

Suit Charges Bids Fixed On School Buses

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson today filed an anti-trust suit accusing 16 Texas firms and individuals of rigging bids in the sale of school buses.

Wilson said some 5,100 buses costing $23 million are involved. The attorney general's suit asks 26th District Court Judge D. B. Wood of Georgetown to halt further transactions by the defendants and to assess penalties of up to $3.6 million against each of them. It covers a period from Jan. 1, 1955, to Aug. 16, 1961.

The civil suit is an outgrowth of an inquiry into school bus purchases by the State Board of Control. The probe started in June and included courts of inquiry in Dallas and Austin.

Named in the attorney general's petition are Ray Cowan, Gordon K. Allen Co., Austin Sales Co., Inc., Commercial Body Corporation, Superior Coach Sales of Texas, Inc., the Texacoach Co., Transportation Equipment Sales Co., Inc., Hurst Bus Sales Co., Phil Hudson and Hudson Body Co., Gordon K. Allen, Jack G. Fisk, Harold K. S. Gordon and Bentley and J. K. Hurst.

The petition alleges that since about Jan. 1, 1955, the defendants and others "have conspired to fix, maintain and increase the price at which school buses are sold in the State of Texas," (1) to restrict the sale of the school buses, (2) to "fix, maintain and increase the price at which school buses are sold in the State of Texas," (3) to prevent and lessen competition and (4) to enter into an agreement to engage in the sale of buses whose bodies are not manufactured by any company other than "the one with which each defendant had a distribution contract."

The suit alleges Cowan, a former employee of the State Board of Control, "is and has been the dominant figure and moving force in said combination and conspiracy." It says he was an assistant purchasing agent in charge of purchasing school buses before he went into the bus business in 1951.

The Board of Control buys school buses for all but 120 of the 1,516 school districts in Texas.

When a district requests buses through the agency, the board invites bids according to bus specifications. Successful bidders generally order a bus chassis from a chassis dealer, who delivers the chassis to the body manufacturer represented by the bidder. The manufacturer mounts the body on the chassis, then delivers the bus at the bidder's cost to the school district.

Wilson alleges Cowan sold to Transportation Equipment Sales Co., a distribution contract for "Onedie" bus bodies, for which Bentley gave him a $100,000 promissory note. He also alleged Cowan sold to Austin Sales Co. an exclusive franchise for "Blue Bird" bus bodies, for which he received from Fisk a note for $200,000.

The suit also claims Cowan sold Stroud all the stock of Texacoach Co. in exchange for a $200,000 promissory note.

"In each of these instances, the liability for the promissory notes was limited to and secured by all the stock of the corporations involved. None of the notes that have come due have been paid, according to testimony earlier in courts of inquiry," Wilson said.

The suit alleges Cowan used his lien against the stock of the three corporations, headed by Bentley, Fisk and Stroud, all of Austin, "to persuade and induce, and has persuaded and induced, defendants to agree to and comply with the terms of the conspiracy."

Wilson's suit accuses Cowan of enforcing compliance from the other defendants "by means of his ability to visit upon them economic reprisals in the form of price wars, which he could precipitate and effectuate by virtue of his strong economic hold and control over a major portion of the school bus business in the State of Texas."

Cuban's Plea Turned Down

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara tried to open the door today to Communist advisers for President Kennedy's $20-billion Alliance for Progress but ran into a stone wall.

Delegates from the other 20 American nations at the Inter-American Economic Conference brushed aside Guevara's proposals and in committee unanimously approved a 1,000-word "Declaration to the Peoples of America" summing up the new program of economic aid and self-help for Latin America. Cuba abstained.

The declaration is an abridgment of the 3,000-word Charter of Punta del Este which sets forth the principles of the program in detail. The shorter declaration was drawn up with the idea that it could be more easily understood by Latin America's masses.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Tuesday 84, low 64, today 82, clearing 81. North Central and Northeast Texas: Clear to partly cloudy and warm through Thursday. Few isolated showers. Low tonight 64 to 72. High Thursday 82 to 90. Northwest Texas: Clear to partly cloudy through Thursday. Few isolated showers. Low tonight 64 to 72. High Thursday 82 to 90. South Central Texas: Clear to partly cloudy through Thursday. Few isolated showers. Low tonight 64 to 72. High Thursday 82 to 90. South Texas: Partly cloudy and warm through Thursday with widely scattered afternoon and evening showers. Low tonight 64 to 72. High Thursday 82 to 90.

After approval at a conference plenary session today, both will be signed Thursday when the conference closes one day behind schedule.

There was speculation whether Guevara would sign for Cuba. But other Latin American delegates said even if he did, the U.S.-controlled agencies that will handle the bulk of the financing won't advance any funds to Cuba.

Guevara said his country cannot fully support the program until it gets a "clear and concise answer" from the United States whether Cuba is in or out of the alliance family. U.S. delegates steadfastly refused to commit themselves.

In the late night committee session that finally whittled the declaration into shape, Guevara made his pitch for Red technicians with an amendment saying that "experts"—could assist Latin American republics in their development schemes. This was interpreted as an attempt to give Soviet bloc and Red Chinese experts a foothold in countries that will receive U.S. aid under the program.

Guevara also proposed an amendment substituting a promise to promote all sectors of a nation's economy for a pledge to stimulate "private activity." This was an obvious effort to favor Socialist development and remove official support for private enterprise.

Both amendments failed for lack of a second after U.S. Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon warned that it would be "very difficult" for the U.S. public to understand a change eliminating the stimulation of private enterprise.

Robert Gray, chief of the space agency's field projects branch, reported slightly excessive velocity.

The second stage of the Thor-Delta booster rocket could send the payload a bit higher than planned.

Gray reported nearly two hours after launch that the vehicle was well on its way into space, transmitting clear signals.

With four large paddle wheels extending from its body and a 32-inch rod protruding from the top, the payload resembles the spinning vanes of a windmill.

The paddle wheels were covered with solar cells to capture energy from the sun. Atop the "normal" satellite circuit of about two hours.

More Limitations On Berlin Travel

By CARL HARTMAN
BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists cut down on already limited travel by their own citizens to Western Germany today.

It was their most vigorous interference with traffic between the two Germanys since Berlin's new crisis began.

The latest Berlin trouble was generated Sunday by barricades erected against East Berliners going into West Berlin and against West Berliners going east unless they get special permits. Today the clampdown was extended beyond Berlin to the borders between East and West Germany.

West German guards all along the border said the arrival of East German cars at crossing points practically stopped.

Freight trains and trucks were permitted to travel in both directions as before, and Westerners going into East Germany were allowed through as long as their papers were in order.

But East German guards on west-bound trains were ordered off at the West German border, even though they had visas and permits issued by Communist authorities.

At Helmstedt, chief rail and highway crossing near the middle of the 93-mile border, no East German cars were allowed through after midnight.

The East German government made no announcement concerning the situation. But it threatened Tuesday to put on another blockade like that in 1949-50 if West Germany cuts off East German trade in reprisal for the travel restrictions in Berlin.

Col. Andrei I. Solov'yev, commander of Soviet troops in Berlin, has taken no notice of the protest of the three Western commandants Tuesday against the new Iron Curtain across the city.

But he replied to an earlier protest against harassment of East Berlin workers commuting to the city from the West that the Communists were using the situation to their advantage.

The Western protest Tuesday said the barricades have turned the city into an armed camp in flagrant violation of Soviet agreements to maintain Berlin as a four-power city.

The Soviet note came as indignation swept West Berlin because of Allied opposition to drastic action against Communist closure of the divided city's border.

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commandant in Berlin, Solov'yev said: "The attempts of the commandant of the American garrison in Berlin to interfere with measures of the German Democratic Republic are completely inappropriate. These measures are exclusively within the competence of the government of the GDR and serve the rightful interests of the republic and its citizens."

The Soviet colonel said Watson was trying to extend to East Berlin "the out-lived occupation regime artificially supported by the American authorities in West Berlin."

Reports of Western reluctance to counter the Red closure with economic reprisals came in the wake of an East German threat to repeat the 1948-49 blockade if Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany cuts off trade with the East German regime.

Brandt Calls For Action From West

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin announced today he has sent a letter to President Kennedy telling him, "Berlin expects more than words, it expects political action."

Brandt told a cheering rally of 200,000 West Berliners about the letter.

"I said what we think in all frankness," he said.

Brandt said he wanted "high Western representatives to come to Berlin to see the situation for themselves, but did not name them."

To cheers and thunderous applause, Brandt declared that by sealing off the border in divided Berlin, the Communists were using the old capital as a lever to split the Allies.

"If the Communists are not stopped at the Brandenburg Gate they will not be stopped at the Rhine," he declared, referring to the famous gate standing as a marker between East and West Berlin.

The mood of West Berliners, impatient over Western Allied inaction, was reflected by Deputy Mayor Franz Arndt, who told the crowd:

"Protests are not enough." The crowd collected in front of Schoenberg Borough Hall, headquarters of the West Berlin city government.

The rally was called by Brandt with the support of trade unions. The protest made by the Western commandants "was good but we cannot just leave it at that," Brandt declared to stormy applause.

Some Areas Due Showers

Somber Police Mutilating Great City

EDITOR'S NOTE — Lynn Heinzel first went to Berlin in 1939 to report the first stages of World War II. He has spent the last 20 years in various parts of the world, and this year won the Pulitzer Prize for his reporting from Africa. Now he is back in Berlin—a far different Berlin. This is his story of the way the split city looks today.

By LYNN HEINZELING
BERLIN (AP)—The police and troops of Communist East Berlin went about their somber task of mutilating this great city under a matching sky today.

Dark, forbidding clouds lay over the city. Communist tanks and armored cars lurked behind an arbitrary dividing line.

The people's army, the people's police, the factory militia and the railway police barred some 80,000 East Berliners from their jobs across the line.

On Friedrichstrasse, one of the city's great business arteries, the Communists have put down what looks like a permanent barrier.

Great slabs of concrete are laid across the street in five knee-high barriers. Motorists must zigzag through the small openings as in an obstacle race to cross the line. Nobody in a hurry would make it.

