How's that?

Ice cream

Q. When was ice cream invented?

A. The first recorded use of any substance resembling ice cream took place in the first centry A.D., with Nero Claudius Caesar, emperor of Rome. He added fruit juice and other flavorings to snow, resulting in a substance closely resembling modern fruit ices, according to the "Encylopedia Americana." The secret, however, was lost during the invasion of the empire by the barbarian horde.

Recorded history doesn't mention a similar dish until the 13th century, when Marco Polo returned from his travels to Cathay, bringing a recipe which added milk to the snow and flavorings. Historians think ice cream came to the United States with the Pilgrims during the 1600s, the encyclopedia said.

Outside

Mild

Skies today are partly cloudy with a high in the mid 90s and southerly winds at 5 to 15 miles per hour. Tonight and Wednesday, the forecast calls for isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms, a low tonight near 70 and a high Wednesday in the upper 90s.

Lighter side

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The only problem at the wedding of Charlene Mohr and Richard Schudel was getting the electric organ onto the river.

Schudel says it took him and three friends to maneuver the thing onto a boat so it could be played for the nautical nuptials that united the pair recently.

The couple married aboard boats at the confluence of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, beside a statue of Our Lady of The Rivers near Portage Des Sioux, Mo.

Miss Mohr rode to the ceremony aboard one houseboat, Schudel came on another, and the two boats were lashed together for the wedding.

Guests arrived on 18 cabin cruisers and motorboats, and a launch brought the Rev. Orrin Anderson, interim pastor at the First Congregational Church in Alton.

Farm export crunch slows

Economist predicts worst is over

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crunch on U.S. farm exports may be winding down, and an era of long-term growth could be at hand, if the signals are correct, an Agriculture Department economist says.

During the 1970s, a time of escalating farmland prices and inflation, the volume of U.S. farm exports increased an average of 8 percent per year. So far in the 1980s, including this year, the amount shipped has declined annually.

Clark Edwards of USDA's Economic Research Service says the forecasts indicate "the worst may soon be over" for exports, which have become vital to the financial well-being of so many of the nation's farmers.

"The foreign exchange value of the dollar has been dropping against many major currencies, and our commodity prices are closer to market-clearing levels," Edwards said Monday in a new agency report. "Farmers' production costs are stabilizing, and rates of return on investment in agriculture are recovering from reduced levels for many farm enterprises."

Perhaps the most important development for American agriculture — assuming decades ahead without major wars — will be the steady increase in global population, which, according to the Population Institute, has now reached 5 billion people, double what it was in 1950.

"The long-run trend in export growth over the past three decades averaged about 3 percent per year," Edwards said. "If we can manage to get back on that track — and it appears that we can — agriculture's recovery will be hastened."

Although Edwards thinks farmers will continue to see "temporary strains" in the future as they have in the past, he said those need not lead to prolonged periods of either surplus or shortage.

The recovery of lost export markets, however, will make American farmers more dependent on foreign buyers — and more vulnerable to future price swings of foreign origin.

"By the year 2000, around half of U.S. harvested cropland could be producing for export markets, up from an average of 36 percent in the last five years," Edwards said. "The livestock sector could also become more involved in exports, reducing its insulation from foreign market swings."

Why, with such risks apparent, should the United States push so hard for a greater share of the world agricultural export market? Perhaps, he said, because the alternatives are less appealing.

Governor says closing UTPB would be tragic

Staff and wire reports

AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White has lined up in support of five colleges, including the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, that he said have been mentioned as possible candidates for closing as a result of a special committee's work.

White, in a July 3 letter to chairman Larry Temple of the Select Committee on Higher Education, said:

"I am deeply concerned by speculation and press reports which suggest that some of Texas' finest institutions of higher education, such as Sul Ross University, East Texas State University, the University of Texas at Permian Basin, Laredo State University or Texas A&M University at Galveston, may be closed as a result of the committee's findings.

"As I have previously communicated to you, I believe such action would be a tragic mistake. These institutions offer unique access and programs that are unavailable anywhere else in the state, and to eliminate them would deny opportunities to a large number of citizens. We simply cannot place too high a value on those opportunities," White said.

In Odessa, the president of the UT at Permian Basin says he is confident the school will not be closed or merged with another institution because it is so important to the region.

President Duane Leach said UTPB is the only university in West Texas, serving some 450,000 people in 22 counties. UTPB is essential to the area's economy, he said.

"I think there won't be any merger. That's the recommendation of the UT System," he said.

Leach said no further lobbying effort has been organized to keep the university open. A group of more than 100 area business, civic and political leaders, including several from Big Spring, went before the board June 13 to persuade it not to close the university's doors.

He said the school was briefly ex-

4-H visitors discover Texas

By HANK MURPHY

For some 4-H'ers from a small town tucked in the green Smoky Mountains in western North Carolina, West Texas was not what they had envisioned.

It isn't a sand desert with giant Saguaro cactus growing everywhere. Nor is it a desert with "little cactus sticking up everyhere," as one visitor said.

The North Carolina 4-H'ers discovered that not everyone in Texas wore cowboy boots and hats, big belt buckles and jeans. In fact, Haywood County extension agent Randy Coleman said his stereotypical view of the Lone Star State burst when he visited Austin this week. "Austin's preppy," he said.

Coleman and Haywood County 4-H leader Susie Young led 14 young men and women from the mountain city of Waynesville, N.C., on a two-day car trip to Big Spring. The trip was part of the 4-H County Exchange Program.

The program was started about 25 years ago by the Haywood County 4-H, Coleman said. The first exchange was between Haywood and a Michigan county, he said.

The group arrived in Big Spring Friday night. Each teenager and Coleman and Young are staying until Wednesday with an area host family. Col-

Council takes steps on sports complex

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Designers will request a lump sum for planning and supervising certain engineering facets of the city's proposed sports complex, Design Plus architect Phil Ferqueron said this morning.

The new city softball complex was nudged closer to reality as City Council reached an understanding with the project's designers at a work session Monday afternoon.

Also during the work session, a council committee outlined plans to draft an ordinance banning glass beverage containers from municipal property and restricting alcohol consumption to designated areas in city parks.

Ferqueron and Richard Dormier, an engineer with G.S.W. & Associates of Big Spring, were asked by the council to submit the cost of drawing plans and overseeing "critical engineer work" for the proposed sports complex to be located just southwest of town.

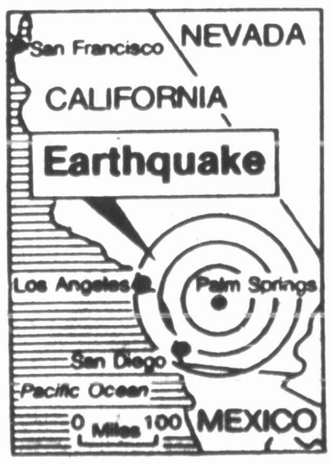

Council thinking was with just $112,000 in hand to fund the project, the least expensive route would be for city, county and volunteer labor to build it.

"I guarantee you that between county, city and volunteer labor, we can build this park," said Councilman Johnny Rutherford.

Ferqueron and Dormier submitted a proposal to the council in June, a $1.3 million "wish list" for a multisports complex replete with seven soccer fields, four ballfields, room for RV camping, and jogging trails. The designers had requested about 7 percent of the total cost of the project, whether the city bought the entire package or a bare

Quake shakes Southern California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The strongest earthquake to hit Southern California in 15 years shook a wide region early today, triggering rockslides, shattering windows and knocking out power to 100,000 customers, but there were no immediate reports of injuries or heavy damage.

The 2:21 a.m. PDT earthquake measured 6.0 on the Richter scale and was centered 12 miles northwest of Palm Springs, said Dennis Meredith of the California Institute of Technology. Palm Springs is 110 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

"It's a big one," Meredith said.

In Washington, D.C., U.S. Geological Survey spokesman Don Finley said the epicenter of the quake was about 40 miles east of San Bernardino in mountains near the edge of the Mojave Desert.

"Early reports said there was some damage in the epicentral area," he said.

The quake was the strongest to hit Southern California since Feb. 9, 1971, when a quake measuring 6.5 on the Richter scale collapsed a Sylmar hospital, killing three people. The quake caused $550 million damage in the Los Angeles area.

A quake measuring 6 on the open-ended scale is capable of causing severe damage. Today's quake was felt from San Diego, 100 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, to the San Fernando Valley, 120 miles north. Radio stations in Lake Havasu, Ariz., and Las Vegas, Nev., reported the quake felt there as well.

"A lot of people were just pouring out of my apartment complex into the parking lot and the street to get away from the building," said Jack Kowalec, assistant city editor of The Desert Sun newspaper in Palm Springs. "There was a little bit of panic, a little bit of hysteria."

Gene Aker, night copy editor at the newspaper, said the quake shattered a window in the building.

The quake initially knocked out power to 10,000 to 15,000 households when it damaged a Southern California Edison Co. substation in Desert Hot Springs, said spokeswoman Becky Sordelet.

The load was automatically picked up by an electrical system belonging to the Metropolitan Water District, she said, but at about 4 a.m., the load grew too large, and those circuits shut down.

The result was a blackout throughout Palm Springs and the Coachella Valley region. The lights began to come back on around 5 a.m.

