Saturday in Haskell will be a big day for Wanda Dulaney.

The first night Christmas parade in the City of Haskell and for that matter, anywhere in the U.S. is scheduled for 6 p.m. Saturday.

The parade will mark the culmination of untold hours of labor in the construction and decoration of floats.

It will also mark the realization of a long planned goal for Wanda. She has spent years thinking about the parade, months drawing pictures of floats, and hours and hours in planning the details of the event since approval by the Chamber of Commerce directors.

Throughout the construction of floats by various groups, she has continued to offer ideas and assistance and remains congenial when taking the good natured kidding of tired float builders who threaten her with bodily harm for ever suggesting such an event.

In addition to the hours of planning and assisting groups and organizations with individual floats, Wanda has almost singlehandedly seen to the thousands of minor details involved in such a huge undertaking and at the same time assisted with the Chamber of Commerce float and tended to the regular Chamber business.

Wanda's dream of a night Christmas Parade was born some five years ago, while she was living in Dallas. From the original idea, she had planned to send the plans to the Haskell Chamber of Commerce for use by her hometown and had no idea at the time that she would be manager of the Chamber when the dream became reality.

In addition to the regular work as Chamber manager, work on the Haskell Memorial Civic Center, and the parade, she confesses that Saturday's weather continues to occupy many of her conscious moments.

No matter what the weather this Saturday, Haskell owes a deep debt of gratitude to Wanda Dulaney for her dedication and diligence during the planning of this parade.

Goodfellow Donations Needed

Plans for the 1982 Haskell Lions Club Goodfellow Project are well underway and donations to the fund are needed according to Darold Roberson, chairman.

Applications for Goodfellow boxes will be accepted at the office of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce December 11 & 18 from 1 to 4 p.m. Screening will be completed soon after and the boxes will be delivered December 24.

Cash donations may be left at the Haskell Free Press or mailed to the Free Press at Box 577, Haskell, Texas 79521. Persons who wish to donate usable toys may leave them at the Haskell Fire Department.

Santa Letters

Letters to Santa Claus will be published in the Free Press the week of December 25.

A mail box has been placed just inside the Free Press doors and all letters should be placed in the box prior to noon December 20.

Year at the Annual Extension Homemakers Information Day of November 17.

Mabel Overton is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lennis W. Jones of Rule. She graduated from Rule High School and received her college degree from Texas Woman's University in Denton. While she was at T.W.U. she majored in Kindergarten-Primary and Public School Music.

She taught one year at the New Cook School northwest of Rule and three years in the Post School, now known as Paint Creek. While teaching at Post she met a young A&M graduate, Gene Overton. In 1936 she threw all her ambition to be school teacher out the window, and decided that farming with Gene Overton was the life for her. For the past 46 years she has done just that, except for the four years that Captain Overton was Commanding a tank destroyer company in World War II.

The Overtons have three sons: William, who leads the drama department at Abilene Cooper High School; Wallar, who farms in the Paint Creek Community, and Mike, who is a Veteranarian in Allen. They have 4 grandchildren.

Mrs. Overton and her husband were involved in Boy Scouts of America for 25 years and for 15 years the Paint Creek Troop #48 met at their home every Saturday. In 1970 Mrs. Overton was awarded the Silver Fawn, which is the highest award scouting gives a woman.

Mabel has received numerous awards for her other community, club, and church work. But the honor she cherishes the most is that of being chosen by the A&M Corps of Cadets as the Texas A&M Mother of the Year for 1966.

She is a charter member of the Paint Creek Extension Homemakers Club. Mabel has been very active in her Extension Homemakers Club holding every office. She has served as vice-chairman of the County Extension Homemakers Council for two years and has just been elected as chairman for 1983.

She is also a member of the Order of Eastern Star and the Paint Creek Methodist Church where she teaches a class and helps with the music. For 17 years she has written the Paint Creek Community News for the Haskell Free Press. She has also been a member of the Harmony Club, the Garden Club, and the Pink Ladies at Haskell Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Overton was presented with a corsage and a TEHA pin by the Haskell County Extension Homemakers to honor her as the 1982 Club Woman of the Year.

Dressler, Dobbs Repeat Vows In Abilene

The Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Abilene was the setting at 2 p.m. Saturday for the marriage of Kathryn Elaine Dobbs and Mack Alfred Dressler. The Rev. Clifford Poe of Eden led the couple in repeating double ring wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Dobbs of Abilene and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Dressler, Sweetwater.

The altar was adorned with brass spiral candlebras holding white tapers and accented with greenery.

Ken Howard, pianist, accompanied soloist Chi Chi King of Lubbock singing a German Love Song by Strauss and "They Were You" from "The Fantasticks". Background tape of favorites of the couple from Viennese waltzes of soundtrack instrumentals from the movies, "Reds", "Ragtime", "Kramer vs Kramer" and classical music was played.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon over satin. The long sheer sleeves were adorned with lace appliques. Scalloped lace edged the low scooped neckline and the skirt falling from an empire bodice swept into a chapel length train. She wore a Juliet cap of lace enhanced with pearls and sequins which held her fingertip length veil of silk illusion.

The bride's matron of honor was Kathryn Grubbs of Dallas and bridesmaids were Kathy Jacobsen Martin of Midland and Linda Geis of Lubbock. They wore waltz length frocks of dusty rose Promisee satin and carried nosegays of fresh pink sweetheart roses, mums, carnations and baby's breath. They wore a sprig of baby's breath in their hair.

Flower girl was Melanie Reedy, cousin of the groom. She wore a white eyelet dress with a rose ribbon sash and carried a basket of flower petals. She wore a halo of fresh flowers and ribbons in her hair.

Best man to the groom was David Grubbs of Dallas and groomsmen were Larry Dobbs, brother of the bride, and David Sherrell of Abilene. The groomsmen were wearing charcoal grey tuxedos with white pleated shirts and black bow ties.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception honoring the couple was hosted by the bride's parents. It was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth with a white lace overlay. Marking the table center was an arrangement of silver candleholders with rose candles. The three-tiered butter cake was adorned with fresh flowers on the top tier and circling the base. Napkins were grey and cream ensigned with burgandy colored "D". The cake was served with rose fruit punch.

The groom's table was laid with a rose linen cloth and centered with fresh flowers. The German chocolate cake decorated with fresh flowers was served with coffee from a silver service.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at Adams' Rib Restaurant.

The bride is a graduate of Abilene Cooper High School and Texas Tech University with a BA degree in German. She is employed as a travel agent for Linn Travel of Lubbock. Kathy is the daughter of the former Imogene Glover, a Rochester graduate; and granddaughter of Mrs. Minnie Glover, 1005

Holiday Gift Idea

Holiday parties are fun—and you don't want to come empty-handed. This year, even if the budget is tight, you can bring an elegant and tasty present that's sure to make you a favorite guest. It's easy! And it takes very little time to create these no-bake Festive Cocoa Bonbons. Highly concentrated cocoa gives extra rich chocolate flavor, and blends in readily for creamy smooth consistency.

It comes ready to use—no solid chocolate to melt down first. And cocoa goes farther than baking chocolate, saving one-third the cost of this ingredient. Box or wrap bonbons prettily, or arrange in an attractive canister.

FESTIVE COCOA BONBONS

3 ounces cream cheese
2 cups confectioners' sugar
1/4 cup Hershey's Cocoa
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
Confectioners' sugar
(Finely chopped nuts)
(Colored sugar sprinkles)

Soften cream cheese in small mixing bowl. Add confectioners' sugar, cocoa, butter and vanilla. Shape into 1/2-inch balls (chill, if needed, to handle). Roll in confectioners' sugar, colored sugars or finely chopped nuts. Chill; serve cold. 2 dozen bonbons.

Utah's Great Salt Lake was once ten times larger. The outline of the older, fresh lake is still visible on the mountain sides above the present lake's basin.

Tips For Quilt Care Offered

With fall at hand and winter on the way, quilts and comforters will be in the limelight as they are taken from storage and put to use.

"Before using a quilt, check its condition, fiber content and age. An heirloom quilt, for example, should not be used on the bed where people will sit or pull on it," explains Dr. Peggy S. Owens, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Start with the least complicated and damaging method when cleaning quilts, Owens advises. Airing will remove any musty smell acquired during storage. To remove dust or surface soil, vacuum with an upholstery tool. Cover the quilt with fiberglass screening—but don't vacuum directly on the quilt.