There is an air of unreality about the business of trying to quarantine a major portion of a huge modern city. It is difficult to believe it is happening. But there is the barbed wire on front of the stately Brandenburg Gate to prove it.

The Communist police and troops were huddled under the gate to escape the rain. On the Western side, a West German television crew had a camera with a two-foot lens focused on the gate and the modest military activity beyond.

Foreigners and West Germans could still enter East Berlin today. The secret policeman on Friedrichstrasse took one look at U.S. passports and politely waved reporters into the fancy new buildings of the city.

Some of the people's police stopped.

were less polite. One waved down the car just behind the Brandenburg Gate.

"Where do you think you're going?" he inquired angrily with the familiar worldwide expression. A voice said the small party of newsmen wanted only to view the ruins of Adolf Hitler's old office down the street.

"You can drive anywhere except where it says 'no through traffic,'" the policeman shouted. In East Berlin it seems that wherever there is a "no through traffic" sign, a collection of tanks or armored cars is nearby. There was one on the Wilhelmstrasse.

The Linden trees still grace Unter den Linden, the old imperial and Nazi show street. But behind them are ruins or mostly gray, lackluster buildings—with the outstanding exception of the immense Soviet Embassy.

The State Opera, where Hitler shouted, still stands. A small group of Communist militia sheltered under the portico today.

Great banners meet the eye in East Berlin. "Not a powder keg, but a demilitarized free city of Berlin." One of them waved in the wind near Alexanderplatz, not far from a wicked looking lineup of tanks.

Most of the armor and military activity appears concentrated behind the dividing line through the center of the city. Deep in the northern precincts of Berlin, there was little activity of any kind.

Along the Stalinallee, designed by the Communists as a show street to replace Unter den Linden, there were very few troops and no guns. Some of the tile facing on the fancy new buildings on Stalinallee is beginning to peel off.

In the course of the morning, power went off in East Berlin. Street cars were lined up in Alexanderplatz and politely waved reporters into the northern part of the city.

Electrified trains were stopped.

Sale Of Water To Rotan Discussed

Snyder city councilmen and directors of the Rotan Water Authority last night agreed to have tentative contracts prepared for the City of Snyder to sell water to Rotan.

However, no firm commitments have been made and much more preliminary work must be completed before any contracts may be signed.

The two groups conferred for more than an hour at the Snyder City Hall.

Snyder councilmen were advised that Rotan and some surrounding area now served by their city water system have organized a water district with a view toward arranging for a permanent water supply. Rotan now gets its water from wells at Camp Springs, but under present conditions it must drill an additional two wells per year because of failure of other wells.

Snyder councilmen proposed to sell water to Rotan from the city's filtration plant on a cost plus 10 per cent schedule. The actual cost of production, including Snyder's water treatment facilities, would be used in computing the rate to Rotan.

The Rotan group inquired about the possibility of Snyder participating in construction of a water line from the treatment plant to the east city limits, and provision for Snyder to use the line to bolster its distribution in the east part of town. It was estimated by engineers that Rotan would need a 12-inch line from Snyder to Camp Springs, where it would be tied into an existing six - inch line. In the event that Snyder participated in construction of the line from the plant to the city limits, a 16-inch line would be required for that segment.

Snyder councilmen expressed doubt that Snyder needed such a tie - in at this time, and that other commitments prohibit any participation in construction costs at this time.

Homer A. Hunter of Dallas, consulting engineer for the Rotan Water Authority, estimated that Rotan would need 300,000 gallons of water per day, with a gradual increase in demands there during the remainder of the century.

Directors of the Rotan Water Authority who attended the session here last night included H. T. Fillingim, chairman, Bill Hardy, W. I. Branch, Joe Burk and John Gray.

'Windmill' Satellite Speeds Into Space, Transmits Data

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new robot observer sped through far reaches of space today to find out just what kind of sailing for astronauts is created when the solar winds of radiation blow over earth's magnetic fields.

Eleven hours after the launching of the "Windmill" scientific package from this missile test center Tuesday night, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported on the basis of radio signals that the satellite experiment "looks good."

NASA scientists, however, reserved final judgment. That was because the elongated orbit—peraps well beyond 54,000 miles on at this far point—would take so long that second-pass readings would be late. Those would show whether orbit was achieved, and the shape of the path.

The space traveler had been tracked by six observation stations at Johannesburg, South Africa; Ascension Island; Santiago and Antofagasta, Chile; Lima, Peru; and Woomera, Australia.

Named Explorer XII, the package is expected to tell scientists more clearly than ever before how solar radiation influences conditions on earth and how great a hazard it is to manned space travel.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was reluctant today to label the space mission a "success" because of the successful orbit after its launching from this rocket center Tuesday night.

"Yes, I think we have an orbit," reported Dr. John W. Townsend of NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

But because an extremely elliptical orbit was sought, Townsend said it may be as long as 82 hours after launch before it can be definitely confirmed.

Explorer XII was aimed for a wide-swinging course designed to take it as far out as 54,000 miles from earth and bring it back to within 170 miles at the low point.

Each pass around the world would take 21 hours, compared to the "normal" satellite circuit of about two hours.

Mrs. Ustinov Relates Why She Enjoys Her New Role

By Eddy Gilmore
LONDON (AP)—With considerable bravery, Peter Ustinov has put his pretty wife in a movie role that describes her as:
"Neither young nor old, neither beautiful nor ugly—just a woman resigned to her state and status."
"But darling," he told her, "Herman Melville wrote no part for a woman in his book."
"That's all right," smiled Suzanne, "you're a talented boy—write me one."
So challenged, Peter wrote the part.
In "Billy Budd," the lavishly talented Ustinov is the actor, producer, director and script writer. He also acted as casting director.
In the meantime, he has a novel on the London market and has finished a new long-laying record. He still finds time for television and radio—and for his family.
"Somebody asks him what he does in his spare time."
"Well," says Ustinov, "there's a new play I want to do, I'm turning that over in my mind. And a new book. Yes, I've got to get that started soon."
"And the children?" breaks in Suzanne.
"Oh, yes," says Peter, "I'm taking them down to the seaside next weekend."
The Ustinovs' children are Paula, 7, Igor, 5, and Andrea, Claudia, 2.
An assistant director taps him on the shoulder and tells him a scene has been lighted and set up. Two minutes later the camera is on him.
"Be very quiet, please," asks the assistant director. "There are enough creaks in this cabin as it is."
"I beg your pardon," breaks in

Ustinov, "did you say 'creaks' or 'creeps'?"
"Creaks," explains the assistant director.
"That's Peter," he says later, "what a pleasure it is to work with him," she whispers.
Suzanne smiles:
"What a pleasure it is to BE with him," she whispers.

Skater Puts Career On Ice

TORONTO (AP)—Because her father taught Frances Dufoe that "sports is for sport's sake, the former figure skating champion has put her career on ice, and kept it there.
With her partner Morris Bowden she won four Canadian titles, and placed fourth in the Olympics in 1962.
"Not choosing to turn professional, Miss Dufoe retired in 1966, and has seldom been on the ice since. Four years ago she married lawyer Norman Melnick. Today she designs costumes for a television studio here.

HIS KIND OF PEOPLE

Off Times A Laugh Is Difficult To Find

BY INEZ ROBB

What with the headlines and one thing and another, laughter is in rather short supply at the moment. Ordinarily, the present New York mayoral race would supply the nation with the biggest belly laugh of the season. Only the fact that millions of hapless New Yorkers caught in the middle keeps the race from being a continuous National Laugh Week. The sound and fury as the two finalists approach resemble a hog-calling contest in a wind tunnel.

In the Democratic party, there is a frenzy of fraternal invective, with innumerable pots calling numbered kettles black and white. In the Republican camp, the war for City Hall, the two finalists are so strange they would bust a laugh meter, much less the springs.

To be sure, the Democrats are supplying most of the low comedy. But the Republicans, off in all directions on their white charges, are not without their laugh potential with an embarrassing Republican chairman in Queens County whom Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has ordered benched.

Ordinarily, the galaxy of nations would be appalled by Mayor Robert Wagner's straight-faced accusation Tuesday that all North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations should bring their forces up to strength, "not by way of threat but as an indication of the fact that the NATO nations are serious and united."

The New should maintain unity but show a willingness to negotiate in the Berlin crisis, Diefenbaker said in an address before a Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association meeting.

There ought to be laughter for the gods in the rush of the Reform Democrats, headed by former Gov. and U.S. Senator Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, to the support of Wagner, the most incompetent and inept man who ever sat in City Hall. And, man, is that a distinction!

For eight years, Wagner's administrations have been rocked by one burgeoning scandal after another, culminating in the present appalling school mess.

For the Reform Democrats and the houseclean-house Liberal party to endorse Wagner is enough to revive vaudeville. Although there is one thing to be said for Wagner: New Yorkers are convinced of his personal honesty on the theory that it takes a smart man to steal.

The heroics and the fulsome invective of de Sapo, denouncing his one-time ward, Wagner, have almost obscured the do-it-yourself campaign of Tammany's candidate, State Controller Arthur Levitt. As for the Republican candidate, New York State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, it is possible that he might, with this year if the GOP and the independent voters really put any steam behind his campaign. He was not the Republican's first choice, or even their second. But Jacob K. Javits didn't want to risk his seat in the U.S. Senate of young and able John V. Lindsay at his seat in the House.

So Lefkowitz, an able but colorless man, is fronting for the legions of decency in one woman's opinion, with the legends so far putting up want flags for him.

New York is a state in which the Democrats and Republicans have long had a pleasant working agreement in which the former drew New York City as its territory and the Republicans anything north of the Bronx. They could get their hands on I feel the GOP in this year of grace will feel no compulsion to upset this pleasant arrangement.

The present situation is compounded of fancy and burlesque. But it ain't funny, Wagner, to the millions of New Yorkers who are sick and tired of incompetent, irresponsible government, a filthy city whose streets are full of potholes; polluted air unfit for man or beast; a traffic mess deteriorating into anarchy; and the constant stench of corruption.

As a New Yorker, I can laugh about the mayoralty campaign, all right, but only out of the other side of my pocket—upper.

