Trade Center jury convicts Muslims in tragic bombing

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Muslim fundamentalists were convicted today in the deadly bombing that crippled the World Trade Center and rattled Americans' belief that terrorism happens only overseas.

An anonymous federal jury convicted all four defendants on all charges.

Jurors returned the verdicts in a heavily guarded courtroom on their sixth day of deliberations — and six days after the first anniversary of the attack.

"Injustice!" shouted defendant Mohammed Salameh as the verdicts were read.

The trial had lasted five months and included 207 prosecution witnesses, four defense witnesses and more than 1,000 exhibits.

Prosecutors said Mohammad Salameh, 26, a Palestinian immigrant, helped bankroll the attack, built the bomb and rented the van that carried it into the trade center's underground parking garage.

They said Nidal Ayyad, 26, a chemist, ordered chemicals for the bomb and sent messages to news organizations afterward that the motive was to protest U.S. aid to Israel.

Witnesses said Mahmud Abouhalima, 34, was frequently in the apartment where the bomb was built, while Ahmad Ajaj, 28, allegedly provided bombmaking expertise. Ajaj was in jail on a false-passport conviction when the blast happened.

Defense attorneys contended that the government twisted the evidence to spin a web of conspiracy trapping the defendants.

While some defense lawyers wouldn't even concede it was a bomb that devastated the trade center, Salameh's lawyer, Robert Precht, surprisingly acknowledged during closing arguments that there was a bombing conspiracy and that his client was involved.

Precht insisted Salameh was an unwitting dupe of the alleged ringleader, Ramzi Yousef, a fugitive, and therefore was innocent.

Salameh wrote a letter to Judge Kevin Duffy, saying, "I object to everything Mr. Precht said in his summation." But Precht stood by his argument and said Salameh still wanted his representation.

'Super' search in early stage

The search for a new Snyder ISD superintendent, although still early in the process, is going well, Dr. E.C. Leslie, consultant, said Thursday.

"We've had a number of inquiries and we've already developed a list of candidates we feel are qualified. We'll be sending them letters soon asking them to apply," said Leslie, point man for the search, which is being handled by a Texas Association of School Boards consultant team.

The firm was hired to find a replacement for Supt. Dalton Moseley, who has announced that he will retire at the end of the current school year.

A brochure outlining the position is in the process of being printed and will be sent to applicants. The deadline for applications is still a month away — April 4 — Leslie noted.

In the process of beginning the search, the consultants profiled community members, business leaders, teachers and others to get their input. Comments from the meetings, held Feb. 2-4, have been compiled, and will be made available to the school board in mid-April, when the screening process is to begin, said Leslie.

"There was a positive atmosphere to the responses, which is always encouraging," he said. "Vendetas weren't aired, only positive concerns toward continuing good education in Snyder."

Leslie said some 80 to 85 responses were compiled from the various profile meetings.

"We were a little disappointed in the general meeting for the public that not very many people showed up, but I think in particular the meeting held for civic and business leaders was excellent," Leslie said. "And when you consider them all together, the response

Tates purchase 1st 'buffalo stone'

Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Tate Sr. purchased the first of 200 red granite paving stones that will surround a white buffalo bronze statue scheduled to be unveiled on the city square Oct. 8.

The stones are being sold for $200 each. Proceeds will be used to finance the statue, crafted by noted bronze artist Dr. Robert Taylor.

The name of the purchaser or whomever they designate will be engraved on the stone. There is a limit of 12 letters per line and one to three lines available. The stones measure six by 12 inches. Donations for the paving stones are tax deductible through the Area Foundation.

The majority of the $40,000 needed to fund the bronze will go for foundry cost and materials.

The idea of a white buffalo statue originated with Hugh "Brud" Boren in the 1960s. The white buffalo currently displayed at the city square will be moved and installed on the coliseum grounds where it will continue to be seen by visitors and citizens.

Anyone wishing to purchase a stone may to do so by contacting Joe Jackson at Snyder National Bank, Bill Moss at the Price Daniel Unit, John Gayle at City Hall, Gay Hickman at Western Texas College, or the chamber of commerce.

High, Perry fly in to meet local voters

Doyle High, Republican candidate for State Senator District 30, briefly shared his views on gun control, sex education in the schools and the North American Fair Trade Agreement during a fly-in here Thursday.

High, and Commissioner of Agriculture Rick Perry, touched down at Scurry County airport while on a two-day campaign trip that will end in Denison today.

