Cong. Diggs is convicted of falsifying payforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr. was convicted Saturday on all 11 counts of mail fraud and 18 counts of filing falsified congressional payroll forms.

A date for sentencing was not set in the federal corruption trial of the 12-term representative, the senior black member of Congress and founder of the Congressional Black Caucus.

The Michigan Democrat faces a maximum five years in prison on each count and a total of up to $191,000 in fines.

Diggs stood calmly and stared at the nine-woman, three-man jury as the foreman intoned "guilty" after a clerk read off each count.

The jury, which began deliberating at 9:30 a.m. EDT, filed solemnly into the courtroom at 2:55 p.m. The panel had deliberated for three hours on Friday.

CHAS. DIGGS

Diggs' attorney, David Povich, appeared embarrassed and twisted his hands repeatedly as the verdict was announced.

The congressman's wife, Janet, who had been in the courtroom during previous sessions of the 10-day trial, was not in the courtroom to hear the verdict.

A spokesman for Diggs said she was on the way when the verdict was read.

Dad finds wife, three kids dead

JACINTO CITY, Texas (AP) — Howard West came home from the Houston electrical store where he worked to find his wife and three children dead — each killed by a bullet wound to the head.

Police said Lucy West, about 40, had brought her 8-year-old daughter, Kelly, home from a Silsbee, Texas school for the mentally retarded Friday morning.

"Right now, it's our opinion and the medical examiner's opinion that she (Mrs. West) took the lives of her children and took her own life," said Police Capt. Ivan Janet.

However, the medical examiner said his investigation was not complete.

Besides the mother and daughter, the other victims were Howard Scott West, 11, and James Troy West, 9.

Investigator R.A. Arnett said West found the bodies of the two boys lying face down "in their beds, like they were sleeping."

Arnett said the bodies of Mrs. West and the girl were lying together in a bed in another room. The pistol was beside them, he said.

Janet said investigators believe Mrs. West bought the pistol from a nearby department store earlier in the day.

Cease-fire is called by Arabs

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Syrian-dominated Arab League peacekeeping force declared a unilateral cease-fire today in its bloody week-long battle with Christian militias in Beirut, state-controlled Beirut radio reported.

In a communique, the peacekeeping command said the truce would go into effect at 8 p.m. local time (2 p.m. EDT) and is designed to enable Presidents Elias Sarkis of Lebanon and Hafez Assad of Syria to reach a more permanent settlement of the conflict here.

Deaf mute falls down shaft

'No one could hear'

SEATTLE (AP) — Talking with hands still bruised and cut, Joseph Heller, a deaf mute who spent three days at the bottom of an elevator shaft after a fall, says he tried to get help by beating on a door with a stick, "banging, banging all morning and afternoon."

"I walked and sort of crawled out," Heller told reporters in sign language Friday from his bed at Harborview Medical Center. "I was banging on a door with a wooden stick ... No one could hear me."

Battered and bleeding, Heller, 33, was found crawling from the mostly vacant warehouse building Sept. 20. A passer-by, thinking Heller had been mugged, called police.

Taken to the hospital, Heller held up three fingers to indicate the lengtn of time he spent in the elevator shaft. Doctors said blood dried on his wounds helped confirm his story.

The bones in his face were shattered, and his right leg and arm, pelvis and several ribs were broken. Infection has seeped into the untended cuts over much of his body.

"The inside of his face was broken up like cornflakes," said Dr. Robert Myall.

Heller, who lives alone and has worked as a dishwasher in a restaurant, told reporters, "I fell down five floors ... When I woke up, it was three hours later. I thought my neck was broken."

He said he slept twice during the three days but never lost consciousness.

"I just wanted out," he said.

Debbie Rostykus, a therapist skilled in sign language who interpreted for Heller, said he remembered entering the bottom floor of the building and walking up stairs to the fourth floor. There he found the gate to the elevator shaft open.

JOSEPH HELLER

"His feeling was that it was dangerous, and it could be dangerous to others," Ms. Rostykus said.

Although he said he can't remember why, Heller got in the shaft and climbed to the fifth floor, tugging on the gate there.

"There was some kind of safety bolt on the gate. He tried to pull the gate open and he fell," said Ms. Rostykus.

In order to get out of the shaft, he had to loop his belt around a wooden gate and pull until the gate broke. Police said Heller also had to lift himself up to the basement floor, which is several feet above the bottom of the shaft.

"Nobody knows why he went in the shaft," said Myall. "Sounds like it was just curiosity."

Asked how he feels now, Heller wrote with a red pencil in a notepad: "Still dizzy very much."

Mydall said Heller probably will recover fully and might be released Tuesday if arrangements can be made for proper care.

"Right now he has wires holding his face to his head," Myall said. "He'll be like that for about six weeks."

U.S. Senate doesn't act on tax-cutting amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate failed Saturday to break a deadlock that is delaying action on a bill that would cut taxes for most Americans.

The stalemate over future treatment of billions of dollars worth of tax breaks for individuals and businesses forced the Senate to abandon its goal of passing the tax bill Saturday night.

By a 45-38 vote the Senate refused to table, or kill, an amendment by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, that would require a screening of the 80 or so "tax expenditures" every 10 years. Those that could not be justified would be repealed.

Also awaiting action is an amendment by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, that would apply a similar "sunset" review to most of the federal government's 10,000 spending programs.

Dozens of amendments that seek to reshape the tax-cut bill written by the Senate Finance Committee will have to be debated before the Senate completes work on the measure. Each hour of delay on the bill will make it more difficult for Congress to complete its work for the year by Oct. 14, as planned.

Before running into a roadblock Friday night, the Senate had approved amendments that would increase the Finance Committee's $22.9-billion tax cut in 1979 to almost $30 billion. The House approved a $16.3-billion reduction, and President Carter has hinted he might veto anything above $20 billion to $21 billion.

Whatever tax cut is finally approved by the Senate will have to be compromised with the House version.

Moved here sight-unseen

'Thing I miss is water'

By CARLA WALKER

"I had just finished three years teaching in the Virgin Islands and was driving around the U.S. enjoying being home. I thought I'd probably end up in California, but the Veterans Administration Washington office called and asked if I'd take a job in Big Spring.

"I'm a little adventuresome, so I just moved here, sight unseen; it's the first time I've ever lived in the South or Mid-West," says Dorothy Paynes, R.N. nursing supervisor for the Nursing Home Care Unit of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring.

"I love traveling, I could spend my life doing it," said Ms. Paynes. "The only thing I miss here in Big Spring is water — somehow, seeing the beaches and large bodies of water gives me a tranquil feeling, perhaps because I grew up in South Carolina around water and until now, have aleays lived near water."

Ms. Paynes started traveling with the Army, and went to California after she got out.

"I had a friend in San Francisco and went to visit. It was 60 degrees in the middle of July and I liked it — not hot, not cold. I worked as a nursing assistant, them went to work for the U.S. Forrest Service as a bookkeeper but it didn't take long for me to decide that life was more than keeping books," she said, adding that it had been her life-long ambition to become a public health nurse.

"I was accepted at California State University at Long Beach and started nursing school at the age of 30. All my friends said I was crazy, and now that I'm older and have been a nurse for 10 years, they have modified it to 'eccentric'."

After getting her degree, Ms. Paynes began work as a public health nurse, the only Black in a zero per cent Black community in Los Angeles.

"It is one of the most multi-cultural-ethnic communities in Los Angeles, but there just weren't any Blacks," she laughed. "I worked with hospitals and schools, and enjoyed the whole experience tremendously. Then, I got to help open the Martin Luther King Jr. General Hospital in the middle of Watts, too.

"I was a trouble shooter for the nursing staff there listening to problems seven days a week for three shifts. All along, I didn't quit school. I was going to graduate school for my masters in public health at the University of California at Los Angeles and I graduated in December, 1973," she remembers.

Ms. Paynes' philosophy is that if she doesn't use her time, she'll lose it, so she decided to take off, while she had the chance, to the Virgin Islands with a friend.

"It was quite a coincidence, but in the VIs, I ran into a girl who had previously worked at the Public Health Service in Los Angeles. She suggested I apply for a job as public health nurse in the VIs, and it was so pretty that I just decided I would.

"I reported to work near the end of August, 1974 and stayed there three years. I learned more than the students I was teaching in the nursing program. There were people from nine or 10 different islands, and every island has a different language, culture and outlook on life," she said.

"That is the first time I was ever called a Yankee. It made me realize how race-conscious we are in the U.S. All my life, I had been a Southern Black, and now here was somebody calling me a Yankee," Ms Paynes laughed.

"It is beautiful there. I'd get up every morning to watch the sunrise and see the parrots fly by. I had a balcony and could just sit and watch it. The temperature was ideal — 73 to 85 degrees normally, rarely up to the 90s, and down to the 60s only in the winter.

"Most of the year it is a lush green and the water is a blue-green, almost turquoise color under bright blue skies," said Ms. Paynes, who lived in Frenchman Bay on St. Thomas Island and worked a short distance away at Brewers Bay. The total size of the island was some 13 miles long and three to five miles across, so it wasn't far between the different beaches; Ms Paynes said she preferred learning about the islands by living there, rather than being a tourist.

"By living there, I got to know the people and the real spirit of the Virgin Islands, something the average tourist misses. But, as beautiful as it all was — watching the ships come into the harbors from all over the world and getting inside how the people of the VIs think, I still started to get a little homesick.

"I never realized how much America meant to me until then," Ms. Paynes said. "The program I was working on got cut, and I decided that was a good time to go home."

That was three years after Ms. Paynes had first begun work on the islands, and she has been back in the states just over a year. Her students still write and send her invitations to their weddings.

"I went back in April to their yearly carnival," Ms. Payne said. "It is really something, with the natives dancing for six hours straight in the hot sun wearing heavy but beautiful costumes. People swim, dance to bands playing on the beach, participate in a big fish fry and just soak up the afternoon sun on the beach. It is great — if I get a chance, I may go back again later in my life."

Ms. Payne has always worked for the things that were important to her, and she feels that accounts for her own happiness.

"I left home very young, very inexperienced and I'm not sure that I could have done this much with my life if society then had been as tough as it is today," Ms. Paynes said. "There are a lot more pitfalls today, but I do believe that any kid with enough determination to give life a good try and stick to what he or she knows is right can make it. They can do anything they want to — regardless of the obstacles — if they just want it bad enough.

"It's never too late to do anything unless you believe it is. At 'plenty-nine,' there are lot of things I still want to do. There is so much more to learn, so much to see — and I'm not going to waste the time I've got left by wishing I had done this or wishing I was young enough for that," Ms. Paynes asserted.

"No, when I get old — if I ever do — I want to be able to look back and say that I wouldn't change a thing."

To discrimination charge

Formal exceptions filed

By BOB BURTON

The Big Spring school district, through its attorney, has filed formal exceptions to the charges of "impermissable racial discrimination" levelled at the district recently by the Texas Education Agency.

In a brief prepared by attorney Mike McKinney and mailed Friday to Austin, the school district takes its first public stand defending its action in not renewing basketball coach James Griffin's contract in May, 1977. Griffin is a black.

The exceptions attempt to refuse Assistant Deputy Commissioner of Education John R. Guemple's finding that Griffin's contract was not renewed for racial reasons, saying "there is no evidence in the record" to support Griffin's claims. Guemple's finding is based on the December, 1977 hearing held in Austin, and his findings of fact were handed to Commissioner of Education M. L. Brockette September 18.

The exceptions claim, first, that the district's original motion to dismiss Griffin's appeal should have been granted because of irregularities in its filing and because Griffin failed to provide the district with a copy of his original allegation.

The 13-page document handles individually each mention of "race" in Guemple's findings of fact and cites supporting testimony from the hearing for its case.

Griffin's contract was not renewed by the school board following recommendations to that effect made by high school principal John Smith. Smith, according to both the exceptions and the findings of fact, based his decision on both Robbin's and assistant principal William Martin's recommendations.

The exceptions conclude "it must be noted that Petitioner (Griffin) could have been maintained as a teacher (without coaching responsibilities), thus rendering immaterial the Athletic Director's recommendation, whatever its basis. Principal Smith clearly recognized that he could recommend the Petitioner for a teaching assignment, even though the Athletic Director was not going to recommend the Petitioner for his coaching staff. The Hearing Examiner (Guemple) made no findings of racial discrimination in regard to Assistant Principal Martin, and ...Principal Smith's recommendation was based primarily on that of Principal Martin."

The exceptions also cite testimony from the hearing that Griffin was absent from his duty station 10 or more times during the 1975-76 school year, and the he was absent from his classroom "perhaps as many as 40 or 45 times" during the 1976-77 school year. The exceptions also refer to several conferences Griffin had, both with Martin and former Superintendent Emmett MacKenzie.

The findings of fact and exceptions will be reviewed by Brockette, and his ruling will very probably be appealed to the full state commission by whichever party is denied.

From there, appeal would carry the case into civil court.

Griffin had been head Steer basketball coach for two years and taught at the high school for four years prior to the non-renewal.

Action / reaction: Shop Big Spring First?

Q. If the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is promoting Shop Big Spring First, then why did it have some of its printing done in Lubbock when I know for a fact that Big Spring has the facilities to do it here?

A. Other than the brochures advertising Big Spring, Chamber Manager Bill Albright says he can't recall any printing authorized by the chamber being done by a non-Big Spring based firm. And, he adds, local businesses did not have the capabilities for printing that multi-colored job.

In try to contain inflation

Sanctions likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration plans to put some muscle behind its forthcoming anti-inflation program by investigating and threatening sanctions against unions and businesses that exceed the government's voluntary wage and price guidelines, sources say.

One administration official said the guidelines under final consideration are being called "trigger points" because they would "trigger investigations and remedial actions" in cases where wage and benefit increases exceed 7 percent a year and price hikes top 5¾ percent annually.

Inflation now is running at a 9.5 percent annual rate, although the administration expects it to taper off to 8 percent for the full year. Inflation was 6.8 percent last year.

While Carter has yet to give final approval to the new program, his aides say they expect him to go along with the guidelines and possibly unveil the details within two weeks.

Much of the recent debate has been over how far the government should go in using its regulatory powers and other sanctions to obtain cooperation with the program.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall was the first administration official to propose that Carter use sanctions, such as withholding federal contracts and that rate-setting agencies reject increase requests from industries which exceed the guidelines.

That approach is being pushed by other economic advisers who are indicating for the first time they want Carter to put more than just rhetoric behind his anti-inflation program.

Carter's aides see this new program as a compromise between the present largely ineffective anti-inflation program and mandatory wage and price controls, which the president has said he opposes.

Texas convicts show no signs of ending strike

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — More than 400 striking prisoners at the Ellis Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections remained bedded down on the cement floor of the prison yard Saturday as officials and guards stood watch.

Authorities had hoped that chilly temperatures would force them back into their cells.

The strike began Thursday when 148 inmates refused to eat, return to their cells or go back to their jobs.

Spokesmen for the prisoners said they were attempting to gain publicity for a prisoners' class action suit against the TDC, alleging officials have subjected inmates to cruel and inhumane treatment.

Ron Taylor, administrative assistant for the Texas Department of Corrections, said the inmates were gathered peacefully in the prison yard and there had been no physical confrontations or other trouble.

The Ellis Unit, located north of Huntsville, confines 2,388 prisoners.

The inmates who started the strike have not eaten since noon Thursday. Taylor said TDC officials agreed to let other prisoners join the strikers Friday. The work stoppage has not affected Ellis operations, prison officials said.

Taylor also said 339 prisoners that work in the fields at the Ramsey unit near Houston had refused Friday to go to work. He said, however, those inmates complied with TDC requests to go to their cells without incident.

Another 209 inmates at the Darrington unit, near Angleton south of Houston, also struck in sympathy with the Ellis prisoners Thursday but returned to their cells a few hours later. They have been charged with violation of department rules and regulations.

The prisoners' suit is being heard in federal court in Houston, and prisoners have demanded to talk with news reporters from Houston.

Taylor and reporters from the Huntsville Item newspaper met with a group Thursday.

Collapsed dam found to be safe

SENECA, S.C. (AP) — A temporary dam that collapsed killing seven men at Lake Keowee was found to be safe during an inspection one day before the mishap, says the head of the construction company working at the site.

"We had no reason to believe we had anything but a well-conceived, well-designed structure," Charles A. Long Jr., board chairman of Southern Construction and Engineering Co. of Birmingham, Ala., said Friday.

The seven men were standing inside or on top of a cofferdam, a temporary structure designed to hold back water while workers built a pumping station on the lake floor. Their bodies have not been recovered.

The cause of the collapse is not known, Long said. State Labor Department investigators were sent to the scene.

A worker Long refused to identify was standing at the top of the structure and was tossed about 160 feet away by the force of the rushing water and falling steel. He survived the incident.

"He heard a loud snap and then it threw him, fortunately, away," he said. The man landed in the water and swam to shore.

Southern Construction and Engineering officials identified the victims as Robert A. Staggs Jr. and Charles M. Dorothy of Hueytown, Ala.; Albert A. Brown Jr. of Birmingham; Billy C. Scogins of Henager, Ala.; Joe L. Gates of Carrollton, Ga.; Larry Reed of Easley, S.C. and Elwin J. Bates of Cullman, Ala.

Their ages were not immediately available.

Authorities said Bates was a truck driver for Eagle Motor Lines who had just delivered a load of steel and walked out a four-foot wide causeway to view the project.

The dam site is about 15 miles north of Seneca, a town of 8,000 in the foothills of northwestern South Carolina.

Southern Construction and Engineering was building a $3.3-million water intake structure. The work was part of a $58-million project to build a 27-mile water line to Greenville, S.C. The project was scheduled for completion by 1985.

The lake is about 40 miles northeast of Toccoa, Ga., where 39 persons died last November when an earthen dam near a small Bible college caved in.

The cofferdam — a circular structure with a diameter of about 136 feet — was made of interlocking steel plates supported by concrete slabs. It was about 100 feet from shore.

Officials began rescue efforts immediately after the collapse occurred Friday morning. But, after hours of diving with no results, they called it off. It was scheduled to resume again early today.

Asked if the missing men could be trapped in an air bubble beneath the twisted steel, Long said, "I doubt it seriously."

"We're going to go at this very carefully," Long said. "We don't want to lose anyone else."

Weather

Winds off lake help reduce temperatures

By the Associated Press

Mild to cool temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene Saturday, with some rain reported in South Texas.

Late morning extremes ranged from a nippy 50 at Dalhart to 74 at Brownsville. Most readings were in the 60s.

Forecasts called for scattered showers in parts of West and South Texas, with fair to partly cloudy skies and seasonal temperatures in the rest of the state.

Strong northerly winds cut across the Great Lakes region early Saturday, while light winds and clear skies helped reduce temperatures toward the freezing mark over the northern and central Plains.

Gale force winds developed and light rain fell over eastern Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Lake Huron, and the waters of Lake Michigan were washing the shores of Illinois and Indiana. Beach erosion and flooding of low areas were expected to continue until winds diminished late this morning.

Temperatures in the 30s prevailed this morning over most of the northern Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. Overnight temperatures were near freezing over parts of the Dakotas and Nebraska.

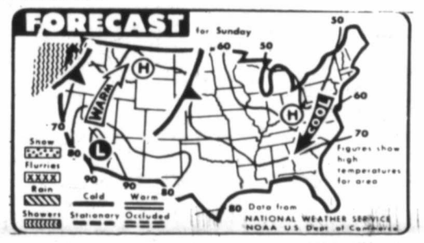

A few thundershowers lingered along the coast of Virginia as drier air filtered in, and light rain fell over southern Texas.

The western half of the nation was dry, with clear skies almost everywhere west of the Mississippi River.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 29 in Valentine, Neb. to 83 in Blythe, Calif.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Fair with near normal seasonal temperatures through Thursday. Highs in 70s north to 80s south, and lows in 40s north to 60s south.

No prospective grants likely for Big Spring

No prospective grants for Big Spring are on this month's agenda at the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission to meet at Terminal Wednesday.

The regular monthly board meeting is at 1:30 p.m. The grants to be considered include one from the Permian Basin Commission for two high speed teletype machies for the city of Crane police department and Pecos County Sheriff's Department.

There is also an Odessa grant application from Ector County for continuation funding of the Ector Youth Center's Regional juvenile rehabilitation program.

Another is a priority project list for supplementary funds from the criminal justice division. The board will also hear a request from the city of Midland tilted Midtran enabling study with the possibility of a transit system in the future.