Rocks rolled across all four lanes of State Highway 111, the main road into the desert resort from the west. An 18-wheel truck had a minor accident at the slide site, probably when it hit a rock, but no bones version.

Charging a flat fee for designing plans and supervising critical engineering was "a compromise" with the city, Ferqueron said.

With the city strapped for money, the course taken by council was prudent, he said.

On the matter of glass containers, an ordinance banning them from municipal property appears headed for a council vote sometime next month.

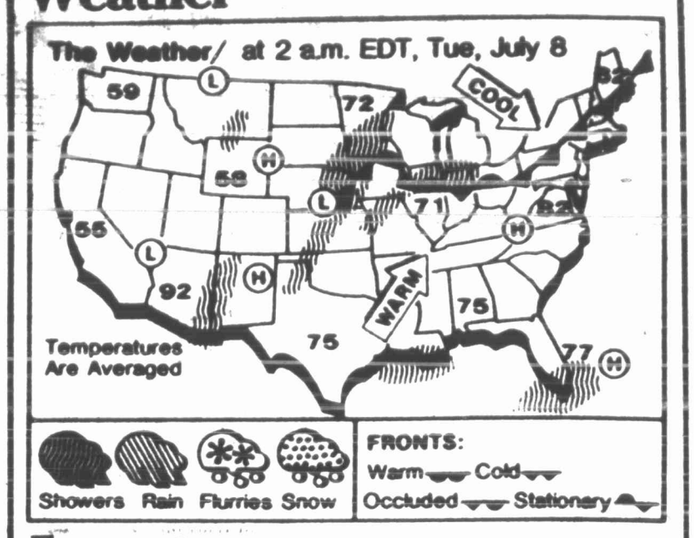

"We've got a glass problem in our parks," Rutherford said. "The only way to solve it is to get it out of there."

Councilman Harold Hall said the best way to solve the problem would be to ask beer distributors to handle only cans.

But Councilmen Gary Don Carey and Rutherford, who composed the council committee appointed to discuss options with bottlers and distributors, said beer in bottles represents nearly a third of the distributors' business. The distributors said such a ban would hurt them economically.

Along with prohibiting glass, drinking may be restricted to certain areas of city parks, especially places where children congregate.

Forecast

By The Associated Press

WEST TEXAS - Today's forecast calls for scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly west of the mountains with locally heavy rain possible. Otherwise, partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures are predicted through Wednesday. Lows tonight will be in the 60s north and mountains to mid 70s in the valleys of southwest. Highs Wednesday will be mostly in the 90s, except near 102 in the Big Bend area.

eman is staying with Howard County assistant extension agent Mike Bragg.

George Ferguson, 17, of Waynesville said he thought West Texas would be greener than it is. He also thought there would be more farms.

He said a difference between West Texas farms and those back home is the size. Texas farms, like most things in Texas, are bigger. Also, he said, farmers here use horses in their operations much more than growers in the east.

Ferguson said farmers in North Carolina "work together more." They often "go in together" to buy farm equipment.

Another difference in agriculture is the lack of anything that could be called a ranch in western Carolina. Beef, he said, is raised on farms. With so many mountains, there simply isn't room for big ranches, he explained.

The teens from Haywood saw some area 4-H'ers rope and tie calves, and several rode a mule bareback.

Visitor Rhonda Young, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rock of Big Spring and their daughters Tonya and Tosha, said she is already looking forward to next year when Tonya and Tosha come to Waynesville on a reciprocal visit.

"We've gotten to be real good friends. These are my adopted sisters," she said.

Man arrested on assault

Robert Phillips, 32, of Coahoma was arrested at 6:07 p.m. Monday on suspicion of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and criminal mischief.

He was released on bonds totaling $1,250.

• Otis Earl King, 43, of 501 S. Main St. was arrested at 5:07 p.m. Monday at his residence on suspicion of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He was released on $1,000 bond.

• Deputies arrested Joseph B. Lopez, 18, 804 Johnson St. after the defendant's bondsman withdrew his bond. Lopez was initially arrested for criminal mischief. He was released on $500 bond from another bondsman.

• A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Freddie Eugene Puga, 43, of 202 Lockhart St. Monday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was stopped at the intersection of N. Birdwell Lane and Hilltop Road.

He was released on $1,000 bond.

• Jose Jacinto Silva, 37, of Coahoma was arrested Monday afternoon to begin serving a 30-day jail sentence for driving while intoxicated.

• Benny Lee Coleman, 22, of 509 Donley St. was released from county jail Monday morning after he served 53 days of a 60-day jail sentence. The sentence was ordered after his probation was revoked for a DWI conviction.

Judge revokes probation

County Judge Milton Kirby revoked the probation of a Coahoma man and placed a Big Spring man on probation Monday.

Keith Pherigo, 32, of Coahoma was ordered to serve 40 days in county jail for violating his probation from a 1984 driving while intoxicated conviction.

According to county court files, Pherigo violated his probation by being arrested in Brownsville in October 1985 for possession of marijuana. He pleaded guilty to the charge in a U.S. district court and was fined $2,000 and placed on a two-year probated prison sentence.

He also was found to have violated probation by leaving Howard County for Brownsville without the permission of his probation officer.

Randy Price Franklin, 36, of 3611 Hamilton St. was given a six-month jail sentence probated for two years, and was fined $300 and $131 court costs.

He pleaded no contest to a driving while intoxicated charge stemming from an April 24 arrest on FM 669, five miles north of Big Spring.

Area woman named to board

ABILENE — Mary Prudie Brown of Stanton, first vice president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, has been named to the Abilene Christian University board of trustees.

The appointment was made during the board's annual May meeting.

Brown graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from ACU in 1943. She earned her master's degree from the University of Colorado and did graduate work at the University of Minnesota.

She is active in community affairs and has been named Outstanding Civic Leader three times by the Stanton Chamber of Commerce. She also has received the Woman of the Year Award in Beta Sigman Phi and received Abilene Christian's Alumni Citation Award in 1976.

She serves as vice president of the Fine Arts Society of Texas and is a member of the Texas Historical Society, Alpha Psi Omega Drama Society, Midland Symphony Guild and the Southwestern Hospitality Board of the Metropolitan Opera in Dallas.

She and her husband, Glenn L. Brown, a pharmacist, attend Stanton Church of Christ. They have three children.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — LOUIS L'AMOUR, whose nearly 100 novels about the frontier days have preserved memories of the Old West, says Westerners must save the region's unique atmosphere no matter what price is offered for it.

"We must treat the West as our living room and not mess it up," L'Amour said Monday in a speech at the annual meeting of the Western Governors' Association. "In the West, we have space and an atmosphere in which we can grow and develop, and we must preserve that."

In addition to his warning about unchecked growth, L'Amour said he considered it crucial that Westerners preserve the environment, saying "it's not such a great effort to do that."

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Poet and novelist JAMES DICKEY says he feels weak and tired but otherwise well following his release from a hospital after removal of a brain clot.

The 63-year-old Dickey, whose works include "Deliverance," was released Sunday from Richland Memorial Hospital.

Dickey, a University of South Carolina professor who has four books that are expected to be released during the next 12 months, had suffered from headaches for about two months and had emergency neurosurgery June 30, said his wife, Deborah.

PHILADELPHIA — Singer TEDDY PENDERGRASS, recovering from injuries sustained in the crash of his van last week, is "upbeat" and ready to go home from the hospital, a spokesman said.

Pendergrass, who was partially paralyzed in a 1982 car crash, was in good condition Monday at Osteopathic Medical Center and out of intensive care, hospital spokesman George Hatzfield said.

If his improvement continues, he may be released Friday, Hatzfield said.

"He's upbeat. You'll find in any person who has had major surgery there comes a time they say, 'I'm ready to go home.' Teddy's at the point he would like to move a little faster than his body is ready to do. That's a really good sign," Hatzfeld said.

Pendergrass, 36, underwent surgery to repair a gash in his liver after crashing his van into a utility pole Thursday.

WASHINGTON — Tennis star PAM SHRIVER, fresh from her Wimbledon doubles victory with Martina Navratilova, will succeed skater Dorothy Hamill as a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Also appointed was George W. Armstrong, a businessman from Alexandria, Va., and former associate director of the White House office of presidential personnel. His position is a new slot on the council.

Shriver teamed up with Navratilova to win the women's doubles tournament Sunday.

• Della R. Washington, 25, of 506 State St. was arrested on a theft warrant Monday morning at 113 E. Second St. She was transferred to county jail and released on $1,000 bond.

• Felipe (Phillip) Gomez, 23, of 3304 W. Highway 80 was arrested on traffic warrants Monday night. He was released on bond.

• Roy Payne of Fiberflex told police Monday morning that someone known to the company stole two power saws and a drill with a combined value of $400-$500.

• Joyce Ann Wilson of 712½ E. 12th St. told police Monday afternoon that someone she knows threatened and assaulted her outside her home Friday afternoon.

• Jane Thomas of 400 Washington Blvd. told police Monday afternoon35 gold chain from her home between noon and 2 p.m. Monday.

• Sam Becker of 1222 W. Third St. told police Monday night that someone threatened him with a knife.

