

1364 BALES ARE GINNED

Cotton is coming in fast and some of the gins are running day and night. The yield is light, making probably one-third of a bale per acre. The acreage is much shorter than last year, and it is now estimated that Knox City will receive about eight thousand bales. The total bales ginned up to noon today at all the gins 1,364. Cotton is bringing about eight and one quarter cents per pound, and seed is selling for $20.00 per ton.

WORK AT CEMETERY GOING FORWARD

If there are those that would like to clear the weeds and the grass from their lot in the cemetery, or those that want to help in clearing the weeds from the cemetery, the committee will appreciate it if you will do so immediately. Many have contributed cash, but there may be some who would prefer giving a day or two of labor, which is just the same as cash.

Let us all cooperate and see that our cemetery is kept in a more respectable and decent condition.

4-H CLUB BOY TERRACES 1,337 ACRES OF LAND

Earl Bratcher, a 16 year old 4-H Club boy of Vera, to date has terraced 1,337 acres and contoured 436 acres of farm land in Knox County.

In January, County Agent W. W. Rice had more calls for terracing than he could possibly do. Rice was called by the landlord, C. W. Russell, to run some terrace lines on the farm where Earl's father was making a crop as a half tenant operator. Earl helped Rice lay off the lines and made such an outstanding good hand that he was given more instructions in terracing, and as a result he was hired by his neighbors to lay off their terrace lines. Rice dropped by occasionally to advise and help Earl on difficult jobs.

Rice stated that this was a very remarkable piece of work for a 4-H boy.

DEMONSTRATE SILO

KNOX CITY SCHOOL OPENS WITH BRIGHT PROSPECTS

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble in the Auditorium-Gymnasium was present for the opening of school Monday morning. After the opening program, each room assembled to be scheduled and high school students reported to the study hall to be classified. All new students were introduced.

The elementary school attendance seemed to be about the same as last year, with some 200 students enrolled to date, but high school enrollment increased. The total enrollment is 320 in the entire school. It is expected that the number will be increased to 350 by the first of the year.

Assemblies will be held each week, beginning at 8:30 and lasting until 9:00 each Friday, starting September 17. A general assembly will be held twice each month and elementary assembly will be held twice each month.

Superintendent Whitis and his able corp of teachers urge visitation and inspection of the school by patrons and friends to see the work of the students in the new type school.

Sam Hallmark and family of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hallmark of Houston spent the week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hallmark.

ONE VARIETY PLAN COTTON PLANTING MEETING APPROVAL

"The one-variety cotton community plan has grown from 60 organized communities in 1936 and 62 in 1937 to 213 in 1938," E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A&M College Extension Service, has announced.

In the O'Brien community in the northwest part of the county, 45 farmers are cooperating in the one-variety plan, and have a total of approximately 45,000 acres planted in the same variety. In Knox County, in the Munday and Benjamin areas, 340 farmers have 9,000 acres in a single variety of cotton.

There are more than 22,589 farmers and 632,897 acres, or more than 6 per cent of the estimated 1938 planting of 9,661,000 acres, involved in the 213 communities. These figures do not include a number of large plantations and cotton breeding blocks planted to cotton of quality varieties.

If normal yields are obtained and all the seed from the 1938 blocks were used to establish new one-variety community associations, a potential 5 million acres could be planted to quality cotton in 1939, even with liberal allowances for replanting.

"Of course we cannot hope for the movement to spread as fast as that," Miller commented. "We do feel, however, that Texas is definitely on the way towards an improvement in the quality of her cotton."

"Farmers would go to the production of quality cotton a lot faster if they thought they would be paid on the basis of quality," Miller pointed out. "The communities, selling cotton in pools on sales day, are finding that uniformity and a staple of an inch or better are resulting in handsome increases in price."

UNDERPRIVILEGE DAY SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 11

AUSTIN, Sept. 7.—Sunday, September 11, has been designated as Underprivileged Children's Day in a proclamation issued by Governor James V. Allred, who requests that the people of Texas consider the problems of these unfortunate children and by constructive planning try to ameliorate their suffering.

Last year the people voiced their desire for assistance to these underprivileged by voting to participate in the federal social security program of Aid to Dependent Children and to the Blind. However, failure of the last legislature to provide funds for the administration of these measures will make it an important issue of the next legislature.

