SUPREME COURT REVERSES CASE

Ropesville School Case Will Be Changed After Appeal Of Local Law Firm

An application for writ of error in the case of H. O. Capps et al vs Lee Woodson and Higgins, local law firm involving the legality of an election for independent school district trustee in the Ropesville district of Hockley county, was granted by the Supreme Court of the state at Austin Wednesday, according to advices received here Thursday.

H. O. Capps, representative of the newly elected board and plaintiff in the case, was represented in the case by the firm of Hedges, Woodward and Higgins, and secured a decision in district court in Hockley county. This decision was later reversed on application of the defendant in the Appeals court at Amarillo, following which the case was taken to the Supreme Court with the result that the district court in Hockley county was upheld in its decision.

LOOK FOR LONG WAR OVER WILL OF M'CLINTOCK

TEN YEAR LEGAL BATTLE FOR FUNDS OF DEAD ORPHAN FORECAST

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Ten years of litigation may be necessary before the $1,000,000 estate of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, will benefitting William D. Shepherd, his foster father and principal heir, or the eight cousins seeking to break his will. And a decade of legal fighting, with a score of attorneys involved and costs accumulating through the courts, may make the $1,000,000 estate hardly worth struggling for, court attaches point out.

Shepherd is Victor. Shepherd's victory yesterday when Judge Scanlon in circuit court ordered the will admitted to probate with effect, ending the legal fight, was a surprise. The case had been pending for a year and a half.

First Attorney Orville Taylor, representing the cousins, will appeal to the state supreme court. If the appeal is unsuccessful the relatives will file a bill in a court of chancery, charging Shepherd used undue influence to induce young McClintock to sign the will he drew up.

Whichever side loses in the chancery court is sure to appeal to the appellate court. And, from the repetitions it may be directed to the supreme court.

The estate already has resulted in a trial and acquittal of Shepherd on a charge of killing his ward with typhoid germs and a probate court action in which the will was refused acceptance.

STORRIE CLAIMS MARTIN OFFERED HIM SOME MONEY

ASKS IMMUNITY FOR HIS TESTIMONY; LAWYERS SCOUT HIS WORDS

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14.—Various sums were promised and given him by W. A. Martin for assisting in numerous bank robberies, Bob Storrie testified in criminal district court this morning at Martin's trial on robbery charges. Storrie denied under questioning by defense counsel that he expected immunity in return for his testimony.

Storrie declared he had dealings with the defendant on several occasions, including both before and after some of the robberies and that Martin gave him at one time $150 and at another $100, and on another occasion promised him ten per cent of the proceeds of a projected robbery.

Lawyer Scouts Confession. Marvin Simpson, defense attorney, made much fun of Storrie's admission that he had made torches for cutting into bank vaults.

W. N. Harris, Denton county engineer was called at the opening of the trial to make plain the location of roads and other features of the scenes involved in the trial.

Reported To Sheriff. Storrie testified to having reported to Sheriff Fry about 4:15 p. m. of the day of the robbery that the car he had let Martin have shortly after noon had been stolen. He admitted under cross examination that he had lied to Sheriff Fry in making this report.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14.—Taking testimony in the trial of W. A. Martin, charged with robbery, was delayed again at court opening today when the defense renewed application for a continuance. Judge George E. Hovey did not indicate immediately whether or not he would grant the continuance and several conferences were held between the states attorneys. A trial witness was said to be absent.

The defense also objected to swearing in of the jury in a group, contending that the law provides the jurors be sworn separately. It was understood, also, that the defense was objecting to a sack full of masks, alleged to have been used in the robbery.

TAX REDUCTION TO GET UNITED ACTION, REPORT

DEMOCRATS AND G. O. P.'S WILL GET TOGETHER IN PROMPT ACTION

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—United action in the Senate apparently is assured for passage of the revenue bill so that its tax reduction provisions can be applicable by March 15, when first income tax installments are due.

In reply to a suggestion from national democratic party leaders that Senate democrats press for early action even at the expense of success of their substitute program for increased production, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, has agreed not to permit the substitute to stand in the way of prompt passage of the bill.

Amendments Coming. The Senator, who conferred yesterday with Clem Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, declared, however, he would propose amendment to the bill in the Senate to increase the reduction to $500,000,000, or $170,000,000 more than provided by the House bill.

"I believe the sense of the democrats' program for further reduction," he said, "will appeal to the common sense of the Senate. I expect favorable action, but no long fight."

G. O. P.'s Want Action. Senate republican leaders have declared they will see speedy passage of the bill and substantially as drawn by the House.

The finance committee, however, still has the measure under consideration, and devoted today to hearing representatives of the special committee, which investigated the internal revenue bureau and which has requested several administration amendments. Completion of the measure by the end of the week was predicted.

Oh, Goody! Charleston Clinic Will Be Held By Chicago Doctors

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. (AP)—The bills of the Charleston, if any, are to be found during the next few weeks in a Charleston clinic started at the Young Women's Christian association.

Girls in dancing class will be the laboratory specimens. A record will be kept of their weight, of their heart action, and of their "fatigue curve." Their lung power will be tested. The effect of the Charleston immediately after eating as if in a cabaret, will be compared with its effects, danced several hours after meal time.

The measure will be wound about tables each week to note if respiratory steps of the Charleston take effect, extra fat.

