Musings of the moment: Uncle Sam, in taking over care of the unemployed, has assumed the role of Biblical neighbor, but you and I will lose the spirit of the thing while supporting the movement through taxes. . . . Mr. Roosevelt is a combination of Good Samaritan and Hercules, and is assuming leadership at a time when local communities could not make good his promise that no citizen should suffer this winter. . . . It is fine for the jobless, but when and if the government can turn the responsibility back to local communities, it will find them unprepared to carry on. . . . Your Uncle will provide you with flour, clothing, butter, corn, wheat, and pork. In some instances he will add medicine and other necessities. . . . In other centuries, neighbors traded sow-belly, corn, lasses, and "sat up" with the sick. . . . Our civilization is too complex for that now. . . . We have too many renters, too many folks divorced from the soil, too much soil divorced from rain, too much soil producing for folks who can't buy, and who have nothing to trade to the farmers.

The year 1934 will continue the far-reaching transitions set in motion by the new federal administration and modern social and economic complexities. One transition involves gangsters and racketeers who no longer find sale of beer profitable. Profits of bootlegging attracted brains as well as brawn. These criminals are not ready to quit, nor have they altogether abandoned the liquor field. But the bulk of them must find other pursuits. Of these, racketeering is the most logical. But racketeering is difficult to install in any but the larger cities. . . . Kidnaping is being discouraged by federal investigators and the wrath of an outraged public. Criminal alliances with politics are disintegrating, in the opinion of Joseph B. Keenan, U. S. crime sleuth. Brewers are seeking to curtail political brewers, but their activities are easily traced and denounced. . . . John Public, who encouraged thugs to deliver liquor in armored cars, will largely through his attitude determine the direction the gang elements go to earn or take their living.

With Mr. Roosevelt cranking the business machine for actual progress in 1933, we are assured still greater momentum in 1934. Last March the machine had slowed down.

Times have certainly changed. We received only one neck-tie on Christmas, at a time when our supply is sadly inadequate.

Mrs. Gushaway successfully gave away this Christmas some of the worthless trinkets given her last year, thanks to a book-keeping system which prevented tragic mistakes.

Busy men may get most things done, but don't ever try to coax a business man away from his inventories.

We scribes dare not take inventory, lest we find ourselves bankrupt of ideas and repeating old ones.

Like Will Rogers, we must make capital of the doings of others and hope that conditions will encourage much comment.

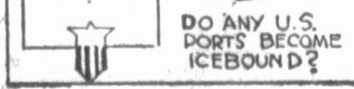

This writer will never lose sight of next year's Sande-Harvester football battle, but will decline to treat it as the climax of the grid season. If all schools were like these two, basketball would be abandoned and all time given to preparing for next fall's campaign.

Train Hits Cattle—Five Men Die In Wreck

Five men, three of them employees of the Missouri-Pacific railway, perished in the wreckage of this freight train, derailed when the engine struck cattle standing on the track near Calvert Junction, Texas. The other two men were transients who were killed when a refrigerator car was crushed. The engine and eight cars left the track. The photo shows wreckers clearing the track.

Women Fliers Break Record

Plan To Remain Aloft Until Tomorrow or Sunday; 216 Hours In Air Completed.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The record-breaking endurance fliers, Frances Marsalis and Helen Richey, in a note dropped after they had completed their 216th hour in the air shortly before 1 p. m. today, said they planned to remain aloft until tomorrow or Sunday. The women, fighting exhaustion, decided this morning as to how long they will continue the flight that broke the previous record of eight days, four hours and five minutes at 6:08 p. m. yesterday. "You should have been up here from 4:30 until daylight," Mrs. Marsalis wrote her ground crew in a note dropped to the airport. "You might not have been frightened, but I was considerably worried. The airport disappeared. I followed down to 400 feet on my altimeter, then decided it was no place for me, so I pulled up and went to the beach. Well, it was lightning to beat the deuce. What a morning!"

Bankers Draft Checking Code

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Myriads of householders who pay their bills by checks today learned that 138 banks here had drawn up a proposed code levying charge so stiff on small balances that the prediction was freely heard that paying by check would become much less popular. The code, which is to be submitted to the banking code committee today, is being drafted by the American Bankers' association, provides among other things: On balances under $200 a minimum charge of not less than $2, a month. This $2 charge to be reduced five cents for every $25 of collected balance. Each $29 of collected balance will permit two free "items" of banking activity a month. For items in excess of those permitted in the foregoing terms a charge of two and one-half cents each is made.

Johnson Building Will House Show

The Pampa poultry show will be held in the Johnson building on West Foster avenue, it was announced today. The dates are January 11-13, inclusive. A special sale of breed stock will be held on the last day of the show. The premium list, showing more than 50 prizes in merchandise, will be announced Monday. R. B. Galloway of Amarillo will judge the show. C. C. Ladd is superintendent of the event and Irvin Cole is assistant. George Briggs will be secretary.

L. L. Hall of Tulsa is here on business.

I HEARD—

That Gus Irwin's stolen car was found abandoned, by a cowboy on land leased by Lee Banks, and not on the Leduc ranch as stated yesterday. We thank Mr. Banks for the correction.

HUNT AND TWO NEGROES DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Man Walks To Death With Cigar In His Mouth

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Dewey Hunt's 5-year fight to escape capital punishment for the killing of a Dallas street car motorist ended in his electric chair at the penitentiary here early today. With a smile on his face and a lit cigar in his mouth, the 27-year-old native of Tennessee walked steadily in the death chamber to the tune of "Chicken Reel," a mountain "breakdown" he had at the last moment asked another inmate of death row, Paul Mitchell, to play on a harmonica.

Hunt was followed to the chair by two convicted negro slayers, Carl Stewart, 23, and Clarence Booker, 25, in the first triple electrocution during the administration of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. Half an hour before Hunt went to his death, his sweetheart, Cornele Wilkerson of Dallas, entered the penitentiary and asked Warden W. W. Waid if he had "heard anything."

Warden Waid told her he had heard nothing. Miss Wilkerson was among those who had hoped for a commutation of sentence. The warden, thinking the girl might want to see Hunt again, added that he was unable to allow her to visit him at that late hour and she went out of the penitentiary. Hunt was sentenced to death on the circumstantial evidence for the killing of Samuel Cole, Dallas street car operator, the night of November 3, 1928. At his first trial he was convicted and given the death penalty, the jury disregarding his plea of insanity. He appealed and was given a new trial but a jury again found him guilty.

He had nothing more to say, except that "I'm innocent." Hunt said a short time before his electrocution. "I'm ready to go." Hunt was strapped in the chair and the current was turned on at 12:02 a. m. At 12:10 he was pronounced dead.

Happy Cager Is Hurt in Wreck

Two cars were badly damaged yesterday afternoon when they collided at the corner of Somerville street and Kingsmill avenue. Coward Harter, Happy basketball player, received a cut on his arm but other occupants of the cars were not injured.

