Indian Heiress And New Husband Meet Inquirers at Joplin

JOPLIN, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Maude Lee Mudd, 16, of Miami, Okla., heiress to more than a million dollars and circumstances surrounding her marriage Monday at Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Earl E. Gordon, Miami motor car salesman, were cleared up here tonight by the couple themselves.

The couple arrived in Joplin tonight and registered at a hotel after making a leisurely honeymoon trip from Omaha, Neb., by motor car.

"We were not trying to elude the officers and made no effort to conceal our identity," Gordon said. "We are legally married, with the consent of my wife's mother and have nothing to fear. My wife was not kidnaped as was the opinion expressed following her disappearance, but went by train to Omaha, where I joined her later."

The couple explained that they had met each other for three years and that the romance which culminated in marriage was not a hasty arrangement.

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—A ballot signed only with the three initials of the presiding officer of the election board is a legal ballot and must be counted, it was held by the fourth court of appeals today in an opinion written by Justice Edward W. The point came up in the election contest of Joe Turner against R. H. Teller fo rthe ofifce of sheriff of Willacy county.

BUILDING CODE TO BE TESTED BY INSPECTOR

Work on Harvey-Snider Building to Be Stopped

Another test case over the Wichita Falls building code is looming up in connection with the erection of the Harvey-Snider building on Eighth street, it was indicated Friday when Building Inspector Fred A. Smith said he intended ordering a shut-down on operations there until the "50-foot clearance" clause could be settled.

The code now effective in the city stipulates that where office buildings are erected within less than 50 feet of similar buildings, they must be equipped with metal window frames and fireproof, wire-glass windows.

The Harvey-Snider building is but 20 feet from the City National bank building and wooden window frames are being installed in it. These provide with rulings of the national fire underwriters, which say that wooden frames may be used at a 20-foot distance from other buildings.

"We're just going to test it out and see," Mr. Smith said yesterday. "We may have to change the code, but until we do I intend to see that the building code is enforced in every particular."

Increased Gas Price Enlivens Oil Trade On New York Market

NEW YORK, June 12.—Oil shares swung upward in vigorous fashion in today's market and carried the general list to higher ground. Speculative interest in the oils was enlivened by another advance in gasoline prices in New York and the Mid-continent field, a further drop in Smackover production rumors of an early advance in crude prices and reports of high current earnings by the principal refining companies. Independent Oil and Gas was the leader of that group, rising four points to 39½, the highest price since it was listed two years ago.

Ma Ferguson's Holstein Adds New Triumph to the Family, Bearing Triplets

TEMPLE, June 13.—Indications point to the fact that in the Ferguson family records are made only to be broken. Ma and Pa Ferguson having shattered all political precedents, the craze has spread even to the livestock on the Ferguson farm south of Temple.

Josephine, a pure-bred Holstein cow and the special property of Ma Ferguson, is the latest contributor to dope upsetting.

She is just 3 years old, and has just delivered her proud owner three brand new calves, one for each birthday.

Authorities say that twin calves are common occurrences, but triplets—that is something else again.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
A Friend.

WE bade a friend farewell today.
A and covered him with flowers.
There was a preacher there to pray,
And one old friend of ours
And his arose and gently said
Some simple things about the dead.

I looked around the quiet room,
And everyone was there—
Yes, hearts had blossomed like the bloom
That made the chancel fair—
For Charlie, Eddie, Dick and Jim
Had gathered there to honor him.

And millionaires walked down the aisle
To sit beside the poor,
To hold communion for awhile
With all that will endure
The greatness of a city stood
And wept for one so greatly good.

In life we thought our friend had made
A failure out of his,
In death we knew how unafraid
He faced the life that is—
For souls will swiftly mount above
When borne upon the wings of love

There was no pomp or pageantry,
There was no roll of drums,
But angels crowd the wall to see
When such a pilgrim comes—
Yes, all God's host arose to say
A welcome to a friend today.

Curd Denies Any "Shake-Up" Saying "Tod" Resigned Office

Reports of a shake-up in the city water department, started with the resignation Thursday of S. L. "Tod" Williams, for 18 years connected with it, were denied yesterday by P. B. Curd, public utilities commissioner who said no other changes had been made.

Williams, it was revealed, has simply tendered his resignation and will probably take a position in the near future with some plumbing goods manufacturing company. He is understood to have received a number of offers.

Williams who has served as head of the construction work and field forces for a number of years is well known among public utility men of the southwest.

No successor for Williams has as yet been appointed, it was said, but the vacancy will probably be filled by a promotion of some man now in the service.

Asked if changes were contemplated in his department Mr. Curd replied:

"I don't think so."

Belgian Government Is Not Yet Formed

BRUSSELS, June 12.—(AP)—Belgium again is without a government. Viscount Poullet, who yesterday announced the formation of a cabinet, failed today to get the support of the Catholic parties in the senate and the chamber of deputies.

The Catholic parties declined to give their support to a ministry in which the socialist element predominated. In the senate they voted against the Poullet group, 36 to 22, while in the chamber a caucus of the Catholics by 41 to 24 voted lack of confidence in the ministry.

Dissolution of parliament now appears to be the only remedy for the existing situation.

No reply has been received by the aero club tonight from Veenstra to several messages sent him for information as to where he descended. According to the original report from Veenstra he flew a greater distance than any of the other contestants and apparently was the winner of the race.

Wade T Vanorman pilot of the American balloon, Goodyear III., today sent word to the aero club that he would declare himself victor in the race if Veenstra was disqualified, claiming that he landed his bag on board the deck of the German steamer Vaterland off the Ushant light and alleging that he did not fall into the sea and require assistance.

Illinois Can Present Murder Case Against Shepherd Says Instructions

AFTER HEATED DEBATE

"Sunshine Girl" Is Called Friday as a Prosecution Witness

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—The prosecution today won the right to present its murder case against William Darling Shepherd, Chicago lawyer accused of using typhoid germs to slay his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, unhampered by instructions from the bench, but the defense was able to turn in its own favor all medical testimony introduced by three state witnesses.

The most heated battle of the trial came late today when the six attorneys retired from the chambers of Judge Thomas J. Lynch and for nearly an hour debated the defense contention that the court should force the prosecution forthwith to establish the "corpus delicti" or forfeit its case.

Fought by Defense.

The defense contended that while it had been established "Billy" McClintock had lived and was dead, it had not been proven that he died through criminal means. The state's insistence upon calling witnesses to prove a motive for Shepherd to have slain the youth was but a step to prejudice the jury against Shepherd, the defense contended.

The state successfully contended that the introduction of each witness was a step in establishing the "corpus delicti" which would be fixed by only circumstantial evidence since admittedly there was no one who would testify that he had seen the typhoid germs administered, although by various witnesses the chain of evidence against the defendant would be welded.

Typhoid fever alone caused the rich youth's death, testified Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist, and said no medical science in the world could tell whether it was caused in a normal manner or by the alleged inoculation by Shepherd. No trace of poison was found, testified Dr. McNally, thereby dismissing a half dozen counts in the indictment against Shepherd.

Estelle Gehling, trained nurse and the "sun shine girl" of the case, was a witness today.

Identifies His Letter.

Miss Gehling was asked only to identify a letter Shepherd had written to her and one excerpt from it went into the records. She was not cross examined and tripped from the witness stand after she had identified a passage in which Shepherd said he

Wichita Appeal for Milk And Ice for Poor Reaches To New York to Get Check

THE plea of needy Wichita Falls kiddies for pure milk and cooling ice during the summer months has reached even to New York city, from where R. S. Henley, 25 Broad street, has sent a check for $25 to be applied on the Record News Milk and Ice Fund. This contribution and a $10 check from the Piggly Wiggly Wichita Falls Co., inc., boosted the 1925 fund considerably Friday.

Several "cash" contributions of $1 have come in in the past few days and have been turned over to the Salvation Army which is making all purchases and distribution of milk and ice to the city's heat stricken poor.

That the fund this year has already accomplished a world of good is the conviction of Commandant Johnson of the Army. He reports daily on numbers of cases in which these summer necessities are summer impossibilities except for the milk and ice fund. In the humble homes in no man's land and other sections of the city, hundreds of babies are to be found who never know the refreshing stimulation of a bottle of nature's greatest food.

Crude Stocks Fail to Increase With Output

OUTPUT IS UP 87,448 APRIL FIGURES SHOW

Storage Increases Only 29,000 Barrels A Day

SITUATION STRONG

April Production Was Larger Than Since November

Despite an increase of 87,448 barrels in the daily production of crude oil in April, compared with yield in March, government figures show a strong crude oil situation with storage of crude oil increasing but 29,300 barrels daily in the month in pipelines, tank forms and at refineries.

April production of 2,036,900 barrels a day was the largest since November, 1923, and was due almost entirely to the gain in heavy crude yield in the deep sand at Smackover, which increased Arkansas production an average of 55,214 barrels a day over March.

As a matter of fact, of the month's total increase of 87,448 barrels a day in production only 11,057 barrels as in light oil and the balance heavy oil of 24 gravity or less.

Refiners Use Oil.

Refineries drew heavily on pipelines in April, with runs averaging 2,039,667 barrels daily; imported crude brought total deliveries to 2,188,067 a day. This was an increase of about 80,000 barrels daily over runs to refineries and were probably the largest runs ever made to refineries.

For this reason, stocks of crude oil in pipelines and tank farms increased but 82,000 barrels, an average of less than 3,000 daily, even with production the largest in 18 months.

On the other hand, refineries appear to have put through a much increased amount of crude oil. As stated before, they received about 80,000 barrels a day of domestic and foreign crudes in April than in March, yet their stocks of crude gained but 26,000 barrels daily on the average.

On April 30 there were 393,153,000 barrels of crude oil in storage at all points, pipeline, tank farms and refineries, representing a supply sufficient for 158 days at the April rate of deliveries. This was but 5,000,000 barrels more than the 378,214,000 on hand April 30, 1924, which represented 160 days supply at the rate of deliveries at that time.

East of Rockies.

East of the Rockies net storage of domestic crude in pipelines and tank farms on April 30 of 274,648,000 barrels was nearly 1,000,000 less than the end of March and about 3,000,000 greater than the end of April, 1924. California stocks of 73,601,000 barrels April 30 were 800,000 greater than the end of March and 8,800,000 larger than the end of April, 1924. Refinery stocks of crude on April 30 were 44,340,000 barrels, about 700,000 larger than end of March and 4,300,000 above storage on April 30, 1924. Most of the latter gain, however, was at California refineries.

Crude stocks at farms and pipe lines in Oklahoma, Kansas and north, central and West Texas decreased about 1,200,000 barrels a day during April, or a net decline of 40,000 a day in the largest light oil region of the country.

In 1924 the world produced 1,013,139,000 barrels of oil compared with 1,018,900,000 in 1923. Of the total the United States produced 714,000,000 barrels, or 70.5 per cent and Mexico 139,587 barrels or 13.8 per cent.