Red Bloc May Affect Americans

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The threat to cut off Western trade with the Red bloc could upset the plans of a number of American companies—ship importers and exporters. But its total effect on U.S. world trade would be slight.

Its effect on the trade of some of our allies would be much greater, since they have cultivated the flow while we often discouraged it.

And the threatened embargo could hurt the economy of Soviet satellites such as Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany most of all.

The threat was voiced by West German Chancellor Adenauer, whose country would feel the impact most of any of the Western group. He said a complete trade stoppage is one of the moves the West is considering to meet increasing Soviet restrictions in the Berlin crisis.

The word from Washington is only that such trade suspension is under consideration. London seems reluctant at the moment. All along the United States has blocked any trade by American corporations with Red China but the Soviet Union got goods regarded as of no or little military use, on an export license basis.

American exports to the Soviet Union and its European satellites increased in 1960 to a high of $104 million. Much of the jump was accounted for by agricultural sales to Poland. Imports held unchanged at $89.9 million.

We sent wheat, cotton, iron, some types of steel, soybeans, chemicals and some industrial equipment. We got from them most, flat, platinum. The Soviet Union produces about one-fourth of world's new platinum supply each year.

Until the Berlin crisis, American businessmen had looked for a future increase in two-way trade with the East because of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's promises to increase Russian consumer goods consumption.

American allies have been doing much more business with the Reds, and some of it in goods and materials we hold to have military value.

Adenauer's West Germany—whose big market in the Red bloc is East Germany—exported to the communist world machinery, chemicals, and steel worth $36 million in 1960. In return it got $472 million worth of farm products and lumber, among other things.

Although shipments to the Red bloc have been rising this year, the total is still too small to make much of a dent in our foreign trade as a whole.

The $193.4 million export trade with the Reds last year barely shows in the overall figure of $46 billion of commercial goods and services—that is, excluding those involving military or other government-backed transactions.

The $61 million of imports from the Reds compares with a total non-government income of goods and services of $25.4 billion.

American enterprises that would feel any embargo of trade with the Communists include farm products and such consumer goods as the light-ray economies of the Soviet Union and its satellites will admit.

To increase this trade in American products, both the U.S. government and private corporations have taken part in industrial and other fairs in Red lands.

MARIS BLAST FALLS FOUL

About The One That Got Away

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris was an angry man Tuesday night after hitting his 49th homer of the season for the Yankees.

Maris' flow of words did not stem from the homer, which put him one ahead of Mickey Mantle in their tremendous duel with Baltimore's 60-homer record. Rather, he vented from the home run he didn't hit as the Chicago White Sox nipped the Yankees 2-1 behind the fourth pitching of Lefty Guzman.

"It couldn't have been foul by more than this much," growled Maris, holding his hands about three or four inches apart. "It was fair all the way until the final second. Then the darn thing hooked behind the pole."

The near miss occurred in the sixth inning. Roger had walked in the first and socked his 49th homer in the fourth. Then, with a 2-2 count, Maris pole-axed a curve that headed for the third tier. At the last second, as Roger said, the ball hooked foul and the crowd of 49,000 groaned.

"That makes it about five or six near misses I've had this year—that I know of," he complained. "There might have been more. And don't forget that homer was washed out in Baltimore when we couldn't get in five innings."

"They say those things even up. That's a lot of hogwash. They never do. All I know is they owe me about four because I got two homers this year on drives that hit the foul pole."

As long as he was in the mood, Maris got a few more gripes off his chest. "Gosh, I'm tired," he complained. "I could use a good rest. This has been a real long season for me. Why don't they go back to the 154-game schedule. Playing 162 games is too tough—much too long."

Maris, as usual, refused to discuss his chances to break Ruth's record.

"Every writer asks me the same question. Do I think I can break Ruth's record? How the heck do I know? They're the know-it-alls. Why don't they ask themselves?"

As for his friendly rivalry with Mantle, Roger was sorry that Mickey didn't hit one.

Title Is Swapped To Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 49ers' veteran quarterback, Y.A. Tittle, has been traded by the San Francisco National Football League entry to the New York Giants.

In exchange, the 49ers, now basically a young club in the third year of Coach Red Hickey, picked up lineman Lou Cordileone, 23.

Tittle, 35, is a 13-year pro veteran, 11 in the NFL, the last 10 with San Francisco. He owns the best pass completion average of any active quarterback, 55.3 per cent. In his 11 NFL campaigns, one with Baltimore, he completed 1,387 of 2,510 passes for 17,900 yards and 116 touchdowns.

He was 60 of 127 for 604 yards and 4 touchdowns in 1960, a season that saw him plagued midway by a groin injury and the installation of Hickey's new spread offense — "my quarterback-run with the ball short."

Cordileone, 6-3 and 255 pounds out of Clemson, was the first draft choice in 1960. As a rookie in 1960 he saw service as an offensive guard-tackle and a defensive tackle-end.

The trade was made after Saturday's exhibition game between the two clubs. The Giants won 21-20, but Tittle almost pulled it out.

He came off the bench, rallied the 49ers from a 21-13 deficit and then hit Monte Stickles in the end zone. But the play was called back.

Reds Nipping At Dodgers' Heels

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
How far do you think a team would get in that National League race playing 500 ball with a pitching ace who was no more than a break-even right-hander and a slugging outfielder who hadn't hit a home run in more than a year?

"Think again. The Cincinnati Reds are back within one game of first place Los Angeles at the moment because they managed to close out a month's play at 500 with a 5-3 victory over the Dodgers Tuesday night.

And it was Wally Post's first home run against Los Angeles since June 14 of last year that gave the victory to Joey Jay, The NL's top winner at 17-7 after only a 24-24 record for seven years spent with Milwaukee.

It was the first time the Dodgers had lost two in a row since July 15, when they trailed the Reds by a whopping gap of six games. Since then Los Angeles has lost only five of 24 games. The Reds are 15-15 over the same span after knocking off the Dodgers in the opener of their three-game showdown for first place Los Angeles.

The Dodgers, however, still are four games to the good in the decisive "last" column going into tonight's doubleheader.

Third-place San Francisco defeated St. Louis 3-2. Milwaukee made it five in a row with a 4-1 job on Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs sent the last-place Philadelphia Phils to their 18th straight defeat 6-5. The modern NL record for consecutive losses is 19.

Challenge Of First Order Visualized

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Chuck Bednarik sees the 1961 National Football League season as one of the most challenging in his 13 years with the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Not so much for myself," says the 33-pound center-linebacker. "I've accomplished personally all the things I've wanted from this game. But this season is a challenge to the team."

At all-NFL star, Bednarik referred to disparaging remarks made this past winter about the Eagles, comments that their 1960 championship was a fluke, the best team didn't win.

Taking a few minutes off from training chores at the Eagles' preseason camp in this eastern Pennsylvania countryside, Bednarik said, "We've got to prove by winning again that we're real champions."

The NFL's iron man played 334½ minutes in 12 league games last season. Bednarik, who has missed only three of 147 games since the Eagles made him their bonus pick for the 1949 season, says 1961 should be his last as an active player.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox beat New York 2-1, ending Whitey Ford's winning streak at 14 games and shaving the Yankees' lead over Detroit to two games. The second-place Tigers beat Baltimore twice, 3-0 and 2-0. Boston bopped Cleveland 8-0, the Los Angeles Angels beat Washington 8-7 and Minnesota defeated Kansas City 9-4.

Jay beat Los Angeles for the fourth time in six decisions this season by blanking the Dodgers on three hits over the last eight innings. The young right-hander, set to become Cincinnati's first 20-game winner since Ewell Blackwell in 1947, finished with a six-hitter after giving up three hits in the first when the Dodgers scored on singles by Duke Snider and Wally Moon.

San Francisco managed just four hits but beat southpaw Curt Simmons (7-4) of the Cards with two runs in the sixth on sacrifice flies by Orlando Cepeda and Jim Davenport.

Home runs by Frank Thomas and Hank Aaron did it for the Braves, with Aaron's 31st of the year a two-run shot that broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth and beat Joe Gibbon (2-5). Carl Willey (5-4) was the winner, giving up five hits.

Tigers 'Mix It Up' In Early Session

The Snyder Tigers coaching staff, attempting to put muscle into their 1961 proteges at an early date, sent their charges through a rough and tumble session here on the high school practice field yesterday.

A practice scrimmage held the spotlight yesterday, with some head-knocking being in evidence. Experimentation with both four- and five-man defensive lines was also utilized during the scrimmage period.

Yesterday was the first in the series of two-a-day workouts for the team, which began Monday morning. Those morning and afternoon workouts will continue until the beginning of the school term, at which time the reversion to afternoon sessions will be made.

Junior Editors Quiz on MUSIC

QUESTION: How did musical notes originate?

ANSWER: The first use of notes in history is in ancient China where music was held in high regard. These were not notes as we know them but written characters, making it possible for them to record a melody or song. Our notes did not develop from these characters, however. Our system comes from Greece where scales were developed which were something like the ones we use. But it was not until the Middle Ages, in the tenth century, that little characters showing the way music went up or down were written above the words of religious music. These were the first notes and you can see them in our picture. At first there were no staff lines, but first one and then three or four lines were added until finally there were five as we have them today. Bit by bit the notes were broken into long ones and short ones. These notes were first worked out for instruments, especially organs, but they proved so helpful for the musicians that soon they were used for songs as well. The first actual use of this kind of notation was in the year 812.

FOR YOU TO DO: Perhaps you are a musician and know all about written music. If not, get somebody who knows to show you a note on the music, and then play it so that you will understand how the system works.

(Patty Shea of Redwood City, Calif. wins $10 for this question. Send yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.)

See Jack & Jack For Real Estate

Farm and ranch listings, as well as city property, are a specialty of Jack & Jack Realty Co. The firm, located at 411 East Highway, has a number of farm and ranch listings in Scurry, Mitchell, Garza and other adjoining counties, according to L. A. McClanahan, owner.

The real estate business also has listings on farms and ranches in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Missouri. The listings include a number of irrigated farms that are good buys. To handle the real estate, Jack & Jack has salespeople who are experienced in the farming and ranching business.

