Buying Campaign To Launch Business Revival For Wichita Falls Area

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Talker is feeling that after all he has been of some little use since Mrs. Effie McHam, head of the family relief organization in Wichita Falls, told him that she knew of several men who had been given jobs as a result of Talker's talk urging residents to look around for some odd job that needed to be done and have it done by somebody who was needing work. She expressed the hope that Talker would keep on talking about it and that's just what he is doing.

This odd job campaign can help a lot of folks if the people can be stirred into spending a little money for jobs that ought to be performed.

Look around your house and premises and see just what is needed. Perhaps it's yard work, maybe it's carpentering, painting, paper hanging, brick work, roof repairing, electrical work. Whatever it is there are workers eager and anxious for the job and they will no sooner have the money than they will spend it for food or clothing or any of the other items that go into living. A little of it will go for materials. Of this you may be sure, whatever is spent will circulate with a rapidity heretofore unknown and will spread its benefit to more people than ever before.

The odd job campaign fits in very well indeed with the larger campaign of business improvement sponsored by the business council of the chamber of commerce and while the committee is considering its plans for that campaign Talker will go ahead with this odd job campaign. If it brings employment to any out of work he will feel that it has been worth while.

As Frank Cripliver said at the meeting of the business council Friday if $15 or $20 were spent on each of the 8,000 homes in Wichita Falls it would mean the expenditure of approximately $150,000 and would give employment to many now idle. Of course $15 or $20 would not be expended on every home but on some much more could be spent for the comfort and convenience of the owners without any financial sacrifice.

A bill to establish the official name of the war of 1861-65 as the War Between the States is soon to be introduced in congress, the Maryland division of the Daughters of the Confederacy were told Wednesday.

And Talker is unable to find that there has ever been any official designation of the unpleasantness of '61-'65. At the time, and in some quarters yet, it is referred to as the War of Secession and the War of the Rebellion but to the greatest number it is known as the civil war and to be a little more particular the Civil War of America.

Talker entered newspaper work on an Indiana newspaper but his immediate superior was a Confederate veteran who taught him that the proper designation of this war was "The War Between the States." This name was regularly used on that newspaper for many years and Talker hasn't entirely forgotten the teaching of his veteran friend to this day.

During the war and for many years afterward there were many in the North who regarded it as a War of Rebellion and who believed there was no treatment severe enough for the "rebels." Happily the feeling that prompted this attitude has long since faded out and there might not be any great opposition to the movement to make the official name "The War Between the States." It is probable, however the great majority of citizens would go on calling it the civil war, as that name has become a habit and is much shorter than the others.

'IDLE MONEY' CHIEF CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

Entire Section Ready To Resume Trade Activity, Leaders Say

COMMITTEE NAMED

Hirschi Predicts Advance In Property Values In Short Time

Indications that the Wichita Falls community is now making wide preparations for a business revival here in line with that which is getting under way throughout the country were seen here Friday in the expression of prominent business men, and in tentative programs which were made public for the first time.

Confirming the attitude most commonly expressed now by the public generally toward business conditions, various leaders here Friday declared that all factors in the economic situation prove definitely a constant upward trend. Basing their recommendation upon a reserve of idle money greater than that possessed by most communities, upon sound property values with excellent prospects for improvement, and upon gradually renewing industrial effort, they were emphatic in urging that citizens of this section should feel justified in expending money in legitimate purchase or investment in a normal fashion.

Upward Trend

Financial, industrial and professional leaders, according to their comment on present circumstances, agree that the average citizen is safe now in assuming that the nation's business thermometer hit bottom some time ago, and is now in the ascendency. It is equally true, according to their expressions, that such a resumption of normal exchange will contribute more to the increased improvement of general conditions than any other single factor.

Attention of leaders here to this general movement was plainly reflected in discussion which featured the regular meeting of the business council of the chamber of commerce at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

John Hirschi, president of the Wichita State Bank & Trust company, and extensive property holder in this district, expressed his complete confidence in the stability of real estate values in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory. Values on property here are destined to enjoy a substantial advance within the next few months, according to Mr. Hirschi's analysis of the situation.

Speaking on behalf of a community-wide organization to further such a revival on a large scale, Frank Cripliver, president of the Lions club, assumed leadership in

Coyotes Pin Hopes on Rejuvenated Defense to Stop Fast Vernon Backs

Annual Wichita-Wilbarger Grid Battle Promises Thrills for Football Fans Today

By FRED THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

The feature attraction in Northwest Texas' football world today will be the annual set-to of the Wichita Falls Coyotes and the Vernon Lions at Vernon. Two other conference games are scheduled in district No. 1 of the interscholastic league, Plainview being slated to battle Pampa at Pampa, and Electra scheduled to fight the Bobcats at Childress. Although the Electra-Childress game promises to be an entertaining battle between two evenly matched teams, the Coyote-Lion imbroglio holds the center of interest.

The Coyote squad, with Coaches Barry Holton and Bill Morris, will leave here early this morning by bus for Vernon. Probably at no other time this year has the team shown up in such good shape as it has the latter part of this week. Despite the shock that came with the scholastic ineligibility of Bob Brandon, right end, it appears that the team will enter the Vernon game twice as powerful as when it took on the Quanah Indians last week. To take Brandon's place Coach Holton lifted J. R. Holton from the backfield, and the ball lugger Saturday will be transformed into a wingman. Holton has appeared at advantage at the end posts in practice sessions this week.

Impressive workouts have vitally improved the defensive game of the Coyotes, in the opinion of the mentors. Before the lamented Quanah game, the team devoted its energies to practicing offensive tactics. Coming home from Quanah with the drooping laurels of their third conference defeat, the team was given other lessons to learn this week, and the four days of hard scrimmage, the coaches said, have shown promising results. Work has centered on the tackle positions, al-

RASKOB LOANS DEMOS $220,000

Party Financial Reports Show Hot Fight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (US)—Loans by John J. Raskob totalling $220,000 to the Democratic national committee, and contributions by the Republican congressional committee of $500 and $1,000 to G. O. P. candidates in nearly 100 districts, were revealed in reports today to the clerk of the house.

James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, reported that Raskob, national chairman of the Democratic party, had advanced loans of $30,000 since Sept. 4.

The Democratic national committee had a balance of $12,635 on hand on Sept. 1. Gifts and loans brought this up to $44,589. Expenditures were $30,915, leaving a balance on Oct. 22 of $13,674.

Debts Remain

Still hanging over the Democratic national committee, beside the Raskob loans, was a debt of $375,000 to the Bankers Trust company of New York, $9,217 in unpaid

Festival Fires Light Italian Village on Eve of Royal Wedding

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 24. (UP)—A thousand bonfires dotted the Umbrian hills around Assisi tonight and the age-old village of St. Francis, nestling at the foot of Mount Subasio, lay like a fairy picture on the eve of the wedding of the dark-eyed Princess Giovanna and King Boris III of Bulgaria.

Low in the sky, just above the rim of hills to the east, the new moon hung like a silver sickle, and in the ancient streets of Assisi 40,000 torchlights sent a golden glow into the heavens.

In this fantastic setting, Europe's wandering bachelor king will tomorrow morning take to wife the daughter of the king of Italy. The ceremony will take place at the Church of St. Francis and the nobility of the two nations will attend in force.

The wedding party, with its kings and queens, its princes and princesses, its dukes and duchesses, awaited tonight at nearby Perugi, and will move into Assisi by train just before the hour for the ceremony. Premier Mussolini, with members of his cabinet, will come down from the palatial Villa Vannazzi where, tonight, he is a guest. A hundred automobiles will move from the railway station through solid lines of troops to the ancient Basilica. The wedding ceremony itself will be the essence of simplicity.

Tonight, in contrast to the riot-out festivities in the village, all was peacefully quiet at the Franciscan Basilica, the 700-year-old church where the wedding is to take place.

At the crypt where the bones of St. Francis are preserved hundreds of outsiders, many of them soldiers, came to pray.

The streets are hung with myriads of flags, the Bulgarian colors mixed with the Italian. The village is hopelessly overcrowded and there were few who slept tonight.

King Boris and Princess Giovanna are to have two wedding ceremonies, one will be here, at the golden altar of St. Francis, tomorrow. Then they will leave on the yacht, Ferdinand, for Sofia, where they will be married in the great Alexander Nevsky cathedral, according to the rites of the eastern orthodox church.

LUIS FORCED TO RECOGNIZE BRAZIL COUP

Ousted President Leaves Palace Under Guard

GENERALS RULE

Capital Grows Quieter After Riots Mark Rebel Victory

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24. (AP)—President Washington Luis of Brazil tonight bowed to the will of the military junta that overthrew his administration in the morning and left Guanabara palace, from which he previously had declared he would only be taken as a bound prisoner. He was taken under heavily armed escort to Fort Copacabana, where he was held in the quarters of the general staff.

Vice President Mello Vianna, and all the members of the Washington cabinet were arrested this evening, several senators and deputies sympathizing with the administration also were held.

RIO DE JANIERO, Oct. 24. (UP)—Eighteen victims of the shots fired at the German steamship Baden from Fort Copacabana as the ship was leaving port today, without clearing permission, were taken from the ship here tonight.

The number of dead could not be learned immediately. Most of the victims were Spanish emigrants.

The provisional government is doing all possible to assist the wounded it was understood.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct 24. (AP)—A military junta tonight ruled Rio de Janeiro after overthrowing President Washington Luis in a coupe d'etat accompanied by rioting and some arson.

Although announcement was made at 10 o'clock this morning that the president had resigned, thus setting off great demonstrations in the principal streets of the capital, it was learned tonight Washington Luis had not actually signed the decree.

He held out against quitting, insisting he would never leave the government palace unless bound and taken by force. That the government had fallen, however, not even the foreign office questioned. Only one thing remained, and that was the formality of the president's signing on the dotted line. As he sat in his palace the building was surrounded by troops loyal to the new revolutionary movement.

Generals in Charge

Thus tonight generals of the army provisionally were in charge of the capital of the greatest country in South America, apparently with the entire army and navy behind them. Three generals, Leite de Castro, Pantaleao Telles and Mena Barreto comprise the junta and will control the government until they are able to confer with representatives of Rio Grande do Sul, Minas Geraes and other states which opened the revolt, three

STIMSON SILENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (US)—The United States will be forced to radically reverse its policy with regard to Brazil, it was believed here today following the overthrow of President Washington Luis.

Secretary Stimson was unable to state how the United States will proceed toward the new government which only two days ago was the target of an arms embargo levied by President Hoover on the suggestion of Secretary Stimson.

It appeared certain, however, that American Ambassador Morgan at Rio will soon be negotiating with the Brazilians who shortly before had been outlawed by the department.

Two-Mile Parade Through Business District Marks Observance Of Legion Day

With approximately 400 visiting legionnaires present from more than a score of towns in Southwestern Oklahoma and North Texas and scores of local organizations and business firms participating in the celebration, Wichita Falls devoted Friday afternoon and evening to observance of the first "American Legion Day" ever sponsored here by Pat Carrigan post.

While the familiar over-seas caps became more and more numerous on the streets here during the afternoon, general notice that the American Legion had taken the city was served at 4 p. m. when the far-reaching fire whistle of the Fort Worth and Denver railway signaled the start of a mammoth parade which stretched its length out to more than two miles through the business section. Thousands of onlookers thronged all the down-town streets, strangely reminiscent of the crowds which milled joyously through every town and city when news of the war's end reached this country almost 12 years ago.

K. of C. Wins Prize

Memories which were wakened by the sounds of martial music as the parade approached resolved quickly into vivid realism as the nation's colors came into view, followed by the heavy, rumbling caissons of artillery and a striking reproduction of an over-seas machine gun crew on the alert before its own dugout.

Five musical organizations, three bands and two drum corps, were distributed throughout the line of march, providing a noticeable military touch even to those segments which consisted largely of industrial exhibits and floats.

Filing slowly past the reviewing stand at Ninth and Scott, commanders of the various units saluted State Commander Hal L. Brennan of Laredo and Dr. Austin F. Leach, local post commander. With the two legion officers on the reviewing stand were Mrs. Leach, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., and the committee appointed to judge the floats, Leon Deaton, chairman, R. E. Shepherd and Luther Hoffman.

First prize in the display of floats in the parade was awarded

Lawton Jury Holds Thoroughman Sane

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 24.—Held sane by a jury in the United States district court here Friday morning, C. L. Thoroughman, former prohibition enforcement officer and famed as a one-time "fighting parson," must face trial on whisky conspiracy charges next Thursday.

Thoroughman's attorneys asked for a sanity hearing Thursday when the conspiracy charge was called for trial. Witnesses told of him "acting like a maniac" in crawling over housetops and breaking into homes.

The former preacher and officer was arrested when officers raided a still near here last March.

Britain Moves to Bar Ceremonies at Cenotaphs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The receipt of a note from the British foreign office, suggesting that the United States participate in a movement initiated by Great Britain to eliminate official ceremonies at world war cenotaphs, was made known today at the state department.

Officials said, however, no action had been taken and declined to comment.

ASSAULT TRIAL REACHES JURY

Sheriff Denies He Asked Rangers' Aid

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Oct. 24.—A jury weighing the fate of Guy McCully on a charge of criminal assault against an 18-year-old girl had reached no verdict late Friday night after deliberations that began at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Throngs crowded the courtroom throughout the evening even after hope for an early decision faded.

Rumors that Haskell county officials had asked for state rangers to cope with a possible emergency were vehemently denied by the sheriff, who declared that he anticipated no trouble but was equipped to handle the situation alone should any develop.

The case, one of the most sensational ever tried in the county, reached the jury at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon after attorneys for the state had demanded the death penalty for the 27-year-old married man on trial. The defendant, a tall, smartly dressed man, listened to the attacks of the district attorney's arguments with the same air of unconcern with which he met the testimony of witnesses earlier in the trial.

Thursday, his wife, an expectant mother, and his aged parents were brought from Rule in ambulances to become the principal witnesses in his defense.

The assault charge followed an automobile ride on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 12. The youthful prosecuting witness told the court she had been dragged from the car and mistreated in a cotton field near Rule. Defense witnesses said McCully was "very drunk or crazy" when seen after the alleged assault.

The case for the state was handled by French Robertson and Clyde Grisons. Tom Davis, W. H. Murchison Sr. and W. H. Murchison Jr. defended McCully.

Farmer Shoots Wife To Death at Amite, La.

AMITE, La., Oct. 24. (AP)—Dan Carriere, 36, farmer living 15 miles from here, today shot and instantly killed his wife.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Irving Cutrer, his sister, eight miles from here.

A few months ago Carriere knocked his wife unconscious with an automobile crank. When he was arrested Mrs. Carriere refused to testify against him and pleaded for his release. The charges were dropped despite demands of neighbors that he be either prosecuted or examined for his sanity.

Stepmother and Uncle of Slain Child Answer Murder Charges Today

DENVER, Oct 24. (AP)—The drama of the O'Loughlin murder mystery tonight had shifted from police headquarters to the courtroom.

Tomorrow Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin will go before the bar of justice to answer a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona, whose body was found in Berkeley Park lake Oct. 17.

At the same time Frank O'Loughlin, uncle of the slain child, also will be called on to answer a murder charge.

Separate informations on the man and woman were filed today in District Judge Henley A. Calvert's court. Leo O'Loughlin, city detective and father of Leona, indorsed the information against his brother, although expressing belief in his innocence. O'Loughlin's name also was written on the information filed against his wife.

Statements of Mrs. O'Loughlin's attorneys today in preliminary court actions to the effect "she is wholly innocent and knows absolutely nothing concerning the commission of the crime "indicated the projected course of the defense. Earl Wettengel, district attorney, said it had not yet been determined if the death penalty would be asked in Mrs. O'Loughlin's case.

John Weisz, a brother of Mrs. O'Loughlin, associated himself with defense counsel during the court proceedings. Later he told newspapermen he was convinced she is guiltless.

"She told me she is innocent. She denies she made any kind of confession to anyone. She told me she had no knowledge concerning Leona's death," he said.

Chief among today's developments in the police investigation was a statement from authorities they had obtained two "leads" from a conversation between Mrs. O'Loughlin and her attorney, John Keating. Police said a microphone had been installed in the detective bureau with a loud speaker hooked up in the office of the chief of police, some distance away. Keating was permitted to interview his client yesterday at police headquarters for the first time since her arrest. The interview was secured by virtue of a court order.

Girl Gives Up Money Under Threat of Bandit's 'Black Gun'

Silently pushing a black gun through the small aperture of the box office at the Majestic theater about 9:20 o'clock Friday night, a lone hi-jacker compelled the cashier Mrs. Ruth Moody, to hand over currency and wrapped silver estimated to have totalled more than $200, and escaped as quietly as he approached, according to information given the city police department immediately after the robbery occurred.

Obtaining a description of the robber from Mrs. Moody, city officer launched an immediate search for a suspect, but at a late hour had made no arrests, and were without definite clues, according to information given The Record News.

Robbery Described

Describing the incident, Mrs. Moody, who appeared to be the least excited of all those concerned, said:

"While no one was in the entrance, a man who appeared to be 24 or 25 years old, and of slight stature, suddenly appeared before the window and pushed a black gun through the change port. He spoke very softly but rapidly, and told me to turn over the money, and to do it quick. I gave him the dollar bills, which he pushed back, demanding the larger bills. Then he demanded the wrapped money—the silver, which he took. He got the big currency which he could see, but he didn't get what I knew he couldn't see. But he seemed to know where most of the money is kept in the box office. He placed the money in his coat pocket, commanded me to remain quiet until he was out of sight or he would 'plug' me. He walked quietly away from the entrance, going north on Scott avenue."

Runs Down Alley

According to Victor B. Lowrey, manager of the Majestic theater, a young man who was standing on the corner of Scott and Seventh when the robbery occurred stated that a young man answering the description given by Mrs. Moody walked rapidly toward that corner from the Majestic, occasionally glancing back over his shoulder, turned west on Seventh, and shortly broke into a run, disappearing down the alley just west of the Salvation Army building.

Anent the theory that even a holdup might be included in the modern theater manager's extravagant program of publicity, Mr. Lowery denied emphatically that Friday night's robbery was a "publicity stunt," declaring it too expensive to be profitable. Mr. Lowery admitted, however, that he considered the night's events quite appropriate for the picture which opens today. The show is "Scotland Yard."

FEDERAL PROJECTS SUPPORT SCHWAB'S PROSPERITY PROMISE

CITIES JOIN WORK PROGRAM

Industrialists Echo Hope Of Steel King

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The augury of a greater prosperity "than America has ever before known" was sounded today by Charles M. Schwab.

It was echoed by other outstanding industrialists; it was mirrored in the movement of stocks; and it found symptoms of support in developments themselves.

The federal government, through its director of unemployment relief, Col. Arthur Woods, pointed the way by which local governments might "go far toward relieving unemployment" in about 20 states. Public works involving the expenditure of approximately $450,000,000 and the consequent employment of many thousands of persons can be started, he indicated, if voters approve bond issues up for decision at the November elections.

In Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee and Buffalo announcements were made of men being called back to work.

Plans Take Form

Chicago's plans, both to provide work and relief, began taking concrete shape.

A group of New York banks inaugurated a campaign to boost business recovery by discouraging what it called the "false economy" of persons not directly affected by general employment conditions.

In Wall street, the first anniversary of "black Thursday" was marked by a strong and optimistic tone, contrasting sharply with that of a year ago. Active stocks finished the day from two five points higher.

The Schwab statement was made before the American Iron and Steel institute. Mr. Schwab regarded the "level headed way in which business in general has weathered the current recession" as "most assuring."

James A. Farrell, president of United States Steel, expressed the sentiment that, through cooperation, the steel industry could "get back where it belongs" within 60 days.

Another industrialist who added a note of cheering prophecy was John J. Raskob, a director of General Motors, who said he believed the automobile industry had "touched bottom" and was slowly turning into normal channels.

Revival Seen

"A sharp revival in the automobile industry may be expected to begin with the automobile shows in January," he said. He also noted a pickup "in such basic lines as the textile and building industries."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, urged the distribution as equally as possible of the work there is to be done. This same idea already is being employed in many cities, he said, employers using a "stagger" system by which two men get three days work a week, instead of one man getting six days.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey stated that while no additional men were being given employment, every effort was being made to find work through the winter for regular employes. Delayed maintenance work, usually put over until spring, is being checked, with a view toward giving employment now instead of next year.

bills, $1,375 in interest on loans, and a claim for $4,104 by the Postal Telegraph company for services alleged to have been given in 1924.

Expenditures by the national Democratic committee were revealed as going chiefly toward expenses of personnel at Washington headquarters, traveling expenses for speakers, printing bills, etc.

Contributions of $1,000 each were made to the Democratic congressional candidates in the first district in Connecticut, and first Oregon district, and $500 in the third Kentucky district.

The report of Robert V. Fleming, treasurer of the Republican congressional committee, disclosed "dumping" of thousands of dollars into the congressional races chiefly in Ohio, Indiana, Colorado, Missouri, New York, Minnesota and even in Southern states.

Ohio Battle

Receipts of $221,500 and expenditures of $201,440 up to Oct. 22, were reported by Fleming.

Indicating the desperate battle that is being waged by the Republicans in Ohio, Fleming's report showed contributions totalling $12,000 to candidates there.