• Etta Murphy, 1002 N. Main St. Apt. 17, told police Monday night that someone she knows struck her in the mouth with a fist outside the police department at 10:58 Monday night. She suffered a cut on her lip, according to the complaint.

• Betty Hamilton of 1405 State St. told police Monday night that someone caused $275 damage to four windows and two screens at her home at 11:20 p.m. Monday.

one was injured, said Highway Patrol officer Brian Green.

The quake buckled part of State Highway 62 in Morongo Valley, while another slide hit State Highway 74 in the San Jacinto Mountains, he said.

On State Highway 243, which serves the community of Idyllwild and other mountain resort areas, numerous small rockslides were reported, said Riverside County sheriff's dispatcher Lenore Zielenski. Rocks also tumbled onto the Ortega Highway in the desert, Ms. Zielenski said.

A fire that caused $30,000 damage to a glass company in Cathedral City, just south of Palm Springs, may have started by a quake-caused electrical short-circuit, said Capt. Dan Proctor of the Riverside County fire department.

A 60-acre brushfire in the mountains above Cabazon, 80 miles east of downtown Los Angeles on Interstate 10, may have been caused by sparks from power lines whipped around by the quake, a fire dispatcher said.

The Southern California Gas Co. got numerous reports of small gas line breaks, but found no serious damage, said spokeswoman Sharon Woodson-Bryant.

Greg Gross, a resident of Rancho Penasquitos, about 15 miles north of San Diego, said he was watching a movie on television when he felt the floor starting to move.

"I figured it would pass after a couple of seconds and then it continued. And then the windows really started to rattle. The patio door, which is all glass, really started to rattle," Gross said.

"I've been living here since 1975, and this is the biggest single shaking that I can recall ever feeling," he said.

Reports flooded in to police agencies throughout the region following the quake. Most callers said it lasted 30 seconds to one minute, officials said.

Residents of the area reported dozens of small aftershocks.

On July 2, a quake measuring 3.1 on the Richter scale shook the Moreno Valley area of Riverside County, 40 miles west of Palm Springs. The quake caused no reported injuries or damage.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in the strength of the shaking. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on the Richter scale.

White urged Temple and the committee "to take all necessary action to ensure the continued growth of quality education" at regional institutions "so that the citizens of Texas will continue to have ready access to higher education."

Dow Jones plunges

NEW YORK — Renewed pessimism over the economy sent Wall Street's best-known indicater, the Dow Jones industrial average, plunging 61.87 points in its largest one-day drop in history.

However, Monday's slide to 1,839.00 represented just 3.25 percent of the average's value, and far below big declines in previous years when the average was lower, such as the 12.9 percent fall Oct. 28, 1929.

The decline in the average of 30 blue-chip stocks surpassed the previous record point drop of 45.75 points set June 9.

Trial ordered for Goetz

ALBANY, N.Y. — New York's top court today ordeed Bernhard Goetz to stand trial on charges of attempted murder and assault in the 1984 shootings of four youths on a Manhattan subway.

In a 7-0 decision, the Court of Appeals reinstated charges thrown out by lower courts.

Goetz also faces less serious charges of illegal possession of weapons.

Budget getting worse

AUSTIN (AP) — The state government's budget woes are getting worse, and the deficit is mushrooming beyond the $2.3 billion already forecast, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

"I'm not going to second-guess the exact number we'll be facing at the end of the month, but with deteriorating conditions in the Texas economy it will be substantially higher than the current estimate," Bullock said Monday.

Bullock said the state's 10.5 percent unemployment rate announced last week is one of several indicators signaling an even larger shortfall.

"We expect a new revenue estimate before Aug. 1, and, frankly, none of the indicators contain an ounce of good news," Bullock said.

Rig count drops to 672

HOUSTON — The number of working oil and gas drilling rigs fell to another all-time low this week as decreased and unstable prices continued to discourage production, a Hughes Tool Co. spokesman said Monday.

The active U.S. rig count dropped to 672, a 25-rig loss from last week's count of 697, spokesman Don King said. It was the second straight loss after two weeks of growth.

In addition to the low and unstable prices, uncertainty resulting from proposed federal tax reforms contributed to the decline, King said.

The company's previous all-time low was 686 working oil rigs a month ago.

Before 1971, the lowest number was 805 rigs working in April 1943, said officials with Hughes Tool, an oil tool maker that has kept industry statistics since 1940.

Detectives escort Juan Gonzalez, 43, into a Staten Island police station Tuesday after he was arrested following a stabbing rampage aboard the Staten Island Ferry Monday morning. Police said two passengers were killed and nine others were injured in the attack.

Homeless man kills two, wounds nine

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Edward I. Koch has ordered an investigation into why a hospital released a 43-year-old homeless man from psychiatric observation only two days before he killed two people and wounded nine others with a sword, officials said.

Juan Gonzalez, who has been charged with second-degree murder and assault and other charges, said he was acting on God's orders Monday morning, when he carried out his attack on a Staten Island ferry carrying up to 500 passengers, police said.

Gonzalez was subdued by a former policeman who fired a gun to make him surrender after a five-minute rampage.

Koch said Gonzalez was taken to Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center for observation on Thursday after acting strangely at a men's shelter and saying "Jesus told him to kill." He was released Saturday, the mayor said.

The New York Times reported that the hospital had diagnosed Gonzalez as having a psychotic paranoid disorder, but he was ordered released once he promised to seek psychiatric care at another hospital.

Koch ordered the city's mental health commissioner to investigate procedures surrounding the case and issue a report by Friday.

The Samuel J. Newhouse, a 6,000-passenger vessel, left Manhattan for Staten Island at 8:30 a.m. Monday with 400 to 500 riders, said Victor Ross, a city Transportation Department spokesman. On board were commuters and tourists in town for the Statue of Liberty centennial celebrations.

"It was bedlam," said Edward del Pino, who subdued the man. "Everyone was running past me incoherently screaming."

Del Pino, who was heading home from his job as a night security guard, said he asked a woman what was happening and she replied, " 'I don't know. Everyone's running, so I'm running too.'"

The 55-year-old del Pino said he pushed through the mob to where Gonzalez stood over a woman and "to my horror, I see him going up and down, lunging down repeatedly with the sword."

"I yelled, 'Drop it!'" he said.

He also shot in Gonzalez' direction and Gonzalez dropped the weapon.

Del Pino made Gonzalez sprawl across a seat and warned him, "If you move, you're dead."

Deputy Police Commissioner Richard Condon called the 24-year police veteran a hero, but del Pino said his reward came from the thanks he received from a girl who had been slashed.

When asked about Gonzalez' motive, Condon replied, "He said God told him to do it."

Condon said Gonzalez told police he was homeless and a "boat person" from Cuba who came to thie United States in March 1977.

Waldheim takes office

VIENNA, Austria — Kurt Waldheim, who is accused of hiding a Nazi past, today took office as president of Austria and condemned anti-Semitism by declaring "Never Again" to the persecution of Jews.

"The 'Never Again' sworn atop the rubble of the Second World War by Austrians referred then and refers today too not only to the horrors of the Holocaust but also to the frightening frame of mind that caused it: anti-Semitism," Waldheim said in his inaugural speech to Parliament after being sworn in.

Waldheim, 67, who succeeds Rudolf Kirchschlaeger in the mainly ceremonial office of president, won the six-year term in a June 8 election after a bitter campaign.

Opposition claims lead

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico — The National Action Party claimed a slight lead Monday in the Chihuahua gubernatorial election while the governing party added one more mayor's race in the state to its unofficial list of triumphs.

The Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), which has dominated Mexican politics since it was found in 1929, earlier claimed it had won the Chihuahua gubernatorial race in Sunday's balloting.

It also said it had regained the mayor's office in the wealthy agricultural center of Cuauhtemoc, 65 miles southwest of this capital city.

The PRI had lost 10 mayoral races, including Cuauhtemoc, in Chihuahua's 1983 municipal elections.

37 hurt in explosion

NICOSIA, Cyprus — A bomb exploded in a tea shop in the Iranian capital's Revolution Square during morning rush hour today, wounding at least 37 people, Iran's official news agency reported.

The 7:40 a.m. blast in Tehran ignited a canister of cooking gas in the shop, the Islamic Republic News Agency said.

The explosions destroyed the tea shop, three other nearby shops and a bus depot, IRNA said. Other buildings within a 150-foot radius were damaged, the report said.

Politician's revolt ends

MANILA, Philippines — A revolt led by a pro-Marcos politician and backed by four generals collapsed at dawn today when the rebels abandoned a luxury hotel they had occupied for nearly 40 hours and surrendered.

Justice Minister Neptali Gonzales said he was told to file charges against Arturo Tolentino, the 75-year-old former running mate of ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos. Tolentino launched the rebellion Sunday by proclaiming himself "acting president."

Gonzales did not elaborate on what charges might be filed.

Ruling a major equality victory

Working women won a major victory recently when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that sexual harassment on the job is illegal even when its victim suffers no economic loss. The court's unequivocal ruling constitutes a major advance for sexual equality and for decency in the workplace.

All nine justices agreed with Chief Justice-designate William H. Rehnquist that sexual harassment of an employee violates federal laws against sex discrimination if it creates "a hostile or abusive work environment."

This same common-sense standard already had been adopted by the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and upheld by several lower courts.

