RUM DEALERS IN CHICAGO PLUNGE INTO NEW SNARE

OWNER DENOUNCES VOL-STEAD ACT AS AN IM-POSSIBLE LAW

BY EARL J. JOHNSON United News Staff Correspondent CHICAGO, Jan. 20—Ed Yellowley, ace of federal prohibition agents has reached down into his bag of tricks and brought up on so intriguing that it threatens to ensnare the $10,000,000 Morrison hotel and hang big padlocks on its imposing portals.

The trick is said to have originated in the mind of Lincoln Andrews, the assistant secretary of the United States treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, but Yellowley is the first man to put it in practice.

The snare is so delightfully disarming and so unlike the brusque tactics of the flat-footed American sleuths that the impervious disguise of Mrs. Smith, that violating the Volstead act becomes a most natural and easy phenomenon.

Monocles, titles, lofty manners are the properties of staging the skit that Yellowley has just given a dress rehearsal at the Morrison hotel and that he intends to reproduce elsewhere.

The bulk of the evidence against the Morrison was gathered by Sir Mont Goldie a monied investigator imported from England, and Albert Rolfs, who poses as a wealthy Australian perfume chemist.

Was Confidence These two distinguished visitors arrived at the Morrison on January 2. A few days later Rolfs brought in his mother, a Mrs. Harris, on account of whom he was given assurance by the management of the Morrison that there would be no embarrassing interference by house officers, police or dry agents.

Rolfs was a good fellow. He soon became known in the hotel as a distinguished guest and gained acquaintance of the house detective. He got what he wanted and, according to the evidence to the federal prohibition department has assembled this included much liquor and admittance to many private parties where liquor was served.

Meantime, "Sir" Goldie moved in a more exclusive circle. His perfect drawing room English, his noble mien, his monocle and cultured behavior won the confidence of everyone. And all the while day by day "Sir" Goldie was jotting down names and room numbers and

J., Jan. 20—Norwegians are satisfied with champagne, cherry, elixir and other light wines, and hence there is little whiskey drinking in Norway, according to Alexis Lundh, commercial counselor to the Norwegian legation at Washington, who returned from his native country Wednesday on the Scandinavian American liner Hellig Olav.

Lundh made the statement to deny a recent assertion of Wm. E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, dry crusader that drinking of hard, contraband liquor is common in Scandinavia.

CASHIER TELLS OF BIG DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

By United News BELTON, Jan. 20—Although the defense protested strongly against it, a statement alleged to have been made by Jess Sewell while in the Dallas county jail was read to the jury in the trial Wednesday. Sewell is on trial under indictment charging him with the robbery of the First National Bank of Holland.

Noah Rank, defense attorney protested that the statement was taken under duress by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and while Hickman was holding Sewell without allowing him to communicate with relatives or counsel.

The first witness on the stand was Logan Newberry, cashier of the bank who testified as to the manner of the daylight hold up. Newberry related that he was alone in the bank when two men entered and while one of them held a pistol on him the other scooped up all the money in sight. Newberry said Sewell was about the size of the man who held the gun on him. After attempting to look him in the vault the men sped away in a large touring car which was waiting outside with a third member of the gang at the wheel.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS SHIVER AS COAL SHORTAGE BECOMES ACUTE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—After four and a half hours without heat, Bellevue hospital, the largest institution of its kind in the country, obtained 200 tons of anthracite coal Wednesday afternoon as Mayor James J. Walker took personal charge of the situation.

The emergency apparently is not past, as Bellevue daily needs between 100 and 125 tons of coal for proper heat. Another boat load was on the way here Wednesday.

If the emergency 200 tons had not been obtained 1,377 patients and 1,500 employees faced increasing cold weather as night fell. The mild weather of the day prevented suffering because of the lack of heat.

Before the new lot of coal was received, hospital authorities faced the prospect of serving a cold night meal to the sick

DRY FORCES ADMIT BUSINESS IS BOOMING

By United News NEW YORK, Jan. 20—With writs, fists, guns and swift naval maneuvers, the United States government dry forces have spent a busy 24 hours of action against illegal traffic in liquor.

The White Star Liner Adriatic and eight other vessels lost stores of liquors seized while they were in port when a writ of destruction was issued Wednesday by Federal Judge Winslow. The contraband liquor will be dumped into the harbor.

Bullets and fists flew in a battle between 10 customs agents and 25 gangsters when the latter were surprised in the act of unloading 1,000 bottles of foreign wines from the steamer Cassacuser of the Lloyd Royal Bølge line, which arrived Tuesday from Antwerp.

The British schooner Oakleaf with several thousand cases of liquor aboard was captured by the coast guard off Cape Cod. Another action of routine character was a decree of forfeiture issued by Judge Winslow against a motor launch, No. 6457, captured last April after a running fight with the cutter Henley.

ELEVEN JURORS ASK MERCY FOR THE DOOMED LAD

GOVERNOR HAS SET DATE OF EXECUTION FOR FEBRUARY 1.

By United News HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20—Only 11 days more of life are left for 16-year old Willie Cavalier, slayer of his grandmother, unless the state pardon board commutes his death sentence to life imprisonment.

Disposition of his case is held up by the pardon board pending the return from Florida of Lieutenant Governor Davis, Davis, who is expected here Friday, will pass up on arguments made Wednesday before the board by Cavalier's lawyers.

As the fight to save him progresses, Willie, apparently unable to grasp the significance of his situation, strains unceasingly on a ukelele during most of the day. He says he is sorry for his mother.

There was a woman on the jury who convicted, herself the mother of six children.

His execution is set for February 1. Willie was 15 when he shot and killed his elderly relative as she refused to give him spending money.

"I am sick and tired of fanatics trying untired experiments on the underdog," Representative Underhill, Massachusetts republican told the house district committee.

"Why should we listen to their so-called ideas? The country appears full of persons ready to appear before this committee in the hope of having their notions made a la mode through their passage in the district."

Criticism Sharp Underhill's remarks were prompted by a vehement attack by Representative Blanton, Texas democrat, on the proposed appearance of Clarence Darrow to support a pending bill for the abolition of capital punishment in the district.

Representative Hammer, North Carolina, democrat, supporting Underhill, charged that reformers, through their testimony before congressional committees were "using the franking privilege of the government to spread their own ideas" as government printed documents are circulated throughout the country.

And then just as if nothing had happened, Noah W. Cooper, chairman of the Methodist Sabbath Crusade and a blue law advocate, marched to the White House and asked President Coolidge to halt railroad trains on Sunday.

"Everyone of the 2,500 Sunday trains is tooting America's downfall, to ruin," Cooper told the president.

OFFICERS CAPTURE STILL; ARREST TWO MEN

Special to the Avalanche. SEAGRAVES, Jan. 20.— Sheriff Britton and other Gaines county officials this morning captured an entirely new, and what promised to be a prosperous business, when they arrested two Seagraves men and captured a still that the men said had been set into operation Tuesday night.

Very little whiskey was taken as the operators, according to their version, were new in the business and were not successful in the art. They had made a mash concoction some days ago that had ripened into what the officers believed an experienced still operator could have used in making a real high grade product.

Sheriff Britton, County Attorney A. L. Duff, Deputy Sheriff Hood and Deputy John Turner, conducted the raid that was made on the small farm structure in which the still was located.

The two men, who are Gaines county farmers, were taken to Seminole where they were lodged in jail. They will probably make bond.

When court convened Wednesday Moody started to read his amended petition which raised the amount of damages to $125,000 and added the counties of Bexar, Comal, Kerr, Kendall and Medina to the original list of those in which contracts should be cancelled.

Defense objected but Judge George Calhoun overruled the objection.

GUN ARTIST AND BAD MAN FACING ELECTRIC CHAIR

BRIDE OF FEW WEEKS PROMISES TO STAND WITH HUSBAND

BY H. G. HOUSER United News Staff Correspondent CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Manufactured but haughty, Martin J. Durkin, the two gun sheik, whose spectacular escapes from the law have cost the lives of three men's back again in the city where he received his first lessons in bold banditry and murder.

The iron door of a jail cell has clicked behind him, and before nightfall Thursday legal machinery will have been set in motion to rush him to the gallows.

Clinging to Durkin's arm, as the dapper young desperado and his captors alighted from a crack train from St. Louis late Wednesday night was his bride, the 18 year-old Cornell, Illinois, girl whom he married several weeks ago in East St. Louis.

Bride With Him Martin J. Durkin, handsome young will-of-the-wisp, killer, was moving up across the state of Illinois, Wednesday evening, manacled and surrounded by guards, who were to deliver him into the hands of the Chicago police department where his deprivations have kept things in a turmoil for six months.

Durkin and his 18 year-old bride were captured in a state room as their train entered the station at St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday noon from Dallas, Texas. The attack was too sudden and too overwhelming for this Houdini of gunmen.

There was time for the shooting "Sheik" to get any one of three guns that hung under his coat into action and strong arms seized his bride before she could draw the little automatic from her purse.

"You've got me," Durkin yelled. "I didn't have a chance."

Then at the police station Durkin admitted he had killed Edward G. Shostaker, department of justice agent here, and within four hours he and his bride were bundled into the parlor car of a Chicago bound train.

Methodist Missionary Society Held Business Meeting

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met in business session at the church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. After singing hymn No. 545 the Bible lesson was read by Mrs. Whiteside.

Mrs. George C. Wolfarth, the president, then entered upon the calendar of business which was a long and important one.

Since the organization as a body had voted to use the district plan for the year 1926 and the plan presented by the committee at the last business meeting was not accepted but referred back to the committee for changes, Mrs. Kimbro, chairman of this committee, was asked to read the new plan. The members of the committee recommended that the action in regard to districts be rescinded or a new committee be appointed to make the plan since the members of the district committee were not in favor of the district plan. After discussion by members on both sides of the question the vote was taken and previous action rescinded by a large majority.

The report of the finance committee was called for and read by Mrs. Peters, the chairman. This committee recommended the budget system taking fifteen hundred dollars as the minimum amount to be raised. This plan was adopted as were the items of disbursements with a few changes. The committee recommended that one half of the amount of pledges be paid if possible during the first quarter in order to make provision for funds for the entertainment of the conference which will meet in Lubbock in April. The members voted to accept this recommendation.

