BUSINESS MEN SEEM TO OKEY FINANCE PLAN

$650,000 ISSUE WILL BE PASSED, AS PRESENT OUTLOOK POINTS

Citizens of Lubbock will go to the polls tomorrow to cast their ballots either for or against the proposed issuance of $650,000 in bonds, which members of the administration point out will bring a saving of $150,000 to the municipality, but from advance indications a great majority of the ballots cast will favor the proposition.

Business men of Lubbock who have given much thought to the issue involved apparently are 100 percent in favor of the bonds, and a great deal of interest is being manifested here in the outcome of the election, it is revealed in a partial survey of the situation by the Daily Journal Monday.

The consensus of opinion is that the proposition is a good, bonafide business deal and one citizen who always shows much interest in any movement that is considered for the best of the city went so far as to say that the vote Tuesday will in a way be a vote either of confidence or lack of confidence in the present administration.

Officials Are United

City officials, charged with the responsibility of managing the city's business affairs have said that the bond election is the best way to save money for taxpayers under conditions, and the people should go to the polls tomorrow and express their confidence in these officials, this man said.

In brief, the election will decide whether or not the taxpayers of Lubbock are willing to trade six per cent paper for longer standing paper of five per cent, and no other issue is involved. The objection that the commission wants to renege present outstanding warrants so that they may be free to issue more, is met with argument that the commission has not reached the limit of issuance under the charter. Taxes are now collected to the extent of one and one-half per cent of the total valuation, while the charter provides for collection of two and one-half per cent, if necessary.

Business Men Interviewed

A few business men, picked at random over the city, have this to say:

RED SOX SWAP EMORY RIGNEY FOR BUD MYER

FORMER PANTHER WILL CAVORT IN CAPITAL CITY SHORTFIELD

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 2.—Charles "Buddy" Myer, shortstop of the Washington American league baseball club, was traded to the Boston American today for shortstop Emory Rigney.
Myer, who came to the Washington club from the Southern Association displaced the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh as the regular shortstop last year. He has been a consistent batsman since entering the American league. Rigney formerly played with Detroit. No cash was involved in the trade.

Rigney Well Known Here
Emory Rigney, spoken of in the above dispatch, is well known in Lubbock and has an uncle, E. N. Rigney, and other relatives residing here. His cousin, "Little Topper" Rigney, holds down second base on the Texas Tech team and is prominent in city league circles.

The traded player was a shortstop with Texas A. and M. and following his graduation he joined the Fort Worth Panthers. From Fort Worth, where he established himself as one of the brightlights of Texas league infielders, he was sold to Detroit where he courted for several seasons before disagreements with Tyus Cobb, then general manager, resulted in his being traded to the Red Sox. Rigney led the shortfielders of the American league in defensive play last season. Both the Yankees and the White Sox made efforts to secure him during the time that a common knowledge that he and Manager Cobb were having disagreements.

Myer From Southern Association
Buddy Myer, the other player to figure in the deal, came to Washington from the Southern association. He was originally a third baseman but was made into a shortstop by managers who saw his ability in that line. Manager Harris, feeling that Myer had "arrived" last winter traded his aged but agile star, Roger Peckinpaugh, to Chicago, where he felt that the veteran's legs would keep him from regular play and as a result critics have pointed out all year that Washington's infield, considered one of the best in baseball with Judge, Harris, Peckinpaugh and Bruce, was not working as smoothly with Myer at short as it was with Peckinpaugh in that position.

The junior boys and girls met with the senior boys and girls this afternoon at the Merrill park at 4 o'clock to settle class differences with a battle on the diamond. Editorials Socialism

The Socialist vote, even in our biggest cities and industrial centers, is so small and the Communist vote so negligible, that we often forget how important these elements of discontent have in the polity of Europe.

In Great Britain the Labor Socialist party is His Majesty's opposition because it is the ranking party in Parliament after the Tories. In Germany the Social Democrats have taken part in the cabinet of every republican government except the present one.

Somehow, one always thinks of the Swedes as an eminently conservative nation; and yet not so long ago the late M. Branting, a Socialist, was prime minister. Somehow one thinks of Stockholm as a great, brilliant, capital city and yet the Socialists rule its municipal council. In the last body, they, with the Communists, had 51 members to 48 representing the anti-Socialists.