This money in lots of $1,000 or $500 has been sent into the fifth, sixth, 11th, 12th, 13th, 17th, 19th and 21st districts.

Anxious to see Rep. Harry M. Wurzbach re-elected in the 14th Texas district, the committee gave him $1,000 and $1,000 to each of the Republican nominees in the ninth and 10th districts in North Carolina, which are now held by Republicans.

'Self - Educated' Doctor Defends Own Case Here

Matching the tactical skill implied by a degree in "metaphysics" against the customary prosecution of a case under the state's penal code, Howard R. Whitesides acted as his own attorney before Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs in his trial on a charge of assault and battery. A hung jury resulted.

Testifying in his own behalf, and qualifying to act as his attorney in the case, Whitesides described his vocation as that of a doctor, applied psychology being his branch of that practice. Questioned further he declared himself possessed of a degree from Whitesides university, which, it developed through subsequent statements, is located wherever the defendant happens to be.

Following prolonged deliberation, the jury stood 5 to 1 for conviction and was discharged. A retrial of the case will be held soon, it was stated.

TRADE REVIVAL EXPECTED HERE

Business Leaders to Launch Campaign

presenting the matter to members of the business council.

"Depression here is due in a great measure," he said, "to the closeness of money, born not so much of a lack of money as of a seeming fear to spend even discriminately. Circulation of money on a conservative basis, but with confidence that such expenditures are safe enough, would go far to better conditions for everybody."

Meeting Monday

Following Mr. Cripliver's talk, a committee consisting of J. C. Mytinger, Lester Jones, Burton Stayton, Roscoe Staton, and Harry Gray was appointed to organize a general campaign in this community for carrying out the thought of Friday's meeting. It was announced Friday night that this committee will meet Monday afternoon.

J. C. Mytinger, in speaking on the subject in relation to adverse business conditions, declared that the economic situation is better here than in other sections.

"There is more idle money here than idle men," he said. "Putting this money to work will alleviate present conditions to a great extent."

Other discussion revealed an optimistic view of a large number present and disclosed suggestions that refineries and other industries here be requested to install part-time shifts for laborers in order that working men, said to be hardest hit of all, will be assured of work at least part of the time, that owners planning on remodeling or repairing houses do so now to give work to carpenters, painters and paper hangers. It was pointed out that better prices are obtainable now for practically every commodity and every class of labor, which in itself should be inducement to spend.

Campaign for Area

Fred L. Haskett urged that a thorough campaign be waged, taking in the entire Wichita Falls trade territory, which he claimed included 70,000 families distributed in the Texas and Oklahoma communities surrounding Wichita Falls. A campaign, he said, which induced each of these families to spend as little as $10 would repay many times the effort and expense of the campaign.

Herbert Voelcker suggested that patronage of home industries would go a long way in proving the proposed campaign a success.

Dr. Austin Leach, commander of Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, introduced officers and members of the executive board of the post here and urged that the parade be viewed.

John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce, reported that the next meeting of the business council, Nov. 14, would be turned over to Oklahomans coming here from Oklahoma City to confer on a proposal to extend pavement from Lawton to the free bridge across Red river at Burkburnett in an effort to obtain an all weather road between Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City.

Mr. Boswell also reported that the Western Air Express had advised its plan to continue service through Wichita Falls and its intention of improving that service as time passed and conditions warranted. Recent conferences with officials of various air lines indicated a replacement of air service discontinued a short time ago by the Safeway lines, Mr. Boswell said.

Air Mail Sought

"We have every reason to believe that an even better service will be obtained in time," he said, stating that efforts are being made to obtain air mail here and to couple it with a better passenger service.

Suggestions for the chamber of commerce 1931 program of work were requested by Mr. Boswell to be presented in the near future.

Dr. L. I. Lucey requested that some action be taken to eliminate numerous accidents ocurring at the Denver crossing on the Henrietta road. He stated that an average of three accidents occurred there each week, usually to strangers unfamiliar with the sharp turns in the road at that spot. Doctor Lucey estimated that the place could be fixed to eliminate a large number of accidents for less than $100.

Mora C. Clark exhibited samples of large pecans grown in this area, stating that approximately 17,000 pecan trees were in the Wichita valley. Mr. Clark declared that production of acreage in many places here had decreased to 50 per cent of production of former years and that this condition was due to lack of minerals. Proper fertilization of now unproductive land will restore it to its former productivity, he said.

to the Knights of Columbus, the award being an engraved silver shield mounted on a heavy plaque of walnut. Second place went to the Red Cross, and third to the Y. W. C. A. Close competition between the three leading floats from the standpoint of originality, artistic arrangement, and subject matter, as well as an extensive array of impressive units not listed among the winners imposed a difficult task upon the judges, according to Mr. Deaton, chairman.

The entry of the Knights of Columbus consisted of a truck equipped to resemble to a striking degree an overseas dugout before which crouched a crew of gunners, grouped in readiness about an ominous Browning gun. The combined efect of elements worked into the floats served to make more than a few world war veterans shudder momentarily at the grim realities which it recalled to memory.

Floats of the Red Cross, which earned second place, depicted nurses engaged in caring for a soldier just back from the front, and another scene suggestive of the convalescent wards which legionnaires remember.

Girl Reserves Active

Almost 20 units in the parade comprised the Y. W. C. A. section, the Girl Reserves alone having 17 decorated cars filled with girls, most of them in uniform.

Rabbi S. J. Schwab, mounted and serving as one of the parade marshals, headed the line of march, followed by the Burkburnett band and the Burkburnett Legion post. Other bands which followed in the parade were the Lions Club boys' band, directed by Leo M. Underwood, and Paul Seeds' Caballeros, marching with the Parks and Recreation section. Aside from an impressive and well-trained drum corps from Graham, a corps consisting of about 20 drummers representing the Pat Carrigan post, smartly uniformed in blue and white, made its initial appearance.

Conspicuous among the floats included in the column were those of the Morgan and Bebb Floral companies. These two displays, together with that of the Girl Reserves, Salvation Army and the 40 and 8, received especial commendation of the judges.

Guard Units Join

Distinctly military atmosphere prevailed as the various local national guard units marched past the reviewing officers. Precise salutes, clatter of horses' hoofs, and the rumble of heavily soled wheels of the gun carriages brought the scenes of 1918 much nearer to the thousands of spectators.

Oklahoman Speaks

"America can avert impending wars in Europe by insisting that every nation who owes the United States pay every dime," Jed Johnson of Anadarko, Okla., congressman, declared Friday evening in an address delivered at the Municipal auditorium on "Legion day."

The speaker substituted for Josh Lee of the Oklahoma university who called legion officials here late Friday morning advising that due to the severe illness of his small son, he would be unable to be present. Mr. Lee communicated with Mr. Johnson and made arrangements for the latter to deliver the main address.

"War debts owed to the United States aggregate $10,500,750,000. Practically every nation in Europe owes the United States a considerable sum of money and yet war propaganda in Europe has a great number of these nations at fever pitch for another war.

"If we insist that Europe pay every dime that is owed the United States, they will not have enough money to carry on another war.

"To avert war forever, one of the greatest aids would be to take the profits out of war. Today if the men back of our big industries knew that they could duplicate the profits made in the recent world war, the League of Nations pact and other peace treaties would mean 'just a scrap of paper,' as those peace treaties were considered in 1914."

Luther Hoffman, past commander of Pat Carrigan post, introduced the speaker of the evening, stating that the purpose of the American Legion was first to uphold the constitution of the United States, second, to follow the flag wherever it may lead, and third, to care for those veterans who suffered injuries in the world war.

Hal Brennan, state commander, told of plans for work during the coming year. One important activity, he said, was to see that every school house in the state floats an American flag overhead and that every school room in the state has a flag.

2,000 Hear Program

The various addresses were heard by a crowd estimated at 2,000.

Dr. Austin F. Leach, commander of Pat Carrigan post, was in charge of the gathering and introduced several legionnaire notables from over the state.

Following a band concert given by the Lions club band under the direction of Leo Underwood, which opened the program, invocation was given by Chaplain W. D. Bratton. Musical numbers were furnished by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, L. R. Thurman, L. S. Winton, W. P. Lacy, L. M. Underwood, J. S. Pittman and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough.

Several announcements were made by J. F. Friberg, post adjutant.

Headquarters for visiting legionnaires was maintained all day at the Holt hotel, before which the Salvation Army dispensed free coffee and doughnuts throughout the afternoon and evening. Business houses decorated their store-fronts and the streets profusely for the celebration.

Milton Gaines and Kindel Paulk were active in making all preparations for the immense parade which opened the day's program. Aside from Rabbi Schwab, B. D. Sartin and Mr. Friberg were parade marshals.

A plan to make all state-owned farms self supporting has been adopted in North Carolina.

OIL CUT ORDER DUE SATURDAY

Oklahoma Board Closes Proration Hearing

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 24. (AP)—Corporation commissioners tomorrow will consider whether a proration order, providing for a further curtailment of oil production in the state until Dec. 31 should be issued.

The attack of those oposing proration ended today when small producers in the Stephens county area completed testimony that the proposed proration, which for the first time would curtail their wells, would ruin them.

Order Drafted

It was said at the corporation commission offices tonight that an order was being drafted by commission attorneys and probably would be turned over to the commissioners tomorrow for their consideration.

For the last two weeks, the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company, the Champlain Refinery company, and small operators have protested the issuance of the order asked by Wirt Franklin and others. The Julian and Champlain companies spent more than a week attacking the proration order as unconstitutional, questioning the jurisdiction of the corporation commission to issue the order and alleging that the orders were price fixing instruments.

Operators Protest

Stephens county operators continued today to testify that oil wells making water in the Stephens county field would be ruined if they were pinched in.

In rebuttal, the prorating operators placed Charles Jacobson, production engineer of the Barnsdall Oil and Refining company, on the stand. Jacobson testified his company had experimented with wells making water and had found that pinching or shutting them in did not harm them, but instead, increased production.

TEXAS COMPLAINTS TO REACH ATTORNEY

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (UP)—Complaints of violations of the state pipe line law and the common purchaser act, developed at the hearing before the state railroad commission during the past two days, will be placed before the attorney general, it was announced today.

Failure to connect with many wells in the Panhandle was charged. A complaint that oil is not being taken from the Wichita Falls district in proration to the takings from other districts, also was made at the meeting. A charge of waste in the operation of the Reagan county fields was made today by R. D. Parker, of the oil and gas division of the commission.

LUIS BOWS TO BRAZIL COUP

Ousted President Forced To Leave Palace

weeks ago. They hope as a result to establish a civil government.

Two new officials already have been named—Gabriel Bernardes as minister of justice and Colonel Sotero de Menezes as chief-of-police.

The best information regarding the coup d'etat is that two generals, two admirals and Cardinal Leme went last night to Guanabara palace, residence of the president, and urged him to resign.

The president refused, so at 2:30 o'clock this morning the entire force of military police was aroused to throw a guard about the palace. They surrounded the Botafogo district, which prevented most of the American businessmen living in the Copacabana area from reaching their offices.

President Stands Pat

With this show of force the president again was asked to quit. He refused and was given until 11 a. m. to do so, but he still held out.

The rioting and arson developed about 10 o'clock this morning with news that Washington Luis was out. Prior to this all traffic had been operating normally except in the vicinity of the presidential palace, but with this news, masses of citizens flocked into the streets and blocked the progress of buses, private cars and all other vehicles.

Shouting against everything connected with the Washington Luis regime, the angry crowds wrecked and burned five newspaper plants and the government news agency. One paper was the Jornal do Brasil among the largest in the country.

Fires were set in other places also and some shops were looted, but by night time the police apparently had stopped all violence. The carnival spirit still was evident, however, with hundreds of persons wearing badges of red cloth or carrying red flags to show their sympathies were with the liberal party and not with the fallen government.

The coup had been expected for 24 hours, for despite the strictest sort of governmental censorship it was known that only the federal district and the states of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo were loyal to Washington Luis. Everything else either was in the hands of the revolutionary armies or else controlled by neither side, as in the state of Bahia.

Weatherford Gets 1931 Convention

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 24.—J. S. Sanders, superintendent of the Roosevelt public school system, was elected president of Southwestern District Teachers association for the coming year to succeed Charles B. Overbey, Mangum, at the annual business session Friday.

Weatherford was chosen as the convention city for 1931. R. M. Randall, superintendent of the Weatherford public schools, is the new vice president of association.

Frank D. Eaton of Southwestern college, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. More than 1,000 teachers are in attendance for three-day convention here.

Urging instructors to swing back a little in objectives so that every student will be required to have an adequate knowledge of fundamentals before they are graduated from high school and colleges, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma, talked before the meeting Friday. "The Change of Objectives in Public Education" was the subject for his talk.

"Originally state support of education was established to forward development of intelligent citizenship in order to protect democracy. Later it became necessary to have a discriminating citizenship who would be able to make wise selections.

Scope Increased

"The scope of education was then increased to enable a man to take his place in industrial society. Vocational education and selective systems were introduced. Students are allowed to largely choose their own subjects and often do not have a balanced curriculum," he said.

"Many students enter college who speak English poorly and write it miserably," he said. "You cannot train for a professional career because in five years it may be useless. English is as much a commercial subject as manual training.

"Every graduate of high schools should have a knowledge of English, mathematics, government and science."

Brown Speaks

"Public schools of this country are performing the function as educative units more perfectly than ever before by any nation at anytime," E. E. Brown, president of Southwestern State Teachers college, Weatherford, said in an address that followed.

"Three principal criticisms are made against schools of today," he continued. "These are the fundamentals, that extra-curricula activities are stressed to too great an extent and that students are not taught to do any definite thing."

He cited examples to show that children of today in actual tests are more proficient in fundamentals of education than those of previous generations. He refuted other criticisms with the statement that cultural advantages in the majority of cases are of paramount importance. Business men often judge students just out of school by their own standards of achievement after lifetime of experiences, Brown said.

In outlining the outstanding failures of modern education which he placed as aims for future he listed economic failures resulting in a world that is still full of suffering, political failures resulting in war and social uprisings and cultural failures in that beautiful and most uplifting things of life have not yet overcome baser things.

Stamford School Adopts Student Government

Special to The Record News

STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 24.—The college system of student government has recently been inaugurated in the Stamford School of Nursing and is meeting with the decided approval of the faculty from its present outlook, according to Miss Maude Cooze, superintendent.

Miss Flo Bostic, student from Spur, was elected president of the organization and Miss Woodie Lily from Troup, Texas, house president. Other members composing the council are Miss Eula Mae Gwin of Rule, president of the graduating class; Miss Corda Yarbro of Munday, president of the seniors; Miss Wilma Parker of Rotan, president of the juniors and Miss Grace Denison of Rule, student representative from the preliminary class. Miss Cooze is faculty advisor.

Other students enrolled in the school are Misses Mary Testerman of San Antonio; Letha Turley of Stamford; Mattie Lee Bell of Rule; Zada Dycheas, Rule; Myrtle Cohorn, Corpus Christi; Leta Maude Hinson, Waco; Lillian Hargrove, Stamford; Blanche Huff, Quanah; Agnes Hanson, Clifton; Rudy Kriel, Taylor; Letha Huff, Seymour; Marie Feilds, Cisco, and Lena J. Clendenning of Mullins.

L. L. Clifton, superintendent of the Tipton schools, was also on the program.

Court to Hear Pleas In Frederick Monday

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 24.—C. E. Haas, court clerk, announces that Judge Frank Mathews of Altus will be here Monday, Nov. 3, when he will hear motions, demurrers, default and divorce cases and conduct arraignments in criminal cases.

Mathews will return Nov. 10 when he will hold a term of district court. The first case on the docket is that of the state against Calvin Black, negro, charged with the killing of another negro last fall. Hubert Wilson, farmer from northeast of Frederick, will be tried on two charges of alleged theft of cattle.

SPANISH WAR VETERAN INJURED BY FIRE IN HOME

CORSICANA, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Joe Brownlow, 70, Spanish war veteran who lived alone in a small house near here, was severely burned about his head and shoulders when his home burned last night. Nearly blind, Brownlow had difficulty in picking his way from the burning building.

Planes to Soar Over Old Stage Road To Inaugurate New Mail Line Today

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24. (AP)—Soaring high above the mountains over which the famous old Butterfield stages struggled so laboriously 70 years ago, the great air lines of Transcontinental and Western Air Express, Inc., tomorrow will inaugurate a 36-hour Los Angeles-New York mail and passenger line.

The brief day-and-a-half run between the eastern and western edges of the United States contrasts sharply with the 24 days by stage coach and two days by rail required for the cross country trip when the Butterfield stages were started 72 years ago.

Even more changed from the old methods of travel will be the comfort under the new method of transportation. Passengers on the stages that plied between St. Louis and San Francisco, connecting with rail lines at the middle western city, were warned by the company: "You will be in Indian country and the full safety of your person cannot be vouched for by anyone but God."

Leaving St. Louis westbound stage coach passengers also were advised to include in their baggage "one Sharp's rifle, 100 cartridges, a revolver and two pounds of balls, a knife and sheath, blankets, half a dozen pair of woolen socks, heavy boots, woolen shirts, woolen pants and several towels."

In 1860 the pony express carried dispatches from California to the Mississippi in nine days, using 75 horses and employing the best and most daring riders for the many relays.

The first plane on the new system will leave the Alhambra terminal of the line at 5 a. m. Saturday, reach Kansas City by night and arrive at New York at 6:15 p. m., the following day. The second plane will leave Grand Central air terminal, Glendale, at 10 a. m. Saturday, arriving at Amarillo, Texas, for the night and taking its passengers to Columbus, Ohio, the next day for a rail connection.

DUNCAN GETS LABOR RELIEF

Utility Company Orders Construction

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 24.—A construction program involving the immediate expenditure of between $10,000 and $12,000 as an unemployment relief measure was announced for Duncan Thursday by the Southwestern Light and Power company.

Gas mains throughout the city will be extended or replaced with new lines and preference in hiring labor will be given Duncan men out of work and seeking work, R. W. Lindsey, manager of the Duncan district for the utility firm said. Married men with families will be given preference when labor is employed.

Approximately $5,000 of the amount involved will go for labor alone, Lindsey said. The remainder will be spent for materials.

Work will start at once and Lindsey hopes to have some of the work under way within a week.

56 Examined In Iowa Park Clinic

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 24.—During the preschool clinic, sponsored by Iowa Park Parent-Teacher association Thursday morning at the high school auditorium, 56 children, ranging from 6 to 8 years, were examined. This number compares favorably with the clinic held last spring, at which 19 were examined. Most of the children were accompanied by their mothers, who manifected real interest and announced their intention to correct defects immediately. It is planned to keep careful record of this work, as only four corrections were reported from the clinic held previously.

Dr. Gordon Clark, physician, and Dr. Louis E. McKinney, dentist, were assisted in examinations by Mrs. R. C. Acuff, health chairman. Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, Red Cross nurse, of Wichita Falls, and Mesdames C. L. Moody, J. B. Barbour, T. M. Clark and T. M. Black.

Defects discovered totaled 109, among which were 22 bad teeth, 31 bad tonsils, 33 underweights and nine overweights. Of the 56 examined only nine were recorded as standard weight.

ASPERMONT, Texas, Oct. 24.—All grades of the Aspermont school are organized according to the suggestions of the department of education for health and physical training. In the elementary school 30 minutes per day are set aside for this work and in the high school four hours per week.

This school has observed daily organized classes in physical education for all grades of the school over the period of the past eight years.

DUNCAN CRASH VICTIM DIES

Oil Operator Succumbs to Injuries

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 24.—Steve Linson, 46, who died here Thursday of what were at first believed minor injuries received in an automobile collision, was one of the best known oil men in Southern Oklahoma.

Linson had been a drilling contractor operating in the Southern Oklahoma area since 1916. He formerly lived at Lawton and Walters.

He came to Cotton county in 1902 from Missouri with his parents and settled in Hulen.

Funeral Saturday

Funeral services have not been arranged but probably will be held at Lawton Saturday if relatives arrive from Missouri.

In addition to his widow, Linson is survived by a son, Kenneth, 22, three sisters and a brother. The sisters are Mrs. C. L. Wilson, Lawton; Mrs. Minnie Hoskins, Kingfisher, Okla.; and Mrs. Augusta Simpson, Novelty, Mo. The brother is Frank Linson of Novelty, Mo.

Linson was a member of the Masonic lodge at Geronimo. He had been a member of the Christian church for more than 30 years.

The fatal accident occurred at a crowded street corner in front of the First Baptist church here Wednesday night during a drizzling rain which made driving difficult.

Cars Collide

Linson's car and a machine driven by Franklin Williamson, son of a Duncan physician collided on the streets. Linton was thrown against the side of his car but did not believe himself seriously injured. He went about for several hours without complaining before he called medical aid.

He died 11 hours after the accident from what physicians believed was a blood clot on the brain resulting from an internal injury to the lung.

Olustee Club Picks State Representatives

Special to The Record News.

OLUSTEE, Okla., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Tom Moore and Mrs. C. B. McCaleb were elected delegates to the ninth district convention of the Federation of Women's clubs, to represent the New State club of Olustee. Alternates were Mrs. T. L. Truscott and Miss Pauline Blair. The convention will be held Nov. 17-18-19, in the Apache clubhouse at Medicine Park. Election of officers will be a feature of the meeting. Mrs. James Bohart of Apache is the present president.

