SHAMROCK — A Pilots' Sunrise Breakfast began today's St. Patrick's day festivities as about 70 airmen from 19 Texas towns flew in to take part in the ceremony.

Many Panhandle residents began arriving almost as soon as the airmen to participate in the gigantic St. Patrick's Day celebration. Towns represented at the 8 a.m. Pilots' Breakfast at the American Legion Hall were Wellington, Amarillo, Dalhart, Perryton, Canadian, Clarendon, Ft. Worth, Childress, Dumas, Claude, Lelia Lake, Kress, Tulia, Stratford, Dallas, Athens, Happy, Pampa and Shamrock.

Main Street was a panorama of color and artistic design when the long parade got underway at 11 a.m. Besides many colorful floats carrying Colleens, the parade had "old-timers" floats, comic entries and numerous bands.

The color scheme of the entire show was based on traditional Irish green, including ties, hats, shirts and dresses.

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich, throughout the day, introduced state and national officials and other visiting dignitaries from a platform located in the center of the business section.

The Irish Rose was scheduled to be crowned at 2 p.m. by Lieutenant Governor Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo.

Other activities today included a luncheon for visiting band members, Irish Jigging exhibition by L. T. Davis, square dance exhibition by the Southwestern Exposition Champions of Amarillo and an Indian dance. Each of above performances were held at the street platform.

Meanwhile, in New York, the Flanagans, Hannigans, O'Tooles and O'Flynns, . .the boys from Cork, Kerry, Dublin and Limerick, . .were swinging up Fifth Avenue today in the world's largest St. Patrick's Day Parade, Associated Press said.

Murpheys, Kellys, Sullivans and O'Briens. . .transplanted Irish.

State of War Will Continue In Germany

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The western allies have decided to shelve for the time being a proposal to end the formal state of war with Germany.

Diplomatic officials said today that the U. S., Britain and France agreed that termination action would threaten a tangle of legal complications — particularly for this country — which the three occupation powers are unprepared to tackle now.

Accordingly, a meeting of legal experts at London has been called off. Further active consideration of the idea has been postponed until a forthcoming spring meeting of the Big Three western foreign ministers.

The porposal has been under study since it was advanced by Britain last fall.

State and Justice Department officials decided a declaration formally ending the war would mean that Congress would have to concur and also revise or re-enact a mass of domestic legislation.

More than 200 statutes are still based on the continued existence of a state of war and will be automatically repealed when Congress votes the conflict is legally at an end.

Officials said British and French complications were somewhat less difficult but there was general agreement that further study was needed.

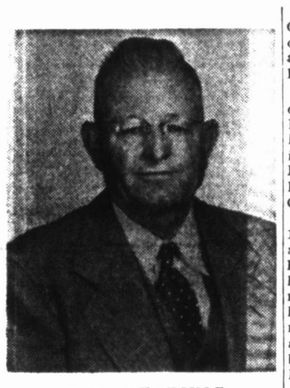

Politically, officials believe the Western Germans would be pleased and the effect of a separate peace treaty betwen Russia and Eastern Germany would be offset in part if the western allies declared Germans to be no longer enemies.

However, the American position was reported to be that few practical advantages are promised.

PERRYTON — (Special) — Arthur Green, a prisoner in the Ochiltree County jail, was found hanged in his cell last night.

Green had been placed in jail about 5:30 yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Ray Phagan on a drunk and disturbance charge. Leonard Robertson, nightwatchman, who was calling at the jail to see another prisoner, found Green's body.

Green, who was in a cell alone, hanged himself by means of his belt around his neck and tied to the upper bunk bed. The doctor said Green had been dead about an hour and a half. At the inquest a verdict of suicide was returned by Justice of The Peace Dewey Allen.

Green, 54, had lived in Perryton 24 years and had worked at the Russell Junk Yard on North Main St. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Ivan Gilbert, Perryton, and three brothers, Will and Bert Green, Denson, and Lou Green.

Life Sentence Given in Raid

KOSCIUSKO, Miss. —(AP)— One white man is under sentence of life imprisonment and another faces trial Monday in the massacre of a Negro family here.

Windol Whitt, 25-year-old bricklayer, was given life imprisonment yesterday. A jury convicted him of the murder of four-year old Ruby Nell Harris shortly before midnight last Jan. 8. Whitt is seeking a new trial.

Slated for trial Monday on a similar charge is a 38-year-old ex-convict, Leon Turner.

Windol Whitt and his 27-year-old brother, Malcolm, testified that Turner was the trigger-man in the pistol slaying of the Harris girl and of Mary Burnside, 8, and Frankie Thurman, 12.

Malcolm Whitt also is awaiting trial, set for March 27.

A Negro tenant farmer, Thomas Harris, 27, told the all-white jury that it was Turner who fired the shot that paralyzed him. Harris was the father of the Harris child and the stepfather of the two other slain children.

Slayer of Sheriff Immune in Mexico

OJINAGA, Mex. —(AP)— Officers who tracked down the admitted slayer of a Texas sheriff still face the problem of getting him back across the Rio Grande for trial. International law makes it hard to do.

The red tape might be cut by police "co-operation." The man might be extradited — but that is a tedious and uncertain process.

So far today, Texas officers hadn't been allowed even to take a written statement from 24-year-old Jose Villalobos, the bedraggled Mexican they caught yesterday.

Their only chance to question Villalobos, bruised and cut by boulders and thorns in his flight, was after his arrest in the mountains of Northern Mexico. Deputy Sheriff Mack Tarwater said the young Mexican admitted he killed Sheriff O. W. (Blackie) Morrow of Presidio County, Texas, with the sheriff's own gun.

About 100 Mexicans gathered around this adobe village's jail yesterday as Texas officials sought permission to take a statement from Villalobos.

Tarwater said the Mexicans were "curious"; George P. Dolan of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram described them as "ominously quiet."

Dolan added that officials told him the Mexicans probably would protest bitterly any attempt to move Villalobos over the Rio Grande into Presidio.

Mexican law makes no provision for turning nationals over to another country for trial. But Mexican police said border au-

Ranch Blaze Extinguished

Fire threatened John Sims' ranch and barns 10 and one-half miles east of town at 2:20 p.m. yesterday when a pile of posts and grass became ignited.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne said firemen were able to reach the ranch before the fire spread out of control.

Three other minor fires were reported yesterday. Firemen went to 121 N. Hobart at 3:55 p.m. to extinguish a garage fire. The garage, owned by C. M. Jeffries, was not damaged to any great extent, Winborne said.

A grass fire on a vacant lot in the 500 block Perry brought firemen out at 5:40 p.m., but damage was negligible.

Firemen were called to Tom Rose Ford Sales and Service at 9:40 a.m. when George Austin, porter, was burned slightly as he was washing a car engine with gasoline.

Painfull Burns Are Suffered by 2 Dallas Women

DALLAS — (AP) — Two young women were painfully burned last night by acid mysteriously thrown or sprayed on them in downtown Dallas.

The two cases occurred almost half an hour apart, but were almost identical otherwise.

Both Miss Marita June Pilgrim, 17, and Miss Gay Strange first noticed a burning sensation on the backs of their legs. Then their legs began to bleed, and they noticed their skirt hems and stockings were disintegrating.

Miss Pilgrim rushed to a department store rest room and washed off the acid. Miss Strange went to a hospital, where doctors said the burns definitely were caused by acid.

Police said there have been rumors that boys were riding around town squirting acid from water pistols.

Warning Is Issued On New Insecticide

SHERMAN — (AP) — A warning in conection with the use of tetra ethyl phyro phosphate, the much discussed new insecticide for green-bug control in wheat fields, has been issued by Grayson County Agent Ben Cook.

"There is not sufficient information to make specific recommendations for green-bug control," Cook says, "and TEPP is highly poisonous in small quantities to man. It is readily absorbed through the skin. Care should be taken to prevent contact with the skin and inhaling the mist or fumes from the spray."

Oil Allowable Plan Assailed

FORT WORTH — (AP) — The Railroad Commission is carrying a flock of unsolved problems back to Austin today.

The commission's new oil proration formula drew a sharp criticism here yesterday in one of the stormiest of statewide proration hearings in recent years.

Attacks upon the formula minimized the primary purpose of the hearing, the receiving of testimony on which to base April's crude production allowables.

Weary from the day-long proceedings before the standing-room-only crowd of oil operators and businessmen, the commission decided to return to Austin and study the complicated headache before deciding how much oil will be produced next month.

These were the major developments of the six-hour hearing:

1. Most crude oil purchasers want an April production schedule of 18 days, a plan that would give a daily allowable approximating 2,083,000 barrels, compared to 1,958,000 of March 11.

2. The new formula was attacked as not in keeping with state statutes, as discriminatory and inequitable, and as causing economic hardship on many producers, purchasers and oil towns.

3. Humble Oil & Refining Company officials warned that Texas is in danger of losing some of its oil markets to other areas by operating under the new formula.

4. Increased allowables under the new formula were asked for wells drilled deeper than 10,000 feet.

5. The commission agreed to

Pampa High Band Leads City Groups

Pampa is well represented today at Shamrock's St. Patrick festivities. Four cars, three buses and one truck, carrying the official local delegation, left at 9 a.m. from City Hall.

The delegation, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Goodwill and Reception Committee, was headed by Joe Wilkinson, policeman, on a motorcycle.

Also, several members of Pampa Fliers Association flew to the celebration and attended an 8 a.m. airmen's breakfast. Bert Howell is president of the local group.

THE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Published below, in equal space, are the arguments of each side in the controversy over a school bond issuance. The two sides are presented separately for the benefit of those who are eligible to vote tomorrow from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. at the Junior High Building. Voters must live in the school district or be a patron of it, must have lived in the state one year, the county six months, have paid their poll taxes (or hold exemptions) and have had their property rendered for taxes. Citizens today or tomorrow may have their property so rendered in the school tax office, City Hall. Here are the proposals:

AGAINST

To build two new 12-room elementary buildings, one in the Finley-Banks Addition and the other in the Fraser Addition.

To place these two new buildings nearest the patrons so that children would not be transported twice daily across the business highway in town, namely, Highway 60, and across a railroad track.

To see that the taxpayer's money is spent to the best advantage of all concerned, not overlooking the needs of the children.

To cut down the appropriations on the gymnasium and let the voters decide if they want a gymnasium or not by providing a split ballot.

To build a new Negro school that will meet the State Board of Education requirements and their own individual needs, increasing the appropriation to $150,000 or $160,000.

To provide six essembly rooms for the elementary schools, one each to those now existing, and one each for the proposed schools in the Finley-Banks and Fraser Additions.

To provide two new offices and two new cafeterias for the existing elementary schools.

To make repairs to the heating and plumbing in the three existing elementary schools to meet the needs of the students enrolled therein.

To provide suitable and safe storage and maintenance facilities for the fleet of school busses, equalling the appropriation proposed by the Citizens Committee.

To furnish and equip the above buildings.

FOR

To add 24 new classrooms to existing elementary units, bringing the capacity of each to 500-600 students.

To provide each elementary unit with adequate assembly rooms for children, teachers and patrons. This will allow the needs housed in the elementary schools, and to be removed from Junior High Schools.

To provide needed toilet and drinking facilities and replace worn out heating systems in some elementary schools.

To enlarge the cafeteria at Sam Houston School to the needed capacity. Estimate, $750,000.

To provide adequate class rooms for 12 grades for Negro children, of brick veneer, and of a type which may permit additions as needed.

To build a tile and stucco building suitable as assembly room and gymnasium for the Negro students and patrons. Estimate $90,000.

To provide suitable and safe storage and maintenance facilities for the fleet of school busses. There are 21 now in operation, representing an investment of over $100,000. Estimate, $50,000.

To build a combination vocational and physical education building to provide class rooms for high school vocational training, physical education offices, dressing rooms and showers; and a boys' gymnasium with 2,000 seating capacity. Estimate, $275,000.

To equip and furnish all the proposed buildings. Estimate, $85,000.

Total proposed $1,280,000.

Concern Over Unemployment Increasing in Washington

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government economists are showing concern over how to clamp a lid on unemployment, now inching toward the five million mark.

By 1960, they said, the nation will have to provide jobs for some 70,000,000 workers, instead of the 60,000,000 considered the top goal for the immediate post-war era.

But the increase in the labor force apparently has brought no corresponding rise in job openings in recent months.

Census takers counted 4,700,000 jobless on Feb. 11. Statisticians say the number may pass the 5,000,000 point this year, for the first time since 1941.

Already a dozen areas have been stricken with unemployment described as equal to that of 1933. While most of these are small, 43 areas are classed as having "substantial" surpluses in manpower meaning that more than 12 percent of their workers are walking the streets.

The 12 areas listed as hardest hit are Washington County, Me., Lawrence, Mass., Pottsville and Greensburg, Pa., Jasper, Ala., Clinton Ind., Cairo, Crab Orchard and Mount Vernon, Ill., Sheboygan and Muskegon, Mich., and Park City, Utah.