One of the programs of the social security act, that of child welfare services, has been in operation in Texas for the past two and a half years, with Mrs. Norma S. Rankin as director. In discussing the value of humanitarian legislation which provides care for a child in its own home, preventing its removal because of poverty alone, Mrs. Rankin gave this example:

"The sudden death of a truck driver plunged his family into destitute circumstances. The widowed mother, who had confined her efforts to home making, now found herself face to face with the necessity of becoming the bread winner for herself and her children. With the aid of her aged parents, and her services as a practical nurse at a dollar a day, when work was available, and with such other assistance as could be procured, an attempt was made to hold the family together. But they were engulfed in the economic struggle for existence. In her defeat she turned to the local county commissioner's court. Unable to extend financial aid, the only alternative offered was placing the children in an orphanage. One by one she gave them: the oldest girl, fifteen, was thus cared for three years; the oldest boy, four years; another girl six years, and the two sets of twins entered the orphanage in 1936.

"In summarizing the tragedy of this broken home, let us first consider the financial angle. It has already cost the state over seven thousand dollars to keep those children away from their own home. The cost of the broken home in human equation is more difficult to estimate—the sense of futility under which the mother must carry on; the major hardships of these children coming out from a long period of institutional care to readjust themselves to a new environment; the loss of closely knit family ties, never to be recovered; these then, are some of the cost which could have been prevented if Aid to Dependent Children funds had been available to Mrs. X's family." Mrs. Rankin concluded.

THE WORD IS HYPOCRISY

Those "power politicians" who attempt to justify the government's various hydroelectric projects, existing and potential, on the grounds of flood control would do well to discuss the topic with any competent engineer before airing their views. For, as every school child should know, a power dam must be kept full of water in order to produce current, and so cannot be used to receive the run-off in time of flood, and a flood control dam must be kept empty, and so is useless for power production.

The Dallas Morning News puts the case neatly when it says: "The whole trouble in the matter of the Colorado dams and many other similar projects, is that they are sham dams. They pretend to be one thing when they are another... Trickiness is an essential element in the power formula. Anyway to get by—that is the idea. It is the rule of the improviser, the extemporizer, the opportunist. But it is a poor rule for statecraft."

The government has defended its power projects before the Supreme Court on the grounds that they are primarily for flood control, soil conservation, inland waterway improvement, or what not, and that the production of power is a minor incidental. This technicality has won cases, thus demonstrating that it is often a simple matter to circumvent the spirit of the law if you pay lip service to the letter. But it has certainly not won public respect. As everyone knows, power, and power alone, is the dominating factor in the hydro program. Government spokesmen frankly admit this—when out of court. There's a good word for that—and the word is hypocrisy.

There is an unquestioned need for additional flood control in certain sections of this country. All that is required is the construction of dams and reservoirs which will be kept empty until a crisis occurs, and then are used to store the surplus water until it can be slowly and safely disposed of. But a project which will produce power is not only useless for flood control, but in some instances makes the chance of destructive flood more likely. That is the fact of the matter—and all the political opportunism in the world can't change it.

A LIBERAL'S RIGHTEOUS WRATH

Righteous wrath—the sensitivity to feel it, the ability to convey it to his auditors—has made Texas' Senator Tom Connally a recognized leader of the liberals in the United States—not the new-liberals, but those of the sound old school.

Last week, American Legionnaires at their annual convention in Austin heard a sample of that wrath. They liked and they cheered it and to the Junior Texas senator came new stature in the eyes of that growing body of Southerners resentful of the attempted "second reconstruction" of the southland.

Epitome of a statesman, in appearance and eloquence, Connally extemporized as his audience reacted, strode his way boldly and plucked many a responsive note as he decried the "new thought" contempt for those American ideals for which the Legionnaires offered their lives some 29 years ago.

To use a commoner description he "poured it on"; and he liked the applause. "I'm not," he explained at one point, "accustomed to approval."

Southern people, he said, are getting of "this stuff from other sections, reforming us down here."

"The trouble with the South," Connally shouted, "is that the damned yankees have had their feet on our neck for 75 years, ever since the war between the states, and if they'd take it off we wouldn't need any wet nursing."

This climaxed an extemporaneous talk in which Connally, who voted against the Supreme Court bill and conducted the anti-lynching bill filibuster, vigorously defended his conduct.