Mrs. J. Hale Edwards of Lawton, the newly elected state president, will be one of the main speakers at the convention. Mrs. Edwards was vice president of the ninth district until recently. Mrs. Blackwell moved out of the state and the executive board elected Mrs. Edwards on Sept. 30.

Breckenridge C-C Arranges Drouth Aid

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce will receive one and probably two carloads of government wheat early next week to be distributed to the farmers of Stephens county under a very liberal plan, John Z. Martin, chamber of commerce secretary, said Thursday after communicating with N. E. Hackney, government representative who definitely announced in his talk with Martin that the federal farm board wheat could be secured by the local chamber.

Under the government plan now being sponsored in the West Texas drouth area, the government wheat is received by the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce for $275, 20 per cent of the actual cost of a carload. Farmers pay only truck price for the government wheat, plus freight charges and a five per cent carrying charge, which probably make the wheat cost the farmers $1 per bushel, according to Mr. Martin and E. L. Russell of the Russell Grain company, who has agreed to be distributor for the grain.

To secure the wheat, a farmer gives the government a mortgage note for 80 per cent of the wheat cost and the chamber of commerce a plain note for the other 20 per cent. The government gets a mortgage on the crop which will be produced from the government grain. The chamber of commerce note is unsecured.

HERE'S THE FOURTH PUZZLE IN THE TIMES-RECORD NEWS "SCRAMBLED LETTER CONTEST"

The Times-Record News is conducting one of the most absorbing contests ever designed for the entertainment of its readers. To stimulate interest in it, and to make it a profitable as well as an enjoyable pastime for the next few weeks, a grand total of 39 prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded for the winning solutions.

Every other day there will be printed a letter of the alphabet in scrambled form, similar to the "P" above. These scrambled sections, when cut apart and properly assembled, will form the accompanying letter indicated. Each letter will be printed once in The Times and Record News.

This new game is extremely fascinating. It requires a high degree of skill to arrange these apparently simple sections in such forms as to make a perfect capital letter. "Scrambled Letters" has swept the country like a storm. Big business executives have taken it up as a genuine test of their ingenuity. Parties are formed in hundreds of communities to work out the puzzle in interested groups.

Each letter will appear in both papers. Full details about entering the contest are published herewith. Remember, 39 prizes make it well worth your time in matching your wits against this brand new intelligence test.

PRIZES ARE AS FOLLOWS

First prize	$25.00
Second prize	15.00
Third prize	10.00
Fourth prize	5.00
Ten prizes at $2 each	20.00
Twenty-five prizes at $1 each	25.00
Grand total	$100.00

Read These Rules

The Times-Record News Nu-Way alphabet puzzles include the 26 letters of the alphabet. The publication of the various letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks. These letters appearing in the paper are cut into pieces of varying shapes, the object being to place these parts together so they will form the respective letters as illustrated in outline accompanying the pieces.

An outline and its entire parts will be published in the Times and Record News every other day, a different letter of the alphabet being presented. The publication of all letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks.

Anyone who is a resident of Wichita Falls or this section may participate in this profitable fun, except employes of the Times and Record News or their families. You pay nothing to enter. Each letter, as it appears in the Times and Record News may be traced or copied free of charge from the files at the office of this newspaper.

The Times and Record News will pay $100 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete set of puzzles in accordance with the rules. This does not necessarily mean that you have to solve all the puzzles to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest. Neatness, accuracy and simplicity are the prime requisites. Accurate cutting and correct assembling of the pieces to form each respective letter. Entries that are elaborate will receive no more consideration than the simplest ones. Young and old thus have an equal chance to win.

Take the page of the Times or Record News wherein the puzzles are published. Cut the pieces carefully along the outside of the black border and paste these pieces neatly so that you completely cover the letter appearing opposite, and repeat this operation every week with the new letters in the Nu-Way alphabet puzzles published in the Times and Record News until you complete the full alphabet.

Puzzle solutions are to be submitted only in complete sets five days after all letters of the alphabet have been published in the Times and Record News. Do not send in each puzzle separately. When you have the complete set of 26 puzzles, or parts thereof, mail first class, postage prepaid, or bring them to the Times and Record News alphabet puzzle department. All entries must be in by midnight five days after the last puzzle has been published in the Times and Record News. The winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Be sure that mailed entries have name and address of sender and sufficient postage is used.

In addition to your entry, you must send an advertisement of one of the advertisers shown on any of the letters clipped from the Times or Record News during this contest period, and a letter not exceeding 50 words in length telling why you can profitably deal with this concern.

The Times and Record News will appoint judges, and their decision will be final. In the event of a tie for any of the prizes offered, the full amount of the prize tied for will be awarded each tying contestant.

HALLOWEEN

With the return of cooler days comes a revival of social activities, with Halloween always as a reason for entertaining. Halloween is associated with flickering candles, fortune telling, red apples, and golden pumpkins. When electric lights are used they are shaded with colored paper and candles are used to give the flickering, spooky half-light that is proper for ghosts and witches. Pumpkins, large red apples and green peppers may be carved into miniature Jack-o'lanterns and lighted with birthday candles.

The possibilities for Halloween decorations are many. Jack-o'lanterns, witches, gnomes, ghosts, bats, and black cats may be made from orange and black paper and a variety of decorations, place cards, and favors may be purchased if the hostess does not care to make her own.

Grewsome and spooky centerpieces may be arranged for Halloween supper and dinner parties. A leafless tree weighted down with either orange and black paper moss or grey southern moss may be placed in the center of the table. Bats flying among its branches and around it add to the weird effect. "Broom" pencils remind the guests that it is witches' night. Orange paper nut baskets and place cards featuring the straw man and his sweetheart are most effective with this decoration.

A bonfire on a dinner table is both unique and extremely attractive. It may be arranged by placing in the center of the table a pan containing incense pyramids. A wire rack should be placed over these in order to keep the leaves that are heaped on top from touching the burning incense. (It is necessary to place the leaves over the rack after the incense is lighted.) Bats should encircle the bonfire and the smoke should envelop witches hanging on invisible black threads from the chandelier. The chandelier should be covered with paper streamers or moss, some of which hangs within a few inches of the bonfire.

A gingerbread house with a spicy witch ready to creep into it is thrilling. Miniature pumpkin Jack-o'lantern stuffed with candies should grin at her amid autumn leaves. The witch lives in a tiny cleared spot in the woods with a few trees for her cat to climb, so as to spy out what is afoot and tell her.

To make the house, cut out of stiff paper one long strip to use as a pattern for the two sides. Cut another narrow piece with one end pointed for the two ends. In the end pattern cut out a narrow doorway and a slit of a window for the witch to peek through and crescent in the top for the bats and owls to use. Cut another pattern as long as the first but narrower for the two sides of the roof.

Roll out a rather stiff ginger cooky dough and cut out two pieces from each pattern, making the openings in only one end, however. Also cut out the witch, her cat and funny bats and owls, and bake. Put the sides of the wall together and put on the roof with toothpicks cutting off any protruding ends with sharp scissors. The house is then ready to hold the Halloween favors.

Delicious and different types of refreshment are now as much a part of the Halloween festivities as are the decorations and entertainment and have really grown out of the fascinating traditions of the ancient All-hallow Eve feast. The dinner and supper menus might be used for entertaining Halloween guests but with a few changes might as well be used for Sunday. Witches' broth for instance, is simply the Halloween name for hot bouillon containing soup alphabet letters that are supposed to spell out the drinker's fate. Glace' Gloom is ice cream with a face outlined on it with a fine paint brush using melted chocolate or brown color paste, and topped with a chocolate ice-cream cone or one painted black with color paste.

Magic Potion is after dinner coffee; Witches Brew is hot chocolate and Ghosts' Elixir is apple cider or punch. Salted nuts are called Witches' Delights and a mound of buttered spinach is served for the Bat's Nest. Hobgoblin Doughnuts are likewise unique. They are made by cutting doughnut dough in circles without the center holes, pinching up the noses, cutting wee slashes for eyes, into which is pressed whole allspice, slashing mouths, and embedding specks of pimento for tongues before frying. Fateful Sandwiches are made of either white or dark bread and filled with any desirable filling and cut in crescents and cats' heads. Jack-o'lantern Salad is an apple carved out to look like a Jack-o'lantern and stuffed with Waldorf salad.

The following recipes are appropriate for Halloween meals but are just as delicious when served at other times.

Raisin Cocktail (Elves Delight)

One-half cupful seedless raisins.
One-third cupful almonds.
One-half cupful tomato catsup.
Eight drops tobasco sauce.
Four teaspoonfuls lemon juice.
One-third teaspoonful celery seed.
Eight tangerines.

Cover raisins with cold water, bring slowly to the boiling point, and boil five minutes. Add almonds blanched and chopped, and tomato catsup mixed with seasonings. Cut tangerines to represent baskets and remove the pulp. Fill the tangerine skins with raisin cocktails and serve very cold. Use tangerine pulp in any way desired.

Broiled Duckling

Split and remove rib bones and superfluous fat from two ducklings, wipe with wet choose cloth, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place under flame in broiling oven for 10 minutes, then bake in oven until thoroughly tender (about 25 minutes). Remove to platter, brush with melted butter and garnish with sweet-potato pumpkins, lemon Jack-o'lanterns filled with orange marmalade, and water cress. Use yellow paper frills on wing and legs.

Sweet Potatoes With Pineapple

Two pounds sweet potatoes.
One-half cupful thin cream or top milk.
One cupful canned pineapple.
Egg yolk.
Green pepper.
Two teaspoonfuls salt.

Boil sweet potatoes in their jackets, remove skins and force potatoes through a ricer. There should be three cups. Add salt and then cream which has been scalded, and beat until very light, then add pineapple cut in cubes or shredded pineapple. Divide mixture in eight portions; shape in balls two inches in diameter, flatten at both ends and make depression at stem end. Place on a greased sheet, brush with egg yolk slightly beaten, then make grooves from bottom to top with steel skewer in imitation of pumpkins. Bake in hot oven until brown. Insert a small strip of green paper in each pumpkin for a stem.

Spook Salad

Make a nest of lettuce leaves or shredded lettuce. On this place a salad made of celery, apples and red grapes, allowing for each serving about two tablespoonfuls each of chopped celery and apples, and six glasses cut in half and blended together with mayonnaise. On this salad place a half peach with the rounded side up. Insert two whole cloves with the heads for the eyes place another with the large end down for the nose, and a narrow strip of pimento for the mouth. This strip may be placed at various angles.

Cheese Biscuits

One cup bread flour.
Two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder.
One tablespoonful butter.
One-half cupful milk.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One-half cupful grated cheese.

Sift dry ingredients, work in butter, add milk and cheese. Toss on floured cloth and roll to one-third inch thickness. Cut with cat-shaped cutter, sprinkle with grated cheese, bake in hot oven. These biscuits might be cut in crescents instead of the shape suggested.

Butterhorns

Two cakes compressed yeast.
One and one-eighth cupfuls of lukewarm water.
Five-eighths cupful of sugar.
One-half cupful of shortening.
Three eggs.
One teaspoonful of salt.
Five cupfuls of bread flour.

Prepare the following sponge the night before the rolls are to be baked: Crumble and mix the yeast with two tablespoonfuls of the lukewarm water and two of the sugar. Let stand while you melt the shortening and dissolve the sugar in the remainder of the water made warm enough for this purpose. Stir until cool and add the well-beaten eggs, the salt and the yeast mixture, then beat in the flour and knead until very elastic. Put in an oiled bowl, cover well, and stand out of a draft to rise overnight. In the morning, knead again lightly and divide into two equal parts. Roll each about a quarter of an inch thick and as nearly round as possible. Cut each into eight pie-shaped wedges. Brush over the top with melted butter and shape into horns, holling from the broad to the narrow end. Arrange on a buttered tin about two inches apart and let double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven, 400 degrees F., for fifteen minutes. Note: The Denver biscuit mixture might be used instead of the above recipe and shaped in the same manner. It might be shaped in crescents—roll the dough in a sheet one-eighth inch thick, spread with melted butter and cut in strips about four inches wide; cut these in rectangles and then into triangles. Then, beginning at the base roll them up, bringing the ends toward each other, keeping the point in the middle of the roll to give the shape of the crescent. Place the rolls on a greased baking sheet and brush with butter. When light bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven.

Moonshines

One egg.
One tablespoonful cream or milk.
One teaspoonful vanilla.
Two tablespoonfuls sugar.
Speck of salt.
Flour to make a stiff dough.

Beat egg, add cream, vanilla, sugar and salt. Add flour until it can be rolled out very thin. Cut in any shape and brown in deep fat. Place on brown paper to drain and sprinkle with powdered sugar. These are attractive made in large irregular shapes and served in a large basket. They will have to be handled carefully as they crumble easily. These are sometimes called "ghosts."

Jack-o'Lantern Sandwiches

a. Cut the bread with a large round cutter; spread very thinly with butter. Spread half the slices with cream, pimiento or ground American cheese which has been mixed to a paste with a little mayonnaise salad dressing or cream and seasoned to taste with salt and paprika. In the remaining slices cut holes for Jack-o'lantern eyes with a thimble, dots for the nose and a slit for the mouth. Place one plain and one cut slice together, and insert a strip of red pimiento

'ALFALFA BILL' FLAYS SCHOOLS

Higher Institutions Turn From Purposes, He Says

GUTHRIE, Oct. 24. (UP)—Charges that Oklahoma's schools of higher education are getting away from the purposes for which they were created were made here today by William H. Murray, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, in a campaign speech.

"The junior colleges are trying to become universities and the university and A. & M. college have gone so far in giving preparatory work that they are almost trying to give kindergarten work," Murray declared.

Murray ridiculed some of the expenditures of these institutions.

"The university wants $150,000 for a swimming pool. Well, now, as far as I am concerned, they can go to the creek. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars for a swimming hole!

"I am not opposed to higher education, I favor it for every boy or girl capable of taking it. I want Oklahoma to have a great university based on scholarship—but a university is not necessarily great because it has fine buildings and a large scholarship. It is not great where balls—baseball, football and high balls take precedence over scholarship."

Murray pledged himself to a reform of the tax laws, free text books; aid to agriculture and economy in government.

A total of 4,918 cattle in 508 herds were given tuberculin tests during July in Mississippi.

The best corn crop in the state's history is anticipated this year in South Carolina.

Movie Actor and Contractor Held on Blackmail Charges

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—A movie actor out of work and another man who described himself as a contractor were under arrest today on a charge of blackmail growing out of an attempt to extort $2,000 from Mrs. Frances Preston Thompson, wife of a retired broker of Cazenovia, N. Y.

The money was demanded, police said, on penalty of disclosure of Mrs. Thompson's friendship with a sea captain before her marriage, when she was an actress known in the profession as Frances Stevens.

But Mrs. Thompson, who said she acted to "free society of such vicious blackmailers," led police to the rendezvous where she was to have paid the money and stood by while detectives arrested Howard Larkin, the contractor.

Larkin gave information which led to the arrest of Ray Ripley, the motion picture actor. Both denied knowledge of the blackmail plot.

Mrs. Thompson told police she had received three letters demanding $2,000 under a threat to carry information concerning her to her husband or the newspapers.

Museums Duped in Huge Art Swindle

BOSTON, Oct. 24. (INS)—Revelations that museums and private collections throughout the country had been "duped" in the purchases of spurious paintings and china sold as originals by an art "ring," international in scope, were newest developments today in the investigation of a "million dollar art swindle" by District Attorney William J. Foley.

With complaints received from museums in New York, Buffalo, Detroit and other cities against the ring, search was under way for Wilber J. Cooke of New York, one of three indicted by a grand jury here in 13 counts of larceny.

The Boston and Kansas City museums of fine arts were victimized to the extent of more than $1,100,000, according to investigators.

Officials were of the belief that during the past ten years nearly all of the big museums in the country as well as private collectors were fooled in the purchase of rare antiques and paintings sold-as-"originals."

Samoan Commission to Urge New Government

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (INS)—The special congressional committee just returned from Samoa, will make an unanimous report recommending that our South Pacific island possessions be given a type of government similar to that enjoyed by the Virgin islands, President Hoover was told today by Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, chairman.

Recommendation will be made for a bill of rights and an organic act under which all Samoans will become American citizens and the president, in his discretion, may appoint either a civil governor or a retired naval officer.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas was a member of the commission.

Shot at Rat Ignites Store, Burning Woman

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 23. (AP)—Annoyed by a rat in her novelty store here yesterday, Mrs. William Herzberg fired a tiny toy cap pistol to frighten it away. A spark from the pistol ignited a Halloween costume on a rack. A few minutes later the store was ablaze. Mrs. Herzberg, severely burned, was carried from the building by a nearby barber, who heard her screams and dashed through the flames to aid her.

for the mouth, dots of the same for the nose, and two crosswise slices of stuffed olives for the eyes.

b. Spread rounds of buttered brown bread generously with minced ham moistened with a little salad dressing. Cover with the second slice. Make eyes and nose of raisins and shape mouth with bit of pimiento or as directed above. Cocoanut tinted red with color paste makes attractive red hair for the pumpkin faces.

Black Cat Salad

Cut covers from the tops of sound, ripe tomatoes. Scoop out seeds and part of the pulp. Fill with any of the following mixtures:

a. Shredded pineapple mixed with nuts and salad dressing.

b. Chopped cabbage and green peppers.

c. Cold dicked chicken or veal, celery and chopped nuts mostened with salad dressing.

Cut two identical cats facing in opposite directions from any stiff black paper. Paste together with a toothpick between. Insert toothpick in cover cut from top of tomato. Replace cover on stuffed tomato so that black cat appears to be sitting on top. Serve on lettuce or any large green leaf.

Hoodoo Pudding

Make spice cup cakes. When cool cut off tops, scoop out centers, and fill with the following: Soak one tablespoonful of gelatine in one-fourth cupful cold water five minutes. To the beaten yolks of three eggs add one cupful sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful salt. Add one cupful of strong coffee and the gelatine and cook in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture coats the spoon. Remove and cool. Whip one cupful of heavy cream and fold into cooled custard with one-half cupful of chopped pecans. Fill cup cakes, replace tops, and frost with coffee frosting.

Ghosts' Ambrosia

This is a pretty conceit. The ambrosia is gum-drops wrapped in wax paper with the ends twisted about a central wire to form bunches of grapes.

Halloween Baked Ham

Twelve-pound ham.
One teaspoonful mustard.
One-half cupful brown sugar.
One-half teaspoonful paprika.
One-half cupful vinegar.
One-half cupful stock in which ham was cooked.
Six or eight red apples.
Whole cloves.

Plunge ham into water, boil ten minutes, reduce heat and simmer two hours. Remove rind. Sprinkle the fat surface with the mustard and paprika. Pour over the vinegar and water mixed and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for two hours. Baste frequently. Sprinkle fat surface with the grown sugar, dot with whole cloves. Place the washed and cored red apples around the ham; continue baking without basting for one hour. This amount will serve from 16 to 18 and may be used instead of the broiled ducklings suggested in the above menus. The ham may be served with glazed prunes instead of apples, if desired.

Accused Robber Seeks Habeas Corpus Writ

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (UP)—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus permitting him to make bail was filed in the criminal court of appeals today by Nathan Owens, held in the Pontotoc county jail at Ada.

Owens, charged with robbery with firearms, was bound over to the district court without bond.

Industrial Growth Talked by Texans

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—A hundred Houston business men today attended the first business research conference held by the bureau of business research of the University of Texas. Discussion was led by Dr. A. B. Cox.

He pointed out that one of the purposes of the bureau is to reveal to Texas business men the tremendous development possibilities of the state.

"Today the chief source of income in Texas is from the sale of raw products, and no state, no country, can be permanently prosperous on the sale of exhaustible raw materials. We must develop industries."

The conference was called and presided over by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

STORM LASHES MEXICO COAST

Shipping and Industries Are Heavy Sufferers

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Dispatches to Mexico City newspapers revealed today that the storms which swept the eastern and western coast of the country this week practically destroyed numerous small towns, tied up shipping and caused great damage to banana plantations of the Tehuantepec isthmus.

A correspondent at Puerto Mexico, state of Oaxaca, estimated that plantations in the region of Rio Papaloapan had suffered damage of 3,000,000 pesos (nearly $1,500,000). The Transcontinental Fruit company, American-owned, was said to be a heavy loser.

The villages of Chiltepec, Jacona and Valle Nacional Gere said to have been totally inundated by the overflow of a river.

El Universal learned that in the vicinity of Tampico the villages of Catemaco, Tabacales, San Andres, San Miguel, San Isidro, Ojite and El Fuerte were ruined by water and high winds.

The banana crop of the El Hule and Tuxtepec regions of the state of Vera Cruz was said to be 75 per cent damaged.

Eleven hundred pounds of seed were required to plant 50 acres of alfalfa on a North Carolina farm.

A survey of soils on every farm in Montgomery county, Alabama, has been completed.

India's foreign trade totals $2,000,000,000 a year.

Are You Keeping New Yorkers in Shoes?
Remember the old army song, "That's Where My Money Goes"? And where is it going? We mean the money your family spends each year for food, clothing, furniture, etc. If you buy from your local INDEPENDENTLY MANAGED store, your money in the form of the merchant's profits, is spent here in Wichita Falls . . . on a house, doctor's and lawyear's fees, insurance, drugs. You benefit directly if you are a business man. You benefit indirectly if you are a local resident; part of the money goes into public improvements.
If you buy from the chain store, your money buys shoes for New Yorkers. The chain store's proceeds are sent out of town . . . the profits go to thousands of shareholders hundreds of miles away. To support outside investors at our own expense is NOT sound economics!

