State Famous Music Group To Play Here

Three little blondes from Denton — the Brooks Trio — will perform the feature entertainment both nights of the Tumbleweed Festival, May 10 and 11 here.

Maylynn, 15, Elaine, 11, and Annette, 9, are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brooks Jr.

"Their music is certain to be a show-stopper. The trio has been a sure-fire hit for a little over a year now," said Hallie Norman, who helped to make arrangements for their appearances during Tumbleweed Festival for '63. Norman is executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce which annually sponsors Tumbleweed Festival time.

Maylnn plays the electric organ, Elaine, the piano and Annette a big set of drums—to start their show. Then, amazingly enough, they switch instruments as their versatile program progresses.

Last year in Austin, the Brooks Trio played for a crowd of 2,300 at a public affair feting Price Daniel Governor of Texas.

"Once the three little girls from North Texas walked onstage, the old political pros didn't have a chance," wrote

Father Rey Leaves For Galveston Post

By Ruth Coffey
Record News Editor

Father Arsenio Rey, O. M. I. left Colorado City this morning for his new church assignment in Galveston.

Father Rey has been the priest at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Colorado City since June 1962. He came here from San Juan in the Rio Grande valley.

The 29-year-old priest grew up in Valle de las Casas (Valley of the Homes) in Leon, Spain, and came to Texas three years ago for his first American assignment. Father Rey spoke little or no English until he learned to speak it here in Colorado City.

"I have liked Colorado City," he said Wednesday. "I have been grateful for the town. I have been grateful for the people. I have been grateful because here I have learned to speak English."

Asked if he had studied the English language in a class or in private lessons Father Rey smiled, "I have learned it by listening to it and talking it whenever possible," he said. "And I have learned it by reading the paper. The Record most especially."

In Colorado City, too, Father Rey learned to make many friends with the townspeople. He organized Colorado City's first Catholic Youth Organization. The CYO has 80 members.

He took part in sports and was manager for one of the Little League teams. Recently he asked for and got from City Council permission to use the old rodeo grounds as a baseball field for games to be played by his teen-age and older charges.

Holiday Week-end Brings Fishermen

Easter week-end brought fishermen and their families to Lake Colorado City and Lake Champion from Lubbock, Big Spring, Odessa, Amarillo, Sweetwater, Midland and other West Texas cities.

To date, 100 fish have been weighed for entries in the Colorado City National Annual Fishing Rodeo. The Fish Rodeo offers prizes in merchandise totaling $300 each month from April through August. In all, the Fish Rodeo for the five-month contest will offer $5500 in prizes, counting some fish tagged for cash awards to catchers.

Earl Webber, 332 Chestnut St., caught an 8 lb. tagged yellow cat (EGW 264) on perch. His tagged fish entitles Webber to double points under the Fish Rodeo point system.

Jerry Howell, another Colorado City angler, pulled in the giant of the week when he caught a 42 lb. yellow cat using perch for bait.

Ben Appleton, 2110 19th St. Lubbock, caught himself a 24 lb. yellow cat on perch.

Another tagged fish, a 4 lb. bass (EGW 243) was reeled in by C. P. Chastain who used minnow bait.

Sandra Donley, 1722 La-Casa, Odessa, caught 2 channel cat, weight, 2 lbs and 3 lbs., using perch.

All those catches were made at Lake Colorado City. Fishing Lake Champion, G. L. Smith of Midland caught a 6 ¼ lb. bass, a 1¼ lb. bass, and a 1 lb bass using the "black and yellow bugaboo." Mrs. Smith landed a 1 lb. 2 oz. bass on a fly.

E. V. Allen of Kermit had a good day at Lake Champion with 7 bass averaging 1½ lbs. each. His bait was pico perch.

Three Chamber of Commerce committees are sponsoring the Fish Rodeo with a number of merchants offering prizes in merchandise.

Coming up next week will be a published roster of points made in each of the six classes to date. There have been, the Chamber office reports, many other good catches in bass, bream, crappie, yellow

Women who cook electrically know . . .

Electric cooking SAVES WORK because it's flameless

There's less work keeping your kitchen clean when you cook with flameless electricity. An electric range makes this chore easier because it cooks with heat as clean as electric light. There's no fuel grime to soil pots and pans or settle on kitchen walls and curtains. Your kitchen stays bright and new-looking with a minimum of washing and care.

Flameless automatic electric cooking cuts down on needless hours of watching pots and clocks. With an automatic electric range, you just set the time and temperature controls and a complete oven meal cooks to perfection, unattended. And with the automatic electric surface unit, cooking temperatures remain constant, eliminating the need for pot-watching.