In the rambling talk, Connally mentioned the recent report of the National Emergency Council on conditions in the South only enough so that his audience knew it as one of the unwanted and unneeded "reforms." His talk was on the Americanization program; and, Connally said, the American concept was the guaranteeing of certain rights to individuals—"rights that you can fling in the face of Congress or the executive, in the courts created of and for the people."

"I've always considered myself liberal," he said, "but they're charging those who stand by the Constitution with being reactionaries. Well, I don't think you have to burn down a barn or use a blackjack to be a liberal."

"There's an idea abroad that when the Constitution stands in the way you should wipe it out. The Constitution itself provides how the people may wipe it out, and I'm not going to amend it by my vote in Congress until the people themselves vote to amend it."

Connally promised legionnaires that in the next war, "we're going to make the millionaire's dollar march right down to the enlisting station."

He advocated a big navy, a small army.

Connally emphasized the principle for which he fought in the anti-lynching bill filibuster.

I'm as much against lynching as any man; so is every other Texan—more so than some of those reformers up north; but I don't consider it the function of the Federal Government to try sheriffs in Texas. I'm against such means of fishing for a few votes in Harlem and I'll fight them from hell to breakfast."

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Lots of radio fans write to radio stars for pictures, but few of them marry the girl. Yet that's exactly what Sidney Fisher of Louisville, Kentucky, is going to do. He fell in love with the lovely soprano voice of Vicki Chase, featured soloist on "Vocal Varieties" over NBC, and wrote to her for her picture. She sent it. When he saw it, he knew he was right. Correspondence began and he finally made a trip to Cincinnati to see the broadcast and meet her. They decided it was love, so the date is set for sometime in September.

Mary Eastman

The third annual series of the sparkling musical variety program, "Saturday Night Serenade—Your Pet Program," again featuring Mary Eastman, petite lyric soprano; Bill Perry, tenor; Gustav Haenschen's orchestra and a choir of mixed voices, begins over a nation-wide CBS network on Saturday, October 1 (9:30 p. m. EST). Miss Eastman, who has recently completed a successful summer concert series, is a native of Kansas City who studied in Chicago and New York, primarily for a career as a pianist before she was discovered as a singing find.

If you had a chance to meet Fibber McGee, what question would you ask him? Just in order to find out what readers would like to know about stars, LISTEN TO THIS will award $5 for the best question submitted and $1 for the five next best on: "What I would ask Fibber McGee if I met him." Send your questions to Tom Fizdale, Listen To This, 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, together with the name of your newspaper. Entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, September 15. The winning question and Fibber's own answer will be printed in this column two weeks later.

Horace Heidt, leader of the Brigadiers heard via NBC, has the only band in the country organized on the lines of a regular business organization. His big personnel, which includes more than thirty people, comprises a complete stage show with dancers and specialty numbers in addition to the band members. With Heidt as director, the organization is set-up in the same manner as a business organization with ten main departments.

Betty Winkler, who has been heard this summer opposite motion picture star Henry Hunter in the "Attorney at Law" series, will be back on the air as the star of her own show, "Girl Alone," come the last week in September. The pretty leading lady, who has proven her versatility as a top-flight actress, will resume the role of the newspaper girl over the NBC-Red network, Monday through Friday, starting Sept. 26, for a new sponsor.

"Those Happy Gilmans" are another addition to the better daily dramatic series on NBC. After making a decided hit in recorded presentation, this story of a normal, happy American family was given a network spot. Bill Bouchey, Edith Adams, John Hench, Cornelius Peeples and Joan Kay are the featured players of the show heard Monday through Friday.

With Bob Hope, stage and screen comedian, rounding up talent for his new variety show, which takes the air via NBC-Red, September 27, it looks as though radio fans are going to have another big night to look forward to on Tuesdays. Skinny Ennis, former Hal Kemp bandman, now a maestro in his own right, is being mentioned as vocalist and music director.

Huge Power Area Offered Colorado River Authority

Facilities and equipment in sixteen South Central Texas counties have been offered by the Texas Power and Light Company to the Colorado River Authority for the purpose of providing the Authority with a market for its power. The map shows the business territory involved which has an area of 13,259 square miles, larger than the states of Massachusetts and Connecticut combined. In these counties are 13,200 power and light customers.

Over 1,200 miles of power lines carry a load of 18,200 horsepower with a consumption of 58,000,000 kilowatt hours annually. The Authority is asked to reimburse the power company for only its cash investment.