High, who was accompanied by his wife Roberta, said he is a businessman concerned for the future of West Texas and added, "Right now I think we need more businessmen in Austin and less politicians."

The Haskell pharmacist said he is opposed to gun control and believes that criminals should be controlled instead. He said he is for limited sex education in high schools and thinks the North American Trade Agreement (NAFTA) will help this area.

Perry, who came to introduce and endorse High, said he also thinks "farmers are having a positive impact by NAFTA."

High has been criticized by his opponent, Tom Haywood, a Wichita Falls tax consultant, for his 1992 vote for President Clinton when he was a member of the Democrat Party. Haywood has called High a "60-day" Republican.

Perry, himself a former Democrat, refuted Haywood's remarks. He said he and High were "sinners" who discovered they didn't belong in the Democratic Party.

High noted that the Republican Party, "with the exception of my opponent," has greeted him warmly.

The Republican Primary nominee will face Democratic incumbent Steve Carriker in November.

Perry is running unopposed in the Republican Primary and will face Democrat Marvin Gregory in the fall.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

The Lamesa Press-Reporter had two items of interest since Snyder is looking for a new superintendent of schools and is working to meet federal landfill regulations.

Lamesa's superintendent of 21 years has retired and will be replaced from within by Kenneth McCraw, who currently is serving as assistant superintendent.

Also, the Lamesa city council was told that the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission remains adamant about requirements to line the municipal landfill to prevent pollution of underground water.

The bottom line, just like in Snyder, will mean considerably higher garbage rates.

Over in Gaines County, the Seminole Hospital District has been urged to put in necessary equipment to establish a speciality clinic to perform cataract surgery.

The board was told that the hospital would gain from $1.2 to $1.7 million in annual fees that are now paid to out-of-town doctors and clinics.

The Colorado City Record reports that major water system improvements will be needed there. When asked if the prison in Colorado City was the reason for the costly improvements, Mayor Jim Baum responded:

"I would like for you to tell them that we are able to do it because of the prison and jail."

The Rotan school system is facing a voter-rights lawsuit seeking single-member districts. Many larger schools and cities went through this over the past years.

The Rotan-Advance reported that since 1973, eight minority candidates have filed for a spot on the Rotan school board, but none have been elected.

No longer a loser, Russia now asserts its role as world leader

By Doborah Seward
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Bruised by several years of humiliation, Russia has ended a string of foreign policy defeats and is challenging the West with an assertive new diplomacy.

It is also showing a readiness to fight for great power status.

Diplomatic successes in the Bosnian war, a desire to reclaim a role in Mideast peacemaking and a tough response to the spy scandal in the United States have given Russia a new voice and weight in world affairs.

"They are getting their act together. There's been a great deal of difference among various foreign policy institutions in the last two years and they are starting to coalesce," said Margot Light, an expert on Russian foreign policy at the London School of Economics.

When Russia inherited the Soviet diplomatic mantle in 1991, the Kremlin's superpower legacy was in shambles after the loss of Eastern Europe and the end of Cold War competition in Africa, the Middle East and Central America.

All that was left were the nuclear weapons, an impoverished army and a battered economy. To the dismay of the proud men in the Kremlin, Western aid dominated nearly every key summit Boris Yeltsin has attended.

"Russia is facing the urgent problem of loss of political prestige, trust and dignity as a state," concluded a 1992 analysis by Russia's influential Council for Foreign and Defense Policy.

Russia retreated into isolation as NATO extended its influence into Eastern Europe and the Baltics and threatened to use force in the Balkans, which Russia considers as its historical sphere of influence.

Ultranationalist Vladimir Zhirinovsky, whose party won the most votes in December parliamentary elections, accused Yeltsin of selling out Russia's interests to the West and said any attack on Serbs should be considered an attack on Russia itself. Polls showed many Russians agreed with him.

Yeltsin and the Foreign Ministry, considered one of the most liberal wings of the government, seemed powerless to set Russia's diplomatic agenda. Their action consisted primarily of reacting to the West.

Russia began to reconsider its foreign policy late last year, with the military exercising greater power, reformers retreating and nationalists going on the offensive.

AP analysis

The turnaround finally came several weeks ago, when Russia, angered by NATO's failure to consult with it before threatening to bomb the Bosnian Serbs, and worried about its isolation, stepped in to help mediate the conflict.

Russia persuaded the Serbs, its traditional allies, to remove their heavy artillery from around Sarajevo in exchange for sending Russian peacekeepers to the region.