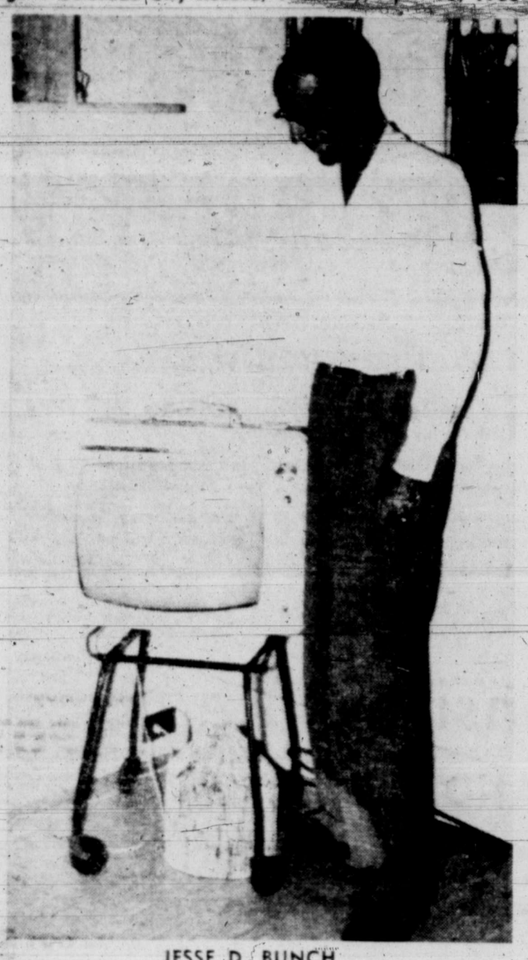

LOOKS RINGS AROUND THE REST

Electric cooking also is fast, cool, accurate and economical. See your dealer and change now to a 1963 flameless electric range. Electric cooking is one of the nicest things about living better . . . electrically.

MOTHERS' OPINIONS

Teen Dancing, Make-up

By PEGGY BELVIN
Record Women's Editor

Dancing—whether you like it or not—is here today.

And even if it may be controversial a lot of teen-agers and adults dance.

The Record—continuing its survey of teen-age dating habits—finds that mothers contacted here in Colorado City approve of their own teen-agers' dancing.

Ten mothers were interviewed in the survey. All ten voiced their approval.

FIVE OF THE MOTHERS however, said that they would rather their teen-agers be chaperoned at a dance.

"I don't object to dancing at all if it is well-chaperoned," said Mrs. Charles Root, Jr.

"I'd much rather have my teen-ager at a dance than at a drive-in movie," she said.

Mrs. James E. Payne, Mrs. Charles Summers, Mrs. Homer Hart, Mrs. Fielding E. Lee, and Mrs. J. L. Galey, all mothers of teen-aged sons or daughters, agreed with Mrs. Root.

"I think dancing is perfectly all right," said Mrs. Curtis Latimer.

"I think it is no more evil in itself than ice skating or roller skating is evil in itself," she said.

"I agree completely with Mrs. Latimer," said Mrs. Dean Washmon and Mrs. Charles Summers.

"Dancing is a good form of entertainment for teen-agers. It gives them a chance to get rid of some of that extra energy in a wholesome and healthy way," Mrs. Washmon said.

Mrs. W. S. Rhode said, "I am all in favor of my teen-agers dancing.

"I would much rather my teen-agers would dance than park by the side of some road. I do like for their dances to be chaperoned, however," she said.

EACH OF THE MOTHERS expressed extreme dislike for excessive use of make-up for teen-aged girls.

"I think teen-agers are grasping for the security of adult life," said Mrs. Latimer.

"Teen-aged girls may think they are finding this security by using excessive make-up. I do not like heavy make-up, oversoaking their hair or excessive perfume.

"I think that the longer you can keep them simple, sweet and unaffected, the longer you can keep their attitude unchanged," she said.

Mrs. Dean Washmon said, "I think it is fine for girls of 13 to begin learning about make-up and begin experimenting with pastel shades.

"I think 15 is also a good age for them to begin wearing pale lipstick to school and to begin using a little other make-up for special occasions after five.

"BUT NO TEEN-AGER should wear exaggerated make-up," she said.

"I think small amounts of various forms of make-up are fine, said Mrs. Hart.

Mrs. Rhode said that a pink lipstick and a touch of mascara and eyebrow pencil was fine with her.

"I disagree," said Mrs. Summers. "I think a little lipstick is all they need.

"This is for all occasions, before and after five. I don't think they need make-up when they are in their teens. There is plenty of time for that when they are older and really need it to look their best," she said.

"I think it is all right for teen-aged girls to use a little of all forms of make-up," said Mrs. Lee.

"I don't like all that make-up on teen-aged girls," said Mrs. Galey.

"And I don't like eyeshadow under any circumstances or for any occasion," she said.

"I DON'T LIKE EYE MAKE-UP of any kind, either," said Mrs. Root.

"I think it doesn't depend on the amount used," said Mrs. Rhode.

"I think it depends on whether the make-up looks natural or not," she said.

"I like teen-aged girls in make-up so light that you can't tell they have it on," said Mrs. Galey.

"They have to learn make-up tricks sooner or later," said Mrs. Payne.

"I think they should start by lightly applying lipstick in the first year of junior high school.

"BY HIGH SCHOOL YEARS, a light touch of mascara and pencil. Teen-agers should never use an excessive amount of make-up and no dramatic hairdos.

"Teen-aged girls should look and act their age," she said, "Always remembering that they are ladies. I think the use of excessive make-up is a bid for attention."