One of the salespeople is Mrs.

Leona Weathers, who specializes in the best farms and homes available. Mrs. Weathers has dealt with farm and ranch property for over 10 years. In addition to McClanahan and Mrs. Weathers, the qualified employees include Preston Wilson, Mrs. McClanahan and Ruth Keenan.

Jack & Jack Realty still handles city properties, too, both for sale and on property management basis.

The firm had its beginning in a home construction project during the oil boom and is now a permanent fixture on the Snyder business scene.

If you are looking for the very best deal for the home of your dreams, place trust in Jack & Jack to locate and arrange financing for the home.

Jack & Jack has bargains aplenty in just the right size and in most any part of town. They have nice listings in two and three bedroom homes and will arrange all details concerning financing whether the requirements are for FHA or conventional loans.

Plenty of free parking space is another attraction of Jack & Jack Realty, located on the East Highway.

Take your real estate problem to Jack & Jack for experienced, personal assistance.

Berlin 'Gruesome' For Many Reasons

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Berlin crisis is gruesome for more reasons than just the chance of war.

Without war this will be only one in a series of crises around the world for years between the West and communism.

Even at his inauguration President Kennedy, looking to the anxious years beyond, said there would be no finish "even perhaps in our lifetime."

And in his July talk to the nation—after the Berlin crisis began—Kennedy said "That isolated outpost is not an isolated problem. The threat is worldwide."

Since the Russians and Red Chinese are dedicated to taking over the world, but can't do it all at once, they will keep trying a bit at a time.

In the future the rest of the world probably will look back on this time—when the United States and the Soviet Union alone had nuclear missiles big enough to blow each other off the earth—as a comparatively comfortable time.

More and more nations in time—particularly Red China—should have similar weapons of mass destruction.

Says Regime Trying Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Negro official of the State Department declared Tuesday night that the Kennedy administration has embarked on an unprecedented campaign "to root out racial discrimination" in the United States.

He advised American Negroes to stop complaining about the lack of new civil rights legislation.

In a speech for a meeting of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Carl E. Rowan said "There hasn't been even a remote chance of getting meaningful civil rights legislation out of this Congress."

Rowan is a deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs and a former Minneapolis newsman.

"No administration in the nation's history," he said, "ever set out on so honest and determined campaign (as the Kennedy administration) to root out racial discrimination."

"You must continue to give this administration hell," Rowan told the Negro fraternity delegates, "when you think it is wrong or not moving forward with proper vigor. You do neither those of us in the administration nor the nation any good by displaying timidity."

So, while two giants dominate the world now, eventually others, armed like giants, can act like this. This will simply compound trouble.

For example, at this moment the Red Chinese, still lacking nuclear weapons, are soft-pedaling their claim to Formosa which is occupied by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and is under American protection.

They've banged away at the tiny islands China holds close to the mainland. They haven't tried to attack Formosa itself for a simple, good reason: The United States has the nuclear muscle and they don't.

This will change when they get the muscle. Then will the United States for the sake of Formosa risk a nuclear war with Red China which would almost certainly mean war with the Soviet Union?

If not, then the other American allies in Asia may lose faith in this country. At the same time some of those same allies, plus the European Allies, may prefer seeing Formosa lost to risking nuclear war themselves.

This is just one of the dilemmas ahead. Even without threats from Red China, Formosa may be thrown into internal crisis when Chiang dies and his son is not even thought of now will become critical areas in the struggle with communism.

Africa, for instance, or countries in Latin America where communism, through Fidel Castro, has an ideological launching pad in Cuba.

Then there's Korea. The Communists were stopped once from taking it by force. But it lies not to Red China and Red North Korea.

The Communist effort to take it over, by force or subversion, will not end.

It will increase in direct proportion to Red China's increasing strength in nuclear weapons.

The United States at this minute can't even guess at what its future problems in South Korea may be.

Yet, if it showed weakness there under Red pressure, its Big Asian ally, Japan, would probably lose faith and turn neutral to placate the Red Chinese.

Another place, South Viet Nam which the United States is committed to protect but where the Communists from North Viet Nam have already infiltrated, that country is woefully already.

If that goes, all Southeast Asia is in jeopardy. And the places mentioned here are just the obvious trouble spots ahead. There'll be others.

Her later story was that she became angry over bills and left home of her own accord.

Her husband, Ernest Roderick of San Mateo, is an unemployed postal worker.

She spent Tuesday night in jail. Bobby, her son by a previous marriage, is being kept in a county home.

Her first story was that a foul-mouthed man forced her to go with him on the cross-country ride after he came to her house to answer a dog-for-sale advertisement.

She said the man kept her and her 4-year-old son, Bobby, a prisoner in a stolen car during the trip and fed them only hamburgers. She was raped repeatedly, she said.

Physician Dies
LONDON (AP)—Sir Henry Bradford, Bt, honorary physician to the late King George VI, died at his country home Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is advising 111 Reserve units, none of them of division size, that they may be called to duty as part of the build-up of U. S. conventional forces.

Most of them probably will be support-type outfits, although there may be some combat units.

This alert plan, similar to one announced recently by the Air Force for 71 Air National Guard and Reserve units, followed closely other moves in manpower expansion by the Air Force and Navy.

The Air Force announced Tuesday that it is aiming at adding 25,000 men to its strength by asking volunteers to continue on duty after reaching normal active duty termination, and by holding others in service if there aren't enough volunteers. There seemed to be no hope that the full 25,000 requirement would be met by volunteers.

The Navy announced Monday that it will hold on duty 25,000 men whose service otherwise would end before next June 30.

Formal announcement of the Kennan Gives Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—George F. Kennan, U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, visited President Kennedy at the White House Tuesday. Kennan came home last week for consultations.

The White House gave out no information as to the nature of Kennan's report to the President.

Britons In Study Of Last Illnesses

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The last illness, the human confusion of racing the sun, and operating on hearts packed in ice are subjects with a focus on health.

DEATH IN OLD AGE
What of the last weeks and days of life?

British researchers have made a study of death as it came to 220 ailing old people, aged 60 to 101, in a hospital.

At least a quarter of the patients were aware they were dying. And most of them met this awareness with fear or resignation, even with calmness. In seven of the patients the premonition of death came within a few hours of the fact.

Only 13 per cent of the patients complained of moderate to severe pain during this last illness. Oddly the pain was more prevalent with diseases like rheumatoid arthritis than in other ailments including cancer. Less than a quarter of those with cancer suffered moderate to severe pain.

DAYLIGHT SAVING
The jet airplane and its rapid transit across the oceans and continents have added an element of confusion to the traveler's adjustment problems.

Picture this: You leave Paris at noon and arrive in New York at 3 p.m. local time. You've been in the air seven hours. But jet speed racing the sun has saved you four. Now is you work an eight-hour day, you are working a 12-hour day. Even dinner will be late, four hours late.

Air Force researchers point out that some 70 per cent of jet travelers are so sensitive to such shifts in phase that they may develop some disorder or other trying to adjust.

Two obvious solutions: Adopt the living and time patterns of your destination before you leave or arrive early enough so you will have time to adjust.

COLD HEART
Doctors are now actually packing the heart in ice for some prolonged heart operations.

Bottles of saline ice crystals—a sort of salt water slush—prepared before the operation and the crystals are packed around the heart as they are needed, arresting the heart's action while the surgeon works.

British researchers tested the method reported last year in the United States. It was useful in cases where the heart muscle has to be arrested for longer than 15 minutes.

The heart is warmed and starts normal action when resuscitated by warm blood promptly after the operation without signs of impairment.

CRITICAL DAYS
Most deaths from heart attacks come in the first few days after the attack. That observation and the fact that heart attacks are the leading cause of early human deaths have led to a new study.

New York Medical College researchers will try to find some way of raising the heart during this critical period, giving the heart a chance to repair its damage caused by the cut-off of blood during the attack.

Among possible answers: cooling the patient's body temperature to below normal to reduce heart activity; or possibly taking the load off the heart by using heart-lung machines.

DYING TOO SOON
Most Americans live to retirement. But at least a third of all U.S. deaths occur before the age of 65. And the death rate in early life is almost twice as high for males as for females.

For the ages of 15-24, accidents cause three-fifths of all male deaths, one-third of all female deaths. And the second highest killer for the ages 1-24 is cancer, mainly leukemia.

Woman Says Tale A Hoax

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A California woman was scheduled to be arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on charges she lied to the FBI when she said she was kidnapped and raped during a 17-day ride of terror.

Clara Bell Roderick, 23, of San Mateo, Calif., was charged Tuesday night after she changed her earlier story and said she left home on her own.

The pretty blonde housewife, who stumbled into a Houston motel early Monday and said she was kidnapped from her house July 27, changed her story shortly before she was to take a routine lie detector test.

Her first story was that a foul-mouthed man forced her to go with him on the cross-country ride after he came to her house to answer a dog-for-sale advertisement.

She said the man kept her and her 4-year-old son, Bobby, a prisoner in a stolen car during the trip and fed them only hamburgers. She was raped repeatedly, she said.

Her later story was that she became angry over bills and left home of her own accord.

Her husband, Ernest Roderick of San Mateo, is an unemployed postal worker.

Boy Stuck On Faucett

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Virginia Coons was still trying to determine today how her son Michael Edward, 5, got that big bathtub faucet stuck in his mouth.

Its removal necessitated the use of police, firemen and a doctor. It also caused her to go into shock.

"I just don't know how he did it," she said. "I saw him put his mouth around it once and told him not to do it again."

"I turned around for a moment and when I turned back 'round there it was."

She couldn't get it out, and neither could police. Firemen arrived and cut it off the tub with a hacksaw.

Faucet in mouth, Mike was taken to St. John's Hospital where a doctor had better luck.

Suit Charges Bids Fixed On School Buses

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson today filed an anti-trust suit accusing 16 Texas firms and individuals of rigging bids in the sale of school buses.