SMACKOVER'S THIRD SAND LOOMS LARGE

Third Pay Boom Predicted To be Under Way By July 15

SHREVEPORT, La., June 12.—Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil company in 31-15-15 Ouachita county, Smackover third sand discovery well was increasing production reports from the field today stated. Making 600 barrels by heads when it started flowing late last week, it had increased to 1,500 barrels by heads from 2583 feet, oil testing 23 gravity—somewhat better than the average second sand well is making.

According to reports from Smackover there seems to be some desire to hold back development of this new sand for the time being, but opinion here is that such an effort is destined to have little success. However, as it was a month or more after the first second sand well before the present hectic development got under way it is believed that it will be the middle of July before the third sand boom is on in full swing.

The present market for crude, about the best it has been since the war, and the average Smackover well paying for itself in 10 to 15 days there is little chance, it is said, to prevent a repetition of the second sand boom, particularly with the third sand crude being slightly higher grade. While operators are waiting for more definite results from the Laney well to begin drilling on a wide-open schedule, plans are under way by owners of offset acreage to start development with a test either deepening old wells in the first and second sand, or starting from the surface.

NEED RAIN IN TEXAS AREA

DALLAS, June 12.—Crops were benefited in many sections of Texas this week by scattered rains but some portions of the state need rain badly especially central Texas where it is reported cotton will not go through another week kwithout rain. Conditions in the Panhandle-Plains and western portion of Texas generally are regarded splendid, with no pressing need of rain except in isolated instances.

Moisture conditions in east Texas might be termed "spotty," according to reports here, although rain is needed badly in some counties. Unless there is a drenching rain in Anderson county soon, all crops will be ruined in that section, it is stated.

Precipitation will be needed soon in North Texas, though recent rains have materially aided conditions in that area.

"DOODLE-BUG" OIL GEOLOGIST IN BOND SUIT

Famous "General" Lee Of Oil Fame Opens New Court Battle

FORT WORTH, June 12.—"General" Robert A. Lee of "Doodle Bug" and oil promotion fame launched Friday before district Judge Young his suit on contract and a $25,000 bond against H. S. Schwartz and Charles Sherwin, trustee of the General Lee Development interests, and the bond sureties, D. T. Lacey, and E. C. Young.

"General" Lee charges Sherwin and Schwartz agreed to develop oil properties if he would dismiss a receivership suit against them in federal court several years ago. The $25,000 bond was made to secure performance of the contract.

The suit is being resisted by Lacey and Young, whose answer states the General Lee Development interests had no oil properties and that all "General" Lee brought into the company was a name similar to that of General Robert E. Lee of the Confederacy. In fact, "General" Lee was never even a private in the militia, the answer details.

The federal court trial in which Lee, Sherwin and Schwartz were sentenced to the penitentiary was the first of the cases against 92 oil promoters in 1923. "General" Lee, who was hailed as one of the "historic Lees of Virginia" and an expert geologist, testified in that trial that he hunted oil with a "doodle-bug." He was paid $50 a month for use of his name.

BORN GOOD?

We are not among those who believe in the old dogma—"all children are born good."

Nor do we agree with those who think that, by skilful discipline, children may be made altogether what they should be; that Loeb and Leopold would have been better boys if only they had been "raised" differently.

Contrariwise, we are satisfied that though imperfections of nature may be diminished by wise management, they cannot be removed by it.

This is Herbert Spencer's view. He opined that the notion that an ideal humanity might be forthwith produced by a perfect system of education, is near akin to that shadowed forth in the poems of Shelley, that would mankind give up their old institutions, prejudices, and errors, all the evils in the world would at once disappear: neither notion being acceptable to such as have dispassionately studied human affairs.

Not that Spencer was without sympathy with those who entertain these hopes.

"Enthusiasm, pushed even to fanaticism, is a useful motive-power—perhaps an indispensable one. It is clear that the ardent politician would never undergo the labors and make the sacrifices he does, did he not believe the reform he fights for is the one thing needful. But for his conviction that drunkenness is the root of all evils, the teetotaller would agitate far less energetically. In philanthropy as in other things great disadvantage results from division of labor, each class of philanthropsists must be more or less subordinated to its function—must have an exaggerated faith in its work.

"Hence, of those who regard education, intellectual or moral, as the panacea, their undue expectations are not without use; and perhaps it is part of the beneficent order of things that their confidence cannot be shaken."

Even if it were true, Spencer observes, that by some possible system of moral government children could be moulded into the desired form; and even could every parent be duly indoctrinated with this system, we should still be far from achieving the object in view.

"It is forgotten that the carrying out of any such system, presupposes, on the part of adults, a degree of intelligence, of goodness, of self-control possessed by no one.

"The great error made by those who discuss questions of juvenile discipline, is in ascribing all the faults and difficulties to the children, and none to the parents."

This is a subject about which we will have more to say—and quote—later.

THE SOUL OF WIT.

Of all writers, La Rochefoucauld, Frenchman, learned best the brevity is the soul of wit.

When the grave closed over him the world had less than 1,000 paragraphs to remember him by, yet he stands three centuries later in the forefront of the world's great writers.

No philosopher has gone deeper into human conduct than La Rochefoucauld, who wrote that philosophy triumphs easily over past, and over future evils, but present evils triumph over philosophy.

These are some of his observations on humans:

"A man often fancies that he guides himself when he is guided by others; and while his mind aims at one object, his heart insensibly draws him on to another.

"Strength and weakness of mind are badly named—they are, in fact, nothing more than the good or bad arrangement of the organs of the body.

"Hatred of favorites is nothing less than the love of favor. The mortification of not possessing it is consolved and relieved by the contempt we show of those who do possess it; and we refuse them our respect, because we cannot deprive them of what attracts the respect of all the world.

"Although men pride themselves on their great actions, these are often the result, not of any great design, but of chance.

"We often persuade ourselves that we love people more powerful than we are; and yet it is interest along which produces our friendship. We do not associate with them for any good that we wish to do them, but for that which we would receive from them.

"Men would not live long in society if they were not the dupes of each other.

"Old men are fond of giving good advice, to console themselves for being no longer in a position to give bad examples.

"A man of wit would often be embarrassed without the company of fools.

"We seldom praise but to be praised.

"Hope, deceitful as she is, served at least to conduct us through life by an agreeable path.

POOR PAY FOR PREACHERS.

Colonel Will H. Hays, the $150,000 a year dictator of the motion picture industry is a Presbyterian. He is a very wise man, given to figures and he says the average salary paid a minister in America is les sthan that of a ditch digger. Colonel Hays is the chairman of a committee to put over a new plan for pensions for Presbyterian ministers and their dependents. It will take fifteen million dollars to establish the plan and it is going over as soon as at least four thousand ministers and four thousand churches have accepted the new pension program.

Colonel Hays is a man of finance as well as a man of the movies. He sees the fifteen million dollars in sight before the passing of 1926. It may interest the ungodly to know Colonel Hays says to keep the minister and his wife and his family we pay him $30 a week, scarcely more than the wage of a garbage collector, one-half the wage of a carpenter and one-third of the wage of the mason or a bricklayer.

Yes, but the carpenters are organized for self protection, the bricklayers have one of the most powerful unions in the world and the garbage collectors are for the most part selected by political bosses. Organization counts.

THE ART OF LIVING.

Pascal thought that living was so important everybody must be studying it. But he said he was surprised to find that more people knew the laws of geometry than knew the laws of life.

Living is an art and one that is to be learned by practice, and executed by skill.

Our real happiness is not a matter of chance, but of law. Our condition today dependts on what we did yesterday. And whether any man is happy or not is a consequence of his total former actions.

Inner success is certain. It is as much a subject of law as mathematics.

In the real life of a man there is no such thing as luck. Perhaps luck has a great deal to do with our outward efficiency, with our place in the world and with our fame, but it has nothing to do with our real contentment. Anybody can be content that wants to be.

Our condition depends largely on our thoughts. It is the result of what takes place in us and not what occurs to us from the outside.

Those who deliberately turn their attention away from disagreeable things, from failures and misery and wretchedness, and contemplate that which is bright and beautiful and sunny find the effect of it gradually growing upon them.

The sum total of one's life and one's efficiency depends also upon discipline. The undisciplined as a rule are the unhappy. If a man does not have himself well under control he is liable to become the slave to the most unruly passions.

The principal difference between the wise man and the fool is that the wise man controls himself. He knows just how far to give way to his desires, while the fool is helpless before them.

The former is like a man steering a boat and the other is like a boat drifting helplessly before the wind.

If you want your life to get anywhere there must be plan and purpose and aim and steady persistence.

It is an amazing thing that in our schools every sort of subject is studied except the art of living. As a consequence we have many experts in medicine, in all sorts of sciences, and in literature, but few experts in life.

What we all need to know, however, is how to live, not how to get on, for unless getting on administers to the richness and value of our life it is not worth while.

Many a man has found his goal attained, yet his mouth is full of ashes. The realization of his dreams does not bring him happiness because he has not learned how to live.

DANIEL HAD A LARGE FAMILY.

Five thousand descendents of Daniel Boone are assembled at Lexington, Ky., perfecting a family organization and honoring the 156 anniversary of the day when Daniel Boone entered Kentucky and blazed the way through the wilderness to the dark and bloody ground.

A bronze bust of Daniel is to be placed in a niche alloted to him in the Hall of Fame at New York university and al lthis at a cost of five thousand dollars. This was more money than Daniel ever had at any one time in his life but if he was short on the coin of the realm he isn't short on the number of descendents who claim him as the main trunk of the Boone family tree.

Daniel was a warrior bold and a patriot to the core and he deserves well of posterity. He occupies a snug place in history and he built his own monument which he was in the land of the living.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

"Search for the Woman."

"Cherchez la femme" is the French phrase—"look for the woman."

Commonly—almost invariably it is employed when a man has been up to some mischief, when his fortune has been frittered away, or when he has proved a colossal failure.

"Look for the woman," for whom he stole, or left his family, or made a fool of himself.

Most police forces keep detectives on their staffs who are supposed to have a special knowledge of the ways and wiles of women, and who can thereby find the women who have been the beneficiaries of crimes.

But this "look for the woman" business can and does work both ways.

In fact when a man has made a success of his life, when he has by thrift and industry built a fortune, when he has done some specially difficult piece of work both ways.

In fact when a man has made a success of his life, when he has by thrift and industry built a fortune, when he has done some specially difficult piece of work, you can usually find something about his secret if you will look for the woman.

In Mr. Barrie's admirable play, "What Every Woman Knows," he tells of an extreme case, in which a man, not particularly bright himself, was made to secure fame and admiration by the brains of his wife.

There are many cases like that—Svengali and Trilby reversed.

The man supplied the presence, and the dignity and the imposing appearance necessary to awe the multitude. The woman does the thinking and is clever enough to make him think that he does it.

Often when a man goes to the dogs and dissipates his patrimony it is said in justification of him:

"He had an extravagant wife. She spent his money as fast as he could make it" or

"He had a nagging wife. She drove him to drink."

Not often enough is it said of a man, who in spite of the predictions of his friends that he would never amount to much, accomplishes a great deal:

"His wife took an interest in his business, talked it over with him and gave him the benefit of her advice," or

"His wife insisted on his bringing out the best that was in him, and by her help and inspiration showed him how to succeed."

