Lubbock And Its Public Schools

Another of a Series Of News Editorials On A Vital Subject

The idea of giving information to the pupil before the need of it is felt is one of the most wasteful practices in the present-day school and teachers who see the real meaning of education no longer engage in such a practice. Under the group study plan, the teacher regards it as his task to lead the pupil to undertake the solution of a real problem and to help him check his work in the solution of such problem. It is his aim to inspire the pupil, to guide him and to give him opportunity in every way possible to become acquainted with his resources and to develop those resources by his own activities.

Used As Means To An End.

Under the group study plan, study is thus seen as a means to an end rather than an end in itself. We need to think it is necessary for instance for the pupil to know a certain amount of history. If he did not know certain facts of history, he was not regarded as educated. Education is thus thought of as an attainment of a certain amount of exclusive information. Now, however, we no longer think of the child's studying history because educated people are supposed to know history, or a certain portion of it, but we have him to study the subject in order to find out how the men of the past solved their problems and problems to learn better to solve them from their solution of these his own problems today. The teacher seeks to lead the child to feel that he has certain deficiencies in his life as a member of his group or as a citizen of the world. He leads him to study that part of history, civics, economics, sociology, literature, etc., that will help him to remove such deficiencies. There are certain difficulties in the way of his being a 100 per cent citizen and he studies in order to remove those difficulties.

Knowledge Is Functional.

In the Lubbock schools, effort is being made to get the child to see that all knowledge is functional and that it serves no purpose unless it helps in the removal of difficulties in the way of better living. The child has certain health

Subway Permit Is Boost To Building

Construction Sends Year's Total Near Half-Million Dollar Mark; February Total Is $193,722.30

Lubbock building permits were swelled by $182,122.30 Wednesday, when the Panhandle Construction company, the Santa Fe Railway company and the City of Lubbock took out a joint permit for construction work on the subway at the intersection of the Santa Fe tracks and Broadway. This brings the February record for the city to a total of $193,722.30, and the year's record to $455,450.20.

While the subway construction is being done with funds provided by a special bond issue election held last September, as part of a city-wide public improvement program, because of the nature of the improvement, legal ruling from City Attorney E. L. Klett was given Wednesday as being to the effect a building permit was necessary, in accordance with the city's building code.

Man Dies In Crash

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6 (P)—Geo. E. Marigold was killed here this afternoon when an airplane in which he was flying burst into flames and crashed in Franklin canyon in Beverly Hills.

Woman's Habit Like Einstein

DALLAS, Feb. 6 (P)—Woman's proverbial tardiness at appointments finally aggravated a Dallas man to badly today that he asked the district attorney's office to help him.

Six months ago after he had furnished his bride-to-be with a trousseau and loaned her his car she promised to meet him at the courthouse in 40 minutes. The man, who is elderly, said the woman was well dressed and spoke knowingly of the Einstein theory.

"Maybe under the Einstein theory of relativity she still has several months of the 40 minutes left," the man said sheepishly, "but I would like to have her, and our car if you can locate them."

Richards Blamed For Plot In Election Bet Case

"Mystery Man" In Case Testifies In Trial Wednesday

A. A. Crabb, 'Clyde R. Vest' Of Case, Relates Story Of Dallas Man's Engineering In Bet Collection

Adams May Appear

Defense Counsel Attacks Testimony Of Witnesses From All Angles; Bartlett Farmer May Testify

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Feb. 6.—Ben C. Richards, Jr., prominent Dallas business man on trial for forgery here, today heard himself accused of engineering a $2,000 fraud, and then attempting to throw the blame on a friend killed because of the scheme.

Welched" The Bet

The state charges that Richards, after losing an election bet on the Connally-Mayfield senatorial race to V. Ray Adams of Bartlett and W. T. Ramsey, Jr., of Belton, "welched" the bet by sending Crabb, carrying forged credentials, to Olive Mathews, stakeholder, to collect. When Adams appeared later to collect the bet and Mathews explained that the money had been paid, an argument ensued which ended in Mathews being shot to death on a busy downtown street corner. Adams was tried for murder. The jury disagreed.

Crabb Admitted Today

Crabb admitted today that he was the "Clyde R. Vest of Waco," who collected the stake from Mathews. He said Richards and he had fabricated the credentials which purported to come from Ramsey and that he had collected the money and given it to Richards. He charged that after Mathews' death Richards had persuaded him, (Crabb) to write three letters, two to members of the district attorney's staff and one to Richards, indicating that he got the money for Mathews. Richards, he said, remarked after the letters were written that he (Richards) would be able to collect more than $100,000 in damages from newspapers on the strength of them, and sent Crabb to Mexico.

City Park Board To Meet Tuesday

Mayor Harley D. Woods announces that he has called a meeting of the city park commission for next Tuesday night, at 7:30 o'clock, in the city hall, purpose of which will be to discuss plans for beautifying the city's parks and playgrounds this spring and summer.

The Commission is headed by C. H. Mahoney, chairman, other members being: J. B. Maxey, K. N. Clapp and Mrs. C. F. Stubbs. City Commissioner A. V. Weaver, who is in charge of Lubbock's streets and parks, serves as an ex-officio member of this commission, as does the mayor.

Last year this commission was instrumental, along with work done by the city commission, in putting in the municipal swimming pool. With urgent need of more playgrounds and paraphernalia in Lubbock parks and the growing demand for more and better parks, the commission is facing several big tasks.

Lindbergh Brings In The Mail Again On Schedule Time; Landing Links U.S. With Panama Canal Zone By Air Mail

(By Associated Press)

COLON, Panama, Feb. 6.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at France Field here at 4 p. m. today, completing the first air mail delivery from the United States to Panama Canal Zone. A large crowd swarmed over the field when the plane appeared in the sky. Lindbergh made a graceful landing, reported that he had encountered violent weather throughout the flight, and delivered mail sacks containing 350 pounds of letters. He planned to fly tonight to Panama City to dine aboard the battleship Texas and sleep aboard the aircraft carrier Saratoga. Colonel Lindbergh announced that he would start his return flight to Miami Sunday morning, making the same stops as on the southward flight. From Monday at 6:08 a. m. until the landing today the Lindbergh plane maintained schedule. Colonel Lindbergh completed the historical flight exactly on the minute. It had been announced that the mail would arrive at 4 p. m. It was precisely that moment when the colonel taxied his plane across the field.

Twenty-one hundred miles over sea, land and high mountains in the new record for mail deliveries between the United States and Panama, a journey heretofore requiring from 12 to 13 days.

Passing Of Tom Ross Brings Back Memories Of Thrilling Times During Early Days Of West Texas; Figured In Many Gun Scrapes

(Special To The Avalanche) SEAGRAVES, Feb. 6.—The news of the fate of Tom Ross, who took his own life after killing R. C. Hayward, foreman on a cattle ranch near Harve, Montana, last Sunday night, brings back many memories among the old citizens of Seagraves and was the principal topic discussed on the streets today.

The stories told date back to when Ross was a boy and came from Mississippi to Wilbarger county, Texas, to go to work on the Waggoner cattle ranch.

Negro Is Murdered

Some years later a negro was murdered and the blame seemed to be cast in Ross' direction. As a boy and easily influenced, he got into bad company and took up with Pie Beckam, who had been sheriff of Baylor county, and was charged with embezzlement of county funds. They went across the Oklahoma line from Vernon, where Frederick now stands, and where later the "dugout fight" took place one winter night in 1894. Beckam was shot and fell back in the snow laying in Ross' arms.

Ross came to Gaines county about 1900, and went to work on the J. Cross cattle ranch, 10 miles north of Seagraves, at which time Chas. Tom, sheriff,

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 6.—Daniel Baker college of Brownwood, Austin college of Sherman, and Texas Presbyterian college of Milford, three of the oldest educational institutions in the state, will be merged, the Texas synod of the Southern Presbyterian church, decided today.

A commission of eight ministers and eight elders was created to study plans for the merger and to carry out actual consolidation. It was not hinted at which of the three places the combined college is likely to be located. This will not be decided until after the commission has made a complete study of the problem before it, it was said.

Among ministers named on the commission is the Rev. B. J. Dick, Mercedes.

Seagrave Returns To Try For Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (P)—Major H. O. D. Seagrave, first racer ever to drive an automobile faster than 200 miles an hour, arrived from England today to attempt to regain the world speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla.

With him he brought his new car, the Golden Arrow, which has a sight on it like a rifle to help the driver hold a straight course.

The race against time will be held between the first and fifteenth of March. The present record, established by Ray Keech in April of last year, is 207 1-2 miles an hour.

The Golden Arrow is 27 feet and eight inches long with a wheel tread of five feet. It has a 12-cylinder 900 horsepower airplane motor. Low gear is 81 miles an hour and second speed 160.

San Antonio Man Killed by Train

C. B. Watters Dies and W. Lee Yarborough Is Injured Seriously Wednesday; Car Stalls On Track

(By Associated Press) SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6.—C. B. Watters of San Antonio was killed and W. Lee Yarborough, also of San Antonio, seriously injured, when Missouri Kansas Texas passenger train No. 4 struck their automobile at Hunter, north of here, late today.

A. M. Ramsey, San Marcos coroner, believed the automobile stalled on the railroad tracks in front of a speeding train.

Watters and Yarborough were en route to Austin from San Antonio on a business mission.

The engineer, whose name was not learned, stopped the locomotive and both men were placed on the train to be carried to San Marcos. Watters died en route and his companion was taken to a hospital.

He Learned About Women From Her

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (P)—Jack Walton winked at a pretty girl today. The girl winked right back. And came right over.

"Like my looks?" smiled Jack Walton.

"You bet," quoth the fair one and threw her arms around his neck. Jack Walton well knew his power over women, but the ardor of this one was amazing. This clinging vine clung tighter, and let loose a scream.

Police came. "My name," she said as she handed over her quarry, "is Betty Suerth. Last Saturday this man held me up and took $300 and checks for $1,300 from me."

Jack Walton observed sadly that his faith in women was shattered.

Federal Reserve Frowns On Credit For Speculation

Brokers Loans To Be Restricted; Practice Said To Affect Entire Nation; Loan Increase Noticed

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The federal reserve board declared today that use of federal credit for speculation, directly or indirectly, must be restrained. The announcement was made in a statement by the board in advance of publication in the organization's monthly bulletin.

The board called attention to growth of speculative credit in the last year, in which time loans to brokers and dealers by New York federal reserve member banks have increased from $3,816,000,000 to $5,550,000,000 and said the growing volume of speculation already had strained credit conditions causing an advance of 1 to 1 1-2 per cent in the cost of commercial credit.

Lubbock Farmers Study Terracing

Fifty or More From County To Make Visit to Spur Experiment Station; Will Leave Here Monday

About 50 Lubbock county farmers have already signified their desire to go to Spur next Monday morning with County Agricultural Agent D. F. Eaton, for a day's inspection and study of terracing experiments at the Texas A. and M. experiment station. Two years ago there were 40 farmers making a similar trip.

Before leaving for Houston early in the week Mr. Eaton stated that there would be transportation furnished a limited number of farmers and that no doubt many farmers who are expecting to drive their own cars to Spur will have additional room for any who might not have a means of conveyance. All are to meet at the courthouse here at 8:30 Monday morning.

The Spur experiments in terracing have come to be recognized throughout the United States as the most successful of their nature ever conducted in the history of agriculture and the superintendent, R. E. Dickson, is receiving nation-wide praise for his success.

Jensen Flies Low In Endurance Try

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 6 (P)—Under a low sky calling that kept other planes out of the air, Martin Jensen today skinned over Long Island all day, his engine grinding steadily away at the hours that stood between him and a new solo endurance flight record.

In mid-afternoon it began to rain and the weather bureau predicted monsoon rain for 12 hours. The temperature, however, was not expected to drop low enough to cause freezing of the water on the wings and fuselage.