To Young Brides Going Housekeeping
A charming little grey-haired mother told us this story. We think it interesting enough to our friends to tell it in this advertisement. Perhaps you'll find something of value in it, besides our little talk about Snowdrift:
"When my daughter was married and started housekeeping, I reminded her that she would be with her husband for two meals a day through many, many years. I've been married thirty years, myself, but it hasn't seemed that long.
"I gave my daughter this little hint.
"Dear, remember, treat your husband as a guest at dinner. He is just as critical and appreciative of the nice little dishes you serve as any guest you'll ever have. Don't make the mistake of having two kinds of meals . . . 'company dinners' and 'family suppers.' You will see your husband more at the dining table than anywhere else.
"Make him proud of you twice a day."
Need we tell you that the wise little mother also advised her daughter to be particular about getting Snowdrift when she went to the store? She did. For ten years, she has used Snowdrift, following her own advice.
For Snowdrift is so pure and fresh and wholesome, made from oil as choice as fine salad oil, that it naturally makes cakes and pies and hot bread a bit more delicious. It's already creamed for you, too. Easier to blend with the sugar, easier to cut into your pie-dough, for making baked foods light, fine and even in texture.

How Mr. Crater 'Got His'
Poor Civic Virtue
Saving in Philadelphia
Spain Rocking Throne

By EMILE GAUVREAU

In New York the Hotel Libby opened in a blaze of glory, harboring gentlemen whose reputation isn't even doubtful, including racketering judges, suddenly falls upon evils days. It goes through condemnation proceedings, maneuvered by political friends.

The "condemnation award" is revealed at $2,850,000, approximately twice its market value. When a $1,500,000 mortgage was foreclosed on this East Side property Supreme Court Justice Crater was the receiver.

That gentleman now has disappeared, presumably with enough to live on in some quiet place for the rest of his days in the arms of an affectionate lady younger than his wife who stood by him while he was "working himself up."

That's New York as it is today, in "high places."

One need only put two and two together to see how money is made in politics these days. Civic virtue has so often been violated by those officers who are elected to guard it that prostitution plies its trade around city hall with a brazenness well nigh scorching. That clumsy statue in front of the mayor's office should be removed and McCartan's "Nymph and Satyr" should replace it. There are some people left in New York with sufficient intelligence to appreciate the fact that it would be more appropriate.

The mayor of Philadelphia announces he will fire 2,800 city workers and save $4,000,000 a year. If these city workers are holding sinecures, they should be dropped. But if they are to be thrown out of service to spare the budget, then the economy and action are in very poor taste.

At this time administrations should seek to lessen the evils of unemployment rather than aggravate them. If Mayor Mackey is so patriotically anxious to save his city money, let him start by cutting his own salary, and the salary of other high cockalorums immediately under him, who have been mulcting Philadelphia from other sources than mere salary.

Republican disturbances in Spain have reached the point where students at the University of Barcelona burn the picture of Alfonso XIII, shout "Death to the King" and sing "La Marseillaise."

This begins to look serious. The peseta has tumbled to 10.25 to the dollar, representing the worst drop in recent exchange records. The university has been ordered closed. Arrests are frequent and military law is imminent.

A republic in Spain would mark the entry of a new world power in the ranks of the nations. Under Alfonso the kingdom seems merely to be marking time. His majesty would be wise to abdicate before he is forced from his throne. A bloodless revolution, as a prelude to the establishment of a republicanism, would achieve for Spain a distinction that history would not forget so soon.

In the opinion of prominent educators, according to Clyde M. Miller, director of educational service at Teachers' college, Columbia university, only 10 per cent or less of the teachers in public schools today are qualified for their jobs. Dr. Henry Suzzalo of the Carnegie Foundation thought 1 per cent nearer the truth.

Low as this average is it would probably be a high one if the qualifications of magistrates and judges came up for consideration.

One accident for every 14,000 miles operated by commercial vehicles in Chicago was one month's safety record.

A recent survey revealed 244 noncultivated plants in Texas that are susceptible to cotton root rot.

One of the saddest things a dry country like ours has to bring itself to is to mention each year "the first nip of Jack Frost."

The Sense of Glamour

WHEN a man starts regretting the passing of the good old days, and begins to remark that nothing is quite as fine nowadays as it used to be, it is a fair sign that he is getting old. Nevertheless, even a young man can spot one or two ways in which the modern world has fallen below the level of the world of his grandfather.

Life has grown easier and safer, and in most ways this has been all to the good; but there has departed, somehow, something of that sense of glamour that used to surround men and make life a richer and brighter affair than it is today.

Captain John W. Thomason Jr., that talented officer of United States marines, recently wrote a biography of Jeb Stuart that illustrates the matter perfectly.

Jeb Stuart was Lee's chief of cavalry in the civil war. He was a cavalry officer in the days when the cavalry was the cavalry, when a general took his chances along with the buck privates, and war still had an overtone from the age of chivalry; and merely looking at his portrait, as Captain Thomason gives it, is enough to emphasize the passing of the sense of glamour.

Look at the man's picture—a young man, with a flowing tawny beard, dressed in immaculate Confederate gray, wearing always a gay plume in his hat and gold spurs on his great cavalry boots, with a yellow silk sash about his waist and a gray cape lined with red silk that fluttered in the breeze when he galloped into action at the head of a thundering line of yelling horsemen, sabers aloft. He had the dash and fire of one of the children of romance. He wore a red rose in his lapel, sang rollicking songs when he slouched at ease in the saddle, and he died at last on the battlefield, a world-famous general at the age of 32.

Merely reading about the man quickens one's pulse. But he would be a lost and archaic misfit today. Generals do not gallop into action in this efficient era, nor do they wear plumed hats and red-lined capes. He was a type brought forth by a different generation. We cannot duplicate him.

It is all very well to say that plumes and bright spurs are unimportant. It is hard to live by bread alone; and among those things which nourish without filling the belly is this elusive, intangible aura of romance which the bright riders of the old days bore with them. Jeb Stuart furnished a masterpiece in the art of living; and, like all works of art, his career can lift the beholder out of himself and persuade him that man has, somewhere within him, a streak of divinity.

That is the sort of thing we have lost. And yet—have we really lost it, or has it only changed its guise? Was there not, a few years ago, a slim Viking who soared across a dark ocean in a silver monoplane, and brought high adventure down from the clouds for us? Perhaps, after all, a mechanical age can evolve its own romance. Let us hope so. We cannot live without it.

When Crime Does Pay

WHEN we lecture against crime we are fond of saying that "crime doesn't pay." It is just about time that we realized that this hoary axiom is out, as far as youthful criminals are concerned. In the eyes of those who furnish recruits to the underworld army, crime decidedly does pay—and pays well.

A case in point is furnished by the recent arrest of a Chicago gangster. Up to two years ago the young man struggled along as a chauffeur, earning $25 a week and board. Then he became a beer runner for the Capone outfit. When arrested he was living in a fancy hotel suite, had $1,000 in cash in his pockets, and owned a bank account of more than $9,000.

That explains a good deal. It is that simple fact—that crime pays huge dividends—that explains much of the lawlessness in our big cities today.

Sinning Against Sport

A COUPLE of college football teams were playing a night game, under the floodlights, in New York the other day. One team tried a forward pass. An end, close to the sidelines, made ready to catch the ball; then a newspaper photographer snapped a flashlight, the end's eyes were dazzled and he failed to make the catch.

Officials descended on the photographer wrathfully, loudly denunciatory. But the photographer calmly remarked that they ought to play in the day time, if they didn't want to be bothered by flashlights; and it seems to us that there is a good deal of justice in his remark.

Night football was not designed for the players, but for the spectators. When a college football game is played at night it is a pretty fair sign that it is a spectacle rather than a sport. A photographer who disregards the players' convenience in order to get a picture is not sinning against the sport half as much as the official who scheduled the game for the evening to begin with.

The Troubles of 1916

THE disclosures from the state department at Washington concerning the sharp exchange of notes, in 1916, between our government and the government of England are extremely interesting. It is somewhat surprising to learn that at one time, due to England's interference with American sea-borne commerce, the severance of diplomatic relations was actually a possibility.

This being so, one is moved more than ever to marvel at the excessive stupidity of the German government in declaring unrestricted submarine warfare. That step pushed American troubles with England into the background and brought America into the war against Germany. If the German government had set itself to cultivate American good-will, history might have taken a much different course.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That a bee doesn't mean to sting you. The poor bum is merely laying its eggs and it hurts it more than it does you.

That the entire population of Boston could be seated in New York's cinema houses and other theaters.

That according to the junkman who collects them the newspapers thrown away in the Interborough subway every day are worth $30,000 yearly.

That there are only 38 blueblooded New York families in the city. Mrs. J. King Van Rensselaer checked this fact before she died.

That there are 15,000 more women than men in Greater New York.

That actors are in the minority in the Players club.

That the Holy Roller refuge at 1 W. 137th street puts on a better show than any Harlem night club.

That a queen in a Balkan country has a gold bathtub with the names of her former suitors inscribed.

That army and navy officers are gentlemen by an act of congress.

That a Chicago department store owner was so religious he instructed that the store window curtains be drawn on the Sabbath.

That Pasteur's treatment for hydrophobia, the disease which makes dogs go daffy, is used as a cure for drug addiction.

That 700 feet a minute is the speed limit for building elevators.

That Shelby refused to use sugar in his tea or java, because cane was produced by slave labor.

That if you think you're crowded in New York, remember that there are 130 square miles of vacant land inside the city limits.

That Austin O'Malley once penned: "Genuine love between man and woman is possible; but very rare, and when it does exist, it is nine-tenths reason and the grace of God and one-tenth sentiment."

That the sound on movie film is 19 frames (about 10 inches) ahead of the actual action of the film.

That Camel ciggies will pay plenty for a new advertising idea.

That Thomas Adams, father of the choongum industry, tried to provide dentistry with a better sort of rubber for artificial teeth and set the world chewing gum. Yop. That's the guy.

That the snappiest sign over a speakeasy bar is: Nobody ever has it. Democritus for neglecting it and Epicurus for consuming it.

That modern culture, any good critic will tell you, consists largely in the most refined method of finding fault.

That one-fifth of the population in the United States attends the movies every day—most of them unemployed.

That orchids are no longer "rare flowers" because growers have discovered how to produce them on the mass production principle, germinating more than 20 seeds where nature could germinate but one.

That radio has contributed 5,000 new words to the language. The war added 6,000. Broadway has contributed 332.

That George Eliot often spoke of Dickens with great kindness, but never had a word of praise for him or his works.

That Victor Hugo insisted that criticism cannot apply to genius.

That the best retort to a critic was Wordsworth's: "It is hard, indeed, if they who are lame will not let you limp."

That Voltaire called Shakespeare an inspired savage.

That the price of admission to the London theaters during Shakespeare's day was one penny. Imagine!

That they call it the "green room" in the theater because the walls were colored green to rest the eyes of the actors who suffered from the artificial glare of the spotlight, and the glares of the audience.

That during the French revolution Sunday was abolished. Every 10th day was a day of rest, however.

That one writer should be happy to learn that 12 o'clock midnight is designated as 12 p. m. by the naval observatory. So sorreh.

That actual steam (betcha millyun!) isn't visible!

That the late Alan Dale, the dramatic critic, was barred by Erlanger from seeing his own show, the lucky feller!

That George Washington received nothing for his personal services during the revolution. His expenses, however, were paid him, and for these he collected more than $64,300. The chump!

That the Greek word for school means "leisure."

That Ellen Terry used to go to a madhouse to study the subjects there to aid her in playing Ohelia. "Gunggunggung."

That the word Rialto is a combination of Italian words meaning "deep brook." Broadway is plenty deep for a lot of us.

And that Walter O'Keefe, just back from California, will tell you that Hollywood is merely Bridgeport—with palm trees.

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN . . .

Gail Stuart, picked up by Nick Walther as she is hiking to Hollywood, fails in a screen test he arranges for her, but gets a job as secretary to Carla Cross, the star. Through deception Gail gets Ross Hardy, young extra to whom she is engaged, a job as Carla's leading man. Ross gives Gail a diamond but she keeps him from announcing their engagement as a means of protection for them both. Gail enjoys riding with Ross in his new roadster, and is very much in love. Nick asks her to dinner, but she refuses. Ross begins to be very interested in Carla, and they leave the studio in his car. They return at 1 a. m., very excited, and Carla wails for Gail.

CHAPTER XVI

Carla's usually bright blue eyes were flecked with yellow. Her face was pasty and, except where the rouge stood livid red on her cheeks, pale. Not a wisp of her blond hair showed. It was bound with a red silk scarf.

She fell into a chair moaning.

"Tell her, Ross—" she begged.

Ross stood twirling his hat. He looked now and then at the door, as if he expected someone to burst through it.

"We'd better get out of the hall," he said slowly, wetting his dry lips. It did not seem to be Ross speaking.

The three of them flew upstairs to Carla's boudoir. Gail was puzzled. She didn't know what to do, to say. She was worried, too. Carla and Ross were so upset.

"You see, it's this way," Ross began, then stopped. He looked at Carla for encouragement. She nodded, and he continued, stumbling over his explanation. "We were out riding. Went to—dinner at some place, and afterwards went riding—" The phone rang and Gail moved over to answer it.

"No!" Carla cried, "not yet—let it ring." It did, annoyingly, even the subdued bell Carla insisted on. Buzzed on and on.

"God! Why doesn't it stop?" The actress started pacing the floor, the white polo coat which she had not yet taken off, flapping at her knees.

"Go on, Ross. We haven't all night. They might be here any minute—"

Gail looked from one to the other.

"Well, we went riding—"

"Get down to business, Ross. Don't go over all that again!"

"Carla was driving. She loves to drive. We were going pretty fast, above the speed limit anyway. At least 60 an hour, although we won't admit that. Anyway, we passed a big car. Didn't notice it was a police car. The wind was so gorgeous, Gail, and it felt so good to be driving so fast!" His hands were twisting uncomfortably.

"Stop a minute, Ross. I just thought. We've got to have Tod Janson right away! Get him, will you, Gail?"

Gail went to the phone and dialed his number. A sleepy voice answered her. Carla snatched the receiver from her hand.

"It's Carla, Tod. Get right over here, will you? Trouble. Yes, trouble!" She flung down the receiver and faced Ross again. "Go on."

"As I was saying, we didn't know this car was a police car, so passed it and sped on. Carla said the Sun was a wonder at speed. Neither of us noticed that the other car was following. We never thought of it for a minute, did we, Carla?"

Carla Panic-Stricken

Carla shook her head, and tapped her foot on the floor impatiently. She was biting her lips furiously.

"The road was dark. Dark as pitch. There was no moon, you know, and we were going pretty fast. Well—of a sudden something loomed up in the road. Carla put on the brakes and I grabbed for the emergency. We heard a scream, after the car had stopped—" a hand brushed his face heavily.

Carla took up the story. "We heard a scream, and Ross was just getting out when this other car steamed up, and an officer got out. An officer, mind you. Lying in the road was a woman. I'd hit her. God knows I didn't see her at all. It wasn't my fault. She shouldn't have been crossing the road at that hour of the night. A dark road, too.

"The officer yelled something and went to the woman. I got back in the car. I was so scared I didn't know what to do. I thought I killed her, but Ross came back in a minute and said she was alive, but badly hurt.

"The nthe officer came up to the car, and said he'd been following me for half an hour.

"He—he was ver yinsulting, Gail. Horrible. I never had anyone to talk to me like that before. Said I me all sorts of things. Said I shouldn't be driving and all that. Demanded my driver's license. I didn't have it, of course. Some other car came along, and he hailed it, and let Ross take me home, because Ross told him I was ill from it all. So we came home."

The front door bell buzzed, and Carla straightened as if a shot had passed through her body.

"The police, Ross!"

"Hush, don't worry. I'll see them . . . "

"Look over the railing, and see!"

He did, and came back with Tod Janson. Carla nearly fell into his arms. She went over all that had already been told. Tod, half dressed, his pajama coat tucked into his dark trousers, bedroom slippers on his stockingless feet, walked the floor with a cigaret. His hair was not combed, and his small eyes were still glassy with sleep. Gail could not imagine how he had reached the house so soon. She learned afterward that he lived not far away.

"You should have thought of yourself, Carla. You should have known—" he admonished sharply.

"How could I know a woman was going to cross the road? I tell you I didn't see her!"

"A nice how do you do, with the new picture and all that—" he grumbled.

"You haven't told everything," Ross broke in, looking at Carla.

Just then the bell buzzed again. Gail remembered that she seldom heard it during the day, and almost never at night, for it rang in the kitchen. Now with ears acute, it seemed to be booming all over the house.

"The police!" Ross cried, paling. "I'll see 'em." Todd offered lighting another cigaret and tossing his burned stub into a fragile vase.

Martin came to the door, and looked through hesitantly.

"Yes, Martin?" Carla asked.

"Two officers, Miss Cross, to see Miss Stuart."

"Tell them to wait a moment, Martin, Miss Stuart will be—right down."

Gail looked from Carla to Ross. She didn't understand. Why should the officers want her?

Quickly Carla unbound the red silk from her hair, and slipped out of her coat, which she had neglected to remove until now.

"Why should they want me?" Gail asked.

"Why—why, you see—tell her Ross—"

"Well, the first officer didn't recognize Carla. We saw that at once. When he asked for her driver's license, she said she didn't have it with her. Then he asked her name, and she—"

"I gave Gail's name. I knew she wouldn't mind. After all, she has nothing to lose—" Carla rattled on as if she had been talking of the most casual thing in the world, "and I had everything to lose. I can't afford to be mixed up in a scandal like this. What if the woman should die? What would I do then? With the new picture just started. Well, I gave your name, Gail. You don't mind, of course? I'll see that everything comes out all right. Tod will fix everything up. Luckily I had this around my hair—didn't want it to get blown or anything like that in the wind. So the officer didn't see that my hair was blond. He just took my name and address—and I gave him yours, and this address, and said I was Carla Cross' secretary. He said he would be up later to talk—"

"You gave him my name?" Gail gasped. Then she would be blamed for running down the woman. For speeding. If the woman died—

"You spderstand, Gail?" Ross spoke eagerly. "Carla can't afford to be mixed up in this, and she was driving. I knew you'd see it right."

"Did you suggest that Carla use my name?" Gail was incredulous.

"No, she thought of that herself."

"And now the police are waiting to see—me?"

"You gave my name?" Gail gasped. Then she would be blamed for running down the woman.

A.—It was designed by Thomas Jefferson.

Q.—How are pineapples propagated?—W. H.

A.—Pineapples are propagated by means of crowns, slips, suckers, and rattoons. The crown is the leafy part of the fruit just below which small plants form and these are left in the field when the fruit is gathered. These are termed slits. In the axles of the leaves are buds and those developing near the ground make strong plants and are termed suckers. Buds developing from an underground part are rattoons.

Q.—Did the New England states have normal rainfall last spring?—C. H. P.

A.—The normal rainfall for the New England states from Jan. 1 to July 31 is about 24.00 inches. The amount recorded from Jan. 1 to July 31, 1930, was about 85 per cent of the normal.

Q.—Which is the higher, Mount Shasta or Mount Ranier?—M. D.

A.—Mount Ranier is about 250 feet higher than Mount Shasta.

Q.—How does the number of Confederate veterans still living compare with the number of Union veterans?—M. L. W.

A.—According to the last censuses available, there were 50,749 Union veterans, April 30, 1930, and 19,095 Confederate veterans, May 1, 1929.

Q.—How large is Mesa Verde park? When were its ruins discovered?—T. M.

A.—The Mesa Verde National park consists of a plateau of 51,273 acres in southwestern Colorado. The ruins which are in the Mancos canyon were discovered as early as 1874, when Mr. W. H. Jackson led a government party there. The next year he was followed by Prof. W. H. Holmes, later chief of the bureau of American Ethnology, who drew attention to the remarkable stone towers found in this region.

Q.—How much would it cost to bore or dig a hole in the earth five miles deep?—F. A. S.

A.—Experts say it is impossible to estimate the cost of such an engineering operation. It might cost $10,000,000 or five times that amount, and it might prove impossible no matter how much money was spent on it.

Q.—What is the dhobie itch?—H. G.

A.—This general term is applied in the tropics to any skin-disease transmitted by the clothing.

Q.—What woods are best to use carving?—M. B.

A.—The forest service says that there are a number of woods which are good for carving, among which are the following: black walnut, yellow poplar, basewood, red gum, and oak.

Q.—Is there a simple way to clean platinum rings set with diamonds?—M. I. C.

A.—Immersing them in a bowl of water to which ammonia has been added, and scrubbing them with a small, soft brush which has been dipped in the water is efficacious.

Q.—In the Jewish Feast of Lights are all the candles lighted each night?—A. N. G.

