WATCHES ALL NIGHT BESIDE MAN HE SLEW

Weird Death Vigil Reported After Grosebeck Shooting

SHOT FOLLOWS DRINKS

MEXIA, Texas, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A strange story of a shooting near Groesbeck, Limestone county seat, came to light here Tuesday.

J. H. Hazlewood, 33, farmer of the Box church community, after keeping death vigil over the man he had shot, when other preferred to leave him, came to the county seat Monday and gave himself up to officers.

Hazlewood confessed that he shot Henry Jenkins, 35, in the former's home last Sunday afternoon, picked up the fatally shot man and carried him home, watched him throughout the night and then when death came, drove to Groesbeck to surrender.

Jenkins died about 10 a. m. Monday from gunshot wounds after efforts of physicians to save him had failed.

According to a story to County Attorney Scott Reed, Jenkins had been drinking and advanced on Hazlewood, his neighbor, with a knife after they had "some words." Hazlewood says he then grabbed a shot gun and fired twice, the shots taking effect in Jenkins' body.

After a hearing before Justice of the Peace William Kennedy, Hazlewood was released on $2,000 bond to await action of the grand jury, which convenes September 6.

According to available information, Hazlewood had taken the man home and then remarked when a physician came out: "I'd better go and give up."

"Why do that," the injured man is quoted as saying. "No charges have been filed. I'm not filing any charges against you."

Self-defense will be the plea of Hazlewood, it was indicated.

E. Shepherd, mayor, Tuesday morning, with the endorsement of that body and its instructions to "go to it."

The endorsement, such as it was, is in effect an "about face" on the part of the council, which for the past month has had a tentative arrangement with the chief of police that he was to tender his resignation on August 1, effective as of September 1. This resignation was supposed to have been handed the city council at its meeting Monday night, and that faction of the city council which had been active in seeking a change in department heads for the city police was primed for its exhibit.

Call Executive Session

Hodgins, however, failed to appear at that time; instead the mayor brought word that he wished to talk with members of the council in executive session Tuesday morning and a meeting of the body was called for 10 o'clock yesterday.

The meeting Tuesday morning was an executive session, but from commissioners in attendance and the mayor it was learned that the chief appeared at the session and stated that he was ready to resign if they still wanted him to, but that he did not think that he had been given a square deal.

Hodgins told the council that the city police department was in excellent shape, that the city was practic

MERRY LOCKE, just 20, falls in love with a MAN IN GRAY whom she passes daily on the street when she leaves the Finch Business School to go out for lunch. He always looks at her, and finally Merry tries to flirt with him—and after that he stops noticing her.

From her older sister, CASSIE, Merry learns about the Man in Gray. His name is Anthony Gaines, and he is a young lawyer, a friend of MORLEY KAUFMAN who employs Cassie in his office.

One night Merry goes to the circus with her youngest sister, JINNY, and DERRICK JONES, a college boy who is in love with Merry. The crowd becomes panicky when a lion breaks loose in the tent, and Merry finds herself separated from Jinny and Derrick, and with Anthony Gaines.

He drives her home, and at the Gate he kisses her against her will. Merry has been kissed by so many boys that she doesn't want this love affair to degenerate into a "petting party," too. The next day she and Tony Gaines meet again, and go for a drive. He tells her that he fell in love with her the first time he ever saw her, and in a burst of confidence, Merry tells him that she's in love with him, too. But she adds that she doesn't know how long it will last, because her love affairs never have lasted long. Disgusted with her, Tony makes up his mind never to see her again. But he can't stay away from her, and they make up their quarrel.

He goes out of town on a business trip, and during his absence Merry's father dies suddenly. It is on the day of his death that Merry sees his employer, BILL HEPWORTH, holding Helen, the oldest of the four Locke sisters, in his arms. She forgets the incident in the general excitement. But a week later Helen announces that she and Bill Hepworth have been married for a month. Then Merry breaks the news to Moms that she has "flunked" her course at business school.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII.

Moms did not launch into the flow of angry words that Merry fully expected to hear.

All she did was to shrug her shoulders, and heave a long sigh that seemed to come from the bottom of her soul.

"Oh, well," she said in a discouraged way, "I'm not surprised, Merry. It was too much to hope that you ever would finish business school. I should have known it was just throwing away good money to send you there. You've never tried to make anything of yourself—"

Her voice trailed off into silence, and she got up and walked out of the neat, sunny kitchen with a slow dragging step.

What she had said was perfectly true, of course.

Merry had no ambition beyond having a good time.

She hated any and all kinds of work around the house. School had always seemed liwe prison to her, and she never could get her mind down to study. She never looked at a book unless it was the frothiest kind of love story.

"Why waste your time reading novels," was Merry's way of looking at it, "when life itself is so much more exciting.

What she meant was that it was a waste of time to read a love story in a book, when you could have plenty of your own if you happened to be pretty and alluring.

She was particularly pretty and alluring on this particular morning, as she sat at the breakfast table in a light blue house dress that Helen had made for her.

If she knew nothing about housework or office work, she sknew all there was to know about caring for herself. Every thread of her soft hair was like a golden thread, burnished by the brushing it had every night and morning — a hundred strokes, always. Merry counted them.

Her skin was sweet in its sheer cleanliness, and satiny under its film of face powder. Her little finger nails shone like bits of mother-of-pearl, and her teeth were polished ivory.

She looked as fresh as if she had come out of a bandbox.

But the room she left behind her, upstairs, always looked "as if a cyclone had struck it," to quote Moms.

Merry never aired her bed. She never picked up her nightgown, but left it in a heap on the floor. Her brush was always filled with combings, and the carpet would be freely sprinkled with talcum in the spot where she had stood to powder her neck and arms.

Up to this time Helen had taken care of her and Jinny like a lady's maid, except that she never complained about them as a servant probably would have.

"You girls will have to make your own beds today," she said gently now, as she turned on the hot water for the dishes, "I'm going to meet Bill this morning. We're going to pick out dining room set."

"I won't have time to do any work around this house," Merry answered promptly, "Tony's taking the day off, and we're going for a long drive. I've got to go right upstairs and get dressed."

Cassie arched her penciled eyebrows.

"What you'd better do is look for a job," she said. "There's no one but me bringing any money into the house now. And I don't propose to support you girls, and you may as well know it first as last. I'm not going to slave down at the office so that you can hang around home all day doing nothing."

Jinny, who was helping Helen with the dishes, burst into a shrill laugh.

"Anyway, we won't starve, Cass," she giggled, "even if you do keep your pay envelope to yourself. Now that Helen's married Bill Hepworth, we ought to get our groceries for nothing."

Cassie gave her familiar sneer. "We won't get much from any of the Hepworths, Jinny," she observed. "You ought to know how close fisted they are, by this time. Dad worked for them for 30 years and they didn't even send a flower to his funeral."

Merry did not wait to hear Helen's retort. She folded her napkin and ran upstairs to get dressed for Tony.

The door of Cassie's room stood open, and she tiptoed over to the dresser and sprinqled her hair with two kinds of perfume.

"The most important thing in life for me just now is to be pretty and attractive to Tony," she told herself, as she borrowed a pair of Cassie's silk stockings. "If I can make him marry me right away I won't have to go to work at all."

It seemed awfully silly to them to wait for six months, anyway. She knew that she loved him, and would still love him at the end of that time. What a silly little fool she had been to tell him about her other love affairs.

She sighed regretfully as she went out to meet him, wondering if it ever paid to be honest with a man.

"Tony," she said to him an hour later as they drove across the hot town toward the country, "let's not wait for six months. Let's get married today."

She was close to him, and she kissed him when she had said it. She put her head with its crown of shimmering, perfumed hair on his shoulder and looked up at him wistfully.

"Darling, Moms says I'll have to go to work right away," she added. "I hate the thought of going into an office full of rough men. Men always make love to me—I don't know why."

She saw his jaw tighten as he set his lips tightly together.

"No," he said, shaking his head, "I don't want you to marry me until I know you're sure of yourself Merry. If you get married on the spur of the moment, you'll probably regret it."

"No, I won't," Merry declared, "I'll never change. Oh Tony—if you really wanted me, you'd take me now."

She felt his hand tighten on hers, as it lay on the steering wheel, crushing it as if he were afraid that if he didn't hold her she might fade away into the sunlight.

"Merry, don't make things hard for me," he said. "Don't you know it takes all my will power not to run off with you every time I see you? I want to be fair to you. I want to wait until you're sure you really care about me enough to marry me."

She drew sharply away from him and looked at him moodily from the corner of the car.

"I never thought I'd propose to a man, and then have him turn me down," she flung at him.

He turned his face to her then, with the special smile that he had only for her, and pulled her close to him again.

"Baby," he said, as he might have spoken to a sulky, spoiled child.

Merry put her head against his shoulder again. She loved to be with him, this way. It made her feel small and precious and protected to have him hold her tight in his big arm.

His low deep voice was a relief after the shrill quarteling of the three sisters at home. Like all big men, he was quiet and restful.

"Oh, Tony," she sighed, "I love everything about you but your stubborness."

She saw him every night and all day Sunday during that golden June. They had picnic meals out in the country under the blue sky—just the two of them.

They wanted no third person.

Together they danced at the Blue Admiral inn or at the Silver Slipper club out on the Dover road—cheek against cheek, pulse beating against pulse, heart against heart.

Afterward they would drive slowly back to town through the warm windless nights, their hands locked together on the driving wheel of the purring blue car.

"My mother's coming home from Charlottesville next week," Tony said suddenly one night, from his side of the table at the Blue Admiral inn.

"Oh," Merry answered shortly.

A little pucker came between her brows.

"I don't know why, but I wish she wasn't coming so soon," she went on. "Somehow or other, I'm afraid she won't like me. A mother never thinks any girl is good enough for her only son, you know."

A cold feeling of doubt seemed to chill her as she spoke. A warning feeling that was hard to shake off, even with the sound of gay music in her ears, and laughter and lights all around her.

"She'll like you right enough," Tony said in his easy pleasant way. "She'll like you because you don't paint or smoke or drink, for one thing. And then she'll like you because I—love you."