Texas School Age Limit Reduction Is Near Passage

Love Senate Bill Is Ordered Engrossed by House After Hot Debate; Will Provide for 100,000 Kiddies

May Get Vote Soon

Measure to Lower Age From 7 to 6 Years; Sinks, Veteran Lawmaker, Opposes Bill's Approval

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 6.—Texas tonight seemed apparently on the road toward vacating its singular position as the only state preventing children under the age of seven from attending the public schools. The house had engrossed the Love senate bill, after the opposition had been defeated in a two hour debate.

The measure, already passed by the senate, likely will be brought up for final vote on the floor before the week is over. It lowers the age limit from seven to six, giving free tuition to almost 100,000 children under the former age whose instruction has been paid by their parents.

Shaver Leads Fight

Shaver of Huntsville, who led the fight for adoption of the bill was charged by Sinks of Giddings with attempting to "create nurseries of the public schools."

"If mothers want to get rid of their children so they can play bridge, they ought to be willing to pay tuition," the veteran lawmaker interposed, "and I'm opposed to a six year minimum limit, whether it is in the name of education or sanitation."

Sinks argued also that the per capita tax would increase approximately $1,500,000 if the measure attained the status of a law.

AMARILLO MAN DOING HIS PART

Helps Suffering People By Telling His Experience With Orgatone While Recovering From 'Flu'

"It didn't take many doses of Orgatone to satisfy me that I had found the right medicine for my case at last," declared P. B. Goodwin, residing at 213 N. E. Ninth St., Amarillo, Texas, the other day.

"For two years," continued Mr. Goodwin, "my stomach was in such a terrible condition that I lost thirty pounds in weight and every thing I would eat bloated me up with gas till I was miserable most all the time. My nerves were in such a wretched state that I couldn't half sleep and I would get up in the morning feeling so fagged that I couldn't do anything like I wanted. I was weak and run down and this was just the condition I was in a few weeks ago when I took the 'flu' and anyone knows what that is, who has had it.

"I got me a bottle of Orgatone and began to pick up right off. My appetite had improved so much that I can eat and enjoy every thing set before me and to give you some idea that my food is doing me some good and how fast I am recuperating from the 'flu' the scales show that I am now gaining in weight at the rate of a pound a day which I think is pretty strong evidence for Orgatone. I am stronger and have more energy than before, and I can go about my work with more satisfaction than in a long time, and I'm doing my part to help suffering people by telling what Orgatone did for me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowers Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

Youth Leaves Sick Bed To Signal Train; One Hundred Lives Saved

(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to the Avalanche)

DYESSVILLE, O., Feb. 6.—From his room near the tracks of a railroad through Dyessville, Glenn Cline, 21, has listened to the roar of crack flbers, bearing their loads of human freight through the night, for 13 years.

And because Glenn Cline thrilled to it, and could name the trains and their crews as their shrill whistles aroused him from his sleep, he has come to be a hero in the eyes of many persons.

Knew Schedules
 Cline's heroism is the result of his knowledge of the train schedules and his determination in the face of illness to investigate something he thought was wrong.

The youth lay ill in his little room waiting for the roar that meant Tom Riley, engineer, was carrying his load of passengers safely to their destinations.

A rumble broke the silence—a strange rumble, not that of a train—and it seemed to come from a big cut just beyond his home. Cline thought of a landslide that had occurred in the same cut before. It means disaster. He climbed into his clothes.

Finds Landslide
 Only a few minutes at the most and the whistles of the flyer would reach his ears. He stumbled weakly down the track toward the cut, lantern in hand. Sure enough, there it was, half full of boulders and dirt, and as the youth gazed at it in fear the faint call of the locomotive reached his ears through the winter air.

Cline gathered his strength, clutched the lantern firmly and started back, this time racing madly. One hundred yards, 200, and he leaped to one side, waving the lantern wildly in the glare of the onrushing headlight.

There was a grinding of brakes, a burst of sparks, and Tom Riley brought his train to a stop just as the nose of the locomotive entered the cut.

One hundred lives had been in danger. Cline was a hero.

The youth laughs at his feat. "Bah," he says, "I've watched Tom Riley go through here for 13 years. He has always waved at me. Why should I let him be killed?"

LET'S GO SWIMMIN'
COBLENTZ, Feb. 6.—A story has come to light here that happened in the days when the American Army of Occupation occupied the castle of Ehrenbreitstein on the banks of the Rhine. One of the boys dove into the river. He came up with a bottle of champagne, and reported that numerous others were there. Soon, the river was full of divers. The bottles had been lowered into the river by a saloon keeper who was under investigation for irregularities.

TAKE THE PLEDGE
AKRON, O., Feb. 6.—The New Year's holiday brought some 30 men before Judge Carl Hoyt on charges of being intoxicated. The judge, kindhearted man, offered to suspend fines of $5 and five days in jail if the offenders would take a pledge not to get drunk again for three months. They all agreed.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Mrs. George Weaver, 68, recently accomplished a feat which would tax the strength of many persons 23 years younger. She fell into a deep well. After repeatedly crying for help and receiving no assistance, and realizing that the icy water would soon overcome her, she seized the bucket rope, braced her feet against the sides of the well and climbed to the top. She suffered no ill effects.

Ducks and geese on the lakes of Byrd park at Richmond, Va., are to be removed. The mayor agreed with residents of the park that the beauty of the birds was offset by their habit of quacking incessantly at daybreak.

CO-EDS SNUB BOYS
WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 6.—Girls at Waynesburg college can get along without boys. This year's co-ed prom will be devoid of masculinity, half of the girls appearing in male attire. The boys contend that their fellow students are piqued because of "outside" girls having been brought to college affairs in the past.

A Cruel World Fate Gives Rotten Deal To Father

It's a cruel world, according to a certain Kansas City auditor who has been working in Lubbock for the last 10 days. Fate has given him a rotten deal.

Since this man left his home near Christmas he has become a father and his present schedule does not call for a return to Kansas City until some time in March—a long time for a father to wait to see his baby.

But he is philosophical. This is a busy time of year and there may be able to get off for a day or two in another two weeks. Meanwhile, he keeps copying down amazing lines of figures and working far, far into the night.

RECEIPTS INCREASED

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 6.—As an indicator of the stability of business conditions in San Angelo, postal receipts for January 1929 totalled $11,450.87 as compared with $11,404.44 during the same month last year when the boom was at its height.

HOLD SHORT COURSE

BIG SPRING, Feb. 6.—The business men and farmers of Howard county will hold a two day short course in this city on March 11 and 12.

Natural Gas Service and Just Natural Gas

If you could go to the corner grocery or out to a gas well, get a sackful of gas, pay cash for it and carry it home, you could buy a huge volume of it for 5 cents.

Of course your gas sack would have to be large and it would have to be good and tight. That might add somewhat to the cost.

Just when you happened to need the gas, the weather might be unpleasant outside, too.

When you got your sack of gas home, you would have quite a merry time trying to get the gas fed into the burners of your stove.

It is then that you would realize that you had bought the wrong thing. You wanted GAS SERVICE and you had bought just gas.

Gas without service is a vapor that cannot be handled by ordinary means. It is of little use to anyone.

GAS—WITH SERVICE—is a clean, efficient, reliable fuel—ready to do your instant bidding when and where you want it.

It is GAS SERVICE, rather than just gas, that you buy, use and pay for.

Modish women patronize this store extensively for the reason that they find here an unusual display of the latest in footwear and that they more than meet their requirements for modish exactness, comfort and service. Then too, the fact that every shoe in stock is marked at just one price influences them to no little extent for they realize that the economy opportunity presented is too tempting to overlook.

"Better To Laugh Than To Cry," Says Youth Who Spent Eight Years In Bed

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 6.—Billy Newhart has only had 12 years of life—and eight of them have been spent in bed.

Beginning when he was 14 months old, he has broken one bone or another in his little, wasted body 30 times. The days when he has been able to walk about have been far fewer than the days that saw him flat on his back in bed.

But he keeps cheerful, at that, as he lies in his bed beside a first-floor window, gazing out now and then to see his playmates run and jump and yell to a vacant lot next door.

"Might as Well Like It" "Aw, well, I might just as well like it," says Billy. "I get 'em broke just the same and it feels better to laugh than to cry."

Something is the matter with the little chap's bones—the doctors have a long name for it which Billy can't understand, but he knows that his bones break much more easily than most people's do.

Billy's bones do not have sufficient lime in them, according to the doctor, and his system cannot seem to transform lime from his food into bone material.

It was just a few days ago that he had his latest accident. He slipped while getting out of an auto and tumbled off the running board to the ground.

He has had a score or more of X-ray photographs taken, and the pictures tell a pitiable story. His whole physique, originally quite robust, is now weakened as a result of the many fractures.

Carried to School Billy has gone to school quite a bit—between spells in bed. Unlike most young boys, he looks forward to going to school, even though he can't play with the other boys in the school yard at recess.

The chief bit of enjoyment the plucky little invalid gets comes from the postcards that other children send him.

And there, by the way, is an idea—for you. A postcard only costs a penny, and the job of writing and mailing one isn't so tough.

The address? It is Billy Newhart, Bellaire, Ohio, R. F. D.

Maybe Billy won't be able to answer your card, but he'll be awfully glad to get it, anyhow.

MUSEUM BILL PASSES

Holbrook's Measure Calling For Unit Is Approved

AUSTIN, Feb. 6.—Senator Holbrook's bill providing for the establishment of a state museum was passed by the senate.

The bill carries an appropriation of $250,000 and would provide for the establishment of a board of locates and make provision for the maintenance of the museum.

Adolph Shulz and Tyler Mallo, winter visitors at Naples, Fla., picked up some oddly drilled shells as mementoes. Museum experts say the men have unearthed some of the oldest known implements of warfare, conch shell battle axes.

Men in gray uniforms still salute Gen. Robert E. Lee. Cadets of the Virginia Military Institute come to full military salute when passing the Lee mausoleum here.

Penick Warns On Pecan Tree Types

(Special To The Avantache) STAMFORD, Feb. 6.—A warning to West Texas farmers contemplating pecan planting, that trees which have been bred to high rainfall conditions will not grow properly in West Texas has been issued by Col. R. L. Penick, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The regional organization which is conducting an intensive pecan planting campaign advises planters to be constantly on their guard against any trees which were not developed for comparatively dry climates.

CONSIDER COTTON CROP

Eastland County Farmers to Meet With Merchants

(By Associated Press) EASTLAND, Feb. 6.—Cotton farmers of Eastland county will be called into conference with Eastland business men for the purpose of discussing the growing of cotton in the county and also the proposition of erecting a new cotton gin at Eastland.

At a recent meeting of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce many of the business men expressed the wish that no more cotton ever be planted in Eastland county. If the farmers will turn their attention to growing feed crops, peanuts, truck crops, fruits, dairying, raising of livestock, it will be found more profitable than growing cotton, they say.

Select Location Loop Too Crowded For Robbery

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The loop was a bit too crowded for robbery during the late afternoon rush hour yesterday, and none realized it more than the two gunmen who held up Earl Denny, a messenger.

Denny, with $900 in his wallet, was about to mount the elevated stairway at Madison and Wabash avenue when the two men accosted him.

"I don't like this," said one robber to the other, as the stream of shoppers pushed its way along at their elbows. "This is too public for this kind of business."

"You're right," said the other. "But where do you think is a good place for a robbery?" "I know a good spot," said the other, "over on the other side of the loop. Things are not so busy over there, and we can take our time in robbing this guy."

Through the loop they went, robes and victim, jostled in the crowds. At Van Buren and Wells St., the men directed Denny to a fifth floor washroom, blackjacked him, took the $900, and went away.

Nuptials For Miss Steele And Lorenz Ellis In Amarillo

Local Couple Is Married In Amarillo Yesterday Morning At Methodist Church To Live Here

Miss Ophelia Steele and Lorenz Ellis were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Polk Street Methodist church in Amarillo with the pastor, Rev. Lewis N. Stuckey, officiating in the presence of a few relatives of the bride.