The sixth item in the plan was that every woman in the church be asked to sign a pledge card for the local work and that the local chairman and her committee have charge of the cards.

The president appointed Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Shelton a committee on arrangements for the all-day meeting on the 26th.

A letter from Mrs. J. A. Potts, conference connectional officer, was read by the secretary. This letter was written to commend the Lubbock W. M. S. for the payment in full of the Bell Bennett memorial quota, this being the sixth organization in the Northwest Texas Conference to go over the top.

A committee consisting of Mesdames Cowan, Ellis and A. L. King, was appointed to submit new watch words for consideration.

Mrs. Overton, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Patterson were appointed to express the love and bereavement of the society for the loss of Mrs. Trigg in the form of resolution.

The year has begun auspiciously and the members are determined that in no department of the work shall there be retrenchment. The new officers have taken hold of their work with willingness and enthusiasm unprecedented. Eighteen new members have joined within the last few months and many of these have shown their deep interest and desire to serve. Let us move forward in His name for whom our work is done.—Reporter.

MRS. CARAWAY INJURED IN RUNAWAY TUESDAY

Mrs. J. K. Caraway, aged mother, of Mrs. C. F. Stubbs, and of the well known Caraway brothers of Lubbock, barely escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when a horse ran away with a buggy in which she was riding.

The frightened animal was soon beyond control and Mrs. Caraway was thrown from the buggy and would have doubtless suffered more serious injury but for the fact that, fortunately the accident occurred in a newly plowed field.

Mrs. Caraway is now able to be about, little injured as a result of the accident, which she described as one that would not have been unusual a generation past.

This is one of the very few accidents of this kind occurring since the formerly universally used horse and buggy have been displaced by automobile transportation.

They will be distributed among church and school music directors of Lubbock in order that the song may be learned by school children and others.

This hymn is also favored as a recitation in public and private schools or other educational institutions, according to a note contained on the music sheet.

Pretty Satin Wedding Gown Is Patterned With Pearls

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

THE youthful brides insist on dressing becomingly rather than conventionally. No formal bride robe for her, but a smart frock with short skirt is her choice. The sort that later on, with its sleeves removed, serves as an adorable dance frock with just a pink rose or two for the shoulder. Perhaps with a filmy, bowery scarf it will coax all eyes to turn toward the happy girl bride who attends mid-winter grand opera. The model in the picture shows how effectively a girlish dress of white satin may be worn with veil on train.

For the bride who elects to wed on joyous St. Valentine's day this dress of gleaming white satin, studded with pearls is truly a lovely creation. The long sleeves bespeak smart style, the low round neck declares flattering becomingness. What more is there to wish for? An heirloom veil of point lace, to be sure, and a bouquet of lilies of the valley with streamers of gauze and narrow satin ribbons, exactly as the picture portrays.

Another youthful bride's gown uses brocade satin for its medium. It is styled with a long-waisted semi-fitted upper portion, with a deep set-on flounce which shows an uneven hemline, short in front, sweeping somewhat lower toward the back. Long, tight-fitting sleeves grace this gown with a low, round, youthful neck.

The fact that the bride gown in the picture is all-over embroidered in pearls proves that beaded effects instead of losing in favor have in extent that beads, sequins and another-of-pearl paillettes are elaborating the majority of formal evening frocks. A love of a gown for a debutante is of palest of pink satin, starred all over with mother-of-pearl paillettes, intertwined with silver threads.

Home Dressmaking

By JEANNE BOLAND
(Copyright 1925 by PEARSON SERVICE, Inc.)

Working front in field broadcloth poplin is a solid color. The belt corresponds with the collar and pocket trim, but is of ribbon.

The panel front is cut on the bias and, if preferred, the back may be cut in the same way, giving a note of individuality to the design. The kimono sleeves are finished with bias folds of self-material, piped with the plain poplin. If preferred, the sleeves may be lengthened, extending to the wrists, with a narrow cuff for a finish.

The diagram shows how the pocket is trimmed. Modern methods of dressmaking are so simple that work is reduced to a minimum, happily for the woman who does her own sewing. Cut the patch pocket the desired size and mark the place that it is to be put on either side of the front of the dress. Take a band of the plain poplin, twice the width that it is to be when finished. Sew the right side to the band to the wrong side of the pocket, as pictured, then turn the band over to the right, hitting the fold in the center, extend about an inch above the edge of the pocket proper. Turn

Originally without sacrifice of comfort it is effectively embodied in this model for a morning dress. It calls for three and three-quarter yards of plain broadcloth, 28 inches wide, and one-fourth yard of cotton under the edge of the broadcloth overlap and stitch on the right side. Turn under the three edges, baste the pocket to the dress and stitch. This model is also effective in the smart rayon slippers.

Pattern No. 359, cut in sizes 16 years and 36 to 44 inches bust, will be mailed postpaid upon receipt of 15 cents. Be sure to give correct name and address of patient desired when ordering. Send orders to Pattern Dept., 110 West 42nd Street, New York, N. Y.

They helped in the installation of several of the machines and two students installed one of them without the aid of the expert. Chaney ran off several pair of hose and then turned the machines over to the students. One of the best pair made during the afternoon was a double stripe cotton and silk.

Mr. Chaney came to Lubbock from Sherman where he has been installing machinery in the mills there. He stated that the college had selected the best machinery for their department and that he had not seen any other school better equipped.

Matadors Preparing for First Game Monday Night

Coach Higginbotham is sending the Matadors through their nightly workouts at a terrific pace in preparation for the game with Daniel Baker College Monday night. He expects a hard fight and intends to fit the men for the contest. The Matadors will be facing odds as the Hill Billies have a comparatively veteran team and will have played ten games this season before Monday night.

A practice game with a local all-star team was played last night and Higginbotham was well pleased with the showing made by his squad. The game Monday will no doubt give him a better knowledge of the worth of the men in a contest. The students are planning to show words of pep for the first Matador basket ball game. The town people are expected to turn out strong for the game.

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

Umph! We're no pessimist, or anything like that, but we did know that such beautiful weather couldn't last very much longer in Jannery, at least. We're not complaining, or anything, but just had rather old stayed in its good humor a while longer.

We've discovered that when a fellow's sleepy, there's a chance that he can do some things more readily than when he's awake. Strange it may sound, but at the same time it's true. The thing that impresses us most as being the thing most readily done when a fellow is, as we have said, sleepy, is to go to sleep!

We can't discover any reason for its being so, but we saw quite a few folks sleeping in one of the classes this morning. It might have been that we were just on the verge of sleeping when we saw some double exposures, but we don't think so. Anyway, it was lots of fun.

Press club met last night, was oh, fairly well attended last evening, considering the other attractions, some of them from town. We understand that a certain theater had a pretty heavy run; but as far as we're concerned it might and might not have been just so.

The Little Theater of the city is using some suspicion, as think in selecting a play to take on Dallas. None other, you see, than the play "One Must Marry," that was given at the Tech some time ago. Pretty good play, and should show Lubbock up pretty well against those villages of Houston, San Antonio, Austin and the like.

The Torador, our college paper, is also instituting something new, and something that should be worth while. Some time in the very near future college issues are going to be called for—the agrics, the engineers, the home economics and liberal arts students are each going to have their shot at it, and make things burn for the printer. Pretty good issues are going to result, we know, and we're going to wait for that home economics one, because it's liable to have some pretty good appetizers among its write ups.

Then, later, if the classes want 'em, the fish, the soph and the advanced student classes are going to have their try at it. By the time they get through with it all sorts of combinations will have been worked out and a cross word puzzle might be the result. Let's hope not—it's enough trouble to do justice to said paper anyway.

We were rather amused yesterday when we found out, in a measure, what it feels like to reappear before Ma after getting a pardon. Not mind you, that we've been down to Austin, but we had a kind of funny feeling when we looked across the table from us at noon and discovered the teacher of the class we'd just cut the period before. Great jump-in' jehosephat!

RALLS C. OF C. HAS VERY EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

RALLS, Jan. 19.—At the first meeting of the new board of directors of the Ralls Chamber of Commerce the various committee chairmen were appointed to carry out the plan of the year's work.

Reed Loflin will launch the membership drive and an effort will be made to secure the largest membership for the fifth year of this organization. It has ever had, which will be about 300 members.

J. B. Cole, Jr., chairman of the Civic committee expects to foster beautiful home contests, clean up campaigns, beautiful city park, and many other worthy causes.

W. D. Watkins, chairman of the roads, rural routes, and telephone committee, will continue the work started by the Chamber of Commerce last year and hopes to secure three or four new rural telephone lines.

P. B. Ralls, chairman of the industrial committee was appointed for the fifth time to do the work of bringing new industries to Ralls. During four years we have assisted in securing, electric lights, water system, ice plant, and many other industries. A sewer system, paving, oil mill and compress are in the program for this year.

The chairman of the agriculture committee, I. C. Byerley, expects to launch a campaign for diversification and his plan is endorsed by the entire directorate. Assistance in securing better dairy cows, hogs and chickens will be given farmers who are interested.

The Ralls Fair will be handled again this year by M. A. McLaughlin and several communities in the Ralls trade territory are planning an exhibit for the fair.

This marks the beginning of the fifth year's work of the Chamber of Commerce and W. B. Winters who has been secretary since its organization, was re-elected.

School of Expression, University of Wisconsin, and the University of Texas, has consented to direct our one-act play, which will be given in Dallas the first week in April.

The play to be given is one of Dr. Pfueger's translations "One Must Marry." In the play there are two women characters and two men characters. These parts have clever lines, and call for the very best talent that can be obtained.

Friday night, January 22, the first of a series of tryouts will be held at the college in room 205 at 7:30 o'clock. Every active member of the organization is urged to be present, and also to give publicity to the tryout. This is a matter of civic pride, and the organization desires to depict itself in true Lubbock fashion. There are no doubt a great many modest people who hesitate to appear at a tryout, but it may be that those very people have the artistic ability that is need ed for these roles. Come, and bring some other member with you. Let us make this tryout the best attended we have ever had. Who knows, we may win the Dallas tournament.