Clearly, a woman faces the most reprehensible form of job discrimination if her supervisor makes sexual favors a condition of employment or promotion.

Unfortunately, despite federal and state laws against sex discrimination, reported cases of physical and psychological abuse of women employees by male supervisors have increased nearly 50 percent since EEOC began keeping records in 1981.

The Supreme Court case involved a lawsuit filed by Michelle Vinson, a former assistant branch manager of Meritor Savings Bank in Washington, D.C. Miss Vinson alleged she was sexually harassed on the job and forced to have sex with her supervisor.

Although Miss Vinson acknowledged consenting to some of the acts, she said she did so only out "fear of losing her job."

A U.S. District Court judge dismissed the case because Miss Vinson did not contend that the alleged harassment hurt her economically. The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated the suit and its decision was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Not surprisingly, this court's decision left some unanswered questions.

For example, trial courts must determine whether employers are liable for damages when the employer was unaware of the harassment; whether to admit evidence of a complainant's allegedly provocative clothing and behavior; and the standards of proof and credibility necessary for a victim to win a judgment.

Nevertheless, the Supreme Court's unanimous decision in its first sexual harassment case leaves no doubt that the Civil Rights Act of 1964 protects women from unwelcome sexual advances that create an offensive working environment.

Every employer in the nation should instruct supervisors that sexual harassment is a violation of company policy and federal law.

Conventions coverage criticized

To the editor:

I have been taking the Big Spring Herald for 35 years and have never been so disappointed in a newspaper as I have with the Herald in recent years.

It seems you consistently become less interested in Big Spring in reporting local events and feel everything should be prepared and brought to you to be printed.

Not one precinct convention was reported after the first primary. Not one word was printed on the county political conventions.

I was called by a reporter from the Austin paper regarding the Howard County delegation attending the state Demoractic Convention in Austin and the Herald picked it up from a wire service from Austin and printed it — no contact from the Herald.

I was again interviewed by the Austin reporter in Austin at the convention about the Howard County delegation and its goal and/or achievements — but no inquiry from the Big Spring Herald.

Do you not believe that the political actions of state party politics concern your readers? Those conventions are the roots of political actions that affect all people of Texas. Why did you sleep through it all?

D.A. BRAZEL

Editor's note: The reporter that contacted Brazel in Austin was a representative of the Herald's Austin bureau.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 8, 1835, the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia cracked as it was rung for the funeral for Chief Justice John Marshall.

On this date:

In 1663, King Charles II of England granted a charter to Rhode Island.

In 1776, a Col. John Nixon gave the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence to a crowd gathered at Independence Square in Philadelphia.

In 1889, The Wall Street Journal was first published.

In 1919, President Woodrow Wilson received a tumultuous welcome in New York City after his return from the Versailles Peace Conference in France.

In 1950, Gen. Douglas MacArthur was named commander-in-chief of United Nations forces in Korea.

In 1959, Maj. Dale R. Buis of Imperial Beach, Calif., and Master Sgt. Chester M. Ovnand of Copperas Cove, Texas, became the first American soldiers to be killed during the Vietnam War.

Ten years ago: the Indonesian government said the death toll from an earthquake and landslides on the Indonesian part of the island of New Guinea had surpassed 5,000.

Five years ago: dock workers in Poland went on strike with the support of Solidarity leader Lech Walesa. It began the first major wave of labor unrest since Solidarity and the government agreed to a strike moratorium four months before.

Is SALT II back from near death?

A tall, official-looking man, with a strong resemblance to George Shultz drove up to a dump site in New Jersey. He said to another man leaning on a shovel, "The President wants to bury this SALT II treaty as quickly as possible."

"Why in New Jersey?" the man with the shovel asked.

"He didn't say where he wanted it dumped, but our understanding is that once it's buried here no one will ever find it again."

"Why do you want to dump a SALT treaty?"

The man who looked like George Shultz replied, "Because it's obsolete and has no relevance. It's never been signed, and there is no sense abiding by its weapon limits when the Russians are constantly cheating. Now start digging."

"Are you sure you want it buried?"

"Of course, I'm sure. Every part of it is dead and we must make certain that it never haunts us again."

The man with the shovel measured the treaty and began digging a hole. Then he stopped.

"I just thought of something. If their side cheated on SALT II, why are you now negotiating with them on another weapons treaty? Won't they cheat on that one, too?"

"They probably will. And when they do, we'll bury that treaty as well."

The man said, "We only have so much dump space for nuclear treaties. How deeply do you want me to go for Salt II?"

The man who was the spitting image of George Shultz said, "Since it has ceased to be an effective vehicle for averting a U.S.-Soviet nuclear confrontation, I would say at least six weeks."

"You want to save some of the treaty just in case you need it for later?"

"I don't want any of it," the man who looked like George Shultz said angrily. "Now hurry up, I have to get back to the office."

A car drove up, and a man who looked exactly like Donald Regan jumped out and ran to the edge of the grave.

"Hold it," he said. "The President has changed his mind."

The George Shultz look-alike said, "He can't change his mind about SALT II. He said it was dead."

"Well," said Don Regan's double. "He's announced to the world that SALT is still alive and breathing. The press wants to see the SALT II treaty, because you made such a deal about it being gone."

The man with the shovel said, "Are you guys in Washington crazy? You tell me to bury SALT II, so I've been shoveling dirt all over it. Now you say it's alive. That's no way to treat a treaty."

The man who would be Regan said to the George Shultz man, "The President wants SALT II back in the White House before the next press briefing. He's going to stick with the treaty until he meets with Gorbachev."

The George Shultz twin said, "I should have been consulted if he was going to change his mind."

"He didn't change it — it was the first thing that came to his mind. Come on, what's the difference if we go with SALT II or we don't?"

"It makes me look stupid. I don't like to use something as a bargaining chip, which I say is dead and the President says is alive."

The man in the grave was sweeping the dirt off the pages with a broom. "Here's the treaty that you say isn't worth the paper it's printed on. The next time you bring one of these out here, get your signals straight. I have a bad back."

The man who would be Shultz said to the gravedigger sternly, "If anyone asks you about the last time you saw SALT II, say it was alive and kicking and raring to stop World War III."

Sen. Heinz seeks to allow bribery of foreign officials

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Ever since the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act was passed in 1977, Big Business has been trying to cripple or kill it. The law forbids American corporations from using bribes to win contracts overseas.

Leading the latest charge against the act is Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa. His family firm, H.J. Heinz, is one of 61 companies opposed to the law under the banner of the Emergency Committee for American Trade. Heinz owns $200 million worth of company stock.

Another member of the emergency committee is Pittsburgh-based Westinghouse, which was one of the senator's biggest corporate contributors in his 1982 re-election campaign. Westinghouse is facing bribery charges under the law that Heinz is hoping to amend.

A federal grand jury is investigating allegations that Westinghouse spent $80 million to "grease" a $2.1 billion contract for a nuclear power station in the Philippines.

The new Philippines government charges that Westinghouse's agent, Herminio Disini, gave the bribes to then-President Ferdinand Marcos. Disini's wife is a cousin of former Philippines first lady Imelda Marcos.

Heinz's proposed legislation would have no effect on the Westinghouse case.

Part of the campaign to gut the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act is window-dressing: changing the law's name to the Business Accounting and Foreign Trade Simplification Act.

A leading opponent of any tampering with the law, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., caustically refers to the Heinz bill as "Bring Back Bribery Legislation."

The provision of the law that strikes fear into the hearts of corporate executives is the one that makes them criminally liable if they "know or have reason to know" that a company agent plans to bribe a foreign official.

The Heinz bill would relieve the executives' anxiety by specifying certain "permissible payments" to foreign officials, including "those that are lawful under local law" and those made "to secure the performance of a routine government action, intended as courtesy or a token of regard."

These exceptions, of course, are the classic definition of bribery, and Proxmire has derided them as loopholes big enough to drive the proverbial truck through.

The Justice Department has agreed the language is too vague.

Business opponents of the law complain that it imposes an irrelevant morality on their efforts to compete in the world market, and claim that some bribes are necessary to do business overseas. They also blame the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act for contributing to the growing U.S. trade deficit.

But a study by Dr. John Graham, professor of business at the University of Southern California, challenges these claims. His study, reviewed by our reporter Jim Lynch, found that in the three years after the anti-corruption law's passage, U.S. trade with "bribe-prone" countries actually outpaced trade with "non-bribe-prone" countries.

Furthermore, an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission concluded that in some cases the blatant bribery practices of U.S. companies have damaged foreign relations.

For example, in 1972 Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka was disgraced and jailed for taking a $2.1 million bribe to smooth the purchase of Lockheed planes. Significantly, no Lockheed officials were prosecuted and the company drew only a light fine.

Before passage of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the SEC found more than 450 American companies kept slush funds to finance secret bribes to foreign officials. As Proxmire points out, the law made these slush funds illegal and established a paper trail on which corporate executives' responsibility could be traced.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: We recently reported on the State Department's unsuccessful $6 million effort to build a suitably elegant residence for the American ambassador to Egypt. One elaborately renovated mansion was in the wrong suburb and was rejected by the ambassadors; the other was in a great location, but the contractor botched the job and the home is unlivable.