Stain removal is unwise on older quilts because it weakens the fibers. Dry cleaning solvents remove oily stains but are usually too harsh for older quilting fabrics, the specialist warns.

"Wet cleaning must be done carefully. Do not machine-wash or dry or line hang a quilt. Soak in a bathtub using a very dilute detergent solution. Rinse several times to remove detergent. Then support the weight of the wet quilt to prevent strain on fabric and stitches. Dry on a bed sheet outside," Owens advises.

Repair any damaged areas to prevent further deterioration.

Store quilts flat or rolled. To protect from dust and light, use a dust cover of well-washed cotton muslin, percale or new tissue paper. Do not store quilts in plastic, cardboard boxes and unsealed wooden boxes, such as cedar chests.

"Folding a quilt for flat storage causes stress on fabric, stitches and batting placement. Fold as few times as possible, placing tissue paper between folds. Fold off-center and in a different place each time to relieve stress on the fabric. Don't stack heavy quilts on top of each other, and don't hang quilts to store," Owens says.

Quilts—new as well as old—require special care and thoughtful use in order to increase their usability and heirloom quality, she adds.

Leaves are wonderful things, giving color to the Spring horizon. Growing to absorb sunshine and water and nutrients to produce nourishment for the tree - those beautiful colored leaves! They offer shade and coolness in the summer's heat. They dance and whisper. They provide themselves for many a craft project. When their work is done, leaves are released to fall, taking the bright colors of autumn with them. Then the leaves provide rustling for walking through, exercise for the raker, cover for the small creatures of the wild, and finally food for the soil from which may grow another tree and more leaves. Let's plan to capture some of the Fall's beauty on canvas by having some 'paint-outs'. When can we go - today - tomorrow - don't wait too long - all the bright beauty will be gone.

Q. Can you help me with some exercises in discovering forms?

A. Take a field trip - not to paint or draw but to look, observe, study and touch. Make notations before you go as follows: 1. How many different examples of form, large and small can you find?

2. Try to imagine how these forms would look if lighted, showing extreme lights and darks. 3. Pick up pieces of wood, rocks, clods, seed pods, etc. With your eyes closed, though, feel and rub them, tracing their contours with your fingers, trying to visualize the forms. 4. Notice how each texture feels and how it looks in the light. 5. In your studio, study the forms under a spotlight, make tone drawings of them, lighted to advantage. 6. First draw the forms with line then using contour drawing, make then dimensional.

Does the word sale attract you to a store like a magnet? By taking advantage of sales, families can save 10 to 50 percent on purchases during a year. Plan ahead for your family needs and watch for good sale buys. Retail stores may feature sales to make room for new goods, to sell surplus or shopworn goods, to attract customers to the store, or to introduce new products. Be a smart shopper...keep some guidelines in mind to help you get the most for your sales dollar.

Know your needs and wants. Know the difference between things you need and those which attract your attention. Shop with a purpose. Remember that nothing is a bargain unless you need it.

Consider shopping expenses. The time, effort and money spent in getting to a store may offset some savings after you're there. Consider such costs as transportation, parking, meals and baby-sitters.

Be a comparison shopper. Know the original price of items so you can recognize reduced prices. Be sure the sale price is an actual reduction. Keep in mind that prices vary from store to store. A sale price at one store may be the regular price at another.

Examine merchandise carefully. Check style, color, size and condition of goods. Carefully inspect seconds or irregulars, which may be good buys if the flaws don't affect the item's use or outward appearance. Find out store policies about returns and exchanges. Sale items are often not returnable.

Shop at beginning and end

Q. What is meant by "tone"?

A. Everything that is visible has tone, every color has tone, every shape and form has tone. Tone is a quality of color. Because tone is such an important part of an artist's vocabulary of expression, learning to use it effectively can add immeasurable to the success of your finished work. Color and tone are major design elements.

HINT: To avoid the "green monotony" experiment with achieving variance by mixing either warm or cool colors with the basic blue and yellow.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas, 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

TAX PLANNING

Written by
James E. Rodgers, CPA

BARE BONES TAX PLANNING

Although the variations are almost endless, most income tax savings plans involve one or more of six basic principles. Simply stated, they are as follows:

1. Splitting income among several family members, or entities, in order to get more of it taxed at lower tax brackets.
2. Shifting income to years of lower tax rates (years when income will be less and therefore taxed at lower rates).
3. Shifting deductions to years when tax rates or levels of taxable income will be higher.
4. Converting ordinary (fully taxable) income into long-term capital gain (only 40% taxable).
5. Deferring tax liabilities by use of various tax shelters allowing you interest-free use of tax dollars.
6. Obtaining legitimate tax-deductible status for expenditures that increase your standard of living.

Most income tax savings plans embrace one or more of these six basic principles. The trick is in picking those which will work and in staying away from those which are unsound applications, or for some other reason are inadvisable.

Every taxpayer has a right to so conduct his affairs to minimize his tax liability. He can avoid higher taxes by arranging for his income to be exposed to the lowest possible tax rate in a number of legitimate ways. Pick and choose the methods which work best for you, then implement them at the right time and in the proper way.

Proper tax planning requires the assistance of a qualified professional. Every financial decision has tax consequences. A telephone call to your accountant before you complete a transaction is the first step in good tax planning.

Take Advantage Of Sales And Save

of sales. The best selection is usually available on the first day of a big sale, but the last day offer greater price cuts.

Become familiar with terms used in sales. Irregulars, seconds, imperfect. Some flaw occurring during the manufacturing process causes items to be marked irregular, seconds or imperfect. Defects such as crooked seams, color loss, irregularities in a knit, weave or size often don't noticeably affect outward appearance or durability. Check carefully before buying.

As is or slightly damaged. It's your responsibility to determine the condition of an article sold as is or slightly damaged. Check the entire item carefully before buying. Keep in mind that there may be more than one flaw.

Special purchase. When a store buys a large order or items at a low price, the savings may be passed on to consumers as "special purchases." Manufacturers encourage the sales by producing some items to sell at attractive prices. Although such products may have fewer special features than usual, they often may be good buys. Special purchase items may not be a store's regular merchandise.

Manufacturer's close out. A manufacturer who wants to get rid of a particular line of stock may sell it at a lower price than usual.

Plan a strategy for getting bargain prices on needed family items. Plan your family budget around sales which can be marked on your calendar in advance. Retail stores usually follow a time cycle in selling certain items at reduced prices. Many stores follow these patterns: January-Bright sales (towels, sheets, pillowcases, blankets) furs, winter decorations, store-wide clearances, automobiles, air conditioners, floor coverings, television sets.

February- Home furnishings, rugs, mattresses, housewares, china, glassware, silverware, bicycles.

March- Garden supplies, spring clothing, luggage, housewares, cleaning aids, skis and skates.

April- After-Easter sales, women's coats, suits and accessories, men's and boy's clothing, paint.

May- Lingerie, handbags, television sets, soaps and cleaning aids, automobile tires, draperies.

June- Ladies ready-to-wear, television sets, fabrics, fuel oil, storm windows, screens.

July- Summer clearances after July 4, sporting goods, sportswear, hosiery, women's shoes, floor coverings, summer furniture, appliances, used cars, automobiles, air conditioners, cosmetics.

August- Clearance of summer clothing, back-to-school specials, children's play clothes, furniture clearances, yard and gardening equipment, appliances, camping equipment, lamps.

September- Back-to-school specials, housewares, fabrics, automobile batteries and mufflers, bicycles.

October- Hosiery, lingerie, fabrics, fishing equipment, silverware, china and glassware, bicycles, toys.

November- Pre-Christmas promotions, ladies coats and dresses, blankets, garden seeds and supplies.

December- General store

clearance after Christmas with markdowns on toys and gifts, winter clothing late in the month, automobiles.

Watch for sales. Identify your needs for the coming year. Mark your shopping plans on your calendar and set aside money for sales shopping. Become a sales watcher and stretch your dollars.

Getting Maximum Benefit From Exercise

If you want to get the maximum benefit out of exercise, do it vigorously and regularly, advises a Baylor College of Medicine heart disease researcher.

Josef R. Patsch, M.D., research associate professor of medicine at Baylor, found that people who exercise heavily, such as long-distance runners, get rid of fats in their blood at a faster rate than those who don't exercise. If a runner stops exercising for a little as three weeks, however, that good effect disappears.

His study also suggests that the current method used to determine fat levels in the blood be revised.