Midland is also asking funds for updating the Airport Master Plan report for Midland Regional Airport.

Fort Stockton is asking for a grant for funding of an emergency energy conservation program in weatherization for Pecos County. Midland Community Action Agency is also asking for funds on this project. Bill Tune is Howard County's representative on the board.

Local 826 will represent help

Local 826, International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO on Sept. 28, was named as the Certified Representative of 18 employees of Navajo Crude Oil Purchasing Company by the National Labor Relations Board.

Navajo Crude Oil Purchasing Company's office is located in Artesia, N.M., and is a subsidiary of Navajo Refining Company. Local 826 has represented the employees of Navajo Refining for several years.

President has more leverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's string of recent wins is giving him added leverage with Congress, but some White House staff members are afraid the upswing may be too good to last.

His Camp David peace initiative is progressing on schedule, his standing is rising in the polls and he has won from Congress a string of victories topped last Thursday with a vote in the House sustaining his veto of a $10.2 billion public works bill.

White House aides at various levels, all of whom spoke on condition they not be named publicly, were unanimous in saying the wins give the president new political strength and increase the likelihood of further victories.

But some fear, as a top-level adviser put it, that, "The state of euphoria around here could disappear as quickly as it appeared."

Another said it is possible that if Carter misses a step or two, "he'll deflate like a balloon."

A third, more optimistic aide said Carter could now afford to lose a fight or two, and might even gain strength in the polls if he is seen as fighting a good — although losing — fight.

This aide said the White House staff was humming efficiently last week in an all-out lobbying drive to sustain Carter's veto of the $10.2 billion public works bill. Indeed, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. described the successful lobbying effort as an "avalanche."

And another staff member said members of Congress are now paying increasing attention to the president's veto threats and are checking their spending proposals with presidential aides.

But there remains below the surface a suspicion that the old Georgia crew around the president still isn't as efficient, or capable as a president's staff ought to be, and that this could trip him up in the future.

One lower-level aide related this story: After Carter's Mideast triumph, pollster Patrick Caddell told Hamilton Jordan, the president's top political hand, "The Camp David summit was a personal triumph for the president, and it will increase his standing with the public and with Congress. But you've still got the same boobs on the staff as before."

However fragile Carter's newfound strength, his aides say he is steadfast in his vow to impose his own brand of fiscal restraint on Congress.

He'll certainly veto a bill to grant income tax credits for college tuition, they say, and may well disapprove an election-year cut in income taxes, especially if it is anywhere near the $29.7 billion cut being considered by the Senate.

Nolan librarian asked to quit

SWEETWATER — The Nolan County board of library have requested the resignation of county librarian Ross Burns.

Board members claimed Burns spent considerable time outside the library, adding the library was too small to support a professional director.

"We cannot afford a person who is just a supervisor. We need someone to take his turn at the desk," board member Morris Hinshaw said.

IMPROVING SERVICE — The Big Spring Post Office is always looking for ways to improve service, and when the City of Big Spring granted them use of a building at the Big Spring Industrial Park, the Post Office made it into an annex, with boxes open to rental by Industrial Park patrons. Only a dozen of the almost 100 boxes have been rented, according to John Gee, Postal superintendent, (right) but more are expected as the park attracts more industry. Jesse R. Crane, Jr. (left) posts mail in the boxes from the back. He says that delivery time will be shortly before 10 a.m. daily, with the potential of parcel delivery and a clerk there for 30 minutes daily if demand for such a provision is sufficient.

Pay stall looming; money not there

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 1.5 million U.S. military personnel and 466,000 civilian employees are facing the prospect of going without a paycheck because the Defense Department is technically broke and Congress has not approved its new appropriation.

No military personnel — from four-star generals to clerks — can be paid until Congress either passes a continuing resolution to keep last year's military appropriations bill in effect or President Carter signs a new bill into law.

Although regular payrolls are not due until later this month, some people, especially in the lower enlisted ranks, are already feeling the pinch.

Among them are about 80 soldiers who graduated from basic training Friday at Fort Knox and could not collect the $2,500 enlistment bonuses that had been promised them.

"The Fort Knox situation is not uncommon," said Maj. David Gardner, a deputy assistant at the Department of Defense. "It's happening all over the nation."

Gardner estimated that 500 to 1,000 persons a day are affected, including people due for mustering-out pay at discharge and various personnel due money to travel from one assignment to another.

"The entire DOD is waiting," Maj. Brigham Shuler, a Pentagon spokesman, said Friday. "We do not have the authority to issue basic pay and allowances to active, retired and separating personnel."

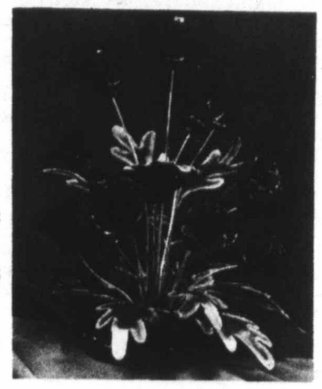

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has sent letters to top House and Senate conferees expressing his "great concern" that payrolls may not be met later this month if the delay lasts much longer.

Civilians said still are dying

ESTELI, Nicaragua (AP) — War-weary residents of this central Nicaraguan city say President Anastasio Somoza's national guard troops are still killing civilians in a vendetta against suspected rebel supporters.

The charges, which could not be independently confirmed, were made to reporters who visited the city Friday, two weeks after the guard recaptured it from guerrilla-led rebels.

A human rights mission sent to Nicaragua by the Organization of American States also stopped here Friday to tour the city of 35,000 that suffered the heaviest damage during last month's civil revolt against the Somoza government.

Residents told reporters of looting by guardsmen and claimed the troops were killing civilians suspected of having helped the rebels during the two-week insurrection.

A reliable source, who asked not to be identified, said residents made similar complaints to the five-nation OAS mission.

The informant, close to the OAS human rights investigation, said Esteli, 90 miles north of Managua, was "a dead city."

Another source, who also sought anonymity, said the delegation visited an Esteli prison where more than a dozen political prisoners, including the president of the local chamber of commerce, were being held.

"None of them looked to be in very good shape, either physically or psychologically," the informant said.

Red Cross officials in Managua, the capital, estimated at least 1,500 people died during the two-week national guard campaign to reclaim four majors cities seized by anti-Somoza rebels, but a Red Cross official in Esteli said 1,500 people died in this city alone.

An intense clean-up was underway here two weeks after the fighting, inwhich much of the city was heavily damaged by rocket firing national guard aircraft and bitter street duels.

Some buildings damaged beyond repair have been leveled and basic services were slowly being restored.

Meanwhile, representatives of a three-nation mediation team arrived in the capital and began consultations aimed at opening talks between Somoza and his opponents.

The mediators, representing the United States, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic, say they are pushing for an early start to the talks and are seeking to set a starting date in talks with both sides.

Somoza's foes, aligned as the Broad Opposition Front, are demanding the president resign immediately and end a 41-year family dynasty. Somoza has agreed to negotiate with them but says he will not step down until his term ends in 1981.

Differences developing over picking of pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Cardinals skipped their daily gathering as interim government of the Roman Catholic Church today amid reports of growing differences over guidelines for choosing the new pope.

They said there would be no congregation of the College of Cardinals until Monday so they could have "a weekend of prayer and meditation" in preparation for the conclave.

Vatican sources said the cardinals felt overwhelmed by the task of choosing for the second time in two months a new pope and agreed they could use more time for thinking rather than discussion.

But there were signs of differences over the criteria the papal electors should follow in the conclave beginning Oct. 14 to choose a successor to Pope John Paul I.

In comments immediately following John Paul's death Sept. 28 in the 34th day of his reign, the cardinals had unanimously insisted on the need to elect again a pastoral-type pontiff.

But on Friday, Vatican-based cardinals appeared to be pressing for the need for diplomatic or administrative experience in the man who is to act not only as pastor but also as manager and politician.

Some have said the sudden burden of these administrative tasks contributed to the massive heart failure that killed the 65-year-old John Paul less than two months after the death of Pope Paul VI.

Nonetheless, Carlo Confalonieri, the cardinal dean, told the Vatican weekly Osservatore della Domenica of the need for a knowledge of world affairs and diplomacy in the ideal papal candidate.

"The new pontificate should continue the fundamental pastorality so particular of the pope," Confalonieri said referring to the vast popularity won by John Paul in his short reign.

"But there will be and there should be other elements, including comprehension of world problems and diplomatic contact."

Confalonieri, 85, is barred from the conclave by the below-80 age limit, but this makes it easier for him to speak out clearly.

Another Vatican-based cardinal, Pericle Felici, may have been referring to John Paul's hardship from his lack of experience in handling church problems on a worldwide scale when in Friday's Mass in St. Peter's he described the late pontiff as "modest, almost clumsy."

Signers of petition were mislead

With some clever wording and a pseudo-humanitarian pitch, it would be possible to induce a lot of people to sign a petition outlawing baseball, hot dogs and apple pie.

If you threw in some misleading statements and distortions, you could even find people who would sign a petition against Motherhood.

That is akin to what happened when a few malcontents misled nearly 600 persons into signing a petition that was designed to destroy Big Spring's industrial development effort.

THE RINGLEADER in this plot was former City Councilman Jack Watkins along with a handful of disgruntled citizens who apparently will stop at nothing in attempts to get back at city officials for some imagined grievances.

The petition called for an election to decide if the city should issue certificates of obligation to build a planned aircraft hangar at Big Spring Industrial Park.

Many signers were told that the certificates were a blank check that would allow the city to spend as much as $3 million to build the hangar. They also were told that an election would have no effect on the city's efforts to attract Lockheed Aircraft Service Corp. or some other major tenant for the facility.

Both assertions are false.

The cost to build the hangar shell is expected to be $1.3 million. An economic development grant from the federal government will cover $1 million of the cost. The city's share will be about $300,000.

At such time as the city has a tenant for the hangar, it is estimated another $500,000 will be needed for the finishing work to make the hangar usable. Projected lease payments by the tenant would more than cover payment of the certificates and no burden would fall on local taxpayers.

A REQUIREMENT for an election also would kill any chance of accommodating the needs of Lockheed or any other tenant that would want the hangar. Lockheed and others are bidding on an aircraft modification contract that will be let in December. Work would start immediately, and the hangar is needed to meet projected aircraft delivery schedules.

Even working at top speed, the city barely can have the facility ready by the time it will be needed. Any delay would destroy any chance of Lockheed, or anyone else that might get the contract, bringing the work to Big Spring.

Even the election issue should be moot. The required public hearings were held on the hangar certificates several months ago when it was thought the city's cost would be $2.2 million not $300,000. At that time, any strong opposition been expressed, the city council would have had an obligation to call an election, in our opinion.

No such opposition arose. There was no widespread effort to protest the issue. The city council, quite properly, has decided to expedite the project.

Now these Jack-come-latelies, for some unknown reason, have decided to try to stop it.

Fortunately there is a question about the legality of Watkin's petition because it was filed after the time limit allowed by state law.

Its chief harm comes from the possibility that prospective industries will get the wrong impression about the positive attitudes of Big Spring citizens and the political climate here. Not even most of those who signed the petition would ever do anything they thought would hurt the community's industrial program. They simply were misled in this case.

The entire affair, however, should serve as a lesson to all citizens to investigate and become aware of issues before they ever take anyone's word in signing a petition.

Bumper crops

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In a green peaceful corner of northeastern Nebraska called the Bow Valley, a quiet revolution is taking place — an almost literal grass-roots movement, with consequences that could be far-reaching for all Americans.

The rebels in this non-violent struggle are 20th century equivalents of the self-reliant yeomen who were the backbone of the American Revolution 200 years ago. But this time, it's not the yoke of a foreign tyrant they're fighting to throw off. It is the crushing burden of expensive — and often dangerous — agricultural chemicals that have dominated the nation's farming since World War II.

Fed up with the skyrocketing costs of fertilizers and pesticides and fearful of the damage that the increasingly heavy doses of chemicals wreak on the environment, these Nebraska farmers are turning to natural methods of growing their crops and replenishing the exhausted soil.

THEY'RE BUCKING the advice of experts, and the gospel as laid down by petro-chemical industry promoters who insist that it's impossible to run a commercially successful farm without the help of chemicals. But if they succeed, it could free thousands of Midwestern farmers from the often ruinous trap of heavy chemical use for high yields, which leads to low grain prices and forces still heavier use of chemicals for still higher yields in order to break even.

To check on the progress of these chemical-free farms, we sent our reporter Hal Bernton to Bow Valley. He stayed for a week with the Roman Wortmann family on a 320-acre dairy farm a few miles outside the village, and visited seven other farms in the area that no longer use chemicals.

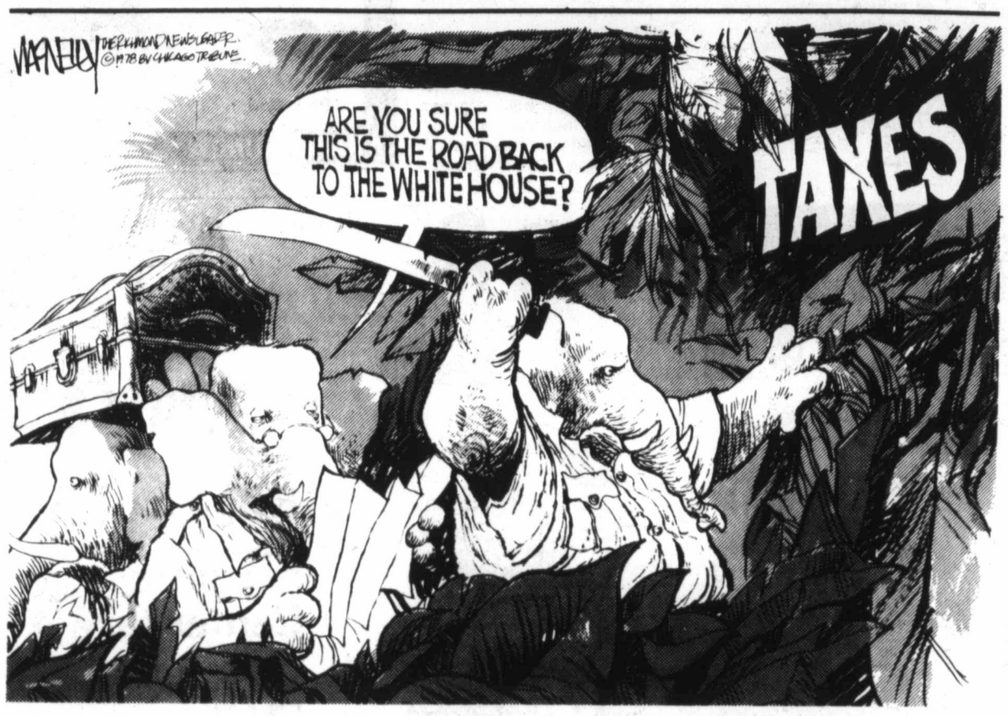

Roman Wortmann is a devout Catholic of German descent. He inherited his farm from his father and with the help of his two teenager sons, Mike and Tom, he raises corn, oats, soybeans and alfalfa. Most of his crops are used as feed for his dairy herd, which produces over 100 gallons of milk a day.

Five years ago Wortmann was a faithful user of agri-chemicals. His conversion came one day when he returned from spraying his fields with insecticide and found half a dozen birds lying stupefied on his driveway. He picked up one of the birds, he said, and it seemed to be in a state of shock. In a matter of minutes it was dead.

Wortmann realized that the birds probably had been poisoned by the pesticide he had just sprayed on his corn. If chemicals could have that kind of effect on life above the ground, Wortmann reasoned, they might be equally damaging to the bacteria, fungi and microbes that thrive in the soil and make it fertile.

Shifting from his old methods, Wortmann began a carefully planned rotation system — a field of corn one year would be planted in alfalfa the next and soybeans the third year. Corn is a ravenous user of nitrogen, which it draws from the soil; alfalfa and soybeans take nitrogen from the air and fix it in the soil, supplying the vital element that Wortmann once had to provide with chemical fertilizers.

THE SOYBEANS bring a good price on the market; the alfalfa and corn feed his cows, which in turn supply manure for fertilizer. He also spread a natural soil builder across his fields.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm a police officer and sometimes have to deal with people who are trying to commit suicide. As a Christian, what help do you suggest I can give them? — F.M.

DEAR F.M.: The rate of suicide in our country is alarming, especially among young people. It has now become one of the major causes of death among youth. Why is there such an epidemic of suicides, especially among young people? One reason, I am convinced, is the breakdown of stable and loving family relationships. Many children grow up with little or no feeling of love and security. Tragically, this often leads to severe emotional problems. The feeling of being totally alone and unloved in the world drives them to take their own lives.

There are other reasons. Many people see little meaning and purpose in life. Life seems too much for them, totally beyond their control. If life has no purpose, why should a person live?

For whatever reason a person contemplates suicide, I believe Jesus Christ can meet the deepest needs and answer the deepest problems. Jesus Christ tells us clearly that we are loved. "To us, the greatest demonstration of God's love for us has been his sending his only Son into the world to give us life through him" (I John 4:9, Phillips).

God may well have placed you in your present responsibility so you can help people find Christ. As you deal with people who may be considering suicide, you will first want to listen to them and find out what their problem seems to be. Many people desperately want someone they can talk to. Then you may have opportunity to share the love and mercy of Christ. You will want to get as much training as you can, including advice from pastors and Christian counselors who work with potential suicides. While it may not be easy, it is a ministry in which God can use you.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Reference here is made to the ill conceived letter of Mr. C. G. Gilstrap who says he is head of the "Howard County Committee of Concerned Citizens." I do not know who the members of such an organization may be, but they certainly selected a right win radical as their chairman who is not concerned with facts.

First of all, the man does not know anything about the Socialist Party, or what it stood for. Nothing in either of the two major parties today represents that which the socialists stood for. Neither the Democratic Party nor the other party has stood for a guaranteed annual income and does not today. Second, I spent 25 years in the labor movement and have never owned a Cadillac and know of few others who own one.

As to Mr. Gilstrap's reference to the rate the oil business pays for workmen's compensation, he failed to state that all such rates are based on experience, that in the drilling and oil well servicing ends of the business it is high because of the high rate of injuries which result generally from a lack of adequate safety practices of the employer. The well service in particular is most careless about its selection of employees and records will sustain this remark.

Since Mr. Gilstrap was downgrading union people, I again make objections to his general nasty remarks since I happen to have been one of them; I'll put my record against his as an honorable man any time and I believe the employers I met with will substantiate my position. Furthermore, I know from experience that the drilling and oil well servicing and production divisions of many major oil companies were the most corrupt of all, and all were directed by radical Republicans.

For eight years I presented evidence of kickbacks to servicing groups of these oil companies and alleged that some of it went as high as vice presidents who had taught the younger people how to steal and accept bribes. Finally work got to the Internal Revenue Department about these kickbacks which the recipients had never reported as income; then the headquarters' offices of these major oil companies got concerned as it was going to tarnish their image.

These corporations sent investigators into this area to check out my allegations and the investigations of the Internal Revenue. Men were fired right and left; some had as much as 25 years service, and all these people were union hating Republicans. They resent anyone trying to prevent their plundering of the American pocketbook. I have records to prove all of these remarks. The public has been made aware of many huge bribes made by corporations as a result of many Democratic investigations in recent months.

I'd like to point out to Mr. Gilstrap that Democratic nominee Bob Krueger as a member of Congress voted against the 29 per cent salary increase to Congress and that Republic nominee John Tower voted for the increase. I'd suggest that Mr. Gilstrap get closer to the facts and also his so-called "Howard County Committee of Concerned Citizens," whoever they may be.

Mr. Gilstrap, do you believe all segments of American society should be treated equal? If so, why do you not attack the Bar Association? No one can practice law unless he joins their union and pays his dues up to date. That's against the law as applied to a carpenter, plumber, or any other union. The Bar Association is only the lawyer's union.

Dear Editor:

I'm wondering if the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County are aware of the fact that a three-year contract with a 2-year option is being considered by the city council and county commissioners to be awarded to Alert Ambulance Service.

Alert is under a 90-day contract now with the city and county. Alert has 60 days to comply with city ordiances and to evaluate the town and county also the town and the county has the same period of time to evaluate Alert personnel and services.

What is the big hurry to sign a multi-year contract before Alert has proven worthy of such a contract?