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

MARIA GREVER A.S.C.A.P.

"Ti-Pi-Tin"—A Composer's Holiday

By Daniel I. McNamara

MARIA GREVER, Latin America's poet laureate of romantic song, upset the musical traditions of a score of years when early this year she strayed from the classic standards to write her first popular song. She had created nearly five hundred standard songs, many composed for individual stars of the concert stage, when she evolved the light gay number, "Ti-Pi-Tin."

Now "Ti-Pi-Tin" is to Maria Grever what the Prelude is to Rachmaninoff, or the Minuet to Paderewski... an inescapable part of her musical personality. She likes to dream of the recent past when she was hailed as composer and artist of the concert stage, before she discovered that she also had the touch of a popular songwriter. And as Rachmaninoff envisions heaven as a place where his Prelude never is heard, she can picture her paradise as a region not ringing with the rhythm of "Ti-Pi-Tin."

Maria Grever never regarded "Ti-Pi-Tin" as more than a passing fancy, and reluctantly consented to its publication early in the year, when friends who heard it in her studio pressed her to give its gay melody and luring lyrics to the world of popular music lovers. Raymond Levene, A.S.C.A.P., wrote the English lyrics.

Maria Grever's career in song has been international. A native of Mexico City, she was reared in Spain. Returning to her native land, master of piano, violin and guitar, she sang with a velvety coloratura soprano. Her patrician family frowned upon her theatrical aspirations. Married at fourteen, she found her husband in sympathy with her ambitions for a career in music. A chance recording of one of her first compositions, "Besame," (Kiss Me) brought her recognition. When "Jurame," (Promise Me) followed, her fame was secure. Soon she was a reigning favorite of Latin America's concert stage, where for twenty years she has played and sung her own songs.

Early in the 'thirties Senora Grever made New York her permanent address, became an American citizen, and by virtue of her many compositions, became a prominent member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, through which such artists protect their copyrights. At the last annual dinner of the Society she met her American lyric writer, Raymond Levene, a fellow member. Among concert artists, she is known as a courtesier of song, for she has composed dozens of songs, words and music, for such singers. One of her early patrons was Caruso. The others constitute a "Who's Who" in music.

Of the numerous fictions following the success of "Ti-Pi-Tin," one that most amuses its composer places her in the role of an aged, indigent songwriter. The fact is that Senora Grever ranks among the most successful of women composers, and that, while she proudly boasts three young grandchildren who have inherited the jet hair and flashing black eyes of their talented grandmother she might well be mistaken for their mother.

No different from the usual run of her creations is "Ti-Pi-Tin" that in Latin America many will not believe it is her work. Yet like the Prelude and the Minuet, apparently it is destined to haunt its creator, a musical Nemesis, to remind her even if it is with swelling royalty checks, of her momentary lapse from the classic ideals of her other works.

WEST TEXAS FREE FAIR, ABILENE, OCTOBER 3-8

ABILENE, Sept. 10.—Team pulling contests, first staged in West Texas with mechanical apparatus, features the added emphasis in livestock and farm activities during the West Texas Free Fair here October 3 to 8.

The experimental pulling machine, operated by Texas A&M's extension department, will be exhibited here by the horse and mule specialist, Roy Snyder of College Station and Texas A&M. For several years one of the top attractions in the northern states and the middle west, the team pulling contest is expected to create as much interest for town people as for farm and ranch hands.

The pulling contest is divided into two divisions—for teams weighing less than 2400 pounds and teams weighing more than 2400 pounds. Contests are to be held in front of the grandstand during the night rodeo performances.

Cash prizes plus entrance fees are awards for pulling contests. To date teams from Runnels, Fisher, Jones, and Taylor counties have announced entries. No limitation is placed on entrance. Graves McGee, Abilene, is horse and mule show and contest superintendent.

With the fair's $10,000 auction and judging arena nearing completion, livestock and breed animal show director, Knox Parr, Taylor county farm agent is preparing a fancy Dairy and Herford show. Six hundred dollars in cash awards are offered for the combined events. Dairy day is set for October 5 with Sam Kennedy, Abilene grain dealer, in charge. The Herford day is October 6 with Harry Holt, Abilene Reporter-News livestock and agriculture editor superintending.

