Two Brothers Plead Not Guilty In McMath Kidnaping; Trial Is Delayed

TWINKLES
C. A. Clark tells a funny yarn about being caught in "a sea of water" on an open prairie near Guyman, Okla., last week. He swears the water was a foot deep and that he actually grew sick looking at the waves. You must believe it, for "a scout is truthful."

C. H. Walker, onetime school teacher at Clifton, Tenn., tells us that T. S. Stribling, Pulitzer prize winner for his novel of the south, "The Store," was his (Hub's) pupil "way back." Mr. Walker says Stribling was a poor pupil, "always wanting to read something besides the lesson." He had a very bright sister, whom the world will probably never know.

Raymond C. Wilson tosses the auditor's report at us with the remark that "there ought to be an editorial in that." We looked it over and nearly choked on the statistics. Maybe we'll tell you a bit about it tomorrow.

The NEWS has a new society editor, Miss Sue Vinson of the Children's Index. Miss Vinson is a smart young newspaperwoman and experienced too. She will be an able successor to Mrs. Hinkle who has worked so faithfully and long that the doctors have advised her to take a rest. Happy in her association with the women of Pampa, she will not retire from local club and social events but will be spared the hard routine of daily editing the women's department.

The women's department of this newspaper is ranked in newspaper circles as one of the best in all West Texas. This is easy to understand when we say that Pampa women are among the most active and well-organized in West Texas. We think it only fair to say that the liberal space and display which THE NEWS' women's editors have given to these activities have greatly encouraged local social organization. This policy will continue unchanged.

DOPE AND CRIME

Charles A. Guy in Lubbock Journal.
Nearly everyone will agree that the increase in crime in this country in the past decade is regrettable. The fact that more and more of our citizens are turning their efforts to lawless gain is enough to bring public attention to the condition.

But what is really worse—and what is really more important to us all—is the fact that day by day the age of the average criminal is decreasing.

(The depression has made many criminals of those who might, with jobs under honest supervisors, have gone straight. But there is much crime due to another cause—DOPE. The depression of a dope addict without his periodical "shot" knows no bounds. Reason deserts a man suffering the lack of his stimulant. Violence is committed by many persons who in their right minds would be guilty of at least no more than petty thieving. Dope peddling is ONE OF PAMPA'S CHIEF LAW ENFORCEMENT PROBLEMS RIGHT NOW.)

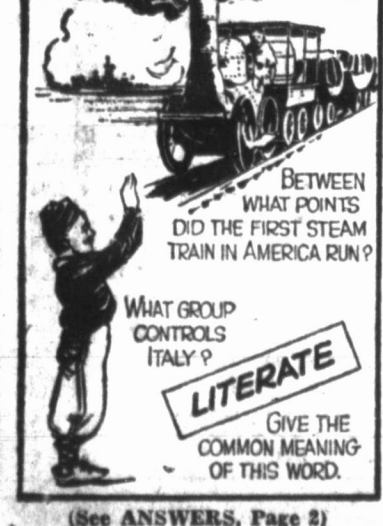

HARNESS THE WIND?

C. E. Clark in Children's Index:
An unfolded business form bearing the name of a Miami automobile company was picked up on a Childress street. The paper must have been carried here by the wind, sailing 90 miles or more—just an old type of air mail.

KENNETH BUCK SAYS SOMEONE ELSE INVOLVED

CLAIMS ANOTHER RAN AWAY, LEAVING HIM TO TAKE BLAME

HEAVY BAIL IS FIXED

EACH BEING HELD ON $100,000; CASES SET MAY 22

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., May 8. (P)—Kenneth and Cyril Buck, brothers, pleaded not guilty today to the kidnaping of 10-year-old Margaret McMath. Kenneth asked a continuance of his case and agreed with District Attorney William Crossley on May 22 but Cyril asked an immediate hearing.

The cases of both, however, were continued to May 22 and each ordered held in $100,000 bail.

While sitting in the prisoners' box awaiting arraignment, Kenneth Buck today told reporters that there was some one else involved in the crime who ran away and left him to take the blame.

The two brothers were taken back to the Barnstable jail.

District Attorney Crossley, in addressing the court, described the case as one of "the greatest importance" and of a nature requiring heavy bail.

He pointed out that in murder cases defendants are not permitted to be released on bail and that if the commonwealth's contentions are correct, kidnaping may be a great deal worse than murder in many cases.

"I respectfully ask the court to set bail at $100,000 for each prisoner," he said.

Judge Robert A. Welsh, 30-year-old jurist, sitting on his first important case since his appointment a few weeks ago, considered the argument for several moments.

"Mr. Crossley has referred to murder cases," he said. "This is not a murder case. But kidnaping is one of the most heinous crimes there is because of the worry and mental strain on those affected by it. After due consideration, I set the bail at $100,000 for each prisoner and continue their cases until May 22."

1933 Seniors To Celebrate Class Day On Tuesday

Exciting days are here for high school students of Pampa, and grade pupils too—the closing days of school are upon them.

This is the last week of classes for freshmen, sophomores, and juniors of the high school. The latter part of the week will be used for reviews. Seniors have completed their class work and their examinations will start Wednesday. Other classes will have their exams next week.

Senior class day will be tomorrow, with exercises lasting from 10 to 12 a. m. in the gymnasium. The public is invited to see the seniors in their glory.

The high school vespers service will be held next Sunday at 5 p. m. at the First Methodist church with the Rev. C. E. Lancaster in charge. This replaces the customary night service of other years. High school commencement will be at the First Baptist church May 18.

Grade school commencements of next week are being arranged separately.

CARDINAL DIES

ROME, May 8. (P)—Cardinal Geretti, former auditor of the Apostolic delegation at Washington, died of pneumonia today.

Charlie Carpenter, J. W. Ivey, and J. O. Wilkins are here on business from McLean.

I HEARD--

KIWANIS MEMBERS SEEK CONTINUANCE OF AGENT'S WORK

REASON why, in their opinion, the work of the Gray county home demonstration agent should not be discontinued June 1 were given the county commissioners this morning by Lewis O. Cox, Dan McGrew, Guy E. McTaggart, and Alex Schneider, representing the Kiwanis club.

Petitions bearing several hundred names and asking continuance of the home demonstration were given the county at the same time. It was stated that every member of the Kiwanis club had signed the petitions.

Mr. Cox, former county commissioner, pointed out that the budget for this year included the county's part of the demonstrator's salary. He said that women and taxpayers of every part of the county had signed the petitions.

"We think this would be the best money the county could spend, and we ask you to re-consider your action," said Mr. McTaggart, who pointed out how the work had spread into the oil camps during the last year.

This was borne out by Mr. McGrew, superintendent of the Magnolia Pipeline company, who said he considered the work so valuable that to discontinue it would be an unwise economy.

Mr. Schneider, chairman of the Welfare Board, credited the home demonstration work with keeping many persons off the welfare list, particularly through canning and general food conservation.

Various commissioners, especially H. G. McCleskey, asked questions. Club women were to appear before the court this afternoon.

Little Theater Officers To Be Chosen Tonight

Election of officers for next year will take place at the regular meeting of the Little Theater tonight in the club room of the city hall. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

A nominating committee of which Mrs. William T. Fraser is chairman will submit a report. It will contain nominations for the various offices in the Little Theater. Mrs. E. M. Conley is president of the organization.

All members were urged to be present at the meeting this evening. A program will be given preceding the election of officers, Mrs. Ruth McConnell, program chairman announced.

Membership dues for next year will be payable tonight. All present members are being urged to pay their dues. Any persons interested in the Little Theater work are cordially invited to attend the meeting tonight and join the organization if they desire.

Alanreed Youth Struck By Car—In Hospital Here

Jewell Snider, Alanreed youth, is in Worley hospital with an injured back and probable internal injuries as the result of being struck by an automobile in Alanreed last night. After receiving first aid treatment in Alanreed, he was brought to Pampa in a Stephenson ambulance.

The injured youth and four others were on their way home from church when a car, driven by an Amarillo man, ran into the group. The other three were only slightly hurt. The motorist stopped his car and gave all the aid and information possible.

W. W. Cumberledge, J. A. Davis, Frank Shields, R. H. Gohmert, Chas. Buss, Jack Jagers, and Keith Pierce of LeFors are attending court here.

Lindberghs on Dumas Ranch

Cowboy Rode up on Ship in Ranch 45 Miles North of Amarillo, Yesterday.

AMARILLO, May 8. (P)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh spent Saturday night in their plane on the R. S. Coon ranch about 45 miles almost due north of Amarillo, it was learned today.