Most citizens of Big Spring and Howard County are not aware that there is an Emergency Medical Service Advisory Council in Big Spring, created January 10, 1978 to enforce ambulance and personnel operating them. Has this advisory council had the opportunity to inspect Alert Ambulances and personnel? Also their response time, patient treatment, and if so has Alert met these requirements?

The new subsidy they are asking is $35 per run for the county, he is now getting $18.50 and $25 per run for the city, he is now getting $15. This is your tax dollars, do you want a contract awarded before they have been in service long enough to show what kind of service they offer?

Mr. Kohlenberg stated in the Big Spring Herald that he had never been in any ambulance business before. When in fact, Mr. Kohlenberg had a one-year contract with Wolfe City, Texas which he only honored for a few months. Is this same thing going to happen to the citizens of Big Spring?

If you, the public are interested you should be present at 10:00 a.m. Oct. 9 at County Commissioners Court, also the city council will meet at 9 a.m. Oct. 10.

In a service like this, I think the citizens deserve more than a 30-day trial period. There are too many people that have invested time and money in special ambulance training here in this area to award a contract to a company before we have a chance to see what Alert can offer.

Big Spring is a growing town with more people coming in every day.

This means more accidents and more emergencies. We need a first rate ambulance service with trained personnel, something that I don't think the City of Big Spring has ever had. We are right back to the service we've always had — "You Call — We Haul, That's All" type service.

Strapping helps in heel pain

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with painful heel for years. A foot doctor told me there were no heel spurs present and suggested I wear special shoes to relieve the pressure. The pain has never left and I have taken to walking on the side of my foot to avoid the pain I get on contact. The shoes haven't helped. Do you have any suggestions? Surely, there must be some way to end this misery. — Mrs. T.L.

Pain in the heels usually results from wearing flat shoes, going in stocking feet, or engaging in activity that requires jumping from heights. The structure involved is the plantar ligament or plantar bursa, which are subject to great stress even under normal conditions. Dr. Joseph P. Karr, a foot doctor, reports in the Journal of the American Podiatry Assn. success with a conservative treatment for heel pain. It involves strapping the under part of the foot to the ankle and use of shoes with elevated heels. The strapping holds the ligament in a more relaxed position. The heels improve the arch position. Dr. Karr says the technique has helped most of his patients who have painful heel. The article is in the February 1978 issue of the magazine, should your doctor want to consult it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have arthritis. I am 54. How much activity is too much for my stiff knees? I know that just sitting causes stiffness, but I don't know how much to force myself when I am stiff. — A.M.

I would like to be helpful to you, but you are far too stingy with details. I presume you have osteoarthritis (or degenerative arthritis) since you mention only knee "stiffness." If your doctor was not specific about just what you have you should ask him about it. Osteo — as the other term "degenerative" implies — is a wearing away of the joint structure. Rheumatoid arthritis, on the other hand, is a system disease that usually progresses. It is very painful and crippling.

Rest may be sufficient to end the discomfort of osteoarthritis. With appropriate rest some can return to normal activity. Some degree of activity is desired to prevent further stiffness and "locking" of the joint. The goal is to develop muscle strength to compensate for the joint damage caused by the degeneration.

Normal activity to the point of pain is permissible. You don't have to force yourself. The average activity necessary in your daily routine is the rule. Aspirin or other pain reliever can make that activity more tolerable. The terminology of arthritis is understandably confusing, difficult to untangle in a brief article. My booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," explains the various forms. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 15-year-old girl with an embarrassing problem — hairs growing around the nipples of my breasts. It not only is embarrassing, but I am worried it means something wrong going on inside me. I have never noticed this on other girls when we take showers at school. Please answer soon. — Anon.

Well, Anon., If you could see the number of letters I get from teenage girls with your "problem" you would be surprised and relieved. It is not uncommon at all and is readily corrected by snipping with a pair of scissors. In fact that's probably why you have never noticed this in the shower room.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does removal of a tube and ovary make a woman sterile? — M.V.

Not necessarily — if the other tube and ovary are healthy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is a "prothrombin time" test and why is it given? — J.L.

It is shorthand for "prothrombin time test," a chemical analysis of how quickly blood clots. Doctors order these tests frequently for patients on blood thinning medicines. If there is ease of bleeding the thinning medicine dosage may be too high.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As a regular reader of your column I note that some people seem to sleep poorly because of "jitter leg." In any case, I have found the problem is minimized greatly by avoiding beverages containing either caffeine or alcohol. On the occasions when the problem does occur. I take about 12 milligrams of vitamin B-1. In a few minutes the jitters disappear as if by magic. — J.U.

The cause of jitter leg is obscure, but stimulants can aggravate the problem. It is hard to believe that a casual dose of vitamin B-1 would have such a magic effect, but there is certainly no objection to using it if it works this way for you.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

But hobbyist stays with it

Metal sculpture not easy

By CARLA WALKER

"I have always welded around the farm, and my wife saw some metal sculpture she wanted about three years ago. I told her I could probably make it cheaper than she could buy it, so she bought the materials and I started trying."

Charles McKaskle, Lomax farmer, found that the hobby wasn't as easy or as cheap as he had thought it would be, but he enjoyed it so much that he stuck with it.

"I couldn't get anyone to tell me how to do it, and really, the only way to learn is just to start trying," McKaskle said. "The more I got into it, though, the more tools I found out I needed if I was going to do it right.

"It is easy to get discouraged at metal sculpture, and I guess the only reason I'm still at it is because I'm hard-headed and stubborn," the farmer laughed. "I found, however, that there were tools that could help me a lot, and I started using anything I could find to make it easier — jewelers tools, polishers, anything."

McKaskle says that any tool that will allow him to have more control of the metal or makes the welding itself easier will allow him to be more accurate in detail and to lend more attention to the ideas itself, since execution is made easier.

"Welding is a natural hobby for me — I like metal and I took some courses in college in addition to the farm welding," said McKaskle. "I've learned that brass is the easiest and best metal for me to work with in most of the things I make. It is softer than steel, and working with brass to brass is not as difficult as shaping the harder metals. Also, the grinding is easier and brass polishes up very shiny without leaving obvious buff marks like other metals."

McKaskle added that gold and silver had the same desirable properties as brass, but had one undersirable quality — price.

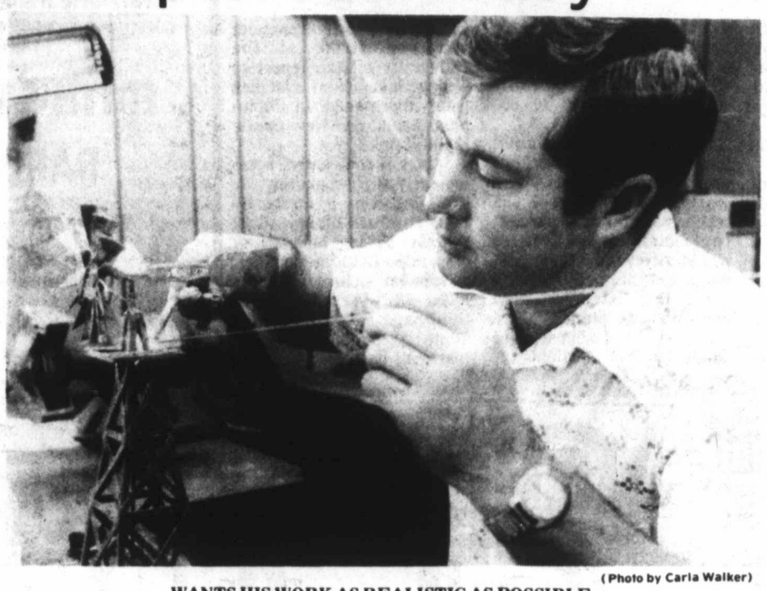

"I use photographs to help me get detail exact — I don't think anyone can remember every rope, every pulley and all the working parts on an oil derrick. I've done construction equipment — from catarpillars to the heavy roller machines — drilling rigs, pump jacks, plows and almost anything alse that struck my imagination or that somebody has asked me to make.

"If they can give me pictures from all sides, I will do my best to make a scale replica," McKaskle says. "I don't always use every single detail because sometimes that distracts from the artistic appearance. I do use enough to give the total picture, though and try to be very exacting with the accuracy of what I do use."

McKaskle has entered five fairs this summer and fall, and won first place awards in four of them. The fifth fair, at Dallas, has not notified him to pick up his entires as is customary before the shows opens, so it would appear that he has at least placed in the top four.

The Lomax area resident says he enjoys the fairs and spends a lot of time preparing for them.

"It takes a lot of items because the fairs usually overlap. It is impossible, for example, to enter the same pieces in the Howard County and Permian Basin Fairs because of the overlapping times," McKaskle explained.

(Photo by Carla Walker)

WANTS HIS WORK AS REALISTIC AS POSSIBLE
. . . McKaskle welds a platform on a windmill

"If I have a booth at a fair, people always like to see the big items, but they prefer to buy the little things — the mailboxes, the windmills and that type. They will be fascinated by something like my oil derrick, but that isn't what they buy. The hobby — when all my tools and materials are considered — doesn't by any means make me a big profit, but my enjoyment is worth anything I am out."

McKaskle says he hopes to pursue his metal sculpture as a career after he retires from farming, but that is many years away.

"I like to see people at the fairs, and I hope they like seeing me and my work. I hope to get my name fairly well known in the field so that if I do decide — years from now — to pursue it as a career, I'll have a little bit of a head start," McKaskle says.

Working with metal, there is little chance of correcting a mistake on a sculpture.

"Once something is welded on, it is hard to move or change it without damaging something else. When it is done, it is done — the only improvement is on the 'next' one," says the sculptor, who adds that he is always looking for some way to improve his work.

"I keep working on my cotton stalks and bolls," McKaskle said. "It is something I see all the time in my livelihood, but I am always seeing some little detail that will make my metal cotton stalks look more realistics and I try to incorporate that in the next stalk I do."

The hobby has also been picked up by McKaskle's family. His wife, Jan has learned to weld and sometimes helps him with the novelty items he sells, while the three children, Gregory, age 10, Timmy, 7, and Mike, 6, have started making pieces of their own.

"I can't keep them out — they respect the tools and the heat of welding so I'm not afraid of them getting hurt, and it is something they can enjoy," McKaskle said. "I was really proud — they took the top three prizes (in order by age) at the Stanton Fair. The only bad thing is that tools are never in the right place, but my workshop is never too neat anyway."

The work is a challenge for McKaskle, who says he finds inspiration for new pieces all around him.

"I just get an idea, develop it is my head or research it, try to make as many of the parts work — like the real-life object it is modeled after — and start cutting. Patterns take some of the challenge out of it."

McKaskle will have a booth at the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival later this month, and says he is looking forward to the week-long event.

"I get a lot of my ideas from other people — just something they say in conversation that stirs an image in my brain," McKaskle said. "The Big Spring festival has been really good in the past and I see no reason for it to be different this year. The booths always interest me — there are so many talented people around."

Though he says his success comes from hard-headedness, not talent or artistic skill, McKaskle's work shows more finished quality — more preciseness and care than the work of most metal sculptors who are satisfied with a rough image.

And that — whether McKaskle admits it or not — amounts to talent.

Hubertus Strughold is in Space Hall of Fame

ALAMOGORDO (AP) — One of the pioneers in space medicine, 80-year-old Dr. Hubertus Strughold of San Antonio, Texas, was inducted Friday into the International Space Hall of Fame and responded by saying, "This will be my galactic home on earth."

Two other notable space-age names also were added to the space hall roll, the late Dr. Vasily Vasilevich Parin and the late Ludvik Ocenasek.

On hand for the ceremonies were the three Double Eagle II Atlantic crossing balloonists, Ben Abruzzo, Maxie Anderson and Larry Newman, all of Albuquerque.

They were presented the Space Hall of Fame's Pioneer Award, the first time the award has been presented.

In announcing the award, Space Hall executive director Nolan Conner said of their feat, "In an era when so little is left for new achievements, these men have carved their names in the annals of aviation."

Strughold told those gathered for the third induction ceremonies since the space hall was created that he first became space-minded in 1910 when he observed Haley's Comet through a telescope.

He then briefly covered some of the highlights of his career and ended by saying, "So much for my history. Now, this International Space Hall of Fame will be my galactic home on earth...Today's induction is the greatest honor of my life."

Strughold, a native of Germany, gave his first lecture on aviation medicine in 1927 at the University of Wuerzburg before Charles Lindbergh's historic solo flight across the Atlantic.

The third inductee, Ocenasek, who died in 1949, was a native of Czechoslovakia.

Times must pay help $233,500

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times will pay $233,500 in annuities to long-term women employees as part of a settlement of a class action suit charging the paper with bias against women in hiring.

The settlement of the suit, filed in 1974 by six women employees of the Times and later extended to a class action suit on behalf of all women employees at the paper, was announced Friday at a hearing before Magistrate Sol Schreiber.

The agreement is subject to a final hearing and approval by U.S. District Court Judge Henry F. Werker.

The Times agreed it would try to place women in a certain percentage of openings in each of about two dozen categories — including top management — over the next four years.

The interim goals range from 12.5 percent in the top category to 40 percent in several sales, office and clerical and technical categories.

Spokesmen for the two sides in the suit differed on which side got the better of the settlement.

Harriet Rabb, director of Columbia University's Employment Rights Project, which represented the women, said the settlement was "unprecedented" because it commits the Times "to place women in one out of every eight of the top corporate positions during the four-year life of the settlement."

James C. Goodale, executive vice president of the New York Times Co., called her explanation "poppycock." He said the existing affirmative action plan drawn up by the Times already committed the newspaper to hire women as top executives.

He said that under the existing plan, the Times planned to hire 167 women in all categories. Under the new plan, he said, the number was increased to 168.

Ms. Rabb said the Times offered the annuities, which can be held to maturity or cashed at any time the holder desires, "in an effort to camouflage the fact that they were giving back pay."

However, Goodale said the annuity program "is not a hush-up or a cover-up of back pay," he said.

Goodale said the Times agreed to the annuity payments because it recognized that "society has in the past burdened some women in ways that prevented or delayed career advancement or denied equal opportunity."

Goodale said, "We regard today's announcement as total vindication of the New York Times and as full refutation of the charges against us."

"In my judgment, neither side won and neither side lost," said Schreiber. "There have been certain modifications made in an affirmative action plan which was a strong plan to begin with."

JACKIE ROHRS

Nude photograph leads to Honey Bear's demise

CHICAGO (AP) — Jackie Rohrs hasn't seen the picture of her that will be published in the December issue of Playboy magazine, but she'd like to. The management of the Chicago Bears football team already has and it didn't like what it saw.

The 27-year-old former model says her brief stint as one of Chicago's Honey Bears, a group of cheerleaders who dance at Bears home games, has been terminated because of a photograph of her partially in the nude that will be published in Playboy.

"I'm not saying that I didn't know I couldn't pose nude," Ms. Rohrs said Friday. "I simply didn't have any idea where the line was being drawn.

"I was asked to pose in a pictorial along with two other girls on the squad and I told someone in the Bears' front office before the photo session took place. I guess they assumed none of us would be brave enough to pose in the nude."

A similar incident involving a member of the San Diego Chargers' cheerleading squad who posed nude for the same forthcoming issue resulted in the disbanding of the entire unit.

Also on Friday, the 24-member squad of Angels, the New Orleans Saints cheerleaders, was disbanded over what the team said was "an accumulation of demands by the girls."

Because of the recent rash of controversies involving cheerleading squads, National Football League owners decided this week to allow each team to monitor its cheerleaders for appropriate on-field dress and off-the-field behavior.

David Salyers, a spokesman for Playboy, said the two other Honey Bears appearing in the 10-page "play-by-play" pictorial about cheerleading squads around the league were photographed fully clothed.

Teachers' strikes continue Briscoe hopeful about economy

250,000 out of classrooms

By the Associated Press

Both courtrooms and negotiating tables will be busy this weekend as efforts continue to end strikes that are keeping 250,000 students out of classrooms nationwide.

In Cleveland, where schools have been shut down since Sept. 12 by a strike involving 10,000 teachers and other workers, the leader of a coalition of six unions was due in court today for continuation of a hearing on contempt charges.

Late Friday, Common Pleas Judge Harry A. Hanna cited strike leader James E. O'Meara for contempt, saying O'Meara defied four provisions of the back-to-work order. O'Meara pleaded innocent at a hearing before Hanna on Friday.

School Superintendent Peter P. Carlin said 581 employees heeded Hanna's back-to-work order and reported to schools on Friday. However, he said, many couldn't get in to buildings because doors were locked or chained. The judge also banned picketing at schools, but pickets were up Friday anyway.

Classes have not been held this fall for the financially strapped district's 100,000 students.

Negotiations continued between the striking workers and school officials. The workers, including 5,000 teachers, want a 20 percent pay increase. The average pay of a Cleveland teacher is now $14,873 annually.

Teacher strikes also continued in Camden, N.J.; Tucson, Ariz., and in several small districts in Michigan, Oregon and Ohio. Teachers were on strike at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut, and strikes were threatened in Memphis, Tenn., and New Castle County, Del.

Salary is the central issue in nearly all the disputes.

In Camden, a strike by 1,300 teachers closed all 32 schools Friday, disrupting classes for 20,000 students.

Camden school officials have offered a $925 across-the-board pay increase, some $280 short of the teacher' pay request.

Grain crop 'on target'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government experts say the Soviet Union's grain crop is still on target at around 220 million metric tons, the third largest on record.

The Agriculture Department estimate issued Friday was unchanged from similar projections made in August and September.

"The chances appear to be at least 2 out of 3 that the final outturn will fall within the 210 million to 230 million ton range," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

Next week department officials will meet here with their Soviet counterparts to discuss terms of the long-term trade agreement which commits Russia to buy minimum quantities of U.S. wheat and corn each year.

Thus, what happens to the Soviet harvest — along with this year's U.S. crops — has an important bearing on those discussions and how much grain Moscow decides to import in the coming year.

As of Oct. 2, about 93 percent of the Soviet grain area was cut. About 97 percent of the cuttings were threshed by then, the agency said.

The common practice in Russia is to cut or swath the standing grain, put it into windrows and thresh it later. By contrast, the American grain farmer uses combines to cut and thresh grain in one operation.

Officials said that some three million hectares of grain were still in windrows by Oct. 2. That was "twice as large as that in the past two years," they said.

A hectare is about 2.47 acres and a metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

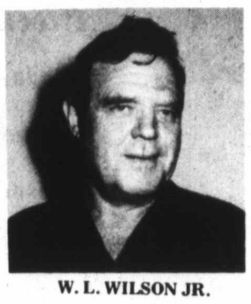

The USDA estimate of 220 million metric tons would make it the third largest Soviet harvest on record, exceeded by the record of 223.8 million metric tons in 1976 and 222.5 million in 1973. Last year's harvest was 195.5 million metric tons.

The U.S.-Soviet meeting will begin Oct. 11 and will be a semi-annual talk specified by the five-year agreement signed three years ago. Last May the discussions were in Moscow.

Under the pact, which took effect with the year that began Oct. 1, 1976, the Soviet Union is committed to buy each year a minimum of six million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn combined.

W.L. Wilson renamed to conservation board

W.L. Wilson, Jr., of south Borden County was re-elected to the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation Districts board of directors at an election held the past week in the Borden County Courthouse in Gail. Wilson represents Zone 5 of the District.

W. L. WILSON JR.

The purpose of the Upper Colorado SWCD, with headquarters in Snyder is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch land within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

As one of five individuals serving on the district board of directors, Wilson will be responsible for district policies and procedures for carrying out the district program within the framework of the Texas soil conservation law.

Other current members of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District Board are Walter Stirl, Loraine; Carl Williams, Hermleigh; Leon Sterling, Snyder; and Burl Belew, Fluvanna.

In Texas there are 198 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state government organized by local agricultural land owners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCD's do not have the powers of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the districts are of a voluntary nature to the land owner or operator.

China seeks U.S. corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — After backing away for four years, China has ordered some U.S. corn.

The Agriculture Department said Friday that U.S. exporting firms reported corn sales to China totaling 276,000 metric tons, but that 200,000 metric tons of it can come from "optional origin" outside the United States.

Even so, the 76,000 metric tons remaining is the first U.S. corn sold to China since 1973-74 when it took delivery on 1.8 million metric tons for delivery that year.

Some corn was sold after that but China canceled those orders and stopped buying corn until now. All 276,000 metric tons of the new order are to be delivered by Sept. 30, 1979.