Friends of Mrs. Bertha Stagley will be glad to know that she is resting well at the Lubbock Sanitarium.

ARE THE PEOPLE OF LUBBOCK LIVING UP TO THEIR DUTY AS PARENTS

It would seem that many of the parents of this city, as well as thousands of other cities of the nation, are falling far short of their duty to their children. They may furnish them with all the material things of this earth. They may dress them well, they may give them plenty of food. They may educate them or at least try to, but on the other hand they may fall far short of their duty as parents in the raising of the children.

In addressing an audience of people a short time ago one of the pastors of a church in a city not far from Lubbock told them in substance that with the coming of the baby into the home the father and the mother have assumed a responsibility that is awe inspiring in its magnitude.

Monarchs, presidents, and industrial leaders have no greater task before them, and in many respects their responsibilities are almost insignificant in comparison with those of the father and mother. Material things are inanimate and the will of man can largely control them, but it has been given unto you to guide the destiny of a living thing—a mortal with an immortal soul.

You have brought a child into the world. The child did not request you to do so. It came not as a debtor, for it owes you nothing now. And it is up to you to determine whether in the years to come your investment in humanity will prove an asset or a liability.

Scientists tell us that at birth the mind is developed but little; that there is practically no reasoning power, and baby acts by instinct alone. But the spark is there, the mental faculties soon are to develop rapidly, and within a short time the actions of the parent being to have an effect upon the child.

The little brain is in its most receptive mood; it is developing much faster than the body. Your actions and method of speaking are making their impression, and from now on you are responsible to the world for the type of man or woman you are to give it in the years ahead. And when your task is completed, you will either feel a sense of deep satisfaction, peace and actual joy in the position your boy or girl holds among mankind, or you may suffer unending remorse and shame. With but few exceptions there is no middle road.

It is true sometimes that environments and influence which parents cannot control may take part in developing their child but this is seldom the case.

An eminent churchman has said in substance: “Give me a child until he is twelve years of age and I will have the kind of man I want, regardless of who directs his life afterward.” He has spoken wisely. There are exceptions but they are few.

The impression gained in early life remain to the child the father and mother are deities. In a sense they are worshiped by the baby, who is absolutely dependent and looks to them for guidance in all things. When the will to disobey asserts itself (and such happens very early in life) if the child is permitted to break the laws of the parents, that child cannot be expected to respect other laws in later life. If the outbursts of temper are not checked, how can the child be controlled when the age is reached wherein such outbursts of passion would be dangerous?

Contra, if parents use an “iron hand” they must expect as a result a cringing, fearful child, who will be unable to stand for its right among its fellows.

It is up to the parents to live the life they want their child to live; to develop the traits and character they desire the child to possess; to refrain from the attempt to live a “double life” before the child, for detection is certain; and above all to seek to retain the child's confidence, that he or she may not hesitate to turn to them for guidance in all matters requiring the mature judgment the child does not yet possess.

It might be of some consolation that the early training will never be forgotten, and that there is a chance for the child to come back even if it should go wild, but the trouble we note in the American homes now days is that the training is not there to begin with, and the child is allowed to run wild in many instances from the time it is old enough to walk till it is grown.

In Lubbock we believe that most of the children are well taken care of so far as their physical requirements are concerned. That is they are given plenty to eat. They are given good clothes to wear, and they are given many more of the luxuries of life than many children have in other sections of the country, but we fear that the parents of the community are rather negligent regarding the morals of the children. We see many of the youngsters strolling the streets at night many of the girls of the age of fourteen and up, without any protection whatever. They are found auto riding at night. They are often seen sitting in cars at the curb of the church, when the parents believe them in the church listening to the sermon of the beloved pastor. Many people send their youngsters to Sunday School, but never look inside the door themselves, and many times the youngster does not either. They allow their offspring to make trips to other towns unchaperoned, and give them every opportunity to go wrong. It is no wonder then that the jail-houses and the penitentiaries are filled with youths rather than with older men. We believe the average parent of this day and time are negligent of their children, and until the fathers and mothers of this nation are awakened to the real responsibility that they have upon them there will be little chance of improvement.

Parents awaken to your duty.

IT'S UNFAIR COMPETITION

“Newspapers, especially the smaller one of the nation, are just now organizing a campaign to persuade Uncle Sam to refrain from printing return addresses on stamped envelopes at cost. In competition with the little printers. Under existing conditions, Uncle Sam hires salesmen in the persons of postal employes to solicit the business, write up the orders, transmit them to the printer, collect the bill and deliver the printed job at the consumer's office.

“Why the smaller newspapers alone should be subjected to that kind of competition from their own government cannot be explained, and there is prospect that the printing service that the government has rendered practically free to users of stamped envelopes will be abolished by this session of Congress.

“Other business enterprises that are perennially threatened with government competition below cost, if taxes and overhead were calculated, should join with the newspapers in the effort to get Uncle Sam out of the printing business for the general public, in competition with private enterprises; and this strengthen the principal of confining government activities to the functions of government.”

THRIFT IS NECESSARY

The newspapers recently have been giving considerable space to the outlines of various welfare and thrift plans made use of by business organizations for the benefit of their employees. It is constantly becoming more apparent that one of the best ways to help others is to offer them practical encouragement in thrift practices. This idea is being carried out in various ways. Some organizations are helping their employees build and own their own homes; others are encouraging them in the ownership of stock in the organization where they are employed, and still others are carrying out plans by which employees are able to save a considerable sum of money as they go along. It is an encouraging sign of the times that business interests are taking an increased interest in the personal progress of the members of their organizations. To be happy and successful in business requires happiness and success in the home. Thus business organizations which encourage thrift among their employees are in turn reaping the rewards of greater efficiency. But this is not to be viewed from the standpoint of selfishness. While the company secures benefits from the thrift of its employe, the community, the nation and so society in general are likewise benefited. The establishment of a thrifty family in a community is always an added force to the progress of that community. It is to be hoped that, with the development of the new year, a growing number of business organization will see the wisdom and value of encouraging thrift among their employees. If this could become a generally accepted practice throughout the business world, it would make 1926 the greatest year for progress in the history of our country.

CAN'T STAND PROSPERITY

It would seem that there are a whole lot of people who can not stand prosperity. They are like the mule on the Missouri farm. As long as he was kept dead poor he was a very useful animal around the farm, but when he was fattened up he kicked out of the traces and tore up the wagons and caused a lot of trouble in general.

How many people, too, there are who can't stand prosperity. Just like the mule, they kick over the traces, too, as soon as things come their way. It is history of the world that more nations have fallen because of prosperity than because of adversity. And it is the history of the world that more individuals have been ruined by prosperity than by adversity.

Many a man has been a good father and a good husband as long as he had to grub hard earning a dollar. But as soon as prosperity came his way he went straight to the devil. We knew one poor backwoodsman who was a right good citizen until he sold his land to the turpentine interests for $300,000. Then he moved his family to the city got a fine home, a diamond stick pin, some patent leather shoes, and tried to make the town dry by drinking up all the whiskey.

Industries that have too much business coming their way are likely to get as independent as a hen with a full crow. “Take it or leave it” they say in substance. “It's all the same to us.” Clerks of some hotels that have more guests than they can accommodate turn folks away as disdainfully as though it were an insult to be asked for a room.

It is too bad when people can't be prosperous and humble at the same time. It is too bad when a man thinks that he did it all by his little self. It is too bad when a man can't realize, in the midst of his prosperity that the day may be just around the corner, when he will need the co-operation of everybody he knows, and ever has known, to pull him through.

The Powers That Be try out nations and they try out persons, feed 'em up to see if they can stand it. And when they get uppish and kick things to pieces, then the rations are cut down just as with the mule.

SO THINK WE

We think the modern high-brow writer designates everything from taking a bath to getting hanged an adventure.

We think that after years have passed and gone that the crusader will possibly point to the “sanitary skirts” and sensible oxford bags with a good deal of pride.

We think that the main reason that some people romp on the churches and the preachers is because they know very little about them, and what they think they know they learn from reports from others who do not know. Very few people get the preacher's words first handed.

We think the old time congressman who rode to congress on an ox, has nothing on the present congressman. He does not ride the animal, but has lots of fun shooting him.

We think the governor is kinder rubbing it in on the state of Texas when she says she is proud of her pardon record. We know of a large number of people who are not.

We think that there is a great work in Lubbock for some man or woman who has surplus money to help a lot of young people to complete their college education. There are numbers who need a little help, and a few hundred dollars used in this way will bring greater returns than most any other investment.

We think just a little financial assistance to boys and girls in their school work, and a little encouragement to the young men in their business life, and social life is among the greatest things that people can do for the betterment of the country.

We think that Lubbock should put on a big tree planting campaign.

We think that there should be a home beautifying contest put on in Lubbock for this spring.

We think that now is a mighty good time to do some painting and brightening up the home place. Start now before the spring sand storms. Just now there are more people needing work and you can get your improvements made promptly and at very reasonable figures.

TIMELY WORLD VIEWS TOPICS

“Chinese Do Not Know Salient Facts About Their Own Country,” Says Dr. Meeker

“The shooting of Chinese students by foreign police has done great harm to the cause of the foreigner in China,” said Dr. Royal Meeker, former commissioner of labor statistics and chief of research of the international labor office at Geneva, in a recent speech. He has returned from a five month's tour of China as a member of a commission on social research. “The Chinese have always felt kindly disposed toward foreigners,” Dr. Meeker said. “The efforts to stir up feeling against them have been attempts made by political strategists which have been largely unsuccessful, but the whole feeling of the people has changed since this untoward incident.”