A cowboy reported that he rode upon the plane about 9 a. m. Sunday, in the middle of a 12-section pasture on the 30,000-acre Coon ranch. He said the Lindberghs probably were three or four miles from a ranch house, and six or eight miles from the town of Pampa.

He said the Lindberghs apparently had spent a comfortable night on the prairie. The sandstorm which forced them down as they attempted to fly direct to Kansas City from Albuquerque, N. M., quieted with nightfall, and a full moon lighted the shadowless plains almost as bright as day.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 8. (P)—None the worse from battling a severe sandstorm that forced them to land in an isolated section of the

GANDHI FREED FROM PRISON; FAST STARTS

DOCTORS BELIEVE FAST WOULD MEAN HIS DEATH

MAHATMA IS ADAMANT

WILL UNDERGO ORDEAL EVEN IF TEMPLES ARE OPENED

POONA, India, May 8. (P)—The Mahatma Gandhi was released from prison tonight a few hours after he had started an "unconditional" fast, planned the last three weeks, which he declared he would not terminate even if every temple was opened to India's untouchables and the stain of untouchability wholly removed.

The wrinkled little 63-year-old nationalist leader began the ordeal at noon in the presence of an assemblage of devoted and friends, deeply moved at the thought that he might be entering the final phase of his eventful life in his new protest against untouchability and the caste system. Doctors said the fast would mean his death.

He issued this statement just after beginning the fast:

"Every day brings me fresh justification for the ordeal which God and truth have sent me. The discoveries I have been making would have paralyzed me but for my fast and whatever it may mean for the cause, it will certainly be my saving. Whether I survive or not is of little moment. Built as I am, these fasts are indispensable. I confess I have no strength but what God gives me but it has never failed me hitherto and gives me confidence that it will not fail me now."

Gandhi said the fast was intended to remove bitterness, purify hearts and make clear that his movement in behalf of the untouchables is wholly moral.

An amelioration of conditions for the fast was considered certain to be provided with his release from jail. He has been held there since Jan. 4, 1932, in connection with his civil disobedience campaign against British rule.

House Opposes Oil Dictator In Texas Industry

AUSTIN, May 8. (P)—The Texas house of representatives today followed the lead of the senate and adopted a resolution urging President Roosevelt to take no action toward appointing a federal oil dictator.

The senate resolution was passed last week.

Verbiage of the house resolution was almost identical with that passed by the senate. It stated that the Texas legislature recently had conducted an inquiry into the oil industry and found no ground for federal control.

Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville said the "big boys want an oil dictator so they can control the oil industry."

FORMS FOR EXTENDING LOANS TO WHEAT FARMERS EXPECTED HERE THIS WEEK—MEETING ANNOUNCED

Committees To Meet At Amarillo To Consider Extension Of Loans

FORMS necessary for making summer fallow and wheat loans from the government are expected here during the week, according to Reuben R. Cook, chairman of the Gray county committee.

While cotton loans have been handled as to applications at McLean, wheat loans will be arranged in Pampa by Roy Bouldand and B. E. Finley, members of the committee, and a farmer-member to be appointed.

O. W. Sherrill of Dallas, regional manager, has written to county chairman of the wheat area as follows:

"We will hold a general information and instruction meeting at the Herring hotel in Amarillo at 10 o'clock Saturday, May 13. Forms and other information will be delivered to the committees. The next two and one-half weeks thereafter will be devoted to clearing these loans under the extended crop production loan act recently passed by congress."

"The wheat loan period will close Wednesday, May 31, and you should give all due publicity to the facts and we will hold committees, bankers, chambers of commerce, county agents and business interests of the wheat area responsible that proper publicity be given to those people interested and needing loans and see that they are served during the above 16-day loan period."

"We, therefore, urge and request every committee member and others who will be interested in taking applications to be present at the Amarillo meeting, Saturday, May 13, without fail. It is my suggestion that you bring along any additional bankers and newspaper representatives so that there may be no delay. It will be the desire and expectation of this office to hold this emergency job to the absolute minimum expense; therefore, any voluntary typists, stenographers, county judges, county agents, or others who can aid during the 16-day loan period will operate under the direction of the respective county committees. We received assurance yesterday from the Federal Land bank that their farm loan association secretary-treasurers would be available to aid in the program where they had borrowers concerned."

"Have your people in readiness to make their applications as early and as rapidly as possible. The program should be continued and pushed, now that the territory is beginning to have general rains. The Dallas office will be prepared to clear the loan program quickly."

"With confidence in the future, and depending upon you to see that your county is properly served, we are leaving the matter in your hands."

Creed Bogan, D. M. Davis, Chas. E. Cook, J. M. Noel, Jim Back, Sammy A. Cubine, H. C. Rippy, R. S. Jordan, and J. S. Tidwell are here from McLean.

Welfare Board To Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Pampa Welfare Board will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the chamber of commerce rooms in the city hall. Mrs. W. H. Davis, manager, will make a report on the welfare convention she attended in San Antonio last week. She will also give a report of local conditions.

The board will discuss curtailment of activities during the summer months. Chairman Alex Schneider desires all members to be present. Important steps will be taken at the meeting.

DEBT PAYMENT PLAN OPPOSED UNANIMOUSLY

CABINET DECLINES TO ACT WITHOUT A MORATORIUM

HERRIOT GIVES REPORT

U. S. STILL EXPECTING PAYMENT OF JUNE 15 INSTALLMENTS

PARIS, May 8. (P)—The French cabinet today unanimously took a flat stand against the payment to the United States of the defaulted interest due last December 15 without a guarantee of a moratorium on the June 15 debt payment.

The cabinet came to this conclusion after a thorough examination of the report presented to Premier Daladier by Edouard Herriot, who recently returned from Washington, with M. Herriot's observation.

WASHINGTON, May 8. (P)—News of the decision of the French cabinet on war debts demanding a guarantee of moratorium on the June 15 payment was received with some disappointment in administration circles.

It was reiterated authoritatively that the United States is still expecting the European debtors to pay the June 15 installments, at least partly.

Jury Attitude On 3.2 Beer To Be Known Soon

The attitude of the grand jury toward 3.2 per cent beer and possibility of securing convictions for its sale may be indicated soon.

In two instances, men have been bound over for grand jury action on charges of selling the beverage which is legal in some states, but as yet illegal in Texas. The grand jury will convene Wednesday.

The district court convened today and at noon one juror was lacking in the trial of O. C. Williams on a liquor indictment. Curtis Douglas of Panhandle was representing Williams.

Santa Fe Tool House Is Looted

The Santa Fe tool house in the Pampa yards was entered sometime between Saturday night and last night and clothing and tools were stolen, according to a report received by city officers this morning. The house on the door was smashed.

A jacket, two pairs of overalls, a wrench, and a set of pipe dies were taken.

Officers received a telephone call from Brooker to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet De Luxe sedan stolen at that town last night. No trace of the car has been found here.

Fourteen Negroes Plead Not Guilty

Fourteen negroes pleaded not guilty to charges of gaming in city court this morning when arraigned before Judge J. H. Blythe, who set their bond at $25 each. The negroes were arrested in a rooming house in the "flats" by city officers who staged a raid.

A local man and 20 bottles of the new 3.2 per cent beer said this morning to county officers this morning. He was arrested by city officers last night.

Other city arrests included six for drunkenness, two for traffic violations, and one for "mooning" on the streets.

Building Permit Issued for P. O.

Pampa's building permit record was measurably enhanced this morning when the Stibbard Construction company took out a permit for the new federal building.

The amount was $131,380. This will probably be increased before the building is completed.

FRANCE STILL SEEKS SECURITY

If the war-weary shade of old George Clemenceau stalks within ear-shot of troubled Europe these days, it must be entertaining some curious reflections on the vanity of human endeavors.

At the Versailles peace conference, Clemenceau had but one slogan—Security for France. Everything else was subordinated to this; by sheer force of his personality and skill at negotiation, Clemenceau wove this thesis into the treaty.

Wilson was there, trying vainly to get a peace based on his 14 points, a peace of justice and clemency; and Lloyd George, for all that he had just campaigned across on a "Hang the Kaiser!" platform, was ready to help him. But Clemenceau triumphed. France was to be rendered forever safe from attack. Whatever happened, the old militaristic clique in Germany was to be made impotent. There would be no more threats from across the Rhine.

Well, Clemenceau had his way. The treaty was his, in its essentials. Germany was left crushed, France rose triumphant.