Marriage ought to be a partnership, in which each member is sufficiently interested in the other to work for his or her success.

Some bachelors have achieved fame, but not many of them.

It is usually the man with the right kind of a wife who puts all his energy and all his brains into the job, and it is her approval and applause that he values more than that of any one else, and more than all the success he may have made.

Women for ages have been content to shine dimly in reflected glory well pleased if their husbands live up to their expectations. And these are the women you can look for the next time you are at a loss to account for the sudden or slow rise to importance of some man you thought would never be classed above the common run.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE
Germini

The planetary aspects continue clouded today, and gradually assume quite an adverse character. Only customary and routine duties should receive attention, as there is nothing that either indicates optimism or self-confidence. On the contrary, a sense of restlessness, will be felt, dissatisfaction, not only with yourself but with others, will be experienced, and there will be an entire absense of that deliberative calm and poise so essential to success. No correspondence of an important character should be handled. No agreements or contracts, involving financial or other obligations, should be entered into: nor, if possible, should any journey be undertaken.

The signs denote that a child born today will be more than ordinarily subject to the ailments of infancy. It will, however emerge from these successfully, more as a consequence of proper care and nutrition, than as the result of medical prescriptions and advice. Its disposition will be submissive and obedient, and it will always be known for its gentleness and truthfulness of character. It will apply itself very eagerly to study, and will have to be forced to participate in the games and recreations for its companions. At no time in its life, will it be ambitious for material success, but still always be striving to acquire a fund of information, that will be the delight of its friends of whom it will have many, but which it will be unable to convert into any practical benefits.

If today is your birthday, the indications demonstrate that you are a creature of impulses, and, notwithstanding the fact that they are invariably generous, your apparent inability to deliberate and meditate has often caused you serious trouble. Intuition as a steady diet, can never take the place of cool, calculating judgment.

You have a combative temperament and will often argue from a point of view with which you do not agree, for the sake of differing from others. Your ideas on any and every subject are very extreme, and, for you, there is never a middle course of comparison, or of "give and take." You are a very loyal friend, but a dangerous enemy, as you harbor feelings of revenge or resentment, which do you no good and cause little trouble to your opponents.

You love with strength and ardor, and will never be satisfied with that degree of affectionate companionship which, in most happy marriages, succeeds the period of violent love making: you expect a continuous honeymoon.

Irrigation

You Don't Have to Buy From the Mail Order Houses on This Irrigation Project.

It is always interesting to get the woman's viewpoint. We recently asked a lady who had lived on several different irrigation projects what she thought of this one in comparison to the others.

She said it was the best one she had ever seen. We pressed the matter further and asked her just why she had come to this conclusion.

"Here," she said, "you do not have to send to Sears & Roebuck for every thing a little out of the ordinary. You do not have to trade with any of the mail order houses. It is easy to run into Wichita Falls at any time and get just what you want at prices really better than the mail order houses quote you."

This is a new slant on the advantages of our project compared to others. It is a tribute to Wichita Falls, the city, Wichita Falls merchants and to the wonderful system of roads in Wichita county.

Surely they may all be considered as assets to our project. They are assets that few projects have.

Only in the older and well developed irrigation projects of this size is it possible to drive direct from the farm into a city and do it in a few minutes' time.

There are only a few projects, old or new, that can boast of a city the size of this one.

Surely it is an advantage and an asset to have roads that will allow the irrigation farmer's wife to run into a city in a few minutes' time where she can buy as cheaply and from as big an assortment as though she bought from one of the giant mail order houses.

POEMS THAT LIVE

UPON WESTMINSTER BRIDGE.

Earth has not anything to show more fair;
Dull would he be of soul who could pass by
A sight so touching in its majesty;
This city now doth like a garment wear.

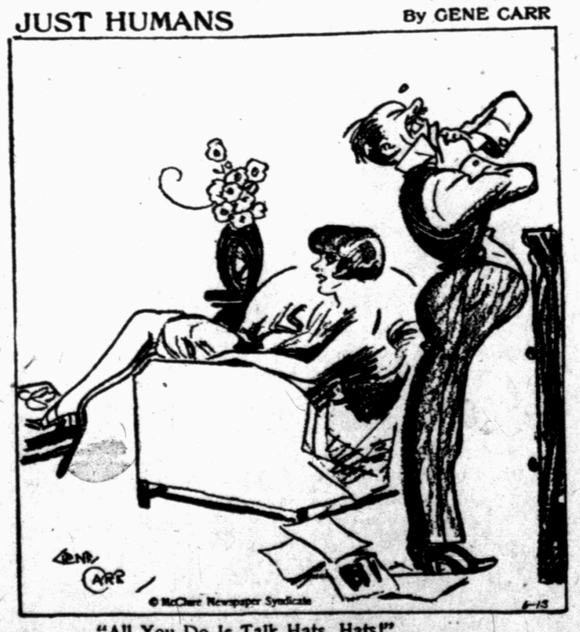

The beauty of the morning: silent, bare,
Ships, towers, domes, theaters and temples lie
Open unto the fields, and to the sky.
All bright and glittering in the smokeless air.

Never did the sun more beautifully steep
In his first splendor valley, rock or hill;
Ne'er saw I, never felt, a calm so deep!

The river glideth at his own sweet will;
Dear God! the very houses seem asleep;
And all that mighty heart is lying still!

More Truth Than Poetry

THERE'S A LIMIT

A scientist declares that with a microphone he can hear worms eating on the inside of an apple.

At night I hear the squeaking bats,
The barking dogs, the yowling cats,

The shrill mosquitoes in their flight
To seek a victim they can bite.

And from the house next door to mine
The horror called "Sweet Adeline,"

Why, therefore, should I want to hear
The little worms that far and near

Are gnawing at green apple peels
On which they make their midnight meals?

Their table manners may be rude,
They noisily may chew their food,

And crunch it audibly beneath
Their sharp microscopic teeth—

But many other forms of noise
Disturb my midnight mental poise,

And furthermore if we should heed
These greedy insects while they feed,

The scientists will soon devise
Another way to utilize

Their microphones—till by and by
In midnight watches, you and I

Will hear not only gnawing worms,
But also our internal germs—

And fret and fume and stew and fuss
The while they glut themselves on us!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

CAN A MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN ATTRACT THE MAN WHO ADMIRES FLAPPERS BY IMITATING THEM?—SHALL THE WIDOWER WITH CHILDREN REMARRY?—THE GIRL WHO'D MARRY FOR A RING AND A TRIP

Dear Miss Dix—I am an old maid, with gray hair, blue eyes and a good complexion, and although I am nearing the forty mark, I am still very easy on the eyes.

Here is my question. There is a man in our office 40 years old, who seems to admire bobbed hair and high-heeled shoes. Would it be advisable for me to bob my hair, give it a henna rinse and start wearing high heeled shoes in order to win him? I know that I would make him a good wife, and be more companionable to him than any frivolous young girl. I would hate to see him sacrificed to one. ANXIOUS RILLA.

Answer—Of course, you would make the middle aged man a far better wife than any young girl would, and he would be a million times happier with you than he would with some little chit, who would always be wanting to jump around and go to places.

But don't be foolish enough to enter yourself in the flapper class, Rilla, and try to compete with girls young enough to be your daughters You can't do it, and you only make yourself cheap and ridiculous when you attempt it. Don't risk comparison with their youth. Stay in your own class and keep the dignity and distinction that goes with it.

Bobbed hair is none too pretty when it is on young heads. Bobbed hair makes the wearer nothing but a figure of fun. Gray hair makes a youngish face look even younger. The beauties of the old French court knew what they were about when they wore powdered wigs, but dyed hair brings out every line and crow's feet on a woman's countenance.

Once I was in a beauty parlor, where a woman was trying to decide on the color she would have her hair dyed, and the proprietor was trying to dissuade her from doing it. "Oh, yes," he said to her, "I can dye your hair any young color you want it, but I can't give you the young face to go with it. Believe me, nature knows what it is about when it turns our hair gray, for gray hair softens a face and camouflages the wrinkles as we grow old." So that's that.

If your man really prefers flappers and is ensnared by bobbed hair, and painted-up little faces, and meager, half-clad little boddies, you will not be able to win him away from them by trying to make an imitation young girl of yourself. They are the real jazz thing, while you would be only a hollow pretense.

Your chance is in making just the opposite play. Emphasize your ripe, rich, mellow maturity as against their callow, crude immaturity. Set the full blown rose against the bud. Give to the man a real comradeship, a real understanding and sympathy that no flapper can possibly give. Pit your experience of men, your tact and subtlety against their egotistic self absorption, and if the man is worth having you will win out. After all, they are the green fruit, your are the ripe peach. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widower in my thirties. I have a good home and income and crave companionship, but I have a small family of little children. Should I marry again? If so, what kind of a woman would be best suited, a widow or a woman who has never been married, and about what age? It seems to me that it takes a lot of nerve for a widower with children to ask a woman to marry him. CHARLES.

Answer—There are thousands of women, Charles, to whom God gives a mother's heart, but to whom He sends no children, who every year adopt children out of orphan asylums to supply this maternal craving, and who come to love these foster babies as if they were their very own. Why, then, should not women with this same instinct be glad to marry widowers with children, and feel it a privilege to be permitted to lavish their affection on the little ones of the man they love?

Certainly you have the right to give any woman you fancy a chance at the superior job you have to offer. She doesn't have to take it unless it looks good to her.

Of course, the woman who marries a man with children does take a great responsibility on her hands. Rearing a houseful of children is no child's play, even when they are your own, and the troubles are multiplied when they are stepchildren, who generally do not take kindly to a stepmother's authority, and who are often ungrateful and unappreciative. Still there are very few children that a good woman cannot make love her, and if she really mothers another woman's children she has done one of the noblest works on earth and one that entitles her to a reserved seat in heaven.

As for the kind of a woman you should marry, I should say one near your own age would be the best choice.

Don't marry a young girl, because no flapper is fitted to be a stepmother. No young girl has the knowledge of life, or enough self control, or dignity, to enable her to deal successfully with a houseful of children.

Don't marry a widow who has children. Mixed families make for trouble and discord. There would be the eternal conflict between your children and her children, and there is not one woman in a million who could deal justly and fairly between her own darling angels and your human girls and boys.

A widow without children is an excellent risk, but the woman's previous condition of matrimonial servitude has nothing to do with the case.

It is the woman with the mother heart that you want to look for. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young girl of 19, and I want to get married, but I don't want to marry any man who cannot give me a trip to California and a diamond ring. ISABEL.

Answer—Don't you think you hold yourself rather cheap, Isabel? A trip to California and a diamond ring are not much to sell out for. One's dreams, one's romance, one's hopes of love ought to be worth more than that.

There are so many fine young chaps with true, honest hearts, and industrious hands, and ambitious souls—the sort of young men who have no diamond rings, nor tickets to California to offer to a girl now, but who twenty years hence are going to be able to buy their wives tiaras and take her on de luxe tours around the world—are you willing to pass them up for the man who can give you a shiny stone in a ring and a trip?