Over the nation, 7.1 percent of all workers covered by jobless insurance were listed as out of work in mid-February. That compares with the national average of 25 percent unemployment in the worst year of the depression, 1933.

Another 1,750,000 college and high school graduates are expected to join the labor force this spring and summer. It will be a record influx, representing the biggest wave yet of war veterans whose entrance into the work force was put off for a four-year GI education.

To help relieve the pressure, the federal government is conducting a campaign to encourage private business to make more jobs. President Truman has told Congress that 2,000,000 more jobs in private industry will solve the immediate problem.

The commerce department is assisting by steering private industry into new openings. Industries in the distressed areas are being encouraged to bid on federal contracts.

A "shelf" of public works projects is being assembled, but most of the projects are in the field of construction, which has not been nearly so hard-pressed by unemployment as certain others, like textiles.

Wise Methods for Survival Of Non-Irish Today Listed

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — An open letter to all Americans who say they didn't come from Ireland:

My friends, you are non-Irish — and this is a great day for the non-Irish!

It is a great day for you to buy groceries the previous night, lock your door and stay in your homes. That way you won't have to deal with the problem of what to do if you meet an Irishman.

But if you must go outside, friends, here are a few simple rules on how to treat any Irishman you encounter:

(1). Remember, he is moved in this hour of glory by a sense of ancient injury, a pride in his own background to hold, and an old wrath. Therefore he is touchy and quick to anger.

(2). The password, if you meet this Irishman, is a smiling "Begorra." Say it and go on. But don't make a mistake and say "Begorra!" You won't be able to go on.

(3). Don't greet him with a "Top o' the morning." That's what he is determined to say to you.

(4). If you want to give him a good wish straight from the old sod, say — "may the road rise with you and the wind be always behind you."

(5). Should you chance to drop into a bar to purchase your mother-in-law a bottle of beer, don't offer to buy an Irishman a drink. Buy him a bottle — and you go home.

(6). If you see two Irishmen discussing a subject with four flying fists, don't stop. It's a good quarrel to stay out of.

(7). If you see a weeping Irishman, don't pause to find the reason for his tears. He may not know at all why he is crying, so why make him more miserable trying to think up a reason?

(8). Don't — even as a joke — call an Irish a Mick.

(9). And above all don't play any pranks on him.

(10). Just remember that tomorrow the Irishman will be a normal man again. If you bump into him then, give him an aspirin and a kind word.

Thanking you in advance for your understanding, dear non-Irish friends, we wish you an Irish toast older than the nine lives of your great grandfather's grandmother's cat:

"Health and long life to you;
The choice of a wife to you;
A child every year to you;
Land without rent to you.
And may death come in Ireland!"

Sincerely yours,
Hal Boyle

"Food Contamination and Spoilage" will be presented Tuesday; "Three Enemies of Food Establishments," Wednesday; "Sanitization, Storage, Handling of Dishes and Utensils, Food Establishment Sanitation," Thursday and "Your job! Personal Hygiene and Salesmanship," Friday.

Senior Class Play to Open Monday Night

Pampa High School Senior Class play, "Beauty and the Beef," will be ready for its first performance at 8 p.m. Monday at the High School auditorium.

Miss Thelma Henslee, speech instructor and director, said the 22 seniors in the three-act comedy have been rehearsing daily for two weeks. The final dress rehearsal will be Sunday afternoon.

Members of the class have tickets for the production, which will be held Monday and Tuesday.

Beverly Brandt and Dale Richerson, who portray "the beauty" and "beef," spend most of their time trying to outwit the other. Beverly, who plays the part of Ginny Allen, really is "a brain," but acts dumb to try to assist "beef" with his history so he can be a star on the football team.

When beef discovers Ginny was a straight "A" student before she moved to his school, it takes the combined efforts of the rest of the cast to work out a solution to save the day.

16 Seek to Join Newly-Organized Negro Cub Pack

Sixteen boys have applied for membership in the newly-formed Negro Cub Pack 23, organized last month at Carver School.

Paul Beisenherz, Scout executive, said every boy in the school of Cub Scout age has joined the troop.

The pack will meet the last day of each month at the school. Carzie E. Petty, Carver teacher, will serve as cubmaster. George W. Duke will head the Troop Committee and will be assisted by Samual D. Motley and Clyde Durham. Mrs. Ruth Kendrix and Mrs. Lucy Barton will be den mothers.

The 20th Century Club's main project for the year is assisting at the Negro Nursery, Carver School and other places in The Flats. Mmes. J. B. Massa, G. S. Vineyard, E. L. Campbell and Fred Neslage were instrumental in the organization of the pack.

Depletion Should Be Left as It Is

Colonel Ernest O. Thompson, Amarillo, senior member of the Texas Railroad Commission, has said that the future security of the United States is imperilled by the proposal of the Treasury Department to slice the oil industry's depletion allowance from 27 1-2 to 15 percent. He pointed out that "our expanding economy depends upon the continued discovery in this country of new oil deposits," and stated that any change in the present depletion allowance will remove the incentive and "almost stop" these essential discoveries.

The reason for an adequate depletion allowance for the oil industry is simple. To find new oil, wells must be drilled — and 81 out of each 100 exploratory wells turn out dry. The drillers must go down from 10,000 to 12,000 feet in their search, and the cost of a worthless dry hole may be as much as $500,000. The depletion allowance is a necessary help in meeting these costs.

To quote Col. Thompson again, "It does not seem wise economy to disturb the present system which has built up a daily excess reserve oil producing ability here at home of 700,000 barrels per day since 1945. Left undisturbed as the law now stands on depletion, the oil explorers will find the needed reserves for our expanding economy and for the national defense. It is a pretty sound idea to leave alone a plan that is getting the job done so well."

Oil is one of the biggest tools of peace — and one of the vital weapons of defense. Only a suicidal policy would imperil our production of it.

Gracie Says

By GRACIE ALLEN

Here's a headline I saw recently and it tells a heartbreaking story: "Restaurant man asks $200,000 in union suit."

Now, any man who's down to his union suit must need money, but not so much. And if he's a restaurant man he shouldn't have to beg for it.

Take my Uncle Frank — he'd ask people for a dime for a cup of coffee, but he carried a percolator under his arm . . . When you gave him a dime he gave you the coffee. He made about seven cents a cup profit till he moved to New York. Then the water shortage put him out of business because he either had to buy his own reservoir or have the water flown in every day from Lake Erie.

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1950)

Jimmy Roosevelt, the eaglet of the dynasty, soliciting the suffrage of the California voters, is reported to have said: "Pegler has never been able to show that I ever wrote a piece of political insurance, because I never have."

Well, now, I am not sure that we could agree on a definition of "political insurance," but let us not fence. I suppose he means insurance paid for by business interests which stood in jeopardy under the Roosevelt administration. Right? If so, I allege that James Roosevelt was personally conducted to the office of Walter Gifford, the president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, by Hamilton Fish and that Fish, then a Republican congressman, pointedly said it would be wise for A. T. and T. to give favorable consideration to Jimmy Roosevelt's line of insurance because it would be well "to have a friend at court."

Ham Fish, who is himself an insurance man, explained to me that he made this introduction in this manner as a favor to Jimmy because Jimmy, like him, was a Harvard man and because there is camaraderie as well as rivalry in the insurance business. An official of A. T. and T. later corroborated Fish's ingenuous admission that he had used this coercive language to Gifford. Later, however, when this incident was published, Fish crawled slightly, explaining that after all, the fact that he was the president's son shouldn't have debarred Jimmy from bidding on this business. Fish did not deny that he had admonished Gifford that it would be well for A. T and T. to have "a friend at court." Neither did Jimmy.

Fish did, however, challenge me to prove that the great investigation of A. T. and T. by the Federal Communications Commission was a vindictive reaction of the New Deal against an insurance prospect who had not shown favoritism to President Roosevelt's son. It isn't up to me to prove that. It is sufficient for me to say that the approach was made, that Gifford stood fast and that A. T. and T. was put to vast trouble and expense of about $4,200,000 defending itself. Congress made two appropriations of $750,000 each to pay the government's costs.

The upshot was a clean bill of health for the A. T. and T.

By an interesting coincidence, on the occasion of my talk with Fish, we lunched at the Harvard Club and who turned up across the crowded room but the Empress Eleanor herself. Another guest at Ham's table was Mrs. Seton Porter. Her husband is president of National Distillers, which is one of Jimmy's major clients, clearly a political customer.

I do not know whether Jimmy is going to agree to my definition of "political insurance," but he told Walter Davenport, of Collier's, in 1938, that when his old man was at Warm Springs between election and coronation in the fall of 1932 he asked them to be nice to George Washington Hill, the president of American Tobacco, who was going there for a visit, because Jimmy wanted Hill's insurance. Jimmy wrote a policy for two million bucks on Hill and moreover the company dumped an enormous wad of money into a Boston bank which, soon thereafter, by fateful coincidence, ditched a diligent young Boston insurance man with no political connections who had drawn up a complicated group plan, and gave the business to Jimmy on a very similar basis. The Boston insurance manager sued the bank but narrowly lost.

I do not know whether you would call this item "political insurance," but David A. Smart, of Chicago, the publisher of Esquire Magazine, who had two kinds of serious trouble with the Roosevelt administration, gave me a formal memorandum stating that in August, 1937, his company, Esquire-Coronet, Inc., bought two $100,000 policies on Smart's life with John Hancock, another for 50000 from Travelers and a fourth 125,000 from Berkshire. This was a total of $375,000.

I went to Smart's office to ask about his troubles with the Post Office, which was censoring Esquire and holding up publication because it had published some pin-up art. I said, "Maybe you don't buy our insurance the right place."

"That is the hell of it," Smart said. "I did."

He then said both Jimmy and his partner, John Sargent, of Boston, barged into his office and told him that a big policy with them would be one of the wisest investments that a man in his position could make. Later on, Smart dropped the insurance. He also told me that he had loaned Jimmy $75,000.

Smart was in a jam about that time with Securities Exchange over a jiggle in the market. The $75,000 transaction did get into the SEC record but not as a loan to Jimmy, which is what Smart told me it was.

In 1940, the Emperor Moosejaw I appointed William G. McAdoo head of the American President Steamship Lines and Jimmy's company got the ship line's insurance busines. There is, of course, no doubt in the world that a man as upright as McAdoo would spurn political considerations in accepting such a job and in placing the insurance with the son of the guy who gave him the job.

The title of the eaglet's alibi so graciously spread on the record by Collier's in 1938 was "I'm glad you asked me." He took the attitude that nobody had to go on tiptoe to get information about him. That being so, if it is so, I want to ask him the truth, not the phony story that he told Davenport for Colliers, about his job as president of the National Grain Yeast Corporation of Belleville, N. J., at $25,000 a year in 1937. If he doesn't tell it, I will.

Congressman Allen Treadway, of Massachusetts, fought hard to submit Jimmy's income tax returns to expert examination in committee at the time that the tax returns of a lot of non-conformist business men were being torn apart. But the New Deal closed in and protected Jimmy. As Treadway said, it was one thing to call in Treasury experts to make rogues of Roosevelt's political opponents and another to protect the whole Roosevelt family from similar treatment.

So, I am asking Jimmy to tell us about the Smart business, the steamship insurance, his business with Mills Novelty which manufactures the one-armed bandits, the grain yeast job and his $5,000 loan from a movie magnate who was in a jam over a tax fraud and was sportsman enough to say he finally got his money back.

Bid For A Smile

The bazaar was in full swing when a young man strolled around the various selling booths. He had no intention of buying anything. As he passed a tastefully decorated booth, the attractive sales girl detained him:

She—Won't you buy a cigarette-holder?

He—No, thank you. I don't smoke.

She—Or a pen-wiper made by my own hands?

He—I don't write.

She—Then do buy this nice box of home-made chocolate candy.

He—I don't eat sweets.

She—(her patience exhausted)—Sir, will you buy this box of soap?

The young man paid up.

A 300-pound man stood gazing longingly at the enticing display in a haberdasher's window. A friend stopped to inquire if he was thinking of buying the marked-down lavender silk shirts.

Fat Man—Gosh, no! The only thing that fits me ready-made is a handkerchief.

Elsie—How do you like your new boy friend?

Florence—Oh, he ain't so bad, Elsie, only he's kinda bigoted.

Elsie—Whaddya mean, bigoted?

Florence—Well, he thinks words can only be spelled one way.

Washington.....by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — What might be called a "McCarran Plan" to replace the "Marshall Plan" for European aid has recently been unveiled in the U. S. Senate. Author of the new plan is, of course, Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada. He is chairman of the so-called Marshall Plan "watchdog" committee—the Joint Congressional Committee on Foreign Economic Cooperation. But in this case, it would appear that the watchdog is preparing to run off with what it is supposed to be guarding.

The McCarran plan has been made public through two Senate documents and a fine-type statement printed in the Congressional Record. None received much, if any, attention because all look routine and innocent. But buried in a "watchdog" committee "staff study," a McCarran report on his personal observations in Europe last year, and the McCarran statement are recommendations which, if adopted by Congress, would almost certainly lead to or force the resignation of Paul G. Hoffman as Economic Cooperation administrator. The McCarran plan is that drastic, and that much in conflict with what are known to be Mr. Hoffman's views on how ECA should be run.