Janitor Performs Fifth Wedding Of Domestic Veteran

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14. (P)—The fifth wedding ceremony of Mrs. Elsie D. Sears, accused by her fourth husband of being an exponent of "experimental" marriage, was performed at Sallinas, January 5, 1924, but she was not married at all, even though Juan Felix Brandes, electrical engineer, was the other principal and the ceremony took place in the office of a justice of the peace.

A versatile and wide awake janitor in the office of Justice of the Peace unwilling to see the office lose a fee "married" the couple, kissed the "bride" and wished them God speed as they departed for Del Monte for their honeymoon.

That the janitor had exceeded his duty was learned three days later when Justice of the Peace Wallace telephoned the couple. They then rushed back to Sallinas to have the ceremony performed in a legal fashion.

Mrs. Brandes is a daughter of the late Colonel A. C. Ducat, U. S. A.

Mrs. McCormick To Try Opera Career Again, She States

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (P)—Ganna Walska, in private life Mrs. Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, who has long cherished operatic ambitions, is about to make another attempt to prove her ability as a singer, today's world says. She and her husband are leaving Saturday for Paris, where she will appear as Cho Cho San in Madame Butterfly, probably in the spring.

Critics said she failed a year ago when she sang it in Nice.

Since the Mayor of Nice was reported as barring her from singing there on the contention that she was "no artist" Madame Walska has been studying in Japanese. She has donned a kimono and has been taught to act as a Japanese. As one of the acts call for a death scene, she has practiced hara kari.

Gentle simmering insures a tender, firm finished product.

Lima Bean Soup
One cup dried lima beans, 5 cups cold water, 1/2 medium sized onion, 4 tablespoons minced carrot, 1 1/2 cups milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 spoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Pick over and wash beans. Cover with cold water and let stand three or four hours. Drain and parboil in water to cover containing soda. Throw away soda water, rinse beans well. Put into kettle with water, thinly sliced onion and carrot and cook until beans are tender. Rub through a sieve and reheat in milk with salt, butter, sugar and pepper. The sugar can be added to the beans while cooking if preferred. Do not let the soup boil after adding milk.

Good Picture Will Come To The Lyric

Riding a magnificent white horse, Silver King, like the soothing wind which sweeps restlessly over the cattle country, Fred Thomson dashes to new heights of action and drama in his latest F. E. Heart failure was given as the cause of her death.

TECH CAGER CREW BEING GROOMED FOR FIRST APPEARANCE JANUARY 25; SCHEDULE IS SLIGHTLY REVISED

With the selection of fifteen men, or the equivalent of three squads, that will be given intensive training preparatory for the first basketball encounter of the Tech college Matador cagers here January 25, interest in the crew that will represent Tech on its first year in basketball is at high pitch. The squads were cut the latter part of last week by Coach Grady Higginbotham, and the fifteen selected as the most likely prospects at the present are being given night workout sessions in addition to the regular drill that is engaged in during the afternoon, when the entire body is put through a hard grind.

In order that the public may be given a little insight into what may be expected of the first cager crew, it is the plan now to stage a couple of free exhibitions the coming week with a team selected from city all-stars by G.H. Jackson. Definite dates for these exhibitions have not yet been arranged, but they will be played in the Stock Judging pavilion on the college campus, where a court, around which ample seating space is provided, has been arranged.

Revisions Made.
One or two revisions have been made in the schedule announced here immediately after the return of head coach Freeland from the meeting of the Southwestern and T. I. A. A. officials in Dallas, where a stiff schedule was arranged.

The two games with the Canyon Normal Buffaloes which were originally slated for February 11 and 12 at Canyon, have been moved up one day, and the Matadors will meet the Buffaloes at Canyon February 10 and 11. In addition to this, two more games have been sandwiched into the schedule between the game with Canyon here on January 20 and the two games with McMurry college here February 3 and 4. In a telephone conversation with the coach of Sul Ross State Teachers college at Abilene, Wednesday, Coach Freeland agreed to meet the Sul Ross Lobos in a pair of games February 3 and 4, making four in a row here.

Five Games At Abilene.
The shift in the Canyon games was brought about by the fact that on February 15 the Matadors open a five-game series at Abilene, and at least one day of rest, exclusive of travel was wanted by the coach before the series was entered.

The revised schedule as announced by Coach Freeland here Thursday is as follows:

January 25 and 26, Daniel Baker Hill Billies at Lubbock.

January 29, Canyon Normal at Lubbock.

Kansas Giant

In Leo "Dreadnaught" Lattin the University of Kansas believes it has the biggest basketball player in collegiate competition. He's 6 feet, 6 1/2 inches and weighs 235 pounds. He plays guard on the football team and is the heavyweight representative of the boxing squad. Lattin is a sophomore, and is here shown holding two team-mates, Froudt, left, and Yarbo.

Billy Evans Says

FIGURES DO LIE WHEN IT COMES TO BASEBALL FIELDING AVERAGES

Figures occasionally misrepresent fact.

The fielding averages of the National League offer conclusive proof. Pittsburgh, National League pennant winner, and world champs, ranked last tied with the Boston Braves. If one had never seen the Pirates in action and were willing to believe in figures, the natural inference would be that the team was weak in fielding.

On the contrary I know of no club in the majors that offers a better defense.

Truly in baseball, fielding averages do not convey to the reader the real value of team or individual.

On the contrary, the making of errors is often a proof of the willingness to take chances, go after everything in sight.

PIRATE MARKS

With the exception of Sand of Philadelphia, Glenn Wright made more errors than any other shortstop in the National League. Yet of the major leaguers playing that position, Wright would be my choice.