The couple left after the ceremony for Fort Worth, Dallas and other points, expecting to return here to live after about February 14.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Steele of Amarillo, was gowned in an alic blue clair model of georgette with hat in harmonizing tones and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

She has been assistant cashier at the Technological college since 1926 and is a member of the Sans Souci club at the college. She graduated from Clarendon college in 1924 and has attended West Texas State Teachers college.

Mr. Ellis is a former student of Baylor University and has been with the Lubbock National bank here for several years. He is a nephew of L. C. Ellis of this city and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Ellis of Troy.

Guests included Messrs. and Mesdames H. L. Allen, H. D. Woods, W. G. McMillan, W. L. Stangel, E. J. Parsons, Vaughn E. Wilson, W. L. Bradshaw. High scores in the games were made by Mrs. Stangel and Mr. Bradshaw and high cuts fell to Mrs. Woods and Mr. Peters.

The Sans Souci club will be entertained at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the A. V. Weaver home at 1901 Broadway by Misses Lena Bert Medlin and Mary Frizell.

President of PTA Sends Letters To Towns In District

Mrs. J. E. Griggs to Visit With Associations; Place Of Annual Meeting Is Changed

An inspirational letter has been mailed to parent-teacher association workers in the fourteenth district by the president, Mrs. J. E. Griggs, of this city and visits to several organizations are being planned for this week-end, Mrs. Griggs said yesterday.

She expects to visit in Sudan this afternoon and at Amberst tonight and she will be in Ralls on Monday.

Mrs. Griggs was out of the state for several months and has only recently returned.

In her letters, which were mailed last night, she asked that each society have at least one delegate at the district meeting early in April and urged that special weeks and Founders Day, the latter falling in February, be observed. Other parent-teacher work was mentioned and the organizations were asked to keep in touch with the district publicity chairman, Mrs. G. T. Scales of this city.

The district meeting will be conducted in Poycacia instead of at Tahoka as was announced recently following a district executive meeting, Mrs. Griggs said.

BAN ALLEY PARKING

Business Men Are Notified Of Violation Here

Parking automobiles in downtown alleys is against the city traffic ordinances, so several business men learned yesterday when they were notified by a policeman that their cars should be moved elsewhere or face themselves subject to fines.

Reason for the ordinance is readily seen, when you consider the narrowness of the alleys. There is not sufficient room for two cars to pass. If a serious downtown fire should occur and necessity arise for running a fire truck through an alley, a parked automobile would block the way and endanger property and life.

Commissioners Will Vote On Bank For Next Term

At the regular meeting of the Lubbock county commissioners' court next Monday the question of selecting the county depository for the ensuing two years will come up for decision. The present county depository is the Lubbock National Bank.

Bids have been requested from banks for the depository and, as the county's income for the year runs at approximately $180,000, it is expected several banking institutions will seek the selection. The one paying the highest interest rate on the average daily balance on deposit with them will be chosen.

The Woman's Day
By Allene Sumner
Allene Sumner

A divorced woman was returning home from work a few months ago. Suddenly her former husband appeared before her on the street and asked her for some money. As she opened her purse to get it, he dashed acid into her face, running away as she ran shrieking in agony for help. That's the story which the woman told police then.

A day or so ago the case came into court. The man claimed that he loved his former wife, and that she knew perfectly well that the acid reached her face as she struggled to obtain the bottle when he announced his suicide intention to her, because he could "no longer live without her."

The prosecutor scored the man violently, insisting on his deliberate intent to agonize and disfigure his former wife. She admitted sobbing on the stand, that she always knew he didn't intend to harm her; that her story was as he said; that she would be waiting till he left prison (for he was convicted) and that she'd probably remarry him. All this after he had publicly confessed that he still loved her and believed that she did him.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

There, in just one of the dozens of similar stories which feature our news day after day, you have men and women in a nutshell.

This acid hurler may have been sincere. But the chances are that he has learned the open sesame which those three little words are to a woman's generosity and forgiveness.

And the woman did what women always do, no matter how wronged they have been by a man—melt into weakness and make decisions prompted by emotion rather than common sense when a man avows his affection, real or feigned.

Even when in the depth of their hearts they know that it is feigned, they topple, even telling an acid hurler that they'll be waiting outside the pen door.

Talk with any police prosecutor in any city about this. He will tell you of the hundreds of women who, year after year, come to a prosecutor to tell of wrongs suffered at the hands of cruel husbands—but who, the minute the wheels of the law are actually set in operation against the erring husband, are the very first ones to beg that he be excused—"he'll do better next time."

THAT TIME-WORN ACT

That is, they always and almost invariably do, if he puts on his little act and begs for another chance and mumbles something to the effect that she's the only woman he ever cared about, that he's sorry, he'll do better, and so on and on and on.

This is the handicap of woman—her boundless genius for accepting spurious emotion, even when she knows it for exactly what it is. Generations behind her, over which she has no control, explain most of it, of course.

Women of a few generations back were forced from economic necessity to live with men who abused them. The world could not yet absorb woman labor outside the home. In emotional and mental self-defense if she was able to kid herself that her man meant well even if he didn't show it, that was all she had, and she'd have been a fool to inspect its worth too closely.

But now—sometimes one wonders if woman's tendency to be emotionally fooled isn't her greatest handicap in a modern world.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
Copyright by NEA Service, Inc.

If you have children, and are going to move, I should try to find a place that conforms to this idea of child specialists as being essential to their health and happiness.

First, try to get a house, or if an apartment is necessary, one with open space around it where the children can play safely.

If you are thinking about a house, look over these things. It should have a good dry cellar under it. No house with a damp cellar under it is healthful. Look at all the plumbing and see if the drains work properly. Examine traps to see if there is a chance of unhealthy sewer gas escaping into the cellar or house.

Look around at the neighborhood. Can the sun get at the house? Children need sun and a lot of it. They should have rooms on the sunny side of the house so that the windows may be put up and the sun flood in, many hours a day, except, of course, when it is very hot weather.

If you have the choice of two houses, one on a street of heavy traffic, and one where danger is less imminent, think over the matter well. Unless you have children you can trust not to go out in the street, or have time for more or less supervision, it would be wise to take the safer place.

It is absolutely necessary for children to play out of doors. A room with some sort of a yard is most desirable. The more yard and grass there is, the more desirable it is from the viewpoint of the doctor.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

When we meet a woman for the first time, the thing that we notice most is her looks. And by looks, I do not mean beautiful eyes, lovely hair, or a pretty mouth. All these are desirable and attractive, but by looks, I mean that ensemble of beauty—the entire picture she presents to the world—from the top of her head to her feet, even that radiance she breathes because of the feeling that she is looking her best and making the most of herself.

Have you seen a little child wearing for the first time a new dress or a new pair of shoes? How she struts and preens herself, with the consciousness of her new plumage. The "grown-up" feels the same assurance when she can wear lovely clothes, and how much more so when she can feel that they are thoughtfully selected and carefully worn.

Children need to play outdoors most of the time in summer and a great part of the time in winter.

Observe this: Can the house be easily ventilated? Fresh air is necessary, of course, for young and old. A room without an outside window is no place for sleeping.

It is not always the most beautiful woman who is the most attractive, nor is it the one who can spend the most on her clothes. It is the woman who takes unprejudiced stock of herself—her good and her bad points—and selects things which set her off to the best advantage, who presents the most lovely effect.

Intelligence and thought, even more than beauty, are the chief ingredients of good looks. Study yourself in a full length mirror, triple if possible. Begin at your head. Does the arrangement of your hair and your hat conform to the shape of your head, and sweep gracefully into the lines of your throat?

Decide as to whether or not your neck and face need shortening or lengthening, and then select the neckline of your gown to give the desired effect. Watch your shoulders, which should not be strikingly military, nor yet too sloping. You may even camouflage arms too long or too short by the style of your sleeve. The placing of the waistline can make you appear slimmer or stouter; the length of the skirt can add to or decrease your apparent height. All of these points I will take up from day to day. And not only line, but also color, which is of tremendous importance in your dress.

Color can make you tall or short, slim or rounded. The design of your dress material, whether it be figured, striped, plaid or plain, all play a tremendous part in the beauty's role.

Then, too, there are all those little accessories which make or mar an ensemble, the shoes and stockings, the gloves, the purse, the jewelry. These should be selected with the greatest of care and attention.

You can readily see that with the proper attention to all these points, a really plain woman can be made attractive and a beautiful woman perfect. Really it's your duty to yourself to make the most of what nature has given you, for the importance of beauty cannot be overestimated. Its telling influence is felt, not only in social and domestic affairs, but in every department of diplomacy and business. It is the goal we should all strive to reach.

Title Injunction To Come Up Today

Friendly Contest Expected To Be Disposed of In 99th District Court; May Clear Building Site Tangle

It is probable that the friendly injunction suit, filed last week in the Ninety-Ninth district court, against the county of Lubbock, in an effort at clearing away the red tape which is keeping the county from giving a fee simple title to the southeast corner of the courthouse square to the United States government as a site for Lubbock's new postoffice and federal building, will come to trial some time today.

Because of the qualifying clause in the dedication deed to this property stating the site is given the county "for public use," the government refused to accept the site when it was proffered then by the county commissioners' court.

No Contest Expected

There being no contest expected in this suit, as the original donors, F. E. Wheelock and W. E. Rayner, evidently did not mean to qualify the county's ownership, Wheelock is said to have signed a waiver, as has Rayner's widow, and the matter will be merely routine procedure of being heard before Judge Clark M. Mullican.

Postmaster John L. Vaughan, Judge Mullican, and a number of other Lubbock citizens who have given the question considerable study, are of the opinion that once the district court here rules as to the fee simple title problem, favorably, the government will at once accept the site and start construction of the new postoffice in a short while. Already there has been $335,000 appropriated for this building and clearing of the title to its site is all that is standing in the way.

Wade Is Opposed To Sale Of Lands

PORT WORTH, Feb. 6. (AP)—Sale of the strip of boundary line between Texas and Oklahoma, sought by the latter state, is opposed by Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. "I oppose the loss of even one acre of Texas land," he declared this morning.

MILKMEN OPPOSE BILL

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—The milkmen of Texas are whole heartedly opposed to the proposed new sanitary code for this state insofar as it affects their product. The joint committee on public health was told last night. Former Governor James E. Ferguson, K. V. Lipscomb, president of the milk dealers of Texas, T. H. McGregor and Dr. M. M. Carriek of Dallas, were among the speakers who appeared before the committee.

Axtell-Surety Is Up for Trial Here

The suit of the Axtell company versus the American Surety company, of New York, which started before Judge Clark Mullican in Ninety-Ninth district court Wednesday, will probably take up a great deal of today's time in court.

The suit is on a contract for plumbing and heating materials furnished to N. C. Nevels, Lubbock plumber, to be used in the Hockley County courthouse at Levelland.

The jury serving in this case is composed of M. B. Carr, S. O. Clark, J. G. Harper, W. L. Jobe, W. E. Martin, J. F. Tolar, J. D. Kimbrell, F. B. Taylor, E. D. McCaulley, N. N. Goebel, W. A. Goeth, and Fritz Fuchs.

DINNER — Fresh shoulder of pork stuffed and roasted, corn custard, curly endive with French dressing, jellied cranberries and apples, milk, coffee.

The butcher should remove the bone from the pork shoulder in such a way that a deep pocket is made. Fill with a well-seasoned bread or chestnut stuffing, sew gash securely and roast as usual.

Mock Sausages

One-half cup dried lima beans, 1 cup fine dried bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, milk, 1 tablespoon catsup.

Soak beans in cold water to more than cover for three hours. Drain and cook in boiling water to which 1-4 teaspoon soda has been added. Cook ten minutes and drain. Rinse in cold water and return to saucepan with boiling water to cover. Simmer until tender. Drain and rub beans through a sieve. Add crumbs, catsup, melted butter, salt, pepper and egg slightly beaten. Mix well and add milk to make moist. Shape in form of frankfurters and roll in crumbs. Brush over with melted butter and bake in a hot oven until brown and crispy on the outside.

