Tower, Bentsen won't back gas compromise

By JAMES WERRELL
WASHINGTON — Nothing short of complete federal deregulation of natural gas prices will be acceptable to Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), according to his director of communications, Allen Balch. "The senator feels that the Jackson-Byrd compromise is really no compromise at all. Anything they (Sens. Jackson and Byrd) have proposed, even a higher price for gas, is not an acceptable compromise as far as deregulation is concerned," Balch said in a telephone interview today.

One proposal that is acceptable to Tower is one designed by his fellow Texas senator, Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat. Bentsen's proposal, which was cosponsored by Sen. James Pearson, R-Kan., called for federal regulation to be slowly phased out.

"The senator (Tower) commended Senator Bentsen on the floor last night for standing fast against further deregulation," said Balch.

About the only thing that pleases Tower about the newly-proposed compromise, according to Balch, is that it is amendable.

"Once the compromise is recommended to the floor of the Senate as a new bill, the senator stressed that its only redeeming feature is that we can amend it. That will bring us full circle, and we are back where we started," said Balch.

A spokesman for Sen. Bentsen said that the senator would "ultimately oppose" the Jackson-Byrd compromise.

"His primary concern is that controls are not put on intrastate gas sales," said the spokesman. "He feels that there is still a good shot for the Pearson-Bentsen proposal to prevail. The Jackson-Byrd compromise is a move toward deregulation, but not far enough," he added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators who led a marathon filibuster which helped tie up Senate action on natural gas pricing for two weeks said today they would reluctantly vote for a compromise offered by Majority Leader Robert Byrd.

Democratic Sens. James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio said they would support a plan which keeps federal controls on gas, but would allow more of the fuel to be sold at higher price levels.

But Abourezk and Metzenbaum said they would vote for the compromise only if it remains unamended by senators sympathetic to the natural gas producers.

Both said they would support the new proposal worked up by both Byrd and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., with hopes that a House-Senate conference committee would cut down a $2.03 price ceiling on each thousand cubic feet of gas.

"I don't approve of it," Metzenbaum said. "But it's better than total deregulation."

Byrd said he was not sure the Senate would be able to vote today on the compromise, which shows promise of breaking an impasse which has tied up the Senate for nine days on the same issue.

Before voting on the plan, the Senate went to work on a complicated parliamentary maneuver designed by Byrd to brush aside some 400 proposed amendments to the bill.

Jackson's move was an attempt to break the filibuster that has kept the Senate from choosing between President Carter's proposal to retain price controls on natural gas and an industry-backed plan to lift them.

But the compromise engineered by Jackson and Byrd was fragile. While Senate leaders were optimistic, there was no guarantee the impasse could be broken.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, unveiled the plan Wednesday night shortly before the Senate recessed after meeting non-stop for more than 37 hours.

The recess came as two senators opposed to any relaxation of federal price controls suspended their filibuster to give the Senate a chance to study the Jackson proposal.

But Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said he and Sen. Howard H. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, were ready to resume their filibuster if necessary.

Essentially, Jackson wants to raise the wholesale prices of some interstate gas from the present $1.46 maximum to $2.03 for each thousand cubic feet.

To build industry support, Jackson proposed that gas eligible for this higher price could come from both new wells and some older ones.

Carter's plan would raise the ceiling to $1.75 per thousand-cubic feet but limiting the higher price to gas from new wells.

Both the Carter and Jackson plans would extend price controls to the now-unregulated markets within gas-producing states.

The success of Jackson's proposal hinges on building a coalition of Carter administration allies and enough defectors from the ranks of past deregulation supporters to win.

"We picked up some votes,"

Jackson said. "We made some headway." But he said the outcome was still too close to call.

Deregulation leaders said they planned to oppose the move.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said Jackson's proposal was too great a concession.

But senators, weary after their around-the-clock session, agreed unanimously to sleep on the matter and resume work today.

Byrd, calling the proposal a "workable compromise," told the Senate it was time to break the deadlock.

Reappraisal unpopular among taxing agencies

Although no vote was taken at the Tax Appraisal Board meeting Wednesday, if one had been, a county-wide reappraisal would have been turned down.

The city of Coahoma, the Forsan school district, and Howard County each called themselves "undecided" in an informal poll taken by chairman Tom Ferguson at the meeting.

All the representative bodies agreed that mapping and a new set of cards would be necessary and inevitable.

New appraiser Earl Dean made the pitch for reappraisal, telling the bodies that there were problems in operating on a 1958 building schedule at 50 per cent market value with a property variance from 25 to 125 per cent. Dean estimated the in-house cost of a three-year program at $200,000. The mapping and cards he estimated at about $6 per parcel, or $125,000, included in the $200,000 price tag.

Opponents of a reappraisal expressed their fears that any action embarked on now would be made invalid by the 1979 state legislature. Dean said later that if his office did a professional job of bringing the cards up to fair market value, there should be little or no variance between his state figures. One other fear, expressed by J.F. Poyner, Forsan superintendent, was that the state would go to some other method entirely to fund school districts, leaving them paying for a useless function. No one else would comment on how likely this was.

"Anything we did now might be fruitless, a waste of time, and stir up the people to no end," said Poyner.

Big Spring Assistant Superintendent for Business Don Crockett said that the schools would be faced with new legislation under Senate Bill 1. Crockett told the assembled officials that "to insure equity between school districts and their fair market values, they created in the new finance bill the School Tax Assessor Examiner board, empowered to require certification of school district appraisers."

Crockett asked Dean whether he thought his work could comply with the certification board's standards and he replied that he believed it could.

Howard College Representative Harold Davis told the assembled group "it looks as if the schools are running a multi-million dollar business on records you wouldn't run your business on."

Coahoma Mayor Joe Swihney added that if the work was to be done for the schools it might as well be done for the city.

Mayor Wade Choate added his second to Swihney and pointed out that the city wanted to work with the schools and the county.

County Judge Bill Tune said that the commissioners court was undecided because of the possibility that the legislature might invalidate it. "The commissioners court," he said, "wants to wait for the next legislative session rather than risk having to redo it."

On a suggestion from Mayor Choate, the appraisal board agreed to list possible choices and their price tags and submit the list to the various groups for discussion.

Local rally ends tour for Stenholm

Charles Stenholm, a Stamford farmer, will begin his campaign for the 17th District congressional seat with a district-wide bus tour on October 4, announcing his intention to run for congress.

Stenholm's first announcement will be in his Jones County hometown on Monday evening, October 3, at a rally organized by his Stamford supporters.

Early Tuesday morning many of those same supporters, along with Stenholm and his wife, Cindy, will board two buses for a tour of 23 communities in the 17th Congressional District. At brief stops in each community, Stenholm, traveling the eastern half of the district, and Cindy in the west, will again announce his intention to run for congress.

"The purpose of the trip," Stenholm says, "is to make this a district-wide campaign from the start, meeting as many people face-to-face as possible for my announcement."

The day's tour will end in Big Spring with a 7 p.m. rally.

Stenholm is running for the congressional seat now held by Omar Burleson. Congressman Burleson announced his retirement in August to be effective at the end of his current term in 1978.

Record high set at 101

Temperatures reached a new record Wednesday when the mercury bubbled up to 101 at the Big Spring Experiment Station. The new high followed a series of days when all West Texas except Big Spring, was setting heat records.

The previous record for a September 28 was set in 1953 when the high hit 98 degrees.

New record can be expected as the temperature nears 100 in the next few days. The high for the 29th is 99 degrees and for the 30th it is 96. Both those records have stood since the early 1950s.

Editor's note: This is third in a series of articles concerning the plight of the illegal alien in Texas.

By BOB BURTON

President Jimmy Carter proposes a three-fold plan to deal with the undocumented alien problem. He advocates aid to Mexico, stiff penalties for employers of illegal aliens, and both permanent and temporary citizenship measures.

He has an unlikely supporter of this softened stance in Buryl Williams, border patrolman. "Undocumented Mexicans come across for two reasons: because there is incredible poverty in Mexico and because jobs are available here. As long as these two things are true they'll continue to come. No matter what we do."

Williams testifies to what Texans are increasingly discovering: the numbers of people crossing the border each day are astronomical and increasing.

"In California, they doubled the number of border patrolmen in one small section. In two months they collared 80,000 immigrants. That's like emptying Midland. Patrolmen there were catching 200 people each shift, plus doing paperwork. And they figured that this was maybe 50 per cent of the traffic."

But Williams has more than just a job behind his reasons for turning back the Mexicans he finds.

"There is good money in Texas in servicing the undocumented aliens. They are at the mercy, in turn, of the transporters, the renters, the employers, and anyone else who deals with them."

Williams, who has six years experience in south Texas, tells of eight aliens who paid $250 apiece in Nuevo Laredo to cross to Houston. "They climbed into the car and drove across. The transporter turned south to avoid the Border Patrol roadblocks set up north. He drove them to Brownsville, and dumped them off right next to the border. He drove away and they thought they had reached Houston." Williams tells the story without the trace of a smile.

The dangers in crossing the border is not confined to the transporter. Williams cited a case where California police dressed as Mexicans attempted to cross the border on an undercover operation. They were assaulted in a robbery attempt by Mexican federal officials. The attack only ceased when one policeman fired at the Mexican officials.

"They run a real risk of being rolled," said Williams simply.

"I dealt recently with a motel in this area. Four illegal aliens were living in one room of this place, and it should have been torn down long ago. They were paying $40 apiece each week. That owner was clearing $600 each month off that one room."

Williams maintains that right now, nothing can be done to prosecute the employer of undocumented aliens. He believes that the prospect of a job market, ready and waiting, is the biggest incentive of all.

"I'd do it myself if I was starving," he said. "I'd come to the land of plenty."

But the Mexicans we pick up in Midland making $6 an hour on construction are the exceptions," Williams continues. "Most employers are to blame for taking advantage of the cheap labor. I don't mean the farmers, I mean, let's face it, who can they get to work their crops? But in the large industrial towns they are taking advantage of large numbers of Mexicans. In south Texas they sometimes work for twenty cents per hour. Other times the employer will refuse to pay at all."

Williams is sensitive to the problems of the undocumented migrant, but he maintains he is not soft. "We cover a ten-county area from this office," he said, "from Andrews and Midland counties in the west to Fischer in the east. We have very few men. We pull out about 250 illegals each month."

"I have never let one go," he said. "That is not my job."

"I like my work, and I think I'm doing a job for the country. Think how many illegal immigrants there would be here now without the Border Patrol."

But Williams, like other border patrolmen, is trying to block an avalanche with a teaspoon. "It's disheartening," he admitted, "to pick up three or four, spend eight hours processing them, and know that a lot more have come down the road since you left."

"Dallas, the follow-up investigator's office, is as swamped as the border. They face rooms of paperwork. It is a physical impossibility to follow up every case."

Although border patrolmen are empowered to make arrests, it is not as simple as out-you-go to remove a suspected alien. "The burden of proof is on us," Williams explained. "If we can't prove that a subject is illegal, or get him to admit that fact, we have to let him go."

Williams, and his supervisor, Kermit McKnight, say that patrolmen at first encounter with undocumented Mexicans also have the discretionary power to arrest or to issue a temporary voluntary departure 30-day permit.

"A copy of the voluntary departure permit goes to Dallas for follow-up," explained Williams. "The permit is intended to allow for preparation to return to Mexico, especially for people with families, but the follow-up on it is Dallas' responsibility. Each time a permit is filled out, a copy is sent to Dallas."

Williams also supports Carter's controversial citizenship measures. "Aliens who have been here seven years can already apply for legal immigrant status, so his granting of permanent status to them is not a completely new policy," Williams said.

"I believe that his idea of granting temporary status is not going to hurt the situation," he continued. "There are eight or nine million here now, and we're not going to find them all. The manpower could be better spent on the border."

Williams maintains that, with the aid of instant reference to birth records in the United States and Mexico, identification of undocumented aliens is surprisingly easy. "They usually admit their status when we question them," he said.

But the usual identification carried by citizens is not sufficient to establish identity. "We have to use common sense," Williams explained, "because a driver's license means nothing as far as being a citizen of the United States is concerned."

"We do some patrolling and we regularly check the tracks, but in this office we are mainly concerned with catching aliens who are working in this area."

"And that is a full time job."

Q. Recently in this column, the statement was made that the school air conditioned Goliad Junior High. Is this correct?

A. The school air conditioned the dining area, snack bar, administrative offices and some sections. However, classroom areas which are air conditioned were done so by teachers who donated window units with the school furnishing the utilities.

SATURDAY
Howard County Democrats will meet in the Sheriff's office at 4 p.m. Saturday, according to Raloff Dunagan, county chairman. A deer rifle with scope will be given away.

Offbeat: Preston Smith's mad

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Gov. Preston Smith says it's downright disloyal for old sidekick Bob Bullock to support Dolph Briscoe's campaign for re-election.

Bullock was Smith's secretary of state and, some said, hatchet man. "His support of Briscoe reflects a little bit of what I would call lack of political loyalty. He has every right to make that decision. But he should have withdrawn his commitment (to Briscoe) and stayed neutral," Smith said in an interview with the Austin American-Statesman.

Smith entered the race this summer, after Briscoe announced for a third term.

Bullock said he had no idea Smith would run when he endorsed Briscoe and began actively slashing into another opponent, Atty. Gen. John Hill.