An Italian Sage

Senator Luigi Luzzatti, an Italian Jewish patriarch, sank to his last sleep the other day at the age of 86, and his country, his king, and Mussolini, himself, all vied with each other to do honor to his revered memory. He had started out in life as a young man of wisdom. He died a sage.

A Thought

Be not righteous overmuch—Ecclesiastes viii:16. WHEN you see a man with a great deal of religion displayed in his shop window, you may depend upon it he keeps a very small stock inside—Spurgeon.

Flapper Fanny

In five successive ministries he held the portfolio of the treasury. He restored the nation's credit. He made its budget balance. He was rewarded by being called to the prime ministry. His motto of life was once set forth in a note he wrote to a charming aristocrat who wished to send him a gift of game, which he declined. He said to her: "My needs are simple. My program of life is—believe in the justice of a Divine Providence; love for one woman; many books to read; little food; much meditation."

Highlights on Wichita Falls, the 1927 convention city of W. T. C. C.: 70,000 population. Annual payroll $35,000,000. 100 manufacturing plants. THE PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman feels about Al Smith's candidacy just as the average Protestant feels. He doesn't know whether, as president, Mr. Smith would be subservient to his church and its mandate or not. Mr. Smith's friends say he wouldn't—Mr. Smith's enemies are equally as emphatic that he would. The Plainsman merely takes the attitude of "why take a chance?"

Too many men vote "dry" and drink "wet" to permit prohibition to be the success that it should theoretically be.

County Attorney L. A. Howard is after the "cold-checkers" with blood in his eye and several stiff fines and short jail sentences have been registered in county court as a result. The Plainsman has no sympathy for the habitual "cold-checker" or for the man or woman who issues a check to another person knowing all the time that the money is not in the bank to honor it.

Old Master's

The world's great age begins anew. The golden years returns. The earth doth like a snake renew. Her winter weeds outturn; Heaven smiles, and fields and empires gleam Like wrecks of a dissolving dream. A brighter Hellas rears its mountains. From waven serene far; A new Peneus rolls his fountains. Against the morning star; Where fairer Tempes bloom, there sleep Young Cyclops on a sunnier deep. A loftier Argo cleaves the main. Fraught with a later prize; Another Orpheus sings again. And loves, and weeps, and dies. A new Ulysses leaves once more Calypso for his native shore. Another Athens shall arise, And to remoter time Bequeath like sunset to the skies. The splendor of its prime; And leave, if naught so bright may live, All earth can take or Heaven can give. —Percy Bysshe Shelley: From the concluding chorus of "Hellas."

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON WOULD PAY WELL FOR THESE RAD-IO PROGRAMS