China also turned to the United States earlier this year for wheat for the first time in four years. About 2.5 million metric tons have been bought so far. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

As is customary, the department did not identify the exporters selling the grain or the terms of its sale.

Plant ratings unacceptable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jackson Packing Co. of Jackson, Miss., has been officially designated by the Agriculture Department as a "chronic problem plant" because of unsanitary conditions.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman, who oversees food and consumer services, said Friday that the plant "had received unacceptable ratings" in three reviews made by federal inspectors this summer.

Sugar to go up 20 cents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a bill that probably would raise the price of a five-pound bag of sugar more than 20 cents over the next four years. It is also looking favorably at a measure that could keep hamburger prices up.

The sugar bill passed Friday would add 1.5 cents to a five-pound bag of sugar this winter and 20.5 cents more by 1982, agriculture experts say.

"There is no possibility" President Carter will sign such a bill, said Thomas Sand, an aide to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

The House bill starts at just under the maximum price level favored by Carter and provides automatic price boosts every six months as production costs rise.

But Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said a Senate bill goes farther and he doubts the president would veto the House version if it reaches Carter's desk.

He said the Senate bill has an even faster escalator clause and would drive a five-pound bag's retail price up more than 60 cents in four years.

Both bills rely on import fees, duties and possible quotas to drive up the value of foreign sugar, which makes up about 45 percent of the U.S. supply. The foreign sugar price traditionally sets the price for all sweeteners.

The House action Friday came 13 months after adoption of a renewed sugar price-support program that raised the prices paid to 16,000 producers by 3 cents a pound, or 14.5 percent.

Benefitting from truce

Supermarkets show gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the nation's supermarket industry, benefitting from a truce in price wars and food inflation trends, are reporting sharply higher profits this year.

But A&P, which reported a big loss, and Food Fair, which filed for court protection because of its difficulties, offered sharp contrasts. Analysts say both are paying a catch-up price of consolidating unprofitable operations in the wake of new trend toward fewer but larger markets.

Safeway Stores Inc., which in 1972 surpassed the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. as the nation's largest food retailer, said its earnings in the most recent quarter leaped 84 percent to $31.7 million, or $1.22 a share, from $17.2 million, or 67 cents a share a year earlier.

Winn-Dixie Stores, the fourth largest chain, announced a 35 percent increase in earnings to $19.7 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30 from $14.6 million in the period last year. The Kroger Co., ranked as the third largest in the industry, isn't expected to announce its latest profits until next week. But analysts are expecting it to continue a strong growth trend. For the first half of the year, Kroger's earnings were up 20.5 percent to $31.3 million from profits in the comparable 1977 period.

Value Line, an investment survey published by Arnold Bernhard & Co. Inc. rates this year as a vastly improved one for the industry.

"Price wars have been virtually non-existent this year compared with 1977's highly competitive atmosphere. And food price inflation is moderating, which will lead to wider profit margins in food stores," says a recent Value Line survey of the industry.

But A&P, which embarked on a major restructuring program several years ago in an effort to recapture its shrinking market share, reported a $6.9 million loss in the past quarter. That followed a $10 million loss the previous quarter.

And Food Fair Inc., one of the 10 largest chains, filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act in an attempt to work out a plan for paying debts without having to close its grocery or retail outlets.

The Philadelphia-based chain sought court protection this past week after it found itself "with insufficient quantites of cash to purchase inventories" in large enough quantities to qualify for volume discounts. In its filing in U.S. District Court in New York, the company desribed its difficulty as a "temporary liquidity problem."

Under Chapter 11, a company attempts to carry out its business and pay its debts while under court protection from creditors' lawsuits. Food Fair recorded net income of $282,000, or 3 cents a share, on revenue of $2.2 billion in the 40 weeks ended May 3.

NITA MOSER
. . . artist of the month

Does monograms, too

Artist of month picked

By MARJ CARPENTER

Big Spring continues to have a large number of very qualified and talented artists. And each month one is featured at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and her paintings put on display there.

This month, the paintings of Mrs. Bill (Nita) Moser are at the chamber.

They include a seascape, a dusty West Texas scene, other landscapes and the one shown here of an elderly woman.

Mrs. Moser has lived in Big Spring for 21 years. She and her husband own and operate the Fashion Cleaners.

In addition to painting, Mrs. Moser does monograming. She has a number of other hobbies including bowling, sewing and spends some time serving as a director of the Big Spring Women's Bowling Association.

As a member of the Big Spring Art Association, she tries to help with the group that backs her favorite hobby of painting.

She has been a student of Mrs. Virginia Whitten for seven years. During that time, she has had art lessons with Don Stroud from South Plains College; Paul Milosavitch and Leo Smith from Lubbock.

She enjoys all types of art including watercolor, oils, glazes, pen and ink and pencil. She stated, "My favorite media is oils."

She is looking forward to taking more lessons during a workshop to be taught by Dr. Emilo Caballero from West Texas University at Kansas.

It will be held in Big Spring in mid-November and sponsored by Mrs. Whitten.

Mrs. Moser and her husband have six children and seven grandchildren. She says, "I got used to being busy raising all those children and art is a wonderful outlet now that they are grown."

'Think fire safety' is theme for coming week

The coming week has been designated as National Fire Prevention Week.

Sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) since it was first observed more than 50 years ago, Fire Prevention Week is the annual reminder to everyone to "think fire safety." The message is not only for early October, but for the entire year.

The week is always observed to include Oct. 9, the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. Chicago's conflagration helped convince the nation that standards and legislation were needed to protect lives and property from further disasters caused by fire.

That particular tragedy caused the deaths of 250 persons and 17,432 buildings at an estimated cost of $168 million.

The NFPA cites another holocaust in stressing the need to avoid careless smoking habits. It was a careless smoker who cost the lives of 468 people, including 27 firefighters, and $67 million in the infamous Texas City Blaze.

Recent studies by the NFPA show that more than half of 3,955 fatal dwelling fires analyzed had smoking related causes. Such fires were started by cigarettes, cigars and pipes, and by open flames including the matches and lighters used by smokers.

The living room was the place where 39 per cent of these tragic fires started; 28 per cent broke out in the bedroom; and 14 per cent in the kitchen.

The NFPA also has some advice about fireplaces, stoves and portable heaters that may be used with winter coming.

The association warns that chimneys should be cleaned at least once a year, and any cracks, leaks, corded metal, crumbling bricks and mortar by repaired. Screens should always be used in front of the fireplace to prevent flying embers or blazing logs rolling onto the floor.

Locate portable electric and oil-fueled heaters away from stairwells and doorways, and from bedding, drapes and furniture. Use extra caution while wearing long, loose-fitting garments that could catch fire with just a brush against the heater.

Never use a charcoal fire or gas range for heat. Both release toxic gases which can be fatal if allowed to build up indoors.

It is also recommended that every family have a fire escape plan. Two ways to get out of each room should be devised, with special attention paid to bedrooms because most residential fires break out at night when everyone is asleep.

Also a point should be designated away from the house where everyone can meet to "count noses" after an emergency exit to make sure all have escaped.

For more information about fire prevention, call the Big Spring Fire Department, or enclose a self-addressed, stamped enveloped to the NFPA Dept. 05, 470 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, Mass., 02210.

Clubs, organizations to be listed in tabloid

Family News has begun work on the 1978 Clubs and Organizations tabloid to be included with the Oct. 26 edition of the Big Spring Herald.

Questionnaires to be filled out by presidents have been mailed to 180 organizations on whom we had an address. If you have not received your questionnaire, please check with last year's president and other members of the club as our information is not current.

If your organization was overlooked, questionnaires are available at the Herald.

The completed forms must be returned to the Herald no later than Oct. 10. Presidents will have their pictures taken for the tabloid from 1 to 5 p.m. Oct. 9 and 10.

Included with the mailed questionnaires and also available at the Herald are letters for club reporters containing information to help them in reporting club news.

The purpose of the Clubs and Organizations tabloid is to provide the public with information on who does what for Big Spring. It is a valuable reference source for individuals, organizations and businesses. We appreciate your cooperation in making it complete.

Nitrites are studied

Is the hot dog doomed?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is taking a new, hard look at a key cancer study the meat industry claims could lead to the demise of the American hot dog as we know it.

The laborious, "slide-by-slide" review of laboratory results is expected to take months to complete and could delay plans to phase out the use of nitrites in processed meats, poultry and fish, officials said.

Scientists from the Food and Drug Administration, National Institutes of Health and the Agriculture Department have been named to a special panel to conduct the investigation.

The planned phase-out of nitrites, which the Justice Department is now reviewing for its legality, was conceived this summer after the FDA received the results of a study that concluded nitrites cause cancer in rats and may do so in humans.

The unusually large and complex project, involving 2,000 animals and costing about $500,000, took three years to complete and immediately impressed government scientists with its scope and apparently definitive results.

That was enough to convince regulatory officials at FDA and Agriculture that they should map plans to get the historic preservative, usually found as sodium nitrite or potassium nitrite, out of processed foods.

The industry warned that such traditional foods as hot dogs and bologna would never taste or look the same. And government officials expressed concern that botulism, a rare but deadly form of food poisoning in the United States, would haunt American supermarkets.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy, a biologist, ordered a thorough, "slide-by-slide" review to make sure the science behind the study would stand up.

"We think it's valid," said FDA scientist Robert Elder, "but there are always pluses and minuses. We have to confirm that the findings are strong enough to win with in court."

A central finding of the study was that rats fed controlled amounts of nitrites in their drinking water or diet developed significantly more cancers of the lymph system than rats on nitrite-free diets. And many of the nitrite-fed rats that didn't develop malignant tumors had what were termed pre-cancerous lesions.

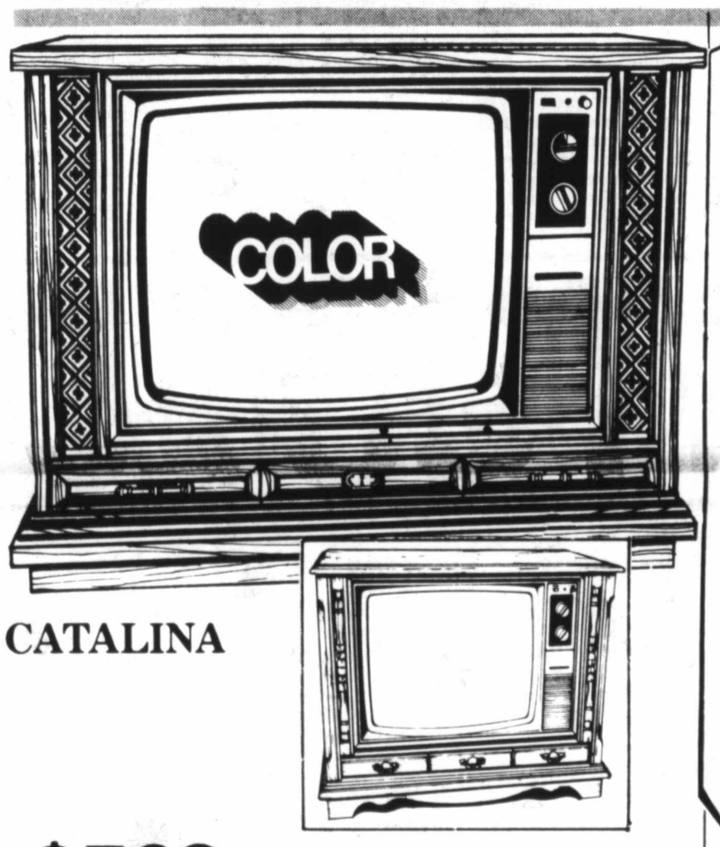

Elder, who is not a member of the panel but is directly involved in the nitrite case, refused to speculate on the outcome of the review. But one panel member, who asked not to be named, said he would be "astonished" if the group accepts all of the report's conclusions and equally astonished if the essential conclusions don't survive all challenges.

NAB names him 'Watchdog of Treasury'

Poll shows Krueger ahead in U.S. Senate race

TEXAS '78 HARTE-HANKS ★ ELECTION TEAM

By WALT FINLEY
Staff Writer

U.S. Senate candidacy of Democrat Bob Krueger received two boosts the past five days: Krueger was named a "Watch of the Treasury" by the National Associated Businessmen and the results of a 1,200-sample poll showed him gaining momentum over his Republican opponent, John Tower.

Krueger was cited by the NAB for voting 85 percent of the time to reduce wasteful government spending during the 95th Congress. Legislators who vote at least 66 percent of the time for economy in government qualify for the award.

Tower did not receive an award.

Krueger's record as an inflation-fighter and spending watchdog is perhaps one of the reasons for the 21st District Congressman's steadily increasing support in recent polls.

A 1,200-sample statewide survey of randomly selected registered voters taken Sept. 22-Oct. 3 shows Krueger leading Tower 40.5 to 40.4 percent along all those polled. Among those who said they were most likely to vote, Krueger leads Tower by six points (47-41).

Previous polls have showed Tower leading Krueger by a small margin.

"It is apparent we are gaining momentum we have been sensing," Krueger said when told about the poll results. "When 500 people greeted our helicopter this week during a stop in Rockdale, a city of about 5,000. I knew that the momentum for which we have been striving has been reached — and the poll confirms that."

The poll, taken by Henson, Hopkins and Shipley of Austin, was opened to news media scrutiny from the initial formation of the questionnaire to analysis of the data.

Krueger challenged Tower to allow similar observation of his polling processes.

"I challenge the Tower campaign to conduct a more open campaign, to allow its polling procedures to undergo the same public and media scrutiny we have sought so there can be no doubt as to the validity of the polls being conducted," Krueger said.

Krueger's hard-line approach to the issue of inflation and economy in government may be one of the pivotal issues responsible for this increased support.

Krueger is currently cosponsoring a Constitutional amendment which would require that the federal budget be balanced within five years and the $800 billion federal deficit be eliminated within 25 years.

GRIFFIN BELL

* * *

When Attorney General Griffin Bell arrived in Howard County earlier this year to hunt quail with a local attorney, County Clerk Margaret Ray was pledged to keep the shooting a secret. She suffered an ulcer.

Shortly after Mrs. Ray arrived at the Texas Democratic Convention in Fort Worth with her husband and daughter she purchased "nachos" at the convention center. It was ulcer time once again.

* * *

Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Hill winged into El Paso last week on his 13th visit to Texas' western-most city since launching his campaign one year ago.

Invitations were sent out to the 1,100 of the party faithful in the border city, urging them to attend and reminding them that "it is this kind that will overcome the unprecedented campaign spending by our opposition . . ."

Republican nominee Bill Clements confesses that he is prepared to spend in excess of $3 million in the general election campaign, while Hill has announced a war chest only half that large.

* * *

An unfortunate remark, made in momentary frustration in the face of some tough questions, appears to have cost Clements a hefty chunk of whatever Mexican-American support he may have had.

Three weeks ago, pressed hard about his programs to assist Mexican-Americans, Clements snapped at an audience: "Listen, I'm running for governor of Texas, not president of Mexico."

Since then, several Mexican-American groups, which had been uncommitted, have castigated Clements for his remark and announced their endorsement of Hill.

* * *

Former CIA Director George Bush, who sometimes claims Midland as his hometown and who has been mentioned as a possible Republican nominee in 1980, was the featured speaker Sept. 28 at a $50 per-plate dinner in El Paso to raise funds for GOP candidates.

Bush, who served two terms in Congress from Texas' 7th District and was chief of the U.S. liaison office in Peking for 15 months, paid his own expenses for the appearance — unlike other big names on the party fund-raising circuit.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, for instance, charges as much as $5,000 to beat the drum for Republican candidates, while former President Gerald Ford often collects a similar sum in addition to full expenses for his retinue of Secret Service agents.

* * *

And now for a few "hot shots."

It is painful for many voters, standing there in the booth trying to decide which candidates they hated most.

* * *

One loser in the 17th District Congressional election just couldn't understand the voters' attitude. "I carried my case to the people," he cried — "and they threw it right back."

* * *

Newly nominated Democratic candidate for governor in Oklahoma, George Nigh, a frequent speaker at civic affairs in West Texas, said he wouldn't be out-promised while campaigning in a bitter runoff. How could any candidate promise more than that?

* * *

If this is the season for candidates to clear the record by oath-taking, look for nearly every candidate to swear on a pot-bellied stove at a country store that he's not backed by utilities.

* * *

There's still some confusion over tabulation of the primary vote. Many courthouse cynics in Texas yearn for an earlier time when election boards hired a bunch of people to count the ballots on their fingers.

* * *

It's hard to pass a State Question in Texas. After looking over the candidates on the ballot, people get a certain satisfaction out of voting a straight-out No.

On Wall Street

Debating over recession

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market awaits the outcome, the debate continues to rage on Wall Street over the chances of a recession.

The argument involves more than just the straightforward question of whether the economy is headed for a slowdown of significant proportions.

Among the corollary points of debate:

—A recession would be a) bad news because of its impact on jobs and profits; b) good news because it would at last take some of the steam out of inflation.

—The stock market a) is vulnerable should a recession occur; b) has already taken the possibility into account and might actually rise once the slowdown was actually taking place.

Investors seemed to reach at least a few tentative favorable answers to these questions in the past week. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a 14.20 gain to 880.02 on top of a 3.38-point rise the week before.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index gained .55 to 58.33, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up 1.42 at 170.23.

Volume on the Big Board averaged 24.31 million shares a day against 24.72 million the week before.

In the most recent issue of its weekly publication "The Outlook," Standard & Poor's Corp. said its economists look for no recession, but only a moderation of the economic growth rate next year. But the firm then put aside the issue of whether a recession will take place to discuss the specific effects it might have in given industries should there be one.

S&P came up with this list of groups likely to feel the sharpest impact of a recession: Airline, aluminum, apparel, automotive, chemical, consumer electronics, copper, major appliances, home furnishings, paper, railroads, recreational goods, retail, steel and textile.

A sampling of comments by the advisory firm about a few of those groups:

AIRLINES — "Airline earnings would drop sharply, since costs could not be adjusted quickly to declining traffic. The last recession saw the trunk lines incur a substantial deficit in 1975, on a traffic decline of less than 1 percent."

AUTO — "Recent strong car sales are believed to have been borrowing from future demand, and consumer credit extensions and debt outstanding are at historically high levels.

"Even if there is no recession in 1979, U.S. automobile production could be expected to decline some 5 to 10 percent."

CONSUMER ELECTRONICS — "Even under our assumption of slower economic growth in 1979, unit sales of color television sets, the industry's major product line, could be expected to decline about 5 percent.

"A recession would lead to a much steeper drop in shipments, and would preclude the possibility of a further improvement in cost-price relationships from current depressed levels."

RAILROADS AND STEEL — "Both of these industries would normally be expected to suffer sharp reversals in a recession. However, their 1978 earnings have been severely depressed by the coal strike and adverse weather early in the year, and more recently by the strike against the railroads.

"Consequently, their 1979 results in a recessionary environment could hold up better on a comparative basis than the other industries discussed here."

Initial step of Davis trial begins Monday

HOUSTON (AP)—The first step in the latest sensational trial for Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, accused of trying to hire someone to kill a judge, begins in Houston Monday as opposing attorneys argue some 83 motions.

The defense has asked that at least five of the motions be sealed and kept secret — considered out of hearing of the news media.

Davis is accused of solicitation of capital murder. Tapes played during a bond hearing in Fort Worth allegedly linked Davis with a plot to kill State District Judge Joe Eidson, who had presided over Davis' long and bitter divorce trial. Eidson has since removed himself from the proceedings between Davis and his estranged wife, Priscilla.

Many of the motions to be argued Monday are routine procedures for the defense, such things as demands that evidence collected by the prosecution be made available to the defense.

What the secret motions may contain has brought widespread speculation among the legal fraternity, but chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes told The Associated Press, "If I told you what they contain, there wouldn't be much reason to have them sealed. These are things we want to talk about with the judge in chambers."

Motions also were filed asking that no tape recordings be admitted as evidence, and if this is denied then jurors shouldn't receive typed transcripts of the conversations.

The recordings played at Davis' bond hearing involve three conversations in which Davis allegedly asked an FBI informant to kill the judge.

Davis was acquitted last year by an Amarillo jury on a capital murder charge of killing his 12-year-old stepdaughter. It was the longest and costliest criminal prosecution in Texas history.

The new trial is scheduled to begin Oct. 16, although the discussions on the numerous motions may delay the start.