Main point in the McCarran plan would be ending lump-sum appropriations for ECA and substituting specific appropriations by Congress for designated purposes. Up to now, Mr. Hoffman has insisted on general appropriations, wanting to keep his operation as flexible as possible to provide relief and recovery where they were most neded, as conditions changed.

CLEARING HOUSE PROGRAM

What Senator McCarran now proposes are specific appropriations by Congress for five programs: 1. U. S. financing of a European "clearing house" program, which Mr. Hoffman has been trying to get the ECA counties to adopt voluntarily. 2. Purchase of U. S. surplus farm products for Europe. 3. Creation of an International Reconstruction Finance Corporation. (It would apparently make loans instead of financing recovery grants.) 4. Guarantee of American investors against loss of property by confiscation, nationalization or other political risk. 5 All other programs.

Senator McCarran presents no recommended sums for any of these programs. But the following estimates have been under consideration by the watchdog committee staff: For the clearing house, 500,000,000. For purchase of U. S. farm surpluses, $1,000,000,000. For the International RFC, $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. For guarantees to U. S. investors, $30,000,000 and $2,800,000,000. This would total between $2,800,000,000 and $4,300,000,000. And on the basis of the $2,900,000,000 Hoffman for third-year Marshall Plan operations, the McCarran plan would leave him only $10,000,000 to $600,000,000 to conduct the "all other programs" which now constitute the whole ECA operation.

It will be recalled that last year Senator McCarran tried to put over a $50,000,000 forced DCA loan for Spain. On top of that, Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas tried to put over an amendment that would have required ECA to buy U. S. farm surpluses for Europe.

The three U. S. farm organizations — Grange, Farm Bureau and Farmers' Union — opposed it. That was enough to kill it then. But with lower farm prices, this dumping provision will be hard to beat this year.

BEATEN BACK

The McCarran forced loan to Spain was beaten only after herculean hammering on the fact that Spain was not a Marshall Plan country and could not become one unless admitted to OEEC — the Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

The new McCarran plan, of course, goes far beyond the amendments attempted last year. What it would amount to is converting the European aid program into an American aid program. And it is much more carefully prepared.

It is, based primarily on "An Analysis of the ECA Program," written by Watchdog Committee Counsel Hal Lackey and his staff. It was written originally for a committee "report." But since the full committee did not endorse all its views, a decision was made to present it to Congress as a "staff study."

It is admittedly a by-product of the watchdog staff's work over the past two years. It presents factually all the issues likely to come before Congress in considering next year's Marshall Plan authorizations and appropriations.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

"Pioneers of American Freedom"

In the last two issues I have been commenting and quoting from the new book "Pioneers of American Freedom" by the German scholar Rudolf Rocker. The first part of the book is devoted to Thomas Paine as being the pioneer, seeing the necessity of having a definite limited government.

The next liberal Mr. Rocker discusses is Thomas Jefferson.

He makes one statement in discussing Jefferson that I believe is an error. He says that Jefferson said: "That government is best which governs least". I have never been able to find any Jeffersonian student who could tell me where Jefferson made that statement. I have written to Samuel Pettengill who has been a keen student of Jefferson and who has written several books on him, and he said he could not find the origin of that statement. I do not believe he ever said it. If he did, he certainly was a most inconsistent individual because he believed that the state or a subdivision of the state could educate the voters. He founded the University of Virginia —one of his greatest errors.

Jefferson did however say many things that show he feared a large centralized government. Jefferson recognized the need of the citizens watching the government. He said: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty". He also said:

Errors Alone Need Government Support

"It is error alone which needs the support of government. Truth can stand by itself. Subject opinion to coercion. Whom will you make your inquisitors? Fallible men; men governed by bad passions, by private as well as public reasons. And why subject it to coercion? To produce uniformity. But is uniformity desirable? No more than of face and stature. Introduce the bed of Procrustes, then and as there is danger that the large man may beat the small, make us all of a size, by lopping the former and stretching the latter."

Jefferson was certainly inconsistent when he advocated coercing people to pay the state for what is called education. He shows in the above statement the danger of state education. He inquires: "Whom will you make your inquisitors?" And by inquisitors he means instructors and teachers. Then he goes on to say: "Fallible men; men governed by bad passions, by private as well as public reasons". School teachers are governed by the desire for more power; for more authority. They are so governed by this desire that they are willing to be recipients of involuntary payments in order to have their power extended. They are not willing to teach efficiently enough that parents will voluntarily pay them.

The author Mr. Rocker goes on to eulogize the services rendered by Jefferson and Paine. He quotes Jefferson as saying:

"In every government on earth is some trace of human weakness, some germ of corruption and degeneracy, which cunning will discover, and wickedness insensibly open, cultivate and improve. Every government degenerates when trusted to the rulers of the people alone. The people themselves, therefore, are its only safe depositories. And to render even them safe, their minds must be improved to a certain degree. The influence over government must be shared among all the people. If every individual which composes their mass participates of the ultimate authority, the government will be safe; because the corrupting the whole mass will exceed any private resources of wealth; and public ones cannot be provided but by levies on the people. In this case every man would have to pay his own price".

He quotes Jefferson as writing to Edward Carrington in 1782 to this effect:

"The basis of our government, being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter. But I should mean that every man should receive those papers and be capable of reading them. I am convinced that those societies (as the Indians) which live without government, enjoy in their general mass an infinitely greater degree of happiness than those who live under the European governments. Among the former, public opinion is in the place of law, and restrains morals as powerfully as laws ever did anywhere. Among the latter, under pretense of governing, they have divided their nations into two classes, wolves and sheep. I do not exaggerate. This is the true picture of Europe. Cherish, therefore, the spirit of our people, and keep alive their attention. Do not be too severe upon their errors, but reclaim them by enlightening them. If once they become inattentive to the public affairs, you and I, and Congress and Assemblies, Judges and Governors, shall all become wolves. It seems to be the law of our general nature, in spite of individual exceptions; and experience declares that man is the only animal which devours his own kind; for I can apply no milder term to the government of Europe, and to the general prey of the rich upon the poor."

Of course most people know that Jefferson was opposed to a centralized government, although the present Democrats eulogize Jefferson, but do the exact opposite from what he advocated.

The author of the book writes about Jefferson:

"Therefore, political decentralization is the best guaranty for the unrestricted possibilities of new experiments. For in such an environment each community is given the opportunity to carry through the things which it is capable of accomplishing itself without having to impose them on others. Practical experiment is the parent of every development in society. So long as every district is capable of effecting the changes within its own sphere which its citizens deem necessary, the example of each becomes a fructifying influence on the other parts of the community since they will have a chance to weigh the advantages accruing from them without being forced to adopt them if they are not convinced of their usefulness. The result is that progressive communities serve the others as models, a result justified by the natural evolution of things.

"In a strongly centralized state, the situation is entirely reversed and the best system of representation can do nothing to change that. The representative of a certain district may have the overwhelming majority of electors on his side, but in the legislative assembly of the central state, he will remain in the minority, for it lies in the nature of things, that in such a body not the intellectually most active but the most backward districts represent the majority. Since the individual district has indeed the right to give expression of its opinion, but can effect no changes without the consent of the central government, the most progressive districts will be condemned to stagnate while the most backward communities will set the norm. In a central state there could have been no communities like Athens, Florence, Nuremburg or Laon which have given such an extraordinary impetus to the civilization of their time."

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A unique indignation movement against downtown "bureaucrats" in the executive branch of the government by a group of belligerent members of Congress on the House side supplies further evidence that White House-Capitol Hill relations are more tense than at any time since the depression days of the Hoover regime.

The protest meeting was different from ordinary revolts because it was spontaneous and bipartisan. Moreover, it was inspired by relatively young newcomers on each side of the parliamentary aisle, freshman members who are supposed to be seen but not heard for at least six years.

Another significant factor is that a majority were veterans of years of real fighting in World War II, which may account for their willingness to take on politicians and civilian officials who have never smelled powder or eaten K rations.

NEGLECT — The protestants' principal complaint was that they have been treated with neglect verging on contempt when they have sought cooperation from the executive departments. Whether they wanted information, help in getting jobs for a constituent or data on pending or prospective legislation, they have been given the brushoff.

Strangely, too, this contemptuous attitude toward members of Congress extends down to clerks, stenographic help, assistant and undersecretaries of the various departments. In the opinion of the complainants, such minor employes would not dare to affront a congressman unless orders or suggestions had dripped down through the ranks from the top.

The two Cabinet members under heaviest fire are Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor, and Oscar Chapman, secretary of interior. The MCs think their attitude of special interest because they are the most politically minded members of the Cabinet, and have been entrusted with the task of arousing support for the renomination of President Truman in 1952.

JOBS — Secretary Acheson, of course, is the most arrogant in his attitude toward Congress generally, and several members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee took the lead in calling the recent conference.

But the group crossed him off their active black list, knowing that far more important Democratic politicos, including National Chairman Boyle, have already discussed Mr. A. with the president.

These congressional rebuffs really amount to an attempt to exert pressure on Congress to enact Fair Deal legislation and appropriations, in the opinion of the unhappy victims.

When they ask about chances of jobs for their constituents, they are informed that no places will be available until and unless Congress provides more money in pending appropriation measures.

CRASH — When they inquire about the status of certain building projects in their districts, they find that no questions may be answered because legislation affecting those matters is still before Congress, and it would be inappropriate for an executive employee to discuss such measures.

In short, the Mcs can expect no assistance from presidential departments until they come across with Mr. Truman's Fair Deal program, especially the cold cash required to finance it.

LADIES — Secretary Charles F. Brannan has blamed almost everybody for his potato troubles. But now he has jumped on "the ladies" as a major cause of accumulating surpluses.

When he was explaining why subsidies of the spud had cost almost $500 million over a period of years before the House Banking and Currency Committee, and asking for $2 billion additional borrowing authorization for the Commodity Credit Corporation, Chairman Brent Spence of Kentucky said in mild astonishment:

"Almost everybody, I think, likes potatoes."

"Except ladies," interposed Mr. Brannan. "Apparently, they have quit eating them now because they think potatoes make them fat. That is one of the explanations for the decrease in per capita consumption!"

BYRD — President Truman, who has said that there are "too many B-y-r-d-s in the Senate," is only one of numerous Democratic politicos condemning the distinguished Senator from Virginia on the ground that he votes too often with the Republicans.

In fact, a Byrd opponent once charged that he sided with the GOP 86 percent of the time, and that the senator "voted with the Republicans more than they voted with themselves."

Senator Byrd has a simple answer to the indictment. He points out that his name "begins with B," that he usually has to answer the roll call first, and, therefore, the fact is that the Republicans vote with him.

He might add that increasing numbers of Democrats, especially on his economy proposals, are beginning to vote with the B-y-r-d-s, and fewer with the Trumans.

The Nation's Press

$37,500,000 LATER

(Chicago Journal of Commerce)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation's decision to foreclose its loans to Lustron Corporation is an object lesson in the difference between private banking and government banking.

Lustron was organized to make enamel-ware prefabricated houses. It was a novel idea but not the sort to cause a private banker to toss caution to the winds. Because of the nature of the project it could not be tried on a small scale; millions of dollars' worth of heavy machinery was necessary.

The RFC shared some of the misgivings of private bankers, but President Truman pressured the big federal lending agency into advancing the money. Now—many months and $37,500,000 later—Lustron has reached a crisis in its affairs.

Potential home-owners seem to prefer houses built of more conventional materials. They have stayed away in large number from enameled prefabs. In the circumstances, the RFC has reached the conclusion, albeit reluctantly, that further loans would be sending good money after bad.

Private bankers have a clearly-defined duty to depositors; they cannot take outlandish risks with other people's money. A government lending agency is quite different. It doesn't depend on the trust of other people for its capital; it depends basically on the taxing power. It can compel taxpayers to provide the funds for risky enterprises. And if the top political boss is of a mind to, he can force the agency to support his particular brand of politics.

RFC officials believe they may recover a meager $7,500,000 from the Lustron debacle. This will leave the taxpayers holding the sack to the tune of $30,000,000.

The American economy can stand a lot of this sort of foolishness. Nevertheless, there is a limit. Millions for social lending, millions for rotting potatoes and so on, almost ad infinitum, make the billions which keep Mr. Truman's peacetime budgets at record levels.

The gentleman has already sponsored spending more than $190,000,000,000 up to Sept. 30, 1949. All preceding administrations from Washington through eight years of Franklin Roosevelt spent less than $180,000,000,000.

St. Pat's Day

By GORDON MARTIN

Sure it's quite a day for Erin and her sons who wear the green, and there's laughter in the eyes of every beautiful colleen. For the Murphys and the Rileys, it's a great eventful day, as it also is, of course, for those who bear the name O'Shay. Not to mention all the Callahans and Dugans by the score, for Saint Patrick's Day is sure a time when Irish spirits soar.

