Water Problem Eases

Lake Champion Level Up 8.4 Feet

Heavy weekend rains, although raising Lake Colorado City elevation only a single foot, has stabilized Colorado City's water supply for months ahead.

It has not erased a serious supply problem created by lack of runoff water on Lake Colorado City's watershed for 4 years.

But the rains--and the pump and pipeline link between the two lakes--have put the water supply in "much better shape" now than earlier in the year.

The new rains Saturday and Sunday night--measuring more than 3.20 inches in Colorado City, 1.85 inches at Westbrook, 4 inches in some areas around Loraine and other areas of the county--added 8.40 feet of water to Lake Champion's level.

Before the rains--which actually began Thursday and Friday with amounts ranging from 1.25 to more than 3 inches over the county--Lake Champion's level was 2,041.80 feet. Tuesday the measurement was 2,050.20.

At Lake Colorado City the level raised from 2,053.75 to 2,054.80 feet.

Measuring it another way, Lake Colorado City gained 937 acre feet of water while Champion received 4,041 acre feet.

The new water flowing into Champion, plus the 14.85 feet rise in the same lake at the end of May, makes it certain that water can continue to be pumped from Chapion into Lake Colorado City through the fall and winter, if necessary.

The purchase of water from irrigation wells by Texas Electric Service Company was discontinued after the initial 30-day trial period. Appraisal of the contribution of this supplement to Lake Champion still is incomplete.

Lake Colorado City's level, even after the rain, remains near the crisis level. The 2,054.80 lake level Tuesday was less than an inch above the mark where the city readies its water well field for service.

If, Lake Colorado City dropped more--then it would be imperative that the city begin using well water. Otherwise, the operation of TESCO's Morgan Creek Power Plant at Lake Colorado City would be seriously threatened.

But TESCO, by pumping water from Champion to Lake Colorado City, has been able to maintain Lake Colorado City near its present level.

John Martin, superintendent at Morgan Creek Power Plant, keeps a close watch on water level in the lakes built by TESCO for its power plant and the city.

"We've got a long way to go," he reported Wednesday, referring to that time the lake may be filled to capacity, "but we are in so much better shape now than early in the year.

With the supplemental supply in Lake Champion--itself at a severely low level, Martin does not see a really severe crisis until next year. And, fall and winter rains could erase that possibility if runoff is good on the lake watersheds.

The pumping of water from Champion to Lake Colorado City is replacing about a displacement of approximately one-tenth of a foot per day. This tenth-of-afoot in water is lost each day to evaporation and to municipal water supply.

Martin emphasizes that this is the "average" loss. The fact that weather has been cool lately has aided in maintaining the lake level with the supplemental pumping.

This pumping can continue at present rate until Lake Champion's water level drops to 2,036 feet, then the pumping must be reduced. The level after the recent rise is about 14 feet above that mark.

If Champion's level goes below 2,028 feet--about 22 feet lower than the present mark--then pumping into Lake Colorado City would have to stop.

So, within those footage le-

Co-op Re-Elects Trio

1,500 Persons Attend Annual Meet

Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc. members re-elected 3 directors to new 3-year terms in the power cooperative's annual meeting.

Returned to the board of directors for new terms were Martin Murphy of Hermleigh, Linden Solomon of Cuthbert Community and Gwan C. Strange of Westbrook.

The board's action continues Murphy as president, A. K. Mc Carley Jr. as vice president and Strange as secretary-treasurer.

Others serving on the board are Ed Roach of the Payne Community, Roscoe Hudgins of Loraine, Raymond Althof of Roscoe and Solomon, who was renamed with Murphy and Strange to the board.

Approximately 1,500 Lone Wolf members, their families and friends attended the 31st annual meeting Tuesday night in the Co-opatorium.

They were welcomed by County Judge Bill F. Carter and heard, Reagan V. Brown, head of the Texas Community Improvement Program, emphasize personal interest and motivation as key ingredients for progress in the rural areas of the state.

Brown, extension sociologist with Texas A&M University, was introduced by County Agent Bobby Lemons.

The cooperative concluded its 31st year with total assets of $2,476,148, according to a report to the members.

It has already paid back $1,495,278 of the $3,090,002 it has borrowed from Rural Electrical Administration to supply electricity to farms, ranches, irrigation wells, businesses, industry and oil fields in the rural areas of the co-op's multi-county territory.

Total revenue for Lone Wolf in 1970 was $467,627. This includes $445,183 revenue from electric service, $5,792 more from other electric revenue and $16,651 net non-operating income.