In reality, the wide area of territory covered by Wright is responsible for many of the errors charged against him. He makes plays on balls the average shortstop wouldn't reach.

Traynor doesn't head the list of third basemen in the National League fielding averages, yet he is easily the peer of that position.

Excepting Bell of St. Louis Traynor made more errors than any other third sacker. Like Wright, Traynor is often charged with an error that would be a base hit with most infielders playing the drive.

Errors in fielding very often are a boost rather than a knock although the cold figures do not convey that impression.

DOPE IS WRONG

As a matter of fact, in summing up the 1925 play of the Pittsburgh club the defense of the team stands out as the predominant factor in its success.

The team leads in double plays and who will deny that the double play isn't the very best medium to shut off runs.

It would be hard to conceive a much better outfield than Max Carey, Kiki Cuyler and Barnhart, yet not one of them ranked in the first 20, according to the averages.

High Carey, who I regard as the most valuable outfielder in the National League, finished 40th in the fielding averages with a mark of 350. He made 29 errors, more than any other outfielder in the organization.

Cuyler, with 13 errors, was second in the error making, while Barnhart with 12 misses, was tied for third.

On the other hand the Chicago Cubs topped the fielding averages, yet finished last in the standing.

After perusing the fielding averages of the National League I am convinced more than ever that figures do not prove a ball player's real worth.

Harry Cooper and Charley Hall, the terrific clouters of Birmingham, were favored to win the driving contest. Hall yesterday got an eagle two on six which is 36 yards. His drive overran the pin, but he sank a pretty putt.

To all inquirers, Cooper responded: "I feel like thirty-five hundred dollars." He still has the check for that amount which he won in the Los Angeles open last Sunday.

PICTURE OF CHAMPION ATHLETE ADORNS COVER ON PROGRAM OF TEXAS UNIVERSITY RELAY RACES

AUSTIN, Jan. 14. (AP)—Picture of Jim Reese, of Comanche, captain of the 1925 Southwest Conference championship Texas university track and field team and winner of the 1925 national collegiate one mile championship, adorns the cover of the program for the Texas university relay races of March 28, recently mailed hundreds of universities, academies, colleges and high schools. Reese is shown the national champion at Chicago last June ran the mile in 4:18.4-5. He is generally conceded to be the greatest track athlete yet produced by Texas university. Reese is now teaching and coaching at Electra high school.

A greeting from President Walter Splawn is a feature of the invitation program. "On March 28, 1926, there will be held at the University of Texas the second of the annual series of relay games," Dr. Splawn wrote. "The inauguration of these games last spring at this university met with a response from institutions over the country which showed an enthusiastic interest in and support of intercollegiate sports of this type. Athletes seem not only from institutions in Texas, but from many universities and colleges outside the state.

"We believe that these friendly competitions participated in by so many institutions are productive of much good in promoting clean sportsmanship and in calling forth a better understanding of the relative importance of physical education in our public school system. To this end we cordially invite universities, colleges, academies and high schools to send representatives to participate in the events this spring."

Many Prizes Offered.
L. Theo Bellmont, athletic director, has announced that prizes awarded winners in the various classes will be of a value greater than $2,500. Seventy-five per cent of the gross receipts of the relay carnival which will be staged on the splendid stadium track will be divided among visiting teams in the university and college divisions.

A number of athletes of international renown will be invited to participate. Among them will be Harold Osborne, holder of the world's record in the high jump, and Jack Johnson, Olympic champion in the 200 meters, both of whom competed in the 1925 carnival.

Last year outstanding athletes from Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma, Drake and Kansas universities participated; it is believed that practically every Missouri Valley school will be represented this year.

Special events will attract sprinters, weight lifters, jumpers and swimmers. For university and college athletes special events will be held in the 100 yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, shot put, discus throw, high jump, broad jump, pole vault and javelin throw. High school and academy stars will compete in the 100 yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, shot put and broad jump. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in each of the events.

Five Relays Offered.
Five relays will be offered university relay quartets; the two mile, one mile, half mile, quarter mile, and medley relays. In the medley, the first runner will dash 440 yards, the second 220 yards, the third will run half a mile and the fourth a mile. Large bronze trophies will go to the winning relay teams, while white gold watches will be awarded the individual members of the winning quartets and silver medals the members of the second place teams.

College relay teams will be allowed to participate among themselves in half mile, one mile and medley relays. The medley will be composed of two 220 yard sprints, one 440 yard dash, and an 880 yard run. Winners in the college division will be awarded the same type of prizes given relay teams in the university class.

A one mile relay, with each contestant running 440 yards, will be staged for junior college and academy runners. The winning quartet will be awarded a large trophy shield, while the individual members of the winning combination will be given white gold watches, and silver medals will go to the four members of the team finishing second.

High Schools Eligible.
High school athletes will be eligible for competition in these relays: the half mile, mile and medley. The medley is made up of two 220 yard dashes, one 440 yard dash, and a half mile run. The same type of prizes awarded to winners in other classes will go to high school winners.

A penathlon will be held this year for the first time, and is expected to attract more interest than any other contest. Each entrant will compete in a 200 meter dash, discus throw, running broad jump, 800 meter run, and 120 yard high hurdles and the winner decided on a point basis. A bronze trophy will go to the winner, a gold medal to the man finishing second, a silver medal to third place contestant and bronze medal to the fourth.

An effort is being made to obtain special railroad rates and special hotel rates for visiting athletes. Mr. Bellmont said.