It was good Saint Patrick who spread his faith around the Em'rald Isle, and he chased away the snakes that would the Irish shores defile. So it's not at all surprising he is Ireland's patron saint, and that Irish folk must celebrate his day without restraint. It's a time to wear the Shamrock and to sing some lilting tunes, with the celebrating Connollys and rollicking Muldoons.

And it's also time to stretch your legs and dance a frisky jig, and to hoist a glass and drink the health of Paddy's growing pig. Pat and Mike may smoke their old clay pipes and toast Old Erin's sod, while McGinty dresses up and lays aside his heavy hod. On St. Patrick's Day the world extends to Irishmen a hand, for the land of the shillelagh is the home of people grand.

The Doctor Says

BY EDWIN J. JORDAN, MD

WRITTEN FOR NEA

About one-quarter of the infants under six months old who contract whooping cough die. In old people too the disease is severe and causes many deaths. Among those who recover there may be serious after effects. Although whooping cough in later childhood and in grown-up is not so dangerous, it is still an uncomfortable, disagreeable disease, and one which can produce permanent damage to the lungs, heart or other organs.

Prevention is desirable. A vaccine seems to be pretty successful in preventing whooping cough in older children or at least in making the disease milder. Unfortunately, however, the vaccine cannot be used to any great extent in infants and, therefore, special care should be taken to protect infants from exposure to whooping cough.

Several groups of research workers have helped to develop a satisfactory immune serum for the treatment of whooping cough. Thanks to them a good serum is now available. This is called "hyperimmune serum"; its value has been shown repeatedly by the dramatic effect which it has had on the death rate, especially in infants during the first six months of their lives. Some hyperimmune serum has been prepared from rabbits.

In one group of 20 infants who were exposed to whooping cough in the family, 13 were completely protected by being given this rabbit antiwhooping cough serum. Five cases were mild and only two were so severe as would be normally expected. A hyperimmune serum has been obtained from human beings. This type of serum has the advantage of being not so likely to produce a reaction or to make the person who gets it unduly sensitive.

ANTIBIOTICS USED

Still more recently encouraging treatment results have been reported from the use of one of the new antibiotics — chloramphenicol or chloromycetin. If this holds up a new weapon for infants and old people will be available.

The disease often produces a long period of confinement and discomfort, isolation and missing of school so that exposure should be avoided just as much as possible. Besides there is always the risk that some will suffer permanent damage in spite of treatment. Whooping cough is not a disease to just laugh off with the feeling that all children will get it sooner or later.

In Hollywood

NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— The Oscar nominations are out—and I'm out on that limb again.

Sometimes my crystal ball turns into an eight ball because I'm silly enough every year to predict the Acadamy Award winners a month in advance.

This year I've taken precautions.

My fingers are crossed (have you ever tried typing with your fingers crossed?), I'm wearing a four-leaf clover jauntily behind my left ear and there's a horseshoe draped around my neck.

My predictions:

BEST MOVIE: "All the King's Men."

Best performance by an actor: Kirk Douglas in "Champion." Best performance by an actress: Olivia de Havilland in "The Heiress."

Supporting actor: Ralph Richardson in "The Heiress." Supporting actress: Mercedes McCambridge in "All the King's Men."

Best direction: Robert Rossen for "All the King's Men."

Best song in a movie: "Baby, It's Cold Outside," by Frank Loesser.

Best motion picture story: "The Stratton Story."

Best screenplay: "All the King's Men."

Official results will be announced the night of March 23. Meanwhile bet your money on the ponies. I refuse to guarantee anything.

Better Rice Milling Methods Are Urged

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — An Arkansas agricultural scientist says the rice industry could profit to the tune of one million dollars if it could devise better milling methods.

Dr. W. W. Grigorieff, of the University of Arkansas, told a group attending a rice conference at the Southern Regional Research Laboratory here, breakage in milling is costing the industry that much.

Production of even one percent more whole rice, he said, would net the industry a million dollars a year, based on last year's production of 90,000,000 bushels.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon, which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 19.

The Golden Text is: "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever" (Isaiah 40:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts" (Isaiah 55:9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (page 264).

What a man does, not what he feels, thinks, or believes, is the universal yardstick of behavior. —Benjamin C. Leeming

To be always thinking about your manners is not the way to make them good; the very perfection of manners is not to think about yourself. —Whatley —Benjamin Franklin

Simplicity of manner is the last attainment. Men are very long afraid of being natural, from the dread of being taken for ordinary. —Jeffrey

Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action. —Mary Baker Eddy

Word of God: Christianity's Power

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The rapid and remarkable growth of early Christianity is summed up in the brief, concentrated statement in Acts 19:20, "Mightily grew the word of the Lord, and prevailed."

There is the secret of the motive power of early Christianity, and for that matter of Christianity ever since, wherever and whenever it has displayed phenomenal effectiveness and growth.

These early Christians were responsive to the word of God. A Psalmist, many years earlier, had written, "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against Thee." For these devout Christians, deeply responsive to their Scriptures, the word of God had become incarnated in the word of a living Christ, whom some of them had known, with whom they had walked and talked, and with whom they had sat on a mountain slope, as He revealed the good news of the Gospel and the mysteries of the Kingdom of God.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of enlightenment. In Paul's conversion "there fell from his eyes as it had been scales," and a typical experience of those who came in contact with Jesus, and listened responsively to His words, was, "We never saw it on this fashion" (Mark 2:12). It was a word of enlightenment.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of life—a word of new life. Paul described the experience in crisp words of fact, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (II Corinthians 5:17). And the effect of that expression "in Christ," was as much as to say in whatever place one lived. Christ was their environment, their atmosphere, the place where they lived.

Needless to say, the word of the Lord was for these Christians a word of love. The warp and woof of all that Jesus taught, manifested and revealed was in that word of love. The new commandment that He gave to His disciples was a commandment of love.

But the word of the Lord, being a word of enlightenment, of life, of love, was also a word of command; and it was in obedience to that command that the disciples went forth to make the Gospel effective in words and deeds, to prevail (what a fine word that is!) over the licentiousness of ancient cities, over ignorance and paganism, and over the forces of persecution that sought to destory them, their movement and their message.

It was faith in their Master, reinforced by the power of His resurrection. But that faith was more than belief, or intellectual assent. It was acceptance of a new life, a new way, a new world of truth, and right, and love — a kingdom different from the kingdoms of the world, with different standards, principles and values. Back of faith was the vision, and based upon faith was action.

Is it any wonder that the word of the Lord grew and prevailed? Has it not always been so when men and women have taken their Master seriously, and have really lived the Christian life that they have professed? Vital Christianity is the world's supreme need. But, alas! much of our professed Christianity is only conventional and formal, untouched by the true spirit of Christ.

Mexico Tourist Price Increase Not Expected

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — Mexico probably will not increase the cost of a tourist card from $2.10 even if negotiations for a new visa agreement with the U.S. fail.

On Feb. 20 the U.S. notified Mexico the present agreement would terminate March 31. Under it Mexico has been charging tourists $2.10 for a six-month visit. The U.S. has charged $2 not only to tourists but also for business visits which may be extended to two years.

After April 1, if no new agreement is reached, the U.S. will resume its old $10 fee for visas. Border crossing cards are not affected by the end of the present agreement.

The U.S. ordered the agreement terminated because Mexico has been charging business visitors 200 pesos ($41.50). There were 1,300 such $41.50 visas last year.

Anti-Trust Judgments Limit Functions of Music Group

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two anti-trust judgments against "ASCAP" — the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers—have limited its music licensing practices and forces changes in its organizational setup.

The decrees were signed in federal court yesterday, with ASCAP agreeing to terms drawn by the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice.

ASCAP, functioning as a pool of music writers and publishers, grants performing rights and collects royalties for almost all the copyrighted music in America.

The main provisions of the decrees will do this:

1. Force ASCAP to cut all ties with international organizations that might lead to a monopoly of foreign music in the U. S.

2. Make ASCAP end all arrangements giving it sole control of a foreign country's music, or which require similar foreign societies to deal with ASCAP.

3. Require ASCAP to offer movie producers and television stations a single license to cover all performances of music in a film or telecast.

4. Prevent ASCAP from suing movie exhibitors (theater owners) for royalties.

5. Give any commercial user of music who questions ASCAP's royalty rates a court review of them.

6. Allow any of ASCAP's 2,400 members to license his music independently or to resign from the society at any time.

hold a special hearing on a suggestion natural gasoline production be prorated.

Most of the criticism of the new formula adopted with the March allowable order came from operators and businessmen interested in the Van, Thompson, Webster and Canyon Reef Scurry County fields.

These are the fields of from 2100 to 7000 feet in depth and holding high MER's — the maximum efficient rates at which a well can produce without waste.

The formula tossed aside last month by the commission gave primary emphasis to MER's or the ability of a well to produce.

The operators asked the commission to return to the MER system, described as the only fair basis for a real proration program.

They charged it is unfair and discriminatory for production in some fields to be cut as much as 66 percent while other fields remain unchanged or receive small increases.

They presented statistics designed to show that the March order made a statewide production cut of 5 percent, but that the Scurry fields were slashed to 1/3 of their MER's, Van by 50 percent, Thompson by 66 percent and Webster by 65 percent.

Rayburn Thompson, spokesman for Pure Oil Company, a Van field operator, advised the commission "to take another look at the new formula and recognize some inequities."

"Any formula cutting any field by 50 percent overnight is too drastic," he said.

If Steaks Were Homers Reds Would Be Tops

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — It takes 18 steers to provide the steaks ordered by the approximately 40 ballplayers in the training camp of the Cincinnati Reds during their six-week stay here.

That figure was supplied by the manager of the club's spring hotel, who explained that the average steer weighs about 600 pounds, 150 pounds of which is cut into steaks. (The estimate covers only two meals as the ball players do not eat their midday meal at the hotel).

Behind steak in eating popularity for the Reds is the weekly output of fish, about 175 pounds. The seafood runs from pompano, most expensive, to red fish, which is the most reasonable item.

The combined efforts of about 200 hens will be required to furnish the 84 dozen eggs the Reds consume each week. The players also drink about four gallons of fruit juice a day. The squad daily does away with 30 heads of lettuce, five gallons of ice cream, five pies, 16 pounds of butter, six quarts of cream and 50 loaves of bread.

The team officials also discovered that the players eat more the first two weeks of training than during later weeks.

Bad Circulation Gets Blame for Headaches

DALLAS — (AP) — Medical science has discovered that many cases of chronic headache which in the past had been attributed to sinus trouble actually are caused by faulty blood circulation in the brain, a Missouri medical expert declared here yesterday.

"Careful nasal and sinus studies will result in diagnosis of headache of nasal and sinus origin with accuracy," said Dr. Robert E. Votaw of St. Louis in speaking at a clinical session of the 19th annual spring conference of the Dallas Southern Clinical Society. Instability of circulation in the brain actually causes many of the headaches which seem to be of sinus origin, Dr. Votaw said.

Fire-Razed Recruiting Station Won't Reopen

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — The bracero processing station destroyed by fire at Eagle Pass Thursday morning will not be reopened, William A. Whalen, district director of immigration, said here.

from Gaelic-speaking fishing villages, from mountain cottages, from Dublin's fair city marched proudly past St. Patrick's Cathedral in honor of their beloved saint.

Raffertys, Muldoons, Hogans and Morans. . .they and their dark-eyed colleens got the day's festivities started when the two-and-one-half mile march got underway at noon.

It will last at least five hours, and if the marchers were all in one line it would stretch over 15 miles — more than the length of Manhattan Island itself.

There are more Irish in New York City than in Dublin. A good share of them were on hand.

In addition to the 100,000 marchers, about a million other persons watched from the sidewalks and the windows towering above the street. To hold the crowd in check, almost 4,000 policemen were assigned to the march route.

As always, there are two main reviewing stands.

One, on the steps of the St. Patrick's Cathedral, recognizes the religious meaning of the day honoring the man who brought Christianity to Ireland 1,500 years ago.

Catholic clergy were on the cathedral steps — although one familiar face was missing. Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, is absent on his Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome.

The other reviewing stand is at 64th Street, where civil authorities take the salute. Here Irish - born Mayor William O'Dwyer and New York state's lieutenant governor, Joe R. Hanley, will stand. Another familiar face was missing here, too. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, recovering from a shoulder operation, planned to attend but was forbidden by doctor's orders.

thorities, if satisfied of a man's connection with a crime, often "push" him across the border as the simplest way to get action.

If Mexican officials don't deliver Villalobos to the Presidio sheriff's office, a formal request for him probably would have to go from the sheriff's office to the governor of Texas, from there to the U.S. State Department, then to the U.S. embassy here, to the Mexican foreign office, to the attorney general's office and finally to the president.

Most of the Texas officers had pulled out of here today. Dolan wrote:

"A Presidio resident, who asked that his name not be used, explained that a Mexican rancher who is an American citizen, is working behind the scenes and that Texas officers think he can pull the necessary strings sooner.

"He said that earlier a Mexican official had arranged to smuggle the fugitive across the border into Texas.

