THE COVE DILEMMA. The bird in the foreground and the tanks of a Houston Oil and Minerals Corporation installation at Cove Harbor in the background are representative of the two sides in the current controversy over the possible development of new commercial port facilities by the Aransas County Navigation District No. 1. The U.S. Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife has stopped development of three acres of a six-acre HO&M lease, claiming the land involved is wetlands because it supports vegetation requiring saturated soil. To win back use of the three acres, and more than $30,000 in lease revenue over five years, the Navigation District is considering the creation of six acres of "compensation" wetlands, a move citizens have objected to on the grounds that it will amount to capitulation that would undermine chances of using the remaining Cove acreage for a port expansion. Both citizens and the District want the new port, but fear that an application to the Army Corps of Engineers would be a useless gesture if a Bureau objection is valid and certain. Bureau officials say they will go to court to defend their ruling in the HO&M case, but that they have not examined the entire acreage, and could make no estimate on how many acres are wetlands.

Drug Program Sets Open House

"Get It Together," the local drug abuse prevention program, has secured a former office building at 814 Market Street, across from the Circle K convenience store, to use as a headquarters.

And the public is invited to attend the first of a series of housewarmings Thursday, June 23, beginning at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served and the group's officers and organizers will be on hand to answer questions about the program and to make contacts for the first of a three month series of group discussions which the program organizers hope will give the new organization a foothold in the community.

The organization will be directed by four officers and three directors, working with committee heads in the areas of counseling, youth activities and community education.

The officers are: Donna Price, president; Marcelino

Judge Refuses Cities' Injunction Request

District Judge Herman Jones last week refused to issue an injunction requested by Rockport and 30 other South Texas cities which would have stopped Central Power and Light (CPL) from charging rates approved Jan. 24 in a final order issued by the Texas Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

Judge Jones had last month ruled that CPL could continue to charge the new rates while he was considering the request for an injunction. The injunction was the first part of a suit filed by the cities against CPL and the PUC. The suit asks that CPL be required to provide figures on a rate base, rate of return, expenses and investment within each city as required under Section 23, Article 1446c of the Texas Public Utility Regulatory Act of 1975.

The cities are also seeking to have CPL pay for consultants hired by the Texas Municipal League to study the CPL rate increase requests. CPL has announced plans to pass the $150,000 cost on to its cus-

City Sales Tax Rebate Tops $68,000

Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed a check for $12,444.12 to the City of Rockport Wednesday as its June share of the one percent city sales tax.

The payment brought the total received by the City in 1977 to $68,133.97, up 24 percent over the same figures for 1976. The 1976 figure for five months was $54,530.46, and the City went on to record payments of more than $120,000, a record.

Statewide, the Comptroller's office mailed out checks to 865 cities totalling $39.3 million. The checks brought to $167.1 million the amount rebated to date in 1977, a 15.1 percent increase over the same period last year.

The City of Houston received the largest check, $7.5 million, the City of Roanoake the smallest, $15.79.

House Considers Local Funding

The United State House of Representatives will be considering three appropriations bills in the next two weeks which would funnel more than $500,000 into Aransas and surrounding counties, according to a news release from Congressman John Young.

Young's letter lists a yet-to-be-approved appropriation of $196,000 for operation of the National Marine Fisheries Lab at Port Aransas. President Jimmy Carter's original budget proposals had omitted funding for the site, causing a storm of protest.

The Texas Legislature has already approved a $300,000 sum for operations during the next biennium for the lab, along with language which states that an alternative site be used should the Port Aransas site be taken over by the Federal Government for another use, or taken back by the lessee. Senator A.R. Schwartz said that "alternative" site means Rockport.

A second appropriation would provide more than $200,000 for the construction of an additional visitor center at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, one of the most popular tourist stops in the South Texas area. Young noted that Carter's budget contained no money for the project.

Songwriter Guy Clark Visits After Long Tour

Guy and Susanna Clark, one of the most talented couples on the progressive country music scene, were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis L. Clark last week prior to returning to their home in Nashville, Tennessee.

The Clarks--Guy is best known for songs like "LA Freeway" and "Desperados Waiting For a Train", Susanna for her recent hit "I'll Be Your San Antone Rose", recorded by Dottsy, were recuperating from appearances in Houston, Austin and Kerrville, and a recent nine city concert tour of Japan.

Local residents will have an opportunity to see the 1960 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School on Monday, June 27, on "Austin City Limits", on KEDT-TV, Channel 16, Corpus Christi. Clark is teamed with Steve Fromholz, another progressive country singer-song writer, and SIXTEEN TIME, which covered a preview showing, called the hour "great musical entertainment." Clark's segment will feature selections from his latest RCA release, "Texas Cookin'."

Guy, 37, was born in the West Texas town of Monahans, and moved to Rockport with his family when he was 12. He was a steady, strong student and a good athlete in high school, and made his first public appearance at a Rockport Chamber of Commerce banquet, singing folk songs on short notice after the planned talent didn't show.

After graduation, he headed for Houston, and gained experience writing and performing in the cafe and club circuit in the early sixties as a folk based artist.

After two years, he went to Los Angeles, where he was under contract to RCA as a songwriter. He worked as a craftsman in a dobro guitar factory while in Los Angeles to help pay the bills, and his wife, the former Susanna Talley of Oklahoma, painted (Her songwriting skills were late blooming.) One of her paintings is on the cover of Guy's first album, "Old No. 1."

As so often happens, a personal change provided the catharsis that became the couple's breakout song. "LA Freeway", a hit for Jerry Jeff Walker, told the story of Clark's decision to move from Los Angeles to the country music capital, Nashville, Tennessee.

The song was almost pure autobiography, and Clark has drawn on his own experiences throughout his career. It has come as a surprise sometimes for his parents, who had "no idea those things were making such an impression on him". In one instance, it was a train he saw at the age of six with his mother. The train came to symbolize a lot of things for Clark, and he set down the incident almost 30 years later in a song he calls "Texas--1947." Johhny Cash is trying to make that song a hit, and most of the other top names in country music have also recorded Clark compositions, including the Earl Scruggs Revue, the Everly Brothers, Jim Ed Brown, Rita Coolidge, Tom Rush, David Allan Coe and Sammi Smith, as well as Jerry Jeff.

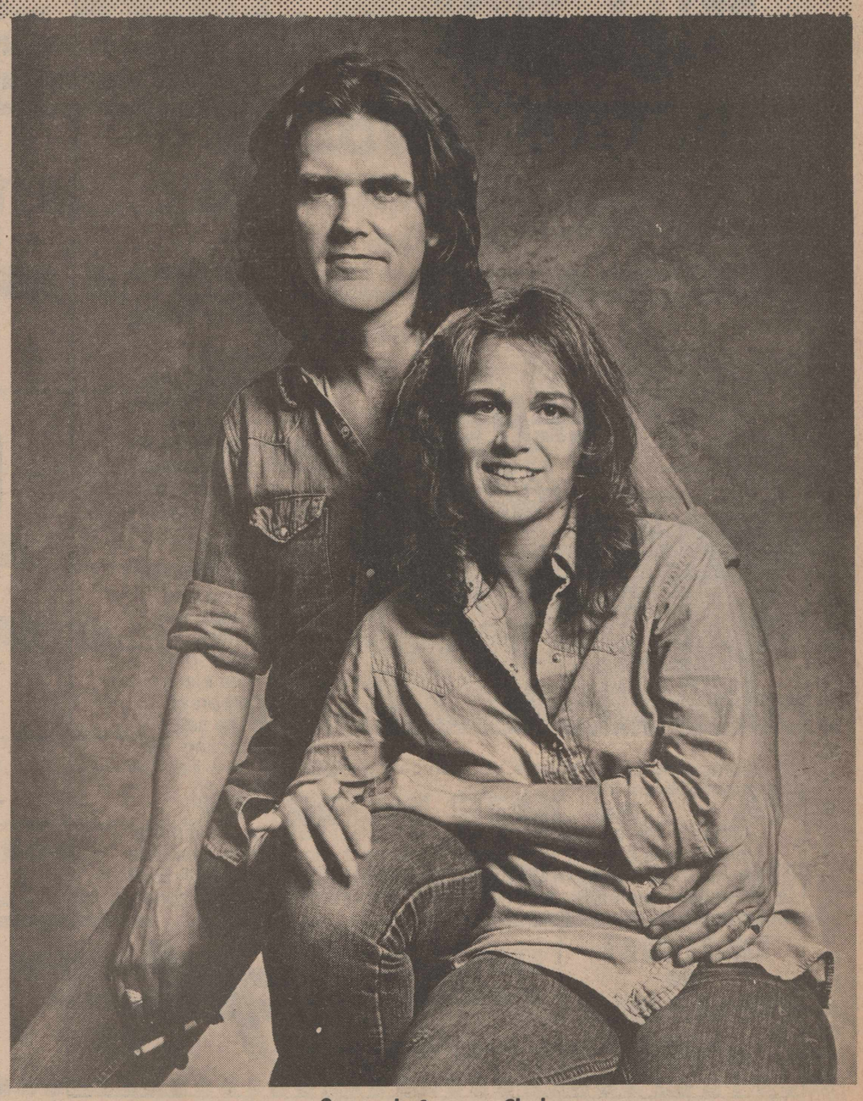

Susanna has co-written several tunes with Clark, but went solo for the first time with "I'll Be Your San Antone Rose," covered by Dottsy and on the newest Emmylou Harris albumn. Susanna has also written the title tune for Harris' new album, "Quarter Moon, Ten Cent Town."

