ELECTRA CITIZENS PLEDGE TO OUTLAW CRIME

AFTER 8 YEARS IS PROHIBITION WHAT WE WANT?

Four Wichita Falls Men, Business Leaders, Express Views

VARIED LINES USED

Record News Undertakes To Find Out What Real Attitude Is

"After eight years' observation of prohibition, I am convinced that the passage of the national prohibition amendment and laws at the time was a mistake—"

A prominent business man of Wichita Falls, with a reputation of life-long prohibitionist, authorized the above statement in an interview last week. A prominent attorney of the city, also inclined toward prohibitionist theories, seconded him.

Has prohibition been a success? It is in its eighth year; has the nation gained or lost? There is evidence on every hand that it at least has not always succeeded; why? What is the matter, and what is the best way to remedy it?

4 Men Approached

Four prominent Wichita Falls citizens have been asked to answer the questions given above, to state their views on what is fast assuming the shape of a vital national issue, and to suggest what to their minds is the best remedy for such a situation as to them may seem to exist.

The four men were chosen as being representative of various elements in the city. As best representing the educational element, those connected with the schools, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city school superintendent, was chosen. From the ecclesiastical ranks, a layman, probably as well known as any churchman in the city, Judge John C. Kay was taken. From the city's business men J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce, was chosen. And from the ranks of the practicing lawyers, Luther Hoffman, Wichita Falls attorney, was taken.

Answers Recorded

The four men were asked the question set out above and their answers, which in each case have amounted to a thorough discussion of the prohibition question, set down in black and white. These discussions, authorized interviews with five men whom the Record News considers legitimate leaders in their respective lines of endeavor in the city, will be published one each day in succeeding issues of the paper during the coming week.

The first, that of Superintendent J. W. Cantwell.

The men were chosen with no regard, so far as was known, to their views on the subject, they were chosen simply as leaders.

Local Jewish Fund Is Set at $2,500

A goal of $2,500 has been set by the Jewish citizens of Wichita Falls for the Jewish Federation for social service, and of that amount, $2,200 has already been raised, according to information received here yesterday. The local campaign funds will be distributed to a number of Jewish institutions.

The committee raising the funds is composed of Louis Pink, Harry Jaffe and Rabbi Samuel Phillips. The Bnai B'rith lodge will be in charge of caring for the contributions, it was said.

E. L. Napier, Dallas, Is Seriously Ill

E. L. Napier, father of Attorney Ed Napier of this city and who was one of the pioneer residents of Wichita Falls, is seriously ill at his home in Dallas, according to word received here late Sunday night. The elder Napier suffered a stroke of paralysis, it was reported and his condition is now feared to be grave.

The Wichita Falls man is in bed and unable to go to Dallas, but other members of the family have gone.

Prohibition Not Dr. J. W. Cantwell Entire Success

"A partial success," is the judgment of Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of Wichita Falls public schools, on the status of national prohibition after almost eight years of attempted enforcement of state and national legislation prohibiting the sale of intoxicants.

Dr. Cantwell was chosen for the first of a series of Record News' interviews on national prohibition and prohibition enforcement by reason of his position as head of one of the city's largest institutions, its school system. It was desired to secure representatives of the judicial bench, the church and ecclesiastical life of the city, the business life of the community, and the educational life. Dr. Cantwell is unquestionably the leader in Wichia Falls in the last named phase of the city's activity.

"A partial success," Dr. Cantwell asserts.

He qualifies his statement, "There is much less drunkenness now than there was prior to July of 1918. In the old days there was a certain proportion of the public that stayed intoxicated to some degree throughout most of their waking hours. This elements has been almost completely eliminated, a certain percentage refraining from the use of intoxicants out of respect for the law and the remainder minimizing their drinking as a result of the difficulty attending purchase now.

"It is a partial success in that it has taken saloons off the streets, and in so doing removed an unsightly menace to public welfare. The saloons were an ever present temptation to the pedestrian to 'come in and have a drink.' That temptation has at least been removed now.

Not as Much Liquor Drunk Now

"There is much less liquor drunk now than formerly," Dr. Cantwell believes. "Up until the passage of the amendment and enforcement acts a laboring man walking home on Saturday nights with his week's pay check in his pocket, thought nothing of consuming a whole quart of whiskey. Now even so small a quantity as a pint is shared with several. And whatever contest there may be to this contention of mine, I do not believe that anyone will say there is as much liquor sold now each day as was sold in the saloon days.

"Possibly one of the biggest reasons why it has been a partial success lies in the fact that money that was formerly spent for whiskey now largely goes into legitimate merchandise. The large increase in automobile registration since the advent of prohibition is largely accounted for by the removal of legalized liquor traffic. There is more money to spend on gasoline now, and on the everyday household necessities.

But in some ways, in fact many phases, Dr. Cantwell points out, prohibition has failed. It is the failure of enforcement, though, he says, rather than the failure of the amendment and the laws supporting it and of the doctrine of liquor prohibition embodied in those. There is, as I understand, a well organized bootlegging system operating over the entire nation. "I have heard that a regular transportation system exists between Wichita Falls, for instance, and New Orleans. The press is almost continually carrying stories of alleged illegal withdrawals from storage of government whiskey. Foreign liquor houses are supporting "rum row; a large fleet of vessels that remain always just beyond the limits along the Atlantic coast and continually smuggle into the shore large supplies of hard liquors.

"The result of all of this is that a large supply of liquor is being made available to almost every portion of the nation. Drinking has spread to include a younger set than formerly engaged in it, but I am not sure that this is not a product of the times rather than of the prohibition program.

Fault Found With Enforcement

"The fault lies, I think, in enforcement, or rather lack of enforcement, than in the amendment and laws themselves.

"Underlying the failure to enforce the liquor laws are, I think, four paramount issues: First that enforcement means have not grown with the bootlegging traffic and is not able to cope adequately with the situation that now exists. Second, that a good deal of fraud exists in higher governmental circles by which government liquor is released in large quantities to the market. Third, that the larger nations of the world, specifically Great Britain, have not shown a proper cooperation with the United States in the enforcement of its liquor laws. Fourth, that a better class of the citizenry of the United States has failed to abide by the underlying principles of democracy on which the nation and government have been founded in continually smiling as it does upon liquor law violations.

"These," Dr. Cantwell says in discussing the last named, "have a mistaken idea of personal liberty. The fact that the prohibition laws were ever passed is indicative that the majority has declared in favor of them. The very foundation of a democratic form of government lies in rule of the majority. As citizens of the nation they are bound in every sense to abide by those principles and obey the nation's laws.

"Remedy the situation? It can be done by a more stringent enforcement. Stop the big sources of supply and the battle has been practically won.

"I do not believe that legalizing light wines and beer will better conditions materially. I do believe that to allow those two beverages would be just to allow an entering wedge for the undermining of the whole prohibition structure. I do not think that Americans who want hard liquor would be satisfied with light wines and beer."

In concluding Dr. Cantwell states that to his mind enforcement rather than prohibition itself is at issue. "The merits of the prohibition programs are unquestioned by the majority," he says, "but it is up to proper enforcement of the law to make those merits evident to all."

"After eight years observation of prohibition, I am convinced that the passage of the national prohibition law at the time was a mistake—that the country was not ready for it, and that it would have been better to continue the plan of local option through educational campaigns. I believe that ultimately every section of our country would have voluntarily accepted prohibition."

This is an excerpt from the interview with J. C. Mytinger, president of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce and prominent business man here. It will be published in the Record News Tuesday morning.

WHEELER DIES FROM INJURIES

Altus, Okla., Switchman Expires As Result Of Rail Accident

(Special to The Record News.)

ALTUS, Okla., Feb. 28.— W. S. Wheeler, night switchman, who received several broken bones and had his right arm amuputated Thursday morning after a freight car on the M. K. and T. railroad ran over him, died early today in a local hospital.

It was through the efforts of his pal, G. D. Irwin, that his neck was not run over when he fell between the train cars while blocking some cars. Irwin received several broken bones in his right hand.

BAYLOR FARMER IS DEAD

SEYMOUR, Feb. 28.—W. F. Livingston, Baylor county farmer, died at the Baylor memorial hospital late Saturday night after a short period of illness with pneumonia. He leaves one son and two daughters as survivors, his wife having died several years ago.

Funeral services were held in Megargle Sunday afternoon with burial following in Megargle cemetery.

DENVER BRANCH TO BE ALLOWED

McKay Says Confidential Information Makes It Assured

(Special to The Record News.)

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 28.—This city has been assured that the building of the Fort Worth and Denver south Plains railway will soon make its way to Plainview, according to Judge W. D. McKoy, land and valuation commissioner of the road, who spoke before the chamber of commerce here recently. Hale county has agreed to obtain a right-of-way through the county for the new railroad at an estimated cost of $300,000.

Information has been received here from confidential sources that Examiner Bowles will recommend that the Denver road build from Carey, running a few miles south of Turkey and Quitnque permitting a branch to be extended to both these towns. This would throw the railroad north of Lockney into Plainview without paralelling the Santa Fe.

ARMY MAJOR IS DEAD.

WEST POINT, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Major John G. Quekemeyer, who was aide to General Pershing in the World war died in the military academy hospital here today of pneumonia.

CITY LEADERS LAY STONE FOR NEEDY KIDDIES

Cornerstone of New Day Nursery Put In Place Sunday

A DREAM COME TRUE

Ceremony Climaxes Drive For Betterment Of Conditions

The reward of efforts of two Wichita Falls civic bodies—the Kiwanis club and Federated Missionary society—was witnessed by a large crowd Sunday afternoon at the laying of the cornerstone of the new home of the Wichita Falls Day Nursery at 403-05 Lamar avenue. Members of the club and society took part in the simple, yet impressive ceremonies that marked the conclusion of a long period of effort directed toward a betterment of community welfare. The work was the original undertaking of the missionary societies, but for the last 18 months the Kiwanis club has been working hand in hand with the ladies of the mission society in the planning and financing of the nursery's large, new home.

W. H. Caldwell, member of the Kiwanis club, was master of ceremonies, while Mrs. W. W. Cook, president of the Federated Missionary society, broke a bottle of Lake Kemp water over the stone as a sort of formal baptismal ceremony.

Mrs. Kemp Pays Tribute.

A tribute to the members of the society made from members of 16 churches of the city. Jew, Gentile and Catholic, was paid by Mrs. J. A. Kemp who gave a brief history of the society. She commended Kiwanians for their material assistance in the construction of the nursery which is primarily for the underprivileged child.

Hon. Frank H. Bailey of Chickasha, Okla., president of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis, also spoke of the work of the two organizations and encouraged them in the work which would be a benefit to the community.

In the history given by Mrs. Kemp she told how in 1919 the churches realized a shortcoming in the charity work, and she then carried the narrative up to the present time, detailing step by step the long fight made to make possible the nursery of today.

Mr. Bailey the next speaker, was introduced by Julian Bobo, former president of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis.