A.—The Feast of Lights is Hanukah, the Jewish Feast of Dedication. The distinctive ceremonial feature of this festival today is the kindling of lights in the home and in the synagogue; one on the first evening, the number being increased by one on each consecutive evening, until eight lights are lit on the last evening of the festival. Special prayers inspired by the historic event commemorating the triumph of monotheism over heathenism, of the forces of light over the forces of darkness, are recited. Special Scriptural portions are read in the synagogue. In modern times, children's festivals, in which the story and significance of the feast are recounted, have become a marked feature in the celebration of the Feast of Dedication.

Lunch—*Hubbard squash, salad of lettuce and cucumbers.

Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, steamed carrots, okra, salad of crisp raw spinach leaves, cup custard.

*Hubbard Squash—Cut a squash in quarters and remove seeds. Bake in a moderately hot oven until tender. Scrape from the rinds into a saucepan, add a large lump of butter and two tablespoonfuls of cream. Mash until all the lumps are gone, then beat until light with a silver fork. Put into a deep vegetable dish, dot with butter, and keep very hot until ready to serve. If care is taken in cutting the squash in uniform size, the squash may be piled on shells in individual portions. The squash baked in the shell has a very delicious flavor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dry Hands

Question—Miss S. asks: "Will you please tell me what causes my hands to be exceedingly dry—so dry they often wrinkle in the palms? This is mostly at night. Also, I have a craving for fresh fruit and cool tart drinks—anything cold and juicy. I have been this way for several years."

Answer—Satisfy your craving for fresh fruit by eating nothing else for a few days. This treatment will help to correct the dryness of your skin. For temporary relief, rub cocoa-butter on the skin. Use a small amount over the entire body each night before you retire.

Poppy Seed Oil

Question—L. K. asks: "Is there an oil from poppy seed that may be used as a salad oil, and is it a good food?"

Answer—Poppy seed oil is popular in parts of Europe as a table oil. It is a pale yellow color, practically odorless, and has a very pleasing flavor. The inferior grades are used in soap making and like products. As far as its food value is concerned, it has no special merit.

Gaining Weight

Question: M. D. J. writes: "I have been drinking milk to gain weight, a pint for breakfast, a pint at 10 o'clock, at 3 o'clock, and before retiring. Have been driking it this way for two months but do not seem to gain much. Do I drink enough, and at the right hours?"

Answer—If you take your milk along with other foods you will only bring on some disorder because of this over-feeding. If you want to try to gain weight through taking the milk diet, it is necessary to give up all other foods. Then take a glass of milk every half hour during the day, which will give you about six quarts daily. If you drink this much you are bound to gain weight, but it might not be good weight, and may leave you after you have stopped taking the milk as fast as you put it on during the milk diet.

Civil Engineers in Session at Houston

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The Texas section of the American Society of Civil Engineers opened its fall meeting here today.

A review of the history of the organization and its improved methods of handling business and the growth of the Texas Engineer, publication of the body, was touched upon in an address of President James E. Pirie of Albany, county engineer of Shackelford county.

E. C. Woodward, division highway engineer of Waco, spoke on "Some Observations of the Development of High Joints in Concrete Paving," and Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, talked on "The State Highway Organization."

Gilchrist pictured the workings of the highway department with its annual pay roll of $7,000,000 and told of its efforts in the revision of specifications to eliminate all hazards and its method of letting work to responsible contractors.

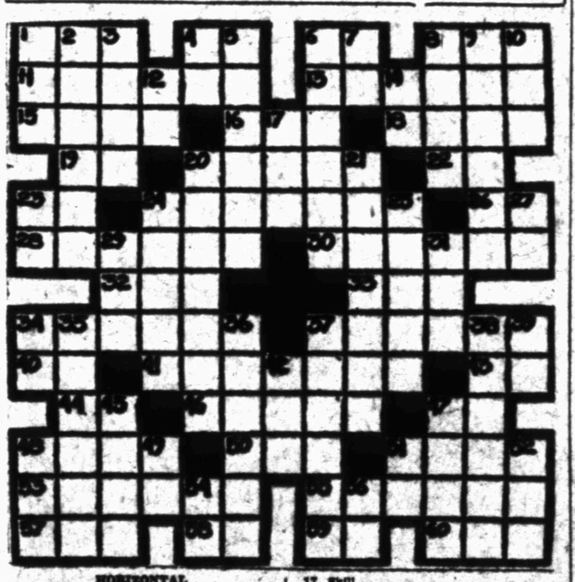

Proposed Florida Ship Canal Explained at Houston

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Plans for the proposed Florida ship canal was laid before Houston interests today by a Jacksonville, Fla., delegation.

W. F. Coachman Jr., chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, said the canal would be approximately 135 miles in length, from Jacksonville on the Atlantic, to the gulf.

"Of this amount only 105 miles will be a digging job," he said. "The preliminary estimate of the cost is $125,000,000. It will cut off for the Houston-New York route between one-fifth and one-fourth of the distance."

EAGLES TROUNCE SEYMOUR; OLNEY CONQUERS ARCHER CITY

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Prosecution Arises

"Archer City, Texas.
"Oct. 24, 1930.

"Dear Rambler:

"We are writing this just before the Olney and Archer City football game to be played this afternoon. We have just read your wisecracking article in The Record News for this morning, referring to the above game.

"You stated that if Olney was over-confident and Archer City was inspired, and should Archer City win, that it would be a good story to send in to Mr. Ripley.

"Now it seems that your predictions about results of future football games are not so hot. Witness your prediction about the game between Archer City and Henrietta, in which you picked Henrietta to win, the score being 63-0 in favor of Archer City, the entire second half of which Archer City played with second-string men.

"Of course we are just a small town with no high powered sports writer like Wichita Falls has, to tell us in advance who is going to win, but we have a couple of good coaches and a bunch of fine boys that play football every minute that they are in the game. We do not have a bunch of alibis to offer after the game like Wichita Falls has, and if we win or lose this afternoon there will be no long winded post mortems offered as to why it happened. We will just hitch up our britches a little tighter and begin pointing toward the next game.

"We beat Thrift, 26-0, and Henrietta 63-0, both conference games, quite a better showing, by the way, than your Coyotes have shown. You predicted Electra and Quanah to be the weak spots in class A in this district. Seems you blowed up again. Olney beat Electra by a large margin, and Electra beat Wichita Falls, so if we go out and beat Olney this afternoon that puts our team above your exalted Coyotes.

"Referring to the dig about the Believe It or Not story should we win this game, what do you think Mr. Ripley would do if the Coyotes should beat one of the strong teams in the class A conference?

"Well, win or lose, the business houses of Archer City are going to close up and go to the game this afternoon and root like thunder for their team. Can Wichita Falls say they support their team that well?

"Signed,
"Jess Goodwin of Tonsor Barber shop.
"Winfield Ikard of Ikard Bros. Dry Goods Co.

"P. S.—And we will lay you another bet that you are not good enough sport to print this in your sports column."

If Your Honor Please

Mr. Goodwin, his letter states, is a barber. Mr. Ikard is connected with a dry goods store. Before we answer the above charges we wish to admit offhand our impotence, because there was never a sports writer who could come up to the standard of sports criticism emanating from a person in one or the other of these two vocations. Lloyd Gregory may have an opinion, but K. C. Spell, our own sports critic and barber par excellence, could with great eloquence strike consternation in the heart of the great Gregory.

But we will, nevertheless, strive to maintain our integrity. First, we predicted that Olney would whip Archer City. That prediction came true, did it not? If Archer City had beat Olney, we still maintain that it would have been an item for a local Ripley. Not that we think the Archer City team is poor. Far from it. Because, simply, the Olney Cubs outclass the Archer City lads. Ever since the season opened we have had nothing but praise for Archer City's team. It began when we saw little Billy Fleming play in a practice game up here against one of the junior high school teams of this city. At that time Billy was a B squad player. Since he has played with the regulars and has made a good showing. The Archer City coach was in our office last week and we had nothing but good words for his outfit. So were one or two of his players, including Fleming. We told both what we thought of Archer City's team. I do not remember predicting Henrietta would beat Archer City. I do remember saying it was due to win, which, you will admit, is another thing. If I remember right, that was the week after Henrietta had held Megargel to a scoreless tie, and had won the game on first downs. Surely they were in a mood to win a game by touchdowns after that. They were due to win, but they didn't. When the score of the Archer City-Henrietta game came in last week, there were many gasps in this office. We hadn't expected anything like it. It was what we call an "upset" in the dope. It was just like any number of upsets that have happened in the class B race this year, and if you will remember, gents, the story we had in the paper Friday morn said that the class B teams were providing the lion's share of the thrills in this area this year, and not the battles in district one.

If your honor please, the gentlemen's letter is beside the point, and makes no direct statement of fact. (I heard that sentence in a courtroom once, and I've been trying to figure out ever since what it meant, so it ought to go well here.) When I remarked on the believe it or not potentialities in the Olney game yesterday, I meant that as a compliment, hoping, indeed that Archer City would provide Ripley with a juicy news item to the effect that the Cubs had been whipped soundly by a team rated as the under-dog. It is refreshing to see an under-dog trounce a favorite, more refreshing perhaps than it is to see a championship outfit retain the crown year after year. Olney has whipped everything in sight for a long time. It would be refreshing to see them whipped once, and Olney knows this. That is why they are fighting all the harder. They want to keep their crown. It is just like the story of the medieval kings. They fight like h—— to win a crown, thinking they will be at peace thereafter—but behold, their misery is just begun, for every vassal in the land starts trying to oust him.

Now about the Coyotes. If that bunch were to whip Amarillo, one Ripley wouldn't be enough. It

PANTHERS LOSE BY 32 TO 6

Cubs Ring Up Score Of 51 to 0

Special to The Record News

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Chillicothe Eagles continued their march toward the class B championship this afternoon by drubbing the Seymour Panthers by a score of 32 to 6 and made it five wins in a row without a loss. The Eagles completed 19 first downs to their enemys' 10 and only in the third quarter did Seymour become dangerous but were checked by the powerful defense of the Chillicotheans. Olney scouts were given plenty of reason to believe the Olney Cubs who play in Chillicothe Friday, Oct. 31, will have plenty of competition when they clash with the Eagles.

Eagles Start Early

The Eagles lost no time after the starting whistle in getting their scoring machinery into operation. Shortly after the outset, Moko Hughes, sparkplug and quarterback of the local eleven, shot a pass to H. Ramsey, right end, who cantered over with the first touchdown. Try for point failed when the kick went astray.

Receiving the kick-off, Seymour soon lost possession of the oval when a forward pass landed in an Eagle's arms. After a series of running plays, R. Ramsey rammed the line for a second counter, and Creighton toed the pigskin safely over the bar for the extra point. Hughes figured in the third touchdown, which came before the first half ended, hurling a long pass to Creighton, who kicked successfully for the added point after crossing the line for a touchdown.

Panthers Make Stand

Seymour made its best stand in the third quarter, staging a determined rally at the opening of that period and marching down the field for the visitors' only score. The extra point was lost when a Panther guard was discovered offside.

Two touchdowns were added by the Eagles in the final period, Hughes baffling the Panther defense with a fake kick formation from which he sprinted 25 yards through an open field for the touchdown. Ramsey scored the final six points on the receiving end of a triple pass.

Preparations are being made here for taking care of a banner crowd from all over Northwest Texas next Friday when the Olney Cubs invade the haunts of the undefeated Eagles here. Chillicothe will enter the game with a record of five straight victories, and with its team pointed for the Olney struggle as the climax of the 1930 season. The starting lineups Friday were as follows:

CHIL'COTHE (32)	Pos.	SEYMOUR (6)
Montgomery	L.E.	H. Ferrier
Simms	L.T.	Morris
L. Davis	L.G.	Coy
Wiginton	C.	O. Ferrier No. 1

BURK BULLDOGS WHIP IOWA PARK, 6 TO 0

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Oct. 24.—In a hard fought contest on the local gridiron the Burkburnett Bulldogs trounced the Iowa Park Hawks by a 6 to 0 score. The game was played with many passes and strategy on the part of both teams and many long runs were featured during the game by the Bulldogs. The Birds netted seven first downs to the 12 made by their opponents. Out of 10 attempted passed by the Birds one was completed, while the Bulldogs completed four passes out of the 13 attempted. The visitors drew 60 yards in penalties while the locals were penalized 15 yards.

The first half ended without either side scoring. The ball had been carried into scoring distance and inside the opponents' five yard line four times and at the end of the half the Birds had the ball on the Bulldogs' one-yard line. The Bulldogs had in the meantime invaded the Hawks' 10-yard line twice.

The remainder of the game was played in the air and with both sides fighting for the advantage. The game was in doubt until the last few minutes when the visitors were carried into scoring distance by two long passes, then Ragsdale on another pass of 16 yards to Morley carried the ball across for the only score of the game. The try for point kick failed when Ragsdale was blocked in his attempt to kick the goal.

The outstanding players for the Bulldogs were Ragsdale, Salyer and Morley. Burney, Cobb and Wilson stood out on the local team.

The lineups:

IOWA PARK (0)	Pos.	BURK (6)
Harbour	L.E.	Morley
G. Cowart	L.T.	Goodlet
V. Cowart	L.G.	Wininger
Burney	C.	Smith
Davis	R.G.	Hurd
Watkins	R.T.	Matthews
Smith	R.E.	Johnson
Cobb	Q.B.	Ragsdale
Cunningham	R.H.	Hall
Walker	L.H.	Henderson
Wilson	F.B.	Salyer

Substitutions: Iowa Park, Monroe for Walker, left half; Walker for Monroe; Mauer for Cunningham, right half.

OLNEY CUBS BLANK ARCHER CITY, 51 TO 0

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Oct. 24.—The powerful Olney Cubs used about every play known to football here today in sailing to a 51 to 0 victory over Archer City, thus eliminating Archer City from the first place tie with Olney and Chillicothe for first place in class B, district No. 3.

The Archer City lads fought hard throughout the tussle, but were badly outweighed and outplayed. According to Bill Cooper, Archer City coach, the Cubs outweighed his team 20 pounds, the Archer City players averaging 150 pounds to about 168 for the Cubs. Archer City made only five first downs in the contest, and never came within scoring distance.

Duckworth, a massive halfback, ran at will through the Archer City line, as did Graves, a 195-pound fullback. The Cubs used passes, spinner plays, and virtually everything else in their repertoire to pile up the impressive score.

INDIANS DEFEAT MEGARGEL, 75 TO 7

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Quanah Indians had little trouble today defeating the Megargel Bluebirds, a class B team, in a practice game. The score was 75 to 7.

Memphis' Victory Over Clarendon Throws District Race Into Tie

Special to The Record News

CLARENDON, Texas, Oct. 24.—Arrangements for a play-off game to break a class B tie in this district became necessary with the conclusion of Friday's classic struggle here when Clarendon High school fell before the Memphis High Cyclone by the score of 31 to 25.

Inability of the Clarendon team to stop Hammons, elusive open field runner of the Cyclones, spelled defeat of the locals to reduce them to a district tie with Memphis. In the first quarter, Hammons broke loose in mid-field and slipped through the entire Clarendon eleven for 50 yards and a touchdown. Coming back in the third quarter after Clarendon had closed the first half with a 13-6 lead, Hammons cleared the scrimmage line on his own 46-yard stripe and galloped all of 54 yards for another score.

Score on Blocked Punts

Blocked punts played an unusually prominent part, each team making two touchdowns directly by that medium. Clarendon broke through to block a Memphis kick early in the game when the Cyclone had been crowded back to its own goal line, a local player recovering for a touchdown. Aside from Hammon's beautiful 54-yard canter in the third, Memphis twice backed the Clarendon eleven deep into its own territory and blocked attempted punts. One was converted into a score by a 20-yard run, the other with the aid of a 30-yard sprint. In the fourth quarter, Clarendon effected another touchdown via the blocked-kick route.

Hedson of Clarendon featured a drive in the second quarter which brought a touchdown as a result of consistent line attacks. The final Clarendon touchdown, just before the game ended, was accomplished by combining a long pass with a subsequent line plunge.

Clarendon Stars

Reed, Nichols and Heson were outstanding in the Clarendon eleven's performance, while Pearson and Stargel shared in the large portion of honor captured by Hammons of Memphis.

More than 1,200 persons, the largest crowd ever present at a high school football game here, was present. Evenness of the fight is indicated by the fact that Memphis made 12 first downs while winning against 13 for the losing Clarendon squad.

Dalhart Blanks Wolves Of Liberal, 25 to 0

Special to The Record News

DALHART, Texas, Oct. 24.—Without services of their captain, who was injured, the Dalhart Wolves kept their season's record of not allowing their goal line to be crossed by defeating the Liberal, Kan., Redskins by a score of 25 to 0. Only twice did the visitors threaten to score. One in the first quarter and again in the last few minutes when they completed several passes. The receiving of Williams and the passing of Ribble featured the game. Williams took two almost impossible passes that were good for touchdowns. The line play of the local eleven made possible many long gains by Reynolds, Thompson and Ribble. Coach Bolton's eleven is already district champion.

Crowell Eleven Beats Knox City, 75 to 0

Special to The Record News

CROWELL, Texas, Oct. 24. — Crowell defeated Knox City, 75 to 0, in a one-sided affair here today. Resorting to straight football during most of the game, the Crowell team made 26 first downs, never punted, and were never stopped, having the ball on the two-yard line as the final gun sounded. Knox City made five first downs. G. Cobb was the star of the game, making seven touchdowns for Crowell. About a month ago these two teams battled at Knox City and the game resulted in a scoreless tie.

Zundy Defeats Subs Of Electra, 12 to 2

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Zundelowitz Junior high school team of Wichita Falls defeated the third string Electra team here today, 12 to 2. Long end runs accounted for Wichita Falls touchdowns in the first and second quarters, and the Electrans scored on a safety in the second quarter.

Roadsters Open Cage Season With Victory

In the first game of the basket ball season the Seymour Roadsters, local independent team, defeated the Petrolia High school cagers at Petrolia Friday night. The score was 25 to 23, and the game was bitterly fought. The Roadsters held the lead at the half by one point, 11 to 10, and retained it to the finish.

Littlefield Trounces Hale Center, 34 to 0

Special to The Record News

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, Oct. 24.—Littlefield high school encountered little opposition from the Hale Center eleven here Friday afternoon in a class B district contest, utilizing a varied attack to run up a score of 34 to 0 over the visitors.

Carter, backfield ace of the local team, featured the offensive with two long end runs for touchdowns.

COME OUT EVEN

Special to The Record News

VALLEY VIEW, Texas, Oct. 24. —The Valley View volley ball and basket ball teams journeyed to Clara tonight and came out even in their contests. The girls' volley ball team lost to Clara, 48 to 20, but the boys' basket ball team defeated Clara 16 to 12.

JUSTIN 12; ALVORD 7

Special to The Record News

ALVORD, Texas, Oct. 24.—Alvord was defeated at Justin this afternoon by a score of 12 to 7. Durrett was the outstanding player for Alvord.

Ralph Miles, brother of Princeton's one time famous defensive back, "Mike" Miles, is a second string end on the Brown university team.

Chickasha Negroes Bow to Leopards

The football team from Lincoln high school, Chickasha, did not live up to the advance notices which had heralded it as the toughest opposition the Washington high Leopards have faced this season. Instead, it was a pushover for the local negroes, who won by the score of 59 to 0. The Leopards scored in the first two minutes of play and added additional markers every few minutes thereafter. The Chickasha team made only one first down, that being with the aid of a penalty. The Leopards completed a number of spectacular forward passes for long gains, four of the touchowns being scored on passes.

Tickets for Aggie-Steer Game on Sale Nov. 1

Special to The Record News

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 24.—Tickets in the A. & M. section for the annual Thanksgiving day football classic between the Texas Aggies and Texas Longhorns, to be played at Austin this year, will go on sale to the public in general Nov. 1, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at A. & M. has announced.

Fans desiring tickets in the A. & M. section may obtain them by writing Mr. Sullivan at College Station and enclosing checks on or after Nov. 1, it was announced. No applications will be accepted prior to that date and requests received on Nov. 1 will be given choice over those received before then, Mr. Sullivan said.

Price of tickets to the Turkey day clash will be $3.

Joe McCarthy, former Chicago Cub boss, is the 11th manager of the New York Yankees. Miller Huggins lasted the longest. His reign was 12 years.

Ben Gull of Canyon, Texas, thought he had lost his golf ball until he found it in the cup after making a hole-in-one on the West Texas State Teachers' college course.

MAGNESS PLAYS STELLAR GAME

Nimble Back Sprints 23 Yards for First Score

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 24.—Swinging into the stride which carried them to the peak of interscholastic league competition in 1929, the Breckenridge High Buckaroos "raked" their mounts savagely here Friday afternon as they rode the vaunted Cisco Loboes to the ground beneath a 35 to 6 score.

Serving notice on the state generally that his 1929 season was no flash in the pan, Boyce Magness, quarter back and triple-threat star of the Buckaroos, displayed a brilliant and varied performance throughout the entire game. Demonstrating to the sidelines that his legs are fit for a championship drive, he stepped around the Cisco end early in the first quarter 23 yards for the first touchdown. During the remainder of the afternoon's battle, he snapped three passes directly into the hands of fleet receivers for three more clean touchdowns. One of these flips, in the second quarter, traveled 43 yards to Blackburn. In the third stanza, Couser received a Magness airline delivery 15 yards ahead of the scrimmage line and went over. Completing his afternoon's work, Magness shot a six-yard pass into the hands of Stapp on the goalline in the last quarter. Martin kicked five clean goals for as many points following the touchdowns scored by his mates. The fifth Buckaroo touchdown, the only one in which the magic of Magness did not figure, came in the third quarter, when Griffin, captain and center, snared a hard pass thrown by Chamblin of Cisco, and raced 35 yards for a counter.