Patsch reported on these findings today at the 55th scientific sessions of the American Heart Association (AHA) in Dallas.

A person with high levels of blood fats, after eating a fat-laden meal, has an increased chance of developing heart disease. However, Patsch said, heavy exercise raises the level of "good" blood cholesterol, which clears out fats and therefore reduces an individual's chance of developing heart disease.

"But exercise should not be used as a medication taken only when you feel you need it," Patsch said. "It should be a lifelong habit."

He also cautions that two weeks of exercise won't produce results. It can take nine months before good cholesterol levels rise, but a conditioned individual who returns to exercise after a brief respite can build up good cholesterol levels again in only two months.

The standard test for measuring blood fat levels requires patients to fast for several hours before blood samples are taken. The participants in Patsch's study were first tested this way, then later had blood samples taken after eating a meal containing the amount of fats in a typical American diet.

"The test given after eating a normal meal is a better indicator of blood fat levels since people don't fast as a rule," Patsch said.

He found that blood fat levels were low in individuals who had high levels of good cholesterol. The plasma, or liquid portion of their blood, was clear after they ate a meal high in fats. People with low levels of good cholesterol had "very milky, cloudy, ugly plasma," he said.

Texas A&M recruits record number of nation's top scholars

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University, which last year ranked second only to Harvard in attracting new National Merit Scholars, has added even more of the nation's top high school graduates this year.

University officials announced that 190 new National Merit Scholars enrolled at Texas A&M this fall. With 134 new National Merit Scholars last year, Texas A&M tied with Princeton — second only to Harvard/Radcliffe — in the number of top-ranked students it recruited.

With the addition of 190 new National Merit Scholars this fall Texas A&M is expected to have about 400 of the top students, administrators said.

"We expect to move up from 13th nationally to about eighth place among all colleges and universities in the total number of National Merit Scholars enrolled," said Vice President for Academic Affairs Dr. Charles McCandless.

CHRISTMAS 1982

May this be your happiest Christmas ever

There's a kind of magic in the air at Christmas-time. Can you feel it? It's a combination of the sights, the sounds and the colors of this most celebrated of seasons. And behind the glitter and excitement lies a story that has shone like a beacon across the centuries. It's a story that's old, yet always new. A story that carries the message of love and peace the world so badly needs.

Do you feel the magic? It's the spirit of Christmas, and it's everywhere. Reach out, touch it. Hold it in your hand and feel the happiness it brings. We hope it's a happiness that will last, not for just one brief season but for the rest of your life.

TALKING ABOUT IRA's

A lot of people are making a lot of talk about Individual Retirement Accounts these days. They tell you how, if you are now age 30, you could be a millionaire by the time you retire. They talk about tax deductions and tax deferrals. And they're right.

But there's one question some financial houses don't say too much about—what happens when you retire, at age 60 or 65, and withdraw all that money from your IRA?

The answer is simple—you could get taxed on the whole amount, all at once, in the year it is received. And unless you take some quick action then to avoid it, that tax could chew a big chunk out of your retirement savings.

But you don't have to wait until you retire to solve that problem.

You can solve it today by establishing your IRA with a Travelers Individual Retirement Annuity. It can start paying you an income for life when you retire—automatically, by contract. No hassle of having to make investment decisions just when you should be sitting back and enjoying life. It's a plus many other IRA plans can't offer.

That's The Travelers IRA advantage. Give us a call. We'll be happy to give you all the details.

Four FFA Teams Compete At Area

BY DANNY GRIFFITH
Four FFA teams in the leadership contest advanced from district to area competition in Big Springs, but none will advance to state. Only the first place team in each division advances to the state contest. Fourteen teams competed in each category. "I was very pleased with the results and with each student," Duane Gilly, ag adviser, said. Joseph Toliver took second in extemporaneous speaking, placing ahead of the area president and vice president. The Junior Farm Skill team of Shawn Lane, Chris Mills and Robert Myers placed third.

The Senior Farm Skill team also placed third. Members were Scott Fields, Ricky Moeller and Sam Toliver. The Farm Radio team placed fifth in area competition. Members were Ricky Dunnam, Shane Gilliam and Danny Griffith.

Teams placing first through fourth received banners. Fifth place teams were mentioned.

Turkey In Abundant Supply This Season

Turkey, now a year-around favorite, is a traditional holiday food. It's protein-packed, low calorie, flavorful and economical, and consumers should find an abundant supply of fresh, wholesome birds this season.

Beverly A. Rhoades, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, points out that turkey is one of the most economical meat sources available. "Fresh turkeys displayed in meat counters are USDA inspected for wholesomeness and most are Grade A, indicating they are fully fleshed and meaty, well-finished with no parts missing and no skin defects," Rhoades says.

Lower grade turkeys are equally wholesome and nutritious, but may not be as visually appealing in the package.

Processed turkey offered meat counters is inspected again to approve label information and ingredients.

"Tenderness of the meat is determined by the age of the bird, rather than the sex, grade or size. A 25 lb. turkey is just as tender as an eight-pound bird of the same age. Toms are generally as tender as hens of similar age. For greatest tenderness, look for the words "young" or "fryer-roaster" on the label," Rhoades says.

To determine how much fresh turkey to buy, plan for three-fourths pound per person, or for planned leftovers meat can be stored for later use.

Pre-basted and pre-stuffed whole turkeys are available but cost more per pound than plain frozen turkeys. "There is little difference between them in the cooking process for moist and tender meat," Rhoades says. Turkey parts processed turkey may be used instead of the whole bird for some occasions, but generally cost more per pound. Packaged turkey parts allow consumers to choose white or dark meat, or an assortment, to please the family.

Turkeys roasted offer variety and are available in all-white or all-dark meat, or a combination of both.

Processed turkey is particularly popular because of convenience, versatility and storage ease. Cooked, cured and smoked turkey may taste similar to pork or beef counterparts, but usually has its own distinct flavor. Turkey "Ham" is actually a reduced calorie sausage. WTU Enters Agreement For Purchase Of Gas

West Texas Utilities Co. has entered a gas purchase agreement with Haskell Gathering Co. which could result in lower fuel costs at its Paint Creek Power Station.

WTU has begun taking a small volume of low Btu gas, and is expected to take more when the gathering firm's pipelines are extended to additional wells in Haskell and Throckmorton counties. The Paint Creek plant is on Lake Stamford in southeastern Haskell County.

The gas is cheaper than WTU's main supply, but is of lower quality, according to Walter Meller, WTU's manager of system production.

"Because it is a lower Btu gas, it must be blended with other gas before it can be burned in our boilers," Meller said. "But we are doing everything we can to buy gas where there is a price advantage."

He said WTU is in the process of negotiating for low Btu gas at some of its other power plants. The company's contract with its principle supplier, which was renegotiated this past year, permits WTU to purchase gas from other sources, and WTU does so when it is available. The Company has eight major power plants, all of which burn natural gas as the primary fuel.

17 County 4-H'ers Receive Awards At Annual Banquet

Seventeen Haskell County 4-H'ers received awards for their accomplishments in 1982 at the Annual Haskell County 4-H Awards Program. The Rochester 4-H Club hosted the stew supper and awards presentation on October 25.

To be eligible for an award a 4-H'er had to compile and submit a 4-H Record Book in a specific 4-H project area.

Awards were presented in the areas of clothing, foods and nutrition, beef, sheep, swine, fashion show, gardening and leadership.

The Clothing Award is based on the development of consumer skills in making and purchasing articles of clothing and accessories and in purchasing and using equipment related to clothing construction and care. Receiving these awards donated by Coats & Clark Inc. were Tamra Burnett of Haskell and Debbie Quade and Jennifer Shaver of Rochester.

The Foods and Nutrition Awards donated by General Foods Corporation are based on the principles of nutrition as they relate to good health and physical fitness and the acquisition of skills in planning, purchasing, preparing and serving tasty, attractive, and nutritious meals and snacks. Four Haskell 4-H'ers—Stephanie Browning, Dalyn Gilly, Rebecca Holt, and Jill Jennings—were presented these awards.

Three Rochester 4-H'ers earned the beef award which is based on a member's acquired knowledge of beef cattle, breeding, production and management practices and acquired skills in executing them by owning, caring for and keeping records of one or more beef cattle. These three 4-H'ers were Chad Ballard, Faye Mullino, and Richard Shaver.