DATES ARE SET FOR DISTRICT CAGE TOURNAMENT

Plans are now going forward at the Tech college here for the entertainment of the various intercollegiate league contests that will be fostered by the institution this year. It was announced at the office of Athletic Director Ewing Y. Freeland Thursday, Coach Freeland has been named chairman of the committee that will handle the different meets.

Present plans of the chairman call for the establishment of county championship teams in basketball not later than February 8, and he has issued an appeal that reports on these decisions be filed with him immediately following the deciding contest.

It is the plan now to hold the district championship meet in basketball at the college here, February 12 and 13.

The district to which the Tech will be host during the meet is composed of twenty counties surrounding Lubbock, as follows:

Andrews, Bailey, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Motley, Scurry, Terry and Tockum.

All county championships must be finally decided on or before February 6, and reports in connection with the winner of the various counties must be in the office of Athletic Director Freeland at the college here not later than the night of February 8. It was said here Thursday in connection with the announcement of the dates.

This information must be here so that officials may know exactly how many will enter the district tournament in order to make arrangements to care for the several delegations when they arrive.

The manner of procedure in the tournament has not been completed

BRILLIANT ARRAY OF GOLFERS IN TEXAS OPEN

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 14. (AP)—The greatest array of golfers ever to participate in the Texas Open Golf championship gathered at Brackenridge Park Municipal links today for the first event of the fifth annual tournament—the pro-amateur best ball contest.

The two hundred golfers were teamed for the team play, but more than a score were local amateurs who filled in to give the hundred professionals an opportunity to win first, second or third prize money. There probably will be 125 to 150 men to tee off when the 72 hole medal play starts tomorrow. The best ball matches were expected to be completed by three o'clock when the driving contest was to take place on the 365 yard fifth hole.

Joe Turnesa, defending his title as Texas open champion, was in the first putting this morning. He will have plenty of competition from Joe Kirkwood, Harry Cooper, MacDonald Smith, John Golden, Bobby Crulokshank, Bill Melhorn, Al and Abe Ephson, Willie Hunter, Pat Doyle and Jack Burke.

Ross Young, of San Antonio, who also appears in the baseball box scores as "Young r. f." of the New York Giants, is among the amateur entrants. He is paired with Phil Seisler, of Tulsa, against Jack Burke, of Houston and O. E. Wilson, of San Antonio.

Waco Golfer Will Give Exhibition Here

Douglas Herring, formerly of Amarillo, now of Waco, one of the leading amateur golfers of the state, is here for a few days visit with friends, and after insistent urgings of local golf followers, is planning to stage an exhibition on the links of the Country club here Sunday afternoon.

Wednesday he made the rounds of the local course, which was the first time he has ever played on cotton seed null greens, and registered a score of 72 on 18 holes. Par on the course is 72.

Herring is a representative of the India Rubber company, but follows golf as a hobby.

HIGH OFFICIAL OF ELKS LODGE IS VISITOR HERE

A. C. Estes, Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of the Northwest Texas district of the B. P. O. E. lodge, and personal representative of William Hawley Atwell, of Dallas, Grand Exalted Ruler of the National Order of Elks, spent Tuesday night here with the local lodge laying plans for a great year's work here.

Estes, whose rise in Elksdom has been phenomenal, is possibly the youngest member of the Grand lodge in the southwest. He is now working on reorganization of the Elks Army and Navy, the playground of the lodge that is similar to the Shrine in Masonry and the 40 and 8 in the American legion.

Plans were discussed at the meeting here, and initial steps taken for the local organization to have representation at the meeting of the Grand lodge in Chicago in July of this year. Present plans are that 25 local Elks will attend the annual meeting, when the new $4,500,000 Memorial building, erected in memory of Elks who died during the World War on the shores of Lake Michigan, will be dedicated.

Special trains will be run from all over the nation to this meeting, and those of these trains will go from Texas, one from Wichita Falls, one from San Antonio and one from Dallas. The local delegation will join the special at Wichita Falls, from where an eleven coach all-steel train will be assembled.

Following the session of the Grand lodge in Chicago, the train will cross over into Canada, back down through the "Twin Cities" and on to Kansas City, from where it will turn west to various places along the route, including a visit to Pike's Peak, then back to Wichita Falls.

Mr. Estes was accompanied here by his wife, and left Wednesday afternoon for Plainview, where he was to have met with the lodge there Wednesday night. From there, he goes to Amarillo, Dalhart and other places on the North Plains.

Three local men were initiated into the lodge here during his visit. They are: S. A. Germany, Campbell Anderson and V. Lorenz Ellis.

Rix Ships Piano To Far Side Of Rockies

Rix established a new record for their music department when they shipped a Gulbransen Registering Piano to Priest River, Idaho. Rix today received a check for this piano from Mrs. Lida Bert Fann who had been an old resident of Crosby County. The Gulbransen Registering Piano had made such a lasting impression on Mrs. Fann that when she decided to buy a piano her first thought was of the Gulbransen. This piano is being shipped today to the other side of the Rockies where the trees are still green even though at the northern end of the United States.

'No Handshaking' Is Ruling Of Buyer In Chicago Mercantile

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. (AP)—A sign "no handshaking" has appeared on the office door of the head buyer of a Chicago department store. It is meant for traveling men and others on business missions, he said. The hand clasp is "blah"; it is lost time, and is in business a mock gesture "as silly as rubbing noses," he added. "You don't shake hands with your grocer, your butcher, or your baker, do you? It's the same with me and

CONFISCATION

Assurances of the Calles government to the contrary, the American public is not so sure the new land and mining laws in Mexico are not in direct violation of the agreement of 1923 and international law.

