Blast Occurs When Match Is Struck; Three Of Children Die In Seminole Hospital Following Fatal Tragedy

(By Associated Press)

SEMINOLE, Okla., May 10.—The deaths of three children in a hospital here tonight brought to five the number of dead in an explosion of gas in a storm cellar at Mission City, four miles southwest of here, late today.

Bonnie Edwards, 7, her brother Sonny Boy, 5, and Dorothy Breedlove, 8, who were injured in the blast which occurred as they were entering the cellar to escape a storm, were those who died tonight. Mrs. Charles Breedlove, 41, mother of Dorothy, and her five year old son, Le Roy, died a short time after the blast.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards, parents of Bonnie and Sonny Boy were only slightly injured. They had just started to enter the cellar when the explosion occurred.

The two families lived in the same house and sought refuge in the cellar when they saw the storm approaching. As the children entered the cave, one of them lighted a match and the explosion followed. Cause of the blast had not been determined.

No damage resulting directly from the storm was reported.

Red Cross Appeals For Funds For Tornado Victims

CORSICANA, May 10. (AP)—Captain Albert Evans, national director of American Red Cross work, who has established headquarters here for relief work in the Navarro and Hill county areas swept Tuesday by tornadoes, said today that the original estimate of $150,000 needed for Texas sufferers was too low and that it would approximate at least $200,000.

He said Governor Moody would be asked to make another appeal to the people of the state.

All sufferers have been given temporary aid, clothing and food, he reported.

Lubbock Will Join Nation Today In Observance Of 'Mother's Day'

Mother of Founder Of Mother's Day Still Lives; Son Awarded Medal

By NEA Service.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 10.—When the morning of Mother's Day dawns, Frank E. Hering of South Bend probably gets a bigger kick out of it all than any other man in the country.

Hering is the man who originated Mother's Day. He holds a medal, given him by the American War Mothers, bearing the title, "Father of Mother's Day."

Hering, former national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, former faculty member of Notre Dame University and now editor of the Eagles' Magazine, started the ball rolling 26 years ago in a speech at the English opera house here.

Assembled were members of the South Bend Eagles. Hering was then a young Notre Dame professor—notable chiefly as the first Protestant to win a place on the Notre Dame faculty.

Here is the mother of the "Father of Mother's Day," Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hering, who will spend this Mother's Day with her son at their home in South Bend.

Frank E. Hering is shown here with the medal awarded him by the American War Mothers in recognition of being the man who originated the idea of Mother's Day.

In his speech Hering traced all the goodness of men to mother love, all the advancement of civilization to the sacrifices of mothers, all the hopes of the future to the influence of mothers. He urged that in every Eagles' lodge one day be set aside each year in which men would remember their mothers and make a point of paying especial homage to them.

The idea caught on. Year after year, in Eagles' lodges throughout the country, one day each year was devoted to mothers. Before the day was observed nationally, the Eagles were observing it annually. And it all goes back to that speech of Hering's on Feb. 7, 1904.

Five years ago the American War Mothers went to work to trace Mother's Day to its origin. After long investigations in which other claims to the honor were thoroughly gone into, the organization decided that the title, "Father of Mother's Day," belonged to Hering and no one else. Last fall they sent a committee to South Bend to award him their medal of honor.

On Mother's Day in 1925, at the invitation of the war mothers, he was the principal speaker on a program given at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

So it is that Hering gets a peculiar satisfaction out of Mother's Day; a satisfaction that no one else can share in. Incidentally, his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hering, who makes her home with him here, always helps him celebrate the day.

Special Services to Be Held at Local Churches Today

TRIBUTE to the world's sweetheart, "Mother," will be paid in every city throughout the nation today and Lubbock, joining hands with millions, will bow in reverence and prayer at the throne of "Her," whose memory or whose presence is recognized as God's most precious gift to all mankind.

Added significance will be given the solemnity of the occasion today when throngs of Lubbock citizens attend services in churches throughout the city.

Special Music Planned.

Sunday school hours and morning worship in most of the Lubbock churches will consist of special music singing from quartets to solos and anthems and in theme sermons.

Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church, has announced the subject of the morning sermon as "Womanhood, the Flower of Christianity." All services throughout the day will be in keeping with this unusual day. Edgar Shelton is to sing "Mother Machree" at the 11 o'clock hour.

Women of the church have arranged a special program for the night service.

Red flowers will be given to those whose mothers are living and white flowers to those whose mothers are dead by a committee at the Asbury Methodist church.

To Present Boquet.

At Sunday school a bouquet will be presented the oldest and the youngest mother present. Rev. G P. McCollom will preach a sermon

Indict Woman As Accomplice

Mrs. Emma Mayhall Charged In Connection With Fatal Shooting Of Merchant At Sparenberg Recently

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, May 10.—Mrs. Emma Mayhall, arrested in Ranger a week ago today and the admitted companion of the man who is alleged to have shot and killed W. R. Billingsley, a Sparenberg merchant, on Thursday night before the arrest, was indicted by the Dawson county grand jury here late today on a charge of being an accomplice to the murder.

The woman, returned to Lamesa last Monday morning, is said to have made a statement to officers concerning her connection with the case. She claims she was the unwilling companion of the man, for whose arrest a warrant has been issued.

Ranger officers, who had been advised by local officers of the probable appearance there of the murder suspect, went to a vacant house and found the woman, her nine-year-old daughter and the suspect. The man fought a running battle with Ranger officers but made his getaway.

A. M. "Buck" Bennett, chief deputy sheriff and Granville Wyatt, deputy went to Ranger Sunday morning and aided in the search. They were unable to locate the slayer.

T. L. Price, district attorney called a special session of the Dawson county grand jury for Thursday morning to investigate the slaying. Numerous witnesses were called, including the woman indicted. Sol Cleveland was the foreman of the jury.

Five Years Of Illicit Relations With Steno Hinted In Brady Case

DALLAS, May 10.—Promising to disclose in defense testimony next week the story of five years of illicit relations between Miss Lucille Highsmith, court stenographer, and John W. Brady, former appellate court judge charged with her slaying, attorneys for defendant left today for Austin to confer with defense witnesses.

The state rested today after presenting two witnesses. At the request of Maury Hughes and Ted Monroe, defense attorneys, a recess was taken until Monday.

To Relate Story

The first witnesses Monday, the attorneys said, will be character witnesses, who will be followed by mutual acquaintances of the 28 year old stenographer and the 59 year old judge, who will relate the entire story of their five years of companionship.

The defense, they said, will be the same as at Brady's previous trial, which resulted in a deadlocked jury —insanity induced by chronic alcoholism.

At Brady's first trial, his attorneys did not attempt to deny that the defendant stabbed the girl to death, but contended that his once brilliant mind had been deteriorated by years of over-indulgence in whiskey and "snorting."

Today's witnesses were Otto Crider, called by the state a "country boy" who witnessed the slaying in front of Miss Highsmith's rooming house in Austin last November 8, and Dr. A. J. Scott of Austin whose efforts to save the girl's life were futile.

Lubbock Voted Next Host For Teachers Meet

Invitation Accepted During Northwest Texas Teachers Association Session Held At Childress Saturday

Lubbock's convention schedule for 1931 was swelled again yesterday when the Northwest Texas Teachers association in session at Childress voted to come to this city for its annual gathering April 3 and 4, 1931.

The association was organized at a meeting at Wichita Falls about three weeks ago when 800 teachers from four interscholastic league districts met.

The execution committee refused to accept the resignation of H. A. Glass of Wichita Falls, elected president at the organization meeting, appointed committees to handle the work organizing the association and other work, and transacted other business. At noon, the group were guests of the Childress Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon at the Childress hotel.

Garnet Reeves, publicity manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce issued an invitation to the committee to hold the next annual meeting in Lubbock. He pointed to the fact that the Texas Technological College is located here and that next Spring Lubbock will have a new $400,000 school building that will be one of the newest and most modernly equipped in the Southwest. Lubbock's invitation was accepted after Amarillo had withdrawn an invitation in favor of Lubbock.

Proclamation Echo To Fatal Mob Violence

Guardsmen Begin Rule Of City Saturday Night Following Lynching Of Negro, Razing Of Grayson Courthouse

Another Mob Forms

Attempt To Release 14 Men Held In Connection With Rioting; Action Asked By Business Men Of City

(By Associated Press)

SHERMAN, May 10.—Sherman, which last night was the scene of a maddened mob's fury after a negro charged with assault upon a white woman had been burned to death in the courthouse, at midnight tonight was considered by officers here as under martial law.

Although the Governor's proclamation had not been received at midnight by Col. L. E. McGee, commanding the guardsmen here, it was made effective at 10:30 p. m., the time the governor signed it at Dallas.

Another Mob Forming

Unconfirmed reports had been received before midnight that another mob was forming near here and was planning to storm the jail to attempt rescue of the 13 members of last night's mob held there.

Col. McGee had his men ready for any emergency and machine guns were placed at each corner of the jail block.

Col. McGee and Col. S. C. Davidson, second in command, both explained tonight that they had made no announcement after the meeting of Sherman business men this afternoon when it was voted to ask the governor to declare martial law, because the meeting was executive and they deemed it proper that the first announcement come from the governor himself.

Mob Action Termed "Murder And Arson"

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody said at 10:45 p. m. that he had signed the proclamation declaring a state of martial law in Sherman. He said Col. L. E. McGee would remain in command.

Additional troops would not be ordered there unless they were requested, he said.

"They will remain in Sherman as long as they are needed," the executive added.

He said the proclamation was issued upon representations made to him by substantial citizens of Sherman that martial law was needed to clear up mob disorders.

Termed "Murder, Arson"

The document proclaiming martial law termed the death of George Hughes, 41-year-old negro, in the burning of the Sherman court house, an act of "murder and arson." Striped of legal verbiage, the proclamation was as follows:

"A mob formed in Grayson coun-

Texas Tech Freshmen Take Advantage Of "Fish Day" to Avenge Paddlings

"FISH DAY," the one day in the year when freshman students of Tech college are free from the iron hand of upper-classmen, was celebrated by close to a thousand yearlings yesterday when they appropriated paddles and sought out upper-classmen from their places of refuge in all parts of the city.

At exactly 12:01 o'clock Saturday morning, when "Fish Day" officially went into effect, the "slimes" began a thorough search of all the boarding houses, the downtown district and all other places where upper-classmen might take refuge, and gave them a dose of their own medicine. Freshman activities did not cease until the last hour Saturday evening when their "uppers" again took the ruling hand.

Farm Bureau Round-Up To Greet Thompson Friday

President Of American Farm Bureau Federation To Speak At Gathering Here May 16th

Head Of The World's Largest Organization Of Farmers Is One Of Nation's Outstanding Agricultural Leaders

Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and one of the most outstanding national figures in agriculture today, is to be the headline speaker at a round-up of members of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau, to be held at Lubbock, May 16. Mr. Thompson will discuss national issues as they affect the farmer, and will confer with local Farm Bureau leaders on plans for strengthening the organization in this section.

As leader of the largest organization of farmers in the history of the world Mr. Thompson took a prominent part in the fight for farm relief at Washington. Probably better than any other man he knows the intimate details of how the Federal Farm Board was brought into existence.

Fought for Seven Years

His earnest efforts to make the nation understand the plight of the farmers at first met rebuff, but undismayed Mr. Thompson fought on for seven years, until the nation at length awoke to a realization of the difficulties that faced agriculture and Congress responded last June with the Marketing Act.

The long struggle brought to Mr. Thompson a conviction that only through organization can farmers overcome handicaps and enjoy economic equality with other industrial groups.

"The future progress of agriculture," he has often stated, "depends now, more than at any other time in the history of our country, on a strong organization of farmers. Lack of such organization has hitherto been the most serious drawback to the business of farming. The degree to which farmers are able to influence the course of national affairs depends entirely upon the extent to which we are organized and speak with a united voice."

Was Born on a Farm

Personally those who hear Mr. Thompson will find much to attract them to this clear-eyed and energetic farmer-business man. Born on a forty-acre Illinois farm in 1863, he passed 54 years in active cultivation o fthe soil and the enlarged farm he still supervises is one of the outstanding-up-to-date places in the community near Quincy, Illinois. Along with this responsibility, he is also president of the Broadway Bank at Quincy.

He has served his state in public office ranging from tax collector to assembly-man. Among his farm organization activities is included the former presidency of the Illinois Agricultural Association, from which place he was called in 1925 to guide the destinies of the national federation of Farm Bureaus. He is now serving his third term as chief executive of that organization.

To Speak Friday

Sam H. Thompson, of Quincy, Ill., president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker at the courthouse, in Lubbock, next Friday afternoon, when members of that organization gather here.

Carl Williams Will Speak At Abilene May 30

Farm Board Member Scheduled For Address At West Texas Chamber Of Commerce Convention And Other Points

DALLAS, May 10—Pressure of Federal Farm Board affairs at Washington will prevent Carl Williams, cotton member of the Board, from filling the dates which had been made for him to speak at Texas points next week, but he will arrive in this state the latter part of the month, it was announced today by the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

A new schedule, now being worked out, will put the Farm Board cotton member in Abilene for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention on May 30, and at other Texas points May 31, and June 2 and 3.

Trip to Explain Farm Aid

Williams' trip will be one of the means through which the Farm Board's plan for aid to the cotton farmers will be explained, as a preliminary step to actual organization work to be undertaken during the summer. By opening of the cotton season, it is expected that arrangements will have been completed under which the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association will have superseded the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, with a reorganized and liberalized sales and service system which will bring the member into a closer personal contact with the association.

Branch offices, which are now being contracted for under agreements with business men and farmers in a large number of Texas cities and towns, will be in charge of federally licensed cotton classers who will grade and staple cotton for both members and non-members; who will sell members' cotton in the association's optional or seasonal pools, the optional pools allowing the member to sell at any time and receive practically full payment immediately, will furnish daily market information according to grade and staple; and will give farmers the daily information provided through the Farm Board's world-wide net-work of fact-gathering agencies.

The Texas association's sales and other activities will be connected with the Federal Farm Board through the American Cotton Cooperative Association, of which the Texas association is one of twelve members, covering the entire South.

Texas has been divided into six districts, each of which will become independent as soon as it handles 100,000 bales of cotton through the cooperative plan. Each district will then be a member of the American Association, and deal with that association directly instead of through the State association.

Poultry Paragraphs

BY R. B. GALLOWAY

Do you consider your farm flock of chickens a part of your regular farm busines or just a mere sideline which receives little or no attention? The farmer who says "poultry don't pay" is usually one who gives very little thought and attention to the business principals of poultry management. No business ever succeeds as it should unless it is operated on a business basis. Poultry keeping is not unlike any other business in this respect. L. J. Head of Dimmitt, is one of the many successful farmer flock owners in the Panhandle Plains area who take their poultry business seriously. Records have convinced him that poultry pays if they are provided with a comfortable home, fed a balanced ration and given the necessary care they deserve. Mr. Head made an average net profit of $62.50 per month from his flock of 123 S. C. White Leghorn pullets during the fall and winter months of November, December, January and February. Sixty-five per cent of these pullets were laying at the age of seven months. The first egg was received, four months and fourteen days from date hatched.

Be prepared for red mites as soon as the warm weather comes to stay. It is during the hot summer months when both lice and mites multiply very rapidly that the chickens are most bothered with these pests. Mites usually can be found under the roosts or where the roosts set into the supports. Sometimes when the mites get a good start, and if the poultry keeper doesn't watch carefully, the cracks in the building around the roosting quarters are alive with them. These parasites crawl on the birds at night and suck blood and make life generally miserable for the birds. In eradicating red mites, you can use any of the commercial mite eradicators on the market, or you may spray the roosts and roosting quarters with a mixture of five gallons of coal-oil and one quart of crude carbolic acid. At any rate use something, even if it is only kerosene, and keep the mites down or better still keep them out. Don't let them get a start.

Many people want to know when their chicks are growing as fast as they should. After weighing large numbers of chicks, poultry authorities at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station have prepared growth standards. According to the standards, Leghorn chicks should weigh one pound in six or seven weeks; one and one-half pounds at the end of the ninth week; and one and three-fourths pounds in 12 weeks. Heavy breeds such as Rhode Island Reds and Barred Rocks should average one pound at seven weeks; one and one-half pounds in nine weeks; two pounds in 12 weeks; two and one-half in 15 weeks; and four pounds in 23 weeks. Many efficient poultrymen will secure more rapid gains than these, but they offer a guide for the average poultryman to follow.

Growing birds should be protected from the hot summer sun. Fowls intended for exhibition purposes should especially have shade available, for their plumage will become sunburned and present a dead appearance if they are forced to stay out in the hot sunshine throughout the summer months. If trees or shrubbery is not available for shade, you can provide it by making a light frame structure, all sides open, covered with boards or grain sacks.

Growing 345 Rhode Island Red chicks to 10 weeks of age at the Mississippi Experimental Station cost 48.2 cents per head, and at this time they weighed 25 ounces. Growing 165 White Leghorn chicks to 12 weeks of age cost 40.2 cents per head, and they weighed 23.2 ounces at the end of this period.