Wilson said some 5,100 buses costing $23 million are involved. The attorney general's suit was filed in the 28th District Court Judge D. B. Wood of Georgetown to halt further transactions by the defendants and to assess penalties of up to $3.6 million against each of them. It covers a period from Jan. 1, 1953, to Aug. 16, 1961.

The civil suit is an outgrowth of an inquiry into school bus purchases by the State Board of Control. The probe started in June and included courts of inquiry in Dallas and Austin. Named in the attorney general's petition are Ray Cowan, Gordon K. Allen Co., Austin Sales Co., Inc., Commercial Body Corporation, Superior Coach Sales of Texas, Inc., the Texas Coach Co., Inc., Transportation Equipment Sales Co., Inc., Hurst Bus Sales Co., Phil Hudson and Hudson Body Co., Gordon K. Allen, Jack G. Fisk, Harold Grist, S. Gordon Bently and J. K. Hurst.

The petition alleges that since about Jan. 1, 1953, the defendants and others "have combined their capital, skill and acts in the sale and marketing of school buses in the State of Texas." (1) to restrict the sale of the school buses; (2) to fix, maintain and increase the price at which school buses are sold in the State of Texas; (3) to prevent and lessen competition and (4) to abstain from engaging in the sale of buses whose bodies are not manufactured by any company other than "the one with which each defendant had a distribution contract."

The suit alleges Cowan, a former employee of the State Board of Control, "is and has been the dominant figure and moving force in said combination and conspiracy." It says he was an assistant purchasing agent in charge of purchasing school buses before he went into the bus business in 1951.

The Board of Control buys school buses for all but 129 of the 1,516 school districts in Texas, Texas.

When a district requests buses through the agency, the board invites bids according to its specifications. Successful bidders generally deliver a bus chassis from a chassis dealer, who delivers the chassis to the body manufacturer represented by the bidder. The manufacturer mounts the body on the chassis, then delivers the bus at the bidder's cost to the school district.

Wilson alleges Cowan sold to Transportation Equipment Sales Co., a distribution contract for "Oneda" bus bodies, for which Bentley gave him a $100,000 promissory note. He also alleged Cowan sold to Austin Sales Co., an exclusive franchise for "Blue Bird" bus bodies, for which he received from Fisk a note for $200,000.

The suit also claims Cowan sold Stroud all the stock of Texas Coach Co. in exchange for a $200,000 promissory note.

"In each of these instances, the liability for the promissory notes was limited to and secured by all the stock of the corporations involved. None of the notes that have come due have been paid, according to testimony earlier in courts of inquiry," Wilson said.

The suit alleges Cowan used his position as purchasing agent to participate in the stock of the corporations involved. None of the notes that have come due have been paid, according to testimony earlier in courts of inquiry," Wilson said.

Wilson's suit accuses Cowan of enforcing compliance from the other defendants "by means of his ability to visit upon them economic reprisals in the form of price wars which he could precipitate and effectuate by virtue of his strong economic hold and control over a major portion of the school bus business in the State of Texas."

The declaration is an abridgment of the 3,000-word Charter of Punta del Este which sets forth the principles of the program in detail. The declaration was signed by Latin America's masses.

Snyder councilmen expressed doubt that Snyder needed such a tie-in at this time, and that other commitments prohibit any participation in construction costs at this time.

John A. Hulse of Dallas, consulting engineer for the Rotan Water Authority, estimated that Rotan would need 300,000 gallons of water per day, with a gradual increase in demands there during the remainder of the century.

Directors of the Rotan Water Authority who attended the session here last night included H. J. Pilling, chairman, Bill Hardy, W. L. Branch, Joe Burk and John Gray.

Snyder councilmen proposed to sell water to Rotan from the city's filtration plant on a cost plus 10 per cent schedule. The actual cost of production, including delivery service on Snyder's water treatment facilities, would be used in computing the rate to Rotan.

The Rotan group inquired about the possibility of Snyder participating in construction of a water line from the treatment plant to the city limits, with provision for Snyder to use the line to bolster its distribution in the east part of town. It was estimated by engineers that Rotan would need a 12-

Cuban's Plea Turned Down

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara tried to open the door today to Communist advisers for President Kennedy's $20-billion Alliance for Progress but ran into a stone wall.

Delegates from the other 20 American nations at the Inter-American Economic Conference brushed aside Guevara's proposals and in committee unanimously approved a 1,000-word "Declaration to the Peoples of America" summing up the new program of economic aid and help for Latin America. Cuba abstained.

The declaration is an abridgment of the 3,000-word Charter of Punta del Este which sets forth the principles of the program in detail. The declaration was signed by Latin America's masses.

South Texas: Clear to partly cloudy with some drizzle and light showers. Low 50 to 60. High Thursday 80 to 90.

After approval at a conference session today, both will be signed Thursday when the conference closes one day behind schedule.

There was speculation whether Guevara would sign the Cuba. But other Latin American delegates said even if he did, the U.S.-controlled agencies that will handle the bulk of the financing won't advance any funds to Cuba.

Guevara said his country cannot fully support the program until it gets a "clear and concise answer" from the United States whether Cuba is in or out of the alliance family. U.S. delegates steadfastly refused to commit themselves.

In the late night committee session that finally whipped the declaration into shape, Guevara made his pitch for Red technicians with an amendment saying that "experts" could assist Latin American republics in their development schemes. This was interpreted as an attempt to give Soviet bloc and Red Chinese experts a foothold in countries that will receive U.S. aid under the program.

Guevara also proposed an amendment substituting a promise to promote all sectors of a nation's economy for a pledge to was an obvious effort to have socialist development and remove official support for private enterprise.

Both amendments failed for lack of a second after U.S. Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon warned that it would be "very difficult" for the U.S. public to understand a change eliminating the stimulation of private enterprise.

More Limitations On Berlin Travel

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists cut down on already limited travel by their own citizens to West Berlin today. It was their most rigorous interference with traffic between the two Germanys since Berlin's new crisis began.

The latest Berlin trouble was generated Sunday by barricades erected against East Berliners going into West Berlin and against West Berliners going east unless they get special permits. Today the clampdown was extended beyond Berlin to the borders between East and West Germany.

West German guards all along the border said the arrival of East Germans at crossing points practically stopped.

Freight trains and trucks were permitted to travel in both directions as before, and Westerners going into East Germany were allowed through as long as their papers were in order.

But East Germans on west-bound trains were ordered off at the West German border, even though they had visas and permits issued by Communist authorities.

At Hohenstein, chief rail and highway crossing near the middle of the 93-mile border, no East German cars were allowed through after midnight. No East Germans were on trains crossing the Bavarian border.

The East German government made no announcement concerning the situation. But it threatened Tuesday to put on another blockade like that in 1948-49 if West Germany cut off East German trade in reprisal for the travel restrictions in Berlin.

Col. Andrei I. Soloviyev, commander of Soviet troops in Berlin, has taken no notice of the protest of the three Western commanders Tuesday against the new Iron Curtain across the city.

But he replied to an earlier protest against harassment of East Berlin workers commuting to West Berlin, and told the Western commanders they "cannot be taken seriously."

The Western protest Tuesday said the barricades have turned

Blakely Rites Set Thursday

Funeral service for Wayne Blakely, 27, a native and long-time resident of Scurry County, will be held here Thursday.

Mr. Blakely died at 3:40 p. m. Tuesday in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring.

Rites have been set for 2 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. R. Charles Snivey officiating. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Mr. Blakely was reared in the Ira community and was a graduate of Ira High School. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. Nora Blakely, and a daughter, Kathy, both of the home in Odessa; his mother, Mrs. Herman Blakely of Odessa, and four brothers, R. L. Blakely of Odessa, Dale Blakely of Pharr, Chalmer and Delbert Blakely, both of Bakersfield, Calif.

the city into an armed camp in flagrant violation of Soviet agreements to maintain Berlin as a four-power city.

The Soviet note came as indication swept West Berlin because of Allied opposition to drastic action against Communist control of the divided city's border.

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commander in Berlin, Soloviyev said "The attempts of the commandant of the American garrison in Berlin to interfere with measures of the German Democratic Republic are completely inappropriate. These measures are exclusively within the competence of the government of the GDR and serve the rightful interests of the republic and its citizens."

The Soviet colonel said Watson was trying to extend to East West-lin "the out-lived occupation regime artificially supported by the American authorities in West Berlin."

Reports of Western reluctance to counter the Red closure with economic reprisals came in the wake of an East German threat to repeat the 1948-49 blockade if Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany cuts off trade with the East German regime.

Brandt Calls For Action From West

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin announced today he has sent a letter to President Kennedy telling him, "Berlin expects more than words, it expects political action."

Brandt told a cheering rally of 200,000 West Berliners about the letter.

"I said what we think in all frankness," he said.

Brandt said he wanted "high Western representatives to come to Berlin to see the situation for themselves but did not name them."

To cheers and thunderous applause, Brandt declared that by sealing off the border in divided Berlin, the Communists were using the old capital as a lever to split the Allies.

"If the Communists are not disarmed, the West must act," he declared, referring to the famous gate standing as a marker between East and West Berlin.

The mood of West Berliners, impatient over Western Allied inaction, was reflected by Deputy Mayor Franz Arndt, who told the crowd:

"Protests are not enough." The crowd collected in front of Schoenberg Borough Hall, headquarters of the West Berlin city government.

The rally was called by Brandt with the support of trade unions. The protest made by the Western commanders "was good but we cannot just leave it at that," Brandt declared to stormy applause.

Some Areas Due Showers

Thunderheads built up on the upper coast and scattered showers fell in the Panhandle during the night indicating that parts of Texas could expect more wet weather Wednesday.

Widely scattered—occasionally heavy—thunderstorms beat down on nearly every section of the state Tuesday, but began dissipating before nightfall.

A heavy thundershower at Graham produced lightning that set fire to a lumber yard, saddle shop and auto body shop Tuesday afternoon causing damage estimated at $100,000.

Somber Police Mutilating Great City

EDITOR'S NOTE — Lynn Heinzerling first went to Berlin in 1959 to report the first stages of World War II. He has spent the last 20 years in various parts of the world, and this year won the Pulitzer Prize for his reporting from Africa. Now he is back in Berlin—a far different Berlin. This is his story of the way the split city looks today.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

BERLIN (AP)—The police and troops of Communist East Berlin look like a permanent barrier mutilating this great city under a menacing sky today.