And today, less than 15 years after that treaty was put together, the menace from beyond the Rhine is on its feet again. The peace of Europe is once more threatened by the old Franco-German quarrel. The old militaristic crowd has been revived. France talks openly of her readiness to fight for what she has gained. Bayonets glisten among half a dozen frontiers.

This, then, is the final fruits of the treaty which, if it did nothing else, was to remove France forever from the danger of war with Germany.

Idealist Wilson and Cynic Clemenceau met, and the cynic won; and the current of world history today seems to be bent on proving that the cynic was not as good a guide for practical affairs as the idealist would have been.

Some day, perhaps, we shall learn that of all men the hard-headed, disillusioned and severely "practical" man can be the least reliable of leaders. The scheme that the visionary Wilson outlined in 1918 was probably very impractical; but would it have resulted in a worse all-around mess than the one which now threatens the peace of the world?

IN MEMORIAM
He has gone away and left us,
His life so quickly fled,
His mother's heart was broken,
When they told her he was dead.

Bill was a gay young fellow,
And we know it's awful sad
For his gentle, loving mother,
And his broken-hearted dad.

How we know that they Will miss him as they journey
here below,
And we hope we can cheer them
Through some kindness we may show.

We know the Heavenly Father does Things for the best and it was
For some good reason that
Their boy was called to rest.

Perhaps his death will be a warning
For some other one he loved,
We hope that he shall
Meet him in a better world above.

Wells Will Tell About Exposition

A mechanical man 10 feet high and made from a transparent substance called "celion" will be one of the official entertainers at Chicago's Century of Progress exposition, according to Carver Wells, Continental Oil company radio star, who will devote his regular broadcast period Wednesday night, May 10, to his second exposition program.

The unusual celion robot in the hall of science, says Wells, can eat cucumber salad and half baked pork and digest both while you watch the entire process. You can also watch his blood circulate, and if you push the right button, he will sing soprano, alto, tenor, or bass-to order. Other marvels include the "fever machine," which increases your temperature, the Thyatron Organ, and a miniature, transparent oil refinery in operation.

The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on stations WFAP, WOAI or KTHS on Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock.

'Ma' Grants Two Pardons, 2 Parole

AUSTIN, May 8. (P)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson issued two full pardons, one conditional pardon and two general paroles today, and Ryan Barnett, convicted in Hood county for theft and given five years and Tell Bartley, convicted in Parker county for attempted criminal assault and sentenced to two years, were pardoned. Barnett was convicted in December 1931 and Bartley was convicted in April 1932. A conditional pardon was given Ernest Golpin, convicted in January 1927 of murder by a Jefferson county jury and given 50 years. General paroles went to Martin Vance, Collin county, murder and violating prohibition law, four years, convicted in October 1931, and Jimmie R. Adair, Kendall county, murder, five years convicted in July 1931.

Firestone Model Tire Plant Will Be Fair Feature

CHICAGO, May 8.—Final approval was given on equipment to be used in the ultra-modern tire factory of the Firestone building at A Century of Progress by Harvey S. Firestone Jr., who came to Chicago from Akron to inspect the model plant.

"Visitors to the fair will actually see a tire plant in full operation—every step of manufacture being carried on just as in our plant at Akron," Mr. Firestone said. "In addition to the plant there will be several outstanding attractions of scientific interest and entertainment for all."

The rubber manufacturer, in company with Daniel H. Burnham, vice president of the exposition, outlined the various steps taken before tires are ready to be placed on the car.

First in the production line is the mixing mill with its huge rolls, "masticating" bales of crude rubber just as they are received from Firestone plantations in Liberia, Africa. In this mixing mill crude rubber will be transformed by the addition of various chemicals and pigments into a commercial material suitable for tires.

"Gum-dipping" is the next operation to be seen at the fair tire factory. This is the process by which every fiber of the cotton cords used in the tire is completely impregnated with rubber. Beyond is the calendar, a massive piece of machinery, through the rolls of which a steady supply of cotton cords pass, and are coated on both sides under tremendous pressure with a layer of rubber, ready to be used as plies of the finished product.

Another interesting machine, known as the "extruder" is similar to a huge meat grinder. Compound rubber is fed into its hopper, and forced out in a steady flow in the shape required for use as the tread of the tire. The calendared cotton cords go to the bias butter, where it is cut into plies.

A next process shows the actual building of the tire as the plies, beads, tread and other parts of the tire converge and are quickly and accurately assembled under the deft hand of the builder. Automatic devices aid him in his craft and make the operation practically continuous.

Markets New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 8. (P)—Stocks and grains, holding firm most of the day, turned irregularly lower in the late trading when the American dollar displayed rallying tendencies in foreign exchange markets and French bonds slumped. Losses were not severe, although several of the leaders were down a point or more at the finish. Transfers approximated 3,100,000 shares.

J. M. Farris of McLean was in Pampa this morning.

In fact, every process will be vividly dramatized for the millions of Americans who will visit the fair this summer and fall.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 8. (P)—General selling carried grain prices downward early today, despite President Roosevelt's definite statement of a purpose to push inflation. Speculative buying of wheat was of much less volume than has recently been witnessed. Opening unchanged to 1/2 lower, wheat soon fell to about a cent a bushel under Saturday's finish. Corn started unchanged to 1/2 off, and subsequently advanced.

Profit-taking at the last however wiped out virtually all the corn price gains. Corn closed irregular, at 1/2 decline to 1/2 advance, compared with Saturday's finish, wheat 1/2 cent down, oats 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, and provisions showing 22 to 40 cents gain.

CHICAGO, May 8. (P)—Poultry, steady; hens 12; leghorn hens 10 1/2; roosters 8 1/2, No. 2, 6; turkeys 11-14; spring ducks 11-12; old ducks 9-11; geese 7; leghorn broilers 16; rock broilers 20-23; colored broilers 18-21.

