Chief Justice Says Gravest Question To Face Society Today Is Preservation Of The Existing Democratic Institutions

(By The Associated Press)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 21 — Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes today asserted the question facing society "is no longer one of establishing democratic institutions but of preserving them."

In a prepared address before the annual alumni meeting of Brown university, the chief justice of the United States, an alumnus of the class of 1881, asserted:

"The economic dislocations following the great war have produced conditions, national and international, which vex the imagination and confuse the judgment. . . We still proclaim the old ideals of liberty but we cannot voice them without anxiety in our hearts.

"The question is no longer one of triumphing over sectional discords and unifying the nation, but whether a united people putting forth its great strength for national ends, will leave appropriate scope for individual freedom.

"The question is not one of the adequate power of government, designed to keep clear the highways of honest endeavor, but how that power shall be used."

"Safe as we may still be in the present, what of the look ahead?" he asked.

"Are our democratic impulses growing weaker, and under the pressure of economic forces and insidious teachings of an alien philosophy, will our democracy be able to survive?"

"Warring dominant sentiment," he said, "is the resultant of many intracting forces, among which is the outstanding influence of our intellectual leaders who have had the special advantages of our educational establishments. Our colleges

Texas Rangers Are Called In Strike

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, June 21. — The Lone Star Gas company at 8 o'clock this morning took possession of its warehouse and shops on South Main street under the protection of 11 Texas rangers, sent at the company's request.

While 30 pickets watched from across the street, about 60 shop workers filed into the building under guard of the rangers.

Closed Since May 27

The peace officers under the command of Homer Garrison, assistant director of the public safety, went to the shops before the workers arrived, the group of non-striking employes gathering downtown before proceeding to the strike-bound building, which has been closed since May 27.

"We didn't come here to break the strike but are here in an impartial way to protect the public from a breakdown of service and prevent violence," Garrison said. Garrison said the rangers, gathered from all parts of Texas, were ordered here by Albert S. Johnston director of the department of public safety. They arrived in Fort Worth Saturday night.

Hold Relinquished

Exactly a week ago today the strikers relinquished their hold on the downtown offices of the gas company.

Garrison said the rangers will remain in Fort Worth until the strike is settled. There was no violence as the crew of loyal workers passed into the building.

A gas company official said:

"We had to go back to work in the interest of public safety."

In the meantime, M. L. Perrin, one of the strike leaders and president of the plumbers' and gas fitters' union, called on City Manager Edwards.

To Continue Policy

Edwards replied in the negative when asked if he had sent for the rangers and added that the city would continue its "hands off" policy.

Edwards later was reported as preparing a protest to Governor Allred over the presence of the rangers here.

Another development in the strike situation came during the morning when charges were filed in county court at law No. 1 against another man in connection with the flogging of J. E. Carpenter, Lone Star employe, who said he suffered a beating last week at the hands of five men believed to be strikers.

The new charges were brought against Virgil Pryor.

The complaint was signed by A. C. Howerton, homicide officer.

Others who have been charged with assault in connection with the same flogging are Harold Wilkinson, John O. Bamber and Homer R. Williams.

Blum Cabinet Is Defeated

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, June 21.—Camille Chautemps, radical socialist ex-premier who is attempting to form a new people's front cabinet, today offered a portfolio to Leon Blum, the outgoing prime minister.

The socialist Blum, whose government fell early today, withheld his decision. It was indicated it would be delayed until a meeting of the socialist national council tomorrow.

Guards Throng Streets

Truckloads of mobile guards rumbled through the streets as Chautemps sounded out leaders of various factions, particularly the socialists. Their participation in the cabinet seemed to depend on agreement on a financial program.

Steel-helmeted guards deployed in front of the senate to prevent any demonstration against the body that overthrew socialist Premier Leon Blum and his people's front government yesterday by refusing to grant decree powers to deal with the financial crisis.

Is Summoned Quickly

Acting with significant speed, President Albert Lebrun summoned the radical socialist Chautemps to the Elysee palace before dawn and designated him to form a new government.

Three Russian Fliers Reach U. S. Sunday

Non-Stop Flight Of Nearly 5,300 Miles Ends; Short Of Goal By 592 Miles

(By The Associated Press)

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 21.—Three men of iron from far-off Russia laid upon the new world's doorstep today their claim to aviation-immortality by piloting a red-winged monoplane nearly 5,300 miles non-stop from Moscow across the top of the world to this army post.

Weary of trying to punch their way through the fog and rain of the Pacific northwest, the fliers took a bearing on the airport of Vancouver barracks and landed in dripping weather at 8:22 a. m. PST (11:22 EST) Sunday. Their flight ended 63 hours and 17 minutes after they left Moscow at 1:05 p. m. (EST) Thursday.

Are Short Of Goal

The conquerors of one of the most hazardous flights in aviation history fell some 592 miles short of their goal—San Francisco—and the only witnesses to the end of their journey other than themselves were some amazed soldiers of the barracks and three university R. O. T. C. students.

The men who made the first trans-polar flight from Russia to the United States were Valeri Chekaloff, pilot who did not once relinquish the controls in more than two-and-one-half days of flying; Georgi Baibukoff, co-pilot, and Alexander Beliakoff, whose navigation in a wilderness of North Pole magnetic interferences brought the ship unerringly to this country.

Astounded At Acclaim

Astounded at the acclaim which citizens quickly bestowed upon them once word of their unscheduled landing spread, the husky Russian birdmen smiled wanly, waved and then hastened to the home of General George Marshall, barracks commander, for breakfast and a very welcome sleep.

When they arose late in the day, they said they would not go on, that the plane would be dismantled here. They added they would fly by chartered plane late today, for San Francisco, in company of the Russian ambassador, Alexander A. Troyanovsky, who flew here to greet them.

The fliers, landing after sleepless, nerve-straining hours at one point of which the polar air froze even their drinking water, were pleased when from among a group of Americans whose English left them stumped they heard a young man shout:

"Sdractrachi!" ("Hello" in Russian.)

First Word Understood

It was the first word they understood in a strange land and thereafter until a guard of soldiers was assigned the distinguished visitors, George Kozmetsky was their companion.

Kozmetsky, a University of Washington student taking reserve officers training at the barracks, and his tentmates, Frank Allen and Kenneth Kirtley, University of Oregon students, saw the single-motored ship alight and instantly recognized it for the Russian ship.

The men, despite the long hours, did not appear exhausted although they swayed slightly, regaining their land legs.

In a subsequent radio broadcast in which Ambassador Troyanovsky acted as interpreter, paraphrasing the fliers' remarks, Chekaloff revealed that the most trying parts of the flight were in stormy weather over the Bering sea, Franz Josef Land, Patrick Land and near the north pole.

But for the weather, the pilot said he could have made San Fran-

Huge Navy Patrol Planes Poised For Long Flight

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 21. (AP)—A squadron of 12 huge navy twin-motored patrol planes were poised today for the longest mass non-stop flight in U. S. naval history.

The ships, carrying 16 officers and 56 enlisted men, are bound for Coco Solo, Canal Zone. The air base there is 3,000 miles from San Diego.

"Cactus Jack" Prepares For Hunt Today

(By The Associated Press)

UVALDE, June 21—The nation's assistant chief executive cleaned his squirrel rifle today preparatory to "thinning out" the numerous rodents in the giant trees that surround his home.

That, to all intents and purposes, together with a prospective fishing trip, was the most weighty matter on John N. Garner's mind.

Precedent Is Set

He ablished a precedent last week by leaving Washington with congress in session and in face of rumors of a possible rift in administration ranks, purportedly due to disapproval by some members of President Roosevelt's policies.