The Happy car, carrying four members of the basketball team which met the Harvesters in a two-game series, was being driven west on Kingsmill while the other car, operated by O. C. Williams, was proceeding south on Somerville. The car bearing the basketball players drove around a truck going north and met the other car head-on as it passed the truck. The Chevrolet car being driven by the Happy youths was overturned by the impact. Chief of Police Jno. V. Andrews was two blocks away when he heard the crash. He arrived in time to help the boys out of the overturned car.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ashley of Electra are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Joe Hodge, 610 1/2 N. Somerville.

HOPKINS FLAYS STATE FOR NOT RAISING FUNDS

SAYS SPECIAL SESSION COULD HAVE BEEN CALLED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—In biting terms Harry L. Hopkins today flayed Texas and other states which he said had not cooperated financially with the federal relief administration that Washington would furnish no more money for carrying the burden of direct relief until the states share the cost.

The administrator put Texas at the head of the list of states he termed lagard, mentioning Missouri and Colorado as well. Mentioning that Texas had had little success in attempting a recent sale of relief bonds, Hopkins said the federal administration had "gone as far" as it would go.

"We positively will not fill the bag any further," he said. Adding: "I hate to think how much money we have given that state." Asked what in his opinion Texas could do to meet the situation, the administrator said that question was "up to" the state. "For one thing," he added, "they could call a session of the legislature and vote some tax money to care for this situation." Some counties already have exhausted their funds and unless the local administrators can arrange to carry the burden over the interim, there may be a suspension of relief expenditures.

George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, said that it probably would be several days before bonds already spoken for could be issued and proceeds made available.

Meanwhile, state bankers had undertaken a campaign to get takers for all the $2,750,000 in bonds immediately offered. Foundation for the bond sale drive was laid yesterday at a meeting of bankers from all sections of the state last week, when Miriam A. Ferguson and other state officials.

Japan's Prince Named Akihito

TOKYO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Japan's beloved little crown prince received name today. In a ceremony which lasted two hours his father announced his full name as Akihito Tsugu no Miya, which means "Prince of the august succession and enlightened benevolence."

If the infant born amid great rejoicing seven days ago lives to succeed Emperor Hirohito, he will be known as Akihito. The name day was a holiday throughout the empire. Vernacular newspapers devoted more than 90 per cent of the space in their afternoon editions to the ceremonies.

Babies Become 'Big News'

Infants, Rich and Poor, Get In Headlines All Over World in Strange Ways.

BY DALE HARRISON, NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Little babies are beginning to disport themselves in dispatches as well as diapers. They have become headlines. The little dickenses are in print. They are news.

Julio Amarrigo is the postmaster at Luchana, near Bilbao, Spain. There came to his office a large package, unaddressed. "I shall open this package," said Amarrigo, "for I am the postmaster of Luchana. I shall see what sort of article it is that seeks to move through the mails of Spain without an address on it."

Inside was a little baby, cooing and content. Amarrigo looked and shrugged his shoulders, for in Spain it is the custom to shrug one's shoulders. "Nice little thing," he said. "I have six already, so one more—"

27 SENATORS AGREE TO ASK UNLIMITED COINAGE OF SILVER

CHAIRMEN OF BCD GROUPS ARE CHOSEN

High School Talent Will Be Presented in Programs of Communities.

COMMITTEE chairmen of the Board of City Development were appointed today by J. E. Cunningham, new president.

They are as follows: Oil and gas, F. D. Keim; publicity, Gilmore N. Nunn; agriculture, Roy Bonland; civic, John Roby; highways, B. W. Rose; transportation, R. G. Allen; industries, F. M. Culbertson; entertainment, Mack Graham; intercommunity relations, P. M. Foster; special arrangements, P. O. Sanders and G. C. Stark.

The executive committee is composed of Mr. Cunningham, Travis M. Lively, F. M. Foster, Paul Hill, and J. S. Wynne.

Arrangements are being made with Pampa high school to present school talent in programs of other communities on demand. Business men will furnish transportation for the students.

PREMIER DUCU OF RUMANIA SLAIN!

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 29 (AP)—Premier Ducu of Rumania was assassinated today. The assassination was made in the city of Sinia, the seat of the royal palace, as the premier was about to board a train for Bucharest after a conference with Carol this afternoon.

He died instantly when a student fired four revolver bullets into his head at close range.

New Oil Schedule Is Being Prepared

A new oil schedule for the Panhandle oil field is being prepared at the local office of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission. Although the Panhandle allowable remains at 42,000 barrels, new production must be taken into the summary.

The state output, as set by the government, was reduced 45,000 barrels last week, but the Panhandle allowable was not changed when the commission met yesterday to allocate the reduction. It is not expected that the percentage of proratable oil will vary much in the new schedule, although considerable production has been added since the last summary was issued.

WARSHIP IN CHINA

FOOCHOW, China, Dec. 29 (AP)—The United States destroyer Fulton anchored off Foochow today, ready to protect American lives and property. The precaution was taken in the event that the national Chinese government's operations against the local rebel government assume proportions which might endanger the Americans here.

REMONETIZATION CERTAIN TO BE ISSUE

Will Introduce Bill On Opening Day Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—An intensive campaign for remonetization of silver was assured today when 27 senators went on record for free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver.

Eighteen senators, 14 Democrats, 3 Republicans and one Farmer-labor—attended a conference called by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), a 18 to 1 bi-metallic advocate, and unanimously adopted the following resolution: "We favor bi-metallic—the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at a ratio to be established by law."

Nine other senators, eight Democrats, and one Republican, sent word to the meeting they were for the proposition.

Wheeler, announcing the results of the conference to newspapermen, said he would introduce his bill for remonetization of silver at a ratio of 16 to 2 with gold on the opening day of Congress.

He predicted the Senate would approve the proposal and the house would follow suit if a vote could be obtained in that body. Senator King (D-Utah) was named to transmit the views of the conference to President Roosevelt.

Wheeler said the resolution left out a fixed ratio because it was not known definitely how far the president would go in devaluating the dollar in terms of gold.

"It was the sense of the meeting," Wheeler added, "that this resolution is not in opposition to what the president already has done for silver. On the contrary, it is to supplement his program and carry it further."

Garner Explains His Silence On Public Issues

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Vice President Garner returned to the capital today and told newspapermen he would confer with President Roosevelt on the legislative program to be submitted to congress. The former speaker of the house disclosed that he had been requested by Mr. Roosevelt to be here for the conference ahead of the convening of congress. He said he would see "the chief" either today or tomorrow, whichever is more convenient. The vice-president was taciturn as usual with regard to all public questions, but indicated Mr. Roosevelt would have little difficulty in getting his program through congress.

DIES IN JAIL

HOUSTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Put in the west end substation jail as a safeguard against suicide, C. W. York, 30, meat cutter, hanged himself from a bar in a cell with his belt and was found dead early today.