"But even if she didn't like you, it wouldn't make any real difference to me. Not any real difference," he added. "You, yourself, are the only person who can make me stop caring for you, Merry."

She raised her eyebrows. "Could I stop you?"

Tony nodded.

"How?" she wanted to know.

But he wouldn't tell her. "You'll find out when the time comes—if it ever does," he said.

* * *

Tony's mother came home the next Tuesday and Merry spent Tuesday evening alone.

She was restless and unhappy without him. She wandered around the house like a lost soul, wondering what to do with herself.

"Whatever ails you, Merry?" Cassie called from her bedroom when she heard her running up the stairs for the third time in 10 minutes. "What are you doing the Big Parade all over the house for?"

Merry came and stood in the doorway.

"I guess I'll go to bed," she sighed. "Tony isn't coming over, and I may as well get some sleep. I need it." She sighed drearily.

Cassie, who was flat on her back, on the bed, reading a magazine, raised herself on one elbow.

"Where is the Great Lover parking himself tonight, for goodness sake?" she asked. Her tone was sarcastic.

Merry flushed. "His mother just got home from a visit today," she answered, "so he thought he ought to spend the evening with her. They have a cousin visiting them, too. Louise Somebody-or-other."

Cassie looked thoughtful.

"Listen to me, Merry," she began after a little pause, "let me give you some advice. Don't let Tony Gaines treat you the way Morley Kaufman treats me. If you're good enough for him, you're good enough for his family."

Merry's green eyes blinked at her through the thick curtain of lashes. "Why, I don't know what you mean," she answered breathlessly.

"Just this," Cassie made herself clear. "Just this. He should have brought his mother here tonight to see you. If a man really cares enough about a girl to ask her to marry him, he ought to be proud of her. He ought to be glad to show her off to his family. I'll bet you anything that he's never told his mother anything about you. If he had, she'd want to see you, first thing."

Merry couldn't speak. She just stood and stared at Cassie, turning her words over and over in her mind.

"You know, you're just a poor girl," Cassie went on with her air of calling a spade a spade, "and Tony Gaines has all kinds of money. Now, don't let him make a fool of you, and then turn around and marry some girl who was born with a gold spoon in her mouth."

As Merry stood there, looking at her, her first doubt of Tony Gaines and his sincerity, crept across her mind like a shadow across sunlight.

The Locke family visit Helen in her new bungalow. In revenge for Tony's leaving her alone in order to be with his mother, Merry allows Derrick Jones to kiss her. How does a petter feel when she is faced the next day with the man she really loves? Read the answer in tomorrow's Record News.

Yakima Canutt's Plays In "White Thunder"

The greatest rider of them all, Yakima Canutt, world's champion roper, rider and bulldogger, sweeps like an avenging Nemesis through a thrilling story of the western ranges in "White Thunder," which will be shown at the Garden theatre on Wednesday. Taking the part of a mysterious night rider who is running down the murderer of his father, Yakima Canutt has a splendid opportunity to indulge his world-famous horsemanship in sensational chases, relays, and breakneck stunts. This is unquestionably the best picture Ben Wilson has produced starring the hero of the cowboy country and Kingsley Benedict's story makes a corking vehicle. Nell Brantley proves delightful in the heroine's role, while the rest of the cast, which includes George Lessey, Lew Meehan and William H. Turner, are all fine.

That Mechanical-Chemical devices, masquerading as "Electric Refrigerators" are being offered householders through salesmen and through liberal use of newspaper and other advertising and that the only part electricity plays in these devices is to make the machinery go, and to swell your electric bills to an amount (for current alone) well in excess of your greatest ice consumption—your monthly electric bill would soon prove this.

RUNNING WILD OVER SANTONE

Hundred Boys And Girls Upset Citizens With Treasure Hunt

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Sisters of the Lady of the Lake college were roused and they threatened to call officers; business men were called in the middle of the night to open their stores; police were called to settle misunderstandings, automobiles were bruised and scarred.

In fact pandemonium reigned in San Antonio Monday night to usher in "the treasure hunt" fad.

First notice of the upheaval came during the rush of the evening theatre hour when 100 San Antonio boys and girls tore madly through the crowds inquiring—

"Where is the Prince of Wales?"

And, since they did not have time to explain they were on a "treasure hunt" and that the question was the key to a clue," they were taken mostly for escaped inmates of a home for mentally deficient.

Before the hunt finally ended at midnight in the fire station on Richmond avenue where the winners found a treasure chest containing ten dollars in shiney, new pennies, one of the searchers had gone to Boerne, so many had visited the Lady of the Lake, they were threatened with the law, and two boys, ejected from an all night cafe, had been picked up by police and held until they could explain what they were about.

The hunt, a fad which is raging through cities of the east, started from a girl's home with 100 boys and girls traveling in 25 automobiles.

Miracle Disturbs Police

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The police who have had their hands well enough filled with early affairs of late now have been called upon to investigate a "miracle."

Great crowds bathered around the old church of San Miguel in the capital while the church was being transferred by the priest to the municipal committee. They declared that the stone cross on top of the edifice was swaying visibly.

The police ordered the crowds back, fearing the foundation of the cross had been weakened by the wind and might fall. Police sent to the roof to make an examination reported the cross was perfectly firm and that it could not have swayed.

Twenty-Three Deaths In Ammunition Depot Laid To Natural Agency

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lightning alone was to blame for the Lake Denmark, N. J., naval ammunition depot explosion July 10, a board of inquiry has found.

At least 23 persons were killed and 52 injured at the disaster. Damage to plant, property and stores was placed at $47,000,000 exclusive of relatively small amount of army ammunition stored there.

Rebuilding of the Lake Denmark depot, but not for the storage of high explosives was recommended by the board together with the construction of another depot for the west coast about 1000 miles inland and a third to serve the east and gulf coast forces.

Not only was no human agency at fault, but officers and men at the scene displayed heroism of a very high order and many of them have been recommended for decorations, the board's report said.

MELLON RESENTS GREETING

Attempts To Enter Rome Unseen But Fails

ROME, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Andrew H. Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, arrived in Rome this morning. Mr. Mellon came from Geneva.

Mr. Mellon's arrival was entirely unexpected. Even his daughter, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, wife of the American vice-consul, was not aware of his coming and neither she nor Mr. Bruce was at the railway station to meet him.

Secretary Mellon, however, was recognized aboard the train by a person attached to the Italian debt commission in Washington. He telegraphed the information to Rome with the result that the platform was filled with Italian newspapermen and cameramen, to Mr. Mellon's obvious annoyance.

Doughboy Still Doomed to Bear Brunt of Battle

Man Does His Best Fighting on Foot, Says General Staff

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The "doughboy" continues to be the backbone of the army, says an article by Major General J. G. Harbord, retired, appearing today in the August issue of the American Legion Monthly.

The author refers to a report of the general staff in 1922 which reached the conclusion that "man remains the fundamental instrument in battle," and fights "with greater efficiency on foot, not on horseback, in a tank, airplane or fixed fortification."

"In all ages, man during peace, has turned his mind ot the mechanical means of winning wars. Some of these inventions have served most practical purposes, but none of them replaced the infantry. They have all either served the doughboy or disappeared."

RUSSIA GETS FIRST COTTON

10,000-Bale Shipment on German Steamer Opens Season.

HOUSTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Russia gets the first shipment of cotton for the new season which began August 1. It was, however, principally last season's cotton and amounted to 10,000 bales which was shipped Tuesday to Murmansk on the German steamer August Leonsardt.

Agents for the vessel announce that three other steamships will take cotton out of Port Houston this month, two for Murmansk.

In July, they added, their ships had carried 26,170 bales all except 4,700

ANTI-BOOTLEG PASTOR SLAIN

Preacher Topples From Pulpit As Shots Fired Through Window

MORGANTOWN, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Rev. Mr. Moss, an evangelist, and Mrs. Jerome Robinson of Butler county were shot and killed last night in church near here while the opening hymn of revival services were being held.

The preacher toppled from the pulpit dead and Mrs. Robinson, wife of a farmer, who was sitting in the front row of the choir, died an hour later. Several persons narrowly missed being struck by the shots which were fired through an open window.

Clifford Wilson was arrested and held for investigation after a 14-year-old girl told officers she saw him fire the shots.

The first theory was that the evangelists's stand against bootlegging had caused the shooting. Reports had been circulated that in reality he was a detective brought to the county to aid officials in finding prohibition law violators.

THE DAY IN WICHITA FALLS

August 4, 1925

T. J. Peyton, prominent Electra merchant, died in local hospital.

ALBERT BAIRD CUMMINS

ALBERT BAIRD CUMMINS has passed on to his reward. He was 76 and he had been a political warrior for 50 years. He was a native of Pennsylvania and when his school days were over with $50 in his pocket, he crossed the mountains and pitched his tent in the then wild prairie state of Iowa.

He was born a republican, he lived his life a republican and his followers and friends say that he was the greatest political figure on the state of action in Iowa for the past 30 years. A lawyer by profession, he was a close student of economics and well grounded in the science of politics.

He began life as a liberal republican, that is, a progressive determined to bring about the overthrow of the republican machine in Iowa which for years had been dominated by the railroads and their political henchmen.

In his clearing years he became a conservative, not a reactionary, for he was as devoted to the real interests of the people as in the days of long ago when he was the idol of the more radical of the voters of his party.

He was a member of the legislature in 1887. He was elected governor of Iowa in 1902 and served three terms, retiring in 1908. Then William B. Allison, a great republican senator, died in office, and Albert Baird Cummins was elected by the Iowa legislature to fill the vacancy.

He was elected and re-elected and gave 18 years of his life as a senator to the American people. His record as a senator is known to all men who been been in touch with the political and governmental activities of a quarter of a century that has fled.

He was as clean and as upright as any man who has ever served the people. Not a splotch nor a stain can be found upon his public record or his private life. His finish was as pathetic as the finish of Charles A. Culberson, an idol of the people of Texas for 32 years.

Culberson was ambitious to die in harness. He was tossed aside by the democratic voters of a commonwealth he had served loyally and ably. Cummins was ambitious to die in harness. He was tossed aside by the republican voters of Iowa, the followers of Smith Wildman Brookhart, and no doubt the blow or the shock of the blow caused his death.