Advocates Establishing Social Institute

The commission attempted to sound out the advisability of establishing an institute for social and economic research in China, to be started and partly financed by American capital and to be given wholly to China ultimately. “We had exceptional opportunities in being able to meet the high public officials and the more prominent Chinese educators,” Dr. Meeker said. “We were also brought in touch with the leaders of the working classes. We found a strong sentiment in favor of having an institute in China, which would furnish them with facts, but they don't feel the need so strongly that they are willing to contribute money to such an institute. The Americans backing the project do not feel that an institute supported by foreign capital indefinitely would be desirable. “The great need of a systematized organization to furnish facts to China is shown by the embarrassment felt by Chinese when they are asked for information on their country. The Chinese do not know what their population is; guesses are made from 350,000,000 to 450,000,000. They have no idea how much opium they produce or how much they consume. At a recent conference I attended the Chinese officials had to blush for their country because the realization of the great need of such facts had not come to them.”

Chinese Family Disintegrating

“The present unrest in China is due, in part, to the disintegration of the family, especially in the industrial centers, and to the changing economic conditions. The cost of living has risen, and wages have lagged behind. Within the family unit the old authority of the father is waning to a certain extent. All these things make for social unrest. I consider China of tremendous importance to the world, one of the hot spots on the globe. India is another, and Russia still another. I feel that what we do in our relations with China in the next few years will have a strong bearing on the future peace of the world.”

THE LITTLE GIRL WHO WON'T RECITE

I know my A B C's and I know blackbirds baked into a pie And lots of songs that I can sing. Of course I don't know everything, But since I'm only half-past three I think I know enough for me.

I know Miss Muffet and Boy Blue, And yes, I know Jack Horner, too, And simple Simon, and sometimes I go through all my nursery rhymes But never when there's company, though.

I won't tell strangers all I know. Sometimes they say: “Now won't you please, Stand up and speak your A B C's?” But I just hang my head and say: “No, I don't want to. Not today.”

And mother says: “It bothers me To see how stubborn she can be!”

“Why almost all day long she sings And says so many pretty things? And then they say: ‘Well, never mind.’”

Some other little girl will find Who'll speak her pieces and not stare Forever at the carpet there.”

I like to say my pieces when The company has gone again. But when they're sitting all about The words I know just won't come out.

In mother's lap my face I hide And I get all mixed-up inside.

HOME COMING BASKET BALL TILT SATURDAY NIGHT

EX-STUDENTS OF LUBBOCK HIGH SCHOOL EXPECTED TO WITNESS BULLDOG-WESTERNER CLASH

The Ex-students committee of the Lubbock high school has arranged to have a home coming basket ball game at the high school gymnasium on Saturday night January 23rd. With the Westerners and Plainview Bulldogs playing.

Some of the old time students, that gained their early education in the Lubbock high school under the instruction of Judge P. F. Brown, J. K. Wester, E. R. Haynes, M. M. Dupree, and others that served their time in instructing a great number of men and women of Lubbock today have conceived the idea that it would be a great thing to get all of the ex-students back to witness the same kind of game that they did in the years past.

A different surrounding will probably be experienced by many of the old students for their days basket ball games were played in the afternoon during a sandstorm on an outdoor court, but now they have a gymnasium to play on with suitable seats for the fans to witness the game.

As the idea is yet young the advertising of the game has not been extensive; however the ex-students committee has put in much time sending out circular letters and other data but there may be those that have not yet heard of the event as the committee asks that those that see this article and receive the circular letters advise those that have probably been overlooked and have not been notified to invite them to this great get together occasion.

The main event will be of course the Plainview Bulldogs, the old rival of the Lubbock high school and the high school Westerners. Both of the teams having been showing up good in their seasons record this far Plainview recently defeated the Panhandle Champion team of last year, Tulla High school; and the Westerners have been defeated three times this year with seven victories.

Just before the main game the ex-students committee has arranged to have the stars of the basket ball game of the past to meet with the second team of the Westerners. It is thought that the members of the championship team at Lubbock high school produced in 1921 will be the ones represented by the ex-students.

The committee urges that all of the old timers be present and bring with them their children, sweethearts, fathers and mothers. It is thought that this event will bring together many ex-students and will have the occasion to show their old pep and enthusiasm that they used to have.

Tarleton Plowboys Defeat T. C. U.

Last night, in a hard fought game, the Tarleton Plowboys defeated the Freshmen of T. C. U. The game was fast and clean from start to finish. During the last half excitement reigned for most of the time. Neither side seemed to stop the other. The Plowboys were always in the lead, but there were times when it looked as if the outcome would be quite different. Both teams were fouled several times, but in spite of that it was a clean game.

The most outstanding players were Jennings, Nix and Starr for the Plowboys. Nix was high point man with 12 points to his credit, and Jennings followed a close second with 10 points. Starr did excellent guarding at all times.

Idalou Girl Will Teach In Belton

BELTON, Jan. 20.—Miss Lillian Shelton, Idalou, has been appointed student assistant in the department of Expression of Baylor College for Women, Belton. Miss Shelton will complete the work on her Bachelor of Expression degree this year. She is also taking literary work for a Bachelor of Arts degree and will receive both in June.

Miss Shelton came to Baylor College from Wayland Junior College, Plainview, where she studied two years. She entered her junior year in the fall of 1924. She is a member of the Three Arts Club, honorary organization which includes members of the department of Fine Arts. She was a member of the cast for the commencement play last June, taking the part of one of the Dromedaries in Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors."

At the beginning of the new year, Miss Shelton was given a class in expression by Miss Mary E. Latimer, head of the department. To begin with she will instruct five or six pupils who are beginning in the work.

upon an ice cream cone which had been dropped upon the walk, slipping and breaking both of his hips, today he lies in a California hospital probably never to leave.

The mother having gone through many hardships, and the worry over her husband, and the thought of not being able to properly educate her children began to work upon her mind, and for the past several months she began to believe that someone was trying to take her children from her. Physicians and friends believe that it was this that made her commit her act of Saturday when a car drove up to the gate and she began to accuse the occupants of trying to take her children. It is believed that she thought that she was defending them instead of harming them. Thus far Fate has dealt harshly. Fate is peculiar but it plays great parts in our lives sometimes it makes us glad and then it saddens us, but it stays with us until the sun goes down upon our lives and we are no more.

Child Slain By Its Mother, Buried In Lockney Cemetery

LOCKNEY, Jan. 20.—Just as the day was ending, and the sun was slowly fading away, a little white basket holding the body of Derenda Moore, age 8, was let down to its final resting place in Lockney cemetery. There little Derenda sleeps among the silent ones who have gone to their reward. Her childish prattle is hushed, the little cheeks that grew with red, and the little voice that always spoke with kindest are no more.

Fate had played a great part in the life of Frank Moore and his wife, so fate came into the life of little Derenda and her life was plucked like a flower when her mother mind became deranged and the mother believing that she was defending her children slew Derenda and seriously wounded Dorothy, age 6, and then tried to end her own life. Today she lies in a hopeless condition and there is little or no chance for her recovery. But it is believed that Dorothy will live.

Six years ago the Moores were a happy family, leaders in their church and social affairs in their community. Then fate began to play its part, it first began upon the father who was stricken with rheumatism, it settled in his back, drawing him up and shortening his height 12 inches, after several months this ailment became permanent. But fate was not through and a few months ago Moore hardly able to creep about on crutches stepped

THREE LINKERS AT PLAINVIEW HAVE BANQUET

LOCKNEY, Jan. 20.—Plainview Lodge No. 12 I. O. O. F. was host to the Odd Fellows and Rebekas of the South Plains at a banquet in Plainview, Tuesday evening at 8 p. m. There was over two hundred Odd Fellows and Rebekas present from 11 towns. A. A. Hatchel was master of ceremonies and Charles Clements, District Attorney of the 67th district made the principal address. Solos were rendered by Mrs. H. Flaxman and Mrs. Lilla Davis of Plainview, reading was given by Miss M. Merrill of Hale Center. Address were made by E. S. Shontz, Homer Howard, and H. B. Adams of Lockney, G. B. Roman of Amherst, A. S. Patterson of Hale Center, and W. A. Munger of Plainview.

Another time his blood stained coat and hat were found on the river bank with a scrawled note saying he had committed suicide. These were found to have been "planted" by a relative in an attempt to throw the police off the trail.

Wanted In Los Angeles. LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—Martin Durkin, Chicago slayer, is wanted in Los Angeles for several reasons. The principal reason is Detective Lieutenant Allan Baldrige.

In his polite, insistent way, Durkin stole an expensive automobile here several months ago. He became tired of the car and hung about the Central Police station for a buyer.

Then Durkin met Baldrige, who had been assigned to get the Chicago killer. Durkin was going to help Baldrige find him, so they rode about in the stolen car.

The detective admired its smooth running qualities. Several minutes later Baldrige promised to buy it.

They went to a bogus dealer who took $1,800 from Baldrige and gave him some papers and the car in exchange.

Two days passed and a fellow detective arrested Baldrige on a charge of possessing a stolen automobile.

Detective heads then came together and the Los Angeles police force learned with dismay that none other than Martin Durkin was the affable butter and egg guy who had given so many tired policeman lifts home.

The police department wants Durkin for the auto theft and sale, but most of all Detective Allan Baldrige wants him, and his reasons are obvious and many.

CONGRESSMAN TAE POT SHOT AT NEWSPAPERS

Cooper informed Mr. Coolidge pointedly that neither he nor any one else should employ others, such as chauffeurs, cooks and the like for Sunday work.

Before the president had time to halt America's ride to ruin, Representative Summers, Washington republican, told the house that the free use of the rock pile for rich and poor violators of the prohibi-brands of liquor in his little note book.

Yellowley doesn't know how much "Sir" Goldie and Mr. Rolls spent during their assignment at the Morrison but Harry C. Moirs, owner of the hotel, estimates the bill will present to the government will go well into four figures.

"It is mighty expensive business for the government" said Moirs, "it is the inevitable result of conspiracy, entrapments and bribes made possible by an unenforceable law. Volsteadism has made it impossible for an honest hotel owner to prevent dishonesty among his employees."

Federal agents plan to prosecute the owner of the hotel on charges of having disobeyed the abatement of the nuisance clause of the Volstead act.

tion law offered the only chance of saving the laws of the nation.

Summers would not restrict the rock pile to rich and poor violators, either.

"Foreign diplomats who break our laws and the public press ought to be out on the rock pile," he said.

"The public press feeds its readers on distorted news morning, noon and night 365 days in the year," Summers announced.

