

U.S.-Soviet relationship is calming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever finally happens to a new strategic arms limitation treaty now in the final stages of negotiation, it has already given the Carter administration its first period of tranquillity and cooperation in relations with the Soviet Union.

The prisoner exchange that brought five Soviet dissidents to New York over the weekend is only one example of the restrained and conciliatory policies the Soviets have adopted in an unspoken, but obvious effort to help President Carter persuade the Senate to ratify the treaty.

In addition, the Soviets are allowing Jews to emigrate at record-setting rates. If recent monthly figures continue, more than 40,000 will be released this year.

There also are some things the Soviets might have done but haven't.

For example, they did not retaliate against China for its incursion into Vietnam, although they had helped the Vietnamese go into Cambodia.

Unlike the period from 1975-77, the Soviets have not taken advantage of turmoil in the Third World to push for geo-political gains. Cuban troops remain in Angola and Ethiopia; they did not move into Rhodesia or South Yemen. And the Soviets have not yet meddled noticeably in Iran or Pakistan.

Soviet diplomats keep tabs as close as any lobbyist these days on how the Senate is lining up on the impending arms treaty. They know how many senators are already against it, and how many more might be if the debate takes place at a time when the Soviets appear to be on the march once more.

The administration, for its part, is reciprocating in quiet ways. It has, for example, approved the export license for a computer the Soviet news agency wants to buy for the 1980 Olympics. That license was withheld last summer.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU — Bruce McLaughlin and his wife, Glidden, Iowa, get a big smile from Troung Cuan at the Iowa Refugee Center in Des Moines. Cuan was one of the 167 Vietnamese "boat people" refugees that arrived in Iowa from a refugee camp in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. The McLaughlins will sponsor Troung Cuan's family to resettle in Iowa.

Iowa welcomes 167 'boat people'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A group of 167 Vietnamese boat people who say they "feel like we have been reborn" has traded the steamy tropics of Southeast Asia for the cold prairies of the Midwest.

Many of the refugees wore light clothing and sandals, the children shorts and small tops, as they arrived in 50-degree weather Sunday after a 24-hour flight from Malaysia, where most of them have been living on boats along the coast.

A large sign greeted them at Camp Dodge, where they were given clothing and warm food and were matched with their sponsor families. The sign read: "Chao Mung Cac Ban den Iowa" — "Welcome to Iowa."

Gov. Robert D. Ray told President Carter earlier that Iowa can accommodate 1,500 new refugees this year. The Iowa Refugee Service Center is handling their placement. About 3,500 Indochinese already have resettled in Iowa.

The refugees also had signs that read, "We the boat people are grateful to Governor Ray and the Iowans. Thanks to all of you who have welcomed us with your opened arms."

Colleen Shearer, director of the refugee service, welcomed the group in Vietnamese. Her effort was received with laughs and smiles.

"We feel like we have been reborn in this wonderful state," said refugee spokesman Ngyea Tu Cuong of Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon. "We feel like Governor Ray is our savior. We pray that other states will take his lead and follow."

"We promise to be useful," he added.

Ray told the refugees, "We extend a warm greeting to all our new Iowans. We promise to help you. We won't guarantee your success. But your sponsors truly want you to succeed."

People in nearly 30 cities and towns volunteered to serve as friends, counselors and advocates.

The entire town of Lamoni, in south central Iowa, is sponsoring the Quan Cam Hoa family. Mayor Pat Lesley said their sponsorship is enriched because this is the year of Lamoni's centennial.

"This is a good place to be and a great land," said Lesley. "You're fine people and I welcome you."

Lamoni, population 2,500, has three other Vietnamese families whom Lesley said are industrious, hard-working people.

State officials said the sponsors have no financial obligation to the refugees, who are eligible for federal resettlement funds.

The U.S. State Department gives the Iowa Refugee Service Center about $350 for each refugee it resettles. The center is allowed to allocate the money as it sees fit.

Mrs. Shearer said critics who claim refugees will be added to the state's welfare rolls are wrong. Fewer than 35 Indochinese families who have resettled in Iowa are receiving welfare benefits, she said.

Sunday's welcoming commemorates the fourth anniversary of the United States' withdrawal from Vietnam.

Two ruled out as suspects

Investigators hope to obtain clues from analysis of the physical evidence by the DPS Crime Lab in Austin into the identity of the killer of Tracey and Ann Reeves, abducted from their service station and killed early Thursday morning. Texas Ranger Eddy Almond will return with the data from Austin sometime tonight.

Officers are stymied until then, but hope the fresh evidence will bring them a breakthrough in the case.

A local man and woman questioned Saturday morning in connection with the case have been ruled out as suspects, according to Big Spring Detective Bob Sims. They were arrested and charged with aggravated assault in an unrelated crime.

Fourth anniversary of fall

Vietnam POW retires from military

EDITOR'S NOTE — Monday, April 30, marks the fourth anniversary of the fall of South Vietnam to North Vietnam. This interview is with a man who spent more than seven years imprisoned in Vietnam.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vice Admiral James Stockdale has been teaching the Book of Job from the Bible.

"The story of undeserved suffering — how people cope with it," says the former prisoner of war who was in the hands of North Vietnamese captors for 2,714 days.

"Life is unfair, but that does not justify you in acting unfairly," says Stockdale. "What I mean is that you have to be a man, as Job was asked to be a man by his Lord, and stand up like a man when you are faced with undeserved hardship."

Stockdale, 55, blazed new trails with his philosophy classes during the past two trimesters at the U.S. Naval War College, where he was appointed president in October 1977.

He is leaving the Navy next fall after 36 years military service to become president of The Citadel, South Carolina's 137-year-old military college.

He says he will eventually transplant his teachings of philosophy to The Citadel as elective courses to "add flavor to an already very good, high quality educational pursuit based on traditional structure."

"I'm thrilled," he says. "You can bet I'll be a classroom teacher as well as president. The reason I accepted is because it allows me to establish myself in education as a profession with long-term tenure rather than just practicing when the military assignment rotation allows me to do so."

Stockdale was shot down on Sept. 9, 1965, and parachuted from his crippled A-4 jet into a crowd of angry North Vietnamese who beat him so badly that they tore his left leg at the knee, leaving it permanently stiff. He walks with a limp.

The philosophy that he learned as a Navy fighter pilot enrolled in a master's program at Stanford University's Hoover Institution from 1960 until 1962 kept him going during his 7½ years of captivity, half of the time in solitary confinement and leg irons.

He was awarded the Medal of Honor for resisting his captors.

The first week of his course, "Foundations of Moral Obligation," was devoted to stories of those in prison.

"The best, I think, by Koestler, 'Darkness at Noon,'" he says. "Not for the reason that anybody here is ever going to be in prison ... I'm not teaching them to be prisoners. But the prison, the intensity of prison life, seems to illuminate many things, the need for morality in the extortion environment. So I refer to it frequently in examples.

"There are usually extortion environments in prison where the jailer wants to manipulate you, wants to scare you, probably wants to hurt you. But most of all he wants you to feel guilt."

"Because it's there the soul starts to deteriorate. If he can get you on the downhill slope, he can put you where he wants you, put you in his pocket.

"It's not only there that happens. We're all in an extortion environment of some subtle sort all the time. Thus a man is well advised not to do anything he is ashamed of."

"Another thing I think that brings out in general, and it's illuminated there, is the dependence of one of us upon the other. You can't go it alone."

"If you're going to have any form of corporate activity, you can't give yourself the opportunity to opt in and out as you individually judge the merits of the case. If it's serious enterprise, to drop out is to betray."

Stockdale said he was "scared to death time and again" while a POW. "We were always scared," he says. "I would recite to myself liturgies of pep talk and memorized stuff on the way to interrogation because I knew I had a performance."

"I had to demonstrate commitment. It was genuine, but I could not give the idea that I was willing to, as they say, meet them halfway. You've got to look him (the interrogator) in the eyes and tell him to go to hell."

And does this Stockdale see philosophical lessons to be learned from the American involvement in Vietnam?

"Millions of them, I'm sure," he says. "You cannot finesse a war. War is cruelty and you cannot refine it," says Sherman. I like to quote Napoleon, who said, 'sentiment rules the world.' And any person who does not take that into account can never hope to lead."

Co-signer may have to pay, study says

By the Associated Press

Have you ever co-signed a loan for a friend or relative? Did you know what you were getting into?

A recent industry study shows that three out of four people who co-sign loans granted by finance companies will be contacted by the lender because the borrower falls behind.

"They will be asked to pay," said David Williams, an attorney with the Federal Trade Commission.

There are no figures available on how many of these cosigners actually wind up having to pay off part or all of a loan. Nor are there figures on how many loans of all kinds — by finance companies, banks, credit unions or other institutions — require cosigners.

U.S. price supports rank at bottom

WASHINGTON (AP) — As far as government price supports are concerned, U.S. wheat and corn farmers rank practically at the bottom among more than 60 countries, according to a new analysis by the Agriculture Department.

The report, by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, examines guaranteed prices — government supports — on the basis of what they were last October.

For example, the U.S. price support loan rate for wheat from the 1978 harvest was $2.35 a bushel. Only Egypt's support of $1.83 a bushel was lower.

The report listed the prices in dollars a metric ton, but were translated into prices per bushel by a reporter using the conversion formula of 36.7 bushels of wheat per metric ton — about 2,205 pounds — or 39.4 bushels of corn per metric ton.

Other big wheat exporting countries and their support rates for farmers included: Argentina $2.72 a bushel; Australia $2.37 to $2.56; and Canada $3.02 (not counting final payments).

The wheat support in the European Community ranged from $5.42 to $6.65 a bushel. In the Soviet Union, it was $3.90 a bushel.

