 14-1, third favorite with Freddie favorite at 11-2 and Queen Mother Elizabeth's The Rip second choice at 15-2.

Top Quarterbacks On Opposing Sides

Businessmen Critical Of Foreign Investment Plan

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen often are finding it hard to fit their foreign investment programs into President Johnson's voluntary program for holding down the outflow of U.S. dollars.

And some of them are critical of its long-term aims and think it may backfire.

But most big corporations are going along with the voluntary cutback, at least for the time being, and adjusting as best they can.

Many, however, question the assumption that foreign investments are a bad thing, whether for the short term or the long. And some are disputing the emphasis being placed upon such investments as contributing to the U.S. deficit in international payments. They contend that such investments pay their own way and actually bring back more dollars than go overseas.

"It is extremely difficult to measure the precise effect of foreign investments on the U.S. balance of payments position," the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., says in its March Review.

Looking at just one phase of the problem, private capital outflow compared with income from foreign investments, the bank says that income consistently exceeded capital outflow in the early 1950s. But since 1956 capital outflows have topped income in all but two years. It is this turn-around in the years that the U.S. payments deficit was growing that sparked the President's voluntary plan for keeping dollars home.

The bank points out that some overseas investment immediately increases U.S. exports, a key goal of the President's program. And the bank adds that sometimes the dollars foreigners get by sale of securities to Americans or by bank loans are used to buy U.S. goods, so that the balance of payments is helped both by increased exports and by the payment of interest or dividends. The bank says the same holds for a large part of short-term capital flows which are for the purpose of financing exports.

Oil is one industry that has been in the center of the debate over what to do about the payments deficit.

H.A. True, Jr., Casper, Wyo., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, says in a speech today in Wichita Falls, Tex., that the adverse gap could be cut down by a substantial reduction in oil imports without any lasting harm to the international oil firms or foreign oil producing areas.

Earlier this week, Emilio G. Collado, vice president of Jersey Standard Oil, assured the International Finance subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee that the oil industry would do its share in helping make the President's voluntary program work. This way the nation could buy time to get its house in order "and make possible the early return of the free use of the dollar in international transactions."

He saw the long-term problem, however, as being less the matter of overseas investments than of other factors.

He suggested further cutbacks in some areas of government grants and loans abroad and also greater stringency in monetary affairs.

BLACKED OUT

God made two great lights—the greater to rule the day and the lesser the night. He made the stars also. Are you discouraged? Does it seem that your life is a "flop"... that your light is too small... that you just don't count? Then you're blindfolded. You're blacked out. Sure, He made the great lights, but He made the stars also... He made you. When it is dark about you and you think your licks don't count, just remember ...God never creates worthless things nor useless lives. As much as God needs great men as great lights... He also needs small, humble men as stars to take stations as reflectors.

God uses His church to woo men to the better life. The church must have great lights and great leaders and it must also have small lights and ordinary people as reflectors. God has no place in His plan for blindfolded people... those who blackout for convenience. He made the great lights, but to reflect them to all His world, He made the stars also. Are you a star, or are you a blackout patient?

Spacemen Witty—With Feet On Ground

By JOHN BARBOUR

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The two astronauts of the Molly Brown — so sparing of words in space — told the nation their story with wit and charm.

Perhaps the junior pilot, John W. Young, said it best when he was asked if the three orbits around the earth had made him more talkative.

He answered: "I think zero G (weightlessness) would make an extrovert of anybody."

His dead-pan wry humor and command pilot Virgil I. Grissom's beaming face and crisp narration Thursday spiced their first news conference since they returned from a space flight of nearly five hours last Tuesday.

Both men had high praise for the spacecraft they named the Molly Brown. And they emphasized, too, that they felt maneuvering the Molly Brown in space was as great an achievement as the Soviet feat of floating a man outside a spacecraft.

There still was no definite reason established for landing about 60 miles short of the prime target — but Grissom said he thought it might have been a variety of things including too much braking power from the retro rockets.

At launch, Young said, "You can't take your eyes from the window. There aren't words in the English language to describe the sight. I was impressed."

Grissom told of the feeling that "we'd reversed direction" when the powerful retro rockets fired to slow down the spacecraft and bring it to earth.

Young added: "The toughest task in the astronaut business is holding the (spacecraft's) attitude at retro fire. Gus did a phenomenal job. He held it to within one degree. He doesn't usually do that-well in the trainer."

The audience laughed and Grissom, smiling, said, "You can tell he was watching at the time."

The only surprise of the flight, said Grissom, was when he tilted the spacecraft over, dangling from the giant parachute, into position for a three-point landing. The spacecraft went over hard, and both astronauts hit the windshield with their space helmets. A small knob poked a hole in Grissom's face plate, but Young's was only scratched. Neither man was hurt.

In the turbulent sea, Grissom said, he had indeed become ill, vomiting in a plastic bag. He apologized for not being as seaworthy as Young, a Navy lieutenant commander.

Young said, "The world will never know how close I came."

As soon as the spacecraft hit the water, it submerged, and the astronauts were momentarily concerned when it didn't buoy back up again immediately. Grissom released the main parachute and the spacecraft popped back to the surface.

Young was impressed by the power of the mighty Titan 2 rocket that propelled them into space.