Canyon Buffaloes Bump Matadors Second In Row, 33-24

The "stalling" or "delayed offense" which has been used effectively by visiting teams here this season has been the point for close followers of basketball. While the apparent object of this style of play is to kill time after a margin has been gained over the opposition, its ultimate aim is to pull the defense away from the basket, in order that fast-breaking forwards may get inside the defense.

It has been pointed out that the defense is as much to blame as the offense when the stall is effective. A team coached for a defense against the delayed offense will come out after the ball and hold to the man-for-man defense. Where the offensive cagers are able to break faster than the defense, as was the case with the Canyon basketballers Tuesday night, it's just too bad for the opposition. Usually in the case where the team using the stall has first up a comfortable lead in the first half, reverts to the delayed game in the last frame, the team behind gains possession of the ball long enough to gain considerably on the leaders.

From the standpoint of the spectators, the stalling offensive slows up the scoring and likewise the action of the contest. In a recent Texas Conference tilt, the Simmons University quintet held the ball for 8 consecutive minutes in the first half and 14 in the last. One man enacted what is believed to be a record when he stood in his tracks with the ball 6 minutes without moving. In this case the opposition refused to wear itself out by coming out after the sphere. Certainly this style of play has made no improvement on the popular winter sport.

TOO FAR AWAY
There seems to be no evidence of walling and gnashing of teeth on the part of West Texas League members after learning that Lubbock had dropped its franchise in the loop. The distance of this city from the remainder of entries in the league was the main bone of contention.

The following comment comes from the Able Morning News: "Substitution of Eastland (or some other city in that strip of the Oil Belt) for Lubbock is all for the good of the loop, directors attending Sunday's session let it be known. Both players and managers had no particular grievance against Lubbock—once they were there. Getting to the Plains town was quite an item, however, with all teams traveling overland, withdrawal of the Hub town will see the mileage considerably."

Jack Meagher, former Notre Dame star and athletic director at St. Edwards University for the past several years, has been appointed to succeed Claude Rothgeb as head football coach at Rice Institute. Although his Saints walloped the Owls last season, his going to the Southwestern Conference school can be considered a promotion. Since the St. Edwards team coached by Meagher have won consistently over the Houstonians, the Rice authorities followed somewhat the same course of A & M in getting Matty Bell for head coach. Bell was the jinx of the Aggies and they hired him—so with Meagher.

Taking over the reins of a tail-end, Meagher is facing the task of bringing the Rice eleven out of the cellar position it has held for season after season. Strict scholastic rules have hampered the Owls possibly more than any other one factor. If the former Notre Dame flash can boost Rice into the win column, he will accomplish what no coach has been able to do in recent years.

It has been rumored around the hot stove league circles that Connie Mack, veteran pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics, is nearing the journey's end insofar as his position at the head of his club is concerned. Many doubt if the aged leader can stand the physical strain of another baseball campaign. Well above the seventh decade of his life, the master mind of the American League is at present vacationing in Florida, trying to rebuild his health. Eddie Collins, it is said, will likely replace Mack in the event of his retirement next season.

Farm Bureau Meet Set For Saturday

According to N. H. Payne, field representative of the Texas Farm Bureau association, a very interesting program has been arranged for the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau association at the courthouse next Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Douglas Pounds is in charge of the program.

Chief interest will no doubt center about the report of W. L. Brasher on the state convention of the organization which was held at Dallas last week. Following this report will be a musical reading. Mrs. M. S. Hudson will speak on the subject of "Outlook for Cooperative Marketing for the South Plains." H. E. Overstreet will lead a discussion after this.

The meeting will open at 2 o'clock and a large attendance from every community in the county is anticipated.

Heydler Against Plan To Play Ten Man Teams In Spring Training

Teachers Score 9 Free Throws To Annex Final Tilt

Matador Quintet Unable To Cope With Passing Game Displayed by Burtonmen; Crump Leads Scoring

The Canyon Buffaloes were met by a fighting crew of Matador cagers last night in the final game of the series but used their superior passing attack to outscore the Paymen 33 to 24, and sweep the two game engagement. With a slightly changed lineup, the Tech quintet displayed an improved scoring machine, but was unable to cope with the Teachers' dazzling team-play.

Tech started the fireworks in last night's encounter but their lead was short lived. Hodges broke through to sink a two-pointer in the opening minute of play and was followed by a long looper shot by Walker. Hodges came next with a free toss and the score stood 5-0 before the visitors were able to find the basket.

Before the opening frame was half gone, however, the Buff sharpshooters had begun firing at the netting and the score was tied. Newman and Crump led the first half assault which ended 15 to 12 favoring Canyon.

Strong Final Assault
The fast-breaking Buffalo basketballers came back in the last stanza with their usual scoring rally. Lowes the Canyon scoring ace, looped one from mid-court immediately after the initial tip-off, and from that point on, the visitors gradually picked away from the crimson aggregation. Numerous free throws helped along the Canyon cause considerably during this final period, the Matadors drawing the majority of their 14 personal fouls after the half. Although the delayed offense was not used as much as the previous, the Buffs reverted to this style of play effectively on several occasions.

Crump with 10 points to his credit led the Teachers' scoring attack followed closely by Lowes who accounted for 9. Walker was high point for Tech with 7. Walker, Hodges, and Vizant bore the brunt of the Matador assault, playing aggressive basketball throughout. Hodges, as on the previous night, was unable to get open shots at the basket and was held to one field goal.

The Matador cagers will meet the Teachers' scoring attack followed by the Tech court Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Cream Of Cinder Stars To Compete

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Some of the world's outstanding track men, including Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic sprint sensation, and Edwin Wide, Swedish schoolmaster, who holds the outdoor two mile record, feature the program of the Newark A. C. games at the 113th Regiment Armory, Newark, tomorrow night.

On this same smooth board floor with no banked turns, Paavo Nurmi ran what was for him a leisurely two miles a week ago, being clocked at 9:19 3-5. Wide, who hopes to meet Paavo in the national championship two mile here February 23, will be running almost the same handicap field that opposed the Finn, thus offering a chance to compare his form with that of Nurmi.

YOU and BASKETBALL

Why is basketball such a popular sport? The growth of the game since it was originated by Dr. James Naismith 37 years ago has been remarkable. It is growing faster every year.

Several factors must be considered. Basketball is one of the easiest of games to learn and to be understood by the spectator. It can be played under ideal conditions for both player and spectator. It is played at the logical time of the day for recreation. The cost of equipment is less than in other major sports.

Most important, however, the game gives to the participant experiences that can well be applied to problems of every-day life. It develops the spiritual as well as the physical side of the boy, if it is taught as it should be taught. Basketball is a game which, in its development followed the course of successful living. At first there was the confusion which comes from lack of experience but the elements of sound growth were there. Holding persistently to basic aims and ideals, the game developed into an orderly and almost perfect contest.

First, there was vision of the goal. Then, there was burning desire to attain that goal. Last, there was faith in the ability to reach the goal.

These are the spiritual factors of success in anything. To be a great athlete, a great business man, a great surgeon, one must master the fundamentals of the spiritual, as well as the technique of the physical.

Southern League Adopts Schedule

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 6. (AP)—The annual meeting of directors of the Southern Association ended today with adoption of a schedule for Sunday games in Little Rock, provided the Arkansas legislature permits such games.

The Southern League schedule starts April 16, six days later than last year's opening.

Only one trade, that of Frank Haley, an infielder, from Chattanooga to Atlanta for George Dumont, pitcher, was announced.

its development followed the course of successful living. At first there was the confusion which comes from lack of experience but the elements of sound growth were there. Holding persistently to basic aims and ideals, the game developed into an orderly and almost perfect contest.

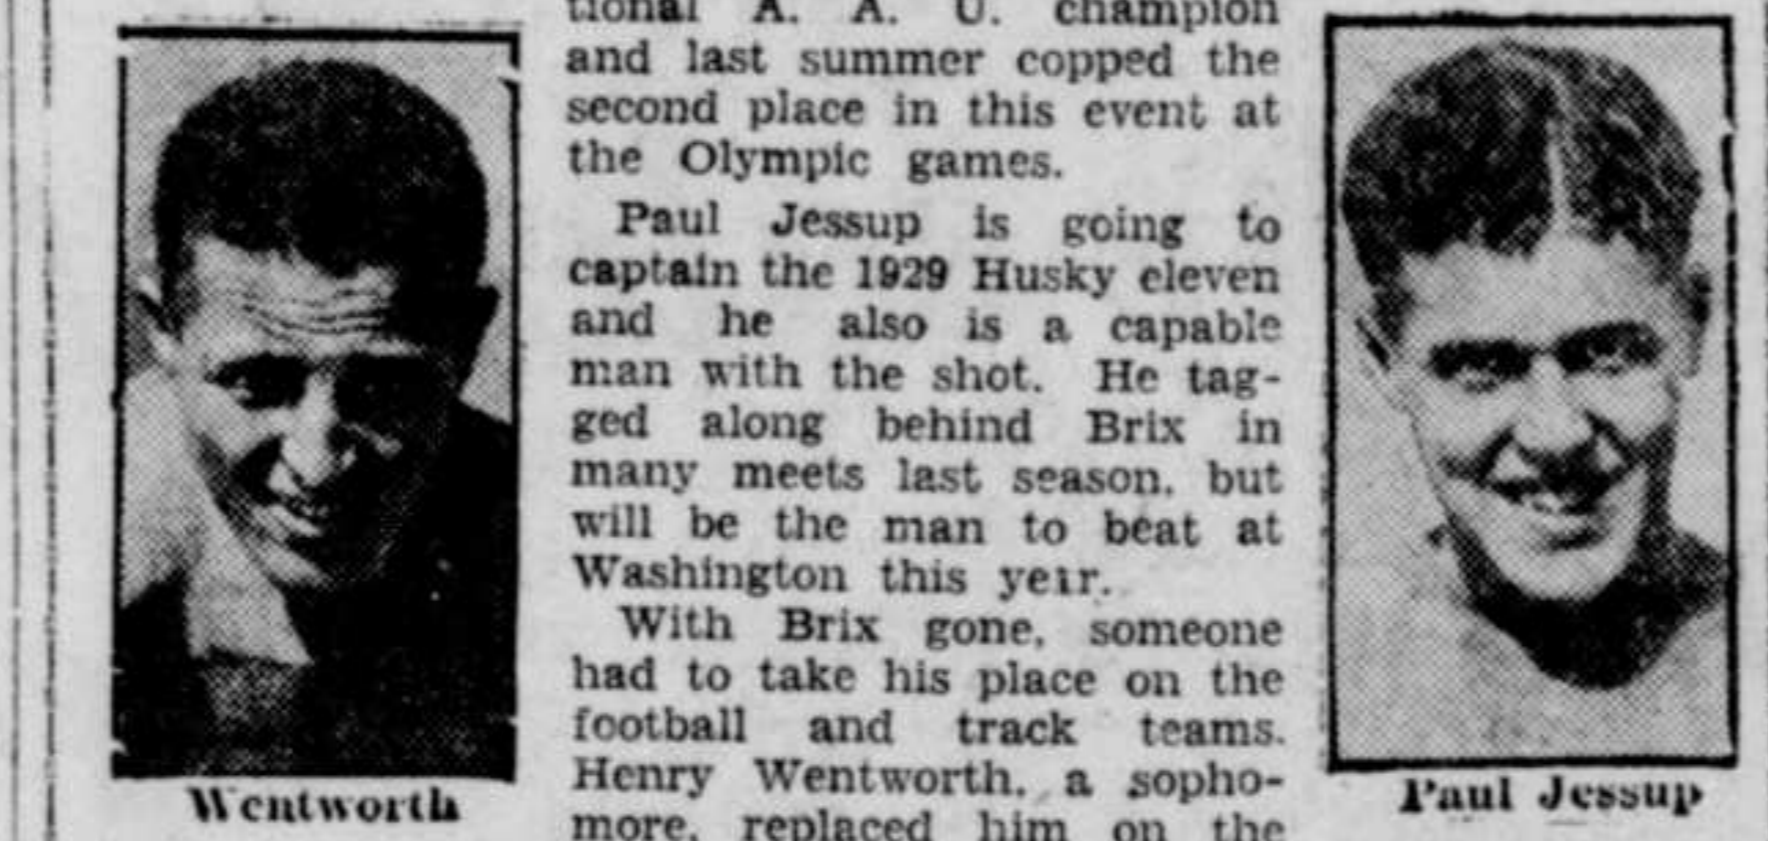

First, there was vision of the goal. Then, there was burning desire to attain that goal. Last, there was faith in the ability to reach the goal.