"You have laid the foundation which will spell citizenship to your city." Mr. Bailey told Kiwanis and members of the society in his talk. "There was a clause provided in the constitution that man was created equal, and there must be equality of opportunity, opportunity for education, and all freedom must originate in the human mind. There must be opportunity of chance given to the boy and girl of America, opportunity for a sound mind and a sound body. You are building a better citizenship for your community with the erection of this building."

Jackson Presides.

J. L. Jackson, Jr., president of the Kiwanis club, presided at the meeting. He introduced J. L. Gant, former president, under whose administration the Kiwanians began the work in conjunction with the Federated Missionary society in building the nursery. He also introduced Mrs. Cook, president of the society for the second term.

The cornerstone was laid by Charles J. Pate, Kiwanian architects, with Mr. Caldwell directing the ceremony.

The invocation was said by Rabbi Samuel Phillips of Temple Israel. Alva Willgus led the assembly in community singing. Music throughout the program was furnished by the Municipal band, directed by R. A. Brollier. The benediction was said by Rev. Leslie Miller, pastor of Grace Methodist church.

DALLAS TAXES PAID

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Tax collector John M. Lowery of Dallas county Saturday paid the state treasury $1,165,967.87 January collections, the largest single amount for taxes paid W. Gregory Hatcher, the treasurer.

"Hail, Hail, We'll All Be There To Root for Danny"

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Not many years ago Dan Moody, Texas' young attorney general, was county attorney of this (Williamson) county. On Tuesday virtually all of this county will journey to Georgetown to endorse Moody as a candidate for the governorship of Texas in the forthcoming democratic primaries. A mass meeting for this purpose will be held, beginning at 2 p. m., and at least 10,000 people are expected to attend the rally. Several brass bands will furnish music for the occasion.

Business will be suspended in Georgetown, Taylor, Round Rock, Granger and Bartlett and many citizens from adjoining counties are expected to participate in the meeting.

Moody, who was born and reared in Taylor, began his work as a lawyer in that city. As county attorney and later as district attorney, the youthful barrister, through sheer capability, won his way to the attorney general's office.

VETERAN TEXAS EDITOR IS DEAD

Colonel R. M. Johnston Of Houston is Stricken Sunday

HOUSTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Col. R. M. Johnston, 76, veteran Houston newspaper man and at one time an important factor in democratic political circles, was stricken suddenly about noon Friday and died in a hospital here at 4:10 a. m. Sunday. He had been in ill health for some months but was believed to be on the road to recovery.

Colonel Johnston was at one time appointed to the United States senate on the resignation of Joseph Weldon Bailey in 1913, and was for years editor-in-chief and president of the Houston Post.

He retired from active work in 1919 but remained as a member of the board of directors of the Post until the consolidation of that paper with the Houston Dispatch in 1924. He continued and was, at the time of his death, a member of the board of directors of the Houston Post Dispatch.

Shep Back Today

R. E. Shepherd, mayor of Wichita Falls and Potentate of Maskat Temple, will return home this afternoon from New York City, where he accompanied the Shrine Chanters to make records for the Brunswick company. The Chanters, R. Vaughn Ray, Grover Bullington, Ivan Murchison, Paul Von Allmen, director, and J. S. Pitman, accompanist, are expected, although definite time of their arrival could not be ascertained last night.

Grenfell Lectures At College Tonight

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, noted medical missionary Arctic explorer, author and benefactor, and probably the best versed man on conditions of the Labrador country, will speak tonight at the auditorium of Junior college at 7:45 o'clock under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Teachers' association assisted by the Woman's Forum.

Dr. Grenfell's lecture will be illustrated with slides which show something of his travels and conditions as he found them.

Admission to the public 50 cents, for children, 25 cents, and members of the Woman's Forum will be admitted on their membership cards.

Ma's Got a Cold, But She Gets Lots of Telegrams From Friends Who Are Elated at Her Decision

Her Announcement to Run for Governor Again Causes Surprise to Many Politicians; Moody Remains Silent at Georgetown

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today was flooded with telegrams and telephone calls upon her announcement for re-election in the state papers today. She was confined to the executive mansion by a severe cold but was able to express her gratitude for the congratulations of her friends.

The governor's announcement, which came as a surprise to many politicians because of rumors and reports in North Texas that her husband, Former Gov. James E. Ferguson indicated she would not run.

In her announcement, Gov. Ferguson defended her right to run for re-election; said that the family name had not been vindicated by the amnesty bill, because it mentioned no name and did not clear the black page of impeachment against her husband James E. Ferguson, in 1917, and said that she and Jim would continue to pull together.

Nothing was forthcoming from attorney general Dan Moody today, who is being groomed by Williamson county friends as a candidate for governor. It was announced that he would not attend the rally in Georgetown Tuesday in which his friends say they will draft him for gubernatorial candidate. He as Governor Ferguson, was confined today because of an attack of influenza and the anti-trust suit which he was to try in Georgetown Monday has been postponed until the May term of court.

IS HURT WHEN MULE ATTACKS AND KICKS HIM

Big Property Owner in Baylor County Victim Of Accident

IS NOW IN HOSPITAL

Hurt Late Saturday On Farm Southeast Of Seymour

(Special to The Record News.)

SEYMOUR, Feb. 28.—C. L. Martin, one of Baylor county's largest property owners and best known residents, was seriously injured late Saturday evening when one of a team of mules he was breaking on his farm 15 miles southeast of here knocked him to the grown and pawed him viciously for several minutes. Martin is now in the Baylor memorial hospital here with his right leg fractured below the knee and his body badly cut and bruised from the blows of the animal's hoofs.

Physicians say that his condition is serious but that he will recover without trouble.

Was Breaking Span

Mr. Martin was breaking a span of mules when one of them became unmanagebale and in some way he was hurled to the ground. The animal immediately attacked him, kicking and pawing him as he lay helpless. His escape from critical injury is regarded as miraculous.

The injured man was brought into Seymour late Saturday night and taken to the hospital.

He has been prominent in politics and was a candidate for the state legislature of the 101st district two years ago, being defeated by Senator J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls. He has been active in local political circles.

Banks to Aid Farmers In Drive for Better Livestock In Valley

Financial Aid To Be Given For Bringing in Pure Bred Stock

A movement fostered by the valley development committee of the chamber of commerce and in which the banks of Wichita county are extending material assistance has been started here for the promotion of better strains of dairy cattle in the irrigated valley. The idea is being carried out along lines adopted by the valley committee, which is seeking to increase in quality and quantity the agricultural and livestock resources of this territory.

Bankers To Help.

Bankers of the county, it has been announced, stand ready to extend reasonable financial asistance to any responsible farmer of this area who wishes to bring in pure bred dairy cattle. Applications for such assistance, if made to Luke McCrory, a member of the committee, will receive prompt consideration. Other members of the committee engaged in this particular work are Otto Sthelik and Henry Ford.

Want Better Swine.

In this connection, a movement is also on foot to establish more pure bred swine in the valley, and to assist this work, J. S. Bridewell, local capitalist, has announced he will extend financial asistance to a limited number of farmers interested in improving their droves of hogs. The work of bringing in pure bred hogs to the valley is being handled mainly by County Farm Agent Guy R. Jones, assisted by Ernest Birk and Carl Williamson.

It is the belief of the valley development committee that the introduction of large numbers of pure bred livestock will go far toward putting the irrigated valley on a prosperous and progressive basis.

Ground Is Broken For Baptist Church

An inspiring meeting was held Sunday afternoon at the site selected for the building of the Highland Heights Baptist church on the corner of York and Hayes streets, when ground was broken for the structure. Rev. H. J. Ballew, former Baptist missionary for Wichita county and now pastor of the new church, made a brief address on "The Benefits of a Church to the Community."

Rev. J. C. Newman, pastor of the First Baptist church of Iowa Park, and Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church and Rev. E. M. Yeakley, pastor of the Walnut Street Baptist church talked to the assembly.

Actual construction work is expected to begin next week. The plans call for a frame building to cost $8,000, including ten Sunday school rooms and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 400.

"Tell the Facts" Is Main Idea In Mitchell Trial

Court Martial Conducted To Put Information Before Public

BY WILLIAM MITCHELL.

I was ordered by the war department to be courtmartialed on October 28, 1925, more than a month and a half after the date on which I had issued the statements which exposed the mismanagement of the war and navy departments in connection with our aviation and the whole of our national defense.

The charges against me were "for conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline"—not that any of the things I had said were untrue, but that under the military code I had no right to say publicly anything in the nature of criticism, no matter what the questions involved might be.

From what had been brought out before the Morrow Aircraft board and the Shenandoah court of inquiry, the war and navy departments evidently calculated that they might be able to show we did not have sufficient evidence to support the allegations I had made of neglect and mismanagement. As I knew what this evidence consisted of and where to obtain it, there was no anxiety on my part about not being able to fully establish the truth of every statement I had made.

However, when a fight is being made for a principle, against a system such as exists in the war and navy departments, a great deal of time, labor and expense is required in the preparation.

The one thing of paramount importance was to bring out the evidence in the case so the people might be acquainted with the facts on which our criticism was based, and in order to effect this, it was necessary to obtain competent legal direction and advice, that would force the court to admit such evidence—otherwise, the court

BLANEY FLAYS MODERN SCHOOL

Too Much Specialization Will Bring Trouble, He Declares

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 28.—(AP) The crying need of American educational institutions is divorcement from the idea of specialization in undergraduate work, Dr. Lindsey Blaney, president of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, told the Dallas Open Forum Sunday afternoon. A liberal education that will give an adequate background to the history of civilization should be the objective of undergradute college and university work, the speaker said, while specialization belongs in the graudate university work.

"It were better that a college where ther exists among the student body an atmosphere of deceit, suspicion, crafty manipulation, selfishness and a seeking for favors at the sacrifice of independence should be swept from the earth than that it exist as a training ground for citizens who would enter life with warped notions of honesty, loyalty and fair play," Dr. Blaney said. "the wide variety of subjects permitted in our secondary schools, many of questionable importance, is resulting in the training of a superficial citizen who scarcely knows what it means to perform any duty well," he asserted.

MAKE GAS APPLICATION

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Application of the Diamond Carbon Black corporation of Sipe Springs for permit to burn carbon black from waste residue from gas from casinghead plants in Commanche county was heard Saturday by the Texas railroad commission. The company plans to construct two plants at Sipe Springs, one costing $200,000 to burn 8,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

'We Kids Are OK,' Says Little Pastor

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Never were the ideals of youth in general "purer and loftier than today," Miss Patty E. Horn, Iowa's 19-year-old bobbed-hair preacher, declared here tonight in a sermon delivered from radio station WLS.

Righteous success or realization of the dreams of youth depends on individual courage, perserverance and faith, said Miss Horn, who preaches regularly in a small Iowa town. She is also a sophomore Bible student at Drake university, Des Moines.

OVER 1,000 IN ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY RALLY

Will Form a Permanent Organization to Help Officers

WICHITANS SPEAK

Allred and Rogers Are On Program to Urge Enforcement

(Special to The Record News.)