"It is doing more to break down respect for law than all the anarchists that ever landed on Ellis Island."

Sport Flashes

FANNING WITH FARRELL. By HENRY L. FARRELL. United Press Sports Editor. NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Recent suggestions that all professional sports in New York be placed under the administration of the state athletic commission revived an old controversy on the merit of the proposal.

With very few exceptions it is commonly believed that state control of all sports would not work because it could not be applied with practical results.

Boxing has been admirably administered in recent years in New York because it was in the hands of a high class commission. It will not be possible always to get the type of the three men now serving on the commission without pay and when men of such character are not available the field of eligibles will degenerate into the political class and politics will not mix with any sport.

Factions associated with boxing and wrestling claim it an injustice that these two sports have to pay a heavy state tax while baseball, racing, cycling, hockey and football escape extra assessment.

This argument can be answered, however, by pointing out that baseball and racing, with huge plants to keep going, pay more in the long run into the state treasury than do the promoters of the majority of the boxing clubs who only rent the halls in which they do business.

Tex Richard of course, has a $500,000 establishment to keep going but the Garden is not exclusively a boxing palace. Richard is restricted by the state law to one boxing match a week and while he has to pay a big state tax he escapes the assessment on his hockey matches, his amateur bouts, basketball games and six-day bike races.

Applied to baseball and racing, state control would bring about a conflict of authority and jurisdiction that would result in no end of confusion.

Baseball is adequately controlled by a council that has more authority than could be invested in any state or national commission. If it came to the direct issue of taxing baseball, the tax could be levied and collected without the influence of a state commission.

Baseball in New York is also controlled by the highest type of men consisting of the best type of men consisting of with sports. If the sport cannot be kept clean and normal by the men in charge it never can be made pure by a commission of politicians.

The same holds good for baseball.

If Commissioner Landis, with the absolute power of a monarch, cannot keep baseball clean, no other individual or organization could succeed in doing it.

Baseball and wrestling are the only sports that need state control. They would run wild without it and they run wild sometimes with it. Many of the characters associated with the two sports have respect for nothing but law and this respect many times is paid by merely lifting the hat in its presence and allowing the dagger behind its back.

When winter's snow is falling outside—and the wind roars through the trees—when the friendly logs blaze up in the fireplace—have a Camel!

WHEN it's a winter night and the day that was busy is done. And outside the snow is driving through the trees before the wind. When, inside, the crackling logs catch fire and burst into flames above the hearth—have a Camel!

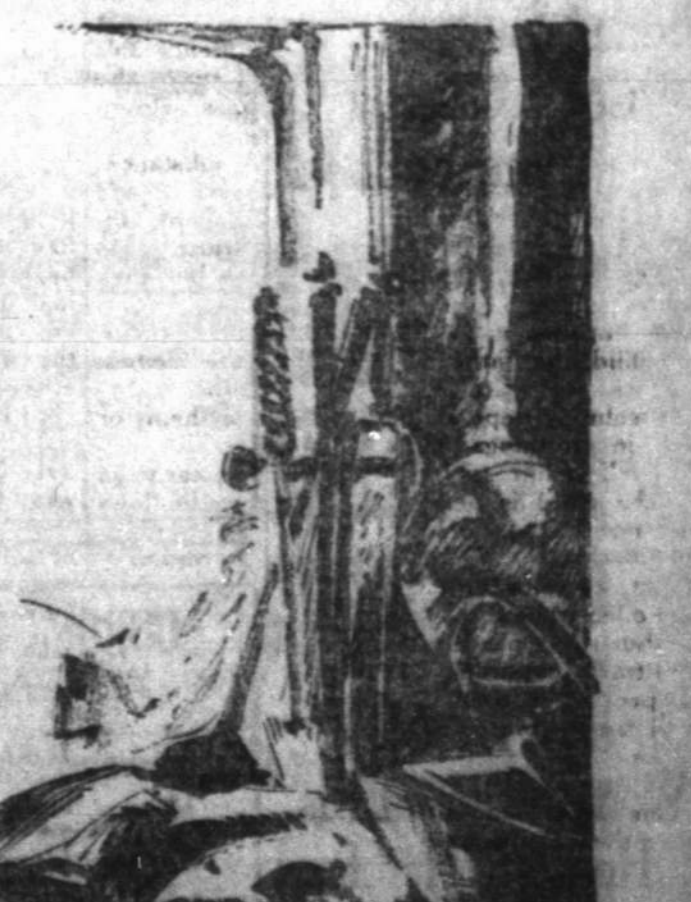

For Camel is the tried and trusted friend of millions of experienced smokers. Whether your returning steps bring you home tired or jubilant, no sweeter, more mellow fragrance ever came to you from a cigarette. There's not a cigarette after-taste, not a tired taste in a whole county full of Camels. Only mild and mellow flavor, deep-down contentment in your home or any home where Camels are lighted.

So this night, before your roaring logs of oak or hickory—have a Camel. Open up the famous package of Camels and know the fragrance, the contentment that brings happiness to millions. Put a Camel between you and a light and taste the mellowest, most delectable blend ever made into a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

No other cigarette in the world is like Camels. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The Camel blend is the triumph of expert blenders. Even the Camel cigarette paper is the finest—made especially in France. Into this one brand of cigarettes is concentrated the experience and skill of the largest tobacco organization in the world.

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

NEW B. C. D. OFFICERS SELECTED AT MEETING WEDNESDAY—SLATON WILL HEAD BOARD FOR ONE YEAR

The initial meeting of the Board of City Development of Lubbock was held at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning with all members of the newly elected board in attendance.

The first business transaction was the election of officers and Hon. O. L. Slaton was elected president of the board, with Pink Parrish and J. A. Rix, vice-presidents and F. A. Norman, treasurer.

Slaton Presides
Mr. Slaton took charge of the meeting and the business as listed on the program for the meeting by Manager A. B. Davis was entered into.

The B. C. D. directors placed their stamp of approval on the plan that was approved by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and the city commission that the members of the board of city development directors also be members of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce in order that the work might be co-ordinated, and to in fact convert the two organizations into one big machine working for the common good of Lubbock.

This plan provides for the maintenance of the chamber of commerce membership with only individual members and with nominal dues of one dollar per member per month. This serves the purpose of a membership in touch with the public generally and to give the organization manpower to carry out its aims. The finances that will be derived from membership fees will also be helpful in carrying on the work of the co-ordinated organizations.

A committee composed of Pink L. Parrish, J. B. Maxey, J. H. Hankins, and O. L. Slaton, was appointed to formulate rules and laws governing the operation of the board.

While the meeting of the new board yesterday was held with the main object of perfecting the organization, the matter of considering the deficit of the athletic fund of the Texas Technological College was presented by H. T. Kimbro, a member of the board of regents, and this was believed to need immediate attention so badly that the directors decided to take over the proposition and see it through. A committee was named to take charge of this business, H. D. Woods being chairman.

Davis is Manager
City Manager A. B. Davis, who took charge of that office on January 1st, was given charge of the Board of City Development as manager and will have authority with regard to the employment and direction of employees of the organization. The chamber of commerce shades the responsibility of paying the salary of Mr. Davis for his work as manager of that body, this arrangement being definitely arranged and to be in effect until in April.

The board approved the plans of the chamber of commerce to sponsor and finance the Farmers Short Course that will be given here January 28th and 29th.
The board voted to send Senator W. H. Bledsoe, Attorney E. L. Klett and City Manager A. B. Davis, to the hearing of the application of the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains Railway Company for authority to build a line into the south plains when the hearing is held at Washington. These representatives will be sent to Washington as representatives of Lubbock and the south plains railroad committee.

Stone Mountain Coins Offered In Lubbock

F. W. Groce, chairman of the Stone Mountain Memorial Fund for Lubbock, has received the 702 coins that is Lubbock's quota in the campaign, and has announced that Lubbock people will have an opportunity to purchase these coins during the remainder of this week.
The coins are available at the Lubbock National Bank and an effort is being made to have all of these coins in the hands of those interested in the Stone Mountain Monument not later than Saturday.

Lubbock is in a position to take care of its quota without any difficulty whatever, if those who are interested loose no time in purchasing the coins, which are halfdollars and are sold for one dollar.

Father of Lubbock Woman Dies at His Home In Hereford

It is with deep regret that Lubbock friends have learned of the death of Mr. John Estes, of Hereford, who is the father of Mrs. E. L. Klett, and Mrs. Carl Roberts.
Mr. Estes had been ill for several months, and his daughters who live in Lubbock had both been with him several days. He died Monday morning and was buried in Hereford Tuesday afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Ellis also attended the funeral, and they and Mrs. Roberts returned to Lubbock late Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes celebrated their Golden Wedding a few months ago, all their children being present.

Eleven newspapers in the city of Lubbock alone receive United Press news service.

A. G. Ross, of Idalou, was in Lubbock yesterday and sold 123 dozen eggs that were produced on his poultry ranch.

Mr. Ross stated that no difficulty has been experienced in finding a market for his poultry products, and that at prevailing prices the flock on his ranch is making big profits.

WITH WOMEN TODAY

Women have not been slow to see the possibilities for themselves in the radio. Not only are they employed as entertainers, but some are announcers, and others even have a hand in the manufacture of the instruments.

In Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Nellie E. Trego is head of a concern manufacturing radios—the Trego Radio Manufacturing Co. She is believed to be the only woman holding such a position, at least in that art of the country.

Mrs. Trego says she is one widow who dared chance in business. On the advice of a former employer she placed the money in a struggling radio company and became the head of it. A large part of the mortgage was spent for advertising, and the result of her efforts was that now the factory is working day and night to keep up with orders.

Miss Mackay was on the stage for a time where she went by the name of Poppy Wyndham.

Halide Edub Hanoun is minister of education in the Turkish cabinet. She recently visited London and delivered a lecture on "Turkish Women of Today."