The Loboes' lone score came late in the game, when Chamblin heaved a pretty pass into the arms of Jeter for a 15-yard gain and a touchdown. Turknett, halfback, kicked the goal.

Captain Griffin paired with Magness in drawing the spotlight during the afternoon, proving a whirlwind on defense on every Cisco drive at the line.

O. Black, center, and Cole, tackle, contributed stellar defense games for Cisco, while Turknett was easily the luminary of the Lobo backfield.

More than 5,000 persons filled the stadium to cheer the rampant Buckaroos on their way. Sweetwater high will be entertained here next Friday.

One of a football scout's most important jobs, according to Lou Little, Columbia coach, is to discover little mannerisms in a player that tip off the play.

Altus Defeats Erick Eleven, 26-0, To Avenge Tie Game of Last Year

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 24.—Playing its second annual game with Erick High school after the 1929 battle had ended in a 13-13 tie, Altus High school asserted itself decisively here Friday afternoon before more than 1,000 spectators to score a 26-0 victory over the Erick eleven.

Altus distributed its scoring with great evenness throughout the entire afternoon, putting over one touchdown in each quarter, and using a different player for the delivery of each counter. Fail performed the duty of placing the ball over the Erick goal in the first period, Ellis in the second, Little in the third, and Creed finished the relay. Stacy, Ellis, and Little remained in the limelight during the entire game with consistently brilliant play.

Both teams are members of the Southwest Oklahoma conference.

The game was played before a large crowd which included delegates to the county teachers meeting here.

WAURIKA RIDES OVER BOBCATS

Grandfield Takes Loss By Score of 33 to 6

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Oct. 24.—Grandfield high school's Bobcats continued to find the 1930 going exceedingly rough here Friday afternoon when the yet undefeated Waurika high Eagles swooped down upon them for a decisive 33-6 victory.

The two elevens played on fairly even terms during the first half, the score at the intermission being 7-6. With the beginning of the second half, the Grandfield defense crumbled before a combined pass and running attack by the Eagles.

Grandfield and Waurika have met annually during the past five years, and in all encounters save one during that period the Bobcats emerged victorious. The 1928 game was a tie.

Duncan Defeats Walters, 19 to 6

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 24.—Duncan outpointed Walters, 19 to 6, in a game marked by brilliant aerial work by both teams. Duncan's passing machine piled up an early lead and bewildered the visitors until late in the game when Walters completed a series of passes for a touchdown.

Women's Golf Tourney To Start Here Tuesday

Bill Strachan, professional at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, announced Friday the women's all-city championship will get under way at the club course Tuesday. Meanwhile, he said, the links will be open for practice today, Sunday, and Monday. A driving contest will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Wellington Downs Shamrock, 13-0

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 24.—Wellington High school resorted to old-style line bucking against the Shamrock High Irish here Friday afternoon with sufficient success to register a 13-0 victory in a class B conference match.

Aided by brilliant line play on the part of Willoughby, end, Gilbreath and Williams of Wellington's backfield lead the locals' attack, each carrying over one touchdown.

Tarbet, end, and O'Gorman, fullback, were the outstanding performers for the Shamrock eleven. Both teams are class B conference members.

Rule Bobcats Triumph Over Munday, 6-0

Special to The Record News

RULE, Texas, Oct. 24.—Reversing the tables on the Munday High school Moguls, Rule High Bobcats scored a hard-earned 6-0 victory here Friday afternoon over the eleven which ground them under a 20-0 trouncing one week previously at Munday.

Following the lead of Chambers, backfield star, and Edwards, the Bobcats hammered away at the Munday line during the first quarter to push over the only counter of the game. Both sides resorted to frequent forward pass attempts throughout the remainder of the struggle, but the defense offered by both sides was so alert as to nullify the aerial attack.

Pruitt of Munday continued his brilliant play, but could not penetrate the Rule defense for long gains.

BEARCATS WIN OVER CARNEGIE

Frederick Boys Run Up 40 To 0 Score

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 24.—The Frederick Bearcats stormed through the Carnegie eleven here today and accounted for a 40 to 0 victory, the terrific scoring spree being staged with a series of sensational plays that thrilled a large crowd of fans.

The Frederick team had things their own way from the very first, scoring two touchdowns in the first 10 minutes of play. The piling up of points continued in the second, but towards the end of the half Carnegie rallied and when the period ended they had the ball on Frederick's eight-yard line. Their line held repeatedly in the third quarter, which went scoreless, but weakened in the final period to allow two more Frederick touchdowns.

One of the big thrills of the game came in the last quarter, when Pope made a 50-yard run around end for a touchdown. Captain Clark of the Frederick team made three touchdowns and kicked two goals for extra points. Burns and Caldwell made one touchdown each, and Pope's counter rounded out the scoring. Queton, Brown and Gardner starred for the Carnegie team.

Spur Bulldogs Ruled Ineligible

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 24.—The prospects of the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes to win the district football championship brightened some the other day when the district football committee declared the Spur Bulldogs ineligible to play interscholastic league games. Supt. V. Z. Rogers of Lamesa is a member of the committee and has attended two call meetings of the district committee at Lubbock during the past week, both of which were called to hear the protest of Floydada high school against the Spur team. The committee declared two of the Spur players ineligible at the first meeting and at the second meeting they recommended to the state committee that the Spur school be dismissed from the league for one or more years.

THROAT DOCTORS pick

OLD GOLD

in Public Test of 4 Leading Cigarettes

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself

"Believe it or not . . . Here's real authority. Registered physicians, specializing in the care of the nose and throat! Doctors who see every day the ill-effects of cigarettes that are too harsh, too raw, too irritating to delicate membranes.

"I picked the Doctors as taste-testers because they naturally judge cigarettes for their throat-ease.

"This was to be a taste-test . . . but I knew every doctor would instinctively rate the four cigarettes on their smoothness and throat-comfort as well as their flavor.

"Believe it or not . . . these registered physicians, without knowing what brand they were choosing, picked OLD GOLD by the decisive ratio of 2 to 1.

"I'm getting used to amazing victories for OLD GOLD . . . but I'll admit this one would be hard to believe if I hadn't personally counted the votes. A Certified Public Accountant also audited the score."

DOCTORS MAKE TASTE-TEST! Here's the latest Ripley Cigarette test in action—New York Throat Specialists voted OLD GOLD best.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . here's the Final Score!

"I certify that an audit of the complete and final results of the Ripley taste-test conducted with Throat Specialists gave OLD GOLD 50%, Brand X 25%; Brand Y 0% and Brand Z 25%." Signed, J. S. M. Goodloe, Certified Public Accountant. Left—Rip Checking Score.

COYOTES IN BEST CONDITION OF YEAR FOR VERNON BATTLE

PACK DEFENSE IN GOOD TRIM

Squad of 24 Leaves This Morning

though every man in the forward wall was pummelled at will in the scrimmages that the steel framework might be developed. It is the confident opinion of the mentors that today that line will hold.

On the other hand, the Vernon Lions, reports said, have been grooming a fast offense. Coaches Weir and Binnion early in the week expressed satisfaction with their defense, and devoted their attention to cultivating a strong attack. The only stories of gloom emanating from the camp of the Lions are those that tell of the plight of three regulars, Weir, Judd and Parker, who may not play on account of illness and injuries. Weir and Judd are ends and Parker is a guard. Again, it is said the Vernon lads are combatting over-confidence.

There are no signs of illness or injury in the pack of 24 Coyotes who will entrain for Vernon this morning, according to Coach Holton, and certainly there is not a trace of over-confidence. The Lions will be out to avenge their 14 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Coyotes last year, and the Coyotes know that only too well. One of the greatest scraps in the traditional history of the meetings of these two teams is promised when the elevens clash at Vernon's City park today.

A crowd of 5,000 people is expected at the game, reports from Vernon said. The Vernon pep squad will lead a parade through the city starting at 1 p. m., and the game will get under way promptly at 3 p. m.

Both Wichita Falls and Vernon high schools staged impressive pep rallies Friday night, on the eve of the game.

The Rambler's Corner

would take a whole staff of Ripleys to duly record the masterful upset.

And if your honor please, we plead our innocence of charges that we have promulgated alibis for the Coyotes. Several letters have been received by the other newspaper in this city charging that it had manufactured alibis for the Wichita Falls team, but today's charge against me is the first I have ever received, and it is based on no fact whatever. I have consistently refused to alibi for them. I think they have a powerful coach in the person of Barry Holton. Holton played with Notre Dame two years, and coached the famous "four horsemen" when they were freshmen at Notre Dame. If there is a better coach in Texas I'd like to find out about him. But as a certain astute writer ventured in an article we printed recently, the best coach in the world is helpless unless he has the proper material. So far this year it has appeared the Coyotes do not have that proper material. I said as much in a recent article for this column, whereupon several of the players on the Coyote team came around with blood in their eyes and came within an inch of mopping the earth up with me. And at that time the reflection came to me that if athletes would put as much fight and vigor into their game when they meet opposing teams as they put in their menacing gestures towards sports writers who are trying to boost them along, the scores of the football games would be decidely more in their favor.

This leads to the reflection that sports writers, when they do criticise a team such as the Coyotes, are not trying to run the team in the ground. We print honest opinions, in order that people who did not see the game may judge from our observations what happened. If the team didn't fight, and was beaten, it is our duty to record that fact. If we fail to say as much, we may as well go to our managing editor and resign, for if he ever catches up with a reporter printing an untruth that will cause the public to be misinformed—whether it is an untruth about a football game or a misquotation from a leading citizen—the reporter will get a marvelous breath of fresh air, a gust of breeze, in fact, that will land him in another job, in case he's lucky enough to find one. And it seems to us that when a team loses, say because it didn't fight, and the newspapers print as much, the team should reflect on what the public opinion is and try to better that opinion. The coaches certainly tell them what is the matter with them, don't they? Then why should they object to the public being told of their faults? If the public is informed of their shortcomings, it will be in better position to utter words of praise for the team when the latter goes out and shows the public that it can play football as well as any of the rest of them.

However, your honor, I am straying from the point. To return to the last charge in the Archer City indictment. It is said that Wichita Falls does not support her team. Wichita Falls has had only one chance to show whether she supports her 1930 eleven, and that opportunity was on a very unfavorable day—the sloppy and rainy day that the Lubbock Westerners came here. There was a very good crowd at that game, the weather considered. We think that Wichita Falls does support her team. The newspapers, certainly, are doing their best to help the Coyotes.

We do wish, however, that we could be instilled with love of the game such as is evidenced by Archer City's merchants in closing their stores, and responding to the lure of the gridiron. Probably the Archer City merchants are just naturally wealthy, and do not need to keep open all the time.

There can be not the slightest doubt of Archer City's support of her football team. Thursday night a girl cheer leader of Archer City called and wished to give me a report of the pep rally. Our pages had already gone to press, and the story could not be handled. We thanked the girl for her thoughtfulness in calling, and said we would try to print something about the rally today. What that girl wanted printed, specifically, was, she said, "that we are all right in there behind the team!" It is a pleasure to record that fact.

The last sentence in the letter, your honor, is not in the nature of an indictment, but a challenge to me to print the gentlemen's letter. Which challenge, you see, I have accepted. For all I care the jury, now, may receive the case.

I hope I learn at an early date what the verdict is.

AGGIES TACKLE ARKANSAS HOGS

Other Teams Engage Foes From 'Outside'

By GAYLE TABLOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—University of Texas alone of the Southwest conference's "big four" is scheduled to help of hurt its championship standing this week. Meeting the youthful Rice Owls at Houston, the Longhorns will have an opportunity to join Texas Christian as one of the two unbeaten, untied teams in the sectional race.

The three other members of the favored quartet will be busy tomorrow, but their efforts will not show in the conference standing. Southern Methodist has an engagement with Indiana university in the new 46,000-seat stadium here, an intersectional battle of promise; Baylor tackles a tough opponent in the Centenary college Gentlemen at Shreveport, and Texas Christian plays Texas Tech, a comparatively weak unit, at Fort Worth.

Aggies Meet Porkers

Two member shools with defeats already showing opposite their names in the conference standing, Texas A. & M. college and the University of Arkansas, tangle in the week's second titular bout, at Little Rock. Both practically have been eliminated from the championship chase through losses to the powerful Horned Frogs. The loser in tomorrow's tilt may consider itself absolutely eliminated.

As a result of their decisive 17 to 7 triumph over the University of Oklahoma last week, a game in which they had been generally picked to finish second, the Longhorns command the chief spot tomorrow. Held to a 14-14 draw by Baylor last week at Waco, the Mustangs expect to "get well" against Indiana and, incidentally, to reap a measure of revenge for a defeat suffered at the hands of Notre Dame in the Hoosier state a while back. Dissatisfied at his team's showing against the Bears, Coach Morrison literally has taken it apart in preparation for tamorrow's fray and built two teams from the parts at hand. Members of the erstwhile "first team" have been divided about equally on the two new elevens and mixed in with the more promising reserves.

Gents Are Strong

Baylor had no prospect of a letdown after last week's "moral" victory over the Methodists. Centenary always has a strong team, and this year appears to have one of its best. In holding Texas to a scoreless tie a fortnight ago and then beating Iowa last week, the Gents served adequate notice on all and sundry. Coach Jennings has warned his veteran stars they will have to play fully as well as last week if they hope to defeat the Louisiana team.

SIX UNDEFEATED TEAMS MEET FOES TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The business of whittling down the list of college gridiron contenders for sectional or national championship honors, in preparation for the clash down the November stretch, should be booming all along the pigskin fronts tomorrow, to the accompaniment of a few million assorted outcries from onlookers.

So far, the swindled collection of pace-setters has embraced Washington State on the Pacific coast, Utah in the Rocky mountain fastnesses, Kansas in the Big Six fold, Northwestern, Michigan and Wisconsin in Big Ten, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Georgia, Florida and Kentucky in the Southern conference, Notre Dame "at large," Fordham, New York university, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth and Army along the Eastern front.

Six of the undefeated and untied brigade battle among themselves tomorrow in a further effort to thin the ranks of major title contenders, while most of the others face strong opposition.

Alabama, whose powerful and unbeaten array snapped the long winning streak of Tennessee last Saturday, tackles Vanderbilt at Birmingham. It is a standout contest in Dixie, between two closely matched teams, with Florida, Kentucky and Georgia all strongly favored to continue their winning streaks and Tulane, the 1929 champion, making a stand against Georgia Tech in another headliner.

The East and West, as a result, can breathe a trifle easier with none of the foremost Southern teams on a raiding expedition this week, trying to duplicate the smashing triumphs scored so far by Dixie's favorites. The invasions tomorrow are confined to Mississippi's visit to Chicago and Centre's jaunt into the Northwestern Wildcats' lair.

The dominating East-West affair of the day involves Notre Dame and Pittsburgh at Pitt stadium. At least 65,000 spectators will watch these two undefeated arrays, with the sensational Irish favored to add the Pitt Panther's hide to the scalp of the Carnegie Skibos.

New York's Bronx is the battleground for the metropolitan championship scrap between Fordham and New York university, both undefeated and set to perform before upwards of 75,000 in the Yankee stadium.

More than 75,000 will pack the Yale bowl to see West Point attempt to complete a man-sized job—beating Harvard and Yale on successive Saturdays.

The largest crowd in the Big Ten circuit, around 75,000, will watch Michigan's battle to overthrow the somewhat battered forces of Illinois and Reep step with Northwestern and Wisconsin in the championship race. The Wolverines are favorites. Northwestern's title aspirations are not involved in its game with Centre. Wisconsin, after the way it trampled Chicago and Pennsylvania, aims to dispose of the lingering hopes of Purdue, 1929 champion of the Big Ten, but the Badgers have their task cut out for them.

The big game on the Pacific slope brings Stanford and Southern California together at Palo Alto before upward of 85,000 spectators.

Scores High in Dramatics

By JOE WING

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 24. (AP)—An elusive red-haired lightweight halfback again this year is expected to supply the main scoring punch of the University of Nebraska grid machine, long-famed for poundage and power plays.

The nimble-footed youth is Robert "Red" Young. Weighing 155 pounds, Young led the Big Six conference in scoring last season, and in the Cornhuskers' first appearance this fall, he romped across the goal line for one of their two touchdowns and proved that his old knack for open-field running has not been lost.

In high school days at Norfolk, Neb., "Red" exhibited the same propensities for skirting ends and running back punts. At that time and in the university also he kicked and punted both far and accurately.

A senior this year, Young has been active not only on the gridiron but also on the campus.

During his university career he has been a member of the student council. Last year he played the male lead in the Kosmet Dramatic club show.

In order to take part in the club play one night last year and also run in a track meet the same sady, Young flew 400 miles by airplane. He was then a member of the Nebraska relay team and was entered in the Drake relays.

An airplane solved the problem and Young flew to Des Moines, ran a good race and was back in Lincoln in time to tread the boards that evening.

Notre Dame Star Has Two Faults; Bum Luck in Shaving and on Defense

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—There are two things jumping Joe Savoldi, Notre Dame's black-beard, can't do, and one of them may prevent him from winning recognition as an all-American football player.

Joe, who can pack 192 pounds and a football as good, or better, than any man in the Midwest, can't shave without cutting himself, so he just lets his whiskers grow.

All-America football stars don't necessarily have to be clean-shaven, but they do have to diagnose opponent's plays, bat down passes and stop a runner in the open field.

Joe isn't so good on the defensive, but when Notre Dame has the ball, the Three Oaks, Mich., Italian is the pay-off man.

The day Savoldi is shackled by some rival team is going to be just about the day the 1930 Notre Dame football team is beaten.

Opens With Fumble

Savoldi opened the season by fumbling a kickoff in the Southern Methodist game. He juggled the ball around until he was surrounded by a group of red-shirted Texans. He was bottled up in one corner of the field one minute, the next he was streaking away down the other side of the gridiron and he didn't stop until he had covered 97 yards for Notre Dame's second touchdown.

He played less than ten minutes against Navy, carried the ball only 11 times, but gained 123 yards and scored three of his team's touchdowns in a 26-2 triumph over the Middies.

Carnegie Tech came to South Bend last week with a defense built for Savoldi. And Joe didn't get to carry the ball much. Watching him, Carnes allowed Brill and Schwartz to get away for most of the early gains. Then Caridco gave the ball to the long striding Latin and he ran 20 yards deep into Carnegie territory. This drive failed when a pass was intercepted.

Later Savoldi got the ball and raced 50 yards down the sidelines to Carnegie's 20-yard line, but the run was brought back because a Notre Dame linesman was guilty of holding. He gained every time he carried the ball against Carnegie.

Promised Tacklers

After sweeping around Navy's end for the first touchdown, Savoldi walked back to two of his teammates who had taken out tacklers and patted them on the shoulders so the crowd could appreciate what they might have missed in watching him.

Before Joe came to Notre Dame he didn't know much about football. He still doesn't know too much, but he can run with that pigskin until the cows come home.

Joe is good at repartee as the following incident illustrates. Before the Carnegie game, he came into Rockne's office with a week's growth of beard on his swarthy face.

"Rock, I'd like two tickets for the game."

Other members of the team had explained who they wanted their tickets for, and Rockne inquired:

"Relatives, Joe?"

"No, tickets."

Joe got four.

Savoldi isn't regarded as Notre Dame's regular fullback, that honor going to Moon Mullins, who is a good all-around player. It doesn't bother Joe, though.

"Just let me run with the ball, that's all I ask," he says.

NOCONA BEATS BOWIE, 13-0

Visiting Quarterback Makes Both Touchdowns

Special to The Record News

BOWIE, Texas, Oct. 4.—Nocona won a bitterly fought conference engagement with the Bowie eleven here this afternoon, 13 to 0. The Bowie team held the Nocona eleven scoreless in the first quarter, but a succession of plunges through the line and runs around end finally enabled the visitors to score. Evans, Nocona quarter back, goin over for the first touchdown. Zachary kicked for the extra point. Evans scored again in the third quarter in much the same manner the first pointer had been made.

McDonald and Overstreet, backfield aces, starred for the Bowie team. There were few sensational gains owing to the way the opposing lines fought and held.

Germany's Olympiad Plans May Be Curtailed

BERLIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—Because of Germany's financial stringency the prospect arose today that there would be a modification in her activities in the Los Angeles Olympiad in 1932.

The reich government informed the German Athletic union that the state subsidy for the meeting would be considerably smaller than it was for the Olympics at Amsterdam two years ago, and that the union must try to finance itself as much as possible.

Rochester Rallies To Whip Throckmorton, 12-6

ROCHESTER, Texas, Oct. 24.—Rochester won a hard-fought game from Throckmorton here today, 12 to 6. Throckmorton took an early lead by scoring a touchdown in the first quarter, but Rochester rallied in the second period to score a counter. A pass over the goal line which was received by Johnny Wyatt in the third quarter gave Rochester the victory.

Strength of Southwest Conference Traced to Good High School Teams

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—A recent remark by Guinn Henry, University of Missouri coach, to the effect that Texas high school teams have become unusually strong and smart in recent years, received nation-wide circulation over the wires of the Associated Press.