"'But there was too much publicity,' he explained, 'he got cold feet.'"

Dolan reported the president of the municipality of Ojinaga refused Presidio County Attorney Norman C. Davis permission to interview Villalobos without first getting permission from Governor Fernando Foglio Miramontes of Chihuahua. Miramontes was enroute to Juarez and couldn't be reached.

Morrow, 43, was shot to death early Sunday on a lonely road between Presidio and Shafter, a ghost mining town in the rugged Texas Big Bend.

A posse headed by Texas Ranger Gully Cowsert picked up Villalobos' trail early Monday about half a mile from the spot where Morrow's body was found. The horsemen, in two days, trailed Villalobos to the Rio Grande. Mexican officers joined the pursuit then, and Villalobos was run down yesterday.

Newman and Carver Are Speakers At White Deer High School Assembly

WHITE DEER — (Speical) — Dr. Guy Newman, assistant to the president of Baylor University, and the Rev. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, were guest speakers at a White Deer High School assembly, Wednesday morning.

Dr. Newman spoke on "The Attributes of a Good Personality," naming among the most important, a smile, kindness, and a genuine love for people.

The Rev. Carver introduced the main speaker and led in prayer.

This assembly was one of a series in observance of the third annual Good Grooming and Good Posture Week, sponsored this year by the Doe and "W" Clubs of the high scool.

At the fourth assembly, Wednesday afternoon, Janice Marlar was named as "Good Grooming Queen," Jimmie Bowers as "Good Grooming King," LaVerne McAdams as "Good Posture Queen," and Billy Wilkerson as "Good Posture King." They were chosen by a secret committee and will be given special recognition in the high school yearbook.

At the first assembly, Monday afternoon, Roberta Corder, assisted by Dorothy Barnett and Mary Lou Skaggs, demontrated the 14 points of good grooming; and Wendell Cain discussed proper walking and sitting habits.

On Tuesday, with Roman Hightower, general chairman, in charge, various titles such as "the Clark Gable of White Deer High," "The Yo-yo King," and "The High School Romeo," accompanied by suitable gifts, were awarded to a number of high school boys. Jimmie Bowers, "The Gene Autry of White Deer," sang several numbers, accompanying himself on the guitar; and Sam Mulligan, "The Voice," sang two numbers, playing his own piano accompaniment.

Miss Mary Green, assisted by Madeline Dowd, Jean Tiffany, and Carolyn Evans, demonstrated proper posture.

Concluding the series of programs, with Mrs. B. R. Weaks, sponsor of the project presiding, Jon Scott, Tom Horn, Wendell Jordan, Miss Barnett, Miss Corder, and Miss Hightower conducted a panel discussion of "dating etiquette" and some of the problems of teen-agers.

HOW IMPORTANT IS A LAWN MOWER

Dear Grace Friend—

We have just moved into our new house, and since we are on a limited budget, we have gotten only the furnishings that we must have. Our yard is a small one, but it will still need mowing. Since we cannot afford to buy a lawn mower, we were wondering if it is the proper thing to borrow one from one from one of our neighbors.

We haven't gotten acquainted with any of them yet. There are new houses going up on both sides of us, so the closest neighbors are two and three doors away from us. So far only one of them has approached us, and since we are still getting ourselves settled, we haven't yet had a chance reciprocate in any way. However, maybe I am worrying about the matter too far in adavnce. I would like your opinion, though.

Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.:

If you have just planted your lawn and as it won't need mowing very soon or very often for a while, I believe that you might borrow your neighbor's mower occasionally if he has offered to help you get settled.

However such a practice is not very desirable over a period of time.

If I were you I would price a second hand mower and buy one as soon as possible. You will find that it pays in the long run to have your own mower in your garage so that you can work on your lawn when you wish. As sure as you plan to mow your lawn on a certain day you will find that your neighbor is using it then and you will get off your schedule.

I believe that used mowers are quite reasonable and if you start saving for it now you will have it by the time your lawn is ready for mowing.

Not having to borrow from your neighbors will be good for your morale.

I have another suggestion: Perhaps your new neighbors and you might buy a mower among you and have its use on certain days each week. However, the inconvenience of such plans overweighs the small amount you will save.

LETTER FORWARDED

Dear C. K.

I have forwarded your letter as you requested.

INVITED EXTINCTION

The dodo trusted everybody, neglected to develop its air power, and became extinct. When the island of Mauritius, home of the dodo, was invaded by man, the birds stood around and let themselves be knocked over with clubs.

Rippling Capes and Winged Sleeves Point up Easter Styles

Mobile silhouettes star in the Easter parade, achieved by a wide cape collar and gored skirt (left), by a winged cape that sweeps below the elbows and around the back (center), and by the intricate joining of a cardigan costume's skirt (right). The double-breasted coat is in black and white checked worsted, trimmed in jet black around cape edge and fake pocket flaps. The short, breezy topper in summer-weight red tweed teams up here with the accordian pleated skirt of a navy wool dress. There's a black silk blouse, hidden by the brief jersey cardigan, attached to the skirt worn by the girl carrying spring furs to top off her bright 1950 ensemble.

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Easter fashions set spring in motion. Rippling capes, flaring pleats, winged sleeves and fluttering panels give mobile silhouettes to the costumes that step out in front of the parade. Clever restraint in the use of fabrics is exercised by designers to avoid any look of bulkiness. Many of the top designs balance slim lines with motion-making details.

An outstanding example of this flattering combination is a black and white checked wool coat designed by Phillip Mangons. It's slim, fitted and fastened with a double row of jet black buttons to the waistline. A wide cape collar mantles the shoulders and ripples across the perfectly tailored back, and the gored skirt flares out in action. Narrow black trim edges the cape and outlines fake pocket flaps.

Made for action are the brief, flaring toppers that may be jackets for suit skirts or the covering companion for a separate dress. Because design interest is concentrated in small space, these toppers manage to look in motion even when they're not.

For example, there's a sleeveless waist-length topper designed by Bruno in bright and summer weight tweed. What gives a mobile look to this shortie is a winged cape that swings out in a wide arc over the arms and back. The cape is anchored in narrow points at the throat. The front of the topper is fitted at the bodice and banded snugly at the waistline.

The wool dress is enjoying high favor for Easter, too. Slim lines are given fluid softness by intricate shirring or knife-sharp pleats.

One noteworthy example of this graceful handling is Trigere's cardigan-styled costume in beige-toned kasha wool jersey. Artfully-placed shirring around the waistband forms soft folds which, in repose, accentuate the slim cut of the skirt, but flare out as you walk. A black silk crepe blouse top for the skirt is simply tailored.

The jersey cardigan, bound in black ribbon, stops just under the bosom line, revealing a wide midriff band of the black silk blouse. Pearl buttons fasten the cardigan, which has push-up sleeves.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

A few highlights on men, women, and marriage.

When a woman claims a man is being made a fool of — it's always by some other woman.

A wife's most generous compliments don't do as much for a inquire sweetly: "Has he shown man's ego as an appreciative glance from some other woman.

The most cruel cut of all: When a balding man is making an impression on a much younger woman and his wife comes up to you the snapshot of our new grandchild?"

It pleases a wife to know her husband likes her new outfit — but she isn't really satisfied until she can measure its impact on the members of her bridge club.

Never envy the woman whose husband "gives her everything." It may prove he loves her, and again it may just mean that he's a show-off at heart.

Many a well-to-do widow has lived to collect her erring husband's insurance because in moments of marital crisis she thought more of her future than of her pride.

To forgive but not forget a quarrel is to leave smoldering embers that will set off a new blaze of anger the moment the tiniest bit of fuel is added.

If men were as logical and practical and steadfast as women wish they were life with them might be rather dull . . . but many a wife would be willing to give it a try.

What's RIGHT?

You are going to a dance.

WRONG WAY: Hand your compact and lipstick to your escort to carry in his pocket.

RIGHT WAY: Take a small evening bag along to put them in and look after it yourself.

Pampa Boxers Face Shamrock Tonight

Tonight is the night that the Pampa Boys Club gets an opportunity to see if the first time was just an accident. The boxers go to Shamrock to face the strong Irish ringmen in a return bout. Earlier this year the two clubs fought to a draw.

Tonight's bouts will be held as part of the celebration for St. Patrick's Day. The fights will be held in the High School Gymnasium, starting at 7 o'clock. A card of about 15 bouts is expected.

The Pampa team, lacking in experience in comparison to several of the Irish fighters, has recruited, with the consent of the Shamrock coach, several boxers from Amarillo in order that three of the tougher and more experienced Shamrock boys will be matched to fight tonight.

These three bouts will bring Benny Martinez against Shamrock's Donnie Ray, Pete Perez against Shamrock's Joe Landrum and Monte Scott against the Irish 147-pound Bobby Campbell.

Several of the other fights that will probably be on tonight's card will see Billy Ed Cooper face Kenneth Woods, Jimmy Bennett meet Billy Cambell, Bobby Wilhelm face Jerry Pennington, Keith Kelly meet Ed Carver, Delmar Cox meet Jimmy Pennington, Gary Watt against Butch Hurtt, Gary Wilhelm against Bobby Tremble, Frank Smith meeting John Holly Ronnie James facing Forrest Thompson, Claude Porterfield boxing John Pennington and Thomas Grantham meeting Billy Pavlousky.

Other members of the Shamrock team include Gilbert Lawler, Gaston Tarbett, James Neal, Jerry Bennett, Jerry Hurtt, Don Burkhalter, Carroll Tremble, Tom Christener, Steven O'Gorman, Clarence Jones, Paul Hall and Paul Cooper.

Other members of the Pampa team include, Dickie James, Carson Watt, Tommy White, Dick Murray, Myrle Estes, Robert Mauldin, Bill Chapman and Leon Kelly.

As an example of the experience edge that the Irish team has, Donnie Ray figures he has fought in over 85 fights while Jerry Pennington has been in about 55.

Mr. T. J. Watt is coach of the Pampa club and H. Callan heads the Irish squad.

Boys Club Team To Fight Here On April 12

The Pampa Boys Club boxing team will receive at least one opportunity to perform before the home crowd, it was revealed yesterday when the Junior High School Gymnasium was obtained for a team match with the Panhandle High School Panthers. The bouts will be fought on Wednesday night, April 12.

The Wednesday night date was more or less forced on the club if it was to fight any home fight this season. The gymnasium was made available on other nights, but each conflicted with some other sporting event or fell on a night when the Panthers were unable to fight. Thursday night was taken with the Oilers first home exhibition game and Friday the Panthers schedule is full.

This bout, in all probability, will be the only boxing to be held in Pampa this season. The boys club team has hung up a good record in its first season, as well as provided a lot of good entertainment for a lot of boys who otherwise would have nothing to do.

Three Sleepers In NAIB Meet

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — There was one favorite and three "sleepers" left in the National Intercollegiate (NAIB) Basketball Tournament today.

Showing up for tonight's semi-finals will be:

Indiana State, of Terre Haute, two-time finalist and the only remaining seeded team; University of Tampa (Fla), Central College of Fayette, Mo., and East Central (Ada) Oklahoma State.

The Oklahomans and Missourians will meet in the feature game. Indiana State and University of Tampa, open the firing.

East Central Oklahoma Tigers scored one of the most decisive victories in the NAIB's 12-year-history by routing Brooklyn College, 84-52, last night.

Central of Missouri upset defending champion Hamline University, 76-66, Wednesday night.

Central won its quarterfinal battle, 65-55, over Central Washington College of Education.

University of Tampa advanced by beating Davis and Elkins of Elkins, W.Va., 81-69.

Indiana State coasted by Baldwin-Wallace, of Berea, Ohio, 61-39.

Softballers Meet At 7 Tonight

Tonight, at the City Court Room in the City Hall, the 1950 softball season for Pampa will get underway with an organizational meeting. All fellows in the city or surrounding areas who plan to play, enter or manage teams, are asked to be present to select officers and make early plans for the operation of the league this season.

The meeting will start at 7 o'clock.

Last season Skellytown was the power team of the league, but lost to the K. P. Lodge team in the playoffs at the end of the season.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The lower house of the New York State Legislature has passed a bill forbidding morning-afternoon or afternoon-night baseball bills with separate admission charges . . .Carried to extremes, this two-for-one idea would require all moves to be double features, basketball cards doubleheaders, lights double-windups and maybe that all winning race horses should pay at least 2 to 1. . . And Coach Stan Woodward of the N.Y. Compass suggests a "second drink on the house" bill, too. . .

A HECK OF A NOTE.

When the Chicago Cardinals signed (not drafted) a speedy back named James Gus Kallas from St. Olaf College in Minnesota, tub-thumper Eddie McGuire sent him the usual personal questionnaire. One question was "Do you play a musical instrument?. . .James Gus filled the blank space with "tissue paper wrapped around a comb."

'Birddog' Trice Named to Lefors Grid Coaching Job

TODAY'S PITCH — Jack Kramer, who buys his Argyle sox by the dozen, and arrived in Phoenix, Ariz., with two trunks and a dozen suits, selects something casual for lounging at the Giants' hotel. Waived out of the American League from the Red Sox, Handsome Jack will do his pitching for Leo Durocher in the New York Polo Grounds.