These are the spiritual factors of success in anything. To be a great athlete, a great business man, a great surgeon, one must master the fundamentals of the spiritual, as well as the technique of the physical.

These Big Washington Linemen Also Heave Shot Excellently

By Nea Service.
SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 4.—The big fellows of much brawn who make excellent linemen on football teams do not always make good manipulators of the weights in track. But it seems they do a Washington here.

Herman Brix started at tackle for three years on the football team, but reached even greater heights with the shot put in track. He is the national A. A. U. champion and last summer copped the second place in this event at the Olympic games.

Henry Wentworth, a sophomore, replaced him on the football team and now he's trying to take Brix's place on the track squad. And from the manner in which he heaves the big weight, it looks like he will do that very thing.

HAS FREAK STRIDE

Illinois Runner Wins Despite Scissors-Style
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 6. (AP)—Despite his puzzling scissors-like stride, Captain Harold White of the University of Illinois track team has managed to keep among leading runners of the Big Ten.

Coaches persisted in trying to change White's stiff-legged running form, yet it didn't bother White. Last year he won the half-mile event in the Big Ten meet and placed second in the National Intercollegiate half-mile run. Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., placed White on his All-American college track team.

"If any other runner ran the way White does he'd be fatigued long before the end of the race," said C. E. "Chick" Werner, freshman track coach and Olympic hurdler.

"KITTY" CLOSES CHURCH

BEFGEN, Feb. 6.—The First Presbyterian church here is just getting back to normalcy after being forced to abandon services because some very mean person deposited a "kitty" of the stunk variety, in the building. Despite and because of the fact the animal had been dead several days when discovered, it was necessary to cancel services pending a thorough cleaning and airing.

When a severe cold spell caught the proprietors of a paper mill at Tuscaloosa, Ala., without equipment for heating their plant, a locomotive was leased from the railroad, run on a siding near the mill and connected to steam pipes.

Oppose Method Of Naming American Olympic Members

Many Coaches Agree That Responsibility of Picking Yankee Team Should Go To Committee

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—In the opinion of five of the country's leading college coaches the present system of final Olympic track and field tryouts must be junked.

Though differing as to other details, four of the five, whose views are published in the current issue of the New York A. C. organ, "The Winged Foot" agree that responsibility of picking the American team must be given a small committee with arbitrary authority rather than to have the team's make-up hinge entirely on the outcome of a tryout meet.

This suggestion is made in one form or another by Harry Hillman, Dartmouth; Edward L. Farrell, Harvard; Kenne Fitzpatrick, Princeton, and Jack Ryder, Boston college. Harry Gill, University of Illinois, confined his recommendation to one that the final tryouts be extended "from two days to three or even four."

Author of Change Believes Policy Would Be Unwise

Pitchers Need Batting Practice and This Would Deprive Them of Their Few Chances to Improve

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—President John A. Heydler does not want National League clubs to play ten man teams in the spring exhibition season, as has been suggested.

"It will prove nothing," said the National League head, "and will serve only to deprive pitchers of a chance to get some actual batting practice in competition, something they sorely need, goodness knows. The pitchers will have enough trouble at bat without depriving them of the few chances they will have to hit in the spring."

"I have not been discouraged by the failure of the suggestion for a batsman for the pitcher to arouse the enthusiasm I had hoped for it, but until it becomes an approved practice, there is nothing to be gained by having a few clubs experiment with it in the south. I hope this will not be done."

Yanks Report Feb. 25.
Twenty-five members of the world champion New York Yankees, present and prospective, were notified today to report to Manager Miller Huggins at St. Petersburg, February 25. Eleven pitchers will be included in the advance guard—Heilmach, Wells, Johnson, Craig, Rhodes, Fay, Thomas, Sheridan, Shealy, Miles, Thomas, Van Pelt, and Moore. The four catchers on the roll, Bengough, Dickey, Grabowski and Jorgens, will be on hand to assist Scout Paul Krichell in handling the offerings of the pitchers.

Bobby Jones Started One of Sport's Greatest Epochs Back In 1923

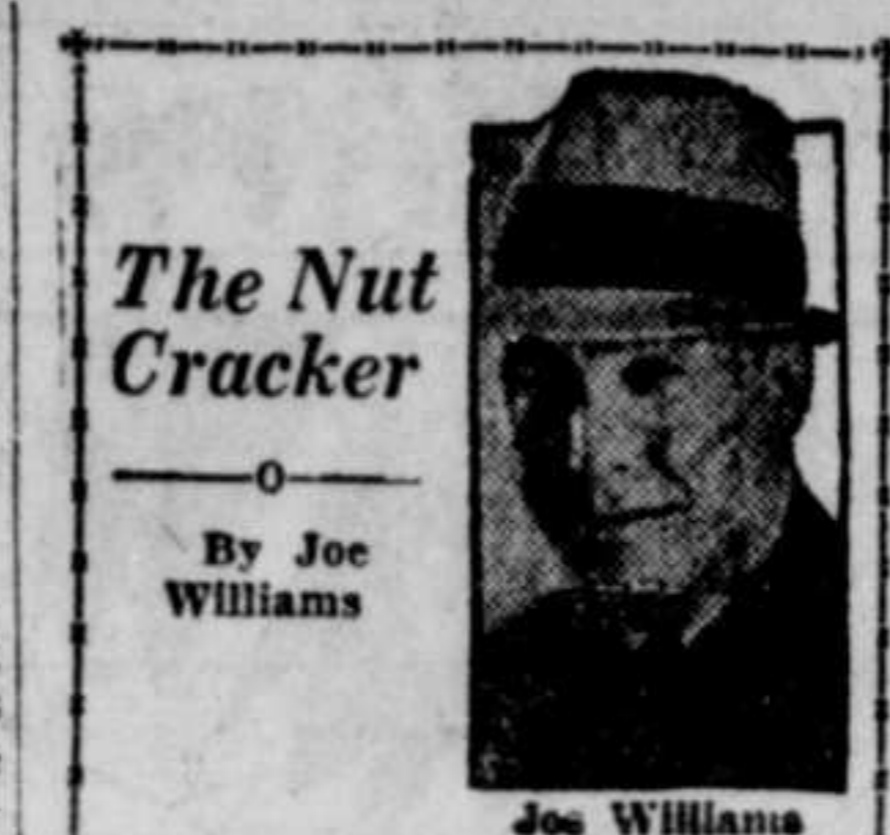

American Open Golf Champion Won His First Title From Bobby Cruickshank With One of Greatest Iron Shots of Any Championship Affair

BY ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—When you start talking about epochs in sport and that sort of thing, how about the epoch that a young man named Jones started on the links of the Inwood Country club in 1923 as he beat Bobby Cruickshank for the American Open Golf championship. I saw Bobby Jones—you may have heard his name before—beat Cruickshank with one of the greatest iron shots of any championship affair and thereby gain his first national title five years ago on the flat, watery Long Island links. I saw the great Georgian, a trifle balding and stouter, mow down his opposition at Brae Burn last September in a crushing march to his fourth American amateur crown in five years.

If you don't think there's been an epoch-making achievement within these five years, look the record over. Four national amateur championships, two national open titles and a brace of British open crowns represent the conquest of Atlanta's fair haired boy. There's no one else even close over this period, no one player except Walter Hagen, who has captured any national title, British or American, more than once in that five year span.

The strange part of it is that those who tramped behind Cruickshank and Jones in their 1923 playoff over the wind-swept Inwood links had a pretty good hunch that it was just a case of setting off the fireworks. Bobby was the boy wonder acknowledged at 21 as a master shotmaker in a game where it was only a question of time before he would crash through to the top. It just happened that he chose Inwood for the opening act of the drama and Cruickshank as his unfortunate victim.

The little Scotsman had made a game fight a sensational finish to tie Jones with 296 at the end of the regulation 72 holes. It was ironic fate as well as fact that the same sort of shot that had given Cruickshank his tie on Saturday turned out to be his undoing on Sunday on the same hole, the 18th. Through 17 holes of the playoff they were tied while a big Sabbath crowd watched the nip and tuck battle. From the 18th tee, Cruickshank, who had caught his rival to square the match at the 17th, half-topped his drive, landing in the rough behind a clump of trees. Jones was 100 yards longer, but in the edge of the rough Cruickshank's second shot was barely ahead of Jones' drive after cutting through the leaves of a tree.

Hockey officials are trying to arrange a system whereby there will be more scores made. Why don't they add a couple of points for broken necks?

Here's a scoring schedule the hockey people might use: Broken shoulder.....4 Broken arm.....4 Dislocated hip.....4 Black eye.....2 Broken neck.....5 But perhaps the scorekeepers would object. There's such a thing as giving a man too much work.

A headline says: "Successful Distemper Treatment Must Be Confined to Experts." We'd say, especially the right experts.

Total Number of Livestock in Texas Increased During 1928; Hogs Decline In Number While Sheep Are Advanced

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Total number of cattle and calves in Texas as on January 1, was 5,697,000, the same number reported a year previous by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. The average value per head is set at $42.20 this year as against $37.60 a year ago, and the total value increased from $210,870,000 to $236,694,000 during 1928.

Total number of cattle and calves on farms of Oklahoma January 1, this year was reported as 1,723,000, same as a year ago, while the value per head has increased from $39.70 to $45.20 and the total value from $68,374,000 January 1, 1928 to $77,926,000 on January 1, this year.

Hogs Decreased The report places total number of hogs and pigs on Texas farms January 1 at 1,210,000 compared with 1,375,000 on January 1, 1928. In other words, the number of hogs at this time is but 88 percent as great as a year ago. The value per head has decreased from $11.50 to $9.75; while the total value of Texas hogs has decreased from $15,782,000 to $11,699,000 during the year.

Sheep and lambs in Texas January 1, this year was 5,052,000 compared with 4,998,000 a year ago; the value per head was $8.90 against $8.40, and the total value of $43,000,000 this year compared with $38,790,000 a year ago.

Of the cattle and calves in Texas this January 1, included above, there were 935,000 being kept for milk,

Tech Offers Night Courses for City

Business English and Law Courses Are Taught in Classes For Citizens of Lubbock

Through its department of extension, the Texas Technological college has organized two night classes here following numerous requests and are offering studies in business English and in business law.

The business English course is designed to meet the needs of business and professional people who want to improve themselves in the matter of speaking and writing the English language correctly, clearly, and forcibly. It will include what ever is necessary in the review of grammar, followed by word study, drill in correct sentence building, punctuation, spelling, capitalization and paragraphing. The course will contain much drill in all forms of business letter writing, including what is correct in form and most effective in subject matter. An effort will be made to adapt the work to the needs of each individual member of the class.

Home Teaches English Instructor of the business English class is Professor Cecil Horne, head of the department of Journalism at the college. Sessions are being held at the offices of the Montgomery Ward company, beginning at 7 o'clock every Thursday night. Anyone who has not already joined this class may do so at any time, it is said.

Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department of government of Texas Tech, is the instructor in the course of business law, sessions being held at 7 p. m. each Friday in room 219 of the administration building at the college.

This course deals with the nature and sources of law; the law of contracts, sales, agency, partnerships, corporations, negotiable instruments, bailments and carriers, insurance, personal property, real property, suretyship and guaranty, and bankruptcy, the subject matter in each being illustrated by the consideration of cases.

"I sure was right - I lit a Lucky"

"So many people have made a fuss over me because in rowing back to the 'America,' after we had picked up the 'Florida' survivors, I was smoking a Lucky Strike. I can't see why there should be any excitement about this—it was the natural thing for me to do. Before we started out from the 'America' I made sure that my pack of Luckies was with me—I wanted the comfort and pleasure of Luckies no matter what happened. I sure was right. I'll have to admit that after we picked up the 'Florida' crew and started back, my nerves were completely let down. So I did the thing I always do at such times—I lit a Lucky. As long as I live, I'll never get another kick as I did from the sweet old toasted flavor of that Lucky as we were tossing about on the old Atlantic. I'm a hundred percent when it comes to 'reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' I lay off the things that would make me flabby and light up a Lucky instead. There's too much action going on in my life to have me moving around with a lot of excess weight which I don't need. There's another 'thing about Luckies. The toasting process, in removing the impurities, is a blessing to us who follow the sea. It prevents throat irritation which is a constant nuisance to those who are regularly exposed to salt air."

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

HOOPER HAS WHEELS ALREADY WELL OILED

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The Morning Avalanche

ASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — Herbert Hoover's administration will not exactly begin at noon, March 4. Rather, it will be going then. It will start, if it can be said to start at all, under full headway. Yet that will be no yank and jerk—no suddenness—about it. It simply will be going, as if it had always been going.

Mr. Hoover has been doing his starting, since his return from South America, like a brakeman jumping a swift-moving freight train.

The brakeman does not ask the train to stop for him, or slow up, even.

He grabs a rail and runs alongside—the car partly carrying him, and then altogether carrying him, until finally he shins up the side—and at last, as the train passes a given point, fairly kiting, there's the brakeman atop, sailing right along with it, calmly viewing the landscape.

Hardly will the administration have flashed past noon, March 4, ere Herbert will be seen, safely on top of it, gracefully swaying with the motion.

Mr. Hoover has been the object of a good deal of sympathy because he will have to deal with an extra session of congress so soon after his inauguration—in less than a month probably.

Why, shucks! All the "dealings" that Mr. Hoover will have to do with congress for some time to come, he has done already.

What does anybody suppose Herbert was doing all that confabulating for—with the G. O. P. leaders—during the two weeks he spent in Washington, following his vacation the other side of the equator.

Snow Man's Land

SO THINK WE

We think with the Texas squeezing down on the criminals of the country, when brought into the courts is going to have a good effect on making this a better country to live in.

Of course, it is no news that Herbert is an efficient worker. Nevertheless, the pre-presidential problems he has had to solve, in multiplicity, variety and intricacy have seemed enough to floor almost anything human—and they hardly seem to tire Mr. Hoover.

So the folk who are closest to him say. (It remains to be seen if his answers to all these puzzles are the correct answers.)

Mr. Hoover is not so tremendously popular, personally, with all his visitors. There are complaints that he keeps them moving along past his desk as if they were mere mechanical parts on an endless belt in a flivver factory.

It makes some of them sore, but they all admit it's "a wonderful system."

HEART HAS ENORMOUS POWER TO RECOVER

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

When the heart gives out it is impossible to get another one.

In a recent consideration of the danger of heart disease, Dr. L. M. Warfield has pointed out that we have two kidneys and two lungs and a great deal more interesting than we need, but we have only one heart and it is among the most important of the organs of the body.

Fortunately for the life of mankind the heart has enormous power of recuperation and a great amount of reserve. It is, however, merely human.

Q.—Is there any truth in the statement that athletic mothers have a more difficult time at childbirth than the unathletic type?

A.—There is no evidence to support such a contention. The factors causing difficulty in childbirth are those of bony framework and the musculature of internal organs that are not affected by general exercise.

Issue and will wear out under continuous overstrain and break down under the attack of disease.

It is for this reason that every man, at least those who have passed middle age, should be able to answer correctly the question, "How is your heart?"

If he wants to live as long as he can, he should have some idea of the functional capacity of this important organ, so that he will not overtax its strength in giving it too great a load to carry and will aid it in its defense against infections coming from various sources in the body.

Almost everyone knows the early signs of heart failure, but similar symptoms to a mild degree may be brought on by other conditions. Swelling of the feet, shortness of breath on exercise, pain and similar symptoms are not always indicative of heart disease.

It is only the competent physician who can tell by the use of functional tests, and by other methods involving the use of the X-ray, the size of the heart, its capacity and its need for rest.

First Aid Is Best. When the heart becomes weakened, it cannot be controlled directly as can other tissues of the body. It is, however, a living tissue and tends to recover with a sufficient amount of rest, and with aid to the combat of infection by removal of the sources of infection.

Hence it is that the first prescription in heart disease is rest, not rest for an hour or rest for a day, but sufficient rest to permit the worn-out tissue to regain their vitality.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

Disaster is not always sudden. It would not be so if it were always over in a moment. The real tragedy of life is found in the acceptance of the second best. That is slow disaster. If we are not watchful we shall be doing it over and over again.

Then it becomes the policy of our lives. We are satisfied to let things go as they are, because the effort to improve is inconvenient.

Where our judgment is most called into play is to learn for sure what is and what is not "second best."

It is a house of quiet within. In seeking something that has always seemed to be the thing we wanted to do. Perhaps the time has come to abandon our ambition. Perhaps it was a mistaken one.

There is a book called "The House of Quiet." It has an appealing title. Who does not desire a house of quiet? First and more important is to have a house of quiet within.

Some people seem to have marvelous self-control. They do not lose their tempers, fly off the handle, make spectacles of themselves. Why? Some think it is a gift, that one is born that way. It is not so—not always. Men with furious tempers have learned by thoughtfulness and patient effort a new way.

If we teach ourselves to control our thoughts and our statements in the time of trial annoyance, we gradually build up the habit of self-control. When bigger and vastly more distressing things happen the carefully accumulated habit of self-control is still working.

JUST ANOTHER CLUB. When the next man comes around to your office and tries to get you to join a new organization, turn on the most powerful spotlight you can command—and use it as a microscope. Analyze his suggestion through and through. There is a club for about everything and everybody in this world now. Be very sure the suggested organization not only has a definite purpose but a definite likelihood of accomplishing something worth while before you join it.

What's the good of belonging to something just for the sake of spreading out your time so thin that it doesn't cover anything properly?

WELL, HE LOVED HER. BAYONNE, N. J., Feb. 6.—Three times Frank Grant, 26, called police headquarters and demanded to be arrested. Three times he was released. The fourth time he called the lieutenant sent an officer to Grant's home to see what it was all about. Grant refused to give the officer any reason for wanting the scold of a jail. He was patled, however, and it finally came out that he had quarreled with his wife and because he considered himself a "brute" had decided on jail as fit punishment.

THIS HAS HAPPENED. All sorts of things are happening to ASHORETH ASHE. First she gets herself engaged to multi-millionaire—the famous HOLLIS HART. Then an ex-sweetheart, MONTY ENGLISH, appears upon the scene.

When Ashoreth reaches home, she learns that Monty is also flying that night to Boston, determined, he writes, to see her on an important matter.

Ashoreth and her mother, with SADIE MORTON, are listening to the radio when the broadcaster of the BOSTON NEWS announces that a plane, in flight from New York to Boston, has been lost.

Hollis telephoned her from Connecticut, where the plane crashed that he is on his way to Boston. And he tells her that he can have the five-day marriage law waived, and marry her in the morning.

She is excited and happy, but a bit dismayed because of the disconcerting news of Monty English. Monty was also flying to Ashoreth. When Hollis telephoned her, she was with him. He asked to speak to Mrs. Ashe, but the connection was abruptly severed.

Now, Ashoreth, with her head in a mad whirl, is planning for her marriage.

Hollis motors from Connecticut, where the accident took place, to the Ashe flat in Boston. Meantime, the Boston papers have heard, not only of the airplane smash, but the story that was printed in New York. They besiege the house like an army.

And Maltie warns the lovers "You'll never escape them. Don't I know? There's no outwitting the pack."

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX. Maltie was right. There was no fooling the pack. They camped on the door steps.

Hollis left the apartment as day began to break. Then the reporters divided forces. Half of them followed him in taxis to his club. Others were waiting there. Begging interviews. Demanding statements. There were photographers with flashlights. And Miss Fannie Drown of the Trumpet, who never went to bed.

"Oh, Mr. Hart," begged Fannie clutching him by the coat sleeve. "There's just one little thing I want to ask you. Tell me, Mr. Hart, if it is your belief that stenographers make better wives than society girls?"

He shook off her detaining hand. "Good lord, Madam, you don't expect me to answer a thing like that."

Fannie was running up the broad steps after him, whipping a dog-eared notebook from her pocket. A pencil from the depths of a big brown handbag.

"Let's say sweetheart, then," she pleaded, "Do you mean, stenographers make better sweethearts than society girls, Mr. Hart. From your own personal experience I mean."

Parkins came trotting through the revolving door. "There's a gentleman what says 'es a personal friend, sir, waiting in your bedchamber, sir. Hit's me own opinion, 'es a news 'ound, if it may be so, 'at 'e's a bit 'ot."

With scant grace, Parkins bundled Fanny down the stoop. "A gentleman's club! Hit's no place for ladies, Miss' he advised her."

A suave young man rose from the club chair in the sitting room of Hollis' suite.

"Sorry to intrude this way," he apologized pleasantly. "But business is business, Mr. Hart. There's a rumour around town that Dan Corum is filing suit for breach of promise against you. Stories from Dan's office indicate that he'll be on the job first thing in the morning."

He made no statement himself, but the New Yorker to give you an even break, so I came directly to you Mr. Hart. Rather rotten busting in on you this way, I know. But you understand how it is."

Hollis looked at him in astonishment. "It's news to me," he declared. "And you might tell Corum for me that if he pulls any of his dirty stuff, I'll give him a punch in the nose. And to sue his whole dam' firm for defamation of character."

The suave young man smiled. "Then there's nothing to it, Mr. Hart."

"It's blackmail," Hollis told her shortly. "That's Corum's specialty, isn't it? It's the sort of stuff they pull on Babe Ruth and Red Grange and any poor devil that happens in the limelight. And half of the suckers pay, and the other half let them take it to court. Well, I'm not going to give Corum a cent and I'm not going to let him take it to court either. I'm going to knock his head off, instead. Now you might take him that little message, and see what sort of a come-back he has for that."

The reporter smiled disarmingly. "That's the way to handle those guys," he approved. "And all the skirts that make the trouble, too. I'll tell him what you said, Mr. Hart. And, take it from me, there won't be another squawk out of Dan. By the way, congratulations."

Johnny looked foolish, and asked her if she liked children. It was then that Vina asked and she believed in companionate marriage. And should a woman have a career. They persuaded Ashoreth to pose, with Maltie, for a flashlight with Maltie sitting in the big divan, and Ashoreth on the arm looking tenderly into each others eyes. Then they wanted pictures of Ashoreth with, her knees crossed. And someone asked if she had a picture of Hollis that she could be looking at, very soulfully, for a time exposure. It was getting light by that time.

At six o'clock Maltie made coffee. See ORCHID, Page 9

and cut an apple pie. Vina scribbled on the corner of an envelope, "Just folksy," and wondered how soon money would spoil the two of them. Ashforth, they decided, was probably in love. And darn clever, if she wasn't. At last it was over. Half-past seven.

"Lie down for a little while honey," besought Maizie. "You'll want to be looking your best, darling—and the circles you got under your eyes—oh, me-oh my." "But, Mums, how can I. There's too much to do."