The couple has been featured in most national music publications, and most recently in a documentary called NEW COUNTRY, shot on location in Nashville, Dallas and Austin.

Half A Chance

Hondo, Texas put in a call for hobos to help boost its unemployment rate so that it would be eligible for federal funding which would make the construction of a million dollar community center possible.

The move had enough of the grandstand play in it to draw reams of copy, but it pointed out quite seriously a continuing governmental failure--What to do with the gifted city. Like gifted children, gifted cities can do all the mandatory moves with one hand tied behind their backs. Like the gifted child, the excellence means little without extra help. For cities, help means money--money for civic centers, convention centers, a central building for the many services to the large elderly population, money for sewer services, road repair or drainage. Or farther out, money for bio-conversion research, fisheries research at the Rockport Marine Lab, money for new types of desalinization processes, money for solar research, etc.

That a democracy cannot handle its gifted is a failing. By refusing to aid them because they have low unemployment, it can directly contribute to future high unemployment. By stunting cultural and community growth and togetherness, it turns its back on two centuries of rewards for success and frustrates its competent followers.

The government can pour money down a hole any day. Why not spend some where it would do some discernable good? Like Rockport.

Water Quality Planning Meeting Set In Rockport

What stream or beach provides recreation and enjoyment for you?

The Coastal Bend council of Governments is compiling information on which to base a water quality plan within most of Nueces, San Patricio and Aransas Counties. A final plan will be adopted a year from now by your city and county officials, representing you on the COG. The plan is designed to document the way that local people want to go about meeting water quality standards which call for swimable, fishable waterways by 1983.

The map shown on this page covers what is known as the designated area and the water segments under study. Information on where you fish, swim, boat or ski is a basic part of the planning. Ruth Gill, chairman of the COG, said that the purpose of the plan is to see to it that you and your children will be able to continue to enjoy the waterways in these ways. Your interests will be counted if you will mark the map in the general areas that you enjoy with the symbols shown for the listed activities. Clip the marked map and mail it to the Coastal Bend Council of Governments, Atten: Ken Froehlich, PO Box 6609, Corpus Christi, Texas 78411.

A public hearing on the first report written for the plan will be held in Corpus Christi City Council Chambers at 7 p.m., Thursday, July 14. This report covers current and projected population, economics and land usage. To give residents of other parts of the region an opportunity to comment on water problems and water quality close to their own homes, three public meetings will be held before the public hearing. They will be held Friday, July 1, at 2 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Rockport; Tuesday, July 5, at 10:30 a.m. at Sinton City Council Chambers; and Tuesday, July 12, at 7 p.m. at Aransas City Council Chambers.

The water quality plan will meet requirements of Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, amended in 1972. Information about the study and the report that is scheduled for public hearing is available at the following libraries which have agreed to serve as depositories: Del Mar College and Greenwood Branch Libraries in Corpus Christi, Ingleside Public Library in Ingleside, Robstown School Library in Robstown, and Bell Public Library in Portland.

Mrs. Gill asked that those of you who mail in copies of the map include your name and address. You will then be advised of future meetngs and hearings, and you will be called on from time to time for advice and counsel as a citizen advisor.

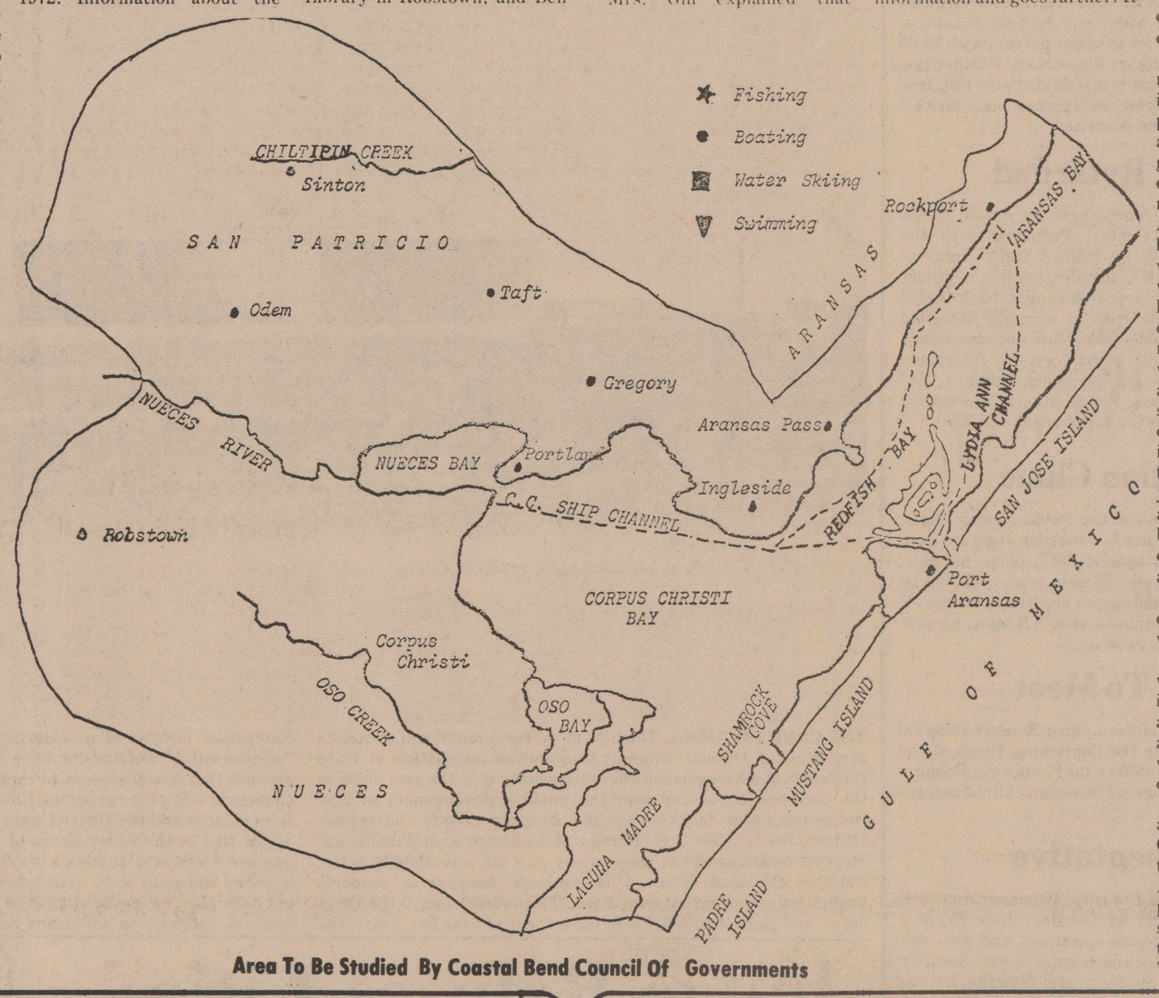

Mrs. Gill explained that studies made in the past provided local officials with information about what is known as "point source pollution." That is pollution of streams or estuaries caused by discharges from wastewater treatment plants or industries. The study now being undertaken updates that information and goes further. It includes "non-point source pollution." This term describes urban and agricultural runoff. Everything which falls on the ground or the asphalt of our cities eventually reaches our waterways. For the first time, we are going to know what the runoff after heavy rains, which washes these pollutants into our waters, does to the quality of those waters.