The co-op's total cost for providing electrical service during the last year was $424,027. In this total was $132,574 for power purchased to supply the co-op's needs, $148,178 for operating and maintaining the system, another $92,842 for plant depreciation, $17,372 in taxes and $32,585 interest on REA loans.

With the $467,627 total revenue and $424,027 total electrical service cost, Lone Wolf showed patronage capital and margins of $43,599 for the year.

New Co-Publisher

Ft. Worth Editor To Record

Mac B. McKinnon, state editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, will become co-publisher of Colorado City Record Sept. 1.

The 27-year-old newspaperman, who supervises the news reporting of 130 correspondents for the Fort Worth newspaper, will purchase a financial interest in the Record.

McKinnon will immediately share in the business management and editorial policy-making of the Record, according to Joe Bell, owner and publisher.

"This is an important addition to the Record and assures the community of increased vigor and vitality in the Record's manage and community service," Bell said.

"The exceptional ability and experience of McKinnon will be of prime importance to this newspaper's operation and will benefit both advertisers and readers.

"McKinnon's own quick advancement in so young a career to the position of one of the state's most informed editors in West Texas is ample evidence of his professional credentials."

The Star-Telegram state editor is resigning his Star-Telegram position and moving here with Mrs. McKinnon and their daughter, Kimberly Kay, 2 1/2 years. They will live at 921 Marshall.

"We are moving to Colorado City with great pleasure and anticipation," McKinnon stated here Wednesday.

"I believe that West Texas--Colorado City, in particular, is the place of the future for people who want to live the good life and escape from congested urban areas."

Mac McKinnon

"There is a trend that will soon make itself evident for a shift of the population and industry back to the rural areas to escape the problems of the big cities."

"As co-publisher of the Colorado City Record, I hope to be able to make a significant contribution toward a better tommorrow for Colorado City, its citizens and businesses," McKinnon emphasized.

He is a native of Gorman and his earliest years were on his family's farm near Comyn. His family--Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McKinnon--later moved to a farm near where the Proctor Lake is now located in Comanche County. His parents still live on the farm, located roughly in center of a triangle formed by Dublin, De Leon and Comanche.

While a student at Comyn and Dublin, where he graduated from high school, McKinnon assisted his father in operation of a farm diversified with dairy, hogs, beef cattle, irrigated peanuts and truck products.

For years his father hauled watermelons and cantaloupes for market in West Texas and eastern New Mexico.

In Dublin High McKinnon played football, basketball and tennis. Also, he was active in Future Farmers of America and was a member of dairy and beef judging teams win-

Thieves Empty House

Loot Includes, TV's, Freezers

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kirkland, 712 Pine, had a shock when they returned from their summer trip.

Two television sets were stolen - a 23-inch black and white model as well as an Early American styled console.

A Singer portable sewing machine and General Electric deep freeze were also taken.

But that wasn't all.

Last week a burglary at Day and Nite Drive-In Grocery netted thieves a quantity of watches and other loot.

Taken in the burglary, police were told, were a dozen Timex watches, valued from $11 to $30 each; 2 or 3 billfolds, $1.98 value each; 8 or 10 disposable butane lighters, 46 cartons of cigarettes with a total value of about $180.

Burglars also took several knives and turned over boxes of gum, cases of eggs and hair spray.

Police Radio Plan

Chief Talks With COG

Police Chief Jesse Browning was in Abilene Wednesday afternoon to discuss updating the city's police radio system.

Browning is proposing that the city's old and faulty radio equipment be replaced with entirely new units through federal grants.

Under the plan, if approved by the Council of Governments, the city would pay a fourth of the cost and the grant would provide three-fourths.

Browning already had talked with COG officials twice in regard to the equipment, which would include a new base radio for the police dispatcher and mobile receiving-sending units for 2 or 3 patrol cars.

The city's present equipment is old and often in need of repair.

If the new equipment is obtained, it would be of the type to fit into the regional and state law enforcement communications network which is being developed.

Browning said the new equipment would allow a separate frequency exclusively for law enforcement personnel, while at the same time providing frequency for regular radio calls, street and water department communications.

Cattle Brand Date Is Near

County Clerk Marie Bassham reminded cattlemen Wednesday that Aug. 15 is deadline for recording their brands under a new law.

Brands must be registered now and again in 10 years under the law signed recently by Governor Preston Smith.