Taken at their face value the Mexican legislation is no more nor less than an anti-foreign gesture conceived to rob foreign investors of their property in Mexico. It is robbery clothed as patriotism.

Mexican natural resources remained untapped until foreign capital came to develop them, to the advantage of both investors and government.

More so in recent years than before, politicians below the Rio Grande have been agitating against foreign domination of Mexican mineral sources.

BIGOTRY

The general public is not concerned with the doctrinal matters at issue between Rabbi Wise and the fundamentalist rabbis, but in their controversy there is a public aspect which is of utmost importance.

Dr. Wise is chairman of a committee which is raising money for the development of Palestine. It now appears that because one of his public utterances has displeased the fundamentalist group of his church he must resign his chairmanship.

If the Union of Orthodox Rabbis thinks Zionism is the private property of those who can meet some religious test prescribed by that union, if it should turn out that Zionism is not a cultural and national movement of Eastern Jews back to Palestine but an attempt to set up a theocracy and an established church in Palestine, then Zionism must alienate the interest of liberal people throughout the world.

There is already too much intolerance and heresy-hunting and no good can come from establishing a new center of bigotry in the Near East. If the movement to establish a Jewish colony in Palestine is to succeed the leaders and "settlers" must forget differences of creed and adopt an attitude of tolerance and universal sympathy.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

SUGGESTS AN EXPERIENCED MAN REPLACE PERSHING ON COMMISSION

By CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Just for variety I nominate W. F. Gaule as General Pershing's successor at the head of the Tacna-Arica commission.

The trouble with nearly every one the government sends to South America is a complete unfamiliarity with South Americans. Gaule knows all about them.

Picking a man for such a job on account of his qualifications is unprecedented, of course. Still, it might be tried as an experiment.

Gaule, from North Dakota originally, was a farm boy. Then he worked in a gambling house. He was westmaster, somewhere or other out there. Finally he gravitated into the agricultural machinery business.

One of the big farm machinery houses sent him to Russia, as a mechanic. His travels took him all over Europe and the Far East. Ultimately he brought up in the Argentine Republic—still a farm machinery man.

He'd saved a little money. Argentina offers a great many opportunities to make quick financial cleanups. Gaule took advantage of a number of them and they turned out well.

At last he branched out as an importer of North American films for Argentine theaters. His business grew until he became something of a magnate.

As John D. Rockefeller would reckon, he isn't rich, but I imagine he could draw his check for two or three hundred thousand.

SPINSTERHOOD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARBARA HAWLEY is 25, self-willed and talented. Wanting to see life, she breaks with her fiancé, BRUCE REYNOLDS, an architect, and gets a job on the Telegraph.

BOB JEFFRIES, police reporter introduces her to JEROME BALL, man about town. The three are at a roadhouse when a prominent man kills himself. Barbara connects LYDIA STACY, wealthy widow with the case by the means of a red scarf dropped by the suicide's unknown woman companion.

Mrs. Stacy likes Bruce, who is with a realty firm promoting Vale Acres. He ignores her advances so she refuses to invest in the firm and tells ANDREW McDERMOTT (managing editor of the Telegraph) that the firm is crooked.

Manners, Bruce's partner, affords. Publicity is given the affair, for which Bruce blames Barbara.

McDermott's daughter, Fancy, is in love with Jerome Ball. When Barbara's invalid mother dies, Barbara takes an apartment with Fancy and tries to cure the girl of her infatuation for Ball. Fancy accuses Barbara of wanting Ball herself.

VIOLETTA CRANBY, factory girl, wins Bruce through Barbara's "lovelorn" column. When they are married Barbara plunges in to work to try to forget. McDermott sends her to cover a National Federation of Women's Clubs convention. Barbara sees Manners and wires McDermott. Manners is taken back to the city and incriminates Bruce.

Fancy weds Jerome Ball, man about town, and goes to Chicago. Barbara is lonely. A child is born to Violetta and Bruce and this adds to Barbara's loneliness. She is offered a position on a New York theatrical magazine. BOB JEFFRIES, her friend and former police reporter for the Telegraph, is now working on a New York Daily. She accepts the job and the first thing she does upon arriving in New York is to call up BOB JEFFRIES who is employed on a New York Daily.

The rest of the toilet occupied several hours. When the dress came back, Barbara slipped into it with a little shiver of pleasure. It was of all-leave, lace and blue velvet ribbons, a last minute purchase in the old city before she left.

She sat down to put a last polish on her nails. The telephone bell tinkled. "Someone waiting for you in the lobby, Miss Hawley," said the smooth voice of the switchboard girl.

Barbara snatched up her cape, shot a last look in the mirror and rushed out.

Bob stepped up to her as she left the elevator. He was wearing an evening jacket whose tails did not stick out like an angry rooster's. Barbara sighed with relief.

"Babs," he cried, wringing her hand. "Gosh, but it's good to see you!"

Barbara smiled up at him. She spoke diffidently.

"It's good to be here, too Bob."

"We'll catch a taxi outside and rush right over to the Salon d'Argent. I haven't any nice, comfy, striped racer prancing at the curb. Had to sell it."

The parking problem was too much for me, and besides, there's no place in this town for a striped second-hand rattle, among all these imported models, with their shining plate and liveried drivers and their rotten engines."

The Salon d'Argent was on Broadway in the Roaring Forties. "Let's leave the cab and walk a little way," said Barbara. "I want to get a good view."