THANKING OUR FAULTS
It is an old saying that every man in his lifetime needs to thank his faults.
When Emerson observed that our strength grows out of our weakness, he was only repeating what many wise men had said before him.
"Not until we are pricked and stung and sorely shot at, is awakened the indignation which arouses itself with secret forces," Emerson wrote.
"While a man sits on the cushion of advantages he goes to sleep.
"When he is pushed, tormented, defeated, he has a chance to learn something.
"He has been out on this wits, his manhood;
"He has gained facts;
"He is cured of the insanity of conceit;
"He has got moderation and real skill."

The wise man always throws himself on the side of his assailants. It is more to his interest than theirs to find his weak point.

After all, whatever folly men commit, be their shortcomings or vices what they may, forbearance is our duty, remembering that when these faults appear, they are OUR foibles and vices that we behold.
They are the shortcomings of humanity, to which we all belong:
Whose faults one and all we share;
Even these very faults at which we usually wax so indignant merely because they have not appeared in ourselves.
Ash Shakespeare advises, "Condemn the fault and not the actor of it."

PERRY WILSON PROVES ALIBI AND IS FREED

Perry Wilson, 21 years of age, was released from the Lubbock County jail Wednesday morning after accusation hurled at him concerning the Fred Conner murder last August were proven ungrounded.

Hale County officers, co-operating with officers of Lubbock and Garza Counties, Tuesday made a thorough investigation into Wilson's whereabouts at the time of the Conner murder and learned that he was employed at that time at an oil field and could have had no part in the Conner slaying.

After his release from the jail here Wilson exhibited no animosity toward members of the sheriff's force, and as it was necessary for him to remain in Lubbock throughout the morning awaiting arrival of news from his people at Canyon he spent most of the time at the offices of Sheriff Johnston and County Attorney McWhorter.

The whereabouts of the young man who rode with Conner from a point somewhere east of Lubbock to the place where the tragedy occurred is yet unknown, and the Wilson arrest has but tended to complicate matters pertaining to the case.

Wilson was brought to Lubbock Saturday by Sheriff Stewart of Garza County who arrested him after he had gained admittance to a Post City sanitarium by claiming he had been beaten into insensibility and robbed of $52 by two men. Autoists carried Wilson to the Post City sanitarium from where he lay passed as unconscious at the roadside 12 miles from Slaton.

ONLY ONE THIRD OF SCHOOL TAX HAS BEEN PAID

Only about one-third of the school taxes for the Lubbock Independent School District have been paid to date, A. C. Jackson, the collector, stated yesterday.

Business is on the increase at the collectors office, however, and it is believed that the percentage of the assessment collected will reach a much higher figure before the end of this month.

Baptist Revival To Begin Last Of This Month

A revival meeting will be started at the First Baptist church here on Sunday, January 31st, Rev. W. A. Bowen, the pastor, announced yesterday.

Rev. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church at Abilene, will lead the meeting. Rev. Bowen said, and special musical programs at various services throughout the season will be conducted by the church choir.

Arrangements are being made for the revival and all departments of the church, including the Baptist Young People's Unions, Sunday school, ladies clubs and laymen's organizations will have an important part in carrying out the program.

The First Baptist church here carried on a very successful revival meeting early in 1925, the effects of which are as yet in evidence, and the success of this revival is assured.

All members of the congregation are urged to attend services between now and the opening of the revival as messages having to do with the opening of the revival will be delivered by the pastor at these services.

JUSTICE JOHNSTON WINNER IN CASE AT O'DONNELL

Misapplied justice was claimed by Attorney Hill Stewart of Lubbock this week clarified a case at O'Donnell wherein Justice of the Peace W. E. Johnson was charged with violating a city ordinance there.

Justice Johnson and Ben Cowden of Lubbock, went to O'Donnell on January 9th where they conducted a public auction sale of furniture, and city authorities there complained that the Justice of the Peace was not armed with an auctioneers license in that town as required by an ordinance there.

Justice Johnson alleged that he had made all necessary arrangements to secure the license and had paid the usual fee for same. No arrests were made in the case and the claims made by Justice Johnson and his attorney were considered by the city officials at O'Donnell who dismissed the case.

Justice Johnson now has a new angle from which to look at those hauled into his court for alleged violations.

Life, accident and benefit insurance totaling $86,000,000 has been placed by the Studebaker Motor Co. for its employees.

ONLY ONE THIRD OF SCHOOL TAX HAS BEEN PAID

Only about one-third of the school taxes for the Lubbock Independent School District have been paid to date, A. C. Jackson, the collector, stated yesterday.

Business is on the increase at the collectors office, however, and it is believed that the percentage of the assessment collected will reach a much higher figure before the end of this month.

MOTLEY COUNTY MAN RELEASED FROM JAIL

Fred Simpson and Harry Carter, of Matador, were here yesterday representing the Sheriff's department at Matador in securing the release of a man from the county jail here who had been held on a charge of car theft but who it later developed was not guilty of the act.

The man was being held here on orders from the Sheriff at Matador, who just this week clarified the case.

MARKETS

Kansas City Livestock By United News KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20.—Cattle supplies were liberal Wednesday and the market was slow and dull with prices lower.

Hog receipts were a little above normal and prices were on the down turn at most of the western markets. Trades were slow with values 15 to 25 cents lower.

Cattle 8,000; calves 1,500; practical top veal 1150; stockers and feeders dull, weak to 25 cents lower, little supply in second hand, country demand narrow.

Hogs 1,000; good to choice 170 to 225 lbs averages 1210 @ 1230; light lights toward 1240; big packers going slow; picking hogs 1050 to 1115; stags 875 @ 925; stock pigs 10 to 15 cents higher 1200 @ 1225.

Sheep 4,000; few sales of sheep about steady; early top ewes 860; no lambs sold early, bidding lower.

NEW YORK FINANCE BY TODD W. WRIGHT United News Financial Editor NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Wall Street's passing contest on the day-to-day action of the stock market went merrily ahead Wednesday with the supply of booby prizes almost exhausted.

Traders who figured the reaction would continue when stocks opened lower were forced to cover on the subsequent rally, while those who thought the rally would continue were called to put up more margins when the market dropped to new low levels later in the day.

A brisk rally in the last few minutes of trading resulted in further frantic switching again caught them napping and Sentiment among the banks is rather critical of the request by federal reserve authorities for more detailed information regarding the volume of loans to brokers on stocks and bonds.

While this request is merely an amplification of data already being furnished by the banks each week, there is a disposition to resent this further incursion into the private dealings between banks and their customers.

As far as the stock market is concerned, bankers say the street is taking the matter too seriously.

There is nothing in the present request for the federal reserve bank or the governing committee of the stock exchange, that can be taken adversely or in any way detrimental to stock market trading.

The information is simply sought for the better understanding of movements in the money market and of developments in the general credit situation. The idea on which some of the selling in Wednesday's late trading was supposed to have been based—that the data is sought for the purpose of restricting loans on stocks and bonds—is entirely wrong.

The federal reserve banks are not vested with powers to arrest the initiative of member banks in making "street loans" were they to attempt to do so the place of the member banks in this field would be promptly filled by institutions outside the reserve system.

Furthermore the stock exchange authorities are in complete accord with the reserve banks in respect to publishing the most accurate reports possible on broker loans. The publication will be entirely in the interests of greater accuracy concerning the volume of bank credit outstanding at any given time, and means nothing more.

Market Furnished by SAM S. DENMAN CO. Correspondent J. N. Wisner & Co. New Orleans PHONE 364, LUBBOCK Long Distance Phone 16

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The market started generally with gains but soon became subjected to pressure and setbacks were substantial in many issues, which brought about levels lower than yesterday's market. The market was called upon to take a heavy supply of stocks which however seemed to be comparatively well taken. Around noon the market displayed an improvement although trading became less active. Amongst the oils, Associated Oil continued strongest being heavily traded in and selling at new high levels.

In the afternoon the market developed particular aggressiveness and staged a most impressive recovery. Ward Baking which had suffered considerable selling during the early trading following heavy liquidation of yesterday recovered almost five points from the low. Similar action took place in many issues of which late have been called upon to bear the brunt of the selling.

The closing tone and action of the market was buoyant and gave plenty of evidence that the technical position has been thoroughly corrected.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Wheat. Scattered commission house buying again coming in wheat. The feature is the absence of offerings.

Liverpool opening cable plainly shows the poor foreign outlet for North American wheat inasmuch as sentiment alone was behind yesterday's advance, this sentiment promises to be weakened today.

Market will have alternate periods of weakness and strength pending further developments.

Grain Opinions Lamson Bros.—Would confine purchases in wheat to breaks. Coarse grains likely follow wheat temporarily.

Halburd Warren—We are inclined to think the advance has about spent itself.

Bartlet Praizer—Market has advanced too rapidly for its own good and recessions are possible, but on them believe better buying power will appear. CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Holders of wheat both cash and futures were more confident of their position last night, despite the preference shown for bids. The disposition was to buy on all weak spots.

Hardening of cash premiums particularly in the southwest tends to make holders more bullish and they predict an active covering by shorts.

Cotton Opinions Hicks & Williams—The trade situation continues excellent and purchases are advisable on such setbacks as that of yesterday.

Orvis Bros.—Think trade demand be relied upon to enter the market steadily as easiness occurs.

Hentz—Do not think there is any fundamental influence at work to cause a decline in price movement and it is likely to continue more or less of a scarping affair.

Hubbard Bros.—The distant months are attracting attention in view of the low prices and on any moderate setback a good demand is noticeable.

Morning Cotton Letter NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20.—The market turned moderately reactionary yesterday on forecast of ginnings of 15,586,000 and statement from a Memphis bureau that ginnings indicated a crop of 16,200,000.

Some selling based on statement that the co-operatives were liquidating part of their holdings on the advance. This is offset in part by claims of some interest that they are not selling best grades.

The call of United States comptrollers for frequent reports on loans to brokers by New York banks also tends to create cautionary feelings.