After comprehensive information is compiled about existing water quality, sources of pollution, and the sensitive areas where pollution endangers or could endanger the environment, a study will be made of alternative solutions. All the ways water quality can be maintained and improved will be considered. Trade-offs will be shown. Citizens will know where industrial, residential or recreational developments can take place with or without environmental damage. Based on thse facts, decisions can be made by local officials. They will say where it is most important to the people to have new industry providing jobs, new homes or businesses, and where development should be avoided to protect life chains, marine-life nurseries and recreation areas.

Mrs. Gill called these hard decisions, what do we want and what can we afford?

The final phase of the study will document existing authority of local agencies, additional authorities they may need, and alternative procedures by which the plan that is adopted can be put into effect.

The plan which the COG adopts will be submitted to the Governor for his certification to the Environmental Protection Agency. Mrs. Gill said this planning process allows decisions to be made locally, rather than having them imposed by Washington or Austin.

Area To Be Studied By Coastal Bend Council Of Governments

State Of The Region

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Gov'ts

"We've been in the repair business. Now we are trying to teach people to do preventive maintenance on their bodies as they do on their automobiles and other machines. Only by reducing accidents and disease can we cut medical costs."

That is the way Leo Davis described a primary goal of health planning. Davis is administrator at the Taft Hospital and is chairman of the planning development committee of the Health Systems Agency. The agency, with offices on the A&I University campus at Kingsville, has been operating half a year now. It covers four COG regions with a subarea council operating in the Coastal Bend.

Each region is taking a different approach toward developing a comprehensive health plan. In the Coastal Bend, planning is being divided into eight categories, with three studied at a time. The first three are emergency medical care, primary medicine, and acute care facilities or hospitals. Goals and objectives are being developed in each category. A national goal may be general, such as making it possible for each person to function to the fullest extent that any limitations will allow. The local goals will be specific such as making it possible for more people to obtain kidney dialysis, and to make it available in their own homes. Public hearings on goals are being held around the region to learn what people want and feel they can afford in their own communities.

The hearings are showing a big concern for preventive health, particularly in environmental factors. Quality of drinking water, poor drainage that breeds disease and mosquitoes, inadequate sanitary sewer systems are all mentioned frequently as endangering health. Davis again pointed out the relationship to medical costs if a child or adult contracts a disease because of unsanitary conditions, is treated and restored to health, then returns to the same environment to be exposed to the same hazards.

In some communities innovative means are being used to hold health costs down as low as possible, such as nurse practitioners and physician expanders. Davis says this is a matter of community acceptance.

Davis believes cost reduction can only come through careful health planning and health education, that putting an artificial cap on costs does not get at the root of the problem. He does not consider it a question of whether we will or won't give people the best possible treatment, but one of reducing needs.

Statistics are now being compiled in South Texas that will identify disease trends. This is already showing that the tuberculosis rate remains high, as does the rate of leprosy. These statistics will be used to encourage programs that would concentrate resources on eliminating the cause of these diseases.

Davis warns that statistics can lead to some strange illusions. They can show that one of our counties has an automobile accident rate 10 times higher than that of the nation. The statistics are based on a rate of one incidence of accident or disease in 100,000 persons.

Spice Island Hero

"It's always the same. Just the audience and the stage. And all you know is that your heart is beating at a tremendous rate." Gene Simmons, of the rock group KISS.

"Beyond this, the other things in life, sex and death, are ultimately small, perhaps smaller." Billy Altman, in CREEM magazine after an interview with Simmons.

They are speaking of magic, the desperate economy of chance.

Rock at its best is the music of revelation, of triumph over anxiety and desire, of extremes. Frank Marino is a journeyman rocker, the lead guitarist of Mahogany Rush, a mediumistic talent who closes his show of Hendrix-like rock with the Hendrix at Woodstock version of "The Star Spangled Banner." Hunched in one corner of the stage, the lights out except for one, he plays in a trance until his notes slip into themselves amid the feedback and cannot find relief. The figure then stretches like some slow spark, charged, changing, a mutant now, and then Hendrix himself, draped at first, ghost-like, then as real, tall and arrogant. And the music becomes a free warrior in the will, grabbing its limit of symbol and meaning, in one nation, under God. At the end, drained, he seldom comes back for an encore.

And he is not the best. Others are more resilient, and patient. Jimmy Page, pushing or past 30, says he doesn't play "Dazed and Confused" anymore because he "got over the wall about a year ago." And Robert Plant says he, too, has licked the "lying, dying vibe."

Morrison, too, broke on thru. And he was a WASP. Those who have risen above tyranny, can and do look with wry amusement on the struggles of the masses, their martyrs, their short attention span.

But tyranny is real. One cannot serve God and history both, and a regrettable context has been established for perceptual experience. And with the rise of magic, there will be an increasing hue and cry for a new paradigm, a hue and cry dutifully managed by those in position and the service of power.

Realizing they have been encouraged to forget their magical self, the masses will again be ripe. The old symbols will again be dusted off and pored over, and people will cry for human rights.

This is right now and always, and puts Carter's plea for human rights in perspective. What he is implying is that he will lead as far as we will follow, and that is a can of worms he hopefully gave some thought to before opening. The military is already in a reactionary fever. The cagey cretins are everywhere, some even in the press, talking wild about the holocaust.

Destruction is of course much too big a job to be left in the hands of idiots like them, but they don't know that. All they know is that someone is trying to declare peace again.

Carter, like Kennedy, is trying to transcend the PR niceties and talk directly to the souls of the peoples of the world. Perhaps he is ambitious and figures he can be the President of the UN someday. Regardless, he is biting off more than he can chew unless he institutes immediate and thorough housecleanings in the military and intelligence communities. He will need as much help as he can get, and as clear an input as he can manage. And he won't be able to manage that with a cabinet full of old war criminals and power brokers, and a staff that has something to prove.

Magic requires truth and abandon, and Carter can't risk either one now, and so he is in danger of being left behind. You don't change things directly, you let a breeze through the strings, and make them curious.

In last week's birth announcement for Shane Michael Johnson, we left out the first name (Shane), and listed the paternal grandparents as Mr. and Mrs. William M. instead of William N. Shopping for air conditioning?

High EER means more efficiency.

High EER: that's the requirement to keep in mind if you plan to invest in air conditioning this summer.

EER, fortunately, isn't as mysterious as it may sound. EER stands for Energy Efficiency Ratio, and is simply a measurement of cooling delivered for energy consumed.

In air conditioning, the higher the EER number on the system you choose, the more efficiently it operates. And that means savings for you on electric bills.

Air conditioners with the same cooling capacity may vary greatly in their efficiency, with some using more electricity than others to achieve the same level of cooling. By comparing EER numbers, you can determine which unit will do the most efficient job.

Although the air conditioner with the highest EER may cost more initially, it is a better long-range investment, since you will be able to run it with fewer kilowatt hours of electricity. Look for a high EER number—preferably 8 or more—when you buy an air conditioner. It's an important way to use energy wisely.

CC Port Committee Chairman At Rotary

Economic impact on Corpus Christi and the lower Coastal Bend Area by that city's harbor activities was discussed by F.H. Buch, senior vice president of Corpus Christi National Bank and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Port committee at a luncheon meeting of Rockport Rotary Club at Sandollar Restaurant June 15.

Buch said that activity at the port itself and related business it generates makes it second only to agriculture in importance to prosperity of the area. He added that the proposed deep water port at Harbor Island near Port Aransas will enhance this situation further. He added that basically the proposed deep water port is really only an enlargement of port facilities already existing at Harbor Island, making it possible for larger ships with larger cargos to use the facility.

Buch described recent progress on improving the existing 32-mile channel from Port Aransas and the inner harbor at Corpus Christi. He explained there has been considerable silting of both the channel and the harbor resulting in decreased mobility of cargo ships and in some instances a decrease in cargos carried. Buch said disposal of dredged material continues to be a problem with both federal and state agencies exercising a degree of control. He said some of the necessary dredging has been completed and bids on deepening a mile and a half section of the channel east of the inner harbor are expected to be let in the next month.