Brookhart became the idol of a large majority of the Iowa republicans. They voted Brookhart into the senate and they voted Cummins out and sent him to his grave. And yet, for 15 years Brookhart had been an enthusiastic follower of Cummins and in the office of the idol of the corn growers the picture of Cummins side by side with that of Abraham Lincoln, has decorated the walls for many years. Albert Baird Cummins and Charles A. Culberson were close personal friends. Political differences never broke that friendship. Now Cummins has followed Culberson to the Valhalla of the great beyond, the invisible river and in the shade of the trees in that land of peace they can compare notes and tell of the ingratitude of the people where mortals dwell.

SPEAKING OF OKLAHOMA

DEMOCRATS of Oklahoma, as well as republicans, will hold their state primary the coming Tuesday. There are more than a thousand candidates for office in the step-daughter of Texas, and Jack Walton is the democratic contender for the democratic nomination for United States senator.

Jack was a contender two years ago, and he won the nomination in the runoff, and then in a democratic state the voters elected a republican to the senate by 130,000 majority. There is no telling what will happen this year. A large majority of the voters of Oklahoma are democrats but not Jack Walton democrats. If the democrats of the sister state are wise, they will give the nomination to one of the candidates who is in the field asking for vindication.

Jack was vindicated by the courts. He was vindicated by the lesislature of the state when he ran for the senate. All the vindications tossed him out. Now he is asking to be tossed for the fourth time.

JOHN W. DAVIS

JOHN W. DAVIS is one of the great lawyers of America and one of the clearest headed democrats. He was the party standard bearer for president in 1924. He was drafted for the leaders of both factions after the party of Jefferson had been wrecked by creed fanaticism and political insanity concerning the prohibition issue.

Davis is a southerner. His forebears were for the confederacy that died. He is a democrat who clings to the constitutional government, but is neither a moss back nor a fossil. There are many moss backs and fossils in the democratic party.

John W. Davis accepted the nomination knowing he was on the way to the political slaughter house. He never growled or sulked before or after the November election. When the returns were all in and the result known, he sent his congratulations to Calvin Coolidge and with Mrs. Davis sailed for Europe for a brief vacation.

On his return he resumed his private practice in the city of New York without heartburnings or political anamosity. Not long ago he was interviewed by the political correspondent of a great meteoric metropolitan newspaper. He was asked to define his position on the two-thirds nominating rule and unit rule.

"Should they be retained or abolished?" was the direct question. Now John W. Davis knows the history of these rules as well as any democrat in America. He did not dodge or run away. He said that the two-thirds rule and the unit rule had outlived their usefulness years and years ago, if the rules had been useful at any time in the history of the democratic party, and he advised his fellow democrats to abolish both rules at as early a date as possible.

There isn't an argument for their retention. There isn't an excuse. Ten Thousands arguments could be made for their abolition. If the leaders of the democratic party in the southern states wish to place the democracy on winning basis then they should instruct their national committeemen to get together and recommend to the national convention in 1928 that the rule shall be ignored in the future in the naming of candidates for president and vice-president.

Coming nearer home, the leaders of the democratic party in Texas should come together, and instruct National Committeeman Jed Adams that the hour has come for the democratic orsanization to rid itself of its handicaps in future campaigns.

Incidentally, it is not too early to remind the democrats of Texas that if they wish to hold a commanding influence in the national convention of 1928 they should pick their best men and women and their best will be their broadest men and women who are the best informed and send them to the national convention uninstructed and with power to act regardless of the wishes of some self-made political boss.

These rules wrecked the party in the city of San Francisco. They wrecked the party in the city of New York. Why commit suicide?

IT WAS JUST A CENSUS

SENATOR JOHN H. BAILEY of Dewitt county is the father of the house. That is, he was a member of the 23rd legislature, and when one considers that the next legislature will be the 40th, it has taken the Dewitt statesman many years to win the distinction of father of the house.

Despite this honor, Senator Bailey is a bachelor.

He voted against the amnesty bill. He followed the flag of the Fergusons in the late political washout. He visited the the other day and a friend asked him this question: "How did you vote in Dewitt county?" "Huh, "snorted the statesman, "We didn't vote, we just took a census of the county and turned it in."

And if the returns speak and tell the story, the father of the house didn't miss the mark a mile.

DAN MOODY BABIES

A WINNER must pay the price. Early in the campaign an enterprising manufacturer sent from his shop a Dan Moody cigar. Now that the returns are all in there will be a flood of Dan Moody babies, Mr. and Mrs. A. Patterson of Lamar county landed first with a boy. They christened the kid Dan Moody Patterson.

This is the beginning; the woods are full of them and 21 years hence there will be an army of Dan Moody Smiths, Dan Moody Joneses, Dan Moody Browns and all down the line of names in Texas. Why not confine the honor to the red-headed babies?

CHAPTER XXII

Coming down the steps from the street were two figures, a man and a girl. Bee looked, and recognized Delia, gently pretty in a light frock with outer coat thrown back and a snug little round hat—obviously a new hat. Behind her, carelessly at his ease, as always, swinging a bamboo cane, strolled Arthur Rockwell. They made their way to a table across the room. Arthur hung up his hat and cane, dropped into a chair, and began intently studying the menu. The choice of food was always a serious matter with him.

It was a moment later that Delia saw them. She smiled and waved her hand. Then, after hesitating and glancing at the absorbed Arthur, she got up and crossed to their table. "It's an age since I've seen you," she said, in an oddly effusive manner. "How have you been?"

"Oh, all right," replied Lou.

"And Bee, I haven't really thanked you for all you did—"

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled Bee. "I mean getting me the job. It's really pretty good, you know. The work is interesting. Lots of life about the place. Energy and snap. They're starting things on a tremendous scale. I'm quite a part of it already. And Mr. Kendall is awfully kind and nice." Mr. Kendall was Fred.

It wasn't the Delia of a week or so back. This was a guardedly smiling girl whose eyes studied their faces as she spoke. Those eyes fell now on Bee's apron.

"Well," said Bee dryly, "it helps out."

Arthur saw them now, and nodded, off-hand. "Come, dear," he called to Delia, "you havn't told me what you want to eat."

It was nothing, that "dear;" you heard the word everywhere about the Village. But at the sound, Delia's lids fluttered downward and a touch of color crept into her cheeks. "Well—" she began; then: How awfully nice to have seen you!"

"Look in at the room some evening," said Lou cheerfully.

"I will. Of course I simply don't seem able to get any time to myself at all." She laughed a little. "We just must have a visit. You girls were so kind. Are you going to Provinceton this summer?"

"I haven't the remotest idea where I'm going," said Bee. "Are you?"

"Well, I'll be working, of course. But"—she squared her slim shoulders—"Arthur has a little shack down there you know. I—I should be able to run down week-ends. It'll be nice. I've never seen Provincetown. . . . Coming, dear!"

She moved back across the room.

"Curious," observed Lou, looking after her. "Self-consctous, isn't she?"

"Lou,"—Bee was thinking intently—"she doesn't know."

"No. Obviously."

"And he'll let her go on—"

"Certainly. When he's ready for the next thing, he'll simply flit. You know Arthur. He'd never stand for scenes."

"We could hardly butt in."

"No. Hardly."

"Too bad," said Bee. Then: "I wish to high heaven I could see Provincetown on my itinerary some time in these next few months! Or Central America! Or any place!"

April came, and with it the breath of spring that brings to the city each year a gentle sense of quickening life. The dusty shrubbery in the little triangular park and the one remaining tall tree at the northern end were budding pathetically. Over in Washington Square the hurdy-gurdies were grinding out their staccato melodies while swarms of Italian children played about. There were days of warmth and languor when the thoughts of those young painters and poets and playwrights and designers of scenery whose lives so vividly flavor and color the life of the Village were bent eagerly on the coming June migration to Provincetown, that other huddled little Greenwich Village out at the seagrit tip of Cape Cod. Pretty summery things began to appear in the shop windows uptown. One after another the theatres were closing. Each day the papers printed long lists of all the important and self-important persons who were sailing on the great liners that steamed so majestically down the harbor, out past the now somewhat ironic statue of Liberty, bound for those lands where the individual may yet taste a measure of freedom.

With the two girls in the little flat on Christopher street life went on without interesting change. Bee found no opening as an actress. Even in the field of "summer stock" nothing offered that promised a reasonable livelihood. So she kept on at the Peacock Feather, and made over her clothes of the summer before.

RADIO IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM.—Broadcasting was much delayed in Sweden. The government looked upon this new means of communication with suspicion. Many reasons were advanced why Sweden ought to be spared chaos in the air. And it wa sonly two years ago that the opposition broke down and the example of other European countries was followed by Sweden.

Illegal sets had been generally used previous to the official establishment of broadcasting. There are now 200,000 licensed sets in use and a new Super Daventry station is soon to be opened in Motala, a central city in Sweden, which will be able to reach two-thirds of the listeners-in throughout the country. The annual fee for a listen-in in Sweden is about $2.25.

PEERESS FEARING BURIAL ORDERS HER THROAT CUT

BELFAST.—Following the funeral of Alice Florence Lady Garvagh, widow of the 3rd Baron Garvagh, it was announced that the directions of her will had been carried out. She directed in her will that before her burial every precaution should be taken to ascertain that she was really dead, "and for this purpose I direct that my throat shall be cut from ear to ear, and that particular care should be taken that the jugular vein is well severed." She further desired that her funeral should be conducted with the utmost simplicity and that "no one need follow me to my grave except a clerk to see that I am decently buried."

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Mothers, Stop Treating Your 17-Year-Old Daughters Like Children—Recognize the Fact Girls of Today Are Going to Have Beaux Whether You Forbid It or Not—Open Your Doors to Boys and Keep Your Girl From Danger.

I get hundreds of letters from young girls that tell the same tale of woe and ask the same question. These correspondents, in effect, say this:

"I am 16 or 17 years old and my mother won't let me go to parties with boys or permit any boys to come to the house. She treats me as if I was only 5 years old and had no right to any pleasure or liberty. I feel that this is very cruel and unjust. Under the circumstances do you think it is any harm for me to meet boys off the sly and go out with them without my mother knowing of it?"