ELLWOOD COTTON SHIPMENT ACCENTUATES SOUTH PLAINS DEVELOPMENT

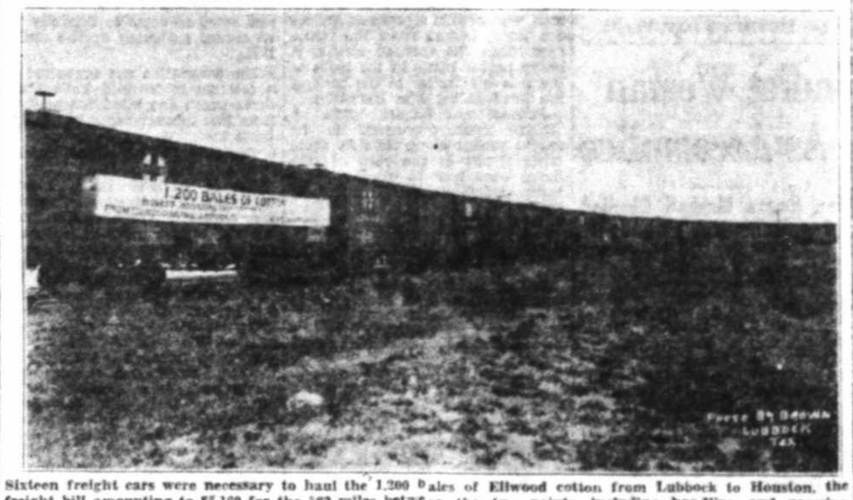

Officials of the Santa Fe railway, the Lubbock chamber of commerce, the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and others, inspect the 1,200 bales of cotton belonging to W. L. Ellwood, of Lubbock, prior to compressing and shipment via Santa Fe to the port of Houston. This shipment is claimed as the largest by an individual at one time ever made to a cotton cooperative in the United States.

Included in the picture are: J. R. Hitchcock, general manager of Santa Fe western lines; T. H. Gallaher, general freight and passenger agent for the Panhandle & Santa Fe; W. W. Kelly, chief engineer; J. A. Gillies, division superintendent, Santa Fe; Sam C. Arnett, W. O. Stevens, B. Sherrod, J. A. Hodges, Spencer A. Wells, J. B. Maxey, A. B. Davis, Garnett Reeves, directors and officials of the chamber of commerce; Charles A. Read, W. K. Dickinson, of Lubbock; R. E. Overstreet, N. H. Payne, officials of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association; D. F. Eaton, county agent; Al Hill, editor of the South Plains Farmer; T. B. Zelner, manager of the Ellwood Farms, and Ed S. Allen and C. E. Casey, of the Ellwood organization.

Three days' time was required for workmen at the West Texas Compress to tag, truck to the press, press and load the 1,200 bales of Ellwood cotton into 16 Santa Fe freight cars, preparatory to starting the shipment to the port of Houston recently.

Sixteen freight cars were necessary to haul the 1,200 bales of Ellwood cotton from Lubbock to Houston, the freight bill amounting to $5,160 for the 583 miles between the two points, including handling and pressing the cotton by the West Texas Compress here.

BY AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor

What is claimed to be the largest shipment of cotton by an individual made at any one time to a cooperative marketing association in the United States, is that sent by W. L. Ellwood of Lubbock, to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association recently.

An advance of 10 cents per pound, or approximately $60,000, was made by the cooperative to Ellwood. Freight for the cotton amounted to $5,160. This included approximately $1 per bale for handling and pressing.

Because of this record transaction, Ellwood was given the honor of being the first cotton grower in Texas to become a member of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association, which is being formed by the American Cotton Cooperative Association, the $30,000,000 stabilization corporation set up by the Federal Farm Board in 1929 and which is the national sales agency for all cotton cooperatives in the United States.

To Absorb Bureau Members

It is the plan of organization for the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association, which is to succeed the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association in this state, to automatically absorb the more than 20,000 members of the latter body as that membership votes to by-laws change. This latter association owns and operates, through its gin corporation, some 38 modern gin plants valued at $40,000 each.

The Ellwood shipment accentuates a marvelous agricultural development throughout the South Plains.

Was Unfenced Grazing Lands

Not so very many years ago this area was unfenced grazing lands, referred to by gentlemen as the short grass country. Only a few acres of this vast empire had been put to plow at the beginning of the twentieth century. And for years incoming settlers were both informed and of the opinion that cotton would not thrive upon these high plains.

Since 1910, however, following proof that land and climate here were adapted to cotton production, big ranches have been put on the market for colonization by farmers. This year's final census report will reveal astounding growth in population on these plains since 1920.

In 1920 cotton produced in the 15 counties of this section totalled 59,000 bales, while the past season's crop was 293,982 bales.

Is Typical Plains Romance

Typical of agricultural romance on these plains is the story of development made on the old Spade ranch since late 1924, when W. L. Ellwood started colonization of the 265,000 acres originally contained in this ranch.

The Spade ranch lands are located in the four counties of Lubbock, Hale, Hockley and Lamb. First tract to be placed on the market by Ellwood consisted of 93,000 acres, the greater portion of this being in Lamb county. Upon this tract, prior to October, 1924, there stood only one dwelling, the north Spade headquarters house, with 400 acres in cultivation.

Since October, 1924, 375 farm families have settled upon this north tract. They have placed 69,793 acres in cultivation. In addition to the farm development the townsite of Anton, Hockley county, was formed in December, 1924, its population now totalling approximately 500.

A striking thing about this development is the fact that today here are as many head of stock on these 93,000 acres as ever run on them when beef cattle grazed thereon. Farms average 160 acres. All farmers on this tract raise their own hogs, cows, mules, horses and beef cattle, 3,600 head of stock being enumerated.

It is from the 93,000 acres that Ellwood's 1,200 bales of cotton came. They represent payments on farms by colonizers. Sale of lands are averaging 25,000 acres per year.

Similar to other land of the great South Plains area, Ellwood's farms produce other crops than cotton, this cash crop being closely run for importance by the grain sorghums.

Leads All Texas In Co-Ops

Although a new country, with less than half its acres now in cultivation, the South Plains leads all other sections of Texas in cooperative marketing activities by cotton farmers. It is not strange that the first regional set up of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association should be headquartered at Lubbock, one-fourth the membership and 17 of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association's gins are located in this area.

Lubock is considered second only to Dallas, as an important inland cotton marketing center, with an average annual volume handled here of between 225,000 to 250,000 bales.

Per acre production in this area is greater than the average for the state of Texas and, with only 80 per cent of its tillable acres planted to cotton within a few years, annual volume in bales will probably approach a couple of million.

Dawson Plans Third Highway Bond Election

Leaders Are Undaunted By Two Previous Defeats; Are Working Quietly And Ambitiously For Success

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, May 10—Undaunted by two previous defeats in road bond elections, supporters of a hard surfaced highway program are preparing to wage another campaign to vote bonds to hardsurface the roads of Dawson county.

At the last election, held this spring, the bonds lost by 144 votes of having the necessary two-thirds majority.

Just now, many of those who have led the fight, are quietly preparing to start another campaign to vote bonds. The vote may be called late in the summer.

One of the important highways in the county and one which it is expected will aid greatly in changing sentiment to in favor of a hard surfaced program is the Dal Paso-Carlsbad highway. This road is now being used widely by tourists bound for the caverns of Carlsbad and for El Paso and Old Mexico.

North and south is Federal Highway 385 connecting with Lubbock on the north and Big Spring on the south. The Brownfield-Slaton road is another important artery of travel.

"The majority of our people are for hard surfaced roads" one man who has followed the fights for bond issues, told the Avalanche-Journal. "As I see it, there are not enough people agreed upon a definite program of building. Once we get that, there will be no trouble to vote bonds and go ahead."

Longer Staple Cotton Trend, Stokes States

Better Grade Being Planted Throughout State, President Of Texas Farm Bureau Says On Visit Here

A very noted trend toward planting cotton of longer staple length is evident throughout the state of Texas, according to Lynn Stokes, of Ballinger, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, while in Lubbock the latter part of the past week.

"Farmers everywhere are taking definite steps to get away from cotton varieties that do not average staple length of seven-eighths inch or better," says Mr. Stokes. "With the evidence that cotton is going to be bought on a grade and staple basis more and more, from now on, and the penalty obvious from raising untenderable cotton, Texas cotton producers are taking steps to increase quality."

In commenting upon the organization of the Texas Cotton cooperative association in this district, Mr. Stokes declared that his expectation is that the Lubbock district will have as many members of the new cooperative in the 65 counties of this district as the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association now has in the entire state. This number exceeds 20,000.

Dairy Expert To Visit Area

J. H. McClain, Specialist Of U. S. Department Of Agriculture To Be Here In June For Inspection Tour

J. H. McClain, field dairy specialist with the United States Department of Agriculture extension division, will make a tour of the South Plains during June, according to announcement made Saturday by County Agent D. F. Eaton.

"Mr. McClain will be in Lubbock county on June 13," says Mr. Eaton, "and will be present at an all-day basket picnic to be held by Dairy demonstrators of this county at the Blackmon farm, in the Hardy community.

"These dairy demonstrators will inspect several dairy herds in the Hardy community, including that on the Blackmon farm and a very interesting time is anticipated."

According to District Agent Sterling C. Evans, of the Texas A. and M. college extension service, Mr. McClain will be at Tulia on June 9, at Plainview June 10, at Amherst June 11, at Levelland June 12, Lubbock on June 13, at Post on June 14, at Brownfield June 16, Seminole on the 17th and Lamesa on the 18th.

Rat Eradication Remedy Is Given

Because of the invasion of thousands of wharf rats in Lubbock county recently, County Agent D. F. Eaton announces a remedy for eradicating these pests, as being the following:

"Mix one-fourth of a pound of Barium Carbonate in one pound of hamburger meat. Wrap the preparation in small pieces in a piece of paper and insert in the rat's hiding places underneath barns, or in their paths. Do not leave the poison where other animals about the farm will get hold of it, or where poultry might find it, as the poison will also kill them."

Mr. Eaton declares that these rats make visitations to the section periodically. He also tells of Kangaroo rats being reported from Cochran and other counties. These, however, can be exterminated with the same kind of poison used on prairie dogs.

Cotton Planting Active in County

"Every available team, every piece of planting machinery and almost every tractor in Lubbock county has been busy during the past week, in planting cotton and some early feed crops," declares County Agent D. F. Eaton.

"In several instances," he continues, "tractors have been utilized day and night, farmers taking advantage of oportunity to plant between rains and high winds."

Principal planting activity has been that of cotton, with some early feed crops and some grain sorghums. The average time for planting of grain sorghums begins about May 20, Mr. Eaton explains, and states further that the entire county will have been planted within the next 10 or 15 days, if weather conditions are favorable.

Student Union Building Planned By Tech Graduates

Present Class Takes Lead In Project Work

Goal Of $100,000 Is Set As Fund Need For Building On Campus; Three Years To Be Used For Drive

LOOKING forward to the growth of Texas Technological college and anticipating a need that is felt in some degree at the present time, the seniors of the institution voted April 8 to start a fund for the building of a student union and set as their goal approximately $100,000.

Following their decision several committees were appointed and at the present time $1,000 has been pledged through their activities. The beginning of the fund constitutes the seniors gift to the college which it is customary for the graduating class to make. By the end of the second term of summer school the leaders of the movement hope to make the pledges reach $10,000.

Afford Meeting Place

The Student Union, in the minds of the workers, will afford a meeting place for all the students of the college. It will offer an auditorium suitable for the presentation of all dramatic work, picture shows and lectures. Debates and other special features will be arranged for. An indoor swimming pool, showers, lounging rooms, current library, social rooms, club rooms, individual offices for student activity officers such as Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Student Council, A. W. S., Woman's Forum and the student publications, will be provided. Also a large lobby containing a soda fountain, lounge and possibly a book store will be embodied in the plans.

Tentative Location Selected

The building will possibly be located north of the Home Economics building, south of the gymnasium and face south on the extension of Broadway which runs into the Tech campus. It will be built in harmony with the other architecture of the campus buildings and will be about two stories high with the basement available for extra room.

In addition to the plans of the senior class for raising the money of which Warren Huff, vice-president of the class is in charge, special gifts are being made by the students, alumnae, faculty and friends of the college. The sum raised at the close of this year will be turned over to a committee of students and faculty for safe keeping until the project is completely financed. It is estimated that the building will be begun within three years.

Oklahoma Booster To Seek Survivors On Excursion Here

It will mean more than a good will excursion when Claude W. Stone, chairman of the speakers and entertainment committee of the Oklahoma City boosters trip, arrives in Lubbock next Wednesday.

He will be seeking survivors of John Hardy, his uncle, who settled in Lubbock county about 35 years ago, and who died about 15 years ago.

"We have lost trace of the Hardy family," wrote Mr. Stone to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. "We have been trying to get in touch with them for several years. When I come to Lubbock I will appreciate it if you would put me in touch with them for several years."

Mr. Stone has been notified that John Hardy is dead, but that Sheriff Wade Hardy, a grandson, will meet him and that other relatives of the dead man will be present.

Hardy community was named in honor of John Hardy, father of Mrs. L. C. Denton and Mrs. Hattie Stoker, Lubbock, and Pate and Jeff Hardy, Shallowater.

Planting Is Started In West Texas

Number Of Farmers Reported Putting In Crops; Cotton Planting Is Underway Over Large Area

Farmers throughout West Texas the past week have been busy planting cotton, following the rains of the previous week or ten days. The coming week will see a still greater activity along agricultural lines.

Most of the planting was by cotton farmers who were taking advantage of the recent rains to get in their crop.

East of Lubbock, around Lorenzo, Ralls, Crosbyton and Spur there was a tendency to plant longer stapled cotton. Bankers and cotton men have been advising farmers to plant a type of cotton that will bring higher prices.

Prepare for Sorghums

Between Lubbock and Lamesa all during the week, farmers worked early and late in putting the seed into the ground. A few farmers were preparing their ground for later planting of grain sorghums and other row crops.

From Littlefield and Sudan came reports of much activity, in fact, so many farmers remained away from town during the week that business men said they were having the lowest ebb of business in many months.

Muleshoe is having extreme activity along the line of new people coming into the territory. New families are reported almost daily. Large acreages are being sold out this spring to prospective farmers and there will be a hundred or more new families in this area before fall it is believed.

Terry County Expanding

Terry county farmers around Brownfield and Meadow are having a larger acreage for spring planting than ever before.

Dawson county farmers have reduced their cotton acreages from better than 225,000 acres to around an estimated acreage of 175,000.

However, the acreage of cotton abandoned is not being left idle. It is being used for row crops, sorghums, maize, kafir and other feeds. There is an estimated increase of 25,000 acres over 1928 and 1929.

From other sections of the South Plains comes indications of greater acreages of row crops than ever before. There has been a steady influx of new farmers in almost every county on the south plains. The result is that firms handling machinery and farm supplies have been busier than ever before.

City Clean Up Result Report Is Set Monday

Campaign Comes To Close In Lubbock Saturday; Survey Completed Despite Severe Sandstorm Here

Tabulating the results represented in 1,607 reports of work done in eight districts of Lubbock during the clean-up campaign which ended in this city yesterday, officials of the improvement program announced last night that a statement as to work done in the city would be issued Monday.

Inspection committees, hampered by a severe sandstorm, completed their survey of the city yesterday afternoon, when a report was made that remarkable improvement is noticeable in every section of the city.

Neil H. Wright, chairman of the judges committee, will make a report Tuesday after a conclusive inspection.

Lubbock is competing with hundreds of cities of Texas in a contest for a silver loving cup for the city which has the best report for the National Clean-up and Paint-up campaign, and this city's record for the program is viewed as comparable with that of any city in the state.

Mrs. Rollo is of a pioneer family, her grandparents, the late R. L. Dunman and wife, coming to Coleman more than 50 years ago. Dawson Awaits Census Report

Division Expected To Be Made In Tax Collector's And Sheriff's Offices; Outcome Is Doubtful

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, May 10.—Dawson county residents are awaiting the final official estimate of the federal bureau of the census on the county's population to determine if there will be two additional offices to vote for in the coming primary in July.

Under the state law, according to Owen C. Taylor, county and district court clerk, when the population of a Texas county passes the 8,000 mark, the office of court clerk is separated from that of county clerk. Counties with less than 8,000 population, have the two offices combined.

Similarly, counties with 10,000 population have the offices of sheriff and tax collector separated and combined for those with less than that number.

Seems To Be A Doubt

While most people believe that the county will show at least 8,000 population, there seems to be some doubt as to going above the 10,000 mark. Several candidates for the office of tax collector have announced, including Mrs. Joe L. Ray, present sheriff, who believes there will be a separation of the offices. Mrs. Ray does not care to be a candidate for sheriff. She is filling out her late husband's unexpired term by appointment.

Trial Of Pope, May 26 Holds Much Interest

Story Of Failure Of Bank In Southland To Be Unfolded In Trial; Special Term Scheduled

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, May 10.—One of the outstanding cases in criminal and civil jurisdiction in West Texas is to come before a special term of the Garza county district court the week of May 26 when the famous "Southland bank" cases are scheduled to be heard by Judge Gordon B. McGuire of Lamesa. The court will last two weeks and there will be a civil action to be heard, probably the second week, as well as the criminal cases growing out of the closing of the bank.

Cause To Be Revealed

The story of the failure of the bank will be unfolded as the cases are heard. Sentiment around Post is pretty well divided and there is a wide-spread interest over the entire South Plains country.

For some years the Southland bank, a private institution, was owned by John T. Herd, of Post, cashier of the First National bank of Post and well known in financial circles over the state. Last fall, about the first of October or the last of September, he disposed of his interests to John M. Pope, then of Littlefield. Herd owned the bank, lock stock and barrel and he sold it the same as he would any other business.