AT PALACE THRU SATURDAY

Danny Kaye In Diner's Club Man

Inimitable Danny Kaye cuts loose with a barrage of happy comedy as "The Man From the Diner's Club," which opened today at the Palace Theater. In the title role, as a mild-mannered office worker who inexplicably and almost inextricably becomes involved with girls and gangsters, Mr. Kaye has every opportunity to do what he does best — to entertain — and he makes the new Columbia Pictures release sher pleasure from hilarious start to racing finish.

As the blundering Diner's Club employee in charge of new member applications, Danny inadvertently allows a mobster to obtain a credit card; he must retrieve it before the mistake is discovered.

The recipient, whose income tax evasions have finally brought him to governmental attention, is in plenty of trouble all his own. His money has all gone for the bail which have given him temporary freedom and his friends have run out on him. Worse, the man he planned to use as a substitute "corpse," while he made good his own escape, inadvertently manages to get himself killed in a Freeway auto accident. And then, fortuitously, Danny and the credit card arrive almost simultaneously!

PEGGY'S Paragraphs

By PEGGY BELVIN

ON YOUR WAY home from work, to do some shopping or to pick up the kids after school, when you pass familiar intersections, when you drive down a well-known street, what do you feel?

Chances are, you don't feel anything.

Chances are, you take everything for granted.

Like the picture-postcard view from the end of Walnut Street, the straight ribbon of street, lined with well-kept yards and leafy green trees, terminated by the sprawling red brick building of the depot.

Or the lush green expanses of Ruddick Park when every plant is in the height of bloom. The stone benches and tables with a cooking pit set a little to the side of each table.

Or the gently-sloping grassy banks that run into the little Lone Wolf creek that divides Ruddick Park. Or the playful little minnows that swim at the creek's edge.

And have you ever really looked at the charming little footbridge in the center of the park?

You probably take for granted, also, the fine city hall and county courthouse buildings, the spacious and beautiful homes and the shiny office and commercial buildings we have.

If you do take these things for granted, take a little drive up on the new loop that circles town.

Get out from under the town and get up above it. See it as other people see it.

It doesn't look so bad.

Matter of fact, it almost brings a lump to your throat. It looks bigger than you'd think it would. And it looks busy.

You can hardly believe that this is the same town you live in, the same town all your friends and neighbors live in. It's hard to believe that those are the same streets you walk and drive on every day.

My first trip on the new loop was the first time I had ever seen all of Colorado City, all of it at the same time.

Kinda makes you proud.

You take a little time out to remind yourself that this is your town. Or better still, to remind yourself that this is OUR TOWN.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

FORD GALAXIE 500 XL SPORTS HARDTOP

YOU'LL KNOW WHY SHE DOESN'T FEEL THE BUMPS...WHEN YOU TEST-DRIVE FORD'S NEW $10,000,000 RIDE

The 1963 Ford gives you a ride every bit as smooth as cars costing hundreds more, and for two reasons: a revolutionary new suspension system . . . and added road-hugging weight.

It took ten million dollars to develop the new Ford ride. We designed a revolutionary new suspension system for the '63 Ford. Where ordinary suspensions move only up and down to absorb road shock, the Ford suspension moves backward as well. In this double-action suspension system, coil springs up front and leaf springs in the rear combine to give you firmness in cornering and a special smoothness over the road.

We added weight, strength and stability. The new Ford is now actually hundreds of pounds more car than any other car in its class. This remarkable weight advantage is in the suspension, frame, and body. And, as you know, this added weight means a more stable ride.

But a solid, road-smoothing ride is only part of Ford's total performance story for 1963. Look how Ford swept the field this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control, braking power and road-clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive a Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Make this important discovery—if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance . . . total performance.

HIGH SCHOOL HOMEMAKING

Colorado City Welcomes First Student Teachers

Colorado City's first student teachers are gaining teaching experience in the local high school Home Economics Department.

The two students, both seniors at Texas Technological College in Lubbock, are Ellen Denton and Kay Botard.

Miss Denton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Denton of Artesia, N. M. and Miss Botard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Botard of Alice.

The girls assume complete responsibility for one homemaking class each. They are responsible for the regular teacher's duties. Miss Denton is responsible for the first period class and Miss Botard is responsible for the fourth period class. Both classes are Homemaking II classes, made up of sophomore girls.

The student teaching is the climax of their college training. It is counted as classroom study and after the end of this school year, the girls will be finished with their college studies.

Miss Botard will graduate from Texas Tech in June. Miss Denton has one more summer semester of study and will graduate in August.

The girls are part of the Texas Tech Student Teaching Program. Fifteen student teachers were sent to West Texas schools the first part of this semester and the two girls teaching in the local school were among the fifteen sent the second half of this semester.

The student teachers are sent to schools in the West Texas area within a 120-mile radius of Lubbock. The teaching facilities of the schools determines how many girls will be sent to a single school, but the maximum number is two.

Credit for student teaching is required for graduation.

The girls will finish their classroom schooling when school is dismissed at the end of the current semester. They will have completed nine weeks of student teaching.

During their stay in Colorado City, the two students are living in an apartment at 235 E. 11th St.

Miss Denton is a graduate of Artesia High School. While in high school, she was a member of the National Honor Society, was class treasurer during her sophomore year and class secretary during her junior year. She was a cheerleader and a member of the Student Council for three years.