Maizie was so near to tears that she must pretend to be very busy. Opening Ashforth's bags. Shaking out frocks. Folding and unfolding. And packing again. "I'm going to draw a nice warm bath for you, Baby Lamb, and you're to take a little nap. Mr. Hart told me you'd go straight to New York and you can get whatever clothes you need there."

"Mother! You mustn't call him Mr. Hart. Why, Mums, he's just about your son-in-law already." Ashforth laughed hysterically. "Did you know, darling, he wants to go to Paris? And he says you're to move right down to the Copley Plaza, Mother. And stay there—anywhere in the world you want—until we come back again. Then we're going to take a house, Mums, and you're to live with us, forever and ever."

Maizie—because she was moved, most likely—snorted. Maizie never was a gracious person. "Me at the Copley Plaza," she scoffed. "Say, wouldn't that be swell?"

"Mums—Mumsie, dear... did you like him? Ashforth stroked her mother's hand. "Don't you think he's sweet, Mother?" "Sweet! Humph... He'd better be sweet."

Maizie scowled belligerently. "What's that he kept calling you

"Orchid? What does he mean—'Orchid?'" "Oh, he says I remind him of orchids. Mother. It's so darling of him. He says I'm exquisite, and chaste—and all the loveliest things you ever heard. Like an orchid you see—sort of cool and remote... Oh, of course, it's just too silly, dear... But isn't it adorable?" Ashforth smiled rapturously.

And Maizie, holding her daughter's face between her plump pink palms, prayed in her heart that life—and Hollis—should always be kind to Ashforth. Because, thought Maizie, there aren't many such beautiful smiles in the world, and fate would be cruel, indeed, if the most beautiful smile of them all should perish.

The hours flew. And they laughed a little, and cried a little. And planned a little. And Ashforth slept, while Maizie cried a little more. Then Hollis came, and spirited her baby away.

Maizie did not want to see the ceremony. She was afraid, she said she would cry. What she meant was that she thought her heart would break.

So Ashforth and Hollis were married in Mr. Higginbottom's office, with only two stenographers to see.

"I Ashforth (she touched her pearls with her finger tips.) take thee, Hollis (the richest man in Boston)... Oh, dear, it was dreadful... the thoughts that went through a girl's mind, when she was getting married. "For better, for worse (for better, thank God), "For richer, for poorer... (she smiled a lovely, misty smile), Hollis looked so wonderful!..."

(To Be Continued.) You will want to start on their honeymoon, with Ashforth and Hollis. They sail at noon on the Isle de France.

Report On Credit Situation Hangs Cloud Over Stocks

Federal Reserve Declares Flatly That Use of Credit Must Be Restrained; Issues Turn Downward

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER Associated Press Financial Writer NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The knowledge that the Federal Reserve board would issue a statement on the credit situation after the close of the session hung over the stock market like a dark cloud today, casting a gloom shadow over a number of favorable news developments.

The market opened with a burst of strength, but it quickly spent itself, and the list turned downward, scores of important issues losing from 3 to a maximum of 18 points in Wright Aero. Short covering and a drop in the call money rate to 6 percent for the first time in a week caused fairly general discoveries of scores of important issues losing from 2 to 4 points from the lowest prices of the day in the final dealings.

The reserve board's statement, which pointed to the new high total of broker's loans and declared flatly that the use of federal reserve credit must be restrained, were even more hurting to speculative confidence than had been expected. The board declared that credit must be used for bona fide business.

The copper market displayed further buoyancy today, with prices rising 17 3/4 cents a pound domestic, following upon the 1-4 of a cent increase to 17 1/2 cents this week, and an 18 cent price was predicted for the near future.

Among the unfavorable developments was another increase in crude oil production, and a jump in sterling cables to above the incoming gold point, temporarily, at least, halting the flow of the yellow metal from London.

The commodity markets were somewhat firmer. Gains encountered some buying in response to higher foreign cables on wheat and reports of big export trade in corn. Cotton ruled slightly higher, closing with gains of 60 to 70c a bale.

Foreign exchanges generally improved, in response to the gain of about 1-4 cent in sterling, which carried the cable rate above 4.85. The rise was ascribed to settlements for New York's recent gold purchases in London.

Cotton Moderately Active On Return Of Trade Buying

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The cotton market was moderately active today and advanced under good trade buying and shorts covering which developed a scarcity of contracts. May, after opening at 19.06, advanced to 19.20 and closed one point under the latter figure for a net advance of 15 points. The general market closed very steady at net gains of 14 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than this but the local market ignored this influence and opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points. There was some additional buying after the start and March traded to 19.02. May 19.07 and July 19.08, or 3 points above yesterday's close.

There was some selling by scalpers after the initial bulge and the market receded to around yesterday's closing levels but the continued unfavorable weather in the belt which traders believed would further hamper crop preparations brought out a good demand which around noon carried March to 19.06, May 19.13 and July 19.14, or 7 to 9 points above the previous close.

Demand tapered off around the advance and prices reacted a few points but in the early afternoon expectations of a bullish fertilizer statement by the fertilizer association influenced renewed trade buying and some covering with offerings of contracts scarce. As a result active positions advanced to new highs for the day with March at 19.14, May 19.20 and July 19.21, or 15 to 16 points above the previous close. Final prices were within one point of the top.

Livestock Sales Are Active Again

FORT WORTH, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Slaughter steers about steady with a fair demand here today. All classes of cows, yearlings and bulls fairly active at steady to strong prices. Very few calves on hand and they sold around steady prices. Hogs steady to fifteen cents lower. A light offering of sheep steady.

Steers got started to the scales fairly early with the bulk of the supply sold before noon hour at 9.25 to 10.25; better cattle unsold at noon. Prices about steady. Bulls active at steady to strong values, with a car selling at 8.50 and a load that had been on a lot a little longer at 8.75; odd head sold at 9.00. Common light bulls sold around 6.50.

The supply of cows light but sold about steady with a top carlot at 8.10; canners and cutters fully steady and sold readily with very few under the $5.00 level and cutters up to 6.00.

Slaughter yearlings and heifers apparently sold to a better demand with carlots at 11.25 and 11.50 and others in the 10.00 notch. Very few calves on hand to test the market, sales steady and a few of better calves up to 11.50 and the bulk sales at 10.50 and 11.25.

Cull calves sold around 6.50. Stocker cattle about steady with a light supply. Some common light steers in carlots at 7.00, 8.00 and 9.00.

Sheep considered steady with a light supply to test the market some woolled fat lambs sold at 15.75 and woolled feeder lambs at 14.00. Hogs steady to 15c lower, rail top 9.60, truck top 9.00; bulk of the

No particular news factor was stressed in connection with the slow rally which followed. Offerings were light and some of the local brokers said the market looked as if it had been well liquidated. Higher advanced to 19.48, new October contracts 19.23 and closing prices were at about the best of the day on active positions.

Trading was very quiet during the greater part of the day but became a little more active on the late rally when the covering appeared to be more general. March liquidation continued but consisted largely of switching from March to later deliveries. While the March-May difference widened to about 5 points at one time, it was 7 points at the close compared with 8 points at the close of yesterday.

Reports from the South complained of delays in coming crop preparations as a result of recent unfavorable weather, but the new crop months just about held their own with the rest of the list after a relatively easy opening. Private cables said that continental buying of distant months had been supplied by Bombay liquidation in the Liverpool market and that sales of cotton cloths and yarns were unimportant with producers losing ground. Port receipts today, 18,745.

U. S. port stocks, 2,167,900. Exports today, 31,252, making 5,805,568 this season.

Oil Notes

DALLAS, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The American Maracaibo well, located 900 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the north line of section 6, block 32-2, south, near Big Springs, was estimated good for 800 barrels of oil daily after being given a 300-gallon shot around the 2,225 foot level.

Encouraging signs have been found in the Ellenburger lime in the Roth and Faurot No. 4 Sealy-Smith, on the north line of the southwest quarter, section 19, G. H. and H. railway survey, three miles north of Valera, at 3-633-42 feet. The well swabbed 18 barrels of 39 degree gravity oil during a 24 hour test after the pay was penetrated.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The Ramsey Petroleum Corporation late today completed sale of 290 acres of leases in the South Oklahoma City oil district to the Midcontinent Oil and Gas company for a $1,000,000 purchase price. The Mid-Kansas company will take charge of the properties immediately, under terms of the agreement. Arrangements have been made to establish a district office in Oklahoma City. The Mid-Kansas also will take over the pipeline and the 40 acre loading rack now under construction by the Ramsey company.

TULSA.—Greater Seminole field's seven pools registered 294,865 barrels at this morning's gauge, at the time the new proration came effective there was an increase of 6,130 barrels over yesterday's production.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A Maud pool gusher averaging 125 barrels per hour from the Isener sand, or at the rate of about 3,000 barrels daily, was brought in yesterday by the Pure Oil company, in its No. 4 Wiley in 8-8-3, Misener sand was topped at 4,037 feet and drilled but eight feet into 4,045 feet. It put 1,982 barrels of oil into the tanks the first 16 hours gage.

Time, Love And Romance Play Joke On Norway And Sweden; Marriage Of Royalty Unites Two Nations

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Writer

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Time and love and romance, three master ironists, have just played a huge joke on Norway and Sweden, which only a few years ago were about to jump at each other's throats in a fratricidal war.

Now these three masterly powers are bringing Norway and Sweden very close together by the wedding engagement of Prince Olav, Crown Prince of Norway, and Princess Martha, niece of the King of Sweden. A Swedish royal princess will thus one day sit as Queen on the Norwegian throne.

Once Ruled by Sweden. Norway was an independent kingdom for centuries. Then, in 1814, Norway proclaimed its independence again, in union with Sweden, and elected the king of Sweden as its king. For early 91 years this worked, the Swedish royal family, descendants of the French Marshal, Bernadotte, being kings of Sweden and Norway.

But the Norwegians chafed under this yoke until, in 1905, they declared their intentions of dissolving the union with Sweden and setting up national house-keeping on their own. The present Gustav V of Sweden, who then was a very warlike Crown Prince, was all for compromise.

170-250 pound butchers sold at 8.00 @9.50; packing sows 7.50 @8.00 and a few good butcher pigs at 6.50 to 7.25.

It was a case of love at first sight, this romance of Princess Martha, niece of the King of Sweden, and Crown Prince Olav, of Norway. Here they're shown together after their engagement was announced.

elling the Norwegians to remain under the Swedish crown, but a peaceful divorce between the two countries was finally arranged. For years there was bad feeling between the two kingdoms and between the two royal houses. This was not reduced during the World War, when the sympathies of the Norwegians were with the Allies and those of Sweden with the Central powers. King Haakon, related by blood to Queen Alexander of England, still further strengthened himself by marrying Princess Maud, daughter of King Edward and Queen Alexander and therefore a sister of the present King of England. Their child and heir, Prince Olav, was born in England. Olav was popular at Oxford because of his absence of "side." He was known as a keen sportsman and an excellent dancer. He is a hunter, a skier and an expert skater. He raced his yacht at Cowes and was made a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron there. He is tall and blonde.

A couple of years ago, when Princess Astrid, niece of the King of Sweden, married the Crown Prince of Belgium, Prince Olav was present as a representative of the Norwegian royal house. There he met the bride's sister, the lovely dark haired Princess Martha.

"Frettiest Princess." It was a case of love at first sight and their engagement was frequently rumored. The bride, who is a year older than her 26-year-old fiance, is an expert musician and needlewoman and has been called the prettiest unmarried princess in Europe.