Japan had the highest wheat support, $23 a bushel, according to the report.

The 1978-crop U.S. loan rate for corn was $2 a bushel, on a national average.

Only Brazil's guarantee to farmers of $1.70 a bushel was lower, with the highest shown for Switzerland at $10.56 a bushel, followed by South Korea at $8.88 a bushel.

The corn support in the Soviet Union was reported at $2.69 a bushel.

Officials said in the report the comparisons were "difficult and cumbersome" to chart and warned that the countries — 58 plus the United States and the European Community — include a "great variety of agricultural and economic conditions" as well as differing policies.

"Consequently, any comparison of price levels between countries should be undertaken with caution to avoid misleading conclusions," it said.

For example, the report said grain qualities, standards and grades vary widely from country to country. Also, monetary exchange rates fluctuate widely.

"In comparing price levels in importing countries (Japan is one) with those in exporting countries, freight costs must be taken into account," the report said.

The report was prepared by: Grain and Feed Division, Commodity Programs, Foreign Agricultural Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Hearings planned on beef research, promotion plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to hold five public hearings in June on a proposed beef research and promotion program financed by cattle producers.

Under the plan, an assessment of up to one-half of 1 percent of the value of live cattle sold would be made.

The money would be collected according to a "value-added" concept, with each seller in the marketing chain being assessed as an animal is passed from hand to hand.

At the point of slaughter, the final buyer would deduct the total assessment due and then pay it to a "Beef Board" consisting of up to 68 cattle producers.

The board would carry out research and information programs, with USDA monitoring the operations. Producers who decide not to support the program would get refunds.

Assistant Secretary P.R. Smith said the hearings will be aimed at collecting evidence of the need for such a program, the provisions the official "order" setting it up should include, and the impact it would have on the cattle industry and the general public.

Before the program could be put into operation, a referendum would be required among producers. A majority of those registered to vote would have to approve the program before it could be put into effect.

The hearings are scheduled for:

June 12, Dallas, Texas, Earl Cabell Federal Building, 1100 Commerce St.

June 19, Pittsburgh, Pa., Federal Building, 1000 Liberty Ave.

June 21, Hapeville, Ga., Ramada Inn, 845 North Central Ave., near the Atlanta airport.

Family members speculate

Sniper haunted by accident

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — No one knows why Ira Attebury directed a lethal volley of sniper fire at an unsuspecting crowd of 5,000 parade watchers here. But relatives say the action may have been triggered by the haunting memory of a fatal accident eight years ago.

Two women were shot to death Friday and 55 others wounded or trampled in the panic that ensued after Attebury unleashed a withering fusillade on the crowd gathered for the Battle of the Flowers parade.

Attebury, who would have been 65 on Sunday, battled police for 90 minutes before he took his own life.

Family members recalled a sullen man, disabled and emotionally twisted by an accident that killed two women in a small Ohio town. Attebury was pinned in the wreckage after his truck rammed a car that had run a red light, killing both occupants.

"Things have been different since that wreck," said his brother Howard, 66, of Poplar Bluff, Mo. "He imagined things that weren't quite true."

"I think his injuries caused him to be that way. He thought the police were after him all the time after that."

Police apparently were a primary target of Attebury's. Six officers were wounded when he opened fire from his camper Friday.

"It was an understatement to say something was wrong with him," said San Antonio detective Joe Ovsterveen.

"For some reason, he had it in for police."

Attebury's brother Herman, 32, of Rockford, Ill., also suspected the accident played a role in the San Antonio incident.

Carter given high marks

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Former Sen. J. William Fulbright, 74, who served as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for 15 years, says he gives the Carter administration generally high marks for its foreign policy efforts.

"Still, the game has to be played out in the Middle East. This is where he (Carter) has committed so much and so far has gotten very little," Fulbright said Sunday in a television interview.

He said unless Carter gets a settlement reasonably satisfactory to most of the Arab world, the conflict "will just go on and on. It'll fester. And then we'll have serious trouble for a very long time."

On arms limitation, Fulbright, who lost in his 1974 reelection campaign to Dale Bumpers and now is with a Washington law firm, said he does not believe the Soviet Union has passed the United States, but he conceded that Russia has a larger conventional arsenal "because I think their situation requires it." He referred to the Soviet-China border clashes.

Hayes' name 'Dropped'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's more than a year until the 1980 elections, but the namedropping already has begun, and one being dropped as a possible opponent to Sen. John Glenn is former Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes.

Both Columbus daily newspapers speculated in their weekend editions that Hayes, 66, could be the Republicans' choice to take on Glenn, a Democrat, next year.

"Various GOP sources come up with a bundle of names of possible opponents for Glenn," The Dispatch said Sunday. "One of the more surprising names offered is that of Woody Hayes, ousted Ohio State (University) football coach."

Neither Hayes nor Glenn could be reached Sunday for comment.

Women not taking sitting on corporate boards for granted

NEW YORK (AP) — The women are not taking a thing for granted. Though their future in business seems assured, they are not sitting back and waiting for invitations. They are organizing for the push.

A few weeks ago the Financial Women's Association of New York held a breakfast meeting at which they released the names of women they felt should be invited to sit on corporate boards.

So far, not much has happened to that list, the publication of which some claim was a sure way not to get an invitation. But the women stirred up talk, and they got a progress report from General Motors.

As guest speaker, GM chairman Thomas Murphy told the women their future in management was a "skyline of rising opportunities."

At GM, he said, "we should see women filling upwards of one-third of all our engineering and plant supervision positions," many of which once were considered too weighty and technical for delicate females.

But as some women see it, those jobs will not be filled unless they press for them. They had to push in the courts to open the door a crack, they remember, and now, they say, they have to keep their weight against it.

One of the problems is that men still control big business; and at the top, they rely heavily on each other. Some call it the old boy network; and out of it come job opportunities and invitations to sit on boards.

In almost no instance are the women going it alone. Practically every seminar or new organization has managed to attract some form of aid from big business, and for very good reasons.

One prominent reason is that women have a great deal to say about how money is invested. They have made swift professional advances in the financial field. And personally, they own a great deal of stock in corporations, some left to them by deceased husband-executives.

The New York financial women obtained Murphy for obvious reasons. As the biggest employer among manufacturers, GM is constantly in the spotlight. It seeks recognition for its minority employment practices.

Among other accomplishments, it has two women directors; the corporations secretary is female, as are two corporate assistant secretaries. It has just named a female vice president, its first.

Aware that they will be employing women MBAs for legal and good business reasons, Exxon, Procter and Gamble, Scott-Paper and the Sun Company funded the Wharton meeting.

And when you are able to gain the financial and moral support of that against which you are pushing, it suggests pretty good organization and superior management techniques.

Texas Texaco retailers complaining

Regulars keep them going

By the Associated Press

Big oil companies are reporting soaring profits as gasoline prices skyrocket, but many Texaco service station operators across Texas say for them, it's tougher than ever to stay in business.

Texaco retailers complain they are having to pay higher prices for their gasoline than competitors, and some say only customer loyalty keeps them afloat in the face of the added problems of rising rents and allocation cutbacks.

"Texaco is plumb out of the ballpark," said Dave Cook, who runs a Texaco service station in Lubbock. "Their gas is so much higher, I've got a competitor who pays eight cents less a gallon than I do. I'm lucky he's a small station."

"The only people who are sticking by us are the truehearted Texaco customers plus those people who don't have much choice. Like when I'm the only station open," Cook added. "Why should they pay more for self-serve than they can for full-serve down the street? They drive on through, and I don't blame them."

up and the last to come down."

Last week, Texaco reported a first-quarter net income of $137.27 million, a profit increase of 81 percent over last year.

Texaco wholesale distributor Thomas "Buck" Abraham agreed the situation isn't good, but he says customers don't always give the dealers a fair break.

"I don't know why everyone has to put a black hat on everybody in the oil business," he said.

Dale Maron, who runs a Texaco in Tyler says he's paying more for gasoline, but his regular customers keep him going.

"My prices are high, I'll be the first to admit it," he said. "But I've got to pass it on to the customer."

"And I'm still below ceiling."

Texaco spokesman Tom Norwood in Houston admitted the company is higher in price than many competitors, but said the increases are legitimate.

"I can appreciate that they (the dealers) are unhappy," he said. "We are unhappy with the situation in that we are having to allocate our product and all the while costs are going up continually."

"It's a bad deal for all of us," said Barney Crawford, another Tyler station operator, saying he has been stung by escalating lease prices. "I signed a 3-year lease 18 months ago and it really jumped then. Before then, I paid rent according to the number of gallons I pumped. It was an incentive to stay open 24 hours. But now, if I don't get but 20,000 gallons a month, I still gotta pay the same rent."

Jack Stults, a Dallas dealer said his rent "jumped from $1,300 to $1,800 a month."

"They're just getting rid of the dogs," Crawford said. "That way they can push the dealers with the high gallonage. I'm about to lose my faith."

Norwood said, "There is no basis for that at all."

"We operate basically in two main ways, using Texaco wholesalers and Texas retailers," he said. "We depend on each. It's 50-50. We have no intention of trying to close down stations."

But not all dealers are complaining about shaved-down allocations, and some have been able to turn the situation to their advantage.

Octane-level tags now required

Consumers may save money on gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Motorists alarmed about skyrocketing gasoline prices can minimize high driving costs by using new black-and-yellow tags going up on service station pumps.

The new tags show the octane of the gasoline and thus provide a way for the motorist to avoid the common practice of buying a gasoline with an unnecessarily high octane — and price.

"What we are talking about is perhaps a 2- or 3-cent reduction per gallon, which certainly won't offset every price increase," said Commissioner David Clanton of the Federal Trade Commission. "But it at least will help."