Ginning report due 23rd. First ginning report to Dec. 13 was 14,826,000 revised figures show 14,833,675 ginned. If ginnings turn out as predicted it indicates 763,000 for period vs. 515,000 last year.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Young Mother Wants to See Babe She Had to Give Up

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl in my teens and am very unhappy. About five months ago I was married to a certain young man. I was only married a month or so when my baby was born, which I thought the world of. A little angel he was. I lived with my husband until my little baby was two months old. After that we parted. I had to give my little baby to him as my parents had quite a family and my mother is getting quite elderly and could not take care of him, which she would gladly have done if baby had been a little older. Now I have not seen my baby for more than two months. Which makes me feel very blue. Do you think I have a perfect right to see my own baby? He is with my husband's father's folks. And would you go right over there to see him or have his father take him some place where I could see him? I would just love to see him. You could almost place yourself in the same boat if you were me. His father was one that wanted to stay with his parents and not provide a home for baby or me. One that we could call our own. My husband's father is the fault of all our troubles. He coaxed us to stay with them. And we are having all kinds of trouble. Really I feel so bad some days. I don't care if I even get up. I am not a person that wants to be sympathized with. I feel as though I ought to see my own little darling.

Broken-Hearted Susan.
Unless your child's present guardians have expressly opposed your seeing him, I know no reason why you shouldn't visit him, or even take him to your home for a day or a week each month. It is a matter you should discuss with them directly. If they are so heartless as to deny you the right to even see him, you probably can obtain a court order compelling them to.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is meant by the term "Bachelor Girl" and has it a good or bad meaning? Another question I am bothered with is pimples on my face. Can you tell me what to do?
Mary Ann

"Bachelor girl" means an unmarried woman who prefers to remain in the single state for the time being; it is taking the place of "old maid" among the unmarried women themselves. Your pimples may be due to any one of several reasons—faulty diet, inadequate elimination, bad condition of blood, improper care of skin, etc. Consult a physician now, or the condition indicated by the pimples may grow worse and mark the skin permanently.

Selfish in Her Father's Hour of Need
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years of age and still attend school. My folks have always been considerate dwellers, until last year, when my father became ill, and as his position took in outside work, he was compelled to quit, and gradually every cent we possessed has dwindled away on bills. At present our income doesn't even cover household expenses, and I need a winter coat, all that I have is an old sheep-skin, and it is so ragged that every one turns to look at me even in church so that I am ashamed of myself wherever I go. Another thing that makes it hard for me, I have still many of my old friends, and lots of them attend college, and whenever there is a party or a chance to go even to the theatre, I have to refuse, and I can't tell them why. Now I have an invitation to go out, and I haven't any coat and no chance of getting one. I have tried to secure a position outside of school and have failed to get one. If you could only help me secure a coat, or the money to obtain one, I would do absolutely anything to pay for it. I can type-write, bookkeep, I have done cashier work and clerked in a grocery store and in a department store. Oh, if you would only help me, my whole heart would be able to express my gratitude. I'm not asking for charity, for I intend to repay.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Raisin Roll—Three eggs, one cup refined granulated sugar, one cup flour. Beat the egg whites until stiff, then the yolks, add sugar to the yolks, then two tablespoons water, a pinch of salt. Sift one teaspoon baking powder with the flour, stir in one-half of the mixture, then the whites of the eggs and the rest of the flour. Bake in a well greased, long shallow tin. When done turn out on a damp towel on a bread board, cover top with the raisin mixture and roll while warm.

Raisin Filling—Make a filling by cooking until thick one cup of chopped raisins, three-quarter cup of sugar, two tablespoons flour, one cup water, and a pinch of salt. Spread on the cake in place of jelly and roll as usual.

Macaroni and Cheese—Have a large kettle of water boiling briskly, put in teaspoon of salt and drop in the macaroni slowly so the boiling does not cease. Boil until the macaroni is tender, about twenty minutes. Blend one tablespoon of butter and two of flour, add two cups of hot milk or one cup of evaporated milk and one of hot water. Let it heat through, and then add one pound of finely shaved America cheese. Get a "tangy" variety. Flavor with a teaspoon of salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Drain the macaroni, blend with the cheese mixture, put in a buttered baking pan and put into a hot oven for fifteen minutes, or until the top is well browned. You can reduce the quantity of cheese if you do not like it quite so rich.

Fruit Salad—Use combination of pineapple, grapefruit, orange winter pear, apple, banana and a cherry. Two slices of pineapple, one grapefruit, two oranges, one pear, two diced apples and one banana make a big bowl. It can be served without dressing or with French dressing or mayonnaise, or a mixture of whipped cream and mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Cream Cheese and Walnut Balls—A half cup of coarsely broken walnut meats worked into the cheese makes a change. Work the cheese in a bowl and add a little cream, salt and pepper to thin it a bit. Make into balls and either roll in the nut meats or mix them through it. One half nut meat on top of a cheese ball makes it decorative, as well as adding to the nourishment of the dish.

PROFIT FOR COTTON FARMER SHOWN IN SURVEY OF 1925

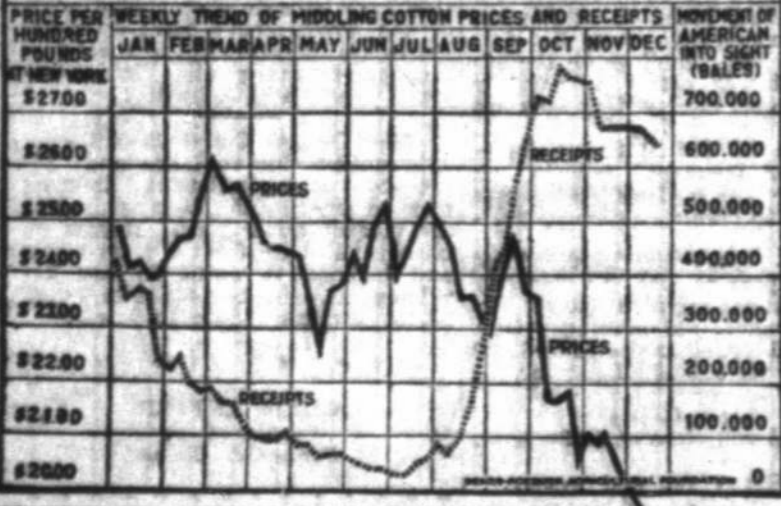

The 1925 cotton crop is expected to reach 15,603,000 bales, according to the annual summary of the industry by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, thus ranking 1925 in production with the crops of 1911 and 1914. It is one of the three largest on record. The 1925 income from cotton to the southern farmer will very nearly equal that of last year. As a whole, prices are lower than they were a year ago, but the general price level for the cotton belt as a whole will be maintained at a fairly equal level and will produce a revenue for the farmers because good yields are obtained all through the cotton belt with the exception of south and central Texas and the Piedmont areas of Georgia, and North and South Carolina.

Part of the crop was damaged by weather conditions. There was no excessive moisture during the growing season and not as much damage as usual from the boll weevil.

Prices in New York ranged from 19.35 to 26.65 cents per hundred pounds. The movement into sight of the 1925 crop was rapid during the months of September, October and November, reaching the high peak of 788,940 bales during the third week of October.

It is generally expected that the entire crop will move into consumption at good prices and with a steady income to the southern farmer, estimated at a total of $1,650,000,000.00 for both cotton and cotton seed.

Chapter XXXVI Conclusions

The curtains sprang upon vague shapes that took form in a phantasm that slowly emerged from a vapor of pale blue light. Out of a far background, admirably conjured by skilled artists, spires and domes and gabled roofs of a conglomerate city loomed. Illuminated windows shone dully. Miniature streets, crooked and narrow, came down out of the perspective and covered upon an open space before the invisible footlights—the painted city's market place.

In the center of the square a pillar arose, with a rim of water trough at its base. Against this column, her head bowed, shoulders drooped and motionless body limp in a posture of despair, leaned an unknown girl of some warm pulsed type, her body gleaming white through a diaphanous drape—a girl who was fresh and young and lovely. Hunched before the youthful figure three old crones in the garb of witches swayed in rhythm with the plaintive song of the orchestra. In the hands of each a lantern swung, its flame shedding a dim, colored glow. Even as the audience gasped at the weird symbolism of the picture—a vibrant, beautiful, unallied girl hemmed in by evil witches—one of the old crones, one whose lantern glowed in sickly yellow, rose and still swaying to the music, lifted her light so that its yellow rays bathed the body of the girl. Across the sky over the painted city in the background, great letters made by invisible lamps manipulated from behind the stage slowly took shape and, like a fantastic reflection, spelled the word, "MISUNDERSTANDING."

The letters died away. The second witch arose and danced before the girl against the pillar. The glimmer from her lantern bathed the white form in scarlet, and new letters glowed in the sky—"DISTRUST."

The guests of Joanna stirred in their seats and settled again into tense, breathless silence. The third witch danced and held aloft her light. The figure in the market place took on a hue of green. New letters formed "ENVY."

Yvonne, who had stared fascinated at the unfolding of the tableau, suddenly was conscious of a breath on her bare shoulder. She looked around and peered into the fixed eyes of Brandon. Around his forehead a bandage shone white. He stood beside the vacant chair into which he had intended to drop quietly. Yvonne watched his lips and saw them frame the whispered words—the words he remembered as Joanna's plaint to Eggleston, long ago, in the sombre library of the house on the Avenue when she told the banker of the three things that had haunted her in her coping with the problems of girlhood of today—"Misunderstanding, Distrust and Envy."

Brandon was so tightly wrapped in the spell of his memory and this amazing reminder staged by Joanna with her troupe of actors and actresses especially brought from Paris, that Yvonne reached back and touched him to bring him to a realization of his surroundings. He brushed his hand across his eyes and dropped into the vacant chair. "I am just in time," he remarked, "to witness the sensation she arranged so secretly. If fancy it will be most interesting."

Yvonne studied him a moment and then turned back to the scene on the stage. The three witches danced away into the background. Out of the crooked little streets of the make-believe city other shapes were coming down in to the open space—fantastic shapes with empty faces pallid white with chalk, ghastly, grotesque. On the small stage it seemed as if there were an army of them, the population of the city they sprung from.

Brandon started so violently that Yvonne and Kenilworth turned their glance at him. When they looked back upon the stage they saw grotesque figures, for one of them walked with exaggerated grace and his head was bandaged.