Dark, forbidding clouds lay over the city. Communist tanks and armored cars lurked behind an arbitrary dividing line.

The people's army, the people's police, the factory militia and the railway police barred some 80,000 East Berliners from their jobs across the line.

On Friedrichstrasse, one of the city's great business arteries, the Communists have put down what looks like a permanent barrier. Great slabs of concrete are laid across the street in five-knee-high barriers. Motorists must zigzag through the small openings as in an obstacle race to cross the line. Nobody in a hurry would make it.

There is an air of unreality about this business of trying to quarantine a major portion of a huge, modern city. It is difficult to believe it is happening. But there is the barbed wire on front of the state's Brandenburg Gate to prove it.

The Communist police and troops were huddled under the gate to escape the rain. On the Western side, a West German television crew had a camera with a two-foot lens focused on the gate and the modest military activity beyond.

Foreigners and West Germans could still enter East Berlin today. The secret policeman on Friedrichstrasse took one look at U.S. passports and politely waved reporters into the Communist section of the city.

Some of the people's police stopped.

were less polite. One waved down the car just behind the Brandenburg Gate.

"Where do you think you're going?" he inquired angrily with the familiar worldwide expression. A voice said the small party of newsmen wanted only to view the ruins of Adolf Hitler's old office down the street.

"You can drive anywhere except where it says 'no through traffic,'" the policeman shouted. "In East Berlin, it seems that 'no through traffic' is a sign of tanks or armored cars is necessary. There was one on the Wilhelmstrasse."

The Linden trees still grace Unter den Linden, the old imperial and Nazi show street. But, behind them are ruins or mostly gray, lackluster buildings—with the outstanding exception of the immense Soviet Embassy.

The State Opera, where Hitler shouted, still stands. A small group of Communist militia sheltered under the portico today.

Great banners meet the eye in East Berlin. "Not a powder keg, but a demilitarized free city of Berlin." One of them waved in the wind near Alexanderplatz, not far from a wicked looking lineup of tanks.

Most of the armor and military activity appears concentrated behind the dividing line through the center of the city. Deep in the northern precincts of Berlin, there was little activity of any kind.

Along the Stalinallee, designed by the Communists as a show street to replace Unter den Linden, there were very few troops and no guns. Some of the tile facing on the fancy new buildings on Stalinallee is beginning to peel off.

In the course of the morning, power was replaced in East Berlin. Street cars were lined up in Alexanderplatz and stranded throughout the northern part of the city.

The electrified trains were stopped.

Sale Of Water To Rotan Discussed

Snyder city councilmen and directors of the Rotan Water Authority last night agreed to have tentative contracts prepared for the City of Snyder to sell water to Rotan.

However, no firm commitments have been made and much preliminary work must be completed before any contracts may be signed.

The two groups conferred for more than an hour at the Snyder City Hall.

Snyder councilmen were advised that Rotan and some surrounding area now served by that city's water system have organized a water district with a view toward arranging for a permanent water supply. Rotan now gets its water from wells at Camp Springs, but under present conditions it must drill an additional two wells per year because of failure of other wells.

Snyder councilmen proposed to sell water to Rotan from the city's filtration plant on a cost plus 10 per cent schedule. The actual cost of production, including delivery service on Snyder's water treatment facilities, would be used in computing the rate to Rotan.

The Rotan group inquired about the possibility of Snyder participating in construction of a water line from the treatment plant to the city limits, with provision for Snyder to use the line to bolster its distribution in the east part of town. It was estimated by engineers that Rotan would need a 12-inch line from Snyder to Camp Springs, where it would be tied in to an existing six-inch line. In the event that Snyder participated in construction of the line from the plant to the city limits, a 16-inch line would be required for that segment.

Snyder councilmen expressed doubt that Snyder needed such a tie-in at this time, and that other commitments prohibit any participation in construction costs at this time.

John A. Hulse of Dallas, consulting engineer for the Rotan Water Authority, estimated that Rotan would need 300,000 gallons of water per day, with a gradual increase in demands there during the remainder of the century.

'Windmill' Satellite Speeds Into Space, Transmits Data

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new robot observer sped through far reaches of space today to find out just what kind of hell the far corners of the universe are like.

The solar winds of radiation blow over earth's magnetic fields. Eleven hours after the launching of the "Windmill" satellite package from this missile test center Tuesday night, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported on the basis of radio signals that the satellite experiment "looks good."

NASA scientists, however, reserved final judgment. That was because the elongated satellite, which will spend 34,000 miles out at the far point—would take a long time to get back.

Long that second-pass readings would be late. Those would show whether orbit was achieved, and the shape of the path.

The space traveler had been tracked by six observation stations, at Johannesburg, South Africa; Ascension Island; Santiago, Antofagasta, Chile; Lima, Peru; and Woomera, Australia.

Named Explorer XII, the package is expected to tell scientists more clearly than ever before how solar radiation influences conditions on earth and how great a hazard it is to manned space travel.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was releasing Explorer XII to the space men.

Explorer XII was aimed for a wide-swinging course designed to take it as far out as 34,000 miles from earth and bring it back to within 170 miles at the low point.

Each pass around the world would take 11 hours, compared to a normal satellite circuit of about two hours.

Robert Gray, chief of the space agency's field projects branch, reported slightly excessive velocity in the second stage of the Thor-Delta booster rocket could send the payload a bit higher than planned.

Gray reported nearly two hours after launch that the vehicle was on its way into space, transmitting clear signals.

With four large paddle wheels extending from its body and a 32-inch rod protruding from the top, the payload resembles the spinning vanes of a windmill.

The paddle wheels were covered with solar cells to capture energy from the sun. Amp. The rod was a sensitive magnetometer.

Mrs. Ustinov Relates Why She Enjoys Her New Role

By Eddy Gilmore

LONDON (AP)—With considerable bravery, Peter Ustinov has put his pretty wife in a movie role that describes her as:

"Neither young nor old, neither beautiful nor ugly—just a woman resigned to her state and status." It isn't a very big role, either, but it's the only feminine part in Ustinov's multi-million-dollar picture, "Billy Budd," now nearing completion at suburban, Elstree studios.

"Peter and I believe in doing things together," says Mrs. Ustinov, "and giving me this part was just part of the tricky business of living and working together."

In film life, Mrs. Ustinov is the Canadian-born actress, Suzanne Cloutier.

"We really have no home," she says. "We live all over the world—wherever Peter is making pictures. Fortunately, our three children are young and they go with us wherever we go."

"She lowers her voice because off in a corner of the set, Peter is speaking one of his many lines as Capt. Edward Fairfax Vere, in Ustinov's adaptation of the Herman Melville classic of good and evil on the high seas.

"We started the picture in Spain," Suzanne goes on, "and now we're up here for the interior shots, and having a part—however small—in 'Billy Budd' is part of being with Peter."

"I don't want to become one of those film wives who sit around in a hotel or a home boring themselves to death while the husband is working. So, I asked Peter to give me a part."

"But darling," he told her, "Herman Melville wrote no part for a woman in his book."

"That's all right," smiled Suzanne, "you're a talented boy—write me one."

So challenged, Peter wrote the part.

In "Billy Budd," the lavishly talented Ustinov is the actor, producer, director and script writer. He also acted as casting director.

In the meantime, he has a novel on the London market and has finished a new long-laying record. He still finds time for television and radio—and for his family.

Somebody asks him what he does in his spare time.

"Well," says Ustinov, "there's a new play I want to do. I'm turning that over in my mind. And a new book. Yes, I've got to get that started soon."

"And the children?" breaks in Suzanne.

"Oh, yes," says Peter, "I'm taking them down to the seaside next weekend."

The Ustinovs' children are Pavla, 7, Igor, 5, and Andrea Claudia, 2.

An assistant director taps him on the shoulder and tells him a scene has been lighted and set up.

Two minutes later the camera is on him.

"Be very quiet, please," asks the assistant director. "There are enough creaks in this cabin as it is."

"I beg your pardon," breaks in

Mrs. Ustinov Relates Why She Enjoys Her New Role

By Eddy Gilmore
LONDON (AP)—With considerable heavey, Peter Ustinov has put his pretty wife in a movie role that describes her as:
"Neither young nor old, neither beautiful nor ugly—just a woman resigned to her state and status."
It isn't a very big role, either, but it's the only feminine part in Ustinov's multi-million-dollar picture, "Billy Budd," now nearing completion at suburban Epsom studios.
"Peter and I believe in doing things together," says Mrs. Ustinov, "and giving me this part was just part of the tricky business of living and working together."
In film life, Mrs. Ustinov is the Canadian-born actress, Suzanne Cloutier.
"We really have no home," she says. "We live all over the world—wherever Peter is making pictures. Fortunately, our three children are young and they go with us wherever we go."
She lowers her voice because off in a corner of the set, Peter is speaking one of his many lines as Capt. Edward Fairfax Vere, in Ustinov's adaptation of the Herman Melville classic of good and evil on the high seas.
"We started the picture in Spain," Suzanne goes on, "and now we're up here for the interior shots, and having a part—however small—in 'Billy Budd' is part of being with Peter."
"I don't want to become one of those film wives who sit around in a hotel or a home boring themselves to death while the husband is working. So, I asked Peter to give me a part."