Bob smiled and told the driver to stop. They walked along silently for a few minutes. Ribbons and mammoth spotches of colored lights flickered and changed overhead.

Rainbow memorials to player piano, tooth paste and chewing gum added their gaudy beauty to the canvas.

Bob let her look her fill for some moments. "How do you like it, Babs?" he asked at last.

Barbara shivered. "It's gross and terrific, but it's beautiful. I'm glad I'm going to learn to know it all. But I hope I can fight back at it too."

"Manhattan slays all punny carriers," Bob said to Barbara, "and it wears out many of the strong. But there's nothing like it in America, or in the world."

They were entering the doorway of the Salon d'Argent. Steps led downward to a lobby where attendants stopped forward for their sweeps.

The dining room beyond was wine-dress and low-ceilinged. Its walls were hung with black velvet, against which silver crescent moons shone in the light of innumerable candles.

The room was crowded with small tables. Barbara's first glimpse was of a multitude of black coats on rotund bodies back to back, down aisle after aisle of tiny tables. There seemed to be no chance of making their way to the other end of the room, where a head waiter was signaling them.

Bob stepped forward and put a hand in her arm. "Forge ahead, old kid," he said. "It doesn't look as if we'd ever make it, but if the others got through, we can."

A narrow path opened up before them, but many scowling faces turned as they passed. "I've bumped every head on this side," whispered Barbara.

"Never mind. You'll be bumped in your turn."

At last they were settled at a table, and a waiter was handing them menu cards.

There was a stirring at the tables around them. Barbara glanced over her shoulder and saw the crowd making toward a cleared space in the center of the room, so small that she had not noticed it.

"Are they going to try to dance there?" she whispered to Bob.

"Sure thing," he answered. "But they won't dance. They'll just look their partners in their arms and stand still rhythmically."

That was precisely what they did. The jazz orchestra began a muted melody which rose to a fury of saxophones and drums. The dancers wriggled faster, but they did not move more than a foot from their original places.

"I know a lot of places down in the Village that are more fun than this," remarked Bob. "But I thought for your first night you should see gay Broadway at its gayest. This place is supposed to hit as fast a pace as any."

But for me—give me more food and more room and a bit less gaiety."

Barbara sat watching the dancers, too much fascinated to do more than nibble at the elaborate dishes which the waiter set before her.

the tables they had left.

"Well, just eat here and perhaps do our dancing after the show," said Bob. "I've tickets for the Follies."

Barbara beamed at him. "I'm having such a gorgeous time."

"That's good. You're looking a knockout tonight, too, Barbara. Never saw you look so well."

She flushed. It was the first masculine praise she had heard for a long time. "How can people get tired of New York and talk all that rot about the joys of their home towns, and so forth?" she asked.

Bob smiled. "To tell the truth, Babs, I myself hanker after the old-home city sometimes. It's when I'm alone and can't think of a congenial soul to spend the evening with that I get a burning desire for the old Telegraph office and its gang and the movie theaters back on Washington Street."

Barbara shook her head. "The movie theaters on Washington Street when you can have the real theaters on Broadway? I don't understand it."

"Well, I don't want to be a gloom spreader, but just wait till you've been here a while. You'll be sneaking off for the 'old home city' some of these times, if only for a two or three-day visit. Think I'll go back myself for Christmas. May have a special reason then, anyhow."

Barbara looked at him curiously, but he vouchsafed no explanation of his remark.

"I'll chance it," she said.

The spasms of music and the wrestling of the crowd on the check-board dance floor went on. Barbara noticed many faces that were flushed with drink. Corks popped on all sides and waiters carried with an endless supply of ice buckets.

"Have you had enough of this, Babs?" asked Bob, looking at his watch.

"Not really enough," she answered, "but if it's late we'll have to go. There'll be other nights."

"Yes," said Bob, "but if I were you I'd ask my friends to introduce me to some of the really good European restaurants around town, and the tea rooms where you see real people—people you've read about, like John Barrymore and Laurette Taylor and George Jean Nathan and Edna St. Vincent Millay. They don't hang around these joints."

Barbara looked at him anxiously.

"Manhattan slays all punny carriers," Bob said to Barbara, "and it wears out many of the strong. But there's nothing like it in America, or in the world."

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XLVI

She ran to her suit case and pulled out an evening dress, sadly wrinkled. Next came an evening cape, also the worse for the journey. She rang for a helioboy and sent the two garments to be pressed.

Then she sat down to think, the telephone book in her lap.

A moment later she was talking to the telephone operator at the Lander-Herald. "May I speak to Bob Jeffries, in the editorial department?" she said.

THERE was a moments wait, during which Barbara held her breath. Then a man's voice said "Hello."

"Bob," she cried, "this is Barbara. I'm here!"

"Barbara who?"

"Barbara Hawley, of course. Didn't you know?"

"Why Babs, I had no idea you were in town. Gee, for a minute I was racking my brains to think who Barbara could be, here in New York. I'm not good at voices over the phone. But what brings you here?"

She told him in a breath, jumbling her sentences and not waiting for a reply.

When she had finished, he broke in. "Fine and dandy, Babs. Hope you'll like our town. Great place in many ways. Pretty had in others." He paused.

Barbara waited a moment and then plunged into gossip from the old city. He had said nothing about seeing her.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Relative firm Liverpool cables a higher market for Egyptian cotton and larger census figures on home mill consumption for December than expected, were reflected by opening advances of four to five points in the cotton market today. May sold up to 19.53c and October to 18.22c in early trading, or five to ten points net higher, but these prices seemed to bring in some southern hedging as well as realizing and about half the improvement was lost before the end of the first hour.