He told Smith in a letter that to withdraw his support now "would be a disservice to you and to myself. Besides, I know Preston Smith wouldn't have a man on his team who went back on his word."

TV's best: Ali at the Garden

Economic index

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index of future economic trends showed a sharp upturn in August as industries decided to spend more money on their factories, the Commerce Department said today.

The index of leading indicators rose eight-tenths of a per cent after a two-tenths of a per cent increase in July and declines of two-tenths of a per cent in both June and May.

Most encouraging to economists was a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in contracts and orders for plants and equipment. That means industries are building more factories and will be able to turn out more products, possibly leading to more jobs.

However, the index did not indicate an improved job outlook because the layoff rate was unchanged in August and the average work week declined.

The Commerce Department had reported last month that the index had dropped three months in a row, but it subsequently changed its July figure from a drop of two-tenths of a per cent to an increase of two-tenths. The main reason was improvement in net business formation, another sign of business confidence.

Economists have figured that any improvement in the economy will have to come from spending by businesses on new equipment and capital because consumer spending may have reached its peak.

ARRIVES FOR ARRAIGNMENT — Stuntman Evel Knievel and his wife, Linda, arrive in Los Angeles court Wednesday where he was to be arraigned on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Knievel asked for and got a delay on the arraignment until Oct. 12. His attorney said Knievel was not prepared to plea.

Elvis going home

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley is going home to Graceland Mansion one last time.

The family of the singer received approval Wednesday to move his body and the body of his mother, Gladys Smith Presley, to the grounds of the 13½-acre, wooded estate he bought in 1957 for $100,000.

"We just want to bring Elvis home," D. Beecher Smith II, attorney for the estate, told the Memphis and Shelby County Board of Adjustment, which voted unanimously to approve the transfer application.

Presley and his mother are to be moved from a white-marble mausoleum at Forest Hill Cemetery to a site called Meditation Garden.

Smith said the bodies would be buried in a grassy area between a fountain and a crescent-shaped stone wall containing four stained glass windows depicting religious scenes.

Smith refused to say when the bodies would be transferred to the estate, which overlooks Elvis Presley Boulevard.

Smith filed the application Sept. 7 at the request of the singer's father, Vernon Presley, the executor of the estate.

Smith said it was a hardship on the estate to maintain the Presley graves at Forest Hill. He also cited what he called an attempted theft of Presley's body and the expense of security.

JACK DAVIS

Rehab center administrator resigns post

Jack Davis, administrator of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, will end his three-year career with the center October 31.

Davis said that his position was abolished by the Board of Directors for the Center at their Monday meeting. "In reviewing the long-range planning of the center and the current financial situation, the board decided they had adequate administrative organization to permit a half-time person to run the center."

Appointed as interim administrator was Champe Phillips, a physical therapist with two years experience at the center.

G. Ben Bancroft, chairman of the Dora Roberts board, was unavailable for comment.

Davis completed his third year at the center in May. "Our financial situation here statistically is very good. We have more patients in house, we have more subcontracts than we have had before, and we have raised more money than ever before."

"What has happened is that the center is facing a shortage of immediately available cash reserves in case of a deficit."

Davis blames the shortage on the very low case load during the first six months of the year. "It was probably due to the Webb closing," he said, "because after the announcement was made the numbers of patients rose again."

"The realistic problem is that the rehab center was initiated with the idea that the community would support and help take care of charity cases taken on by the center. But in the face of inflation our individual contributions are down and our operating costs are up."

Davis said his salary would probably go to raises for the rest of the staff. "We have been losing personnel to higher paying positions," he said. "This is a realistic temporary solution."

Other conserving actions taken by the board Monday include the agreement not to replace the occupational therapist and discussion on the renewal of CARF certification. The center has only this year been certified.

"I feel that the certification is essential to the future," said Davis. "It may not be essential now."

Renee Wash improving

Renee Wash, 20, Big Spring, who was seriously injured in a car wreck near Hillsboro Monday morning, is showing improvement at a hospital in Hillsboro and may be moved to Baylor Hospital in Dallas Friday.

She has a compound fracture of the right leg. Her spleen did not have to be removed and was reported to be only bruised. She was moved out of intensive care Wednesday.

Charles Wash, her father, is with her and plans to move her to Dallas to a bone specialist Friday.

Retiring after 41 years

From 'Number, please' to one-plus

Louise Hamilton has seen Big Spring go from gravel to paved roads.

She remembers cowboys riding into town on horses, and she especially remembers the days as a telephone operator when the greeting was, "Number Please?"

Today Mrs. Hamilton is a manager for Southwestern Bell, supervising 30 operators in Big Spring.

She began as an operator at the age of 17 in 1936. And, until 1953, she greeted the townspeople with the familiar phrase, "Number Please?"

"That was before people could dial local numbers from their own telephones," Mrs. Hamilton explained. "Since 1953, customers have had the capability to dial any number from their phone."

Even more recently, telephone customers can dial long distance direct without operator assistance.

"That was quite an innovation in the telephone industry. We seldom get request for assistance, because direct dialing is cheaper and requires little effort on the customer's part," the operator manager explained.

Mrs. Hamilton says she hears complaints about the telephone company, but she believes they stem from misunderstanding.

"If you compare telephone service in the United States to other parts of the world, then there wouldn't be any complaints. Most people have no idea what it costs to provide and maintain good service," she pointed out.

Mrs. Hamilton will be retiring from Southwestern Bell this fall with 41 years' service. The past 28 years she has had perfect attendance.

After retirement on Oct. 1 she plans to bowl, golf, work in her yard and travel.

RETIRING — Big Spring operator manager Louise Hamilton will be retiring this fall with 41 years' service with Southwestern Bell. She has seen many innovations in the telephone industry in her career.

Decorating

center opens

The Crown Decorating Center officially opened at 10 a.m. today with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The store is located at 1510 S. Gregg and is owned by Archie Segrist and Charles Russell. Segrist will also serve as manager.

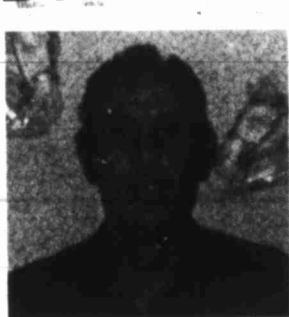

The store offers a selection of Cook's Paints, three representatives of that company including Jim Hamyl, Robert Murphey and Richard Stiles were on hand today for the opening.

Also Mayor Wade Choate, Chamber of Commerce incoming president Ray Don Williams, and members of the Ambassadors were present for the ceremonies.

Employees at the store, along with Segrist, will be Nancy Powers and Danny Ballard. They will do contract paint work. There is a selection of carpets and floor coverings and such items as frames stepladders for sale at the store.

During the opening, today people are popping balloons for prizes.

Deaths

TOM KING

Tom King

Services for Tom N. (Tooter) King, 46, who died Tuesday night, will be held 2 p.m. Friday in the River Welch Chapel. Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor of the College Baptist Church will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Earl Parker

VICTORIA — Earl Parker, 70, died in Victoria Hospital after an illness of several months Wednesday.

Services will be Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Stewart Funeral Home in Kenedy.

Burial will be in Kenedy Cemetery.

A resident of Luling, he previously lived in Howard and Glasscock counties, being the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hilburn.

He is survived by his wife, Bill, of the home; a son, Thomas Allen Parker, Victoria; four grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Lucille Dean, Houston; and a brother, Edwin Parker, Kingsland, Ariz.; and two aunts, Mrs. T. B. Clifton and Mrs. E. L. Patton, both of Big Spring.

Pearl Cauble

Services for Mrs. James (Pearl) Cauble, 81, who died 5:30 a.m. Wednesday in a local nursing home, will be held 10:30 a.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. The Rev. William H. Halter, pastor of the Baptist Temple will preside.

Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Mrs. Cauble has resided in the Big Spring area most of her life. She married James Cauble Sr. Dec. 24, 1924 in Big Spring.

He preceded her in death in February of 1938.

Palbearers are Ross Hill, Jack McKinnon, M. A. Dunagan, Rafor Dunagan, Wayne Lowe and Isaac Lowe.

Farm

Root plowing eyed in Martin tour

By MARJ CARPENTER

It looked as though the machine age of farming had arrived, when three busloads of spectators went on the annual Martin County Farm tour Wednesday.

Among the demonstrations was one on the Bernard Houston farm of two large equipment. The equipment which had been manufactured in Pennsylvania, utilized in Georgia and Florida, had to be modified for West Texas mesquite roots.

Houston demonstrated how the equipment cleared land. When the land is hard in West Texas, the machine also gathers up a lot of large clods and deposits them along with the roots. The equipment costs $30,000.

Houston calls his Roots, Inc., and uses it to clear off land for new cotton acreage or other purposes.

The tour then went to the Gary Reid farm where a demonstration of rock windrowers and Westgo rock pickers was held. Stanton Equipment furnished the equipment for the demonstration of picking up rocks mechanically.

As the buses headed for the Lee Graves farm to look over cotton varieties, one passenger spotted a farmer out in the field with a hoe and laughed. "He doesn't know about the new equipment."

The group heard Kenneth Lindsey, agronomist for the extension service, discuss the varieties at the Graves farm. James Lee, Howard Martin County entomologist, pointed out weevil damage on some of the bolls and again discussed the plans for a project next year to study methods of controlling the boll weevil.

The tour ended at the Community Center where an agriculture appreciation luncheon was held and Reagan Brown, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, and address of the "Importance of Farming and the Importance of America."

Preceding the talk, barbecue was served and a style show with cotton products was held. Models included Lee Ann Biggs, Tamala Allred, Betty Rodriguez, Jeannie Shoemaker, Tammy Nelson, Dee Ann Williams, Natatia Pollack, Tamara Williams, Barbara Riveira, Vicki Cox, Marie Chapa, Donna Sue Hale, Faye Welch, Laurie Tate, and Joanna Graham.

Others were Patricia Wilson, Bobbie Wilson, Mary Franklin, Jerri Garlington, Renee Ruth, Larry Bulter, Connie Bunch, Brenda Crow, Patti Briggs, Robbie Wiekoff, Belinda Marchland, Amy Hazelwood, Melissa Franklin, Karen Graves, Carol Wilson, Tammy Huckabee, Marsha Campbell, Ricky and Robby Fleckenstein, Mrs. Marsha Todd was narrator.

Glenn Sargent gave the opening prayer; Mike Black acted as master of ceremonies and Judge Jimmy Mathis introduced the speaker.

Othera at the head table included George Mims of the ASCS office and Alvin Riddle of the SSCS office, and George Hadstrom, TEXCO manager and president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Martin crop better than expected

Early predictions that Martin County's cotton crop would be way down appeared to be partially wrong.

The cotton south of Stanton which was shown at the Martin County farm tour Wednesday looked like a topnotch crop.

Farmers making the tour who reside in the northern part of the county, near Lenora and Tarzan say that their crop is not as good as the previous year.

However, most of them admitted that it is stripping out better than was anticipated a month ago. No final figures are yet available but it looks as though the crop will be only slightly under the previous year's harvest.

By the time I got over there (to the fire), it was too big to put out and spreading fast.

"Flames covered the entire roof of the building," he added, "it was a mess."

Firemen had been at the scene for several minutes when high tension lines leading to Baker Drill began to arc and explode, sending a shower of sparks and a cloud of white smoke into the air.

Firemen and spectators alike scattered, but after a slight explosion, no more trouble was evident.

"None of our people were injured," Porter said. "We got them all out as soon as this thing started."

Epley said that the company was planning to move to a new location at 3015 N. Bryant on Nov. 1.

Diamond Weather murder mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Murder and the disappearance of up to $1 million in gems has left Manhattan's bustling diamond district uneasy as police seek the killer of 25-year-old gem broker.

Detectives sifted evidence taken from the tiny office of diamond cutter Shlomo Tal, 31, who led police to Pinchos Jaroslawicz' body on Wednesday. Tal recounted a bizarre tale of robbery, kidnap and murder by two shadowy male intruders.

Tal, who has not been charged, was being held as a material witness in the case, and was set to appear today at a hearing in state Supreme Court, New York's trial court.

The material witness status enabled authorities to keep the solidly-built, shaggy-haired Tal available for further questioning without charging him with any part in the crime.

Steven Hyman, one of Tal's two attorneys, said his client was cooperating with police, but was not happy that Tal was being held as a material witness.

Tal, described as a high-living business acquaintance of the slain man, had been missing for three days. He told police that two men entered his office Sept. 20 and beat Jaroslawicz, 25, to death.