LEFORS — (Special) — The Lefors Pirates have a new assistant football coach. He is Weldon "Birddog" Trice, who will graduate from West Texas State in June. Trice will serve as line coach, filling the spot vacated by Coach Mac Winter, who took over the head coaching job a short while ago when James Love resigned to accept a similar position at Electra.

Trice, 26 years old, was co-captain and center on the 1949 Buffalo football team. His home is in Childress, where he played four years of high school football and also played in grade school.

Trice served with the U. S. Army for two years, where he was a boxing coach and P. E. instructor.

His addition to the school system rounds out the football coaching staff for the Pirates. Mac Winter will be athletic director and head football coach, assisted by Trice, and James A. Beam will be grade school football coach.

Bradley, CCNY in NIT Finals

Meet Saturday For Champion Of Big Tourney

NEW YORK — (AP) — Bradley's dashing Braves still stand today as the country's No. 1 basketball five and potential winner of college basketball's two major championships—the NIT and NCAA.

The versatile Midwest quintet meets CCNY for the National Invitation Tournament title Saturday night. Next week the Braves try for the NCAA championship, other half of basketball's grand slam.

Topseeded Bradley raced by St. John's of Brooklyn last night, 83-72, to advance to the weekend NIT finale. There the Braves have to contend with an upstart CCNY sophomore team that is the sensation of the tournament.

Unseeded and unranked in the final Associated Press Poll, City College walloped defending champion San Francisco and Kentucky, then defeated Duquesne in last night's semifinal, 62-52.

Off last night's performance, the smoother Bradley looks four or five points better than CCNY. But City, which ended its regular season with a fair 17-5 record, now is playing much better than at any time this season.

St. John's will meet Duquesne for third place in the curtain raiser Saturday.

Yanks Look Like '49ers; Bosox-Braves City Series Opens; Boudreau Hit, Like Old Times

By the Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— The lineup of the New York Yankees is beginning to look more like the one that won the world championship last year.

Catcher Yogi Berra, late signing up for 1950, is back behind the plate and the team's regular second-base combination, Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman, worked together yesterday for the first time this season. The Yanks walloped Washington, 13 2.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The New York Giants are glad they have a handy man like Bill Rigney around.

Henry Thompson, Negro third baseman, is sidelined with a sprained right ankle. Rigney fills the gap.

VERO BEACH, Fla. — Willie Ramsdell, 32-year-old Brooklyn Dodger "rookie," will get another big chance tonight when he faces the New York Yankees in Miami.

Willie had spotty trails with Brooklyn the past two seasons but was optioned out. He was successful with Fort Worth and Hollywood.

SARASOTA, Fla. — Lefty Mel Parnell, the Boston Red Sox' 25-game winner a year ago, and veteran Joe Dobson were named by Manager Joe McCarthy to face the Boston Braves in the opener of the five-game "city series" today at Payne Field.

BRADENTON, Fla. — The Boston Braves, smarting from four straight exhibition game losses, travel to nearby Sarasota today for the first game of their "city series" with the Boston Red Sox. Lefty Warren Spahn, rookie Normie Roy and young Johnny Antonelli were named to work.

TAMPA, Fla. — Manager Luke Sewell took a good look at his Cincinnati rookie crew yesterday under game-time conditions and seemed pretty happy about what he saw.

Ed Bailey, of the University of Tennessee, caught the last three innings as the Redleg "B" squad defeated the St. Louis Cardinal reserves, 9-8.

SAN FRANCISCO — Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians rubbed a smarting left hand today and probably thought it was just like old times.

The shortstop was clipped yesterday in Los Angeles by a fast ball off rookie pitcher Bill Connelly in the first inning of a Chicago White Sox-Indians exhibition contest.

The Tribe won, 5-4, in 11 innings.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — Manager Billy Meyers of the Pittsburgh Pirates is shopping for a catcher.

Meyer said he's not satisfied with his present setup which includes catchers Clyde McCullough, Eddie Fitzgerald and Earl Turner.

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Though the Chicago White Sox have lost their last four exhibition games, Manager Jack Onslow has a glint in his eye. He thinks Bob Cain and Bill Pierce, a pair of young southpaw pitchers, showed top form in holding the Cleveland Indians scoreless for seven innings yesterday. The Sox lost 5-4.

ANAHEIM, Calif. — The Chicago Cubs appear to be the "hitless wonders" of the 1950 baseball exhibition circuit.

The Cubs got only two singles yesterday in being shut out, 3-0, by the Sacramento Solons.

LAKELAND, Fla. — The rain clouds that cut short an exhibition game Friday between the Detroit Tigers and the Philadelphia Phillies did a favor for Art Houtteman, Bengal pitcher.

Houtteman had been nicked for five hits, including a triple and a double.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Three veteran St. Louis Cardinal pitchers are slated for mound duty today in an exhibition game against the Washington Senators.

They are Howard Pollet, Max Lanier and Ted Wilks.

BURBANK, Calif. — Hurler Vernon (Pete) Taylor, a namesake of Manager Zack Taylor, is among 13 St. Louis Browns pitchers making a trip to Phoenix today for a three-game series with the New York Yankees.

COLLEGIATE LEVEL—Not Golden Superman or some other harnessed character, but Lehigh's Eric Erikson, with protective headgear, is being worked over by Kenneth Hunte of Syracuse in Eastern Intercollegiate wrestling championships in Dillon Gymnasium, Princeton, N. J. The Orange won the title with 32 points, Co-captain Hunte's 6-0 decision in the 155-pound class being the key match in besting runner-up Lehigh.

780 Schoolboys Open Action at 27th Southwestern Recreation Track Meet

FORT WORTH — (AP) — The schoolboys — 780 of them — move out today in first competition of the twenty-seventh annual Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet.

Athletes from 76 schools go through preliminaries with only one defending champion in the field. He is Dean Smith of Graham, who last year won both the 100-yard and 220-yard titles.

Tomorrow morning the collegians hold their trials. Finals in all five divisions — university, college, junior college, college freshmen and high school — will be held tomorrow afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

There are clear-cut favorites in three divisions — college, junior college and high school. North Texas State is expected to defend its title in the College Class, Schreiner Institute is picked to win the Junior College crown and Odessa is a hefty favorite in the High School Division where its sophomore sprint sensation, Joe Childress, matches strides with Smith in feature races.

Six schools are in the University Class. They are Arkansas, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech, Baylor and Hardin-Simmons. No records appear in danger but a battle for the title between Arkansas and Baylor has been projected.

It is the first year for Texas and Texas A&M always the top teams, not to be in the meet, but this only makes the field wide open.

Colleges entered are North Texas State, Texas Western, University of Houston, Austin College, McMurry, Oklahoma Baptist, Southeastern State of Oklahoma, Phillips, Southern College of Commerce (Fort Worth), Stephen F. Austin and Midwestern. Johnny Slack of North Texas State threatens the discus throw record. He did 145 feet 10 inches last week in the Border Olympics. The record here is 145 feet.

Three are 13 junior colleges headed by Texas Southmost of Brownsville, the defending champion. Other entries are Schreiner, Paris, Edinburg, Cisco, Victoria, Arlington State, San Antonio, Tarleton State, Kilgore, Odessa, Tyler and Decatur. Carl Otsuki, Brownsville dash star, appears likely to wipe out the 220-yard record of 21.8. He has done 21.9 this season.

The College Freshman Class has drawn Austin College, Baylor, Hardin-Simmons, McMurry, North Texas State, Oklahoma A&M, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Arkansas.

There are almost 1200 contestants entered in the track and field meet. Golf has drawn 16 universities and colleges in one class and 15 high schools in another.

Mack Hopeful For 1950 Team To Turn Trick

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — (AP)— Connie Mack is as sharp as the green necktie he saved for St. Patrick's Day. At the age of 87, the Grand Old Man of Philadelphia briskly strides into his golden jubilee year as manager of the Athletics.

"I feel we have a good chance," he tells reporters just as he must have done back in 1901. The kindly old gentleman never changes. Each spring he thinks his team can win.

Maybe he has something this year. The A's certainly figure in the scramble. Millions of sentimental Americans are pulling for the tall, spare Irishman to win "just one more pennant."

Mack rates his infield "very much better" with Bob Dillinger, purchased from St. Louis for 100,000, a fine replacement for Hank Majeski, a "very slow man."

"I may try to go along with two catchers," he says. "Joe Tipton looks very good. So does Joe Astroth. There is a chance I'll get rid of Mike Guerra, who hasn't signed yet."

Sam Chapman and Elmer Valo are set in the outfield. The other job porbably will go to Ben Gunitini, a .306 hitter at Dallas, unless McCoskey is ready to open.

Dick Fowler, Joe Coleman, Lou Brissie, Alex Kellner, Carl Scheib, Bob Hooper, Bobby Shantz and reliefer Ed Kleiman are set on the pitching staff.

Pep Seeks Fast KO of Famechon

NEW YORK — (AP) — Featherweight Champion Willie Pep will be gunning for a quick knockout tonight when he risks his featherweight crown against Ray Famechon, the "unknown" French challenger in a 15-round title bout in Madison Square Garden.

Reports have reached the champion's camp that the Frenchman has been holding out in his public workouts and has been practicing on the sly, away from the prying eyes of newsmen and pep scouts. Not too much is known about the European featherweight king, who makes his U.S. debut in a blue chip bout.

"I'll be shooting for a kayo," said Willie. "But if I have to go 15 rounds, I'll be ready to go all out at the distance."

The bookmakers, aware of Pep's dazzling workouts in Hartford, have established Willy the Wisp as a standout 5 to 18 favorite.

My Biggest Boner

Manush Runs to Third With Head Down, Winds Up in St. Louis

By HEINIE MANUSH
Former American League outfielder and batting champion.

It was Ty Cobb's first appearance with the Athletics in Detroit in 1927 that marked the day I pulled my Biggest Boner in Baseball.

The crowd at the then Navin Field overflowed out on the field.

It was the seventh inning. The score was close.

Charley Gehringer doubled for the Tigers, and I hit to left center field for two bases. Shortstop Joe Boley took the throw from the outfield, and made a play for me at second, but I slid in safely.

Eddie Rommel pitched with a fast wind-up, and as he did so, I took off for third base.

There, to my utter astonishment, I found Gehringer.

"What in blazes are you doing there?" I asked him.

"I don't know, but I'm still here," replied Charley in his dry way.

I looked around for a place to hide, couldn't find one, so—"I'm going back to second," I said.

To make a short story shorter, the A's put out both Gehringer and myself in run-down plays.

We got the Philadelphia club out in their half of the eighth, and George Moriarty was waiting for me when I returned from center field.

"I'll admit running with my head down," I confessed, "but since when can't Gehringer score from second base on a two-base hit?"

Manager Moriarity was coaching at third base, you see, so he probably didn't like that.

I don't know whether the remark had anything to do with the deal, but it wasn't long before I was on my way to the Browns.

And the year before, and in an era of remarkable hitters, I had led the American League in batting with .378.

Anyway, that was my Biggest Boner in Baseball.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hause---News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What four active American League pitchers have won over 100 games?

WHEN OWNER M. L. Wilkison, of the Lubbock Hubbers, purchased the Donna club of the Rio Grande League earlier this week, it put the State of Texas atop the nation in professional baseball. It completed the eighth league within the state and made 47 clubs from Texas in organized baseball, two ahead of runner-up North Carolina.

Up until the time that Wilkison purchased the Donna club it appeared that Texas and North Carolina would be tied for the lead. Without Donna in the Rio Grande the league would have had to fall back to a six-team league.

Leagues this year which have Texas clubs are:

Texas — 5, Gulf Coast — 4, Rio Grande Valley — 8, Big State — 8, East Texas — 8, West Texas-New Mexico — 6, Longhorn — 7, Arizona-Texas — 1.

Wilkison reportedly paid a total of $27,500 for the Donna Baseball club, its property and ownings. The Hubber owner said that the new club gave the Lubbock club a natural farm for surplus players, even though the Lubbock team will keep its working agreement with Vernon of the Class D Longhorn League.

Wilkison also disclosed that he had signed George C. "Baldy" Quinn, former National and Texas League player, to manage the club. Two former Hubbers, shortstop Jackie Wilcox and outfielder Chick Fowler, also are expected to join the Donna club, on assignment from Lubbock.

It won't be long now and the Oilers will be opening their spring drills. They open at home here on March 27, a week from Monday. Owner R. L. Edmondson has nearly all of the crew under contract and looks forward to a fine season.

The new manager, first baseman Virgil Richardson, is due in town this weekend to get things in readiness for his first season at the helm of the Oilers. He will be looking over his prospects, on paper, and getting acquainted with the new names and faces due this season.

The rest of the players will be drifting in during next week and will be hunting apartments and houses for themselves, teammates and families. Anyone who has some place available for these players might contact the Oiler management so that the players can move right in when they arrive.