Leaves Bank and City

Pope assumed charge and operated the bank for about 60 days when one morning it failed to open. The previous afternoon, according to Miss Alice Hord, employed as assistant, Mr. Pope set the time lock on the vault for 72 hours ahead. He then left the institution and the city.

When Miss Hord, whose people are well known in Southland and vicinity, went to the bank in the morning she was unable to open the vault. Pope had disappeared.

Investigations resulted and later Pope surrendered to authorities. He was indicted by the Garza county grand jury in six cases growing out of the bank's failure, charged with violation of the state banking laws.

Bond amounting to approximately $30,000 was furnished by Pope and the trials set for the spring or March term. When they were called Pope asked for a continuance. This, Judge Gordon B. McGuire refused.

Judge McGuire then called a special term of the district court for the week of May 26, the term to last for two weeks. Cases against Pope were set for this week.

PREACHES ON CHURCH

The speaker gave full information on all questions asked, explaining in detail many things of a religious nature.

Saturday evening's sermon was on "The Mother of God," followed by the consecration of the entire parish to the Blessed Mother of God, the Virgin Mary.

Sunday morning all the Catholic people will receive Holy Communion at the Mass and a sermon on Holy Communion will be preached.

"The True Church of Jesus Christ" or "Why am I a Catholic?" will be the sermon at the closing exercises this evening at 8:00.

Dee Puckett and his Hubber diamond aggregation take to the road this morning to play the strong Southland outfit on the latter's home grounds his afternoon.

Last chance today for local golfers to qualify for the Lubbock Country club open golf tournament, airings for the three flights will be made tomorrow and match play will start either Tuesday or Wednesday. Thirty-five have already turned in qualifying scores and at least 15 additional rounds are expected to be played today, completing the necessary number of entries to assure three full flights.

* * *

There is a possibility that several extra players will be packed into the fourth flight, scores thus far indicating that the duffer division of the tournament will be overflowing. In the first flight, Jo Dick Slaughter and Don Mitchell appear to be the only ones who have even so much as a shadow of a chance to beat out Clinton Bussey for the championship. If the West Texas champion is right, neither stands more than an outside chance to win.

* * *

High winds have made low scores entirely out of the question for the past several days, but the niblicks are due for a break when match play begins this week. Yesterday's high wind and sand prevented any play over the country club course.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions yesterday, the Lubbock and Amarillo High school lads gave a neat demonstration of golf in their special match over the Meadowbrook course. The boys were getting some long drives and all in all the demonstration was far above the average. "Little Sled" Allen has all the earmarks of a first-class golfer, using all the clubs with the steadiness of a veteran. Old Sled has declared that his boy will never play baseball; instead he intends to make a real golfer out of him.

This Kentucky Derby, which comes off next Saturday at Churchill Downs, must be red hot. Chain Lightning, one of the numerous entries, is rated but a small chance to win. If there's anything under the sun faster than lightning, it must be the winner of the annual classic at the historic derby.

* * *

And speaking of the Kentucky Derby, with all its colorful setting and aristocratic atmosphere, did you ever stop to figure out where these filly owners find those names for the nags. Here are just a few of entries—Gallant Fox, Kilkerry, Devlin, Billy Champ, Gallant Knight, Peace Boy, Swinfield, Play Child, Hoover, Mutual Friend, Sam Woolridge, Chariot, Playtime, Stock Market, Bellsmith, Michigan Boy, Sydney, Winslow, Mike Carey, Ladrone, Maudlin, All Upset, Jack Spratt and others too numerous to mention.

Big Os Clings To Loop Lead

Eckhardt Slumps 23 Points During Last 7 Days But Continues To Pace Swatsmiths In Texas

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—Despite a slump of 33 points in the last seven days, Oscar Eckhardt of Beaumont, continued to lead Texas league batters at the end of the fourth week of the season. His letup in safe hits accompanied his team's slump of 107 points in the percentage column.

Brown of Dallas, improved his batting 17 points to take second position with a .400 mark. Blackerby, also of the Steers, in second place last week, dropped to last place among the leaders.

The 10 leaders:

Eckhardt, Beaumont, .440; Brown, Dallas, .400; Morrow, Houston, .389; Holley, Beaumont, .385; Munson, Waco, .365; Rye, .355; Crouch, Wichita Falls, .351; Blackerby, Dallas, .350.

Oscar Leads In Hits.

Eckhardt also led the league in hits, having a total of 44 for the season. Selph of Houston, with 42, and Wade of Beaumont with 41, followed in order. Stewart of Shreveport, led the two base sluggers with 12. Rye of Waco, Wade of Beaumont, Schinkel of San Antonio, Tavener of Fort Worth, Cox of Fort Worth and Stewart of Shreveport led in triples with three each, and Stuvengen of Waco and Bettencourt of Wichita Falls were tied in the lead in circuit clouts with 7.

Two Tie For Runs Scored.

Whelen of Shreveport and Wade of Beaumont were knotted at 28 each in runs scored, followed by Kauffman of Houston, and Easterling of Beaumont with 26. Hunt of Houston, drew away from two other players with whom he was tied last week, to take the lead in base stealing with 10.

Stout of Houston, won another game during the week to run his consecutive victories to five straight and led other hurlers. Barns of Beaumont and Tuero of Shreveport were tied for second place with four victories and one defeat. Stout, with 41, had the most strikeouts to his credit.

Qualifying Play Ends Today In Tournament

Three Flights Certain To Be Full For Play

Pairings For Match Play To Be Made Monday; Bussey Is Ranking Favorite In Battle For Honors

Qualifying play in Lubbock Country club's open golf tournament for local wanderers of the fairways will come to a close today when some fifteen additional golfers are expected to turn in scores for the 18-hole course.

Thirty-five have already qualified for match play in the preliminary tournament to the West Texas association tourney at Brownwood. Those in charge were certain last night that enough more would turn in scores today to assure three full flights for the championship play which begins Tuesday. Pairings will be made tomorrow.

Five Lack Nine Holes

At least five golfers who will be figured in the tournament have played but nine holes of their qualifying round. These will finish their full round today.

A blinding sandstorm prevented play on the country club course Saturday and if favorable weather prevails today the club site will be swarmed with players.

Mitchell Shoots 79

Don Mitchell set the pace in Friday's qualifying play, turning in a 79 for the 18 holes. E. Doherty was next with an 84. Other Friday scores are: P. W. Batchelder 94; L. H. Quinn, 89; G. Soash, 93; E. Dye, 100; W. Girand Jr., 103.

Clinton Bussey, holder of the West Texas association title, leads the field with a round of 70, two under perfect figures for the 18-hole course. This appears certain to take low medalist honors and Bussey is the outstanding favorite to capture the tournament championship.

Southwest Conference Track And Field Meet Is Postponed Until Monday; Rain Interferes

COLLEGE STATION, May 10. (AP)—A driving rain which began falling at noon today forced postponement of the annual track and field meet of the Southwest Conference here until Monday.

Faculty representatives of the conference who have been holding a series of sessions to work out conference problems delayed the decision until a late hour but agreed upon the postponement when the track was under water and there was no prospect of a cessation of the downpour.

Should Be Ready Monday

The opinion was general that the postponement would not affect the results Monday in as much as the track is well drained and, given a few hours of sunshine, will be in better condition as the result of the rain. In the preliminaries yesterday the track was a little soft and needed setting.

Coaches and athletic business managers of the conference in session adopted baseball and basketball schedules for 1931 and also drew up a constitution and bylaws, all of which were submitted to faculty representatives for approval. They re-elected Dr. R. N. Blackwell as president of the organization.

Faculty representatives spent a great part of the day considering schedules but on their program was a place for discussion of the investigation of athletic conditions in the Southwest Conference schools, particularly of means of financing it.

At a meeting last night, Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the conference, announced an investigation already was under way and would be prosecuted vigorously. Agitation in this connection began after the famous report of the Carnegie Foundation, which charged subsidizing of athletics throughout the country.

Running Again
Leland After Job As Student Head

FORT WORTH, May 10.—(Special)—Cy Leland is running again, but this time in a different role from that of a dash man on the cinder path. He is a candidate for president of the student body of Texas Christian University. The election will close in the chapel period Monday, May 12.

Leland is active in extra-curricular work on the T. C. U. campus other than taking part in the junior play, "Come out Of The Kitchen," and is a sports writer on The Skiff, campus publication. Leland was sports editor during basketball season, but relinquished his duties during the track season because he is modest about writing of his laurels. Leland's major study is journalism.

Aside from the regular school work, Leland is sponsoring a collegiate cruise through the Caribbean Sea which will occupy his time during the summer after he runs for the last time this season at the Intercollegiate Track Meet in Chicago June 6 and 7.

Longhorns Face Crucial Series With Frog Nine

AUSTIN, May 10. —(Special)—Each of the remaining series of baseball games that the University of Texas Longhorns will engage in between now and the last game with the Texas Aggies on May 21 will be a bitter fight. None will surpass the crucial series with T. C. U. Frogs on this coming Monday and Tuesday when the Longhorns entertain the North Texas invaders in Austin for two games that should go a long way in determining the championship.

At present "Dutch" Meyers' Texas Christian diamond artists are heading the procession with the Longhorns, just home from winning eight out of 10 games on the road. Texas has six games left unplayed —two each with T. C. U., S. M. U. and the Texas Aggies. On the other hand T. C. U. has nine yet to play among which are three games with the Texas Aggies at College Station, two with Texas in Austin and four with the Rice Owls.

Should Texas be able to take both games from the Horned Frogs in the series next week, a long step toward the nineteenth conference title for Texas under Coach Billy Disch would be taken. The Frogs are, however, announcing to the world that this is their year and so far have made good their announcement by keeping the lead at this late date in the race.

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—What was expected to prove the crucial series of Southwest conference baseball race was to start here Monday as Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs invade the coral of the University of Texas Longhorns for two games. T. C. U. is leading the pennant chase with the University of Texas only a few points behind.

Amarillo High Golfers Lose To Westerners

Moody Smith And Mates Stroke Way To Decisive Triumph Over Old Rivals In Match Here Saturday

Lubbock High school golfers won a decisive decision over their staunch Amarillo rivals here Saturday afternoon by taking three out of four matches played over the 18-hole Meadowbrook course north of the city.

Manson Allen, son of the well-known Sled Allen, former Lubbock baseball manager, captured the only match for the invading high school club wielders when he defeated Carl McCarty six up and five to go. The younger Allen displayed a well-controlled tee shot and his approaches were unusually accurate.

High Winds a Handicap

The contest between the ranking teams of Lubbock and Amarillo High schools was played in the face of high winds and a blinding sandstorm. Despite the unfavorable golfing conditions, the high school lads played a consistent brand of golf throughout the 18 holes.

Moody Smith, captain of the Lubbock team, turned back Stanley March, leader of the Sandy forces, on the 16th green, winning 5 and 3. In March Smith encountered a southpaw with a hefty tee swing. Curtis Scharnburg won over Jay Wagner, 4 and 3, and Frank Smith was extended to the twentieth hole to take James Earhart, 1 up.

Meet Again 17th

The Westerner niblicks will meet the Sandies in a return match at Amarillo next Saturday. E. M. Barnett, sponsor of the Lubbock High school golf club, plans to take two teams on the Panhandle invasion. A match with Panhandle City Friday may precede the return engagement with the Amarillo troupe.

There are 45 members of the local post, all of them active in its work.

POLL TAXES TOTAL GOOD

Dawson County Has 3,295 Voters Registered

LAMESA, May 10—(Special)—Poll taxes paid by voters of Dawson county up to January 31, 1930, number 3,295 receipts, Mrs. Susie Ray, sheriff and tax collector, announced.

"There were over 3,200 poll tax receipts written in 1928" Mrs. Ray explained. I think it was 3,325 or 3,326. I cannot say which.

"We think this is a pretty good number this year, for it being only a state election."

Jones Gains Uncanny Control Over Shots by Keeping Left Elbow Straight

Last spring a professional by the name of Alex Morrison came to Columbus. Perhaps I should call him an actor, because he had an act at one of the theaters, in which he displayed some trick golf shots.

At any rate, he had several reels of slow-motion pictures of golf stars in action. They were not posed pictures, the players being in competition and unaware that their strokes were being photographed.

In these slow-motion pictures, one could pick out the differences in the ways the various players made their swings. Most of us noticed one thing in those reels—that Bobby Jones hit the ball differently than all of the others.

I think every professional, at least in this country, believes a straight left arm is essential to a good golf swing. Most players, however, allow the elbow to "break" just the least bit to get away from absolute rigidity.

Bobby Jones does not. When he hits the ball, his left elbow is perfectly straight. Of all the players in Morrison's collection, and it included most of the widely known golf stars, Bobby was the only one whose left elbow remained perfectly straight.

That, I think, is the reason he hits such a tremendous wood shot and also why he has such remarkable control over all his shots.

THIS GAME AND THAT

Stanley Coveleskie was a Pole and a pitcher and a coal miner. Peter Jablonowski is pitching for the Indians, one of the teams Stan used to fling his spitter for, and Pete is a Pole, too, but not a coal miner. Peter is a piano player, with a leaning toward Chopin.

Peter Jablonowski goes into the hotel ballroom of a morning and pours out his heart on the piano. Shades of Rube Waddell and Bugs Raymond!

Stanley Coveleskie used to say:

"If I only could get a crack at them New York Giants!"

Peter Jablonowski says:

"I like physichology. It opens up new philosophical concepts. Quite interesting."

The ball players asked him the other night to tear off a few blues. He wouldn't do it. He would give them a little Rachmaninoff, though, if they desired to listen to some music. They didn't. They went over to the poolroom instead and Peter went up to his room and read a bit of physichology.

Next day he went out and pitched against the St. Louis Browns and allowed five hits.

AN OFF-YEAR TIP

Flying Heels, Sarazen II and Dedicate have been withdrawn from the Kentucky Derby. These three, especially Flying Heels, were expected to be contenders. That leaves the field with hardly an outstanding popular choice, unless it be Gallant Fox, with Earl Sande up.

The year 1925 was regarded as an "off year" in the Derby, too, with no great outstanding candidate. Gifford Cochran's Coventry had smacked them over in spectacular fashion in the Preakness and was pretty well liked, but aside from that, there were no overwhelming popular choices such as Bubbling Over, Whiskery and Reigh Count were.

"NOT MUCH HOSS"

Earl Sande went to Louisville that year without a horse to ride. He happened to meet the owner of Flying Ebony the night before the race, and was given the mount. Flying Ebony was a field horse.

They figured Flying Ebony as "not much hoss." He wasn't heard from much after that Derby.

But the jockey who rode him is being heard from again this year. Sande will be in the Derby. It's an "off year." Which, according to Bert Collyer's chronicle, ought to be 'Nuff sed."

Lefty O'Doul Sets Pace In National Loop

Philly Outfielder And 11 Other Senior Sluggers Boast Averaves Above .400; Paul Waner Second

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—With Frank O'Doul of the Phillies, last year's national league batting champion, in the lead, eleven regulars representing six National league teams have hit at a clip of .400 or better to split up the slugging honors. Official averages, including last Wednesday's games, show O'Doul in his accustomed post with an average of .500. Paul Waner of Pittsburgh is second with .493 and Babe Herman of Brooklyn third with .465.

Waner is given first honors in two departments and second in another while Herman tops the list in three respects and is second in total hits. The Pittsburgh star has made 34 hits to tie with Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn in this respect. Herman's total is 33. Waner also has stolen six bases and is tied with Kiki Cuyler of Chicago.

Tie In Runs Scored

Herman and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh have scored 19 runs apiece, one better than Waner's total, and another Pittsburgher is tied with Herman with 22 runs batted in. George Fisher of St. Louis is one behind. The Brooklyn Babe also is one of six sluggers who lead in home run hitting with five apiece.

Jake Flowers of Brooklyn and Chick Hafey of St. Louis have hit nine doubles apiece to head that column while Suhr has outdistanced all rivals in hitting three baggers by clouting five.

Behind the three batting leaders, among the players who have been at bat 35 times or more, come Reese, New York, with an average of .462; Stephenson, Chicago, .432; Fisher, St. Louis, .426; Klein, Philadelphia, .409; Terry, New York, .403 and Frederick, Brooklyn, Comorosky, Pittsburgh and Lopez, Brooklyn, tied at .400.

Giants Top Hitters

The New York Giants have risen to the top of the team batting averages with a .333 mark, leading Pittsburgh by six points. Cincinnati has pulled far ahead in club fielding with a .981 average.

Benne Frey of Cincinnati has won his way to the lead of the league's pitchers by winning three consecutive games, two of them by shutouts. No other undefeated pitcher has more than one victory to his credit. Of the hardest workers, Harry Seibold of Boston and Pat Malone of Chicago lead with four victories and one defeat, each.

Dal Paso Hotel To Be Improved

(By Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, May 10.—Addition of a third floor, to contain 29 rooms will be made to the Dal Paso hotel, A. A. Hutton, owner of the building and hotel announced today.

Bids on the work are to be asked the latter part of May, Mr. Hutton said. Plans have been drawn and an architect's drawing is on display in the hotel.

Present Unit Modern

The present structure has been built for several years. It is modern, with 18 single rooms, ten double rooms and ten baths. The hotel is well known among the traveling public of the state and especially among West Texans.

"We have enjoyed a nice business since I took over the hotel the first of last month," Mr. Hutton said in announcing the proposed enlargement. "Business is on the increase and I believe Lamesa and this section will have a very prosperous year. We need more room at the hotel and by fall we will need still more. Now is the time to get it."