A proper moralist would, no doubt, lecture these little girls on the wickedness of deceiving their mothers and tell them that mother always knows best and should always be implicitly obeyed.

As a matter of fact, a mother who takes this attitude toward her young daughter and who tries to rule her with a rod of iron is just as silly and knows just as little of life as the girl possibly can, so my words today are not to daughter, but to mother.

The first thing I want to say to mothers is that in their nearly grown daughters it is a condition and not a theory that confronts them.

Very likely it is better that a girl shouldn't have any beaux or any thought of a beau until she is a grown and mature woman. Very likely she should devote her mind to study instead of having her attention distracted by boys. Very likely it is best for her to spend her time in the bosom of her family and never go out anywhere except with papa or mamma. We won't waste time disputing those issues.

The point is that daughter is going to have beaux. Her mind is full of boys. She is going to indulge in the pleasures that other girls indulge in, and if you don't let her do it openly she is going to do it secretly. If you don't let her have boys come to the house she is going to meet them on the street corners.

Now, mother of Mary and Sally and Jennie, which do you prefer? Which do you consider the safer course?

Of course, you will say that you have brought up your children to obey and that you are going to enforce discipline in your home. Possibly. But you are not a secret service agent who can trail Mary or Sally or Jennie every minute of the time; and you may be very sure that the second your back is turned and your watch relaxed your outwardly obedient little daughter is doing exactly as she pleases and doing it with twice the vim and zest simply because it is a stolen pleasure.

Nine-tenths of the trouble between parents and children arises out of the fact that fathers and mothers simply cannot realize that their children grow up and arrive at man's or woman's estate. Therefore, they cannot bring themselves to accord to their adult sons and daughters the liberty of action that is their right.

In a mother's eyes a daughter remains an infant until she gets married. To a man his son is a boy even after he grows a beard. They do not recognize that this age is a forcing house in which children come to an early maturity.

The girl of 17 today is more sophisticated than her mother was at 23. She is more hard-boiled than her grandmother is at 63. Hence it is absurd to treat her as if she were a baby, and mothers would save themselves many heartaches if they would simply face the fact and deal with their daughters on a grown-up instead of a kindergarten plan.

The universal wail of mothers is that their daughters don't confide in them; that they tell their secrets and go to strangers for advice. But it never seems to occur to the mother that the reason her daughter does not have heart-to-heart talks with her is because the girl knows that mother will treat her as if she were a little girl in pinafores, and will veto everything she wants to do.

There is small encouragement to tell your hopes and plans to a person who is going to knock every one of them and forbid you to do the thing you want to do and tell you how generally silly and foolish you are.

DOROTHY DIX.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

HIDE ME

Love, I ask for only this:
When some grief has found me,
When some other joy I miss.
Put your arms around me.
Hide me from too hot a sun
Till the torrid day is done,
If the task too greatly tride me,
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Hide me from the worlds unkind
That the other fling me,
From the troubled heart and mind,
That the world may bring me.
Hide me from the dark of night,
Till I see the dawning light
With no shining star to guide me,
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Love need never give me gold
Not for gold we hunger
When the hours have made me old,
You can make me younger.
Hide me from the night of years
Hide me from the foolish fears
What befall me, what betide me
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Hide me from the world's alarms,
From the clash and clatter;
In the shelter of your arms
Nothing else will matter.
Hide me from the weary strife,
Hide me from the hurt of life;
You can give the peace denied me
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

MOSQUITO-HATING FLOWER

One of the tallest stories emanating from the Real Astate State is that there is an island among the Keys that has no mosquitos on it, owing to the presence of a mysterious flower distilling a cintronella odor so heavy that no mosquito valuing its life would venture on the island. As mosquitos are the bane of most places, Florida not excepted, a government entomologist investigated. There were indeed no mosquitos on the island so he collected every plant and had them identified by botanists. No unusual flowers were found, so the bug-ologist, thinking he must have missed some thing went back again. The reception committee of ten million hungry skeeters met him at the dock. The reason?— the wind was blowing the first time.

Now what do you know about that?

Answer to yesterday's questions.

1. Sugar maple is tapped in fall, when the sap is descending.
2. Turpentine is wielded by pines, especially those of the southern coastal plain.
3. Cedars from which cedar oil is obtained are common in the U. S. A. east of the Mississippi, especially the middle Atlantic states.
4. The parlor rubber plant was at one time used as a source of rubber, but is worthless compared to the Brazilian Havea rubber tree.
5. Sorghum yields only syrups, not granular sugars.
6. Saccharine is not only manyfold more sweet than ordinary sugar but is not fattening and hence recommended to persons dieting to reduce.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

LEO

Today's planetary aspects are variable. In the early hours and until noon, they are negative. In the afternoon, they are adverse. After sundown, the assume a vry favorabl charactr. It cannot, in any sense, be considered a propitious occasion for any undertaking, or for the carrying out o any radical change. On the contrary, it would be politic to attend only to customary duties in the customary way and, all the time, to guard against impulse. The evening offers exceptionally auspicious omens for those "in love' 'and if a 'troth be plighted" under such conditions, only happiness awaits the "plighters."

Children born today will, during infancy, enjoy normal health and the few minor ailments from which they may suffer will readily yield to ordinary remedies. Just prior, however, to the attainment of adulthood, they will experience a grave illness, that will demand skillful treatment and more usual care. These children will be tractable and obedient. They will, however, show more evidences of slyness than of frankness. They will not be very enthusiastic students, but their inherent ability will enable them to "pass muster." They will lack sincerity and their friends will be few. Their tastes, as they develop, will be more artistic than material.

If today is your birthday, you strive for culture, and possess refined tastes and high ideals, although you lack the perseverance to attain the latter. You are shrewd and superficially intellectual, but possess very little profound knowledge. You, however, generally succeed in making a good impression, as no one can deny that you are both just and generous. You are not egotistical, although self-opinionated. You are, at times, pliable, while at other times, you are wilful. People look upon you as a good mixer, and you can easily adapt yourself to new circumstances of conditions. You have a host of friends, especially among the members of your own sex, and they generally appraise you as you wish to be appaised, and not in accordance with positive values. Your family ties mean much to you, and in your home you are seen at your best.

Some Scientific Observtions to Sunny, My Princess Charming.
By Hers-To-Command.

Let other fellows seek the Pole
And the Auroro Borelis;
That seems to me a petty goal,
I say that wholly without mailce,
For 'tis not given every one
To do the thing that I have done.

Let other fellows sail away
To pdunge in equatorial jungle;
When asked to join I said: "Nay, nay!
Far off I do not need to roam;
I'll do exploring here at home!"

I found the going hard and rough:
You were so frigid and forbidding,
I had to use my hottest stuff
To thaw out your reserve no kidding.
NO Polar expedition had
A tougher ob than this young lad!

Yes, Sunny, dear, it was some task;
I doubt if ever there were greater,
But now within your smiles I bask,
My arm about your slim equator!
Let others take the Polar hike;
The tropic zone is what I like!!!

Yes, Indeed.

July 11: Everybody sense to admire me. I must be handsome, for the ladies, especially, smile at me. When a man looks at me he rubs his chin and talks hold of his necktie. I wonder why that is?

July 16: I like it fine here, and am getting lots of attention.

July 18: I think all the girls are in love with me. I'm not sure, but it looks that way.

July 19: I'm sure they are. Everyone of them opens her vanity case and powders her nose when they see me. They smile at me, too, and lots of them use their lipstick and "doll-up" for me.

July 22: I heard someone say that it means seven years bad luck to break a miror. I wonder whatt hey mean?

July 23: Have found out! A soda clerk rammed a mop handle through me. It wes hard luck for him because the boss fired him. But what about me? Seven years bad luck is right, for I'm completely ruined. I don't mind it so much for myself, but when I think how heartbroken the girls will be, it makes me feel badly. Well, maybe in seven years I'll be back in the drug store!

I'M THE GINK

I'm the ginkette who is always "going home to mother." When my husband disagrees with me I tune up and sob that I am homeward bound. I know that married life is sure to have some spats, but I blow up and weep. Of course I know such a weepy, weak attitude is not at all pleasant. It is sure to cause a feeling of repulsion but I just don't care. "You can't talk like that to me. I'm going home to mother."

STATUE OF FOUNDER
First White Man to View Site of Chicago Was a Priest.

CHICAGO.—The first white man and likewise the first Christian missionary to view the site of Chicago, was honored today by a bronze statue depicting Father Marquette holding high a cross. Louis Joliet, fellow explorer, and an Algonquin Indian, are at his side.

The last months of the explorer's life were spent in a little cabin on the Chicago river, not far from the site where his statue was unveiled today. The cabin was five miles upstream from the spot where Marquette reared the first place of Christian worship within the present limits of Chicago, then an Indian hunting ground.

WHAT MIGHT BE CALLED

The wharf at New Orleans was crowded with foot travelers, vehicles and freight piles. A brawny Irishman, driving a truck, locked wheels with another truck operated by a negro.

As the two trucks jammed the negro opened his mouth in profane and highly disrespectful protest. But before he had freed six words of his speech unconsciousness shut off further utterances.

For the Irishman, with one flying leap, had reached the earth. His left hand closed on the negro's ankle and as the latter was jerked violently into space the enemy's right fist landed a wing shot squarely on the point of his jaw, and for the tim being he knew no more.

Ten minutes later the victim half opened his eyes. A policeman was bending over him, applying first aid.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded the officer.

"A white man hit me," said the darky. "an' I wants him arrested."

"What's his name?"

"I don't know whut his name is, boss—never seed him befo' in my life."

"Well, then, what does he look like?"

"I don't rightly know dat, neither. Hit happen' so quick-lak I didn't got a good look at 'im."

"Then how do you expect me to find him if you can't describe him?" asked the puzzled policeman.

"Boss, dat ain't goin' be no trouble," stated the negro. "You jest go look for leans!"

Sugar Beets in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska.—An experiment in raising sugar beets will be mae in Alaska.