And speaking of baseball, things are reportedly glum for the Red Wings of Joliet, Ill. The Red Wings, who won a number of pennants during the past ten years, are the prison team at Stateville, Ill.

Joseph E. Ragen, warden of the state institution, said prospects for this season are dull because most of the team's stars have been paroled.

Abb Curtis, veteran Southwest Conference grid official, is returning to the Conference. Last season he served as supervisor of officials for the Pacific Coast Conference. He returns to the Southwest Conference in that same capacity, as well as assistant to the executive secretary on the athletic conference staff. The announcement was made earlier this week by James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest Athletic Conference.

Curtis served many seasons in the state of Texas working high school and college and basketball games. Despite the fact that he isn't too dearly loved in this area as a result of unpleasant occurrences at one game he worked here several years ago, the elevation to the new job shows the high esteem that is held for him by his colleagues.

Then there's the tale about Yogi Berra.

Berra and Frank Shea were paired as roommates while the Yankees were staying in Philadelphia last summer. Berra was first to enter their hotel room. Unable to locate a bed, Yogi telephoned Road Secretary Frank Scott.

"There's no bed in this room, Scotty," he said, "I want a room with a bed."

"There are Murphy beds in the room," explained Scott. "Look in what appears to be a big closet. Open the doors, and pull the bed down."

"Wait a minute," replied Yogi, putting the receiver down, opening the doors, and pulling the bed down.

"You don't expect me to sleep in this thing, do you?" he asked, returning to the telephone. "It might snap up with me at night."

Scott had to change his room, give him one with a bed he could see smack dab on the floor.

ANSWER: Four American League hurlers — Bob Feller, Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Trout and Allie Reynolds — all have won over 100 games.

Pancho Getting Tired of Tennis

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — (AP) — Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a member of the Bobby Riggs' professional tennis troupe, said today he plans a year's layoff after the completion of the present schedule in June.

Gonzales was severely beaten by Jack Kramer, 6-2, 6-1, last night. It was Kramer's 69th victory in 89 matches.

Louis Boxes In Amarillo Bout Tonight

Tonight's the night for Panhandle fans to see Joe Louis, the mighty Brown Bomber of the boxing ring, in action in Amarillo. He will fight a five-round exhibition bout with Sterling Ingram, heavyweight champion of the state of Colorado. The fight will be one on a card that includes five other professional matches.

The bouts will be held in the Municipal Auditorium.

The matches include one 4-rounder, three 6-rounders, and a 10-round windup.

Babe Hotter Than Weather in Augusta Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. —(AP)— Thirty-six champions hoped today the weather would heat up and Babe Zaharias would cool down in the second round of the Titleholders Golf Tournament.

The Babe had a comforting, if not comfortable, three-stroke lead over the titleholders' field at the start of the second of four rounds of medal golf. She shot a finely fashioned par 72 yesterday.

Mildred Zaharias was elected the greatest woman athlete of the century's first half in an Associated Press poll and a victory this week would get in her bid early for consideration when the AP takes another poll in 2,000 A. D.

Long and lean Claire Doran, a Cleveland High School Latin teacher, had the best chance today of closing in on the Babe. Miss Doran shot a woman's par 75 yesterday. No player managed a 76 but Helen Sigel of Philadelphia and Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., got 77's.

Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, another near six-footer, scored a 78 to lead a three-way jam at 79. The girls with 79's were Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., National Open champ Louise Suggs of Carrollton, Ga., and Marlene Bauer of Midland, Texas.

The rest of the 37-woman field was strung out between 80 and 95.

Most of the gallery tagged along behind little Marlene Bauer.

Marlene mixes in enough good golf with blue eyed beauty to satisfy all types of gallerites.

Abe Lower of Albany, N.Y., laid off bowling for six years and on his recent return to the alleys he hit 196, then 146 and finished with 300.

GOLFING LADY — Miss Barbara Jeanne Belschner has the kind of form that indicates a promising golf future. The 3½-year-old Kenosha, Wis., tot concentrates on the first three holes at Petrifying Springs course, can tour the 340, 280, and 400-yard holes in from 10 to 11 strokes. Adults marvel at the finesse with which she handles her specially-made set of clubs with 24-inch shafts.

Oliver Tops Scoring In Border Conference

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Wade Olivery center for Arizona State College at Tempe, was the highest individual scorer of the Border Conference basketball season.

He racked up 303 points in 16 conference games for an average of 18.9.

Texas Tech, a fifth place finisher in the conference, posted three men among the top seven scorrs — Chet Jackson, Jack Alderson and Eugene Gibson.

Bears Baseball Coach

WACO — (AP) — Baylor's head baseball coach and football assistant for the past four years will be the Bears' new business manager of athletics.

Appointment of A. E. (Pete) Jones to the job was announced yesterday by athletic director George H. Sauer. H. V. Bradford, backfield football coach, will become baseball coach.

Sauer also appointed F. A. Crow to the new post of assistant athletic director in addition to his regular job as football assistant.

Bums Get Regulars Back, So Only Two Jobs Open

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

VERO BEACH, Fla. —(NEA)— The Dodgers have been a most unusual club since the war.

Until Jackie Roosevelt Robinson made good in 1947, only one man, Pee Wee Reese, could be classed as a regular. This despite the early brilliance of Carl Furillo.

As recently as a year ago, these three alone knew precisely where they stood.

Now there are fights for only two jobs, third base and left field, and the Brooks can't be any worse there than they were. They have the men who played the positions last trip.

Bobby Morgan, the International League's leading hitter and most valuable player, will start at third. Spider Jorgensen would be traded for a pitcher. Billy Cox is still around, and Eddie Miksis can play anywhere.

Although he has the reputation of beinng a bit of a rockhead, Gene Hermanski is the solid man in left field, where he probably will alternate with the right-hand hitting Tommy Brown. Between the left-hand hitters, George Shuba, back from Mobile, has more chance than Cal Abrams, the lead-off man recalled from Fort Worth. Snider and Furillo are fixtures, of course.

As I am writing elsewhere, young Morgan is likely to round out the classiest Brooklyn infield since Ned Hanlon's day. Reese, Jackie Robinson and The Body Hodges. What more do you want? An egg in your beer?

Roy Campanella will continue to give the Superbas as good catching as there is, even if Bull Edwards' shoulder doesn't come around. Steve Lembo, who batted .291 with Montreal, is the third man.

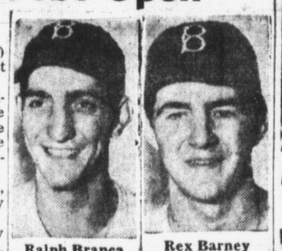

A comeback on the part of either of the "B" boys—Ralph Branca or Rex Barney—would put the pitching across, and I have a hunch this is going to be the burly Branca's year. Two other "B" boys figure, Jack Banta and Dan Bankhead, who won 20 for Montreal.

The stickout, of course, is Don Newcombe, actually gunning for 25, and Preacher Roe will be there in key spots. Joe Hatten is capable of beating all but the Cardinals, and he got around to the Red Birds in an important engagement late last season. Phil Haugstad accounted for 22 for St. Paul with an earned - run average of 2.85.

There are Erv Palica and Carl Erskine, and Willard Ramsdell, the knuckle baller who copped 18 for Hollywood with an ERA of 2.60 is back. Malcolm Mallette is the left-handed "sleeper" drafted from Sacramento. Ezra McGlothin, from Montreal, has a chance, and Billy Loes is a bright bonus baby.

Bill McChan, who came from Toronto in the Athletics' deal for Infielder Kermit Wahl, appears loose. He was highly regarded before injuring his arm as a member of Connie Mack's troupe.

It is no top secret that Burt Shotton would like to have another starting pitcher as insurance, but the consensus is that the Dodgers will do a bit better than all right—and repeat—with what they have.

Ralph Branca

Rex Barney

How can you beat a combination like that?

Ask the Yankees. They did it last October.

But that was one short series, and the Brooks are a strengthened young club coming on.

New Manager

DALLAS — (AP) — Doak Walker has completed his football eligibility at Southern Methodist and thus passes from the scene the fellow the fans called "the playing coach."

The Doaker, three times All-America, was a smart cookie. When some one criticized Walker in a game last fall for passing on fourth down, Assistant Coach H. N. (Rusty) Russell observed: "Walker is doing all right out there and I don't aim to get in his way."

The Doaker was a gambler in football. Just let SMU get behind and he'd try anything. It usually worked.

But the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame game indicated that there'll be a "playing coach" on the team again next fall. He's H. N. Russell, Jr., son of the assistant coach.

Little Rusty quarterbacked Southern Methodist flawlessly in its great showing against Notre Dame.

With Walker out with injuries, it had been figured that big Kyle Rote would do the quarterbacking. But Coach Matty Bell, used Little Rusty, saying it helped make Rote a better runner.

"We found that when Rote had to call the plays it impaired his efficiency as a runner," Bell said. "So in the game against Notre Dame, Rote didn't have to do the thinking."

Rote had his greatest day in football against the fighting Irish.

Little Rusty has a great football background. He played the game from the day he could hold a football because his dad has been coaching a long time. And Russell, Sr., is known as one of the greatest offensive coaches in football. Little Rusty just naturally absorbed about all there was to know about it from hanging around his father. He played at Highland Park (Dallas) High School and now he has been at Southern Methodist two years. His father came to SMU as a coach in 1945.

Kleiner's Kotner

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

The exhibition games are underway, and, as usual, they serve to prove several things.

(A) — That rookie pitcher, with the 23-6 record in the Class D League, still needs about 17 years of experience in the minors.

(B) — That phenomenal outfielder, who looked like another Babe Ruth in practice, is really just another babe.

(C) — Exhibition games are usually exhibitions — pretty frightening exhibitions, at that.

Gorgeous Gussie Moran created a junior-sized furor in Cairo, when she appeared on the courts in brief black shorts.

While she's in Egypt, the pyramids have changed their name to the peer-amids.

Harry Daniels, trainer of California's Kentucky Derby threat, Your Host, thinks California water is essential to Your Host's condition. He took along several hundred gallons of water for the colt to drink while east.

Your Host may not win the Run for the Roses, but he's already captured the Run for the Hoses.

Trophy Time Nears For Hockey League

NEW YORK — (AP) — National Hockey League stars are eagerly awaiting the selection of the loop all-star team and trophy winners —because $14,000 will be passed around to players named.

The official NHL all-star team will be named by the coaches for the fourth straight year. Each player named to the first team will receive $1,000; every second team member gets $500.

In addition, winners of each of the five trophies awarded to outstanding stars, receive $1,000. The Art Ross trophy is given to the league's leading scorer. The goalie who allows the fewest goals during the season gets the Vezina award. Most valuable player is given the Hart Trophy. The Lady Byng trophy is awarded to the player who best combines "efficiency with gentlemanly conduct." The Calder Memorial cup is the property of the loop's top rookie.

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: After Azalea Palmer found her father with his skull crushed by a desk telephone, Los Angeles police suspect her fiance, the sculptor Paul Moody, who was in disfavor with the wealthy murder victim, Wendell Palmer. Police detectives James Stivers and Pete Kelso have gone to Moody's studio to obtain fingerprints to compare with those found on the telephone.

IX

DETECTIVE JAMES STIVERS opened his kit and set to work, while Detective Pete Kelso wandered about, ogling the statues and emitting wolf whistles at some of the more helpless beauties eternally caught half-dressed or less than that.

Finally Kelso wandered over to the desk where Sculptor Paul Moody kept his files and his correspondence. Kelso sat down, opened a drawer and began to rifle its contents.

But Stivers went to him and said:

"In the first place you've got no legal right to inspect these papers; and in the second place, I can use this desk. I've got to write some labels for these prints, and I might as well write a lot of them at once."

Kelso hoisted himself reluctantly out of the chair and sat on a marble bench a little aloof; but he watched Stivers with a fascinated and baleful eye.

After the Scientific Investigation Division man had photographed a goodly number of prints and recorded them, or simply lifted them with tapes, he glanced up the stairway and said:

"He's probably got a bathroom up there and his shaving mirror and soap and other things ought to give some perfect specimens. I think I'll go up and lift a few."

Taking with him his camera, a spool of tape, his phials of dusting powder and brushes, Stivers climbed the steps and disappeared from Kelso's sight—as Kelso did from his.

WHEN Stivers came back down the steps, Kelso was at the opposite end of the great studio minutely examining Paul Moody's complex model for the National Electric Building.

Stivers could not see him at first but at the sound of his steps Kelso came out from behind the model. He tried to crush his beaming smile into a look of compassion.

"Too bad this guy Moody won't never finish that job."

"Too bad!" said Stivers and sat at the desk to finish his work. He was just making his last records in his notebook and packing his kit for departure, when he heard a footstep.

He looked up and saw a man whom he assumed to be Paul Moody. The man who entered looked like a sculptor. He looked like sculpture. His head and features seemed modeled with keen knowledge of bony structures and as if with pride in them. His long hours in the hot sun beating on tennis courts had tanned him till he had almost the look of bronze.