"When the vehicle pitches over and reaches the horizon, you really know you're hauling the mail," he said.

Connally Speaks At Greenville

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John Connally said Thursday night there will be no letup in his drive for better Texas schools.

He told the cheering audience at a Greenville Chamber of Commerce dinner that as soon as possible he would sign the bill changing East Texas State College at Commerce to East Texas State University.

Many of his listeners were graduates or one-time students at the school, 15 miles northeast of here.

Of his teachers' pay proposal, the governor said:

"I am told that I am against education, against the teachers and against progress."

He said the association's North Texas area has even demanded a $45 monthly raise or nothing.

"I believe as strongly as anyone does that higher teaching salaries are both justified and necessary," he said, "but if our goal is better schools, I cannot follow the reasoning that anything less than the exact amount urged by the teachers' organization is worse than nothing."

Connally said in urging the pay raise, the association did not have to consider other spending needs of the state.

The teachers seek an additional $93 million for the next two fiscal years while Connally's proposal would push the tab up $64 million, he said.

New Trial Sought For Ex-Sheriff

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) —A lawyer has moved into federal court here in an effort to win a new trial for former Wichita County Sheriff Ham Vance.

Convicted of forgery, Vance is an inmate at a state prison farm in Brazoria County.

Lawyer Russell Ballard of Wichita Falls filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus Thursday on behalf of the ex-sheriff.

Vance was indicted last June, three days before the runoff primary in which he won the Democratic nomination for re-election as sheriff.

He subsequently pleaded guilty to one of 12 counts charging forgery, false swearing and false testimony.

The other 11 counts are pending.

IPAA Urges Cut In Oil Imports

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—The U.S. balance of payments gap could be reduced substantially by a cutback in oil imports, the president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America said today.

This could be done, said H. A. True Jr. of Casper, Wyo., with "no significant or lasting impact on the spectacular growth in production and income from foreign oil producing areas."

He addressed the North Texas Oil and Gas Association.

True said international oil companies arguing that overseas operations result in a new inflow of funds are "misleading our government and the public when they imply that their foreign operations would be materially affected by a reduction in oil imports."

He asserted that Standard Oil (New Jersey) "is engaged in a figure juggling exercise to confuse the dominant position that oil occupies in our balance of payments problem."

An inflow of $93 million estimated last year by the company for exports of equipment, supplies and services "has now been scaled down to $360 million," based on Commerce Department figures, he said.

Whether there is an inflow or outflow of U.S. dollars because of foreign oil operations makes no difference, True continued.

"This has nothing whatever to do with the fact that our payments deficit would be reduced materially by a meaningful cut in oil imports while, at the same time, total overseas operations of American companies would continue to expand greatly and generate an increasing flow of funds to the United States," he said.

The IPAA president declared that foreign earnings of American oil companies have been generated primarily from increased operations to meet growing oil demands in Europe, Africa and Asia.

He said foreign crude production of only the American companies covered in the annual petroleum report by Chase Manhattan Bank increased by 3,830,000 barrels daily or 79 per cent from 1958 to 1964; in contrast to a 14 per cent rise in U.S. production.

True added that the group of companies would have enjoyed a foreign oil production gain of 70 per cent in the six years "even if U.S. oil imports had been cut 400,000 barrels a day, about what we have advocated."

At the same time, he said, such a reduction in imports together with a diversion of foreign military oil purchases to U.S. sources, would have trimmed about half a billion dollars from the deficit in the nation's international accounts.

He said recent Defense Department moves shifting $27 million in foreign oil purchases to the United States had been urged by IPAA for several years.

True said the domestic crude oil producing industry has suffered from chronic recession, marked by serious price erosion and increasing costs, "during a period of unprecedented expansion in our general economy."

He said the North Texas area "is a primary example of the declining position of the thousands of independent producers in the United States."

"During the period of the mandatory oil import program since 1959," True said, "this typical independent producer area has registered a 40 per cent drop in well drilling, a 16 per cent decline in crude oil reserves and a 13 per cent drop in producing capacity, with crude oil income off eight per cent and income per well down 10 per cent.

"All other principal independent producer areas have shown similar and even worse declines."

Sheriff Calls More From Salado Hunt

HOUSTON (AP)—The Harris County sheriff's department has received subpoenas for two more members of a Central Texas treasure hunting expedition.

They are for John Gilbert Wilson of Dallas, vice president of International Explorers, Inc., and Floyd Duckworth of Houston, a pilot for the firm.

The subpoenas, issued by the State Securities Board in Austin, called for immediate appearance of the two at the Houston office of the Department of Public Safety. They also were ordered to appear for an investigative hearing in Austin at 9 a.m. Monday with records of financial dealings.

Virgil Barker of Fort Worth, president of International Explorers, answered a summons to a hearing in Austin last week. Wilson and Duckworth were directed to appear at the time.

A fourth subpoena was for Eliza Guerra of Falfurrias, president of Guerra Enterprises, Inc. It is the company seeking a fabled $200 million in 17th century Spanish gold reputedly lost in a cave south of Temple.

International Explorers owns 10 per cent of the Guerra Corporation, company officials said.

The Houston Post reported last week that several Houston residents had told of buying "assignments" from International Explorers promising them a 25-1 return on their investment if the treasure was found.