So the ambassadors have been living in the home of the charge d'affaires. Now there's a new problem: Frank Wisner, the new ambassador, has four children, and the charge's house isn't big enough. Foggy Bottom plans to enlarge the house.

Hold onto your wallet.

HALL OF SHAME: Child molesters have gone state-of-the-art, storing pornographic material, erotic conversations and the names of other pedophiles' victims on magnetic disks for use in computers and transmission over the telephone, according to postal inspectors.

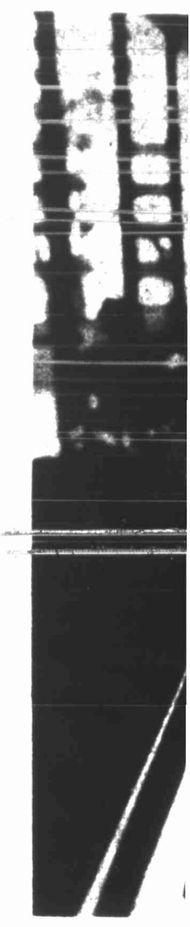

This represents a technological advance over the pedophiles' longtime use of the mails to exchange information, the inspectors reported. The computer has drawn child molesters together, the report states, explaining: "These relationships are ... strengthened when spontaneous dialogue is offered through computers as compared to letters sent in the mail."

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

"We wouldn't want them to start allowing divorces... our marriage is fine, isn't it, dear?"

Blind librarian opens up world of books

Cynthia Dickinson, a librarian at the Dallas Public Library, helps others find their way through the maze of books. Though blind since birth, Dickinson has something in common with most of the people she helps every-day — she loves to read.

DALLAS (AP) — She's never seen where she works. The rows and rows of bookshelves, the polished reading tables, the bewildered patrons who wander up to her, looking for help.

But through her senses of smell, touch and hearing she knows the Dallas Public Library downtown as intimately as she would an old friend.

"Libraries have always intrigued me," says Cynthia Dickinson, who had been blind since birth in El Paso. "I like to read.

"Once I developed a vocabulary sufficient to read something more interesting than 'See Spot run,' it became a fascinating place for me. 'See Spot run' tends to lose a little bit without the pictures," she says.

Ms. Dickinson sits at the information desk on the ground floor, hands folded, eyes closed, listening.

'I sit there and look asleep," she says with a light laugh, "but I'm not. I must confess I do daydream some, but creative daydreaming is what got me through school. When the other students were supposed to be reading or doing their homework, and I didn't have the book in Braille, there was not a lot else for me to do."

There isn't much she doesn't know about the library. She knows the convoluted trail to the telephone books and which part of the mammoth library collection is housed on each floor.

She can help visitors find works of fiction or non-fiction and will gladly and accurately use the computer to track down the information they seek, if the patrons will just read the information off the computer terminal.

Her favorite piece of equipment is the Kursweiler Computer Reading Machine, a sophisticated visual scanner and voice synthesizer about the size of a two-drawer file cabinet. It can read aloud almost any book or magazine printed in common typeface.

Although she says it "sounds like a Scandinavian with a cold," it is as easy to understand as C3PO was in the movie "Star Wars."

Ms. Dickinson is admired by co-workers not only because she works at the library, but does so in a highly visible position. Jean Hudon, who works in the Texas history section and occasionally rides the bus with Ms. Dickinson, says: "She has a lot of what I think you would call chutzpah. She isn't afraid to go out and do things."

Ms. Dickinson uses the bus to commute from her home in Pleasant Grove, where she lives with two cats. "I'm primarily a homebody," she says.

"I like to read and putter around the yard. I don't have a (seeing eye) dog because I do not do a lot of outdoor traveling or travel to unfamiliar places. A cane does not have to be walked and fed and cared for," she says.

Her parents were determined to raise her in as normal an environment as possible. That included playing with the children in a Houston neighborhood where she grew up.

Slow down and read 'What's your hurry?'

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Seeing "Slow Me Down, Lord" by 86-year-old Wilferd A. Peterson in your column not only triggered "Speed Me Up, Lord," it brought to mind a surrebuttal by my grandfather, Samuel Ullman (whose "Youth" was published in your column in 1982 and was often quoted by Gen. Douglas MacArthur).

Grandpa's poem (enclosed) was written circa 1918, so if you think it merits sharing with your readers, you have my permission.

MAYER U. NEWFIELD

DEAR MR. NEWFIELD: Thank you. I do:

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?

Slack up, brother, what's your hurry,
That so recklessly you scurry,
With your elbows crowding sideways.
And your eyes fixed straight ahead?
Is a minute's time so precious,
That you need be so ungracious,
And go tramping on your fellows,
As on the way you speed?
Can't you spare a nod of greeting,
Pass the time of day in meeting,
We all must land at last?
Slack up brother! What's your hurry,
That so recklessly you scurry?
You may lead a slow procession
E'er another year is past.

By Samuel Ullman, "From a Summit of Years Fourscore"

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a wonderful man. He's good-looking, romantic, decent, sober, works steady and treats me like a queen. So what's the problem? He keeps asking me to take my shoes off so he can kiss my toes and caress my feet. Frankly, I would rather have him pay more attention to the rest of me, but what really turns him on is my feet.

My mother says he sounds like a kook, and she hopes he's not dangerous. Outside of that he is perfectly normal. I love this guy and we're talking marriage. I've known guys to get carried away with other parts of a woman's anatomy, but this is a new one. Have you ever heard of it before? And should I worry?

TOOTSIE-WOOTSIE

DEAR TOOTSIE: Your boyfriend has a foot fetish, which simply means that he is "turned on" (sexually stimulated) by feet. It's nothing new, and it's not dangerous. If he wants to know what caused it, a psychotherapist could probably dig it out of his subconscious. Don't worry about it. You could be "sole-mates."

DEAR ABBY: My father owns a catering business. I am getting married soon, and my father assumes that he will cater my wedding. Abby, I've been to some of the weddings he has catered, and the food was lousy and the service was terrible. His competitor in town does a much better job. I really want a catered wedding but I hate to hurt my father's feelings. What should I do?

DESPERATE IN JERSEY

DEAR DESPERATE: Rather than bite the hand that feeds you by engaging your father's competitor, elope.

From BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS
A Meredith Magazine

Prized for their tender, delicate taste and appearance, tiny vegetables have been dished up in fashionable restaurants for some time, but they're only now becoming available in supermarkets, according to Better Homes and Gardens.

This summer, growers and grocers are going far beyond mini carrots in cellophane packages. Now you can get baby golden beets with edible tops, tiny turnips, and even baby kohlrabi. Expect more variety and more competitive prices than ever before.

You can put the tender delights on your table by harvesting from your garden crop as well. Pluck ordinary vegetable, zucchini, parsnips, turnips, from the vine before they reach full growth. Or try some of the new dwarf varieties.

Both plants and seeds of miniature vegetables are readily available and especially suited to container gardening. Choose among mini corn, eggplant, cabbage, cauliflower and more, or try them all.

Orphan drugs help rare illnesses

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is an orphan drug, exactly? — J.U.

An orphan drug is one developed and manufactured to treat a disease or condition that only very few people have, but for whom it is vital to survival.

I don't have to tell you the expense involved in developing new medicines. The company that sets out to do so has in mind ultimate economic payoff. In rare diseases, such economic realities often deprive people of needed treatment.

Recently-enacted orphan-drug legislation makes such economic venture feasible to the manufacturers. We already have examples of orphan drugs. One has recently gained approval for use. It might help to explain it and its use.

The drug is monooctanoin, used in special gall bladder situations. Gall bladder removal is a common operation, with about 700,000 done each year in the U.S. of those, about 4,500 result in residual stones in the bile duct. Of those patients some may not be able to withstand a second operation; it is a dangerous situation. Monooctanoin dissolves those stones. It is perfused directly into thebile duct via a catheter.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 40-year-old lively and enthusiastic female. I've partially raised a family and held down a somewhat important job in the meantime. I am approaching menopause and hate the idea. I've talked to women and heard horror stories of midnight sweats and noontime blues and all the rest. What a way to end up. What a cruel hoax of nature. How many women go through this? They must have percentages? I'd like to think there's hope yet. — Mrs. M.Q.

I wonder if your views will change. The people you've been listening to certainly don't reflect what most of your sisters tell researchers studying menopause. They're telling them that it is not the disastrous event you describe. Far from it, they are putting together a picture of new vistas, new pleasures.

Listen to the 80 percent of those studies who said menopause made not a whit of differfence in their sexual life. And for those unpleasantnesses, which most assuredly are negative aspects of menopause for some, many avenues of treatment are open. You may want to glance through the booklet "Make Menopause Easier" for some ideas about that. Other interested readers may order by writing me enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have no question. I just want to say thank you. Earlier this year, after reading an answer to someone regarding warnings of oncoming strokes. I recalled a vision problem I had a couple of days before. I went to see my family doctor, who referred me to a clinic nearby. After tests, they found my right carotid artery was 99 percent blocked. Yesterday, I went back for my six-weeks checkup following surgery. All is well. — Mrs. J.H.

This is great to hear!

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives?