The vice-president remained silent on political matters as he prepared to relax in familiar surroundings and declined to comment on speculation that some reason, other than a desire for a vacation, caused him to leave the capital.

Has No Set Plans

He said he was making his plans on a "day to day" basis and had not decided how long he would remain at his home.

Soon he and Ross Brumfield, a garage owner and close personal friend, will try their luck angling for the wary bass of the canyon waters of rugged Southwest Texas.

But first, he planned to get at the squirrels. Long protected as pets, he announced with visible regret that he had found it necessary to reduce their numbers which were threatening his pecan crop.

Other than the fishing excursion and squirrel shooting he had no plans, he said.

Railway Bill Is Up Today

WASHINGTON, June 21 — The house began consideration today of a measure to put the nation's 2,200,000 railroad workers under a social security program of their own.

The plan, embodied in the Wagner-Crosser act, was drafted by representatives of railway management and labor. It would replace the present railway retirement act.

Rail workers were excluded from the general social security act.

Provisions Of Plan

Major provisions of the bill are:

Voluntary retirement at 65 — or at 60 if after 30 years service — on a monthly pension, the maximum to be $120.

Pensions if totally and permanently disabled.

Transfer of those on private railway pension rolls to the national rolls.

Death benefits.

The program would be financed by a tax beginning at 5 1-2 per cent and eventually reaching 7 1-2 per cent on railway payrolls.

Political Tongues Wag With Robinson Staging Revolt

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) — Senator Robinson of Arkansas, administration leader in the senate, has started political tongues wagging by his revolt on the pending $1,500,000,000 relief bill.

The veteren Arkansan rarely has differed publicly with President Roosevelt since he became "boss" of the senate majority in March, 1933.

So colleagues watched him with surprise today as he fought with the Republicans and some Democrats to write into the relief bill a curb on administration spending.

Discussion Of War Debts By Two Officials Is Rumored

WASHINGTON, Jpne 21 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports circulated today that Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium intends to discuss war debts with President Roosevelt during a one day visit to the White House Wednesday.

Informed observers attached some credence to the reports on the theory that a settlemen of the thorny war debt problem would give impetus to world economic readjustment and development.

Grange Leader Is Visitor In City Today

Louis J. Taber Will Speak At Meetings Today; Entire Area To Be Represented

The entire South Plains is to be represented in audiences at addresses by Louis John Taber, master of the National Grange, in Lubbock this afternoon and tonight.

Taber, who was to be accompanied here by several other important officials of the National Grange, is to address a conference of county agents, vocational agriculture agents, soil and rehabilitation experts, farmers, educators and others at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Texas Technological college stock pavilion. Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, who invited the official here, is to preside.

Picnic Is Planned

A picnic attended by farmers and others will be held at 6 o'clock on the lawn south of the administration building. At 7:30 o'clock, Dr. Knapp and the college band are to open a program in the gymnasium, when Taber will make his main address.

A closed Grange meeting will be held at 8:30 o'clock in the gymnasium, under auspices of the Tech collegiate Grange chapter. Taber will speak on "Work of the Community Chapter Known as the Subordinate Grange."

Taber is to speak to the Pettit chapter of the Grange at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night. On the program will be the Pettit juvenile Grange, the J. G. Taber string orchestra from Morton, the Levelland male quartet, Levelland band, and County Judge Alvin Allison.

Others To Be Here

Other officials to be here and at Pettit were to include James M. Binion, state secretary of Brownwood, and possibly T. W. Steiner, chairman of the executive board of the state Grange, of Gonzales, and Harold W. Gaulrapp, National Grange representative and Ralph W. Moore, state master.

Taber was to arrive about noon today. Ray L. Chappelle, head professor of agricultural education at Tech, said this morning.

Taber has worked toward development of rural organization for the last 35 years. He has been manager of the National Grange since 1923. The organization has 800,000 dues paying members and controls 8,000 active subordinate Granges.

Terms of temporary restraining orders enjoining four persons from operating alleged disorderly houses in 1400-block Avenue C were continued this morning when Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court granted temporary injunctions should issue until trial on merits at the next term of court.

Cited by injunctive writ June 12 had been oJe Ehrlich, alleged proprietor of Balch cafe; Vivian Henderson of the Grasy Lizard, Anna Belle Bulloch of Deep Elm, and Shorty Martin of the Salty Dog, the latter at 1420 Avenue C.

Only One Represented

Only Martin was present in court and represented by counsel, Vaughn Wilson. None of the other defendants had filed answers, District Attorney Burton S. Burks informed the court.

Several witnesses were called by both the state and the defense. Witnesses said the reputation of the Salty Dog was "bad," and qualified their statements by telling of alleged infractions of moral and statuatory law involing men and women.

Bill Mabray, police officer who had been detailed by city commission to "clean up" the Avenue C section, was one of the state witnesses. Several women who live near the alleged disorderly houses and who had protested conditions of their conduct before the commission also were called to the sand, who gave eye-witness versions.

Company Heads Plan To Reopen Tuesday Despite Opposition

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, announced today that he would attempt to re-open the three strike-bound sheet and tube plants in the embroiled Youngstown area at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

At the same time Republic Steel corporation announced it would attempt to re-open one of its mills tomorrow morning. Two were killed and 26 injured at the mill Saturday night in a battle between strikers and city police.

The defiant orders to re-open came as strike leaders, headed by John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, entered a conference with federal mediators here in an effort to find a peaceful solution of the Great Lakes steel strike.

Sit-down strikes in sheet and tube mills have been threatened by union leaders if there was any back-to-work attempt.

Informed observers believed the re-opening orders may have been issued with advance knowledge of a truce to be reached at the Cleveland conference.

It is believed that the conferees may agree to appeal the issue to the national labor relations board, and thence to the Supreme court for final decision o nthe moot question whether the Wagner act requires signed contracts.

The strike hinges on this point, the refusal of the steel companies to sign contracts.

Why Prolong It

Significant of that belief were the remarks of Mr. Purnell as he left Youngstown for Cleveland today.

"Why let wome nand children go hungry on an abstract question that can probably be settled in the court?" he asked.

At Warren, Ohio, Judge Lynn Griffith in Trumbull county common pleas court granted a petition of Republic Steel for an injunction restraining the activities of strike pickets.

On the Johnston front of the strike, the great Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel were closed under a martial law proclamation of Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania.

Plans Are Secret

Tight-lipped a sto plans and hopes of the mediation conference, the leaders and the federal mediation board continued deliberations behind locked doors in a Cleveland hotel suite.

Headed by Charles P. Taft, the board has as other members Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor.

Police Puzzled By Bizarre Mystery

Negro Is Dead After Attack

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, June 21.—John Elmore, 39, faced a charge of murder today in connection with the slaying of Frank Wright, a negro, who Elmore said attempted to attack his wife.

The shooting occurred yesterday at a trailer camp where Elmore and his wife, Mrs. Bertha Elmore, 34, and his stepson, Willie Weaver, lived.

Throws Stick At Negro

Elmore said Willie leaped out of bed and threw a stick at the negro, who jumped up, ran to the bed and stuck a pistol against Elmore's back and told him to "get going."

Elmore said he ran to a nearby home and borrowed a pistol and that when he returned to the trailer camp and the negro was struggling with Mrs. Elmore on the bed he shot the intruder. He said the negro fired at him but missed, and ran after Elmore shot him again.

The negro was found lying across a railroad track near the camp. He died in a hospital.

BILL DRAWS SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP) — The senate judiciary committee approved today by a vote of 13 to 3 the Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill.

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 21—Finding of the body of a red-haired woman, lying under a house near what appeared to be a crudely-dug grave, provided police with a bizarre mystery today.

Ten-year-old Malcolm Alberts found the body yesterday. He crawled under the house to retrieve a baseball thrown wildly by a playmate.