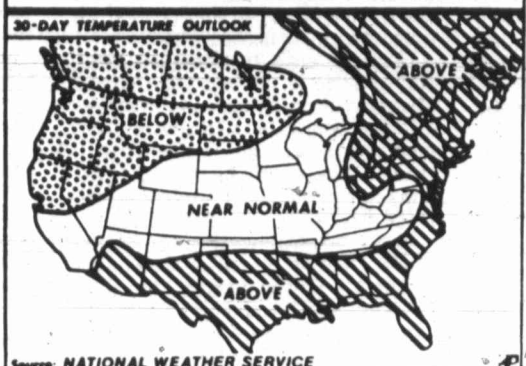

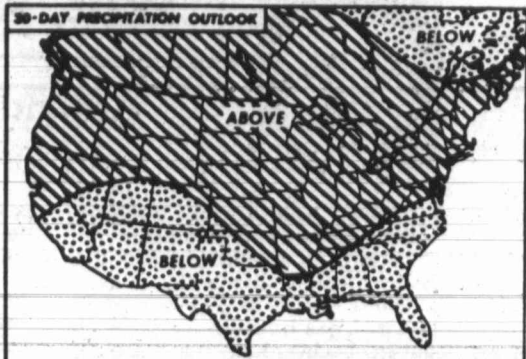

He said he continued doing business for five days while Jaroslawicz' body lay stuffed in plastic bags in the office. Tal said he was afraid "for his life and the safety of his wife and children."

Tal said he later was abducted by the same men, who forced him to drive them around for three days. He said he was dragged by the men and left in his car, where he was found Wednesday with about $30,000 in jewels under the car's front seat.

Authorities said Jaroslawicz had been beaten and suffocated.

Jaroslawicz' slaying came as a shock to the tight little world of diamond dealing.

An estimated 80 per cent of the U.S. diamond trade takes place on one block of West 47th Street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. One source said the sale in gems may go as high as $400 million a day.

THIRTY-DAY OUTLOOK — This is the way the nation's precipitation, top, and temperature, bottom, may shape up over the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service.

Hail reported in Panhandle

By the Associated Press

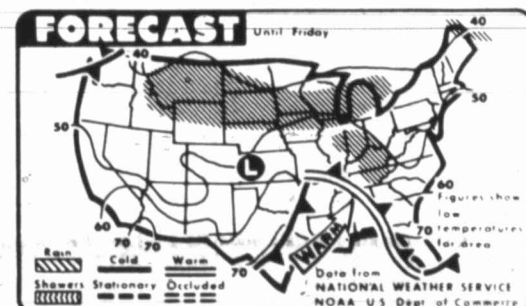

Heavy thunderstorms roared across northeastern sections of the Texas Panhandle during the night.

Pea size hail was reported at Canadian in the northeastern Panhandle during the night.

More thunderstorm activity was developing in North Texas during the pre-dawn hours today, bringing some hope for relief from the summer-like heat.

Space station is launched by Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government launched a new space station, Salyut 6, today, Tass announced.

Salyut 6 apparently was sent up unmanned but in preparation for a new series of manned space flights. There was speculation that a crew would be rocketed to it by Oct. 4, the 20th anniversary of the launching of the first artificial space satellite by the Soviet Union.

Tass described Salyut 6 as an "orbital scientific station."

Another major Soviet anniversary is coming up, the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7. However, two days ago in Prague three Soviet cosmonauts denied a space spectacular was being prepared for that celebration.

Tass said Salyut 6 would be used for "scientific and technical research and experiments and also to work on the construction, on-board systems and equipping of orbital stations."

The report said the station was functioning normally and that its data was being received by tracking stations in the Soviet Union and on ships of the Soviet Academy of Science in the Atlantic ocean.

Salyut 6 was reported orbiting the earth every 89.1 minutes at an orbital inclination of 51.6 degrees. The distance of the orbit above the earth ranged from 136 miles to 171.

Unbehagen received a letter Tuesday from Mrs. Briscoe, thanking the mayor for his courtesies.

The letter was addressed to Hon. R. A. Appfel, the mayor Unbehagen replaced May 12.

Military

They've struck oil at Fort Polk

FORT POLK, La. (AP) — They've struck oil at Fort Polk, but the commander of the Army base promises that it won't interfere with artillery practice.

The well was drilled by A.J. Hodges Industries Inc. of Shreveport, which has owned mineral rights in the area for years and has been looking for oil at Fort Polk since July, 1976.

Maj. Gen. W.B. Steele, post commander, said the well began flowing Monday night and was reported capable of producing about 200 barrels of crude a day.

However, Steele said, "The Army and the people at Fort Polk are not in the oil business and have no other connection with the A.J. Hodges firm other than an agreement to allow exploration for a much-needed resource."

"The Army, at the onset of the agreement, established strict requirements in regard to protection of the environment and the continuous training mission of the Army and the 5th Infantry Division, Mechanized, at Fort Polk," Steele said.

Fort Polk, which covers 311 square miles in west central Louisiana, is used for training National Guard and regular Army personnel.

The well, known as No. 1 Hodges Fee, was reported to be the first oil discovery in Vernon Parish. The well is situated about seven miles east of the town of Hornbeck.

Hodges was reluctant to comment on his find. He said the well, brought in at 3,428 feet, was not likely to wind up as a producer of 200 barrels a day.

NTSU must

open records

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — With two exceptions, memoranda on audits of expenditures by the North Texas State University must be disclosed upon request, Atty. Gen. John Hill said today.

NTSU President C. C. Nolen requested Hill's opinion.

Nolen said no comprehensive audit of the department had been made, but that he had four memoranda on audits of its expenditures.

Hill noted one contained a reference to a student that may concern the student's attendance record.

Another contains charges against an employee of the department.

Nolen said the documents had been turned over to law enforcement officers, but he did not indicate litigation is contemplated. Nolen said he thought the memoranda are exempted from disclosure under the Texas Open Records Act.

Hill said deletion of the student's name and the material pertaining to the charge against the employee would be all that is required. The remaining information in the documents is public record, he said.

Benefits for WASPs

By OMAR BURLESON
M.C. 17th District, Texas
WASHINGTON, D.C. — At about this time 35 years ago — September, 1942 — there was activated the Women's Air Forces Service Pilots. General Hap Arnold originated the idea and gave them the name — WASP. These courageous ladies piloted fighter-craft and bombers to those parts of the world where we were at war. They delivered the airplanes to male combat pilots who were, at that time, in great shortage. They also towed targets for anti-aircraft practice.

There were 1,074 young women in this activity, trained and directed at Avenger Field at Sweetwater. Out of this number, 38 lost their lives.

In December of 1944, the group was disbanded because there were then enough male pilots and the women were no longer needed. They were simply discharged without being commissioned and without any military benefits.

Now these ladies of WASP, no longer young, wonder why they were not given veterans' status to be eligible for assistance in later life. There are about 850 of them still around and they are now asking that they be entitled to basic benefits such as hospitalization in veterans' facilities, GI insurance rights and that the time served in what was then called the Army Air Corps be added to civil service to count towards their pension program.

Legislation has been introduced in both Houses of Congress to bring them into veterans' programs and the women were in Washington last week lobbying for their cause. There is resistance from the Veterans Administration and here in the Congress to their request. A Senate Committee held hearings on the bill in May of this year but did not put it to vote. The House Veterans Affairs Committee held two days of hearings last week but nothing was done and at the present time it does not appear that action will be taken.

The total cost to provide full veterans' rights to these deserving women who served their country with dedication during a two-year crucial period of World War II would cost approximately $100,000. This is a measly sum compared to the cost for veterans' total programs.

Members of WASP came forward voluntarily at a time when they were desperately needed. The problem was simple — there were too few men pilots. The women were eager to help win the war and in those dark days of 1942 and 1943 the government was grateful for all the help it could get. At the beginning, these women contend they were told that if they proved capable they would be made an official part of the Army Air Corps but in 1944 the Congress voted against a bill for this purpose. From their account, they were bitterly disappointed not being allowed to remain in service until victory was assured. They did not raise the question of veterans' benefits until the last few years but as they grow older and in greater need, they feel they have been wronged. They feel they gave a lot in that time of need and have received little recognition. It is easy for us to forget events which occurred more than three decades ago.

Hill to announce plans here today

Attorney General John Hill will stop into the Howard County Airport at 4 p.m. today to announce his plans to run for governor to the residents of Howard County.

Hill who had been considering running for governor of Texas for a long time, made a formal announcement to that effect last week.

He was elected attorney general in 1972 when he defeated the incumbent Crawford Martin and another opponent in the democratic primary.

He was reelected in 1974.

Hill entered public life in 1966 when he was appointed secretary of state by John Connally. He ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1968. A native of Breckenridge, Hill was raised in the oilfields of east and west Texas and attended schools in Kilgore.

He graduated with a law degree from the University of Texas after service in the Navy.

As attorney general, Hill led the legislative effort for passage of the Code of Ethics legislation and the Consumer Protection Act.

One of the biggest lawsuits during his term as attorney general was his suit to block Southwestern Bell Telephone's increase request for long distance charges. Hill personally argued the case in the Supreme Court and won.

POPULAR CAR — The 1978 version of America's most popular luxury car, Cadillac Coupe de Ville, reflects the overall design characteristics and dimensions that generated industry-wide attention and customer approval last year. A fresh rear appearance is accomplished with new rear bumpers with tail lamps and side marker lights incorporated in the bumper outer. Paint accent stripes extend across the deck lid. After production begins, all De Ville models will offer an optional Elk grain padded vinyl roof, with custom trimmed backlight in a "tucked" effect. Shown here with optional locking wire wheel discs, the 1978 Cadillac Coupe de Ville is available in 21 distinctive colors and 16 optional vinyl roof selections. The car will be on display today at Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac, 403 Scurry St.

Police beat Two pickups stolen

Two pickups were stolen Wednesday.

A 1961 Chevy pickup belonging to the Big Spring State Hospital was driven away by someone around 2:25 p.m. Wednesday. In the bed of the truck were four tool boxes full of tools, 200 feet of electrical conduit and two ladders. Loss was estimated at $739.

A 1971 Ford pickup belonging to Bill Guinn, 1705 Rannels, was stolen while it was parked at 711 W. 4th. The truck was valued at $1,000.

Officer James Nettles arrested a local man near the intersection of Kentucky and Tulane for not having a motorcycle license Wednesday night. While the officer and the man waited for a wrecker to haul away the cycle, the man began to complain about scratches on the side of his bike.

He slowly approached the bike, and then suddenly jumped on and drove off. He was last seen on U.S. Highway 350 north of the Howard County Airport.

Burglars broke into the home of Della Dickson, 410 Donley, sometime Monday night. After entering through a bedroom window, the intruders made off with four stereo albums, a clock radio, assorted jewelry, and a variety of clothes, towels and linens. Loss was estimated at $307.87.

Vandals used a tire iron to smash the windshield and side window of a one-ton truck belonging to the Rowden Plumbing Co. while it was parked at Randy's Fine Station, 3101 W. Highway 80. The incident occurred sometime between 4 and 4:45 a.m. Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $165.

A CB radio and a gas cap were stolen from a car belonging to Berdette L. Simmering, 903 Scurry.

sometime between 11:30 p.m. Monday and 2 p.m. Tuesday. Loss was estimated at $126.77.

A CB was also stolen from a pickup belonging to Julie Shirey, 2308 Lynn, while the truck was parked at the First Christian Church between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Value of the radio has not been estimated.

Two mishaps were reported Wednesday.

Vehicles driven by Dayton M. Miller, 110 S. Nolan, and Rodolfo H. Hilario, 1017 21st, collided at 1800 Settles, 5:07 p.m.

Vehicles driven by James H. Sheets, 1515 Sunset, and Oscar Garcia, 3219 Auburn, collided on the 1000 block of West Eleventh, 5:50 p.m.

SEEKING INFORMATION ON MISSING GIRL

Mrs. Mary Magee of Denton, Tex., whose 12-year-old daughter, Suzie, is missing, kisses son, Andy, 9, as he starts out to play. Mrs. Magee is putting out picture posters of her daughter who disappeared last Sunday from a Denton, Tex., restaurant. College students are handing out posters while state and local police comb the woods and streams around the city.

Suzie is safe, Psychic says

DENTON, Tex. (AP). — A psychic, who was able to relate facts known only to Suzie Magee's family, says the missing 12-year-old local girl is all right and with a friend.

The honor student's father said the psychic called him and said her visions showed Suzie constantly putting her hand to her mouth.

Mages said his daughter had a loose tooth that she had been trying to pull.

On Thursday Denton police released two men questioned in the Sunday disappearance of the four-and-a-half foot girl last seen talking with a long-haired man at a local fast food restaurant. The young girl had been doing the family laundry in a nearby laundry.

The two men lived near the Mages' health food restaurant and police said one was a drifter who was seen often at the restaurant. Several towels similar to towels from the Mages' laundry were found at the vacant house where the drifter lived. However, police examination revealed the towels had a different pattern.

Suzie, who last week wrote an essay about a 12-year-old girl who was abducted at gunpoint and slain, was doing the family laundry and had walked to a nearby fast food restaurant prior to her apparent abduction.

Based on descriptions from witnesses, police have composed a sketch of the man seen talking with Suzie at the restaurant.

The number there is 263-7654.

Two Kansas State football players face rape charges

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — A Riley County District Court judge has ordered two Kansas State football players and a former team member bound over for trial in the alleged rape of a K-State coed at the athletic dormitory last spring.

The order, issued by Judge Jerry Mershon, followed testimony at a preliminary hearing Monday by another person charged in the incident and the woman who said she was raped. The former player, Jerome Holiwell, was granted immunity from prosecution after agreeing to testify as a prosecution witness, according to Riley County Attorney Dennis Sauter.

An Oct. 10 arraignment on rape charges was set for Ken Lovely, 19, Dallas, and Nate Jones, 19, Dallas, both on the Kansas State team, and Mike Woodfin, 19, Topeka. The three are accused of sexually assaulting a 19-year-old Topeka woman in Holiwell's room. Each is free on $2,000 bond.