The Russian initiative won international praise, and the sight of Russian peacekeepers being cheered as they entered Sarajevo raised the nation's spirits. It also helped silence Yeltsin's nationalist enemies.

After the euphoria of its diplomatic triumph, Russia was stunned by the uproar caused by the arrest of CIA official Aldrich Ames and his wife, Rosario, accused of spying for the Soviet Union and Russia.

Russian politicians and even former spies have expressed hope the spy scandal will not derail the budding U.S.-Russian partnership, but have also chastised Washington for its use of Cold War diplomatic tools.

Texas teachers urging higher salaries

AUSTIN (AP) — The president of Texas' largest teachers group says educators are being expected "to provide a 'world-class' product at K-Mart prices" and need a pay raise.

The 95,000-member Texas State Teachers Association plans to push for a $2.1 billion salary and health benefit increase in the 1995 legislative session, despite state leaders' opposition to new taxes, TSTA President Richard Kouri said Thursday.

While acknowledging, "we've got an uphill fight," Kouri said about $1.1 billion is needed over two years to move Texas from 34th place in teacher salaries, at a $30,519 10-month average, to the $35,000 national average.

Another $1 billion would be required over the next two-year budget period to offer teachers the same health benefits that state government employees get, he said.

"We favor any revenue enhancement measure the Legislature can pass," Kouri said. "We believe it (the state) can raise substantially more revenue in a fairer fashion than it does right now."

Kouri said an income tax could be one possibility, although that would require voter approval and is considered politically unlikely.

Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney — all up for re-election this year — have said they oppose new taxes.

Bill Cryer, spokesman for Richards, said that she nevertheless "is going to push for benefits for school teachers. ... Obviously, it's going to be difficult."

"The budget will be tight because we've taken a no-new-taxes stance," said Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Montford, D-Lubbock.

"I am personally sympathetic with their (the teachers') cause," Montford said. But he added, "I think it's going to be tough to have any kind of dramatic pay increase."

Montford said he would support tax restructuring to make the system fairer but that he doesn't anticipate such an overhaul in 1995.

The teachers group, in releasing its salary figures, disputed numbers given in January by the Texas Association of School Boards.

TASB said state school boards gave classroom teachers an average 4.4 percent pay raise this school year, and it put a teacher's average salary at $31,334.

The teachers group said its survey, which included the 976 school districts with grades kindergarten through 12, showed an average 1.95 percent pay raise.

"TASB's erroneous report ... has been harmful to TSTA's, and the governor's efforts to begin rallying public support for a teacher pay raise in the next legislative session," Kouri said.

Dan Casey of the school board group said it stands by its figures.

Henley's visit disappoints school

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Don Henley was late to school and didn't complete his assignment, teachers said. But the rock singer says he tried his hardest to meet students who raised money for his pet environmental project.

Findlay High School said Henley promised five times to visit, and canceled each time. He finally showed up Wednesday, three hours late, and stayed only 30 minutes.

"He really was a jerk," said Jeanette Mathern, an English teacher who helped 34 students who raised $6,200 for Walden Woods, Henley's project to protect a historic piece of Massachusetts land.

Henley said he only canceled one trip, and was delayed Wednesday by the weather.

"I spent 30 minutes of what I thought was quality time," he said from Los Angeles. "If they want to portray this in a negative light, there's nothing I can do about it. I did the best I could."

Another teacher said Henley, once he arrived, was sincere about the project.

Kerry Cook receives 2nd death sentence

GEORGETOWN (AP) — Convicted killer Kerry Max Cook still proclaims his innocence despite being sentenced to death for a second time in the grisly 1977 murder of Tyler secretary Linda Jo Edwards.

Cook's case automatically will be appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which in 1991 threw out his previous conviction.

"We'll continue to fight," Cook's lawyer Paul Nugent said Thursday. "Kerry's doing well. He's disappointed, but he's strong, and he looks forward to our appeal and hopes for his ultimate vindication."

After the death penalty was recommended Thursday by a six-man, six-woman jury, and pronounced by State District Judge Robert Jones, Cook said, "I am an innocent man.

"Lord forgive them, for they know not what they do," he said.

Cook's mother, Evelyn Cook, said, "Our family will stand behind him 100 percent. ... My son is innocent of this terrible crime. The Edwards family should put their interest and energies on trying to find the person that did it."

Ms. Edwards' brother, Jimmy, said he is relieved that Cook was sentenced to death.

"My sister can rest whenever he's executed. Then we can start getting over it," he said.

Smith County Criminal District Attorney Jack Skeen Jr. said the verdict "represents justice in this case for Linda Jo Edwards and her family."