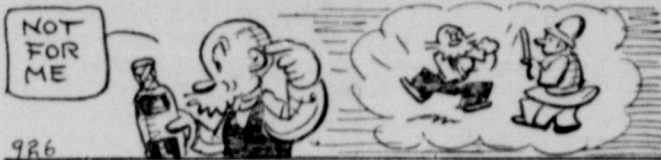

D. T. Simons judges the dairy show, and George W. Barnes is to supervise the Herford exhibit. Both are Texas A&M

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

No Live Wires Present

By IRVIN S. COBB

THERE is a saying—and one more or less justified by the trend of affairs in our nation—to the effect that these days, the ambition of the average man who was raised on a farm is to leave the country and go to live in the city in order to save up enough money to be able to leave the city and go to live in the country. Here is a little story about a youth who did not wait until he was grown.

As a youth, he quit the ancestral acres and hiked for the metropolis. After various ups and downs he prospered. Before so very long he held a responsible position and had a home of his own. After considerable persuasion he induced his aged father to pay him a visit. The old gentleman had a distrust for cities and for city ways. He was wedded to the soil and all his life had been faithful to the union.

Eventually, though, he steamed into New York, was met and greeted by his boy and escorted to the latter's bachelor apartment.

The son thought the occasion called for a special celebration. He burrowed in his treasured pre-war stock and produced a quart of one of the most precious vintages of France.

"Whut's that?" inquired the old man as the son began the operation leading to the removal of the stopper.

"That's champagne, dad," said the son.

"Well, I don't mind a nip of hard cider once't in awhile ez you know," said the visitor; "but I ain't so shore about that there stuff. Lemme have a look at her fust."

He took the bottle in his horny hands and subjected the cork to a close scrutiny. Then, as he handed it back, he shook his aged head and said:

"No, son, I reckon not. If it takes five wires to hold it in now, whut's it goin' to do when it starts runnin' wild inside of me?"

Better quarters for stock exhibitors are available this fall. Besides the new Sears-Roebuck judging and auction arena, the stalls are being reconditioned.

Entertainment plans, some of which are still "hanging fire", are expected to be completed this week. The Beutler Brothers rodeo, which brings America's best rodeo entertainers before the grandstand each night was contracted several weeks ago. However, additional plans for the presentation of the second Texas Cotton Festival is still lacking completion of details. Signing of a nationally known orchestra is expected to take place immediately.

Sheesley's Might Midway, America's greatest traveling carnival, with its famed forty unit Century of Progress shows and rides, is the midway attraction.

Compared to last year's figures, exhibit space has shown an advance increase of 20 per cent, with more than 30 Abilene and national firms in line.

COTTON BUYER HERE

Jim Floyd, who represents the Crespie Cotton Company, has located in Knox City and will buy cotton during the fall season. He is located at the Boyd Hotel, but can be found around the different gins.

Among those who attended the Zone Meeting of the Methodist Missionary Society last Thursday at Westover were Mmes. S. M. Clonts, C. C. Hoge, W. H. Evans, J. W. Smith.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

The second grade had a fair last Friday and everyone had a good time. They sold lemonade, candy, popcorn and balloons. Each second grader had charge of some particular thing. They sold tickets at the gate and had quite a few experiences, such as making the correct change, selling lemonade, etc. They also had charge of the slides, merry go round, swings and see-saws. One of the most interesting events of the afternoon was the horse race which followed the parade.

The pupils had quite a crowd and everyone seemed to enjoy the fair. They took in nearly five dollars, but their book keeper says that after all expenses were paid they have a little over two dollars. They plan to buy books for their library with the remaining money.

Third Grade News

The third grade is glad to have Elmo Meader back with them. He moved to Millap last year, but has moved back to the Sunset community again this year.

Sixth Grade Gives Plays

The sixth grade pupils have a way of entertaining themselves, by giving plays each week.

The class is divided into four groups, each with a captain. The captains are Dwan Russell, Wanda Sue Partridge, Mildred Screws and Keith Burnison. Billy Bob Burton is the president, Winoma Cheek is secretary and treasurer, and Houston Hays Sweatt is vice-president.

Dwan Russell and his group gave the first play on Friday August 26. The play was called "The School of Good", and had ten characters. It was full of laughs and everyone enjoyed it. September 2 Wanda Sue and her group gave their play. It was a surprise to everyone in the class, because they did not know the name of the play until after it was presented. Next Friday, September 9, Mildred Screws and her group will give their play. They have already selected it and are working very hard on their parts. Last of all comes Keith Burnison and his group. They will present their play Friday, September 13. They too have selected their play and are studying hard on their parts.