Kim Jones of Rochester was given the sheep award as a result of her having demonstrated sound sheep breeding, feeding, and management practices on her home farm and in the community.

The swine award is based on an understanding of swine breeding, production, and management practices and acquired skill in executing them by owning, caring for and keeping records on one or more head of swine. Receiving this award was Nick Jones, Lance Sloan, and Scott Sloan of Rochester.

Members who received the fashion show award have excelled in 4-H fashion show competition and have demonstrated skills necessary in planning, selecting, and constructing clothing for different occasions. Michelle Scoggins of Rochester who received this award was one of Haskell County's representatives at the District Fashion Show. This award was donated by Simplicity Pattern Company, Inc.

Gardening award, sponsored by the Chevron Chemical Company, Ortho Division is given to members who have gained insight into nature and have developed a better understanding of the basic principles of science relating to plant growth. Receiving this award was Janet Quade of Rochester.

Steven Quade of Rochester received the leadership award which is based on the development of an understanding of other members and how to work with them.

Two special awards were also announced. Kim Jones was revealed as the 1982 Gold Star Recipient and Debbie Quade was presented by Mrs. F.W. Martin as recipient of the F.W. Martin Memorial Award.

Special recognition was given to all the 4-H leaders who have volunteered their time to work with the 4-H'ers in their community. These leaders are: Mrs. Jo Fischer—12 years service, Clifford Thomas, Mrs. Earlene Townsend, and Mrs. Pat Quade—6 years, Mrs. Kim Crawford—5 years, Mrs. Teresa Scoggins—4 years, Mrs. Marilyn Earp, Mrs. Wanda Hester, Mrs. Mary Jennings, and Mrs. Erlinda Mayfield—3 years, Mrs. Joetta Burnett, Mrs. Muriel Nanny, Mrs. Janis Payne, Mrs. Florence Peden, Mrs. Elaine Reed, and Mrs. Jinx Shaver—2 years, Mrs. Julia Harrell, Mrs. Alice Ballard, Mrs. Shirley Sloan, and Mrs. Sharon Mullino—1 year. Recognized as Junior Leaders were Rebecca Jill Jennings, Debbie Quade, and Kim Jones—2 years service, and Stephanie Browning—1 year.

Electronic institute trains students to enter industrial jobs

COLLEGE STATION — Growth of the electronics and microcomputer industries has boosted salary offers to more than $19,000 for graduates of a special training program that takes only 18 months to complete and is open to anyone with a high school diploma.

For the past 19 years, the Texas Engineering Extension Service's Institute of Electronic Science has trained more than 650 students in a comprehensive electronics program that brings graduates an average of three job offers upon completion. More than 20 employers return each year to interview and hire graduates.

Classes are taught at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center west of Bryan. The program offers a certificate of completion instead of a degree.

"We see this program as an excellent alternative to someone who chooses not to pursue a college degree," said Director P. Wayne Elkins.

With all its possibilities, however, the curriculum is not easy, Elkins stressed. Students attend classes for six hours a day, five days a week and there's lots of homework. They must complete three six-month terms which include courses in mathematics, digital circuits and microprocessors.

Private industry providing jobs for wildlife specialists

COLLEGE STATION — Private industries are opening up new career opportunities for wildlife and fisheries specialists who like the great outdoors and want to preserve what many believe is an important part of the American way of life.

At Texas A&M University, which has one of the leading wildlife and fisheries sciences programs in the country, officials say there is a growing demand for wildlife experts to manage private recreational hunting and fishing resorts.

"In a time when the economy is not doing well and the number of federal and state jobs has decreased, our graduates are doing OK," says Dr. Doug Slack of Texas A&M's Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences Department. "Most still start to work for government agencies, but more and more are being sought by the private sector."

Career opportunities are opening up because ranches are supplementing their programs with hunting and fishing leases and because large corporations are beginning to provide recreational retreats for their employees, said Slack.

Older Texans: Take Charge Of Your Own Future

Older Texans should take charge of their future now.

"You can take charge of your future—physically, mentally, socially and financially. Control the things you can to become the person you want to be," suggests Mrs. Judith L. Warren, family life education specialist-aging, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Each individual can have some influence over what your future will be by the way you approach it," Warren adds. Leadership and volunteerism may be major items.

"While a lifetime of familiar habits cannot be ignored and surely cannot be changed overnight, there are ways each person can reshape some of these habits, provided he or she feels the need to do so," Warren says.

Warren suggests these guidelines for "taking charge of your future."

1. Decide what you expect of yourself in the future. Look at yourself now, and think about what kind of person you want to be and what kind of life you want to lead in five or 10 years. If you are physically active now and currently involved in a sport or exercise program, continue it. You may want to start an exercise program, if you are not currently involved. Even if an illness or disability has confined you to a bed or wheelchair, you can—in many instances—do some exercises. Your family doctor can assist you in these plans.

2. If you want to remain mentally alert, take up—or keep up with—activities that stimulate the mind. Interested people are interesting to others, so develop new interests and share these with other people. The joy of learning can be awakened no matter what your age or educational experience. Leadership and volunteerism offer many challenges.

3. For many older adults, continuing a meaningful level of social activity is a challenge. Keeping up an active social life means making an effort to join a new club or find a new friend.

4. Financial security is important, and many older adults must take extra steps to protect what they now own, while stretching their income to meet current needs. Explore second careers or part-time employment, and determine acceptable options for reducing current expenses.

SKinformation

by Linda Allen Schoen

Has there ever been a winter where you looked forward to protecting your skin?

Make this winter the one by starting a skin-protecting regimen using effective, yet elegant, dry skin care products.

Winter weather makes cold temperatures and wind common place, sudden changes in humidity the norm, and chapped, dry skin the result of it all.

Stepping up your skin care regimen can mean lots of work and bother. . . unless you follow these simple tips to fight that uncomfortable, dry, taut feeling.

Take a nice, warm (not hot!) shower to hydrate skin, then seal in the moisture with a lightly scented, skin-glistening body oil (Neutrogena makes an exquisite one).

Abandon harsh, everyday alkaline soaps and opt for one that is mild, easy-rinsing and especially suited for dry skin. It will contain extra moisturizers and keep your skin's own protective oils intact.

Increase the moisture in the air where you live and work; invest in a vaporizer for the home or office.

If not, compensate for sudden changes in humidity (example: switching from a dry office to a downpour outside) by protecting skin with a soothing, luxurious, emollient-rich barrier cream.

Neutrogena makes a very popular Hand Cream which seals in skin's own moisture twice as long as any other product. So . . .

Gear up for dry skin season with a regimen and arsenal of products that combat dry skin effectively.

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor,

For well over a decade the 50 million gun owners of the United States and the National Rifle Association have been assailed by the advocates of gun control with the accusation that we have been insensitive to the tragic loss of human life.

During that period we have seen this group with smug self-righteousness assume postures within which no point of exaggeration, calumny, defamation or even slander was beneath them.

However, the overwhelming defeat of California's handgun "freeze" initiative as reported in the Washington Post, Tuesday, November 9, displays the gun prohibitionists' cynical disregard of human life for purposes of political expediency. In the final sentence of the article Michael Beard, Executive Director of the National Coalition to Ban Handguns stated, "I hate to say it, but one well-publicized homicide could wipe that /California vote/ out."

Imagine an individual of supposed intelligence praying for the death of some prominent American so that his own selfish, misguided cause might be advanced.

This from an organization that trumpets from any available podium and through any available medium their slogan, "To save one life."

What hypocrisy!

Sincerely,
J. Warren Cassidy

Addison Drive Residents Add To Unique Christmas Decorations

BY SCOTT ALVES

Residents of Addison Drive will turn on the lights at dark Dec. 4, Saturday, to display 14 Snoopy characters and 17 new cut-outs.