The Williamson County jury last week handed Cook his second conviction in Ms. Edwards' murder.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed his 1978 conviction and death sentence in 1991, because a psychiatrist who testified against Cook had failed to warn him that their interview could be used in court.

A December 1992 retrial ended with jurors deadlocked 6-6.

David Dobbs, Smith County chief felony prosecutor, had told jurors in final arguments, "The only reasonable deduction you can make from the evidence before you in this case is that Kerry Max Cook is guilty of the sick offense of the mutilation-lust murder of Linda Jo Edwards."

Nugent had said there was no "scientific evidence that connects Kerry Max Cook to the crime."

Cook's fingerprints were found on the sliding glass door to Ms. Edwards' apartment, he said, but not in the room where she was killed.

Leader of anti-government group is convicted by jury

AMARILLO (AP) — Americans should heed the message a federal jury sent in convicting a man who preyed on embittered farmers, a prosecutor says.

"You can't retaliate against judges," prosecutor Bill Mateja said Thursday. "You can't go out and file false and frivolous liens in the deed records against individuals you think you've been wronged by."

Roy Schwasinger, leader of the group "We the People," was convicted Thursday of conspiring to harass and intimidate judges who foreclosed on Texas farmers. Jurors found the 59-year-old Fort Collins, Colo., resident guilty of two counts of conspiracy and 11 counts of obstruction of justice.

The jury also convicted his wife, 53-year-old Leanna Louise Hoyt, on all counts.

"These people are protesters with the best of intentions," Amarillo attorney Paige Brittain said before the trial started Feb. 17. "They're motivated by a desire to restore the American farmer with his property."

Brittain, who represents the couple, did not return a telephone call to The Associated Press on Thursday.

The jury's five-hour deliberations ended with a blanket acquittal for J.B. Foster, 79. Darrell Sturgess, 54, was convicted of conspiracy and cleared on 12 other counts.

Sentencing will be determined in May, Mateja said.

The four Colorado residents were accused of trying to intimidate and impede Texas court officials by filing bogus liens on them.

Prosecutors say Schwasinger went around the country urging disgruntled farmers to file retaliatory financial statements purporting that judges and attorneys owed them millions of dollars. He also told the farmers not to pay taxes or repay bank loans, investigators say.

Investigators have said that Schwasinger asks people who lost land through foreclosure to pay $300 to join his campaign against the nation's system of land financing.

Seven Texas defendants in the case reached plea bargains last week that spared them from jail time.

The Texans had filed false documents against officials including U.S. District Bankruptcy Judge John C. Akard of Lubbock and Lubbock Mayor David Langston, an attorney.

Mickey Rourke has to teach boxing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Rourke will stay out of trouble for a fight by teaching kids how to use their fists.

Rourke, 39, was arrested in January after a confrontation outside his nightclub. Rourke said he was helping his bouncer throw out rowdy underage kids when police showed up.

Police said he verbally abused them, using insults and making racial comments, and charged him with resisting arrest.

Under the agreement approved Thursday, Rourke will hold a boxing clinic in the next six months for underprivileged children.

The kaleidoscope that is bridge

By Phillip Alder

Bridge retains its popularity because of its great variety. I love this deal, which was published in last November's American Contract Bridge League Bulletin and was reported by Herb Royal from Garden Grove, Calif. How many club tricks did declarer win, playing in five hearts?

West's bid of two no-trump, the Unusual No-trump, normally shows at least 5-5 in the minors. On the deal before this one, West had made the bid when 6-4 in the minors. East was annoyed, saying to West: "Never again bid the Unusual No-trump with 6-4 distribution. Or 7-4, or 8-4, or 9-4, or even 10-4!"

Therefore, when West led the club eight, East "knew" South was void. (Though East might have asked himself why West would lead the eight from K-J-10-9-8.) So East tossed the seven onto the table, allowing South to scoop up the first trick with his 10. East practically had a coronary; he had forgotten to mention 5-4.

After drawing two rounds of trumps ending in the dummy, declarer ran the spade 10 through East. A spade back to his jack was followed by the spade king, overtaken with dummy's ace. On the last two spades, East discarded a petulant queen and ace of clubs!

Now came two rounds of hearts. South was on lead holding the Q-9 of diamonds and a trump. West had the K-J of diamonds and the club king. Dummy retained the A-10 of diamonds and the club six. The final heart squeezed West. He discarded the club king, so dummy's six won the last trick. South had taken all 13 tricks.