A fifth person, Kirk Boykin, a freshman running back from Houston, is still being sought by authorities.

Holiwell testified Monday that he saw the three defendants and Boykin rape the woman before he also assaulted her. He said all had been drinking wine and smoking marijuana.

According to Holiwell's testimony, the woman had fallen asleep on a bed in Holiwell's room when Lovely grabbed her. Holiwell said he then left the dark room but later returned and raped her. Holiwell said the woman was crying and screaming throughout the incident.

Earlier in the hearing, the woman testified that five men had grabbed her, removed her clothes and raped her in Holiwell's room. She said the attack occurred after she had been driving around with Holiwell, Woodfin and Jones. The four were drinking some wine, she said, adding that she had one drink.

"My first reaction was that I was really mad," she testified. "I was cussing and swearing." She added she told the men they might as well kill her.

She said she called out the names of Holiwell and Jones during the rape, but could not identify any of the three defendants as being involved. The woman said she then returned to the dormitory room of a friend, who took her to her home.

Lovely is a starting tailback with the Wildcats and has gained 152 yards in three games. Jones is a reserve cornerback but started against Wichita State last Saturday.

Domestics are Dying Breed in Portugal

LISBON (AP) — An estimate issued by the Free Union of Domestic Workers confirms what every lingering aristocrat and newly arrived foreign businessman knows: Portuguese maids are a dying breed.

A union spokesman put the current figure at 90,000 maids — more than the nation's 62,000 soldiers but 27 per cent less than the 110,000 live-in domestics listed in 1970, when they accounted for about 3 per cent of the labor force. The figures do not include daily maids who live outside the houses where they work.

The owner of a 20-room townhouse shook his head recently after giving a lunch for eight in his 250-year-old dining room. Crystal, rare china and fingerbowls were used in the five-course meal.

"A few years ago, we would have had three or four to serve the table," he said. "Now we have one."

Such scenes of relative hardship in the best families seem certain to spread, given the inflation, rising aspirations among young women and leftist ideology in post-revolutionary Portugal.

For Abortion?

LONDON (AP) — The current issue of The Lancet, a British medical journal, includes this contribution from L.R.C. Agnew of the University of California School of Medicine at Los Angeles.

"One way of catching class attention is to ask what advice students would give when presented with the following family history. The father has syphilis, the mother tuberculosis; they have already had four children — the first is blind, the second died, the third is deaf and dumb, and the fourth has tuberculosis.

"The mother is pregnant with her fifth child, and the parents are willing to have an abortion should you so decide. Assuming there aren't too many Catholics in the class, you will usually find a majority in favor of abortion. You congratulate the class on their decision to abort — and then you tell them they have just murdered Beethoven."

Agnew added that all too often today there is no "love of man" in the practice of medicine.

Until 1974, dictatorship had kept socially leveling forces at bay for half a century. Some believed unofficially that Portugal retained the highest per capita ratio of live-in maids in Europe.

Now, proposed labor legislation for maids could cut further into their numbers.

Most observers agree reforms are overdue on set, hours, vacation pay and notice of dismissal. But some say reforms would spur unemployment since employers would balk at new costs and restrictions.

Perhaps fortunately, they say, Prime Minister Mario Soares's Socialist government is preoccupied with larger problems and appears to have put the maid bill at the bottom of the legislative stack.

Union officials say live-in maids earn an average 2,500 escudos — $63 a month — plus room and board, although diplomatic and other non-Portuguese households have offered up to 8,000 escudos — $200 — for well qualified women.

Maids who do not live in earn 25 to 30 escudos — 63 to 75 cents — an hour. In comparison, the national minimum wage is 4,500 escudos — $113 a month.

Not so long ago, thousands of young farm girls broke their rural monotony every year by becoming maids in Lisbon.

"Most of the girls were ignorant about modern electrical appliances," said Jose Joaquim Calvo, owner of a maid employment agency.

"Until they learned, the effects on madam's washing machine and refrigerator were both disastrous and expensive."

Despite working 60 or more hours a week on near feudal terms, many maids stayed for life and developed surprisingly free relationships with their employers.

Umbelinda Magarida, illiterate and a cook for the same Lisbon family for half her 60 years, said, "I have never hesitated to give my mistress a piece of my mind and I don't need to join a union to do it."

The maids' decline might even be hastened by the conflict between two rival maids' unions, locked in a battle of the backstairs that reflects much of Portugal's social ferment.

Both unions are formed after the revolution — the Free Union of Domestic Workers, with 8,000 members and Roman Catholic backing, and the Domestic Service Union with 6,000 members and links with the Communist-led National Labor Federation.

Maria da Conceicao Brites, an official of the Free Union of Domestic Workers, said she hoped for "Italian style legislation to dignify the maid trade by providing for courses in child care and geriatric nursing."

Her union, meanwhile, has established ties with Catholic charities that help working mothers, and has set up two boarding houses where 30 daily maids can live cheaply and cook in communal kitchens.

Maria Helena Freitas Pereira of the Domestic Service Union said it sought a radical transformation of the maid's role from servant of the rich to helper of the working masses.

MR. AND MRS. C.R. MCCLENNY
...celebrating 55th anniversary

McClennys honored with Open House

Mr. and Mrs. C.R. McClenny will be honored on the occasion of their 55th anniversary Sunday with an open house at their home on Chapman Road in Sand Springs. Friends of the couple are invited to call between the hours of 2:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Hosting the affair will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon G. Cordsen of Ft. Collins, Colo.; their grandchildren, Ben Cordsen and his wife Mary of Estes Park, Colo.; Richard Cordsen, New York City and James Cordsen, Ft. Collins, who will be unable to attend; and their great-grandchildren, Britton Thomas, Jenney, and Mary Katherine, who will be unable to attend.

Members of the house party will be Mrs. Lehman Draper, Sweetwater; Mrs. Leroy Rorick and Mrs. Melvin Brown of Sand Springs; Mrs. Don Draper, Odessa; and Mrs. Joe Draper of St. Lawrence.

Mr. McClenny, who was born July 20, 1898, near Breckenridge, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.S. McClenny.

Mrs. McClenny, the former Janie Lera Draper, was born near Douglasville in Cass County. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Draper.

The couple met while attending business college in Abilene in 1920 and were married by the late Rev. S.H. Young Oct. 1, 1922 in her parents' home four miles north of Lorraine.

Their first home was in Tuscola, and a few months later, they moved to a farm north of Cisco. In June, 1927, they moved to Lorraine, where they resided until Sept. 29, 1934, when they moved to Big Spring. In April of 1970, they moved to their present home in Sand Springs.

Mr. McClenny was City Secretary of Big Spring from February, 1944 until his retirement Jan. 1, 1967.

Mr. and Mrs. McClenny have been members of the First United Methodist Church since 1934, and have been active in the Masonic Lodge and Order of the Eastern Star for 50 years. He is a member of the Staked Plains Lodge No. 598, Big Spring Chapter of Royal Arch Mason: Big Spring Council of Royal and Select Masters, Big Spring Commandry No. 31, and he served as Worthy Patron of OES three times.

Mrs. McClenny is a past Worthy Matron of Lorraine Chapter 570 and a past president of the Social Order of the Beauceant.

For the reception, Mrs. McClenny will wear a floor-length dress.

The refreshment table will be draped with a white linen cloth and will feature a crystal punch service and silver coffee service at either end of the table. The silver creamer and sugar bowl was a gift to the McClennys on their wedding day from Mr. McClenny's cousin, the late M.E. McClenny.

Big Springers featured in UTPB Art Exhibition

Big Springers Katy Weber and Kelly Draper will be honored with a reception opening an exhibition featuring their weavings and fiber sculpture at 7 p.m. Monday at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. Scheduled to run from 7 to 9 in the university gallery on the third floor of the Lab Building, the exhibit will remain at UTPB until Oct. 31. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Miss Weber, adjunct member in the UTPB art faculty, is also an art instructor at Howard College and serves there as director of the children's art program. She has taught art for the Elementary School Teacher, 3-D design, fiber, creative crafts and art appreciation.

Her works have been shown by the Midland Art Association, Webb Air Force Base, First National Bank, the Big Spring Art Association and Howard College.

Draper's works have been shown at the Howard County Fair, Howard College, First National Bank, the Big Spring Art Association and Big Spring High School.

Husband Still Close To First Wife's Parents

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I married Ted. His wife (Maxine) died and left him with two children, ages 6 and 8. This is my first marriage.

I say that after Maxine died, Ted is no longer related to Maxine's relatives. Ted says Maxine's parents will always be his in-laws.

Well, I have parents, too, so where does that leave them? A person can only have one set of in-laws at a time, and MY parents should be regarded as grandparents, too, and they aren't. The titles of "Grandma and Grandpa" go to Maxine's parents. My parents are called "Papa Pete and Mama Mary." Do you think this is fair? And what can I do about it?

IN-LAW TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Even though technically Ted is no longer the son-in-law of Maxine's parents, I advise you not to be so technical.

There is a strong bond between Ted's former in-laws and their grandchildren, so if you're wise, you won't tamper with those bonds because they were established before you came into the picture. Grandparents are grandparents forever.

Fresh Ideas are Grape!

Naturally sweet California table grapes are a great snack food—for dieters too! And with good reason. Grapes are satisfying and low in calories—a whole cupful provides a moderate 100 calories. In addition to their low calorie content, California grapes are refreshingly crisp and come bite-sized so a whole cupful can last a long time (consider how fast an ounce of chocolate or 10 potato chips can be gulped down for the same or more calories). And grapes supply necessary bulk and water, which, in turn, help create that “full” sensation. In all, grapes make a “grape” snack!

QUICK GRAPE DESSERTS
Start-rated desserts with California table grapes needn't take great amounts of planning or preparation. Superb desserts can be as simple as following ideas:

—FRUITED RICE: Into cold cooked rice, fold whipped cream or whipped dessert topping, peach slices, grapes. Sweeten to taste.

—FRUIT AND CREAM: Fill pretty goblets or wine glasses with frosty green seedless grapes. Spoon dollops of sour cream atop grapes; sprinkle with brown sugar and dust with cinnamon, allspice or nutmeg.

—ROSY GRAPEFRUIT CUP: Flavor fresh grapefruit sections with grenadine to taste. Serve in individual bowls or cups and decorate with a cluster of seedless green grapes.

THE THOMPSON SEEDLESS GRAPE: CALIFORNIA'S FAMOUS FRUIT

The Thompson seedless, the familiar “green” grape, is named after William Thompson, the farmer who first cultivated them in the 1890's. Thompson seedless grapes are light green and medium to large size. The clusters are long, conical and full; and they taste sweet yet sprightly.

Thompson seedless grapes are easy to use—no chopping, peeling or pitting—and they're already bite-sized. And with all their juice enclosed inside the delicate skin, grapes automatically make any dish juicier and more refreshing. These special flavor and convenience characteristics of Thompson seedless grapes have made them the all-time favorite grapes.

PARTY IDEAS USING CALIFORNIA TABLE GRAPES

Here are some marvelous entertaining ideas with fresh California grapes:

—Place wedges of fresh pineapple, seedless grapes, fresh peach slices and several strawberries in tall glasses. Fill the glass with orange juice and one ounce of rum or vodka and serve with a straw.

—Drop a grape in glasses of chilled wine for pre-dinner cocktails.

—Garnish a barbecued roast or chicken with red, green and blue-black grapes. For added elegance, frost the grapes first by dipping the grapes cluster in slightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with sugar. Dry on racks before arranging.

Reuben is Marvy Sandwich

In France, where pastries are considered an essential to life, the local pastry shop is a centuries-old tradition. The French baker dreams up countless numbers of mouth-watering confections to entice any pastry lover.

The French attribute their totally irresistible desserts to a basic pastry, “pate a choux.” We know it as cream puff pastry. It's surprisingly simple to prepare and the results are grand. Versatile too, the rich dough can be shaped for small appetizers, individual serving-size desserts, or one family-sized pastry.

You can bring a bit of this refined French tradition of pastry-making into your own kitchen with Grapes Parisienne, a flaky puff pastry, filled with sweet, juicy California grapes and a vanilla filling. Crisp, tangy California table grapes make this dessert extra special. They're the perfect contrast—in flavor, color and texture—to the smooth rich filling (made from a mix, though you'd never guess). The result is impressive—and refreshingly satisfying.

When shopping for grapes for this recipe or for out-of-hand snacking, be sure to select plump, ripe grapes that cling tightly to pliable green stems. Crisp California grapes are available almost year 'round, and right now blue-black Ribiers, and Red Cardinals, beautiful black Exotics and Red Malagas are being featured in local markets, as well as the favorite Thompson seedless. Try a medley of grape varieties in Grapes Parisienne for colorful (and yummy!) results.