Octane rating is a measure of how well the gasoline will resist engine "knock," or uneven burning of gasoline. Persistent knocking eventually can damage an engine.

The FTC determined that many motorists, in an effort to avoid engine knock, waste money and put extra pollution into the air by buying gasoline that is higher in octane than needed.

"All of us have at least once bought a tank of high test instead of regular with the feeling that 'I'll get something special for the more expensive kind,'" said Commissioner Paul Rand Dixon. "But what you get is more lead on the cylinder walls and sparkplugs that are worn out sooner."

The new octane labels have been required on gasoline pumps since April 1, but many gas stations still don't have them in place. The FTC has said enforcement — backed by fines of up to $10,000 a day — will begin June 1.

The proper octane for nearly all cars is between 87 and 95. Regular grades of gasoline generally go up to 91 with higher-priced gasoline going higher.

To find the proper octane, the FTC recommends "using your own ears" in a trial-and-error method. Motorists can go down one step at a time to the lowest octane number where no "knocking" is found.

"Buying gasoline with a higher octane than is necessary can result in consumers spending extra money unnecessarily and wasting energy resources, with no benefit to their cars," Clanton said.

The FTC commissioner said the trial-and-error method is easy and more reliable than following owner's manuals. For one thing, some of the manuals use different ways of measuring octane and, for another, octane requirements can change as a car gets older, he said.

By using the new octane labels and the trial method of finding the best number, "consumers can simultaneously save money, conserve energy and protect their cars against possible engine damage," Clanton said.

The FTC designed the octane labeling program under the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act signed by President Carter last June. The Department of Energy already had an octane labeling regulation, but Congress found its enforcement was only sporadic and told the FTC to design a new and more effective program.

First scrutiny hearing in 12 years

Talmadge employees to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee is opening its first public scrutiny of a senator's ethics in 12 years by calling former and current employees of Sen. Herman Talmadge to testify.

The proceedings against Talmadge, who has been accused of financial misconduct, are the first held by the committee since its hearings in 1966 and 1967 that led to the censure of former Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn.

Before starting the hearings today, the committee told attorneys for the Georgia Democrat it would drop the proceedings if Talmadge would consent to censure. But that offer, made earlier this month after the attorneys asked the committee what it would take to end the case, never was accepted by Talmadge.

The leadoff witness for the hearing was expected to be T. Rogers Wade, Talmadge's current administrative assistant.

The committee also said it planned to hear from Rita Hubler, Talmadge's personal secretary; Allyne Tisdale, the senator's executive secretary and former campaign finance chairwoman; and Dathine Brunson, a former personal secretary.

Talmadge, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and the No. 2 ranking Democrat on the powerful Finance Committee, faced five allegations relating to his financial conduct.

The committee has accused the 22-year Senate veteran of violating Senate rules by converting campaign contributions to his own use, of submitting incorrect expense vouchers, of filing false reports of receipts and expenditures, of gifts and property owned and of incorrectly reporting taxes on gifts to his former wife.

Talmadge has denied the allegations.

The Talmadge hearing was only one of several events on Capitol Hill as the House and Senate began another work week.

The House Armed Services Committee was expected today to take the first vote in Congress on restoration of the military draft.

Thunderstorms hit South Texas again

By the Associated Press

Heavy thunderstorms hit South Texas Sunday, knocking out power to thousands of residents in Victoria County and inundating Brownsville with almost 2 inches of rain and Victoria with 3 inches.

Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour buffeted Guadalupe, a community 7 miles south of Victoria. Winds were clocked at 59 mph at the Victoria airport.

Some hail also was reported.

Electricity was restored by early today at Victoria.

The heavier storms

moved into the western Gulf of Mexico, although some showers were falling early today on the lower Texas coast.

Scattered light showers fell over portions of West Texas early today, but rainfall amounts were of .10 of an inch and less in most places. Heavier rain was falling in southern and western sections of the South Plains.

A heavy layer of clouds kept temperatures in the cool to mild range over much of Texas this morning. Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from near 70 in extreme South Texas to around 50 at Dalhart and Tyler.

Andre's off again

BOSTON (AP) — Like any public figure after an 18-year career, Andre the Seal is getting ready to train a replacement.

Andre, the 220-pound, 18-year-old harbor seal, is scheduled Wednesday to leave his winter berth at the New England Aquarium for his sixth 160-mile swim from Marblehead, Mass., to his summer home, Rockport, Maine.

Once he gets to Rockport harbor, Andre is expected to find a friend, Cabot Spot, his companion throughout the winter at the aquarium.

Cabot Spot will be flown to Maine where he was discovered, apparently orphaned, last year.

The aquarium people hope Andre will teach Cabot Spot the finer points of navigation and bring him back when he swims to Boston after the summer, according to aquarium official Carla Skinder.

"The little guy isn't even trained yet," she said.

Cab ride unfog-etable

BOSTON (AP) — Imagine the surprise New York cab driver Scott Max got when a woman in a hurry piled into his taxi and said something like "Hynes Auditorium in Boston. And step on it."

That was the scenario Saturday afternoon when the Metropolitan Opera laid out $337.50 plus tip for prima diva Maria Ewing's 200-mile ride after Boston's Logan International Airport was fogged in. She was to sing in the Met's Boston production of "Dialogues of the Carmelites," curtain at 8:30 p.m. At 4:30 p.m., she hailed Max, who got her to the auditorium only 20 minutes late — the last 38 miles flanked by a state police escort.

Met officials did not disclose the size of Max's tip, how much he got to drive back to New York City, or if he stayed to see the show.

Prof pooh poohs perfection

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Professor Raymond K. Tucker freely admits he's encouraging mediocrity when he advises people to forget about trying to always do their best.

"If we do the best we can under all circumstances, then we just won't get much done in life," Tucker contends. "Besides, our best isn't necessary."

Tucker says his anti-perfection formula, which calls for taking 10 percent or less of the time required to do a job perfectly, can be applied to any project.

To prove his point, he began testing his formula under a variety of circumstances at Bowling Green State University and elsewhere.

In one experiment, he assigned students to compose and deliver a 10-minute speech. The students were divided into 10 groups and given different lengths of time to prepare and rehearse, ranging from one hour for group one to 10 hours for group 10.

Less hunger in rural America, study shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teams of doctors touring the rural backwaters and urban slums of America found far less hunger there than similar groups encountered 10 years ago, according to a new study.

The Field Foundation report, being delivered today to the nutrition subcommittee of the Senate Agriculture Committee, concluded that the billions of dollars spent in a 10-year federal government war on hunger were largely effective.

Much of the impetus for those federal programs came from debate sparked by a 1967 Field Foundation report.

The new report says hunger has not been erased and suggests that in terms of jobs, housing and medical attention, "the facts of life for Americans living in poverty remain as dark or darker than they were 10 years ago."

"But, in the area of food, there is a difference," it said.

The report released today was based on surveys taken in 1977 by some of the same doctors who compiled the material used in the 1967 study, which concluded that "hunger is a daily fact of life" for thousands of children.

The followup study found a markedly different situation.

"Our first and overwhelming impression is that there are far fewer grossly malnourished people in this country today than there were 10 years ago," the doctors wrote.

They said hungry children like those found in 1967 "are not to be seen in such numbers."

A summary accompanying the six teams' 1977 findings for the New York-based private research foundation, said, "The doctors' findings suggest that food-aid programs may represent one of the unsung, yet most effective anti-poverty efforts of the last 15 years."

The summary, written by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Nick Kotz, said the "second principal conclusion was that, while federal food assistance has made a difference, it still is far from adequate."

Hunger and infant death rates have declined, the doctors said, but no one yet knows whether anyone, poor or not, receives all the essential nutrients scientists recommend for healthy lives.

Kotz said the worst nutritional problems are still found among Indians in the South and Southwest, "but there has been 'progress' even in this distressed area."

One example cited from the 1977 survey was of a revisited Mississippi Delta shack. It was still crowded, housing four adults and six young children. It still had no plumbing and the only heat was from open fires.

But not everything was the same.

"In the one working refrigerator, there was fresh milk and meat," the new study said. "This food, purchased with food stamps, was the one difference from the situation 10 years ago, and the children's health and liveliness reflected this."

In fact, food stamps have made "a crucial difference" nationwide, the new report concluded.

The food stamp program was a pilot effort in 1968 that reached 2.88 million persons. Today it is a national program benefiting more than 18 million people at an annual cost of about $7 billion and is the cornerstone of the federal government's $10 billion annual program for helping feed the poor.

Free or reduced-price school lunches that reached 3.3 million children in fiscal year 1969 now are eaten by more than 12 million. Free school breakfasts, eaten by 330,000 then, now are served to about 3 million youngsters.

Nothing works in inflation fight

Each and every one of us feel some satisfaction when we learn the price is going up on a community we've never used, or have learned to do without.

That applies to tobacco, liquid refreshment, mink coats, Rolls Royce automobiles and yachts as well as Chinese incense and abacus sets. We console ourselves with the thought that those consumers are just going to have to dig a little deeper in order to make do.

The ravages of inflation spare none of us, however. The economic struggle excludes no necessities of life and all Americans are in combat with the problem of trying to keep the wolf at a safe distance.

We all watch, some in utter horror, as inflation moves relentlessly upward, week after week, month after month. Food, housing, clothing and fuel for our cars and our homes — those are the areas inevitably hit, where families and small businesses are in constant retreat.

The story in March didn't vary much from those in preceding months — the cost of living advanced one percent. With the 1.2 percent increase reported for February, that means that the inflation rate could jump 13 percent, maybe more, in a year's time.

As the inflation bite worsens, the demands of organized labor will be for greater pay increases. This can only aggravate the problem more.