The department of agriculture and the Alaska railroad will co-operate in the effort. The experiment will be made in the Matanuska and Tanama valleys north of here. Cost of production and quality of product will largely determine the future of the venture.

BEST SCHOOLING FOR SCREEN

HOLLYWOOD.—What schooling best fits youth for a career on the screen? Inquiry among players at the Fox studio showed that of 31 actors and actress, nine had university education, four high school training, five only elementary schooling, three private tutoring and two convent bred. Two others gave their service and travel in the army as their best education.

SCENES IN LONDON

HOLLYWOOD.—Scenes of London from Mayfair to the Limehouse district will be shown in Dorothy Gish's picture "London," which has just been completed there by Herbert Wilcox for the British National Productions. This is the first of three pictures for which the younger Gish was loaned by Inspiration Pictures.

WOMEN INVENTORS

LONDON, (AP)—More women than ever are trying their hands at inventing, and during 1925 there were 608 applications for patents from women inventors against 493 in 1924. The total number of applications for 1925 was 33,003 or 1633 more than in the previous year.

ASTRONOMY AT OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Cal.—One of the most miportant municipal enterprises in Oakland is astronomy. In altitude, at least, the city owned observatory has been put above everything else for it stands on a high hill just outside the paving.

Anthony Chabot founded it in 1884 with the gift of an instrument—then considered large—and a sizeable financial donation. The observatory has the regulation revolving dome, and now possesses a 20-inch telescope and much other valuable equipment.

As a part of the public schol system it serves as a class room not only for the school children but also for thousands of grownups—members of clubs and others of the general public who are becoming as familiar with the milky way as are residents of some cities with the landscapes in their own townships.

HORSE DRAWN TAXIS

NEW YORK.—In sharp contrast to New York's variety of rapid transit systems and taxis, horse-drawn vehicles, both the two and four-wheeled types, continue a picturesque feature of the busiest metropolis. Many of the hansoms and carriages are owned by their drivers and all seem to find their calling remuneratively attractive. Although the toll is almost double that of taxi cabs the swinging, horse-drawn vehicles have not lost their appeal to residents and visitors.

REAL PLANE IN SET.

HOLLYWOOD.— Make-believe was aided by reality in "The Great Deception" when a real airplane was incorporated into a set by Robert Kane. Ben Lyon and Aileen Pringle, seated in the cockpit of the plane, were showered with dirt and sand, also very real, to stimulate the smoke of battle.

BUFFS WALLOP SPUDDERS 9-5

Houston Club Biffs Fussell And Turns Against Hodge

HOUSTON, Aug. 3.—3.—With two big innings the Buffs were able to defeat the Spudders 9 to 5, here today. Neither Fussell or Littlejohn, starting pitchers, were able to weather the limit.

George Brovold, substituting for Johnny Kane at short handled 11 fielding chances and had three hits. The Spuds outhit the Buffs but were unable to bunch their blows.

Houston tore into Fussell with a rush in the fourth, scoring four runs before he knew what it was all about. Bravold opened with a single and went to third on Peel's single to right. Peel halted at second. Powell forced Peel at third and then Kearns doubled to left center, scoring both Miller and Powell. Vigare grounded out to second. Schang doubled to left, scoring Kearns. Littlejohn grounded out to Benton at third.

Miller's single in the sixth, two infield outs and a low throw to first by DeFate on Vigare's grounder to short gave Houston another run.

Spud Rally Means Nothing

Wichita Falls menaced in the seventh, scoring four runs but the Buffs charged right back in the same inning for an equal number of tallies. LaFayette opened the stanza with a double to right center. Query singled, scoring him. Query was thrown out at second. Then Lapan, batting for Fussell, came through with a single to center. Metzler followed with a triple, scoring Lapan and Littlejohn, pitcher, was derricked. Jacobus, the spitballer, went to the mound Benton greeted him with a triple, naturally scoring Metzler. Jenkins singled to center, scoring Benton. Then Jake settled down with no further trouble. He was invincible the rest of the way.

Shift Fails

Ross succeeded Fussell on the hill. The new left hander was wild. He walked Jacobus. Bailey sacrificed. Hodge was rushed into the relief by Manager Carl Williams. Brovold beat out an infield hit and Jacobus took third. Peel tripled to center, scoring both Bailey and Brovold. Miller bounded to Benton and was safe when the latter fumbled. Peel scored on the play. Powell grounded out to second. Kearns singled to center, scoring Miller. Vigare flied to right.

STEERS DEFEAT WACO

WACO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Dallas Steers opened their series here today by taking the first game, 7 to 5. Home runs by Foster in the second with two men on, and by Woeber in the third with two on, gave the Steers enough runs to win. The Cubs drove Foster from the mound in the fifth, but could not hit Sutherland, who replaced Foster, often enough to count. Cannon relieved Tuero in the fifth and held the Steer attack. Score:

CHANNEL ATTEMPT FAILS

New Rochelle Swimmer Falls Short of Victory by Two Miles

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Miss Clarabelle Barrett of New Rochell, N. Y., failed in her attempt to swim the English channel. She got within two miles of Cape Gris Nez, France, when she had to be taken out of the water. She was in an exhausted condition.

Miss Everett started her swim from here Monday morning at 8 o'clock. It was 5:30 o'clock this morning when she was forced to give up the swim that no woman has ever yet made. She was in the water for 21 hours and 35 minutes.

Will Dempsey Be Same Ruthless Fighting Machine Without Jack Kearns In His Corner?

By ROBERT EDGREN

Now that Dempsey is actually on the ground training to fight again in defence of the heavyweight title, everyone is talking over the champion's former fights and trying to figure his condition and his chance with the young and vigorous contender, Tunney.

The other afternoon, on the way to see Tex Rickard, I happened to meet a friend of mine who was much around the Firpo camp before Dempsey and Firpo fought. Although an American, he lived many years in Latin countries and speaks Spanish perfectly.

"I'm going to tell you," he said, "something about the fight that you may have missed, and that I thought was very interesting. You remember what a bewildering first round that was, Dempsey down, and then Firpo down, fighting all over the ring like furies, Dempsey out between the ropes, climbing back, fighting desperately and keeping on fighting as both reeled along the ropes after the bell. I was sitting close to Firpo's corner. I could see everything. Dempsey reeled as he crossed the ring and they had his seat ready for him. He flopped into it, dazed and exhausted. His second scrambled into the ring, Jerry Luvadis dropped the bottle of smelling salts and it broke. Kerns struck Jerry for dropping the bottle, but he didn't waste a second looking for another. He leaned over instantly and rubbed the sponge he held into the mess of ammonia, broken glass and resin dust on the floor, and clapped the saturated sponge across Dempsey's nose. Dempsey jumped in, half strangled, but fumes cleared his head which was what Kearns wanted. Before the minute rest was up Dempsey was fresh and fit to fight again.

Firpo's Seconds Second Grade.

"But poor Firpo! That terrific round ended with Louis standing almost in his corner. He turned to sit down, and his inexperienced seconds were so excited that they jammed his revolving seat and couldn't turn it around. He had to wait several seconds. When he sat down one of his seconds was busy trying to get the cover off a can of salts or some reviving agent they had on the floor at the edge of the ring. They hadn't loosened it in advance, and it stuck. The second couldn't get the cover off. Meanwhile one second jumped up and down and shrieked to Luis that he was winning, winning, winning. The other, his millionaire friend from the Argentine, danced on his toes in front of Luis and said excitedly: Ah, Louis! You are grand! Wonderful! You are champion! I kiss you!

"He leaned over and kissed poor Firpo, who was dazed and sick from the fierce fighting and the knockdowns, and who needed the smelling salts almost as much as Dempsey. Then he drew back and said: 'I go now to cable the news!'

"I heard all that, understanding Spanish. The second actually leaped from the ring and left Firpo sitting there, alone. And then the bell rang, and poor Luis, who had been given no attention at all, and probably was even more bewildered by the excited action of his seconds, got up and moved out, dazed, to meet Dempsey. No wonder he was knocked out a few seconds later.

"I went down town to see Firpo that night, after the fight, and talked with him. I asked him what blows of Dempsey's hurt him. He showed me his body under the heart, covered with bruises, and said Dempsey's blows there had hurt him very badly. The blows on the jaw, that knocked him down, were not so bad, but the body blows, Firpo said, were terrible. He was very much discouraged. It was loss of confidence, a broken heart, you might say, that made Luis go home and neglect training and give up his ambition to win the championship.

"Firpo wasn't 'dumb,' as people said here. His ignorance of English may have given that impression. He was rather keen, in fact. When he was first matched with Dempsey he protested to Rickard and said he wasn't ready to fight the champion. Luis said he knew he wasn't good enough yet to fight Dempsey, in spite of his superior strength and weight, because he didn't know enough about boxing. He thought that in another year, perhaps, his chance might be good, but they wouldn't let him wait.

Panhandle Plays Firemen Sunday

Baseball fans will not be entirely deprived of their favorite sport during the absence of the Spudders, as there will be a first class diamond contest at Spudder Park Thursday afternoon. The baseball team of the Wichita Falls Fire Department will battle a nine-inning contest with the Panhandle Refining Company team, the game being called promptly at four o'clock.

Proceeds of the game will go into the Firemen's relief fund, which fund is maintained for aiding firemen who are injured or crippled in line of duty. There are more than $2,000 in this fund at the present time, but little has been added to it for some time and the Fire boys feel that they should keep the fund increasing, and are staging the game for that purpose.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Are the big league pennant races IN?

Are the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees set to hold the lead to the end of the season?

It is past the day when experts can dope out the race (they did such a beautiful job last spring). But onthe face of it one is inclined to believe that at least once race is settled—that in the American league.

A lead of eight or nine games at this time of the year is a terrific one. The Yankees, to lose that lead, must go into a slump that will drop them to a gait far below .500 per cent, while one of the two-three clubs puts on a spurt of .600 ball or better.

It can be done, but isn't generally.

The Pittsburgh Pirates may be in and out a couple of times before the close of the campaign. This is typical of the Pittsburgh team. But the world's champions should finish on top. They now have the punch and consistent playing they lacked most of the season. Woz Kremer seems in better shape and therefore increases the efficiency of the mound staff.