ELECTRA, Feb. 28.—Addresses in which a need for a "clean-up" in Electra was stressed; denunciation by a local pastor of some proposed resolutions which he branded as "hot air," and the starting of a movement for a permanent organization to support constituted authorities in their campaigns against crime featured an anti-crime mass meeting attended by over 1,000 persons here this afternoon. The meeting was held in the First Methodist church as a demonstration by Electra citizens who are anxious to wipe out a criminal element that has cost local merchants over $35,000 in stolen merchandise since the first of the year.

Among those present for the session were citizens from Vernon, Iowa Park, Wichita Falls and a number of rural points around here.

The meeting was in the charge of P. R. McGee, Electra business man. In his opening talk Mr. McGee called attention to recent criminal demonstrations that Electra had seen, and suggested that the people "wake up to law enforcement." He said the purpose of the meeting was to start them to thinking about just how they could aid in enforcing the law and preventing crime.

Allred Is Speaker.

District Attorney Ben P. Allred of Wichita Falls was then introduced and opened his talk with a simple statement that he was glad to see someone besides an officer that was interested in law enforcement. "An alarming situation exists," Mr. Allred declared. "There are thousands of criminals at large in every part of the state and nation. And will all of that the people as a whole are not awakened to their danger. There is a real tendency on the part of juries to assess low sentences—two years where five should be given, a suspended sentence when a year or so in the penitentiary would work better for the individual and society both."

The district attorney called attention to the case of R. J. Russell, Wichita Falls bandit, and cited this as illustration that sentences are often evidently too low.

Mr. Allred was followed by R. Calvert, former mayor of Electra, who suggested that coincident with condemnation that was continually handed the law violater it would be well to "play fair," pointing out the very attitude of the white man toward the Indian in the past oftentimes resulted in the very criminal acts which it was afterwards necessary to punish him for.

Judge Rogers Talks.

Guy Rogers, judge of the 78th district court of Wichita Falls, also addressed the meeting, not, as he said, as a judge, but as a citizen interested in law enforcement. He stated that the real basis of crime was a disrespect born out of ignorance of government and governmental theories.

Colonel Ed C. Wilson, Confederate veteran and pioneer Electra citizen, also touched upon various aspects of enforcement in Electra.

Some confusion developed when resolutions effecting an organization of the citizens of Electra into a law enforcement body were denounced by one of the local pastors as "hot air." Garden Edgar, aged Electra citizen, at this point made what was possibly the most stirring speech of the evening, stating in a few words that the best thing to do was "clean up Electra," paying especial attention to the bootleggers.

Endorse Law Enforcement.

The resolutions, stating that Electra citizens bonded themselves as a whole to assist in every way possible to enforce the law and prevent further crime. A committee composed of Ben W. Tipton, Ed C. Wilson, William Calvert, H. Y. Newsom and C. E. McDavid was appointed to complete the resolutions, and perfect a plan of organization. Further details will be worked out at another mass meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

The meeting closed with the audience singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Among the Wichitans present besides those mentioned were W. G. Bralley and Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court.

Are Your Taxes Too High?

Read what Judge John C. Kay has to say concerning taxes and the cost of civilization

ON PAGE TWO

The Record News

"Taxation Has One Virtue Anyhow—It Hits Us All," Says Judge Kay

COMFORT MUST BE PAID FOR, HE DECLARES

Speaker Says County And City Governments Here Are O. K.

The idea that "what you get you must pay for" was stressed Sunday morning by Judge John C. Kay in his weekly Bible talk to his class at the Strand theatre when he discussed taxation to some extent. His address, heard by 372 persons, was as follows:

Our lesson this morning is directly and indirectly about taxation. I suppose there area good many things could be said against taxation, but it has got one virture that a subscription list hasn't got. It bears on the willing and unwilling alike. There are a lot of people who don't care about a subscription list. When I was a boy, we had a negro named Morgan. Morgan was quite a learned negro. He had been to the university, and he was smart, and he was talking to me about the local money lender in the community. Shylock who was exacting too much interest off of the public, and he said: "That old man don't care nothin' about you. He don't care if you live. He don't care if you die. He don't care nothin' about you." That's the way some people are about a subscription list. But, when the tax collector comes along, they have to care.

We Growl Too Much.

Now, I expect we growl and grumble too much about taxation. I try not to, but I think we do. Here in Wichita Falls, in Wichita County, I am glad to say, this morning, that I think things have been well managed, both in the city and in the county, when we consider the problems with which the officials had to deal, with an immense population thrust upon us as rapidly as it was. I don't know how the school board got by. I don't see how they began to get by. They will build a new school house today and in the morning the secretary will be there tearing his hair and saying: "There were seven hundred children moved in here last night." It is the same way with the county commissioners.

Now, the reason that the taxes are high is not viciousness and meanness in the officials. Do you know where the secret lies It is because we want so much; better schools, better teachers, better roads, better everything. We go and demand these things.

And, I have seen fellows, on occasions, go to the court house to kick and growl about the taxes, having that for one of their missions at the court house, and the other, to ask the commissioners to make a large appropriation to aid some community. We ought to be a little more consistent about these things.

Now, taxation is a sign of civilization. It is as true as an axiom in mathematics. The higher the taxes, the better the civilization. You know, you can go somewhere where they don't have any taxes, if you like. You can go down to the South Sea Islands or out with the Yaukui Indians. You can go there, but I notice you don't go. That was the trouble with the American Indian. He never diccovered the principle of taxation.

I say that we demand more. Is it better to demand more? Would you rather raise your children like the little dusky savages on some remote island, to catch goats by the hair and throw their lances at the sun, as described by Tennyson, or would you rather build on all the handwork that the ages have stacked up for you and become the heir of all that has gone before?

Don't Come Often.

I have spells sometimes when I think I would just like to get off somewhere, where there is plenty of shade, and rest, and loaf. I am glad these spells don't come often, or stay long. We don't want the sun to stand still, like it did for Joshua, better, stronger, more efficient, so but we want our civilization to grow than we will have better homes, a better land, a better people, and we can only do that by a concentrated and a united effort.

Now, these Pharisees went to the Savior, and said: "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar?" thinking to embarrass Him, because the Jews tried to think it was not lawful. They tried to persuade themselves that it wouldn't do to pay taxes to Caesar, just like you and I do, sometimes. But, there stood on the principal corners of Jerusalem, the Roman soldier, looking neither to the right nor to the left. There sat in one of their palaces the Roman governor, and there was no way out except to pay tribute to Caesar. It might not have been lawful under the Jewish law, but it was lawful under the Roman law, under which they were living.

So, He said, after asking for a penny and seeing Caesar's image on the penny: "Give to Caesar the things that are Caesar's." You know, sometimes, we don't do that. Sometimes we don't. I don't think any of us are too honest about turning in our taxes. I never claimed to be, myself. That is so true that the tax boards have agreed, almost everywhere in America, that when the law said 100 per cent, that 60 per cent was about as much as frail humanity could stand. So I guess I am about like the rest of you. I am about 60 per cent honest when it comes to paying taxes. That is, I am, on the things that they can see. If you go out here and build a brick house, and the tax collector puts his eye on it, there is not much escape for things like that. But, these Pharisees asked Him that question for a very different purpose. They wanted to say that He wanted to tear down the Jewish law. They wanted Him to say that He was teaching something that the old church didn't teach. That is what they wanted Him to say, but, He wasn't doing that. He was teaching something that these Pharisees didn't teach, and not running counter to the old church.

An Astounding Idea.

We had a great church dignitary, not long ago, teaching something new to me, when he said to a body of gentlemen that all that is meant by the soul is the life. That was a most astounding statement to me. If that is so; if life is the soul, then we ought to send missionaries to the grasshoppers, because they are living. So it is some of these teachers, and not the old church, that insist on these foolish questions.

They wanted to ask Him about the law, and that is a thing tha I want to talk to you a minute about. There are a great many men and women who think that all you have got to do to remedy a wrong, to correct an evil, is to pass a law against it; call the legislature and pass a good stiff law, and then go home and be happy. Hear me, when I say to you this morning, that the law is just a book. You can throw it out of the window, as many of the communities do throw it out. The law is helpless, except in the house of its friends. In other words, it matters not how strong your attitude, if there is not public sentiment, if there is not a law-abiding community behind the law, then there is no law. And, that is what the Sunday school lesson is about this morning.

If the law has no strength, merely because it is printed in the book. If the law has no strength merely because the legislature passed it, if the law has no virtue merely because it is a decree of Caesar, then wherein, we may ask, is to be found the strength and its virtue? The law is a righteous conclusion of a human heart, and it has its dwelling in the human heart, in a clean human heart, and in the bosom of God, and, without cleanness and righteousness, and without God, we are without law.

We boast about our jury system, lawyers are especially prone to boast about it, when they win, but what could you do with a jury down here in Mexico, or in India, or in China, or in Japan? And, why couldn't you do anything? It is because the laws of those countries rest in the hands of their people, who cannot be jurors, and I am trying to say to you, this morning, keep as the very ark of the covenant, keep, I beg you, the law of your land. It is mighty bad, you know, when some fellow goes out here into a smokehouse and steals a ham, It is bad because I wouldn't do that particular thing. Or, when some fellow goes out here and whips his wife, that looks bad to me, or commits a forgery; oh, yes, or steals a horse. You know, when I came to Texas, which wasn't yesterday, it was a terrible thing to steal a horse. Everybody would turn loose and ride, and ride, until they got the fellow, and what they would do to him was a plenty. But, you couldn't get anybody hardly to talk about stealing a cow. That was a very different matter to stealing a horse. Now, do you get my point? Some of you fellows can be respecting some of the laws, and some of them you have been letting go. You can't do that. You must render to Caesar all the things that are Caesar's, and unto God, all the things that are God's.

MITCHELL

might not wish to allow any evidence as to the truth of the assertions, preferring to resort to the ordinary military methods of judging a case "contrary to good order and military discipline."

Many able men had offered to be my counsel but after considering all of them. I came to the conclusion that the Honorable Frank R. Reid, a republican of Illinois, was the one best suited to handle this matter. Mr. Reid represents an Illinois district in our house of representatives. He was a member of the congressional committee that investigated the aircraft situation during the previous session of congress. This committee of the house of representatives conducted the most searching and impartial investigation ever made in this country of the whole subject of aviation and our national defense. Mr. Reid is a splendid lawyer, thoroughly patriotic and not one to be easily swayed from what he considers right either by pressure from a political party, or by a dominating bureaucratic group.

Illustrious Array of Legal Talent.

Mr. Reid brought Judge Plain from Illinois, to assist him with certain legal phases of the question. An old friend of mine, the Honorable Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, a democrat, and formerly head of the Federal trade commission, assisted and advised in the preparation of the case. My father-in law, the Honorable Sidney T. Miller of Detroit, Mich., gave us his valuable opinions on matters at issue. Mr. William Webb, the secretary of the congressional committee for the revision of laws, superintended the preparation of the evidence and of the record, and was custodian of all the papers connected with the handling of the case.