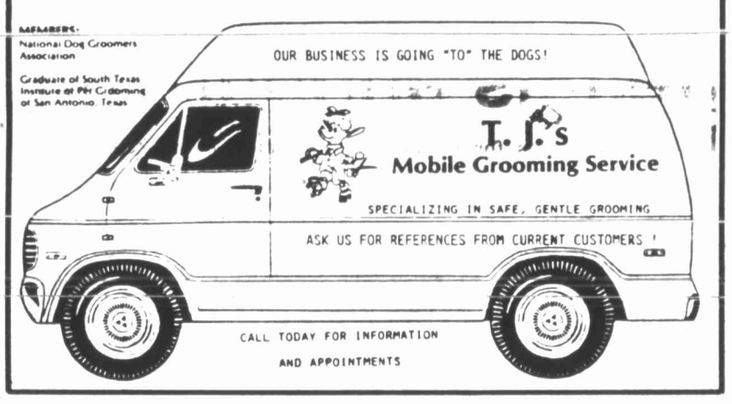

The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611; enclosing $1.00 and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

AL 'Stars romp over Coahoma

By EDDIE CURRAN
Staff Writer

Three Big Spring American League All-Stars crossed the plate before the Coahoma All-Stars could register an out in the first inning as the Big Spring team coasted to an 8-1 first round District III Little League Tournament victory at National League Park Monday night.

Big Spring American League pitcher Jeromaine Gonzales gave up just three hits and faced but 22 batters in recording the complete game win. Coahoma pitcher Mark Arguello also went the distance, though he surrendered 11 hits in the effort.

Big Spring's Jonathan Downey led off the first with a single and John Kennedy followed with another base hit. Cort Petersen then lined a shot that slammed into a sign on the right field fence, scoring Downey.

Travis Sincleair came up next and swatted a two run triple. Coahoma stranded Sincleair when the next three batters went down.

Coahoma scored their lone run in the bottom of the first when Brent Elmore led with a walk and advanced on an Arguello single. Elmore crossed home when Steven New sacrificed, and the score was 3-1 Big Spring after one.

With one out in the top of the second, Brian Gordon singled to left. Downey, who had singled earlier, got hold of an Arguello offering and knocked it high towards center field. Downey's rocket finally came down in front of a parked car on the other side of the fence. The two run homer made it 5-1 after two.

In the bottom of the second Jason Guinn and Chunky Ruiz singled for Coahoma, but the threat ended suddenly when Big Spring catcher Brian Gordon caught a third strike on Drew Bell and fired to second to catch Ruiz stealing.

After the second, Gonzales was almost perfect. Ruiz took first on four balls in the fourth, but he would prove to be the last Coahoma baserunner as Gonzales made it three up, three down in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

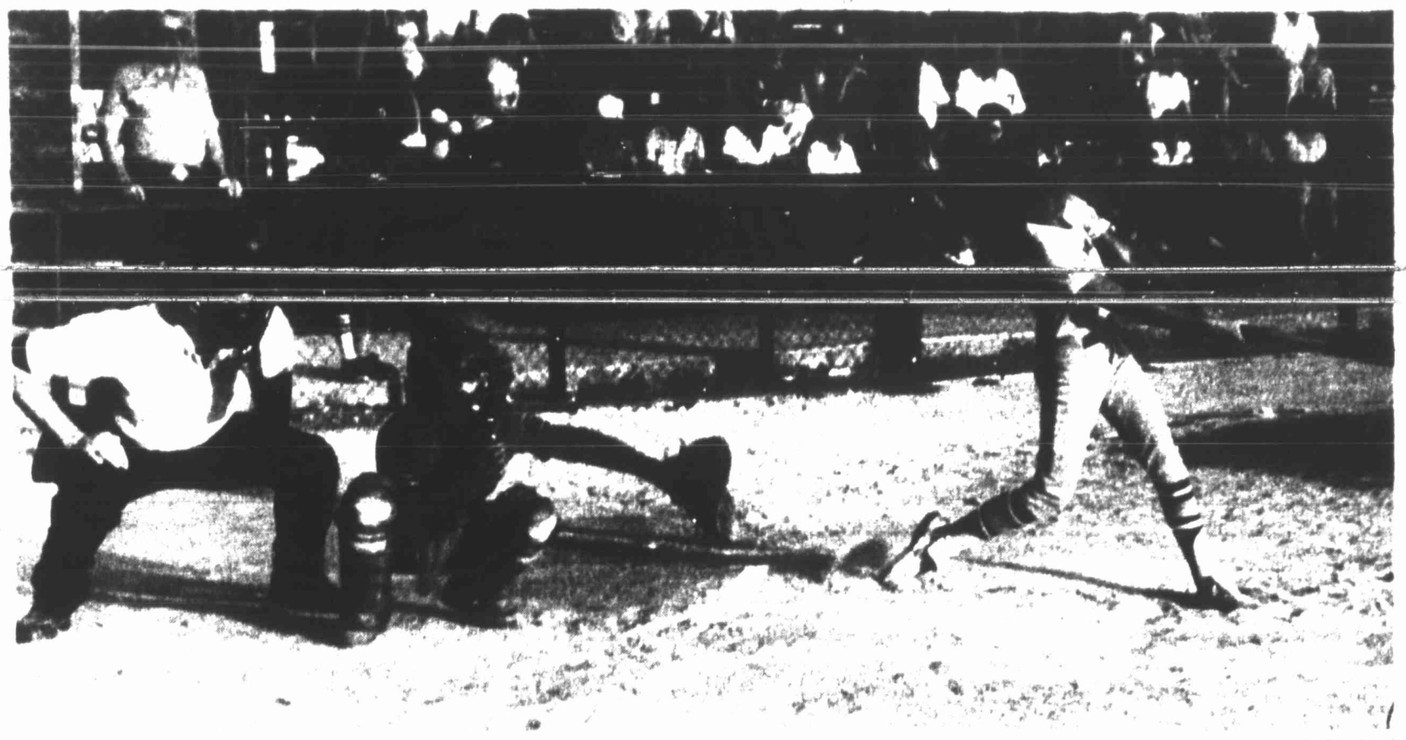

Big Spring added two more in the fifth when Sincleair and Billy Bob Sumpter singled and both advanced on a fielder's choice that loaded the bases. Sincleair and Sumpter scored two batters later on Coahoma errors after a Gonzalez infield hit.

Big Spring's final run came in the sixth when Brant Laster singled home Sincleair, who had walked.

Gonazales registered five strikeouts, and Arguello fanned four. The fielding stars were Big Spring catcher Gordon, who played flawlessly and threw out a runner, and Coahoma left fielder Guinn, who robbed the Americans of extra base hits with two fine grabs.

Sumpter collected three hits, and Sincleair and Downey both hit twice in leading Big Spring to the win.

NFL to test players for drugs

By The Associated Pres

"I'm no longer a policeman," Green Bay's Forrest Gregg said. "I'm a football coach again."

Gregg's reaction came Monday after he learned of a plan by NFL Commissioner Petre Rozelle to introduce mandatory drug testing of players.

Gregg was among three NFL coaches who expressed immediate endorsement of the plan. Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Sam Wyche of the Cincinnati Bengals were the others.

"This is preventative medicine," Gregg said. "We're not trying to catch people. Every time we test I just hope and pray that we don't have a single guy that's positive on anything but it doesn't always work out that way."

Said Shula: "I was happy to hear that the commissioner is taking strong steps to combat drug abuse. In light of the recent deaths of (Maryland University basketball star) Len Bias and (Cleveland Browns defensive back) Don Rogers, I feel it is imperative that the National Football League does everything in its power to restore public confidence in our game and its players. There can't be anything more important."

Under Rozelle's program, all users of prohibited substances will be placed under medical care as soon as they are identified through confirmed positive tests. That player will be tested on a continuing and confidential basis by Dr. Forest Tennant Jr., who was named NFL drug advisor and placed in charge of the program, for a period of 30 days. A relapse and positive test will take him off the roster for a minimum of 30 days at half pay and a subsequent relapse and positive test will permanently ban him from the NFL.

The league and team management will get involved only when a player is hospitalized for a substance abuse problem, according to Rozelle. Any player requiring hospitalization for substance abuse will be removed from the team's roster for at least 30 days and will receive 50 percent of his pay for that period. A second hospitalization would mean removal from the roster for a minimum of another 30 days with no pay. If the player relapses and tests positive again, he will be permanently banned from the NFL.

"Something has to be done," Wyche said. "Let's use a little common sense. People are dying around us. It's not just athletes.

"Enough has not been done. Something else needs to be added to the policies that are in place," Wyche added. "I think all the effort that could have been made was made with the NFL Players Association. I think a firmer statement had to be made and he (Rozelle) has done that."

Officials of professional baseball, basketball and hockey leagues withheld comment on Rozelle's plan. Harry Usher, commissioner of the rival United States Football League, said he would "have problems with random mandatory testing because I want to protect the players. I would want to go over the proposal further."

Meanwhile, one NFL player felt Rozelle's plan wouldn't eliminate drug use among players.

"It's a half solution," said Tony Elliott, the New Orleans Saints' nose tackle who kicked a cocaine habit that nearly ended his career. "I feel that random testing could be used positively, but education is the only thing that's going to deter drug usage in society itself, including the NFL."

Elliott said he would comply with Rozelle's plan but expects NFL players to rebel against it. And, he added, testing without education will not convince players that they could harm or kill themselves by using drugs, despite the deaths of Bias and Rogers.