Private cable advices said the advance in Liverpool was due partly to the decision of the Egyptian government to purchase 500,000 cantars of Egyptian cotton in order to support prices. Egyptian futures in Liverpool were 67 to 62 points higher.

The census report showed domestic mill consumption of 575,271 bales for December, against 543,098 for November and 523,789 for December last year.

The demand created by the early bullish feature was supplied on the advance to about 15.5c for May and the market was quiet later in the morning. In addition to the realizing attracted by the early rise a little southern selling appeared but offerings were comparatively light. The market was dull at midday with May selling around 19.46c and with active months unchanged to 3 points higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14. (AP)—The cotton market showed a god opening due to the larger consumption of lint cotton during December than expected and favorable Liverpool cables. First trades showed gains of 8 to 11 points and prices improved an additional point after the call with March at 19.84c, May at 19.93c, and July at 18.63c.

The census bureau reported December consumption by domestic mills at 575,271 bales against 543,098 in November and 523,789 in December 1924. Prices eased off 5 to 8 points at the end of the first half hour on realizing which was held by the large mill stock shown by the census report.

The market ruled quiet all morning and prices showed no definite trend, although such changes that developed were in the direction of lower levels. March traded down to 19.35c, May to 18.93c, and July to 18.55c, or ten to 13 points down from the early high but only one to three points under yesterday's close. Although prices rallied 3 to 5 points from the low by trade.

The market ruled dull all through the afternoon with prices fluctuating narrowly within the previous range but always slumped between trades and there was little inclination to sell or buy. At 19.36c for March and 18.93c for May, prices were 1 to 4 points below the noon levels. Exports for the day totalled 26,534 bales.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. (By the Associated Press)—Announcement that Poland is to impose an export duty on wheat acted as a bullish influence today on the wheat market here. The reason was that of late the largest sources of wheat supplies for other continental European countries has been Poland. Decidedly higher quotations today from Liverpool were also a stimulating factor, no special upturn there having been looked for. Chicago opening prices, 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher, new style, May $1.74 1/2 to $1.74 5-8 and July $1.51 to $1.51 1/2, were followed by moderate further gains, May touching $1.75 3-8. Corn and oats went up with wheat, but later reacted. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cents higher, May $9 7-8 to 90, corn afterword sagged to below yesterday's finish. Oats started unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, May 45 3/4 cents, advanced a little more and then became easier. Provisions reflected a rise in the value of hogs.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Stock prices fluctuated within narrow limits at the opening of today's market, failing to follow a clearly defined trend. Buying interest was at the low ebb although a few of the public utilities moved up under the leadership of public service of New Jersey, which rose a point to a new high level. U. S. Steel moved fractionally higher but American Can and Sears-Roebuck reacted a point each. Bidding for various specialties later gave some stability to the market although prices generally continued to drift within a trading area. American agricultural chemical preferred advanced four points to a new high above 94 on reports of favorable trade conditions and probable action on back dividends. Pullman also reached a new top price at 174 and good exhibitions of strength were given by Western Union, International Telephone, U. S. Realty, American Brake Shoe and Oppenheim-Cohns. Offsetting these gains were losses of one to two points in Remington Typewriter, Hudson Motors, Radio, Foundation company, Texas and Pacific and Scholtes. Foreign exchanges opened steady with demand sterling holding firm around 4.85 1/2. Renewed weakness of the motors was disconcerting to bullish operators and resulting in other speculative issues caused later simple recessions. Investment stocks, however, particularly the fire insurance and high priced equipment and public utility shares were buoyant. Continental Insurance and Fidelity Phoenix Insurance rose 5 points and McCrory Stores 2. Railway Steel Spring, Western Union, Nash Motors, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis and Oppenheim-Collins 3 to 4. Their strength ultimately caused a cessation of selling elsewhere, the market again tending upward at noon. Call loans renewed at 4 1/2 per cent.

AMERICAN EDITOR DENIES THAT 'WAR LIES' WERE ISSUED; SAYS BRITISH GENERAL IS MISTAKEN

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Flat denials that the American army authorities in France circulated "war lies" as a propaganda measure during the World War were made yesterday by James Kerney, editor and publisher of the Trenton, N. J. Times, in an address at the Army War college. Mr. Kerney served eight months as director of the American Information with the A. E. F., and told the war college class he did not recall a single official lie which headquarters A. E. F. put out, even indirectly.

Refers To Speech.
He referred to the stir created by the published reports of remarks by General Charters, "one of the most capable minds employed in British general headquarters in France," at a dinner in New York recently, at which the general "chattered on war time propaganda." There had been widespread and widely differing comments on these remarks, Mr. Kerney said, and it appeared to have been decided "that this was a good time to denounce the army and all its works in which, for current purposes 'atrocity' propaganda was included."

Many charges were made against the communiques in France, he said, "but I never heard it charged that they told things which were not so. The chief complaint by the correspondents was that they did not tell anything, so or otherwise. If it had been conceivable that a lie would have saved lives at the front, Mr. Kerney said, "the lie probably would have been told by some discreet person. But, really accomplished liars are few and in the absence of a genuine artist it is better to stick to the truth, which even a novice can tell without coaching," he added.