Our military counsel consisted of Col. H. A. White. J. A., generally conceded to be one of the best exponents and authorities on military law in the United States army: and Lieut. Clayton Bissell, of the air service, my former aid and one of the most accomplished air officers in this country or any other, acted as technical adviser on all aeronautical matters that arose.

No better body of assistants was ever gotten together for the handling of such a case and during the more than six weeks' duration of the trial, these men worked night and day under conditions of great stress and nervous strain. My instructions to them were to bring out the evidence to establish the truth of every statement made, so as to show the actual condition of our national defense, irrespective of the finding of the court, as this we knew would be only one way.

The war department assigned to the case the ablest prosecutors they could get, but soon the general staff, not being satisfied with the way things were being handled, began to take over the prosecution. When they found they themselves did not make much headway in that respect, they obtained a member of the Judge Advocate's department in the army, and I believe, instructed him to proceed with a campaign which had nothing to do with the facts involved in the case and only tended to confuse the public on the issues. This was the old bureaucratic game of obscuring the main facts by a mass of irrelevant and inconsequential detail.

Mr. Reid, in his able manner, showed that the army bureaucracy had taken the case out of the regular military channels and had forced the president to become both the accuser and the reviewing authority — which corresponds, in civil procedure to acting as jury, prosecutor and judge.

Court Anxious for Quick Verdict.

Mr. Reid contended that the truth of the statements made was an absolute defense. On this the court refused to rule, but allowed the testimony to come in to see what it was worth. The mass and positiveness of this testimony was so overwhelming, and it came so straight and so fast, that the bureaucrats of the war department were at a loss as to what to do.

It showed beyond question that our whole national defense had been mismanaged—how there was no unity of action between the army and navy, how they had been fighting each other for years over aviation and stooping its progress; how there was no defense provided for Alaska; no adequate defense for Hawaii, not even war plans for the handling of air forces there; how foreign aircraft interests had been allowed to establish themselves within striking distance of the Panama canal.

It also showed how officers were bulldozed and coerced in order to limit or influence their testimony before congress; and how true testimony given by me before congress had been used against me by the war department bureaucrats who represented it to the president in a false manner in order to suppress facts about our national defense.

The testimony that the war department brought up to refute these things is shown in the record, which should be printed and made a public document. To add the finishing touch, some of the witnesses the war department produced refused to submit to examination by my counsel, Mr. Reid, and the court did not force them to answer.

Seeing that all of the evidence necessary to establish our contentions had been submitted and published and that continuing the proceedings would serve no useful purpose, we decided to rest the case without argument.

Sentence Aimed to Quash Discussion.

The court, tired out by its long sittings, was anxious to bring in a verdict quickly. This, however, was a difficult thing to arrive at, as the bureaucracies had asked that I be dismissed from the service. This the court felt themselves unable to do, on account of my record in our wars and my work in the development of our national defense. They finally decided to suspend me from my rank, pay and allowances for a period of five years.

My pay had always been a sore spot with some of the non-flying officers in the army. Because flying officers are exposed to as much risk in time of peace as officers of other branches are in time of war and because they cannot obtain insurance, they are allowed additional pay. This extra pay is needed to meet added expenses incident to this kind of work, and acts too as an inducement to join this branch of the service. In my case, I had been given a 75 per cent increase in my pay by act of congress for work against the enemy during the World war, therefore my monthly compensation, including my flying pay, was the highest of any officer in the army except General Pershing.

The legend seems to have grown up that I am a wealthy man; appareotly the court considered this to be a fact. However, they were greatly mistaken as I have very litle outside income and naturally have to work to support my family. Th situation in which the sentence of the court left me was this—under military regulations I could not engage in certain lines of business, even though receiving no pay from the army, and by reason of the limitations placed upon me, it would have been impossible to earn a living.

Of course the object of such a sentence was to establish a control over my movements and utterances, so as to quash all discussion and agitation for the betterment of our national defense conditions. This the general staff of the army and the general board of the navy considered was their own especial function, on which all discussion should be stifled, so as to allow them entire freedom of dictating to congress, the president and the people as to what national defense should be.

The absolute injustice and vindictive character of a sentence of this kind was apparent to all fair-minded people, and the president commuted to half-pay with all allowances incident to my rank as a Colonel. This however, it is understood, did not include my flying pay. Such a sentence would enable me to live, it was reasoned, while at the same time it would keep a string on me so that the facts about aviation and national defense would not be told. as in so doing I would face the possibility of further disciplinary action.

The palm of course was held out—if I kept quiet for a little while, that the sentence would be remitted and possibly I would be made chief of the army air service, thereby becoming merely a "yes" man to the system.

Just think of such a political performance being staged by the governing factors of the army and navy!

In a case such as mine, one of two things should have been done—either the accused should have been dismissed summarily, or acquitted. Half-measures, compromises, were worse than nothing.

Totally aside from any question of internal army discipline. it is a sad travesty of our boasted ideals and institutions when the truth affecting so vital a thing as our national defense is permitted to be controlled and suppressed.

Our quarrel with the system is not based so much on the bungling way the matter was handled after I issued the statement last September—but the great and irreparable fault consisted in not taking these matters into consideration before they reached the point where such drastic action was required to bring them to the attention of the people. Action to improve our national defense should have been taken long ago, certainly not later than 1921-22.

ELECT OFFICERS OF CHURCH HERE

First Southern Presbyterian Lays Plans For a New Building

The following officers were elected at the First Southern Presbyterian church in the Sunday morning service: Elders, J. C. Pressley, G. W. Fryer; deacons, D. M. Bernard, J. E. Spaulding, E. C. Fly, C. V. Stodgell, A. C. Dickson. They will be installed in office at the close of the Sunday service, March 7.

A total of 84 students was registered in the Sunday school yesterday morning at the church. Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor, announced that within the past two months more than 25 new members have been added to the church, and a membership of 150 is recorded at the present time.

Plans for a new building will be launched Thursday evening at a meeting at the church when a meeting of the building committee will be held. D. B. Reed is chairman of the committee which includes the following members, J. E. H. Railey, Miss Lillian Fain, Henry Wilson, Mrs. F. R. Johnson, R. C. Anderson and G. W. Fry.

Stocks Decline As Bond Activity Lags

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Hardening money rates and a sharp re-action in stock prices accounted for last week's dwindling interest in the bond market. Prices drifted aimlessly within a narro wtrading area, with investors, showing no desire to accumulate bonds in view of the attractive variety of new offerings, which exceeded $103,000,000.

Fears were expressed in certain quarters that the continued heavy volume of new financing, which has averaged about $100,000,000 weekly so far this year, might place too great a strain on the market. With one or two exceptions, however, al lissues have been promptly over subscribed and the only effect has been a moderate slackening of activity in listed bonds.

Foreign business again forged into prominence last week after being subordinate to the pressing needs of domestic enterprises. The three major bon dofferings of the week were in this fild, including $40,000,000 for the Canadian government, $20,000,000 for the Italian public utility credit institute and $15,000,000 for the consolidated municipalities of Germany.

You Won't Get a Bill From Us Today

No bills from Kimberlin's today or any other day. This is the store of the thrifty, who pay as they go and by paying cash get more value, quality and style.

Why don't you start this month paying cash for all your clothes? You get more for your money, for a cash store can operate for less.

Stop the "Charge It" habit. It means bills and paying for more than you get. There is some convenience; but wouldn't you rather get better clothes and less convenience?

SUREST THING!

The first signs of spring:

The rollocking Mr. Pingus Pizzola, swathed in a rubber coat, jockey cap astop bullet-like dome, swearing vociferously because of the temperature registered at Spud orchard, while wee Pete Turgeon smilingly tones 'em over to Charlie Schroyer and Ripper Wheeler does a little side-arm acrobatics on his own hook.

That's the card today. Spring hath arriv!

This young Schroyer is a sweet atching prospect, if you would believe Walt Golvin. Walter scouted the 1925 Tyler backston a week or so last summer. Schroyer, incidently, was the East Texas loop's leading receiver.

LIKE PHEMALE MIND

Peculiar more or less how quickly public opinion changes. Two weeks ago doubtless no close Wichita Falls follower of the mat game would concede there is a wrestler today at his weight who can beat Matty Matsuda, the world's welterweight champion. Friday, Saturday and Sunday we were informed by no less than a dozen or so wrestling bugs that Ted Waters may turn the trick.

Waters breezed in, displayed more speed Thursday than has been witnessed on a local mat since resumption of the game in Wichita Falls last year, beat Lee Myers handily, and then challenged the winner of the Matsuda-Gorman match. Matty won. He meets Waters next Thursday here although desirous of returning to El Paso where he can earn three or four times as much on a match.

The Jap's only reason for staying and taking on Waters, he says, is because it's been talked about here and there he's afraid to risk it with Ted.

Our Helen Captures Duke of Connaught Gold Tennis Trophy

MONTE CARLO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Miss Helen Wills, the American tennis champion, has won two victories in the Monte Carlo tournament. In the finals of the women's single today she defeated Senorita de Valrez, the Spanish champion, 6-2, 6-3, thereby winning the Duke of Connaught's gold cup, which on first seeing it, she had said she would very much like to win.

Later, paired with M'lle Contoslavos she won from Senorita De Alvarez and Didi Vlatow in the finals of the women's open doubles, 6-3, 8-6.

Suzanne Lenglen, in what will probably be her last appearance on the tennis courts until Wimbledon, paired with M'lle Vlastow, won from Mrs. Satterhwaite and Miss Eilree Bennett of England in the finals for the Beaumont cup, 6-4, 8-6.

"Suzanne had better quit," was the verdict of the majority of the spectators, who watched the once superb French player struggle through two hard sets, which ordinarily she could have won handily, 6-0, 6-0. M'lle Lenglen said after the match that she would not even play for the cup of nations at Mentone.

Hagen Eight Up In 36 Holes on Jones

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, representing the Professional Golfers association, was eight up on Bobby Jones, national amateur champion, for the first 36 holes of their match over Whitefield estates course here today.

The contest here was the start of a 72-hole encounter. In the morning Hagen was two up at the end of the first nine. At the end of 18 holes he was three up. Both players were rather unsteady but the professional established his lead through superior putting on the greens. Hagen's score of 71 was par for the course. Jones completed the morning round with a card of 75. The players were repeatedly off the fairway with their tee shots and neither had shown his usual from at the close of the first 18 holes. During the afternoon round Hagen steadied and gained five more holes on his Atlanta opponent.

On March 7, they will meet for the final 36 holes of the contest over the Pasadena course at Saint Petersburg.

No demonstration of any kind was held, the report said. No reason was given for calling off the proposed demonstration.