The answer, therefore, is that declarer won two club tricks.

Condemned inmate's execution postponed

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A condemned inmate avoided execution scheduled for early today when a federal judge granted him a reprieve only a few hours before he was to have been put to death.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings in Lubbock blocked John Glenn Moody's lethal injection, which was to take place before dawn today.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals earlier Thursday had rejected Moody's motions.

State authorities said Cummings agreed to the reprieve so he could have time to review Moody's 160-page appeal.

Moody faced death for killing 77-year-old Maureen Louise Maulden of Abilene, who was raped, beaten with a fireplace brush and strangled with a telephone cord inside her home in 1988.

Among other things, defense attorneys contend jurors at Moody's trial, while deliberating punishment, improperly were not allowed to consider his history of childhood abuse and drug and alcohol use. Prosecutors, however, contend proper procedures were followed.

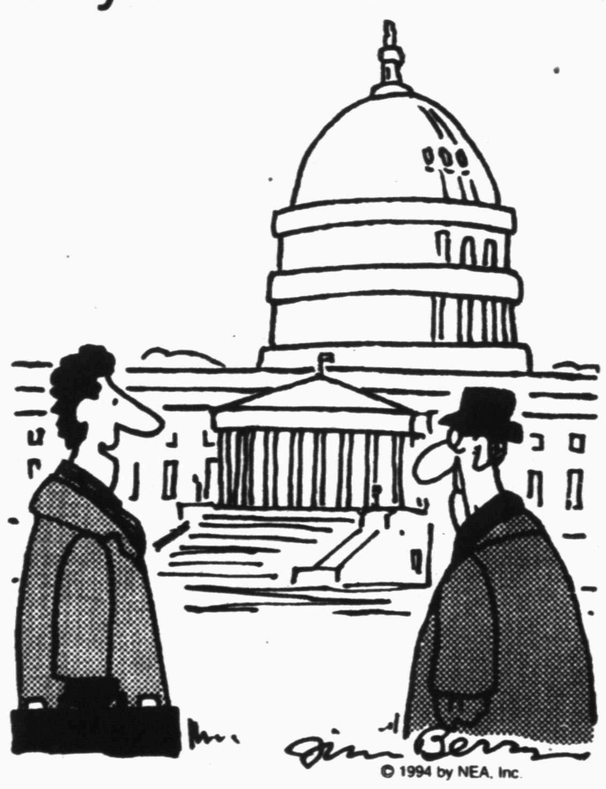

Moody, a native of Chester, W.Va., says he is insane and suffers from a hereditary illness that causes blackouts and hallucinations. He denies committing the murder.

Moody was linked to the killing when his bloody fingerprint was found on the telephone used to strangle the woman.

At the time of the killing, Moody was on parole after serving just a few months of a five-year prison term for burglary. It was at least his second burglary conviction and at least his second time on parole in Texas. He had an earlier prison term in Ohio. Prosecutors said he had numerous arrests for other crimes.

Moody would have been the second inmate put to death this year in Texas and the 73rd since the state resumed carrying out capital punishment in 1982.

Howard nabs title with 79-71 victory

BIG SPRING — Angel Spinks scored a game-high 29 points Thursday to lead No. 3 Howard College to the NJCAA Region V basketball championship with a 79-71 decision over No. 6 Grayson County JC at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Spinks, who scored 90 points in her three games at the tourney, hit 11 buckets, including three from 3-point range, and was 6-of-13 from the free-throw line.

"She has played exceptionally well," said Howard coach Royce Chadwick of Spinks' performance at the regional tournament. "You have got to have a tremendous amount of respect for the players who can step it up."

Annette Robinson added 18 and Cathy Grice chipped in 15 for the Lady Hawks, who move to 31-2 on the season.

Grayson, the Northern JC Athletic Conference champion, winds up the season with a 27-3 mark.

Howard, Western Conference champ, advances to the NJCAA national tourney March 15-19 in Tyler.

Manning scores 22 in Hawks' 109-98 win over Washington

by The Associated Press

Things haven't been this way for Danny Manning since he was a collegian at Kansas.

He's once again the go-to guy on the best team in the conference.

Manning had 22 points, 13 rebounds and seven assists Thursday night as the Atlanta Hawks won their fifth straight, beating Washington 109-98. Atlanta hasn't lost since obtaining Manning from the Los Angeles Clippers and has opened a 21/2-game lead over the New York Knicks in the East.