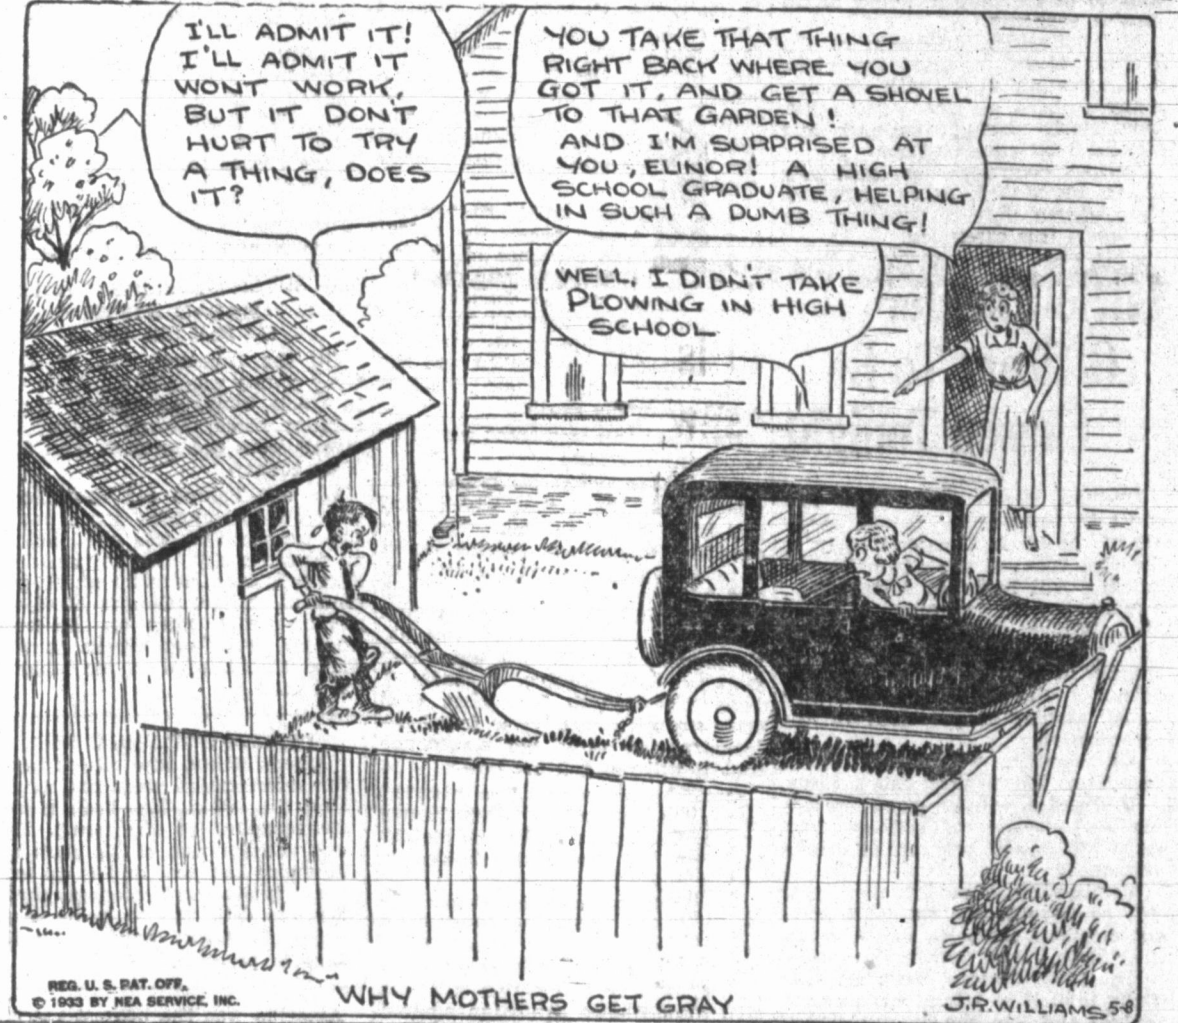

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, May 8. (P)—U. S. Dept. Agr.—Hogs 7,000; 5-10 higher; top $3.80 on 100-200 lbs.; packing sows, $2.75-5.50; $3.25-5.00; stock pigs, good and choice, 70-130 lbs., $2.75-3.25.
Cattle 9,000; calves 1,000; killing classes steady to 25 higher; stockers and feeders steady to strong; steers, good and choice, 550-1,500 lbs., $4.50, $6.75; cows, good, $2.00-5.00; veners (milk fed), medium to choice, $3.50-$6; stock r and feeder steers, good and choice, $4.75-$6.25.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, May 8. (P)—Cotton opened easier today with cables lower than due although sterling was somewhat higher. First trades here showed losses of 8 to 10 points and the market continued to ease after the start on hedge-selling and some selling based on the president's pronouncements against speculation.

The market was fairly active all morning. Following the early dip, prices advanced on firm stocks and higher prices for wheat, coupled with a good trade and price fixing demand and considerable buying by traders. July traded up to $8.61, October to $8.84 and December to $9.00, up 20 to 23 points from the early lows to levels 6 to 7 points above Saturday's close.

Near mid-session, prices reacted to three points on some profit-taking but the undertone continued firm.

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Two murders have been committed and two attempts have been made on Jim Sundeau's life, the last of which would have been successful. All are connected. Sundeau and the detective David Lorn believe, with an attempt to steal the tokens by means of which, Sundeau, their fellow guest in a little French hotel, must claim her half of her father's vast fortune. Sundeau, although suspected of the murders by the French police, is chiefly concerned about the safety of his father's estate.

Chapter 27 WHEN THE SMOKE?

It was very cold, and the glow from the red ashes still lighted the room sufficiently for me to see that there was no one about and the table before the door was undisturbed.

My shoulder throbbed as I pulled a dressing gown around me and went to the window. One casement was already a little open, and I pulled it wider and opened the shutters and looked down into the street.

There was no one about, and I closed the shutters and, partially, the window again.

There was the courtyard. Cautiously I moved the table away and opened the door. No one was in the long, half-dark corridor. Across the shadowy court the window made bright rectangles of light, and I could see two policemen; they sat at a small table directly under the light and were placidly playing some kind of card game.

The men were not smoking, although, if they had been, the odor would never have reached my room. But behind me the whole north wing was deserted and silent. I walked carefully along its length, even opened, very cautiously, a door or two near my own room. But the rooms were black cavities, and the air that rushed to meet me was cold and stale and had that peculiarly musty, dank smell of rooms that are very old and have been empty for a long time.

Moreover, the smell of tobacco smoke was much fainter here—was indeed so faint that I was not sure it was there at all. It was only when I returned to my room that it was definite and strong again. I closed the door, puzzled, and snapped on the light.

It puzzled me so much that I examined the room and adjoining bathroom. There was no one there, of course, and no evidence that anyone had been there. I even looked for hidden entrances to my room, feeling a little silly and melodramatic about it, but thinking still that there might be some such thing in that old place, built in the days when secret doors were the most matter-of-fact of arrangements.

But there was nothing; indeed, there was no place for anything except behind the enormous wardrobe, and if I moved that I should reuse the whole hotel in the process, for it was very heavy and large.

However, I did drift into uneasy dreams again, and by morning the odor of tobacco smoke—a silly and trivial thing at its clearest—had merged into those dreams and no longer seemed important, although I told Lorn about it when I saw him.

That was when we met in the lounge after breakfast.

MARIANNE, red-eyed and dark and somehow sullen, had brought in the breakfast tray and bounced out again. All her giggles were gone, poor child. I wondered what little Marcel had been to her.

Lorn listened politely, but without much interest, to my story of the tobacco smoke—which did, in fact, sound extremely trivial and fanciful by the light of day—said in a listless way that it was probably a policeman somewhere, but that he would try to make sure; asked how my shoulder was and said he was off to try to discover what the police were doing.

The matter of Father Robert's alibi would, I thought, wait more important investigations, though I felt that the sooner we came to a conclusion about the information little Marcel had given me the better.

I followed Lorn through the small lobby and into the court. No one was in the lobby, but Father Robert was sitting outside in the court; he was smoking and hastily put up a newspaper as he saw me and began to read assiduously.

Pucci was sitting disconsolately on a chair back near the priest, and took another chair. It was rather disconcerting to see a policeman's head and blue cap pop out from around the wall by the entrance arch, survey me unblinkingly and leisurely and then pop back again in a way that left no doubt in the world that I had actually the closest of company.

Suspiciously I sniffed at the tobacco the priest was smoking, could no trace in it the fragrance of the tobacco smoke that had inexplicably drifted into my room during the night and fell to speculating regarding that enigmatical figure. Why had he taken so much trouble about an alibi?

The fact that he had so carefully arranged a needless alibi was in itself suspicious. Highly suspicious, I told myself, looking at his long black legs and American shoes. He'd explained the shoes when he'd said casually that he'd spent two years in America.

But it suddenly struck me that his beard itself was a suspicious point. As a rule, only missionary priests or Russian priests wear beards, and he had the appearance of being neither. And yet, if assumed for purposes of disguise, it would have entailed a long and painful process, for it was a real beard.

He had not only taken pains to arrange a false alibi, but he had lied himself, and—which was still less what one might expect in a man of God—he had practically forced little Marcel to lie in order to support his story.

Pucci croaked, scratched and fluttered clumsily down from the chair. The bird had been in the lounge with me just before Marcel had entered it the previous afternoon. I wondered what he had seen. I wished there were some way to wrest from him the knowledge that might be back of those bright, shobut eyes—eyes that looked as knowing and secretive as his mistress's eyes.

THIS time Pucci croaked as disconsolately as he had scratched, sidled over to the priest and pulled himself up on his knee, whence he scrutinized the beard closely.

There was suddenly an impatient rustle of the newspaper, and behind it the priest's red beard and angry eyes appeared. I did not realize that I must have been looking, as I felt, faintly amused at the cockatoo's cynical expression until Father Robert snapped:

"Well, have you stared at me enough? And is it so amusing an occupation?"

"As a matter of fact, I was watching the cockatoo," I said, "and thinking of what Marcel told me."

I was looking directly into his eyes, and it was with interest that I noted the singular way they became fixed and rigid like a cat's. His face, too, looked suddenly rather yellow, too, of that flaming thin beard. Presently he said, his yellow-gray eyes never wavering in that rigid secret stare into mine:

"Marcel? And what was that, since you've introduced the subject?"

I hesitated, resolved in a fraction of a second that I was doing no harm, and replied:

"He told me the truth about the story you gave the police concerning your whereabouts the night the unknown man was murdered. He said you were not ill and that he was not in your room with you."

It occurred to me that he had braced himself for it; had perhaps known what was coming. He said coldly:

"Well?"

I shrugged, and promptly resolved not to indulge in that gesture again until my shoulder had healed.

"Well?" I said, with his own inflection. His eyes remained still, and yet it seemed to me there was an angry flash back of them. Clearly he resented the implication that it was not my place to speak.

He remained stubbornly silent for a moment, but he was not of the temperament to keep his feelings in leash for long. Fully conscious of the setting rage back of those still yellow eyes, I took out my cigarette. In a leisurely fashion I leaned forward, extended the package toward him, and said pleasantly: "Do have a cigarette."