Miss Botard was graduated from William Adams High School in Alice. She was assistant editor of the school yearbook, cheerleader and member of the Student Council for three years.

Miss Denton attended Baylor University in Waco during her freshman year and for one summer study course. She has been a student at Tech for the past two years. At that school, she is a member of the Home Economics Club; Phi Upsilon Omicron, professional home economics fraternity and Phi Kappa Phi, National scholastic fraternity.

Miss Botard has attended Tech for all her college training. She is a member of the Home Economics Club, the Board of Students Organization and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

The two students said that they were impressed by the informality of their classrooms in Colorado City, but were impressed by the respect that is shown to teachers at the same time.

"Our student teaching gives us a chance to practice reality. It gives us the opportunity to put into practice those learnings from our college courses," said Miss Denton.

"It gives us self-confidence," she said.

"As a new teacher here, I was hesitant to really charge into things," said Miss Botard. "But due to the warmth of the students, school administrators and townspeople I feel right at home now.

"We have gotten a most warm welcome and we feel now that your churches are our churches, your community is our community, and we feel an interest in Colorado City, our adopted home."

In defining her reason for choosing the Home Economics field of teaching as her career, Miss Denton said, "I like Home Economics. I enjoy all the fields it has to offer. I think it is much more interesting than other careers and I find it quite challenging. It has a wide variety of positions available and it is not limiting."

"My main reason, I suppose," said Miss Botard, "is that I have always enjoyed working with people. And I believe that in the career I have chosen, I will have a good chance to meet and work with a wide variety of personalities."

Both girls will begin their teaching careers next year. They both expressed a desire to teach in Texas.

"I am undecided as to where I would like to teach," said Miss Denton, "but if and preferably in West Tex would definitely be in Texas, as."

"I, too am undecided as to where I want to teach," said Miss Botard, "but this summer I am going to work for the extension service in Edinburgh for three months of in-service training. I know I want to teach in Texas, probably anywhere, from the North Texas area to the West Texas area."

FATHER REY—

His church charges were so reluctant to see him leave St. Ann's that several petitions to church authorities were signed and sent as a plea to change his orders.

"I am hating to leave Colorado City, hating to leave St. Ann's and the CYO," the young priest said. "I follow the will of God. I know that God has exact plans for my life and for my service."

In Galveston he will be assigned to Our Lady of Guadalupe, a large church for the Spanish speaking Catholics of the island city. One thing Father Rey admitted to looking forward to is living near the sea. He likes the sea, he said.

To arrive Saturday morning as new priest for St. Ann's is Father Joseph Buckley, O. M. I., who has been assigned to Colorado City. Father Buckley has been at St. Mary's in San Antonio.

Here in Colorado City he will direct the parochial school along with his other church duties. St. Ann's hold classes for children from first through the eighth grade and has a current enrollment of 86 children. St. Ann's priest also holds services in the Catholic mission church at Loraine.

FESTIVAL—

Austin Statesman reporter Kay Powers.

"It would be hard to say whether the bouncing beat of nine-year-old Annette, her pigtails flying and her freckles split by an ear-to-ear grin of enjoyment, drew more attention then the flying fingers and zesty keyboard capers of 11-year-old Elaine and 15-year-old Maylnn, who does most of the arranging for the group.

"It was swingin' music," wrote, "playing with professional skill and poise, in tempos ranging from four-beat to Latin-American to 'twist.'"

The girls are trained by their father. Until recently they have performed mostly for large private parties in the Dallas and Ft. Worth areas. Their parents are both musicians. Mrs. Brooks plays piano herself. Brooks plays the trumpet.

Maylynn has been studying classical music for piano for more then 8 years. Annette, the youngest, has been taking lessons for drums for three years now. All three girls sing—sing solo, in duet and trio.

Their performance in Colorado City is to be the musical highlight and the headlined program feature for Friday night May 10 and Saturday night May 11, Norman said.

Night performances are to be a little different this year, Bob Reily general chairman for Tumbleweed Festival week has announced.

Friday evening all beauty contestants sponsored by various organizations in this county will compete for the title of "Miss Mitchell County."

Saturday evening contestants from a wide West Texas area will compete against the winner of the "Miss Mitchell County" contest for the crown as "Miss Tumbleweed Queen for '63." Winner will receive a scholarship to the John Powers School for Modeling in Dallas, and an all-expense trip for herself and her parents to San Antonio.

She will also be eligible to compete in the "Miss Universe" beauty contest for Texas girls. That beauty contest is to be in Cleburne. Judges will be from the Powers school.

Temperature of the water at both lakes has now reached 70 degrees. Spot tail minnow, which dominates both lakes, are moving toward the shoreline — said by fishermen to be a sure sign that Spring is here to stay. It indicates, too that bass will have plenty of food for the spawning season, lake sporting fans say.

CONVERSATION CORNER

YOU MAY or may not care to be told that this is Honey for Breakfast Week, American Comedy Week, and Do-It-Yourself Week.

It might be best not to mix the three spectacular events at one and the same meal time. But there are people who do.