FROGS' VICTORY OVER PORKERS RUINED RECORD

Hogs Hadn't Lost Until Last Game of Conference Scramble

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Texas Christian university's spectacular 30-15 victory on Saturday over the Arkansas Razorbacks featured the closing week of southwest conference basketball. The win of Coach Matty Bell's lads marred the perfect standing of the champion Razorbacks, and in large measure compensated Coach Bell for a rather disappointing season.

Although he was able to score but 12 points in the two games against TCU, Captain Rolla Adams of the Razorbacks, all-conference forward, led the conference in scoring with 111 points, just ahead of his team mate Elbert Pickel, all-conference center, who counted 108 points.

Pickel's great play enabled the Razorbacks conquer TCU Friday, 24-23, the great Arkansas center registering 14 points, while Adams counted but five. Pickel topped Adams by three points, when the two started Saturday's tussle, but Pickel was able to score but one point Saturday, and Adams counted seven to wrest from Pickel high scoring points won in 1925 by Pickel

Adams Top Scorer.

Adams tossed 48 field goals and 15 free throws to show the way conference sharpshooters; while Pickel piled up 45 field goals and 18 free goals.

The season record of each team follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	Opts
Arkansas	11	1	.917	350	210
S. M. U.	8	4	.667	246	203
T C U	7	5	.583	286	221
Tex Univer.	6	6	.500	271	262
Baylor	6	7	.417	243	263
Tex A and M	4	8	.333	297	364
Rice	1	11	.080	233	361

Parish, regarded as a sub most of the season, was the stellar performer of TCU's dope-upsetting victory of Saturday over the Razorbacks. Parish was tossing them in from the middle of the floor, and the Razorbacks defense could not cope with him. He found the basket five times from the field of play. Frank Cantrell, who has been an "in and outer" all season was right Saturday, contributing nine points.

Coach Bell and his men may well derive gratification from the fact TCU was the only team to take the Razorbacks for a cleaning during the '26 campaign.

Steers and Ponies Flare Up.

Coach Jimmy St. Clair's SMU Mustangs ended a great season Saturday night by trouncing the Baylor baby Bears 24-12 at Waco. Allison, Mustang pivot man, continued his remarkable playing.

Coach "Doc" Stewart's Texas university Longhorns also ended the season in gratifying fashion by defeating the Texas Aggies 62-19 on the Aggies home court—one of the most decisive reverses ever suffred by an Aggi court combination at the hands of their arch rivals, the Longhorns with the man for man defense of the Longhorns functioning, the Aggies were outclassed all the way, Captain Esqquivel, Joe King, and Baldwin starred for the victors.

Critics were agreed that at close of the season the Mustangs, Longhorns and TCU Horned Toads were but little inferior to the Arkansas Razorbacks, whose extraordinary early season form carried them through.

TEDDY WATERS HOISTING A WRESTLING PARTNER ON HIGH.

...the BROWN of SOUTH

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Central Press Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28. Jack Lelivelt's appearance in the American Association as manager of the Milwaukee team will be welcomed by those A. A. fans who were watching things in that circuit a decade or so ago, for back in 1915 Jack joined that league and played with Kansas City, Louisville and Minneapolis over a period of several campaigns.

And these fans remember how he loved to sock that ball!

It was Lelivelt's ability to hit the ball on the nose that sent him up to the Athletics from the Lake Linden, Mich., club at the start of his career.

Connie Mack sent him back to Reading in the Tri-State League and his stick work there over three seasons earned him a berth with Washington.

Griff played him in the outfield and at first. Jack played a fair game at both places but it mattered not where he played, he could hit the ball.

That was before the days of the rabbit ball and the ban on all trick pitching. A batter had to pick one, lean on it and take his chances.

But Jack's lack of speed hurt and finally the Senators sent him back to the minors. Within a few weeks his hitting caused the Yankees to bring him back to the big tent once more.

In mid season 1913 the Cleveland club pulled one of the worst "bone" trades in its history by permitting Roger Peckinpaugh to slip away to New York. Lelivelt was the player received for him. What Peckinpaugh accomplished for the Yanks is well known. Lelivelt won much popularity at Cleveland with his timely hitting and personality, but his legs wouldn't do their stuff so the Indian bosses let him go to the A. A.

Then he drifted to the Western League and joined the ranks of the managers. Just once in isx years did he fail to lead his team into first division. In 1923 he not only led the Tulsa club to the flag but met the championship Mobile club of the Southern League and defeated that outfit. This after Mobile had trounced Fort Worth of the Texas League, so that Jack copped the honors of three circuits.

The defeat of Gerald Patterson and John B. Hawkes in the final round of the Victorian tennis championships in Australia marked the first time that Patterson failed to win the doubles crown in all the years that he competed for it.

It also brought to an end the four year reign of the team, marking its first setback in Australian tournament play. Tennis fans over here will miss them this year.

LaCoste Heralded As Next Net Champ On Recent Showing

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Framed in the back ground of France's sensational though losing fight to topple America from the international tennis penacle, Rene LaCoste stood forth today as a potential world's champion, if not already within the realm of consideration for the honor held so long by William T. Tilden.

Critics here are of the opinion that LaCoste's straight set victory over Tilden and Vincent Richards may be accepted as indicating that the 22-year old Wimbledon champion has earned a place as outstanding contender for international number one ranking.

LaCoste's victory over the number one and number three players were amazing in the ease and decisiveness with which he won, particularly in view of the fact that he never had played on the seventh regiment armory courts. It was believed that the strangeness of playing on the boards, together with the peculiar lighting conditions, would bother him.

WICHITA FALLS POLOISTS WIN

The Wichita Falls polo club defeated Fort Sill Sunday afternoon over the home field in a fast encounter, 11 to 3.

The general all-around play of Featherston, Jay and Robbins featured the battle. However, there wasn't a man on the field who did not wage a hard and speedy game.

The victory was marred by an accident to Strangelr, Horace Robbins' valuable pony, who broke a leg.

The contest got away to a hard start with the teams scrapping it out nip and tuck for three chukkers, but from the fourth on the horsemanship and scoring ability of Featherston, Robbins and White ably abetted by players who took turns at the other position, forged the domestic outfit steadily to the front.

Walter Pyron of Houston who divided the officiating with Col. Wiler, declared the game one of the finest he has witnessed.

Hawkshaw Morgan Treks To Wellington For Much Needed (?) Vacation, Back Wednesday

Heh, heh, hed. Who said it won't be long?

The advance guard of J. Alvin Gardner's Spudder battalion is carded for initial spring calesthenics today out at the orchard.

Player- Manager Fred Brainard, infielder, who probably will work at the keystone; Ping Bodie, the pudgy, nonetheless, illustrious outer gardner; Pete Turgeon, the bombastic mite of the Spud inner works; Ripper Wheeler, veteran starboard chunker, who expects to stage a comeback on the hilltop this year; and Charley Schroyer, recruit catcher from Tyler, plan to don sweat shirts, the cleated hoof apparel and start the old limbering up stuff.

Others og the gang will be trickling in little by little this week.

Hawkshaw Eulas Morgan, the altitudious right-handflinger who checks off George Hodgins' police force today along with the well-known Officer Pizzola, won't start to work again until Wednesday. The canny sleuth is vacationing today and tomorrow in the metropolis of Wellington, the Panhandle city made famous by the Morgan brothers, Eulas, Ira and squad.

Incidently, Bert Hadley, gentleman of color imported last year from Mineral Wells by R. O. Harvey, will be back on the job today in the official capacity of rubber, trainer and custodian of the club house. Sore muscles and aching joints which are sure to be registered in the anatomies of such decrepit old men as, for instances, Mr. Bodie, will be ironed out by Bert.

Rest of the batterymen are expected on hand Friday. The entire squad is to sally forth March 10.

Prominent Lawyers Will Address Bar

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Three men of national prominence have accepted invitations to address the meeting of the bar associations of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas at Texarkana April 23-24. The Texas bar association board of directors here perfected plans for the tri-state meeting.

Chester I. Long, president of the American bar association, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, author and former United States senator are to speak.

NEGROES TO FACE TRIAL

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Forrest and S. A. Robinson, negro brothers will go on trial here Monday morning on charges of murder in connection with the slaying of Motorcycle Officer C. B. Isbel here a few weeks ago. The negroes will plead guilty, attorneys appointed to represent them said tonight.

Sealy Funeral To Be Held Saturday

GALVESTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Funeral services for John Sealy, financier and philanthropist probably will be held here next Saturday at the Trinity Episcopal church with Right Rev. Raimundo De Ovles, rector of the church.

The body of Mr. Sealy, who died at Nuelly, France, Feb. 19, is being brought to America on the liner Berrengaria, due to arrive at New York Tuesday or Wednesday. The private car of F. G. Pettibone, vice president and general manager of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railway, departed last week for New York to bring the body and the funeral party to Galveston.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Miss Edith Mearon was killed by the explosion of chemicals with which she was experimenting.

COTTON AND ITS ACREAGE

FROM the Gulf of Mexico to the foothills of the Rockies, wise men are telling the farmers to keep down the acreage planted to cotton this year. They are telling the farmers to raise more feed on more acres for the hogs and poultry and sheep. They are telling the farmers the poultry crop of the United States in 1924 brought more money than the entire crude oil output or the sales of all cattle in the country. They are telling the farmers that poultry brought to those interested in the industry, more than one billion dollars. They are telling the farmers, despite this important showing, that in Texas, farmers are prone to look on poultry as a small industry. They are telling the farmers to stand for a diversified and intensive farming program in every county of the 250.

R. Q. Lee, of Eastland county, is the president of the West Texas chamber of commerce. He is one of the foremost business men of West Texas. He has been a winner as a farmer, an oil producer, a banker and a general developer of the resources of his section of the state. He has made his fourth campaign in West Texas for the diversified and intensive farming program. He has traveled 10,000 miles and has made a hundred speeches in farming sections.

He says that reports have reached him that the cotton acrreage of the south in 1926 will exceed that of 1925. Should the yield per acre equal that of 1924, he says there will be a crop of 18,000,000 bales, a price of 8c per pound and poverty in the south. He would have all Texas farmers avoid this by raising food and feed. There are farmers in West Texas, a limited number, who made more money in 1925 with sweet potatoes and syrup, that is more per acre, than their neighbors who produced cotton alone.

Speaking of intensified farming, 36 men in Smith county in 1924 produced in excess of two bales per acre. This is the reason why intensive cultivation pays great dividends. In other words, intensive cultivation produces more and better cotton on fewer acres and the farmer who adopts the program plants food for his table and feed stuffs for his live stock and poultry. An expert authority on the subject of more cotton on fewer acres, says that when John McFarland produced two bales of cotton to an acre in the first contest in 1924, it created a state wide sensation, but in 1925, twenty-eight men surpassed the McFarland record and five farmers raised crops of three bales an acre.

Furthermore, all of this was on unirrigated land. Now the experts say that instead of the weak fiber short staple cotton, the demand is for farmers to produce staple of from one to one and one-eighth inches. These experts also say that Texas' farmers are learning the value of a winter top crop of Canada field peas to build up their soil winter rye, winter barley, oats and and resore the humus in which Texas land is sadly deficient. They say this top crop also serves to make the land a sponge to absorb the winter rains instead of allowing the water to drain off and be wasted.