He made an angry motion with his hands and sprang to his feet.

"Oh, you are insulting!" Father Robert cried. "You are insulting!"

"Oh, come now," I said mildly. "It is scarcely an insult to offer a man a cigarette. Hey—don't step on the bird!"

Father Robert makes a curious statement, tomorrow.

BUFFS WALLOP GALVESTON TO INCREASE LEAD

THIRD STRAIGHT LOSS IS SUFFERED BY BUCCANEERS

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Houston Buffaloes defeated Galveston Sunday, 5 to 2, to increase their pennant lead two full games over the second place Buccaneers. Ed Greer, not only pitched the Buffaloes to victory but chalked up his sixth win this season when he held Galveston to support from the Houston infield.

It was the third straight defeat for the Buccaneers, who have been the first division surprise of the league. Greer worked with fine control and received excellent support from the Houston infield.

The San Antonio Missions remained in third place but dropped a doubleheader to Beaumont, 7 to 3 and 5 to 4. It was the worst day the Missions have had this season. The heavy hitting of outfielder Tommy Hughes and a pinch double by Ray Fritz featured the two combats. Hughes drove across three runs in the first game with a single and two triples. Fritz's double broke a 4-4 deadlock in the second game.

The Dallas Steers tumbled to sixth place by losing a country fair ball game to the Tulsa Oilers, 16 to 10. It was the same old story with the Steers—ineffective hurling. Tulsa pounded the offerings of five Dallas moundsmen for 21 hits, one a home run by Stoneham. Other homers were clouted by Holman and Bonura. It was Bonura's eighth circuit wallop this season.

George Washington's time double in the tenth frame to score Lowly gave Fort Worth a 10 to 9 victory over Oklahoma City.

SINKING 'EM

(This is the second of a series of articles in which Gene Sarazen, world golf champion, tells the average player how to cut strokes off his score.)

By GENE SARAZEN
World Golf Champion
(As Told To Alan Gould)

The smartest thing the average club golfer can do in the spring, after he has played a dozen rounds or so, is to look back over his scorecards, note where he lost the most strokes to Old Man Par, and how he dropped them.

He probably will find that one or two particular types of shots hurt his game and his scores. Maybe it was the short pitch to the green, maybe the spoon or long iron, perhaps the approach putt. Whatever it was, he should detect it and go out for some practice at the earliest opportunity or, better still, have the pro look over his faults again, for correction.

Even fifteen or twenty minutes of practice with a certain shot often will work wonders.

Tee Shots Easiest To Master
Most golfers, when they go out for practice or for lessons from the pro, make the mistake of starting off with the wood clubs. They like to five the ball a ride, naturally, but generally the club player needs less instruction about how to hit them off the tee than in anything else.

I venture to say 75 per cent of the average players hit pretty good tee shots. Oh, yes, they slice 'em or top 'em, now and then, but any man with a handicap of 20 or better should get off the tee consistently well.

He loses most of his strokes around the green. That's why I say to him: start practicing with your mashie niblock and work back through your clubs. You will find your groove quicker with a "short" club than with a driver.

If you have confidence in your pitches, your No. 4 iron shots and your spoon shots, you will not have to do much worrying about your driving.

Win Or Lose Around Green
I attach paramount importance to the short game, for I know that is where tournaments are won or lost. I spend hours practicing trap shots, with my wedge; then I devote a lot of time to chipping and putting. The average player, if he can concentrate on these features of the game in proportion to the time he has available, will find real improvement as his reward.

My short game never was under better control than when I defeated Olin Dutra in our special match in Florida this winter. Practice was the reason.

YANKS SHOVED OUT OF LEAD FOR A WHILE

TROUBLE IS LOOMING FOR LEADERS ON TOUR OF WEST

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Early returns from the American league's western sector indicate the New York Yankees aren't going to win the pennant again as easily as their success against eastern rivals promised.

So far the Yanks have lost three out of five games in their brief tour and they even went so far yesterday as to drop temporarily out of first place as they lost the first half of a double bill to the Cleveland Indians 7 to 6. They regained it with a little delay as possible with an 8-4 victory in the second game, but this record, compared with eleven victories in 14 starts against the east, brings little encouragement to the world's champions.

Detroit's Tigers went ten innings to defeat Washington 10 to 9 in the first clash but the Senators reversed the decision by hammering Lyn Rowe and Art Herring for 14 safeties and a 6-2 triumph as Walter Stewart turned in a six-hit game.

The Chicago White Sox gained a temporary tie with the Yanks when they noted out the Boston Red Sox 4-3 but Henry Johnson silenced the Bluejacks of the Pale Hose in the second clash, giving only five hits for a 3-2 triumph. The Philadelphia-St. Louis twin bill was rained out after one inning.

In contrast to most of the other games, the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds provided the features of the National league program with a pair of brilliantly pitched games. The Giants won them both, 1-0 and 5-0 but they hardly deserved the first victory. Bob Smith let the New Yorkers down with two hits, against five off Carl Hubbell, but one was a home run by Sam Leslie. Hal Schumacher gave the Reds only two blows in the second and won without much trouble.

The St. Louis Cardinals again paced by Pepper Martin, put on the day's best slugfest against Brooklyn to win the first game 12-5. They collected 17 hits, including a homer, a double and two singles by Martin. The Chicago Cubs shot up from seventh place to third as they took two games from the Boston Braves, 11-2 and 5-2.

The Phillies and Pittsburgh had an open date.

Americans Lose Only Three Sets At Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, May 8. (AP)—The United States has completed its conquest of Mexico's Davis cup tennis players with an aggregate loss of only three sets.

Victories for Wilmer Allison and Clifford Sutter in the last two singles matches yesterday gave the United States the series, five matches to none, and qualified the team for the second round of North American zone competition against either Canada or Cuba.

Although visibly affected by a 92-degree temperature, Allison defeated Eduardo Mestre in straight sets, 6-0, 9-7, 6-2, but Sutter was forced to overcome gallant resistance from Dr. Ricardo Tapia to win, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5, 2-6, 6-1. Sutter's victory over Esteban Reyes on Friday and the series-clinching triumph of George Lott and John Van Ryn over Alfonso Unda and Mestre in doubles Saturday, came in straight sets.

Cuba and Canada will play their first round contest at Hot Springs, Va., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the winner qualifying to face the United States in the next round.

Ernie Koy Will Report To New York Yanks Soon

Ernie Koy, University of Texas baseball and football star, will report to the New York Yankees in New York, June 1, it has been learned. Koy is well known in the Panhandle, having played baseball for the Phillips Alamo "66" of Borger last year. He had a large part in Borger's winning the Amarillo tournament and taking third place in the Denver tournament.

Koy is a fast, accurate fielder and a hard hitter and it may be that the Yankees are hoping to make him a second Babe Ruth. Koy weighs 220 pounds and is in perfect condition according to dispatches from Austin.

It is more than likely that Koy will be farmed out for the remainder of the season although it has been hinted that Koy will sit on the New York bench and watch the "Bambino" in action. However, that is only hearsay as the New York management has made no comment about the big Texan as yet.

seventh place to third as they took two games from the Boston Braves, 11-2 and 5-2.

The Phillies and Pittsburgh had an open date.

MAGS WALLOP HOOVER 10 TO 8 IN OPENER

TEAM SHOWS LACK OF PRACTICE BUT PROMISE

The Magnolia "Mags" baseball team, Pampa entry in the Cotton and Oil league, won a 10 to 8 exhibition game from Hoover at Magnolia park yesterday afternoon before a large crowd. The "Mags" showed lack of practice, but plenty of promise. Manager Howard Buckingham should have a good team in the field before the season is very far advanced.

Rogers started in the box for the local team and pitched nice ball for the three innings he was in the game. Kirkpatrick pitched the next three innings and Simmons finished the game. Wagner and Schroeder were on receiving duty. Rogers looked like a real prospect when he gets in shape.

Ritchie started the game for Hoover but gave way to Saltzman who finished. Dick Benton was behind the bat.

The Hoover boys had their eye on the ball and got several extra base blows. Ritchie and Bus Benton each hit four base wallops while Ed Barnes connected for two triples. Hoover will meet the Cabot Shops in Hoover next Sunday.

Freddy Newsome with two doubles and Pace with a triple got the extra base blows for the "Mags." Jimmie Baldwin hit two singles. The fielding of Newsome was outstanding on both teams, although "Pocket" Flynn of LeFors played a steady game at first base.

Former Paman Is With Indians

A former Pampa ball player who has advanced his baseball stock this season is Gordon Nell. Nell has gone to the Oklahoma City Indians in the Texas league and will probably be heard from in the near future.