To Have 29 Rooms

The addition will include 23 single rooms and six double rooms. There will be five shower baths and bath rooms for many of the other rooms.

Each room in the new part will have a telephone and there will be a private switch board.

The hotel proper is 50 feet wide by 150 feet long. In the east end on the ground floor is located the union bus depot handling three stage lines. A beauty shop occupies the corner room. On the west side is drug store in the corner, with a barber shop next door. Adjoining on the north is a cafe, connected by a door.

Mr. Hutton formerly owned a hotel building in Lubbock, his home for many years. He traded that building for the Lamesa building last December but did not take charge until April 1 of the operation of the hotel.

Mrs. Hutton and the children are expected to arrive after school is out in Lubbock.

Tommy Oliver Boosts Average 57 Points To Grab Lead In American League Hitting; Indians On Top

CHICAGO, Ill., May 10. (AP)—Tommy Oliver, discovered by Philadelphia Athletic scouts down in Arkansas and then sold to the Boston Red Sox, is the latest ascendant to leadership in the American league batting championship race.

Hitting safely one or more times in 16 consecutive games, the rangy Red Sox outfielder took the lead with a batting mark of .407 at the end of the third week of campaigning, unofficial averages including games of last Wednesday disclose. During the third week he hit better than .500 to boost his average 57 points. In 86 official times at bat, Oliver has hit safely 35 times.

Joe Judge, veteran Washington first baseman, also went on a hitting rampage during the third week, lifting his average from .311 to .386 and going into second place. Bill Cissell, White Sox second baseman, and Al Simmons of the Athletics, who were tied for first place a week ago, slumped and fell to third and fourth places with averages of .382 and .380, respectively. Other leaders were Jamieson, Cleveland, .379; Rice, Washington, .378; Foxx, Philadelphia, .375; McManus, Detroit, .368; Myer, Washington, .366, and L. Sewell, Cleveland, .365. Joe Burnett, Cleveland infielder, was hitting at a .459 clip but was not counted among the leaders as he has batted but 37 times.

Indians Lead At Bat

Cleveland boosted its team batting average from .301 to .302 to lead the league again, while the Red Sox took second place with .288. In team fielding, the Athletics jumped from fourth to first place with a .984 percentage. Detroit was second with .982.

"Lefty" Grove, slab ace of the Athletics, finally got going during the week, starting and finishing two more games to get into the tie for pitching honors with three victories and no defeats. Clint Brown, sensational Cleveland rookie, barely escaped defeat during the same period and remained in a tie with Grove, Hogsett of Detroit and Marberry of Washington. Grove stretched his strikeout string to 35, the longest in the league.

Hospitals To Observe Day Here Monday

National Hospital Day Will Be Observed Monday By 2 Institutions Here; Will Be Open To Visitors

The Lubbock sanitarium and the West Texas hospital will open doors in this city Monday for public inspection in annual observance of National Hospital Day, the birthday of Florence Nightingale, who was born in Florence, Italy, May 12, 1820.

Approximately 1,200 citizens of the South Plains registered at the two institutions last year when all departments of the humanitarian organizations were shown the visitors.

Nurses will escort the visitors through the buildings and explain the different departments from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

First observance of Hospital Day was May 12, 1921. The suggestion that this day be set apart for making people better acquainted with their hospitals was warmly supported by the late President Harding. Since then the yearly observance of the day has received more and more hearty cooperation. From the United States and Canada the idea has spread to England, where the Prince of Wales has expressed his interest, and to China, where the day is being used to break down prejudices of the natives.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The sport balloon sailed round and round. Somebody cried, "Look at the ground. It's far, far down below us. Gee, I'd hate to drop from here. As long as this balloon will run around 'twill be a lot of fun." Then Scouty said, "Don't worry, 'cause there's not a thing to fear.

"The pilot knows his business, lad, and really, you should be real glad that you were taken on this ride. There's no cause for alarm. As long as we are brave and bold and do exactly as we're told I feel that I can promise you that we'll come to no harm."

"You're right, my boy," the pilot said. "Just look at clouds up over head, instead of looking at the ground. Then you will be all right. 'Twill make you dizzy if you glare because of space that's there. And, anyway, the clouds, I think, are quite a pretty sight."

The Tinymites took his advice and found the sky scenes very nice. The pilot then exclaimed, "As long as we are up in air and all the breeze seems blowing right, I'll take you to a thrilling sight. The Berlin Stadium is near. We're heading right for there."

They reached the stadium real quick and then the pilot's clever trick took all of them right down to earth. They jumped out on the ground. "We're in the stadium," cried one. "Oh, this will be a lot of fun." Not far away some German girls, in track suits, soon were found.

"Oh, look!" cried Scouty, "It's a race. Come on, let's find a real good place to watch them run." So to the grand stand they all promptly tore. They found a spot with real good view and then, the next thing that they knew, the girls began to race, which made the Tinymites all roar.

(By Staff Correspondent)

AMHERST, May 10.—Lamb county this year will have a fair for the first time, with what was started as a local project becoming a county wide affair.

Purchase of a 40 acre tract of land, partly within the city limits of Amherst, was announced by Robert L. May, poultry demonstrator and publicity director. At the same time capital stock of the association was increased from $2,000 to $8,000.

Association Chartered

Last December the association was chartered, with C. V. Harmon as president, Frank Rodgers as secretary-treasurer and Robert L. May as publicity director.

The directors this week met and decided to ask for bids to construct buildings to handle the agricultural, poultry, cattle and sheep and swine deparments. Superintendents will be named later.

Directors Named

Each community in Lamb county is to be asked to name a director to assist in handling the business.

Local directors include: C. V. Harmon, Church Edgen, J. H. Bradley, R. L. Mayz, and C. A. Duffy.

The site was grubbed off and a race track probably will be built.

Winter Wheat Is Boosted Saturday

CHICAGO, May 10. (AP)—Forced upward by a surprising reduction in official estimates of expected yields of domestic winter wheat this season, wheat prices today finished at substantial gains. Besides the bullish effect of the government crop report, private crop advices late today from the southwest indicated that not only has wheat growth failed to improve since recent rains but instead has suffered deterioration. Prospects of a notable falling-off in the United States wheat visible supply total on Monday tended also to lift values.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1 3-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-8c off to 1-2@5-8c up, oats 3-8@7-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

Profit Taking Obstacles Are Jumped Easily

Net Gains Of Two To Seven Points Brought To Many Of Prominent Shares During Sprint At Close Of Mart

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—The stock market numbly surmounted the obstacle of week-end profit-taking today and closed with a sprint that brought net gains of two to seven points to many of the prominent shares.

Today's sales were 1,880,450 shares against 4,867,530 a week ago when the recent decline was speeding under full sail.

Speculative activity for the advance began in the utility shares, but soon overflowed into the industrials and specialties.

The decrease of 216,433 tons in the steel corporation's backlog was somewhat larger than predicted, but the drop had been well discounted by the stock, which gained 3 points, closing at the top price of 172 3-4.

Copper shares acted well on reports of increased buying of the metal. Anaconda and Kennecott rallied about 2 points each and Chile gained 4.

Martial Law Declared at Sherman by Moody Following Mob Violence Friday

ty yesterday and made attempt to take one indicted for a felony, and in their efforts destroyed the orderly proceedings of a regularly and legally constituted district court. When the sheriff resisted the attempts, members of the mob committed the offenses of murder and arson by setting fire to the courthouse and destroying the life of the prisoner.

"The mob then engaged in an outburst of vandalism and acts constituting arson; officers and members of the national guard were illegally assaulted.

Threats Reported

"Reputable citizens and officers of Sherman, including Judge B. M. Carter, have reported to me that the mob threatened to form again to the further danger to lives of citizens and endangering the safety of citizens, and have advised that a declaration of martial law is essential to the preservation of law and safety; and there is imminent danger of riot and breach of the peace.

"Therefore I, Dan Moody, governor of Texas, do declare conditions above described do exist and are clearly violative of the constitution and do declare martial law in that territory, effective at 10:30 p. m."

Claim Youths Shot By Members Of Mob

SHERMAN, May 10. (AP)—Col. L. E. McGee, commanding national guardsmen patroling the town here, declared tonight that investigation today revealed that two boys shot last night in a mob demonstration here were not injured by bullets from the guns of guardsmen.

He said Dr. C. D. Strother, county health officer, had reported that the bullets extracted from the boys' wounds were lead bullets.

Mob Given Blame

In view of this, Col. McGee said it appeared a certainty that the boys were struck by wild shots fired by members of their own mob. Since cartridges used by the guardsmen all had steel jackets.

Furthermore, he added, the guardsmen were under strict orders to fire into the air and not to shoot into the crowd, during the melee in front of the jail last night.

The injured youths were reported tonight to be recovering in a Sherman hospital.

Additional guardsmen arrived this evening, bringing the total to 42 officers and 377 enlisted men called here before Governor Moody issued his martial law proclamation, effective at 10:30 p. m., tonight.

Guardsmen Patrol Streets Of Sherman

SHERMAN, May 10. (AP)—Col. L. S. Davidson of the Texas national guard declared here early tonight that "martial law was not contemplated" for Sherman as a result of yesterday's rioting.

Col. Davidson made this announcement after a merchant who had attended a mass meeting had told newspaper men that it had been decided at the conference to request Gov. Dan Moody to place this city under martial law.

The merchant also said the business men had agreed to close their stores at 6 p. m. in an effort to keep crowds from gathering on the street after dark.

Fourteen men have been arrested in connection with the rioting and were held in the county jail, guarded by 100 troopers. Rumors were prevalent that attempt would be made to liberate them.

At 7 p. m. most of the stores were closed and a fair Saturday night crowd was on the streets, although well scattered.

No charges had been filed against those under arrest, and Sheriff Vaughn said none would probably be placed until feeling had subsided further. The officer pointed out that the destruction of the courthouse would hamper civil bodies.

The regular grand jury meets May 19 and there were no indications of a special term.

Justice of the Peace W. M. Blaylock held at an inquest that George Hughes, negro, whose attack on a white woman last Saturday incited the crowd to rioting, died by "suffocation while confined in a steel vault of the courthouse."

Tonight Col. McGee stationed a unit of guardsmen around the negro brick school house.

Three men with machine rifles were stationed on each corner of the courthouse square tonight and neither automobile traffic nor pedestrians were permitted to go within a block of the jail. Col. McGee had instructed his men to permit no loitering of pedestrians on downtown streets during the light.

To Prevent Rescue

This was believed to be a precaution against a possible attempt to rescue the men held there in connection with last night's rioting. The entire town was being patrolled by troopers, particularly the negro quarter.

Sherman was virtually a "closed town" for the night, virtually all stores being closed.

"We're going to protect property and life," Col. McGee declared, after issuing night orders to his men.

Randolph Bryant, United States district attorney, offered Col. McGee the assistance of the United States marshal's office if it were needed.

Moody Says Action Of Mob "Treason"

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—Declaring the action of the mob at Sherman in firing on national guardsmen, sent to that city yesterday to quell the rioting that marked the attempt of the state to bring to trial George Hughes, negro, on a charge of criminal assault on a white woman, was tantsmount to treason, Gov. Dan Moody today stated that every effort of the state would be bent toward bringing the ringleaders to justice.

Moody stated the national guards were sent to Sherman to enforce peace, that they were under government orders and wore the uniform of the United States army and the action of the mob in firing on them was treasonable.

Texas Tornado

of Central and South Texas Saturday night were battling flood waters that resulted from storms that in one instance was again classified as a tornado.

The heaviest rain since 1921, when 100 were drowned in flood waters of the Little river, fell in the vicinity of Temple, causing streams to leave their banks and damage farm lands and halt highway traffic.

Six Inches Recorded.

Near Mexia the heaviest fall in seven years was recorded. Six inches fell in that section, forcing streams beyond their banks and washing out bridges and destroying railroad trackage.

Cloudbursts at Mart and Marlin, near Waco, caused streams in that section to leave their banks and flood lowlands and damage highways. Seven inches of rain fell at Mart, causing sections of that city to be flooded.

Support Urged Of Farm Board

Farmers' 16 Years Effort To Gain Recognition Reviewed Saturday In Monthly Meet Of County Bureau Here

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor

A plea to farmers for active support of the Federal Farm board, in its program for agricultural aid, and a review of the 16 years' effort made by farmers to get present day recognition, were features of two talks made before members of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau, at that organization's regular monthly meeting held Saturday afternoon in the courthouse.

The Bureau went on record as urging a large attendance at the state district convention of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, to be held in Plainview next Wednesday and Thursday, and the meeting to be held in Lubbock next Friday afternoon when Sam H. Thompson, of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation will speak to a gathering of farmers. President W. M. Ross, of the Lubbock county bureau, was elected voting delegate to the Plainview gathering, and Robert Pace, H. J. Bower, J. O. Burford, N. H. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pounds, Ches Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Revier, J. L. Benton, J. W. Nesbit, George C. Cooper, James Burroughs, T. M. Nelson, Bob Crump, Mrs. C. Z. Fine, Mrs. C. E. Merrell and Mrs. W. M. Ross, were elected non-voting delegates.

Seek Representation

An effort will be made to have every community in Lubbock county represented at Plainview.

"The state board of directors has many great problems to contend with during the coming year," said R. E. Overstreet, retiring director. "The vicious attacks and verbal assaults aimed at the Federal Farm board for the past several weeks prove the finest endorsement of success for that body. If the opponents of agricultural prosperity keep up their attacks, it will do more good for our cause than anything I can imagine.

Mr. Overstreet said that there could be no real farm relief until the farmers own all their facilities for handling their commodities. He expressed the hope that every South Plains farmer will back the Federal Farm Board. "If the farmers will back the Farm board, our own directors and the association for the next three years, we will have an entirely different condition for agriculture to report. If they do not back them, the Farm board can't do anything."

H. J. Bower Talks

H. J. Bower, professor of agronomy in the Texas Technological college school of agriculture, declared that the present time for the co-operatives is "perhaps the darkest hour just before dawn." He likened the organizations to passing through their infancy and stated that the time is coming when the cooperatives will be as strong as the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"It has taken 16 years for the cooperatives to grow to where they are today," he said.

A short talk by Earle B. Davis, of Acuff, newly elected director of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, in a short talk, declared that it was his opinion that a brighter day is just ahead for agriculture.

C.-C. Officials of the exhibit. A committee, composed of L. A. Wilson, of Slaton; Scott Ross, Floydada, and George Samson, Post, will work with Mr. Reeves.

Change in procedure of handling resolutions before the convention this year at Abilene, was outlined by the general manager. Under the new plan a central committee will receive all resolutions. There will be champions for the proposal from each district and votes will be made on roll call.

Resolutions Scheduled.

Several resolutions are scheduled to be presented, one for a tariff on raw products in West Texas, one favoring the farm board, another for a highway bond issue. A proposed tax on West Texas resources also was mentioned. In this connection Mr. Bandeen spoke at length on the tax situation in this section.

Those who attended Saturday's meeting were J. E. Shelton, Brownfield; M. P. Leamey, Matador; D. R. Granberry, Spur; G. W. Ross, Floydada; A. V. Bullock, Ralls; L. A. Wilson, Slaton; G. W. Samson, Post; Jim Edwards, Turkey; Maury Hopkins, Plainview, and A. B. Davis, Lubbock. Visitors included Ray Haynes, Floydada editor; Hubert L. Jones, Dr. A. C. Surman and T. R. Greenfield, Post. Expressions of those present indicated that large delegations are expected from each city in this territory to the Abilene gathering.

Edward M. Reulbach, Chicago National League team, Sept. 26, 1908, shut out Brooklyn in both games of a doubleheader.

Women Students At Texas Tech Plan Grounds For Camping And Recreation

WITHIN ten years the women of Texas Technological College will have some grounds where they can hold meetings, picnics, swimming parties and enjoy all kinds of out of door sports, if the present plans and day dreams of the various women's organizations materialize.

But the first arrangements and use of the grounds will be very soon, possibly within the next year.

Payment Plan Offered

The basis of all these plans is the right of refusal of from 7 to 10 acres of land located in the Yellow House Canyon about 1 and one-half miles north of the campus until June 1, when if the land is purchased, the first payment will be due. The determination to purchase the land was voiced by the women students on a picnic held on the grounds and sponsored by the organizations of the college. After the first payment has been made, the money for which is being raised by girls dances and other plans, the payments will be divided over a period of years so that the burden of them will not fall too heavily on any one group of students. The details for further investment are in the hands of a committee of students and faculty members.

The project is made possible through the organization known as the Association of Women Students, composed of the Women's Athletic Association, the Woman's Forum, Arena Ritas, Las Leales, Home Economics Club, Girls' Glee Club, Y. W. C. A.

Other Schools Have Sites

Similar camp sites are owned by the University of Texas and other schools of a co-educational nature. Indefinite as the plans for the camp are, leaders are sure that a camp house with adequate facilities for holding large meetings in the assembly room, small individual rooms to be kept up by individual clubs, all sorts of courts for out of doors games and a swimming pool will be provided.

Lizzie Belle Clements, president of the Association of Women Students is in charge of the movement.

Dean Mary W. Doak, dean of the women of the college, has said that the camp is at present merely a dream but that within a few years, with the proper cooperation of the girls of the college, it will not be long until the dreams are a reality.

In her idea of the camp there is much shrubbery and other things to make the site beautiful. "If it is not possible," she said, "to make the first buildings permanent, we may be able to use tents or some other temporary structures for the first year or two, so that when we have really built a desirable structure it will be lasting."