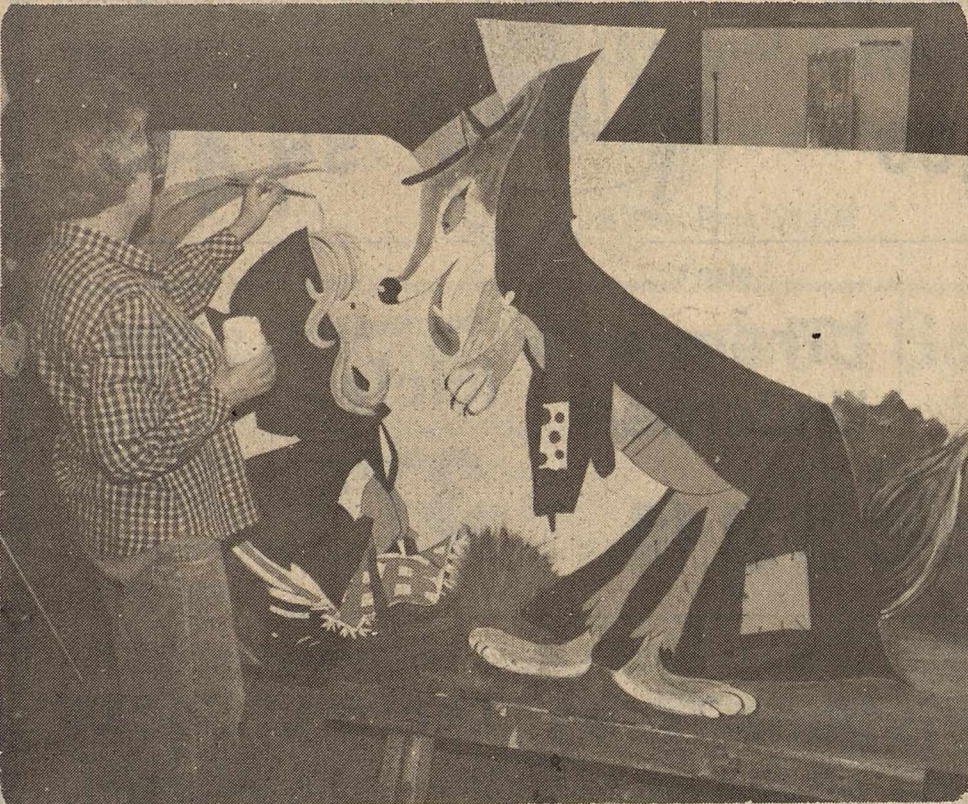

The past two years, residents have lighted their block and Snoopy figures have decorated their lawns.

This year a nativity scene, a Christmas message and storybook characters have been added.

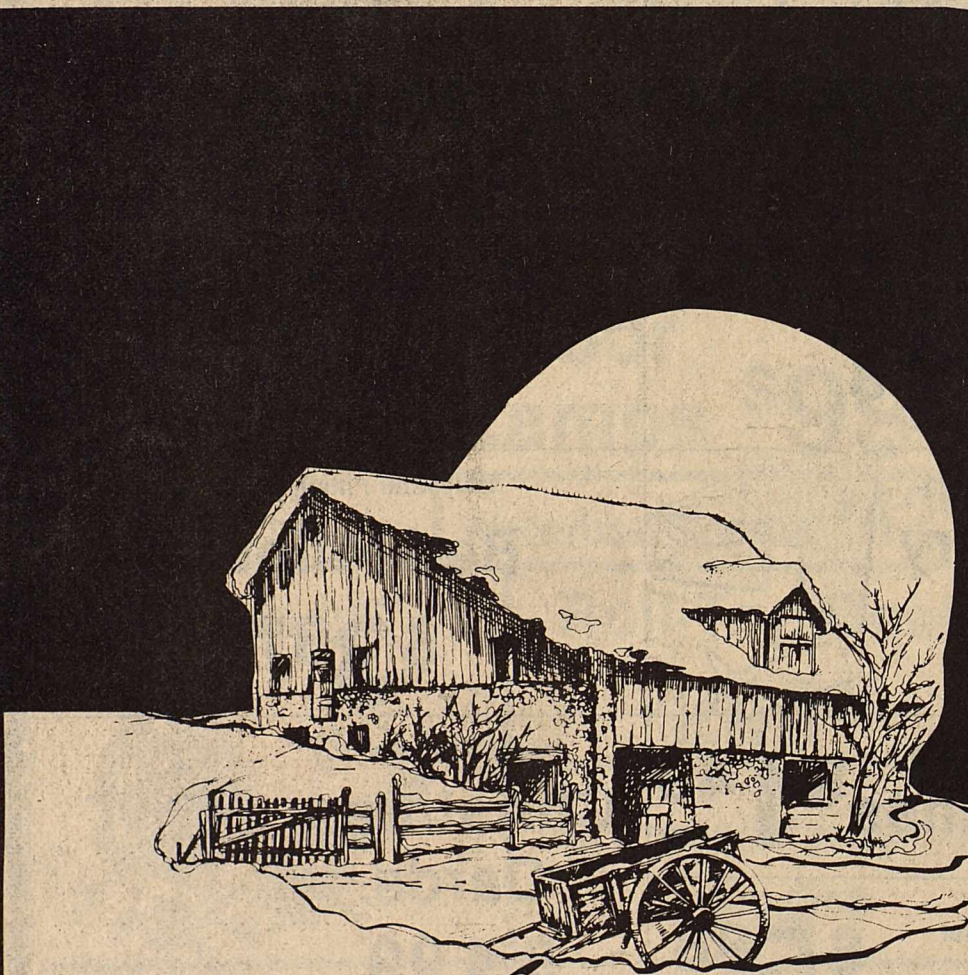

Some of the storybook characters are Little Red Riding Hood, Alice in Wonderland, Cinderella, Sesame Street, Humpty Dumpty, Snow White, Strawberry Shortcake and friends, and Santa and his reindeer.

Five weeks have been spent getting the masonite boards cut and painted.

The displays will be lighted the night of the Christmas parade and will be lighted from 6-10:30 p.m. each night through New Years, Mrs. Eunice Helwig said.

Flu Season Fast Approaching

The state's 1982-83 influenza season is not expected to be severe. But Texans by the thousands will once again rush to the drugstore—seeking relief from sneezes, coughs and fevers—only to be confused by the number of over-the-counter (OTC) medications.

Flu and drug experts at Baylor College of Medicine have a few pointers on how to avoid the emotional trauma.

Deciding what to choose begins with thinking about the symptoms you have, and treating only the serious symptoms, Robert Couch, M.D., director of Baylor's Influenza Research Center, said. Ingredients are listed on the packages of OTC medications.

If you are "stopped up," or congested, look for a medicine that has a decongestant, such as phenylpropanolamine hydrochloride or pseudoephedrine.

A runny nose can be controlled by an antihistamine, which dries up fluids, but it is recommended only for a very runny nose. One of the popular ones is chlorpheniramine.

Coughs can be helped by suppressants, such as those containing dextromethophan. A dry cough may require an expectorant—one is guaifenesin—to loosen lung fluids.

Most OTC medications for colds and flu are combinations of ingredients to treat a number of symptoms, but in this case more is not necessarily better.

"Many concoctions that contain three or more drugs will probably have something unnecessary in them," Couch said. "And the more drugs you take the more likely you are to have reactions to one of them."

He also said the amount of one or more of the combined ingredients may be too little.

The aspirin in some medications may not be enough to control your headache. It might be better to use a medication with two ingredients, such as a decongestant and cough suppressant, and take aspirin or an aspirin substitute.

The form medications are in—nose spray, nose drops, liquid, tablet or capsule—should be considered.

Frank Bennett, a registered pharmacist and Baylor graduate student, said that decongestant nose sprays and drops are effective for short term use.

"They have a fairly quick action because they are administered at the site where needed," he said. "But people can develop a tolerance to these in a matter of days, and get what is known as "rebound congestion."

Liquids usually act faster than tablets or capsules and the elderly and children seem to tolerate them better.

Bennett said that there are some individuals who should be careful about cold and flu OTC medications.

People with glaucoma, an increased pressure in eye fluids, should not take antihistamines. They tend to increase fluid pressure.

Decongestants may cause problems for diabetics and those with high blood pressure medications.

"There is probably little difference between different brands of over-the-counter medications for colds and flu," Bennett said, "if they have the same ingredients in the same dosage level."

But to be sure, Couch and Bennett suggest that people ask their doctor or pharmacist for information on cold and flu medications. And above all, see a doctor if coughing, fever or other symptoms continue for more than three to five days.