Called Them "Folk Tales."
The speaker said that nearly all so-called "war lies" were folk tales and popular "myths" handed down through the centuries and modernized to fit any war. Investigations, he believed, would disclose that virtually all of them started as gossip, either at the front or at home. He continued:

"Cruel Canadian sergeants, Belgian babies with their hands cut off, angels flying over the thinning ranks of the British 'contemptibles' at Mons, Russian armies moving through Scotland and England toward the front in France—all these and their equally foolish fellow tales grew out of gossip, were broadcast through gossip and were impressively implanted in the popular long before any of them got into print or came officially to the attention of the governments engaged in the war."

FARMER MAKES A PROPOSITION TO U. S. A.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 14.—J. E. Farris, prominent Buchanan county farmer, has raised the ante on the recent offer by the International Harvester company of America to pay $1 a bushel for corn in exchange for their implements.

To put a "kick" in corn values, the farmer offers $2 a bushel for corn payable in Missouri mules. In a letter to the St. Joseph Gazette, Farris says:

"I see the International Harvester company offers $1 a bushel for corn, payable in implements. I want to go them one better and offer $2, payable in jacks and jinnies. You can't raise corn without tools and mules; you can't raise mules without jack and you can't raise jacks without jinnies. Tell Mr. International to bid again and make it $2.50 and I'll make it $2.50 and maybe the hardware man, lumber man, furniture man, dry goods man, and other business interests will come in while the water is fine."

Quinine Worth Weight In Gold Memoirs Point Out

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14.—Quinine bootlegging when the drug was worth $16 an ounce—its weight in gold—was described in reminiscences of Capt. J. C. Terrell, Fort Worth pioneer settler, who died here recently. These memoirs were privately printed for preservation by old friends and fellow pioneers.

The prohibitive price, Captain Terrell relates, was caused by the tariff and embargo enacted by the Northern states, which did not use one-twentieth as much quinine as did the South, and caused much misery and many deaths.

The congress of 1862-65, placing a tariff of 45 cents on quinine, raising the tariff on Peruvian bark to 29 cents and prohibiting importation from Europe, enabled the only manufacturers of the drug in the United States to enjoy a monopoly. Blocked on the south and invested on the north, the Confederate States could look for but an uncertain supply dependent on blockade runners. The law was repealed in 1865 and when the drug was placed on the free list it fell in price to 50 cents an ounce.

Negroes, as a class, and poor white people generally, could not buy quinine, and resorted to the use of corn shucks, dogwood and willow bark, which were ineffective against the scourge of malarial fever, thousands dying from lack of proper medicine. Captain Terrell blamed Southern enemies in Congress and lack of representation from the South for enactment of the embargo.

ed to have been seized on the Yancey Storey ranch, near Denton. The present case grew out of raids on the Storey ranch last summer by state rangers.

Martin's legal forces were augmented this morning by Major John Brackridge, of Taylor, formerly of Austin, who appeared in court to assist Martin Simpson, and G. W. Boyd in representing the defendant.

The defense had not yet made the motion to invalidate the present jury on grounds that the last two or three jurors had been obtained in other than the prescribed manner. Boyd said last night that the fact that Judge Hoesy had dismissed some of the veniremen and later recalled them would give the defense ground to make such a motion.

WORLD COURT IS AGAIN ARGUED IN SENATE

WILL CLOG WHEELS FOR AT LEAST A WEEK, IS REPORT TODAY

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—With no apparent lessening in its controversial interest, the world court issue is back on the Senate floor for a week's stay at least until displaced temporarily by the tax reduction bill.

As the newest developments the Senate has before it a resolution by Senator Shipstead, farm-labor, Minnesota, requesting the state department to supply copies of all correspondence between departments and between the government and the league of nations regarding American adherence to the court. Another Shipstead resolution would direct the foreign relations committee to index and abstract for the Senate all state department correspondence concerning the court.

Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, has added to the growing group of proposed reservations with which this country would enter the tribunal. The Overman stipulation would prevent the court from considering, without consent of this government, purely domestic questions, such as immigration, territorial integrity of the several states, and any alleged foreign obligations of any of them, and the Monroe doctrine.

Senator Shipstead resumed debate on the court yesterday with a prepared address against American participation. Senators McKinley, Illinois, and McLean, Connecticut, republicans, following him on the affirmative side of the question.

UNION MEN ARE RESTRAINED IN AIDING MINERS

OLD COURT ORDER KEEPS THEM FROM RESCUING ENTRAPPED MEN

(By Associated Press.)
WILBURTON, Okla., Jan. 14.—A federal court injunction issued last October, was construed to prevent union miners from joining in the rescue efforts at the Degnan-McConnell Mine yesterday, where 83 workmen lost their lives in an explosion. A restraining order from Judge R. L. Williams forbids union miners refusing to work under the 1917 wage agreement from coming on company property.

Old time miners, virtually the only ones here thoroughly acquainted with rescue work and experienced in handling disasters, were kept from lending assistance.

Miners Plead To Help
Jeff Thurston, veteran miner out on strike, was one of those anxious to go to the mine yesterday. He, and a group of striking miners, met the night train that brought E. Boyle, state mine inspector, to Wilburton.

With tears in his eyes, Thurston appealed to Boyle:

"Ed., they are not getting anywhere. If the men in that mine had any chance to live, the chance was lost because no old heads are on the ground to take charge of the rescue work."

May Be Called
Thurston pleaded with Boyle for permission to take a number of striking miners to assume charge of rescue work, despite Judge Williams' injunction. Boyle told the veteran to have a group of men ready and that he would call on them if he thought they could then give assistance.