Chronic inflation in those areas of the economy that touch daily lives will have a profound effect on the nation as a whole. One has only to look back at the statistics to understand how ingrained and persistent the problem really is.

CONSIDER THE record for the decade ending in 1978: Gasoline, up 102 percent, with built-in shocks guaranteed; electricity, up 102 percent on the average; natural gas, up 176 percent; auto insurance, up 119 percent and all but obtainable in some areas; auto repair, up 126 percent; postage, up 157 percent; home repair; up 160 percent; fuel oil, up 200 percent; hospital rooms, up 244 percent; coffee, up 272 percent; soft drinks, up 123 percent.

The list goes on and on but effects everything used by Americans.

Exercise of controls and incentives has not been practiced with any great skill by the government, which is the reason the government has not tried a system of wage and price controls. At the same time, the technique of persuasion tried by the Carter Administration has not worked, either.

In time, the government will have to exert greater influence in the market place. That time may come only when the consumer and business cry out for such restraints.

Worst luck ever

Around the rim

Carla Walker

We could have brought back 752 fish, but 720 of them would have had a terrible odor.

I went fishing last week with my uncle and aunt — Johnie and Myrtle Walker — and we had just about the worst luck ever on a fishing trip.

The 720 fish were perch bought by Uncle Johnie locally, and transported to Lake Corpus Christi at Mathis for the purpose of baiting trotlines.

We left Friday morning, and arrived in Mathis after eight hours of straight driving with only stops to change drivers and fill the gas tank.

NOT ONE perch died on the way down, with the help of an aerator pump, and we lowered the cage and perch into the water near our camp. During the night, a ferocious storm hit, driving the baitbox up on the rocks. The next morning, we discovered that a great many of the perch were dead, but the water was still too rough to do more than look in through the top and move the box to a slightly more protected place.

When the wind finally subsided, we discovered only about 20 perch still alive. That was Sunday evening, and we had time to set out only one trotline between the time the lake calmed and darkness fell.

Upon running our line Monday morning, there was only one perch still swimming. We set out three more deep lines and two shallow lines, before returning to the cabin, where we continued our pastimes of the past several days — reading, sleeping, eating and playing dominoes.

Running the lines morning and night until Wednesday morning, we had still only brought in 32 fish, a little more than 40 pounds, including two bass and some small catfish caught on a rod and reel.

Although we had planned to stay until Friday, the weather forecast was calling for rain and high winds so we took up our lines and headed back for Big Spring Wednesday afternoon. We got here about 9 a.m., tired and glad to be home.

IN SPITE of it all, though, we had fun; I enjoyed being outside — I spent a lot of time out in the sun, as evidenced by my sun-blistered and scabbed-over ears. We ate pretty well the entire trip, as Aunt Myrtle did most of the cooking while Uncle Johnie and I were out running the lines. I'd have liked to have stayed longer if the weather would have been good; but, the fish weren't biting and I didn't want to spend two more days sitting inside because of wind and rain, then chance having to leave our lines in the lake when the water was too rough to get them out.

After I got back, I got a report on the Herald Extras softball team. In spite of three losses, the team is pretty good, and we plan to work out pretty hard for our next games. And, with our head cheerleader and concessioner Walt Finley (who cheers us with pom-poms and furnishes free refreshments for the team after each game), how can we lose?

Spills anger

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Apparently, Henry Kissinger will omit from his $5 million memoirs the conversations that would make the best reading.

The urban and witty foreign policy wizard sometimes has a loose tongue. While he presided over U.S. foreign affairs, most of his telephone calls and bankroom conversations were transcribed and classified. He's now taking pains to delete the most indiscreet remarks from his forthcoming memoirs.

One of the censored conversations was with Shirley Temple Black, the former child star who became ambassador to Ghana. We have had access to the classified transcript, which is dated March 3, 1976.

KISSINGER WAS seething over Cuban intervention in Africa. "Cuba is a miserable, two-bit Caribbean country," he snorted. "It is contributing to a racial war that could be transported to the Western Hemisphere..."

He anticipated that the Cubans would intervene in the black uprising in Rhodesia. "When the Cubans go into Rhodesia," he said grimly, "I may want to get involved, even if I no one else does."

He explained that his attitude "has nothing to do" with favoring the white minority. "If the Africans want to make was over that question," Kissinger said, "there is no problem for us. But if Cuba is involved, there is."

"The thing that brings blood to my eye is Cuban involvement," Kissinger retorted.

He complained that Africans didn't understand the implications of Cuban intervention in Africa. "It is not an African problem," he said, "it is a geo-political problem. South African involvement in Angola was very damaging. It is very unfortunate that they came in. If we could have hired mercenaries, South Africa could have stayed out."

He grumbled about his inability to block the Soviet-Cuban subversion of Angola. "For several reasons, Angola was a disaster for the United States," he said. "There is no substitute for winning. In a case like this, we are the victims of our own impotence."

Ambassador Black reported that she had consulted with top officials in the White House, State Department and Central Intelligence Agency. "I have asked everyone what I can say about our position with regard to southern Africa."

"What did they tell you?" Kissinger asked derisively. "I told the president this morning that never has history been made by so many mediocrities. Well, if that is our style, that is what we must do."

THE TWO DISCUSSED Kissinger's plans to make a 12-day tour of Africa. "Twelve days in Africa will drive me to drink," he lamented. "I have yet to meet a foreign minister with whom I have more than 45 minutes of real conversation."

"I think you would have no trouble talking to Ghanians," Mrs. Black replied. "Foreign Minister Felli is a most interesting man."

"Boredom is not a problem..." Kissinger sighed. "The question is how to cover all these countries." He couldn't leave, he said, before March 19.

"Come on the 23rd," Mrs. Black urged. "It is my birthday."

"You are a Taurus," noted Kissinger.

"That is why I am so pushy," she confessed.

"I am a Gemini," volunteered Kissinger. "That means I am two-faced."

Get expert advice on flatfoot surgery

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My husband and I would appreciate your opinion on surgery for lengthening the muscles in the back of the calf to correct flat feet on a three-year-old child. One doctor said that although surgery can be performed in later years, small children heal faster than adults. Therefore he suggests that now is the time. Is this common practice for correcting flat feet? We are upset and confused about all this, but want to do the right thing. — Mrs. A.H.

This is a difficult situation to give advice about. There are many types of flat feet and causes for them. One type is associated with a spastic (tight) peroneal tendon, and lengthening this tendon is one corrective procedure. Often flat feet are caused by improper fusing of certain bones in the bottom of the foot. That can also be corrected surgically. Such abnormalities are hard to diagnose by X-rays. Special techniques (tomography) may be needed.

Some doctors have an operation for everything. But most are conservative in this area unless there is a great deal of obvious deformity (besides just flat feet). Corrective shoes, exercises and adhesive strappings are tried first. If there is pain and the strain continues into adolescence, then surgery may be appropriate.

Before making a decision on surgery, be sure the tot is seen by an orthopedic doctor who specializes in childhood disorders of this kind. There should be no problem with the surgery if it is necessary. The general rule is that such surgery (if really needed) is best done at an early age.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I began vomiting after eating. After many tests an ulcer was ruled out. I was given Tagamet. Later the vomiting recurred. I have no pain, but the doctor recommends removing my gall bladder because X-rays did show some small stones. I am a senior citizen, a diabetic, but that is under control with Diabinese. Would the stones be causing the vomiting, even though I have no pain, nausea or fever? — S.P.

The vomiting (without pain) is not likely to be caused by gallstones.

From your letter I gather that the Tagamet (cimetidine) gave you relief since you speak of the vomiting as having "recurred." Sometimes ulcers in a certain area of the stomach or duodenum (first section of small bowel) can cause vomiting as the only symptom. These are frequently difficult to find by X-ray. I would continue to look for some other cause than gallstones for your distress. Surgery is recommended for stones that do create problems, and sometimes when a gall bladder is removed, symptoms apparently unrelated to it may disappear. But gallstone symptoms usually include pain in the right upper abdomen, jaundice (yellowness) and fever. Diabetes should not be a factor since you say it is under control.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been slightly knock-kneed all my life. Now that I am older (45) I hate it more each passing year. Besides, I've developed fat knees, which makes things look worse. Would surgery finally correct this, something I've always wanted? — Mrs. T.L.

I doubt it would be the answer at your age. By now your bone structure is pretty well established. You can help the fat knees, though, by using some weight.

Dear Dr. Ruble: We have three unrelated female friends who sneeze and get puffy-eyed when they visit our home. We also have a male Siamese cat. We believe these ladies are allergic to our cat. Is there anything we can do to make the ladies more comfortable in our home? Our cat is part of our family and we won't part with him. We've sprayed with Lysol and put the cat in an upstairs bedroom, but this doesn't help. — J.E.P.

Allergy to animal dander is not uncommon, but the odds are against three unrelated persons entering your home together and each one being sensitive to your cat. Yet it is possible. If this is the problem, check with a veterinarian or pet store. An effective spray shampoo is available to control cat dander.

Dear Dr. Ruble: When I got married I was shocked that my husband would eat baked potatoes, skins and all. He says there's no harm and that I miss a lot of nutrition by discarding the skins. True? — Mrs. P.R.

Nothing at all wrong with this. There are a bit more nutrients and vitamins obtained when the skin is eaten.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Ruble's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to become a Christian, but I am confused by all the various denominations and ideas. Where should I start in my search? — S.D.

DEAR S.D.: Your spiritual hunger shows that you are a sincere and really want to come to know God personally. The Bible promises, "You will seek me and find me when you seek me with all your heart" (Jeremiah 29:13). The Bible also tells us that God "rewards those who earnestly seek him" (Hebrews 11:6, New International Version).