Colonel Clarence Ousley, one of the newspaper intellectuals of the south, is campaigning in the farming districts of Texas, urging farmers to co-operate in raising sufficient food and feed for home needs so that cotton returns could be directed toward payment of debts and purchase of goods. In a recent address he said:

"I don't know how much you sent out for food and feed last year, but due proportion of $200,000,000 sent to the corn belt states of the west was yours. If farmers do not get more from the ground than they put into it, there is no residue to buy merchandise and pay debts. That is why a group of prominent business men and bankers in Texas formed the Safe Farm Association."

Colonel Ousley addressed his remarks to a large audience of farmers and merchants in Lamar county. In closing, this widely quoted authority on agriculture matters said, "If we produce a crop equal to the crop of 1925, cotton will be selling at nearer 10c than 17 1-2c, today's quotation for October cotton. Farmers of this section have told me today that the average price of 17 1-2c on average yield last five years will not cover cost, and it seems a pertinent question for bankers and merchants of Paris to inquire how such a situation affects business in the fall of 1926 and spring of 1927. The same situation applys to most other sections."

And then he made his appeal for the raising of sufficient food and feed for home needs, for more bales as well as more sales on fewer acres. He reminded the farmers that those who cultivate the soil in Texas sent $200,000,000 to the corn belt states last year for their corn supplies, that 90 per cent of the canned goods used in Texas are shipped in, and 60 per cent of the farms in Texas are without home gardens.

Also, a reminder that while Texas cotton acreage increased by 6,000,000 acres in the last fourteen years, there has been no increase in acreage planted in feed crops, despite the opening up of western Texas ranches for crop planting. Now why shouldn't a Texas farm produce its own food stuffs and feed stuffs?

PRIVATE POLICE FORCES

NO MATTER how many men or how much equipment a city police force might have they would be of little avail in keeping out criminals if they were not always in good condition and alert.

The fact that their business is being policemen, that they are equipped naturally and trained afterward for the job will not daunt the marauders if they are not always on police duty.

The city in which you dwell—the tight little city you call your body, is always menaced by marauders—disease germs of many sorts, and weaknesses of all kinds which lay hold of you because of your over indulgence.

Against the disease germs you have an excellent police force in the form of white corpuscles, which in a healthy body will fall on alien germs as a garrison will fall on an invading enemy and drive them out.

The man in good condition does not get contagious diseases except under unusual conditions.

His private police force takes care of that.

If the police force is not on the job, if it is allowed to fall into neglect he is likely to get every contagion that comes along, as well as to contract many deadly diseases, such as pneumonia, which are not strictly-speaking contagious.

Also he can destroy his digestion by excesses in eating and drinking, again breaking down the police force maintained in his stomach and bowels.

There are still maladies such as cancer which we know not how to prevent, and as to whose cure, after the first stages, we are still uncertain.

But by far the greater number of the enemies of the human body can be kept out by the private police force.

This is particularly true of what we call colds, which are varying forms of infection, each one of which weakens the resistance to other diseases, as well as leaving marks on the system on its own account.

By careful living, eating the right sort of food and never too much of any food, by abundant exercise and plenty of fresh air, your police force can be kept up at top efficiency.

When you are what you call well a cold is but a brief visitor. The little policemen get rid of it in short order.

When you are run down the cold hangs on, travels from the nose or throat to the bronchial tubes, and perhaps from there to the lungs, leaving you in a receptive state for pneumonia or consumption.

In winter when snow or rain keeps you indoors, the police force must be kept on the job by feeding it plenty of fresh air night and day, and never clogging the system with rich or superabundant food.

Over exercising is as bad as no exercise at all. But a moderate amount of it, such as any doctor or athletic director will prescribe will keep the policemen ready for duty, and they can be relied on to keep the system in such shape that the raiding microbes will find it extremely difficult to get a foothold in it.

MISSISSIPPI HAS SPOKEN

AND now the lawmakers of Mississippi have spoken. They have passed an anti evolution bill. They have ruled that it is illegal to teach any theory that man ascended or decended from a lower order of animal.

The vote in the senate was 29 to 16.

It is impossible to legislate the life out of an idea or an ideal. Now all the boys and girls in old Mississippi, or rather those who thirst for knowledge, false or true, will invest their change in the purchase of books dealing with the evolution theory.

THE TOONERVILLE TROLLEY THAT MEETS ALL THE TRAINS — 1

THE GOLDEN COCOON
By RUTH CROSS

SYNOPSIS

Gregory Cochran, lawyer and political leader, is sheltering in his mother's home Molly Shannon, university student, whom he rescued from the river, when, wandering aimlessly at night, she plunged in. Molly had become despondent when deserted by her fiance, Stephen Renfro, efficiency expert, who married the daughter of "rich old Jim Dilworth." Cochran, proving a true friend, is gradually winning Molly's confidence and she is relating her sorrows to him.

She was magnificent indeed. She was faultless, consummate—in every detail from the exquisite waves of silver drawn from brow to ears, the web of creamy old lace at throat and wrists, to the hem of her lustrous black silk. Her magnificence consisted, though, not in her clothes; neither in her coiffure nor in the perfection of her grooming. Molly saw that at once, even while she shriveled into nothingness in comparison. No, she was innately and predestinedly magnificent. It was in the very way she stood on the threshold—the quintessence of poise, the last word in presence. One had not far to seek where her son came by his sureness of motion, his "serene as a god above a storm."

To the latter she addressed herself, without noting, apparently, that there was anyone else in the room, "Greg, dear the telephone is really getting too much for me, and, besides, you know you're due in the court-room at eleven....."

"Yes, mother, I'm just coming. But—while you're here, I want you to meet Miss Shannon...." He stepped a little to one side that there might be no further supposition of Molly's not being seen. "Miss Shannon, my mother."

After a barely perceptible pause, the older woman bowed—slightly. She was looking rather over Molly than at her, and she did not advance a step farther into the room.

Molly bowed also—in silence.

"Miss Shannon, by the way, is going back to school on Monday," he added, unperturbed by his mother's evident disapproval of Molly and all that had to do with her. "We've just agreed it's the best possible thing." He turned to Molly with a humorous question in his eyes. "We have agreed, haven't we?"

"At least you have," she answered somberly.

"It comes to the same. And, mother—I want you to ask Miss Shannon to have dinner with us as soon as she feels up to it—say tomorrow evening or the evening after....."

There was a second pause, more portentous than the first. In the air was a measuring of swords. Molly felt it—over her head—as plainly as though she heard the clank of steel—why, she asked herself, dully resentful, should they be crossing swords over her? She didn't want to have dinner with them. She didn't want anything—but to be left alone.

At last Sarah Cochran said slowly but with meticulous courtesy, "We shall be glad to have Miss Shannon any time she cares to come, I'm sure." Her eyes were fixed, not on the prospective guest, but on her son.

CHAPTER XVIII

Stephen Renfro's marriage was still a nine days' wonder, on everybody's lips, at the reassembled university. Wherever Molly went she knew that his name was whispered. Curious, speculative, no doubt pitying glances were exchanged behind her back. Occasionally some one more inquisitive—or less considerate—than the rest, spoke of him to her. Here and there a darker suspicion raised its head, a suspicion never lacking where a woman has been scorned and thrown aside. There was Miss Brian too. She never said anything, but her very existence was a silent reminder, an unintentional reproach.

All that did not matter so much—once the first dreadful step was taken. Molly soon found she was incased in a practically seamless armor of apathy and indifference, which turned aside each recurring blow. She held the friendly and the curious alike at arm's length, went her way and asked nothing of anybody but to be let alone. The truth was, one poison had killed another.

To keep moving was her only salvation. Across her tiny room she went continuously back and forth while she conned her lessons or in the corridor moved up and down, up and down, to the rhythm of French verbs and Latin meters. Every hour that she could spare she was out of doors, walking feverishly, driven by her own particular allotment of uries. She covered every foot of road and trail and open country within reach again and again; walked until she was so spent she could not choose but lie quietly at night, even if she did not sleep. More often than not, when Gregory Cochran was in town, he would drop by the dormitory after the study hour, and the two of them would walk around and around the "perip" until bedtime—Molly's bedtime, which was early. Frequently not a word was spoken. He was notably the least talkative man in the state.

Mrs. Parker knew nothing of what had taken place after Molly left her house that August evening save what Cochran saw fit to tell her of an "accident in the street. He did not mince words particularlyas to her own remissness in letting the girl go out alone—under the circumstances. This weighed but lightly, however, on Mrs. Parker's richoceting spirits. Assured that her protege was in no serious danger—though she could not be moved for some weeks—her elastically hopeful old mind leaped at once to the gratifying conclusion that the "hand of the Lord" was in it. Before Gregory Cochran's broad and well-tailored back was fairly turned on the boarding-house he was a marked man.

As months passed and Cochran's kindly oversight of Molly's fate showed no signs of falling off, elation waxed to such triumphal intensity that she could not refrain from some hint of her prophetic imaginings—with the hope, no doubt, of having them confirmed. "Just wait 'til Stephen Renfro sees you in the Governor's mansion!" she exulted openly one day, when Molly had dropped in for a little kitchen visit. The visits were briefer and farther apart of late. They seemed not to have so much to talk about. "I reckon that'll make him sit up and take notice!"

Molly looked at her for some moments in blank and unenlightened silence. Her mind groped vainly for any intelligible point of contact. She had, of course, heard Gregory Cochran named in connection with the governorship, but no relation between that fact and herself had ever occurred to her. It did not occur to her now.

"Please," she concluded earnestly, "you must not only never say such a thing again; you mustn't even think of it. I'm no more to him than a half-drowned kitten he's pulled out of a slimy pond and warmed back to life. He's as impersonal as—as God."

Mrs. Parker shook her head, fondly unconvinced, but she agreed straightway to keep her own counsel, and Molly passed on to the business which had brought her over. She had saved fifteen dollars toward repaying the money she owed. "I wish it were the whole seventy-five," she said, opening her handbag and taking out the bills. "I know how much you need it."

The other pushed the money back across the table with floury hands, mumbling absently that she was not to bother her head about it. Far removed from such gross and earthy matters, she was raptly envisaging Molly in a trailing velvet gown, hair done high, and jewels at her throat, holding grand levee in the Governor's mansion. "You don't owe me, nohow," she added, still from the depths of her trance.

Molly stared. "What do you mean—I don't owe it to you?" she demanded.

The fairy godmother raced back from the Governor's ball, minus her coach and four, and arrived somewhat panicky and out of breath. "Why," she stammered, "I wasn't thinkin'.."

"If I don't owe it to you," Molly persisted, not taking her eyes for an instant off the scared old face, "to whom do I owe it?"