Debbie Quade Receives Award

The F.W. Martin Memorial Achievement Award is given each year to a Haskell County 4-H girl or boy by Mrs. Mary H. Martin. It was established in 1977 to honor the life and achievement of Mr. Martin, who served as Haskell County Agent from 1944 to 1967. The guidelines used to determine the winner are achievement in 4-H activities, responsible citizenship, leadership ability, scholastic excellence, and service to club, school, community, and church. These were chosen in consultation with the agents at that time, Mr. Max Stapleton and Mrs. Barbara Elliott, who was serving with Mr. Martin when he retired due to poor health. The agents make a list of 4-H members considered worthy to receive the award. Mrs. Martin contacts 4-H leaders, school officials and other interested individuals and then makes the final decision. The winner is revealed at the annual 4-H Awards Program. An engraved individual plaque is presented to the winner, whose name is a secret, and the winner's name is added to the large plaque which hangs in the agents' office. Those who have received the award in previous years are James Hopkins, Haskell; Kerry Quade, Rochester; Lynn Weatherly, Haskell; Mikeana Wilcox, Rule; and Kim Jones, Rochester. The winner for 1982 is Debbie Quade of Rochester.

Debbie is the 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Quade and a junior at Rochester High School. She has been a member of her 4-H club for the past 7 years.

During this time she has carried three main 4-H projects- sheep, foods, and clothing. Through her sheep project she has participated in the Rochester Livestock Show where she won reserve champion in 1978; the Haskell County Fair Livestock Show; the Haskell County Junior Livestock Show; the Taylor County Livestock Show; and the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show.

In her foods project she has participated in four county food shows, representing Haskell County at the District Food Show the past two years. She is currently serving as a foods project teen leader.

Debbie has been involved in five county fashion shows by being active in a 4-H clothing project. In both 1979 and 1981 she advanced to the District fashion show.

In her local 4-H club she has served as her class's representative, secr. treasurer, vice-president, alternate council delegate as well as council delegate. This year she is serving as reporter for her club.

Debbie was selected as one of the 1981 Gold Star recipients for Haskell County.

The Gold Star Award is the highest Award a 4-H member can receive from the County.

In July of this year Debbie represented Haskell County on the 1982 4-H Citizenship Shortcourse and Heritage Tour to Washington, D.C.

Debbie is also active in her school activities. She was twirler for the band the two years she was in Junior High and has been twirler the three years she has been in High School. She has also been active in basketball, track and tennis. She has competed in U.I.L. competition in both poetry interpretation and number sense. Other school activities include F.F.A., annual staff, and the school newspaper. In 1981 Debbie placed first in the school science fair.

In the summer of 1981 Debbie was chosen as a member of the Texas Lions Club Band and attended the International Lions Club Convention in Phoenix, Arizona. Also, in 1981 Debbie was the Champion Youth Exhibitor at the Haskell County Fair.

Debbie is a member of the Faith Lutheran Church at Sagerton where she is a member of Luther League.

Texas Forestry Service Offering Windbreak Seedlings

Applications are now being accepted for windbreak seedlings from the Texas Forest Service.

These seedlings, grown from seed collected in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, are produced in the Service's greenhouse in Lubbock and in a field nursery near Halfway.

Conifer species available this season include Austrian pine, ponderosa pine, Arizona cypress, redcedar and Scotch pine. These containerized seedlings cost $1 each but are sold only in multiples of 30 seedlings.

Hardwood species include bur oak, green ash, honeylocust, mulberry, native plum and Russian olive. These bare root seedlings are priced at $25 per hundred. Minimum orders of 100 seedlings will be accepted, but applicants may order 50 of one species and 50 of another. Applicants must also add a four percent state sales tax to the purchase price.

Seedlings ordered now will be ready for pickup and planting in March 1983. Tree seedlings sold by the Texas Forest Service may not be used for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

For applications and information on windbreaks, contact the Texas Forest Service, Route 3, Box 216, Lubbock, Texas 79401, (806) 746-5801. Applications are also available from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, and Agricultural Extension Agents.

Industrial Development Depends On Dedication Of Local People

If communities expect to attract industry, it will depend on the local people.

That message came through loud and clear at a recent Rural Industrial Development Workshop at Texas A&M University.

About 80 percent of all industrial development and growth is due to the efforts of local community leaders, said Jack Jones, community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, which sponsored the workshop.

Industrial development can generate jobs, increase personal income and the local economic base, and improve the environment and quality of life, Jones said.

Yet, many communities really don't want to grow and will block any efforts toward development, said Dr. James Copp, professor of sociology and rural sociology at Texas A&M.

"Small communities are surprisingly self-directing; they control their own fate," Copp said. "Many communities don't grow because local leaders don't have their 'act' together. Sometimes community leadership consists of the 'good ole' boys' who don't want 'new blood' in their group."

"What happens or doesn't happen in a community hinges around local leaders," Copp emphasized. "Community attitudes and the direction taken by community leaders must be in general agreement if a community is to prosper."

Copp listed these indicators of a good or bad climate for industrial development in a community: the Chamber of Commerce office, the C. of C. manager or executive, interlocking memberships (community leaders serving in various capacities), makeup of the Industrial Development Foundation, and the number of absentee leaders. An overabundance of absentee leaders can be the "kiss of death" to community efforts in industrial expansion, said Copp.

Communities with an Industrial Development Foundation usually grow and develop at a faster rate and often reflect a more single-minded attitude toward growth, he added.

Another speaker, Raymond Bost with Delta Steel Buildings of Dallas, offered several guidelines for community leaders interested in constructing speculative buildings to attract industry.

"Don't build a building smaller than 20,000 square feet and make sure it has an eave height of at least 20 feet," Bost said. "And don't add a lot of extras. Make sure the building will accommodate a sprinkler system for fire safety and to cut insurance costs. Of course, you need a water supply system to support the sprinkler system."

Bost added that the entire building should be insulated. He said that his company could construct such a building for about $8 per square foot (without a concrete slab).

Bost pointed out that most speculative buildings are usually occupied within six or seven months after completion.

Dr. Charles Madden with the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at Texas A&M University told workshop participants that both communities and businesses have various needs that must be considered in an industrial development program. He cited community needs as employment, tax base, consumers, economic activity, amenities and stability, and listed business or industry needs as labor, markets, transportation, utilities, buildings, financing and stability of rules.

"Local communities usually cannot provide every need of a business of industry, and no single firm can give a community everything it needs," he emphasized.

Community leaders must analyze supply and demand factors and assess market opportunities before implementing marketing plans to attract an industry, he said.

Madden also encouraged community leaders to take the initiative in attracting a new business or industry. "If your phone hasn't rung in three years, maybe it's time for you to start calling prospects," he said.

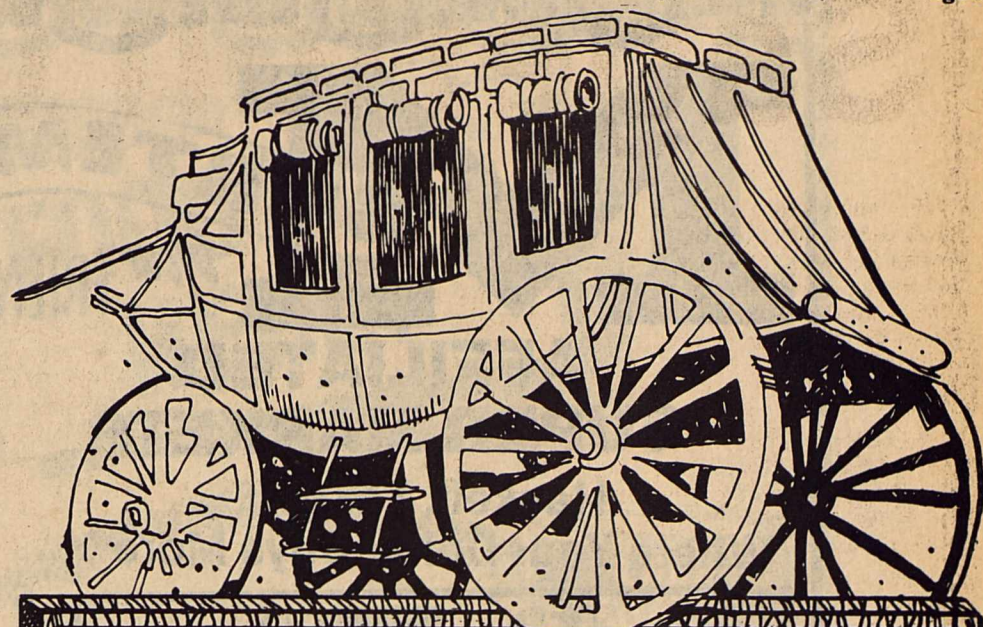

Quality, not quantity must be priority for producing engineers

COLLEGE STATION — The dean of the nation's largest engineering school says the United States must concentrate on producing quality engineers, because it will never be able to match the numbers being trained in Japan, Russia and West Germany.