"In his two or three games here, he's really gone out of his way to (fit in)," Atlanta center Jon Koncak said. "But in the fourth quarter, when we needed big baskets, he's come in and done that, too."

That's what Manning did against the Bullets when they got close in the fourth quarter. The Hawks had just a one-point lead before Duane Ferrell dunked on a pass from Manning to spark an 8-0 run that made it 102-93 with 3:04 left. Manning had four points in the surge.

After the Bullets closed to 104-97, Manning hit two straight jumpers to seal it.

"That's what we need from him," Koncak said. "We need a guy to move the ball throughout the game, and then when the game's on the line, to step up and make the big shots."

Elsewhere, Cleveland beat Philadelphia 95-87, Orlando beat Dallas 107-94, New York beat New Jersey 97-86 and Golden State beat Phoenix 120-107.

Manning's seven assists were a team-high.

"It's not like he wants to shoot every time. He likes to get everybody involved, and that's a tribute to him," said Duane Ferrell, who scored 21 while subbing for flu-ridden Kevin Willis.

In three games since the trade, Manning is 22-of-43 from the field.

"I'm feeling more comfortable every game," Manning said. "I feel that whenever I get the ball, I can make something happen."

Don MacLean scored 23 and Pervis Ellison had 21 for the Bullets, who lost for the seventh time in eight games.

Cavaliers 95, 76ers 87

At Richfield, Ohio, Mark Price made two key defensive plays in the final minute.

First, he bumped Dana Barros and forced him to lose the ball with 40 seconds left, causing the Sixers to foul Tyrone Hill. After Hill made the two foul shots to put Cleveland up by six, Price blocked Clarence Weatherspoon's 3-point attempt from the top of the key.

Magic 107, Mavericks 94

At Dallas, Shaquille O'Neal scored 43 points — six below his career-high — and seemed mad at coach Bob Hill afterward for taking him out with 2:44 to play.

Dallas pulled to 84-78 with 8:05 left, but O'Neal scored six points in a 12-0 run that pushed the lead to 18. Jim Jackson scored 21 points and Jamal Mashburn added 20 for the Mavericks.

Knicks 97, Nets 86

At New York, a close game turned lopsided early in the fourth quarter as the Knicks opened the period with a 15-0 run.

Greg Anthony scored 18 points for the second consecutive game after losing his starting spot to Derek Harper.

Warriors 120, Suns 107

At Oakland, Calif., Mullin hit 11 of 13 shots from the field and scored 25 points. Golden State led almost the whole way.

Avery Johnson made his last seven shots to finish with a season-high 23 points on 10-of-13 shooting.

Thinclads to compete at Andrews track meet

Both Snyder varsity track teams will be making their second stops of the season when they visit Andrews Saturday for the Mustang Relays.

The Lady Tigers accumulated 21 points and 10th place at the season-opening ABC Tiger Relays at Frenship a week ago, while the SHS boys took 14th with 11 points.

The SHS girls were paced by Jamie Prather, who snagged third in the 800 meter run with a 2:35.3 clocking, then finished with a fifth-place 6:26 in the mile, and Vicky Green, who heaved the discus over 107-foot mark for second place and wound up fifth in the shot put with a 34-61/2 effort.

Jason Miller was the top finisher for the Tigers, cruising to a 15.04 runner-up time in the 110 meter hurdles.

The next appearance for the SHS teams will be March 12 at their own Canyon Reef Relays.

Workers needed for track meet

Volunteers are needed for the March 12 Canyon Reef Relays track meet at Snyder High School.

Interested workers may call coach Tommy Doyle at 573-8528 or 573-0854, coach Patty Grimmett, 573-8529; or the athletic director's office at SHS, 573-1311.

Rams interested in Houston QB

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers owner Bud Adams confirmed Thursday night that he has talked with the Los Angeles Rams and other teams about a possible trade for quarterback Warren Moon.

However, Adams said he was in no hurry to make a deal.

"We've had conversations with other teams besides the Rams about Warren Moon," Adams told KRIV-TV of Houston.

"We still want to keep both quarterbacks," he said, referring to Moon and backup Cody Carlson.

"The quarterback situation is something we do not have to address right now. If we have to put him up for trade, there will be plenty of clubs that want to discuss the matter."

Rams executive vice president John Shaw said he had four or five conversations with Adams concerning Moon.

"At this point, I'm not even sure he's going to be traded, to be honest," Shaw said. "If they were interested, they'd get back to us. We haven't made an offer and they haven't given us a price."