A deep water harbor at Harbor Island will make it possible to bring in crude oil in greater quantity from the Near East to supply local refineries, he said, pointing out that previously more of the oil for local refineries arrived in Corpus Christi from the west through pipelines or by surface transportation.

Mrs. Paul Nathaniel Weaver III

Kinsey-Weaver Are Married

Miss Cynthia Joy Kinsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Kinsey of Farmington, New Mexico and Rockport, and Paul Nathaniel Weaver III of Albuquerque, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nathaniel Weaver, were wed recently in a double ring candle-lighted ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Farmington. The Rev. James G. Wayne officiated.

The altar was decorated with an arrangement of Wiborn Abbey roses and pink champagne carnations. Candelabra decorated with greenery held ivory candles. Candlelighters were Miss Kay Kinsey and Miss Joy McLead of Corpus Christi, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Alan Clawson, Albuquerque, New Mexico, accompanied by her husband, sang "As Sure as I'm Standing Here" and "With You." Mrs. Evelyn Rowe was organist for the ceremony. The couple chose the processional from "The Sound of Music," Handel's "Water Music" and "Trumpet Voluntary" as their processional and recessional music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an original gown of ivory serenade satin. Designed and fashioned by her mother, the gown featured a high-fitted bodice, full-cuffed sleeves and a skirt that formed a chapel length train. The Queen Anne neckline and the sleeve cuffs were accented with Alencon lace. Lace also edged the skirt and train.

A cap of matching serenade satin and the three-tiered finger-length veil were also edged in matching lace. The cap and veil were a creation of her aunt, Mrs. Norman McLead of Rockport.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of ivory roses and brown star flowers atop an ivory New Testament given to her at her birth by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. I.E. Allemang of Rockport.

Mrs. Brett Bradshaw, Farmington, served as honor attendant and bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill Woodard, Farmington, Miss Cheryl Weaver, sister of the groom, and Miss Connie McElyea, both of Albuquerque. Miss Janice Coggins served as junior bridesmaid and Miss Kristi Cole, both of Farmington, was flower girl. The attendants wore gowns of chiffon over taffeta designed with scoop necklines, fitted waists and full skirts. Elbow-length capes of matching chiffon completed their dresses. Mrs. Bradshaw, Miss Weaver and Kristi Cole wore dresses of chocolate brown, while Mrs. Woodard, Miss Elyea and Miss Coggins were gowned in beige. Each carried an arm bouquet of pink champagne carnations and Wiborn Abbey roses and wore bands of the same flowers in their hair. The candlelighters wore gowns of printed polyester crepe in the bride's colors of salmon, brown and beige. They also wore bands of flowers in their hair.

Neil Ely, Abilene, Texas was best man. Groomsmen were Ken Ives of Rancho Cordova, California, Alan Clawson and Mark Weaver, the bridegroom's brother, both of Albuquerque. Tim Watson, Farmington, Brian Weart and Sherman, Albuquerque, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception and dance was held at the Holiday Inn. The bride's sisters-in-law, Mrs. Stephen Kinsey, Albuquerque, and Mrs. David Kinsey, Farmington, presided at guest book.

The bride's table was laid in ivory sheer with a gathered flounce accented with lace at the deep hem and table edge. The three-tiered wedding cake, which centered the table, was frosted in ivory and accented with brown roses.

The bridegroom's table was also laid in ivory and with an over-cloth of dark brown sheer. The table was centered with an arrangement of pink champagne carnations, roses and greenery and flanked by candelabra holding ivory candles.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Norman McLead, served as hostess for the reception. Music for dancing was provided by the Basin Blenders.

Mrs. Weaver is a graduate of Farmington High School where she sang with The Sweet Sixteens. She attended North Texas State University, Denton, San Juan College and University of New Mexico where she was a member of The Collegiate Singers.

Weaver graduated from El Dorado High School in Albuquerque and attended McMurray College in Abilene and the University of New Mexico. He was also a member of The Collegiate Singers.

Rockport guests attending the wedding included Mrs. I.E. Allemang, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Johnson, maternal grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLead, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mrs. Raulie Irwin, Jr., cousin of the bride. Miss Kay Kinsey, Miss Joy McLead, Mrs. Austin Webb and Mike Webb, cousins of the bride, and from Corpus Christi, also attended.

Basic Life Support Class Completed

Six local citizens received Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation training this past week. The Basic Life Support class was sponsored by the American Heart Association with Louise Hughes as volunteer instructor. The dummy "Annie" was suffering from overwork but the class was in sympathy with her contorted condition.

Our thanks to Mr. Charles Garrett for his assistance in preparing a comfortable space at the V.F.W. Hall for this community work.

Patty Johnson, chairwoman of the Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation program, and Ken Clark, Program Chairman for the American Heart Association, were present to observe.

For information on CPR training classes, you may contact Patty Johnson telephone 729-0372. Hypertention screening is available for groups of people who wish the service. For information call Eldora Olbrick, 729-0385.

REACT Club To Vote On Lower Dues

Aransas County REACT Association held its regular meeting June 14.

It was decided to have another coffee break July 4, and Jewell Clinton was elected to be coordinator for that event.

It was also decided that at the next meeting there will be a vote to amend the bylaws of the team. The purpose of the amendment is to lower the membership dues. There is an international dues fee which each member must pay, but the local dues will be drastically cut to enable more people to become REACT members.

The next REACT meeting for Aransas County will be held in the courtroom of the Courthouse Tuesday, July 12, at 7:30 p.m.

DOGS, KIDS, BOATS AND INJURIES
Liability insurance carried by a family under a homeowner's policy covers a wide range of possible accidents.
For example: a boy may injure someone while riding his bicycle. A family dog may bite a visitor. A salesman may fall on the front steps. A power mower may sling a rock which injures a neighbor.
If you carry liability insurance, a claim filed against you will be defended by the insurance company which will supply attorneys and pay court costs. However, it will pay only up to the maximum amount of coverage of the policy. This is normally a minimum of $25,000 in the standard homeowner's policy.
Although most court awards are below $25,000, settlements have been growing larger in recent years (58% increase in the past 10 years). For a very small amount, this coverage could be increased to $100,000.

Food Stamp Benefits Revised

Households which were receiving rent or mortgage supplements from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (H.U.D.) between August 5, 1974 and October 8, 1975 may be entitled to increased food stamp benefits.

The State Department of Public Welfare announced today that the housing supplements paid under provisons of the Housing Act of 1937 should not have been considered as income to food stamp households during this period of time.

All households which were denied, or received a reduced level of benefits because of the application of this policy may be entitled to retroactive benefits or refunds.

Further details on this matter may be obtained from any food stamp certification office.

Refuge Seeks Dredging Permit

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, Austwell, has applied for an Army Corps of Engineers' permit to maintenance dredge an existing channel and construct a boat landing on the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway near Mile 501.3, west from Harvey Lock, approximately six miles south from Austwell.

The existing 30' x 1,700' channel would be dredged to a depth six feet below M.S.L. by barge-mounted dragline. Approximately 10,000 cubic yards of silt and mud would be removed and placed on an existing disposal area behind levees. A concrete boat landing ramp would be constructed at the northwest end of the channel adjacent to the existing boathouse.

Plans of the proposed work may be seen at the office of the District Engineer, at the Essayons Building, 400 Barracuda, Galveston, Texas or at the Corpus Christi Area Office, 2000 North Shoreline Drive in Corpus Christi.

Comments will be accepted by the District Engineer, POB 1229, Galveston, on or before July 8, 1977.

Dolphins Take Title

The Dolphins wrapped up their second consecutive yearly championship during the past week of senior league play at Memorial Park, winning three games.

The end-of-the-week surge clinched at least a tie for the second half race, and, combined with their first half title, gives the Dolphins the championship regardless of what happens in the final week of senior league action.

Both Jackson Seafood and Dairy Queen suffered losses to the Dolphins, knocking them out of the second half race. The Dolphins won over Jackson Seafood 12-6. Bennie Flores and Mark Setterbo combined to shut out JS for the last five innings to enable their teammates to make a comeback. Bryan Evans was the leading hitter for the Dolphins, going two for four with three RBI's. Viguel Vargas had two hits and Donald Nava three for JS.