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Radio programs are often charged with being dull and lowbrow stuff. Perhaps they could be made more interesting by hiding microphones to transmit certain confidential conversations. There are many persons here who would pay substantially for the privilege of listening in on such intriguing tete-a-tetes as: Senator Borah discussing foreign problems with President Coolidge; Secretary Kellogg arguing with Mexican Ambassador Telles; Secretary of Commerce Hoover arguing against present foreign policies with Coolidge and Kellogg; Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter taking orders from Wayne B. Wheeler; W. G. McAdoo talking former political and financial supporters who aren't quite so sure about 1928; Senator Dave Reed reporting on the Vero situation to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Chamber of Commerce officials are today in conference with state sanitary engineers and city officials developing plans for the sanitation of Borger. Furthermore, they are working on a plan to obtain better water for the city mains of Borger. The Herald thinks that all Borger citizens will commend the Chamber of Commerce for entering actively into these important moves for the betterment of the community. Chamber of Commerce directors will meet again tonight. At this time The Herald hopes that the directors will name committees of two or three men each who will work vigorously with the secretary for the fulfillment of whatever aims the directors may select for the good of Borger. To leave the entire administration of these plans up to one man, no matter how energetic of this man might be, is jeopardizing the success of the plans. If the Chamber of Commerce assumes the leadership for which the people of Borger now look at it, it must do so as a body, and all its members must work. The organization has been a leader in the past in Borger, and can be so again—Borger Herald.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Manhattan snap-shots: The incongruously located Church of St. Francis of Assisi... Crowded between the minarets of the new cloak and suit belt on 23rd street... One of its beautifully architected Spanish gateway walls has become imbedded in a tawdry brick pinshop... It clings tenaciously to its little garden where half a dozen firm manage to survive the dirt of the street and the terribly inadequate earth base for their roots... They have grown dusty and anemic... On either side of their narrow home rise the sheer walls of skyscrapers... Now and then a priest appears upon the roof, pacing back and forth reading his litany in the shadows of temples built to Mammon, chief god of business... James Oliver Curwood, who writes of the north woods, but spends his off-woods hours in Manhattan... And he has been nursing a serpent bite, they tell me, suffered during a snake hunt in the everglades of Florida... Natacha Rambova, once Mrs. Rudolph Valentino, dancing in a new dance club of the Eighty-Fives... Chestnut vendors appearing on the street... Open cars on Broadway... A man buying a bathing suit... Two more men looking over golf stockings... Clerks playing ball during the noon hour just back of the public library and sending pop-flies into the fashionable Fifth avenue crowd... Summer must be just around the corner... Oh yes, and there's the story that's been going around since Boston went on its spree of literary censorship... A man from Boston had been seen in New York several days... "Say, what are you doing around here anyway?" asked a New York friend... "Oh, said the Bostonian, "I just came down to read a book... ALTHOUGH he went over Anderson's testimony word for word, Churchill was able to shake him on only one or two particulars. The amazing evidence remained almost undamaged when the great defense lawyer had finished with the farmer, in spite of the fact that he had proved Anderson to be biased toward the prosecution, because of his friendship and gratitude toward the murdered man. The afternoon wore on rather monotonously. Mrs. Bates, wife of the preacher, and Ella Bates, his daughter, being called in succession after Anderson had been dismissed. Mrs. Anderson, a plump, food-natured country woman, testifying earnestly to her dear husband, and was the third new witness of the afternoon. She gave substantially the same testimony as her husband, and it was evident that she had had the two thoroughly drilled in their testimony. The only high spot in Mrs. Anderson's testimony was the fact that she asserted that Cheryl had said, "To think that I turned down a man like Ralph Cluny to marry a beast like you..."

Few Lubbock Parents Drill Kiddies In Fire Prevention, Twitty Reports

CITY-WIDE SURVEY OF LOWER GRADES IS COMPLETED

Parents of Lubbock are very diligent in drilling their children in fire prevention, especially as this dates to calling out the fire department. Fire Chief W. E. Twitty said today after a survey in the lower grades of the public school system here which revealed that only about 50 per cent of the school children know how to turn in a fire alarm accurately. Of 722 children who were given questionnaires for information on the various phases of fire prevention, 364 knew the fire department's telephone number, 284 didn't know the number or how to turn in an alarm, and 54 gave the wrong number.

Kellogg Talks To Latin-Americans

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The United States desires nothing from Latin-America that she is not willing reciprocally to grant to her sister republics, Secretary Kellogg said in an address today opening the third Pan-American commercial conference. Four hundred delegates from the United States and the twenty Latin-American republics listened to the secretary's welcome, in which he stressed the "unity of purpose and unity of ideals" of the American nations. Mr. Kellogg defined Pan-Americanism as "far deeper than the existence of friendly relations between governments." It means above all things, he said, a mutually sympathetic understanding of national ideas and purposes between the peoples of this continent.

FOARD COUNTY PASSES BONDS

The citizens of Foard county Saturday voted a bond issue of $300,000 for highway improvement across the county, joining Wilbarger, Cottle and Motley in the program for hard surface on state highway No. 25, the Lee highway from Vernon to Farwell. It was learned today at the office of Major Pettus Hemphill, division engineer of the State Highway department. Wilbarger, Cottle and Motley have already voted bonds to finance the project, with Floyd and Hale on similar issues in June. It was Lamb and Falley, two others of the nine counties affected by the program, are planning to vote on an issue in July. Farmer, the other county, is said to be ready, but marking time pending definite action by counties to the east end of the highway. The movement, designed to connect the two points of the southern panhandle with a hard surface highway, was launched last year, and is being heartily endorsed all along the route.

Rock Springs Asks Money From State

AUSTIN, May 2 (AP)—A special appropriation of about $100,000 to restore the destroyed public school and water works at Rock Springs, ravaged by a tornado April 12, probably will be sought at the special session of the legislature, it was learned today after a conference between Governor Dan Moody and a delegation from Rock Springs. The delegation, headed by Judge C. H. Gilmer, of Edwards county, discussed with the governor the possibility of tax remission for four years, but it was later agreed that an emergency appropriation might better fit into the character of the session's work. Tax remission for four years would give Edwards county approximately $104,000, computed from the annual average of state taxes now paid in. This amount, they said, would restore high school building and rehabilitate the water works.