(By Staff Correspondent)

LORENZO, May 10—Lorenzo high school will have an unusual honor this year in having two honor students, both of whom have tied for scholastic honors, not only this year but for several years past.

Average grades so far this year for the two is 88 1-4.

Business And Professional Men Say That Women Should Back New City Auditorium

Structure Containing Club Rooms For Both Women And Men, As Well As Auditorium For Larger Gatherings, Would Meet Need, It Is Said

HOLLYCE SELLERS
Editor Of Woman's Page

THE QUESTION of a Woman's Club house, or of a regular place to hold meetings, entertainments, and conventions, possibly is the greatest problem to be faced by the women of Lubbock at the present time. Last week, a number of club presidents were interviewed, and all were of the opinion that the time had come to build a club home or to find some solution for the ever-increasing need of a gathering place.

This week a new angle of the question is presented, this time by a group of business and professional men of the city. The proposition is that the women, instead of building a club house, support a bond issue to provide funds for building a city auditorium containing club rooms.

Opinion Of Mayor

"With the women of the city behind a bond issue," said Mayor J. J. Clements, "I see no reason why it should not carry. A city auditorium is greatly needed by Lubbock, and it would care for the needs of women in their club work, as well as for other gatherings."

"There is a very definite need for a good auditorium in Lubbock," said Dean James Gordon, dean of men at Texas Technological college. "My idea would be to have one large auditorium, and in connection with this in the same building to have a smaller auditorium and club rooms for both men and women. Such a structure would be of benefit to all of Lubbock, and all of the city should have a part in paying for it. A bond issue would be the proper way to handle the situation."

Is Great Undertaking

"Voting bonds for the building of a city auditorium is a great undertaking," said O. L. Slaton, president of the First National Bank, "and the women might come nearer raising money for a club house. However, the support of the women would mean much to the voting of bonds, and with their help the undertaking might be successful."

Klett Makes Statement

That the better plan would be for the women to support a bond issue for a city auditorium was the opinion expressed by E. L. Klett, local attorney. "There is a general depression in business that would make the voting of bonds difficult at the present time," he said, "and it might be wise to wait awhile before beginning such an undertaking. It is true, however, that the building is needed, and the support of the women would mean a great deal."

Judge Clark M. Mullican, president of the Kiwanis club, was of the opinion that the women should back the building of a city auditorium, containing club rooms, and that such a building is the greatest need of the city at the present time.

Says Women Can Succeed

"The women of Lubbock can do anything they undertake," said M. H. Duncan, superintendent of the Lubbock public schools. "It would be the better plan, I believe, for the women to support a bond issue for an auditorium. An auditorium would be an asset to the city, and the women can put the thing over."

"No bond issue has ever been defeated that the women were behind," said R. W. Matthews, principal of the high school. "Either the auditorium of the club house would be a great thing, and I am not opposed to either."

Harmony Seen In Gowns And Jewels

Luxurious Jewels Worn With Simple Gowns; Couturiers And Jewelers Collaborate To Achieve Desirable Effect, Says Patou

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

PARIS, May 10—Jewelry plays as important a part in the modern woman's wardrobe as her gowns. There has always been a very decided fashion in jewels as in clothes but today it has become necessary that these two branches of luxury should collaborate.

The couturier needs the co-operation of the jeweler to achieve perfect harmony. Without each other, they are incomplete and that is why, for several seasons now, I have studied the question of jewelry styles with such world-renowned jewelers as Van Cleef and Arpels.

The simple fashion of today, or rather, the fashion that produces gowns with an air of sophisticated simplicity, owing their chic to perfection of line and coloring rather than to any particular decorative medium, permit the wearing of elaborate jewels. But for all their sumptuousness, these jewels must invariably be conceived in the same spirit as the gowns themselves, which means that they must avoid fussiness and concentrate on exquisite workmanship.

As a fitting compliment to last year's styles, we had presented long, supple chains that were made to fasten on either shoulder. This season we decided that the "cravat" necklace, of an entirely new design, better harmonized with the line of today.

Jewels Complete Costumes

That the general trend of fashions exercises a great influence in jewelry styles is made even more manifest in the numerous instances where a certain dress would be incomplete without the jewels created for it and where they participated in a great measure in its creation.

Take the long evening gown, a feature of my present collection. In the majority of cases, pure white or unrelieved black in a dull surfaced fabric fashions the model. Although the line may be perfect, there would be something decidedly missing were it not for a jeweled pin placed at the edge of the decollete or a diamond buckle fastening the belt. Here the jewel supplies the note of brilliancy as well as the touch of color without which the ensemble might only achieve monotony.

The question of color is an important one so far as the new jewelry is concerned. This has been brought about to a great extent by the persisting vogue of black and white for formal wear, which explains the return to fashion of the emerald and the ruby. Rubies, by the way, are regaining a greater popularity than they ever enjoyed.

The day of the rigid necklace or bangle is as dead as the straight-up-and-down frock. As with fashions, suppleness is the aim of the master jeweler who creates bracelets as soft and pliable as ribbons, in color combinations undreamed of a few years ago.

Mrs. Edward Kneeland, Dallas, will also have an important part in the national convention, having been asked by the national life membership chairman to talk at the conference on life memberships, discussing in full the plan that Mrs. Kneeland has instituted in Texas with such fine results, Texas now having 1166 life members. Brown Is Smart And Practical For Accessory Color

BY LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Writer for Central Press

Spring and summer are the most colorful seasons of the year. This affects accessories in so far that contrasting accessories are smart. To many of us it would be impossible to match the color of the shoe, for instance to every frock. Perhaps the one exception to this is black, for with the black frock—and black is quite in the mode this spring—one can scarcely imagine anything but the black shoe, except for formal occasions. But the black shoe, especially of soft kidskin, which harmonizes so well with the silks and chiffons and light weight wools of spring and summer, is smart in contrast with other colors, as, for instance, gray.

Gray really needs something to give it character, and the return of the black glove does much to favor the black hat and shoes with the gray ensemble. The smart little suit in the center of the sketch is of a gray smooth surfaced cloth, with a pink shantung blouse flecked with black, and owes much of its smartness to black accessories. The hat is of black straw, matched in color by kid pumps and handbag, suede gloves and a fox scarf. The pink blouse, which is a charming contrast with both gray and black, furnishes the note of brighter color.

Navy Shoe Popular

While the neutral beige shoe fits into the picture for general wear with light colored costumes, natural straw hat, and handbag of beige in leather or fabric, the navy blue shoe will be quite in the limelight this spring for wear with navy blue ensembles, and in contrast to yellow. Navy blue kid is especially attractive in the opera pump with handbag to match, at the upper left of the sketch. Another pump and handbag combination, at the upper right, is of suntan beige kid, the handbag having a jade green clasp, which is repeated in a jade green fastening on the shoe.

Brown may have lost some of its prestige for suits and frocks, but it still goes strong for accessories. Paris reports the rise of dark brown accessories, consisting of hat, shoes, gloves and bag, with the lighter toned costumes. The brown accessories are worn with light greens, acquamarine, yellow, pink or beige. Either the bag and shoe at the lower left or the lower right of the sketch would be suitable for wear with any of these colors. That at the right is of brown kid and lizard, while that at the left is in combination of beige and brown.

"Maggie Fixes It," Three-Act Play, Will Be Presented Tuesday Evening

"Maggie Fixes It," a three-act play, will be presented Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Lubbock high school auditorium by members of the junior class of the school.

The play concerns a wreck which took place on the Main Line railroad that passes through Goldenburg and is full of comedy. Dale Golden, searching around in the wreckage, finds a girl soaking wet and clad only in pajamas. He takes her to his home and the play begins.

By a twist of circumstances, Dale finds out that the rescued girl is really a wealthy heiress who is running away from a distasteful marriage.

Maggie as a "fixer" provides much laughter. She manipulates Dale's love affairs, saves him from business ruin, and keeps the comedy humming.

Lubbock Little Theater To Present Last Play Of Season Friday Night; Byron Dickinson To Play Title Role

Lubbock Little Theater gives the final play of the season next Friday evening at the local high school auditorium when "The Show-Off," a three-act comedy written by George Kelly, is presented under the direction of Donald Murphy.

Heywood Broun, New York columnist, says of this production that it is "the best comedy written yet by an American."

The leading character, "Aubrey Piper" appears quite authentic as the play progresses. He is built up by degrees as a liar, a braggart and egotist but through it all he endures against the blows of circumstances.

Mr. Broun says of him that "Aubrey lives in a fantastic dream world of his own creation, but once built he stands by it. God himself has done no more."

Byron Dickinson Plays

The title role is played by Byron Dickinson who is outstanding in his portrayal of a son-in-law and "Show-Off."

Mrs. T. A. White who plays the role of Mrs. Fisher, the mother-in-law, has to endure the advice of "Be yourself" from Aubrey. She is outstanding in her role. Mrs. White directed the last two Little Theater plays and has appeared on the local stage in other presentations.

Other Characters

Clara, daughter of Mrs. Fisher, is played by Martha Alice Penney; Amy, the younger daughter, is Miss Lucille Gill; Frank Hyland, Clara's husband, is portrayed by C. W. Ratliff.

George Smallwood plays the role of Mr. Fisher; John T. Rhodes is Joe Fisher; Russell Hardin, Mr. Gill and the role of Mr. Rogers is taken by G. C. Jenkins.

This comedy ran for two years at the Playhouse Theater, New York City, and was considered the best comedy produced on Broadway during that time.

Woman Sheriff Has Charge Of Law Enforcement In Dawson County; She Is Serving In Post Of Late Husband

BY J. SAM LEWIS
(Staff Correspondent)

LAMESA, May 10—Dawson county boasts the only woman sheriff in West Texas if not in the entire state in the person of Mrs. Susie Ray, widow of the late Joe L. Ray, who died March 1, 1929, after he had served just two months on his second ter ms peace officer for the county.

A. M. "Buck" Bennett, her chief deputy and a deput,' under her late husband, said he had heard of but one other woman who had been named as peace officer of a county in the state.

"I had intended writing her to ask her if she was serving," Mrs. Ray said. "I heard she was appointed but never heard whether she had accepted the place or not. My understanding at the time was that she had not decided on accepting the place.

"Just One of the Boys"

Mrs. Ray is "just one of the boys" when it comes to serving papers, one of her deputies said. "She does not ask us to do anything she would not do," he continued.

During the recent term of district court when a special venire of 60 men was selected to hear the J. W. "Bud" Aiken murder trial, Mrs. Ray served some of the summonses for jury service. "All of the boys were busy and there were four to served with a summons, so I got out in my car and served them," she explained.

Most Popular Sheriff

Joe Ray was one of the most popular sheriffs of Dawson county. He was re-elected in the fall of 1928 and was on his second term when he died.

"I had helped Mr. Ray in his work and knew about serving papers" Mrs. Ray said when asked to tell how she came to become a peace officer. "Before he died, Mr. Ray told me all about his business affairs. He had some money coming from the county and he told me how to settle up his affairs with the county and just what to do.

"My work is to open the mail and keep the office. I watch all the letters that come in and distribute the papers to be served from out of the county. Then, in a few days, I ask whether those papers have been served or not. I keep a general watch on the entire thing.

Handles Office Details

"I handle all of the office details leaving the men free to do the outside work. But I can do it, and do do it from time to time. While my chief deputy, Mr. A. M. "Buck" Bennett, does handle a good deal of the court room work, because he is familiar with that, I do some when it is necessary."

Sheriff Ray has another deputy besides Mr. Bennett, Granville Wyatt, also a well known peace officer.

The sheriff is crisp and business like in her manner. She knows what to say and what not to say in talking to officers, attorneys, judges and the general public.

There is nothing frivilous about her. She is always quick and to the point, essentially feminine in appearance, yet with a wholesome, business-like way of doing things that has brought her the well deserved admiration of the people of Dawson county.

Mrs. Ray is not a candidate for sheriff and tax collector. She is, however, a candidate for tax collector.

Under the state laws, when the population of a county, as shown by federal census, exceeds 10,000, the office of sheriff and tax collector automatically becomes separated into two offices.

"We hope that the census will show the county has over 10,000 people here," Mrs. Ray said. "I am running for the position as tax collector. I believe that when the census count is announced it will be seen that there is that many people in the county."

A sparrow's wings make thirteen strokes a second while flying.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Let this be the reward of mine adversaries from the Lord, and of them that speak evil against my soul.

But do thou for me, O God the Lord, for they name's sake; because thy mercy is good, deliver thou me.—Psalms, cix, 20, 21.

ON MOTHER'S DAY

ANOTHER year has rolled around and this morning many ponderous editorials proclaim the fact that "Mother's Day" is here again.

In a thousand pulpits, learned masters of theology, in prettily phrased addresses, are chanting praises of Mother.

Millions today are wearing red and white flowers in memory or in honor of Her who gave each life, and on millions of tables are reposing choice gifts that Mother may be further pleased on Her Day.

Little niceties are being performed for Mother; efforts on the part of other members of the family is being expended that Mother may enjoy the brief twenty-four hours set aside as Her's and it's altogether very fitting and proper. But what does it mean?

It means just this:

Mothers whose husband and children revere, protect and consider Her throughout the year 'round are happy. Those so unfortunate to have families who forget Her and Her teachings on the other 364 days are impressed only with the mockery of the occasion. How is it in your home?

Those of us who are still blessed by the love and influence of a living Mother are doubly fortunate. We are fortunate to have our Mother with us—and fortunate in having the advice and counsel of those whose Mothers have pass over the Great Divide, that we whose Mother still live, may add to their brief pleasures and comforts before it is too late.

These Mothers of ours—may God bless them—exert the greatest personal influence in the world. To them, as a foundation stone, we owe our present civilization, our glories and our future successes. They deserve their Day—and more than that.

They deserve to be cared for and considered every day that Mother's Day may mean even more than an annual gesture of love and respect.

A QUARTER OF A MILLION

The statement of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick that she spent $252,572 in her successful campaign in the Illinois primaries for United States senator calls attention to the fact that since the federal corrupt practices act of 1910 was held unconstitutional insofar as it applied to primary elections, nothing has been done by congress to define the amount of money that can legally be spent in such campaigns. Congress, indeed, has virtually accepted the decision of the supreme court, that it has no control of primary elections, though two justices declined to go that far, and the composition of the court has changed considerably since then.

The inequality which the corrupt practices act of 1910 tried to ameliorate is thus still in operation. A millionaire can run for office with a great initial advantage over the candidate who has little or no money to spend. Mrs. McCormick herself realized this advantage, but in her statement to Senator Nye's investigating committee she attempted to minimize it by pointing out that she had no patronage to distribute—implying that Senator Deneen, her chief rival, was in control of a distribution of plums, and could thus rally votes without paying money to drum them up.

It is much to be doubted whether the power to give public office means as much in a campaign as it is the fashion to declare. Grover Cleveland said appointment to office made 10 enemies and one ingrate—a fair psychological reading. Certainly Senator Deneen's "machine," if he had one, proved very ineffective in delivering votes to him.

The only conclusion we can come to is that Mrs. McCormick was named in the primary because she had plenty of money to spend, and spent it freely. Even if she spent it legally; even if, insofar as she was concerned, we can accept her statement that not a vote was bought with it, nevertheless, the sum was too great to be spent even to save the United States from the World Court, an object which in her eyes would have justified an even greater outpouring of wealth.

The question remains, and is emphasized, whether the United States senate is to be the goal of people of wealth and leisure, simply because they can afford to spend huge sums for political organization, and is to be made almost impossible of attainment by persons of great ability but little money. If it is, then as a democracy we are through.

In the gradual process of making a new household appliance silent, ordinarily taking about five years, there comes an interlude when it sounds like a crooning band leader.

Of course it is human nature to want to keep up with the neighbors, and we are just thankful that none of ours is buying a battleship on easy terms.

Sometimes a politician can't tell the people where he stands because he is on the run.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS LETS SENATOR CALL SPEAKER LONGWORTH "TYRANT," MAKING RULE TO PERMIT IT.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART,
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Vice President Charley Curtis is an amiable an individual as there is in this country. When he smiles he fairly radiates good feeling toward everyone in his vicinity.

In the evident satisfaction he gets out of his position as presiding officer of the senate there is something naive and touching. He makes not the slightest effort to conceal the pride he takes in it. There is nothing the least bit overbearing about him, however; he simply is completely unaffected. Vice President Dawes glowered gloomily from the same rostrum, resentful of the parlimentary delays he was compelled to acquiesce in—of the bickering and debate he was powerless to put his foot down on. To Vice President Curtis, on the other hand, all this fancy sparring and footwork is just so much intensely interesting technique, which he enjoys up to the limit while he referees it.

Curtis has a real affection for the senate, and the senate probably never had a more popular presiding officer in history than Curtis.

* * *

The Indian of yore did not say much, when he felt that he had been injured, he bided his time.

Vice President Curtis, in true Indian fashion, kept his own counsel while last year's campaign for social precedence was at its height between Speaker Longworth's wife and the Kansan's half-sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, as head of the vice presidential household.

It was a campaign in which, as might have been expected, Mrs. Longworth had considerably the better of the fighting.

Mrs. Longworth conducted her side of it by the lorgnette method—that is to say, with the most dreadfully devastating, strictly modern weapons; Mrs. Gann along the lines of what in effete Washington, is deemed the rather primitive hospitality of Topeka, Omaha and the corn belt generally—equivalent to bows and arrows.

For Mrs. Gann, who resembles her brother in that she is exceedingly likable, there was a great deal of sympathy; but the swanky crowd predominates in the national capital—the honors were Mrs. Longworth's on points, unquestionably.