1/2 c. water
1/4 c. butter or margarine
1/2 c. flour
Dash salt
1 tsp. sugar
2 eggs
3/4 c. milk
1 c. whipping cream
1 pkg. (3 1/2 ozs.) instant vanilla pudding and pie filling
3 c. California seedless grapes (if seeded varieties are used, halve and seed)
Powdered sugar
In heavy saucepan, bring water and butter to boil. Quickly stir in flour, salt and sugar. Cook and stir batter until it leaves sides of pan and forms a ball. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Outline a 7-inch circle on greased baking sheet. Spoon batter around sheet. Spoon with back of spoon to form a 1-inch thick ring, 1 1/2-inch wide. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees, and bake 5 to 10 minutes more, or until golden. Turn off oven, open door and let cool 10 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare filling: Pour milk and cream into mixer bowl. Add pudding mix; beat at low speed until blended, about 2 minutes. To assemble: with sharp knife, carefully cut a slice off top of ring. Spoon half the filling into hollow. Sprinkle half the grapes over filling.

'Pate a Choux'—Cream Puff Pastry

The Reuben Sandwich may have had its start way back in 1914. It definitely became famous in 1956. And it has been satisfying hearty appetites ever since. The 1914 story comes from New York City's long-famous Reuben restaurant family who say it was invented one evening when a famous actress of the day came into Reuben's claiming to be hungry enough to eat a brick. Instead, restaurateur Reuben concocted a sandwich using rye bread, Virginia ham, sliced roast turkey, Swiss cheese, cole slaw and Russian dressing. The later version of the birth of the Reuben comes from Fern Snider, the Omaha waitress who won first place in the National Sandwich Contest with it in 1956. Ms. Snider tells that her Reuben was created by her uncle's poker buddy, Reuben Kay. Her version of story and sandwich are the ones most commonly accepted. The Omaha sandwich is made by heaping sauerkraut, Russian dressing, corned beef and Swiss cheese between slices of rye. The whole thing is then grilled.

Although the classic Reuben sandwich is a wonderful thing, indeed, there is no question that it does not belong on the menu of anyone who is trying to follow a modified fat, low cholesterol diet. These days, that includes almost anyone who is conscious of the relationship of high blood cholesterol and heart disease. Fortunately, for all those people and for anyone who loves a new idea in king-sized sandwiches, there is this New Reuben Sandwich. This is a recipe from the makers of Mazola margarine, a product that is high in polyunsaturates, low in saturated fats and has no cholesterol.

NEW REUBEN SANDWICH

12 slices rye bread
6 tbsps. Mazola margarine
2-3rds c. real mayonnaise
3 tbsps. chili sauce
3 c. shredded cabbage
1 lb. thinly sliced cooked chicken
2 medium tomatoes (12 slices)
Spread one side of each bread slice with 1/2 tablespoon margarine. Mix together real mayonnaise and chili sauce. Fold in cabbage. On the plain side of 6 slices of bread place sliced chicken, cabbage mixture and tomato slices. Close sandwiches with margarine sides out. In large frypan or griddle over medium heat, cook sandwiches on both sides 3 to 5 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 6 sandwiches.

French ham sandwiches entice breakfast skippers

Breakfast skippers will be enticed by this fancy breakfast in a sandwich that can be made the night before and cooked in minutes. Everyone has enjoyed French toast, bread dipped in egg and milk and fried. French toast, developed at least five centuries ago by thrifty homemakers, seems to be a homely dish, an economical way to use stale or “lost” bread. But once dry bread has been transformed into French toast—dipped in custard and fried crisp on the outside tender, on the inside—the lost is found and, appropriately, the Belgians call it “pain trouble” or “found bread.” Add slices of ham and some special seasonings to French toast and the result is this breakfast skipper's temptation called French Ham Sandwiches.

Ham sandwiches spread with mustard butter are soaked in an egg and milk mixture flavored with Worcestershire sauce then broiled. The custard soaked bread will puff and turn golden brown under the broiler for a tempting breakfast few people will be able to pass up. Serve French Ham Sandwiches with your favorite syrup, orange juice and glasses of nutritious milk for a total of only 683 calories. Breakfast should provide about one-third of the day's food requirements.

This is a well-balanced meal with each of the four basic food groups represented, and the addition of whole milk to the menu supplies a breakfast with many of the required daily nutrients he needs for energy and good health without adding unnecessary calories. An 8-ounce glass of whole milk adds only 160 calories to your daily calorie total because it's 99 per cent fat-free.

FRENCH HAM SANDWICHES

3 tbsps. butter, softened
1 1/2 tbsps. prepared mustard
8 slices (3/4" thick) Vienna bread
4 slices (1-oz. each) cooked ham
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 c. milk
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/4 tsp. salt
Blend butter and mustard; spread on both sides of bread. Place ham on four slices of bread; top with remaining four slices. Combine eggs, milk, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Place sandwiches in buttered 9-inch square baking pan; pour egg-milk mixture over sandwiches. Turn sandwiches to coat both sides evenly. Allow to stand 30 minutes or overnight in refrigerator. Remove to broiler pan; broil sandwiches 6 inches from heat, 3-4 minutes; turn and broil until golden brown. Serve with maple or fruit syrup. Makes 4 servings.

353 sandwiches, 60 calories per tablespoon syrup
110 calories—1 cup orange juice, 160 calories—1 cup milk
683 calories—total breakfast

MMM MMM GOOD—Children in a New Orleans elementary school enjoy their sandwiches and milk at lunch. Louisiana legislators are trying to institute a program to help underprivileged children receive breakfast and lunches at little or no cost to their parents. They say that proper nutrition is an important factor in a child's education.

Bring a sponge

with Marj Carpenter

Way back in the dredges of my mind is a memory of what a Tech fan told me in 1967 the very first time that Texas Tech ever defeated the University of Texas in Southwest Conference Play. Tech had just won at Lubbock by a score of 19-13 after being defeated 8 straight years by 12-7, 17-0, 42-14, 34-0, 49-7, 23-0, 33-7 and 31-21.

My Tech fan friend said when I went to complaining and crying, "I'll buy you a sponge to dry your tears." And I had to laugh.

What brought that all up is this week's game between Tech and A&M. Now I rode up to the game with some Aggies because I enjoy seeing Tech beaten at Tech.

It's hard to do up there with the big crowds, and the red shirts, and the horse going boogie-de-doo around the track and all of the pageantry they have mastered so well.

I came home Sunday morning and read in Danny there's nothing much sadder than May singing the "Eyes of Texas." So when he arrived at work Tuesday morning, I started a verse of "The Spirit of Aggieland." And he didn't like that song a whole lot better.

Reagan says bravely, "I didn't rub it in last year when we beat Texas. I took into consideration your feelings."

Well I thought that over and our memories differ. But he didn't really have to rub it in much after he printed a front page sports section story with headlines in our biggest type saying Tech makes Texas see RED and he had the RED in red.

Inside the section was a full page of pictures of that game with a side bar called "Oh How Sweet It Is." After all of that, there would be very little left to rub in with. I was already demoralized by the time I read it all and got to work.

I did mutter one phrase last year, "If Glen Campbell hadn't gotten hurt, we would have won." The answer given by Reagan was also one phrase, "Ha."

Well, on Tuesday of this week, our sports editor wrote a beautiful column for the Tech fans. It really was good and sad. But it said that if Allison hadn't gotten hurt, Tech probably would have defeated A&M. Well I've been debating over whether to simply reiterate by saying "Ha," like he said about Campbell, or whether to use my old Tech friend's philosophy back in 1967 by saying, "I'll bring you a sponge."

I've said in here many times that Texas A&M is my alma mater. It was war years when I went to college and there wasn't much gasoline and we all went close to home.

Texas A&M has the longest winning streak in the nation right now. All three of my youngsters are or have been students at the University of Texas. And I'm now a Hook 'Em Horns fan.

Back in my youth, I went to many an Aggie game and my second loyalty in the Southwest Conference always slips back to A&M. I root for them every game but the Turkey Day special.

Now I understand the Aggies' feelings. As Jack Cook puts it, loyal Aggies would root for Moscow, Russia over the University of Texas. And that's all right.

I enjoy seeing Texas beat the Aggies. But I'll have to admit that I enjoy most of all seeing Texas beat Tech — especially when it's at Tech.

I loved the game in 1970 when Texas was No. 1 in the nation and won up at Lubbock 35-13. Billy Dale played a lousy first half and a great second half that day.

I loved the game back up there in 1972 when Texas emerged 25-20. Then in 1974, Troy Bryant was there and knows how I felt about that game when Texas lost 3-26. But Texas bounced back and won 42-18 in 1975 and then last year, Tech won again back up there by 31-28. And "Ha" or "No Ha," Glen Campbell was hurt.

Reagan, the more I think about that game, and that story and that page of pictures and that RED headline, I'm not going to offer to get a sponge after reading that rear-jerking column Tuesday.

Bring your own sponge. After all, you have a chance to throw all of this right back in my face this season. Tech and Texas haven't played yet out by anybody's fence.

Evacuation: He forgot his teeth

KENNESAW, Ga. (AP) — When the small, gray cloud of ammonia and smoke from a train wreck drifted toward Shady Grove Nursing Home, officials evacuated the elderly residents so fast one forgot his false teeth.

"They were practically shoving us out the door," said 90-year-old Oscar Hickey, one of 26 elderly residents evacuated on Wednesday to escape the toxic fumes from a burning railroad tank car.

Randy Lewis, disaster chairman for the Red Cross, said that when the wind started blowing ammonia fumes toward the home, officials evacuated the 26 residents within 15 minutes.

"These people can't afford to be exposed," he said. "A good whiff of ammonia might gag a healthy person, but for some of these people one good whiff could put them over the edge."

Twenty of them spent the day at the Wildwood Baptist Church near this small town about 30 miles north of Atlanta. Six, who were bedridden, were taken to Kennestone Hospital.

"I was a little bit scared," said Leila Wade, 88, sitting the church's recreation room describing how she and others were gathered together and told of the danger by Red Cross and Civil Defense workers.

"Well, it sure didn't scare me none," said blue-eyed, white-haired Mary Singleton, 83. "I just said, 'Lord, if it's for me, it's all right.' Those were my thoughts. He's never let me down."

"Oh Lord, we were praying," said Willie A. Nunn.

But Mrs. Nunn, who joined in a gospel song while a nurse played the piano, said she was having fun. "I don't get out too often," she noted. "I grabbed for some things and was in such a hurry I came away without my teeth," said the pajama-clad Hickey, smiling broadly nevertheless.

About a dozen other residents in the area also fled, but were allowed to return to their homes Wednesday night.

The tank car, which carried anhydrous ammonia, was one of 20 rail cars that derailed in a thickly wooded area when the engines of two Louisville and Nashville freight trains sideswiped. Three other cars, laden with canned food and flour, also caught fire but were quickly doused.

Crystal City aid miffs many South Texas Folks

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — A federal aide intended to bail Crystal City out of an overdue gas bill is predictably making citizens in that South Texas town happy, but some other communities facing the same rising gas prices are miffed.

Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. shut off the gas to the city of 8,000 for non-payment of a $750,000 bill accrued when rates were hiked with the blessings of the governing Texas Railroad Commission.

Several courts found in favor of Lo-Vaca as city officials challenged the validity of the increase.

Tuesday, the federal Community Services Administration authorized aid in the amount of $200,000, to be used in negotiating a settlement with Lo-Vaca and to buy small electric appliances and alternate fuels.

Crystal City Mayor Francisco Benavides said his city is justified in accepting the money. "They give a lot of foreign aid to places like Israel," Benavides said. "At least now it will stay in the country."

But in the surrounding towns of Uvalde, Del Rio and Carrizo Springs, some officials think Crystal City should have to live with its problem. Each of those communities had also refused to pay the higher rates to Lo-Vaca, but placed funds in escrow pending litigation and negotiation. Carrizo Springs paid its bill Friday, when the gas was cut off to Crystal City.

Don Newquist, Lo-Vaca vice president, said Uvalde and Del Rio will have to be included in any negotiations with the CSA to settle Crystal City's debt.

Uvalde City Manager Jack Caffall believes his town should also be considered for federal aid.

"We have a lot of poor people here in Uvalde," said Caffall. "Our poor people are as entitled to relief from the federal government as the poor people in Crystal City."

"It's an extremely unwise decision. It's just politicians bailing out the local politicians who should have reaped the rewards of their actions and been voted out," Caffall said.

Uvalde has about $980,000 in escrow.

Del Rio City Manager James A. Hester said:

"I have no argument with the attempt to help them buy stoves. But I don't see how it's reasonable for the federal government to pay their bill, to reward them for mismanagement," he said.

Del Rio has $1.4 million in its escrow account pending court rulings.

"We have no choice here but to cut people off when they can't pay," he said.

Gutierrez said the CSA decision has left him "upset."

"Our citizens here have made the sacrifice. We have a lot of poor people but we have a little more pride," he said. "It's not fair. It's not fair at all."

Gutierrez said Del Rio voters would not stand for the mismanagement he sees in Crystal City. The mayor himself faced an August recall election because of a controversy on the location of the town's new firehouse.

Benavides doesn't agree that the city government of Crystal City is at fault. He said Lo-Vaca is to blame "because when we signed the contract in 1973 at a set price, we were led to believe that Lo-Vaca had enough reserves to supply gas at that price."

"Then, a year later, they said they did not have enough reserves and they pushed the prices up," he said.

He said the federal aid is justified because 65 per cent of Crystal City's residents, himself included, are migrant workers and the city has an unemployment rate of 19 per cent and another 12 per cent of the work force is underemployed.

A Lo-Vaca statement said the company is prepared to meet with CSA officials.