Grand Jury For January Term Is Announced

Grand jurors for the January term of 31st district court opening Monday were announced today. The court will adjourn until Tuesday morning because of New Years.

The grand jury list follows: Floyd McLaughlin, Laketon; Floyd Bull, LeFors; Homer Abbott, McLennan; A. Carpenter, LeFors; M. M. Newman, McLennan; Mode Gibson, Alanreed; Phil Fearley, Groom; Farris Oden, Pampa; E. A. Vance, LeFors; Jinks Shaw, Jess; Clyde Gray, Miami; Jess Goad, Miami; A. G. McKay, Pampa; Frank Davis, Groom; L. E. Taylor, Pampa; J. O. Gilliam, Pampa.

Judge Ewing has returned from Wheeler, where he completed a busy court term. Civil business will require most of the attention of the court here. There have been comparatively few felonies committed in Gray county since the last term.

OPERATION ON HOUSTON BABE 'SUCCESSFUL'

CHILD IS RUSHED 1,400 MILES BY PLANE TO BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sue Trammell, five-months-old baby whose life depends upon the ultimate success of the brain operation she underwent this morning, was "doing splendidly," it was reported at the Johns Hopkins hospital this afternoon.

The operation has been completed and the child's condition is good," the doctors reported. "The operation may be termed successful."

"The obstruction which caused the hydro-cephalus condition has been removed."

"The ultimate outcome of the operation cannot, of course, be determined at this time."

The operation was performed by Dr. Walter E. Dandy, brain surgeon to whom the baby was rushed 1,400 miles in an 11-hour airplane trip from Houston, Texas. Hospital attaches said that it would be "quite a while" before the ultimate outcome of the operation could be determined. Nor would they be more explicit.

$200 Worth Of Silver, Linen Taken in Trunk

A trunk containing more than $200 worth of silverware and linen was stolen from W. P. Yeager's car last night, he reported to city and county officers this morning. The car was parked near the Scherer hotel on Foster avenue. Officers are investigating. The car door was apparently opened by inserting a piece of wire through a small hole in one of the door windows and unlocking the catch, because the car was unlocked this morning when Mr. Yeager discovered the loss. Mr. and Mrs. Yeager had been in the city only two days.

FUGITIVE RETURNS DOUGLAS, Ga., Dec. 29 (AP)—After 11 years, John H. Theus has given up his liberty as a fugitive from justice to come back here and resume serving a life sentence for murder because "it's been playing on my conscience and I couldn't stand it."

WEST TEXAS: Mostly cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably local rains in east and north portions tonight and in extreme east portion Saturday; slightly warmer in East portion Saturday.

High pressure prevails over the region east of the Rockies, with sub-normal pressure over the north Pacific slope. Warmer, foggy and in some cases rainy weather prevails over much of the southwest. Minimum temperatures yesterday included: Brownsville 52, Dallas 36, Corpus Christi 50.

WHAT OIL MEANS TO US

Whenever one contemplates how greatly cotton affects our economic and social life in Texas, because of the large percentage of our population dependent on it for a living, one cannot help becoming a little impatient over how industrial development lags among us. And in such a mood, it seems to us that we should be filled with thankfulness for the oil industry. Think how dark the picture would be without this industry! And the outlook is more brighter because we have oil to build on as a base.

Recently we published part of an address by W. H. Francis, general counsel of the Magnolia Petroleum company, on the meaning of the oil industry to Texas, in which he said some things that are pertinent here. Here is a quotation: "One of the most worthy ambitions toward which this area has worked during recent years has been to increase its industrial plants and to convert its primary materials into finished products. There is not a single cross-section of commerce today that is not touched and itally influenced by the petroleum industry. The commercial safety of any area comes from a diversified and varied source of income. With agriculture, stock raising, and from its natural resources, Texas possesses a vast potential wealth. These natural resources, touched by the magic of manufacture, are increased greatly in value, producing a higher per capita income for the people of Texas. The goal toward which every progressive state strives is a balanced program, a commercial, social and economic balance. With petroleum, its processing, refining and manufacture as the biggest single manufacture in the state, it assists in turn all other manufacturing enterprises, an essential part of all our larger industrial plants. . . If the expected production of crude oil in the future is realized, it would seem reasonable, based upon the part it has taken in our commercial set-up in the past thirty-five years, to expect it to exert a marked influence in the future industrial, commercial, and social development of Texas."

There is real need of a wider realization of the truth of what Mr. Francis says here. The petroleum industry is one of our biggest assets, not merely because of the considerable portion of our people it employs, but because it is the very base on which we may build our economic future.—Texas Weekly.

PAMPA TOPICS OF OUR CITY

to a halt and was back-firing badly. The president shut off the gas-banking facilities—momentarily then began a systematic feeding of the fuel of business—money—into the nation's commerce. The winter business to date has been gratifying; spring ahead should bring still greater rewards. Prices have moved up more uniformly, and if wages have not kept pace, they have at least advanced after a threat of stopping altogether by reason of growing unemployment. Mr. Roosevelt beset by high-pressure advice on all sides, has proved remarkably poised. He can take advice and he can smile and let it alone. America has made a right-about-face both nationally and internationally.

Indeed, Mr. Roosevelt has become one of the leading figures of the world, taking rank with Stalin as an influence, towering above Mussolini. Many are the nations of other countries who are longing for leadership like our president has given America. Measured by the opportunities and responsibilities of other American statesmen, Mr. Roosevelt stands with Washington, Lincoln, and Wilson. Washington and his work marked the beginning of a nation; Mr. Roosevelt is shaping the destinies of this country at a time when its course might well be toward deterioration through sheer complexity overpowering the simple democratic machinery which Washington and his contemporaries outlined.

The year 1934 will be one of continued political and economic expansion in relation with vast social breaking up influence. Not only business, but social ultra-conservatism will be further de-frosted. Old principles are in no danger, but their applications will undergo radical change. In some instances, however, radicalism will be toward old methods, and it is history that no man movement ever less the people return to their original complacency and confidances. After the restless spirit of 1932 the last year has been one of good will. In 1934, political and

JACQUES BAND TO PLAY HERE ON SATURDAY

Joe Jacques and orchestra and floor show will make another appearance at the Pla-Mor auditorium tomorrow night. The orchestra will return tomorrow morning from a trip to several cities in Oklahoma where it made a big hit. Admission will be the usual Saturday night bargain of 25 cents admission and 5 cents a dance.

The orchestra has been popular with Pampa dancers on previous engagements and a large crowd is expected tomorrow night. Several new numbers will be presented. (Adv.)

CHECKING CHARGE
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—Discussing plans of New York banks to impose heavy service charges on checking accounts under the new bankers' code, Hugh S. Johnson indicated to newspapermen he would give these proposals careful scrutiny before approving them.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
 NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29. (AP)—The market ruled quiet all morning, trading being principally of an evening-up character in advance of the New Year holidays. Prices eased off moderately on pre-holiday liquidation, March dropping to 16.22 and May to 16.37, down 5 points from the early highs and one to two points under yesterday's close. Near noon the market was quiet but steady and at the lows.