'Course having Honey for Breakfast is a common everyday occurance in most well-run households—though small scatterings of Honeys can be spotted sometimes for breakfast downtown.

MOST HONEYS are pretty stubborn about that morning meal before sauntering forth to fight the dragon.

A man we know reasonably well would no more start to work without orange juice, coffee, bacon, eggs and toast 365 days a year than he would sally forth without his trousers.

HONEY for breakfast is easy enough if it just means feed your man before he leaves the house. Breakfast food has a gentling effect on husbands.

If Honey for Breakfast means give him lots of sweetness and light as the sun gets up to start stalking across the sky, then that makes it harder. At most houses dripping sweetness depends on how early it is.

A sort of pact for absolute silence until after the first cup of coffee usually works better at dawnin'—except for a yawnin' "Mawnin'."

AMERICAN COMEDY Week, could be any week on the average homefront. By the dawn's early light most of us are even dressed for the part. Pajamas, robes, slides, cold cream, bobby pins, whiskers and all. Headlines, radio weather report, please pass the sugar. And there's still-no-pepper in this thing.

NOW THAT'S when the Do-It-Yourself part comes in. Whoever said the old "If you want a thing well done do it yourself," just wasn't too bright.

If you want a thing done, wait long enough and somebody else will do it. At least if you wait long enough Honey will jump up and fetch the box of pepper himself.

EVERYTHING'S coming up roses all over Big D, we found. Everything's already come up bluebonnets scattered along Highway 80 from the Abilene, Clyde, Baird area straight to Cow Town and on into Big D.

Speaking of Clyde, a nice thing happened right in the Big D bus station. A well-dressed woman, brown-haired and familiar looking, turned out to be our Mrs. Nick Narrell. She lives in Dallas and was going to Clyde, then to Odessa to see relatives. Daughter Opal lives in Odessa, she said.

A CARD from Rena Brown (Mrs. Ruel F. Brown) has arrived from Las Vegas, Nevada.

"I'm working again. Like my job fine. Am cashier for a dress store in the Stardust, resort hotel."

Rena, (nee Montgomery) is a former checker for Fuller Foods. She went to Nevada recently to join her husband who is working there.

BEEN meaning to tell you that Craig and Sue (Landers) Porter played important roles in the Miss Wool fiesta in San Angelo recently. Craig is a lawyer with the firm of Upton, Upton, Griffis, Shannon and Porter.

The Porters, who grew up and finished high school here, were in charge of the Saturday night dance in the Cactus Hotel after the Miss Wool contest. They also took in tow the "Four Saints" who were musicians for the pageant, attended private parties for contest judges and VIP woolmen, along with the British Counsel and his wife from Houston.

MRS. E. A. BARCROFT of 620 Elm St. had a happy birthday last week. She was honored with an all-day come-and-go party with her niece Elfie Majors (Mrs. Oscar) as hostess in the Barcroft home.

Guests who called included Mrs. Douglas Burns, Martha Earnest, Mrs. Mabel Cooper, Nellie Riordan, Rev. and Mrs. Darris Egger, Mrs. R. E. Post, Mrs. Dale Warren, Rev. H. W. Bartlett, Mrs. W. R. Motley Sr., Katherine Buchanan.

Also Mabel and Edgar Majors, Marie and Marvin Majors, Mrs. J. C. Hooker, Mrs. Myrtle Womack, Mrs. John Colson, Claudia Longley, and Oscar Majors.

CROWN BOWL

LUCKY US . . .

Aren't we lucky . . .

That among us . . . there is a gent like Curtis Baker . . . who can dream a dream of music . . . then, compose it and score it splendidly . . .

So that talented people . . . like Mrs. Ray Noble, Mrs. Bob Robinson and Mrs. Curtis Baker . . . can present it as an Easter cantata for solo voice . . .

For such a fine Easter gift for our town.

Unusual Leave

The 1, 2, 4 and 10-pin leave is an unusual one. It's harder to convert than many splits, but because the head pin remains, it cannot be called a split.

It is usually caused by a ball that hooks in too sharply, just missing the head pin.

To convert this leave, angle the ball for the right corner so that it crosses over to the left of the head pin. The head pin should bound over to take care of the 10-pin, while the ball topples the others.

Mrs. Majors was leader for the meeting and introduced Mrs. Boren to the members.

In her introduction, Mrs. Majors said, "We are completing a profitable course of study and now we come to the highlight of our year, a program of poetry given by Stella James Boren of Abilene.

"She is an ardent club woman and educator, one who has, in her unassuming way, done much to promote the appreciation of poetry and of culture in our district and in our state. She is a life member and a councelor of the Poetry Society of Texas. She appears in the 1959-60 volume of Who's Who in American Education."

Mrs. Majors told the group that in 1941, Mrs. Boren organized the Creative Writing Group of the Abilene Branch of the American Association of University Women, and has sustained her interest continuously in the group.

She said that Mrs. Boren had served as president of the Texas division of the National League of American Pen Women. She said that from 1953 through 1956, Mrs. Boren edited the Texas Clubwoman.

"Mrs. Boren has seen more than two hundred of her own poems in print in periodicals, magazines and anthologies," said Mrs. Majors.