"We've got to concentrate on quality because we aren't going to beat them on quantity," said Dr. Robert H. Page of Texas A&M University.

Even in the current recession, Page said, a tremendous demand for engineers still exists. There are an estimated 17,000 entry-level engineering jobs open now across the nation, he said.

The percentage of engineers and scientists in the labor force dropped 9 percent in the United States from 1968-1980 while increasing 70 percent in Japan, 62 percent in the USSR and 75 percent in West Germany, he said.

Special Week Designates National Home Care Week

The Home Health Agency of Texas, Inc. of Haskell, today announced that it plans to join in the national celebration of homecare week. The week has been set aside to pay tribute to the dedicated individuals throughout the country whose efforts allow some four million elderly, infirm or disabled individuals to receive the health and social services they need in the comforting surroundings of their own home.

Facts about Home Care

What is Home Care? Home care is any or all of a full range of health care and social services offered to patients in their homes. From home nursing to hospice care, home care is for the ill, infirm or disabled who elect to be treated at home rather than in a nursing home or hospital.

What is the profile of the Home Care patient? Home care services are available to those patients who are confined to home under the supervision of a physician. The patient may need either temporary or long term care. What services are offered through Home Care agencies? There are basically two types of services offered: health services and home chore services. Home Health Services: Home Health services are comprehensive, involving nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, dietary guidance, medical social services. Normally, a home health nurse will design a plan of treatment with a physician based on the patient's needs and lifestyles. She will help assemble a team of the above professionals based on each case.

Homemaker/Homechore Services: These services provide the kinds of personal care and assistance that are often required in addition to nursing and therapy. Activities can include bathing and personal grooming needs, helping practice of self-help skills, general housekeeping services required to keep the patient's environment safe. These aides work with the home care nurse and implement her design for care.

How many Home Care agencies are there in the country? It is estimated that there are about 5,000 home health agencies and 5,000 homemaker/homechore agencies in the United States.

The number of agencies has grown rapidly over the past several years as a result of government legislation, initially introduced by Utah Senator Frank Moss, which allow Medicare and Medicaid coverage for home health services.

How are Home Care services paid for? In many cases, most home care services are paid by Medicare, Medicaid, the Veterans Administration or other third party payers such as commercial insurers. A home care agency can be more specific about coverage for each individual case. The agency most often handles billing and paperwork, sparing the patient the burden.

How many people are served by Home Care each year? It is estimated that an average of four million people are served by home care each year.

How do Home Care costs compare to costs for comparable care in nursing homes and hospitals? Home care costs about one quarter as much as comparable care in a nursing home. An example is illustrative: a retired man received services over a three month period. He got counseling once a month, three housekeeping services a month, occasional nursing services, and two home delivered meals every day, seven days a week. The total home care costs were $10,000. Placement in a nursing home for the same care would have cost $40,000 for the same period.

Is Home Care the right choice for everyone? No, not everyone can be effectively treated at home. Some people need the kind of constant attention that can be provided in an institution. However, home care is the overwhelming choice for people who are not in need of acute care, and it can often prevent or postpone institutionalization of the patient.

Who represents the Home Care industry? The industry is represented by several trade associations. The largest and fastest growing is the Nat'l Association for Home Care located at 311 Massachusetts Ave. N.E., Washington D.C. 20002.

How can I find out about Home Care services in my community? Home Health Care can be provided locally through the Home Health Agency of Texas, Inc., located at 110 N. Ave. E in Haskell. For more information contact Cynthia Slayton RN at 864-8046.

Disability Benefits Explained Under Social Security

Disability benefits are intended to be paid only as long as a person's condition prevents substantial gainful work.

Social Security's strict definition of disability is one only the severely disabled can meet. Partial disability is not sufficient for a person to qualify for, or to remain entitled to, Social Security disability benefits.

In 1980, the Social Security Act was amended to require periodic review of all disability claims. Each claim must be reviewed at least once every three years unless it is determined a shorter or longer review period is justified.

The new law recognizes that many advances in medical science and rehabilitation techniques enable an increasing number of people to return to work after serious accidents and illnesses. For example:

*Surgery and new mechanical aids and devices improve mobility and enhance job opportunities for many individuals with orthopedic and neurological impairments.

*Coronary bypass surgery, pacemakers, and new medications enable some people with cardiovascular impairments to lead more active lives.

*Kidney dialysis enables many people to hold productive jobs.

*Microsurgery, prosthetic surgery, organ transplants, new drugs, and new methods of treatment enable additional people to overcome their handicap.

When an individual applies for disability benefits, he agrees to report promptly if he goes to work or if his medical condition improves.

The Social Security Administration has an obligation to terminate disability benefits when an individual is not disabled. The primary purpose of a continuing disability investigation is to obtain complete, current information about the disabled individual's medical condition and work activity. This information is used to determine if an individual continues to meet the definition of disability as prescribed by law.

If you have any questions about Continuing Disability Investigations or any other aspects of Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, or Medicare, you can call the Social Security office in Abilene. The number is 698-1360. They will be glad to assist you.

Lanes Named Family Of Year In Pampa

Members of the Jerry R. Lane family were surprised and honored after being selected "Family of the Year" in the third annual ceremony at the M.E. Brown Civic Auditorium Thursday night November 18, in Pampa.

The award is given annually by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), in conjunction with National Family Unity Week, according to Gary Stinnett, chairman of the Pampa "Family of the Year" selection committee.

The Lanes who live at 2007 Williston, were selected from a group of ten families nominated by area residents. Each family was interviewed by the selection committee and each family was judged on "good family qualities", Stinnett said. The award was presented to the Lanes by Pampa Mayor H.R. Thompson.

Brent Stephens, master of ceremonies for the event, called the Lanes' "a close knit" family, who work, play and worship together. He also said they don't just send their children to church, they take them to church. Jerry is the director of the First United Methodist Church choir and teaches a Sunday school class.

Jerry's wife, Mary Lou, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jetton of Rochester. The Lane's children are Jeffrey, 12, and Tammy, 10, who both sing in the church's youth choir.

As his family accepted the award, Jerry told the audience that he accepted the award "for all the families nominated".

Jerry said what makes his family strong is "the openness we have - we can talk together. If we have a problem we can all talk." He also said that children are often not given enough credit for understanding adult problems. "One night, I came home from the office kind of down", he said, "and Jeff asked, 'Did you have a hard day at the office? Do you want to talk about it?'"

Mary Lou said it's important to her that her family stay as a unit, that she and Jerry "keep the kids steered and guided right." She and Jerry own Snelling and Snelling job placement services, maintaining offices in both Pampa and Amarillo. She said she did not go to work until Tommy was in school all day, and she picks them up after school on her way home from work.

The Lanes do many things together such as dancing in the Pampa Fine Arts Association production of the Nutcracker ballet on Dec. 4. In fact when the selection committee called to ask for an interview, she asked if they could rearrange the time because the family had ballet practice.

Stephens also cited community work that the family does including the Chamber of Commerce, the Salvation Army, the Festival of Trees at Christmas, Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), the 4-H Club and their church board. They teach their children to be doers, not watchers, and to be committed, responsible and loyal, Stephens said.

The featured speaker was Donald Pinnell, president of the Amarillo stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He stressed the importance of good basic values being taught in the home, and charged parents with taking responsibility for their children, not shifted responsibility to "day care centers, classrooms, or even churches." Home is where we learn what is right and good and kind, our first church", he said.

Homemade baked goods and hot cider were served after the presentation.

Area's Top 4-H'ers Honored With Luncheon

Thirty-nine outstanding members of 4-H clubs across the Rolling Plains were honored in Vernon Tuesday, Nov. 16, with a luncheon and awards ceremony.

In addition to receiving the Gold Star Award, highest honor presented at the county level, the youths were reminded by the state director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service that this honor should mark only the beginning of a lifetime of achievement.

Joining the youths at the luncheon in the Wilbarger Memorial Auditorium were parents, government officials, Extension leaders, fellow 4-H'ers, educators and other community leaders.

Honored from Haskell County was Kim Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Jones, of Rochester.

Special awards were presented to three adults. The Rolling Plains District 4-H Council, representing the clubs in 21 counties, presented special citations to Leon Moon, formerly of Vernon, and to Finley Bradley, 4-H adult leader in Wilbarger County. Moon served the district as Extension 4-H and youth specialist until this fall, when he became executive director of the Oklahoma 4-H Foundation. His wife accepted the award for him. Bradley, in addition to other service as a volunteer leader, has served for the past 18 years as ring steward for the district 4-H horse show.