I gather that you have little religious background. I cannot blame you for being bewildered at the various denominations you see. It is true there are some differences between various groups, but it is also important for you to know that all Christians hold certain essential convictions in common. Also, remember that becoming a Christian is not just a matter of joining a church, although that will be something you will want to do.

God's Word, the Bible, tells us what it means to be Christians, and how you can become one. The Bible tells us first that we need God because we have sinned against Him and are separated from Him. The Bible also tells us that we cannot bridge the gap between ourselves and God by trying to be good, because God is completely holy. But the Bible tells us too that God loves us. You see, God is a person — He loves you and He wants you to love Him.

How do we know God loves us? Because He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to die on the Cross for our sins. In a way that we cannot fully understand, Jesus Christ — the sinless Son of God — took our sins upon Himself. We deserved to die on that Cross but Christ died in our place.

What must you do? Respond to what God has done for you in Christ. By a simple act of faith, turn to God. Tell Him you are sorry for your sins and want to turn from them. Then ask Jesus Christ to come into your heart and life as your Savior and Lord.

If you do that, you can know you are a child of God. "To all who received him, to those who believe in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12, NIV).

Window shades save energy

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Window shades do powerful "blocking" — for energy-saving touchdowns.

They block out heat during summertime and block in heat during winter months.

Opaque, light-colored shades block air flow better than draperies and venetian blinds, saving up to 21 cents on every home-cooling dollar and eight cents on each home-heating dollar.

Since glass in windows conducts heat, window shades save energy by blocking the passage of heat through the glass itself. Window shades reduce heat gain in a home from the summer sun by 63 percent, and they prevent 24-31 percent heat loss in the winter.

For maximum energy-saving, install window shades inside the window frame about one inch from the glass. That sets up an effective barrier between the glass and the shade. The one-inch of dead air space acts as insulation.

Be sure the shade "fills" the window space as much as possible, leaving only the narrowest margin possible between the shade and the window frame.

For the biggest energy savings in the summer, pull shades down during hot, sunny parts of the day.

That will deflect the sun's hot rays and keep their heat from building up inside the house — and that will save home-cooling energy.

Raise the shades during early morning, evenings and nights — to allow cooler air inside and reduce the need for air conditioning.

For big energy savings during the winter, keep shades down during the coldest hours of the day — early morning, evenings and nights — to keep indoor heat locked inside the home. Raise the shades during the warmest parts of the day and let the sun's heat help warm the house.

Alcohol most abused drug

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Beer, wine and liquor are as much a part of the teenager's everyday life as home-work, french fries and disco music, according to a recent national survey of teen-age drinking, done by Research Triangle Institute of North Carolina.

Some 24 million high school students — large numbers of girls as well as boys — drink, the survey found, and three out of four teen-agers do so regularly.

In fact, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano has indicated, "The improper use of alcohol has become so prevalent among adolescents that 20 percent of high school seniors themselves admitted being outright drunk once a week."

That's more than double the number of a decade ago. Officials from the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) say they believe a majority of teens want to learn to drink responsibly. Unfortunately, they are largely unaware of the dangers of alcohol — which NIAAA officials say has now replaced marijuana as the most abused drug on campus.

Here are some of the questions and answers that teens wanted to know.

— Why do teen-agers drink so much?

Among the many reasons given for teen drinking is that they are exposed to tensions and problems in our high-pressure society, because those they admire drink and because we are now living in a drug-taking culture. But a University of Minnesota poll suggests that teens drink for the same reason responsible adults do — for recreation, enjoyment and relaxation.

— Can a 16-year-old be an alcoholic?

Yes. It's rare, but possible. There are also alcoholic 10-year-olds on record.

— Is it legal for minors to drink in a private home?

In some states, yes others forbid it for anyone under-age. Check with your local police.

— Having a beer or two can't cause problems, right?

Wrong. Most teens don't realize that one can of beer or a glass of wine contains as much alcohol as a cocktail. Even in moderate amounts, alcohol alters reflexes and hinders judgment and concentration.

Drinking can affect your problem-solving ability, your vision, your emotions and your memory.

— How do you avoid getting drunk?

Here's a rule of thumb: A 150-pound man who has no illnesses, is not overweight and has just eaten, can drink one ounce of 80-to-100 proof whiskey very slowly over an hour and feel no effect at all. And it takes about two to three hours for that ounce to be completely eliminated in a body that size.

A lighter-weight girl will reach a higher blood-alcohol level on the same amount of liquor.

If you are tired or are taking cold pills, tranquilizers or antihistamines, the effect of their combination with alcohol could be unpredictable and dangerous.

Founder's Day

Banquet held

Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met April 22 at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. The program, entitled

"Service," was introduced by Jan Sims and Verna Grimes.

Ray Wolverton, an RN from Hall-Bennett Hospital, gave a talk about Cardiac Pulmonary Resuscitation. Mr. Wolverton has been certified as a CPR instructor by the American Heart Association. CPR is used only on people who have experienced an unexpected sensation of life from a heart attack, strangulation by choking, drowning, electric shock, or other reasons. CPR has two basic functions: (1) to maintain the exchange of air, and (2) to maintain diastolic blood pressure. Several members practiced on dummies donated by the VA Medical Center and the Central Fire Station.

The Founder's Day Banquet was held Thursday at the Country Club. Woman of the Year, Pledge of the Year, Girl of the Year, and Beta Sigma Phi of the Year were named. His children, a multi-talented singing group from First Baptist Church, provided the entertainment.

Members planned a husband appreciation night May 12 at KC Steak House. The chapter will pick up the husband's tabs as an expression of appreciation for the time and effort they have donated to the sorority during the past year.

A party will be held May 19 at 2 p.m. at the Mountain View Lodge in honor of the residents there.

Doris Arcand won the hostess gift.

The next meeting will be May 8 at the home of Cynthia Zertuche. A Pledge Ritual will be held for Pat Tallant and Dene Anderson at that time.

Four County Young Homemakers have held a busy April schedule. On April 14 a one day volleyball tournament was held at the Sand's gym. Men's and women's teams were entered from surrounding towns. Teams taking home trophies from the women's division were: first place, Bob Brock, Big Spring; second place, O'Donnel; third place, Spars, Sparenburg.

Men's volleyball teams winning trophies were: first place, Spars; second place, Field and Newton, Stanton; third place, Broughton Implement, Big Spring.

The Young Homemakers held their regular meeting April 19. Kayla Gaskins of Knott presented a very informative and entertaining meeting on her trip to Poland.

Her trip was taken as a student of International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE). She went with students from various states around the U.S.

The IFYE students spent six months in an agriculturally oriented trip. Kayla's program consisted of film strips of the trip with time allotted for questions and discussing.

They purchased a digital blood pressure device for the Ackerly Ambulance. This was purchased with money made from projects carried out throughout the year. The equipment was presented to Mr. Roy Phemister of Ackerly for the ambulance service.

The Young Homemakers are in the process of planning of blood drive. The date and time of the drive will be announced at a later date.

The Rosebud Garden Club met April 22. Mrs. Tommy Hart was hostess for the meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Mr. Bill Draper demonstrated the technique of making a terrarium for Rosebud Garden Club members and guest, Mrs. Macy Schwartz.

Using a large glass bubble, he distributed one inch layer of gravel, a layer of filter charcoal, and soil mixture of 1-3rd each of top soil, vermiculite and peat moss. He chose plants that were compatible with each other as to water requirements. He decorated with ceramic figures, natural aquarium gravel, rocks and cedar.

Ordinary wood will not. Once established, a sealed terrarium will not need watering as long as it retains the moisture sealed therein.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery and Mrs. Henry Beckcom reported on the Texas Garden Club, Inc. Convention in Odessa April 4.

Golden Gardeners Awards were received by Jane Thomas and Mrs. Avery.

Mrs. Leola Edwards and Mrs. Edna Womack won first and second places respectively for their exhibitions in the Flower Show of Texas: 50th Flowering Year.

The members plan to tour Nature Trails in Comanche Trail Park May 22, and observe bird and animal life. Following this, they will meet at the center for a lecture by Mrs. C. A. Hollingsworth on contrived flowers.

Homemakers

plan show

The Centerpoint Extension Homemakers Club met April 24 with Lucile Petty, president, presiding, at the Kentwood Center.

Fifteen members and one visitor answered roll call with their blood type. Inez Petty presented the devotional from Psalm 19.

A rehearsal was held for the May 8 style show to be presented by the organization at 2 p.m. in the Kentwood Center. The public is invited to attend.

The District Meet attended by 12 members from the Howard County Clubs in Andrews April 17 was reported on by Fannie Kent.

Several members attended a workshop in Odessa Saturday in the Windwood Mall.

Door prize was won by Mrs. Nannie Garrett and refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. Lucile Petty and Inez Petty.

Beauceants

send memorials

The Social Order of the Beauceant met in regular stated meeting April 23 at the Masonic Hall.

The President Mrs. Steve Baker presided at the business meeting.

Memorials were sent to the Knights Templar Eye Foundation in memory of Sir Knight Willard Sullivan by Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. Tom Helton, and Mrs. Ralph LaLonde.

Plans were made for a record of all benevolent work of deeds, offerings, and talents to help others during the year by members. This record will be sent to the Supreme Assembly Chairman.

The Good of the Order talk was given by Mrs. Lee Porter.

Refreshments were served to members and Sir Knights by Mrs. Drew Dyer, Mrs. Eugene Gross, and Mrs. J.D. Thompson.

The next regular meeting will be May 14.

Past matrons

have breakfast

Large Easter baskets an Easter bunny and green nests of Easter eggs decorated the scene when the Past Matrons Club of Coahoma Chapter 499, Order of the Eastern Star met for breakfast April 14 at the First Methodist Church, Coahoma.