It not only was well-merited praise for the results gained by the Texas Interscholastic league in the last 10 years, but was as well an explanation for the increased all-around strength of the Southwest conference. As the state school-boy league has expanded and the competition has become more strenuous, so has the big conference become more powerful and better balanced. Well trained, smart football players are going into the state's universities.

'Favorites' Disappear

In other years there usually was one outstanding Southwest conference team, loaded down with two and three-year veterans. It was a natural favorite before the campaign began. Teams that had lost the bulk of their lineup by graduation were dismissed in pre-season guesses with the simple statement that "Coach Soandso has to start all over again and build from the ground up."

There is none of that these days, what with every conference squad loaded down with high-powered sophomores—boys who have had four years of good coaching and keen competition on high school and another season with the freshman eleven. Instead of building from "the ground up" the university coach can start along about the second story.

Last year, the example, Baylor had a veteran team and a good one. The Bears were rated favorites for the conference flag. Southern Methodist had lost the bulk of that crack outfit that the previous year had fought the Army to a 14-13 decision, including Hume, and was not expected to do much. Yet the Ponies, with a sophomore backfield and sophomores well sprinkled over their line, defeated Baylor 25 to 6 and finished a close second in the conference scramble. Baylor finished fifth.

Forkers Handicapped

Because it does not have such a well-organized training system to draw from, the University of Arkansas is at a distinct disadvantage in competing with other schools of the conference. Every Texas member this year has a bulky squad, a wealth of reserve strength, while the Razorbacks floast just a "first" team and a list of substitutes. When Coach Thomsen is forced to jerk one of his regulars, that position is weakened.

Except in rare instances, the state's high school stars are being kept in Texas. The outstanding performers find their way to a Southwest conference school, for most part, while the slightly less capable remain to star for some eleven in the Texas conference, Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association or the numerous academies and lesser colleges. That is not to say, however, that there are not players of Southwest conference caliber in some of the smaller schools. Such fellows as "Nig" McCarver at Howard Payne, Doyle Coe at Sam Houston and others would find a hearty welcome in any conference camp.

It might be news to the average fan to know that several Southwest conference schools make a practice of scouting the principal high school games just as regularly as they do their rivals within the big circuit. They will be at Cordona next week, when the Tigers meet Waco in a game that is expected to decide the championship of Central Texas. Not just volunteer gumshoes, but regular accredited members of the universities' coaching staffs.

Crop Runs in Cycles

The sophomore crop seems to go in cycles, first one school and then the other coming up with a brilliant set of youngsters. Rice got the cream of the crop this season, with Texas Christian a close second and the Texas Longhorns third. In Ernie Koy, 190-pound line smasher, the Longhorns appear to have drawn the outstanding sophomore back, and in "Ox" Blanton a great lineman. The Frogs have in Dennis and Spearmen two dazzling young halfbacks, and in Pruitt and Sailkeld two first-year ends who promise to hold their own against any pair in the conference.

An attempt to enumerate the array of Rice sophomore stars would be too much. The team practically has been taken over by the youngsters, only such veterans as Jones and Captain Morgan managing to hold their own. The outstanding lights possibly are Jamerson, Wallace, Martinkus, Squyres and the Driscoll twins of the backfield and Kearner at end.

SPUR DEFEATS SLATON HIGH

Bulldogs Win First Clash With Visitors

Special to The Record News

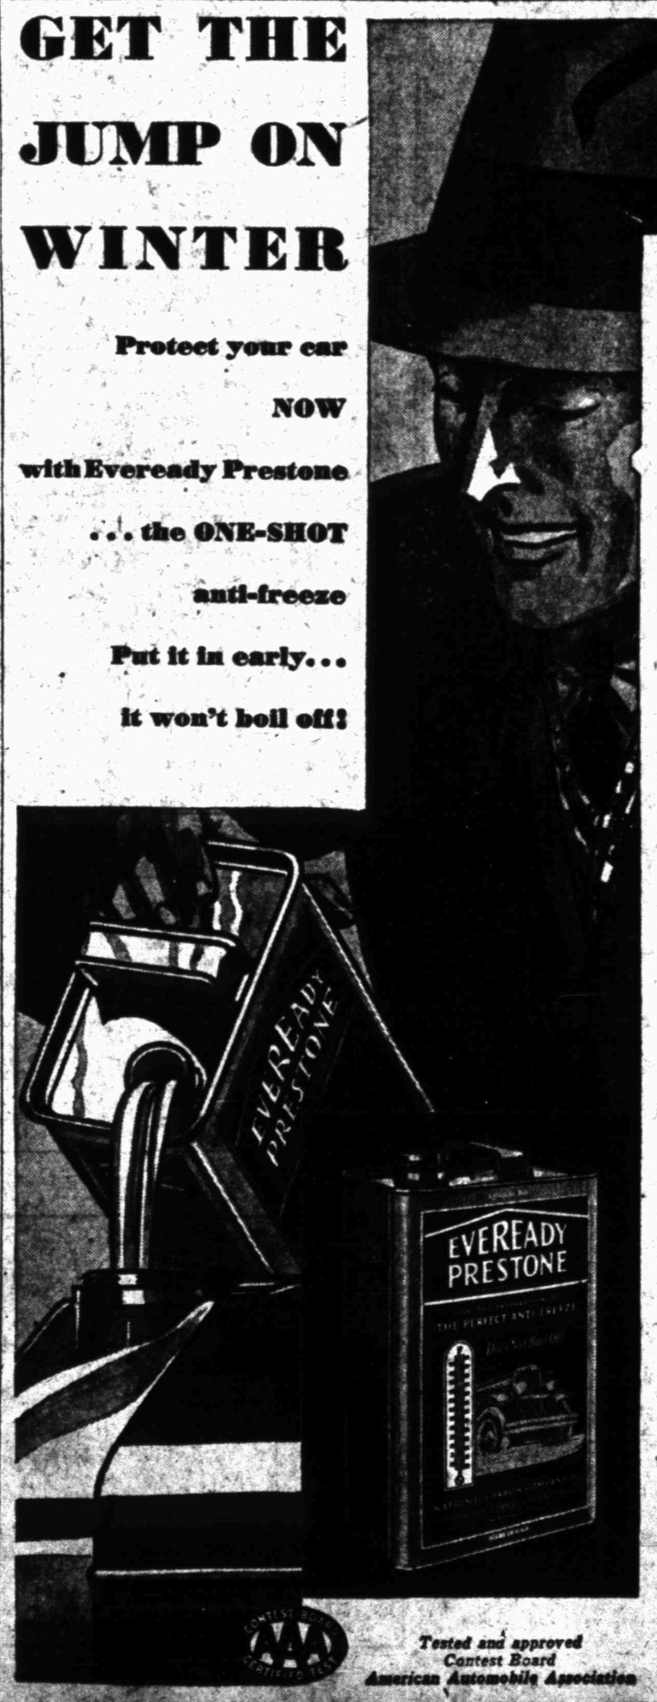

SPUR, Texas, Oct. 24.—Displaying a powerful offensive and defensive the Spur Bulldogs ran roughshod today to score 40 points to defeat Slaton for the first time in the history of the two schools. Slaton never had the ball but one time inside the Spur 20-yard line and that on a blocked punt. Spur made nine first downs to Slaton's three. Spur tried eight passes for 96 yards. Slaton tried seven passes, one complete for nine yards, and two intercepted. Jim Hahn scored four times, Pucket once, and Buster Morgan once. C. W. Barrett was the outstanding defensive star of both teams. Rickels at quarter, Buster Morgan guard, McCormick and Rodgers, center, were the other stars for Spur. McRae, tackle, and Rucker were the best for Slaton.

GET THE JUMP ON WINTER

Protect your car NOW with Eveready Prestone ... the ONE-SHOT anti-freeze

Put it in early... it won't boil off!

Tested and approved
Contest Board
American Automobile Association

IT MAY seem a little early to begin taking winter precautions for your car, but your memory will tell you that the first cold snap always brings a lengthy line of cars to every service station. That means delay, bother, possibly danger to your engine-block.

You can't prepare more than a few hours ahead with the ordinary anti-freeze ... you're apt to lose it if the weather grows warm. But with Eveready Prestone, the ONE-SHOT anti-freeze, you're all set for Indian summer or an early skating season.

Used by Byrd Antarctic Expedition

With every type of anti-freeze to choose from, the Byrd Antarctic Expedition used Eveready Prestone.

Constant research by the Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation laboratories has further increased the efficiency of Eveready Prestone. This year it is actually superior to the Eveready Prestone which more than a million motorists used to their complete satisfaction last year. So that you may easily identify Eveready Prestone, it is now green in color.

Economy Plus Protection

The economy of using Eveready Prestone lies in these two facts: 1. A single filling will last all winter, irrespective of temperature-fluctuations. 2. Eveready Prestone is an undiluted anti-freeze. Compared with other anti-freezes, a considerably smaller quantity is required to give your car complete all-winter protection. For example, if the radiator capacity of your car is three gallons, you can get complete protection from early fall to late spring for a cost of $2.50 to $7.50, depending on whether you live in a moderate or extreme climate.

Go to your dealer or garage-man, before he gets swamped with work during the first cold snap. Have him prepare your car for winter, taking the simple precautions necessary to make the cooling-system water-tight.

You can put Eveready Prestone in today. It's always in tune with the temperature.

Tune in the Eveready Hour every Tuesday evening at nine (Eastern standard time) over the N. B. C. network.

9 POINTS OF SUPERIORITY

1. Gives complete protection.
2. Does not boil off.
3. Positively will not damage cooling-system.
4. Will not heat-up a motor.
5. Circulates freely at the lowest operating temperatures.
6. Will not affect paint, varnish, or lacquer finishes.
7. Non-inflammable. 8. Odorless.
9. Economical—one filling lasts all winter.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—An opening advance to approximately the 11-cent level for new December contracts met a little more selling in cotton here today, but the offerings were absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions. After selling at 11.01 early, the new December eased off to 10.89 and closed at 10.94 compared with 10.84 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 10 points on continued covering and trade buying.

The opening was firm at an advance of 11 to 19 points on a renewal of yesterday's buying movement which probably found some additional encouragement in the steady showing of Liverpool and reports of unfavorable weather for the trade and saving of late cotton in the south.

Reports of further cold rains over the South, with killing frost at a few points in Arkansas and with further frost predicted to the central sections over the belt, many have contributed to the opening steadiness, but there was more tendency to emphasize the firmer showing of Liverpool and reports of a continued steady spot situation. Covering was reported of a less active character, but local brokers reported considerable trade and commission house buying on the setback. Trading in the current October contract ended at midday, the last sale reported being at 10.89.

Liverpool cables said the advance there was due to continental and Bombay buying combined with covering and trade calling and that the spot situation continued quite firm, with 2,000,812 as far this season. Port receipts 93,280. U. S. port stocks 3,410,378.

Futures closed steady, 9 to 10 points higher; spot steady: middling 11.00.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton was again active today and although there was much week-end realizing and considerable hedge selling prices showed a moderate advance. With better cables than due and a good trade and speculative demand, the market opened 7 to 14 points up and later advanced to levels 14 to 16 points above the previous close.

Late in the morning and during the afternoon prices, reacted on realizing and hedge selling, making new lows 11 to 13 points under the high, but recovered 5 to 7 points of this loss near the end. The close was steady at a net gain for the day of 2 to 10 points, active months gaining the most. The ginning bureau will give the total ginnings to Oct. 18, tomorrow.

Liverpool came in 4 points better than due and private cables stated that Bombay bought, shorts covered and the trade called. Under the good trade and speculative buying December went up to 11.00, January to 11.10 and March to 11.37, or 14 to 16 points above yesterday's close.

Later in the morning the market became somewhat reactionary on week-end realizing and selling for a reaction and December eased off to 10.88, January to 11.01 and March to 11.25 or 9 to 12 points down from the highs.

The market was more active in late afternoon and fluctuated considerably, at one time declining on hedge selling and realizing, making new lows at 10.87 for December, 10.99 for January and 11.24 for March or 11 to 13 points under the highs, but recovered 5 to 7 points of this loss near the end. December closed at 10.92, January at 11.06 and March at 11.29 or 8 to 10 points net higher for the day on those active months.

Port receipts 100,355, for week 451,288, for season 4,023,531, last season 3,982,957. Exports 41,841, for week 304,306, for season 1,963,426, last season 1,756,182. Port stock 3,427,016, last year 2,163,165. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 112,556, last year 151,352. Spot sales at southern markets 55,677, last year 50,582.

Prices Take Spurt as Entire List Registers Substantial Advances

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (US)—Apparently, the demonstration of strength Thursday was sufficient to impart momentum today to the upward movement on the stock exchange, for virtually the entire list enjoyed additional recovery.

The price betterment was rather substantial and was scored on sufficient volume to indicate a somewhat broadening interest on the constructive side of the market. It is too early, naturally, to interpret the market's own performance in the light of more lasting probabilities, but its action has been the most influential factor in changing speculative sentiment to considerable degree. Of paramount importance in today's session was the seeming evidence of more favorable conditions surrounding the so-called Van Sweringen situation, with the stocks involved all displaying sudden change of trend which carried most of them up sharply on the day in contrast to their decided weakness of the day before.

With this situation removed from the adverse stage, the market was inclined to more cheerful interpretation of the day's news, virtually ignoring the Brazilian news, a cut in copper below 10 cents per pound, passage of the Montgomery Ward dividend, and similar ordinarily bearish influences.

Skeptics were quick to attribute the market's improved performance to additional short covering by laggards who had not correctly interpreted the market's recent resistance to pressure. Actually, some of the shrewdest bears had noted an underlying firmness in various directions which clearly portrayed a stiffening tendency in prices which was highly significant. It is very likely that a good deal of the strictly professional short interest had been materially reduced.

The market by its own action indicated that only normal resistance to the advance was being experienced, prices moving up rather steadily and closing virtually at the top. Steel common, American Can, American Telephone and others of their caliber provided the leadership which was essential to attracting new followers to the constructive side. Perhaps the most cheering development of the day was the sharp rebound enjoyed by the Rails, with New York Central advancing five points from the level at which its yield is close to 6 per cent.

Atchison, and other high-grade Rails, likewise spurted several points on the average, while the Van Sweringen Rails as a group recovered vigorously, with Erie up 3⅝, Chesapeake and Ohio, perhaps the outstanding issue in the group, up 3⅝, Nickel Plate up 3¼, and even lowly Alleghany corporation regaining 1⅜. Pere Marquette, whose earnings for the ninth months were shown to be sharply below the same period last year, jumped over 5 points. As pointed out here yesterday, this road's earnings over the last eight years have averaged over $11 a share.

Among the industrials, General Motors provided a near-sensation by rallying over two points to above 37, compared with its recent low under 33. A statement by Raskob expressing his faith in safety of the $3 dividend and in the future of the corporation undoubtedly contributed to the improvement, although frightened short covering undoubtedly was an important factor in the rise. General Motors had been severely hammered by bears for several months on widespread concern over the dividend, and heavy short covering took place even prior to today when the stock showed by its action that resistance was developing to pressure.

Virtually the entire list participated in the recovery, the merchandising group, with exception of Montgomery-Ward, enjoying particular strength on the more cheering news from trade centers regarding the effect on business of the cold weather. Macy, which is a particular favorite of interests friendly to the merchandise group, rose over five points, and Woolworth, whose business, according to officials, turned upward some weeks ago, advanced more than three points.

Too rapid recovery in prices undoubtedly would cause loss of many new-won friends for the market, and likewise might encourage resumption of large-scale short selling and perhaps bring out further liquidation of possibly remaining "situations." Nevertheless, the one dominant influence on speculative sentiment the last ten days has been the market's own performance. The speculative mind regards the market primarily from its own performance and when the tape discloses resistance the speculator rarely argues with its disclosures. Certainly, in various parts of the list sufficient buying has developed to overcome all offerings. This is not yet noticeable universally throughout the market, but it is in line with precedent in bear markets, with stocks reaching their lowest levels at different periods while the trend may still appear downward. That undoubtedly is what is developing as persistent buying absorbs offerings. The market no longer can be considered as a unit; it is a selective affair both on the buying and selling sides.

Cheerful remarks from the leaders of the iron and steel industry, particularly the pledges to maintain wage levels, provided background for some of the buying of steel stocks, although there were no forecasts of an early revival of activities.

The Coppers remained firm in the face of announcement of the further price cut, their strength probably reflecting short covering. Commodities generally remained firm.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton gray goods markets were quiet today, with firm prices ruling and further restriction of contract selling due to assurances of continued curtailments and further raw cotton advances. Print cloths, broadcloths, and small quantities of sheeting and drills were sold. Fine goods markets were spotty with diversified inquiry. There was some demand for spot overcoatings developed in wool goods markets. Spun rayon yarns were in better demand. Corded cotton yarns were sought in limited poundages. Spot raw silks were active and advancing in Japan, and dull here. Rough weave silks were of interest in spring collections.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24 (AP)—Demand was slow on the cash grain market today for wheat, barley and sorghums, but fair for corn and oats. There was no export business.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 2 cars; corn 11; oats 3; barley 3; sorghums 5.

Prices bid and asked, basis delivered Texas common points, freight paid, follow:

Wheat—No. 1 hard milling, any protein, 88½@89c.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 90@91c; No. 2 white 93½@94½c; No. 2 yellow 93½@94½c.

Oats—No. 2 white 44@46½c; No. 2 red 80@82c.

Barley—No. 2 55@58c.

Sorghums—No. 2 yellow milo $1.68@1.70; No. 2 white kaffir $1.39@1.41.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Despite promising rallies at times, cereal markets today failed to hold gains, and finished at lower levels. Official announcement was received that Argentine wheat acreage was 1,177,000 acres larger than estimates heretofore called for, and that Australia also has a bigger acreage than last year, with crop prospects in both countries excellent.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛-¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3¼c down, oats ¼-½c off, and provisions ranging from 2c setback to an equal advance.

Virtually the day's lowest prices for wheat were current when trading ended. Earlier, the wheat market had shown itself responsive to strength displayed by quotations on securities, but this stimulating influence was about lost sight of after announcement that the Montgomery Ward company, which is in close relations with patronage from farming communities, had omitted a quarterly dividend.

Corn and oats prices followed the leadership of wheat. Auspicious conditions for corn husking were general, and advices that husking returns continued to be smaller than had been looked for had no lasting market influence.

Provisions held steady in line with hog values. Considerable buying of lard was credited to packers.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, Dec. 78¼; 79, 81¼; March 82⅝, 84¾; May 83⅝-84; 86⅝; Corn, Dec. 77⅜, 79⅝; March 78⅛, 80⅝; May 81⅝-⅞, 83⅛.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (US)—The late reaction in wheat prices left sentiment rather bearish at the close, but pit observers were inclined to the belief that the market might be well sold out, inasmuch as the eastern buying which has been absorbing offerings on the reactions was in evidence on the closing decline.

Considerable attention was paid the fact that it was just a year ago today that stocks and commodities started their long downward course with the severe "black Friday" break.

There has been a great deal of gossip recently regarding imminence of a heavy movement of corn from the country. New arrivals have increased somewhat, but there has been no disposition on the part of country sellers to sacrifice corn at these prices. Bookings have been consistently small and if the movement shows much increase the early part of the coming week it would be corn on consignment.

A moderate amount of commission house buying was noted in corn on the reaction, but trading in the yellow cereal futures remained largely a local affair.

Wall Street Marks Crash Anniversary

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (UP)—A year ago today Wall street was shaken by the most drastic decline in stock prices ever seen up to that time. It unsettled business confidence throughout the world.

A total of 12,894,650 shares of stock were traded on the stock exchange and 8,337,415 shares on the curb exchange on that day. Tickers ran more than 4 hours late.

Closing prices on representative stocks a year ago follow: American Can, 157½ up 3; American Telephone, 268, off 3; Consolidated Gas, 118½, off 3; General Electric, 308, off 6; General Motors, 53¾, off 3½; Johns-Manville, 178, off 10; Radio, 38½, off 10½; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 66¼, off 5; United States Steel, 206, up 2; and Westinghouse Electric, 185, off 5.

SPOT COTTON PRICES

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Middling cotton 10.10; Houston 10.65; Galveston 10.80.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, 9 points up. Sales 10,575; low middling 9.18; middling 10.68; good middling 11.18; receipts 6,914; stock 558,650.

Heartbreak Girl

By Rob Eden

"Yes, you'll have to see them. Tod will tell you what to say."

Carla who said these last words.

Caught in a Mesh

Tod nodded his approbation. "You certainly thought fast that time, Carla. I'll give you credit. Of course Miss Stuart'll help you out. She sees how things are, don't you, Miss Stuart?"

Gail saw only too clearly. Carla to do this. Ross to abet her. Supposing the woman should die? Easy for Carla shunting off the burden on her.

"The woman—may die." Gail was shaking. She glanced at Ross appealingly, but he was looking at Carla.

"Oh, no she won't," Carla put in hastily.

"You'll do it for Carla, won't you?" Ross begged.

For Carla? Not for Carla, for Ross. He was asking her. Pleading with her.

She nodded.

"Good girl," Tod sighed with relief, for Carla fell into a chair, smiling.

"I knew you would, Gail," she murmured, as if a load were off her mind.

"Now," Tod said slowly, "you'll have to see the police, but I'll go with you, so you haven't anything to worry about. Are you ready?"