Screams With Terror

A moment later, he emerged screaming with terror.

The woman had been dead about two months. A preliminary examination indicated she had been shot in the head after having been attacked. She was apparently middle-aged.

The woman wore a plain gold wedding ring, on which was this inscription: "Hal to Alice, Aug. 31, 1912."

The building under which the body was found is a four-family flat in the Wilshire district. The ground floor apartments were vacant until recently. Mrs. Lotta Myers, who lives on the second story, provided police with the only clue to the puzzle.

Awakened By Cries

Mrs. Myers, an aged invalid, said she was awakened early in the morning by strange cries about two months ago.

Mrs. Myers reported that she sent her nurse to investigate. When the nurse descended to the floor below, the cries ceased completely.

The nurse went outside and saw an automobile speed away.

Finally, said Mrs. Myers, she summoned police. She did not know what the police discovered, she added, because she and her nurse, deciding that the screams were from a drunken party, went back to sleep.

He said he planned to submit no additional major matters at this session which was called primarily to repeal the law permitting wagering on horse racing and legislate against book-making and betting on dog racing.

Included in the new submissions were bills to make the state hunting season for mourning and white wing doves conform with the federal, validate $150,000 in bonds of the New London school district to construct a new school building and provide for six members of the state embalming board instead of the present five.

Other bills provided a bounty on ratflesnakes in Bell county, authorized renewal of the charter of the San Antonio Express Publishing company, authorized certain investigations by the labor commissioner preliminary to chartering and prohibited candidates from making donations to charitable and certain other organizations.

Marriage License Business Is Reported In Slump

Negroes of Lubbock may have celebrated Juneteenth in a large way Saturday, but the program included nothing of matrimony.

For the first time that County Clerk Ed D. Allen could recall, he related this morning, Emancipation day passed without a single marriage license being issued to negroes. This was in spite of the fact that the five licenses issued during the day was the largest number for any day in more than a month.

The county clerk added that the marriage license business has been in a pronounced slump this month, the total of 35 at noon today falling short of figures for corresponding periods of June of the last four years.

Lot Sales In Seagraves Are Continued During Sunday

(By Staff Correspondent)

SEAGRAVES, June 21 — Sunday was just another day as far as lot sales in town were concerned. A dozen or so were sold during the day.

Cliff M. Armstrong, agent for the townsite owners, sold seven before noon. Rather, he had contracts signed and they were to be forwarded today for completion.

"I have sold at least $50,000 worth of vacant property here since the first of the year," Armstrong said. "A week ago I sold 23 lots. Most sales have been in the past 30 days.

"There are only a few business lots left, although there are quite a few good residential lots available."

One man Sunday bought two business lots and returned to get another one adjoining, only to find it had been taken.

Individual pastry cases should be re-heated before they are served. After they have been stored a day or so they are likely to absorb a little moisture which tends to make them tough. Heating remedies the toughness.

"Mr. Davidson said the building would be completed by the first of the year," the real estate man added. "I talked to him the other day and he said he was ready to begin."

Hubbers Come Through With 7 To 1 Victory Over Amherst Sunday

Blanchard Throttles Reds For Five-Hit Performance; Hangs Up 11 Strikeouts In Game

BY COLLIER PARRIS

AMHERST, June 21—Playing their second consecutive errorless ball game to back up the fine chunking of Lefty Jerry Blanchard, the Lubbock Hubbers found their ninth victory of the season here Sunday in Welch Park, a 7 to 1 conquest of the dreaded Amherst Reds in their own back yard.

Except for a few costly infield errors by the Reds and a brief absence of Blanchard's control, the game was an airtight affair that provided numerous thrills. The anticipated large crowd, however, failed to materialize, and it was fandom's loss. A few less than half of the assemblage of paid customers were from Lubbock. Hubber fans showing swell support of a team that hustles hard to please. Amherst fans, usually there by truck loads, were conspicuous by their absence.

Aldredge On The Mound

But the Amherst ball club played a good game, despite the infield boots. Guy Aldredge, heavyweight first baseman and relief pitcher for Amherst last year, a star on the University of Texas freshman club this spring, toed the rubber for the Reds yesterday and pitched nice ball. The Hubbers were baffled by his slow ball, his change of pace, and although they got to him for ten hits, they earned but two runs of the seven. Amherst earned its run off Blanchard, who pitched a fine five-hit exhibition and struck out eleven batsmen. Aldredge was almost as effective, striking out the Hub Clothiers.

Blanchard was in a hole only once during the game. Never allowing more than one hit per inning, and previously permitting only one man to reach third, he lapsed in the eighth, after his side had scored three times, to walk the first two Amherst men. The third, John Bradley, was safe on a fluke infield hit, filling the bases with nobody out.

Run Is Forced In

Big Jerry settled down then to strike out "Daddy" Gee and Preacher Dickson in order. But Catcher Bennett, late of the Odessa league team, got in the way of a half-wild heave and forced in a run. George Harmon flew to Tobe Pair in deep left for the third out.

Amherst's only other threats came in the fifth and ninth. In the fifth, Craig led off with a single, his second of the day. He reached second on a passed ball, and raced to third unmolested as Catcher Coppage made no effort to nab him. But the next two were retired by a long fly and a strike-out; Aldredge walked, but Bradley popped to Graham at short.

In the ninth, Edgar, batting for Craig, hit a long double that rattled the center field wall. Weaver, up next, smashed a high one to left that seemed sure of clearing the fence. Tobe Pair backed up, took it with a one-handed catch and threw to second, catching Edgar, who had failed to tag up, for a double play. Roberts, last man up, grounded weakly to Breedlove.

Scoring Starts Early

Lubbock's scoring started in the first, continued in the third, and there was no more until the 7th, the first two runs looking bigger every inning. Graham struck out to start the game. Bettes, who accounted for Lubbock's first three runs, singled to left. Anderson, playing third base, also singled to left.

Then started a series of plays the Hubbers have been trying to do but at which they have been looking extremely ill all season, until Sunday. Jack Thompson laid down a perfect bunt. Bettes scored from third as the play was made at home. Thompson was safe. Crites singled to right, but George Harmon made a fine peg to Weaver to catch Anderson. Tobe Pair hit a blue darter to Weaver, who knocked the ball down, recovered in time to tag Thompson.

The next inning was scoreless, Blanchard and Aldredge each getting two strikeouts. In the third, Bettes was safe when Gee let one bounce off his glove. Anderson laid down another perfect bunt, was thrown out at first as Bettes advanced. Thompson was hit by a pitched ball, and Crites singled loudly to right, scoring Bettes. Crites, however, was nailed at second as he tried to stretch it into a two-bagger. Bennett pegging to Gee for the putout.

Scores On Error

A bobble by Craig, the first of three charged to him, at short allowed Bettes to score the third run, in the seventh inning. Bettes had walked after Graham had struck out. Anderson fanned and Thompson hit a liner to Craig, who let it go between his legs for a two-base error, scoring Bettes.

In the eighth, Pair led off with a walk, Breedlove, who had singled safely twice through short, hit another to Craig, who fumbled it. Coppage whiffed, and Blanchard was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Graham, hitless in four previous trips, teed off to right, scoring Pair and Breedlove. Bettes followed with a long fly to center, scoring Blanchard. Anderson grounded to Craig who forced Graham at second.

Lubbock missed a good chance to score in the fifth when Crites and Pair failed to come through in a clutch. Bettes led off by striking out. Anderson singled sharply to left, and Thompson followed with a booming double to right. Crites took two called strikes and swung weakly at another. T. Pair did the same to retire the side.