CROWDS LEAVE CHINA AS WAR CLOUDS LOOM

Missionaries Are Ordered From Hupeh Province On Account of Riots

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—(AP)—Both from Hankow, the great river city of China and Canton, the south river city where Yunanez and Kwangtung troops have been engaged in a long range battle for nearly a fortnight refugees, Chinese and foreign are leaving for the ports where they can find protection under the guns of foreign warships. Missionaries too have been ordered from Hupeh province, in which Hankow is situated the presumption being that anti-foreign agitation is being felt in the interior.

Foreigners Still Safe.

The foreigners of Canton who have their separate concession on Shameen island have not yet been disturbed by the fighting, dispatches say, but steamers, loaded with refugees from Hong Kong have to run the danger of passing through the cross river fire of the Kwangtunites on Honan island and the Unnanez, who are in possession of Canton proper.

In Shanghai as a result of the disturbances at Hankow, there has been a recrudesence of strikes in the cotton mills and some anti-Japanese disturbances in the foreign settlement. River and coastal shipping is practically tied up by the strike of seamen and engine room crews.

The diplomatic corps at Peking has suggested to the Chinese authorities that a discussion on the spot would be the best means of settling the trouble at Shanghai and has instructed its representatives there to consider with the foreign consuls and Chinese authorities the best remedy for the present state of affairs.

Hankow Trouble Serious.

The trouble at Hankow, where the British have erected barricades around the concession, was one of the most serious affairs that has occurred since the trouble began in Shanghai on May 30. Striking coolies got out of hand wrecked Japanese shops in the British concessions and proceeded to attack the British armory when the volunteers fired killing eight of the demonstrators, the dispatches state. A general strike is now threatened in that city.

Hankow Is Quiet Following Riots

HANKOW, June 12.—(AP)—Late tonight the situation in Hankow still remained quiet, largely owing to the efforts of General Hsia, Yao-Man, military governor of the province of Hupeh, who today issued a proclamation in which he threatened to execute any Chinese who disturbed the foreign concession. There was no repetition today o fthe rioting of Thursday night, in which a number of Chinese were killed or wounded while making an attack upon the British volunteer army.

It is estimated that 5,000 Chinese concession tonight.

GENEVA, June 12.—(AP)—The United States will be asked to assume no responsibility in the carrying out of the arms traffic regulations in the world's forbidden zones.

This was accepted by the conference with an amendment that signatories assume no responsibility but may assume it if they so desire.

ELECTRA WILL ENTERTAIN C-C MEET JULY 2

West Texas Chamber's District Convention Plans Are Announced

ELECTRA, June 12.—All preliminary arrangements have been completed for the district convention of the chamber of commerce which will be held in Electra on July 2 and 3. The business sessions of the convention will be held the first day and the second day will be given over to entertainment features.

A special golf tournament is being arranged at the Electra Country club and special invitation has been extended to Wichita Falls golfers to take part in the contests. For those who do not play golf, a big barbecue is being planned in connection with the opening races on the Waggoner race track.

The Electra committees have already secured the meat for the barbecue and all the delegates to the convention will be the guests of the race track association. It is planned to make the barbecue one of the biggest ever held in Wichita county and W. W. Smith, old hand in the barbecue game, has been placed in charge of the meat.

Many prominent speakers have been invited to attend the meeting, including R. Q. Lee of Cisco, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, Porter A. Whaley has also been asked to make an address. Others who have been sent invitations to speak are: Professor Grout, head of the department of dairy, Texas A. and M. college; Professor Leidigh, recently appointed dean of agriculture in the West Texas Tech; T. O. Walton, director of the extension service at A. and M., and O. B. Gates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver road. Definite programs will be announced later, it was stated.

State Wins Vital Point in Trial Of Germ Charge

had suffered financial reverses was a nobody going nowhere and that their friendship must end. Shepherd met the pretty little nurse while he was a hospital patient.

Others of the eight witnesses heard today included F. T. Breidegan, Grand Rapids, Mich., bacteriologist, who testified Shepherd visited his laboratory in Chicago with Dr. Oscar Olson, and Mrs. W. H. Grandsen of Tulsa, Okla., who testified that she heard Shepherd 18 years ago denounce Alexander Reichmann, co-guardian of Billy McClintock and attorney for the McClintock estate. She said Shepherd attributed to Reichmann the remark that the co-guardian intended to get a slice of the estate. Reichmann was the first witness of the day concluding his testimony begun yesterday.

Asks Court's Aid.

Upon cross examination of Reichmann Defense Attorney Stewart tried to bring out that Reichmann had come to Chicago from Iowa "without a dime" and had obtained "a lot of money" after he began to handle the McClintock estate. Reichmann begged the court's protection from that and other insinuations but Stewart said he was not "half through insinuating."

William Goyette, a plumber, testified that he had heard Shepherd make adverse criticism of Reichmann, and L. H. Tolzein, bank teller, introduced Shepherd's bank account for the period from January, 1921, to January last. It ranged from a few cents to $5,000, but generally was very low, frequently less than one dollar.

Robert White, long missing witness, appeared in the court room today, announced himself ready to testify against Shepherd, accused the defense of intimidating him and begged protection. He was taken to a hotel to be guarded until his testimony is desired.

White to Testify.

White probably will testify in corroboration of the story of Charles C. Fatman, proprietor of the National University of Science, that Shepherd studied bacteriology there according to the state's attorney. It was upon Fatman's testimony that he taught Shepherd how to kill Billy McClintock and supplied the germs that he and Shepherd were indicted for murder.

The state will continue at tomorrow's two-hour court session to introduce witnesses whose testimony will serve the double purpose of showing a motive and establishing the "corpus delicti," said Joseph Savage, assistant state's attorney, at adjournment.

Miss Isabelle Pope, who waited with a marriage license when Billy died, probably will testify Monday morning, it was said, with Faiman's testimony climaxing the state's case Monday afternoon.

Why Do I Love Him?

Yesterday I overheard an interesting conversation between two women seated in deck chairs near mine. Of course I listened, rude as it was to do so.

The older of the two was giving the younger woman some advice.

"Don't worry your head about why you love him," she was advising her listener. "That's all nonsense. Just be glad you love him and hang on to him. If you start puzzling things out, you'll never get anywhere. It's better to accept things the way they are, and be grateful for them. That way you'll never have any worries."

My impulse was to rise up and contradict that old woman just as loudly as possible, although at first glance her advice seemed to be genuine common sense.

However, if you sit down and think about the matter long enough, you'll come to the conclusion, with me, that she was counselling a very dangerous policy.

There are too many unhappy marriages today because one of the parties concerned didn't ask herself: "Why do I love him?"

If you're crazy about somebody, and I expect most of you are, don't just settle back and reflect that because you're in love, all your problems are solved, and he's the most perfect man in the world.

You've simply got to figure it out for yourself what there is about him that puts everybody else in the shade.

Sometimes if you ask yourself this question seriously enough you'll find that you've fallen for nothing more than a pair of blue eyes or a particularly nice chin or a shock of wavy hair. And you know, really you won't get such an awful kick out of that, 20 years from now.

Maybe you'll find that your love started from the first moment you danced with him—his divine dancing you off your feet and you've never been able to be interested in anybody else since. And if when you sum things up you find that you can't name anything else wonderful about him except his dancing, you would be rather wise to come out of the ether as soon as possible.

On the other hand if you find, on checking up carefully, that your man is the only one because you two have such good times together laughing at the same things, enjoying the same plans, reading the same books, then you're pretty safe in going ahead with plans for the wedding.

Unless you ask yourself solemnly, "Why do I love him" and unless you answer the question honestly, you'll find yourself married to a good-looking stranger who hasn't anything about him that interests you except the shape of his nose and the size of his checking account.

And both those things will count for nothing against the lack of companionship and understanding you'll experience.

Making a list of the reasons you love him—sounds dreadfully cold-blooded, but you may live to thank your lucky stars that you didn't allow false sentiment to ruin your life.

Tell me, all you girls who are perplexed and anxious about your love affairs, 'Why do you love him?"

LOVE TRYST AT CLANDESTINE SPOT IS FATAL

Husband of Dead Man's Former Sweetheart Admits He Killed Man

BODY IS RECOVERED

Charge Made That Wife Purposely Arranged Meeting for Fight

SHREVEPORT, La., June 12.—The body of Robert Reir, 25-years-old, of Converse, La., a student of Centenary college, was recovered from Old river, near Pleasureville, a swimming resort at 7 o'clock this morning.

Reid was drowned Wednesday night during a fight in the river with George W. Gill, 23-year-old, senior law student of Loyola college, New Orleans, Gill told officers.

Reid's body was floating not far from the spot where his boat was abandoned on the night of the tragedy. Two small wounds apparently caused by a blunt instrument were found on his head.

Caused Him to Drown.

The wounds, although not severe enough to have produced death, the coroners' report states, could have stunned the victim, causing him to drown.

A charge of murder was filed against Gill by District Attorney Blancoard and he is being held without bail.

Gill confessed Thursday afternoon to having fought with Reid at the resort. Gill in a statement said that Reid, who was a sweetheart of Mrs. Gill before her marriage, called his wife by telephone and asked her to meet him at the swimming resort, designating the spot and threatening her with blackmail if she failed to do so.

"My wife told me about it and we decided to go down there," Gill said. "I intended to beat him up but not to kill him."

Authorities investigating the case Friday said that the Gills had admitted that Mrs. Gill had called and arranged for the meeting, with the intention of beating him up.

"To Settle Matters."

After meeting at the river, Gill said he told Reid that he had come "to settle matters," and Reid struck at him with an oar. In the fight that ensued Gill said he struck Reid's head against the corner of a boat several times and left him in a stunned condition.

Thursday afternoon after continuous grilling Mrs. Gill broke down and related the detail sof the homicided. Gill was brought in afterwards and refused a similar story.

Gill is a member of a prominent family of Crowley, La. His wife is a Shreveport girl and is also prominently known here. When they were married last October the wedding was kept secret until January.

Cal's Son Visits At Governor's Home After Seeing Girl

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—A Hartford dispatch in today's New York Times says:

"John Coolidge, the president's son, is the guest of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull of Connecticut. He has been at the governor's home in Plainville for three days.

"The president's son met Jean Trumbull, the governor's daughter, on the way to the presidential inauguration on March 4, when the governor's party and young Coolidge traveled in the same Pullman car.

"Miss Trumbull is a student at Mount Holyoke while Coolidge is an under graduate at Amherst, only a few miles distant. The young people have seen each other several times since the inauguration."

TWO CARS ARE WRECKED BUT NONE INJURED

Narrow Escape Marks The Result of Bad Crash

W. H. Montgomery, a driver for the City Laundry company, had a narrow escape from possible serious injury at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon when his Ford truck turned over at Sixth and Lamar after a collision with a Ford roadster driven by Lawrence Smith, son of Sheriff Fred K. Smith. The delivery truck toppled over on its right hand side after the accident, but Montgomery crawled out, somewhat unnerved but otherwise unhurt.

The truck was running south on Lamar and Smith's car was proceeding east on Sixth.

Damage to the laundry truck was limited to some splintered side boards and a crushed fender. The roadster suffered a blown casing and a bent rear fender.