Was she ready? If only Ross would come with her! Stay at her side, but he was bending over Carla solicitously.

"Wait! In case the officer saw the dress Carla was wearing, perhaps you had better put it on, Gail," Tod ordered. "The shoes, too."

So when Gail started out the door, she was wearing Carla's white silk sports dress, her white oxfords, and the bright red scarf was hanging around her neck . . .

Tomorrow—Gail is disillusioned.

STEPHENS GETS HIGHWAY AID

State Allots $36,432 For Road Additions

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 24.—Information was received from Austin Thursday advising the Stephens county commissioners court that this county had been alloted $36,432 by the state highway commission for widening shoulders and ditches on highway 1-A from the Palo Pinto county line to a point two miles west of Breckenridge.

This is an old project that has been under way, according to local county officials. The work was halted by lack of official funds.

Business Revival Backed by Lions

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 24.—Observance of business revival or business confidence week was the principal subject at the Lions club luncheon Thursday at the Armilda hotel. The Lions International originated the confidence program and the local club voted unanimously to favor the program. Plans are under way to make needed improvements and repairs around the home and in this way give work to the unemployed.

E. V. Haltom, who was appointed chairman of the business revival committee last week, gave a report on the work accomplished and asked that the project be made into a more unanimous effort of all Electra citizens. He suggested that the club secure the cooperation of the Rotary club, chamber of commerce, the churches, and all civic organizations. Ben W. Tipton and C. W. Schreurer were added to the committee appointed last week which included E. V. Haltom, H. T. S. Totten, and J. M. Hemby. The committee plans to meet with the Rotary club and the directors of the chamber of commerce. Pastors will be asked to announce the campaign Sunday from the pulpits. Letters will also be sent to home owners asking them to have repairs and improvements made.

F. M. Baker, chairman of the free milk committee, reported that a number of undernourished children were benefiting from the milk fund. An announcement was also made that the Lionesses would entertain the Lions in the near future.

R. S. Cox was in charge of the program and presented Mrs. C. K. Orr in several readings. Plans are also under way for the annual Christmas party the Lions give for the children, and committees to make the necessary arrangements will be appointed soon.

W. W. Easterday to Be Returned to New York

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Postal inspectors said today that W. W. Easterday, alias Bob Harrington, held in the Oklahoma county jail in lieu of $40,000 bond, probably will be taken to New York next week to face a government mail fraud charge.

Easterday, convicted several years ago with Jules (Nickey) Arnstein in a $5,000,000 Wall street bond robbery, was arrested here earlier this week after an investigation of the stock and bond investment company, with which he had been connected. He is held here on a fugitive charge.

Hale County Celebrates Completion of Highway

HALE CENTER, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—A county-wide celebration was held here last night to mark completion of 40 miles of pavement north and south through Hale county and general street improvements.

Dr. S. J. Underwood presided at a meeting attended by about 3,000 persons.

The Plainview and Lubbock Chambers of Commerce joined in the celebration, the Plainview municipal band being in attendance.

ELDER LIST CUT BY METHODISTS

Conference Votes to Reduce Overhead Costs

GREENVILLE, Texas, Oct. 24 (AP)—Recommendation of the committee on lay activities, calling for reduction of two in the number of presiding elders in the North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, during the ensuing year and for a further reduction of two the next year, was adopted by the conference today after protracted debate. This provided for seven presiding elders during the next conference year and five thereafter.

Proponents of the resolution argued this was a day of combinations and mergers to cut down overhead expenses and called attention to improved means of communication which they said made it possible for a presiding elder to serve a much larger district than in the past. However, during the long debate speakers several times stated that rearrangement of the districts was a matter left to the discretion and judgment of the bishop and his cabinet, and intimation came from Bishop H. A. Boaz, presiding, that nothing was likely to be done in that direction at the present conference.

The time of the campaign in the district for benevolences was deferred for about 30 days later than the usual period, which has been the months of January and February, by adoption of a program that called for the drive in the two months immediately preceding Easter.

School and College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING

A vocal solo by Henry Will Barton featured the regular program of the high school and Junior college Girl Reserve meeting Friday morning, when Sadie Shain, chairman of the service committee was in charge of the entertainment. Martha Johnson accompanied him on the piano.

Maurine Adams gave a tap dance, with Mrs. Maurice Adams playing her accompaniment. Mary Clare Burton gave a reading, and the devotional was given by Margaret Bone.

The annual Girl Reserve party has been postponed until Friday, Oct. 31, according to information given by Margaret Bone, president.

Hiking Club Dance

According to information given by Pearle Smyth, president of the Junior college Girls' Hiking club, they will sponsor the first "Adamless Struggle" of the school year Tuesday evening at the Elks club. The dance will start at 8:30, Miss Smyth said.

Doughnut Sale

Members of the social committee of the Girl Reserves will sell doughnuts immediately after school Monday, according to information received Friday. All the money will go to the Y. W. C. A. fund it was announced.

Pep Rally

Members of the high school pep squad held a special pep rally and practice Friday evening in preparation for the Vernon-Wichita Falls clash at Vernon Sataurday. They are to give a special performance between the halves at the game, it was announced.

Boy, 15, Tells Of Slaying

STUTTGART, Ark., Oct. 24. (INS)—Declaring he shot in self-defense after he was kicked and beaten with a club Louis Mitchell, 15-year-old farm boy, today confessed the murder of Lawrence Culpepper.

In a statement to Little Rock detectives the boy said he was acting as a guide for Culpepper on a squirrel hunt Oct. 16, and that Culpepper, enraged at his inability to chase a squirrel around a tree so that Culpepper could shoot it, flogged him. The boy said he then shot Culpepper.

Culpepper's body was found in a swamp near De Witt Sunday by a posse of several men who searched for the slain man since he failed to return to his home after the squirrel hunt.

The boy has been lodged in jail pending probable indictment on a first degree murder charge.

At'orney Denies Fraud In Steel Merger Suit

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 24. (INS)—Vigorously denying that the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation was tainted with fraud, as charged by the plaintiffs in the court suit here to enjoin the merger, Frederick H. Wood, defense attorney, contended in his closing argument today that the consolidation was approved by a majority of the stockholders without any evidences of illegality.

Wood, the first of the defense attorneys to take up the battle for the pro-merger group, devoted much of his argument in attacking the claim of the Cyrus S. Eaton legal staff the merger was fraudulently conceived.

Death Claims Mother Of Wichita Falls Man

Mrs. S. H. Wilson, 74, mother of Dr. G. K. Wilson, 2710 Tenth street, died early Friday morning in Cleburne after a long illness.

Dr. Wilson left Friday morning for Cleburne where the funeral probably will be held Sunday.

Mrs. Wilson had many friends in Wichita Falls.

BLAZE DAMAGES HOME

Damage estimated at $250 was caused by a blaze at the home of Otho Hendricks, 1644 Pearl street, about 6 o'clock Thursday evening, according to fire officials.

The fire originated in a clothes closet, burning through the ceiling, it was said.

Moran Last of His Gang Alive

Nabbed by the law at last—"Bugs" Moran, right, is shown above as he was arraigned in court at Waukegan, following his arrest that concluded a long search by Chicago officers. He is said to be Al Capone's chief rival.

Murder of Joe Aiello Leaves Moran Alone of Once Powerful 'Kingdom'

Arrest and Killing Prove Again That Gangland's Big Shots Never Rule Long, but What of Capone?

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (NEA)—When the well-known Bugs Moran, one-time underworld power on Chicago's North Side, fell into the toils of the law at Waukegan the other day, he left just one member of the once formidable foes allied against Al Capone still alive and at liberty. Moran's arrest unwittingly provided an illustration for one of the inexorable but little-known natural laws of gangland but gangland itself has now more forcibly illustrated that law. Ninety machine gun bullets have removed Joe Aiello, Moran's former partner, from the scene.

This law, briefly, is that the underworld "big shots" career is nearly always a short one. The beer runner, the racketeer and the gunman, here and elsewhere, do not hold their thrones for any great period of time.

In that fact a long-suffering public which finds its public officials powerless to enforce the law against these underworld rulers may find a grain or two of comfort. The old adage that "crime doesn't pay" may have been knocked sky-high by developments of the last decade, but a still older one is still holding good. It is, "The wages of sin is death."

Bugs Moran, arrested, frisked and booked, provides one instance. Jack (Legs) Diamond of New York provides another. And the roster of gangland, here and elsewhere, provides many more.

They Rose, Ruled, Died

Go back over underworld history here in Chicago, the laboratory and testing ground for America's underworld, and see what you find:

Jim Solosimo, first man to get an inkling of the possibilities inherent in gangland empires, built himself up into a "big shot", ruled briefly, and then died, a matter of 10 years ago, with a bullet in his skull.

Colosimo's place was taken by Johnny Torrio, a hard-bitten, capable man from New York's tenderloin. Torrio took what Colosimo bequeathed him and added to it. He established the South Side gang on its eminence, building it up from a neighborhood group of panders and high-binders to an all-powerful, city-wide organization. And what happened to Torrio? He had three or four years of power; then his enemies shot him, he recovered in a guarded hospital, foiled his attackers by standing the rap in jail for six months on a liquor charge, handed over his scepter to Al Capone, and lit out for Europe. He has not been back since, never will be. He is the only gangland big shot to resign and get away with it.

Capone, of course, is the exception. Coming to power some six years ago, he is still on the throne, unhurt and unmolested. But perhaps it takes a few exceptions to prove the rule. Where are his chief lieutenants?

Tony Lombardo for years was one of the mightiest of Capone's executive officers; and Tony, in 1928, died on a downtown Chicago street corner, shot from behind in the midst of a crowd. He was succeeded, in the powerful Unione Siciliana, by Pasquale Lolordo. Lolordo ruled a few months; then, one night, some men called at his house, sat down to drink with him, and shot him to death when he lifted a glass of wine to drink to their good health.

Lolordo was succeded by John Scalisi, Albert Anselmi and Joe Guinto. For something like a year, perhaps longer, they enjoyed the power and riches. Then someone, somehow, enticed them into an automobile, one dark night. The next day their lifeless bodies were found alongside a road near the Indiana border.

Then poor Aiello fell heir to the tottering throne and last night he was shot down at his apartment.

Many Others Slain

Among Capone's business rivals, what has been the situation?

Dion O'Banion, first and toughest of the North Side gangsters, graduated from a district lieutenantship to the throne, and died in his florist's shop in one of Chicago's most pleasingly picturesque murders.

Hymie Weiss, taking the purple after him, got machine gunned after a very brief and eventful reign, and died under the shadow of Holy Name cathedral, shot down by irreverent South Siders.

Weiss was succeeded by a string of short-lived kings. The line at last came down to Jack Zuta, who shared with Bugs Moran the rulership of the North Side. Moran's case has already been discussed; Zuta was machine gunned at a Wisconsin resort, a few months ago, after seeing his number go up in Chicago and fleeing desperately for shelter outside the state. At the time of his death he and Moran had lost their power and much of their riches, their organization never having been able to recover from the famous St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929

Same in New York

So much for Chicago; how about New York?

The dynasty in New York changes less often, but it changes. Arnold Rothstein, for several years, was an uncrowned king in New York. He trafficked in dope, whisky, women, bribes, lives—he was, in short, the typical underworld czar; and Rothstein was shot to death in a midtown hotel at the height of his power, leaving an embarrassed police department the task of finding out who did it, and why—a task that has not yet been accomplished.

To Rothstein's place came "Legs" Diamond. Now Diamond is convalescing from gunshot wounds, with the comforting knowledge that his enemies will aim better next time.

There are others, lesser lights, in both cities, who might be mentioned; the Frankie Uales, the Angelo Gennas, the "Schemer" Drucis and the rest. There are even two or three whose careers have been interrupted by the law. Ralph Capone, brother of Al, is under sentence to a federal prison for swindling the government. "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, Capone's ace gunman, is under sentence to the Illinois house of correction for carrying a concealed weapon.

None Executed by Law

All in all, any study of gangland's history indicates that the big shots don't ordinarily live long to enjoy it. Capone, still in power, and Torrio, safe overseas, are the two exceptions. The rest follow the path of O'Banion and Lombardo and Rothstein.

To be sure, it may be a trifle disquieting to reflect that none of this is because of police interference. No gangster has yet been executed for a gangland slaying in Chicago. You could list on the fingers of one hand the ones who have even gone to prison. The interference comes from the underworld.

But, after all, it does come. The wages of sin, even in the underworld of modern America, is still death.

ORCHESTRA TO PLAY TODAY

Mexican Musicians Here For Two Concerts

Ticket sales for the Tipica orchestra concert were reported to be exceptionally good by H. C. Cheshire, booking agent, at the end of the third day's sales Friday evening. The tickets will continue to be on sale at the Renfro Drug store, Eighth and Scott streets, until noon Saturday, after which time they may be bought at the Memorial auditorium.

Torreblanca's Tipica orchestra, which will give a matinee performance Saturday afternoon and an evening concert Saturday night at the Memorial auditorium, stops here on a coast-to-coast tour which began on the west coast not long ago. They have been heard in about 10 Texas cities, each of which has had packed houses and enthusiastic press dispatches.

In addition to the colorful orchestra itself and the romance interwoven in the native music in which they specialize, there are the added attractions of tenor and soprano soloists, unusual Spanish dancers and a male quartet.

Two Held On Blue Sky Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (AP)—Warrants charging violations of "blue sky" law were served here today on W. L. Beavers, and Don Lawhead by deputy sheriffs and H. G. Mitchell, manager of the Oklahoma City better business bureau.

The warrants were issued in the justice court of E. O. Woiffarth at Sapulpa. They charged Beavers and Lawhead and others with selling speculative securities without complying with state laws.

Mitchell said Beavers and Lawhead were reported to be connected with a securities company operating at Dallas. Prior to going to Dallas, Mitchell said the two men were in the stock selling business in New York City.

Mitchell said Beavers had been seen in company of W. W. Easterday, held here pending his return to New York on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Beavers and Lawhead will be returned to Sapulpa, Mitchell said.

A warrant was issued for Beavers at Wichita in August, charging him with violation of the Kansas "blue sky" or speculative securities law.

Vernon Woman Dies In Hospital Here

Mrs. Alma Simmons, 54, of Vernon, died in a local hospital at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon following an illness of several days' duration.

Funeral arrangements will be made Saturday morning after the arrival of relatives, it was said. Mrs. Simmons is survived by two sons, one of whom, R. L. Simmons, is a resident of Vernon.

Wichita Falls Folks, Facts, Fancies

A. D. Lightsey Ill

A. D. Lightsey of the Lightsey Rent-a-Ford company was taken taken suddenly ill Friday morning and was removed to his home at 2010 Fillmore street.

DEATHS

WANDA R. PEEPLES

Funeral services for Wanda R. Peeples, three-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Peeples, 1304 North Seventh street, will be held at the Scotland Methodist church at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. F. Doege officiating, it was announced Friday night.

The infant's death occurred about 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, following three days' illness. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery.

1930 Revere Takes Wet Ride for Dry

Empty Streets Greet Damp 'Minute Man'

BOSTON, Oct. 24. (UP)—A wet ride for a dry cause ended anticlimactically tonight when a modern Paul Revere slid off the rain-soaked back of an old gray mare at Lexington Green and found nobody there to greet him.

David H. Oakes of Belmont, chosen as the 1930 edition of the famed colonial horseman, rode over virtually the same ground covered by Revere 155 years ago, warning the inhabitants of an attack by Massachusetts wets on the state prohibition enforcement act—to be subject of a repeal referendum at the state election No. 4.

It was a cold, wet ride for the "dry ambassador," who in the guise of a minute man, left North Square, site of Revere's birthplace, at noon on his trip through "every Middlesex village and farm."

A heavy drizzle offered the modern Paul a handicap as he climbed onto his horse, turning into a downpour as he cantered at a slow pace through Charlestown, Somerville, Medford, Arlington and thence to Lexington bridge.

Traffic jams and the slow trot of his lethargic steed resulted in poor time—which was considerably slower than that of the original Paul on his famous midnight ride of April 19, 1775.

Dismounting at Lexington Green, the "dry ambassador" caused little excitement, there being nobody on hand to officially welcome him. He retired to a colonial-type inn nearby where he dried his damp uniform.

Oakes carried a manifesto urging the citizens to vote against repeal of the baby Volstead act. He had planned to stop at public squares in each of the communities through which he passed and read the proclamation, but this plan was upset shortly before the start when it was found illegal.

Instead, he handed copies of the proclamation to citizens—very few of them—who braved the downpour to see the drys' messenger.

But for the rain, dry leaders believed, the ride of the modern Paul would have been more successful.

MAJESTIC: "Scotland Yard" with Edmund Lowe and Joan Bennett. Short subjects and news.

GEM: Wally Wales in "Trails of Danger." Comedy.

Dozens of theater-goers in Wichita Falls are overlooking a bet in passing up the State theater, merely because it is not so large nor so well exploited as the other movie houses. It is true that pictures are not presented there on release dates as sometimes happens at the higher-priced houses, and now and then a picture comes which is second-run, but there are virtues as well as faults in such a system.

If pictures which are a bit old are presented at the State, they at least have stood the test and the manager has the advantage of knowing how they have fared over the country. It should be better to see a good old picture than a poor new one—except for those who like to say to their friends in Podunk: "Oh, yes, we saw that three months ago at home. Are they just now showing it in Podunk?"

Since Thursday, for example, the State has been presenting the following bill at its regular prices: "With Byrd at the South Pole," one of the greatest pictures ever filmed and one that should never grow old; "The Lone Defender," a Rin-Tin-Tin feature; "My Gal Sal," a clever song cartoon, and Pathe sound news. Because of the great appeal of the Byrd picture, although it is second-run at the State, numbers of people are finding out that this small house is not to be checked off the list on account of its size.

Beginning Sunday, the State will present a Winnie Lightner picture which has been enthusiastically received in other cities—"She Couldn't Say No" (not to be confused with William Haines' "The Girl Said No." In addition to Warblin' Winnie, the cast includes Tully Marshall, Sally Eilers, Johnny Arthur and Chester Morris—five-star in personnel if not in ranking.

Auto Crashes Blamed On Lack of Courtesy

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (UP)—The increasing death toll from automobile accidents was blamed to lack of courtesy on the road today by Judge Cavin Muse, of corporation court, in announcing vital statistics for the year. Fifty-nine persons have been killed in accidents here this year, the judge announced.

BOY GOES TO BED WITH PUPS

Missing Youth Discovered Asleep With Pets

COVINGTON, La., Oct. 24. (AP)—Five-year-old Brother Smith is a keen lover of dogs and frequently leaves his father's restaurant to follow one along the street but no one ever imagined he loved them so much that he would leave his home to spend the night with family of new-born puppies. He tried to do this and in doing so had his parents, town officials and the people generally in a search for him that lasted for hours.

Yesterday afternoon Brother was missed but nothing was thought of it until he failed to come home to supper, his parents began an inquiry but when he had failed to appear at 8 o'clock they turned in an alarm.

Sheriff Galatas, Marshals Lacroix and Bennet and many people joined in the search but the child could not be found. At 10 o'clock at night Cincho Alexius who lives a short distance from the Smith restaurant heard one of his new-born puppies let out a yip as though hurt. Slipping on a bathrobe and with a flash light he crept to the back gallery from where he could look down on the kennel. Just as he threw the light on the puppies another yip was heard and he saw the sleeping child turn over on a puppy.

How long the child had been there no one knows but it must have been several hours. He was contented and happy and when awakened seemed averse to leaving his new found friends but his mother had him in her arms and on the way home.

LONGEST 'PHONE LINE TO OPEN

Service to Australia To Start Monday

Regular commercial telephone service between North America and Australia will be opened Monday, according to word received Friday by C. C. Kirby, district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

The circuit to be employed in the service is by far the longest ever established for regular commercial telephony, the radio and wire lines involved being more than 14,000 miles long.

Service will be available to all points in the United States and Cuba and to the principal cities of Mexico. In Australia it will cover the states of Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria and the city of Adelaide. This territory has nearly half a million telephones serving a population of some 1,500,000 persons.

The Australia service has been arranged by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, in cooperation with the British and Australian postoffices and the Amalgamated Wireless company of Australia. The cost of a call between Wichita Falls and any Australian point will be $54 for the first three minutes and $18 for each additional minute, it was announced.

OIL STATION ROBBED

Burglars who entered the Continental Oil company filling station at 101 Indiana avenue Thursday night, obtained a quantity of oil and gasoline, according to a report made Friday to Frank Burns, chief of police. A gasoline pump was damaged by the intruders. The burglary is the second during the week committed at the filling station, although nothing was taken the first attempt.

Famous U. S. Artist Claimed by Death

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Oct. 24. (AP)—Robert Winthrop Chanler, artist and descendant of a long line of famous Americans, died at his summer home here today of heart disease after a long illness.

Famous for his paintings, he also was known as the former husband of the beautiful Italian opera star, Line Cavelieri. His brief engagement to Isadora Duncan, was announced three years ago, the day before the dancer was killed in Southern France.

He was born in New York City Feb. 22, 1873, the son of John Winthrop and Margaret Astor Chanler. He was a great grandson of John Jacob Astor and included among his ancestors Governor Winthrop of Massachusetts, Peter Stuyvesant, the last dutch governor of New York, and Robert Livingston, one of the drafters of the declaration of independence.