Miss Hutton is the director of this work and the plays are given in the Sunset auditorium.

Seventh Grade News

The seventh grade is learning "Silver on the Sage". The song is taken from the show "Texans".

Dolly May Robinson and Harry White are missing out on the fun while they are out of school.

SENIOR REPORT

The senior class has just finished taking three-weeks' tests. They find that Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" are much more interesting than they thought.

The Seniors hope they will be able to order their rings before school turns out for cotton picking.

SOPHOMORE REPORT

Friday afternoon eleven of the Sophs, Nettie Griffith, and Mr. L. W. Walling from the grammar school force went to the roadside park between Munday and Weinert, and enjoyed very much the watermelons, the cookies, and the outing in general.

They left Sunset at four and returned at nine. Everyone had a grand time, and were very pleased to have Nettie and Mr.

JUNIOR CLASS REPORT

Will the Juniors ever go into the newspaper business? That is the question being asked as the Juniors are seen scurrying from one newspaper to another in quest of news articles, news stories, editorials and interviews. For the past week they have been delving into the realm of journalism. They have written almost every type of news article. The work is being done in English and is proving to be very interesting work.

The class is working hard on their studies as the approaching east ominous shadows.

Following are some of the news articles written by pupils of the English III class.

School Boy Receives Bad Cut

September 1, Mr. Leiland Floyd of the Sunset High School received a very bad cut on his finger. He was jumping and swinging on a porch top, and there was a nail sticking up and it caught his finger.

Home Ec Girls Plan to Give Banquet for Lion's Club

The Home Economics girls of Sunset High School are planning to serve a banquet to the Lion's Club of Munday at the Sunset School on September 7. Each girl is to plan a menu, and the best is to be selected for the banquet. The Junior girls are going to cook the food, but since this is the Senior's last year in high school, they will serve. The girls will receive fifty cents per plate, the funds to go for articles for the Home Economics Department.

Visit Old Fort Griffin

August 27 and 28 Laverne Bumpas and Cleta Jones took a short vacation and visited the old ruins of Fort Griffin and a place where General Lee was stationed for nineteen months.

The sights they saw included parts of old buildings, such as the bakery where bread was baked for the soldiers, the powder house where powder was kept for their guns, the officers' quarters, an old well and a cistern that the soldiers used during the war.

The girls report that they had a very interesting and enjoyable trip.

Trench Site Being Filled

Mr. E. L. Lowrey, a resident farmer of the Gillespie community, is putting government feed in a huge trench site in order to furnish a favorable favor for farm animals who will eat the feed this winter.

Mr. Lowrey's site is approximately 100 feet long, 10 feet wide and 9 feet deep. He now has the site about one-fourth filled, and will continue the work until it is full.

Shop Work

The shop boys of the Sunset School have started the year 1938-39 with great working ability. They are all doing nicely in their work, and everyone is busy. The new shop teacher pleases everyone, and it seems that everyone likes him. The year 1938-39 will be a busy one for the students in shop, for they have started it in earnest, and I believe they will continue. They have begun to realize what it means to get in there and work, so they can accomplish something during life.

Braxos River Bridge

Under Way at Last
On the Braxos River Highway bridge between Knox City and Benjamin, active construction is now under way due to dry season. After many attempts to dig pier holes in the quick river mud, the Oran-Spauld Construction Company is now succeeding in the task. Due to the past few weeks of fair weather the river bed has dried out, permitting the holes to be dug. This bridge is being constructed on the Salt Fork of the Braxos River about six miles north of Knox City.

Due to rains caused by heavy rainfall in the country south and west of the site of construction the company has had much difficulty in keeping on the job.

The company now has ten abutments and three piers completed. They have two piers under construction and have part of the steel up.

Traffic is now detoured by way of a dirt road east of the old bridge, due to collapse of an end pier in the old bridge. This occurred when the hole for the end pier of the new bridge was dug. The hole beside the old structure allowed it to sink. Traffic will be detoured by way of the Rhineland Bridge in the event of another rise.

New Home Being Erected

Mr. J. K. Johnson of the Sunset community is erecting a new house on his farm, which is located one-fourth mile west of the Johnson cemetery. The new structure will be of rock veneer and when completed will be a boon to the beauty of the community. The house will have six rooms and a utility porch. The floors will be made of concrete, adding beauty and comfort to the house.