Mrs. Harry Davis is in Childress, where she is visiting with relatives of that city.

Return to Pre-War Income Tax Is Urged

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 12 (AP)—Prompt return to the pre-war income tax with a blanket normal of 2 per cent and a maximum sur tax of 13 per cent was urged here tonight by Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama in an address before the state meeting of Alabama tax clubs.

This surtax is approximately one-half of that proposed in the Mellon plan and one-third of the maximum in the present law which was written by a coalition of democrats and republican insurfents.

Senator Underwood's jroposal did not stop with a reduction in income rates; he proposed also reduction of the estate taxes from the present maximum of 40 per cent to the pre-war rate of 10 per cent.

JACK DALE TO HEAD STATE C. E. THIS YEAR

Electra Youth Is Named President at State Convention

Friday evening saw much ground covered by delegates to the state Christian Endeavor convention here. The end of the third day marked the passing of enough business to allow the visitors time enough for a little play and the program for today has been arranged accordingly.

Jack Dale Elected.

Jack B. Dale of Electra was elected state president to succeed A. A. Hyde of Sherman. Dale was vice-president last year and the new office comes in the form of a promotion to him. Austin D. Bryan of Gainesville was named vice-president to succeed Dale, and Miss Florence Richardson of Sherman was elected secretary. Ruth Burlingame of Houston was named assistant secretary; George Vincent of Fort Worth was selected treasurer, and F. B. Porter of Fort Worth was elected finance chairman.

Departmental superintendents named were: Alumni, Captain Charles Crotty of Houston; evangelistic, Rev. Everett B. King of Sherman; intermediate, Berta Mae Looney of Denton; introduction, Helen Nelson of Palestine; junior, Nina Mae Nowery of Beaumont; leadership training, Edward Hamner of Austin; life work recruit, Moselle Hilswick of Stephenville; missionary, Sadie Clarke O'Neill of Houston; Mexican, Lillian Reitz of San Antonio; press, Mrs. Roy Rumans of Sherman; quiet hour, Lola Robertson of San Benito; service, Donald Bubar of Austin; social, W. S. Screen of Wichita Falls; Tenth Legion, Mrs. Clarence Newsome of Dallas, and world and news booster, Louise A. Wood of Houston.

One of the prettiest parades seen in Wichita Falls in some time was witnessed on the downtown streets yesterday afternoon when the long line of delegates passed in review through the business section. Many of the delegations wore uniforms distinctive to their town, while all of them carried banners and badges that added much to the picturesque scene. An unusual number of cars were attractively and gaily decorated. Several prizes had been announced for the best decorated floats, but awards will not be made until this afternoon, the committee in charge of the parade has announced.

Dallas Wins.

Dallas district was awarded the cup for the best publicity work in group one of the Christian Endeavor societies in the state, Sherman, Paris and aVlley districts were awarded shields for the best work in the other three idstricts. The awards were announced by Mrs. Roy Numans' state press representative. This makes the third year that the Dallas district has won the cup and under the rules will beentitled to keep it.

Four cities announced their intentions yesterday of bidding for the state meet next year. Sherman, Beaumont, San Antonio and Amarillo have already tossed their caps into the ring and were actively engaged all day yesterday in canvassing the members for votes. It has not been decided when the convention will be awarded but Marsh Calloway of Kennedy, head of the convention committee, stated that it would probably not be until Monday.

Playing to a packed house of over a thousand people the Methodist Young People's association presented "The Rock," a Biblical play depicting the life of Simon Peter. The play was first presented at the Wichita theatre two weeks ago during Young People's Week. It was replayed for the convention, under the direction of Mrs. J. S. Pittman, who took an active role in the cast.

The cast was made up of the following: Adina, wife of Simon Peter, Miss Bulah Gardner; Simon Peter, the Rock, Raybon W. Porter; Deborah, mother of Adina, Mrs. J. S. Pittman; servant to Ucal, James Jennings; Ucal, Harold White; servant to Magdala, Lois Cook; Mary of Magdala, Marguerite Fisher; Pandira, the Greek piet, Baldwin Montgomery; Titus, the Roman officer, Emmett Baukhight; Agur, the physician, Gordon Harris; and promptress, Zona Bachman.

Rev. Miller Sings.

Rev. Leslie Miller, pastor of the Grace Methodist church sang two solos between the first and second acts, while the quartette from the First Presbyterian church sang several selections between the second and third acts. Preceding the play, a cantata, portraying the life of the child Jesus, with a cast of 34 children from the First Christian church under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Holmes, was presented. Mrs. R. E. Shepherd served as accompanist at the piano.

This morning a short business session has been called at the First Christian church, but the afternoon will be entirely devoted to pleasure. A big lawn party will be held at the Culbertson home, corner Eleventh and Harrison streets. A fellowship banquet has been called for this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

W. Roy Breg, field secretary of the Kansas Christian Endeavor union will make the principal address this evening at the regular night session. A special musical offering has also been arranged.

Anti-Monkeyists and Pro Darwinites Study Up On Fine Points of Descent

PROFESSOR J. T. SCOPES

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—While John T. Scopes, high school teacher, was returning today from New York to Dayton, Tenn., his counsel were brushing up on the intricacies of the rise of man and there was much discussion of the part radicals are playing in arrangements for the defense on a charge of violating the Tennessee law against teaching evolution.

Clarence Darrow, Bainbridge Colby and Dudley Field Malone, associate defense counsel, visited the American Museum of Natural History yesterday. They saw in the "Hall of the Age of Man" specimans showing the evolution of man and the evolution of the horse. They conferred with Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, noted authority on evloution and president of the museum, who promised aid in lining up scientific witnesses.

When Scopes visited the museum several days ago Professor Osborn warned him not to let radicals run the case. Later Scopes as guest of honor at a dinner of 300 so-called liberals and radicals said "I have met here in New York the most lovable bunch of people I ever knew—those who have taken up my case."

In this connection the New York Evening Post says:

"Greenwich Village is on its way to Rhea county. There shortly will descend on Dayton, Tenn., the greatest aggregation of assorted cranks, including agnostics, atheists, communists, syndicalists and new dawners ever known in a single procession.

"In the Scopes case teachers, research workers, biologists and other men of science are being smothered in the rush of long haired men and short haired women, feminists, free thinkers and free lovers who are determined to shine in reflected glory. The vital issues of the trial in Tennessee are being lost in the stampede of professionals martyrs and a swarm of practicing egotists."

Refers to Franks Case.

"Education without religion may destroy you or make you a menace to those about you. This can be clearly shown by several murder trials going on as well as the Franke case in Chicago a year ago, when two boys had education but had blackened hearts. The heart is more important than the head.

"Religion is a necessary part of human life. My lesson to you is the need of combining and linking together religion and education.

"Timeliness is a great thing in speaking, and this is an opportune time to discuss the two greatest subjects about which man is concerned today, science gives us great things, but it takes more than education to make a man or woman.

Heart vs. Head.

"We can expect deeds like these if we have only education with nothing to control it. The heart is more important than the head. We are overestimating the importance of education and underestimating the importance of religion.

"This little case in Tennessee was joked about at first, but there is no joking now. The greatest criminal lawyer in the country and three other outside lawyers will defend John T. Scopes for violating one of the statutes of the state in teaching that man has descended from a lower form of life. The book used by him contradicts the Bible and sends the children home believing that the Bible is a lie."

Bryan Gives Inkling Of Prosecution Plan In the Scopes Case

MIAMI, Fla., June 12.—(AP)—William Jennings Bryan, who will assist in the prosecution of J. T. Scopes in the Dayton, Tenn., "evolution case," addressing high school graduates here, spoke of science and religion.

Many of his hearers looked upon his remarks as a possible line of argument he will advance at the trial July 10.

"Science is a great thing, religion is the greatest thing," he declared. "Science gives us great things, but it takes more than education to make a man or woman.

RELIEF BOAT APPROACHING ARCTIC POST

No Reason Given For The Sudden Change in Destination

S. S. INGERTRE BOUND FOR SPITZBERGEN, June 12.—(AP)—The Ingertre, bearing Lieutenant Lutzow Holm and his little band of fliers northward to search for the Amundsen polar expedition, today was plowing the resolate Greenland sea, the only speck of life in all that watery waste.

Her position as last taken was 71.26 north, 11.27 east or approximately 440 miles from Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, which she is expected to reach by noon tomorrow.

The owners have not yet appraised Captain Johannessen of the reason for the change in destination recounted in yesterday's dispatch. There is much speculation abroad concerning it as it is believed ice conditions are more favorable at King's Bay, the original destination, than at Advent Bay.

Furthermore, to reach Dane's Island from the latter place Lieutenant Holm and his companion fliers will have to cover 150 miles as they must keep to the coastline.

Yesterday the completion of the third week since Amundsen's hop off for the pole, was solemnly commemorated by those aboard the Ingertre.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Railroads Will Never Have Another Harriman; Regulations Have Killed Personalities."

Julius Kruttschnitt, closely associated with E. L. Harriman in an epochal railroad development and since 1913 chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific railway, will soon quit the ranks of active railroad men. After 48 years of service he will retire on the eve of his seventy-first birthday.

Recently Kruttschnitt talked about his former chief in railroading and future of American railroads. He founded his transportation empire upon confidence in himself and the greatness of America, as the greatest of America, as the greatest and last of the railroad kings. He will have no successors, in Kruttschnitt's opinion, because stringent government regulation has "taken much of the personality from railroading." But the industry faces a period of many vast changes, he believes, and contemplated consolidations will greatly alter the railway way of the country.

Intelligent Relief Vital.

"Government control has laid such heavy burdens on the roads that only intelligent relief can prevent further receivership like that of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul," Kruttschnitt said. "It is a sign of the times. Cities have charged the road with overdevelopment in its Puget Sound extension. Perhaps that condition exists, but it could not be predicted ten or twelve years ago when the improvement was projected. And government regulation had not then imposed difficulties upon the road such as have since reduced its earning powers so much that the Puget Sound extensions became a handicap.

"The interstate commerce commission has received a task in the matter of adjusting consolidations that is beyond its powers. Neither the commission nor railroad executive can positively determine at this time which consolidations would be best for the country and the roads. The whole problem is in a state of movement. Beyond doubt we shall see changes such as have not taken place for many years.