Out of the everywhere, into the here."

Two boys knelt in a pew of St. Peter's church at Troy, N. Y., yesterday. The cry of an infant reached them. Behind the curtain of the confessional booth, lying naked on the kneeling couch, was a babe hardly an hour old. A headline—a heartache.

The baby was well. The mother? Who she was, where she is—living or dead after her lonely Gethsemane—the authorities do not know.

Babies by stork? Nonsense. Babies by dogleg and babies by auto—(ah, there, Senator Amariglio!)—babies by dogleg and babies by auto—mobile, dear little mites in the headlines.

In New York a frantic father, driving his wife to one hospital realized he could not reach it in time. He changed his course for a nearer hospital. He arrived and dashed into get stretcher bears to his same name the hohking of his motor car horn. He ran out. His wife was pressing the horn button signalling that a child was born.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Stocks listed a bit under quiet profit taking today but the market, as a whole, held up fairly well and the majority of losses were relatively unimportant. Improvement, at the same time, was shown by some of the alcohol and a few specialties. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—With all grain markets scheduled for a holiday Monday, and with the Liverpool market closed tomorrow, year end adjustment of accounts weakened wheat prices today.

Declines in prices carried wheat in Chicago down to more than 3 cents under yesterday's top. Warmer weather with snow was predicted for a large part of the United States winter wheat belt, and this tended to remove crop damage fears.

Wheat closed unstable 2½-2½ below yesterday's finish, corn 1½-1½ down, oats ¼-1¼ off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

FRENCH PLANS FOR GERMANY ARE REVEALED

EDITORIAL SAYS NAZIS NOT EXPECTED TO ACCEPT FACT

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 29. (AP)—The Hamburger Fremdenblatt, a usually well-informed newspaper, printed today the reported content of a memorandum France will offer Germany, providing for a short-term militia of 200,000 men, light defensive weapons and international control of armaments over two four-year periods.

Under a Paris dateline, the newspaper said: "French plans for conclusion of an international disarmament treaty anticipate two disarmament steps in four years."

"During first step, all European armies shall be placed on a militia basis, with eight or nine months enlistments."

"Germany would in this period be granted a militia of 200,000—exclusive of the storm troops, with light defensive weapons (machine guns and field pieces of up to 105 millimeters)."

"During this time, France would limit her domestic militia to 200,000 men, but would ask an additional 200,000 for colonial stations."

"During the first four-year plan, an international standing and automatic control commission would supervise the armaments of all European nations."

If this control plan should prove feasible during the first four years, the newspaper continued, French leaders envision a second four-year plan, granting those nations now unarmed every kind of defensive weapon.

The plan contemplates the immediate destruction of half of France's military air forces as soon as an international disarmament convention has ratified the program on this basis, it was added.

In a first-page editorial, the newspaper said: "If the French ambassador does not bring any other information Germany sees no reason to change her present stand."

MOSCOW, Dec. 29. (AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, foreign commissar, told the soviet parliament today that Russia and the United States would have the closest relations because of their mutual desire for peace.

METHODIST CHURCH ANNOUNCES NEW YEAR 'WATCH NIGHT'

SERVICE WILL BEGIN SUNDAY
AT 11:30 P. M.

UNUSUAL PROGRAM TO BE PRESENTED IN DARK CHURCH

"WATCH NIGHT" will be observed at the First Methodist church Sunday evening from 11:30 o'clock until 12:10 a. m. 1934, the Rev. Gaston Foote pastor, announced today.

The service will be held entirely in the dark, except at the end when an illuminated cross in the pulpit will signify the climax of the unusual program. The service will include songs, and a sermon, "1934?" by Rev. Foote.

At the Sunday morning service, Rev. Foote's sermon subject will be "I, could Begin Again." At the evening service which will begin at 7:17 p. m., the presiding elder of this district, the Rev. M. W. Beavers of Clarendon will preach.

The general public is cordially invited to attend all of the services.

Mrs. Marie Burgee of Tulsa, Okla., is visiting her father, George T. Courtwright, who is ill at his home here.

Phillip Dumont, former University of Iowa museum assistant, lost 364 species of birds as inhabitants of Iowa.

A three-track highway from Fredricksburg, Va., to Washington has just been completed at a cost of $3,000,000.

Seeks Old Role

Here's one part in which one actress should be better perfect, and Josephine Dillon, above, actress and voice teacher, believes she is. Informed that a play dealing with the life of Clark Gable, movie idol, might be produced, she asked for the part of the first wife—because she really was the first Mrs. Clark Gable.

A SMART ANIMAL
MINOT, N. D.—Game wardens jailed both Charles J. Johnson and "Klunk," his pet coyote, but the coyote proved he was a smart animal by escaping.
Johnson recently was sentenced to five days in jail on a charge of trapping without a license after the coyote had dug out a skunk.
He was not jailed then, but yesterday wardens charged the coyote had been catching game birds for him. Johnson denied that, but admitted he had trained the animal to catch smaller birds.

SKELLY CLUBS ENTERTAIN IN YULE SEASON

PARTIES AND VISITS ARE EVENTS OF PAST WEEK

SKELLYTOWN, Dec. 29.—Mrs. T. B. Parker entertained the Bid-a-Bit club Thursday afternoon with an elaborate holiday party.

The two tables were placed under the lights with red streamers and bows on each corner. Red and green cards were used in the bridge games, and the table covers were red and green.

At the close of five games Christmas gifts were exchanged. Each drew a piece of candy with a number corresponding to one on a gift package.

Stuffed apples with green whipped cream, and coffee with red whipped cream were served. Each plate had a red nut cup of buttered pecans, and a walnut with a fortune inside.

Those who enjoyed the beautiful party were Mesdames A. H. Bazell, M. Coulson, T. Cherrie, H. C. Hicks, G. E. Canady, Stevenson, J. C. Jarvis, and the hostess.

La Nueva Club.
Mrs. John Dalton was hostess to La Nueva bridge club Wednesday afternoon with two tables of bridge. Gifts were exchanged by the members after the games.

Pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee were served to Mesdames John J. Kuehn, Charles Wayne, S. C. Dickey, T. B. Parker, Bill Price, J. C. Jarvis, Frank McGulgan, and the hostess.

Personal.
Mrs. Letha Lillie was a Berger shopper Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Summers shopped in Amarillo last Friday.

Family Meets in Holiday Reunion

Six members of the McNally family, with their families, gathered for the first time in a Christmas reunion here. They were W. L. Artie, and Jesse McNally, their cousins, Albert and Virgil McNally, and their sister, Mrs. Charles Spence.

The party met on Christmas eve at the home of W. L. McNally. After a turkey dinner, gifts from a decorated tree were delivered by Santa.

On Christmas day the same crowd was together again at the home of Albert McNally, where the Christmas dinner was enjoyed and pictures were taken.