"We have had a good many persons to come in and register their brands," Mrs. Bassham said, "but others have not. And the Aug. 15 deadline is only 10 days away."

It is expected that the new registration will bring numerous new brands never before recorded. At the same time a larger number of brands that have not been used for a long time are expected to be dropped.

However, most registration is expected to be re-recording of brands currently in use.

Spade Reunion Here Saturday

It will be reunion time here Saturday for residents and ex-residents of Spade Community.

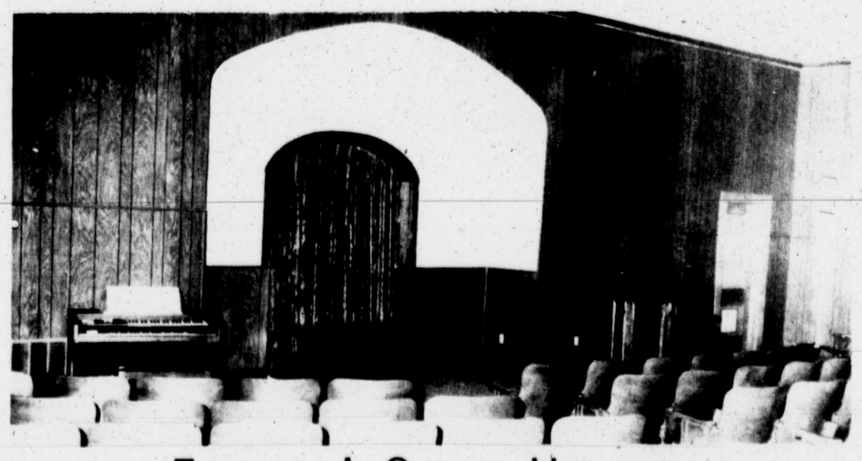

The event will begin at 10:30 a.m. in Civic House with registration.

Basket lunch will be served at noon with the reunion committee furnishing silverware, plates, drinks, bread and pickles.

"We are expecting a fine crowd," said Ross Hargrove, president of Spade Reunion. "Friends and relatives of residents and ex-residents are invited to join the group."

Meeting in connection with the reunion at Civic House will be the Spade Cemetery Association, according to Tom Moore, president.

Mrs. Moore is secretary for both the cemetery association and the reunion committee.

Funeral Open House

Here is the all-paneled chapel in the new Franklin-Britton Funeral Home which will have public open house all day Saturday and from noon until 10 p.m. Sunday. The former Church of Christ building, Fifth at Elm, has been completely rennovated and remodeled by the home's owners, J. C. Britton, Emil and Thomas Franklin.

Wreck Charge

A driver involved in a two-car collision Tuesday night that injured a Loraine woman has been charged with driving while intoxicated.

The accident happened at about 10:23 at intersection of U. S. 80 East Business Route and State Highway 208 (to Robert Lee).

Taken to Root Memorial Hospital by ambulance was Mrs. A. K. Sheffield, who was with her husband in a 4-door sedan traveling east on U. S. 80.

Maxey Herman Vestal, identified by police as driver of a 1970 model sedan traveling north on State 208, was placed in jail following treatment at the hospital.

DWI charge against Vestal was filed in County Court Wednesday morning by County Attorney Dan Barber on complaint signed by Police Chief Jesse Browning. Bond was set at $500.

Investigating the accident were police and sheriff officers.

CONVERSATION CORNER

DOES THE HEART not too much good to learn that gremlins are still with us and that a sizeable tribe of them occupy outer space.

At least Astronauts Scott, Irwin ans Worden had to deal with a few little gremlins, so they reported back to NASA from Apollo 15.

Fliers of World War II first made gremlins and their tricks known to our part of the world. Some pilots even claimed to have seen gremlins on occasion and described them as about one foot high little gnome-like creatures full of mischief.

BECAUSE the human race just naturally needs somebody or something to blame when things go cockeyed, gremlins got themselves adopted by just about everybody.

You can't see 'em but you can certainly tell when they've been around. Gremlins puncture tires when drivers are 30 miles from nowhere. If there are enough of them in the gang they arrange for blowouts on a crowded freeway.

Gremlins take special delight in sticking zippers worn by male and female alike. The more public the place the more fun the gremlins have in keeping zippers from going either up or down.

GREMLINS tickle human infants in the middle of the night to make them cry and keep parents awake until breakfast time.