"But darling," he told her, "Herman Melville wrote no part for a woman in his book."
"That's all right," smiled Suzanne, "you're a talented boy—write me one."
So challenged, Peter wrote the part.
In "Billy Budd," the fastidious Ustinov is the actor, producer, director and script writer. He also acted as casting director.
In the meantime, he has a novel on the London market and has finished a new long-playing record. He still finds time for television and radio—and for his family.
Somebody asks him what he does in his spare time.
"Well," says Ustinov, "there's a new play I want to do. I'm turning that over in my mind. And a new book. Yes, I've got to get that started soon."
"And the children?" breaks in Suzanne.
"Oh, yes," says Peter. "I'm taking them down to the seaside next weekend."
The Ustinovs' children are Pavia, 7, Igor, 5, and Andrea Claudia, 2.
An assistant director taps him on the shoulder and tells him a scene has been lighted and set up.
Two minutes later the camera is on him.
"Be very quiet, please," asks the assistant director. "There are enough creaks in this cabin as it is."
"I beg your pardon," breaks in

Skater Puts Career On Ice

TORONTO (AP)—Because her father taught Frances Dafoe that "sports is for sport's sake, the former figure skating champion has put her career on ice, and kept it there.
With her partner Morris Bowden she won four Canadian titles, and placed fourth in the Olympics in 1952.
Not choosing to turn professional, Miss Dafoe retired in 1956, and has seldom been on the ice since. Four years ago she married lawyer Norman Melnick. Today she designs costumes for a television studio here.

Oft Times A Laugh Is Difficult To Find

BY INEZ ROBB

What with the headlines and one thing and another, laughter is in rather short supply at the moment. Ordinarily, the present New York mayoralty race would be the belly laugh of the season. Only the fact that millions of hapless New Yorkers caught in the middle keeps the race from being a continuous National Laugh Week. The sound and fury as the primaries approach resemble a box-calling contest in a wind tunnel.

In the Democratic party, there is a frenzy of fraternal inactivity with innumerable pots calling unnumbered kettles black and white. In the Democratic scramble for City Hall, the bed fellows are so strange they would host a laugh meter, much less the springs.

To be sure, the Democrats are supplying most of the low comedy. But the Republicans, off in all directions on their white charges, are not without their laugh potential with an embarrassing Republican chairman in Queens County whom Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has ordered rebuffed.

Ordinarily, the gaiety of nations would be upped by Mayor Robert Wagner's straight-faced accusation against the Republican chairman, Frank A. Kenna, of sordid use of political office for private profit.

In other circumstances, the spectacle of Wagner defying the Tammany Tiger and Tammany's leader Carmine de Sapio, who made Wagner, what he is today—the gods in the rush of the Reform Democrats, headed by former Gov. and U.S. Senator Herbert H. Luman, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, to the support of Wagner, the most incompetent and inept man who ever sat in City Hall. And, man, is that a distinction!

For eight years, Wagner's administrations have been rocked by one bourgeois scandal after another, culminating in the present appalling school mess. For the Reform Democrats and the holier-than-thou Liberal party to endorse Wagner is enough to revive vaudeville. Although there is one thing to be said for Wagner, New Yorkers are convinced of his personal honesty on the theory that it takes a smart man to steal. The heroics and the full-blown invective of de Sapio, denouncing his one-time ward, Wagner, have almost obscured the do-it-yourself campaign of Tammany's candidate, State Controller Arthur Levitt. As for the Republican candidate, New York State's Attorney

Diefenbaker Urges Strength For NATO

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Tuesday that all North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations should bring their forces up to strength, "not by way of threat but as an indication of the fact that the NATO nations are serious and united."

The West should maintain unity but show a willingness to negotiate in the Berlin crisis, Diefenbaker said in an address before a Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association meeting.

Red Bloc May Affect Americans

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The threat to cut off Western trade with the Red bloc could upset the plans of a number of American companies—both importers and exporters. But its total effect on U.S. world trade would be slight.

Its effect on the trade of some of our allies would be much greater, since they have maintained the flow while we often discouraged it.

And the threatened embargo could hurt the economy of Soviet satellites such as Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany most of all.

The threat was voiced by West German Chancellor Adenauer, whose country would feel the embargo most of any of the Western group. He said a complete trade stoppage is one of the moves the West is considering to meet increasing Soviet restrictions in the Berlin crisis.

The word from Washington is only that such trade suspension is under consideration. London seems reluctant at the moment. All along, the United States has backed free trade by American corporations with Red China but let the Soviet Union get goods regarded as of no or little military use, on an export license basis.

American exports to the Soviet Union and its European satellites increased in 1960 to a 13-year high of $190.4 million. Much of the jump was accounted for by agricultural sales to Poland. Imports held unchanged at $80.9 million.

We sent wheat, cotton, iron, some types of steel, potassium, chemicals and some industrial equipment. We got from them meat, furs, platinum. The Soviet Union produces about one-fourth of world's new platinum supply each year.

Until the Berlin crisis, American businessmen had looked for a further increase in two-way trade with the East because of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's promises to increase Russian consumer goods consumption.

America's allies have been doing much more business with the Reds, and some of it in goods and materials we hold to have military value.

Adenauer's West Germany—whose bid market in the Red bloc is East Germany—exported to the Communist world machinery, chemicals, and steel worth $36 million in 1960. In return it got $472 million worth of farm products and lumber, among other things.

Although shipments to the Red bloc have been in rising this year, the total is still too small to make much of a dent in our foreign trade as a whole.

The $153.4 million export trade with the Reds last year barely shows in the over-all figure of $28.5 billion of commercial goods and services—that is, excluding those involving military or other government-backed transactions.

The $81 million of imports from the Reds compares with a total non-government "inflow" of goods and services of $23.6 billion.

American enterprises that would feel any embargo of trade with the Communists include farm products and such consumer goods as the lightly run economies of the Soviet Union and its satellites will admit.

To increase this trade in American products, both the U.S. government and private corporations have taken part in industrial and other fairs in Red nations.

MARIS BLAST FALLS FOUL

About The One That Got Away

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris was an angry man Tuesday night after hitting his 49th homer of the season for the Yankees.

Maris' flow of words did not stem from the homer, which put him one ahead of Mickey Mantle in their tremendous duel with Babe Ruth's 60-homer record. Rather, it stemmed from the home run he didn't hit as the Chicago White Sox nipped the Yankees 2-1 behind the fourth pitching of Lefty Giamberini.

"It couldn't have been foul by more than this much," growled Maris, holding his hands about three or four inches apart. "It was fair all the way until the final second. Then the darn thing hooked behind the pole."

The near miss occurred in the sixth inning. Roger had walked in the first and socked his 49th homer in the fourth. Then, with a 2-2 count, Maris pole-axed a curve that headed for the third tier. At the last second, as Roger said, the ball hooked foul and the crowd of 40,000 groaned.

"That makes it about five or six near misses I've had this year—that I know of," he complained. "There might have been more. And don't forget that homer was washed out in Baltimore when we couldn't get in five innings."

They say those things even up. That's a lot of hogwash. They never do. All I know is they owe me about four because I got two homers this year on drives that hit the foul pole.

As long as he was in the mood, Maris got a few more gripes off his chest.

"Gosh, I'm tired," he complained. "I could use a good rest. This has been a real long season for me. Why don't they go back to the 154-game schedule. Playing 162 games is too tough—much too long."

Maris, as usual, refused to discuss his chances to break Ruth's record.

"Every writer asks me the same question. Do I think I can

Reds Nipping At Dodgers' Heels

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

How far do you think a team would get in that National League race playing 500 ball with a pitching ace who was no more than a break-even right-hander and a slugging outfielder who hadn't hit a home run in more than a year?

Think again. The Cincinnati Reds are back within one game of first place Los Angeles at the moment because they managed to close out a month's play at 500 with a 5-2 victory over the Dodgers Tuesday night.

And it was Wally Post's first home run against Los Angeles since June 14 of last year that gave the victory to Joey Jay, the NL's top winner at 17-7 after only a 24-24 record for seven years spent with Milwaukee.

It was the first time the Dodgers had lost two in a row since July 15, when they trailed the Reds by a whopping gap of six games. Since then Los Angeles has lost only five of 24 games. The Reds are 15-15 over the same span after knocking off the Dodgers in the opener of their three-game showdown for first place Los Angeles.

The Dodgers, however, still are four games to the good in the decisive "lost" column going into tonight's doubleheader.

Third-place San Francisco defeated St. Louis 3-2, Milwaukee made it five in a row with a 4-1 job on Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs sent the last-place Philadelphia Phils to their 18th straight defeat 6-5. The modern NL record for consecutive losses is 19.

Title Is Swapped To Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 49ers' veteran quarterback, Y.A. Tittle, has been traded by the San Francisco National Football League entry to the New York Giants.

In exchange, the 49ers, now basically a young club in the third year of Coach Red Hickey, picked up lineman Lou Cordileone, 23.

Tittle, 35, is a 13-year pro veteran, 11 in the NFL, the last 10 with San Francisco. He owns the best pass completion average of any active quarterback, 53.3 per cent. In his 11 NFL campaigns, one with Baltimore, he completed 1,387 of 2,510 passes for 17,900 yards and 116 touchdowns.

He was 69 of 127 for 694 yards and 4 touchdowns in 1960, a season that saw him plagued midway by a groin injury and the installation of Hickey's new spread offense — "my quarterback run-with-the-ball shotgun."

Cordileone, 6-3 and 255 pounds out of Clemson, was the Giants' first draft choice in 1960. As a rookie in 1960 he saw service as an offensive guard-tackle and a defensive tackle-end.

The trade was made after Saturday's exhibition game between the two clubs. The Giants won 21-20, but Tittle almost pulled it out.

He came off the bench, rallied the 49ers from a 21-13 deficit and then hit Monte Stickles in the end zone. But the play was called back.

Challenge Of First Order Visualized

HERSHHEY, Pa. (AP) — Chuck Bednarik sees the 1961 National Football League season as one of the most challenging in his 13 years with the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Not so much for myself," says the 235-pound, center-linebacker. "I've accomplished personally all the things I've wanted from this game. But this season is a challenge to the team."

An all-NFL star, Bednarik referred to disparaging remarks made this past winter about the Eagles, comments that their 1960 championship was a fluke, the best team didn't win.

Taking a few minutes off from training chores at the Eagles' preseason camp in this eastern Pennsylvania countryside, Bednarik said, "We've got to prove champions."

The NFL's iron man played 394½ minutes in 12 league games last season.

Bednarik, who has missed only three of 147 games since the Eagles made him their bonus pick for the 1949 season, says 1961 should be his last as an active player.

Tigers Mix It Up In Early Session

The Snyder Tigers coaching staff, attempting to put muscle into their 1961 proteges at an early date, sent their charges through a rough and tumble session here on the high school practice field yesterday.