They concluded the reunion Sunday by visiting at the home of Virgil McNally and Mrs. Spence near Skellytown, and having dinner there.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Artie McNally of Hydro, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Virgil McNally and son of Sunnett; Jesse McNally of Hammon, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Spence and son, Dan, of Skellytown; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hall, Mrs. M. J. Hall, Albert and W. L. McNally and families, Louis Huntsman, Bill Baird, Leonard McNally, Rufe Jordan, Misses Peggy Usery and Viola McNally, all of Pampa.

BROADWAY TO SPEND FREELY FOR NEW YEAR

Prices Low, Spirits
High For a Big Celebration

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Cowell, and confetti merchants—not to speak of the vendors of things spirituous—were today that smile that only the cash register symphony can evoke.

For New York, with the old year's dying, was preparing to make this New Year's eve celebration something special. Spending real money on the preparations, too.

Hotels, which have had to get the old plush ropes out of mothballs to control crowds in lobbies and cafes, have tried to keep the hell a-roiling by holding New Year's eve prices down to what in some other years would be considered cheap.

Twelve dollars a plate is the top figure announced thus far, and for that you get not only supper, dancing and entertainment but a souvenir from Cartier's thrown in. For $10 at another hotel you get supper plus entertainment plus a bite of breakfast at 4 a. m. if you feel that way.

Other leading hotels scale less elaborate fetes down to as low as $5 a plate. Broadway's night club prices range from $12.50 (with Helen Morgan on the piano) down to half that figure. At practically all places wines and liquors will be a la carte (that's how they say "extra"). In many resorts there'll be "cockage" charges to stymie any one who gets the bright idea of bringing his own champagne.

A roaring business is reported at retail liquor shops. One large department store said its wine and liquor department has been handling 7,000 customers daily. Another, although withholding official figures, was understood to be averaging over $100,000 in sales weekly.

TWINNING SEASON
FAIRMONT, W. Va.—It was Mark Twain who said he experienced 365 kinds of weather in New England in 24 hours, and now comes Fairmont to offer a new record. That record is being set Saturday before Christmas.

A roaring business is reported at retail liquor shops. One large department store said its wine and liquor department has been handling 7,000 customers daily. Another, although withholding official figures, was understood to be averaging over $100,000 in sales weekly.

Finders—Losers

Queena Mario, the opera star, traveling with her pet marmoset, almost came in possession of another mascot when the ice owl she's shown holding fell from its perch aboard the liner Manhattan during a storm at sea. The marmoset discovered and became Miss Mario's friend with the owl, but Miss Mario's ownership of the bird was contested by another passenger. In the deciding tip of the commander's coin, Miss Mario lost.

Negro Songs Are Not Negro's Says Texas Authority

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28. (AP)—John A. Lemax, collector of folk songs, told distinguished scholars of literature here today that the world knows little of the "really revealing folk songs of the negro."

In a paper read before the comparative literature sections of the Modern Language Association of America, Lemax told of a 10,000-mile trip he made through negro convict camps in the south collecting 200 "new tunes of what seems to us pure negro creation."

The songs convinced him, he said, that little is known of the negro that grows out of the surge and throb of labor—songs that treat of the things that touch his daily life—his work, his woman, his appetite, his contact with the white man.

Without books or without radio the negro convicts turn to the best negro spirituals and secular songs to relieve the monotony of prison life, he said.

SYNOPSIS: Curt Tennyson has met and fallen in love with Sonya Volkov in the Canadian wilderness. Curt is trying to find Igor Karakhan, millionaire crook, in his wilderness hiding place. Suddenly Sonya forsakes Curt's party to go to Karakhan. Curt, after a battle with the Klosshees in which Ralph Nichols, Sonya's helper, is dangerously wounded, tries to rush Ralph to civilization. The attempt is hopeless; dying, Ralph tries to tell Curt of Sonya's purpose in finding Karakhan.

Chapter 40
SONYA'S MISSION
Curt knew now beyond all doubt that Sonya's trip had some significance which he, in his hasty cocksure certainty, had missed entirely.

"Ralph," he pleaded urgently, knowing that Ralph had but a minute or two more, "try to tell me—that you mean about her being alone up there?"
Ralph did not seem to hear him, but pursued his own drifting thoughts. "I'm glad—she listened to you and didn't go. I know she has got courage, but just a girl, by herself, she would never have managed to kill him. She'd have failed and he'd have left her there. He'd have thrown her—to those others."
"To kill him?" Curt echoed, bolted from head to feet. That broken phrase sent his world crashing out of its orbit. He could only stare at Ralph, stupefied. "Him?"
"That word means Karakhan. It pointed straight to whom she had written that letter—surely Ralph must be so delirious that he did not know what he was saying. Or was he delirious?"

"Ralph!" he begged frantically, in a voice against the howling dark, "why's she hunting Karakhan? Tell me that. What does she want with him? Ralph, do you understand?"
His question went unanswered. Ralph lay quiet, his lips apart, his eyes closed. For a minute he did not stir. Then with a sudden jerk he moved, rose to his elbow and grasped Curt's arm with an unnatural strength.

"Curt, don't let her go back up there! Don't ever let her try to kill him! Take her out of this country!"
"I will, Ralph. I'll take her out. But Ralph, listen! Tell me—"
His grasp broke from Curt's arm and he fell back.

In desperation Curt shook him by the shoulder. "Ralph! Ralph!" But he got no answer. He pressed a finger into Ralph's nose and felt no pulse. And then he slowly realized that the answer was forever beyond him.

For a long time afterward Curt sat there beside the fire, with his thoughts in a chaotic whirl. His mind, so tired by two days of inconceivable strain that even Ralph's death could numb it no further, refused to grapple with Ralph's broken words and make a coherent story of them. It was like trying to fit together a most baffling puzzle when the parts were all jumbled and the key pieces missing.

Sonya, trying to kill the Russian—it turned upside down everything that he had been feeling and thinking about her. He had read her letter, had heard her own words to LeNoir, and against all that he had only a few halting phrases from a man who was dying.

Yet he believed Ralph, and all his former idealization of Sonya came flooding back to bolster up his belief. Ralph's mind undoubtedly had been wandering; but even in the most wandering thought there was somewhere a core of actuality; and Ralph had returned again and again to that one colossal fact—Sonya had come into this country to locate and kill Igor Karakhan.

He got up, after a time, and stumbled aimlessly along the wash. He was unconscious of his exhaustion, of everything except the dazzling revelation which he had just barely cheated death itself out of.

The explanation of her letter and of her trust with LeNoir had been cut off; but he knew that those facts, which had started him on the path of his horrible mistake, and the other damning facts which had confirmed him in it, must have their interpretation.

Through all his numbered groping man as he groped. He could have faith in Sonya's integrity again. He felt as though he had been staggering through a black morass and had come out into the sunshine once more.