Yes, Vice President Curtis bided his time—until the other day, when Senator Norris, of Nebraska, took occasion to refer, in a speech before his fellow lawmakers, to Speaker Longworth as a "tyrant."

Now, there is a strict rule in each house of congress, that no member must say mean things about any member of the other house.

For example, a few days prior to Senator Norris' outburst, Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, in a paroxysm of orotorical fury, had spoken of the Republican national committee as "a Wall Street outfit," and of Col. John Q. Tilson, G. O. P. leader in the house of representatives, as its "waterboy"—and Curtis called him down for it instanter, made him quit and rebuked him severely.

Norris' jab at Longworth was worse, if anything—by reason of the latter's exalted official status—but the vice president nodded approvingly.

* * *

Senator Fess was scandalized—Longworth also being an Ohioan. "I rise," he cried, "to a point of order: the senator from Nebraska has just called the speaker of the house of representatives a 'tyrant'."

"He may do so," said the vice president, coldly.

"Well, that's not the rule," protested Fess, somewhat fretted.

Wham! down came the vice presidential gavel. Was the Hon. Charles Curtis smiling?—or radiating amiability? By no means. Swiftly as a bullet, in a rasp like a buzz saw hitting a knot, "I make it the rule," he barked, flourishing his—yes, his gavel—not his tomahawk. Was this the urbane Charley?

* * *

It tickled the senate pink—even Fess, when he had time to think about it.

They say Speaker Longworth intends to take especial pains not to let any of the representatives make the slightest disagreeable remark concerning Vice President Curtis—by way of returning good for evil.

That may be the white man's idea of sound policy; it is not the redskin's.

NATURALLY LEFT-HANDED COMPELLED TO USE RIGHT MAY DEVELOP SPEECH ILL

Stuttering

"DEAR DOCTOR: My nephew of 10 stutters badly, not every word, but often. His mother says he was left-handed and the family insisted on his using his right hand, and we have heard that this is the cause of the stuttering, so are afraid to change him back to using his left hand for fear of making the condition worse. What is your opinion? "MRS M."

There is quite a bit of evidence accumulating that naturally left-handed children who are forced to use the right hand (especially for writing) may develop some speech defect, or perhaps squinting or other muscle twitching. Not all left-handed children do this—it may depend upon the degree of left-handedness—but enough are so afflicted to make it a rule that left-handed children be allowed to use the left hand as they wish.

Dr. Samuel E. Orton believes that the attempt to make right-handed children of naturally left-handed ones is a dangerous proceeding, and is a fundamental physiological error.

I don't know whether your little nephew would be harmed or improved by having him now learn to use his left hand. I think it would be best for you to see a specialist in speech disorders. (We have an article on the subject which may help you some.)

Being left-handed should not be looked upon as abnormal, for it is not, even though 95 per cent of us use the right hand for acts requiring accuracy and attention and only 5 per cent use the left.

Left-handedness is known to have existed in pre-historic times, for some of the prehistoric implements show that they were made for left-handed persons. The cause of left-handedness is not known. Numerous theories, such as a greater development of the right side of the brain, imitation, habits, etc. have been thought of. The most probable cause is heredity. Some authors believe that right-handedness and left-handedness are remnants of our primitive ancestors, who, in their fights with beasts and each other, used either the right or the left hand. They believe the reason that there are so many more right-handed persons than left is that among users of the right hand there were more who succeeded in the struggle for existence, because they were more successful in fights, for with the left hand they protected the heart!

"Dear Doctor: I would like to know if it is advisable to take setting-up exercises if one has an organic condition of the heart, caused by rheumatism? MRS. L."

Exercise is a part of the treatment of organic heart disease after the acute stage has passed, but it must be graduated exercise fitted to the patient's needs and must be supervised by a physician. Do not try to take any exercises on your own. Mrs. L.

Can He Do a "William Tell"?

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC. BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer her jealousy over her handsome husband, ALAN. When he receives a phone call to the home of BERNADINE LAMONT, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He explains that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life.

The actress surprises Alan by requesting him to take BOBBY in the event of her death. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but her rebuffs silence him. Later he confides in his secretary, PHILLIPA WEST, who has been waiting and hoping for this opportunity to further her own schemes.

When Natalie next comes to the office, Phillipa engages her in conversation and talks gushingly about helping pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows her a letter from Bernadine in which Alan's visits to Bobby are mentioned. Natalie leaves in a rage without explaining the cause of her temper to Alan. He follows her home, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to his office to work. He finds Phillipa there and takes her out to dinner and then home.

The NORMANS invite Alan and Natalie for a week-end at their Lake Placid lodge, and this trip renews their love for each other. Phillipa realizes that she has lost her advantage with Alan and is furious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

The maid was in the kitchen gossiping with the cook, when Natalie rang the doorbell. She rang it furiously. The cook shook her head.

"Shure, and it's a temper she's in agin. Faith and I wonder what the dear man's been doin' now?"

The maid put down the cup cake she was eating, and scrambled to her feet.

"You said it, Hannah. When she's too sore to use her key, she's sore all right."

"Well, watch your step, young lady," the cook warned her, as she went to answer the repeated summons.

"I'll leave on the spot if she tries to take it out on me," the girl threatened over her shoulder.

Natalie had nothing to say to her. Frances was a well-trained servant, and Natalie knew her value. Besides, it was natural for Natalie to be pleasant when she was not suffering from jealous throes on Alan's account. Nor was it her habit to expend her ill-humor upon innocent persons, other than her husband.

* * *

Alan felt he needed someone's sympathy when he arrived. He caught a glimpse of Natalie before the fire in the living room, as he started upstairs. With a light-hearted gesture, he flung his hat and coat on a chest, and went in to join her.

Almost instantly he knew that something had happened. She looked at him, but her glance was cold. There was not a trace of welcome in her expression.

He halted a step or two away from her, and his desire to kiss her died as suddenly as the sight of her had inspired it.

Awkwardness seized him. He felt, for a moment, like a stranger in his own home. He had often tried to nalyze Natalie's ability to make him feel this way—as though he were guilty of some misdeed. He had come to believe that it was purely dread of a domestic scene.

And he had also decided that it was better to get it over with, since evading the trouble had never seemed possible. Sickening disappointment flooded over him, as he stood there and waited for her to speak.

She was so unutterably beautiful, even in anger. Her lovely lips were drawn out of shape, and her whole face was hard. But it was the hardness of feeling, and not of a stony heart. Bitter feeling though, and Alan hated it. He would have given his soul at that moment if he could have taken her in his arms, and found her as sweet as he knew she could be—provided she would never change again.

The hopelessness of such a dream lay in the smoldering fire of Natalie's eyes as she continued to stare at him.

Alan summoned all the courage he could muster. "Couldn't we put it off until after dinner?" he asked suddenly. "I'm terribly hungry."

The small-boy note in his voice tore at Natalie's heart, until it occurred to her that his concern was more for his food than for her. The thought was unjust, of course, but she was in an unreasoning mood.

"Put what off?" she asked icily.

"Why," Alan began, then laughed shortly; "it seems to me we always open our merry little wars in this fashion. I say 'let's wait,' and you say 'wait for what?' As if you hadn't already got me all laid out ready for the lily."

Natalie's eyes narrowed ominously, as the last of her self-control began to slip. "Your kind of humor," she said tensely, "is a poor thing to hide behind. But it's all the defense you have, isn't it? Certainly you can't seriously defend yourself."

Alan shrugged. The protective indifference that he so much deplored, and feared, was coming over him. That it threatened an end to his joy, he knew. But he knew, too that only a dog-like devotion could continue to live under the conditions that Natalie imposed upon him.

"You've already decided that I'm guilty," he said wearily. "Never mind the charges, whatever they are."

"Perhaps you're right!" Natalie cried, jumping to her feet. "There isn't anything you could say. If you like to cheapen yourself, and humiliate me, I suppose you'll go on doing it as long as I'll stand for it."

A trickle of anger penetrated Alan's new-found indifference. "That's laying it on pretty heavy, Natalie," he said sharply.

"Is it?" Natalie flung back at him. "Well, maybe you think it's an insignificant matter to sit before a whole roomful of women, and listen to one of them tell about the hit she'd made with your husband."

Alan's face portrayed his bewilderment.

"Don't stand there, trying to look dumb," Natalie flamed at him. "It's too easy for you."

Alan felt a little better. The matter was too ridiculous to be serious. "Someone was kidding you, Natalie," he said hopefully.

But Natalie refused to accept his explanation, or to believe, when she told him about Wanda Perry, his assertion that he hadn't given the woman a second thought.

Finally Alan gave up trying to convince her of his innocence, and told her almost in plain words to go to the devil.

* * *

The cook and the maid ate the choice parts of the chicken, and Hannah wondered if the Mr and Mrs. would make up, and be willing to eat chicken hash the next day.

"But I'm afraid their quarrelin' is soon goin' to be a habit they can't break," she predicted to Frances.

"We should worry if they don't eat," Frances returned, and helped herself to some more chicken. "You're sure a swell cook, Hannah. Think of her not touchin' a bite on that tray."

She referred to Natalie, who had refused the food Hannah sent up to her room, after Alan had talked out of the house, dinnerless, and seething with indignation.

Without thought of where he was going, he bent his steps toward the railroad station. But once there, he decided against following his nose any farther. That sort of thing belonged in the past. It was time he had a destination outside, when Natalie made the house unendurable for him, he concluded.

* * *

Up until the moment his eye fell upon the public telephone, he hadn't thought of anyone to help him forget his troubles, but then he did. Why not call up Phillipa?

Her voice fairly virbrated with pleasure, when he asked her if she had a free evening.

"We'll go somewhere and dance," Alan said "I want to be happy."

Phillipa laugher. "Why not The Rosebank?" she suggested. "That's where the wild thyme grows."

"Fine," Alan agreed. "I'll be a little late getting down. I'm still up in Hillshire, but there's a train in a few minutes."

"Oh, don't come down." Phillipa urged him. "I'll meet you uptown. At the station."

"That's great. Don't fail me."

Phillipa's answering laugh welled from the bottom of her heart.

Fail him?

She danced away from the telephone, and hurried to her clothes closet. She wished she had asked Alan about dressing. It wasn't obligatory at The Rosebank. Alan might be in his business suit, but . . . "I'm going to, anyway!" Phillipa decided, and reached for her prettiest evening gown.

Her only evening wrap she rejected, as being too elaborate for wear with an escort not in formal clothes. She chose, instead, her dressiest coat, a creation luxuriously furred with blue fox, which she had bought at a sale of used models. From her paper hatbox she brought forth a tissue turban to wear with it.

Having decided what she would wear, she moved swiftly to put the finishing touches to her complexion. A friend who lived in a rooming house, where an Egyptian lady dwelt grandly in the front parlor had obtained some kohl from her, and given a little of to Phillipa.

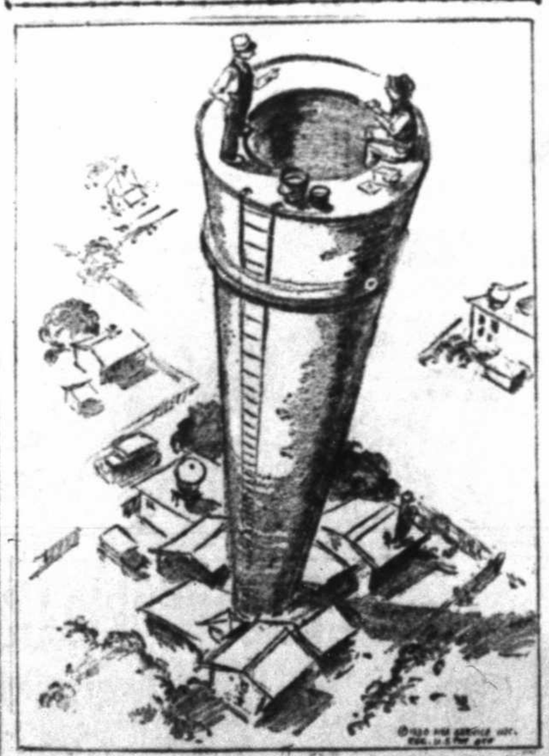

She had experimented with it until she knew how to apply it as effectively as the Egyptian. She got out the stick she used and put some on now. Then she rouged her lips into a perfect bow, cheating a bit on the natural outlines. She wanted to be vivid, unrestrained, to look tantalizingly abandoned.

Tonight the role of mouse would be laid aside. Her intuition, and what she had heard in Alan's voice told her that it wasn't a demure little playmate he wanted.

At last, ready to go, she took a final glance in her mirror. A slow satisfied smile wreathed itself about her red lips, as she turned away.

West Texas Being Advertised Over United States; Work Is To Start At Next Convention

Slogan, "West Texas, The Raw Material Capital Of The World" To Be Advertised; Towns To Cooperate

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

STANFORD, May 10. — As a means of acquainting the world with its slogan—"West Texas, the Raw Material Capital of the World"—and thereby stimulate development of the territory's resources, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has arranged for a cooperative advertising campaign to cover the entire United States, in which every town and city in the district can join with the regional organization for individual and collective exploitation.

An order has been placed by the WTCC for 100,000 sheets of fifteen lithographed stamps and for 300,000 four-color booklet covers as the start of the campaign. Distribution of the stamps and booklet covers will start at the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Abilene, May 29, 30 and 31, D. A. Bandeen, general manager announces.

Towns To Aid

All towns in West Texas will be asked to use the stamps and booklets. Each local chamber of commerce will sell the stamps to business and industrial establishments in the community served for use on all correspondence.

The booklet covers will have a special color design with sufficient blank space to allow each town to publish a distinctive piece of community advertising literature that will have an individuality and at the same time carry out the general idea of connecting each town using them with West Texas and the general campaign to advertise the territory, th general manager says.

Each of the fifteen stamps will carry the WTCC slogan and also call attention to some outstanding feature or fact of the section.

Approval of the plan has been accorded by a large number of commercial organization executives in West Texas and the chambers of commerce of Fort Worth, Amarillo, El Paso, Stamford, Graham, Coleman, and Sweetwater, together with the Wimberly-Hubbard Agency of Fort Worth, have joined the regional organization in sponsoring the undertaking.

All towns in West Texas, no matter how small, will be enabled, Bandeen declares, through this cooperative advertising campaign, to issue a booklet giving information about the community, with an outlay of money that can be afforded. The stamps will be sold at a low price, but one which will give a margin of profit over the cost and the difference will be used to pay for the literature, according to the plan of the campaign.

Nancy Carroll In "Honey" Headlines Local Movie Program

Star Of 'Sweetie' Will Be Seen Here In Latest Picture

Talkie Is Based On Famous Comedy Success

NANCY Carroll, the flaming-haired sweetie of "Sweetie" fame, is to be seen and heard in her second musical romance, and her second starring picture when "Honey" comes to the Lindsey Theatre Sunday.

"Honey" is based on the famous comedy success "Come Out of the Kitchen," by Alice Duer Miller and A. E. Thomas.

The cuddlesome Miss Carroll plays the role of the Southern girl, who is forced by circumstances to assume an Irish brogue and play the role of cook in her own plantation kitchen. Stanley Smith plays the role of Burton Crane, young scion of wealth, who falls in love with Nancy during a visit to her plantation. Smith was her college-boy sweetheart in "Sweetie."

In addition to Smith others in the big supporting cast are Harry Green, of "The Kibitzer" fame; ZaSu Pitts, whose dolorous helplessness as a "sap" character has brought roars of laughter in every one of the twelve talking pictures she has played in; Lillian Roth, who played opposite Lupino Lane in Maurice Chevalier's "The Love Parade;" Skeets Gallagher, of "Fast Company" and "Pointed Heels" fame; Mitzi Green, the nine-year old youngster, who scored a big hit in her film debut as one of the wise-cracking children in "The Marriage Playground;" Charles Sellon, the banker, and Mary Brian's father in "Burning Up," and Jobyna Howland, tallest woman of the Broadway stage, whose fame on the legitimate stage brings her this first chance as a character comedienne in the talking films.

"Lord Byron Of Broadway" Here

Screen Romance To Be Seen Today At Palace

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newest all-talking screen romance, "Lord Byron of Broadway," enhanced by songs, dances and striking Technicolor scenes, will open today at the Palace Theater. The picture which was adapted from the novel by Neil Martin achieves distinction in introducing to the screen Ethelind Terry, star of Ziegfeld's musical-comedy hit, "Rio Rita," and Charles Kaley, well-known Broadway juvenile recently featured in "Earl Carroll's Vanities."

The picture, a story of the rise of a cafe piano player to vaudeville matinee idol and his disastrous love affair with five show girls was directed by William Nigh and Harry Beaumont with the dialogue continuity in the joint hands of Willard Mack and Crane Wilbur.

Every Day Is Mother's Day For These Hollywood Motion Picture Actresses

1. Nancy Carroll, mother of a four-year-old daughter; 2. Lila Lee, mother of a five-year-old son; 3. Dolores Costello, whose baby, Dolores Ethel, is little over a month old; 4. Gloria Swanson, mother of a daughter, 9, and an adopted son, 7; 5. Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin and her two sons, Charles Jr. (left), and Sidney.

Number Of Stars Proud Of Tiny Children

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 10—Every day is Mother's Day for some of Hollywood's best known actresses.

More than one charming screen beauty is the adoring young mother of an attractive child.