Construction of the new home has been under way for about three weeks, and it will probably be completed in the near future.

Along Route One

With Walter Hyde

The writer attended services First Methodist church Sunday at the morning service. Mr. Van Bryant, a layman of the First Methodist church in Stamford, delivered the address in the absence of the pastor and it was enjoyed by a good sized audience. The local church was built in the year 1908, and had as its first pastor Rev. Zora B. Pirtle. The stewards at the time of organization were J. B. Jones, J. W. Smith, E. O. Jamison, C. L. Ezell, R. R. Banner, D. W. Blanton and D. V. Wheeler. The present pastor, Rev. U. S. Sherrill, is completing his second year as pastor of the church. Bro. Sherrill has done a great work in Knox City and has made many new friends, and it is to be hoped that the Conference will return him to us for another two years. The church at present has a membership of some 250 and there is no reason why it shouldn't prosper with such men to back it up as Dr. T. S. Edwards, J. W. Smith, L. W. Graham, S. M. Clonts, J. H. McGee, M. F. Whitten, L. N. Bridges, H. L. White, E. L. Park, J. A. Wilson, G. D. McCarty, D. W. Davis and numerous others. We noticed, however, that some of the more important members were absent, no doubt having been called out of the city. Most especially we missed L. N. Bridges, G. D. McCarty, Den Davis, Shirley Park, Earl Benedict, Luther Swift, Clay Hoge and S. M. Clonts. E. O. Jamison was presiding over the Sunday School and was doing the job in grand style. E. O. has never failed to make a success of but one thing in his life that we know of, and that has been trying for the past six years to find out if W. W. Hyde was not the oldest rural carrier in Texas in point of service, and he hasn't given that up yet.

Thanks to Bro. J. W. Green for the many nice things he had to say about the writer in last week's paper, especially the remarks about my lack of teeth. You know, I learned several years ago that I was a better looking man without any teeth than some men are with a mouth full of them. But I must say for Bro. Green that he is a man who looks far into the future. You could set him down on top of the Buzzard Peak Mountains without one dollar to his name, and in less than six months he would be coming to town with a load of melons and a sack of black-eyed peas. If you want to make him rejoice just put Capper's Weekly and the Knox County Herald to him.

Pete Moody wishes to advise the public that his chickens were all sold out last Saturday and he was unable to supply the demand. Uncle Pete is a firm believer in advertising.

Mace Mosley returned from a two weeks visit to Tulsa, Okla., last Saturday. Mace would have stayed longer, but was afraid that a searching party might be organized, as before.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. Jimmie Ashcroft is on the road to recovery after a very serious operation.

We mentioned in this column some weeks ago that George Stubbs was the most fortunate man in the country. One day last week he received a phone call inviting him to the Robison ranch south-east of Seymour for a big fish-fry and celebration on Miller creek. George and his family left immediately, and he tells us that he has never seen so many fish before in all his life. Large tables were erected, some of them two or three hundred yards in length, and loaded down with all kinds of fish, bread, pickles and coffee. Visitors came from many sections of the country, there being something less than two thousand present.

Arrangements have been completed whereby Harve Warren and Holt Mosely will install a new beauty shop in Knox City. The only thing that stands in their way is a suitable location. Jim Hubbard is to be the general manager. Harve tells us that for the past two years he could tell he was stepping over on the shady side of life, and that a new permanent wave is calculated to give him new energy. Holt is to perform the operation on Harve.

B. B. Cochran has employed Lee Coates to assist him in selecting his seed corn so that he may be able to meet the demand. Brant tells us that his corn is of the Golden Dent variety.

John Dar's turnip green will be ready for the market by September 10. First corn will be first served.

Mrs. Mary Wilson, manager of the Wilson Hotel in Munday, is spending a few days here with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McAuley.

Miss Mary Howell, a very prominent young lady of Lubbock, is spending a two weeks vacation here with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howell. Miss Howell is a brilliant young lady, and is connected with one of the large daily papers in Lubbock.

M. A. Bumpas had as his guests over the week end his mother and sister, Mrs. L. J. Bumpas and Miss Ruth Bumpas. Miss Bumpas is Vice President and an instructor in the University of Wyoming.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN

The Knox City public schools opened Monday with a good attendance. The citizens of Knox City take pride in their school and from reports reaching the Herald this will be one of the most successful years in the history of the school.