Nell is a first baseman and outfielder who can play one position as good as the other. He was a member of the famous Pampa Grays under Ed "Red" Gober in 1929 and 1930 when he did some real fence breaking. It will be remembered that a home run over the left field fence at Metro park won the tournament for Pampa in 1929.

Nell is playing left field for the Indians and is looking like a winner. He is hitting, fielding and stealing bases at a great rate.

B Class Schools Would Abandon 8-Semester Clause

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP)—School superintendents and principals attending the state interscholastic league meet recommended today that the league executive committee confine operations—of the eight-semester rule to class A schools and allow class B pupils ten semesters of interschool competition.

SCHOOLS PRESENTING MUSIC WEEK PROGRAM THIS AFTERNOON

VESPER MUSIC AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

WOMEN OF TREBLE CLEF CLUB ARE HOSTESSES

GRADE school pupils of Pampa are featured in today's official Music week program, which opened yesterday afternoon with a vesper service at the First Methodist church.

Children from each grade school are taking part in the program this afternoon. Free to the public, it began at 2:30. High school students will have an opportunity to display their musical ability Thursday evening at 8:15, when band, orchestra, and singers appear in a program at the city auditorium. Students will be admitted free.

The Treble Clef club, sponsors of Music week here, are to give the Tuesday evening program at the auditorium. Wednesday will be local artists day, with a piano symphony as a special feature for the program beginning at 8:15.

Verne Springer's Girls' Hawaiian band and the Legion band will end the official observance of Music week with their program Friday evening. Other musical events of the week will include chapel programs at each school, with Treble Clef club members assisting, and teachers' recitals.

Women of that club acted as hostesses at the vesper service yesterday. Mesdames Raymond Harrah, E. W. Bissett, A. N. Dilley, and Philip Wolfe greeted the large number of visitors.

Program numbers were as follows: Organ prelude, Fantasia and Chimes (Rossini-Cole) by Mrs. May Foreman Carr.

Invocation, Rev. C. A. Long. An Ode to Music, Mrs. T. F. Morton. Scripture reading, Rev. C. A. Long.

Going Home (Dvorak) by Methodist quartet, R. E. Fisher, Emmitt Smith, E. D. Zimmerman, Howard Zimmerman, accompanied by Mrs. Carr.

Solo, The Publican (Van de Water) Mrs. J. M. Dodson.

Te Deum Laudamus (Woodward) by quartet composed of Mrs. W. A.

A NURSE'S EXPERIENCE

FOR young girls growing into womanhood, for women in middle life going through the "change," or those who suffer from weakening drains, headaches and nervousness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the tonic needed. Mrs. E. H. Bass of 1117 E. Annie St., Fort Worth, says: "In my practical nursing experience, which dates back forty years, I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to many of my patients and have always found it to be dependable. I used it myself when I became in a run-down condition. When, from my work, I would have a general breakdown, the 'Prescription' strengthened my system and restored my general health."

First Lady To Open Mother's Day Campaign

NEW YORK, May 8.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will sound the keynote here on May 12 of a coast-to-coast observance of Mothers' Day by women's clubs and civic organizations uniting to "Make Motherhood Safe for Mothers." At a meeting to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, speakers eminent in medical circles, as well as nationally known women, are to tell what needs to be done to reduce the loss of mothers' lives. According to the Maternity Center association, sponsoring the campaign, at least half of the 16,000 women who die annually in childbirth could be saved.

At a meeting in New York City, Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, is to tell the part of the Children's Bureau in making motherhood safe. Dr. Walter W. Chipman of Montreal, and Dr. J. Allison Hodges, of Richmond, Va., will explain the reasons for the high death-rate, and indicate steps which will help to lower it. "Choosing the Physician" is to be the topic of Dr. Linsly R. Williams of New York City, and "Choosing the Hospital" will be the subject of Dr. S. S. Goldwater, of New York City.

In every part of the country similar meetings are planned, many under the sponsorship of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, endorses the Mothers' Day campaign for improving maternity care as a vital one. "This is a year," states Miss Abbott, "when we must carefully decide what needs are fundamental and must be adequately met regardless of the sacrifices they require. Safeguarding the health of mothers seems to me to be in the 'necessary this year' category. In addition to improving available medical services which doctors and birth officers are urging, it is necessary that every mother and father understand what constitutes adequate maternity care. Until they do, we shall not eliminate preventable deaths of mothers."

TEXAS PARENT TEACHERS MORE THAN REACH MEMBERSHIP GOAL

Increase Is Larger Than Designated Ten Percent

By MRS. J. M. CRAIN, Claude, State Publicity Director. Ten per cent increase in membership in Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers has more than been realized because last year the membership was 58,323 while now the Texas members number 68,159. The National Congress sent forth a challenge last spring to each state for a ten per cent increase for the ensuing year and Texas Congress has more than reached this designated goal as attained by the above figures.

Membership in a congress unit has meant "linking oneself with the keenest thinkers, the most earnest workers, the most representative specialists in the national and international fields of child welfare; giving of one's influence, time, efforts, to the making of better parents, better homes, better communities throughout the United States of America."

Education Threatened. Miss Florence Hale, past president of the National Education association and serving now as one of the vice presidents of this organization, in a speech at Minneapolis, said: "We have never been in a sufficient where education has been so threatened as today. Much as I think of my organization (National Education association), I pin my faith on yours (the parent-teacher associations)."

Inherent interest in the child's welfare, hence in his school, was a sufficient urge in more than a third of the cases. Membership workers did well to make the most of this basic motive.

Membership enrolment was a term suggested this year instead of the proverbial terminology of membership drive. The plan of setting aside a week or two weeks early in the fall for membership enrolment was rather generally adopted by local units. Fully three-fourths of the members were enlisted this special week.

Work Through Year. The work of the membership committee was one continuous round, going on throughout the year. Anytime that a new member joined the parent-teacher association a hearty welcome was accorded him.

A stable and informed membership was gained where time was spent in training those who went out to solicit new members. Such trained membership yielded large dividends by increasing the participating members.

The membership conference held in many associations was well-planned and its committees gained definite knowledge and appreciation of the parent-teacher movement, were encouraged by becoming familiar with the local unit's objectives and activities for the year, and developed a genuine enthusiasm for all phases of child welfare work.

Parents Listed. A list of all parents whose children attended school was secured from each teacher by the membership committee in the unit. All school patrons were either telephoned or visited or sent a special invitation to join the parent-teacher association. In many cases the principal, superintendent, principals, and president of school board fixed their signature to this invitation letter along with the name of the president of the local unit.

Worthwhile programs, free discussions, promptness in opening and closing meetings, efficient officers, opportunity for each member to render service and courteous treatment to all in attendance, tended to retain former members as well as help secure new recruits. Friends and neighbors were urged to join in addition to parents. Just as a teacher took every pupil enrolled in his department for instruction and endeavored to develop his latent possibilities, so the parent-teacher association welcomed every parent in to its membership and in the spirit of cooperation and fellowship helped to interest him in all that concerned the welfare of children.

Indifferent parents were often enlisted by placing their children on programs, by personal calls from room representatives, and explaining the purpose of the parent-teacher movement.

CLUBS FURNISH QUARTERS WITH HELP OF GIFTS

MRS. J. M. DODSON LED IN MOVE FOR CITY CLUB ROOMS

HAPPY in the completion and formal opening of the women's club rooms in the city hall, club members are giving much credit for the project to Mrs. J. M. Dodson. Mrs. Dodson had the leading part in the movement to have the club rooms included in the plans for the new city hall. She was at that time a member of the study club of the A. A. U. W., which assisted her. She caused petitions to be circulated among various clubs asking for club space.

The then city manager, F. M. Gwin, called Mrs. Dodson and others to see the blue prints of the proposed city hall. Mrs. Dodson also took the lead in furnishing the rooms for use. This was a gigantic task and most of it has been accomplished in the last year. She was ably assisted by her Council of Clubs committee, composed of Mesdames W. R. Campbell, J. Powell Wehrung, J. W. Garman Jr., B. W. Ferris, T. C. Shaw, Max Mahaffey, Frank Foster, J. C. Carroll, Howard Buckingham, Ralph Thomas, and A. B. Goldston.

Appreciation Expressed. Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, president of the Council, highly praised Mrs. Dodson for initiating the movement for the club rooms and carrying the project to a successful conclusion.