Black Hubbers Win Sunday

By TOM MILLER

John Childress combined long hitting with his good right arm Sunday afternoon to give the Black Hubbers a clean sweep of week-end holiday baseball. Childress blasted out three home runs in succession, two coming in the second inning of the first game, which Lubbock won from Odessa, 14 to 3. His relief hurling gave the locals 5-4 win in the nightcap.

The Lubbock colored boys had things just about their way in the opener. Money Clark cleared the palings in the first inning with Almo Sedberry aboard. Childress' first circuit drive found a runner on and his second two to climax a nine-run splurge in the second frame.

Another In Fifth

Childress lined out a round tripper inside the park in the fifth, and Almo Sedberry followed suit in the seventh.

The invaders were helpless against the righthander's slants until he was relieved by Willie Richardson to start the eighth. Odessa got its first hit in the sixth, and combined two in the seventh for its initial tally.

Richardson gave up two hits in the ninth to account for the visitors' remaining runs.

Off to an eleven-run lead in the first two innings the Black Hubbers started a round of bunting in the third. Four consecutive batters bunted to and were tossed out by the Odessa pitcher.

Lead Changes Hands

Lead in the second contest switched three times before the local boys were able to put across the winning run in the sixth frame.

Successive triples by Myers and Holloway following a base on balls and a bingle scored three runs for the visitors in the fifth to give them the lead. Lubbock retaliated with a marker in the same round and won the game in the last half of the sixth.

Childress relieved Richardson with one down and three runs in and pitched hitless ball for two and two-thirds innings.

Calm Reigns Today At Battle Site

Tulsa Starts Climb For League Honors

(By The Associated Press)

Tulsa's embattled Oilers swept toward an all Oklahoma affair in the Texas league today, not only occupying a place in the first division but threatening to pass the slumping San Antonio Missions, who up to a week ago bore promise of going to the top.

Tulsa blasted the Houston Buffs in a double-header last night 7-6 and 13-10 to slip into a tie for third place with San Antonio while Oklahoma City was further entrenching itself in the lead position with a similar feat over Galveston 10-9 and 2-0.

Beaumont Loses Ground

Beaumont lost ground in second place by dividing a twin bill with Dallas, losing the opener 9-3 and taking the nightcap 6-2.

Fort Worth advanced with a double win over San Antonio 3-1 and 8-6. The Cats held fourth place by a safe margin over Galveston.

Stan Schino and George Jansco paced the Oilers in their victories which brought the Tulsa streak to six games. Jansco tripled in the twelfth to settle the first game and Schino's rousing homer with the bases full figured heavily in the second battle.

Ash Hillin shout out Galveston with one hit in the nightcap at Oklahoma City after the Indians had copped the first tilt in a see-saw battle. Oklahoma City spiked the plate with six runs in the seventh. Policemen prevented a free-for-all fight resulting from the renewal of a feud between Outfielder Tony Governor of the Indians and Catcher George Susce of Galveston when the two tangled after Susce threw a ball at Governor and the latter fired it back.

Seven Straight Singles

Clyde McDowell led the Panthers in their conquest of San Antonio The Cat second-sacker clouted seven straight singles. He got seven hits out of eight trips to the plate. Smoll held the Missions to four hits in the first game. The second tilt saw a parade of pitchers for both sides.

The Dallas Steers broke a prolonged losing streak in beating Beaumont in the first game but promptly started another in the afterpiece. Fred Marberry encountered trouble in only two innings in taming the Shippers. He allowed seven hits. In the second game Lee duplicated Marberry's stunt.

Unveiling Of Monument Will Be Held During Reunion

CROSBYTON, June 21. (Special)—Memory of Uncle and Aunt Hank Smith, pioneers of the plains is perpetuated by a newly erected monument costing $1,000 at Memorial Park here. Unveiling ceremonies are scheduled during the West Texas Old Settlers reunion August 13 and 14.

Uncle Hank was born in Germany Aug. 15, 1836, and died May 20, 1912. Aunt Hank, who was Elizabeth Boyle Smith, was born June 12, 1848, and died June 5, 1925. The monument, erected by the state of Texas, is nine feet high on a three foot base and bears the inscription. "They sleep above Cap rock at Old Emma."

Clark Gable attached a pedometer to his shoe and discovered that he walked on an average of 8.2 miles per day on the set.

Little Betting On Fight Is Being Noted

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—The world's heavyweight championship fight between James J. Braddock and Bomber Joe Louis, set for Comiskey park, home of the Chicago White Sox, tomorrow night, moved toward its climax with amazing calm today.

There were no arguments about the selection of a referee, no last-minute legal attempts to halt the contest, no ticket scandal and very little—if any—wagering on the outcome.

Is Financial Success

Yet the bout, scheduled for 15 rounds or less, will be assured of financial success, with indications pointing to an attendance of 60,000 and gate receipts of from $700,000 to $750,000. Out of this will go perhaps $300,000 to Braddock, who only a few years ago was on federal relief, and possibly $100,000 to Louis, who only four years ago was a $5-a-day automobile factory worker.

All the ballyhoo about Louis being sluggish in his drills and the champion being too old to retain his title against the dynamite-laden fists of the 22-year-old negro have failed to stimulate betting. The bout is liable to go down as one of the lightest wagering affairs in ring history for fear of Louis' devastating punching power.

Louis Is Favorite

Louis probably will enter the ring a favorite at odds that may be 3 to 1, one of the few times a challenger ever has become a favorite over the heavyweight champion, and the only time a challenger went into the ring in a heavyweight bout at such long odds.

Braddock left his training camp at Grand Beach, Mich., today, motoring to Chicago to remain in seclusion until time to weigh in at noon Tuesday at the Auditorium theater. Louis intends to remain in his palatial quarters on the shore of Lake Michigan six miles south of Kenosha, Wis., until coming to Chicago tomorrow to jump on the scales. He figures to weigh about 198, with Braddock coming in at 196.

Braddock was in high spirits as he brought to an end his long training siege and predicted he would win by a knockout in eight rounds.

If Braddock goes he'll go early, according to the experts, and the longer he stays the longer and sadder the night will be for Louis.

Several Teams Get Hot For Sunday Tilts

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Week-end baseball left standings in both loops almost unrecognized.

The Red Sox stayed hot; the Cardinals were hotter; the Tigers were rather warm themselves. The Yankees teed off in their homer hitting specialty for the entertainment of the season's biggest crowd; the Giants' nose dive turned into a landslide.

The Boston Bees joined the Cincinnati Reds in the National league cellar, and the Athletics did the same with the bewildered Brownies in the American league.

Cardinals In Second

Here was the set up:

The Cardinals were in second place in the National league. Lon Warneke pitched a four hitter and Dizzy Dean a five hitter to belt the stingless Bees 6-2 and 9-1 yesterday. Dizzy's doings made him the first ten game winner of the year, and Ducky Medwick walloped homer No. 15.

The Giants, still minus the winning ways of Carl Hubbell, sagged to third place, although they won their single game from the Reds yesterday, 4-3, with the aid of the breaks.

Year's Top Crowd

The year's top crowd, 68,939, packed Yankee stadium to see murderers' row pound the White Sox all over the lot and win twice 8-4 and 7-4, with the aid of five homers, including No. 15 for Joe DiMaggio. Lefty Gomez turned in a six hitter in the opener and Monte Pearson made his first start after a month long layoff in the nightcap.

After extending their winning streak to six straight, longest in two years, my taking the double bill

A Wisconsin Congressman who used to be a major leaguer, howled the other day that ballplayers are slaves. And the next day Dizzy "Uncle Tom" Dean, riz up and told the boss of the plantation where to get off "at".

WE hear a lot about those brave, daring and unselfish trailblazers who, in the early days, did what others had not the courage to do and established Texas civilization.