They set neighborhood dogs to howling at 2 a.m. They have a way of hiding one shoe from children and grownups in a hurry. They overturn bikes and lead school kids through every puddle between home and the school grounds.

Gremlins gather ants to put in the orange marmalade if somebody forgets to put it back in the regrigerator. After that, they burn out all the light globes in the kitchen and make the hot water faucet go drip-drip-drip.

Gremlins put the newest magazine on the bottom of the stack so you have to hunt for it.

They burn small holes in the carpets with their gremlin cigaretts and set the broiling steaks on fire while you go to answer the door bell.

Gremlins dial wrong numbers before dawn on Sunday morning and then hang up just as you straggle up to answer.

They drink the water on ivy and other houseplants to make them die faster.

GREMLINS toss pebbles in the lawn mower and slant nails so that the thumb gets clobbered.

They jiggle across the kitchen to make the company cake fall. Gremlins are death on company. They do something to the gelatin salad, keep the cream from whipping and the rolls from rising right.

There must be an awful lot of gremlins because there seem to be enough to taunt and frustrate nearly everybody.

They tackle air conditioners when the weather is hottest, turn alarm clocks back--or off.

PROBABLY a whole regiment of gremlins have been assigned to harrass newspaper people.

One squadron specializes in twisting typewriter ribbons at deadline time. Another hangs around to see that there are at least some typographical errors and a few lines out of place.

Gremlins love journalists almost as much as they hanker after airmen and astronauts. They probably went along on Apollo 15 just for the ride and to consider inhabiting the moon with a new colony of gremlins.

ONE GREMLIN, likely still in training, changed a line in this space last issue and sent our Mona Scott on a three weeks vacation trip to Monahans.

Nothing wrong with visiting Monahans. It's a fine little West Texas city. Only Mona drove all the way to the STATE OF MONTANA where she grew up and has relatives. Hear tell she made the drive in just two days.

IN ST. LOUIS, MO., for a vacation visit are Dr. William Pattillo and his family. They'll be gone two weeks and will do some other traveling.

Up at the West 9th home of Jack (The Rev.) Parse, his wife Kathy and their children is Kathy's nephew Don Eisenhart who has been here two weeks now. Don, who lives in Milledgeville, Ga., is loving Texas during his very first visit there where the west is west and we're all glad of it. He is particularly impressed with visits to area ranches and to the western art of shotting jack rabbits big as sheep dogs.

FROM GALLUP, N.M., comes a friendly card from our Martha Majors Nickson living now in what she terms "Way out in Navajo Land."

"The new face of C-City sound great. All who were responsible sould be given great praise," Martha writes. She grew up here, y'all remember, as younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Majors, Sr.

Card from Dandridge, Tenn., brought a pleasant note from Mrs. Dale Warren, former Citian now of McAllen. Mrs. Warren is spending the summer with Tennessee relatives and greatly enjoying her stay, she says.

Happy August! And if more than three inches of rain since Friday doesn't make everybody happy, what would? If gremlins splashed rain in your windows, be GLAD.

SOMETHING TO SMILE ABOUT---

His Junior Teenage Lions, with three players joining them from the Braves and Colts, will be playing in the State Junior Teen Tournament opening Tuesday in Sweetwater.

That's an achievement in itself--making their way to state with three straight victories against area champions.

Matt Salmon, Steven Parker, Billy Watts, Danny Smith, Larry Hays, Craig Merket, Arnold Parker, Rudy Costillo, Clayton Salmon and David Smith are the "state bound" Lions, who now also include Gene Banks, Randy Erwin of the Braves and Ed Warren of the Colts and Bo Merket as coach.

There should be a good crowd of fans traveling to Sweetwater to cheer 'em on.

Art In Center

FEATURE FOR AUGUST

Carolyn Walker Painting In Care Center Lobby

The picture, most recent completed and framed by the local art teacher, has an acrylic underpainting with oil glazes and is done on stretched canvas.

Mrs. Walker, who has been interested in painting "forever", first worked with oils at age 11, when she started art lessons from Mrs. Jim Young of Roscoe.

A native of Loraine Community, she graduated from Loraine High School and minored in art at McMurry.

She has also studied with Frederick Taubes, internationally known painter of New York, Jan Herring of El Paso and Ken Gore of Massachusetts.

And just recently she has gotten interested in portraitures. Her first real experience with portraits came last February at a Snyder art workshop conducted by Jan Herring.

Daughter of R. J. Baumann of Loraine, Mrs. Walker taught in Colorado High School four years. She came as a teacher in physical education and social studies. After two years she originated the school's art program, planning an art program for all 12 grades.