The table was laid with white cloth topped with chocolate eggs and Easter napkins in conjunction with the Easter theme.

Eula Bess, Westmoreland president, presided and gave the invocation. A memorial for Viola O'Daniel who was a charter member was given.

Presenting the Easter Story to the 11 members and one guest, Faye Borth, was Jane Headrick.

The past matrons will meet again May 5 with Norma Grant acting as hostess.

New art exhibit at local museum

Susan Lewis, interim exhibits chairman of the Heritage Museum has announced a new art exhibit now on display at the museum.

Students from Big Spring's elementary, middle and senior high school as well as students from St. Mary's and Forsan High School have created art displays including pastels, water color, collages, mixed media, crayola, ceramic and dimensionals.

Pupils have been working on their art since early March.

On display now is the elementary exhibit. Beginning May 4, the middle schools will display their exhibits May 11-17, the senior high schools will show their works of art.

Highlighting the special exhibits will be a Best of Show display May 18-24.

Other members of the interim exhibits committee include Jane Thomas, Ann Turner and Chub McGibbon.

He Won't Accept Her Gift of Gab

DEAR ABBY: What's my problem? My husband doesn't want me to talk to him. Gerhard asks me not to talk to him during mealtime because he's "busy" eating. He doesn't want me to talk to him while he's driving because he's "busy" driving. And God forbid I should try to talk to him while he's reading or watching TV!

Abby, this is very hard on me because I come from a large, talkative Jewish family and I love to talk. Gerhard is half Norwegian and half German. (Cold and bossy.)

He calls me from work every day to find out what was in the mail. Then I get to talk.

Please put this in your column. Gerhard never misses "Dear Abby," and it's the only way to tell him what I think.

ESTHER IN FLATBUSH

DEAR ESTHER: If this is the only way of telling Gerhard what you think, face it, Esther, your marriage is finished in English, "kaput" in German, "ferdig" in Norwegian, and "in drerd" in Yiddish.

DEAR ABBY: What does a person do when a friend has lost a member of his family by suicide? It doesn't seem right to ignore the tragedy. Yet you can't write a note saying, "I was sorry to hear that your father shot himself." If I said, "shot himself accidentally," would that be better?

R.R. IN S.F.

DEAR R.R.: No. Just offer your condolences and don't mention the circumstances.

DEAR ABBY: We live in a first-class high-rise and pay high rent. We walk as lightly as possible so we don't disturb the tenants below us. We keep the volume on our TV low after 10 p.m., and ask our guests to keep the noise down out of consideration for our neighbors.

Last month a young couple moved in above us, and I've never heard such noisy people! And what sounds like stereo music goes continually — and very loud.

I complained to the manager, and she suggested I speak to them, so I went up and asked in a VERY nice way if they could be a little more quiet. They slammed the door in my face!

Since then, out of spite, they've been noisier than ever. I complained to the manager again. She said she was sorry but there was nothing she could do.

Our nerves are shot. We're not old grouches. We are reasonable people. What should we do? We have another two years to go on our lease.

NOWHERE TO TURN

DEAR NOWHERE: Assuming the apartment manager is not the owner, appeal to the owner of the building. If that doesn't bring results, hunt up another apartment. And about that lease — hunt up a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I have a lovely 17-year-old daughter who has been dating two boys — both 18 and from fine homes. These boys have slapped my daughter around when she does something they don't like. (Paying attention to other boys, for example.)

Is this considered normal adolescent behavior, or are these two boys potential wife abusers?

My daughter likes both boys very much. I say she is foolish to continue to put up with this kind of treatment. Do you think these boys need help?

TULSA MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Slapping girls around is definitely not normal adolescent behavior. But hanging around to be repeatedly slapped around is not normal either. Not only do the boys need help — so does your daughter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CURIOUS IN CHARLESTON, W.VA.: A kleptomaniac is a person who helps himself because he can't help himself.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dissidents call for end of steel-hauling strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The dissident Teamsters for a Democratic Union has called for a return to work following an end-the-strike vote by the largest steel-hauling local in the Teamsters union.

"Our committee's advocating that we not make a last ditch stand," an aide to TDU leader Ken Paff said in Detroit on Sunday after the 1,600-member Local 800 voted here to return to work.

The vote came as support for the month-long strike waned in the East, where some non-striking union members had already resumed hauling general freight and steel.

The strike had kept many of the Teamsters' estimated 17,000 steel haulers idle since April 1, and forced the layoff of some 6,000 mill workers because steel shipments were bottled up.

Steel haulers in Youngstown, Ohio, were scheduled to vote on a possible return to work today, IDU said.

Members of steel-hauling Local 92 in Canton, Ohio, voted Sunday to end the strike if holdout companies signed the agreement and agreed to immediate pay for six days' retroactive sick pay negotiated in the proposed agreement.

"In Gary (Ind.) they'll be in full operation Monday. In Detroit, Cleveland, Canton (Ohio) and Erie (Pa.) they don't think they're going to be able to hold up past Monday," one spokesman said.

The Teamsters' 300,000 drivers ended a 10-day walkout April 10, but steel haulers defied a back-to-work order, demanding a separate vote on their provisions in the proposed master freight agreement.

Local 800 Secretary-Treasurer Charles Carelli said work would not resume immediately at about 10 Pittsburgh-area National Steel Carriers members who had not settled as of Sunday. But he predicted quick agreements once other trucks started rolling.

The proposed contract offers company drivers and owner-operators a flat percentage of the gross revenue on long-distance loads.

Applying current freight rates to the proposed contract, an owner-operator's earnings hauling a 50,000-pound load of steel from Pittsburgh to Chicago would rise from $460 to $521, Carelli said.

A union member driving a company truck on the same trip would earn $185 instead of $159, he said.

Reunion set for June 22

Plans for the second annual Cannibal Draw Reunion are being formulated by H.M. Underwood, originator of the idea.

Those individuals who resided in the vicinity of Cannibal Draw, located in the east part of Big Spring near Austin Street, in the 1920s are getting special invitations to be on hand.

Underwood is mailing out 76 invitations, including several to people who were unable to be on hand for last year's program.

The reunion takes place starting at 6:30 p.m., Friday, June 22, in the Brandin' Iron Steak House on US 87 South. It will be a Dutch Treat meal.

Last year, 39 persons attending the reunion. Some of those present hadn't seen others since their high school days.

Underwood is seeking the addresses of six persons eligible to attend. They are Bill and Sam Flowers, Buster and Glen Wilkins and Cliff and Sidney Robinson. Underwood's telephone number is 267-8913.

Pair returned and charged

Gilbert Ike Coffee and Neva Coffee, 806 Johnson, were charged today with the aggravated robbery of Gaila Perkins, 21, 1300 Barnes St. Mrs. Perkins was reportedly beaten with a 18-inch metal stick at the suspects' home Friday evening. They then allegedly drove away in her car.

The pair were arrested at a road block in Sweetwater by Nolan County Deputy Sheriff Jerry Hefflin. They were returned to Big Spring city jail Saturday afternoon.

Bond was set at $50,000 each by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

Mrs. Perkins was released from Malone-Hogan Hospital Sunday morning.

For the record

An item appearing in Sunday's "Police Beat" concerning a minor wreck involving a vehicle belonging to Joann Mearns, 611 S. Nolan, was not in keeping with the facts, according to Ms. Mearns.

Ms. Mearns said she backed into another vehicle and no one associated with the incident left the scene until after the investigation was completed.

Digest

Rhode Island below norm

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Clerical workers in Rhode Island earn an average of $150 a week, making them the lowest paid clerical employees in the United States, says a survey conducted by Rhode Island Working Women.

The U.S. Labor Department lists the national average as $183 weekly. The survey, based on 150 responses to about 2,000 questionnaires, says, "while the cost of living rose 7.6 percent last year — 13 percent this quarter — pay increases averaged only 5.3 percent."

Brain disorders discovered

CHICAGO (AP) — Yale University researchers say most violent delinquents studied in a Connecticut reform school have brain or neurologic disorders or psychiatric problems.

Dr. Jonathan H. Pincus, a neurologist on the research team, said 96 percent of those studied had neurologic abnormalities, compared to 22 percent of a nonviolent group in the same institution. This suggests factors other than socioeconomic conditions may contribute to violent behavior in delinquents, Pincus reported at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Neurology.

No injuries in derailment

NEW LISBON, Wis. (AP) — No injuries were reported among the nearly 300 passengers aboard an Amtrak passenger train, en route from Chicago to Seattle, which derailed in a local switchyard.

Passengers said the train, with 13 cars including two engines, was moving slowly at the time of Sunday night's derailment. Witnesses said all the cars remained standing, but tilted. The Juneau County Sheriff's Department said the train's engineer was taken to a hospital with what appeared to be minor injuries.

FBI investigating death

ATLANTA (AP) — FBI agents are investigating the 11th killing in three years at the crowded Atlanta federal penitentiary. Prison spokesman William Noonan says no special security measures had been taken after Saturday night's stabbing of Harold W. Stansfield, 34, of Burlington, N.C.

Stansfield was serving a 14-year term for distributing narcotics. Extra security measures were instituted at the prison last year after a investigation requested by Rep. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga. The prison, designed to house 1,500 inmates, has operated with more than 2,000.

Leaks cannot be tolerated

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court cannot tolerate leaks of its opinions before it is ready to announce them to all the public at the same time, says Chief Justice Warren Burger.

"Very often the Supreme Court has cases involving great economic issues, where if someone had advance information, they could make a fortune," he said Saturday in response to a question. "Now if you break the security on an unimportant case, then you've laid the foundation for breaking the security — which means breaking the integrity of the court's process — for an important case. So this is something the court, no court, can ever tolerate."