Appreciation was expressed to many individuals and firms which assisted in furnishing the room. These included the Fox Paint company, which gave a beautiful frame for a painting of Texas bluebonnets by Mrs. John V. Andrews; Little Theater for building an ideal stage with curtains and lighting; the eleven members of the council for buying 92 silver forks and spoons, plates, cups and saucers, punch bowl and glasses, two 9x12 rugs and pads, a living room suite, and a table; Tarpole Music store for use of piano; Mrs. O. H. Booth, Mrs. J. W. Garman, Mrs. Alex Schneider, and Miss Margaret Buckler for pictures, tapestry, and lamps; Mrs. J. B. Massa, Mrs. Alex Schneider, and Mrs. Dodson, for buying and making velvet drapes to match the stage curtain; and the city commission for placing 96 chairs bought when the city hall was built.

Benefit activities of the clubs in which funds were raised included bridge tournaments, a woman's style show, Oriental tea, and selling tickets for Little Theater. There were many private donations, and in addition each club made a gift. The greatest need now is for a piano. The clubs have $103.99 in the piano fund, but this is of course insufficient. Most of the meetings require music and a piano.

SERVICES AT PAMPA'S CHURCHES INCLUDE SPECIAL MUSIC SUNDAY

Songs and Special Instrumental Offerings

Special musical services were reported from several Pampa churches yesterday, as the third annual city-wide observance of Music week opened.

Gospel songs written by Fanny J. Crosby were sung at the First Baptist church as congregational numbers, by Miss Loma Groom, soloist, and Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Mann in a duet. This choir also sang one of her well-loved songs as a special selection.

Fred Thompson was in charge of the program. He spoke briefly on the purpose of Music week and the contribution of Miss Crosby to devotional music.

The First Baptist church reported an attendance of 818 at Sunday school and 115 in the training service.

C. W. Beene and his two sons, Elton and Rex, of Panhandle, presented a program of cornet numbers at the First Christian church preceding the sermon yesterday evening.

Mrs. Beene and Mrs. James Harrison acted as accompanists. Sunday school attendance from this church was reported at 452.

Young people were in charge of the evening service at First Methodist church, with Emmitt Smith as director. The high school quartet sang, and Miss Juanita McCallister made the devotional address. Young people filled the choir and were led by David Whiteberg.

Attendance of 590 was reported at First Methodist Sunday school, and 112 at First Presbyterian Sunday school.

Vets Making All Poppies For Sale

Citizens of Pampa will be in no danger of wearing a foreign-made flower to honor American heroes when they put on their American Legion auxiliary poppies on Poppy Day. The assurance was given today by the chairman of the auxiliary's poppy committee, as preparations for the distribution of memorial poppies Saturday, May 27, were being rushed to completion.

Foreign-made American flags and foreign-made "Buy America" signs may have been offered for sale in this country, but there is no such thing as a foreign-made American Legion auxiliary poppy. Artificial poppies can be purchased very cheaply from foreign countries and when the custom of wearing these flowers in honor of the world war dead was first established they were imported in large numbers. The American Legion and auxiliary quickly took action against this practice. For years every poppy offered by the women of the auxiliary has been made in America by an American veteran.

Realizing that the disabled American veteran was under a heavy handicap in the competition for work the auxiliary has endeavored to establish poppy making as an industry exclusively for him.

The number of veterans the auxiliary can employ during the coming year will depend upon the response to the sale on Saturday, May 27th.

o'clock Sunday morning. We had to wait over at Geary for 5 hours. We again entered on a special train direct to Fort Sill. There were 79 on the special. We arrived at Fort Sill Sunday morning at 11:57.

A huge army truck and some Fort Sill officers met us at the train. We climbed into the trucks and started for the fort. The first thing we noticed was the beautiful Wichita mountains and an army observation balloon. The fort was a welcome sight, indeed. We ate dinner as soon as we reached the fort. We were somewhat tired, sleepy, and discouraged, but ready for what might happen. As soon as we finished eating, we washed our mess kits. Then came our final examination. We went through a line of officers about a block long, answering various questions. Then came the final physical examination; the same given to those who are now in the standing U. S. army.

Given Two "Shots"

We were vaccinated for smallpox and given a shot for typhoid, both at once and in the same place on the arm. The pain was terrible and three men fainted. All of us nine boys from the Panhandle passed with flying colors. After that we were given clothes and assigned to tents. Our clothes consisted of four pairs of white socks, two blue denim blouses, two blue denim pants, one pair shoes, one blue denim hat, one O. D. pants, one O. D. shirt, two suits of underwear, two towels, two blankets, four sheets, one belt, one tie, two pillow cases, one barracks bag, one shaving kit, one comb, tooth brush, and paste, and one raincoat.

There are six men to each tent.

The tents are arranged like a small town. The discipline here is almost like that of the regular army. Our program is regular. At 6 o'clock we arise and take our showers, shave, and brush our teeth. Then we answer roll call, and then eat breakfast. The food we eat here is of good quality and well balanced. After eating, we wash our mess kits

Plenty of Work

Then we work until about 11:30. We prepare then for our noon lunch. After noon we work until about 5 o'clock. Then we fall out and prepare for our supper meal. After that comes recreation time. We are allowed to do what we please from 5 o'clock until about 10 o'clock at night.

There is a recreation house across the street where one can read or write, provided the noise doesn't bother you.

Men are arriving daily now and more tents are being pitched. At present, we have three companies. Each company has 212 men. We were divided into platoons. Our company B composes two platoons. The platoons are divided into two sections. Clinton Meek was appointed foreman over our platoon. Today is our fourth day in camp. We are to be stationed here for two weeks, and then shipped to a destination unknown to us at present. Today we have spent most of the time in our tents because it is raining very hard.

We are now gathered around the table in our tent discussing various things, talking, singing, and joking. We are waiting for word from our homes, and thinking of the places we came from.

In general, all of us enjoy this life. Some of the boys refer to it as "nature in the raw."

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—Already into 148 national forests is moving the vanguard of Uncle Sam's youthful army—129,000 strong—encamping as part of his conservation corps to follow where rugged lumberjacks of old.

Six hundred and forty-five camps, in woodlands covering more than 160,000,000 acres, will harbor these recruits, seeking to build up forests thinned by husky logging predecessors.

The camps will dot 31 states, with the far west providing the setting for most of them. California's 166 camps and 33,200 men placing her in the country's vanguard. Oregon, with 65 camps prepared for 13,000 occupants, places second, and the national forests of Idaho offer 50 camps for 10,000 recruits, to take third place.

Texas, the largest state, has no national forest and, therefore, no camp of this kind. The same applies to Rhode Island, the smallest state.

The midwestern group has Kansas, North Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio not represented in the national forest contingent. The Empire State of New York is also among the missing, as are Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and Kentucky.

ROOSEVELT PLANS GOVERNMENT PARTNERSHIP WITH INDUSTRY

GIVES NATION EXPOSITION OF HIS POLICIES

OUTLINES PLANS FOR HIGHER WAGES AND RECOVERY

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—A government "partnership" with industry to improve wages, shorten working hours and control surplus production will be President Roosevelt's next move in attacking economic adversity.

He revealed this last night in giving the nation a full exposition of his policies, past and future, for domestic and international recovery from the depression.

Similar to the measures already proposed for government cooperation with agriculture and transportation, the president would put the force of government behind trade agreements under a relaxation of the anti-trust laws.

Seated at a desk in the White House, Mr. Roosevelt also gave notice that he would use the powers about to be given him by congress to provide inflation "when, as, and if it may be necessary to accomplish the purpose."

"The administration," he said, "has the definite objective of raising commodity prices to such an extent that those who have borrowed money will, on the average, be able to repay that money in the same kind of a dollar which they borrowed. We do not seek to let them get such a cheap dollar that they will be able to pay back a great deal less than they borrowed."

"In other words, we seek to correct a wrong and not to create another wrong in the opposite direction. That is why powers are being given the administration to provide, if necessary, for an enlargement of credit, in order to correct the existing wrong."

There is every indication Mr. Roosevelt will employ the provision in the inflation bill providing for government purchase of outstanding government bonds as a means of making money, now invested by banks in these obligations, free for industry's use.

His declaration that "well considered and conservative measures will be proposed" for industrial supervision was regarded as meaning that something new in the way of legislation would be advanced in the place of the 30-hour work week bill now pending in the house.

An unofficial committee, headed by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), has virtually completed the drafting of a plan for self regulation by industry through a relaxation of the anti-trust laws and is expected to put it before the president this week.

Industry has been described by J. H. Rand Jr., prominent manufacturer and a member of the Wagner committee, as considering a proposal to put 3,000,000 men back to work on a specified date as a part of the program.