"We think federal impact aid to help individual residents of the city to receive alternate funds is appropriate. The city council's problems were not created by the residents themselves and some residents are having a difficult time," the statement said.

Woman accused of imprisoning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 44-year-old Van Nuys woman accused of unlawfully imprisoning 12 mentally deficient Californians in Texas has waived extradition and is to go to that state for trial.

Attorneys for Lillian Gobert say she has decided not to contest her transport to Texas on 12 counts of false imprisonment. It was reported Thursday.

She has been accused of keeping the 12 captive without adequate food in an unlicensed "rest home" that has been described as filthy and roach-infested.

Mishap kills tot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The three-month old son of a Kingsville couple died Wednesday after the family's pickup truck struck a culvert alongside U.S. 183 south of here.

The victim was Jeremy Malone. The child's father, Rocky Malone, 20, was in serious condition at Brackenridge Hospital. The mother, Claudia, 18, was in fair condition.

The accident occurred at 5:30 a.m., and state troopers said the driver may have fallen asleep.

Cub Scout leader faces sex charges

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police arrested a 21-year-old Cub Scout leader Wednesday after scouts alleged he forced them to perform homosexual acts.

The comment of one scout, who said he didn't want to attend a meeting because "I don't like to play nasty," aroused his mother's suspicion and led her to contact police.

Upon further questioning, the boy said his pack leader forced him and others to take part in homosexual activities.

Police said three scouts were questioned and their stories matched.

The man arrested is a former security guard.

In a statement, Lloyd Flood, president of the Longhorn Scout Council, said he was "infuriated" by the report.

"The Boy Scouts of America regret this incident immensely, of course. We do absolutely remain confident in our program and the integrity of all of our volunteer leaders," Flood said.

Officers said they expected sexual abuse of a child charges to be filed today.

VOYAGER — Nashville boatbuilder Allen Cargile stands by a single-engine boat similar to the one he piloted across the Atlantic Ocean with two crew members. Cargile made the 4,500 nautical mile trip to Paris to commemorate the 50th anniversary of Charles Lindbergh's flight to Paris.

'Spirit of Nashville'

He pilots one-engine boat across Atlantic

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Inspired by Charles Lindbergh and amazed no one had made the nautical equivalent of the Lone Eagle's historic New York to Paris voyage, Allen Cargile decided to pilot a single-engine boat across the Atlantic Ocean.

"This was the 50th anniversary of Lindbergh's flight to Paris," Cargile, a Nashville boatbuilder, said in an interview. "My goodness, he did it in a single-engine plane so I figured I could do it in a single-engine boat."

The "Spirit of Nashville" left New York July 16 with a crew of four — Lindbergh, of course, was alone — but a freak storm forced it to dock in Newfoundland and one member disembarked. The 30-foot cabin cruiser, propelled by a 130-horsepower engine, braved another storm and bone-chilling temperatures and arrived in Paris Aug. 16, 4,500 nautical miles from the start.

"It didn't sputter once — 750 hours of humming," Cargile said. "The engine seemed to be saying, 'Don't worry, you do your part with the storm and I'll get you there.'"

Cargile said the craft was the smallest single-engine boat to cross the Atlantic without a sail.

He said his crew, Ed Gillespie and Bill Flanagan, stayed in good spirits despite close, leaking quarters. "Each member volunteered to cook the meals and take the watches," Cargile said. "We worked together to conquer the elements."

Hamburger, steak and chicken stored in two freezers were cooked in a microwave oven. Water, 90 gallons of it, was stored in jerry cans so the crew could keep track of consumption.

"We ate all we wanted, but stayed trim because of the 15-degree roll and the constant wracking of trying to stay in bunks," Cargile said.

The crew took shorts, khakis and jeans because the boat was to take the warm Gulf Stream up the Great Circle that curves into the English Channel. The two-day layover in Newfoundland forced the boat into colder seas, however, where temperatures dropped into the 40s.

Water couldn't drain through the bilge because of the fuel tanks, and the cabin was soggy most of the voyage. "We all had wet feet most of the time," Cargile said. "We all had about an eighth of an inch of dead skin on our feet that mildewed off."

The skipper said the trip proved he wasn't as crazy as people thought.

"If you sit down and calculate the data and go to the trouble to load everything on board to check it, you can see it could be done. It was a simple thing that was laid out before me and I wondered why someone else hadn't done it."

Personal income rises in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Personal income has increased in Texas an average of 11.4 per cent over the past seven years, compared with a national average of 9.3 per cent, reports Texas Business Review.

Among the top five income-producing states, only Texas exceeds the national average. California's growth rate ties the national average, and New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania fall below it.

Employment in Texas was up in June by four tenths of one per cent from May and up 2.7 per cent from June a year ago.

The June total was 5,439,900, the highest number of persons with jobs ever recorded in Texas.

Ali favored over Shavers tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight it's Earnie Shavers' turn to take a crack at the world heavyweight boxing title held by Muhammad Ali, who belittles his bald-headed challenger by calling him "The Acorn" or "Earnie Shavers."

The fight, 15 rounds or less at Madison Square Garden, will be the 35-year-old Ali's 22nd title fight.

It also will be Ali's 19th title defense in his two terms as champion and it comes one year and one day after Ali's unanimous 15-round decision over Ken Norton in Yankee Stadium.

Hardly anyone expects this fight to go 15 rounds and hardly anyone expects a victory by the 33-year-old Shavers, of Warren, Ohio.

Shavers, whose chin and stamina are questionable, feels he can go 15 rounds, but acknowledges it would be extremely difficult for him to win a decision. His best chance lies in his strength vs.-strength battle against the 35-year-old champion — Shavers' devastating punch against Ali's great ability to take a punch.

"He can't hit harder than Sonny Liston, or Joe Frazier or George Forman," said Ali.

"I'll put a lot of pressure on him and if I hit him on the chin he'll go," said Shavers. "He has a lot more wars, tough fights. They start taking a toll on you."

Ali, who officially weighed 225 to 211½ for Shavers Wednesday, preferred to talk about experience and the ability to handle the pressure of heavyweight title fights.

"I'll tell you about this sport," said Ali. "It's like a horse race, like a stock auto race. It's the brains that win, not the physical ability."

Then the champion jumped on the fact that, except for a brief confrontation at a midtown news conference Monday, the Shavers camp has kept its fighter away from a face-to-face meeting with Ali.

"He's scared," said Ali of the 33-year-old challenger, who weighed-in and left before the champion appeared.

"He seriously doesn't want to see me here. But he'll have to face me in the ring. Then when he hears the national anthem" — Ali then hummed a few bars — "and when he hears the crowd start shouting, 'Ali, Ali, Ali,' he's gonna say to himself, 'I must be crazy. What did I get into?' Then while the referee is giving instructions, I'm gonna reach over and shine his head."

The chants of "Ali, Ali, Ali" should start around 10 p.m. EDT. The fight is scheduled to start about 10 minutes later. It will be televised live by NBC, with no blackout of the New York metropolitan area. Garden officials are hoping for a crowd of at least 15,000.

Carew's making records

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Sweet-swinging Rod Carew is having the kind of season that has baseball buffs thumbing through the record books.

Carew has a lofty .384 batting average and has long been assured of winning his sixth American League batting title. That ties him with Ted Williams.

Only Ty Cobb, with 12, Honus Wagner with eight, and Roger Hornsby and Stan Musial with seven each have won more batting crowns. Carew will turn 32 Saturday and figures to have at least three or four more topflight seasons.

His career average of .334 is tops among active players and is the second highest since the advent of night baseball more than 35 years ago. Williams retired in 1960 with a career average of .344. Musial had a .331 mark when he called it quits in 1963.

very well-balanced offense," said Steer Coach Don Robbins.

Still, with a new determination in the Steer defense, the locals are not expected to lay down their taps and be wallflowers all night long.

Any turning point in the game will have to center around the Steer offense's ability or inability to move the ball. Quarterback Mike Abreo may be ready to start after an eye injury . . . if not him, then Ricky Myers. Eddie Puga will also replace an ailing Ricky Cluck at half back, and powerplug Robbie Wegner will complete the backfield as fullback. Coach Robbins has predicted an output of 21 points a game would be needed to keep the Steers in competition during district battles.

Kent Rice, out with the two-day bug, is the only member of the defense who may miss the game. Ricky Torres would start in place of him. Joey Vasquez, who had just recovered from a wrenched knee, and was to start, sprained his ankle and will not see action.

The Steers will leave Friday afternoon from the east side of Steer Gym at approximately 3:15. They will eat their post-game meal at Mac Eppin's River Oaks Cafeteria at South 14th and Willis in Abilene. Game time is 8 p.m., and weather conditions are expected to be near-perfect.

Steers face Abilene in first loop game

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers enter District 5-4A competition Friday night in Abilene's Shotwell Stadium against rookie coach Louie Spinks' lethal Eagles.

Abilene's Glen Stirman, one of the only two experienced signal callers in the league this season, heads up a potent offensive threat that has the Warbirds favored in every camp except one pup tent in Big Spring.

One Abilene sportswriter, commenting on the upcoming duel, wrote: "The Eagles realize now that they can compete with any team after a near upset of Temple. Unfortunately, I can't say the same for Big Spring. This is the beginning of the Steers' annual skid through district. They should have scheduled Hobbs (N.M.) the whole season."

With an under-rated defense that held powerhouse Andrews to only 14 points, and kept Hobbs behind their own 50-yard line all night, the Steers just might "skid" a little slower this season.

The Bovine defense will have a full night of dancing with the fleet-feet, gotta nice beat, give 'em a 90 Eagles. Reggie Fields, a greatly talented "I-back", is expected to lead the band. His 9.6 speed, and ability to get quickly to either side of the line from his spot behind the quarterback and fullback, will make him a difficult partner to follow.

Stirman, the 6-2, 180-pound all-district talent, can also sweep around end with the ball and run a little option series, in addition to the skills he possesses with that powerful arm. "They have a

Yankees can grab pennant tonight

By the Associated Press

The New York Yankees are closing the door in the American League East race and have the opportunity to lock it tonight for good.

"It feels lovely," said New York Manager Billy Martin, whose Yankees can do no worse than tie for their second straight East pennant.

The Yankees' enviable position is a result of their 10-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, combined with Boston's 3-2 loss to the Toronto Blue Jays.

That left the Yankees' "magic number" at one for clinching the division title. That can be accomplished with a victory over Cleveland tonight, or a loss by both Boston and Baltimore. The Red Sox host the Blue Jays again and the Orioles play at home to the Detroit Tigers, a team they beat 3-2 in 11 innings Wednesday night.

"No one lost this race —

Time changed

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — TCU officials said unseasonably not weather is the reason Saturday's contest against Arkansas has been moved back from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The decision to change the kickoff time came from H. Lawrence Wilsey, TCU executive vice chancellor.

New York just went out and won it," said Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski, all but conceding the division title to the Yankees, who are playing their most consistent baseball of the season.

Of course the championship does not officially belong to the Yankees yet. Some of the people in the Boston camp are quick to point that out, even in jest.

"New York can lose four in a row, can't they?" noted catcher Carlton Fisk.

That's exactly what will have to happen, along with Boston winning four straight, for the teams to finish in a tie for first.

Baltimore has a similar opportunity to pull off the minor baseball miracle.

"We still have four games left, including three big ones there and try to win them all," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer.

In other American League games, the Oakland A's nipped the Kansas City Royals 6-5 in 10 innings; the Texas Rangers turned back the Seattle Mariners 3-1; the California Angels defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 and the Chicago White Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 4-3.

Attendance drops

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Conference football teams have drawn 598,719 fans in 16 home games so far this year.

SWC officials say that's an average of 37,420 per contest. The total is about five per cent below the 1976 full-season average of 39,240.

Staubach's leadership still main plus factor

There are so many outstanding leadership and personality traits about Roger Staubach that it is somewhat impossible to zero in on one or two that really separate the 35-year-old quarterback from the rest.

But two characteristics do come to mind when discussing how it is that this native of Silverton, Ohio (a suburb of Cincinnati), continues to provide unquestioned leadership on the Dallas Cowboys.

They are Staubach's "never beaten" spirit and the manner in which he drives himself to perfection. He is, indeed, a perfectionist when working at his craft.

Staubach is one player who seems impossible to hold at bay. He exemplifies the old never-say-die attitude and has a track record to prove it.

Roger's best-remembered "never beaten" performances came in two divisional playoff contests — San Francisco in 1972 and at Minnesota in 1975.

In the former, Staubach returned from pre-season shoulder surgery and a reason of inactivity to fire a pair of final-minute touchdown passes and snatch a 30-28 victory from the 49ers when all seemed lost.

In the latter, the now famous "Hail Mary" game, Staubach hooked up with Drew Pearson on a desperation 50-yard TD pass in the final half minute.

Staubach was back to torment the Vikings again two weeks ago, leading the Cowboys to a 16-10 win with a four-yard touchdown run in overtime. It was the first Vikings home loss since the Hail Mary game two years ago.

Never one to flaunt his undaunted spirit, Staubach simply stated in the locker room following the game: "I took a lucky bounce into the end zone off (Vikings middle linebacker) Jeff Siemon. If he would have hit me head-on,

I probably would have ended up on the 10-yard line."