The Cincinnati Reds alone still hold the potential power to overthrow the kings. The Chicago Cubs, second choice at this time, seem to be weakening.

* * * *

Going on the assumption that the action of the New York boxing commission in granting Tex Rickard permission to hold a Dempsey-Tunney bout in that state clears the way for the bout one can now shed a few tears of pity for Chicago, Ill., and the west in general.

Illinois almost had a heavyweight championship battle—the first in 40 years. Illinois, also, almost had the prestige such a bout (while New York languished in agony) would have given it.

But apparently New York has triumphed.

As a result of the rowing over the matter by various and assorted persons interested in the bout and the proceeds boxing in Illinois has already suffered a blow. This at the tender age of a few months.

It was too much to expect, possibly, that the Illinois boxing officials, promoters, managers and fighters were sincere enough in their love for the game to start out in a decisive way to establish boxing on a clean and unfettered basis.

Speaking of the Indians, Howard Ehmke, now with the Athletics, has pitched tough ball against the Clevelanders this season. When the Athletics failed to get a run behind him in the second game of a doubleheader with the Tribesmen recently it was the third game which Ehmke has lost to Cleveland this season because his teammates failed to give him a single tally to work on.

While he was with the Red Sox early in the season he hurled scoreless ball against the Indians for eight innings and allowed them three hits. The Tribe, however, put over three runs in the ninth and won the game. The Sox failed to score.

A week previous to his last appearance against the Indians, Ehmke, then with the Mackmen, held the Tribe scoreless until the ninth, only to see the game go glimmering in that inning through a six-run rally by the Cleveland club. Again his teammates failed to score a run.

Dempsey-Tunney Plans Mark Time

Rickard, At Standstill, On Silent Wait to See Champ

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With his plans for the Dempsey-Tunney battle temporarily halted today by the state athletic commission pending the issuance of licenses to the principals, Tex Rickard tonight awaited the arrival of the champion before making his next move.

Dempsey, speeding eastward from St. Louis, is expected to reach New York tomorrow afternoon to carry into the camp of the commission his skirmish for a license to box Tunney on September 16 at the Yankee stadium. Rickard plans to meet the champion and arrange for the latter to file his license application so that it may be formally acted upon by the licensing powers at their regular meeting next Tuesday. Tunney's application will be submitted the same time.

Sign This Week

Tunney and Dempsey also are slated to go through the formality of signing final contracts with Rickard for the fight before the end of the week. The promoter's agreements with them now are in the form of options on their fighting services for this year. Rickard's arrangements here meanwhile have been stymied by the commission until the all-important confab of the license authorities. The promoter attended today's meeting with the idea of obtaining sanction for his proposal for a scale of ticket prices ranging as high as $50 for the battle, but he was told no such details could be discussed until after Dempsey and Tunney have obtained their licenses. The present limit for fight tickets here is $27.50 including the tax.

Tickets Printed

"I've had the backs of my tickets—some 80,000 of them— printed any way," declared Rickard. "They have nice pictures of Dempsey and Tunney on them and say its for the heavyweight championship of the world. Outside of that I don't know what else I'll have printed on them.

"The only thing I'm sure of is that I'll hold the fight this year somewhere, even if I have to take it out in a desert."

MARION SUBPOENAS HEAVYWEIGHT KING.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, late today was served with a subpoena to appear in Marion (Indianapolis) superior court on August 13 to show cause why he should not be restrained from all ring action pending the clearing up of a contract he is alleged to have had with the Chicago Coliseum club.

The move was taken to prevent the title bout with Gene Tunney in New York September 16, the Chicago coliseum club contending in a complaint which also was served on the champion that it had been under contract to box Harry Wills, negro challenger.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The New York Giants split a twin program with the Chicago Cubs today, winning the opener by 5 to 4 and losing the closing game by 5 to 3. Catcher Paul Florence of New York was overcome by the heat and had to leave in the eighth inning of the first game. Cooney won the second game for Chicago in the sixth, crashing a home with two men on base. Bush had shut the Giants out until the ninth when a misplay and a double paved the way for the New York run. REDSKINS DROP BRACE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Boston broke Cleveland's winning streak of seven straight games today when it won both games of a twin bill, 8 to 7 in ten innings and two to nothing. The first game, unique in that Boston scored six runs in the fourth inning and Cleveland seven in the same round, went to Boston as a result of Wingfield's effective relief pitching, and the timely hitting of Tobin. The second game was a pitchers' battle between Zahniser and Shaute but the latter did not settle down until after the first inning in which he allowed three hits and passed a batter. Burns made four two-base hits increasing his total for the season to 49. Score:

Spurred on by his defeat by Vincent Richards in the Metropolitan championship, last Sunday, The Bulletin says the national champion has virtually made up his mind to abandon all thought of opening his new play in New York until after the national championships at Forest Hills, September 13, and devote his entire time to an intenisve tennis campaign.

Red Devils Lose to Lee Spudders

The Red Devils joined the City junior baseball league Tuesday morning and gave the Lee Street Spudders a hard game of big league baseball. After five innings of scoreless ball the Spudders made a couple of errors and let in three runs but came back in the last of the sixth and tied the score.

The score remained tied until the first of the eighth when two singles and a double by the Devils scored them two more runs. Again the Spudders hit hard and often for six runs and played tight ball the rest of the game.

The first half of the ninth the Devils fought like the devils they are and brought in two more runs but were unable to tie or win the game. The Spudders won, 9 to 7.

Better watch out Bearcats or the Red Devils will get you Friday. The Times are leading the league with three wins and none lost.

CINCY COPS COUPLE

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—After losing six straight games in Boston this season, Cincinnati shook off its Boston jinx to take a double header from the Braves here today 1 to 0 and 3 to 2. Mays held Boston in check during the first game, with the only run coming in the opening inning after an infield hit, a bad throw by Pitcher Wertz and successive sacrifices. Two singles in the eighth, an error by Burrus and Pipp's sacrifice allowed two runs to give the Reds the lead and the second game. Moore Braves' second sacker, injured a leg muscle during the second game and was replaced by Gautreau. Score:

SOX CAN'T HAVE TINY

Ables Refuses Chicago Club's Advances for Bear Hurler

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, after a relief pitcher, cannot have "Tiny" Owens, one of the San Antonio Bears' star hurlers, at least not until after Texas league season ends.

To the Chicago club's bid, President Harry Ables replied:

"Texas league pennant means as much to San Antonio as American league pennant to Chicago. Sorry we cannot let you have Owens now."

Ted Blankenship broke a thumb recently, handicapping the White Sox pitching staff.

Thus did Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis star, explains her desertion from the ranks of the amateurs and her determination to play primarily for money and only secondarily for fun and glory.

"I have always wanted to travel and to see the world," Mlle. Lenglen told a correspondent for the Associated Press. "Now I have an opportunity to make enough money to do so.

Paul P. Steed, formerly in charge of the Simms Oil Company in the Wichita Falls District, has been chosen president of the Reiter-Foster Corporation to suceed W. A. Reiter, recently made chairman of the board, according to advice from Tulsa. HELEN OF AMERICA

Helen Wills Better Known Than Helen of Troy

LONDON.—"Helen of America" is the title which British newspapers have given Helen Wills and she is apparently a much better known woman in Great Britain than Helen of Troy.

Every detail of the young American's costume is described by the London press and drawings and photographs of Miss Wills are almost as numerous as those of Miss Lenglen.

A DOUBTFUL RECEPTION

Former French Spy Fears Berlin Engagement

PARIS.—Mlle. Mistinguett, the music hall star, has some qualms about fulfilling an engagement in Berlin. The reason is that, during the war, she undertook a number of special inquiries for the French counter-spying service and succeeded in extracting same valuable information, notably in Switzerland and Spain.

The German papers, it appears, are not promising "Miss" a very enthusiastic reception and the French "anecdotic" and theatrical papers are inclined to idissuade the Mourlin Rouge star from making the voyage.

"Women have grown worse in the last 50 years, while the attitude of men toward religion has improved," declared the canon, who is still preaching although he is 80 years old. "I think many modern women have too material and artificial an outlook on like—perhaps its is the reaction from their greater freedom."

COOLEST PLACE

Aquarium Is Naturally Cool Spot for Visitors.

NEW YORK.—What is the coolest place in New York on a hot day is a moot question, but the ancient Aquarium in Battery park ranks along with the "refrigerated" movies palaces. The dim light and scores of glass tanks in which fish dart about in green water give one the impression of being actually in the sea depths. For some reason the crowds which visit the fish are never noisy—perhaps out of the unconscious respect to the memory of long-legged singers who drew other-day New Yorkers to the building when it was Castle Garden, first home of grand opera in the city.

EXPECTS RAIL BILL TO PASS

Mayfield Optimistic For Measure Freeing Intra-State Lines

AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Confidence his senate bill 750, giving existing railways right to extend their lines without authority of the interstate commerce commission, will be enacted at the short session of congress which opens in December was expressed here Tuesday by United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield. He recently returned to his home from Washington.

The bill is now in a house committee. "When it is submitted to the house, it will carry by a more than two-to-one vote," Mayfield predicted. He pointed out that the calendar does not change between the long and short seasons.

"At the time the bill was introduced, there were pending before the interstate commerce commission applications to build in Texas 981 miles, involving expenditure of $40,000,000. The commission has since granted certificates to the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf to build into west Texas and to the Southern Pacific to extend into the Rio Grande valley.

"Of course, the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf has no existing lines, and would have required authority from the commission even though my bill had been in effect.

"Texas is the only state in the United States where rail expansion is sought on a large scale. The enactment of senate bill 750 would speed up development."

Extension of the Katy to the Texas-Mexico line will be discussed.

WICHITA FREIGHT RECORDS SMOKED; GRAIN RESPONSIBLE.

All previous records for this time of the year are beaten by the Wichita Falls and Southern railway freight, both in and out of Wichita Falls, according to officials of the road. Grain, especially wheat, is responsible. The regular tonnage of oil has kept well up to the average. An average of ten cars of wheat per day is being handled by the local office on in bound stuff alone, while the exportation figures show slightly less than that amount.