Their marriage will bring about a close union between the royal families of Denmark, Norway and Sweden, the three Scandinavian countries. For she, like her husband-to-be, also is related to King Christian of Denmark, being his niece.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A boxing card was abruptly ended here last night when Eddie Cartwright, Portland negro, died shortly after he was knocked out by Cecil Geyssel of Seattle.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., (AP)—Girls at Waynesburg college can get along without boys. This year's co-ed prom will be devoid of masculinity, half of the girls appearing in male attire. The boys contend that their fellow students are piqued because of "outside" girls having been brought to college affairs in the past.

needs, certain citizenship needs, certain home needs, certain language needs, certain study needs, certain leisure time needs, certain recreational needs, and certain character needs, and the purpose of his study and the knowledge he acquires in his study is to help him meet those needs more effectively. He studies nothing merely to help him to learn it, but he sees every study as an aid to the solution of a problem, the removing of a difficulty, the meeting of a real need in his life. It will thus be seen that our schools regard it as their task to help the child live a better and more efficient life. They seek to help the child solve the problems in the way of his better living. They realize, however, that the child will not have much enthusiasm for these problems until he sees them as real problems. The first task, then, of the schools is to get the child to see clearly his needs. The first aim is to get him to see himself as he is, his needs, his resources, and that he himself by his own efforts must meet those needs. Hence, the work everywhere is brought down to the child's level, down where the child lives, so that he can see that it really influences his life.

Must Meet Needs.

Then, when the pupil realizes his needs and becomes interested in meeting those needs, the next question is to lead him to meet them in the most effective way. If the child sees that there are certain difficulties in the way of his complete living, certain of the eight needs referred to above, the next task of the school is to help him remove those difficulties, one at a time, and thus cause him to move forward step by step into a larger life. The work of the pupil in school thus becomes that of problem solving, of reaching forth by means of problems to higher and better things. By the solution of real problems, the pupil is constantly moving into a new world. He is constantly leaving his "low vaulted past," his "out-grown shell" and living in a larger and larger world. Like the vine, he reaches forth to higher and higher things and the problems that confront him are the fence, the wall, the tree to which he clings as he goes onward and upward.

During the past three years, the schools have spent $10,000 for library books in order that the children may have at hand the tools with which to solve the problems that daily confront them. Last summer there was made for each room in the school system a little book case in which is placed from week to week the books that will help the children solve their problems. When a unit of learning is completed and the class moves on to a new unit or a new problem, the teacher and the class make a new selection of books from the general libraries of the school and they seek to place in this little room library just those books that will help the child best to solve the problem at hand. No school system in the state is better supplied with library materials than are our schools and anyone who visits the children at their work in almost any room, from the first grade through the high school, can see that they are learning to use these tools and are interested in their work in a way that is not true in the average school.

Books Not All

It may seem that placing so much emphasis on libraries and books is contrary to the spirit of a school system where effort is being made to emphasize the practical rather than the bookish. We

Texas Legislators Due To Arrive Today for Conference With Sooner Solons; Toll Units to Go

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6.—A committee from the Texas legislature will arrive here tomorrow for a meeting with the Sooner highway committee of the Oklahoma legislature with a view to formulating plans for acquiring interstate toll bridges over Red river, the boundary line between the two states, Dr. J. E. Smith, member of the house, announced today. A number of house and senate members immediately were chosen unofficially to make arrangements for entertainment of the visitors. V. P. Crowe, assistant attorney general, asserted that the plan most favored by Texas for acquisition of the toll structures was that of passage of laws in each state permitting the hunting season on black tail deer west of the Pecos river to two weeks and the bag limit to one buck. The senate school appropriations measure, amended in several sections by the house appropriations committee, was passed with little opposition. Friends of Southwest State Teachers' college at San Marcos sought unsuccessfully to obtain an emergency appropriation of $6,000 for heating two gymnasiums on the campus and Representative Patterson of Fort Worth was defeated in his attempt to reimburse North Texas Teachers' college of Arlington through emergency channels for the school's part in paving an adjacent street and constructing sidewalks.

A second senate bill which now needs only the governor's signature was the Berkeley measure limiting the hunting season on black tail deer west of the Pecos river to two weeks and the bag limit to one buck.

Mrs. Wallace Reid's Protege

NEA Los Angeles Bureau

Probably you haven't heard much yet of Helen Foster, chosen as one of the 13 Wampus Baby Stars of 1929. But you will, according to Mrs. Wallace Reid. Helen took a big role in "Linda," Mrs. Reid's latest production, and before that had a leading part in "The Matting Call." Mrs. Reid thinks a lot of her.

Snyder and Matador Celebrate Year Of Progress with Banquets Tuesday Night; Many Visitors Of Section Are Present

(Special To The Avalanche) MATADOR, Feb. 6.—Matador climaxed a year of sensational progress last night with the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, more than 200 being present, including visitors from Lubbock, Amarillo, Floydada, Paducah, and Quitaque. Dean James M. Gordon, of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, was the principal speaker, his subject being "Enduring Community Building." The banquet was preceded by a short band concert by the Matador band under the direction of Professor King. C. E. Hamilton was toastmaster and introduced Farris Fish, president, who welcomed the guests. W. H. Abernathy, Paducah secretary, responded.

Ukelele Girls Entertain Ukelele Girls, dressed in the colorful regalia of the Spanish matador, which brought a responsive applause from the audience and an invitation from Dean Gordon to the girls to come over to the Texas Tech and join the Tech Girls Pap Squad. A piano solo was played by Miss Ruth Moore, Miss Lorene Fryar favored the gathering with a reading, and a cornet duet was played by Professor King and Fred Ratten, accompanied by Miss Moore at the piano.

Short talks were made by a number of visitors from neighboring towns around Matador. The annual report of Secretary M. P. Leasing, of the Motley county Chamber of Commerce, showed a record of many successful activities of the community building machine during the past year. Report is given in the report are: Secured water and sewer system, held terracing school, held number of trade day attractions, sponsored beautiful homes contest and awarded $45 in prizes, built road to C. V. Ranch community, secured franchise for West Texas Gas company which will build natural gas line to Matador soon, helped Matador band by employing director, brought in 3 car loads of dairy cows, sent girls to state short course, sent Ukelele Girls and good delegation to West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, sponsored county fair and paid $1,000 in premiums, distributed road maps and road information, built road to T. P. flat community, helped farmers secure cotton pickers, helped organize Lion's club, worked on reduction of freight rates, helped formulate Carlsbad highway association.

Among the recommendations made for the new year included: street improvement, city planning and zoning, securing airport, purchase of water and sewer system, stimulate better agriculture, rather than "chase smoke stacks and industries," work on better highways. Must remember, however, that the children in school have only a limited opportunity to come in contact with men and women in their everyday lives and, even if they could come in contact with them more than they do, the men and women they ordinarily meet have not organized their experiences so as to make them most serviceable. The book contains the organized experiences of real men and women in the solution of real problems in their own lives and they afford the children the best possible opportunity to come in contact with those experiences that will help them to solve their own problems. From books boys and girls in school learn how men and women have lived wholesomely and from them they learn how to live wholesomely. They find from books how other men and women have solved their problems and thus they learn to solve their own problems. This is the value there is in books and it is the only value. Books are not something to amuse or to entertain or to give exclusive information. They are tools to be used in the solution of actual problems of living and when they are used that way they are always interesting to the student and always profitable to him. It is for this reason that books are used in the Lubbock public schools and that effort is made to supply each child with just the books or just the experiences of men and women that will help him to solve the problems of his everyday living.

Then not only are the children supplied with reference books. Maps, charts, globes, other sources of knowledge and other necessary tools of learning are supplied in all the schools, so as to make the child's work as effective as possible in the solution of his problems.

House Votes Down Ministers' Bill

Joint Resolution Calling For Ineligibility of Preachers To Hold Office Is Downed In Legislature

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 6.—The joint resolution by Representative Thompson of Houston proposing an amendment to the constitution making ministers of the Gospel ineligible to hold the governor's office or places in the legislature was voted down by the House committee last night after heated discussion.

Representative Anderson of San Antonio was the only committee member voting to pass it out with the recommendation that it pass. He said he would sign a minority report, and Representative Woodruff of Decatur, who voted against the resolution, said he would join Anderson in bringing it to the floor.

Never Preached Politics Representative Forbes of Parker county said that although he had been a minister of the Gospel for 30 years he had never yet preached a political sermon, or one on prohibition, for that matter, in his pulpit.

Representative Barnett said a preacher had as much right as anyone to make a political speech outside of his pulpit. "When we bar them we will do away with politics," he said.

shot to death, Cattle Association inspectors, Allison and Robertson in a hotel at Seminole. They were tried and received long sentences.

Today Mrs. Ross is a little, gray-headed, pleasant appearing woman, living with her father, Frank Hardin, at Knowles, N. M. The daughter is now Mrs. Herman Culp, living at Mountain, New Mexico. It is expected Ross' remains will be shipped here to be buried at Lovington, New Mexico.

HARVE Montana, Feb. 6.—Tom Ross, who escaped from a Texas prison after killing a stock inspector, could cut two more notches in his gun, but one of those marks must stand for Ross' own death, by his own hand. The other is for Ralph Heyward, ranch manager, shot to death last Sunday.

Clubs Chinese Cook The Texas cowpuncher, though known as a hunted man, had been working on a cattle ranch on the Blackfoot reservation in Montana for some time. His flight from Texas took him to Canada, where he worked on a ranch until a Chinese cook roused his temper. He killed the man with a club, Browning a shotgun for some time. He drifted down over the border into Montana and went to work on the Rimrock ranch of the Frye Cattle company, under the name of Charles Cannon. Last Sunday Heyward, a man of inspection, took Ross to task for the manner he was doing his work. A quarrel ensued. Ross drew his gun and poured six shots into Heyward's body, killing him instantly.

Two cowpunchers, Jack Davy and Bill Martin, and a man named Hoffman, were made prisoners in the ranch house but, after about an hour, Martin slipped out and started for Browning in an automobile. Cannon went to his own room, lay down on his bed, and as Hoffman peered through the door, shot himself through the eye.

Mrs. Ross has wired from Texas asking that the body of her husband be sent to Lovington, N. M., for burial.

Will Be a Cloche Spring Hats May Be Of Any Straw NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The smart spring hat may be any one of a half dozen varieties of straw and it may be any color—but it will be a cloche.

The popularity of the small close-fitting shape was attested in its predominance at the spring style show of the retail millinery association at the Astor last night.

A few broad brimmed hats were exhibited, but they were clearly intended for wear with the more summery costumes and do not appear to figure largely in Easter millinery.

Bakou, bankok, ballouati, visca, sial, Tuscan braid were popular varieties of straw in the advance models which were shown in virtually every important color. Natural, beige, navy blue, brown, red, green and brass were the leading shades.

Carnes To Work On Baptist Accounts

ATLANTA, Feb. 6.—Under sentence of five to seven years imprisonment for embezzling funds of the Southern Baptist Home mission board, Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer, again is to work on the board's books—this time in the role of accountant as an aid to examiners seeking to untangle the financial maze in which they were plunged by his speculations. One of the conditions under which he was allowed to plead guilty yesterday to one of 20 indictments against him, on recommendation of the board, was that he would help straighten out the treasury records. He previously had said only he could unravel some of the accounts.

He will be kept for this purpose at the Fulton county jail, it was said, probably for 10 days or more before going to either the state prison farm or on a county chain gang to begin his sentence. All of the board's books and financial accounts are to be taken to his cell for his perusal.

Hale Center Has Need For Coffee Shop In Hostelry

(Special To The Avalanche) STAMFORD, Feb. 6.—Manager Homer D. Wade, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been called upon again to act as service bureau for a West Texas town. Hale Center is in need of a coffee shop and cafe in connection with their new Hotel Center, according to Fred E. Wortham, editor of the Hale Center American.

The new hotel which is owned and managed by T. J. McKemie was opened only recently and is one of the most modern and fireproof hotels to be found in West Texas, especially in a town the size of Hale Center. The hotel building is constructed of brick throughout, and all furnishings are new. The indications are that a very profitable business could be established in connection with the hotel.

Dr. W. L. Brandt, historian of the University of Iowa, has calculated that for each second of the World war the United States spent $300.