"She is the immediate past Poet Laureate of Mesquite District and is at present the Poet Laureate of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs."

Mrs. Boren paid tribute to Mrs. Majors as an outstanding poet of West Texas. She told the members that Mrs. Majors is the author of several volumes of poetry and that many of her poems have been published in leading poetry magazines.

She read a number of poems that have been published, some in magazines in foreign countries.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Martha Nickson and Ellen of Roswell, N. M., daughter and granddaughter of Mrs. Majors.

Murray Case Should Start Action

The case of former Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray Jr. and his income from oil operations while a member of the Texas Railroad Commission points up this pertinent fact:

Texas needs to take a strong step forward in attitude and regulations prohibiting conflict of interests for persons in public office.

Murray speedily resigned from the Railroad Commission after the Dallas News, in a sparkling bit of objective reporting that metropolitan newspapers attempt too seldom today, revealed hefty gross incomes for Murray from certain oil operations while, as a member of the commission, he was making regulatory decisions affecting the oil industry.

The Record makes no attempt to qualify itself on the question of Murray's basic honesty.

But the Record knows, for sure, that neither Murray nor the citizens of Texas can explain the situation away with glib statements about the right to do business, or blaming the press for persecution, or playing upon the people's sympathy.

A person representing all the citizens of Texas in public service should be free of every possible pitfall of entanglement or pressure that might influence that service through conflict of interest.

And gross incomes amounting into the hundreds of thousand of dollars—as in the case reported for Murray—might be entanglement or pressure of influence for some persons, either directly or indirectly.

The conditions for conflict of interest should be spelled out specifically as possible by our Texas Legislature for all the citizens—and public servants—to see and know. The attitude and machinery for strict conformity to this code should be demanded and secured.

This problem of conflict of interest is not confined to just one phase of our Texas government. The State Legislature, encourages and increases the problem by its own condoning the practice of elected representatives of the people appearing — for pay — before state boards and regulatory agencies on behalf of clients.

State Representative Max Carriker of Roby—our capable representative for Mitchell County—put the spotlight on this unhealthy condition recently on the floor of the House. Rightfully so, he raised the possibility that this practice might result in improper influence on behalf of the client before the state agency. But few were in the mood then to listen to his warning.

Possibility of conflict of interest — either in the case of Murray's Railroad Commission service or in the case of an elected official representing a client for pay before a state agency—is not to be taken lightly. It demands the serious concern of all—to see that proper safeguards and attitudes are placed to keep it at a minimum.

Maybe, the spotlight on Murray, his income and the duties of the Texas Railroad Commission will start the people toward proper action.

Talking 'Sense' for Cotton Industry

Mention the U. S. Department of Agriculture these days and you are likely to invite argument.

But this possibility isn't going to stop us from commenting on, at least, a portion of the department—its Cotton Research and Marketing Advisory Committee.

We don't know the political brands of the committee members. We don't know how they stand in regard to acreage controls and marketing quotas.

But we do know they were talking good sense recently when they—as the USDA's Cotton Research and Marketing Advisory Committee — declared that cutting cotton production costs should be the goal of stepped up cotton research.

The committee proposed more study on breeding, weed and insect control, cultural practices and seedbed preparation, soil and water management, harseed.

Any Mitchell County farmer—caught more and more in the squeeze of rising vesting equipment, ginning and related processes, storing cotton and cotton costs and unable to raise the price of his product like the steel companies can do—should welcome this kind of advise for the cotton industry. He should make it his business, too, with his ginner and buyer to see that more research is carried out expediently.

The Cotton Research and Marketing Advisory Committee—a nationwide committee which includes a Lynn county cotton grower criticized the unattractive appearance of the American cotton bale and advised the use of new lightweight cotton bagging materials, standardization of the bale size and better methods of sampling the bales.

Research on improving the wash-and-wear properties of cotton were recommended. New developments with stretch cotton, flame resistant cotton, and cloth that resists rot, heat and weather promise to increase the use of cotton, the committee says.

The committee sees a need for more work on uses for cottonseed oil and a better cottonseed meal, with an accompanying improvement in the processing techniques of cottonseed.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

Ethics Are Key Factor in Murray's Quick Resignation

BY VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Scandal has struck again in Texas. This time on the Railroad Commission.

Revelation by the Dallas Morning News that Commissioner William J. Murray had grossed some $285,000 from oil investments in earnings from a Throckmorton County lease caused the commissioner to resign his post.

Question was a matter of ethics . . . whether or not it was proper for a public official to make investments in an industry over which he exercised control, in whole or in part.

Murray's answer was that he grew up in the oil fields, was educated in petroleum engineering and it was the only business in which he had any practical experience.

He admitted his investments and pointed out that they were a matter of record, in his own name, and he had nothing to hide. He stated that he resigned his post as a commission member because he felt that "harmful publicity" might lessen his effectiveness.

Murray hinted that the investigation into his past investments was prompted by his refusal to call off the East Texas slant-hole, well-drilling investigations, in which he played an active part.

Murray's attorney, Les Proctor, submitted the former RR commissioner's personal financial records to Travis County District Attorney Tom Blackwell for checking. They are being examined by Blackwell, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

State law provides for removal from office of any public official violating the Code of Ethics. Since Murray resigned that question now has become moot. All that remains is the matter of determining whether any civil or criminal status has been violated.