It will be difficult for the Oilers to keep both quarterbacks under the salary cap that goes into effect next season. Moon will earn $3.2 million and Carlson will get $3 million.

Cowboys DE signs pact with LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defensive tackle Jimmie Jones of the Dallas Cowboys has reached agreement on a four-year contract with the Los Angeles Rams worth $7.7 million, the Los Angeles Times reported Friday.

The Rams aggressively pursued Jones, who earned $385,000 for the Cowboys last season, after hearing rumors that the defensive end might receive an offer sheet from the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Times said.

Jones spent Thursday in Chicago visiting with the Bears, but left in a hurry to travel to Anaheim after fielding the Rams' contract offer.

Jones will receive a $2 million signing bonus.

"He has signed and has already left LA," the Times quoted agent Drew Rosenhaus as saying. "He's the first Cowboy to leave. It's nice to win, but it's more important to pay the bills."

Lickey tosses no-hitter...

Snyder notches 19-0 shutout

BIG SPRING — Snyder exploded for 11 first-inning hits Thursday while Bryan Lickey was tossing a no-hitter in a 19-0 victory over Big Spring's JV in the first round of play at the Big Spring Varsity Baseball Tournament.

All 19 of the Tigers' runs came in the first-inning surge that saw 25 SHS hitters step to the plate.

"I've never had a team that scored 19 runs in one inning," said SHS coach Albert Lewis. "We were hitting everything.

"We played a real good game, and we saw what our top eight hitters have the potential to do."

The Tigers, who are hitting at a .387 clip as a team, improved to 2-3 with the win.

Lickey, who went all four innings in the time-limit shortened contest, struck out seven and walked only three.

Leadoff hitter John Clinkinbeard got the SHS attack off to a fast start with a double to open the game. Clinkinbeard got three hits in five plate appearances, driving in a pair of runs.

Craig Lang was also 3-for 5 on the night, accounting for three RBI.

Reagan Key, who had two hits in four at-bats, and Jimmy Henry, 1-for-3 with a double, each had four RBI Thursday. Designated hitter Gene Pollard added three runs driven in on a 3-for-4 game.

Junior Chris Mitchell, a .312 hitter for the Tigers last season, is working his way back into the lineup after recovering from a broken hand.

Mitchell got on base three times in four tries against the Big Spring JV, drawing a pair of walks and getting hit by a pitch.

Big Spring's Frankie Flores was the loser, lasting only 1/3 of an inning and giving up six hits, a walk and seven runs.

The JV steers had only three base runners and none got past first base.

In other first-round action here, Big Spring's varsity topped the BSHS JV, 4-0, Sweetwater handed Midland Greenwood a 6-3 loss and Big Spring ripped Greenwood, 11-0.

Games on tap today include the 11:45 a.m. Snyder-Sweetwater tilt, Big Spring taking on Sweetwater at 2 p.m. and the 4:15 p.m. contest pitting the host Steers vs. Snyder.

The round-robin tourney lasts through Saturday.

SWC title on the line when Tech hosts A&M

Texas A&M wants its first-ever Southwest Conference championship in women's basketball.

Texas Tech wants to protect its reputation as defending national champion.

Never before in SWC history have the two top women's teams fought for the league title in the final regular-season game.

"That's great pressure. That's great pressure," A&M coach Lynn Hickey mused Thursday.

"Hey, it is tough, and we are young and we're on their home floor (but) ... this is what we've been working for, for years," Hickey said.

It's also unusual that perennial women's basketball power Texas isn't in the picture. The Longhorns (17-8, 9-4) are two games back behind both Texas Tech and Texas A&M in the conference race.

Tech (23-3 overall) and A&M (20-5) earned identical 11-2 SWC records with victories Wednesday. The Lady Raiders romped 89-63 over Texas Christian; the Aggies blew an 18-point lead over Baylor but held on to win, 90-87.

Tech coach Marsha Sharp called Saturday's 3:10 p.m. tipoff a showcase for women's basketball.

Neither coach said she expects any extra tension from last month's notorious brawl between A&M men's players and Tech fans at the Lubbock coliseum.

What's at stake — top seed in the post-season tournament — creates a spotlight that's plenty big.

"Both of these groups are motivated because of the stakes," Sharp said. "It will be a very close game — some jitters early, but I expect both teams to settle in."

The Aggies hadn't lost a conference game when they beat Tech 67-64 in College Station on Feb. 5. Since then, though, they lost to Texas and Houston.

The Lady Raiders lost to A&M and Texas in the first half of the conference race, but have won their last six SWC matches.