Israel aliens are convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Two resident aliens from Israel have been convicted of murdering a diamond dealer whose body was found a year ago in Manhattan's diamond district.

The jury of nine men and three women deliberated for two days before finding Shlomo Tal, 30, and Pini Balabin, 32, guilty Friday night of murdering Pinchos Jaroslawicz, who was beaten and strangled to death Sept. 20, 1977.

The two face life imprisonment with a minimum of 15 years in prison before being eligible for parole.

Jaroslawicz, 25, of Brooklyn, was carrying $600,000 in diamonds when he was killed. The diamonds were never found.

Eight days later, Tal led police to the body, which had been stuffed in an air conditioner packing box and hidden beneath a bench in the diamond cutter's cramped 15th-floor workroom. The workroom is in Manhattan's West 47th Street diamond block, the largest gem mart in the world.

Budget planners abolish COMA

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas House and Senate budget planners have voted to abolish the controversial Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs.

The vote came Friday at a meeting of the Legislative Budget Board, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton, which will send a proposed state budget for 1980-81 to the next legislature.

The budget board approved staff recommendations that GOMA's duties be transferred to the Texas Department of Community Affairs. The staff also recommended that the staff of the community affairs department's Manpower Services Division be increased so that activities of agencies that subcontract with the community affairs department can be monitored more closely.

"Recent allegations regarding the activities of some manpower subcontractors are indicative of the types of problems that could be avoided by the implementation of this recommendation," the staff report said.

Charges of misuse and mismanagement of federal manpower training funds have been leveled against both the community affairs department and GOMA in recent months.

The budget board staff evaluation report said both agencies provide services to migrant workers and transfering GOMA's duties to community affairs "should provide for more effective and efficient means of administering manpower programs and would eliminate the duplication of services that currently exists."

Earlier the board voted to do away with the Texas Commission on Jail Standards and give its duty to furnish technical advice on county jails to another state agency such as the Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education. Budget board staff members said the jail standards commission relied too heavily on physical inspections of jails and not one Texas county jail had been approved in the past three years.

"Even a Hyatt-Regency Hotel couldn't pass their standards," Clayton said.

Sims, Sooners stab Horns

DALLAS (AP) — Halfback Billy Sims barged for two touchdowns and quarterback Thomas Lott passed for another score Saturday, catapulting the top-ranked Oklahoma Sooners to a 31-10 victory over the sixth-ranked Texas Longhorns in the 73rd renewal of their bitter rivalry.

Oklahoma, boasting the most awesome offense in the country, stung the Longhorns on the Sooners' first possession in this joust of unbeatens and the outcome was really never in doubt before a sellout crowd of 72,032 in the Cotton Bowl and a regional television audience.

The Sooners intercepted three Texas passes and totally dominated the sputtering Longhorn offense, which only notched three first downs in the decisive first half.

Oklahoma charged 77 yards in five plays on its first possession with Sims racing the final 18 yards untouched for the touchdown.

The Texas defense, No. 3 in the nation, was stunned again in the second quarter after freshman quarterback Donnie Little fumbled the ball away at the Longhorn 26. Sims dashed 17 yards and then scored from a yard away on fourth down.

A 35-yard field goal by Ewe von Schamann offset Russell Erxleben's 26-yard field goal as Oklahoma built a dominating 17-3 halftime lead.

Lott, running the wishbone offense to perfection until he sprained an ankle in the fourth quarter, dashed any Longhorn comeback hopes with a 24-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Kimball to give Oklahoma a 24-3 lead early in the third period.

The frustrated Horns finally broke Olympic sprinter Johnny "Lam" Jones loose on a 25-yard scoring jaunt on an end-around play in the third quarter.

Oklahoma tacked on its final touchdown late in the fourth period when David Overstreet charged across from two yards out.

Oklahoma, of the Big Eight Conference, is now 5-0 while the defending Southwest Conference champion Lonhorns are now 3-1.

Texas now leads the series 43-27-3.

Sims rushed 25 times and gained 131 hard-earned yards.

The eight-point favorite Sooners started an all-Texan backfield and they quickly dominated a Longhorn defense that Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer had called the best in the country.

Fullback Kenny King ripped off left tackle for 55 yards before he was hauled down from behind. On third and eight from the Texas 18, Sims followed a crisp block by right guard Greg Roberts and sprinted untouched into the Texas end zone.

Little fumbled to alert Sooner defender Reggie Mathis in the second quarter and the Sooners only had to go 26 yards for their second touchdown. Sims tore off 17 yards, but the Longhorn defense stiffened. On fourth down from the Texas one, Sims soared into the air and line judge Glenn Lippman singled touchdown, ruling that Sims had scored before he fumbled the ball away into the end zone.

Texas didn't claim its first first down until 11:34 of the second quarter when Little scrambled 16 yards on what appeared to be a broken play.

The Longhorns cashed a break into a second quarter 27-yard field goal by Erxleben. Fullback Vickey Ray Anderson, playing for King who suffered a hip pointer, fumbled and Henry Williams recovered the ball at the Sooner 3.

Texas fought its way to the Oklahoma four-yard line. On fourth down, Texas tried to draw Oklahoma offsides, and when it didn't work, took a delay of game penalty and kicked the field goal.

Oklahoma's Darrol Ray returned an intercepted pass 45 yards just before halftime to set up von Schamann's 35-yard field goal at the halftime gun.

Oklahoma linebacker George Cumby intercepted a Texas pass late in the fourth quarter to set up Overstreet's touchdown.

Aggies gig Red Raiders

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Seventh-ranked Texas A&M pummeled Texas Tech with a one-two punch of quarterback Mike Mosley and Curtis Dickey, and David Brothers scored two touchdowns to lead the Aggies to a 38-9 Southwest Conference football victory Saturday.

Mosley took command of the Aggie offense in the first half, rushing 99 yards on 12 carries, including a 64-yard touchdown run. Texas A&M took a 17-6 halftime lead despite losing the ball on a fumble and interception on their first two possessions.

Brothers scored on a two-yard run in the first quarter and Tony Franklin kicked a 32-yard field goal in the second period. Tech's first-half scoring came on field goals of 19 and 26 yards by Bill Adams.

Dickey, who had only 18 yards on eight carries at halftime, took charge of the Aggie running attack in the third quarter. He gained 65 yards on A&M's 67-yard touchdown drive to open the second half with Brothers scoring from the one.

Dickey later scored on a 15-yard run and finished the day with 161 yards on 20 carries for his fourth consecutive 100-yard rushing performance of the season.

Freshman quarterback Ron Reeves engineered Texas Tech to the A&M eight-yard-line late in the third quarter, but the Aggies, ranked No. 1 nationally in total defense, forced the Red Raiders to settle for Adams' 27-yard field goal.

Adger Armstrong tacked on eight-yard touchdown run for the Aggies early in the fourth quarter.

Texas A&M improved its record to 4-0, while Texas Tech fell to 1-3.

The Red Raiders shocked the top-rated Aggie defense in the first quarter when they took the opening kickoff and drove to the A&M seven before Adams' 19-yard field goal.

Kenneth James returned the opening kickoff 23 yards to start the Texas Tech drive and fullback James Hadnot ran 30 yards to the Aggie 23. Reeves then hit Brian Nelson for 13 yards to the Aggie seven before the drive bogged down.

Armstrong then fumbled on A&M's offensive play and Tech defensive end Jeff McKinney recovered at the Aggies' 11. Adams booted his second field goal after a third-down pass sailed off Godfrey Turner's fingertips in the end zone.

By the fourth quarter, the Aggie defense was asserting itself against the Tech attack.

Big Spring to host Girls National Tourney

Big Spring will be the site of the 1979 United Girls Softball Association National Tournament. The tournament will be held in the Roy Anderson Complex, which is located on the north side of Interstate 20.

Girls from Texas, New Mexico, and Virginia will compete in the play. There will be two divisions. Division III will feature young ladies from age 13-16. Division IV ages are 17-19.

Big Spring will automatically be seeded in both divisions. There will be six teams in each division. It is a double elimination tourney.

Tommy Meeks, president of the local chapter, and Jackie Thomason, local vice president, made the announcement Friday. They said that the tournament will run the weekend of August 10, 11 and 12.

Approximately 200 girls will participate in this year's event. A barbecue is planned at the conclusion of the weekend.

Dodgers win NL pennant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shortstop Bill Russell's single with two outs in the 10th inning scored Ron Cey and brought the Los Angeles Dodgers the National League pennant Saturday with a 4-3 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The shortstop's hit off southpaw reliever Tug McGraw gave the defending NL champion Dodgers the pennant a second year in a row and was Russell's third hit of the game.

Tied 3-3 after nine innings, Dodgers reliever Terry Forster retired the Phillies on one hit — a single by Larry Bowa in the top of the 10th. Then McGraw got Reggie Smith and Steve Garvey in the bottom of the frame before Cey walked, and Dusty Baker was safe when the goat of the game, center fielder Garry Maddox, dropped his short fly in center field.

With the runners on first and second, Russell slapped his clean single over second base. The ball went through Maddox, but even if he hao fielded it, Cey would have scored.

The crowd went wild, thronging onto the field. The World Series starts at Dodger Stadium Tuesday evening against the American League champion.

McGraw, the fourth Philadelphia pitcher in a game punctuated by home runs in the early innings, took the loss. The left-handed Foster, the third Dodgers hurler, gained the victory.

Forster struck out Mike Schmidt to open the 10th inning before Bowa singled to right. Maddox was called out on strikes, then Greg Luzinski, who hit a home run earlier, grounded to Russell, who tagged second to force Bowa for the final out of the inning.

Smith led off for the Dodgers and flied to Maddox before third baseman Schmidt threw out Garvey. Cey walked, and it appeared the inning was over as Maddox came in after Baker's fly.

But the ball glanced off his glove, keeping the Dodgers alive for the blow by Russell. He had been a tough out all season for the Eastern champions.

Through nine innings, the game was a combination of record performances and missed opportunities.

The Phillies loaded the bases in the opening frame off starter Doug Rau, but couldn't score. Schmidt doubled to lead off, Bowa walked, and Maddox singled.

Luzinski, who homered in the third, struck out in the first. Rau got Jose Cardenal on a liner to shortstop and Jerry Martin fouled to the catcher to end the inning.

Cey doubled with one out in the Dodger second and scored on Baker's single to left. Russell also singled, but then Phillies starter Randy Lerch retired the next two batters.

Bowa singled with one out in the third, Maddox flied out, then Luzinski belted his two-run homer 385 feet to left-center field.

Cey's 390-foot homer to left tied the score 2-2 in the fourth.

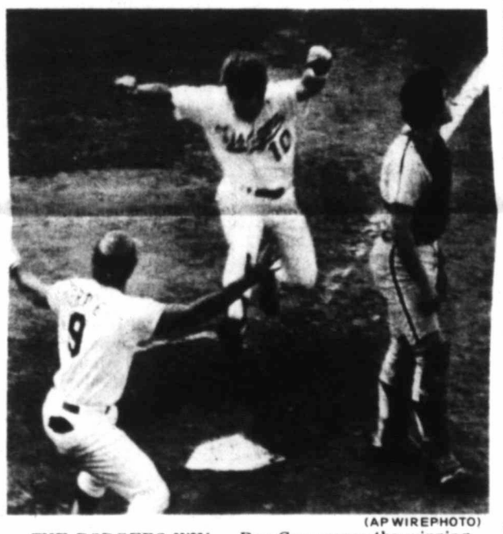

Schmidt walked to open the Phillies' fifth but was out trying to steal second. In the Dodgers' fifth, Rau was lifted for pinch-hitter Manny Mota, who sacrificed Steve Yeager to second before the final two batters were retired.

Garvey, on a count of one strike and one ball, belted his fourth homer of this championship series over the left field fence. It was the sixth time he had homered in championship series competition, breaking the record of five held jointly by Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson of the American League.

It also was the 12th run scored by Garvey in NL championship competition, bettering the mark of 11 by Cincinnati's Pete Rose.

The homer brought reliever Warren Brusstar in to pitch for the Phillies.

Pinch-hitter Bake McBride, batting for Brusstar against reliever Rick Rhoden, collected a home run in the Phillies' seventh on a 350-foot shot inside the right-field foul pole — again knotting the count.

Yankees break Royals heart again

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Roy White, often overshadowed on a club of high-salaried stars, ripped a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning, while Ron Guidry and Rich Gossage pitched the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over Kansas City Saturday night. The Yankees won the American League pennant for the third year in a row.

ELATED TO SAY THE LEAST — Rich Gossage, Yankees superstar relief hurler, leaps into air and arms of catcher Thurman Munson after final out in Saturday night game at Yankee Stadium as the Yankees defeated the Kansas City Royals, 2-1, for the AL crown.

Graig Nettles also homered for the Yankees, who capped an amazing comeback from 14 games behind at midseason to capture their 32nd AL flag with a 3-1 triumph in the best-of-5 series.

The Yankees, having disposed of the Royals in the playoffs for the third straight year, will play the Los Angeles Dodgers in baseball's 75th anniversary World Series beginning Tuesday in California. The Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 earlier Saturday in the fourth game of the National League playoff series.

New York managed only four hits against Kansas City pitcher Dennis Leonard, but two of them went for the distance.

Nettles, leading off the second inning, erased an early 1-0 Royals lead with the third AL playoff homer of his career. He tagged a 1-1 pitch, driving it into the area beyond the rightcenter field fence just in front of the bleachers.

The shot brought a shower of paper from the capacity Yankee Stadium crowd of more than 56,356, who had seen the Royals nick Guidry for a quick run in the first inning. The New York ace, who logged a major league-leading record of 25-3 including nine shutouts during the regular season, gave up the run before many of the fans were settled in their seats.

George Brett, hitting star of the series for the Royals, followed his three-home run performance of Friday with a leadoff triple off the right-center field fence on Guidry's fourth pitch of the game.

Two pitches later, the Royals had their run when designated hitter Hal McRae cracked a single up the middle. It was the third consecutive time in this playoff that the Royals had scored in the first inning, and each time, the run was carried home by Brett.

On the first pitch after his RBI single, McRae stole second. Guidry then struck out Amos Otis and got Al Cowens on a popup before walking Darrell Porter.

But he retired John Wathan on a long fly to right field, escaping further damage.

After Nettles tied the score in the second, Leonard and Guidry settled into an impressive pitching duel. The Yankee lefthander eased his way out of a two-on, two-out jam in the fourth.

He also escaped danger in the fifth after Willie Wilson opened with a single and stole second but was thrown out trying to swipe third.

Leonard, meanwhile, mowed down 13 Yankees in order without allowing a ball out of the infield. He struck out the side in order in the fourth, getting Reggie Jackson, Lou Piniella and Nettles on swinging third strikes.

With one out in the sixth, White came to the plate for New York. A Yankee since 1965 and senior member of the club, he had expressed displeasure with the part-time role he played last year and this season. He also had said he wanted to be traded. He almost was, but vetoed a deal earlier this year that would have sent him to Oakland.

On the first pitch from Leonard, White hit a fly ball that hugged the right field line and hooked inside the foul pole for the home run that put the Yankees in front.

Arkansas routs TCU

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Quarterback Ron Calcagni threw one touchdown pass and guided Arkansas to three other touchdowns as the fourth-ranked Razorbacks opened their Southwest Conference season with a 42-3 victory over Texas Christian University Saturday night.

It was the Razorbacks' 20th straight victory over the Horned Frogs, who now are 1-3. Arkansas is 4-0.

Calcagni and the Razorbacks had little trouble getting outside against the Frogs. Calcagni took Arkansas on touchdown drives of 59 yards on 10 plays and 35 yards on three plays the first two times the Razorbacks got the ball.

Arkansas, with Calcagni at quarterback, went 65 yards in four plays on its first possession of the second half to make it 35-3. The drive included a 36-yard pass interference penalty.

The Razorbacks scored touchdowns five of the first seven times that they had the ball. One possession ended in a punt, and another ended in an errant field goal attempt.

TCU did not reach its 40-yard line until it was 21-0 in the second quarter.

Running back Jerry Eckwood, a starter in the Razorbacks' first three games, did not start against TCU, but scored Arkansas' first and third touchdowns on short runs.

The second touchdown came when Calcagni pitched to Michael Forrest, who covered the final 17 yards.

Calcagni's 7-yard scoring pass to Robert Farrell at the back of the end zone made it 28-3 midway through the second quarter.

TCU had two good chances to score in the second half.

The Horned Frogs, mostly on the passing of Steve Bayuk, gained a first down at the Arkansas 11 in the third quarter. Tackle Jimmy Walker dropped Jimmy Allen for a 4-yard loss and then Bayuk threw three straight incomplete passes.

TCU had 291 yards total offense, and Bayuk completed 17 of 34 passes for 234 yards of that total.

Early in the first quarter, TCU gained a first down at the Arkansas 20, but linebacker Mike Massey separated running back Jeff Craig from the ball, and Dan Hampton recovered at the Arkansas 17.

UH claws by Baylor

WACO, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Danny Davis guided Houston 67 yards in the closing minutes Saturday to spoil a furious fourth-quarter Baylor rally and give Houston a 20-18 victory.

Baylor took the kickoff and drove across mid-field, but walk-on kicker Bill Maness missed a 49-yard field goal attempt into the wind with only eight seconds left to seal the victory for Houston.

It was the Southwest Conference opener for both teams. Houston raised its season record to 3-1 and Baylor is winless after four games.

Houston's winning drive started when freshman Robert Mitchell of Baylor fumbled at the Houston 33 after a 30-yard pass completion and Ken Hatfield snatched the ball in midair.

Davis hit a 38-yard pass to Eric Herring to the Baylor 19 and scored the winning touchdown on a two-yard dive with 3:18 left in the game. It was the only time in the second half that Houston was able to move past its own 42-yard line.

Davis' clutch performance ruined a Baylor comeback led by Steve Smith, the nation's fifth leading passer, who guided Baylor to two fourth-quarter touchdowns on the ground.

Steve Howell ran 24 yards on a Smith pitchout for Baylor's first touchdown, and Howard Fields set up Baylor's second touchdown with a 35-yard punt return. Frank Pollard dove over from the one for the touchdown.

SMU rally ties Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fourteenth-ranked Ohio State survived a final-second missed field goal by Eddie Garcia for a 35-35 college football tie Saturday with Southern Methodist, a two-touchdown underdog.

Garcia's field goal bid from 47 yards out sailed wide to the left with two seconds remaining on the clock, leaving Ohio State's 59th straight sellout crowd of almost 88,000 limp.

Dave Hill's interception of an Art Schlichter pass provided the Mustangs with their final drive toward the field goal. Hill intercepted Schlichter at the Ohio State 37 and SMU's sophomore passing whiz, Mike Ford, led the Mustangs to the Ohio State 29, setting up Garcia's field goal attempt.

Ford, intercepted seven times in a 35-7 defeat by the Buckeyes last season, completed 36 of 57 passes for 341 yards. He figured in four touchdowns for SMU.

Ford ran three times for 1-yard touchdowns and passed 11 yards to Elton Garrett.

Ohio State rallied form a 21-14 halftime deficit, piling up 21 points in the third quarter before Ford scored a pair of touchdowns in the final 15 minutes. The Mustang quarterback ran for 2 points that tied the score at 35-35 with 3:41 to go.

The Mustangs had lost seven straight times to Buckeye teams coached by Woody Hayes. The tie left both squads with 2-1-1 records.

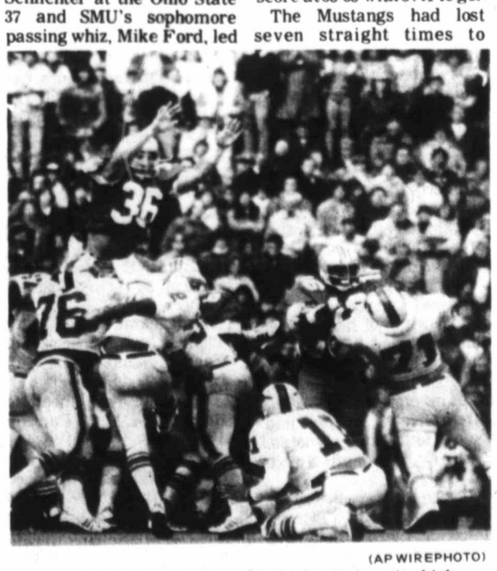

Schlichter darted 23 yards and gave Ohio State a short-lived 7-0 lead in the first quarter. Four minutes later, Derrek Shelton bulled for score from a yard out and the Mustangs were even at 7-7.