Proctor says none has been.

ACCEPTED — Gov. John Connally accepted Murray's resignation with the comment that "It is regrettable for all of Texas that documented facts made public within the past few days indicated a question of propriety of legality of his out-side business transactions in view of his position of authority on the commission.

"Public officials have a sacred public trust. It is imperative to continued confidence in our form of government that their conduct in office be beyond a shadow of a doubt. Anything else undermines the confidence of the people in responsibility and integrity in government."

INVESTIGATION —In the House of Representatives, Rep. George Hinson of Mineola introduced a resolution asking for a thorough study of the sweeping powers of the Railroad Commission by the Texas Legislative Council.

Resolution received prompt committee approval and was sent immediately to the House floor.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston gained permission of the House to introduce a bill to tighten regulations prohibiting public officials from participating in any private enterprises which might be in conflict with their public duty.

Eckhardt said his bill would amend the Code of Ethics and clarify it. It also would include a section providing that no public official or member of the Legislature could appear before any state board or commission where the office-hoider had private interests that might be affected by the agency's action.

Wes-Tex Talk

A Look At West Texas Through Editorial Page Excerpts From It's Leading Weekly & Semi-Weekly Newspapers.

It will be interesting to see what sort of rodeo we will have here this year with the usual two rodeos combined into one.

We predict that it will be a highly interesting show from the spectator standpoint with some of the features of both the Post Stampede Rodeo and the Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo rolled into one big four-night affair.

We understand that the agreement to combine the two shows was reached only after careful consideration, so it stands to reason that officials of both shows will bend every effort to have as outstanding a show as it is possible to have.

The way it will be set up, the junior rodeoers will not be able to count points toward American Junior Rodeo Association standings, but then neither were they able to in last year's junior rodeo here because of the way it was set up with too many different age divisions.

Anyway, Post junior rodeo performers who want their season's points to count in AJRA standings will have the opportunity to perform in any number of area junior rodeos sanctioned by the AJRA.

—POST DISPATCH

With new housing starts in every direction and record new building permits from quarter to quarter, Hereford appears to be well in the throes of a building boom. Just where it will all lead has many civic leaders scratching their heads.

Some of them are downright skeptic at the possibilities of "over-building", while others will tell you that it is long over due. More conservative leaders declare that an over-built town will definitely go down hill; they say that no one wants to move into a community where vacant houses are readily available. What's more they can review the history of several neighboring towns and pretty well prove their point.

On the other hand, this yardstick works both ways, it is impossible for a town to grow further when there is absolutely no housing available, and Hereford has been pretty well in this position during recent months.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

City Can Become Marginal as Farm

Editor's note: The Shinnery Flats Philisopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek seems to be kidding big cities his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

It's been so long since the big city newspapers and magazines have exercised themselves over the farm problem that I had the feeling something was afoot, and it is.

According to an article in a newspaper I found out here on this Johnson grass farm yesterday where it had blown up against a fence and which I removed at once before the whole thing blew over — I'm no engineer but I knew what a few more pounds of stress can do to a fence of mine — big cities are seeking 375 million dollars in Federal grants to help them finance transportation systems for commuters.

As I understand it, so many people work in cities the streets won't hold all their cars and they have to use trains and buses, but the trains and buses are losing money and their equipment is delapidated so naturally the only thing to do is to turn to Washington for money to make up the difference. Cities may denounce farmers for doing this, but they know a good idea when they see it. I can't get any big cities to agree with me, but clearly the trouble is that we've got a surplus of cities. Marginal cities, I guess you'd call them, like marginal farmers.

It looks to me like any city which is so big it can't get its people to and from the working areas every day, is simply too big. In reverse, it's like the farmer who's too small. Both are uneconomic.

Now with the farmer, the city answer has always been let him give up unprofitable farming and move to town. But it's hard to say that if a city is too big, let it close up and move to a smaller place. You can say it, but it hardly makes sense.

What cities need actually is either wider streets, narrower cars, or fewer people, but nobody seems to be making any progress in any of those directions.

The way it looks to me, big cities don't want the Federal government helping farmers in the country, they want them to move to town and then help them there.

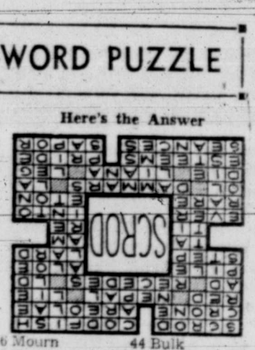

Personally, if it's all right with Washington, I'd rather have the help where I am and avoid all that traffic. It's easier, more comfortable, and you can do it in the shade.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

PICTURE OF HEALTH by Harold N. Schwinger, M.D.

FINDING ANSWERS FOR ARTHRITIS

Arthritis is an inflammation of the joint. One of the most serious and most prevalent forms is rheumatoid arthritis.

Although seldom a killer, rheumatoid arthritis is a progressive disease and eventually may leave its victim completely disabled. The cause is unknown and it involves not only the joints, but the whole body.