He had no idea of the motive driving her to kill Karakhan; he could not even guess at it; but he did see now that it had crowded everything else out of her life. "She couldn't rest, couldn't live, till she would have hunted him down"—that was how Ralph had worded her burning purpose. Nothing existed for her except to reach Karakhan and kill him.

With a singleness of purpose that put his own hunt to shame, she had refused to look aside from her trail, or to think or feel. The intangible thing which had made her seem so cold and far-away was not somebody else's but her chaotic heart.

There was one thing he could do to make partial amends—get north to that headwaters lake and protect her and bring her out. In a general way he had already planned to start back north, and now his realization of her danger galvanized into action.

Should he return by canoe, or go up the Iskitimwah and run the risk of Smash not being there with the plane? If only he could feel sure of Smash. One could never depend on him.

A pretty face at Telisect, a dance at Hazelton, would make him forget a rendezvous with a partner, but by chance the trip would take a week; it was up stream, and he could travel only by night, for parties would be coming the river and ambushing the portages.

A week would be too late. He had to be there at the lake when Sonya came. According to what Tennyson said about trail and distance, she and her guides could reach Karakhan's refuge late the next evening or on the morning of the following day. By plane he could make it, but not by canoe.

When dawn came, he searched the island for a suitable place, carried Ralph's body to it, made a secure cairn of rocks, and then scattered seed pods of woodbine and phlox around it in the fresh woods loam. Selecting a tall minaret pine that stood conspicuously to itself, he climbed it, and with Tennyson's belt, cut off all its branches except the rounded crown, making a lobster to the unselfish heroism of the man who had died there.

He woke the other two then, told Paul about his talk with Ralph and about his plans. They left immediately, heading up the Iskitimwah. (Copyright 1933, William B. Mowery.)

Tomorrow, Curt's plans meet a new danger.

Library Patrons Increase During Holiday Period

Children of Pampa evidently are taking an intellectual vacation during the holidays.
At least they are reading no more in the public library than they did before the holidays. But there has been an increase in the number of adult readers, especially men.
The library has one of the largest list of patrons of any library in the country in a city of this size. Its magazines are especially popular.

Mrs. H. H. Hanzett of White Deer was a shopper here this morning.

King And Queen Of Siam To Visit In U. S. Again

BANGKOK, Siam, Dec. 29. (P)—The king and queen of Siam are expected to return to the United States shortly and reliable quarters said today they have been invited as white house guests of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt in Washington.

King Prajadhipok, it was said, will take her majesty and the royal party aboard a specially chartered East Asiatic liner directly to Europe and then on to America.

Internal affairs in Siam, since the recently suppressed rebellion, are tending definitely toward government support. Parliament today gave a unanimous vote of confidence to the cabinet of Premier Phrayabhai.

The premier's general economic prosperity program was declared acceptable to the legislators. Its main items are that of the preservation of internal peace and the furtherance of friendship with foreign nations.

Furthermore, the government proposes that Siam shall have local self-government, improvement of public health, and reorganization of the police and prisons.

CHILD ADMITS CRUEL KILLING OF GIRL CHUM

13-YEAR OLD IN FIT OF ANGER SLAYS 8-YEAR OLD

BY T. D. HAGENBUCH
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 29. (P)—A 13-year-old girl has confessed, District Attorney Frank H. Coyne said today, to the murder last Sunday of her 8-year-old girl chum.

Mary Kavala, Coyne said, told him after long questioning last night that she had killed Josephine Woropay, hitting her on the head with a rock and then strangling her.

"I did it," the district attorney quoted her as saying. "Josie told lies about me and about my family. I did it. I lost my temper."

Josephine's body was found on Christmas eve under the porch steps of St. Matthew's lyeum at Hastings-on-Hudson. Police at first believed she had been slain by a man, but later they started questioning Mary.

They had gone for a walk Saturday afternoon, she told the authorities. An argument arose over the stories she said Josephine told about her. In a fit of temper she picked up a rock and struck the girl on her head, stunning her. From an old mop she took several strands and tied them tightly around Josephine's neck.

Then she found an automobile inner tube and twisted it around the girl's neck. Her angry passion still flaring, Mary went to a nearby rubbish pile, found a bottle and smashed it on a rock. With a jagged piece of the bottle she slashed Josephine's face until she was exhausted. Then she pulled the body under the porch steps and went home.

The next day, she said in her confession, she returned to the lyeum and stripped all the clothing from the girl's body. Fearful that it could be seen, she dragged an old abandoned sled under the porch and placed it over the body.

Mary was crying as she finished her recital, but quickly regained her calm and signed the confession.

Before she confessed, the girl had insisted to police that the murder had been committed by a man who had lured her and her boy and girl friend into wild games. After the confession, the police released Harry Sulka who had been held for questioning while the authorities were quizzing Mary.

District Attorney Coyne said he was convinced the girl had no accomplice. He said he was undecided whether to place a charge of murder in the first degree against the girl. Meanwhile she was being held in the children's shelter here under a technical charge of being a material witness.

New Kinds Of Animals Made In Heat Tests

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 29. (P)—Making new kinds of animals by subjecting their parents to unaccustomed heat, new evidence that heat has been one of the causes of evolution by producing new kinds of creatures, was described today to the American association for the advancement of science.

The new animals in this case are brand-new kinds of fruit flies, which have been born with characteristics not before found in their families, such as stubbier, smaller eyes and changed color of eyes and body. The new characteristics were produced by subjecting the parent flies to a temperature of 98 degrees Fahrenheit for 24 to 30 hours, causing changes in the "genes" or hereditary carriers of the parents that are passed on to their offspring.

This experiment, believed to be a sample of evolution actually at work, was performed by Dr. Harold H. Plough and Philip T. Ives of Amherst college, Amherst, Mass. They believe it is evidence that heat acting on the bodies of living creatures, has been one of the causes of the process of evolution that many scientists agree has gradually developed the human race from primitive one-celled animals.

KILLS GERMS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28. (P)—In azochloramid, a very distant chemical cousin to wartime chlorine gas, bacteriologists today reported discovery of an antibiotic which kills germs wholesale without harming some body tissues.

HARVESTERS WILL PLAY POWERFUL CAGERS FROM PANHANDLE HERE TONIGHT

STUDENTS TO BE ADMITTED WITHOUT COST

PAMPANS WIN SECOND GAME FROM HAPPY 43 TO 33

Playing for three periods without the burning zeal that characterized their victory over Happy's one-man team on Wednesday night, the Harvesters were scared into a fourth-quarter rally last night and won the second game of the series 43 to 33.

The Panhandle Panthers and Pantherettes will be in Pampa tonight to play basketball with the two Pampa high school teams. The girls' game will start at 7:15 o'clock. The teams will use the new two-floor plan of play. Admission will be 25 cents for adults and school students will be admitted free.

Both Pampa teams will go to Panhandle tomorrow night for return engagements. The Panhandle teams are reported stronger this year than in several seasons. They have been practicing for more than a month.