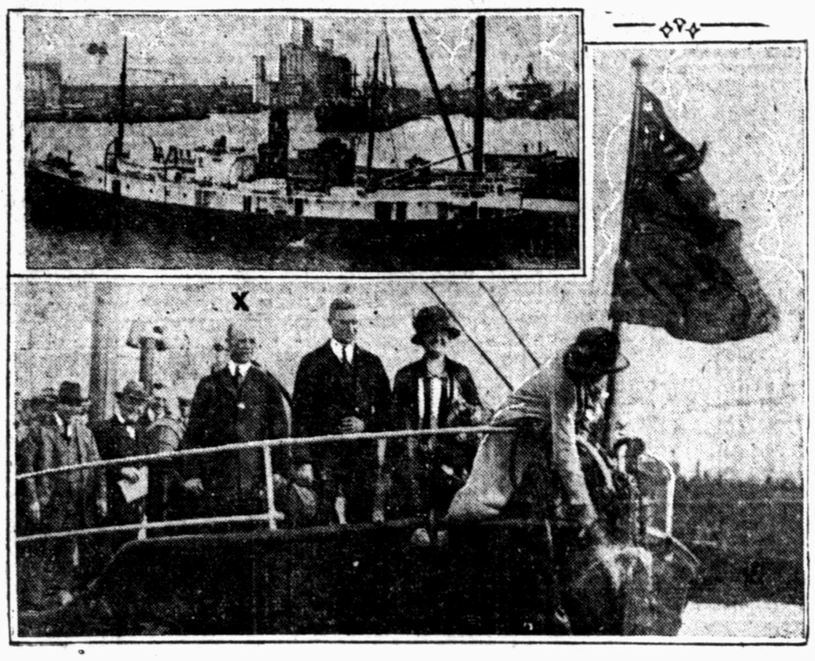

Accepts Government Regulation.

"I find no fault with the principle of government regulation, but it should not be onerous or destructive. Unless the public awakes — and congress awakes through the public—it is inevitable that other great rail properties will be unable to make their way. Extensive receiverships will work infinite harm not alone to the roads, but to American industry as a whole and the nation itself. Our prosperity is so bound up in railroad prosperity that it is impossible for the country to flourish when the roads languish.

"I believe that these matters are evident to all who will study them, but the public has not yet realized their portent. The roads must have fair treatment and a reasonable chance for life, or they cannot expand or even keep pace with modern conditions. At the beginning of the century the roads earned about 33 1-3 cents gross from every dollar of receipts, but in the case of several great systems this figure has fallen to 9 or 10 per cent, which is not a living return. On the one hand, the roads confront stringent legislation and on the other militant labor.

"The last decade has witnessed a marked chastening of railroad executives and a new understanding of their relations to the public, but labor continues unchastened and steadily increases its demands. I need not say that any business man, any reasonable man, can see where all this leads."

MacMillan Ship Ready for Adventure

The MacMillan-National Geographic Arctic expedition, which will explore what may be a hidden continent in the polar regions, is virtually ready to go into the north, now that the plane carrier Peary, on which the trip will be made, has been launched. It will sail from Boston, June 17. Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford of Washington, D. C., daughter of the discoverer of the pole, is seen launching the vessel, shown above. Donald MacMillan, leader of the expedition, is at left (X).

Through A Woman's Eyes

WHAT THE WOMAN READER WANTS.

At a convention the other day I was talking to a newspaper publisher from another city.

"Now, don't try to tell me,' he said, 'what it is that women readers want. I know. They are not all interested in what the men read.

"Take financial news, for instance—it doesn't interest them at all.

"Politics — superficial interest at elections, but no interest in the daily news.

"The editorials they never read except the small percentage of intellectual women.

"Foreign news, industrial news, scientific news do not appeal to them at all. All they care for is society, fashions and fiction—the kind of fiction we call 'sob stuff'."

We were both leaving the hall, so together we took the car uptown. It was 5 o'clock and we found ourselves pushed right next to two girls, obviously returning from work. One of them opened her newspaper so eagerly that she fanned our faces.

"Now watch," he said slyly, "and see if she isn't reading 'Advice to Lovers'."

Just then the girl with the paper turned to her friend.

"Look here—more fighting in southern Europe. I'm glad I put my lone hundred in a Liberty bond instead of that European loan that was advertised."

"H-m; what nerve! I mean this editorial on the transit fight. I never did like their atitude toward state interference. They seem to think the city should take orders from the governor.

"Here's an editorial on the effect of the woman voter on the last election. Well, no matter what they say on the transit matter, you must admit they have a good editorial page."

And before I had a chance to say anything my friend laughed and said: "Here's my street; this is where I get off."

Former Irrigation Engineer in City

J. L. Lockeridge, formerly designing engineer for the irrigation project and now designing engineer for the city of Dallas on the big Garza dam project, was in Wichita Falls Friday. He said that the Garza project will be about 80 feet at the extreme height when completed, is now about 45 feet high across the river channel.

The outlet conduits, which are 14 feet wide and 19 feet ihgh, in arch sections, are completed, he stated. Theer are two of these conduits. The gate house tower, he said, is being constructed. About one-half of the concrete yardage in the spillway has been poured. He estimated that the total earthwork was about 25 per cent completed.

Lockeridge estimated that it would take a tleast another year to complete it. The dredge owned by the Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging company is only placing about 5,000 yards per day in the dam, although it is a larger dredge than used in the construction of Lake Kemp dam. The yardage at Lake Kemp at about the same stage used to average about 10,000 yards per day.

There are 100 motor cars to every 86 telephones in the United States.

Who's Who

VISCOUNT FITZALAN.

Great Britain's newest knight is Viscount Fitzalan of Derwent, G. C. V. O. D., D. S. O. He has just been made Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter by King George.

VISCOUNT FITZALAN

Lord Fitzalan, who succeeds to the vacancy in the order caused by the death of Lord Curzon, is the younger brother of the late, and uncle and heir presumptive of the present, Duke of Norfolk. As Lord Edmund Talbot, he was a very successful and popular chief unionist whip from 1913 to 1921. He was then raised to the peerage on appointment as viceroy of Ireland, being the last to hold that office. He won the D. S. O. in the South African war. Many members of the House of Howard have been admitted to the Order of the Garter, including eight Dukes of Norfolk, beginning with "Jockey of Norfolk." Lord Fitzalan is the only Roman Catholic among the non-Royal Knights of the Garter.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl, who is bent on marrying

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, has been with Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use

Marietta Fernander, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe, who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Soon after Landis effects a reconciliation with Rosilyn and becomes his old lovable self. The latter discovers damning evidence against Lydia and exerts her power to secure the upperhand—in the city, meanwhile Marietta feels her power over Briscoe declining.

Torn by jealousy, Marietta surreptitiously sees Rosilyn and makes an ambigious declaration of love.

Walking away the dancer stumbles into an underground passage where she finds Briscoe surrounded by incriminating evidence. The latter suspects treachery.

It was easy for her to slip down that ladder, and the six foot drop at the bottom did not jolt her in the least.

A lantern burned in the cavern, and in its rays she saw a heavy door that was reinforced with iron and two enormous bolts.

The door was ever so slightly ajar, and a ray of light came from the other side.

Marietta did not hesitate. Her erstwhile lover had passed through that door but recently, and she would follow him, despite the consequences.

"Rupert!" She inserted her body in the aparture, and called out his name the moment that she saw him. "Rupert! It's I, Marietta! What are you doing here?"

The man wheeled around. He was in a low-hung, chalky cave whose sides were almost lined with casks and mysterious cases and bottles.

"Good God!" His hand had flashed to an inner pocket of his coat, and Marietta saw a weapon gleaming—was he going to shoot her?

"It's only I," she repeated, shivering with sudden apprehension. "Just Marietta—"

"And what brings you here woman? How dare you spy on me?"

"Spy?" she repeated blankly. "I—I saw you on the cliffs—I followed—"

He slipped the weapon back into his coat pocket, and came directly towards her.

"Who sent you here? In whose pay are you? But I needn't ask—it's Van Vorst sent you here!"

"Oh, Rupert, that's what I wanted to explain. He—he hadn't the right to intrude that night—he'd been drinking—he apologized afterwards to me. He did, indeed!"

Briscoe cut in, brusquely and rudely:—

"Tell that to the marines! I know your kind! You weren't born yesterday! But—" he caught her by the shoulders with a grip that actually hurt—"I'm going to get to the bottom of this spying business. Was it Van Vorst who sent you here?"

"Don't! You hurt! Let go!"

"Answer me! And don't attempt to double cross me! I've been far too good to you in the past, and this is the way I get repaid! You've lied to me already about Van Vorst, but you shan't get away with it a second time. I don't care who keeps you, but—"

"It's false!—It—it was just a business arrangement—" she protested, with shaking limbs, for Briscoe's mien, his accusations, almost stunned her.

"Faugh! Don't pile on the sweet simplicity! And now—" with another painful jerk at her shoulders—"tell me why you came here?"

"No reason at all. I—I didn't know there was a secret. I saw you suddenly disappear, and so I followed. I—I wanted to talk with you—that was all."

CHAPTER LXIII.
In the Pool

Briscoe eyed her sharply in the dimlit cave. It occurred to him that she wasn't lying, and relief caught him, so that his grip on Marietta's shoulders loosened.

"You Spanish women are so frantic when you're jealous that the thought of being shadowed by you wasn't too agreeable! That's a fact." His glance left her face and went round the cavern. "These cases are specimens of sea gulls' eggs and cliff plants. Some other fellows and I gathered them, and brought them here. We keep the place private. I don't want its whereabouts blazoned abroad. D'you understand me, Marietta?"

"Yes. Anything you say. I didn't mean to intrude." Her air was puzzled, just the same. Those great cases! Odd, wasn't it?

"It's a sort of naturalists' society," went on Briscoe, in staccato tones. "We meet here, and naturally we don't want the village rubes nosing around. So you'll give me your word, Marietta, that you'll keep mum about it?"

"You can trust me," she replied, her great eyes like pools of tragedy. "If I could only trust you in the same way—"

"Had she guessed the real reason of the subterranean hiding place? he wondered angrily. Or was this merely a further irritating reminder of the fact that he had tired of her?

What a fool he'd been, to leave the rope ladder for a moment where she had found it, or the heavy door ajar.

"Come on, girl! We're going!"

He led her back into the inner cavern and climbed the ladder with her, going in front, to see if the coast above ground was quite clear.

It was.

"I'm going to put you on the train back to New York, Marietta. It was wrong of you to come down here."

"Will you come back with me?" She regarded him with a dog-like faithfulness. He might relent, even at the eleventh hours—

He caught at the excuse of Van Vorst.

"Not likely, after what occurred the last time! It was a bit thick, as even you'll admit! After midnight, and he walks in as though he owned the place—which he obviously did!"

"Oh Rupert, I tell you—"

"Be sensible, girl! I'm no one's fool, not even yours!"

"But Steve Van Vorst is nothing to me. He never was, and never will be!"

Briscoe's lip curled cynically.

"Then you're stupider than I take you for, that's all. You ought to make hay while the sun shines, m'dear—because, frankly I haven't got the time to devote to you, nor yet money—and Steve Van Vorst has both. You go ahead and play your cards well—and I wish you luck!"

She was silent as he bought her ticket, and put her on the train.

"Bye-Bye, Marietta! Bear my advice in mind, and be a sensible woman."

The train steamed off, and he called a taxi, telling the driver to head for Royal Cliff.

"Does she suspect anything?" he wondered, his thoughts reverting to the unfortunate cave incident. "If so, precautions must be taken—quickly. There's no time to loose!"

The "house warming" was in progress at Royal Cliff the following night, and no one was gayer among the guests than Lydia Harbrook.