The Dolphins beat Dairy Queen 14-1 behind the pitching of Bennie Flores, who won his sixth game without a loss, and reliever Mark Setterbo. Leo Olson was the top hitter for the Dolphins going two for two. Ernest Gonzales, George Solis, Jeff Jordan and Wayne Childers each had one hit for DQ.

In the Dolphins' third win of the week, they defeated George Miller 10 to 4. Pee Wee Soliz was the winning pitcher with ample hitting support from Bennie Flores, Ronald Dominguez and Leo Olson. Billy Ray Nunez was two for four for GM.

In other action of the week, Dairy Queen defeated Jackson Seafood 21-5. For JS, Bubba Williams went one for two with four RBI's. Chris King was the winning pitcher for DQ and DQ's George Soliz had three singles with three RBI's. Jeff Jordan had four singles and four RBI's.

BOARD BOAT RACES. The Rockport Sailing Club is sponsoring the second six-week series of board boat races for persons high school age and younger. The races are held in Little Bay across from the Meredith Long Gallery on Key Allegro beginning at 5 p.m. each Wednesday. The action is fun to watch, and things get more than tight on most of the turns, making for some fine traffic jams and energetic jockeying for position. Gay Harper won the first race series by herself. Last week, Andy McMillen with Scott McMillen as crew captured first in the first race of the new series.

Rockport Sailing Club Cruise Set June 24-25

Rockport Sailing Club members will cruise Saturday and Sunday of this week to Lydia Ann Channel, anchoring south of Marker 85 of St. Joseph Island, according to Warren Gerdine, acting cruise chairman.

Date for the cruise was incorrectly reported to the press last week as July 2 and 3. Skippers may muster off Leggett Lights on Saturday between 10 and 11 a.m. or sail independently.

Last Thursday the first of the RSC board boat races was held. Andy McMillen with Scott McMillen as crew captured first place honors with two first places and a second. Tom Harrison with Carl Holley as crew was second with a first and two seconds. Jon Shaw, Peter Booth, crew, was third with two thirds and a sixth place.

Races are held on Wednesday of each week at 5 p.m. in Little Bay, across from Meredith Long Art Gallery. Non-members of RSC are invited to participate but are not eligible for trophies. People of high school age and younger are eligible for junior memberships in the club upon payment of a $5 membership fee. The summer series will continue for six weeks and be followed by a fall series.

The club's traditional "I Can't Believe It's a Regatta Regatta" will be held Saturday, July 16. Events will include the overload race, round the mark, man overboard, capsize, old salts and skipper switch races. Additional information may be obtained by calling Gail Leslie or Walter Foster, co-chairmen, 729-0482 and 729-5176, respectively, or C.M. Henkel, Jr., commodore.

License Fees, Dates Changed

Recent action by the 65th Texas Legislature increases sport fishing license fees for both residents and nonresidents and makes those licenses purchased after June 1, 1977, valid through Aug. 31, 1978.

Those bought prior to June 1 will expire one year from date of purchase.

As of Sept. 1, 1977, fees for resident sportfishing licenses will go up from $4.25 to $4.50, and those for nonresidents will increase to $10.50.

Now, both fishing, hunting and the combination fishing and hunting licenses will be valid from Sept. 1 of one year through Aug. 31 of the following year.

License sales officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say anyone who buys a fishing license in June 1977 will be allowed to fish for 15 months at the old price of $4.25.

In many instances, according to P&WD game wardens, fishermen buy a license and without thinking consider it valid until the end of August, when actually it was valid for a year from date of purchase.

Rolleda Rolls Into Bowling Lead

Lewis Rolleda rolled a 267-256-707 series last week to lead the way in the Club 55 bowling league. Clay Lambert had a 219-580 series, and Ray Revelle hit a 229-589. Theo Graumans had a 222-599 series, Johnnie Potter a 212 game, and Larry Reasoner a 212 game.

Ed Crowley had a 212-219-209 set good for a 630 series.

Gulf Fishing Guide Offered By TAMU

Gulf fishing enthusiasts may make it a standard part of their gear, and marine biologists will find it useful in their laboratories.

It's not a new lure or scientific instrument; it's the Texas A&M University Press' newest book, Fishes of the Gulf of Mexico ($12.50, 327 pages). Supported by a grant from The Moody Foundation of Galveston, it is the first publication in the Texas A&M publishing house's W.L. Moody, Jr., Natural History Series.

More than 600 photographs and drawings, including more than 330 full-color photographs, illustrate this handy field identification guide to the approximately 500 species of fishes that can be found in the Gulf of Mexico along the Texas and Louisiana coasts and in nearby waters.

In addition to the illustrations, the book includes easy-to-follow keys to the identification of the families and species. A detailed description of each fish is provided, giving common and scientific names, identifying characteristics, abundance, importance, habitat, geographic range and approximate maximum size.

The book is by H. Dickson Hoese, marine biologist at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, and Richard H. Moore, biologist at Coastal Carolina College and associate of the Belle W. Baruch Institute for Coastal and Marine Studies at the University of South Carolina. Underwater photographs were provided by Farley Sonnier, whose work has appeared in several national magazines and who has lectured and testified frequently as an expert witness on the fish fauna of the Gulf Coast.

Texas A&M Shrimp Farm Tour Set For July 1

Will we ever have shrimp feed lots like we have cattle feed lots? A number of people in Texas as well as other portions of the world are trying hard to determine the feasibility of such an endeavor.

In response to some locally expressed interests, Ralph Rayburn, County Extension Marine Agent, has planned a tour of the Texas A&M University Shrimp Mariculture Facility in Corpus Christi.

According to Rayburn, Dr. Fred Conte, Texas A&M Shrimp Mariculture Specialist, has agreed to host the participants by presenting a slide presentation and a tour of the facilities which are co-located with CP&L's Barney Davis Power Generating Plant.

Texas A&M University has been working on the culture of Penaeid (the major commercial variety) shrimp for eight years with support from the Sea Grant Program as well as various industries. The overall aim of the Texas A&M program is to provide the potential shrimp producer with information as to the most desirable production unit design and appropriate stocking rates, as well as the affect of fertilizers, various rations, diseases and best harvesting techniques.

The tour will begin at 10 a.m. Friday, July 1, at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center on Highway 44 between Clarkwood and Robstown. Individuals interested in participating in this tour, should contact Ralph Rayburn at 729-1211 in Rockport so that a list of names can be compiled for CP&L Security officers. Only 100 people can be accommodated on the tour, so interested individuals should notify Rayburn as soon as possible.

Red Drum Act Effective September 1

Governor Briscoe nas signed legislation effective September 1 which limits the amount of redfish or red drum which can be taken from Texas waters by sport and commercial fishermen.

Major provisions of Senate Bill 624, the Red Drum Conservation Act, call for a daily bag limit of 10 redfish over 14 inches in length and 20 in possession for sportfishermen, and a limit of 200 pounds of redfish per day for commercial fishermen.

The act also specifies that sportfishermen may not possess more than two redfish over 35 inches in length.

Commercial licenses to take redfish are somewhat more expensive with more restrictions. Fee is $50 per year and may be issued only during September of each year. A commercial fisherman also must spend 50 percent of his time in commercial fishing to receive such a license and the fisherman must not be employed at any other full-time occupation other than commercial fishing.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Fisheries Division director Bob Kemp said the $50-redfish fee was in addition to the usual $10-commercial license fee and was valid only for the commercial harvest of redfish.

"The $50 fee is valid from October 1 through September 30 of the following year," said Kemp.

The way you operate your boat is a good indication of the type person you really are.

In our first venture behind the wheel of a car we have a coach sitting right there by our warm side to help us. Before we can fly an airplane we are required by law to undertake, and successfully complete, a course of training taught by a certified flight instructor. In addition we must go to "ground" school and learn such things as radio procedure, navigation and weather. Why then, when a man buys a boat, does he suddenly, and with no training whatsoever, become the best skipper in the water? Not only that, but everybody else is supposed to get out of his way, he's the king of the deep blue.

When we encounter a character of this type it certainly is a good idea to get out of his way, not that he's some kind of a king, but he is some kind of a nut.

There was a time when there were not too many boats on our waters and most of them were relatively slow. If a man made a slight miscalculation there was plenty of time to correct it. These days, considering the speed of most boats and the crowded conditions of many of our waterways, one slight miscue and your boat can hit three others then be sunk or piled up aground before you know what happened.