Surprisingly enough, in view of the tremendously powerful spotlight of fame in which these actresses bask, little is known of their children. Most of them prefer to keep the children in the background, believing that they will grow into better citizens if they are brought up as normal kiddies instead of sons and daughters of the famous. For this reason they refuse to have them photographed and seldom mention them in their own publicity stories.

Gloria Swanson is one of our most brilliant actresses who is a proud mother. Her husband is the Marquise de la Coudraye, a Frenchman. Gloria always knows that on Mother's Day she will receive two bouquets of flowers which her little daughter, Gloria, and her adopted son, Joseph, have bought with the nickles and dimes they have managed to save during the year for this express purpose. Little Gloria is now 9 years old and little Joseph—adopted at 5 months—is now 7 years old.

For the first time Dolores Costello, Mrs. John Barrymore, knows the joys of a mother on Mother's Day, although her month-old baby daughter, Dolores Ethel, is much too young to appreciate its significance.

None but her closest friends know Nancy Carroll's 4-year-old daughter, Patricia, by sight as Nancy refuses to let the child appear in the public eye either personally or in print. However, there isn't a mother in the country any prouder than the beautiful screen star. Her husband is Jack Kirkland, a playwright.

Lila Lee seldom sees her son, James Kirkwood, jr., aged 5, since she and her husband are separated and Kirkwood has the boy. But Mother's Day is always the biggest day in the year for her because it is one day she has little Jim with her.

To Lina Basquette, however, Mother's Day is just another touch of irony. Her 3-year-old daughter by her first husband, the late Sam Warner, is in the custody of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Warner, who are living in New York. And Lina, now married to Peverell Marley, will not have her at any time again until she is 21, according to dispatches from New York. They state that Mrs. Warner will not let the baby visit her mother as long as she is in their custody.

Lita Grey Chaplin has gone into retirement with her two sons, Charlie, jr., and Sidney.

Mildred Davis (Mrs. Harold Lloyd) spends her entire time managing the pretentious Lloyd mansion and caring for 6-year-old Gloria.

Mrs. Fred Niblo, who was Enid Bennett on the screen, has her hands full with her three children, Doris, Peter and Judith, aged 3, 4 and 18 months respectively.

Leatrice Joy's daughter, Leatrice, jr., is 5 years old.

Claire Windsor has a son, Billy, age 12.

Irene Rich has two daughters, Frances, 17 and Jane, 15.

'Mammy' With Al Jolson Will Show Here Next Sunday

Star To Appear In Story Made For Laughter

Al Jolson's greatest picture is "Mammy," coming Sunday, May 18, next to the Lindsey Theater.

Irving Berlin wrote this fourth Warner Brothers and Vitaphone feature in which for the first time, Jolson appears in a play made for laughter rather than tears. There is of course drama and pathos too,—but the tone of the story is gay and full of melody and song.

AL JOLSON

A considerable part of "Mammy" has been filmed in Technicolor and the results are gorgeous. The story deals with the joys and tribulations of a traveling minstrel troupe with Jolson as a blackface endman. Mitchell Lewis is also an endman. The interlocutor is Lowell Sherman—Hobart Bosworth the owner of the show—Lois Moran his daughter—and the great Louise Dresser has the title role, that of Jolson's mother. Those in the cast are Ray Cooke Stanley Fields Tully Marshall, and Jack Curtis. Michael Curtis directed.

Gary Cooper Will Be Seen Here In "The Texan" Soon

Play Taken From Famous Story By O. Henry

Totally different in many ways, yet bringing the same carefree, swaggering, outdoor freedom of "The Virginian" to the talking screen, "The Texan" Paramount's second great romance of the West opens at the Palace theater Saturday. Gary Cooper, "The Virginian," is also "The Texan."

O. Henry wrote the original story, "A Double-Dyed Deceiver," from which "The Texan" was adapted. It first appeared in a collection of stories, "Roads of Destiny" by the famous author and popular acclaim singled it out as one of the most thoroughly human pieces from the pen of America's best-beloved writer. Oliver H. P. Garrett, who wrote "Street of Chance," adapted O. Henry's story for the screen.

The story opens in Texas and climaxes on the pampas of South America. It tells of the Llano Kid, a young bandit, who is persuaded to go to South America to pose as the runaway son of a wealthy and aristocratic widow. There he meets the widow's beautiful niece, and finds a mother's love. Although he went to rob, he finds he cannot destroy the older woman's happiness.

Filled with splendid outdoor scenes and action, the picture has a cleancut appeal. Gary Cooper is a fast-riding, fast-shooting plainsman, whose true honesty is forced to the surface in a human and logical way. Fay Wray is the girl.

William Haines Will Appear In New Talkie Here

'The Girl Said No' Is To Be Seen At Lindsey

Echoes of the recent Wall Street catastrophe may be heard in William Haines' newest all-talking picture, "The Girl Said No," which opens Thursday at the Lindsey Theatre, and in which the comedian has the role of a boy fresh from college who tries to crash the portals of New York's financial market.

Information is that the new picture, which was adapted by A. P. Younger from an original story by Sarah Y. Mason, is a sequel to the latter's "Brown of Harvard," which first brought Haines into the limelight as one of the screen's most successful comedians. The dialogue was written by Charles MacArthur, co-author of the dramatic hit, "The Front Page," and comedy interpolations were supplied by Robert Hopkins.

LICENSES DECREASE

New Law Reduces Total For Dawson 44 Per Cent

LAMESA, May 10—Marriage licenses issued in Dawson county since the new state law requiring three days notice went into effect the middle of June last, have been reduced 44 per cent, records of Owen G. Taylor, clerk of the courts, show.

From June 19, 1929, to May 3, 1930, a total of 95 marriage licenses had been issued. The law became effective June 15, last.

From June 15, 1928, until May 3, 1929, the number of licenses issued was 170. This number issued since last June is 56 per cent of the number issued for the same time the previous year.

Most of those who go to other states to secure a marriage license go to Lovington, New Mexico, the nearest large town and county seat. Many go on to Roswell, a much larger place.

TAX COLLECTIONS GOOD

Planting Is Under Way In Lynn County

Good Season Is Afforded For Work; Cut In Cotton Acreage Is Doubted; Lakes Are Filled To Top

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TAHOKA, May 10.—Planting of the 1930 crop is well under way in Lynn county as a result of the heavy rains which covered most of the county within the past two weeks. With a good bottom season already, many farmers state that they never saw better planting conditions on the South Plains. A few spots in the county, especially around Wilson, have not received sufficient moisture for planting, it is said.

Rainfall at Tahoka totaled over two and a quarter inches. Several widely separated localities received as much as six or eight inches in all. Lakes are all full of water some of them fuller than in many years. Old timers say the Nance lake south of Tahoka is the fullest it has been since the county was organized nearly thirty years ago. This lake is fully three-fourths of a mile wide, and connects up with another lake making a total length of nearly a mile and a half.

Highway No. Nine, which crosses the lake, is four and a half feet under water, and from all indications traffic will be forced to detour for at least two or three miles. The water is thirty feet deep in places.

Acreage Cut Doubted

Although there has been much agitation for a cut in cotton acreage, local bankers state that they do not believe Lynn county farmers are going to make a very big cut, if any. Many farmers are making small cuts. However the fact that between 125 and 150 new tractors have been bought by farmers this year may be an indication that the buyers expect to put in larger acreage. Also, some new land has been put into cultivation. Many farmers have stated that they are planting more feed to guarantee sufficient feed for home consumption in case they are caught by a short feed crop as was the case last fall. Although most farmers have enough feed to last until fall, a good many are being forced to buy feed.

Heavy hail storms which recently visited Tahoka, O'Donnell, Three Lakes, and intervening territory, did much damage to gardens, fruit, and killed many chickens, and some cattle.

SOME CHANGE MINDS

Licenses Are Wasted By Several In Dawson

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, May 10—Not all of those who officially announce their intentions of getting married carry them out, says Owen Taylor, court clerk of Dawson county.

Records of the clerk show 101 declarations of intentions were filed between June 18, 1929 and May 3, 1930, while but 95 licenses were recorded in that time.

Lubbock Housewife Testifies

I've Suffered Fifteen Years But Since Taking One Bottle Of Argotane I Feel Fine

"I've had a long, hard struggle with ill health but by the help of Argotane I have found relief at last," said Mrs. J. C. Harper, of 506 Ave. K, Lubbock, Texas, while talking with the Argotane representative.

"I've had stomach trouble so bad for fifteen years that my life was miserable," she continued, "but I'm a lot better since I began taking Argotane. I was in such a run-down condition I couldn't eat anything I wanted and was losing weight and got weaker every day. After eating the smallest meal I would bloat up and my heart would beat so fast I was afraid something serious would result. I would have severe headaches and was weak and nervous and sometimes thought I would be compelled to stay in bed. I took all kinds of medicine but kept getting worse until I was discouraged and almost lost hope of finding anything that would help me.

"I read so much about Argotane that I decided to try it. It may be hard to believe, but it's the truth, I feel better than I have in 15 years, and I've just taken one bottle of Argotane. I am no longer bothered with my awful headaches, my appetite is splendid and I can eat anything I want, without it hurting me in the least. My heart doesn't bother me as it did and I feel better in every way, my nerves are quiet now and I sleep fine every night. I give Argotane credit for straightening me up and I am glad to give this statement and to recommend it to my friends."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug Store.—Adv.

Explanation Of Last Sunday's Cartoon

THE ROCKING PAGODA

The Rocking Pagoda is situated about 15 miles from the town of Kyaik-Hto, Province of Tenasserim, Burmah, on top of an eggshaped rock. It maintains its upright position by a miracle of equilibrium. Worshippers and visitors can enter the temple only after a highly perilous ascent by means of long bamboo ladders. A single hair of Buddha is preserved in the shrine, and to this sacred relic is attributed the miraculous balance of the pagoda.

GRADUATED AT THE AGE OF 85

The "dean" of all students, Senor Don Bernardo Castillo y Sanchas, who graduated as a doctor of Civil Law from the University of Havana at the age of 85, was compelled by economic necessity to interrupt his studies in 1892. He resumed them in 1925, with the above successful conclusion, in 1930. He is still in remarkably good physical and mental health.

THE STAR FISH

The sea-star (asterias rubens), to which the name "star-fish" is misapplied, can survive the loss of one or all of its arms. Fishermen often tear them in half and throw them back into the sea. Each half is capable of growing new rays, and of developing into a complete specimen.

Lamesa Continues As One Of Area's Busiest Towns

Completion Of Milk Plant Is Latest Project

Plant Is One Of 58 In U. S. And Is Expected To Be Impetus To Dairying; Town Is Growing Steadily

By J. SAM LEWIS
Staff Correspondent

LAMESA, May 10. — Lamesa, county seat of Dawson county, is a growing community increasing in size, importance and power as an agricultural-industrial town as the county is built up and new industries come in.

Just now, the completion of the West Texas Milk Products company plant here, a $200,000 corporation owned jointly by residents of the city and the Douthitt Engineering company of Chicago, is serving to emphasize the importance of the city.

One of 58 Plants

Lamesa is one of four Texas towns that have a Gray-Jensen spray process drying plant installed by the Douthitt company. There are only 58 of these plants in the United States, and 72 in the entire world.

Stock in the plant is divided equally among local business men and the Douthitt company. Operation is scheduled to start shortly. Milk from at least 15,000 cows will largely go to the plant.

Lamesa has probably 25 or 30 industries, all related to agriculture but all bringing in a steady income to merchants of the town. Manufactured products from several of these concerns are shipped to all sections of the southwest and there is an increasing demand.

Cottonseed Cake Made

For example there is a cotton oil mill that makes a cold pressed cake from cottonseed. This mill sells its products to stockmen and dairymen all the way from El Paso to Oklahoma and all up and down the state in every direction as well as over in New Mexico. The plant is still operating from its supply of seed from last year's crop.

Two feed mills also sell their products in about the same territory. These mills make feed for cows, hogs and chickens and find a steady and increasing demand for the manufactured products.

Nine cotton gins are located in the city and 13 more in the county. There are ice plants, ice cream factories and the like, as well as other lines of industry located here.

Handle 33,000 Bales

Last year the compress here handled around 25,000 bales of cotton. Normally the crop is around 60,000 bales.

"Our trade area is estimated at 1,500 square miles," W. A. Wilson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, explained. "We ship the products of our feed mills and cotton mills all over West Texas."

Lamesa has two strong banks with normal deposits of around a million and a half dollars.

Incorporated in 1905, Lamesa has enjoyed a steady growth. The past few years the growth has been more marked as improvements have come to make life on the South Plains much easier and more enjoyable for those who came here in the early days.

Over 1,188 Houses

Speaking of the size of the town, Mr. Wilson said, "During a survey we made two years ago to secure free delivery of mail we found 1,188 houses. There are more than that now.

"Personally, I do not know of 25 vacant houses in Lamesa at this time. There are almost no vacant store rooms or business places. We have or will have when we complete a block or more of paving around the high school, 40 blocks of paving. This has been laid down at a cost of around $200,000. The last paving job has been a 17 block job costing $85,000."

The survey, he added, showed a population of better than 5,200. Latest figures on meters show he explained, 900 water meters, 750 gas meters, 1,200 electric meters and a scholastic enrollment of 1,300.

Property Valuations Good

Property valuations show, based on a 66 percent estimate, more than five and a half million dollars. For assessment purposes the total is $3,875,000, he said. "Our rate is $1.25 for the city."

The city has considerable valuable property. The city hall is a $40,000 structure. The water and sewer system will add another $75,000 while the school system is worth a quarter of a million dollars. In addition is the $200,000 paving system and the county court house.

"We have the best water system out here, I believe," Mr. Wilson continued. "There are three wells that are located near town and two down town. These wells give better than 500 gallons of water a minute and our rate is 15 cents for the purest water possible. The wells are from 100 to 200 feet deep."

Lowrie is Mayor

J. R. Lowrie is the present mayor of Lamesa. The government is a city commission form with Ray Williams and W. L. Marr as other commissioners. J. L. Cotton is city secretary.

Lamesa, the civic leader said, is proud of its splendid school system. There are two 3-story brick buildings, a high school and a grade building. The system is standardized with 30 credits of affiliation with the state. The corps of teachers numbers 33, not including fine arts instructors. "Our board has kept its standards very high," he said. "We have a very efficient corps."

Teachers Established

B. Z. Rogers, the superintendent, is in his sixth year. He is a graduate of both Texas State University and Trinity. P. D. McCollum is principal of the high school, a Baylor and George Washington graduate and also in his sixth year. G. M. Roberts, principal of the grades, is in his third year. He is a Texas Tech and Texas man and was recently elected for two years. Both the other men have been re-elected also for the coming year.

Lamesa has 115 modern brick business buildings. There are 260 members of the local chamber of commerce, of which W. K. Crawley, local banker, is president.

Clubs Active

The city has several luncheon clubs and civic organizations. The Lions club meets Wednesday noon at the Westland hotel for luncheon. The Lamesa Luncheon club meets Tuesday noon at the Williams hotel. It is the unofficial organization of the chamber of commerce. There is also a strong American Legion post, taking an active part in the city's life.

Ladies clubs include a study club, Delphian, Mothers, P.-T. A., and Business and Profesional Women's clubs.

Just recently the Texas Electric Service company completed a $100,000 project for the city, a high line. The company manufactures its own power here and also ice.

The State Telephone company has just finished installation of a $65,000 equipment program including a change from the magneto to the common battery type of local station. The company has over 600 telephones including those of 30 rural or farmer lines.

The Lamesa Reporter, the town's only newspsper, which recently purchased its opposition, is published in its own home, built especially and solely for the publishing of a newspaper. Elbert W. Smith, formerly of Amarillo, is editor and president of the company.

The court house, built 14 years ago, is located in the center of a square, with many trees, making it a beautiful park in the center of the city.

FOUR TRUCKS USED

School Districts Transport The Students In Dawson

LAMESA, May 10. (Special)—Dawson county schools have but four trucks for the transportation of school children to and from their homes to schools, W. T. Webb, county superintendent of schools, says. These trucks are located at two schools, Granview and Eason.

Each district has two trucks, privately owned. About 100 pupils in each district are thus transported by truck daily. Cost is estimated at approximately $15.30 per pupil per year.

"These districts are the only ones in the county that provide free transportation that I know of," Mr. Webb said. "In fact, they are the only trucks I know of in Dawson county."

BOARD NOT DECIDED

Decision To Be Made In June On Dawson Institute

LAMESA, May 10. (Special)—The county board of education of Dawson county has not definitely decided on holding a county institute for teachers, W. T. Webb, county superintendent, indicated. Decision probably will be made at the June meeting.

For several years the teachers have been attending the district institute held by the Texas Technological college at Lubbock. This plan may be followed this year.

Plans Made For Annual South Plains Boy Scout Camp

Annual Outing To Be Held In June And July

Two Ten-Day Periods Will Be Offered Boys; Special Arrangements Made To Entertain At Post Camp

BOY SCOUTS of the South Plains Area council are eagerly looking forward to approaching camping days when the annual outing of the area will be held during the months of June and July at Camp Post. Reports from headquarters of the council indicate that attendance at the camps this year will break all previous records.

Bulletins are now being prepared describing the wonderful outing planned for the boys under direction of competent officials. First period of the camp will be from June 30 to July 9 and the second period starts July 10 and ends July 19.

Ten-Day Periods Slated

Ten days at Camp Post will be offered during each period, all full of swimming, hiking, scouting, games and fun.