Police beat

Assault victim hospitalized

A local man was hospitalized Saturday for injuries received after being assaulted by two unknown men on the playground of Airport Elementary School.

George Eickenhorst, 29, was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by ambulance following the 8:30 p.m. incident. He was released in good condition Sunday.

Two other assaults were reported over the weekend. Debra Ann Williams told police that a male acquaintance beat her in her home, 6 p.m. Saturday.

Donnie L. Morris reported that around 9:15 p.m. Sunday, an acquaintance threatened him with a knife.

Kendall Crawford Webb, 34, 1215 Lindberg, was arrested at 3 a.m. today when an officer noticed several guns lying on the floorboard of his vehicle. The man was found to be in possession of an assortment of pistols, shotguns and rifles. He faces charges of unlawful carrying of a weapon.

Criminal mischief resulted in damages to a number of residents and businesses over the weekend.

A large rock, discovered inside of Derrington Auto Parts, 300 N.E. 2nd, is believed to have been the instrument used to smash two large windows of the business sometime between 6:20 p.m. Saturday and 8:40 a.m. Sunday. Damage is estimated at $350.

A house under construction on Parkway was damaged Saturday and Sunday. Thompson Construction reported that a window and screen had been broken and holes punched in a wall and door. Total damage was set at $100.

Mrs. Cleo Byers reported to police that a residence of Crews Estate was damaged by unknown persons. She discovered two broken windows, six smashed light bulbs and damage to an antique radio at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. One of the windows had been shot up with a B B gun. Damage to the windows and light bulbs was estimated at $59. Value of the radio is unknown.

Bessie Trevino reported that a juvenile had broken a window of her residence, resulting in $5 damage, at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Guy Nagler, manager of Palmer House, found his motorcycle lying on the ground with oil running from it at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. He estimates the damage to be $50.

Someone's anger resulted in a broken mirror in the men's restroom of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. A man was reported to have smashed the mirror with his fists at 1:15 a.m. Sunday.

A gasoline thief had the gall to return for more according to the 7-11 on Hwy. 80 and Willis. The store reported to police that a woman filled up her tank with $7.40 worth of gas around 11:30 a.m. Saturday and then drove off without paying for it. The incident might have gone unreported except that the woman returned around 5 p.m. Sunday for more gas. She was denied.

Exxon North 87 Service Station also lost some gasoline. A person driving a large gray car allegedly filled up the tank Sunday evening and then drove off without paying the price, $14.

An electric lawnmower, valued at $150, was reported to have been stolen from James Burnett's yard between 5 p.m. Thursday and 6 p.m. Saturday.

An assortment of female clothes were taken from Virgel Burn's residence about 9:15 p.m. Saturday.

Nothing was missing from the home of Mateo Rodriguez Rios by burglars who broke in about 7 p.m. Saturday.

John Girdzus reported that his wallet was discovered missing from a locker at the YMCA 1 p.m. Saturday. The billfold was valued at $30.

Not all was lost during the weekend. A.L. Gatewood told police that around 9:35 a.m. Sunday, he had placed a briefcase on top of his wife's car just before she drove off. The case and contents were valued at $166. He called police again at 12:26 p.m. to report that someone had delivered the briefcase, with contents intact, to his front porch.

A two-car collision Sunday resulted in minor injuries received by Ruth Wilson, 35, a passenger in one of the vehicles. She was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital for treatment following the collision of Tommy Christian, 609 W. 16th, and Bert Wilson, IS Trailer Park No. 4, at 400 Aylford. Mrs. Wilson was treated and released.

Gary Martin, Box 7, Sterling City Rd., and Alma Willis, 538 Westover, collided their vehicles at 15th and Gregg, 9:21 p.m. Saturday.

That same intersection was the scene of another mishap Sunday when Terry Reddin, 1302 Wood, struck a power pole, 9:07 a.m. Damage to the pole is estimated at $50.

A reflector pole at 2700 Old West Hwy. was damaged at 7:06 a.m. when an unknown person struck it and then left the scene, leaving the car behind for the city to haul away.

Three accidents occurred within three minutes early Sunday morning.

Luvien Flores, 1404 Birdwell, and Mary Sekerak, 801 Marcy, collided at 7th and Lancaster, 1:35 a.m.

Also at 1:35 a.m., a vehicle driven by Kathy Turner, 2107 Scurry, struck a deer crossing the road at 1101 Stanford.

A guard rail was struck by Carrol Rossander, 1415 Wood, on South Gregg near Montgomery Wards at 1:38 a.m.

A vehicle owned by James Owens of Corpus Christi was struck by a hit and run driver while it was parked at Rip Griffin Truck Stop, 6:31 p.m. Sunday.

PUSHING IT BACK — Atlanta Hawks' Dan Roundfield (32) goes up to block a shot by Washington Bullets' Charles Johnson (15) in Sunday's playoff action in Landover, Md.

DeVincenzo adds to legend

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legends of Golf in just its second year is fast earning a reputation for legendary finishes.

In 1978, it was Sam Snead knocking home birdie putts on the final three holes to earn himself and partner Gardner Dickinson the $100,000 first prize.

Sunday, it was Roberto DeVincenzo who made five straight birdies, climaxed by a five-foot putt on the sixth hole of sudden death to put $70,000 into the bank for DeVincenzo and Julius Boros, outlasting Art Wall and Tommy Bolt.

It was a wild, improbable day, with Dick Mayer and Fred Haas Jr. blowing a 4-shot lead with an even-par round of 70. Haas, who lost the heads to his three and four woods when his caddy drove a golf cart into a gallery rope, was assessed a 2-stroke penalty on the final green.

A birdie putt that could have tied Haas and Mayer at 15-under par 195 stopped just short and Haas excitedly flipped his putter into the air — and hit the ball. His partner picked up so they took a 7.

Boros and DeVincenzo had to birdie the last three holes to tie Wall. Wall made his 36th ace to get his team into the playoff with a birdie deuce on the 53rd hole.

Both teams shot final round 7-under-par 63s over the rainsodden par 70 Onion Creek Country Club course.

"I never was in a playoff or anything else like this," said the 59-year-old Boros.

"I am a terrible putter... I didn't make one for 54 holes until the playoff," said Argentina's DeVincenzo.

SMU snags trophy

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The Southern Methodist University Mustangs captured the 1979 Southwest Conference tennis championship with a vengeance here Sunday.

SMU went into the final day with enough accumulated points to have won the title even if they had lost every match Sunday, but the Mustang netters took seven of the day's nine matches to cement their crown.

In the day's feature match, second-seeded Jai DiLouie of SMU beat top-seeded Kevin Curen of Texas for the second time this season. DiLouie broke Curen's serve six times on the way to a 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 singles win, one of the highlights of the rain-dampened tourney.

The rain forced part of Sunday's action indoors, which DiLouie appreciated.

"It was a big advantage for me when we moved indoors," he said. "The slower court took away from Kevin's serve, and with the bad weather we've had in Dallas this spring we were more acclimated to playing indoors."

Curen, however, came back to team with Steve Denton and capture the doubles crown, beating the Arkansas team of Peter Hawking and Buddy Bowman in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2.

White speaks

LAMESA — Danny White, punter and reserve quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, will be the featured speaker at the annual Optimist Youth Appreciation banquet scheduled Monday, May 7, at the Lamesa High School Student Center.

White, a native of Mesa, Ariz., formerly played in the World Football League.

White piled up considerable playing time two seasons ago when Roger Staubach, the Cowboys' regular quarterback, was hurt.

Tickets to the banquet will be $7.50 each.

Coahoma lauds Little League

COAHOMA — Coahoma Mayor E.A. Richters has declared this Little League Week in Coahoma.

All friends of baseball and the Coahoma youth are being urged by Richters to devote some time toward beautifying the Little League park, whether they wield a hoe, a lawn mower or a hammer.

CLOSING IN ON RECORD — Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Don Sutton delivers a ninth inning pitch on the way to his 208th career win during the Dodgers 8-8 victory over the New York Mets at Shea Stadium in the first game of a doubleheader. Sutton needs just one more win to tie Dodgers great Don Drysdale as the all time winning pitcher in Dodgers history.

Spurs blow 13-point lead, 76ers win by 2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Cunningham remembered it as if it were yesterday.

Cunningham recalled 1967-68 when the Philadelphia 76ers led the Boston Celtics 3-1 in a best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series. But the Celtics came back and won the title.

Cunningham, now coach of the 76ers, talked about that season after his team rallied from a 13-point deficit in the final period to edge the San Antonio Spurs 92-90 Sunday.

The Philadelphia victory tied the best of seven set 3-3 after the Sixers had trailed 3-1. The seventh game will be Wednesday night in San Antonio.

Cunningham hopes his 76ers will become the third team in NBA history to come back from a 3-1 deficit to win. The Los Angeles Lakers were the other in 1970 over Phoenix.

And also, if you're a believer in omens, or superstitions, history shows that the Spurs in nine tries have never won a seven-game series, counting their time in the old American Basketball Association.

The 76ers took a strange route to victory as they went 6:32 without a field goal and 5:07 with nary a point as the Spurs built an 11-point lead in the third period, and led by 13 with 10:43 to play.

Philadelphia appeared ready for a summer vacation.

"No, we weren't thinking of going on vacation," said Julius Erving. "I knew we were down a lot, but we got a spurt going."

The 76ers outscored the Spurs 8-0 and soon led 85-84 with 4:05 left.

The lead changed hands five times after that, with James Silas giving the Spurs a 90-89 edge with 20 seconds on the clock. Philadelphia called time out.