Garrett then caught his 11-yard touchdown pass from Ford and SMU was on top 13-7.

Ohio State regained the lead when Paul Campbell ran 1 yard on the first play of the second quarter. Vlade Janakievski's placement gave the Buckeyes a 14-13 lead.

However, Ford scored on a quarterback sneak and passed for a twao-point conversion to Shelton and SMU owned a 21-14 halftime lead.

Ohio State pulled to within 21-20 in the third quarter when linebacker Al Washington recovered Ken Rosenthal's blocked punt as he crossed the goal line. John Epitropoulos had blocked the punt.

Steelers top NFL

By The Associated Press

You'd think the prospect of getting Terry Bradshaw out of Pittsburgh's lineup would thrill some people. But it doesn't seem to matter to Mike Kruczek whether he starts or rides the bench against Atlanta.

And it doesn't seem to matter to Coach Leeman Bennett of the Falcons, either.

"I like being here and the important thing is we're winning. I'm not one to complain about anything," Pittsburgh's Kruczek said after finding out that a bruised knee suffered a week ago in New York won't keep Bradshaw out of the lineup this Sunday.

"I figure he'll play. He's come back from injuries like this. He plays with a lot of pain and is used to it," Kruczek added.

Also Sunday it's Denver at San Diego, Baltimore at St. Louis, Buffalo at the New York Jets, Philadelphia at New England, Washington at Detroit, Chicago at Green Bay, Cleveland at New Orleans, the New York Giants at Dallas, Tampa Bay at Kansas City, Houston at Oakland, Minnesota at Seattle and San Francisco at Los Angeles. On Monday night it's Cincinnati at Miami.

Pittsburgh and Atlanta have met four times in the regular season, the Steelers winning three. The last game that counted was in 1974. This year, though, they met in the preseason. Bradshaw, with a broken nose, missed the game, so Kruczek engineered the Steelers' 13-7 victory by throwing a 35-yard touchdown pass to Lynn Swann.

That prompted Bennett to observe: "I don't think Pittsburgh changes that much regardless of who is at quarterback. We weren't able to stop either one before."

Abilene has "Fields" day in 38-15 romp

By NATHAN POSS

The Abilene Eagles used the running of Reggie Fields to control both the clock and the scoreboard in route to a convincing 38-15 win at the expense of the Big Spring Steers.

Fields galloped for 154 yards on 19 carries, with most of the yards being on a combination of sprint draws and wide options. Fields scored three times within eight and one half minutes in the first half to put the Steers at a disadvantage that was simply too much to overcome.

The Steers put themselves in a hole on their opening offensive series on a bad snap from center on an attempted punt. Punter Ricky Cluck retrieved the pigskin and managed to get the kick away, only to be blocked. The Steers recovered the ball, but it was not enough for the first down, giving the Eagles possession on the Big Spring 22.

Big Spring, with the aid of a 15-yard penalty against the War Birds, held their opponents for three downs. On fourth down, surprise starting quarterback Loyal Profit was intercepted in the endzone by Steer cornerback Randy Hurrington.

Quarterback Ricky Myers then connected with wingback Mike Evans for a first down to the 33. It was to be the Bovines only first down of the half. Moments later, Abilene's Vince Ford returned a Cluck punt 33 yards to the Steer 32.

It took the Eagles five plays to move in for the initial touchdown of the evening. Fullback Dee McLaughlin ran twice to the 16, setting up an apparent 16-yard touchdown run by Fields. However, an illegal procedure infraction nullified the score. Abilene refused to be thwarted on this series, however, as Fields galloped through the middle two plays later, darted to the left and scored easily. This time it counted. The extra point attempt by David Perry was wide.

Following an 18-yard punt return by Ford early in the second quarter, the War Birds took over on the Bovine 41. Fields, with the help of some excellent blocking by the Abilene front, carried on three consecutive plays, the third covering 14 yards and counting as six points. Perry converted to give the Eagles a 13-0 advantage with just over 11 minutes remaining in the second stanza.

On the first play from scrimmage following the Abilene kickoff, Steer tailback Eddie Puga fumbled and the War Birds recovered at the 23. But Eagle quarterback Profit returned the favor, fumbling on the very first play, with Byron Harris recovering for Big Spring.

The Steer offense could not move again, and Ford added to the home team's woes when he returned Cluck's punt 22 yards to the Steer 37.

Big Spring stopped the Eagles for three downs, but Profit completed a timely pass on fourth down to split end Wendell Conner for a first down to the 22. Fields, who ran almost at will throughout the night, rambled to the two on the next play. Abilene tried to crack the Steer middle on three straight plays, but to no avail. On fourth down, Fields found a crack of daylight around right end and dove through a stingy goal line defense for his third touchdown of the first half. Abilene's two-point conversion pass was broken up, leaving the score at 19-0.

Abilene threatened two more times in the first half. Byron Harris stopped the first attempt when he intercepted a Profit aerial, and a 15-yard penalty nullified an Abilene touchdown with 35 seconds remaining in the half.

The Steers came out the second half and used three Abilene mistakes to light up the scoreboard. After making one first down, the Steers were forced to punt. Cluck's punt bounced off an Abilene return man, and alert Dean Barribal recovered to give the Bovines possession on the Abilene 40. Three plays later, Joe Willie Jones was interfered with on a deep route, setting up the Steers on the 11. Puga was then thrown for a six-yard loss, but a personal foul moved the ball to the nine. The Steers finally struck paydirt when Billy Ray Johnson hurled a strike to Jones on a slant pattern on fourth down. David Manley kicked the extra point to narrow the gap to 19-7.

The Steers played tough defense throughout the remainder of the third quarter. Abilene moved as far as the 33-yard line on their next possession, but Robbie Wrinkle broke through to throw Fields for a loss and thwart the drive. It was the only negative yardage for the elusive Eagle tailback all night.

Abilene had excellent field position at the Bovine 42 on their next series, but safety Mike Evans intercepted an Angel Munoz pass to kill that drive.

The War Birds put the game away in convincing fashion early in the final stanza. The Eagles drove 73 yards in eight plays for their fourth touchdown of the night. Fields carried the first three plays of the drive for 40 yards to do most of the damage and Munoz, finding a gap in the Big Spring defense, scampered 11 yards to the double stripes. Perry's PAT was wide.

Abilene wasted no time in continuing the onslaught. Alan Odstrcil intercepted a Johnson pass on the next play for scrimmage, setting the Eagles up at the Bovine 33.

Four plays later, reserve tailback Don James ran up the middle untouched for a 20-yard scoring play. Perry's PAT was true, leaving the score at 32-7.

The Steers continued to make costly mistakes on the ensuing kickoff, downing the ball on their own three-yard line with no one around. Unable to move, Cluck's 29-yard punt set up Abilene on the Bovine 43.

Abilene then used seven plays on this drive for their final touchdown of district opener. James capped the drive on a two-yard plunge with less than three minutes remaining. The extra point attempt was awry.

Big Spring then took the kickoff and drove 65 yards in three plays for the final touchdown of the night. Johnson's completion to Barribal gave the Bovines a first at the Eagle 49. On the next play, Johnson lofted a bomb to Jones. Jones ran under the player, caught the aerial without breaking stride, and cruised into the endzone with his second tally of the otherwise frustrating night. David Manley then rolled right on a fake extra point attempt and threw back to Terry Conway for the two-point conversion.

The Bovines offensive ineptness and poor punting game gave the War Birds excellent field position in the first half. Substracting punt return yardage by Abilene's Vince Ford from Cluck's punts, Big Spring averaged only 13 yards per punt.

Abilene simply manhandled the Steers in the fourth quarter three touchdown bonanza. Fields, all-district a year ago, said: "Big Spring's got a big front line and they started getting tired after a while. That, plus I was getting some good blocking up front.

Big Spring will get a chance to redeem itself next week when they host Midland. Midland lost a 28-0 decision to Permian Friday night. Abilene will take their 3-1 record to Odessa to tangle with Permian.

Stanton eases by Ropes, 21-8

The Stanton Buffaloes raced to a 21-0 halftime lead, then cruised through the second half in route to a 21-8 victory over the Ropesville Eagles. It was the first District 5-A game for both squads.

Stanton fullback Mitch Elmore started the scoring when he galloped 53 yards for a first quarter touchdown. Alonzo Padron kicked the first of three successful extra points.

The Buffaloes then drove 74 yards early in the second stanza, with quarterback Tommy Morrow capping the drive on a one-yard touchdown dive. Padron converted the PAT.

Tailback Todd Smith, who was the game's leading rusher with 152 yards on 23 carries, got the final Stanton tally on a 70-yard jaunt. Padron again converted the PAT.

Ropesville finally lit the scoreboard in the final quarter when signal caller Randy Lowrie scored on an eight-yard run. Lowrie then passed to tight end Doug Willis for the two-point conversion.

The game gives the Buffaloes a district record of 1-0 and a season record of 2-2. Ropesville is 0-1 and 0-4.

Plains hangs on to nudge Forsan

Halfback Jimmy Curtis rambled 37 yards for the game's only touchdown and gave the Plains Cowboys a 6-0 victory over the stubborn Forsan Buffaloes in the opening game of District 5-A for both teams.

Forsan drove inside the Plains five-yard line twice in the fourth quarter, only to be denied the tying touchdown by the stingy Cowboy defense.

The Plains touchdown came on the first play of the final stanza. Forsan took the ensuing kickoff and marched to the Cowboy five yard line, but the Plains defense stiffened.

The Buffaloes had another chance late in the game. Forsan had first and goal on the four. Forsan moved to the one-yard line in two plays, but Plains denied the Buffaloes paydirt to escape with an exciting win.

Halfback Randy Cregar provided most of the Forsan offense on two plays. He had runs of 50 and 60 runs, but the Buffaloes still couldn't dent the double stripes. Cregar was also credited with 19 individual tackles.

The Cowboys, who evened their record at 2-2, plays at Anton next week. Forsan, now 1-3, will meet Ropes.

Coahoma squeaks by Merkel

By BOB BURTON

Coahoma head coach Roy Winters has always said, "They'll have to give us something, and whatever it is, we'll take advantage of it."

What "it" was Friday night was turnovers, but after an idle weekend Coahoma couldn't capitalize and barely squeaked by the surprising Merkel Badgers, 10-6.

In a defensive struggle which saw the offensive squads turn over the football nine times through fumbles and interceptions, and bobble the ball countless times beyond that, the key to victory proved to be a 160-pound Bulldog junior named Gary Paige. Paige had an interception, carried 16 times for 127 yards, punted three times for a 36-yard average, scored Coahoma's only touchdown on a 40-yard jaunt, and kicked his own extra point. But Paige, more importantly, kicked a 33-yard field goal with 4:35 remaining in the first quarter. The field goal was the margin of victory, forcing Merkel to try and fail at a two-point conversion after their solo tally.

Statistically, Coahoma outpowered the hapless Badgers, gaining 172 yards running and 25 yards in the air to Merkel's 107 on the ground and seven in the air. But whatever advantage the Bulldogs gained in offense was surely wiped out by eight penalties totalling 80 yards, including four offside and three clipping flags.

The Big Red drove to the Merkel 10, 15, and 28 during the game and could not score. Each time they were held on downs, while two fumbles by Gary Gee ended drives before they could start. Gee, who had a rough night all the way round, could complete only three of 11 passes for 25 yards and was intercepted once by Merkel's Mike Brady to end a drive. The usually swift quarterback was dogged by a stingy Badger defense throughout both halves, and Gee could only total five yards rushing after 11 carries.

The game opened on the dominant note as Merkel's Billy Nichols fumbled the kickoff into the Big Red's arms on Merkel's 20, but the Bulldogs were forced to give the ball up on downs four plays later. Coahoma scored all its points in the first half, although it could never control the ball for more than five plays.

Early in the second quarter, a Gee fumble gave Merkel the ball on the Coahoma 45. Seven plays later, knocking on the door at the Coahoma 15, Merkel fumbled the ball back. The stands went "whew" as the Merkel threat was apparently ended, but two plays later, Gee again coughed up the pigskin on the 18-yard lline. A 15-yard sack by Kyle Bennett and an interception by Jerry Roever fully stifled the Badger challenge, but Merkel had still mounted what would prove to be the best drive of the first half.

Roever, who alternated with Paige at fullback, had a surprising second half, carrying six times for 32 yards.

Coahoma, with 3:58 remaining in the first half, had the ball on its own 18 after Roever's interception, but had to quick kick on third down. Merkel quarterback Bart Pursley fumbled the ball away on the next play near mid-field, and Paige's long ramble for the score came three plays later.

In the second half, both teams exchanged the football with leaden regularity, and the only excitement came with 2:16 left in the game when Merkel's Rick Howes took the handoff on an inside reverse and went 67 yards for the score.

Dunbar tipples Tors

Dunbar collected its first victory this year when the Lubbock team defeated the Lames Tornadoes 14-3 on Thursday night.

However, two plays later, Dunbar's Daryl Green connected on a 77-yard pass touchdown play and they were never behind again.

District 5-AAAA

Lee edges OHS, 21-20

MIDLAND — Midland Lee squeezed by Odessa High here Friday night in the first District 5-AAAA game for both teams. Final score was 21-20. More than 11,000 watched the contest.

Jeff McCowan proved the offensive and defensive star of the game. He rushed for 178 yards in 26 carries and scored twice.

He played linebacker on defense, leading a charge against the Broncs that swung the issue.

Lee scored in the first period when McCowan ran 37 yards. Bill McPherson kicked the PAT.

Odessa High came right back when Scott Caywood bruised three yards for a tally and Charlie Whittington booted the conversion try.

Lee went ahead in the second period when Rickie Johnson tallied on a five-yard run. McPherson again converted. That made it 14-7 at half-time.

Odessa got the board first in theird when Caywood broke loose on a 14-yard scoring jaunt, after which Whittington converted.

McCowan scored Lee's final TD on a four-yard run and McPherson tacked on the critical extra point.

Odessa came back to tally when Brian Cantrell counted on a 31-yard aerial bomb from Billy Rumbaugh. The Broncs tied for two extra points by sending Caywood into the line on a running play but Clay Calhoun and Gary Butler stopped him a yard short of the double stripe.

Permian flogs Dogs

ODESSA — Odessa Permian continued unbeaten by mauling Midland High, 28-0, here Friday night. Midland was never able to mount a serious threat, so rugged was the Permian defense.

The Bulldogs made only 50 yards net rushing the ball and 37 passing. Midland also yielded possession twice on fumbles and had four passes picked off by the opposition.

After a scoreless first period, Permian scored twice in the second — Vic Vines passed 56 yards to John Muery for the first score, after which Robert Orosco converted.

Muery went into the end zone later in the quarter on a seven-pass from Vines. Orosco again kicked the PAT.

In the third, David Loper scored on a pass from Vines, the play covering eight yards. Orosco booted the PAT.

Cooper bombs San Angelo

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper humbled San Angelo Central, 38-14, in a District 5-AAAA game here Friday night.

Both teams scored in the opening period. QB Tracy Thomas broke loose on a 63-yard run for Cooper. Doug Fannon countered for San Angelo on a 35-yard pass from QB Tod Fields.

Cooper moved ahead to stay by scoring twice in Round Two. Keith Pantallon gathered in a pass from Thomas and sailed 23 yards to pay dirt. Terry Orr followed by scoring on a pass from Thomas, the play covering five yards. Cooper led at half time, 18-7.

In the third, the Cougars added 13 more points to ice the decision. Pantallon ran seven yards for one score and Johnny Slaughter cashed in on another opportunity by accepting an aerial from Thomas. That play covered 45 yards.

San Angelo scored again in the fourth on a 14-yard pass from Fields to Doug Larson but not until after Orr had boomed in from five yards out for Cooper.

Cooper, which had to forfeit two early season wins, now has a 1-3 record. Central is also 1-3.

Sands takes win at Smyer

The Sands Mustangs won their first game of the 1978 season Friday night when they dominated the Smyer Bobcats by a score of 19-0.

Bill Wiggington scored all the points the Ponies needed in the first quarter when he dove over from the two-yard line. The extra point attempt was no good.

Both teams played rugged defense until the final stanza, when Sands quarterback David Mosley ran eight yards for a touchdown. The extra point attempt again was stopped.

Later in the quarter, Shayne Wiggington intercepted a Bobcat pass to set the stage for the final Mustang touchdown of the night. Bill Wiggington took the scoring honors when he raced seven yards for the paydirt. Danny Peugh put the final icing on the Mustang victory as he booted the PAT.

Offensive standouts included the offensive line of David Hall, Scott Robinson, David Calvio, Dennis Martin and Peugh.

Sands coaches Dickie Lepard, Mike Farda and Dennis Launarey singled out the defensive efforts of Frank Garfias, David Long, Shayne Wiggington and Van Gaskins for leading the stingy Mustang defenders.

Sands accumulated 266 yards rushing and 30 yards passing throughout the contest, while limiting Smyer to 150 yards rushing and 40 yards passing.

Wilson beats Borden County

WILSON — The Wilson Mustangs exploded for six touchdowns in the first half and coasted to a 45-0 homecoming victory over the Borden County Coyotes.

Wilson had a 43-0 lead at halftime, and added a safety in the fourth quarter when Borden County quarterback Randy Diaz was tackled in his own end zone.

Wilson had 16 first downs, 240 yards rushing, and 140 yards passing. Borden County managed only seven first downs, 58 yards rushing and 43 yards passing.

Klondike loses

KLONDIKE — Randy Kitten kicked a very important extra point with under three minutes remaining to lift Christ The King to a narrow 21-20 victory over Klondike.

Klondike held a 20-6 lead in the second half, but the Trojans rallied for two scores to overtake the home squad before a disconsolate homecoming crowd.

Bearkats claw Dawson Dragons

The Garden City Bearkats rallied in the fourth quarter to take a come-from-behind 14-13 victory over the Dawson Dragons.

David Caverly's one-yard plunge to paydirt tied the score at 13-13 with eight minutes to play, and Wes Overton's extra point boot gave the Bearkats the margin of victory.

Dawson struck first when Lupe Rivas scampered 35 yards for the initial score of the evening. Brother Sammy Rivas kicked the PAT.

Garden City countered the Dawson score in the second quarter to tie the game when quarterback Kevin Hirt connected with Overton on an 82-yard bomb. Overton added the extra point.

Dawson took a momentary lead in the third stanza when Lupe Rivas jaunted 30 yards for the score. The all important extra point attempt was not good.

Caverly then drove for the winning touchdown, and the Bearkat defense held off a late Dawson rally to preserve the victory.

Coach Jesse Smelley expressed concern over the inconsistency of his offense, which lost five fumbles. He said the offense moved the ball good, but mistakes kept the game close.

Defensively, Smelley had praise for David Wooten, Pepe Garza, and Jorge Patino.

Garden City will carry their 3-2 record into district action next week. They will be on the road against Roby.

Moments later, Colorado City drove 70 yards for their second touchdown of the night. Hulme capped the drive when he plunged over from the four. Hulme added the extra point.

Anson fumbled on it's next possession, with the Wolves Mike Womack recovering in Anson territory at the 30.

Colorado City then drove the 30 yards in eight plays, with Hulme punching in the final yard to paydirt. Hulme again added the PAT.

The Wolves dominated the second half, but were unable to add to their 21-0. Hulme lead all rushers with 99 yards on 19 carries.

CHAMPION QUALIFIES — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., who has clinched the 1978 world driving championship, qualifies Friday for the Canadian Grand Prix race at Montreal Sunday. Andretti said he will still be going all out to win the final event of the racing calendar.

Italian Grand Prix wreck still controversial

MONTREAL (AP) — Riccardo Patrese of Italy, involved in a spectacular car wreck that took the life of Formula 1 driver Ronnie Peterson a month ago, said Friday he was unjustly penalized for his part in the tragic event.

Peterson, the Swedish JPS Lotus teammate of world champion driver Mario Andretti, died the day after the crash at the start of the Italian Grand Prix in Monza, Italy, on Sept. 10.

While some drivers attached much of the blame for the mishap on the start, several other drivers suggested that Patrese was to be faulted.

Another Italian driver, Vittorio Brambilla, suffered a serious head injury when he was struck by a flying tire in the crash and only recently was released from hospital.

Four drivers, among them Andretti and former world champions James Hunt of Britain and Austrian Niki Lauda, threatened to pass up last week's U.S. Grand Prix in Watkins Glen, N.Y., if Patrese was allowed to race.