There can be only two logical reasons for the type of conduct we see, time after time, on our waters--ignorance and bad manners. The law is pretty specific about the type equipment we must have on our boats. Many a boater found this out in court last summer and the courts will be full again this season as the Parks and Wildlife Department increases the water safety patrols. The thing that most people don't know, or chose to ignore, is that the law is just as specific about the operation of your boat as it is about equipment.

One aspect of the law that saltwater boatmen take very seriously, but which is largely ignored by fresh-water operators, is the fact that you are responsible for any and all damage caused by the wake of your boat. When leaving the area of a dock be sure that you are completely clear of the area before you apply power. Remember that when you first apply that power, before your boat comes up on plane, is the time when you really create a wake--a wake that can be anything but helpful, if not downright disasterous, to a small boat tied to a dock. Be aware of your wake at all times. The law is.

Night brings on many dangers in boating. All our lives we have been taught to not be afraid of the darkness but this just doesn't apply on the water. It may have just been a few hours ago, in the afternoon, when you were able to safely cross a certain stretch of water with a wide-open throttle--but what changes have been made since then? Could a log have floated out there, or a lost gas can, or even a ski? Could a person be swimming across there? Any of these things could have the makings of a disaster. Slow down--use a light when you need to--KNOW where you're going.

The greatest single cause of boating accidents is said to be failure to obey the RULES OF THE ROAD. This is not a mythical code something like the rules of etiquette which are handed down from father to son. This is a hard and fast set of rules that are a part of the law. There are really two sets--one for international waters and one for inland waters. They are spelled out in black and white in Pamphlet No. CG-169 published by the United States Coast Guard. The Texas law does not spell them out. It merely refers to them and says it is against the law not to obey them.

Every boater should have this pamphlet. There is a great deal in it that does not apply to boats operating on fresh water lakes; however, much of it does apply and if you don't know these rules--how can you keep from violating the law?

the quality of entries. "I really think it will be divine this year," says Mrs. Taggart, "and there's so much new work. So many new artists. I think we're more excited about that than anything else."

Nine of the artists will be from the Rockport-Fulton area: Jane Butler/Keith Carter, photography; Rip Harrison, watercolor; Kristan Yates, watercolor, pen and ink; Dana Taggart, watercolor; Nancy Barnes, pottery; Dell Crisman, oil; Estelle Stair, oil; and Esther Lonquist, oil.

Artists from all over Texa: will be showing their work at the festival. In addition, there are artists from out of state, one each from Louisiana and Florida and two from Oklahoma. Baton Rouge's Loy Muenzler will be showing a selection of oils and watercolors. Tampa's Nancy L. Maynard has metal sculpture for show, and Nancy Louvier and Susan Bernardy, from Broken Arrow and Oklahoma City, respectively, will show pencil and conte crayon drawings and pottery, respectively.

The artists and festival crowds will be catered this year by the Campus Drive Inn in Rockport. The Rockport Chamber of Commerce will provide the liquid refreshments, including soft drinks and beer.

The planning board that put together the eighth annual festival includes Dana Taggart and Mary Albert as co-chairpersons, Nancy Eschberger as placement chairperson, Sharon Shellenbergar as festival secretary, Keith Carter as grounds chairman, Margie and Chris McMurtry as hospital co-chairpersons, and Cap and Kitty Henkel as co-chairpersons for publicity.

The cities are almost certain to appeal the ruling, as they did an earlier court's suspension of a temporary injunction against CPL. That case, on appeal, will go before the Third Court of Civil Appeals.

Attorney B.D. St. Clair, who is handling the case, could not be reached for comment, and had not contacted City Secretary Herman Johnson about the ruling at press time.

CPL and the PUC are also parties in a suit filed by rural rate users. That case is being handled by Ausitn attorney J. William Fowler, and asks more than $2.5 million in refunds or rebates to rural customers for alleged overcharges between August 23 and the February filing date. Fowler is currently preparing interrogatories in preparation for presentation to CPL and the office of Attorney General John Hill, who is defending the PUC in the case. Fowler told The Pilot earlier in the month that the case would not go to court until the completion of the Legislative session.

First National Raises Dividend

First National Bank increased the dividend on its stock for the first two quarters of 1977 to 10 cents per share at a meeting of its Board of Directors last Thursday.

Last year the dividend for a like period was six cents per share, and the current dividend declaration represents an increase of 25 percent on an annual basis. The dividend will be paid June 30 to stockholders of record as of the same date.

In making the announcement, James H. Sorenson, Jr., president, explained that for many years First National has been paying dividends on a semi-annual basis, but it is anticipated that dividends will be paid quarterly hereafter.

He also said that First National has been paying dividends, always out of current earnings, every year since at least 1935 - more than 40 years which is as far back as complete records are available.

gratefully received. Anything you are willing and able to do, from helping set up the stop on Friday afternoon, July 1, to donating an hour or two of time to serve at the break, or bring in cakes, cookies and snacks, to helping with the taking down and putting away on Monday evening, July 4, will be heartily appreciated. Going out of town? Spread the word on your CB as you travel, so anyone coming through Rockport-Fulton will know they can stop for coffee, Kool Aid and snacks.

Talented with your hands? You can help make more signs so people can find the coffee break more easily. These will also be kept for future use.

Aransas County REACT and the Truckers Association will sponsor the coffee break but only by the aid of the community can it be a real success.

If you wish to help, contact "Popcorn Machine" on Channel 22 or call 729-0233. If you cannot reach her, any REACT member will be happy to relay your offer.

Let's make this July 4 a safer and happier holiday for all who are here during that weekend. Put Rockport-Fulton on the map as "the friendliest place" anyone can go.

Directors for the group are Aransas County Judge John Wendell, Rockport City Councilman and Mayor Pro-Tem Doug Ward, and local physician Clifton Painton, M.D.

Most of the officers and directors should be on hand Thursday night to greet visitors and hear reports on progress toward incorporation and funding.

After this initial housewarming and three months of informal "rap sessions," which will help the group point its counselors toward specific local problems, set its goals, and measure its addict population for referrral purposes, the group will begin a formal counseling service and a youth activities program.

Auxiliary Sets Party

Rockport Beach will be the site of the first outing of the new Junior Auxiliary. Saturday night, June 25, there will be a free wiener roast and beach party to kick off the summer activities. The roast will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will last until 10 p.m.

The newly formed Junior Auxiliary is a branch of the Aransas County C.B. Radio Association. It is open to all interested teenagers between 12 and 18 years of age if the member or his parents or guardians have a valid FCC license. It is not necessary for the parents to become involved or to join the club, but they are invited to attend Saturday night.

The purpose of the Junior Auxiliary is to promote proper use of the citizens' band and to keep the members informed of correct FCC regultions. The auxiliary will, under the supervision of the C.B. Club, elect their own officers and directors. They will have their own fund-raising drives to enable them to become involved in the community and have their own extra curricular activities. Other events under consideration are hay rides, field trips, bowling, dances, parties, etc.

The Aransas County C.B. Radio Association currently has an 18 year minimum age to become a member. The Junior members may stay in the auxiliary until that age, and then they will be eligible to join the parent organization. The auxiliary members may participate in all C.B. Club activities such as the ticket donations being taken on the 40-channel mobile radio to be given away July 4 for the Fulton Fire Department.

The local REACT team has associate memberships open to the Junior Auxiliary to enable them to learn the operations of the REACT team and become involved with the community service organization.

Del Edwards And That Old White

NO MIRRORS. One of Edward's favorite tricks is this glass penetration. The reflection is from four separate panes, each of which will be pierced by four plastic spits. Nuts, you say, but just check the other side of this page.

Practicing magicians are almost as rare as true magic, and it was surprising to find out that the Rockport area had one of its own. Del Edwards is retired now, although he hardly looks old enough (magic of a sort in itself), and lives in a trailer house in Fulton with only a handful of mirrors and no trap doors.

He does have three doves, however, who coo and crow enough to make the trailer singular and pleasant. Two of the doves are 10 years old, female and well-trained. They were staying in an overnight bag while we were there, apparently happy. The other, a male, was crowing in another part of the house, perhaps because he wanted to be in the overnight bag.

The doves are part of a constantly evolving repertoire Edwards began when his parents gave him a small magic set when he was 14. He wore it out during his early and late teens, gave it up while he was "sowing a few wild oats," then came back to it after he married in 1935 and settled down.