Mr. Roosevelt, speaking of the authority about to be given him over agriculture to improve commodity prices and prevent over production, said "the extent of its use will depend entirely upon what the future has in store."

Former Ranger Is Found Shot

FORT WORTH, May 8. (AP)—Ted Lewis, 45, former state ranger and Denton county deputy sheriff, was found shot to death last night in a basement washroom at the Continental National bank, where he was employed as night watchman.

Police summoned to the bank to investigate a disturbance were met at the door by Mrs. Lewis, who said she had been questioning her husband as to where he had been. He was due at work at 6 p. m., and did not arrive until 8 p. m.

When he arrived he spoke to her and she followed him to the bank. D. E. Hoblit, chief night watchman, said the couple quarreled inside and that she struck him. Hoblit called police.

M. Stovall of White Deer was admitted to Pampa hospital for treatment this morning.

Derby Duelists To Renew Feud Next Saturday

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Thoroughbred heroes of one of the greatest three-year-old duels in turf history, Broker's Tip and Head Play, were pointed today for the renewal of a rivalry that has gripped the racing world with fresh melodrama and bitter arguments.

They waged the Dempsey-Firpo battle of the turf, aided by their jockeys Saturday in the 59th Kentucky Derby, with Broker's tip triumphant by two inches of nose in a stretch drive that has had no superior in the thrills since mighty Man O' War barely beat John P. Grier in the historic finish to the 1920 Dwyer.

They are entered this Saturday in the preakness at Pimlico along with a half dozen over survivors of the battle of Churchill Downs and Head Play may be favored to turn the tables on the Stout colt that upset derby favorites, in his first winning race, and added to the record-breaking achievements of Colonel Edward Riley Braley, king of Kentucky horsemanship.

For the last quarter-mile, with all rivals beaten off in the first mile, Head Play and jockey Herb Fisher struggled head to head with Broker's Tip and rider Don Meade in a terrific finish while 35,000 spectators yelled themselves hoarse. Fisher charged that Meade pulled Head Play's saddle cloth and otherwise interfered with him. Meade counter-charged that Fisher struck him twice with his whip. Fisher, tearfully raging, carried his protest to the judges, who turned him down. He carried his fight with Meade into the dressing quarters with his fists.

Teachers College Attendance High

CANYON, May 9.—A new high level of college attendance has been reached at the West Texas State Teachers college, according to figures released by Registrar D. A. Shirley. Nine hundred seventeen college students have been enrolled during the long session, which will close June 1.

While enrollment has increased this year, students report their expenditures are far below those of any previous year. A recent poll showed several students who have had less than $100 in money to carry them through the entire 9 months. Working for room and board and bringing supplies from homes have kept expenses low.

The summer session which begins June 5 is expected to cost the students less than at any time in the past 15 years.

When those conditions pass, then the United States of America will proceed along her way as of yore in well beaten paths that are safe and sane.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baker spent yesterday in Amarillo.

Mrs. H. O. Gordon underwent a major operation at Pampa hospital this morning.

COMEDY WILL SHOW MORRIS AT HIS BEST

MISS TOBIN WITH HIM IN 'INFERNAL MACHINE' AT THE REX

Delightful comedy, with a liberal allowance of drama, makes the "Infernal Machine," which opened at the Rex Sunday one of the most enjoyable talking pictures offered to local audiences in some months.

Chester Morris and Genevieve Tobin head the cast, and both turn in exceptional performances. Miss Tobin, first revealed to the world as an excellent light comedienne in "One Hour With You," has a much stronger role in this picture and acquires herself with honors. Morris is always dependable and he is especially good in his comedy scenes. And we believe that Victor Jory's work is one of the current season's triumphs.

The picture centers around a situation abroad, a luxurious ocean liner when a wireless message is received about an infernal machine which is concealed on the ship, and the passengers are doomed never to reach port.

When the panic is at its height, Morris, who has stowed away aboard the vessel to follow Miss Tobin, confesses that he is the "plotter." He agrees to reveal the hiding place of the bomb if Miss Tobin will spend an hour alone with him in the bridal suite. All the passengers unite in urging her to save their lives, including her wealthy fiancé. Secretly in love with Morris, although resenting his love-making methods, she agrees to the "sacrifice."

When the hour has almost elapsed Morris admits that he knows nothing about the infernal machine, and the panic is on again. A surprising twist, which it would be unfair to reveal here, supplies a dramatic denouement.

Others in the cast who contribute fine performances, include Elizabeth Patterson, James Bell, Edward Van Sloan, Arthur Hohl, Robert Littlefield, and Josephine Whittell.

Marcel Varnel's direction of the screen transcription of Carl Sigoda's novel is deft. The settings, designed by Gordon Wiles, winner of the 1932 Academy Award for art direction, surpass even his work on "Transatlantic."

CHINESE FLEE BEFORE JAPS

Japan Says Offensive Will Not Extend to Peiping, Or Tientsin, Just Now.

TIENTSIN, May 8. (AP)—Chinese troops fled today before the second Japanese-Manchukuan offensive to be aimed in the direction of this city within a month.

Fears were expressed that this time the advancing forces might continue all the way to Tientsin. A bold attempt to assassinate a representative of the Manchukuan government at a Peiping hotel yesterday was not calculated to help matters any. Two Chinese broke into the room of the man, who was registered as Chang Shih-Heng, and shot him severely.

Under a combined artillery and bomb attack the Chinese retreated to Changli, and main forces were concentrated at Lwanchow, less than 100 miles northwest of here. Fears were expressed for the safety of an American Methodist mission at Changli as the invading forces pushed toward that place.

TOKYO, May 8. (AP)—The renewed Japanese offensive south of the great wall of China will not extend to Peiping or Tientsin, the war office told the Associated Press today.

This restraint will be exercised, the war office spokesman said, because Japan does not intend to provide an excuse for the discussion of her military dispositions in President Roosevelt's impending conversations with representatives of China and Japan.

Conant Chosen To Be Harvard's New President

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 8. (AP)—James Bryant Conant, Sheldon Emery professor of organic chemistry, today was chosen by the corporation as president of Harvard university to succeed A. Lawrence Lowell, resigned.

The new president, who was named by the corporation subject to confirmation by the board of overseers, has just passed his fortieth birthday, making him one of the youngest Harvard presidents in the long line extending back to 1640.

Conant is the 25th in the line of succession to head the university. He has been identified with Harvard university as a student and teacher since 1910, a member of the division of chemistry since 1916, and has been chairman of that division for the past two years, engaged actively in teaching, administration and research.

Conant's nomination marks the second occasion on which a scientist has been named for the presidency of Harvard. President Charles W. Eliot was a professor of chemistry in 1869, but prior to that time, Harvard had traditionally chosen its presidents from among the clergy.

President Lowell, who announced his resignation several months ago, had served as a lawyer and a professor of government before his election.

Slayer Eecuted With Lethal Gas

CARSON CITY, Nev., May 8. (AP)—Sixth slayer to pay the penalty in Nevada's lethal gas chamber, Ray Elmer Miller was executed here today for the murder of his wife in Las Vegas just five months ago.

A single whiff of poisonous gas sent the condemned man into unconsciousness and he was dead within thirteen minutes. Twenty-four witnesses, grouped about two plate glass windows, watched the proceedings. It appeared to them that Miller died a painless death.

"STATE FAIR" ALSO HAS EIGHT OF LEADING STARS

More than 100,000 people, among them eight of the screen's leading stars, appear in Fox Film's "State Fair," showing today at the La Nora theater.

The stars of the mammoth production are Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Louise Dresser, Frank Craven and Victor Jory. Miss Gaynor, Rogers, Foster and Miss Dresser are seen as member of a Midwest farm family enjoying their annual outing at the state fair. Ayres plays a newspaper reporter who covers the fair for his paper, Miss Eilers portrays a carnival trapeze performer. Craven characterizes a country storekeeper and Jory appears as a Barker.

Henry King, who directed "State Fair," asserts that every man, woman and child who sees the picture will recognize a friend in it.

"The characters of 'State Fair' are the most human I've ever seen in a picture," declared King. "And that goes without reservations. They are the sort of people we meet and talk with every day."

"Furthermore, there is at least one in the group that every person will understand particularly well. It may be the pretty farm girl played by Janet Gaynor, the farmer portrayed by Will Rogers or the matron played by Louise Dresser, or the country storekeeper portrayed by Frank Craven. Somewhere along the line, every person who sees the picture will recognize an especially kindred spirit."