The Panthers will be led by their big center, Gibson, who is reported to be the best Pat Gerald has produced in several years, and Gerald has had some good ones. Other members of the team are also experienced, and the Harvesters may not be able to use the only regular center, as they will be watching the center, as was the case when Happy played here.

For three periods, the Pampa cagers kept about five points ahead of the Jacks. In the third, C. Barnard, center and captain of the Jacks, broke loose from his regulars, momentarily shattered the Pampa defense and tied the score. In a few minutes, he looped another field goal, leaving the score Happy 27, Pampa 26.

In the next quarter, the Harvesters looked like a different team. The net continually swished as Marbaugh, Heiskell, Pinnell and Green chalked up counters. Mr. Barnard's feat of out-playing the entire Pampa team was checked, although he continued to sink baskets. In all he made 14 points, and, incidentally, he is the only regular back from Happy's last season team.

The Jacks' quietest is not one-third as powerful as the 1933 club. Barnard is the whole show. He jumps at center, does most of the guarding and makes most of the points for his team.

The Happy live did not furnish half the opposition the Hedley boys presented last week. However, the Harvesters have improved mightily since the Hedley game.

The Harvesters fouled frequently in the first three quarters, and Dunaway and Green committing three each, and Pinnell making two. The locals missed six free shots, while the Jacks miss 11 chances from the free throw line. Happy's boys committed a total of nine fouls.

Unless other games are scheduled, the next game is set for Jan. 6, when the Harvesters and Pantherettes go to Hedley for return games. The Harvesters go to Amarillo Jan. 12. Hedley comes here the following night. It is probable that a game or two will be matched to be played here within the next two weeks.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Life of Paul. Scripture Lesson: Philippians 3:1-14.

1. Finally, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you, to me indeed is not irksome, but for you it is safe.

2. Beware of the dogs, beware of the evil workers, beware of the circumcision.

3. For we are the circumcision, who worship by the spirit of God and glory in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh.

4. Though I myself might have confidence in the flesh, I yet more: 5. Circumcision the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; as touching the law, a Pharisee;

6. As touching zeal, persecuting the church; as touching righteousness which is in the law, found blameless.

7. Howbeit what things were gain to me, these have counted loss for Christ.

8. Yea, verily, and I count all the things to be loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord; for whom I suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but refuse, that I may gain Christ.

9. And be found in him, not having a righteousness of mine own, even that which is of the law, but that which is through faith in Christ, the righteousness which is from God by faith.

10. That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, becoming conformed unto his death;

11. If by any means I may attain unto the resurrection from the dead.

12. Not that I have already obtained, or am already made perfect; but I press on, if so be that I may lay hold on that for which also I was laid hold on by Christ Jesus.

13. Brethren, I count not myself, yet to have laid hold; but one thing I do, forgetting the things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are before.

14. I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Golden text: I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith.—2 Tim. 4:7.

Time: A. D. 61 or 62. Place: The letter to the Philippians was written from Rome during Paul's first imprisonment there.

Introduction. While this is not designated a Review Lesson, it may be used to recapitulate some of the things that contributed to the apostle's greatness. Of course there were outward circumstances that should be taken into account; such as the advantage of belonging to several nations or civilizations (in a certain sense a Roman and a Greek, as well as a Jew) and of speaking three widely diffused languages (Greek, Latin and Aramaic). Of greatest import was the remarkable conversion experience. It turned Saul straight about in his tracks and was the impulse that sent him, Paul, on into a life of enthusiastic devotion to the Nazarene whom he had been persecuting. Paul was profoundly influential in molding the beginning of Christian doctrine and practice into a coordinated gospel and church.

Paul's Letter to the Philippians. The letter to the Christians of Philippi in Macedonia is one of the prison epistles. It was written from Paul's prison house in Rome in acknowledgment of gifts, financial and otherwise, which this faithful church sent to him by Epaphroditus, one of their members. This fraternal messenger was stricken with serious illness while in Rome and as soon as he was able to return to his anxious associates in Philippi, Paul sent him on his way with this most beautiful letter to the first church that he had established in Europe. The relationship between the Philippians and Paul had been affectionately cordial through the years and on more than one occasion they had ministered to his physical necessities.

"A Hebrew of Hebrews." v. 5. "Of the stock of Israel." "He was descended from the patriarch Jacob, whose name of honor (Israel) bestowed by God himself (Gen. 32:26), was the sacred name of the Jews as God's covenant people (Isaiah 44:21; Rom. 9:4; 2 Cor. 11:22; Eph. 2:12) and was the Jews' special badge and title of honor. Their descent from Abraham they shared with the Ishmaelites; their descent from Abraham and Isaac, with the Edomites. "Of the tribe of Benjamin." The smallest of the twelve tribes, but the only tribe whose ancestor was born in the Land of Promise, the tribe that supplied the first king, that always held the post of honor in the army, and that, through the work of Mordecai, a Benjaminite, established the feast of Purim. "A Hebrew of Hebrews." Of the purest blood. "No one had been more strict than Paul in observing the rules laid down by Moses and the regulations added to them by the rabbis."

All Things "Loss for Christ" v. 7. "Howbeit what things were gain to me, these have counted loss for Christ." The things which ordinarily would be counted an advantage to me, for which most men would praise me and honor me. "These have I counted loss for Christ."

"Advantages of birth, of character, of ceremonial strictness I have once for all cast away as not only useless but actually injurious. And this, for the sake of Christ; because they could not be retained with Christ, and because they were valueless without Christ. Could not be relied upon, my hope of acceptance and of salvation. Also was there not in them a temptation to self-confidence and to self-righteousness, as well as to a sense of evangelical trust?"—Dean C. J. Vaughan. To know Jesus as his Savior, to realize him as his friend and helper, is a joy and power so great that in comparison with it all other things are to be counted as losses.

"One Thing I Do." v. 12. Paul was a doer of many things, and of all of them well; he was a tent maker, a bold traveler, an organizer, a writer of marvelous power, an evangelist, and preacher who was moved by the Holy Spirit; but all of his doing was under the influence of this one thing, subordinated to it and empowered by it, "forgetting the things which are behind." Forgetting his shipwreck on Malta, his stoning at Lystra, the way in which the Jews drove him from place to place, his scourging at Philippi, the mob in Jerusalem, the prison at Caesarea, and his imprisonment at Rome—forgetting all his trials and sickness and disappointments. "We forget a defeat in the past when we do not stay whipped in mind, but courageously try another battle, like Robert Bruce, who failed twelve times and then won the thirteenth time at Bannockburn."—President B. H. Carroll.

"I Press on Toward the Goal" v. 14. "As he who runs a race never takes up short at the end, but is still making forward as fast as he can; so they who have heaven in their eye must still be pressing forward to it in holy desires and hopes, and constant endeavors and preparations. The fitter we grow for heaven, the faster we must press toward it."—Matthew Henry.

"Paul's Good Fight to the Finish." 2 Tim. 4:7.