And that's all right. We should hear more about them. The Plainsman has always been one of those who believes in crediting the oldtimers with a great deal more than most of us do.

But when we talk—or hear someone else talk—about pioneers, it sounds like they're all dead and gone. Like there's no room for pioneers—for taking the lead into strange and unknown places—any more.

That's not right.

In two instances, at least, there are opportunities simply crying out for hardy souls to make a conquest. Why someone hasn't already acted on the impulse is a surprise to us.

We refer—if you haven't already guessed it—to the historical markers which have been so neatly and so frequently placed along our highways and to the lovely little roadside parks which for a time offered the sole outlet for youthful boondoggling.

About the markers are grounds unhallowed by human steps, save for those of our intrepid highway department employes who set them out.

And on the roadside parks there is still some untracked soil, although we'll admit by the beer cans one occasionally sees adjacent to them, the parks do not offer as much romance and adventure as the markers.

Aye, here are numerous chances for the unchecked and the untamed to step forth and explore, to set the path for the generations which are to come!

NOBODY knows how much money was spent on the hysterical—beg pardon, we mean the historical—markers. All that is known about them is that they were passed out as sops, to counties otherwise overlooked, in the name of the Texas Centennial, so Dallas could get bigger and better public funds on which to operate the late, lamented Streets of Paris.

As for the roadside parks, the New Dealers know how much was spent on them, but they don't care. It wasn't their money that was spent, so who can blame them for remarking "Wot th'ell"?

Under the theory that there is good in everything, save perhaps the mosquito and the League of Nations, The Plainsman is willing to say that the markers and roadside parks aren't all for naught.

If they do nothing more than arouse the question "wonder what that's for" as we gaily bowl along the highways at 70 per, they've at least slightly aroused brains which otherwise might not have a cell working!

A Lubbock citizen was seeking some medical information and assistance.

"Doc," he said, "I dunno what's the matter with me. In the mornings I feel good, but by noon, I'm faint. At night—"

"Wait a minute," said the doctor. "I'll examine you for $10."

"That's swell," the patient beamed. "If you find that much I'll split it with you!"

EVERY once-in-awhile—probably because he is a man—The Plainsman finds himself using a lot of column space on subjects directed to men only.

That isn't fair to the ladies, and, after all, there are a good many ladies who keep up with these writings, probably as a matter of habit, just like oldfashioned mothers used to feed their kids sassafras tea in the springtime.

Anyhow, it's time we evened up a little and printed something for ladies, only. Of course, men can read it if they want to—and being curious, they probably will. Just the same, it should be interesting to most women to know how they might make their housewifely duties lighter.

So:

If you are a woman and have that tired feeling after getting up at 7 a. m., dressing the children, preparing breakfast, washing, ironing, ordering, cleaning, shopping and performing those other tasks your family may require, take heed of the words of Dr. Lillian Gilbreth who is a consulting engineer, the mother of 11 children and who, for 30 years, has been a student of motion—particularly lost motion.

The American housewife gets tired, points out Dr. Gilbreth, without knowing why. The "simple appreciation of the proper kind of motion in her duties about the home, particularly in the kitchen, would bring about an average saving of 33 per cent in energy."

Discussing her own "laboratory test" to demonstrate that many steps are lost in the cooking of a meal, Dr. Gilbreth said she proved this by attaching a string to housewives while in the kitchen preparing food. The tests invariably showed that housewives could save many steps had their kitchen been arranged systematically. "When I first started experimenting in housing problems," Dr. Gilbreth declared, "I watched a large number of housewives at work. It occurred to me that the sink in the kitchen should be the proper height to suit the individual and if a woman found it comfortable to wash dishes at this height, why not have the same height for the appliances in ironing, baking, etc.?"

DR. Gilbreth's suggestion to build a kitchen and its fixtures to fit their user is a step in the right direction, although it would seem to hold some practical difficulties in the face of the moving habits of many American families. It is time, however, that the problem be attacked from the scientific angle. Modern household inventions have lightened much of the work of the housewife, but the basic problem of hundreds of steps a day, and hundreds of tasks, is still unsolved.

In the interests of more time for bridge, the movies and riding up Broadway and down Main, The Plainsman hopes Doc Gilbreth solves it!

"Flame Trail"

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD
(Copyright, 1937, Marie De Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine surprises a desperate young man preparing to set a forest fire. She thinks he is the firebug the whole country is hunting, but Ted Gaynor convinces her this is the first fire he has tried to set. His aim: to get a fire fighting job and buy food for his mother and sister. She asks him to join her outfit, and Ted gratefully accepts. They are just starting off when Tom Runyon, the fire patrol, rides up and questions Kay, eyeing Ted suspiciously. Runyon spots the brush pile Ted left, but Kay shields him and outwits Runyon.

Chapter Four
Fire At The Lazy Nine

The picture of the two men who had flashed so strangely into her life that afternoon rose before her, and Kay tried to reason out her reactions to them.

Superficially, the natural thing would have seemed to be for her to be attracted to Tom Runyon and rot to Ted Gaynor. And yet, just the opposite had happened.

Tom Runyon was much better looking and more outwardly prepossessing in every way. Yet she found herself passing him by with hardly a thought, while her mind concentrated on Ted Gaynor and the brief outline of his history that he had given her.

It was mighty hard to be handicapped by an invalid mother and a blind sister, and then have all the breaks against you, as he had evidently had.

He was no weakling, that was clear. Desperation may have driven him to an act of folly, but it was an act of defiance against material things, for the sake of those he loved, who were dependent on him.

Kay tried to picture herself in those circumstances, with Aunt Kate and Babs hungry. Hungry! She gave an involuntary shudder. He actually had said "hungry"! A man could be forgiven almost any desperate act under those circumstances.

"Thank goodness we came along first, Flicker," Kay mused aloud. "It would have been the end of him, if Tom Runyon had found him instead of me. I know he'll make good, now that he has a break at last."

Dread Discovery

Topping a rise in the range, Kay's eye caught a faint haze over to the east, that spread like a gray film in the clear September air.

"Flicks!" Her voice held a note of alarm, as she pulled up and gazed intently toward the strange phenomenon. She glanced quickly to right and left to get her bearings, and a tight feeling caught her throat.

"It looks like smoke," she hardly recognized her own voice; "and it's just about where the house is."

As she watched, a thin gray white column rose slowly, ending in a brown puff, as it dispersed. It was followed by another, and yet another, but Kay was no longer watching.

Leaning forward in her saddle, she was urging Flicker to his topmost speed. In a brown streak the dried bunch grass of the range flashed past, and the rushing air fanned the color into her cheeks, and brought hot smarting tears to her eyes.

Impatiently blinking them back, she gazed desperately ahead to the ever spreading cloud of smoke with its ominous portent.

"Not the ranch house, Flicks! Not that!" She was unconscious of the broken cry that escaped her. But even as she uttered it, she knew it was the ranch house! There was no longer the shadow of a doubt.

Disjointed thoughts flashed through her mind in the mad race against time. Thank Heaven, Aunt Kate and Babs were away! Were Seth and the boys back from the range? Was anyone there to fight the fire?

She could see red forks of flame now through the smoke, and suddenly, a new column of smoke rose, some little distance to the left.

"The barn!" Kay gasped. "Oh, God, not the barn, too!"

Coherent thought left her as she strained every nerve to reach the scene of disaster. Another 10 minutes, and she could feel the heat from the glowing conflagration ahead. Ducking her head, she forged her way on, and the next thing she knew, she was pounding through the gate.

Pulling Flicker back on his haunches, as Seth rushed toward her, Kay half fell out of the saddle into his arms.