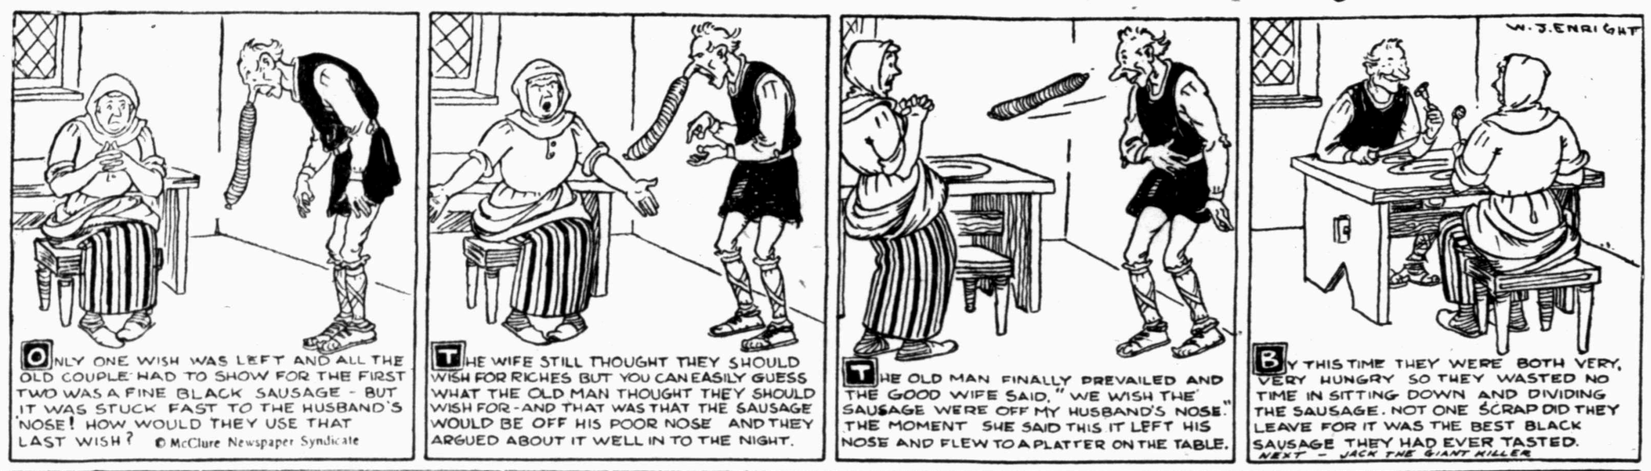

She literally scintillated.

Wichita Falls Splits Double Bill With Waco, First 6-2, Second 4-6

WHEELER PITCHES SPUDDERS TO SNAPPY VICTORY IN FIRST GAME AFTER POOR BEGINNING

Domestics Fight Back With Brave Rally in Seventh Frame of Aftermath, But Wind Blows Base Hit Foul

By BLONDY CROSS

Highly agitated Waco author excitedly averred the other day to the effect Dell Pratt's Cubs may win four straight over Buddy's outfit, but were practically sure of taking three out of the quartet of games billed in the present Wichita Falls-Waco series at the Spudder plant.

So far, the Spudders have reversed the "expert's" prognostications. Waco has been victorious in one out of three. Cubs and Supdders split a twin bill Friday, homelings running away with the first, 6 to 2, and dropping the second, 6-4.

Rip Wheeler was bumped in the opening frame of the initial tilt for two runs, then settled back, and hurled one of the sweetest games of the year, blanking the opposition the rest of the way. From the second stanza on Ripper was never in the least danger with exception of the ninth when Galloway and Morrow singled with nobody down. Wilson hoisted out to Fitz to center. Rip struck out Pinch Hitter Mueller, and Stumpf, batting for Crumpler, forced Morrow at second.

Crumpler, the usually effective Waco southpaw, was no mystery to the Tanner crew. They bunched bingles in the third for three runs, scored two in the fifth on a pair of walks, two sacrifices, and a double by Jonnard, and then bunched up on him again in the sixth sufficiently to score the sixth Spud tally.

Joe Gleason, Waco right hander, tossed a fairly creditable game in the seventh-inning aftermath, but came near to being spilled by a seventh-stanza rally of the home crew. The foreigners got to Suds Sutherland in the first for a pair of counters, touched him for one in the third and then bruised over two in the fourth. Lefty Winn went in with two out and one on in this round. He gave up a run in the fifth, but couldn't be touched in the sixth and seventh.

Nearly Upset Joe.

The Spudders with the score of 6-2 against them broke out in the seventh menacingly. White led away with an infield bingle at third. Query drew a pass. Callaghan, batting for Winn, busted a sizzler at the box that ordinarily should have got through, but Gleason knocked her down and chunked him out at first. Distel bounded out to second, scoring White, and sending Query to third. Williams singled to right, scoring Query. Bodie singled down the third base line, sending Carlos to third. Now it had been a pretty quiet afternoon as tas as the elements were concerned, but she began getting ruffled when Fitzgerald strode to the platter. Fitz fooled around awhile, got in the hole, two strikes on him, and then slashed one to left. The ball had no more than left the bat before a stiff gust of wind blew up coming from a left field augle. The sphere was heading straight down the foul line, a sure two-bagger, but the gale carried it out of bounds with Williams already at the plate, and Jonnard, who was running for Bodie, on the verge of turning third. Fitz came back, and pecked a stinging bounder down the first base line, but it was foul. Gleason tightened up and cut a corner on the next pitch. Fitz let it go by, and the game was over. It was a thrilling comeback, and the fans got their money's worth even if the gang did fall two runs shy of tying her up.

Cubs Start Roughly.

Waco broke into the run column for a two-tally lead at the start of the opening contest. Menze drew a pass. Foss tripled down the right field line. Brown followed with a single to center. Pratt bit into a double killing, Dorman to White to Golvin. The Spudders menaced with singles by Distel and Williams in the same round, but fate was unkind. Ping bruised a bristling bounder squarely into the hands of Foss, who threw to second, cutting Carl away, and Pratt nipped Distel at the plate with a sweet fling to Morrow. Fitz popped out to Galloway.

They didn't get well in the second. Dorman and Golvin connived in a bit of murderous highway work to rob Morrow of a base hit. The enemy backstop larruped one down the third base line with rifllelike effect, but Freddy dived over, clutched the fleeting spheroid in mid-flight, recovered, and lined 'er across the diamond to Walt on first who stretched like a rubber band to gather in the pellet a split second ahead of the runner. It was the greatest play of the year, one of the lace collar and velvet border variety. The Spuds were on their mettle. Al White broke over to snatch hair-raiser by Wilson and chunk him out at first. Then Freddy stopped cannot swat by Cohen, and heaved a perfect throw to Walt to retire the side. Spudders still failed to indicate offensively in the second.

Third Good Inning.

White and Golvin co-operated on a pair in the third, and Rip struck out the other. Three up, no more. She was a different yarn from a Spudder angle for the gang not only tied the score, but forged one run out front. Bubber Jonnard led away with a glistening single to midfield. Wheeler aviated to center, but Distel came through with a one-base poke over second. Bubber drew up at third. Williams popped out to Pratt. Bodie singled through short, and Bubber checked in. Fitz doubled against the starboard wall, sending Distel home and perching Ping at the hot corner station. Crumpler passed Dorman and Golvin in succession, forcing Bodie across the pan. White bounded out to short.

The advance ceased momentarily in the fourth, but swung under way once more in the fifth when miscue at short gave Ping a life, and then Crumpler aviated again, walking a pair. He doled a first base coupon to Fitzgerald. Dorman laid one down, a perfect sacrifice. Golvin walked, filling the bases. White poled a high and long one to right. Ping tabulated after the catch. Fitz went to third. He scored one two-cushion swat to right by Jonnard. Wheeler hoisted out to Foss at third.

Of course, the gang had to score another in the sixth. Had the game been on, and all that, but got to keep the old batting averages alive. Distel bingled through short, his third safety. Williams advanced Cap'n to the keystone with a sacrifice bunt. Bodie walked and Fitz singled to left, scoring George, who, by the way, had absconded with third. Dorman popped a single to short right, filling the runways, but Walt struck out, and White rocketed to Wilson in center.

Distel connected for his fourth in the seventh, a double to right center with Bubber on, but there was no score. It appeared momentarily that Menze was going to spear the drive.

That was all. Bunch quieted down in the eighth and settled to getting the affair over.

Wacoans Still Rough.

Waco opened the second game in fashion similar to the first, scoring two in the starting round. With one away, single to right by Foss, bobble by Bodie while retrieving the ball, an infield out and two-sack slap to right center by Pratt accounted for one. Galloway singled between first and second, sending Pratt over. Mueller flied out to Fitz.

The Spudders didn't menace in the first and second. Bingles by Foss, Brown and Pratt scored one for Waco in the third. Sutherland and Williams got on in this round via the one-base blow route, but there were too many outs. Menze robbed Query of a hit with a running one-handed stab of short drive to right. Distel flied to left. Bodie went out, short to first.

Menze pushed one over the port barrier in the fourth with one on. Foss followed with a single to center. Sutherland departed, and Lefty Winn came into prominence. Brown got a bingle. There were two away. Pratt forced Foss at third.

The bunch stepped out in the last of the fourth and got two of those runs back on successive singles by Fitz, Dorman and Golvin, and a sacrifice hoist by White. Query popped to Galloway and Winn filed to Wilson to wind up the outburst.

WHITE TAKES GREAT MATCH FROM JESTER

Norton Wins Way to Final And Play-off With Texan

SAN ANTONIO, June 12.—Due to Lewis White of Austin placing in both the men's doubles and singles finals the state tennis tournament will run over to Sunday. This announcement was made following one of the most gruelling matches ever played in the five days of the meet. Lewis White won his match over Leven Jester, seeded player of Dallas during three hours of hard fighting. The final score was 4—6, 6—1, 6—1, 7—5. White started with rough playing but eased back into his stride to barely overcome Jester. The Austin player started well in the third set, taking a 4 to 1 lead but became erratic and was unable to score, Jester annexing the set. After a few minutes rest, White again took the lead to lose it, but settled down and with the acquisition of an early lead was able to withstand the Dallas nester's final efforts to win out.

Norton Has Struggle.

B. I. C. Norton continued into the finals by a victory over J. B. Adoue of Dallas, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3. This was the second and last Dallas man to be eliminated from the finals. The nine games that Adoue took were due to his extraordinary accuracy in tipping the corners of the court. Norton was able to solve these later and replaced in his opponents territory to take the sets.

Lewis White and Louis Thalheimer, inter-collegiate doubles champions, stepped into the finals play by a victory over Fred Royer of Dallas and Thomas Armstrong of Waco, 8—6, 5—7, 6—3, 6—3. The champion pair were given tough opposition in the first two sets, nosing out on the first and losing a big lead and the second set. Lewis White's strenuous morning play was responsible for many misplays, as his lack of endurance began to tell.

Stacy Loses.

J. B. Adoue and John Barr of Dallas defeated Berkely Bell and G. Stacy of Austin, 6—2, 6—3, 8—6. The final set was the best of the three with the losers doing everything in their power to take it. Bell's play was excellent at times, but his frequent hitting of the net in the final games brought on defeat. John Barr used his height to advantage by slapping the ball in the foreground with enough drive behind it to bounce it over the outer fence. Most of these strokes came at critical moments and the Bell-Stacy team was helpless.