Patrese, here for Sunday's Canadian Grand Prix, the final event of this year's 17-race season, said organizers of the American race were under the gun and were forced to comply with the demands of the drivers.

"There is no question in my mind that pressure was put to bear on the organizers," said the 23-year-old Italian.

Although reluctant to discuss the incident, Patrese did confirm that since the Watkins Glen race, many of the circuit drivers had tried to get him shrug off the matter.

"But I can't forget it," he said. "I think I was unjustly penalized for what took place."

The young driver for the Arrows Racing Team has a host of friends among the drivers who agree.

Frenchman Jean-Pierre Jabouille, whose turbocharged Renault Elf was just ahead of the popular Peterson as the cars jockeyed for the first corner at the start of the Monza race, was critical of the "small clique" of drivers who demanded Patrese be banned from the U.S. Grand Prix.

Jabouille said that while the Italian driver had been involved in several other incidents earlier in the year, including the Swedish Grand Prix, "if the so-called committee felt he was so dangerous, why didn't they approach him before Monza?"

"They waited for an accident to happen and now they are judging him."

Patrese, whose best finish in Grand Prix racing was second in the Swedish race, was prepared to accept the decision of his peers.

"It was simply a matter of pressure being brought to bear by a small group of drivers," he added.

Stingley transferred to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — New England Patriots wide receiver Darryl Stingley, who was partially paralyzed by an injury sustained in a preseason National Football League game in Oakland, has been transferred from a California hospital to the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago.

Stingley, who played collegiately at Purdue, is a native of Chicago and was a leader, standout student and star in basketball and football at Marshall High School.

Several New England team officials were in Chicago when Stingley's air ambulance arrived at O'Hare International Airport.

"I've never met a man with such indomitable spirit," said Charles Sullivan, vice president of the New England Patriots, who was at the institute. "Stingley was sleeping after the arduous air trip and I didn't disturb him.

"We're eager to encourage all the privacy Darryl needs during his recuperation, but I will see him before returning to Boston. I visited Darryl twice in Oakland and his courage is an inspiration."

At O'Hare, the air ambulance was met by William Sullivan, president of the Pats, who was in Chicago for the NFL meetings.

Stingley's wife, Tina, told Charles Sullivan that no visiters other than the family and members of the Patriots will be allowed until Stingley's condition is appraised.

The victory by the two-time Olympic and world amateur heavyweight champion gave Cuba an 8-3 triumph over the United States before a crowd of 8,061 at Madison Square Garden.

The American victors in the 11-bout competiton were Jerome Coffee of Nashville, Tenn.; Bernard Taylor of Charlotte, N.C., and Jeff Stoudemire of Cleveland.

Morgan leads Pacific

GOTEMBA, Japan — Dr. Gil Morgan of the United States held a two-stroke lead after 36 holes of the $300,00 Pacific Club Masters Golf Tournament.

Morgan, following his victory in the World Series of Golf last week, shot a second-round 4-under-par-67 to insure his lead over American Bob Gilder and Koskau Shimada of Japan, both tied for second at 137, two strokes behind Morgan.

Among those in the four-way tie for fourth place at 139 are Americans Lee Trevino and Mike Morley.

Sorley leads Husker win

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Quarterback Tom Sorley ran for one touchdown and passed for another and the Nebraska defense shut down 15th-ranked Iowa State's offense as the No. 10 Cornhuskers swept to a 23-0 victory Saturday in the Big Eight Conference opener for both teams.

The victory avenged losses to the Cyclones the previous two years. Nebraska is now 4-1.

Nebraska scored on its first possession with 7:47 left in the opening period when Sorley went in from a yard out. The touchdown capped a 10-play drive that began on the Cornhuskers' 44 after an Iowa State punt.

Iowa State made it to the Nebraska 49 once in the first half, and to the 41 in the third quarter. The two other drives came in the final quarter.

Michigan rallies to subdue Arizona

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Third-ranked Michigan, stunned by a 17-point Arizona blitz in the first half, overcame a 10 point deficit and won the game on a Russell Davis touchdown with 5½ minutes left Saturday for a 21-17 college football victory over the Wildcats.

Arizona, 3-2, scored 17 points in a span of about seven minutes beginning on the last play of the first quarter — with touchdowns by running backs Larry Heater and Hubert Oliver sandwiched on either side of a 21-yard field goal by Bill Zivic.

The Wildcats dominated the first half, but the Wolverines came back late in the second quarter, driving 73 yards in nine plays with quarterback Rick Leach throwing a 30-yard touchdown pass to tight end Doug Marsh.

It looked like Michigan, trailing 17-14, would take the lead in the third quarter when Dale Keitz blocked Frank Garcia's punt and Michigan had the ball at the Arizona 1. But three plays later, linebacker Corky Ingraham intercepted a Leach pass in the end zone on the first play of the fourth quarter.

ANGRY OUT — New York Yankees Lou Piniella reacts at Umpire Ron Luciano's call at home plate in the fifth inning at Yankee Stadium Friday in the third game of the American League playoffs. Luciano ruled Piniella out on Kansas City Royals' catcher Darrell Porter's tag. Yanks disagreed and an argument ensued.

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

Women reporters in the Yankee clubhouse aren't much different than men reporters in the Yankee clubhouse, inasmuch as they figured out that if you want an answer to something you go to Reggie Jackson. So, the women I saw in the Yankee clubhouse on Libido Liberation Day headed right for Reggie's locker, microphone in hand, asking him what he thought of it all.

"How old are you?" Reggie asked this one chick.

"Twenty-seven," she said, using her baseball age in a baseball situation.

"Well, then, I don't suppose you'll see anything here that you haven't seen before," said Reggie.

That may be true enough, but I don't see what it proves. Just because you have seen something once doesn't mean you are unured to it. If that were the case, the sex life of the human male, or female, would be terribly brief, and attendance at burlesque houses would be made up exclusively of high school freshmen.

I don't know why baseball made a federal case of admitting women in their clubhouses, but they did, literally. The judge sitting on the federal bench decided that the Yankees would have to admit one Melissa Ludtke, a Time Inc. reporter who took them to court. Presumably, this means all women, properly accredited, henceforth will be allowed in all clubhouses.

"Now," said Yogi Berra, upon hearing of the landmark decision, "youse men gotta go in the ladies' dressing rooms." Yogi always did cut right to the meat of the matter.

He is right, as usual. If we are to have equal access, we are to have equal access. None of this equal-rights-for-women crap, while men are the only ones paying alimony. If Melissa Ludtke can interview Reggie Jax with a towel wrapped around him, then I can interview Chrissie Evert with two towels wrapped around her.

This could be the next federal case. Last time I tried to get into the women's dressing room at the National Tennis Championships, they as much as called me a dirty old man.

If I take it to court, I hope I am as lucky as Melissa Ludtke was. I hope I get a man judge. Melissa got a woman judge, and while I'm not suggesting Judge Constance Baker Motley made her decision on the basis of her sex, I have to think it helped. Common sense tells me that a woman judge cannot be entirely objective in handling such a case. Undiluted women's rights must dominate her thoughts.

That doesn't mean I disagree with her decision. I'm all for it. During the trial, in fact, the office of the baseball commissioner asked if I would sign an affidavit opposing the admission of women reporters to clubhouses. I said I couldn't do that because I believe in the women's right to be there.

What's the big deal? Men can wear bathrobes or towels when they come out of the shower. Most of them do, even when no women are present. You'd be surprised how modest some men are in the presence of other men.

The Cosmos wear robes for the most part. It is part of the European upbringing of soccer players. The Knicks and Rangers, like the Cosmos, permit women in their clubhouses after the game. Hockey and basketball players aren't as continental as soccer players, it seems. No robes. They simply wrap a towel around themselves — although I must admit some are rather cavalier about covering up. A certain percentage of men are exhibitionists, no matter what the environment.

In most sports other than baseball, the policy on women has been left up to the individual clubs. About 70 per cent of the hockey clubs admit them, and I know of no basketball team, except the Celtics, that bars the female reporter from the locker room. The NFL is bracing its feet, or something.

Oddly enough, it is the players' wives who seem to object, more than the players. Wives don't relish the thought of their husbands parading in front of any other woman, au naturel, or partly so, and I can't say I blame them.

bonfire held

By LUCY THIXTON

We finally got to have our bon-fire Thursday night. After the Junior High Buffs beat the Sterling City Eagles, 20-0, everyone merged to the bon-fire to thaw out. The Senior Class won the spirit competition and for their efforts got to throw an effigy of a Plains Cowboy into the blazing flames. Yea, Seniors!

The bon-fire was originally planned to go up in flames for homecoming, but it rained so much that week we had to use that wood to build an ark!

The Buffaloes opened district play Friday night at home against the Plains Cowboys. Good Luck, Guys.

Retakes were made Wednesday as well as various group shots. Anyone who has not bought their pictures and plans to do so is urged to at their earliest convenience. The cost is $6.00.

Student council elections this week have created much interest and excitement for studnets at Goliad. The computers must be maintained at certain temperatures. Therefore, when completed, the room will be completely air-conditioned and heated.

Band T-Shirts were ordered several weeks ago and students would be wearing them except for one minor difficulty. They were lost in the mail! Band students are eagerly awaiting their arrival. Tropic island nest revisited after 11 years

Gilligan's crew rescued

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the questions frequently asked of newspaper TV editors is: Did I miss the episode of "Gilligan's Island" where the people are rescued?

Partly, but stay tuned. Nostalgia may be put to the test Saturday.

After an 11-year absence from the networks — but with plenty of exposure on reruns — the castaways are back in a two-part show called "Rescue from Gilligan's Island."

The first one-hour segment aired Saturday on. NBC. Yes, I know, the series ran for three years on CBS, which had first crack at the rescue version and turned it down.

Be assured nothing has changed. It opens with Gilligan sawing logs in his upper hammock and the Skipper fuming down below. And when Gilligan tells Mrs. Howell, "Mum's the word," she replies, "I'm not your mum." That's as sophisticated as it gets.

"It was always intended to be broader than life," said Sherwood Schwartz, the creator and executive producer. "It's caricature comedy. It's one of the few series meant to be slapstick. They live in an open area. There's no living room to confine them."

The purpose of the original series was to create broad stereotypes and then demonstrate the characters could remain true to their outlook and values no matter what circumstances they encountered.

Gilligan remained a simple and gentle soul, even castaway on a tropical island. The Skipper was still blustery, the Professor remained an intellectual, Ginger still thought her face and body would get her what she wanted, and Mr. Howell continued to believe that money was power — even if there was no place to spend it.

Bob Denver is Gilligan, Alan Hale Jr. is the Skipper, Jim Backus is Thurston Howell III, Natalie Schafer is Mrs. Howell, Russell Johnson is the Professor, Dawn Wells is Mary Ann and Judith Baldwin is Ginger, the role previously played by Tina Louise.

In the story, a capsule falls from a satellite from an Iron Curtain country and lands on the island. It allows the Professor to complete his barometer just in time to predict a tidal wave will inundate the island. They lash their huts together in a boat and the tidal wave carries them far out to sea, where they are rescued.

Schwartz said the program is not really a pilot for a new series. "What I really would like to do is 'Rescue II' next year and 'Rescue III' the next," he said.

Texan has blimp body, gospel voice

Meat loaf attracts attention

UNION, N.J. (AP) — A 275-pound Meat Loaf is showing rock music fans that a little theatre training can go a long way in breaking the boredom of hearing just one more loud hard rock group.

Meat Loaf, the name of the group and its hefty lead singer, has become a major concert draw in the Northeast on the strength of its debut album, "Bat Out Of Hell," which has tripled the 100,000 sales mark most new groups hope for.

But the usual wailing guitars are tied to what songwriter Jim Steinman calls "epic songs" — lengthy, multi-part tunes featuring Meat Loaf's deep Southern gospel voice singing tales of frustrated teen-agers "all revved up with no place to go."

The band's entertaining stage show, keyed to intricate theatrical lighting, features the massive Meat Loaf feverishly stomping about the stage, his belly hanging out of a tuxedo and sweat plastering long hair to his scalp.

He roars like Ralph Kramden in duets with singer Karla de Vito, skips across the stage like "Stinky" in the old Abbott and Costello television show and puts out tremendous gut-level energy, with sweat flying into the audience whether singing Steinman's hard rockers, ballads or oldies.

While Meat Loaf's acting and singing occupy the spotlight, it was pianist Steinman who arranged the act and wrote the tunes, several of which owe a debt to Bruce Springsteen and the rock 'n' roll classics produced by Phil Spector.

"I love Bruce," the burly Meat Loaf said in an interview before a college date here, "but I think I'm more dramatic and theatrical than Springsteen because he doesn't have the backkground that I do. He grew up in bars, performing in bars. I mean you're not going to get the theatrical experience performing in bars that you would working for the New York Shakespeare Festival.

Meat Loaf himself and Steinman are among of rock's oddest couples. Meat, as his friends call him, is a huge, overbearing Texan who loves hard rockers like the late Jimi Hendrix and Janis Joplin. The singer sidesteps questions about his age or real name, saying he has used Meat Loaf as his professional name since 1961.

He first won noteriety as a lobotomized motorcyclist in the cult film, "The Rocky Horror Show." After cutting a few unsuccessful singles for Motown in the early 1970s as Stony and Meat Loaf, he said he performed Shakespeare in New York's Central Park, worked in the road company of such plays as "Hair" and sang lead vocals on Ted Nugent's "Free For All" album.

Aussie rock queen ex-USA

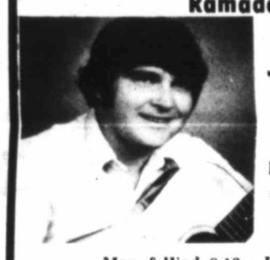

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia's "Queen of Pop" is a 25-year-old American high school dropout who dreams of having the name Marcia Hines as well-known in her hometown as it is in Sydney.

In 1970, an ambitious and adventurous 16-year-old dropped out of her senior year in high school in Hamilton, Mass., to join the cast of the rock musical, "Hair," in Sydney. She's been here ever since.

During eight years in Australia, Marcia Hines became the first black to play Mary Magdalene in "Jesus Christ Superstar" anywhere in the world. She has reigned as the national music industry's "Queen of Pop" for the last two years. She is the most successful singing sensation the Australian record industry has ever seen.

"I think it's extremely strange," she admits, "because it's been a chain of events — and a very strange chain of events. It wasn't contrived that I'd come here and take over."

With all the stardom that this vast country of 13 million can offer already in her pocket, Ms. Hines says, "It's expected now that I'll go conquer the world, and I don't know whether I'm ready for it or it's ready for me."

Pinball documentary to star Brooke Shields

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For Rudy Durand, a man with an obsession to make a film about pinball machines, the lowest point came at Christmas 1976.

On Christmas eve, he was locked out of his New York hotel room, and a cop wanted to book him for writing checks without sufficient funds. Durand is a persuasive talker, and he managed to escape that jam.

"I'm not a religious person; I haven't been to mass in 10 years," he admits. "But as I watched the Pope say Christmas mass on television, I asked for God's help."

Aid came from two sources: Orson Welles, who extolled Durand's script of "TILT" on the Johnny Carson Show, inciting film industry attention; Mel Simon, the Indianapolis millionaire and film backer, who agreed to finance the film and let Durand produce and direct.

"TILT," starring Brooke Shields, Ken Marshall and Charles Durning, will reach the nation's theaters this Christmas, Durand hopes. He still faces the last hurdle in his 10-year struggle to make the film: Finding a distributor who will love it as much as he does.

With financing assured by Simon, the shopping mall market-turned-film angel, Durand searched for a 12-year-old to play the pinball addict.

"I interviewed young actresses for six weeks; I even flew to Paris to talk to Jodie Foster," said Durand. "The casting of the girl was crucial, because she appears in 80 percent of the script.

"When I stopped over in New York, I heard rumors about 'Pretty Baby.' I arranged to have lunch with Brooke Shields and her mother, and I realized after 20 minutes that Brooke was the girl I'd had in mind for 10 years."

Filming began in Santa Cruz, Calif., last October with heavy pressure on Durand. He was directing his first film with a 12-year-old in her second movie, and under California law she could work only four hours a day. And Simon had told him: "If you go one day over the 42-day schedule, you're off the picture."

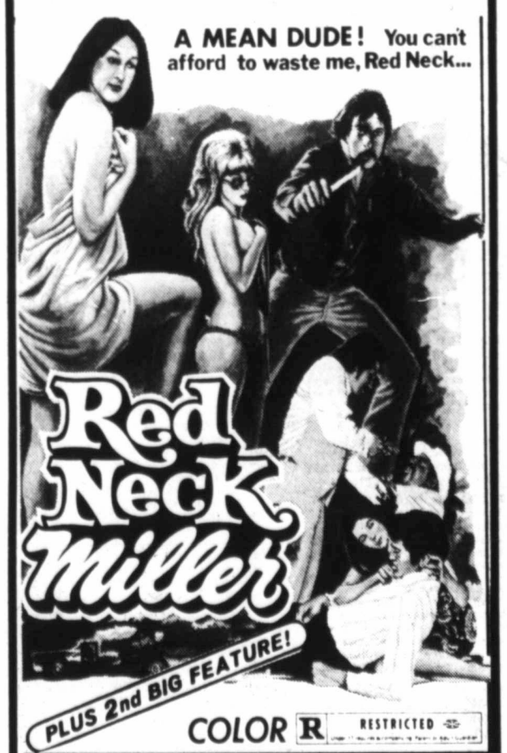

Durand remarked, "Everyone knew the pressure I was under and they responded magnificently. Especially Brooke. She is a spontaneous actress who gives a flawless performance in the first take — two at the most."

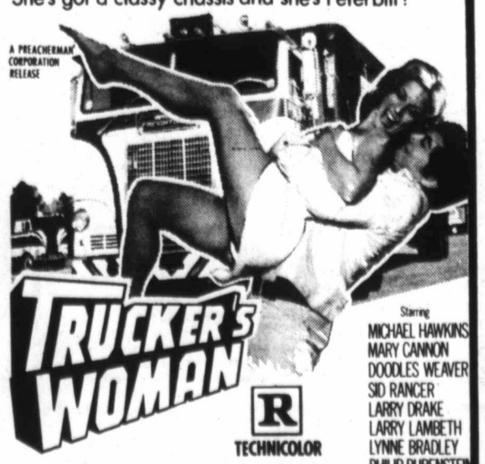

"TILT" will be rated PG — Durand admitted he purposely avoided a G rating. "Youth has no patience," he observed. "If young people see a G rating on a movie they automatically think it's religious or Disney. They won't take the trouble to find out what it's about."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

STARS IN PINBALL MOVIE — Director Rudy Durand searched 10 years for a girl to star in his film "Tilt." He found her in young actress Brooke Shields shown here rehearsing a scene in the film. Durand says there are 26 million hard-core pinball machine players in the world and he has cast Ms. Shields as a pinball addict.

Good for Samuel Myres

with Marj Carpenter

A book by Samuel Myres called "The Permian Basin Petroleum Empire of the Southwest" era of discovery is as complete a book as there is around on the early oil development in the Permian Basin.

In the early portion of the book, he talks about the Permian Basin land and its heritage and gets back to the early ranchers.

That's one of my favorite portions of his book. In his tour through the area in 1875, Lt. Col. W.R. Shafter found the south Plains region to be unusually well-adapted to grazing. Shafter Lake, which has long since been dried up, over in Andrews County is named for that gentleman.

Shafter's report saying there was ample grass and water and little danger of Indian attack did a lot to encourage the ranchers to come.

Among the first ranchers to arrive were John S. Chisum, John T. McElroy and C.C. Slaughter.

Chisum operated a ranch at first near Fort Concho (later San Angelo). In 1866-67 he drove a herd up the Goodnight-Loving Trail across the Pecos River, through what is now Loving, N.M. and on to Fort Sumner, setting up his headquarters in nearby Bosque Grande.

By 1873, he had moved 100,000 head of cattle from the San Angelo area to the Spring River sit near Roswell. Yes that's the same Chisum that John Wayne played the role in a famous movie years later. He lost his herds and died a poor man, due to the fact that he loaned too much money to friends who swindled him out of it.

McElroy was a well known rancher in the Pecos area and his descendants live around there to this day. In 1873, he drove a herd into West Texas and established his headquarters at Pecos on the Pecos River. His ranch covered an extensive area including open ranges in Reeves, Loving and Pecos Counties.