The fight was a good one. It was a fight from start to finish. But it was a fight for the right. And the great warrior could contemplate it with joy as he laid the armor by. The finish was a glorious one. No Christian runner ever surpassed him on the track of life. When his head rolled from the executioner's block, the spirit of the greatest of apostles and missionaries took its flight to God.

"Paul's Triumph Over Death" v. 14. "I am now ready." 2 Tim. 4:6. Nero is now ready, and the decree goes forth that it is a capital offense to propagate Christianity. Of course Paul could not escape. He was soon apprehended and brought to Rome. It is thought that he was confined in the Mamertine Prison.

He was descended into the dungeon we recall how his horrors were described by Sellust and how King Jugurtha was here starved to death and how Lentulus was here executed for his conspiracy with Cataline. But Paul looked out of this fearsome dungeon with faith and hope. And so before laying down his pen and going out to the spot of execution, he wrote his immortal swan-song.

The Apostle's Swan-Song. "I am now ready to be offered and the time of my departure is at hand."

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing."—2 Tim. 4:6-10.

Westrope Rides 300th Horse At Houston Downs

HOUSTON, Dec. 29 (P)—Jackie Westrope's ambition to ride 300 race horses to victory in a single year has been achieved.

When the 17-year-old apprentice jockey booted "Out Bound" across the finish line ahead of the field in the third race at Epsom Downs here yesterday afternoon he reached his goal and accomplished a feat no other American jockey had been able to perform since 1908.

"It was just another race," said the Montana ranch youth quietly as he dismounted. Although Westrope had been a sensation throughout his first year as a jockey, he has little to say about it.

Westrope built up his mark in the fifth race by riding home a winner on "Gallop Along."

He returned to the saddle yesterday upon termination of a five-day suspension imposed on him for allegedly rough riding in a race here.

Before his suspension, he had turned in a string of 36 victories in the first 25 days of the Epsom Downs meet. He came here from Arlington Downs track between Port Worth and Dallas, where he also won regularly.

McCorckindale, a short-ender in the betting, will be outwaged about ten pounds by the hostful Chicagoan. Levinsky probably will enter the ring weighing 204 pounds, with the South African scaling 194.

Bill Tilden and Hunter Play In Tourney Today

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29 (P)—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden and Frank Hunter, his doubles partner and former Davis cup ally, clash today in one of the semi-final matches of the National Indoor Professional Tennis championships tourney.

The other semi-finalists are Vincent Richards, defending champion, and Bruce Barnes of Texas. Richards, also a former Davis cup star, backhanded his way to victory yesterday over unexpectedly stiff competition from Charles Wood of New York. Barnes downed Russell Harned of Newark, N. J., to gain the semi-final berth. Hunter advanced to the final round by defeating the semi-finalist, John Hunter, in a

'TARP' COVERS PARK STADIUM FOR BIG GAME

PLAYING FIELD WILL BE DRY FOR SATURDAY TILT

BY BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (P)—A tarpaulin covering the entire playing field is the assurance Greenville and Dallas Tech have for a dry field Saturday afternoon when they battle for the Texas Interscholastic League football championship. The tarpaulin was stretched over the fair park stadium gridiron before the start of a drizzling rain yesterday and will remain there until the teams trot on the field.

The only danger that the players will have heavy treading is for it to rain during the game. Local interest in the game is feverish. P. C. Cobb, athletic director of local schools, today said that approximately 6,000 tickets had been sold here. A report from Greenville said between one and three thousand had been sold there. This is the final day quotas may be purchased for fifty cents. Persons buying tickets tomorrow will be required to pay one dollar. Cobb and other game officials still are confident that between twenty-five and thirty thousand people will see the combat providing the weather is ideal.

Arrangements have been made to run a special train from Greenville directly to fair park stadium.

Coach Wallace Davis planned to send his Tech Wolves through a light signal drill today. The Wolves are perfectly conditioned for the hardest game of the season. Captain Luke Cortemeglia, halfback who has been ill with a cold since the San Angelo game, is fully recovered and will be in the starting lineup along with Ewing, Stavinsky, and Harper, other Tech ball players.

Coach Henry Frnka's Greenville Lions are overwhelming favorites of Texas sports writers. Those who covered the Greenville and Port Arthur game, and saw the Lions ride the husky Port Arthur line do not believe Tech's front wall will prove strong enough to stop the hard smashing of Marshall, Williams, Berry and Luckett, four Greenville backs who are versatile and have speed and power.

Both clubs are expected to open up with all they have. Coach Davis and Frnka have instructed their signal blockers to make a football game out of it from start to finish. Berry said, "I want a slow, cautious game as so many championship games have been."

GOLD POLICY IS TIGHTENED BY TREASURER

MORGENTHAU CALLS IN "LITTLE FELLOW'S" GOLD STORE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The federal government demanded the little fellow's gold along with that of the remaining big hoarders today in a drastic tightening of its gold mobilization policy.

"In my judgment such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States," acting Secretary Morgenthau said in an order designed to bring into the treasury most of the monetary gold outside federal reserve banks and the reconstruction corporation.

The new treasury command was interpreted as having two major aims: It eliminated the $100 exemption allowed holders of gold and gold certificates by President Roosevelt's previous proclamation and it sought to close legal loopholes whereby large hoarders might seek to evade the policy in the courts.

While the treasury declined to say so officially, a recent New York federal court ruling that Mr. Roosevelt's original anti-hoarding orders should have been issued by the head of the treasury was considered a major factor in prompting the new command.

No immediate estimates were available on how much gold and gold certificates the treasury would gain through the new ruling.

Last February, just before President Roosevelt stopped the use of gold money, there were $1,220,000,000 in circulation—that is, outside the treasury. Of this, $571,337,000 was in coin and bullion and $648,663,000 in certificates.

By the end of November, the circulation figure had dropped to $528,830,000—$11,004,000 in metal and $217,486,000 in certificates. Most of the difference was turned in voluntarily, but about $40,000,000 was obtained from hoarders thru the justice department's persuasion.

Treasury officials do not expect to take in the entire half billion now "in circulation."

Some of this, they explain, has been lost, some taken abroad, some destroyed, while part of the bullion likely has found its way into commercial channels.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brashears have returned from a holiday visit with his parents at Eastland.

Mrs. Charlie Terry of Skellytown entered Pampa hospital yesterday for medical treatment.

Texas Asks Million To Furnish Needy With Canned Beef

AUSTIN, Dec. 29 (AP)—Texas has asked the federal surplus relief corporation for an additional $1,000,000 with which to purchase cattle, and process and can beef for distribution to the needy.

The Texas relief commission yesterday voted to request Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to make application for the new allotment. A grant of $500,000 to the state for this purpose was recently made. Under that allocation 23,000 head of cattle were purchased, 3,500,000 cans of beef were put up and 7,000 persons employed in the canneries.

If the grant asked should be allowed, the commission estimated 45,000 head of cattle could be utilized to provide between 7,250,000 and 7,500,000 cans of beef.