Norton beat Leven Jester of Dallas in a exhibition game in the afternoon and opened the eyes of the spectators by opening up in spurts and showing them what he really had in reserve for stronger opponents.

Miss Corine Vickers, 1924 champion in women's singles, advanced another notch by vanquishing Miss Patsy Yandell, 6—2, 6—1. This was in the upper bracket finals and Miss Vickers will meet Mrs. Ed Mosser for the championship.

Mrs. Ed Mosser of San Antonio won over Mrs. J. W. Nixon.

In the upper bracket finals of the women's doubles Mrs. Ed. Mosser and Mrs. Elizabeth Browning defeated Mrs. G. Stacy and Miss Vickers, 6—4, 6—1.

INDIA BEATS AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, June 12.—India today won both singles matches in the opening play against Austria in the European Davis cup eliminations. S. M. Jacob defeated P. Brick 8-6, 6-1, 6-1 and Dr. Andress defeated Count Ludwig-Salm-Hoogstraten 6-4, 6-2, 8-6.

CHRISTIANS IN LEAD AS RAINS BURST UP GAME

Methodists Had Small End Of Struggle Before Pluvius Entered

Rain stopped the First Christian Grace Methodist game in the third after the Christians had scored one tally to take a 4 to 3 lead Friday. F. Brooks was in rare form in the three innings that he hurled. The Methodist heaver whiffed three in the first inning, two in the second, and one n ithe third.

Both sides scored three in the first. The Christians' trio came on walks to Miller and Nichols followed by Curren Brown's home run.

Gordon led off for the Methodists with a single to right. R. Neal sent him to second with an infield out, and he scored on Dudley Skeens' triple to left. Skeen scored on Glidewell's smashing hit to center. Glidewell stole second and third and scored on Whatley's sacrifice fly to left.

Miller beat out an infield hit to third to open the third. Caskey sacrificed him to second. Nichols walked and on an attempted stal Hicks threw poorly to Skeen and Miller scored. Nichols was safe at second. Brown flew out to Glidewell in center.

JOHNNY DUNDEE IS OUTPOINTED

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Johnny Dundee, veteran featherweight, was decisively outpointed tonight by Sid Terris of New York, who wan the judge's decision in a 15-round fight at the Coney Island stadium. Newspaper men at the ringside gave Terris every round on points.

Dundee, once the light-footed wizard of two divisions, was outspeeded, outboxed and outpunched by Terris. Gamely in the last round of the contest the weary veteran called upon his seeming inexhaustible supply of courage and endeavored to make a closing stand, but it was the weak and ineffective effort of a badly beaten boxer and the judges quickly gave his antagonist the decision.

Giants Pull Freak Triple Play in Tilt With Pirate Crew

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 12.—(AP)—Twenty thousand people saw the New York Giants stage a unique triple play in the first inning of their game with Pittsburgh today due to heedless base running on the part of the Pirates.

Jackson knocked down a smash by Cuyler and carey was run down between third and the plate, Jackson to Gowdy to Groh. Rawlings had run down to third base and he doubled up Groh to Kelly. Meanwhile Cuyler had rounded first base and the first triple play was completed when he was run down, Kelly to Terry to Young to Terry.

Wayland Dean, Giant pitcher, was painfully injured during batting practice prior to the game when he was struck on the left knee by a line drive from Southworth's bat. He had to be carried from the field.

Elements Handicap Nat'l Track Meet

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—A strong hot wind an da 15-minute shower handicapped performers in the qualifying events of the national collegiate track meet at Stagg Field today, resulting in several upsets and contests as amusing as heroic.

In one heat in the low hurdles the last three flights were blown over before the runners got to them. Snyder, Ohio's stellar performer, lost his place among the qualifiers because the wind took but two of his hurdles, leaving him one more to negotiate tha many of his competitors.

Preliminary heats were confined to five track events, the two dashes, two hurdles and 440-yard run scratches in the field events bringing the entry list down t oa manageable size for the finals tomorrow afternoon.

Eighteen schools were represented by the track qualifiers, Michigan and Ohio with three each.

Picked men from 62 colleges will go into the finals tomorrow.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today, the weather continued to be the dominating influence although bullish weekly statistics caused a mid-session advance which lifted prices ten points above the previous close although the improvement was later lost and final results for the day of six to seven points on new crop months, but July influenced by the strength of spots showed at 20 point net gain.

The market started out steady although Liverpool was lower than due. First trades showed gains of two to three points except on January which was one point lower. The market soon eased off, however, on the official forecast for unsettled weather and probable showers for all parts of the belt. October traded at 21.93 and December at 22.02, or 14 to 19 points under yesterday's close.

From these lows of the day the market rallied around mid-session on the bullish character of Secretary Hester's weekly statistics particularly the large mill takings of 183,000 bales of American cotton and the large decrease in the visible supply of American for the week of 155,983 bales. The advance carried October up to 22.24 and December to 22.30.

The market eased off again in the late trading mainly on rain reports especially in Mississippi and lost all of the previous gain and more besides. Reports from the dry goods markets were slightly more favorable although Fall river reported sales of print for the week of only 30,000 bales. Exports today 3,555 bales and for the week 32,332.

STOCKS.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Considerable acitvity and strength developed on the stock exchange today in the motor group. A run-in of "shorts" in Maxwell Motors "B" certificates sent the stock up nearly six points to 121. Hudson Motors advanced nearly four points to 64⅝ and Willys Overland showed a net gain of 1⅛, to 19⅝. Dodge Brothers preferred attained a new peak at 82⅝.

Standard industrials showed moderate improvement. United States Steel closed fractionally higher at 114⅛ and American Can and Baldwin each moved up about a point to 186 and 112 respectively. Strength of Ward Baking "B" which jumped over 7 points to a net top at 66, was based on unconfirmed rumors of a merger of that company with the Continental Baking company. General railway signal which opened at 144 after being admitted to trading yesterday, today ran up to 168.

Rails showed a complete reversal of form on reports that liquidation of those issues for the account of the alien property custodian had been temporarily completed. Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Chicago and Northwestern and Lehigh Valley were among the many issues in that group to close from one to two half points higher.

Call money held steady at 3% per cent. Time funds were in large supply with the shorter maturities ruling at 3¾ per cent and the longer at 4.

Foreign exchange rates were easy. Demand sterling ruled slightly lower around $4.85⅛ and French francs dropped about three points to 4.48⅜ cents.

W. TEXAS C-C VIEW LAKE IN FINAL SESSION

Directors Close Meetings In Wichita Falls With Auto Excursion

Directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce, meeting here Thursday for an important business session, climaxed their visit with an inspection tour through the irrigated valley and a ride on Lake Kemp Friday. About 20 of the directors and a party of Wichita Falls business men made the journey in cars and were gone the entire day.

From this city the entire group went straight to Lake Kemp, traveling by way of Maybelle. Two big launches, the "Elma" owned by Walter Cline and Mart Rowe, and another owned by Walter Campbell, were waiting at the disposal of the visitors. They piled in and were taken about five miles up the lake to Rattlesnake Island.

On returning to the dam, a picnic lunch was served by the local chamber of commerce and the flood gates of the big embankment were opened so that all might see what thousands of gallons of water pouring through the outlets looked like.

Part of the party returned by way of the diversion dam and straight down the center of the valley, while the major portion hurried back by the most direct route.

99 PCT PAROLES ARE OBEYED

DALLAS, June 12.—Of prisoners paroled to the Texas Howard association, 99% have made good, the report of Superintendent George W. Achilles, Dallas, to the board of directors of the organization meeting here, shows.

Mr. Achilles was authorized to visit prisoners at Huntsville and to arrange lectures at Houston, San Antonio and Waco. The Rev. M. Anderson, Dallas, was elected a director of the organization.

Face Made Thousands Give

Helen of Troy, whose face "launched a thousand ships," had nothing on Mrs. Ethel Tully Dunlap, wife of Lieut. Lionel H. Dunlap, U. S. army, now stationed in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Dunlap has just been revealed as the model for the famous Red Cross nurse poster by James Montgomery Flagg, which caused countless thousands to contribute money for medical and relief work during the war.

Safety Meeting Held At Electric Offices

Ninety-three answered present yesterday afternoon with only 24 absent and on duty at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the safety council of the Wichita Falls Electric company held in the company offices beginning at 5:30 p. m.

Following invocation by L. L. Counts, chaplain, and a plate supper a short talk was made by the chairman on the renewal of the group life insurance policy plan which permits life insurance for all employees who care to take it out at an unusually low rate.

A resolution on Henry Stark, electrocuted on May 20, was read and approved. There was a discussion of the report of the old inspection committee and the report of the new committee was heard. Department heads reported on safety conditions within their jurisdiction.

The report of the accident committee investigating the death of Henry Starke was heard and some statistics on March and April accidents within the ranks of affiliated companies read.

A short talk on safety was made by J. D. Bright, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee of Safety First. A. S. Legendre spoke on the sale of Southwestern Power and Light company preferred stock.

J. J. Hill of the Texas Power and Light company of Tyler made a few remarks on the furtherance of safety work in his section and complimented the Wichita Falls house highly on what they had done.

Negroes to Open Up New Park on June 19

A "June Teenth" celebration for the negro population of Wichita Falls is to be held at the Wichita Falls negro park on June 19 according to announcement by negro ministerial alliance, leaders in negro activity in this city.

A "thank you" from the negroes for the city's part in providing the park is seen in a notice received at The Record News last night, reading as follows:

We, the colored Ministerial alliance, take this method to inform the colored citizenry that, after a careful consideration of the kindly act of the city officials in giving and making such fair arrangement of a park for our race group, in which we may from time to time go and carry our children for recreation and enjoyment, that on the 19th of June it is, and surely would be becoming for a highly appreciative, self-respecting, and a demonstrative act of gratefulness for us to have an openig celebration with a well arranged program, listening to the honorable mayor, and others of the city's officials and friends. We are inviting everybody to be present and take part in the free barbecue as well as a real healthy and spicy program that shall be rendered at 2:30 p. m. in the colored park.

EXPLOSION STARTS FIRE

CHILDRESS, June 12.—A serious fire in the Atkinson-Blair drug store was narrowly averted here following an explosion of a considerable quantity of gas. The blaze was extinguished, however, before any serious damage resulted.

GERMANS EASY COMPARED TO BULLS, SAY AVIATORS

AMARILLO, Texas, June 12.—Although they faced the enemy unflinchingly in the World war, two aviators today climbed in terror to the upper wings of their plane when two half grown Panhandle Jersey bulls sauntered up to investigate when the ship, out of gasoline, made a forced landing at the edge of town. The fliers, Floyd Monteith and J. H. Brown of Santa Monica, Cal., were flying from Tucumcari, N. M., to Amarillo, where they will take part next week in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Fort Elliott at Mobeetie.

Just "Getting By" Won't Do For Anything

The business man who merely "puts up with" his bank, instead of having a definite, friendly liking for it and its ways, isn't doing justice to himself or his business.

Banking service, as we conceive it, must do more than "get by." It must be definitely, wholesomely satisfying.