"How can Don Rogers take a hit of cocaine after Len Bias died? How does that happen? It happens because we all think we're unique," Elliott said. "We all have this disease called terminal uniqueness."

Cincinnati wide receiver Steve Kreider said he thinks the players might surprise Elliott and endorse the program.

"Everybody knows what has happened the last few weeks, and I think you'll find that most Bengal players support testing," Kreider said. "I'm definitely in favor of it, because I just spent an entire Fourth of July picnic trying to convince my relatives that I'm not on drugs."

Atlanta tackle Bill Fralic wondered if the program was strong enough.

"I don't know if two times is

American sets heptathlon mark

MOSCOW (AP) — Jackie Joyner of the United States becae the first heptathlete to break the 7,000-point barrier and Americans beat the Soviets 49-39 in swimming medals as the Goodwill Games got into full swing.

Joyner captured 7,148 points, smashing the previous mark held by East Germany's Sabine Paetz by 202 points. She became the first U.S. woman to hold the world record in a multi-sport competition since Babe Didrickson, who held the old triathlon mark more than 50 years ago.

"Coming into this competition, I had set goals for myself," Joyner said. "I realized that the competition was out there, but my competition was against the scoreboard. I just concentrated on what I had to do."

Despite sending its second-line swimmers, the U.S. won six of eight events held Monday to beat the Soviet Union at the end of that sport's four days of competition. The U.S. team, minus its top athletes, who are training for the World Championships in Spain next month, won 49 medals, including 15 golds, compared with 39 overall and 13 golds for the Soviets.

Overall, the United States had 22 gold medals and 63 overall to 21 and 89 for the Soviets after Monday's competition.

Sean Killion of Cherry Hill, N.J. supplied the day's biggest upset when he edged former world record-holder Vladimir Salnikov of the Soviet Union in the men's 400-meter freestyle.

"I didn't think I could beat Salnikov," Killion said. "He is the best distance man around. I just wanted to give him a race but when I saw I could win, I just closed my eyes and pressed hard."

Killion was timed in 3 minutes, 51.91 seconds, .09 seconds ahead of Salnikov.

Angel Myers, who started the U.S. wave of victories on the first day of swimming last Friday, completed the competition with four gold medals. She won the women's 400-meter freestyle and was part of the winning 400-meter medley relay.

She won the 50 and 100-meter freestyle events Friday. With a third-place in 200 breststroke, Myers had the most medals of any athlete in the games with five after the first four days.

Joyner began the heptathlon competition with an American record in the 100-meter high hurdles, 12.85. She continued with personal bests of 5 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, 48 feet, 5¼ inches in the shot put, and 23 seconds in the 200-meter sprint.

On Monday, she had a heptathlon world record with 23 feet in the long jump, and followed with a throw of 163 feet, 4 inches in the javelin. Joyner then capped her sensational seven events with a clocking of 2:10.02 in the 800 meters.

O'Grady might fight suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — Golfer Mac O'Grady might pursue legal action to appeal his six-event suspension by the PGA Tour, according to his lawyer.

The decision in this regard, attorney Steve Novak said Monday, will be made "hopefully by Wednesday."

"I talked to the (appeals) committee chairman today and he told me they had affirmed the commissioner's decision (to suspend O'Grady)," Novak told the Hartford Courant by phone from San Diego. "Since we've exhausted all of our administrative avenues, we may have to consider legal action as an alternative."

O'Grady, who won the Hartford Open on Sunday, was informed he must begin serving a six-event suspension for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer." The Courant reported that O'Grady was notified of the suspension and an accompanying $5,000 fine.

Tour media spokesman Ric Clarson, reached at his Ponte Vedra, Fla., home by The Associated Press, said that "details of that (announcement) were made public by Mac and his attorney."

However, the PGA Tour reserved any more comment.

Clarson said there were actions by the Tournament Policy Board "that indicated Mac has been suspended, but until the policy board gives its written opinion to the PGA Tour, the tour has no comment to make."

However, Clarson said the suspension probably would begin next Monday, which would clear O'Grady to play in this week's event, the Anheuser-Busch Classic at Williamsburg, Va.

O'Grady would be eligible to compete in the British Open July 17-20 and the PGA Championship Aug. 7-10, neither of which are PGA Tour events. As a winner of the Greater Hartford Open on Sunday, his first PGA Tour victory, O'Grady qualified to play in the Aug. 21-24 World Series of Golf, a tournament restricted to golfers who won tournaments during the previous 52 weeks.

Clarson said he believed O'Grady would be able to play in the World Series of Golf despite his suspension.

O'Grady, 35, ran afoul of the PGA Tour and Commissioner Deane Beman in 1984, when he was accused of insulting a volunteer worker at a tournament in New Orleans. He also was fined by Beman after several public remarks about the commissioner.

O'Grady appealed his case to Beman and, after losing, took it before a three-member appeals board.

Red Sox sweep double-header

Big Spring Red Sox manager Bill Diaz led the Central Texas League West All-Stars to a 11-5 victory over the East All-Stars last Friday in San Angelo. Representing the Red Sox were Lupe Ontiveros, Ron Finnell, James Walker and Adam Yanez.

On Sunday, the Red Sox raised their record to 20-2 by sweeping a double-header from the San Angelo Rangers. Tony Ontiveros raised his pitching record to 6-0 as the Red Sox won the first game 17-2. Luis Rodriquez (4-0) was the winning hurler in the 15-5 second game romp.

Lupe Ontiveros and Fernie Paredez each had five hits in the double-header. Finnell and Yanez collected four hits each. Finnell and Paredez each homered.

The Red Sox will play the Ozona Royals in a double-header Sunday at Roy Anderson Complex starting at 1:30 p.m.

Cardinals win baseball tourney

The Big Spring Cardinals won their own Fourth of July Baseball Tournament this past weekend by defeating the Odessa Red Devils 2-0 in the championship game.

Midland Drillers won third place and the Odessa Astros finished fourth.

Cardinals making the all-tournament squad were Tony Rubio, Robert Rubio and John Morelion. The Most Valuable Player was Frankie Rubio.

The Cardinals will be playing the Big Spring Oilers this Sunday in a double-header at Roy Anderson Complex. Action gets underway at 1:30 p.m.

Dodgers whitewash Cardinals

By The Associated Press

After two years of arm miseries, Alejandro Pena is ready again to shoulder the burden of major-league pitching.

The right-hander won his first game since Aug. 12, 1984 when he pitched the first five innings of the Los Angeles Dodgers' 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Monday night. He allowed only two hits before three relievers combined to retire the last 12 Cardinals.

"I'm getting stronger each time out," said Pena, who also allowed a second-inning single to Andy Van Slyke. "I know I'm not at the same level of velocity, but I'm very happy. I threw strikes."

The only run in the Cardinals-Dodgers game scored in the first inning, when Ken Landreaux singled, went to third on Len Matuszek's single and scored when left fielder Vince Coleman overran the ball for an error.

Pena had to pitch out of two jams, both created by the Dodgers' defense, which made three errors to increase its major league-leading total to 80. The Dodgers, however, improved their record to 6-2 in games in which they've committed three or more errors.

When Pena departed after the fifth, Carlos Diaz, Tom Niedenfuer and Ken Howell pitched hitless relief the last four innings. Diaz worked the sixth, Niedenfuer the seventh and eighth and Howell the ninth for his sixth save.

Losing pitcher Bob Forsch, 6-6, scattered nine hits, three of them by Steve Sax.

Reds 7, Mets 6

Cincinnati handed New York its second loss in 11 games as Dave Parker broke a 4-4 tie with a two-run homer in the seventh inning and reliever John Franco held the Mets scoreless for 2 1-3 innings for his 13th save.

"Playing the Mets kind of got me up," said Parker, whose 16th homer was only his second since June 16. "They've got a great ballclub. They just keep coming back, coming back."

New York overcame 3-0 and 4-3 deficits with the help of homers by Darryl Strawberry and starting pitcher Rick Aguilera.

After Parker's homer off Randy Niemann, 1-3, the Reds made it 7-4 on Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly. The Mets again threatened to come back as Howard Johnson homered and Gary Carter hit an RBI single in the seventh, but Franco held the Mets at bay.

Ron Robinson, 7-0, got credit for the victory, and the Reds picked up 16 hits, including four by Ron Oester.

Astros 12, Expos 1

Glenn Davis knocked in five runs with two homers, while Mike Scott won his ninth game as Houston routed Montreal.

Davis broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run homer off Expos starter Dennis Martinez in the third inning. Martinez, 0-1, left the game in the fifth after allowing six runs in his second NL start.

Davis, who leads the league with 19 homers, added a three-run shot in the fifth, giving the Astros a 6-1 lead.

Scott, 9-5, the major leagues' strikeout leader with 158, gave up four hits and three walks along with his seven strikeouts in seven innings.

Phillies 7, Braves 3

Shane Rawley put in a bid for an All-Star berth with his 11th victory, tying him with Sid Fernandez for the league lead.

Rawley, 11-4, was backed by Gary Redus' two home runs and solo shots by Juan Samuel and John Russell as he won his seventh straight decision.

Pirates 3, Padres 1

Sid Bream broke a scoreless tie with a three-run homer off Rich Gossage in the top of the 10th inning to power Pittsburgh over San Diego.