Two Held In Death Of E. Texas Farmer

TEXARKANA, TEXAS, May 2. (AP)—Two farmers, neighbors to Arthur Green, slain in a church 20 miles east of Texarkana, Sunday night, were being held in jail here today as suspects in the slaying. Green had just arisen from his seat in church to make some statement when a shot fired through an open window blew most of his head and face away. He died in a few minutes.

Sheriff F. F. McGee and several deputies of Miller county made an all night search and early this morning arrested the two men. The slaying of the officers, Green and the two suspects had a heated argument late Sunday afternoon, but the difficulty was apparently settled. A shot gun, appearing to have been fired recently, was found in the home of one of the men.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 2. (AP)—Pushing through gas-choked and debris strewn passages, helmeted rescue workers today hoped to learn the fate of 77 miners entombed following an explosion in the Everettsville mine of the New England Fuel and Transportation company.

It was believed only 700 more feet had to be penetrated before reaching the area where the men were thought to have been. The explosion at the time of the blast, in which 18 men are known to have been killed and seven injured. Nine escaped unhurt.

Seek To Choke Blaze.—Air tests indicated fire followed the explosion which occurred Saturday and rescuers were forced to divide their attention between actual rescue work and attempts to locate and choke the blaze.

While the rescue squads, who worked in six hour shifts, edged forward, relatives and friends of the trapped workers maintained a vigil at the mountain-side entrance of the mine, clinging hopefully to the belief that at least some of the men still live.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross and Salvation Army aided the stricken families and fed both rescue workers and watchers.

WEST VS. EAST

Out in Western Texas there is an oil section where no rain has fallen for several weeks. Oil is selling at six bits a barrel and citizens are paying one dollar a barrel for water. What does a man want to live in that kind of a country for, anyway? Come to East Texas where there is both oil and water and strawberries and blackberries and peaches and watermelons and everything else good to eat.—Tyler Courier-Times.

The West Texas condition as described above may have existed for a short time but recent rains have wiped it out entirely and also started the finest gardens in the world to growing, but what we started out to say was that while East Texas, and especially Smith county, can raise all the things mentioned by the Courier-Times and then some, what's the use when your direction goes for a strike and refuses to function? Here we have all the things mentioned and a digestion, bolstered up by mineral water, that can handle anything that comes stomach-ward. Come to Mineral Wells—Mineral Wells—index.

Yesterday's joke is tomorrow's reality. Back in 1821 Michael Faraday succeeded in producing an electric current by induction. A very matter-of-fact friend asked him what good this would do. Faraday sarcastically replied, "Perhaps some day you can tax it."

That was a joke then but it isn't now. For last year the electrical industry in the United States paid over $12,000,000 in federal taxes.

Flood Crest Moving Past Vicksburg

NEW ORLEANS, May 2. (AP)—With the flood crest of the Mississippi moving past Vicksburg today, armies of men were fighting desperately to raise and strengthen the levees along the wide front from the mouth of the Red river to New Orleans where, record stages are forecast between May 5 and 15. Meantime, torrents of water flowing through four narrow openings yesterday by the river south of Vidalia, opposite Natchez, were completing the inundation of Concordia parish, in east central Louisiana, with the prospect that it would submerge parts of four adjoining parishes.

The flood along the Yazoo river in Mississippi also was spreading eastward, but a somewhat improved situation was reported in southeastern Arkansas with the Arkansas river slowly falling and the flood waters through three levees moving rapidly over into northern Louisiana.

No Change At New Orleans.—There was no change in the situation at New Orleans, the river gauge standing stationary at 28.7 feet, due, engineers said, to the rapid flow of water through the artificial release fifteen miles south which was widened again today by the use of more dynamite.

The river was rising steadily at Vicksburg, gain-gain four tenths of a foot overnight due to the waters from the state landing.

Break north of Greenville, flowing back into the Mississippi through the Yazoo.

Threats Are Serious.—Serious situations were threatened along the Atchafalaya in southern Louisiana, on the Ouach-

Paralyzed Lad Is Fighting For Life

ROANOKE, Va., May 2. (AP)—Prayers were spoken for Walter L. Boothe, 15, today as hundreds of his fellow citizens watched with undiminished interest the coming of the eleventh day of his fight against death.