GINS RUN DAY AND NIGHT

The cotton gins are running day and night and hundreds of cotton pickers are arriving daily. There is no shortage of labor here, but so far all that have arrived have secured work. The crop will soon be gathered if the weather continues pretty.

NEW LONDON SCHOOL HAS NEW BUILDING

New London, Sept. 6.—New London school, where 294
children and adults were killed by an explosion 18 months ago, moved into a new building today.

"There isn't a safer building in the world," W. R. Price, the supervising architect, commented as more than 700 children began classes in the new structure.

The New London school district, which probably is the richest school district in the world, spent more than four hundred thousand dollars on the new building, which is surrounded by several smaller buildings.

Safety was the keynote of the architect's plans. Leaking gas ignited by an electric spark was blamed for the disaster on March 18, 1937, and every possible means of preventing a similar tragedy was taken. The gas used in the new building is in the three science laboratories, and there it is piped in such a way that only a few inches of pipe are in the building.

T. J. Smith, the local jeweler, spent Sunday with relatives and friends in Mineral Wells.
They left Monday for a few days visit with relatives in Odessa.

Thomas Ferguson and wife spent Sunday in Comanche.
Thomas' father, who had been visiting there for the past two months, returned home with them.

FARM BOYS AND GIRLS TO BE GIVEN NYA JOBS

AUSTIN, Sept. 7.—Texas farm boys and girls, jobless between seasons, will be given a chance this winter to put their off-season time to profitable use, J. C. Kellam, State Director of the National Youth Administration, announced today.

During the next three or four months, 2,000 young people between 18 and 25 years of age, who live in rural areas, are to be assigned to NYA work projects all over the state. The NYA is cooperating in every way with the general program to improve southern rural conditions, Mr. Kellam said.

"More than 11,000 young men and women already have been assigned to Texas NYA projects this year and the 2,000 who can be added from rural sections will not replace those now at work. As in the case of the 11,000, the 2,000 will be given the opportunity to earn an average of $12 to $14 per month.

"One of the greatest problems faced by rural youth has been the intermittent opportunity for employment. There are jobs when crops are to be planted or harvested, when the cotton is to be worked or picked. When these things are accomplished, there are dull seasons, with few, if any, opportunities. It is this slack the NYA is endeavoring to relieve.
In short, it is attempting, so far as its funds will permit, to provide the opportunity for productive work and training over the whole twelve months of the year, by filling in the normal seasonal gaps."

Young men will be assigned to the projects best suited to their individual needs, Kellam said. Some will be employed in soil conservation work, others will help build community centers and home economics cottages. They will help improve rural schools and playgrounds.
Others will be assigned to resident projects providing agricultural training at Texas Tech at Lubbock, Buchanan Dam on the Colorado River, A. and I.
College at Kingsville, and the Luling Foundation Farm.

Young women will be assigned to such projects as assisting county home demonstration agents, working in public hospitals and cafeterias, and to part-time resident projects.

"In all cases, training will be definitely emphasized. We will assist these boys and girls to be better and more efficient farmers and home makers," Kellam added.

Merick McGaughey of Vera was here Monday greeting his friends. Mr. McGaughey has been elected as our next county school superintendent.

POPULAR COUPLE WED IN MUNDAY

MUNDAY, Sept. 3.—A wedding of more than usual interest to residents of this area was that which took place Friday evening at twilight to unite Miss Geraldine Burnison of Munday and Aristel Thompson of Dumont. The service was read at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R.
Burnison, with Rev. W. H.
Albertson officiating.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs.
Orb Coffman of Goree sang appropriate selections with piano accompaniment by Mrs.
Louise Ingram.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white chiffon with a beautiful illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Marvourne Reeves of Munday was maid of honor and was attractively attired in a dress of white net. Her bouquet was of pink gladioli.

Dr. R. L. Newson was best man for the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a short wedding trip, after which they will establish a home in Dumont, where the groom is superintendent of schools. He is the son of Mrs. T. L. Thompson of Munday and is a graduate of the University of Texas.

The bride is a popular resident of Munday and has been attending Texas university, and was a member of the Glee club.
For travel, she wore a lovely suit of blue tweed with accessories of dubonnet.