Gossage, 4-4, allowed Bream's 11th home run after escaping a first and third-no out situation in the ninth.

In the 10th, Gossage walked Barry Bonds, who stole second on as Bill Almon struck out. Bonds went to third on Johnny Ray's single off Gossage's glove.

"I don't agree that the issue is a union-management issue. My views are that it is a drug issue and has to be dealt with by people in the league, who are the players. And people in society don't look at it as a bargaining issue and that is what Gene Upshaw and the NFLPA has treated it as."

Women's shot put world record-holder Natalya Lisovkaya of the Soviet Union won her specialty at 70 feet, 1½ inches, while teammates Grigory Degtyarev took the decathlon with 8,322 points, Marina Stepnova won the women's 400 hurdles in 53.81 and Galine Chijstyakova captured the women's long jump with a leap of 23 feet 10¼ inches.

Another world record holder, Bulgaria's Stefka Kostidnova, won the women's high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 7 inches.

In basketball, Cheryl Miller scored 20 points and Anne Donovan added 15 to lead the United States past Czechoslovakia 78-70, while the Soviet Union beat Bulgaria 82-56. The two superpowers meet Thursday night.

One of the few U.S defeats Monday came in women's volleyball, where North Korea beat the Americans in four games.

The first group of U.S. boxers arrived late Monday, but the Defense Department in Washington said it had told three more team members to stay home because of their positions in the military.

That brings to 12 the number of U.S. athletes barred by the Pentagon from competing in this multi-sport festival, according to the Turner Broadcasting System, which is sponsoring the games with the Soviet Sports Ministry. The Soviet agency, however, said the a total of 13 boxers were not participating.

is helping control costs.

We do more than say, "We care." We show it. One way is by making sure the funeral service is meaningful and dignified. Another important consideration is cost. Certainly we understand the family's need to control cost. In caring concern, we offer every available option to do so. (The cost does not affect the dignified quality of our service.)

Clemens loses second straight game

By The Associated Press

Roger Clemens is off on another streak — but it's not quite the same as his first one.

Boston's sensational right-hander, who blazed to a 14-0 start, suffered his second consecutive defeat Monday night as the Oakland A's beat the Red Sox 6-4.

He was knocked out when Jose Canseco and Dave Kingman hit consecutive sixth-inning home runs and, to add insult to injury, he was outpitched by three castoffs — Dave Stewart, Dave Von Ohlen and Doug Bair.

Clemens allowed seven hits and six runs, five earned, before being knocked out with none out in the sixth as the A's gave new Manager Tony LaRussa a successful debut by winning for only the third time in their last 22 road games.

Leading 3-1, Oakland broke the game open in the sixth inning when Carney Lansford beat out a single to deep short and Canseco followed with his 20th homer. Two pitches later, Kingman hit a tremendous shot over the screen in left-center and Clemens was finished after 93 pitches.

Winning pitcher Stewart allowed eight hits, including a two-run homer by Dwight Evans, before needing help from Dave Von Ohlen and Doug Bair in the seventh. Bair posted his second save by holding Boston hitless over the final 2 1-3 innings. It was Stewart's first victory since Sept. 28, 1984, when he was with Texas.

"The exposure (national TV) was great for me," said Stewart. "Some people thought that when I was released by Philadelphia two months ago that I should get out. Now I've got some better days ahead. I told my family that on a given day I have just as much talent and ability as he (Clemens) does — that's on a given day."

AL

Yankees 14, Rangers 3

Dave Winfield, batting just .226, was benched again with Charlie Hough pitching for Texas. But he entered the game as a pinch hitter, collected the 2,000th hit of his career and drove in four runs.

The Yankees collected 14 hits, including home runs by Don Mattingly and Claudell Washington, and took advantage of 10 walks in making Scott Nielsen's major-league debut a success. Nielsen went seven innings, allowed nine hits, walked one and struck out five. Two of the hits were solo homers by Pete Incaviglia and Oddibe McDowell.

Hough lasted only 2 2-3 innings, giving up six hits and seven runs while walking six. Mattingly homered in the first inning and Washington, starting in place of Winfield, connected to start a five-run third.

Winfield batted for Washington later in the inning and flied out. But in the fifth, he got his 2,000th hit with an RBI triple and then drove in three runs with a double in the sixth.

Angels 3, Brewers 1

Wally Joyner hit a bases-loaded triple with one out in the 16th inning to snap a scoreless tie and put California back into first place. Dick Schofield led off the 16th with a triple off Dan Plesac. After Jerry Narron grounded out, Plesac walked pinch hitter George Hendrick and Gary Pettis, loading the bases. Joyner then tripled into the left field corner.

Orioles 8, Royals 1

Baltimore's Floyd Rayford, Cal Ripken and Fred Lynn homered while Mike Boddicker scattered eight hits for his 11th victory. The Royals' run came on Steve Balboni's 17th homer in the fifth after the Orioles had taken a 5-0 lead against Charlie Leibrandt. It was the 10th consecutive loss for the defending world champion Royals.

White Sox 4, Indians 3

Chicago, which ended a 10-game Cleveland winning streak two months ago, snapped the Indians' seven-game skein this time on Greg Walker's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the bottom of the ninth inning. Julio Cruz opened the ninth with a single off Ernie Camacho, John Cangelosi sacrificed Cruz to second and Ozzie Guillen singled him to third.

Blue Jays 7, Mariners 5

Jimmy Key set a career high by striking out 10 Seattle batters in seven innings and Lloyd Moseby drove in Toronto's final runs with a single and homer. Key and two relievers fanned 14 Seattle batters, the 17th time the Mariners have reached double figures this year. Bill Caudill got the final out of the eighth inning and struck out the side in the ninth for his 104th career save but the first this season.

Twins 10, Tigers 8

Kent Hrbek hit his 20th home run and Kirby Puckett had a single, double and triple. Mike Smithson got the victory despite allowing seven runs, including a pair of solo homers to Lou Whitaker. Keith Atherton relieved in the Tigers' four-run seventh and earned his sixth save.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Crystal Vend features purified water at three 24-hour locations

Crystal Vend brings new meaning to the words "convenience" and "affordability." Twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, you can get delicious, crystal clear drinking water for only 25 cents a gallon at three convenient locations in Big Spring.

Crystal Vend features purified water for salt-free diets, along with their Crystal Clear drinking water.

Advanced technology is Crystal Vend's secret to clear drinking water. The blue cabinet houses a miniature, precision water purification system. Municipal water is first filtered to remove sediment particles and suspended dirt and sand followed by carbon filtration which removes unpallatable chlorine and dissolved organic impurities.

The filtered water is then demineralized to remove harsh dissolved metallic salts and then exposed to ultraviolet light for bacteriastatic control producing a purified water (99.9 percent pure) for doctor-ordered, salt-free diets and all distilled water uses.

A trace of the minerals are retained in the Crystal Clear drinking water for taste.

The Crystal Vend machines are based on state-of-the-art technology and as such, exceed capabilities of all other machines of this type.

Whether your need is for purified water for a salt-free diet or Crystal Clear drinking water, you will enjoy the convenience of Crystal Vend. All you have to do is take your container by one of the convenient locations: Safeway at 1300 S. Gregg, Safeway at College Park Shopping Center, or Don Newsom's at 1910 S. Gregg.

Each machine is coin operated and is designed to accommodate containers of any size from one gallon to five gallons. All you have to do is position your container on the adjustable shelf, insert your coins and push the green button for Crystal Clear drinking water or push the blue button for purified water for those salt-free diets and distilled water uses.

Water doesn't have to be expensive, so try Crystal Vend this week for 25 cents a gallon.

PURE WATER — Customers can enjoy the convenience and affordability of Crystal Vend's pure water. For 25 cents a gallon, you can choose from tasty drinking water or purified water suitable for distilled water uses.

Wise Buy
If you give a hoot about finding new customers, you'll advertise your products and services in this handy directory. In addition to your ad, you get a business feature — plus it's repeated in the Window Shopper. Ask your Herald advertising representative about it.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until sundown you have a big opportunity to put excitement into whatever your most comprehensive activity is. You will have to exercise patience in the evening.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Put in motion those ideas you have long been toying with. Accept some invitation for amusement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Please family ties immensely. Invite guests in only during the day hours and tonight finish work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be active in the outside world and make real progress. Worldly affairs could be disappointing.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Plan how to add to your present abundance. Be sure to take any health treatments you need.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have excellent ideas for gaining your finest wishes. Forget amusement tonight which could be disappointing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study how best to go after your secret interests. Not a good evening to entertain in your home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact the most generous friend you have and discuss a plan this person will comprehend easily.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Attend those civic affairs that can give you added prestige especially in the community where you dwell.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Look into new outlets and make fascinating new contacts. Be very careful with your driving.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact a clever expert in business and get more modern advice. Avoid one who has a habit of complaining.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with one who is becoming prominent and form an alliance. Don't go anywhere depressing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you make your surroundings more cheerful and colorful you can enjoy more comfort and relaxation there.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have every ability to become a fine executive, so be sure to give a fine business college education so that the top can be reached in any corporative capacity that is attractive to yur talented progeny. Teach fine manners and be gentle with discipline.