Because, as a radiologist, it is often my responsibility to confirm the diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis through x-ray examinations, I have had occasion to see many who suffer from this disease.

Unfortunately there is no specific form of treatment which will definitely prevent the advance of rheumatoid arthritis. However, everything possible is done to increase the patient's resistance and to put him in the best possible health.

Aspirin is the most common form of treatment, not only for its value as a pain-reliever, but because it stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more adrenal cortex hormone. This hormone is also administered to the patient, as are two or three specific drugs.

Climate helps comfort, but again is not a cure. There are also many surgical procedures designed to help these people.

A colleague of mine, once a surgeon, was forced to give up this specialty when he became afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis. But rather than completely give up his life as a physician, he trained for another medical specialty in which his handicap was not a limiting factor — radiology.

Today his contribution and rewards are twofold. In spite of his disability, he is not only performing a service as a physician, but he is, by his example, renewing the hope of all his patients who suffer such a crippling disease.

SCIENTISTS FIND

Cotton Extract Repels Weevils

Scientist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have extracted from the cotton plant a substance that repeals boll weevils.

It is the third substance extracted from the cotton plant with potential value for controlling the most destructive of fall cotton insects, the boll weevil.

The first substances were an attractant that draws weevils to cotton plants and a feeding stimulant which makes the plants appetizing to the insects.

The three substances were found by scientists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service working in cooperation with the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station a the Boll Weevil Research Laboratory, State College, Miss.

The repellent was discovered in connection with work with the attractant. When the attractant was warmed to room temperature, part of it vaporized or degraded. The part remaining proved repellent to boll weevils.

A procedure was then developed for extracting the repellent from cotton squares (flower buds) and seedlings, the same parts of the plant containing the attractant.

The scientist listed these possibilities for the substances. Plant breeders could conceivably develop cotton varieties either with a high content of the repellent so plants would repeal weevils or with such a low content of the attractant that the plants would not attract weevils.

The discovery also introduces the prospect of starving boll weevils by driving them away from the kind of food they need. In laboratory tests, weevils were kept away from cotton squares, bolls and seedlings for 5 to 12 hours even when they had no other food to eat.

When other food was available, the weevils left the treated plant parts untouched for 36 hours.

Other possible uses for the attractant include the luring of weevils to a trap or simply to an area away from the cotton plants. The feeding stimulant does not attract weevils from a distance, but offers the possibility of forcing them to starve on the wrong kind of diet.

Research is continuing on the substances and cotton strains are being checked for their contnt of them.

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

The 11 western states served by El Paso Natural Gas Company are growing 2½ times as fast as the rest of the nation

An adequate supply of energy is essential to progress. In the 11 fast-growing western states served by El Paso Natural Gas Company, demand for energy has risen astronomically—as population has soared and the pace of the economy quickened.

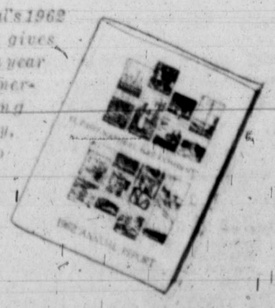

Since 1950, these 11 states have grown 2½ times as rapidly as the rest of the nation. California today is the nation's most populous state. The populations of both Nevada and Arizona have more than doubled. This growth is accelerating year-by-year.

Vast supplies of energy are needed to meet the mounting demands of these millions of new citizens. And El Paso Natural Gas Company has played a growing role in providing one of the most important sources of this energy.

Back in 1950, El Paso Natural marketed 295-billion cubic feet of natural gas. By 1962, we were marketing 1.31 trillion cubic feet of gas—four and a half times as much as in 1950.

That's approximately 10 times more energy than is produced each year by all of the federally financed electric power generators, including the giant Bonneville Power Administration and Hoover Dam, in these 11 states.

El Paso Natural's 1962 annual report gives full details on a year of service to America's booming West. For a copy, write: El Paso Natural Gas Company, El Paso, Texas.

LOONEY HOME DEMONSTRATION

Mrs. Taylor Speaks To Club On "Clothing Accessories"

Mrs. Cricket B. Taylor, county home demonstration agent, spoke to the members of the Looney Home Demonstration Club on the subject "Clothing Accessories" at their Wednesday meeting.

The meeting was in the Medallion Room of the Lone Wolf Electric Building.

"You can dress up a costume by adding any sort of accessory," Mrs. Taylor said. These may include hats, shoes, gloves, or hat does not complement handbag, scarves, jewelry, the small dainty person or a belts, handkerchiefs, flowers, tiny hat with dainty trimming perfumes or collar and cuff s not becoming to a large sets". person," she said.

She told the group that acc- She said that accessories cessories can add life and in- should emphasize the good terest to a dull or tiresome features of the wearer or costume. She said that they should minimize the poor may be chosen for their features.

beauty in design and color as Mrs. T. L. Holman modeled a basic dress in navy blue, changing accessories to make the dress suitable for any occasion.

She wore a tailored hat in navy, black patent shoes with mid heels, black patent bag with black gloves for street or travel.

By changing her accessories to a dressy hat, with heels and bag of a navy pattern, she was dressed for an informal tea or after-five occasion.

Refreshments were served to nine members and 2 guests present at the meeting.