"The play was designed to go to Dr. J. (Erving)," said rookie Maurice Cheeks. "But he told me he was going to be double-teamed. I slid down the lane, got down low. I knew there were a lot of big guys around me, but I really didn't feel any pressure."

Erving was double-teamed after taking a pass from Cheeks, and shot the ball back to the 6-foot-1 rookie, who spun and laid in a left-handed layup for the winning basket.

Carter can't veto Hayes and Dandridge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even with President Carter in the stands rooting against them, Bobby Dandridge and Elvin Hayes have shown they get their act together when the money's on the table.

Forwards Dandridge and Hayes combined Sunday for 68 points, 23 in the final quarter, to power the defending champion Washington Bullets to a 100-94 victory over the tenacious Atlanta Hawks and into the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference championship.

The Bullets will play at home Friday night and Sunday against the winner of the Philadelphia-San Antonio series, now tied 3-3, which will be concluded in Texas on Wednesday.

"It was a man's game out there today," said Washington Coach Dick Motta after the game that gave the Bullets a 4-3 edge in the best-of-seven series. "It was no place out there for the weak at heart."

Dandridge scored 17 of his 29 points in the final quarter and Hayes was the game's high scorer with 39 points, six in the last period. John Drew led the Hawks with 24 while Terry Furlow had 21.

"This is the toughest seven-game series that wasn't for all the money that I ever played in," said Dandridge. "Atlanta gave us everything we needed and then some."

The Bullets suffered once more from the inability of their guards to score. At one point, the Washington guards had hit on only two of 23 attempts, but Phil Chenier and Larry Wright came off the bench to make four quick baskets to boost the Bullets' spirits.

Pirates quit losing to Astros

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Houston Astros have enjoyed April. The Pittsburgh Pirates have endured it.

But the Pirates prevailed here Sunday, beating Houston 10-5 behind the long, emergency relief pitching of Bruce Kison and three RBIs each by Willie Stargell and Omar Moreno.

"You don't keep good hitters down all the time, just like you don't beat good clubs all the time," said Manager Bill Virdon of the Astros, who'd downed Pittsburgh in four of four prior games this season.

"I just wish they had waited another day," added

Virdon, whose Astros are off to their best start ever, 14-6, and lead the National League West by 3½ games.

The Pirates, idle today, are last in NL East with a 7-11 mark.

"If we get the pitching and the hitting going together — like we did today — we'll be alright," said Manager Chuck Tanner.

"The talent — it's here," said Stargell. "People will know it before too long."

In the first inning, Houston leadoff batter Terry Puhl slammed a homer off Pirate starting pitcher Don Robinson, who exited the game after that because of a shoulder problem.

Green's a winner, but he's erratic

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hubert Green pocketed the $45,000 winner's check from the Greater New Orleans Open, reflected briefly on his erratic golf game and began a week's vacation.

"I've won two tournaments this year and missed the cut three times, and that doesn't fit in the boat very well," he said.

His victory Sunday gave him total season earnings of $127,357, making this the seventh consecutive year in which he won more than $100,000. It was his second victory of the season, giving him 16 tournament victories for his eight-year career.

He opened his season with a victory in the Hawaiian Open, then hit a dry spell before placing 10th in both the Masters and the Tournament of Champions and 11th in the Heritage Classic.

"I guess I'm like the little girl with the curl; when I'm good, I'm very, very good, and when I'm bad, I'm horrible," he said.

He said he was lucky, rather than good, on Sunday.

"I did not drive the ball well, and usually driving is the best part of my game," he said. "I was embarrassed at the way I came in. I was lucky to win."

Green went into Sunday's final round 2 strokes behind Curtis Strange and 1 behind Frank Conner and Lee Trevino.

He shot a 68, giving him a 72-hole total of 273, 15 under par. That put him 1 stroke ahead of Trevino, Conner, Steve Melnyk and Bruce Lietzke and 2 strokes up on Strange, Calvin Peete and Bob Gilder.

JUMBLE

THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME by Henri Arnold and Bob Lee

Unscramble these four Jumbles, one letter to each square, to form four ordinary words.

STUMY
GUMPSY

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.

Saturday's Jumbles: NEEDY CATCH LARYNX HEIFER
Answer: Gave 'em all a hand—THE DEALER

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 1, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite problems of an emotional or business nature, you will be able to get your health in better shape. Convince one in power that a course of action you want to take is the right one. Keep clear-headed and objective.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The situation at home is tense, but if you focus on the practical, it will soon better itself. Talk matters over with a financial expert who can help you a great deal. Take no chances with credit.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You need advice in handling personal affairs, so seek an expert early. Evening fine for being with congenials. Pay bills on time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle problems that you have early and then forget about them. A bigwig you know can give you backing that is most helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get rid of that martyrdom complex and busy yourself at the practical and get good results, become more affluent.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make a good impression on a bigwig by showing your particular talents and get backing you need. Show that you are conscientious in handling credit affairs. Make sure your records are correct.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Conditions around you are changing radically, so be sure to benefit from them. Get out to new places of recreation with good friends. Stay within your budget, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although the situation does not seem favorable in business affairs, this is only the surface, so cheer up. Show more affection for loved ones this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can be benefited by new outlets, so be on the alert. Neighbors could be annoying, but a bigwig helps you out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A loved may be irate and needs understanding. A debt could be troubling you but look to higher-ups and the government for aid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be more tactful in dealing with partners who are in a strange mood now. A close tie could prove difficult but it is due to some sort of pressure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to persevere where your practical affairs are concerned and you get much done. Get into some hobby you like later that will take away that tired feeling.

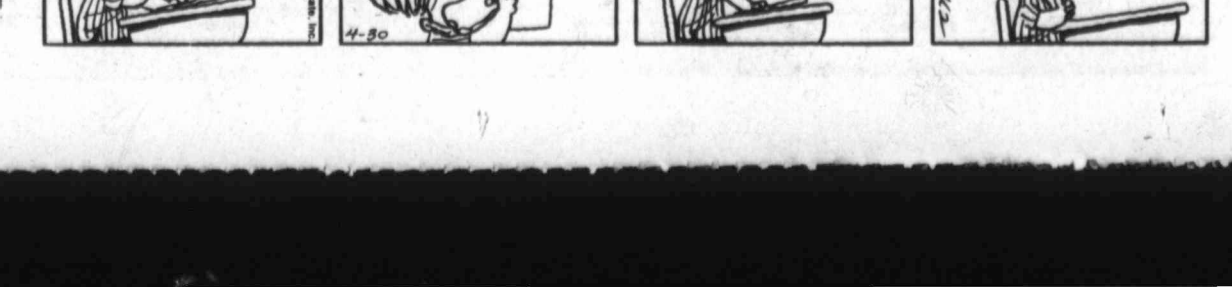

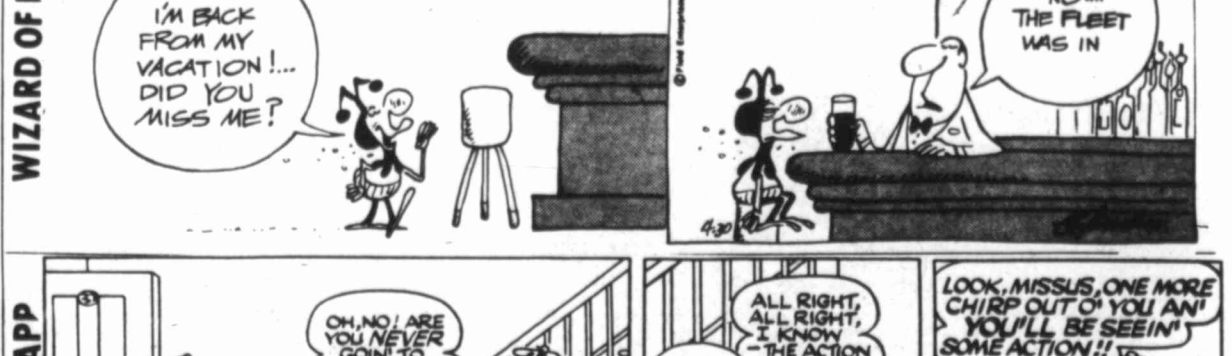

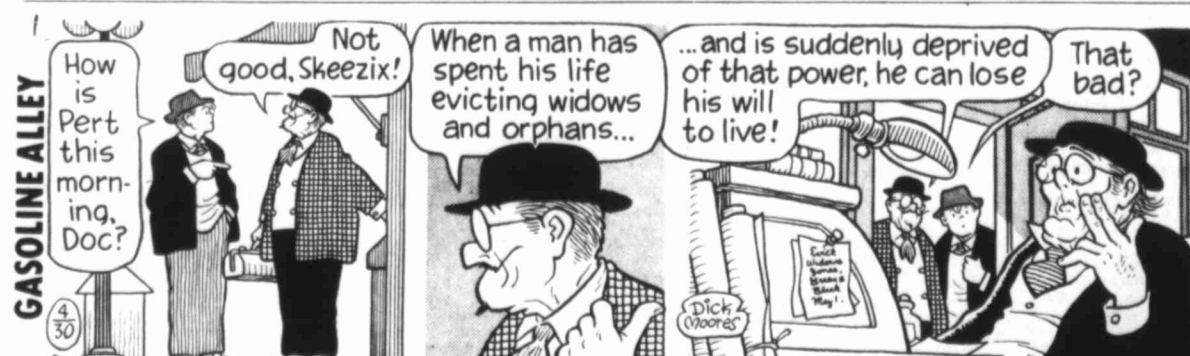

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care you do not overspend for pleasure and take all the pleasure out of it. Work on special talents you possess and get good results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be good at whatever has to do with family and home and would do well in vocations where bringing harmony to homes is concerned. Teach to be more objective for best results throughout the lifetime.