Bracing herself against him, she faced the blazing ruin of her home. Nothing to be done about it now; that was clear. The boys had left it and the barn to their fate, and were concentrating their efforts on trying to save the bunk house, beating out the flying sparks, as they fell on the roof and porch.

The Insurance Papers

"How did it happen, Seth?" Kay hardly recognized her strained voice, as she raised it above the roar and crackle of the flames.

"God knows," Seth answered, brokenly. "It was Chung Lee's afternoon off, so the house was empty, and all the outfit was on the range. I just got back in time to save the Old Man's desk, and a few things out of the living room."

He pointed with a smudged, blackened finger to a small pile of furniture that Kay had failed to notice before. The sight of the desk galvanized her to sudden action, and she ran over to it, pulling Seth with her.

"Thank Heaven, you saved that, Seth," she gasped. "All Dad's records are there, and the insurance papers with them."

"Thank God you're insured!" Seth's face smeared with black, and with one bushy eyebrow half singed off, was comical in its relief. "I couldn't recollect whether you'd renewed it or not."

"I paid it up a month ago." Kay answered thankfully, fumbling in the desk drawer, and pulling out the precious policy, which she slipped in her blouse.

"It might be worse, Seth. But, oh, it will never be the same!" Her voice broke, and she bit her lips hard to keep them from trembling, as she faced the charred ruins of her beloved home.

The sudden roar of a truck burst through her despairing contemplation. Turning, she saw one of the Fire Association's trucks racing along the road. Another minute, and a dozen men were pouring over its sides, hauling their fire fighting apparatus after them.

"Too late for anything but the bunk house, boys," Seth called, and without waiting for further parley, they dashed over to save the last of the ranch buildings.

Neighbor Josh Hastings issues an invitation tomorrow.

A WARNING FOR THE U. S. HERE

One of the first things a traveler in Europe notes—as returned home-folks tell The Journal—is the relative scarcity of automobiles on the streets and the highways and with the manifest fact that they are the possessions of persons of obvious means.

An inquiry conducted by one of the London newspapers into the amount of earnings necessary before a resident of England can afford to keep an automobile clearly establishes the reason why they are not the common property of all citizens, virtually regardless of economic circumstances, as is the case in the United States.

An owner of an automobile in England, the inquiry shows, must have a minimum income of $2,000 a year. Taxes, not the cost of the car, is the reason. When an Englishman pays $100 or more to register a car, even the cheapest, 18 cents a gallon gasoline, together with numerous other taxes, he has taken a substantial cut out of his income.

An automobile in England is not for the $25 or even the $35 a week man. It is a luxury for the moderately well-to-do. It is not improbable that a somewhat similar condition will develop in this country if the tax load continues to grow constantly greater.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.—There never have been so many visitors on a film set as are gathered around the big ice rink where Sonja Henie and her ballet are skating.

There are executives and lieutenant-executives and stooges and friends, actors and actresses, important people from other studios, friends of important people, and correspondents.

Also there are 300 dress extras, 80 skaters, a girls' orchestra and about 100 technicians. Counting installation of the rink, with 16 miles of refrigeration pipes, this is the most expensive set ever built. The entire interior of a sound stage has been turned into a pavilion, with the rink surrounded on four sides by spectator balconies made of chromium and supported by lighted walls and columns of glass brick.

The extras have nothing to do except sit at their tables and applaud. Sometimes the spectators applaud, too. The show they're seeing is unlike anything ever staged anywhere. But it will be staged; officials had seen only a few minutes of the first rehearsal before they were deep in plans for taking the ice ballet to whatever American and Canadian cities have rinks large enough for the performance.

Forgot An Old-Timer

The skaters are all expert now, though a few are ballet dancers who never had been on ice until a few weeks ago. The majority are members of college hockey teams. The director, Harry Losee, was a solo dancer himself; appeared at the Metropolitan and with the San Carlo Opera Company, and had his own dance troupes. Also he did the choreography for two recent Broadway productions, "The Show Is On" and "At Home Abroad."

Hollywood didn't remember Losee when he came here on an emergency job of polishing up the dance numbers in the last Astaire-Rogers picture. Actually he's an old-timer here—appeared in "Blood and Sand." After that, he danced.

When he was shown the first Henie picture and its weak-ankled ensemble, and was asked what he thought might be possible in the way of an ice ballet, he said there was no telling what might be accomplished if they hired real skaters.

So they hired real skaters, and the result is a sweep and speed of action that has astonished everybody. It's so fast, indeed, that several of the skaters have been sent to hospitals with lacerations and abrasions.

Losee doesn't skate. He wears heavy, non-skid overshoes and a topcoat, and sits on the sidelines and hollers into a microphone. Miss Henie isn't used to being told how to skate. In a final rehearsal the other day she whirled past the camera several times, each time screaming protests to the director above the general din.

"The music is too slow!" she yelled. On she whizzed around the rink. "The tempo—up with the tempo!" she pleaded next time. Again: "I cannot skate so slow!"

Then she dashed at the camera, shouting as she came: "This number—" She came to a halt in a shower of ice and went into a spin. Finally she stopped, delicately balanced on the tips of her skates. Then she finished her sentence "—it stinks!"

So the tempo was accelerated, and everybody was happy.

Stand-In Clowning

There was no chance of operating an ordinary camera crane on the ice. So an overhead boom has been built—a sort of inverted scaffolding that hangs from rails. At the bottom is a small platform large enough for a camera operator, the camera itself, and the director.

The scene begins from a corner of the sound stage, with a long shot of the entire pavilion. Then the camera moves forward and downward. One of the balcony railings falls away at its approach. Out over the ice, lower and lower, moves the camera, finally resolving itself upon Miss Henie.

Between takes, property men provide comedy relief as they wabble out on the ice with scrapers to smooth the surface. Somebody at a piano swings into the Skaters' Waltz, and the prop men burlesque their sweeping.

For most of the rehearsals until the final one for each scene, Miss Henie's place is taken by her standin. This is a man, Jack Clark, onetime Canadian champion. He clowns, too. He clowns because they make him wear one of Miss Henie's costumes while the lights are being adjusted.

It was Nehemiah Grew, English naturalist, who first announced to the world that no flower seed could develop without the union of the pollen and ovule. But the theory was so novel that scientists of his time were reluctant to believe it, and it was not until 1735, more than 100 years later, that Linnaeus reaffirmed the theory.

AUSTIN, June 21 (AP)—Collection of state tax on oil production may exceed that of last fiscal year by $5,590,478, Comptroller George H. Secretary Ickes, The India Rubber Man, Is On His Feet Again, Rearin' To Go Ahead

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 21 — It has to be reported that on the latest of at least a dozen conspicuous occasions Secretary Harold L. Ickes, the New Deal's India rubber man, has bounced back up again from what seemed to be a position on the floor.

His PWA, which was supposed to be dead, has been granted two more years of life with funds.

Dutcher

There isn't going to be any new Department of Public Works right away, which means that Ickes won't have to make a choice between being secretary of that and his present post as secretary of Interior.

These assurances developed at a time when Ickes, who hasn't been well, was in the Naval Hospital here, away from the firing line he loves.

Few things demonstrate the quality of Ickes so well as his ability to stand above and seemingly oblivious to the constant bitter intrigue which goes on within his department and the PWA. Flat on his back in the hospital but never more mentally alert, he sent memos to his immediate subordinates which left no doubt that he meant still to be secretary of the Interior and boss of PWA, hospital or no hospital.