She taught two years in the Colorado High art department.

She has been teaching private art classes for adults and children for the past six years and last season had over 40 enrolled.

Mrs. Walker has been a member of Colorado City Brush and Palette (club which sponsors the painting feature in Community Care Center each month) for six years. Three of those years she served as president of the organization.

She is also a member of West Texas Art Association and Texas Fine Arts Association.

She and her husband, 32nd Judicial District Court reporter, have one son, two-year-old Mark. They live at 643 Chestnut Street.

IN BIG SPRING

Hoyt Roberts Wins First In Fiddlers' Contest

By MRS. W. A. BELL,
Record Correspondent.

The contest was a part of the program in which memories shared by many of the old settlers comprised the heritage left by the pioneers in the area.

Part of that heritage is musical. Roberts joined other descendents of the pioneers in the contest where they played old sings in a style that "would be approved by their grandfathers."

Mrs. Roberts attended the reunion with her husband.

Workshop Projects

These four participants in a sewing workshop in progress in Wallace Neighborhood Center model their first finished garments. In top photo Annie Vanderpool wears a shorts outfit of cotton print. Mary Salazar shows her maxi-length dress completely sewn by hand. Vicki Lenard (left in photo at right) measures the hem in Darlene Lopez's frock. Vicki wears her finished blouse with cutoff jeans. The workshop for high school are girls in a cooperative project of Community Action Program and Mitchell County Extension Office. Mrs. Janet Moore, home demonstration agent, is workshop instructor.

ning honors in Houston and San Marcos.

After school and on weekends he worked at a grocery store and as a projectionist in a movie theater.

Following a semester at Tarleton State College in Stephenville, McKinnon joined the Air Force, where he was trained as a firefighter and on duty 13 months at Osan Air Base in Korea.

Upon his return to the U.S., McKinnon completed the Department of Defense Journalism School in New York City, then at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, edited the highest rated newspaper in the Air Force.

The Second Air Force in 1965 named his historian of the year for outstanding service for difficult recording, as historian, of the transfer of Carswell AF Base personnel and equipment to Guam to conduct B-52 bombing operations in Vietnam. He was in Guam 3 months.

During his Air Force tenure McKinnon pursued his college education in night school at Texas Christian University and University of Texas at Arlington.

For 6 years, his college study included as many as 12 semester hours at night while still performing his Air Force duty and later his news job with Fort Worth Star Telegram.

His career with the Star Telegram began the day he received his honorable discharge from the Air Force in January 1966.

A variety of assignments at the Star-Telegram immediately broadened his experience as a newsman. These included key assignments as police reporter for Evening Star - Telegram, reporting some of the most famous crimes in recent Texas history, including the murder of a cleaning woman at Texas Tech; feature writer and reporter of federal offices in Fort Worth, including federal district court and the office of Eldon Mahon, formerly of Colorado City and now U. S. Attorney for Northern District of Texas; and city council and municipal news at Fort Worth City Hall.

His promotion to state editor came in January 1970 with the specific assignment to rebuild the Star-Telegram as a truly West Texas newspaper.

As editor, McKinnon supervised the activities of 130 correspondents, mostly in West Texas, and was responsible for state news in 4 editions each day in the Star-Telegram.

While in the editor's post, he traveled extensively in West Texas, writing about West Texans and their activities. It was while in Colorado City writting a news story about Colorado City Playhouse that he became interested in this city as a place for home and career.

Mrs. McKinnon is the daughter of Mrs. Vivian Roberson and the late Charles W. Roberson of Stephenville. Her father for many years was a cotton buyer and grader in West Texas for U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Notice to Long Distance Telephone Users

Effective September 1, the charges for long distance calls within the State of Texas will be changed as follows:

- Rates will be reduced on most station-to-station calls dialed direct, without any operator assistance.*
- New one-minute initial period calls will be introduced, at low night rates, for station-to-station calls dialed direct without operator assistance between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m.* This will make it possible to call anywhere in Texas for 22¢ or less.
- Time periods when the various customer dialed rates are effective will be the same as those for interstate calls.
- Rates will be increased on all person-to-person and station-to-station calls requiring operator assistance in any way, except as noted below.*

*Where direct dialing is not available, the customer dialed rate will be charged for station-to-station calls from non-coin phones, on which the caller furnishes the area code and number, and the call is charged to the telephone from which it is made.