Camp Post is located three and one-half miles southwest of Post City on the edge of the caprock. It contains four hundred acres of canyons, hills, creeks and brush which provides an ideal location for boys to learn the real raw nature of western plains.

The camp this year will be under supervision of Scout Executive D. T. Jennings. Mr. Jennings has had several years experience as camp director and plans to introduce several new ideas into the summer vacation. He will be assisted by K. N. Clapp who is a veteran camper and council worker. There also will be at least one man to every eight boys in camp.

Health, Safety Required

Health and safety conditions at Camp Post conform with the highest standards required by the national council, Boy Scouts of America. A well balanced ration, well cooked food, screened kitchen and mess hall, fly proof latrine and tested water supply guarantees the health of the scouts. A physician will visit the camp twice each day and is on call at any time. Five years at Camp Post and not an illness due to camp conditions or a single accident worthy of mention is the record that has been established.

The camp program is divided so as to give definite time for scout projects, swims, sports, games, hikes, sleep and meals.

Swimming will be held each afternoon at Two Draw Lake. Instruction classes in life saving and swimming will be conducted by Mr. Clapp, American Red Cross life saving examiner, and assistants. The motto is "Every sinker, a swimmer at the end of camp."

Cowboy Ed Scott will be in camp this year and will conduct classes in leather and hair plaiting. Cowboy Ed is a puncher from the O. S. ranch. For forty years he has been a champ roper, rope spinner, and leather worker. He will teach the boys how to make whips, lanyards, watchfobs, hatbands, etc.

Classes To Be Taught

Classes in beadwork will be taught by Lavergne Manire and Indian designs of all kinds, belts, neckerchief slides, headbands, watchfobs, etc., will be learned.

M. K. Foster will be instructor in fire building. Other activities will be archery, nature, campcraft, pioneering and woodcraft.

The Spae Indians, organization of men and boy leaders, will be there in full force. Braves, warriors, chiefs and medicine men.

Cup To Be Awarded

The McMillan cup will again be awarded this year to the troop making the best record for all round camping. The cup was won in 1928 by Lamesa troop 23 and in 1929 by Lubbock troop 4.

The K. P. cup also is to be awarded. This cup is awarded to the troop making the best record on K. P. duty. It was won in 1928 by Brownfield troop 19, and in 1929 by Lubbock troop 6.

Mr. Jennings states that no firearms will be allowed in camp and that scouts are not to leave camp without permission.

Visitors will be welcomed after 5 p. m. on week days and all day on Sundays. Swimming races are to be held July 5 and 12 and all visitors are invited.

Price of the camp will be $10 for each period and no refund will be made if the boy leaves early. In several of the cities over the area civic clubs have taken a lead and are employing boy scouts that they may earn enough money to attend the camp.

Lubbock's Building Still Among Leaders In Nation

Total Is Over Million Now; More Planned

City's Steady Growth Is Not Hampered By Recent Era Of Depression; Outlook For Future Bright

WITH several building projects underway in Lubbock at this time totalling thousands of dollars, and several others planned, the city is keeping step with the nations' leaders, according to a survey made of figures of comparison.

Total valuations to May 1 of this year were $1,050,380 for 111 permits, considerably less than at the same period of 1929. It has been stated that 1930 is expected to fall short of the total of 1929 due to the fact that last year was the banner year in the history of the city's growth.

Pace Is Continued

Valuations to May 1, 1930 are under by $1,010,913 the figure for the corresponding period of 1929. During 1929 building in the city was given a decided boost by several major projects. Two underpasses were contracted for during that period as was the Hilton hotel, ranging around $400,000.

A steady growth, however, has been registered in the city for the past three years. In 1929 the figure to date totalled $454,743. In 1928 it was $782,950.

March Banner Month

Banner month of this year in building valuations was that of March when a figure of $878,225 was recorded. This figure not only outranked many leading cities of the United States but was greater than the state totals of seventeen states. Arkansas, Alabama, Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming state totals were lower than Lubbock's.

Lubbock's total for that month was greater than the combined totals of Wyoming, Vermont, South Dakota, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Idaho. Lubbock was the only city in the list of leaders with a population of less than 50,000.

Outstanding among the building projects for the first four months of the year is the new high school building which is to be erected at a cost of $550,000. Work is now going forward on this building and completion is expected about January 1, 1931. Being erected in the 2000 block on 19th street, permit was issued in March.

Other outstanding projects, either completed or in the course of construction, are:

B. F. Needles, $20,000 business building at 1502-04 Avenue H.

M. O. Owens, $63,000 office building at 1112 10th street.

A. G. Hunt, $14,000 business building at 1414 Avenue K.

Church of God, $14,000 church building at 1910 3rd street.

Ten cent store, $20,000 improvements to building on Broadway.

Church of the Nazarene, $10,000 addition on Avenue Q.

Burrus Elevators, $10,000 addition to plant in north Lubbock.

J. D. Doughty, Lloyd Doughty, J. B. Kirby, $35,000 business building 1306 to 08, Texas Avenue.

Sampson Construction company, $12,000 plant for Swift & Co., at intersection of Avenue G and 9th street.

MUCH LAND LEASED

Dawson County Lands Being Put Under Contract

LAMESA, May 10. (Special)—Considerable land has been leased in Dawson county for oil and gas purposes although the number of leases filed for record is comparatively small, Owen C. Taylor, county clerk, reports.

Most of the leasing has been on land located in the west part of the county, near the Gaines county line. There is considerable development in Gaines county, around Seminole and other towns.

The Higginbotham Land company, of which M. C. Lindsey is the local manager, is reported doing most of the leasing. The acreage is more or less spotted.

YEAR BEHIND TIME

Bill Watson and Charlie Costin got mixed up the other day down at Lamesa on the date. Charlie was making out some tickets to hand over to Bill and he said to Bill, "Is this the 8th or the 9th?" Bill looked at a calendar on the wall and opined it was the ninth. Then he began to check over his tickets and business to see if he had been putting it down as the eighth instead of the ninth. Meantime Charlie changed his tickets. Then Bill looked at the calendar on the wall. It was a 1929 calendar.

LETTERS RUN SHORT

Up at Bronco, on the Texas-New Mexico line, is a big board along the side of the road, in front of the filling station. It denotes the state line. One of the enterprising employes of H. Field's store, filling station and O-7 ranch has taken the trouble to set forth the fact of the change from Texas to New Mexico in large letters on the post. He used caps from soft drink bottles and the word "state" is made with letters about nine or ten inches high. By the time he came to the word "line" his space had become scarce, so he had to use smaller letters and more or less run them together.

IT WAS DEEPER

Residents of O'Donnell, Tahoka and Lamesa are laughing still over the freak bet of the first of the week about the depth of the "lake" south of Tahoka, between it and O'Donnell. Two men, so the story goes, differed as to the depth of the waters that crossed the road, stopping all traffic. One man said it was sixteen feet, the other said he could wade it. On the question of wading the bet hinged. Stake was a hat, the best to be had. Friends secured a car and carried the betters to the south side of the lake from whence the walk was to start. The man got our of the car in the gathering dusk, slipped out of his clothing, down to his "B. V. D.'s" and waded in. The car went on to meet him at the other side. It took him between 30 and 33 minutes to wade the half mile or so of water. The depth came up to around his armpits. He made the trip without incident until he arrived almost at the end when he got to wandering around near the edge of the road and slipped going down completely under. There's a new hat in O'Donnell now.

QUITE A BUSY MAN

Clyde Backentoss, the genial court reporter for the 106th district, during the murder trial this past week down at Lamesa, was about the busiest man on the court floor, except the newspaper reporters. Clyde took notes on the testimony and very time the court and counsel for defense and the state would go "into a huddle" over some point of law, or line of argument, Clyde would take his notebook and line up alongside the trio, to make notes in case anything unusual developed. So far as could be seen, he never took a note.

HERE'S RECORD

T. E. Roderick, publisher of the Slaton Slatonite, has an unusual record among printers, that of being able to recover the entire front page of a paper that has been pied and assembling it togther with the exception of one line, which he had to reset. Last week, Mr. Roderick, who prints for Tech students the Toreador, sent copies of the paper, 1,500 in number of the freshman issue to Lubbock. Upper classmen got hold of the copies and burned them. All but the front page was in the Slatonite office and it was pied. Mr. Roderick recovered the pied type and straightened it out with the exception of one lost line. He was able to reprint the additional 1,500 copies needed. "I made sure and delivered them to the right people," he said Friday.

One Hundred And Thirty-Five Men To Go Out In Campaign For Funds Talks Are On Schedule For Week

LUBBOCK will be asked on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week to contribute $12,000 for the construction of a memorial building in honor of the men who served in the army, navy and marine corps of the United States during the world war.

One hundred and thirty five men will seek to raise the amount, working in teams and going into every business house to give the owners and employes an opportunity to contribute.

"None of the members of the Allen Brothers post of the American Legion are wealthy men, J. A. Raley, Jr., commander, said yesterday. "We are all hard working old boys trying to make a living. We are asking the people of Lubbock to assist us in erecting a memorial to those who offered themselves to their country in her time of need."

Dickinson In Charge

In charge of the drive will be B. C. "Daddy" Dickinson, as colonel. His lieutenant colonel will be Glen Hess, post adjutant.

Four majors, or battalion leaders have been named, Spencer Wells, Homer Grant, B. Sherrod and N. L. Peters.

Those men in turn have named five captains each and the 20 captains have each chosen five lieutenants.

As an advisory committee in charge of the planning pill be, Hubert Allen, chairman; H. D. Woods, Clark M. Mullican, A. B. Davis and J. H. Raley, Jr.

Talks Scheduled

Preliminary to the opening of the drive "four minute talks" by speakers from the post, will present the plan to residents of the city. Through the courtesy of the management of the Palace and Lindsey theatres four minutes of intermission on four nights, were given over to speakers for the post. Talks this week are at 9 o'clock Monday and Tuesday night.

Friday night Clark Mullican spoke at the Palace and Durwood Bradley at the Lindsey. Saturday night the speakers changed theatres.

Monday night's schedule is: R. J. Murray at the Palace and G. W. Dupree at the Lindsey. Tuesday night the speakers change.

On Tuesday night in the banquet room of the Hotel Lubbock, at 8 o'clock, those who are to participate in the drive will meet to receive final instructions, literature and territory.

No Banquet Served

"There will be no banquet," Glen Hess, lieutenant colonel, said. "Of all those asked about a feed when it came to discuss Tuesday night's meeting only one voted for a meal. The rest said they would be glad to meet and discuss plans without the customary dinner."

The city of Lubbock has leased to the post, at a nominal rental of one dollar per year for a period of 50 years, a tract of ground 50 by 125 feet. The location is "20 feet north of the north wall of the city hall facing east on Texas avenue."

The building will be 40 by 80 feet. It will contain besides an assembly hall, a kitchen, balcony for the hall, rest rooms for both men and women, a reading room and offices for the post commander and post adjutant.

Hogg Starts Fund

First finances for the proposed memorial were contributed by Rev. Will Hogg an evangelist from Tennessee, who previously had held a meeting in Lubbock. He came to Lubbock in October of 1927 and in an address at Texas Technological gym raised approximately $1,200.

School children, under the direction of Superintendent M. H. Duncan, have contributed $454.11.

Three Lubbock business men, only one of whom is a former service man, have contributed $500 each. They are, Roscoe Wilson, attorney; France Baker, president of the Citizens National bank; Jack Parsons, manager of J. C. Penney and Co. The latter is the only ex-service man.

Peters, Strange and Bradshaw, architects, have contributed to the fund by preparing the plans and specifications, free of charge, J. B. Maxey a local building superintendent, will supervise the work, also free of charge.

To Furnish Material At Cost

Lubbock firms handling building supplies of various kinds have offered to furnish the materials at exactly cost price, donating all profits towards the memorial.

"We are going to honor the memory of Rev. Will Hogg, who began the idea of a memorial," Commander Raley said, "it is our purpose to help keep his memory alive in some manner, in the building."

Neil Wright, chairman of the "Forty and Eight" an advisory group of business men, none of whom happen to belong to the legion, recently told officers of the post and others that the time was ripe for raising a fund for a memorial.

Organized In 1919

Allen Brothers post No. 148 of the American Legion was organized late in 1919 by men from Lubbock county who had served in the world war. A man named Mesklamen was the first commander. He did not complete his term and was succeeded by Clark Mullican who served during 1920. Other commanders and their years of service were: B. C. Dickinson, 1921; Dr. W. E. Craven, 1922; M. B. Hilburn, 1923; Homer L. Pharr, 1924; N. L. Peters, 1925; H. D. Woods, 1926; F. D. Rupe, 1927; Hubert L. Allen, 1928; Charles Whitacre, 1929 and J. A. Raley, Jr., 1930.

The post was named for two brothers, Phillips Simpson and Roland Terrell Allen, who came from Lubbock. The brothers enlisted on August 24, 1917, and were assigned to Company G, 142nd infantry. The regiment sailed for France on July 18, 1918, and went into the front line trenches.

Phillip Allen was killed in action on October 8, 1918, and four days later his brother was killed.

Officers of the post are: J. A. Raley, Jr., commander; Ben Kucera, first vice commander; Tom Carter, second vice-commander; J. G. Porter, third vice commander; Glen Hess adjutant; Daniel A. Blair, service officer; Riley F. Huie, sergeant at arms; Louis Murfee, finance officer; W. M. Young, chaplain; Alfred Scott, historan and Alex McDonald., mess officer.

In New York With Swan

NEW YORK, May 10.—Manhattan's battle against the noises that crash against the eardrums of its citizens, jarring their nerves and their dispositions, is being carried on along many fronts.

Experts have listened to the raucous beating of the city's heart, have tracked down the most roaring points, have surveyed the noise zones and plotted the great metropolis according to cacaphonic districts.

Sound-proof buildings have been erected in the effort to shut out the turbulent "voice of the city."

Within the next few years some means may have been found to still the roar and rumble and reduce it to a whisper.

One of the most recent movements in the direction of silence has been made by the subway lines. Being unable to do anything about the subway trains, they have removed the click from the turnstiles. No one in all Manahattan is more in need of soothing contraptions than the average subway commuter at the end of the day. There is, according to experts, a machine gun staccato about this particular form of noise which proves especially disturbing. It is figured that more than a billion persons click the turnstiles in the course of a year.

The Noise Abating Commission, for New York has such an organization, is headed by one Louis H. Brown who, with his fellows, has gone about Gotham with his ear to the ground as it were. He has listened in on all and sundry varieties of discords.

The noisest sector, strangely enough, is not the heart of Broadway, but a spot somewhere near 34th street and Sixth avenue, where three traffic lanes converge. Overhead is the elevated; the Hudson tube and the subway are both just below the street and every form of traffic moves in half a dozen directions at once.

There is, if you please, a hotel in this town where no sound—other than that of the human voice—is tolerated, and it has proved a haven for the harassed. No orchestra plays there, there is no radio, no ballroom for a jazz band nor any phonograph or other form of musical instrument for dancing or for entertainment at dinner.

This is the Hotel Chatham, which has patterned after an old English country home to give the nerve frazzled the effect of peace and quiet in the midst of the hectic city.

Just a few days ago, this place started the innovation of "soundless music."

It seems that a certain Professor Thomas Wilfred, of the Art Institute of Light has perfected a color organ of living room size, so that any one who can afford to buy the instrument can have all the music he wishes without hearing it.

While color organs are nothing particularly new in this world, with their presentation of prismatic fantacies moving rythmically over a surface this is the first time—so I am told—that anyone has found a way of reducing the organ to a size which can be fitted into the average home.

"Radio Row," which centers at Cortland street in lower Manhattan, is the most blatant of all the highways during a few hours of the day. Around the noon hour, when something like a hundred or more shops start their loud speakers blaring into the unprotected air, the effect is something approximating chaos on a busy day.

Famous Painting Is To Be Shown For Another Week

The painting, "If Thou Hadst known, O Jerusalem," by Paul Mersereau, which has been on display at the Carter-Houston store for the past week, will be held over another week so that more citizens of Lubbock can view it, it was announced by officials of the store last night.

More than 5,000 people viewed the painting during last week.

The painting is reported to have been finished in the early eighties by the gifted master. Merserau is possessed of an international reputation as a colorist, and one would believe excels as a landscape painter, his small canvasses being much sought after.

The painting shows Jesus looking down on Jerusalem from the brow of a hill on the east side of the city. The sky and sunset effect, the presence of mists and smoke and the semi-strong light of the foreground are exceptional features of the painting.

No admission is being charged for the showing of the painting. It is being shown in a special setting on the balcony floor of the store.

SECRET OF OLDSMOBILE SUCCESS

The High Regard of Oldsmobile Owners

There are many factors which contribute to the splendid success which Oldsmobile has achieved, but no one of these outweighs in importance—or holds more respect in the Oldsmobile organization—than the high regard of owners.

This widespread good opinion has been demonstrated over and over again in the reasons which new owners give for their decision in favor of Oldsmobile. Almost invariably the recommendations of friends and neighbors play an important part.

It is certain that such loyalty must be well-founded. Only outstanding merit, thorough capability, and month-after-month dependability can earn the high regard so consistently enjoyed by Oldsmobile.

If you would test the depth of Oldsmobile owner satisfaction for yourself, make inquiries among your friends. Ask your own neighbors who drive Oldsmobiles what they think of their cars.

Then, when you have heard their expressions, come in and drive the car yourself. Measure it by your own standards. Appraise it by your own tests. Prove to your personal satisfaction that the high regard of Oldsmobile owners is justly deserved.