A practice scrimmage held the spotlight yesterday, with some head-knocking being in evidence. Experimentation with both four- and five-man defensive lines was also utilized during the scrimmage period.

Yesterday was the first in the series of two, a day workouts for the team, which began Monday morning. Those morning and afternoon workouts will continue until the beginning of the school term, at which time the reversion to afternoon sessions will be made.

Junior Editors Quiz on MUSIC

Singing angel using notes from a 15th century painting.

Notes over text - 10th century

Staff line added - 14th century

Later 14th century with 3 staff lines

QUESTION: How did musical notes originate?

ANSWER: The first use of notes in history is in ancient China where music was held in high regard. These were not notes as we know them but written characters, making it possible for them to record a melody or song. Our notes did not develop from these characters, however. Our system comes from Greece where scales were developed which were something like the ones we use. But it was not until the Middle Ages, in the tenth century, that little characters showing the way music went up or down were written above the words of religious music. These were the first notes and you can see them in our picture. At first there were no staff lines, but first one and then three or four lines were added until finally there were five as we have them today. But by the notes were broken into long ones and short ones. These notes were first worked out for instruments, especially organs, but they proved so helpful for the musicians that soon they were used for songs as well. The first actual use of this kind of notation was in the year 912.

FOR YOU TO DO: Perhaps you are a musician and know all about written music. If not, get somebody who knows to show you a note on the music and then play it so that you will understand how the system works.

(Patty) Shea of Redwood City, Calif. wins $10 for this question. Send yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.

See Jack & Jack For Real Estate

Farm and ranch listings, as well as city property, are a specialty of Jack & Jack Realty Co. The firm, located at 611 East Highway, has a number of farm and ranch listings in Scurry, Mitchell, Garza and other adjoining counties, according to L. A. McClanahan, owner.

The real estate business also has listings on farms and ranches in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Third listings include a number of irrigated farms that are good buys. To handle the real estate, Jack & Jack has salespeople who are experienced in the farming and ranching business.

One of the salespeople is Mrs. Leona Weathers, who specializes in the "best farms and homes under the sun." Mrs. Weathers has dealt with farm and ranch property for over 10 years.

In addition to McClanahan and Mrs. Weathers, the qualified employees include Preston Wilson, Mrs. McClanahan and Ruth Keenan.

Jack & Jack Realty still handles city properties, too, both for sale and on property management basis.

The firm had its beginning in a home construction project during the oil boom and is now a permanent fixture on the Snyder business scene.

If you are looking for the very best deal for the home of your dreams, place trust in Jack & Jack to locate and arrange financing for the home.

Jack & Jack has bargains aplenty in just the right size and in most any part of town. They have nice listings in two and three bedroom homes and will arrange all details concerning financing whether the requirements are for FHA or conventional loans.

Plenty of free parking space is another attraction of Jack & Jack Realty, located on the East Highway.

Take your real estate problem to Jack & Jack for experienced, personal assistance.

Berlin 'Gruesome' For Many Reasons

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Berlin crisis is gruesome for more reasons than just the chance of war.

Without war this will be only one in a series of crises around the world for years between the West and communism.

Even at its inauguration President Kennedy, looking to the anniversary years beyond, said there would be no finish "even perhaps in our lifetime."

And in his July talk to the nation after the Berlin crisis began — Kennedy said "That isolated outpost is not an isolated problem. The threat is worldwide."

Since the Russians and Red Chinese are dedicated to taking over the world, but can't do it all at once, they will keep trying a bit at a time.

In the future the rest of the world probably will look back on this time—when the United States and the Soviet Union alone had nuclear missiles big enough to blow each other off the earth — as a comparatively comfortable time.

More and more nations in size, particularly Red China, should have similar weapons of mass destruction.

So, while two giants dominate the world now, eventually others, armed like giants, can act like them. This will simply compound trouble.

For example, at this moment the Red Chinese, still lacking nuclear weapons, are soft-pedaling their claim to Formosa which is occupied by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and is under American protection.

They've banged away at the tiny islands Chiang holds close to the mainland. They haven't tried to attack Formosa itself for a simple, good reason: The United States has the nuclear muscle and they don't.

This will change when they get the muscle. Then will the United States for the sake of Formosa risk a nuclear war with Red China which would almost certainly mean war with the Soviet Union?

If not, then the other American Allies in Asia may lose faith in this country. At the same time some of those same Allies, plus the European Allies, may prefer seeing Formosa lost to rising nuclear war.

This is just one of the dilemmas ahead. Even without threats from Red China, Formosa may be thrown into internal crisis when Chiang dies. And it is not even thought of now will become critical areas in the struggle with communism.

Africa, for instance, or countries in Latin America where communism, through Fidel Castro, has an ideological launching pad in Cuba.

Then there's Korea. The Communists were stopped once from taking it by force. But he lies next to Red China and Red North Korea.

The Communist effort to take it over, by force or subversion, will not end.

It will increase in direct proportion to Red China's increasing strength in nuclear weapons.

If that goes all Southeast Asia is in jeopardy. And the places mentioned here are just the obvious trouble spots ahead. There are others.

Says Regime Trying Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Negro official of the State Department declared Tuesday night that the Kennedy administration has embarked on an unprecedented campaign "to root out racial discrimination" in the United States.

He advised American Negroes to stop complaining about the lack of new civil rights legislation.

In a speech for a meeting of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Carl T. Rowan said: "There hasn't been even a remote chance of getting meaningful civil rights legislation out of this Congress."

Rowan is a deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs and a former Washington newspaperman.

"No administration in the nation's history," he said, "ever set so far ahead a determined campaign to root out racial discrimination."

"You must continue to give this administration hell," Rowan told the Negro fraternity delegates when you think it is wrong or not moving forward with proper speed. You do neither these of us in the administration nor the nation are aided by displaying hostility.

Britons In Study Of Last Illnesses

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The last illness, the human confusion of racing the sun, and operating on hearts packed in ice are subjects with a focus on health.

DEATH IN OLD AGE
What of the last weeks and days of life?

British researchers have made a study of death as it came to 220 ailing old people, aged 60 to 101, in a hospital.

At least a quarter of the patients were aware they were dying. And most of them met this awareness without fear or misgiving, even with calmness. In seven of the patients the premonition of death came within a few hours of the fact.

Only 13 per cent of the patients complained of moderate to severe pain during this last illness. Oddly the pain was more prevalent with diseases like rheumatoid arthritis than in other ailments including cancer. Less than a quarter of those with cancer suffered moderate to severe pain.

DAYLIGHT SAVING
The jet airplane and its rapid transit across the oceans and continents have added an element of confusion to the traveler's adjustment problems.

Picture this: You leave Paris at noon and arrive in New York at 3 p.m. local time. You've been in the air seven hours. But jet speed racing the sun has saved you four. Now is you work an eight-hour day, you are working a 12-hour day. Even dinner will be late, four hours late.

Air Force researchers point out that some 70 per cent of jet travelers are so sensitive to such shifts in phase that they may develop some disorder or other trying to adjust.

Two obvious solutions: Adopt the living and time patterns of your destination before you leave. Or arrive early enough so you will have time to adjust.

COLD HEART
Doctors are now actually packing the heart in ice for some prolonged heart operations.

Bottles of saline ice crystals—a sort of salt water slush—are prepared before the operation and the crystals are packed around the heart as they are needed, arresting the heart's action while the surgeon works.

British researchers tested the method reported last year in the United States. It was useful in cases where the heart muscle has to be arrested for longer than 15 minutes.

The heart is warmed and starts normal action when resupplied with warm blood promptly after the operation without signs of impairment.

Woman Says Tale A Hoax

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A California woman was scheduled to be arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on charges she lied to the FBI when she said she was kidnapped and raped during a 17-day ride of terror.

Clara Bell Roderick, 23, of San Mateo, Calif., was charged Tuesday night after she changed her earlier story and said she left home on her own.

The pretty blonde housewife, who stumbled into a Houston motel early Monday and said she was kidnapped from her house July 27, changed her story shortly before she was to take a routine lie detector test.

Her first story was that a foul-mouthed man forced her to go with him to a country house where he came to her house to answer a dog-for-sale advertisement.

She said the man kept her and her 4-year-old son, Bobby, a prisoner in a stolen car during the trip and fed them only hamburgers. She was raped repeatedly, she said.

Her later story was that she became angry over bills and left home of her own accord.

Her husband, Ernest Roderick of San Mateo, is an unemployed postal worker.

She spent Tuesday night in jail. Bobby, her son by a previous marriage, is being kept in a county home.

Military Services Plan For Buildup

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is advising 111 Reserve units, none of them of division size, that they may be called to duty as part of the buildup of U. S. conventional forces for meeting any trouble over Berlin.

Most of them probably will be support-type outfits, although there may be some combat units.

This alert plan, similar to one announced recently by the Air Force for 71 Air National Guard and Reserve units, followed closely other moves in manpower expansion by the Air Force and Navy.

The Air Force announced Tuesday that it is aiming at adding about 25,000 men to its strength by asking volunteers to continue on duty after reaching normal active duty termination, and by holding others in service if there aren't enough volunteers. There seemed to be no high hope that the full 25,000 requirement would be met by volunteers.

The Navy announced Monday that it will hold on duty 26,990 men whose service otherwise would end before next June 30.

Kennan Gives Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—George F. Kennan, U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, visited President Kennedy at the White House Tuesday.

Kennan, 61, came home last week for consultations.

The White House gave out no information as to the nature of Kennan's report to the President.

Boy Stuck On Faucett

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Virginia Coons was still trying to determine today how her son Michael Edward, 5, got that big bathtub faucet stuck in his mouth.

Its removal necessitated the use of police, firemen and a doctor. It also caused her to go into shock.

"I just don't know how he did it," she said. "I saw him put his mouth around it once and told him not to do it again."

"I turned around for a moment and when I turned back around there it was."

She couldn't get it out, and neither could police. Firemen arrived and cut it off the tub with a hacksaw.

Faucet in mouth, Mike was taken to St. John's Hospital where a doctor had better luck.