And just then, as if a common realization had swept over the men; no women, the puppets and mannequins, the pierrots and Columbins in the audience, there was a sibilant sound of pent-up breath escaping hundreds of lips. Almost every one of those who had come to the scene of the Golden Girl recognized in one of those weird, white-faced figures on the stage—himself or herself.

Betty Weymouth saw that Joanna had caricatured her. Prince Michael saw himself, as surely as Brandon had recognized the graceful form in the bandage. John, who stood at the back of the pavilion saw a masque of himself. Everyone else saw something of his or her representation in the silent city's inhabitants as they trooped down into the market place around the almost nude girl who leaned against the column in the center.

The girl raised her head and shook the long strands of her billowy corn yellow hair. When she saw that the witches had faded away from her, and that she was among the people of the city—she people of the world in which she found herself, her body straightened. The orchestra burst into a joyous rhythm. The girl leaped into the throng of masques and danced among them—danced gaily, her filmy draperies flowing in utter abandon.

"Watch the witches!" Brandon murmured. He spoke to himself, but Yvonne and Kenilworth nodded in acknowledgment that the thought had come to them, too. A little company, in the masques of morose solemnity, assembled at one side of the stage. Up to them and around them the girl danced ecstatically. They swayed back and forth in time with the young feet that seemed to dance as if slipped with quicksilver. A note of mournfulness crept into the music. The girl danced slowly, more heavily. The witch with the yellow lantern, "Misunderstanding," fell into step behind her. The girl shrank; relentlessly the evil witch pressed upon her. An eerie lamentation shrieked from violins and reeds; slowly, mercilessly, "Misunderstanding" drove the lovely girl back to the pillar.

Again the dancer escaped her baleful guardian and moved merrily, hopefully, carelessly. She was driven back from the group that gathered around her, by "Envy." A third time she tried to spread her rhythmic doctrine of carefree youth and grace and vividness, and again—

In the audience a woman uttered a half scream, half moan. Another woman rose to reach over to her. A man stood. In an instant the puppets and mannequins, the pierrots and Columbins were on their feet. Many faces were as white as those of the mute character on the stage. Now the three witches, all of them, were bearing down upon the girl who fought valiantly to overcome the misunderstanding, the distrust, and the envy of those white faced people who stifled her.

The music quickened. The girl in a panic sought to flee. The witches penned her in and drove her, step by step, while the silent masques circled and swayed monotonously, back to the water-trough pool. The orchestra burst into a discordant crescendo. The dancer, helpless, discouraged, backed against the pillar and flung out her arms in mute appeal. The witches raised their lanterns in hideous glee. The green, yellow and scarlet rays pierced the filmy covering of the young body and bathed it in a molten glow. And by some weird trickery of a hidden electrician the rays from the lantern of Misunderstanding, Distrust and Envy made a shadow against the city, a shadow black as night—the shadow of a cross.

"It will be quite all right, won't it?" she asked brightly, "if I ask you to share me, with him?"

This time it Yvonne who whispered softly: "Crucified by those who don't know."

With a common impulse Yvonne, Kenilworth and Dorminster, and even Betty Weymouth, made their way through the silent, thoughtful throng of departing guests, to the door that led into the pavilion stage—the door through which Yvonne had seen Joanna disappear before the actors began their play. The director of the company of performers shook his head:

"Mademoiselle left with me the money to pay my troupe, and then went away," he said. "She was most generous, and we would speak more of our gratitude to her but she is not here."

John's face as white as had been those of the actors, appeared out of the dark of the grounds. He confronted Yvonne. "We must find Brandon—quick!" he exclaimed. "She has gone. I went to the house to wait for her. I wanted to say—a great many things. Your butler told me she left alone in her car. There is a message, he says, for Brandon."

The horns of the automobiles in which the guests at Villa Amette were starting for their homes and their reflections upon the amazing climax with which the Golden Girl had revealed them to themselves, echoed up from the sea road. John, Kenilworth, Dorminster and Yvonne hurried to Joanna's little sitting room. Martha, Cecille and Marie, Joanna's maids, with wonder and shock in their faces, met them. Martha led Yvonne into the gorgeous bedroom and pointed to a glittering mass of jewels—every ornament from her mistress' gem cases, piled on the brocaded satin covering. In her hand Martha held an envelope. Her fingers shook as she handed it to Yvonne.

"She said it was for Mr. Brandon," the maid exclaimed. "And she said I was to say there would be nothing more—ever." Martha lost her fight to keep back her tears and her eyes suddenly swam with them. "She's gone, ma'am!" she cried. "She said somebody was taking her money away from her because she was too old fashioned inside."

One of the supremely modern young persons whose left hands spread vari-colored weaves on the stall counter in the great department store called to her companions on either side of her:

"Watch your step children! Good Morning is coming!"

Mr. Harkness, the buyer, sleek and self-sufficient, an ever murmured soft apologies as he edged his way through the crowds before the counter to summon with his eyes, the girl with the shimmering gold brown hair. His manner was gentle, strangely respectful. His tone was almost deferential.

"You are to get your wraps, Miss Twenty-seven, that is to say, Miss Joanna! It is Mr. Graydon's request you are to go in his car to this address on the Avenue!"

He handed Miss Twenty-seven—with her old number in her old job—the slip of paper on which he had written the directions given him by The Old Man's quiet secretary. When she read, the shadow came into her face and something of dread. She had written a long, very long letter to this same address, to Andrew Eggleston. She had written it, she must have to face him. But she turned away, with a "thank you" for Good Morning and went to get her cloak, and to the subway.

In the big, solemn library in the house of Andrew Eggleston, on the Avenue, where Joanna once had spent the long hours of an afternoon with the blueprint she had filched from John's bankers spread between her and the banker, a remarkable company was gathered.

Graydon, his gray face alight with tender excitements, repeated to a man of his kind who stood apart with him, the thing he had said over and over again to everyone in the room. "And she came back, her skirts as scant as ever, her lips as red and her hair as imperpertently short. If there was an change at all it was in her eyes. They were just as brown and shining, but somehow, they gave the impression that someone had looked very deep in them—into their very depths, pens, pens, pens. "And she asked if she might have her job and her number, and gave me back her bank book—with nothing in it—and asked if I'd send it back to old Eggleston, here, and save her the trouble of seeing him. When I asked questions she said, simply: 'I learned a lot—that wasn't good to know. I want to forget it!'"

The man who Graydon talked went over to the table where Eggleston sat, his head set well down into his shoulders. Other men stood at the table, too, important men, they seemed, of the importance that is marked by large achievements. Among them was a noted sculptor. And an artist, and two or three famous architects.

On the massive table, between them and the banker, and where John's blueprint once had been spread by Joanna, a glistening white model stood, the miniature of an imposing structure of great halls and marbled columns reaching upward to a gold dome. Above the dome a figure poised, a slender figure that seemed to impart some ineffable joyousness. The sculptor, on whose name is far flung, passed his fingers lovingly over this delicate form destined later, to be translated into marble. This part of the model was his handiwork. He was proud of its association with the monumental structure was to be built.

Eggleston, who had watched quietly, observed: "That was her idea. She explained it to me across this table when she brought me the dream her young friend had been bothering her about. She said memorials ought to have life in them, instead of death." The banker chuckled, and the sternness in his eyes softened. "She said the usual kind of memorial always made her mad because they reminded her of so many people who weren't dead that ought to be forgotten."

Foreman, chief of the firm which had sponsored John, broke in: "So it was she, after all, who conceived the soldier as always stirred to valor by the kiss of a girl—or of a woman who is still a girl to him? Yet you compelled me to get the conception across my desk to young Wilmote as if it were my own! He fought against it, for a time, but the grandeur of it came to him suddenly. Shall we tell him—today?"

"No," Eggleston replied. "It will be sufficient for him to learn, from us, that the money with which he has worked this model out, the funds that promoted his idealistic plan and translated his blueprinted dream into this step toward reality, came from her—that this was how she used the money I gave her but which remained so much a mystery to her. After a brief pause the banker added, dryly:

"Whatever else there is for him to know I imagine she'll tell him—if she wants to."

LUBBOCK, TEXAS

ANNUAL REPORT

Green & Hurlbut City, Farm and Ranch Loans

We are glad to report that the year 1925 has been by far the largest year in the history of this institution.

In our City Loan Department we have loaned in the past twelve months considerably over ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

During 1925 we financed the construction of over 30 brick business houses in Lubbock, several costing in the neighborhood of $100,000.00 each. During the construction we financed personally, the payroll and material bills pending the completion of the building to an average daily sum of fifty thousand dollars during the year.

In addition to the business houses, we financed over $300,000.00 of the cost of residences totaling over $750,000.00 in Lubbock.

New Department Successful

The new department added to our business, that of buying and selling first and second vendor's lien notes has filled a long felt need here and during the year we have handled over $150,000.00 of these securities.

In our City Loan Department we represent the United Savings Bank of Detroit, Michigan, a bank organized for no other purpose than to make loans on city property. They make a very plain contract, and you buy no "stock". You have no liability other than for the money you borrow and your loan is not resold. This bank is one of the strongest financial institutions in Detroit and always has the money to loan. This loan appeals to the thinking man or woman who gives the financing of investments serious thought.

Farm Loan Department

In our farm loan department, we represent only the old line reliable companies, our principal connection being the Texas Land and Mortgage Company, for whom we have loaned to a great many satisfied borrowers for many years.

The outstanding feature of this department is that we will allow our borrowers to sell off any portion of their land at any time, thus enabling the owners to make such disposition of their land as they see fit, without being handicapped by a mortgage on their land which cannot be divided.

Our farm loan people do not sell their paper, and you only sign one deed of trust and do not make a set of commission notes upon which you are charged to pay in the event you pay the loan before maturity.

We represent such connections as above for the reason they have no objectionable features in their loans, and for that reason we feel that we are rendering our customers a real service in placing their loans. Ask your friends who have had other kinds of loans and ask them the cost and inconvenience.

WE CAN FINANCE YOUR NEEDS AND ON TERMS NOT OFFERED BY OTHERS. WE ARE STARTING 1926 WITH MORE CONFIDENCE IN LUBBOCK AND LUBBOCK COUNTY AND WITH MORE MONEY TO LOAN THAN EVER BEFORE.