Edwards began performing for free at the Salvation Army after he had mastered several tricks, did a few birthday parties and some shows for friends. He began working for small fees when he was in Saginaw, Michigan and beginning a career with Pure Oil Company. When he was transferred to Newark, Ohio, he found a small gold mine in the small towns which surrounded Newark, and worked hundreds of shows for civic groups, birthday parties, charity organizations and friends.

He found that, as a semi-professional who had no burning ambitions to mesmerize elephants or make tigers disappear, he had remarkable freedom to expand and vary his act. Consequently, he built a repertoire of several hundred tricks, from simple card tricks to complicated illusions. And as his skill and confidence grew, he began to design some of his own illusions, combining his love for woodworking with his knowledge of what performers needed and could afford. He has several original tricks now, and an agent who sells them at conventions such as the state convention of the International Brotherhood of Magicians this summer in Austin.

He came to Rockport in 1973 because he like the people and the climate and the fishing, and hasn't performed much since then, giving a few shows at the Tourist Association, the Woman's club, and some other local organizations, as well as a few birthdays. Monday, he made a hit with some Summer Reading Program children at the Aransas County Library, giving the doves a workout on the ladders and sticking them through glass, pulling them out of boxes one and two at a time, and maneuvering a wooden duck that deals cards.

MAGIC PROPS. Del Edwards poses with his veteran assistants and a selection of his props, most hand-made. From L to R, by rows, are a Chinese handkerchief box, Jo Anne the duck who plays cards, a tube that transforms silk into a dove, a drawer box for materializing doves, a dove vanishing box with a pistol on top, the illusion called "Dove Penetration," giant playing cards and a glass penetration illusion.

And he kept it short. "About 30 minutes is all you can do for the kids," he says. "That's about as long as you can hold their attention. They've got magic of their own going. When they're under six, what you do isn't magic to them." But they like to see their compadres get it done to them, he adds. "Audience participation goes over best with them. I've got one where I pull doll clothes out of a boy's shirt. They really go for that."

The adults last longer, at least 45 minutes, and they usually like the more sophisticated illusions, along with some stage patter and some flash. Edwards does chop off an occasional hand, of course, or work the guillotine on some volunteer's neck, but for the most part, he stays with the tricks that will win gasps of wonder, shock, surprise.

To keep up with the latest in the trade, Edwards has joined the newly formed Gulf Coast Magic Club, affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Magicians, of which he has been a member for more than 25 years.

The club is called a ring in keeping with magical symbolism, and includes most practicing magicians and magical hobbyists in the Corpus Christi area. Perhaps the best known to persons in this area is Channel 10 newsman Gene Looper, who Edwards says is a story-teller par excellence and a good magician to boot.

The club is open to all interested magicians if they can pass a short performance test and have enough money to pay small yearly dues. There's a member performing at every meeting, and Edwards and others pick up ideas monthly for new tricks or new ways to do old standbys. Edwards himself is adding new material all the time, building up his trade in wonder.

STICK UP. We were there when they went through, but we couldn't tell you how. Edwards says this trick and his other illusions are sure-fire winners with any audience, proving that you can fool all of the people, all of the time.

Keep On Going

They were marching down Main Street, and right at the height of the parade the tuba player blew a sour note. A really sour note.

People snickered. Some burst out laughing. But, regardless, they had to hand it to the tuba player . . . he kept right on blowing, right on going.

Makes you stop and think. Sure, it's natural to laugh at someone else's sour note. But how about our own mistakes? No one can get through life without them — that's sure.

The question is, do you stop or do you keep on trying, keep on going? If you've been in church lately, you'll know the answer to that one.

Insurance Amendment Okayed

The Senate Tuesday approved legislation which Senator Lloyd Bentsen said "will restore some measure of local self-determination to the federal flood insurance program."

The Senate passed, 49-36, an amendment by Senators Bentsen and Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.) to the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 which would lift an existing ban on home loans in some cities that do not participate in the federal flood insurance program.

"As the law now stands a community designated by HUD as having a flood hazard must take part in the flood insurance program or be subject to sanctions which prevent private mortgage lending by thrift institutions chartered or regulated by the federal government," Bentsen said in Senate remarks.

"There are those who claim that this amendment torpedoes the entire federal flood insurance program."

"It does not. I support that program and this amendment includes safeguards which preserve the program's integrity."

Senator Bentsen explained that the law still prohibits federal assistance for construction within special flood hazard areas of non-participating communities. It still prohibits flood disaster assistance to communities which fail to participate. And it still requires that lenders in affected areas tell potential borrowers that federal disaster assistance will not be available in the event of a flood.

"It is time for Congress to recognize that Washington does not have all the answers to our country's problems," Bentsen said.

"And it is time for the Congress to reassert one of America's basic principles--that the individual is the best judge of his own interests," Senator Bentsen said.

Small Business Survival Clinic Set June 23-24

Executives and business professionals from forty companies have volunteered their time and talent to produce a special "Survival Clinic for Small Businesses." The clinic will be held June 23 through June 24 from 9 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. each day at Austin's Ramada Inn South.

The clinic was organized by Garry Prince of The Employee Relations Group of Texas. Some of the nationally known firms providing assistance are National Cash Register; New York Life; Seidman & Seidman; Peat, Marwick & Mitchell; IBM; and Touche Ross & Co. Also present will be representatives from Texas Mainling & Printing, Capital National Bank, Calco, Woodward Manufacturing, Lowell Lebermann KVUE, Rector-Duncan Associates, Inc., and others representing a cross section of Central Texas companies. These representatives will give personal attention and advice on a variety of problems facing small businesses to individual participants coming to the clinic. Of particular value should be the panels on accounting, taxation, sales, and marketing. The clinic will focus on these four problem areas. A registration fee of $35.00, which includes both days and all parts of the clinic, will be charged.

Any individual operating a small business should benefit, as well as the person thinking about going into business for themselves. A special invitation is extended to women and minority groups, since Mr. Prince's original purpose in organizing the clinic was to assist and support Equal Business Opportunities. All forty participating companies share these objectives.

Anyone wishing to register should call (512) 474-4274 in Austin.

Cattlemen Urged To Register

All eligible livestock producers in San Patricio and Aransas Counties are reminded that they will need to register June 6-17 if they are to vote in the forthcoming producer referendum on the Beef Research and Information program July 5-15, says County Extension Agent D.P. Pawlik.

County offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will conduct the registration and referendum.

The law requires that beef producers register at least two weeks before the referendum in order to vote.

Producers eligible to register and vote are those who owned cattle during the past 12 months, prior to the referendum, including 4-H and FFA members, men and women.

If the vote is favorable, a Beef Board will be appointed. This board is to consist of not more than 68 members, selected from beef producer ranks by the Secretary of Agriculture as nominated by their producer organizations. Representation on the board would be proportional to cattle production in each state or geographic area.

If the program becomes operational, the Agricultural Marketing Service of the USDA would monitor it, or serve in effect as a referee, to assure that it stays within the legislative authority, and accomplishes the goals of the program as voted on by producers in the referendum.

Should producers approve the program, the initial board meeting might be held in the late fall of 1977.

Thus, it likely would be 1978 before a research and information program for cattle and beef could be fully developed and first assessments begin on sales of cattle.

Insurance Man Speaker At June 8 Rotary

Toby Cross, insurance agent associated with the Joe Hugenberg Agency, discussed various types of life insurance and how to determine the best value for the individual and his family who are shopping for coverage at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club June 8 at Sandollar Restaurant.

He said selecting the right company involves examining its reputation, how long it has been operating and the adequacy of its legal reserves. Usually rates and premiums for similar coverage are not too different so other factors are probably most important.

He said mutual companies as contrasted to stock companies usually are preferable. Sometimes returns in premiums and cash values can be the deciding factor as to total value, according to Cross, who pointed out that profits from stock companies went to the stockholders while mutual companies used their profits to rebate a portion of premiums or increase cash values. He added that while there are approximately 1,800 life insurance companies in the United States, about 300 are mutual companies with the top five or six doing a high proportion of the total business.

Cross said many people are confused by double indemnity clauses and are inclined to consider this provision an integral part of their total life insurance protection, although chances of collecting double indemnity are slim. Double indemnity is a desirable rider, but it is not a valid addition to one's total protection in terms of dollars, he said.