"Oh, shucks! I wasn't payin' any attention to what I was saying," Mrs. Parker poohpooed manfully. "Of course you owe it to....."

"To whom do I owe it?" Molly repeated, her voice chilling with the certainty of the truth.

To Work for Boys

CLARENDON, Feb. 27.—At the Panhandle Boy Scout Council convention held in Amarillo this week, Clarendon has eight men interested in the work as representatives. Immediately upon their return a meeting was called by the local council for the Boy Scout movement in Clarendon at the Queen theatre. Chairman Paul Morgan took the initintive in the discussion of plans for more interest in Boy Scout work in Clarendon, and for greater interest on the part of the parents of the community.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE FALL RIVER LINE

All fellows have their memories,
And, fellows, I have mine.
I'd like to sing a ditty, please,
To the old Fall River Line.
I've been out west, I've been down east,
I've been across the foam,
To half a dozen lands at least
That I can call my home.
But now and then a lump I've found,
A lump here in my throat—
I hear her coming up the Sound,
The old Fall River boat.

I may be underneath the stars
Upon the cactus plain,
Or hanging 'round Chihuahua's bars,
Or riding through the rain.
But now and then I hear whoo-oo,
Far off and sweet and long;
I don't know what sounds good to you,
But, fellows, there's a song!
I hear the paddles whack the sea,
I watch the windows shine,
And I'm aboard in memory
The old Fall River Line.

We stood upon the after-deck
And saw the twilight fade,
I fixed her fur around her neck,
"It's chilly, I'm afraid;"
And in my throat I felt the lump
That seldom goes away,
I heard the engine thump-thump-thump,
I heard the splash of spray,
And yet the engine didn't pound
Like this fool heart of mine
The night we watched the moonlit Sound
On the old Fall River Line.

Well, that was long, long, long ago,
And yet among the hills,
Amid the winter's ice and snow,
The summer's whip-poor-wills,
A steamer floats upon the mist,
A steamer gold and white,
I see a face that once I kissed
One unforgotten night.
All fellows have their memories,
And, fellows, I have mine,
In dreams I sail the moonlit seas
On the old Fall River Line.

DINNER STORIES

It was a thrilling story that McGregor had to tell.

"I had abandoned all hope,' he said. "As I sank for the third time my past life seemed to rise before me in a series of grim, realistic pictures."

A murmur of sympathy rolled from the lips of listening friends; but just as McGregor was preparing to resume McTavish interrupted him sharply and hopefully "And did you happen to notice," he asked, "a picture of me lending you a fiver in the autumn of 1919?"

The bride was telling her friends that Uncle George had promised to furnish her kitchen with all necessary equipment—a surprise because Uncle George was notoriously "close." Just as she had finished dilating on his unexpected generosity, a small box arrived. Upon opening it she wound a can-opener to which was attached a card reading: "I am sure this will be all the equipment you will find necessarny in your kitchen. Uncle George."

This story is related by a person connected with the White House.

One Sunday after the president had returned from church, where he had gone alone, Mrs. Coolidge inquired:

"Was the sermon good"

"Yes," he answered.

"What was it about?"

"Sin."

"What did the minister say?"

"He was against it."

Moral: Never Look Around.

I was just about to kiss
(Only once!) a sweet young miss.
I looked around
And darn the luck!
There stood her dad!

So I scampered out of sight,
And I watched until the light
Had gone out;
Then the girlie sneaked out, too,
And we thought we'd bill and coo
Without doubt.

THE MAN WHO TRIED TO WRITE A LETTER AT HOME
(Conceived By Dwight Hilbert.)

The Grand Slam Manufacturing Co,
For dinner tomorrow,
1205 Blankburough Street I'm busy,
Gentlemen:—don't bother me.

Your new hat of the seventh inst, received, and will say great guns shut up the baby for a minute. Your letter re: this infernal racket received the seventh, hang it all! If you will communicate with that howling kid! and get in touch with out branch manager I feel sure that the hat looks good on you, dear.

If you cannot supply our order for seven gross crying babies please refer to my wife's mother. Kindly advise and don't slam door if goods are not shipped via meat and potatoes for dinner. I feel certain that this matter can be given a sound thrashing! If you will send memorandum of order I will go crazy in another minute! Our vice president and general manager stated that you cannot go to the movies!

Feeling sure that this manner can be satisfactorily taken to the woodshed, I remain,

Yours new hat, dear,
A. J.

Ye gods. my fountain pen's dry!

Just As You Say

Hotel Clerk: "But suppose you're not awake when your train leaves!"

Irate Guest: "I want you to call me, idot!"

Hotel Clerk: "Very well, Mr. Idot."
—Anthony Laciato.

IN KLASS AT KRAZY KOLLEGE
(Conducted By Gertrude.)

Teacher: "I must ask Mr. D'Ossh to quit fid-getting. Fidgest are contagious—hence the expression to give a person the fidgets. Try to fix your thoughts on 'task' and 'hyphen' Mr. D'Ossh, for the sake of the folks home in England."

"Hi'm sorry Hi'm squirming round like a fish,
And though Hi know it makes you nervous,
Hi beg of you please not task me to stop
For hyphen itch that demands constant service!"

Teacher: "Mr. Peake will kindly put aside that wad of gum and try 'licorice.'"

Chessy Peake:

"Herman L. Hiccup felt for the gin
And swallowed a pint of green ink—
'Sinsh I bawlled that boo'legger out,'
he said,
'The licorice it'l better, I think!"
—Sidney Olmstead.

KRAZY KINDERGARTEN,
(Conducted By Gertrude Jr.)

Teacher: "Why are you standing up on your feet, Sing, when everybody else is sitting down ware they belong? Tell us with 'nicety.'"

Sing Low:

"I was mutch badee boy liss morning.
And got spanked on tailee my shirtee.
So now I must alee time standee
Cause wen nicety I hurtee.'

Teacher: "Juno deet, flavor us with 'mulatto.'"

Juno Him:

"When my brother was ill he got jellies and fruits
And he winked and felt perfeckly royal
But its all diffrent now, he gets better
We jest give mulatto castor oil!"

Experienced.

Employer: "Have you ever done any night work!"

Applicant: "Yes, sir; I courted for two years."
—W. J. Fothman.

Heyman Group Wins in Contest

A membership contest which has been conducted in the Young Married People's Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, south, closed Sunday with the side led by Mrs. J. A. Heyman winning over that led by Mrs. Merle Hooper. The winners will be entertained with a party given by the losers in the near futura. Miss Annie Laurie Long is teacher of the class. Roy Carter is president.

STOCK SHOW TO DRAW MANY.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Record breaking attendance at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show which will open next Friday night, March 5, would be a strong indication that Texas is to enjoy a prosperous 1926. This is the belief of exposition officials, agricultural leaders and livestock breeders.

More Truth Than Poetry

OUR END OF IT

We side with the strikers or side with the boss
  According to where we may stand,
We learnedly talk of industrial loss
  And of capital's cold crushing hand.
They let us talk on just as long as we like
  When they close down the mines or the mills,
For they know that as soon as they've settled the strike
  We will step in and settle the bills.

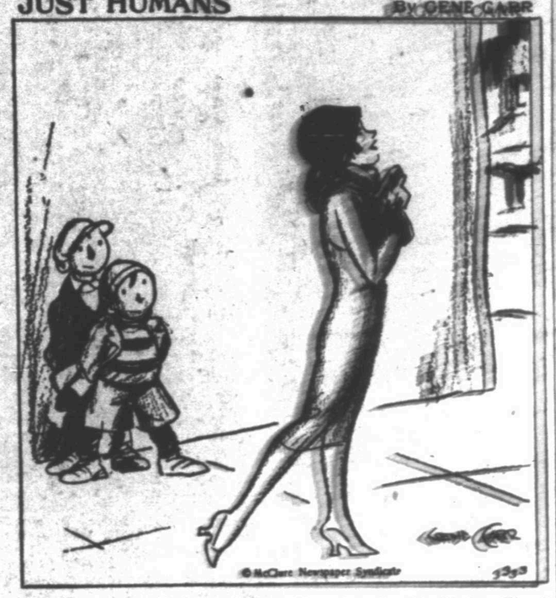

Every time they decide it's surrender or fight,
  And go in for a war to end war
We make up our minds as to which may be right
  And cheer for the crowd we are for.
And when it is over and peace is declared
  And the calm trend of trade is renewed,
The public of curse is by that time prepared
  To pay for more fuel or food.

Every time there's a strike it is settled for good,
  In all the papers we read
That the bosses and men want it well understood
  That at last they are fully agreed.
Then after a while some one raises a row—
  A strike is declared over night,
And we find by and by we're expected somhow
  To pay the full cost of the fight.

We are never quite sure who will come out ahead
  While these forces of business contend,
We only can wail, with foreboding and dread
  Till the trouble has come to an end.
But though who the winner will be the last
  Is exceedingly hard to predict,
Why witness the fortunes of battle aghast,
  For we know who is going to get licked!

Newspaper Reporters to Cover Murder Hearing in Mississippi.

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Regardless of a ruling made yesterday by Circuit Judge Walter A. White prohibiting the publication in any newspaper circulating in Hancock county of testimonoy or purported testimony in the trial of Jess E. Favre, charged with murder that is not censored by court officials, several representatives of newspapers involved were prepared tonight to "cover" the hearing. They intend to write the nnews as they would have done had the judge failed to threaten contempt proceedings with jail sntences for the violators.

A FORTUNE FOR NEEDY

Wealthy Britisher Gives His Money To Uplift Work

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Sir Henry Lunn, prominent layman and editor in the Protestant church in England, who amassed a fortune after retiring as a medical missionary in India, has put into practice his belief that surplus wealth acquired by big business men should be evoted to the betterment of mankind. The world alliance for international friendship through the churches today announced that he had turned over most of his vast properties to trustees who will administer the revenue for religious and social work, including international peace.

100 Million Liberty 3's Are Called In WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP) An offer to purchase $100,000,000 of third liberty loan bonds direct from holders was announced today by Secretary Mellon in connection with the program for the regular quarterly financing operations of the government.

This is the second time the government will deal directly with holders of its securities, the treasury announcing that the first attempt in the last quarter had proved successful. Brokers will be eliminated in the proposed transaction, the bond owners dealing with the government through authorized banks or dealers.

BOOTLEGGER IS CAPTURED

Chicago Man Caught When Police Raid His Apartment.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Thomas L. Hubbard, aleged bootlegger and robber, was captured tonight after the police broke down the doors of a West Side building where he had barricaded himself and opened fire on them. The police answered a complaint of a man who said Hubbard had held him up and Hubbard opened fire when the officers tried to enter the building. They used tear bombs to rout Hubbard and captured him when his pistol jammed.

TO BLAZE AIR ROUTE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Manned almost completely by volunteers from the commissioned and enlisted rolls of the naval reserve, the polar exploration expedition headed by L. T. Commander Richard E. Byrd will sail from New York late in March aboard the shipping board steamer Chantiers, hoping to blaze an air route to the north pole itself, sweep over wide areas never before visited by man, and be back home again before mid-summer.