But Staubach's never beaten attitude is topped only by his drive to be a perfectionist.

After picking the New York Giants apart last Sunday (18 of 29 passes for 235 yards and one touchdown), Staubach wasn't ready to personally accept the locker room bouquets being tossed him by interviewing reporters.

With typical patience, Staubach told a knot of writers and broadcasters around him, "I know of three passes in the second half that I missed on third downs that kinda hurt us. I threw a little high to Robert Newhouse on third and four, and missed Drew (Pearson) by throwing one the second half: "I came back to Drew because he made good adjustments. He caught two on that one drive when he wasn't even the (primary) receiver. The guys were open, running good routes. I should have hit them quicker."

Staubach also praised the running of Newhouse, Preston Pearson and Dorsett before someone reminded him that the offense netted 44 yards for the day.

"That's a good total offense figure," Staubach admitted. "That's where we were early last year. When you get that many yards, it's a good team effort by the offense and everyone on the unit is contributing."

"I personally believe our team is going to improve as the season goes on. Our offense can get better and will."

Then Staubach loosened up from the 100-plus degree temperatures (on the field), the steamy locker room atmosphere, and his usual game-day tenseness, long enough to smile about getting roughed by the Giants during the first half. Following the personal foul call, Coach Tom Landry inserted back-up quarterback Danny White in the game.

"He (Landry) has great confidence in Danny too," said Staubach. "After they called the personal foul, Tom got me out of there and told me to 'take it easy for a little bit.' I also was having cramps in my legs from the heat and he wasn't going to keep me in there very long because of my condition. I was fine though — able to go back in."

Staubach, as all around him know, would want to go back in even with several broken bones. It's the perfectionist in him that drives him to never be beaten, to never give up the ship.

Isn't that the way it is with every good Naval officer?

behind him, and there was another one when I overthrew Preston (Pearson) on a rollout right at the start of the second half. It was a big play because he was wide open.

"We just missed a couple passes or otherwise we could have controlled the ball." As it turned out, the Cowboys did not sell the game away until five minutes into the fourth quarter when Tony Dorsett ran 34 yards for a touchdown and an insurmountable 20-point lead.

Always one to laud his teammates' efforts, Staubach praised Drew Pearson on two catches that came later in Pros picked here!

By the Associated Press

Okay, so the Cleveland Browns are for real — but do you really expect this fairy tale to go on forever?

Granted, they looked nothing short of spectacular last Monday night against New England. Granted, the Pittsburgh Steelers looked less-than-sensational against the Oakland Raiders last Sunday.

But do you actually think the Browns can beat the Steelers?

"We do ... so we're going with a National Football League Upset Special. We're picking Cleveland to find the slivers of space in Pittsburgh's defense, nose out the Steelers and take command of the American Conference's Central Division."

Maybe the fairy tale won't go on forever. Midnight is fast approaching, in the form of the silver and black of Oakland. But for now, the white mice are stallions, the pumpkin really is a coach — and the coach (Forrest Gregg, of course) is a genius.

Last week's 10-4 mark put the season record at 18-10, 643. This week's picks:

Browns 17, Steelers 13

Maybe we're impressed by the extra bit of inventiveness, of daring, of spirit that the Browns have exhibited — and the Steelers haven't. Maybe Brian Sipe isn't better than Terry Bradshaw. And maybe Cleveland won't be able to cope with the Steel Curtain.

But, like the Browns, we can dream, can't we?

Raiders 35, Chiefs 10

Remember when an Oakland-Kansas City meeting meant all-out war? The only thing it'll mean Monday night is a lot of channel-changing by halftime.

Redskins 20, Cardinals 16

You could call this an upset. You could call it a toss-up. If you're looking for a reason why Washington's the pick, look somewhere else.

Broncos 30, Seahawks 21

Defense, Denver's got it. Seattle's gonna get it right in the teeth!

Cowboys 48, Bucs 10

It's the battle of two top running backs, Tampa Bay's Ricky Bell vs. Dallas' Tony Dorsett. Bell may have been No. 1 in the draft, but you know the Cowboys will have his number.

Franklin's foot may decide outcome of game

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — What the Detroit Lions — or any other National Football League team, for that matter — wouldn't give to get Tony Franklin.

But alas, the Texas A&M barefoot kicker is only a junior.

Coach Bo Schembechler of Michigan probably wishes Franklin was a senior — last year. Then he wouldn't have to worry about him Saturday when the third-ranked Wolverines play at home against the No. 5 Aggies.

Schembechler calls Franklin "the greatest kicker in football. You don't get returns, and you don't get field position."

Michigan has prided itself on its defense during Schembechler's nine-year tenure, but this season's Wolverines have had much more trouble holding opponents' offenses so far. If they can't keep Coach Emory Bellard's Aggies in their own territory, they'll have to worry about Franklin.

"He can kick a field goal any time from midfield," Schembechler said.

Last week A&M, ranked sixth, met seventh-ranked Texas Tech and won 33-17 on the strength of Franklin's field goals of 48, 25, 51 and 39 yards.

Last year as a sophomore, Franklin twice in one game set the National Collegiate Athletic Association field goal record. His first one was a 64-yarder and he bettered that with a 65-yard kick.

This season he has made all 10 of his touchdown conversion kicks and has hit on six of 10 field goal tries. His misses came from 51, 54, 59 and 65 yards out.

Spec Gammon, A&M's sports information director, said Franklin kicked a practice field goal 75 yards.

Franklin is a 5-foot-9, 170-pounder from Fort Worth, Texas. This is his third season as the Aggies' placekicker. Last year he was on the All-Southwest Conference team.

Michigan's kickers are Nick Labun and Gregg Willner. Labun handles kickoffs and Willner the point-after-tries and field goal attempts. He missed a 29-yard field goal try in the Wolverines' 14-7 triumph last Saturday over Navy.

Texas A&M's punter is David Appleby. He averaged 45 yards in five punts against Tech, including booming kicks of 63 and 59 yards.

NOT FOR SALE! — Barefoot Tony Franklin, a Texas A&M junior from Ft. Worth, tied a NCAA record of 4 field goals in one quarter against Texas Tech. Sat. in Lubbock. Oddly, the record was set on Oct. 16th last year by Vince Fusco of Duke against Clemson, the same day Franklin set NCAA distance records of 64 and 65 yards and Ove Johansson of ACU hit a NAA record of 69 yards. Franklin has hit 39 of 65 attempts in three years, but this is the first time he ever tied and won a game.

Astronomical football

FORT DAVIS, Tex. (AP) — The stars at night are big and bright in West Texas. But nowhere are they bigger and brighter than over tiny Fort Davis — where they even outshine the Friday night frenzy of high school football.

Fort Davis is nestled against Mt. Locke, a part of the Davis Mountain range whose most notable protrusion is the University of Texas' world-renowned McDonald Observatory.

Scientists the world over like to stargaze at the observatory, and a lighted football field would wreak reflective havoc with the sensitive optical equipment used by the learned lookers.

It's not only the Class B football team that pays the price.

They play on Friday afternoons to keep everyone happy, but the city's street lights are also a problem.

The 900 citizens have few street lights, and no more are planned for the community.

"Nobody would like to play under the lights every Friday like we would," said Coach Ronnie Bourland. "But any kind of reflection or strong light from town limits the viewing from the observatory."

Bourland said the light restriction causes consternation among visiting teams. "They don't understand why the games are scheduled in the daytime."

Broadrick gets ace

Dr. Broadway Broadrick of Big Spring garnered his first career hole-in-one Wednesday at the Big Spring Country Club.

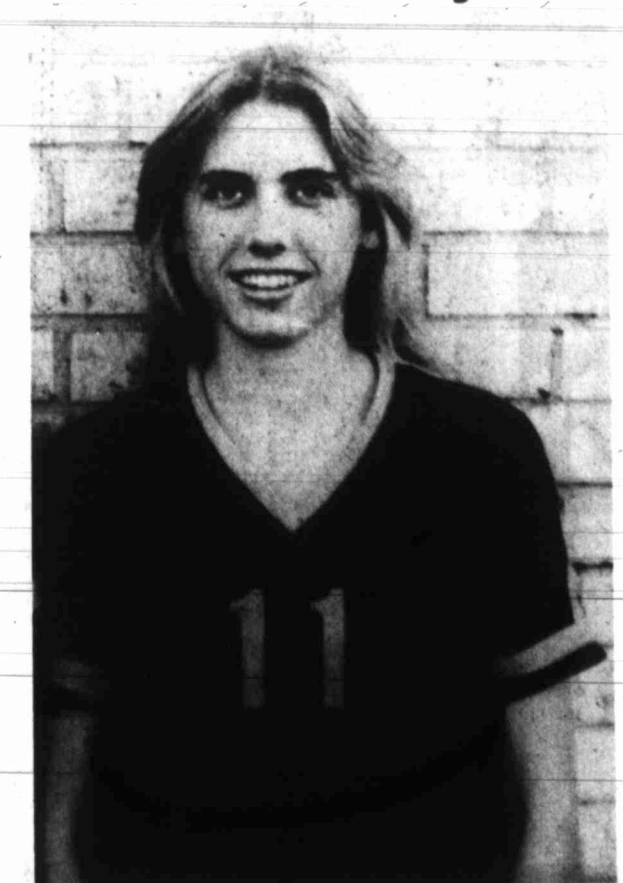

Broadrick used a five iron to ace the No. 7, 159-yard par three hole. Witnessing the feat were C.G. Griffin, club pro, Buck Drake, Spot Cockrell and J.R. Farmer.

WGA plays it straight

Straight golf was played by WGA of Big Spring Country Club on Ladies Day. Low gross was won by Peggy Marshall with an 87, low net of 70 was made by Madeline Atkins, and Flo Hallam made it around with 31 putts. In the 9-hole flight Julie Shirey won with 16 putts.

A short business meeting will be held next Tuesday, October 4 at 9:00 a.m., when prizes will be awarded. The Ringer Tournament starts next Tuesday, also, and will run through November.

VBers lose to Mojo

The Big Spring High School volleyball team suffered its first district defeat of the young season Tuesday night, falling to Permian, 15-6, 10-15, 15-11. Shanna Farmer was high pointer with eight, while Cassandra Green and Sherri Kelley followed with seven and six, respectively.

Big Spring played well enough considering a new offensive lineup, but costly serving errors (10) and a strong Permian backcourt defense kept the locals off balance.

Captains Becky Ragan and Sherri Kelley plus Suzanne Johnson had strong spiking and blocking games, and did a good job placing sets, according to Coach Nancy Deason. "A lack of balance and missed assignments caused the breakdown," said Deason, "but as a whole it was a good team effort."

The BSHS junior varsity defeated Permian 15-12, 11-15, 15-13 Tuesday. Missey Baker came off the bench to serve a high eight points. Penny Ray and Debbie Wiggins followed with seven each. The JV's are now 8-1 on the season and 3-0 in district play.

The JV's and varsity teams entertain Midland Lee tonight, at 6 and 7 p.m. respectively in Steer Gym. The varsity will also compete in the "Tournament of Champions" this Friday at Duncanville this Friday at 3 p.m.

Layoff of wharf employees blamed on strike threat

HOUSTON (AP) — Containerized cargo ships at ports from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville, Texas, are targeted for a possible longshoremen strike this weekend, and the layoff of Galveston wharf employees today has been blamed on that possibility.

Some 7,000 longshoremen would be affected if the strike takes place.

Notices posted Wednesday at Galveston said some 30 per cent of the 350 employees at the Wharves were to be laid off for at least three weeks, beginning Oct. 5.

According to the notices the layoffs are necessary because of a "serious slackening" of cargoes scheduled to move through the port in October due to the possibility of a strike by longshoremen when the current contract expires at midnight Friday.

Willie Wells, president of International Longshoremen's Association

Hunt family violated trading rules

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal court judge has found that the wealthy H. L. Hunt family of Dallas, Tex., violated trading regulations on the trading of soybean futures, but said there is little or nothing he can do to remedy the situation now.

The finding on Wednesday resulted from charges last April by the Commodities Futures Trading Commission that the Hunt family attempted to corner the soybean market at the Chicago Board of Trade, the world's largest futures exchange.

The agency alleged that six members of the family as well as a family corporation held the contracts at that time for 22.7 million bushels.

The commission rules limit soybean futures holdings to 3 million bushels by any person or persons acting together.

But Judge Frank J. McGarr of U.S. District Court said Wednesday there was no reason to find that the "violations are likely to continue. No injunction of the court against this conduct in the future is necessary or desirable."

He denied the commission's request for an injunction. Besides the injunction, the commission had asked the McGarr to order the Hunts to liquidate their soybean holdings and to surrender "all profits unlawfully obtained." He also denied these petitions.

"This leaves the matter in the incongruous posture that the court has declared a violation of the regulation by the defendants, but finds inappropriate any of the relief sought by the commission," McGarr said in his ruling.

Named as defendants were Nelson Bunker Hunt, Houston Bunker Hunt, Douglas Hunt, W.H. Hunt, Elizabeth Bunker Hunt, Ellen Hunt Flowers and Mary Hunt Huddleston. Also named was Hunt Holdings Inc.

McGarr said the Hunts may have violated the regulation "in the good-faith belief that their conduct was not illegal." The inconclusive proof in this area does militate against harsh and punitive results especially in the face of the commission's election to seek declaratory and equitable relief rather than the imposition of the criminal sanctions also available.