Rules Set For Employment Of Youths

Employers of teen-agers during the summer are urged by the U.S. Department of Labor to protect themselves from unintentional violation of child labor laws by keeping on file an age certificate for each employed minor to show that the youth is working only during legal hours and at tasks not classified as hazardous for his age.

Robert Snyder, regional head of the Department's Wage and Hour Division, notes that "working youths are not required to obtain age certificates, which are issued free by six federal Wage and Hour offices in Texas, but employers are responsible for their compliance with the laws."

For example, Snyder points out that 14 and 15-year-olds may not be employed before 7 a.m. or after 9 p.m. from June 1 through Labor Day nor more than eight hours in a day or more than 40 hours in a week.

The regulations are even stricter when school is in session. However, there are no restrictions on working hours for youths over 15.

As examples of non-agricultural occupations defined as too hazardous for 14 and 15 year-olds, Snyder cited any manufacturing or mining occupations, filleting fish, dressing poultry, laundering as performed by commercial laundries, dry cleaning, and public messenger service.

Other hazardous occupations are those connected with transportation including loading trucks, railroad cars or converyors; warehousing and storage; communications and public utilities; construction; outside window washing involving the use of ladders, scaffolds, etc.

Because many 14 and 15-year-olds will seek summer jobs in retail, food service, and gasoline service establishments, Snyder lists a number of jobs which they may accept:

Office and Clerical work (including operation of office machines).

Cashiering, selling, modeling, art work, work in advertising departments, window trimming and comparative shopping.

Price marking and tagging by hand or machine, assembling orders, packing and shelving. Bagging and carrying out customers' orders. Errand and delivery work by foot, bicycle and public transportation.

Clean up and maintenance work including use of vacuum cleaners and floor waxers but power-driven mowers and cutters are prohibited.

Kitchen and related work involving preparation and serving food and beverages including operation of some machinery but not dish-washers, toasters, dumbwaiters, popcorn poppers, milk shake blenders, and coffee grinders, nor in freezers or meat cookers. Working with food slicers, grinders, choppers and bakery mixers is out.

Work in connection with cars and trucks such as dispensing gasoline and oil, courtesy service at a service station, car washing, cleaning and polishing, and similar tasks are okay. However, they may not work around pits, racks or lifting apparatus or inflate tires mounted on rims equipped with removable retaining rings.

If there is any question about what jobs 14 and 15-year-olds may legally do, employers should call the nearest Wage and Hour office. They are located in Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Waco and are listed in telephone books under United States Government, Labor Department of --.

Theives Change Minds ; Dump Their Loot

Arturo Carrillo got quick action by default last week after he reported as missing $600 in scrap lumber he had removed from an old house one mile west of the Live Oak Country Club. That was May 29. On May 30, a man who lived nearby called the Sheriff's Department about garbage beside the road across from his residence. The "garbage" turned out to be Carrillo's lumber.

It doesn't cost anything to dream — yet.

When dieting, will power can't compare in effectiveness with won't power.

Extension Notes

By D.P. Pawlik
County Extension Agent
San Patricio & Aransas Cos.

It seems that every spring and summer, conditions are ideal for flea development. This year is no exception. Many homeowners are concerned about this pest inside and outside the home, and rightly so. The adult flea is a blood sucker and a potential disease carrier. The female flea lays her white eggs loosely on hairs, in feathers, or in the habitat of the nest. These readily fall off the host oto the ground, floors, bedding or furniture. Homes may easily become infested when animal pets are present in the house. The immature flea is white and wormlike (about 1/16 inch), and feeds on particles of dead animal and vegetable matter that become lodged in cracks and crevices.

The life cycle of the flea may take as little as 2-3 weeks to 2-3 months, and rarely as long as two years. The female lays only a few eggs at a time, but is capable of laying several hundred eggs in her lifetime. The adult flea, after having fed, may live for 50-100 days without further food, while unfed adults may live for 1-2 years. It could be that a house or basement in which cats or dogs have been permitted, may be closed during an absence of the occupant, and find upon their return to be overrun with the pests, although all animals have been excluded for a considerable time.

Control of the flea may be easy or quite different, depending upon the circumstances. Insecticides are the most effective means of control. Pest control operators are capable of ridding the home and the home environment of the pest and veterinarians can rid pets of their problem. For the do-it-yourselfer, there are several remedies available locally that will effectively do the job. Treating the inside of the house is quite different than treating the yard and shelter areas of the pets. For effective control, treat both areas. It is also advisable for your neighbors to treat their yards as well.

Remember, it is unlawful to use insecticides for purposes that are not listed on the label. Read and follow all label directions. Some formulations of insecticides labeled for flea control include carbaryl (Sevin), propoxur (Bagon), Diazinon, Malathion, and Ronnel. Some have restrictions, so read the label and select the one that is most suited for your purpose. Pets may be dipped or dusted, but special formulations are recommended for puppies and kittens. Your local veterinarian may be able to supply you with a product for these young pets.

When applying materials in the home, use a general coarse spray to floors and baseboards to a height of one foot up the wall. In kennels and sleeping areas, treat the area and bedding, then remove old bedding and replace with new material. Complete coverage of yards is essential. If the house is on a pier and beam foundation, treatment under the house is necessary. Retreatment is usually necessary in 7-10 days to kill larvae that have hatched from eggs. Fleas can be controlled, but it takes a consistent uniform effort. Good luck!

A sizable step has been taken to upgrade the net construction industry, with the approval last week of a proposal to initiate a net construction vocational course within the local area. Last week, the Aransas Pass School Board approved a proposal to establish a six weeks vocational net construction course drafted as a cooperative effort between the Texas Industrial Start-Up Program, Aransas Pass Independent School District, and the local County Extension Marine Agent.

According to Ralph Rayburn, County Extension Marine Agent for Aransas and San Patricio Counties, the idea for such a vocational class was suggested by Jack Barnes, a net shop owner/operator in Aransas Pass. Mr. Barnes was concerned that net construction was a dying art which, although essential to the multimillion dollar fishing industry of the area, was not attracting the young person who was looking to develop a desirable skill in which a sound living could be made.

"At this time we do not have a firm commitment from the Texas Education Agency in Austin, that our proposal will be acceptable to them, but with the approval by the Aransas Pass School Board as well as the TEA regional representative in Corpus Christi, it is felt we stand a good chance of getting what we have asked for," Rayburn said.

Charles Hamrick, Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Aransas Pass, said that although the class will be free and open to the public, we are shooting for 10-15 people who are seriously looking to develop a useful skill with a good future. Mr. Ronny Kullman of City Net Shop in Aransas Pass will be the instructor for the six weeks which will hopefully be the first of many such courses, says Hamrick.

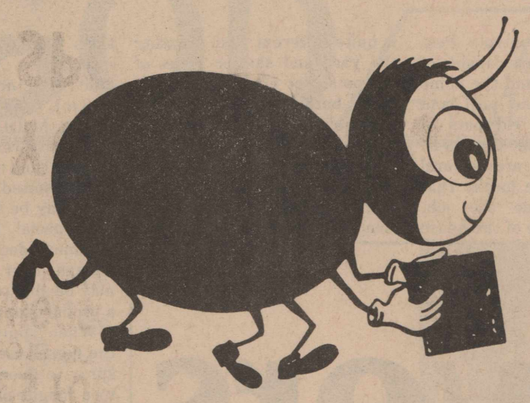

The proposed net construction class, which will attempt to teach basic net construction skills, will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 5, and meet for three hours on Tuesday and Thursday nights until August 11. The classes will be taught at the Athletic Building of the Aransas Pass Junior High, according to Rayburn. Anyone interested in this class should contact Ralph Rayburn, County Extension Marine Agent in Rockport, at 729-1211 or Charles Hamrick, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Aransas Pass at 758-3466. The class will be limited to 15 people with primary consideration given to those individuals interested in a future in the net construction trade.

Crime Watch

Mrs. Mindy Jones of Rockport was having her car worked on at Joe Meyer Exxon June 3. But before mechanics could work on it, someone else worked it over, breaking the driver's side window and left back passenger side window. Sheriff's Department deputies are investigating.

Mrs. Roy Gardenhire of Rockport had every righ to think her new CB antenna was safe. It was on her car in her driveway. But June 6, a thief was bold enough to walk right up and unscrew the antenna and walk away with it. Mrs. Gardenhire valued the accessory at $30.