START SCIENCE FUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP) The National Academy of Sciences announced today that its effort to start a fund to encourage scientific research throughout the country had been endorsed by thirty university presidents, who "find that many factors are tending to stifle the growth of undamental scientific investigation."

Lack of opportunity for research rather than a shortage of skilled investigators was held to be the chief obstacle to development.

SULPHUR HEAD IS DEAD

GALVESTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Funeral services for Eric O. Kamm, local manager of the Texas Gulf Sulphur company and prominent in civic circles here, who died Saturday at Gulf, Texas, were held this afternoon from the residence, with Rev Raimundo De Ovies, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiating. Interment was in the Galveston Memorial Park at Hitchcock.

COLLEGE IS CLOSED

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Feb. 28.—(AP)—St. Josephs college, where young women seek education, has been closed by presidential mandate. An asylum for children attached to the same institution, also has been shut down, as well as the home of the Sisters of Charity, Servants of Mary, who attend the sick and feeble without pay.

FIRE CREDITS GIVEN

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Maximum credit of 15 per cent of final rate of insurance because of good fire records during the past three years was given by the fire insurance commission Saturday to Strawn, San Marcos, New Boston, Elgin, Eddy, Brownsville, and Albany.

GRAND JURY TO MEET

CLEBELAND, Ohio, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A second session of the federal grand jury investigating the alleged nation-wide bootleg alcohol conspiracy is expected to be called soon after the first jury recesses. The second session will be called, it was indicated tonight, to indict persons whom the jurors do not have sufficient evidence to indict now.

2 KILLED BY TRAIN

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Mildred Graham, 19, and Everett Dowell 17, were instantly killed when a Wabash train struck them as they were crossing a high trestle half a mile west of the Chillicothe depot today.

A strong wind prevented them from hearing the approaching train.

49 Butlers Aren't Enough; SOS Please

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—"If you'll lend me a couple of butlers for Saturday night, I'll lend you two or three for your party on Tuesday."

This has been a not uncommon conversation between two society matrons, for the practice of borrowing butlers for special occasions has sprung up this season.

Florenz Zeigfeld, J. J. O'Brien and Joseph Riter are among those who loaned Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury eight butlers for her party last night. Mrs. Stotesbury's staff of servants numbers 49, but she professed to be short of butlers and had to send out the "S. O. S."

LET'S HONOR THE HEN

Poultry Producers to Observe National Egg Day On May 1.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Poultry producers and allied industries throughout the United States are asked, in a proclamation issued today by the National Poultry council through President Harry R. Lewis of East Greenwich, R. I., who has designated May 1, as national egg day to "unite in a national program to pay homage to the American hen.

VERNON HOLDS WCTU SERVICE

Memorial Is Observed For Founder of Woman's Union

VERNON, Feb. 28.—A Francis E. Willard memorial program was given at the Presbyterian church here Sunday night with the Vernon Woman's Christian Temperance Union in charge. Miss Willard was the founder of the W. C. T. U. and a world leader in the cause of prohibition.

Included on the program was a song service, "A Message from Miss Willard's Bible," by Mrs. Rena Watts; devotionals led by Mrs. B. C. Wood; reading by Mrs. Leon H. Brown; quartet numbers, Mesdames B. B. Elliot, W. C. Casper, Messrs. Tom Lisman and Everett Henderson; address, "Is Observance of Naw Necessary to the Life of a Nation," Dr. E. L. Moore; address, "Law Enforcement," W. N. Stokes.

Kent at His Best In Play Now On At the Majestic

Richmond Kent is at his best in "Dawn o' the Mountains," gripping three-act romance of the Blue Ridge in current run at the Majestic theatre. And if it isn't his best, no better could be asked for. Playing the characterization of Bob Blake, a young coal engineer who goes into the mountains of Virginia wins fortune and love, and is returned victor over almost overpowering physical odds, Kent takes the top role in a comedy-drama and puts it across so realistically that his audiences of Saturday and Sunday were spell bound through the greater portion of the performances.

The story itself is highly interesting, it is enhanced greatly by the work of Kent, his brother Bob Kent alonge with Jack Stanley and Percy Hall in heavy character parts.

Kellie Kempton plays opposite Richmond Kent with a finesse and grace in an exceptionall difficult characterization which stamps her as a very versatile performer.

Hall's work in this particular run is unique in that he doubles up through the play, jumping from one character in the first two acts to another in the third with such adroitness that unless one scrutinizes his program closely he doesn't recognize the change.

Farmer, Scheduled For Trial, Hangs Himself in Jail

FAIRFIELD, Iowa, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Louis Bcuey, 50, well-to-do farmer, hanged himself in the county jail today, on the eve of his trial for the murder of Samuel McNees, 18, whom he accused of having wronged his 14-year-old daughter.

Bruey's trial was to have started Tuesday. His counsel was prepared to plead temporary insanity, brought on by revelations of the daughter of her relations with young McNees. The state had announced it would ask for the death penalty.

Bruey hanged himself with two towels tied to a heating pipe. He was arrested December 5, after calmly admitting to officials that he shot down young McNees on that day after gaining from the latter an admission of improper relations with his daughter. He had called McNees over to his farm on a pretext of friendship.

Chicago Alarmed At Crime Probe

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Possibility of a congressional investigation of an alleged alliance between organized crime and politics in Chicago today loomed as a political issue likely to shove the world court question out of first place in Chicago.

Vice President Dawes yesterday presented to the senatte a petition of the Chicago Better Government association asking for such an inquiry and making the charges. While Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, and other officials aimed at in the petition entered vigorous denials of the charges and questioned the integrity of theassociation, there was much speculation today in all political camps as to just how broad such an investigation, if authorized might become.

Photographer Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 28.—(AP) John S. Schneider, 66, nationally known photographer and former president of the national and state photographers associations, died here today.

Schneider listed among his clientele Presidents Hayes, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Harding and Coolidge, and is one of the few photographers to get the latter to smile before a camera. Schneider's photograph of President Roosevelt has a place in the congressional memorial room.

VEGETABLE SHIPMENTS GROW.

Volume Increases In Last Week As 918 Cars Leave San Antonio.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Exceeding last week's shipments by nearly a 100 cars, the Texas vegetable season opened in volume the past seven days, with the movmnt of 918 cars of five commodities compared with 823 a week ago and approximately 925 a year ago in the corresponding period. J. Austen Hunter of the Texas market news service, said in his weekly review today.

Townsend Takes Pulpit of Lamar Ave. Church Here

Rev. W. H. Townsend of East St. Louis, Ill., who has been called as pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church by the congregation preached at both services at the church Sunday. His subject for the morning was "The Church Foundation," taking his text from Matt. 16:13-28 verses. He talked upon the building of the church upon Peter's confession founded on the principles of religion and not on the man.

An all-day meeting Missionary union of Lamar Avenue Baptist will be hel dtoday at the church and Rev. Townsend will be the guest of honor. An executive session is announced for 9:30 o'clock.

BUSINESS ON A BACK TRACK

Declines In Securities Markets Now Make Future Uncertain

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—General declines in security and commodity prices last week contributed to the prevailing uncertainty regarding the business outlook. In the absence of any outstanding adverse news developments financial circles viewed thesre-action as a possible warning signal against a further slackening of trade, although the weakness of the stock market undoubtedly was due in part to the correction of previous speculative excesses.

The actual news of the week was more favorable than other wise, but most of it had long ago been discounted. This was unmistakably true of the pasage of the tax bill. Its constructive features were taken into account as long ago as last fall so that its final enactment brought no response from the markets, despite the virtual certainty that the reduced assessments wil have a stimulating influence on general trade.

Divorce Evil Is Serious One, Is Datson's Belief

"Nothing is more to be deplored than the haphazard manner in which people of today enter the marriage relation and as quickly make their exit," commented Rev. Fred T. Datson on the divorce at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Episcopal) Sunday afternoon. "The tendency toward such is a real threat at the foundation of the civilization we know today."

The comments quoted above were made in the course of the weekly book review, this time the subject being Alice Duer Miller's "Are Parents Human?" The story, that of a child with divorced parents who on the verge of womanhood succeeds in effecting a reconcilliation by causing them some anxiety regard of herself, was touched at length by Rev. Datson.

In concluding he called attention to recent divorce statistics for Wichita county published in the newspapers.—"What the state hath joined together," Rev. Datson declared, "the state can also tear asunder. What God hath joined together let no man dare tear asunder."

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER

Drink Freely and Often, Also Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter if from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are colliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.—Adv.

Mexican Business Man Defends His Nation's Progress

"There is a tendency to paint us a little worse than we really are, and we want Americans to go into Mexico to see for themselves what we are," L. Castilla, business man of Mexico City and New York City who is in Wichita Falls on business, said in an interview Saturday.

"We are seeking earnestly a better understanding both socially and commercially between the United States and Mexico," he said. "There is need of intellect in Mexico to build a better Mexico."

Mr. Castilla is a native of Mexico and a nephew of former President Madero. He has lived in that country and in the United States, and is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He has also made his home in New York City where he married.

Bank Debits In Precipitous Drop

DALLAS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Debits to individual accounts of 85 banks in the eleventh federal reserve district, reported to the Dallas federal reserve bank for the week ending with February 24, fell below the district aggregate for the same week a year ago by nearly $8,000,000. The Washington birthday holiday had some effect on the figures.

Figures for Houston banks showed a recession of more than $7,000,000 Galveston showed a relatively high slump. Dallas gained more than $2,000,000 for the week, while Fort Worth, San Antonio, Shreveport and Beaumont were among the other cities bettering their showing.

Comparative weekly totals include:

	1926	1925
Dallas	$48,672,000	$46,973,000
Fort Worth	$16,975,000	$15,775,000
Houston	$26,510,000	$34,407,000

BUILDING PERMITS

Wichita Falls Permits Go To $816,470 for the Month

Wichita Falls building permits for February reached a total of $816,476, figures compiled Saturday afternoon at the city hall indicated. The figure is almost three times the figure of Febraaty of 1925, when only $305,810 was represented in permits taken out. It is also nearly $250,000 in excess of the permits for January when only $583,492 worth were issued.

The total for both January and February of this year is $1,339,968, considerably better than twice the figure of 1925, up to this time, when only $668,720 in permits were issued.

The figures for the week, however, in comparison with the figures of the week before are rather disappointing, only $130,264 in permits being issued against $188,100 issued the week before. The past week represented 55 items, however, against only fifty the week before.

A complete list of the permits issued follow:

Boldness Is Magic!

Timidity has caused partial failure in many a life. Timidity may have made you lose that chance when opportunity knocked.

And now you have the opportunity to own your own home. Will you let such a chance slip by? Will you continue to pay rent and have nothing to show for it but receipts?

Or will you be your own boss—the master of your own home? The cost is within your reach. Our complete building plan makes it easy.

Boldness is magic—timidity means failure. Act wisely by acting now.