Myres recalled that McElroy in 1897 required the interests of the Western Union Beef Company including its 7-D Brand and 400 sections of land in Pecos, Crane and Upton Counties. In June 1925, oil was discovered on his Crane County property.

Slaughter is the one best known around Big Spring. He found the grasslands north of Big Spring as suitable for his ranching interests. He drove a herd from Palo Pinto County and established thie Lazy S. Ranch.

It covered most of Howard, Dawson, Martin and Borden counties. In the irrigated area near Roswell, Slaughter also had a ranch stocked with fine Hereford bulls and cows. Quite successful, he later became a leading banker in Dallas.

German Springs, outside Big Spring, was one of his headquarter locations.

These three were referred to as the vanguard of the host of early ranchers who moved into the Permian Basin in the 1800s and 1890s.

Among the first generation of those hardy ranchers were the Cowdens brothers — William H. and George G. who drove a small herd from East Texas to the village of Midland and on to the sand hills north of Monahans. The sons of that family established the JAL Ranch in Southeastern New Mexico. Guess what Jal is named after?

Nelson Morris came from Chicago to Midland and established the "C" Ranch. It's still there but by 1911, it was sold to David Fasken of Canada.

You can't overlook John Scharbauer who came to West Texas in 1882 some where near Abilene and later in Mitchell County, he was a sheep-raiser.

In 1887, he moved to Midland and changed to cattle raising. In 1889, John was joined by his brother Christian and nephew Clarence. Clarence became the dominant force in operating the company and in 1927-28 built the Scharbauer Hotel in Midland.

Those early ranchers are really interesting. And I think it's great that Samuel Myers included them as background and heritage to the oil history of the Permian Basin — my favorite area in which to ride fence.

CARDBOARD AND CONSTRUCTION PAPER — make great marching hats, according to Kentwood students from left, Danny Miller, Alex Valdes, Betty Birdwell, kindergarten teacher, Debbie Archer, Freddy Rodriguez and Donna Hise. This is the first step to staging an exciting parade.

"Hey, look at me marching!"

Parade adds excitement to learning experience

By DUSTY RICHARD

There once was a time, before you found out about war and taxes, when the littlest things could make you happy. Things like bubble gum, dolls that wet, and parades. That time was when you were about 5 or 6 years old — kindergarten age.

Parades were what made about 110 kindergarten students happy at Kentwood Elementary and Lakeview Schools Tuesday.

The children, whose teachers include Betty Birdwell, Shirley Burgess, Sharon Sebastian and Laura Lowery at Kentwood and Charlotte Majors, Karen Helton and aide Jenie Carroll at Lakeview, participated in the parade to strengthen their self-esteen, according to the Kentwood principal C.L. Carlile.

"We were trying to help build their self-images — to install a feeling of 'Hey, look at me marching,'" said Carlile. "The parade was also designed to help them learn to step to music, and the hats, drums and the horns they made used shapes they had been learning, such as circles, squares and triangles."

A major goal of kindergarten, said Carlile, is the socialization of the student.

"It is their first time in school, away from home and their parents. They learn about fairness, other people's rights, working together towards a common goal — all part of the socialization process."

He said that he had no doubt that kindergarten gives students a head start for first grade.

"Fear is a big factor when starting school. In kindergarten, students learn to overcome this fear before getting down to strong academic basics."

Although academics may not be stressed at the kindergarten level, Carlile said that by the time students enter first grade, they can write their names, the alphabet and numbers, and many are able to read.

Interspered with "readin' and writin'," however, must be activities that make learning fun, such as parades, which not only are entertaining, but teach things like rhythm, geometrical forms, physical fitness, cooperation and socialization.

SLEEPY-TIME KIDS — Too pooped to pucker, students at Lakeview School get in a little shut-eye before it's time to drag out the old books and start working.

SOUND OFF ONE TWO THREE FOUR — About 15 members of the Big Spring High School Band came to Lakeview School and Kentwood Elementary School to add a little music accompaniment to the kindergartener's merry melodies during their parade Tuesday. The five and six-year-olds got a bit tired afterwards, so it's naptime now.

BET I GET A BIG CHECK ON THIS PAGE — are the sentiments of Lakeview students, from left, Ann Marie Granado, Kevin Korel, Sammy Gonzales, Junie Kim, Tommy Lister and Gilbert Villareal. The day is almost done and soon the children will be going home to tell their parents about the fun parade they enjoyed today.

NUPTIALS SLATED — Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Smith, Fort Worth, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol, to Chris Bogard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Bogard, 2727 E. 25th. The wedding is scheduled for Oct. 28 in the home of the groom's parents.

Harvey-Brumley wedding vows pledged Saturday

The wedding vows of Tanya Lynn Harvey to Jerry William Brumley, both of Midland, were solemnized at 7:30 Saturday evening in the Fannin Terrace Baptist Church by the Rev. Ben Walker, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Harvey Jr., Midland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Brumley, Stanton.

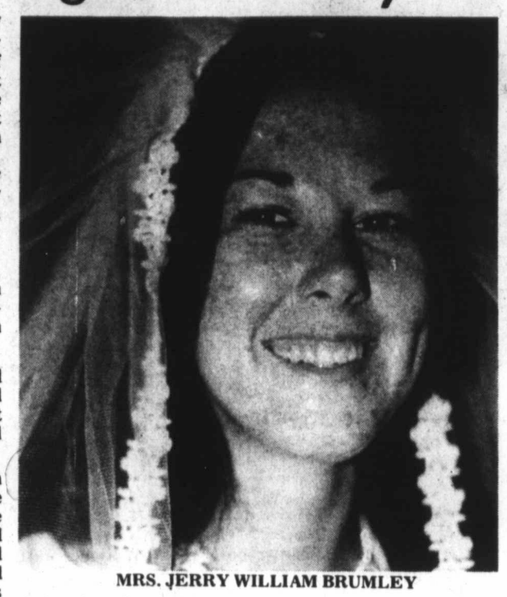

Two bouquets of orange, gold and blue autumn flowers and two candelabrums entwined with greenery adorned the altar.

Vocalists Lisa Helm and Ramon Meek, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Mathews at the organ, provided musical selections.

When presented in marriage by her father, the bride was clad in an A-line silhouette of sheer silk and Venice lace. The fitted empire bodice was overlaid with Venice lace appliques forming a yoke and scallops edging the Queen Anne neckline. The sheer bishop sleeves were gathered to deep cuffs edged in lace, and tiny Venice lace outlined the waist and formed windowpane panels in the skirt.

Appliques enhanced the skirt, and sata peau bordered the hemline which was traced with the lace for the full length of the chapel train. A row of tiny sata peau buttons lined the center back of the gown. Her mantilla veil of imported French illusion was edged in matching lace and flowed beyond the train.

She carried a cascade of burnt orange carnations and fall flowers entwined with baby's breath.

MRS. JERRY WILLIAM BRUMLEY

Tracey Harvey, Midland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridemaids were Leta Herzing, Midland; Kimberly Vincent, Fort Worth, cousin of the bride; and Noni Davis, Houston.

Best man was W.C. (Skeeter) Straub of Stanton, and groomsmen were Donnie Thompson, Stanton, brother of the groom; Ramon Meek, Midland, cousin of the groom; and Darrell Thompson, Stanton.

Ushering were Tobin Harvey, brother of the bride, and Allen Daggett.

Keely Vincent, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, and ring bearer was Gary Don Thompson, nephew of the groom.

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the wedding. Out-of-town guests included Nellie Sullivan, Fort Worth, grandmother of the bride; Mae Brumley and Mary Cottongame, both of Big Spring, grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harvey, Houston; grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Vincent, Fort Worth, aunt and uncle of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. David Sullivan and Ron Harvey, all of Big Spring, aunt and uncle of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of the American School of Kuwait, Kuwait, Arabia, and attended North Texas State University, Denton. She is employed as a draftsperson at Seismic Reflections, Inc.

The groom is a graduate of Stanton High School and attended DeVry Institute of Technology. He is employed as a marketing representative for Triple KKK Distributors.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso and Red River, N..M, the couple will make their home in Midland.

Effective savings relies on planning

An effective savings program depends on careful four-step planning, says Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Planning steps include a goal, a set amount, a schedule and a program that pays the maximum legal rate of interest.

Mrs. McCormack offers these easy steps for developing a savings program:

(1) Examine motives and write down a specific goal with a possible date for meeting it — this year, five years, or 20 years from now.

(2) Determine how much money is necessary to reach the goal.

(3) Set up an actual schedule.

In deciding on a schedule, rework your spending plan to determine a realistic amount left for savings. Then, set aside a fixed amount each week or month in order to achieve the goal.

Do not count on a "flexible amount" of money for savings each time — such as money left over at the end of the week or month. There never seems to be any left over.

(4) Determine which program pays the maximum legal rate of interest. This should be a major factor in selecting a savings program, and it will affect the "where" and "how" of saving.

Different opinion

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I read your column quite often and today I am very upset with an answer you gave to a 12-year-old girl who was dating an 18-year-old boy. She said that they were in love but you told them because of their age difference to give up the relationship.

I disagree. Regardless of age, no one in love should give up such a relationship.

I've been on my own since I was 13 and have been in love many, many times. At 14 I was going with a guy who was 35. We were in love but have since parted, but the important thing is we're still friends. I think I've gone with the entire male population of my town, so take it from one who knows. Nothing, and I mean nothing, stands in the way of love.

When teens ask your advice, please give more thought to your reply. Thanks for your time. — Samantha, Hanford, Calif.

Samantha: Thanks for sharing your thoughts with me and I respect your opinion. But I still feel that a 12-year-old girl should not be involved in any way with an 18-year-old man.

If you would like to be a guest writer, please write to me in care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and state your sex and age. Thank you.

Forsan report

Study Club meets

The Forsan Study Club held its October meeting at the Forsan High School Auditorium. Larry Bristo, executive director of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, was guest speaker.

Bristo discussed projects with physical handicaps in Project Share, which encourages federated club women to serve as advocates for citizens with mental and physcial handicaps with emphasis on helping handicapped individuals to recognize and attain their potential.

The program included facts about the beginning of the center when it served seven or eight people, to what it is today, giving as many as 500 treatments in a week.

Bristo emphasized that people pay as they are able and the center is dependent upon our gifts.

There is also the job of informing the public of what is available to them and how the center can help with many unique problems not only of children but adults as well.

To emphasize what a difference the center can make in the lives of its patients, Bristo told several touching stories.

One story told of a small child with a new hearing aid, who for the first time, was able to hear that words actually have sounds. He commented that the child was only three feet tall, but the grin on his face after hearing these new sounds was a good four feet wide.

Mrs. Del Hartin, president of the club, presided over the meeting with Mrs. Bill Cregar giving the invocation. Mrs. Bud Summers introduced the speaker.

The committee members responsible for the advertisement of the meeting were Mrs. Jack Woodley, Mrs. Garner Thixton, Mrs. Lee Yarbrough, Mrs. Raymond Holquin, Mrs. Bobby Evans, and Mrs. Kerry Mills.

The club made plans for a Smorgasboard Supper to be held Nov. 17 at the Forsan School Cafeteria. Each club member will bring two food dishes.

A cookbook with recipes for all the dishes will be sold for $1 each at the supper. The price of the meal will be $2 for adults and $1 for children.

The supper will begin at 6 and end at 7:30, just in time for the kick-off of the Forsan vs. Stanton game.

The Forsan Study Club invites everyone out to a good home-cooked meal and a great ballgame.

She carried a cascade of white daisies, small blue carnations, three roses, two of which were detachable, and baby's breath.

Debra Hamerski, Odessa, was maid of honor, and best man was Ray Rodgers of Odessa.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Lon McDonald of Ackerly announce the engagement of their daughter, Cindy, to Bobby Scheihing, son of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Scheihing of Fort Worth. The couple plan to be married Dec. 29 at 7 p.m. at the Ackerly Church of Christ.

Debra Steagald, Kelly Cross married in Baptist ceremony

Wedding vows were exchanged by Debra E. Steagald and Kelly L. Cross at 7 p.m., Sept. 30.

The wedding was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Rainey, 903 E. 16th. Performing the rite was Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor of College Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Steagald Jr., 905 E. 16, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Cross of Sand Springs.

The couple stood before a table adorned with silver candelabrums filled with blue carnations, white daisies, and gypsophila. Completing the room decorations was a registry table decorated with pole ivy and blue carnations.

The bride chose a dress of white nylon organza over white peau de soie featuring a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, and long tiered skirt. The long sleeves were gathered with cuffs at the wrist. The gown was embellished with lace and ribbon trim.

She wore a white wide-brimmed hat trimmed with seed pearls and light blue ribbon which formed a bow and fell in streamers.

For "something old," the bride wore a topaz ring belonging to her grandmother and worn by her mother and sisters at their weddings. "Something new" was her dress.

Borrowed from the groom's mother was a string of cultured pearls and "something blue" was a garter made by her great aunt, Lydia Minchew. She also wore her birthday penny in her shoe.

A bouquet of blue carnations and white daisies was carried by the bride atop a white Bible given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Rainey.

Matron of honor was the groom's sister, Gwen Haggard of Sand Springs. She wore a light blue gingham dress and carried a bouquet of white daisies and white carnations.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School and the groom is a graduate of Coahoma High School. He is a partner at Crasco Construction Company in Coahoma.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will make their home at 905½ E. 16th.

Watch child for signs of vision difficulty

You've just settled to enjoy the tranquility that comes when the children go back to school. They've got their straight leg jeans, tennis sneakers, loose-leaf notebooks and money for a gym lock.

You've even provided them with a good reading light by which you fervently hope they'll do their homework faithfully every night. But you may not have checked on how well they're seeing that homework.

The American Association of Ophthalmology thinks you should be on the lookout for the following signs which may indicate eye trouble:

Eyes crossed — turning in or out — at any time.

Thrusting the head forward or backward while looking at distant objects.

Tilting the head to one side.

Placing the head close to a book or desk when reading or writing.

Frowning or scowling while reading or writing.

Excessive blinking or frequent rubbing of the eyes.

Closing or covering one eye.

Losing the place while reading or difficulty in remembering what is read.

Using a finger to keep one's place while reading.

Saleswomen offered seminar on success

The Permian Basin Graduate Center announces a one-day seminar on "A Woman's Guide to Sales Career Opportunities," Oct. 13, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the PBGC Building, 105 W. Illinois, Midland.

This course is designed for women who are interested in a successful sales career and for supervisors who need to understand how to maximize the potential of women on their sales force.

The course is appropriate for women at any level of a sales career, whether in a large corporation or in a small shop. Topics to be discussed will include how to handle sales resistance, how to implement creative ideas, how to recognize and take advantage of opportunities and how to develop a winning attitude.

Patricia Wagner, account executive, Pillsbury Company, Washington D.C. area, will instruct the course. Ms. Wagner has direct responsibility for sales to two major food chains in the Baltimore-Washington area with yearly sales of $3.2 million.

Ms. Wagner, formerly Patricia Elam, is a native Midlander and a graduate of Lee High School. She attended the University of Denver before moving to the Washington D.C. area.

Her rapid rise in a sales career is a demonstration of her dynamic personality. She first started as a sales merchandiser in 1976. While working full time, she was able to manage her home, care for her husband and three small children and attend evening classes at the University of Maryland.

In two short years she has proven that the opportunities and benefits of a sales career can certainly be rewarding. She will share problems and solutions that arise in climbing the ladder of success.

Fee for the course is $15, with additional registrations from the same organization $10. For more information or registration, one may contact the graduate center at 563-2311.

MR. AND MRS. DICK BATTLE

Candlelight service weds Switser, Battle

A candlelight rite united Dick Battle and Vicki Switser, both of Lubbock, in marriage at 9 a.m. Sept. 23 in Sand Springs Church of Christ. Eric Dickey, minister of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Marvin Switser, Colorado, and the late Frances Switser, and the groom is the son of Myrtie Battle, Sand Spring, and Bill Battle, Big Spring.

The couple exchanged vows under an archway topped with white doves. A seven-branch candelabrum stood on either side.

Wedding selections were sung by members of the Lubbock Christian College a cappella choir, Carol Chance, Teresa West, Ronda Simmons, Sharlan Renfroe and Patti Wolfe.

She carried a bouquet of bronze mums, white baby spider mums and cream and bronze streamers.

Tracey Tittle was maid of honor and the father of the groom served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Stratford High School, Stratford, and is a sophomore elementary education major at Lubbock Christian College. The groom is a Big Spring High School graduate and is majoring in business administration in his junior year at Lubbock Christian College.

The couple will make their home in Lubbock.

Laundry soap cost figured

COLLEGE STATION — Figure cost per load for economical laundry detergent buys, advises Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Many consumers become confused when trying to compare laundry detergents by price, she says. To calculate the cost per load of a powdered detergent, first, determine its density — the weight per unit volume, the specialist suggests.

For example, the label of a box of powdered detergent states these facts:

—Net weight: 49 ounces

—Price: $1.48.

—Recommended use: one cup per load

Now, determine the weight of one cup. Assume this sample cup weighs 2.2 ounces. Divide this 2.2 ounces into the net weight of detergent on the box, 49 ounces, resulting in a figure of 22.3 loads per box.

The cost per load is then determined by dividing total cost, $1.48, by 22.3 giving a cost of about six cents per load.

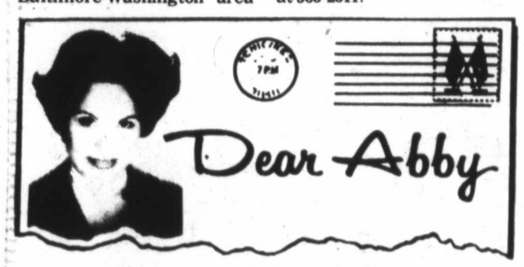

Athletes need proper diet

COLLEGE STATION — Well-balanced diets — not fad foods — insure athletes of the proper nutrition they need, says Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Athletes may find food fads attractive because of the pressure on them for physical fitness. Because of this pressure, they often accept any formula which promises quick results. They believe in any food or vitamin supplements they feel will improve their performance, she points out.

However, no dietary special foods or vitamin pills give the athlete competitive skill. Well-balanced foods are the best source of nutrients for the athlete.

Vitamin pills are unnecessary for a healthy individual and add neither extra energy or pep, Mrs. Sweeten says.

7-Year-Old Boy A Bed Wetter

DEAR ABBY: I am desperate and in tears. I can't take it anymore! I have a 7-year-old son who still wets his bed. I have taken him to our pediatrician who sent us to a urologist. They both said there was nothing physically wrong with the boy.

I have spanked him, taken away his favorite TV shows, and even told him he couldn't play outdoors or go any place special if he wet the bed the night before.

I even tried making him wash his own pajamas and the bedsheet, but that didn't help.

To top it all off, my 4-year-old who stopped wetting his bed two years ago has now started in again! I guess he thinks if his big brother does it, it's okay for him, too!

My 7-year-old quit for five days straight before his birthday because he thought he'd get more presents, so I know he can quit.

I'm expecting another baby in four months. Then I'll have THREE kids wetting the bed.

I am ready to give up hope. Please help me, Abby!

HOPELESS

DEAR HOPELESS: If the doctors assure you that there is nothing physically wrong with the boy, try the "Wet Alarm" (Sears' catalogue lists it).

I've had hundreds of readers tell me that this solved the problem when all else failed. I hope it works for you, but if it doesn't, quietly change the sheets and make no mention of the wet bed whatsoever. No shaming and no punishments. Just total silence.

DEAR ABBY: I am a former GI, married to a girl from Southeast Asia. My problem is that she keeps after me constantly to send money over there to her family. I have been sending as much as I can, but it keeps me broke.

Abby, we are depriving ourselves of the necessities—like a telephone and new tires for our old car. We can't even pay some of our own bills, and she keeps begging and begging me to send more and more to her people. I work to support her and that's all I can do.

Please advise us both, Abby. And thank you.

30 AND DRAINED

DEAR DRAINED: If you're the only one working in your family (and I assume you are), it's time you learned how to say, "Enough is enough."

Those who have money should help those who do not, but you should allocate a set sum to send to her family—and not a dime more. Explain this to your wife.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "YOUNG PHILOSOPHER IN ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.": For every maxim expressing one philosophy, you will find another expressing the contrary. Example: "The squeaking wheel gets the grease." And "the quacking duck gets shot."

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.