The Rolling Plains Economic Program presented a plaque to Floyd Borchardt of Crowell County for serving two terms as RPEP chairman.

Independent business loses millions through employee theft

COLLEGE STATION — Physicians, dentists, veterinarians and other professionals in business for themselves annually lose millions of dollars to secretaries or receptionists handling office finances, says a Texas A&M University accounting professor.

"Last year an estimated $500 million was lost by dentists, physicians and veterinarians through employee theft," says Dr. Carlton Stolle of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration. "An estimated 15 percent will be victimized at some time during their careers."

Stolle said to avert the situation professionals should check potential employees' backgrounds before hiring them. In addition, he said hiring more than one person to take care of office finances might act to keep individuals from temptation.

He said prenumbered receipts and making sure all receipts are accounted for will help divert employees away from theft. He also suggests reconciliations be made each day for cash deposits.

View Industrial Products Support Joint Venture

The employees of View Industrial Products, Inc. of Tye, have a special interest in the 4th annual Joint Venture for Crippled Children Oilfield Equipment and Services Sale on December 1st at the Abilene Civic Center.

When President Don Weaver decided he wanted to donate some equipment to the auction, which benefits the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, he brought it up to his employees. They responded with a proposal: the company would furnish all of the raw materials and the employees would manufacture the stripper rubbers (production equipment), which are used in well heads. They would donate the finished products for sale to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center for auction.

So one night this past week, employees Ken Baugh, John Cary, Terry Monroe, Troy Pinkston, Zeke Ramos, and Barry Weaver stayed late after regular working hours to donate thirty hours of manpower to manufacture ten 2" HW Hinderlite, ten 2" Larkin R, and ten 2" K stripper rubbers valued at a total of $2,600.00.

"This project was a joint venture effort between management and employees for the Rehab Center," stated Don Weaver. "As the Joint Venture for Crippled Children is a project between the members of the oil industry and the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, this is our special way to participate. We hope it helps," he added.

The auction benefits the handicapped children and adults who are treated at no charge at the campuses in San Angelo, Abilene, and Snyder. The Joint Venture for Crippled Children was formed in 1978 by representatives of the oil and gas industry who wanted to establish a giving program to give recognition to the contributions of the petroleum industry. Weaver and his crew are perfect examples of this giving.

Donations of equipment, products, services, or supplies will be available for sale at the auction following the Barbecue in the Exhibit Hall. Tickets for lunch are $6.00 each and may be purchased at the door from members of the Abilene Desk and Derrick club.

Search Underway For 1982 Texas Rural Hero

The search is under way for Texas' rural hero of 1982.

The Rural Heroism Award, sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, is presented each year to some person judged to have performed an act of exceptional bravery during a time of crisis, according to Ben Bullard, Council president and assistant safety director of the Texas Farm Bureau.

March 1, 1983, is the deadline for entries to be received by the Rural Heroism Award Committee, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, P.O. Box 489, Waco, Texas 76703.

The heroic act or human-life-saving deed must have occurred within Texas during 1982 and should be related to farming or ranching operations.

Nominations should include a written account of the incident and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all persons involved. Newspaper clippings and pictures should also accompany the nominations, if available.

The award will be presented at the Monday morning opening general session of the 44th Annual Texas Safety Conference and Exposition, April 25, 1983, at the Shamrock-Hilton Hotel in Houston.

'Agriculture's problems aren't new. Neither is PCA.'

Production Credit Association. It isn't a government program, it's your locally owned farm credit cooperative. They've been around since the Great Depression, and lending for agriculture is all they do. Of course times have changed in almost 50 years, and so has PCA. Today they emphasize management, cash flow projections and marketing. And the knowledgeable folks at Production Credit are ready to help member-borrowers with those things. One thing the Depression taught us is that it's a lot easier to stay out of financial trouble than it is to get out once you're there.

Rex Allen

Sure times are tough for agriculture...but that's when you need PCA's kind of help. If you're a first class operator, PCA should be your first choice for agricultural credit.

Sales Of Federal Surplus Real Estate

Everyone knows that national parks and military bases belong to the government. But the government also owns a great deal more real estate throughout the United States. On occasion some of these properties become surplus, and the government sells them.

During the next year, the U.S. General Services Administration expects to sell as many as 500 pieces of real estate ranging in size from small vacant lots to huge industrial plants. They include everything from office buildings to farmland. To let the public know what is available and how they can go about purchasing the property, GSA is publishing a monthly listing entitled Sales of Federal Surplus Real Estate. It includes information on bidding for the land as well as what will be for sale within the next three months. For your free copy of the Sales of Federal Surplus Real Estate, send your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 587L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Government surplus property is generally sold by competitive sealed bid, at public auction, and through private real estate brokers. All bidders should be prepared to submit an earnest money deposit of 10% of the bid and to pay for the property on an all cash basis at closing.

When the land is sold by sealed bid, prospective buyers will receive an invitation to bid form containing the terms and conditions of sale, description of the property, and complete instructions for bidding. Bids must be submitted, along with the required deposit, by a specified bid opening date to the appropriate GSA regional office. Bids are opened and read publicly on the bid date. If the highest bid is acceptable, the successful bidder is notified and an award is made, usually within 60 days. Deposits are returned promptly to all unsuccessful bidders when they are notified of the rejection of their bid.

When the property is sold at a public auction, all bidders must put down a deposit before the bidding begins. The amount of deposit will be announced in the publicity for the sale.

Complex special purpose properties, such as industrial plants or military sites, may be offered for sale through professional real estate brokers. They are chosen from lists of brokers maintained by GSA regional offices. The brokers provide wide public notice of the property for sale and other brokerage services consistent with usual com-

Aggie profs author guide-book on succeeding in college

COLLEGE STATION — College students make more bad grades because of family and personal problems than lack of ability, says the co-author of a book on how-to-succeed-in-college.

Dr. Rod O'Connor, professor of chemistry and director of Texas A&M University's first-year chemistry program, says the failure rate of college students could be cut dramatically if such problems could be resolved so they wouldn't "mess up grades."

"I've seen more F's because the students are too tired, in the midst of a girlfriend/boyfriend fight, their parents are getting a divorce or they just aren't eating right," O'Connor said.

After years of teaching freshmen, O'Connor and fellow chemist Dr. Tom Taylor have formalized the book titled "Toward Success in College." The book began about 10 years ago as a pamphlet designed to help incoming students. It is currently being marketed nationally by Burgess Publishing of Minneapolis, Minn.

cial practices.

There is one thing that anyone who is interested in buying any of this government surplus land should know: all property is sold on an "as is, where is" basis. Therefore, it is imperative to visit any property you are interested in and to inspect it carefully.

Once you have been selected as the buyer, it is yours, and there is no backing out because the condition was different than you thought.

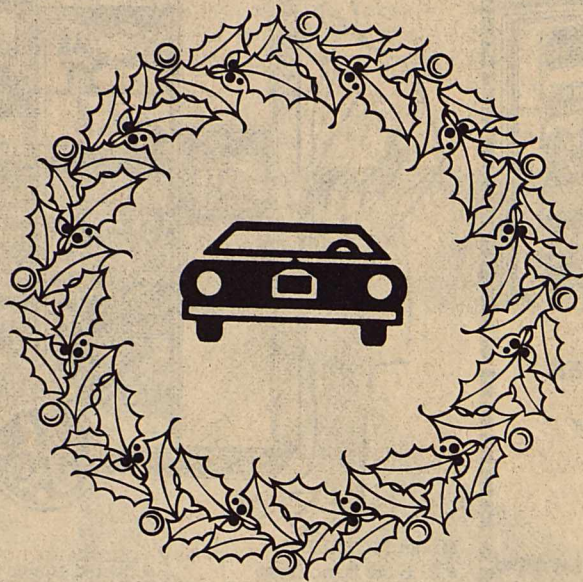

If you think that you might be interested in buying some of the property that the government has declared surplus, remember, this is not a case of homesteading where the land is free or sold cheaply. You will be paying a price based on current fair market value for the area.

To learn more, including what properties are being sold in your area, send for a copy of the Sales of Federal Surplus Real Estate (free). At the same time, you will receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 free and moderately priced books from the federal government.