W. F. & S. SETTLES INTO NEW HEADQUARTERS HERE.

The Wichita Falls and Southern railway offices are now conveniently established in their new building at the tracks on Tenth street, having started moving from the old frame structure east of the tracks on the first of July. All the offices of the road are now established in their new quarters, and are functioning thoroughly after being torn up some from the moving. The new two-story building is built of brick and concrete, designed for maximum lighting through many large windows

Located in the new building are the general offices; offices of P. H. Sullivan, freight agent; H. L. Hollister, traffic manager; O. B. Womack, auditor; L. N. Bassett, assistant manager and J. M. Dearman, trainmaster and chief dispatcher.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Corn was king on the board of trade. December delivery of corn commanded 90¼ cents a bushel, the highest price yet this season. Talk was current that owing to lack of adequate moisture the new corn crop as a whole had been adversely affected at the critical stage of development.

Closing quotations on corn were strong at the day's top figures, 1⅛ to 2c net higher.

Wheat finished easy, unchanged to ¼c lower, oats unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions varying from 32c decline to 10c advance.

According to crop experts, the rain record throughout the corn belt has been unsatisfactory for a month past, and in this connection one leading authority was out today with a summary which attracted wide notice. The statement said that rain fall in July is very largely the decisive factor in corn production, moisture and moderate temperature being essential at the time of tassel and silk.

Stimulated further by possibility of another hot wave, active purchasing of future deliveries of corn took place, and there was also lively undoing of recent spread trades between corn and wheat. The undoing of these spreads today added to the volume of demand for corn, and meanwhile brought about selling of wheat.

Wheat values averaged lower, largely on account of a setback in Liverpool quotations and because of slowness of export call for North American wheat. Increasing supplies at the more northerly domestic winter wheat terminals tended to make buyers cautious and so likewise did assertions that the peak of demand from domestic millers had been reached.

Provisions started lower, but rallied with corn.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lower quotations at Liverpool, together with continued notice of bearish estimates of the domestic winter crop did a good deal to bring about a fresh setback in wheat values today during the early dealings. Wheat buying expanded on declines in price, however, and helped to rally the market. Opening ¼ to 1⅛c lower, wheat recovered in some cases to the same as yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to ¼c off and later keeping within fractional limits.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Uncertainty as to the showing of next Monday's government crop report and conflicting weather and crop news from the south, slowed down business somewhat in the cotton market here today. Fluctuations were comparatively narrow and irregular, but after selling at 17.72 early December worked off to 17.61, and closed at 17.66, with the general market closing steady at net declines of five to seven points.

The opening was steady at an advance of eight points on August but generally four to seven points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. The initial offerings were readily absorbed on reports of further showers in the eastern belt, and prices soon rallied to about yesterday's closing figures on covering combined with some fresh buying by the trade and commission houses.

The bulge carried October up to 17.75 and January to 17.74, but at these figures offerings increased as if influenced by reports of better weather in the southwest, or a private crop report placing the condition at 68.8 and the indicated yield at 15,550,000 bales. Offerings were not heavy or aggressive, however, and after selling off to 17.63 for October and 17.66 for January, or nine to 11 points net lower, the market steadied on renewed covering which was probably promoted by firmness in the stock market and continued bad crop reports from east of the river. Last prices showed recoveries of four to five points from the lowest.

Two other private crop reports were issued during the day, one of them making the condition 65.8 and the indicated yield 14,803,000 bales, while the other placed the condition at 71.3 but the crop figures at only 14,145,000 bales, which was regarded as considerably out of line with most of the reports previously issued. Conflicting crop advices were received from the southwest, some indicating that the crop was improving as a result of clearer and warmer weather while others reiterated complaints of a poorly fruited plant or insect damage.

Exports today were 10,270 bales, making 16,093 so far this season. Port receipts 11,835. U. S. port stocks 886,964 bales.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 points on August, but generally 4 to 7 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. There were slight rallies immediately after the call on covering, but after selling up to 17.72 for December and 17.93 for March prices eased off slightly under realizing or liquidation with the market showing net losses of about 6 to 10 points at the end of the first half hour. Business was comparatively quiet and the trade seemed to be waiting for further weather developments or more conclusive crop reports from the south. A private report issued this morning placed the condition at 65.8 and the indicated crop at 14,803,000 bales, but the figures were without any apparent effect on themarket.

Another private report was issued later in the morning estimating the condition of the crop at 68.8 and the indicated yield at 15,500,000 bales. These figures combined with a more favorable weather outlook held buying in check, but offerings were light and the tone was fairly steady. December was selling around 17.70 at mid-day and the market was about 3 to 4 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The cotton market was decidedly quiet today and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. The fact that the next government report is due next Monday morning restricted all desire to trade.

The trend of prices was moderately downward owing to less favorable cables than due, the prospects for better weather in the belt and a rather large crop estimate issued during the morning by a private authority. After opening five points down the market rallied six to seven points on a little covering which developed a scarcity of offerings.

Later the market eased off, losing 1-1 to 13 points on the large crop estimate already referred to and the better weather prospects. The market ruled very quiet during the afternoon and always near the lows, and the close showed net losses for the day of seven to 11 points.

Two additional private crop reports were issued today, one making the condition 68.8 and the indicated crop 15,550,000 bales and the other making the condition 71.3 and the crop 14,145,000 bales.

The first trades showed losses of five points but the market promptly rallied to 17.68 for October, 17.56 for December and 17.53 for January, or five to seven points up from the opening. These prices were the high points of the day.

The market soon started to ease off and was on the downgrade most of the day except for a fair rally around mid-session until in the early afternoon October traded at 17.35, December at 17.43 and January at 17.42, or 11 to 13 points down from the highs. The close was near the low levels. Export for the day totaled 10,270 bales.

AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—P. B. Terrell o' Mount Pleasant, unsuccessful democratic candidate for land commissioner received more than 300,000 votes, "without making a speech, writing a letter, handing out a card, or leaving his home town, even to attend a picnic in his county," R. R. Ogden, Terrell's campaign manager, asserted Tuesday.

This statement was contained in a report of campaign expenses filed with the secretary of state.

Mr. Ogden said the large vote polled by Terrell was a "protest against perpetuating any man in public office."

Mr. Terrell expended $163.97, all of which was contributed, Mr. Ogden giving $123.97.

Cotton Condition Falls

DALLAS, Aug. 3.—A decrease in the condition of cotton as the result of insect depredations and heavy rains, accompanied by unseasonably cool weather, is shown in reports received by the department of public relations of the Southland Life Insurance company for the monthly crop report.

Money, although somewhat tight at present, shows signs of loosening with the slightest encouragement and this, of course, will be forthcoming should the state experience a return to seasonable and crop-producing weather in August.

Condition, estimated as of July 25:

Crop	Percent of normal	Same time last year
Cotton	75 per cent	75 per cent
Corn	70 per cent*	65 per cent
Vegetables	125 per cent*	85 per cent
Fruit	70 per cent*	85 per cent
Grass	150 per cent*	75 per cent

(*Increase in condition over last month.)

Wichita county reported conditions as excellent. Cotton progressing rapidly; good corn crop.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Common stock of the General Motors corporation continued its sensational advance on the New York stock exchange today, opening 4 points higher at 205 and quickly running up to a new record peak at 209½. The first sale was a block of 5,000 shares at 205 followed by a string of transactions totaling 9,300 shares.

Excited speculation in General Motors, which soared over 10 points to 211¼ before realizing sales temporarily checked the advance, overshadowed all other developments in the early trading. Strings of transactions running from 1,000 to 10,000 shares appeared on the tape at frequent intervals, total sales of this issue in the first half hour totaling nearly 100,000 shares. Yellow Cab, which is controlled by General Motors, was another spectacular feature, extending its early gain to 8 points before the first outburst of buying had spent itself. With the average of 20 leading railroad shares at the highest level since the war, fresh buying again was attracted into that group. Predictions of good business in the second half of the year by leading bankers and business men, stiffening gasoline prices and prospects of liberal "melon."

The scramble for the General Motors stock continued in the first hour of trading as a result of the reported statement of Thomas Cochran, partner of J. P. Morgan and company, who on his departure for Europe yesterday was quoted by Dow, Jones and company as saying that General Motors will steadily advance and "should and will" sell at least 100 points higher.

Wall Street was much puzzled by such a remark reported coming from a firm member of J. P. Morgan and company which has invariably declined to make statements on the course of the market.

General Motors in the first hour of trading which was very heavy rose to 211¼, after which it sold off on profit taking to 207.

Similar advices have been received in telegrams here by individuals.

Ho Hum, Skirts Almost to Knee Again This Fall

International Motif In Gowns American Women to Wear

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The American women of fashion will find an international motif in the gown she will wear this fall, from indications at the opening of the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' Fashion Review.

Russian, French, Italian and Czecho-Slovakia tendencies in the cut, cloth and trimming of many of the smartest gowns predominate in the first inkling the designers have allowed milady of the new styles.

Handsome embroidery after the manner of Cossack uniforms reflect the glitter that was once Russian; brilliant color, notably channel red and royal blue with elaborate beading, show the parisien influence, while the straight, tailored line for street wear is England's contribution.

Back, in rich materials such as brocade, flat crepes and chiffon velvets, are shown and a new coat-dress ensemble of black velvet trimmed with wide bands of white fox evoked enthusiasm. Skirts are short—almost to the knee—and tight; and many of the street dresses are sleeveless and cut low at the neck.

POLICE CHIEF

ally free of crime, and that the department was functioning as it should.

A round-table discussion followed, the upshot of which was that at least three out of five councilmen agreed that they desired Hodgins retention as chief of police, and a gentlemen's agreement to that effect was made.

Mayor Comments

In commenting on the decision following the meeting Mayor Shepherd stated that the police department had been under a continual strain for the last three months, knowing that its heads and members were under fire for alleged inefficiency. "In wiping the slate clean," he declared, "it is our belief that we will relieve the strain the department has been under and let it get down to work without the fear of constant bickering and criticism of its actions."