(ILA) Local 1742 here, said Tuesday the union will strike full container ships and barge-carrying vessels when the current contract expires unless agreement can somehow be reached on union proposals to offset the impact of automation.

Containerized cargo accounts for only about 10 per cent of the tonnage at the Port of Houston, but William F. Arnett, chief negotiator for the West Gulf Maritime Association (WGMA) said a strike would have a serious impact on Gulf ports.

A meeting was scheduled today between the ILA and WGMA, which bargains with the union for 67 shipping agents, owners, operators and stevedoring companies in West Gulf ports.

Wells said conventional cargo ships and those carrying perishable goods would not be affected by any strike action. Containerized cargo is loaded into standardized trunk-like boxes which require less manpower.

Wells said two million man hours have been lost to automation in the West Gulf alone in the past two years. The notice at Galveston said the Wharves employees to be laid off would be chosen on a seniority basis.

"Because of a serious slackening in cargo movement for October, and the possibility that cargo slowdowns will continue until the East and Gulf Coast ILA contract situation is clarified, the Wharves is posting layoff notices affecting personnel in all departments," said C. S. Devoy, executive director and general manager of the Wharves. Devoy said that should a longshore contract be signed, giving shippers assurances cargo will be handled, port operations would require two to three weeks to return to normal.

Hill's son says he suspects grandfather in killing

HOUSTON (AP) — The teenage son of a slain plastic surgeon has testified he believes his father's 1972 shooting death was masterminded by oil millionaire Ash Robinson — the grandfather to whom he hasn't spoken in five years.

Robert Hill, 17, told a civil court jury Wednesday that he could accept a verdict clearing his grandfather, but said he could never forgive Robinson for his "persecution" of Dr. John Hill before the shooting. The youth testified in a $7.6

million wrongful death damage suit in which Dr. Hill's family alleged Robinson arranged the slaying to avenge the death of Robinson's daughter. Hill, who was awaiting trial on charges of killing his first wife, Joan Robinson

Hill, in 1969 through medical neglect, was shot to death at his fashionable River Oaks home by a masked gunman. She was Robinson's only daughter and Robert's mother. Robinson has denied the allegations by Robert,

Connie Hill, 37, and Myra Hill, 75, the son, widow and mother of the slain doctor. Robinson has said he wanted Hill to be tried, and if found guilty, to be punished. "I could forgive my grandfather if it was proven he did not kill my father," young Hill testified, "but I cannot forgive him for the persecution of my father before his death. "From the evidence that has been brought forth in this trial that he was accusing my father of being a homosexual and a dope addict—that's one thing I just cannot forgive him for." When asked if he thought his father was either characterization, the boy shrugged and answered, "No, sir." Robinson, 79, and his wife, Rhea, sat 15 feet away from their tall, blond-haired grandson as he testified. They remained unmoved, their faces seldom changing expressions as he testified he had not spoken to either of them since his father's death, Sept. 24, 1972.

The civil trial began nearly six weeks ago. The boy testified he did not want to talk to Robinson about his father's death "because I fear that whatever he says about my father or whatever he would explain is not going to be good about my father. I don't like hearing that because I know he was a good person."

Presented a picture of Bobby Wayne Vandiver, the boy said, "That's the man who killed my father."

Vandiver was charged as the triggerman in the Hill slaying. He was killed in a shootout with a Longview policeman before he was brought to trial. Two women, Lilla Paulus and Marcia McKittrick, are serving prison terms after being convicted as accomplices in the slaying.

The boy recalled the three-year period between the death of his mother and that of his father. He said Robinson would drive the block surrounding his home as Robert played outside.

He said one day Robinson drove up to talk to Robert, who was playing with a friend.

"He asked me how I was doing," the youth testified. "I knew there was some sort of friction between my father and my grandfather. I asked him, 'Can you forgive my father?' and he said, 'No, I can't ever forgive your father.'"

Asked why he wanted the reconciliation to take place, the boy replied, "Because I wanted to see my grandfather. I wanted everything to be well."

W. Robert Brown Robinson's lead counsel asked the boy if he could accept the fact he could be wrong about his grand parents, and, if so, could he then forgive them.

"I'm sorry," he replied. "I can't forgive them if I was wrong."

"Why?" Brown asked. "I don't believe that I am wrong," the boy replied.

The boy also related events of the night his father was shot to death.

He said a man forced his way into the house, bound and gagged the then-12-year-old boy and his grandmother, Myra Hill.

He said the man kicked his grandmother in the throat and kicked him in the side of the head.

He said he heard his father enter the house and say "Now wait a minute." There were shots and a male voice said, "Where's the rest of your money?"

The youth said managed to hobble over to telephone and call the police and an ambulance.

"Then I hobbled out into the hall and saw father on his stomach," the boy testified. "I asked him if he was all right. He didn't answer and he didn't move."

Truck rates hike approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The railroad commission approved Wednesday an eight per cent general increase in rates for 28 tank truck firms. The increase goes into effect Oct. 8.

Texas Tank Truck Carriers Association, representing 19 carriers, and Texas Bulk Carriers, Inc., representing nine firms, asked for the increase.

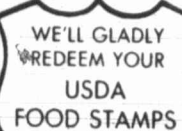

The hike does not apply to gasoline, fuel and feed-grade phosphates.

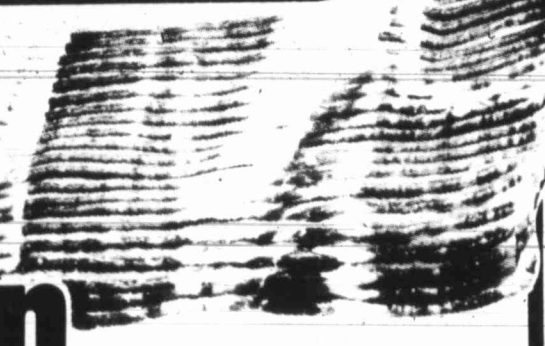

WHO? — Entertainer Diana Ross identifies herself with a sign during a press conference in New York Wednesday for the crew of the film version of "The Wiz," the musical based on "The Wizard of Oz." Diana Ross will have the role of Dorothy in the movie version of the Broadway hit.

Canal critics pressing campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is resisting efforts to require both houses of Congress to vote approval before the Panamanian government can be given control of the Canal Zone.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell was called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to present the Justice Department's official legal opinion that only the Senate needs to approve the Panama Canal treaty.

The treaty calls for relinquishment of the U.S. Canal Zone to the Republic of Panama and for operational control of the canal itself to be handed to the Panamanians in the year 2000.

Treaty opponents are contending that both houses of Congress must approve the transfer of any property owned by the United States. That would mean that if the United States actually owns the Canal Zone the House of Representatives as well as the Senate would have to approve the portion of the treaty that transfers the zone to Panama. The administration contends that the 1903 treaty with Panama established the Canal Zone as a 10-mile wide U.S.-controlled territory, but did not give the United States sovereignty, and that under the Constitution, the treaty must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

The administration's plans do call for some House votes on separate legislation to implement certain sections of the treaty.

Meanwhile, critics of the pending treaty are pressing their campaign to have the Senate reject the pact.

T.H. MOORHEAD

Retired Adm. Thomas H. Moorhead, a former chairman of the military Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a House committee Wednesday that ratification of the treaty would lead to indirect Soviet control of canal operations.

Moorhead said Gen. Omar Torrijos, the Panamanian chief of state, heads a "leftist" government with close ties to the communist regime of Cuba's Fidel Castro.

He said there is a

"Torrijos-Castro-Moscow Axis" that could result in a Cuban or Soviet presence in Panama after the treaty is ratified.

Moorhead's testimony was in direct contrast to that of Gen. George Brown, the current JCS chairman, and other top U.S. military leaders who testified earlier in the week that continued U.S. use of the canal would be enhanced, not threatened by ratification of the treaty.

Smells like skunk spray

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Texas firm has developed a new essence for deer hunters to mask their scent. It smells exactly like fresh skunk spray.

"It's just like the real juice," says John Adams, a representative of Skunk Screen, the firm that is marketing the artificial scent developed by a chemist at Texas A&M.

The firm advises hunters not to put the skunk essence directly on their clothes, but on a stump or log. A stick is even better because it can be moved if the wind shifts.

The chemical comes in two bottles which can be mixed in the field to produce the scent. Separately, the solutions have no offensive smell.

Adams says the smell of skunk is "a natural woods odor and the other animals pay no attention to it."

NAS hangar is 'home' for persistent pigeons

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Hangar 122 at Oceana Naval Air Station is home for a flight of A6 Intruder jets and about 75 persistent pigeons.

Officials are trying to evict the pigeons, whose droppings are threatening the airplane's skin with corrosion.

"That many pigeons can leave quite a deposit," said Lt. Cmdr. Mike Schuster, a safety officer at Oceana.

Schuster said rotating beacons were installed in the hangar to generate a pattern of shifting shadows to scare the birds.

Several other devices were considered and rejected, including rubber snakes and effigies of owls and hawks.

Schuster says he has some other ideas: a barrier of plastic strips along the top of the hangar doors to keep pigeons out or stringing mesh netting throughout the hangar's roof area to keep them from flying around or roosting.

"If they had no place to land, I think it would be a short time till they sought a more hospitable residence," he reasoned.

Meanwhile, the Oceana pigeon flock is "alive and healthy," he said.

JESSE JAMES

State Treasurer James dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jesse James, the cocky old man with a train robber's name who had served as state treasurer since 1941, died in a local hospital early today following a heart attack.

James would have been 73 on Oct. 10.

A hospital spokesman said death came at about 12:15 a.m.

"He was taken to the hospital last night after a fresh heart attack. He had a long history of coronary heart disease. He died of the heart attack early this morning," said his physician, Dr. Robert Anderson.

Morris Stevens, the treasury's chief clerk and James's right hand man since 1946, said James's death came unexpectedly, despite more than a year of poor health.

"He was at the banking board yesterday afternoon, in good spirits and hale and hearty," Stevens said.

The treasurer's death gives Gov. Dolph Briscoe another top elective position to fill by appointment, pending the outcome of next year's elections. His appointee would have an incumbent's built-in advantage in a race for treasurer next year.

Briscoe issued a statement saying, "Texans will mourn the passing of the man they elected and re-elected to serve them as state treasurer for a period of over 30 years."

Boomer Sooner

Costs of growth

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — For half this century, 50 years spanning from 1920 to 1970, the state of Oklahoma lost population. Today, the state is booming but Gov. David Boren says the "blessings may be problems in disguise."

"I traveled to 84 cities in towns in our state, and in every place, without exception, I heard the same story — they're all growing," said Boren.

"And in every place the mayor asked me, 'Where can I get a water supply to take care of my growing town? How can I pay for more police? More sewers? Another classroom building?' The question is, how do you deal with growth?"

Growth costs money, and Boren says he fears the Sunbelt states may be penalized for their economic health because of "the myth that we are being aided by some magic infusion of federal funds."

Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz says he would gladly give up his city's share of general revenue sharing money in exchange for federal aid on big ticket, capital spending items such as those listed by Boren.

"It is just as important to meet the needs of an American in Texas as an American in Indiana," said Hofheinz. He noted that Houston is growing so fast that it has not been able to bring water and sewer services to some outlying parts of the city.

This is the other side of the Sunbelt vs. the Frostbelt story as Northeastern and Midwestern officials argue for greater federal spending in their areas to offset what

Crucial police trial testimony

'Self defense' argued

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Defense attorneys planned to put former Houston police officer Terry Denson back on the stand in his murder trial today in an attempt to prove self-defense in the drowning death of a Mexican-American prisoner.

Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, also a former Houston policeman, are charged with murder in the death last May of laborer Joe Campos Torres.

Attorneys for Denson and Orlando sought testimony Wednesday from at least eight persons about the prior conduct of Torres.

"This testimony would be very crucial to our case," said Mike Ramsey, attorney for Orlando.

However, State District Judge James Warren ruled that the jury would not be allowed to hear about Torres' past unless "self defense" can be shown to be an issue in the case.

Denson testified earlier he thought Torres was reaching for him, that he (Denson) stepped back and that Torres jumped from a 16-foot wall into the bayou.

During nearly three hours of questioning Wednesday from Assistant District Attorney Ted Poe, Orlando said he lied when first questioned about Torres' death.

The questioning involved a written statement to police where Orlando said Denson "pushed" Torres into the water.

"But today you say you weren't looking," Poe repeated after forcing Orlando to read portions of the statement. "You lied?"

"I guess I did," Orlando replied. "I really didn't see him push him. Let me explain."

He got a chance to explain in an answer to questions from defense attorney Bob Bennett.

Orlando said that detectives taking his statement told him other officers said Denson pushed Torres. He said they didn't tell him that Denson and his partner, Joseph Janish, told them Torres had jumped.

He also denied testimony from other witnesses who said he beat Torres' shins with a flashlight after saying, "It's brand new and I want to try it out."

He also denied that Denson, Orlando and Janish are three of five officers fired after Torres body was recovered from the bayou three days after he had been arrested in a bar disturbance. Janish is awaiting trial on a misdemeanor assault charge.

Two other officers were granted immunity from state prosecution and testified against Denson and Orlando.