Files Given To Roosevelt

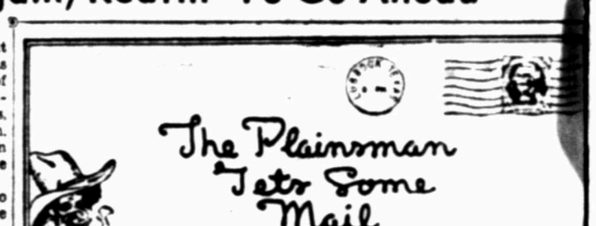

Ickes and others in his domain had been victims of a persistent state of jitters dating back a year or so ago to the time when he and others had pushed out Louis Glavis, chief of the Ickes investigation agency and regarded by many as the ace of American sleuths.

The specter of Glavis still pursued the Ickes crowd, especially when it became known that many items usually supposed to have been in the Glavis files, were mysteriously missing. Files of the Division of Investigation have been checked and cross-checked to no other end than a lot of headaches.

Presumably Ickes and his favorite chief assistant, Elbert K. Burlew—who has facetiously been known as the "oversecretary" ever since Congress created the office of undersecretary of the Interior and Roosevelt gave the job to his own friend and liaison man, Charlie West of Ohio — knew what certain

SUN SPOTS AND STORMS

Dear Plainsman: Since you have referred to me in your column as one who might know something about the connection of our unusual spring weather with certain astronomical events, I'll venture a few remarks on the subject. However, let it be understood that what I don't know about weather, past or future, Texas or otherwise, would make a very interesting and bulky book.

In the first place, the present year is one of those recurring periods, averaging eleven years apart, in which the so-called "spots," or immense whirling storms on the sun are more numerous than usual. Furthermore, more spots are appearing this year than in several of the preceding periods of maximum activity.

Now it is an accepted scientific fact that spots on the sun are accompanied by electrical and magnetic disturbances on the earth, such as auroral displays, altered radio reception, and sometimes disrupted telegraph service. It is also suspected, but not yet accepted as proved, that there is more than normal rainfall over the earth as a whole during and immediately following the periods of spot activity. Certain investigations have tended to confirm this theory, particularly in connection with the width of tree rings and the water-level in large lakes through several eleven-year cycles, but the tests are not extensive enough as yet to be conclusive. It seems reasonable to suspect that along with the undoubted electrical disturbances there may be weather changes. Temperature at least is affected to some extent, since the light and heat received from the sun vary with sun-spot periods, as well as in longer cycles which may have such far-reaching consequences as the ice ages of the past.

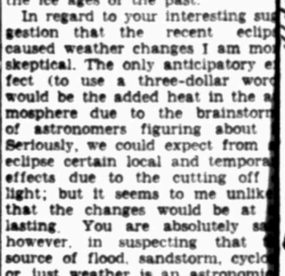

In regard to your interesting suggestion that the recent eclipse caused weather changes I am most skeptical. The only anticipatory effect (to use a three-dollar word) would be the added heat in the atmosphere due to the brainstorm of astronomers figuring about it. Seriously, we could expect from the eclipse certain local and temporary effects due to the cutting off of light; but it seems to me unlikely that the changes would be at all lasting. You are absolutely safe, however, in suspecting that the source of flood, sandstorm, cyclone or just weather is an astronomical problem, since the chief culprit in each case is certainly none other than Old Sol himself. Long range weather forecasting may be an astronomical development of the future. In the meantime you can put me down as predicting rain whenever you feel a sprinkle.

Sincerely,
R. S. Underwood, Lubbock.

Dear Doctor Underwood: Thank you very much for taking the time to give the above information which I am sure will be interesting to a great many of our readers. In this connection, may I also say that it is almost a universal trait among Tech faculty men trained and experienced in various subjects, to give generously of their knowledge when requested. That is, I think, one reason why both "town" and "gown" in Lubbock have such a friendly understanding. Thanks again and best wishes, The Plainsman.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP) — Cotton futures opened steady, down 2 to 3 points on lower cables, nervousness over the French political situation and the labor outlook in this country. July 11.93; Oct. 11.99; Dec. 11.97; Jan. 11.99; March 12.03; May 12.09.

Prices sagged a few points further in early trading under scattered liquidation.

Favorable weather in the cotton belt over the week-end influenced some offerings by locals and commission houses.

July liquidation in advance of first notice day this Friday and southern hedging in small volume also added to the supply of contracts.

Prices turned steadier on the appearance of Wall street covering and Japanese buying and shortly after the first half hour the market had rallied 9 to 10 points from the lows in active positions and prices generally were 2 to 5 points net higher. Oct. sold up from 11.96 to 12.08.

At Liverpool prices eased on liquidation induced by the resignation of the French cabinet.

Active Wall street covering, which was estimated to have absorbed 50,000 bales of cotton up to midday, caused the market to rally later in the morning. Prices advanced $1 a bale or more from the early lows to carry the market up to net gains of 15 to 18 points.

At midday the market was within a point or two of the best. October, which had sold up from 11.96 to 12.19 was being quoted at 12.17. No fresh news developed to account for the covering movement but the market was in a fine technical position following declines of three or more dollars a bale in the past few weeks. Strength of wheat was regarded as a contributing factor.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 21 (AP) — Disappointing foreign advices caused an opening decline of 5 to 6 points in the cotton market here today.

Liverpool cables were lower than due and the resignation of the French cabinet induced some nervous selling at the start.

In the face of a decided lack of buying support and continued favorable weather in the cotton belt prices eased off slowly in the early trading.

July opened at 11.83, Oct. 11.96, Dec. 12.02, Jan. 12.06, March 12.12 and May 12.17.

Toward the end of the first half hour active positions showed losses of 6 to 8 points compared with the previous close.

Liverpool reported general liquidation induced by the fall of the French government, labor unrest and favorable weather in the United States.

and universities sow the seed of which the nation will reap the crop."

Declaring freedom of learning and speech, freedom of press and assembly and freedom of conscience "the essential buttresses of democratic institutions," Mr. Hughes said:

"Our first duty is to preserve these freedoms — of learning, of speech, of press, of assembly, of conscience, and to be alert to detect the slightest attempt to impair them. But our confidence will prove illusory, if those who are foremost in the enjoyment of these priveleges are not keenly conscious of their responsibility.

"The arch enemies of society," he said, "are those who know better but by indirection, misstatement, understatement and slander, seek to accomplish their concealed purposes or to gain profit of some sort by misleading the public.

"The antidote for these poisons must be found in the sincere and courageous efforts of those who would preserve their cherished freedom by a wise and responsible use of it. Freedom gives the essential democratic opportunity, but self restraint is the essential civic discipline."

Drilling In Well Continues Today

(By Staff Correspondent)

SEAGRAVES, June 21—Drilling in the Carter-Continental No. 1 A. L. Wasson, in Gaines county 16 miles west of here, was to be resumed today after oil had been run into storage tanks Sunday. The day tower was to have gone to work at the usual time.

Hundreds of people visited the well Sunday. At least forty cars from Lubbock were here Sunday before noon. Local people visited the well during the day, as well as from Brownfield, Wellman, Plains, Seminole, Odessa, Midland and other towns.

Bottom of the hole is 4,959 feet. It has about 180 feet of lime, with the most porus section down to within 50 feet of bottom.

Tanks Are Erected

Two tanks were erected at the location, the second one being completed late Sunday.

Oil was run into the tanks Sunday. Flow was down considerably from the first rush, going as low, according to one source, as five barrels an hour.

Gas pressure was generally believed to have caused the decrease. Check of pressure indicated 3,800,000 cubic feet per day.

No one in authority Sunday was able to state future plans. It was believed by some that drilling would progress until sulphur water was reached and then the well plugged back to porosity.

Blum Cabinet

the retiring cabinet, immediately began a round of conferences with party leaders to determine what support he could glean for a cabinet probably uniting the same leftist elements that supported Blum.