Tuesday's action by the city council marks the culmination of more than four months of action against the police department and department heads, following a number of burglaries of major proportions in the city last March. At that time resignation of the chief and other heads was demanded by a mass meeting of business men of the city. The city council took the matter under advisement and after a number of ups and downs the resignation of the chief for August 1 had been agreed upon.

Throughout the period of strain, however, and throughout the time at which criticism has been directed at his department Hodgins has stayed night and day at his desk at the city hall, smilingly answered complaints, and tried to work out an effective remedy for the city's police problems.

REPUBLICANS

and for the legal perpetuation of their party, is a thing unprecedented in American history, and I believe, sets a historic example of devotion to a political cause."

"This primary was held by the republicans at their own expense. Voluntary contributions from thousands of persons, volunteering of personal service and of premises and materials, made is possible. Election officers served without pay in practically all precincts and, in addition, helped pay for the election supplies.

Resents "Belittling."

"An attack upon and belittling of this primary has been made in resolutions adopted in Guadaloupe county at the behest of Congressman Wurzbach. He is the same person, who before the primary went about the state declaring that we did not intend to hold a primary and that we could not hold one in more than 20 counties, including the eleven in his district. He now declares we did not try to hold it in any but a few selected counties.

"Here are the facts, returns from official sources up today bring the results of the primary as held in 156 counties. Unofficial reports indicate that the primary was held in 34 other counties, making a total of 190 counties in which the first republican primary was held. I believe that even our democratic friends, who have had long experience with the primary will concede that this was a remarkable first-time effort, particularly since it was voluntarily financed.

The Guadaloupe Vote.

"The same resolutions referred to above declared that one eighth of the republican primary vote was cast in Guadaloupe county. The returns from that county so far indicate 120 votes cast in the Wurzbach-Knetsh race. The state total so far—and this is "not" yet completed shows 14,466 votes, and 10,627 for Haines, 3,739 for Scott. Guadaloupe county thus cast about one-thirteenth of the vote thus far counted. But this is not surprising or unprecedented politically, because Gaudaloupe county was the home of both the candidates in a majority contest.

"Regarding the total republican vote this comment seems pertinent. It is undobtedly much larger, in proportion to regular republican strength, than the primary vote cast by democrats in northern and western states where they are the mihority party but frequently carry the state. The minority part, especially where it is not reinforced by strength in any primary. This is generally known over the country."

DANIELS ASKS SALARY BOOST

Commissioner of Insurance Holds $4,000 Should Be $7,000

AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Increase of the commissioner of insurance's salary from $4,000 to $7,200 was urged Tuesday by Commissioner R. L. Daniel in submitting to the state board of control his budget estimates for the biennial starting September 1, 1927.

Mr. Daniel asked an appropriation of $112,900. The appropriation for the present biennial is $82,700.

The banking department requested appropriation of $380,900. Its last appropriation was $371,840.

In his letter, Mr. Daniel declared the present salary of the commissioner to be wholly inadequate.

He asked that the position of deputy commissioner abolished by the Thirty-ninth legislature be reinstated and its holder be paid $3,600 a year, that the commission be given a private secretary at $1,800; that the assistant actuary's salary be raised from $1,800 to $2,100, and that the department be given three certificates clerks, including two.

Urging the addition of certificate clerk, he recited that this year more than 70,000 insurance agent licenses have been issued and that from 20,000 to 25,000 more likely will be issued before end of the year.

Mr. Daniel said that Texas now stands sixth among all the states in the insurance field, and that receipts of the insurance department up to July 1 aggregated $2,247,235.54, compared with $2,041,033.07 for 1925.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF HELD

W. G. Bralley Charged With Assault On Smith, His Opponent

W. G. Bralley, Wichita county juvenile officer and candidate for sheriff against the iacumbent, Fred K. Smith, was charged with aggravated assault in a complaint filed yesterday following an encounter between Bralley and Smith at the courthouse. The charge was filed by Wade Taylor, deputy constable.

The complaint charged that Bralley threatened Smith with a gun. Bralley made bond of $300.

Bralley was reported to have charged Smith with circulating slanderous remarks and to have demanded that Smith retract them.

Mr. Bralley presented sworn affidavits to newspaper men Tuesday night, one from a lawyer of the city declaring that Smith had made the statements as charged, and another from T. W. McHam, county treasurer, that Smith retracted it in the conversation in the corridor Tuesday morning. The statement imputed to Smith by Bralley Tuesday morning contained an allegation said by Mr. Bralley to be highly derogatory to his reputation and conduct as a citizen and a public officer.

Smith, in a statement made following the episode, declared that he had not made the remarks charged by Bralley, and had not retracted them as alleged in the affidavits Mr. Bralley produced Tuesday night.

MORE STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

Ferguson Counties Elect Moody Men And Vice Versa

THREE RIVERS, Aug. 3.—(AP) Here is what is regarded as a perfect political paradox.

Live Oak county went for Ferguson by 12 votes. But the county democratic executive committee passed, unanimously, a resolution demanding that Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson resign immediately in accordance with her promise. The resolution was introduced by the only Ferguson man on the executive committee. He said since the proposition was made by the governor of her own free will and accord, she should be made to live up to it.

The same executive committee sent all Moody men as delegates to the state convention.

An even greater paradox.

Four of the five counties which elected Representative J. L. Gray an avowed Moody man, to the legislature went for Jim Ferguson. They were among the few Ferguson counties in the state. Almost all local officers elected in these counties were Moody men.

All of which recalls the time when every one of Zapata county's 15 votes went for William Howard Taft for president and at the same time went for John Garner for congress.

Snake Fight a Flop; Rattlers Bite Harmless

Missouri Can Keep Its Ten Thousand Touted Fight-Black Snakes

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—San Antonio's long awaited rattle snake-black snake match was staged Monday night, but it was a "fizzle" so far as a fight and attendance of the public was concerned.

The public didn't attend because the date of the encounter had not been announced by Commissioner of Park Lambert, nor by a San Antonio newspaper which had a large staff and two photographers present.

A Missouri black snake and a Texas rattler from Medina county were turned loose in an improvised arena screened by wire and glass. The black snake bit the two photographers, one on the ankle and the other on the hand, and was in turn bitten by the rattler. The savage attack of the vicious reptile was without apparent effect on the constrictor, however.

The rattler was in very bad humor and struck at everything, even shadows leaving splashes of venom on a wooden wall that backed the ring. After 25 minutes of maneuvers the two snakes met in mid-ring but after circling about for five minutes declared a truce and all efforts to make them fight failed.

So Missouri may take its 10,000 black snakes elsewhere. Apparently they won't exterminate the rattlers in Texas, as contended by a Missouri man.

"OUT NINTH" NEW SLOGAN

Completion of Paving Brook To Broad Brings Traffic

Motorists used to ask "Shall we go out Eighth or Tenth?" Now everybody in the car usually pipes up with "Drive out Ninth."

The completion of the paving the few blocks of Ninth street between Brook and Broad streets connected the paving at the ends of the street and made it one of the city's best crosstown arteries for traffic.

Ninth street begins, with other numbered streets, at the railroad, and extends to the extreme western city limits. In th first block of the street is the Wichita Home Ice company plant and ice station.

Greever, Wynne and Maer, insurance, are established in the comparatively new Perkins-Snyder building, their office being at 609 Ninth.

In the third block of Ninth street are two particularly interesting stores, the Wichita Floral company, home of Bebb's Flowers, 706 Ninth, and Lovelace Book store, across the street at 713 Ninth.

At the corner of Ninth street and Scott is the fine building of W. B. McClurkan and company, one of the city's large department stores. At the same corner is the building of the Southwestern Bell Telphone company. An annex on Ninth street is nearing completion.

The Up-To-Date Cleaners 811 Ninth have been in their present location for seven years.

An old concern in Wichita Falls the Ever-Ready Electric company is now a Ninth street firm, located at 800 Ninth.

In the Brown building at Ninth and Lamar are the new offices of the Guaranty State Building and Loan association, and the new location of the Municipal Gas company offices. In the same building, at 905 Ninth, is one of the city's new restaurants, the Mistletoe Cafe. In this block at 908 Ninth, is the home of the Hood Tire, Earl Jameson.

FIRE STATION 6 IS DEDICATED

Mayor In Speech Promises Drainage Relief For That Section

Fire Station No. Six, the new establishment at 600 Jefferson street, was formally dedicated to the service of the north side people last night, when Mayor R. E. Shepherd, assisted by Fire Chief J. L. McClure and a number of the city officials, were hosts.

The apparatus itself is the latest thing in fire fighting machinery, being a triple combination truck carrying hose, chemical and pump. It cost $12,500. The station is brick, located on a filled in lot purchased some time ago. Arrangements have been made to sod the grounds in Bermuda and to plant shrubs and flowers.

Mayor Shepherd made a short talk, in which he brought up the subject of drainage, for that section of the city, stating that plans were being considered for relief.

Punch and cigars were served.

Fire Chief J. L. McClure stated that this addition to the department made a total of six stations, and the new truck made a total of all complete apparatuses.

There are now 64 paid men in the fire fighting department.

Thought Malaria Still in System
Until Dodson's Liver Tone Drove Out Quarts of Sour Bile and Other Poisons

There are entire sections where everyone seems to think they have malaria. Others believe they never fully got the malarial poison out of their systems.

Arnold Whiteson says: "For years I took calomel for the aches, biliousness, headache, constipation and the deathly feeling associated with what we believe to be malaria.

Last year I heard about Dodson's Liver Tone and bought a bottle for a few cents. Man, man, what a Godsend. In the morning it drove out quarts of black, sour bile. I got back my appetite for food, braced right up and haven't had a sick spell since. Whenever I feel a little bilious or the stomach gets sour, one dose of Dodson's Liver Tone is all I need. It is surely a blessing."

Hundreds of others tell the same experience.

Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone sets better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

Ad Men for More Signs on Highways

Advertising, its possibilities and problems, were dismussed by members of the Ad Men's club Tuesday in the regular meeting at the Kemp hotel. The band concerts at the Sunday night religious services at Bellevue park were considered in the talks on advertising. These concerts have been given through the courtesy of business houses in the city.

That a better business bureau was needed was mentioned, nad the putting up of more road signs in a 50-mile radius of Wichita Falls was suggested.