His features were set in a stern and fixed expression of anger and wonder at the intrusion, but his eyes were alive and gleaming.

His shoulders were square, his torso solid and powerful, and the hand that held the cigar he had just taken from his surprised lips was a potent hand, a hand that Stivers had been coming to know very well from its fingerprints.

But to make sure of the man's identity Stivers said:

"Who are you?"

"Who are you?" came the echo in a belligerent voice. "This happens to be my studio."

"You Moody?" said Kelso.

"Yes."

"I'm pleastameecha. I thought you'd took a powder on us."

"A powder on you?" This with some bewilderment.

"That's what I said. But here you are. You've saved us a lot of shoe leather, and everything will be just dandy if you'll come along quiet."

"Come along where?"

"To the station house."

"Why?"

"As if you didn't know! It's all up, brother. We've found old man Wendell Palmer right where you left him laying after you croaked him."

"Croaked him? Wendell Palmer is—is—dead?"

"Dead."

"My God! How did it happen?"

"That's what they all say. But don't ask. Tell me. Better yet, you can tell the desk how you done it in self-defense after the old man made a heinous attack on you."

* * *

STUNNED as if he had been smitten on the head, Paul's heart dictated his first cry:

"Poor Azalea! Poor Azalea!"

"That's what we all think. She's a nice kid. You'd ought to thought of her before you put her old man away."

Paul turned from the gloating Kelso, to Stivers.

"You tell me what's happened. Is it true that her father—Mr. Palmer—has been—has been—"

Stivers nodded, and hated his own share in the business.

"Mr. Palmer's skull was crushed with the base of a telephone. The Medical Examiner found him DOA."

"DOA?"

"Dead on arrival. I'm the fingerprint man for SID. I've been taking these prints at the house, and now here—on orders. If your prints weren't on that telephone, you've nothing to worry about. If they were, you've got plenty to worry about; for I've got the prints."

"But I never touched the telephone."

"Then you've nothing to worry about. Fingerprints don't lie."

Acheson Policy Talk Reaches To Grass Roots of America

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Acheson's major foreign policy speech before the Commonwelath Club in San Francisco Wednesday, promising non-communistic Asiatic countries limited aid in their fight against "Soviet - Communist imperialism," took the unusual form of being directed to the grass-roots.

Acheson was speaking not only to the American people but apparently was reaching out in an effort to contact the rank-and-file of Asia's millions rather than restricting his remarks to governments. And President Truman let it be known that he had read Acheson's address in advance and thought it "a fine speech."

America's assistance would cover military, financial and technical aid. It could be used only to "reinforce the efforts which others are prepared to make on their own behalf." That's a less blunt way of saying that Uncle Sam can only help those who help themselves.

The secretary stressed that the greatest threat to Asiatic progress and freedom is the attempted penetration "by Soviet-Communist imperialism and by the colonialism which it contains." He emphasized this thrust by declaring that communism is a "tool of Soviet imperialism" and perverts the real democratic revolution. The American people are the real leaders of a "revolution by the common people."

China naturally occupied a prominent part in the address. Acheson called attention to the all-important fact that the Reds may use that country as a base for new thrusts.

All these facts are useful for America to know. They will be trebly useful if they can have any considerable distribution in China and neighboring countries. So far as China is concerned, the Chinese Communist regime, which controls most of the country, does everything possible to block distribution of such information.

However, an authoritative Chinese source in New York tells me that undoubtedly Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek will see that this speech gets a wide distribution on the mainland. He presumably will broadcast it from his headquarters on Taiwan (Formosa), and may supplement that by having it printed on leaflets which will be dropped by his planes at strategic points.

VOTES AT 100— Mrs. Robert Stather, of Tottenham, London, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday, leaves home to vote in the British Parliamentary elections.

Texas Tech to Drill Intentional Dry Hole

LUBBOCK — (AP) — At Texas Technological College, they are getting ready to drill an "oil well" — with no expectations of hitting oil.

The college's department of petroleum engineering will use the well for study and Professor W. L. Ducker, head of the department, said work should begin within 60 days.

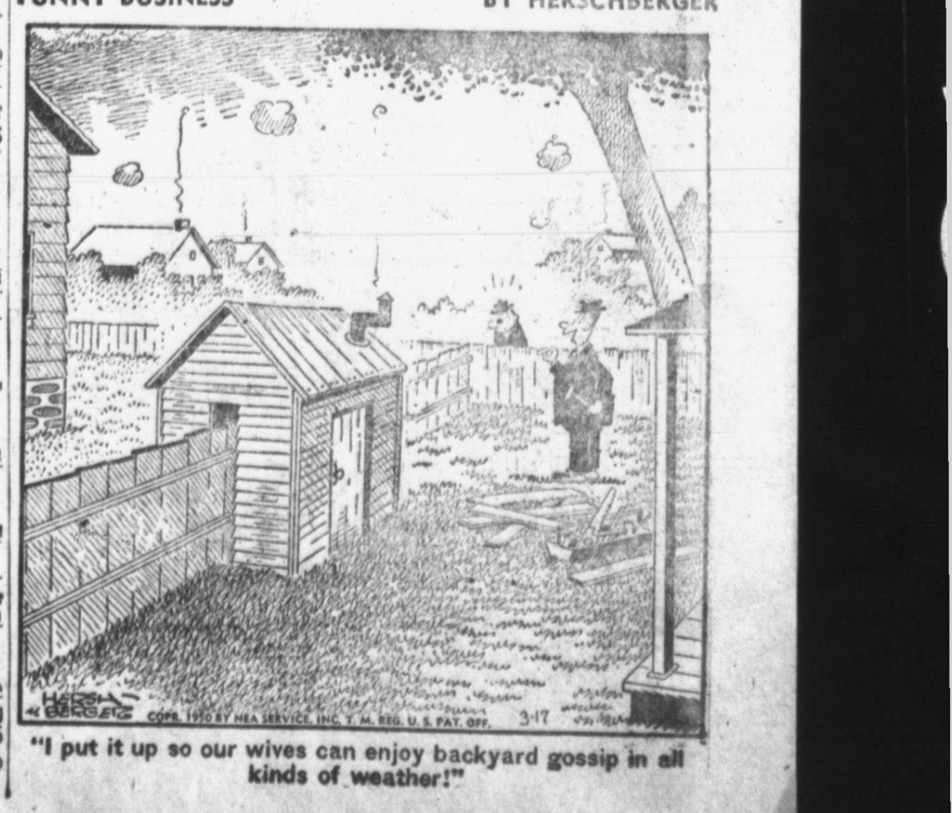

A contractor, who donated his services, will handle the actual drilling. After the drilling is finished, the hole will be used by students to set up pumping problems, run botton-hole pressure and temperature measurements.

Name of the well will be: The Texas Tech No. 1.

Audubon Camping Sessions Open at Kerrville June 18

NEW YORK — Appointment of Dr. Charles LaMotte, professor of botany at Texas A. and M., as director of the Audubon Camp of Texas, has been announced in New York by John H. Baker, president of the National Audubon Society.

Baker stated that the Audubon Camp, located at Schreiner Institute, Kerrville, will open June 18 for its first of five consecutive two-week sessions.

Purpose of the non - profit camp for adults, according to Mr. Baker, is to advance the cause of conservation education in Texas. "In its past two summers of operation," he says, "the Audubon Camp, sponsored by the National Audubon Society, has demonstrated to hundreds of teachers, Scout and recreation leaders, camp counsellors, garden and civic club members, and just plain citizens, how fascinating it is to gain first-hand knowledge of animals, plants, soil and water and their interrelationships."

Through daily field trips campers become acquainted with life in a variety of natural habitats: pond, stream, field and forest. "With trained naturalists as guides," says Mr. Baker, "our Audubon campers develop an appreciation of the interdependence of living things and their relation to the soil and water of their habitat. It is increasingly evident that no state can maintain its natural resources until their conservation becomes an essential part of the thinking of the majority of its citizens. The Audubon Camp is dedicated to that objective."

"Texans can well be proud of their bountiful natural resources," according to Mr. Baker, but he warns, "it is going to require a lot of understanding to use these natural resources so that they are not dangerously depleted. Texans are invited to attend one of this summer's sessions at the Audubon Camp to learn more about their great resources and what needs to be done to conserve them."

"The setting of the Audubon Camp of Texas is particularly fortunate," Mr. Baker observes, "because it is located high in the hill country of the Edwards plateau, on the banks of the picturesque Guadalupe River, about 60 miles northwest of San Antonio East and West overlap here and enable campers to observe living things native to many parts of Texas. Campers are comfortably housed at Schreiner Institute where meals are served."

Annual Fish Rodeo Set at Lake Dallas

DENTON — (AP) — The first annual fish rodeo at Lake Dallas has been set for April 1-July 31, Kib Hundley, president of the Lake Dallas Boosters Club, has announced.

Fishing during the rodeo will be free to all sportsmen at the camps on the lake and prizes, cash and merchandise, will be offered for the largest crappie caught and for those tagged.

Crappie, furnished by the state fish hatchery at Lake Dallas, will be tagged and planted in the lake. North Texas merchants will offer prizes for large fish and tagged fish.

Getting Rid Of Antelope No Light Job

DALHART — (AP) — Anybody got a good remedy to get rid of antelope?

John Jaster found 19 antelope grazing off his 280 acres of wheat, 15 miles north of here.

It's against the law to shoot them. Jaster tried to shoo them, but they wouldn't shoo.

Jaster made a rush trip to Dalhart to get help from the game warden — but Game Warden Jess Felts was somewhere traveling his six-county territory.

Jaster left an "S.O.S." and rushed back home to "reconsider" with the antelope.

The game commission has advised the Dalhart wheat farmer bothered by the beasts to wave his hat if "boo" doesn't work.

That ought to scare 'em, said Executive Secretary Howard Dodgen of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

Even if they don't scare off, the antelope really doesn't hurt the wheat. Nineteen antelope on 280 acres will graze it about right, make it spread and form more heads, Dodgen thought.

He was commenting on a report that John Jaster, Dalhart wheat farmer, was having trouble with antelope.

Dodgen said the law won't let Jaster do anything radical, like shoot the game. He can run the antelope off if he doesn't want them on his farm.

Hall County 4-H Clubs Win Electrical Program Award

CHICAGO — The 275 boys and girls of Hall County who took part in the 4-H Better Methods Electric program last year had a hand in winning the handsome bronze and green plaque recently presented to the county extension office by Westinghouse Educational Foundation.

Hall was selected by the State Club Office, at Texas A & M College for doing the most outstanding job in the project. Every year one county in each state is given this recognition.

An increase of more than 200 homes in one year energized by electricity was revealed in a survey of Hall County farm homes made by 4 H Club members, according to W. B. Hooser, county extension agent. Work done in the better method project has done much toward educating 4-H'ers and their parents in the use of electricity, he declared. Typical jobs analyzed were watering and feeding livestock, milking, drying threshed grain for storage, caring for pigs at farrowing, and brooding baby chicks.

A long list of household uses of electricity reported by club girls included cooking, sewing, preserving food, cleaning, washing, ironing, clocks, radios refrigeration and dehydration of foods. Both boys and girls were keenly interested in the program, and acquired a basic knowledge of uses and care of electrical equipment. They also learned how to make minor repairs reported Mr. Hooser.

County medals were presented to 48 boys and girls throughout the state for individual accomplishments in the project.

Name of the program has been changed this year to 4-H Farm and Home Electric. Westinghouse will continue to provide all awards offered in the project which include trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall and six $300 college scholarships.

Hoof-Mouth Program to End in July

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — The present foot and mouth disease program now being conducted in Mexico by a joint commission will be brought to a close in July after a successful two-year campaign.

This was announced here by Oscar Flores, Mexican sub undersecretary of agriculture and director of the aftosa campaign.

Flores pointed out there had been no acute outbreaks of the disease since December.

A new strong type of vaccine and cooperation of cattle owners was given as the reason for the successful conclusion of the program.

"The people are now convinced vaccination of their animals is the proper method. They are no longer in doubt of the outcome."

Flores said the force of 7000 ment now connected with the commission would be reduced in numbers but a large enough group would be retained to continue with strict inspection measures indefinitely.

Johnson, who was sent to Mexico by the U. S. government in May, 1948, to cooperate with the Mexican group, said aftosa is completely under control in Mexico.

Penn State's 1949 all - junior cross - country team will return intact for the 1950 campaign.

Approval of SPA Money Is Rumored

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A House appropriations subcommittee has approved budget requests of $10,350,000 in construction funds for the southwestern power administration, it has been learned.

SPA, with headquarters in Tulsa, operates in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Of this amount, $5,000,000 would be used to meet current contractual obligations.

However, the subcommittee was said to have recommended new contract authority of $6,000,000 which would make $11,350,000 available for obligation by the agency during the fiscal year.

The action is subject to approval by the full committee. This is expected next week.

It was learned the subcommittee believes $6,000,000 of the proposed appropriation for SPA may be returned to the treasury if contracts are made with two Oklahoma private utilities to "wheel" SPA power to its customers.