Among his first conferees was Joseph Caillaux, head of the senate finance committee who led the fight against Blum's decree demands, from whom he apparently sought to determine if there is a possibility of a new cabinet obtaining decree powers to deal with a rapidly emptying treasury.

Strike Is Rumored

Paris took the cabinet resignation news calmly, though unverified reports of a general workers' strike were heard.

The franc strengthened immediately after Blum's resignation. It was quoted at 22.30 to the dollar in the morning unofficial market, as compared to 22.4575 at Friday's official close. At the official close today, however, the franc was only slightly stronger than Friday, at 22.4475 to the dollar.

The fall of the Blum government was regarded in all quarters as of great international importance because of the role it played in the Spanish situation and its efforts with the United States and Great Britain through a tri-partite monetary accord to work for currency stabilization.

Probe Of State Pension Cash Is Planned By Legislature

AUSTIN, June 21 (AP)—The house decided unanimously today on quick action in an effort to forestall a possible cut in the old age pension rolls.

It voted to spend much of the last four days of the session investigating whether state funds were ample to continue the present pension policy and whether the federal government would keep matching Texas money for grants to 130,000 aged.

The resolution calling for investigation by the committee of the whole was prompted by reports pension authorities contemplating striking 30,000 persons from the rolls. They denied that but said representatives of the federal government had urged re-checking of the recipients to ascertain whether all were in need of aid.

KALTENBORN EDITS THE NEWS

HE GAMBLED ON TIRES...AND LOST!

Read H. V. KALTENBORN'S Version of What Happened to a Beechhurst, New York, Motorist

IT WAS nearing 2 P.M. The Whitestone Road was thick with a fast-moving stream of motorists. But Mr. Mitchell of Beechhurst, New York, scarcely saw them. All he had were visions of an hour in the dentist's chair. He could almost hear the bz-zz-zz of the drill when, suddenly, he heard something he was least expecting—BANG! A blow-out! The car bolted off the road. Mitchell sat helpless at the wheel. With a lunge, he grabbed for the emergency brake. But it was too late. A telegraph pole put a stop to the wild ride, leaving Mr. Mitchell with a crumpled car bumper—and plenty of regrets.

H. V. KALTENBORN

Motorists seldom realize until they have a blow-out that when the accelerator goes down, the heat inside the tire goes up. That's why Goodrich engineers developed the Life-Saver Golden Ply which is found in all Silvertowns. This exclusive Goodrich invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. By resisting this internal tire heat, the Life-Saver Golden Ply protects you against those dangerous, high-speed blow-outs.

It didn't take Mr. Mitchell long to equip his car with these Golden Ply Silvertowns. Remember, it's better to be safe than sorry! Don't delay. Come in today for a set of these life-saving tires. They cost less than other super-quality tires.

LONG, EASY PAY TERMS!

Here's a special credit plan originated by Goodrich that's different and easier than any you've ever used because there's no red tape, no delay, either. Just select what you need, show your license identification. Your first-quality factory-fresh Goodrich merchandise is installed "on the spot." Try us once. opener from the Indians 5-2, the Red Sox dropped the nightcap 8-7, but still retained fourth place.

Detroit's Tigers took advantage of tight throwing by Elden Auker and Tommy Bridges and flogged the floundering Athletics in a pair 6-3 and 8-1.

Drop Into Cellar

This twin whipping dropped the A's into a last place tie, as the Browns were unable to do much with Wes Ferrell and lost 5-3 in their single game with the Senators. It was three straight for Ferrell since he traded his Red Sox uniform for the Nat special.

After spending a day in the National league cellar, the Phillies decided it wasn't what they wanted, and not only climbed out again, but advanced all the way to sixth with a 6-5 conquest of the league leading Chicago Cubs. The victory boosted the Phils past both the Reds and Bees, and cut the Cubs pace setting margin to one slim game.

It was Van Mungo to the rescue again as the Dodgers split with the Pittsburgh Pirates. After dropping the opener 4-2 to Joe Bowman's effective elbowing, the Brooklyns teed off on Red Lucas in the nightcap and then had to call on their fireball ace to save the situation and a 4-2 decision.

other insiders know: that Glavis turned results of certain of his inquiries over to Roosevelt. It's a safe bet that none of these reports compromised "Honest Harold" himself, but the general effect as to certain other officials is still speculative.

Friends of Ickes realize that his recent physical condition has been largely due to the fact that he has been as conscientious and probably a more hard-working official than any other in the New Deal. But his breach with Glavis, whom he once trusted implicitly and who once idolized Ickes, may have been a contributing factor. Roosevelt never lost his faith in Glavis, and that was a thorn in the faithful, indefatigable secretary's side.

Not long ago at a White House conference Ickes objected to the proposed — and subsequently accomplished — appointment of John Carson, former secretary to the late Senator Jim Couzens of Michigan, as consumer's counsel to the Bituminous Coal commission.

Ickes suggested that Carson, who is known to his friends as a pro-Roosevelt partisan, was inimical to Roosevelt. The President asked for particulars and Ickes finally complained that Carson and Glavis were intimate friends—which was true.

"Now listen, Harold," said Roosevelt, "you can't let the ghost of Glavis chase you forever."

Becomes Hero In 90 Seconds

The new hero of government clerks and other minor employes in Washington is Congressman John Coffey of Washington state.

Seven "rebel" lodges, recently suspended from the American Federation of Labor's American Federation of Government Employes, had a mass meeting the other night and proclaimed that they would like to be affiliated with the C I O. — an invitation to which John L. Lewis has since announced himself receptive.

The meeting lasted for hours and there were several long-winded speakers. But Coffey held himself down to 90 seconds flat. He said, in extreme brief, that federal economy shouldn't be taken out of the hides of loyal public servants.

Coffey said exactly what the boys and girls wanted to hear. But the reason he is being hailed as a champion of champions all over the town is the fact that he became the only congressman ever heard of here who voluntarily confined himself to a speech lasting only a minute and a half.

Vet Hospital Being Asked

Resolutions renewing pleas that a veterans hospital be erected somewhere in the Texas Panhandle or Plains were passed unanimously at Plainview Sunday at the district American Legion convention, according to report today by Lubbock delegates who represented Allen Bros. post.

Advocates of the resolution, which will be forwarded to members in congress, pointed out that ex-service men requiring hospitalization now may be sent to any one of half a dozen hospitals requiring travel of hundreds of miles.

Phillips Is Backed

Another resolution urged the election of Drury Phillips, Texas department commander, as national vice commander when the national convention is held in New York City September 20 to 23.

Jim Willson of Floydada, who presided over the Plainview session, was reelected district national committeeman. Willson's services were praised by National Commander Harry W. Colmery and the state commander when they visited Lubbock recently.

Charles Whitacre of Lubbock was elected district vice committeeman, succeeding Jim Dye of Tahoka.

W. O. (Dan) Daniels, commander of Allen Bros. post who headed the Lubbock delegation, also announced today that the regular meeting of the post next Monday night has been cancelled so that members may attend a picnic planned by the auxiliary. Place where the picnic will be held has not yet been decided, he said.

Thousands Of Singers Present For Brownfield Convention

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, June 21—Thousands of singers from all sections of the Panhandle-Plains were here Sunday for the closing programs of the fifth annual two-day Panhandle-Plains singing convention. Sessions were held in the Venetian auditorium south of town, which Cye Tankersley recently built.

Two state highway patrolmen aided local traffic officers in handling the traffic. The location was near the intersection of a loop and state highway 51.

Between 1,200 and 1,500 cars were parked in the area during the afternoon. Hundreds of people were unable to get inside the building. The program of music was carried out as scheduled.

Officers were named Saturday afternoon, former officers for the most part being reelected.