"We're better now than we were a month ago. We're playing more together," Sharp said.

"We know that we're going to have to play even better than before — the home-floor advantage is tremendous," Hickey said.

Hickey said her players beat Tech last time through aggressive rebounding and good reaction to zone defense. She said her team, which finished fourth in the SWC last year, worked this week on sharpness and confidence.

Call for more U.N. troops...

Atrocities against non-Serbs detailed

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — U.N. peacekeeping forces are stretched to the limit and the fragile truce around Sarajevo and in central Bosnia could fall apart unless more are sent, the chief of U.N. forces in Bosnia said today.

"It will start to crumble," Lt. Gen. Michael Rose told reporters in the central Bosnian town of Vitez. "There are people who are ready to go back to war."

On Thursday, Yasushi Akashi, the head of the U.N. mission in former Yugoslavia, said he needs nearly 11,000 more troops to enforce the cease-fires that have restored a measure of calm to Bosnia.

That would double the number of U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia.

Truces between Serbs and the Muslim-led government in Sarajevo and between Croats and Muslims in central and southwestern Bosnia are generally holding but violations are increasing.

Attacks by Serb forces continued in other parts of Bosnia. Bosnian government radio said Thursday that 11 people standing in a bread line were killed Wednesday in northwestern Bihac, apparently by shelling.

And non-Serbs around the Serb stronghold of Banja Luka in eastern Bosnia continued to be raped, killed and beaten, Kris Janowski, Sarajevo spokesman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, said today.

"We know that at least five persons have been murdered since the beginning of January in Banja Luka," apparently as part of the campaign against non-Serbs, Janowski said. He also detailed two cases of rape.

On Thursday, French peacekeepers fired a warning volley after Serb troops fired on government troops at the Jewish Cemetery in downtown Sarajevo. A day earlier, Serbs shot four rocket-propelled grenades at government troops near the cemetery, prompting a gun battle.

"We very much need not only the full compliance by the parties of the agreements they have already accepted or reached, but also we ... need additional resources, additional personnel," Akashi, the U.N. mission chief, said in Zagreb, Croatia.

Akashi said he needed 4,600 more soldiers for Sarajevo and 6,050 for the rest of Bosnia.

But France said today it wouldn't send more. Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Catherine Colonna said France would consider redeploying some of its 6,000 soldiers already in former Yugoslavia.

Noting that France has the most U.N. troops in Bosnia, she said other countries "have not responded fully" to U.N. requests for more troops.

Britain has expressed reluctance to add to its Bosnia peacekeeping contingent, and the United States has refused to send any troops without an overall peace settlement first.

Clinton budget passes 1st hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton budget for fiscal year 1995 passed its first hurdle with minor changes after Democrats on the House Budget Committee rejected a Republican alternative that would have drastically reshaped government spending.

The committee, after six hours of debate Thursday, voted 26-17 to approve $1.5 trillion in spending for the year beginning Oct. 1.

While maintaining the overall thrust of the administration plan, it cut $3.1 billion in line with a Congressional Budget Office analysis that said the budget submitted by President Clinton a month ago exceeded mandated spending ceilings by that amount.

The president's plan would eliminate about 100 programs in order to achieve deficit-reduction goals, while meeting such priorities as expanding Head Start and putting 100,000 new police officers on the streets.

Local man involved in rollover

Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room physicians at noon today were evaluating the condition of a Scurry County man involved in a one-vehicle rollover near Ira.

John Martinez Jr., of RR 2, Box 715, was an occupant in a 1986 Ford Ranger pickup which overturned about 1½ miles south of Ira shortly before 11 a.m.

It was not immediately known if Martinez was the driver.

Snyder Fire Department responded with the Jaws of Life but Fire official Eric Faiola said Martinez was able to crawl through a window with help from Snyder EMS personnel.

Japan said angry over U.S. trade law

TOKYO (AP) — Washington's decision to revive its most unpopular trade tactic — a law singling out countries judged unfair traders for retaliation — left Japanese leaders and executives dismayed and disturbed today.

But the mild reaction in Tokyo's financial markets reflected underlying optimism that Japan will manage to deliver convincing market-opening measures before any sanctions under the law, known as Super 301, take effect.

President Clinton resurrected the law, which had expired, by executive order Thursday in the latest toughening of U.S. policy since trade talks collapsed during a Feb. 11 summit with Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa.

Without referring directly to Clinton's action, Hosokawa said today it was "very regrettable" that the two nations remain at odds over how to trim Japan's $59 billion trade surplus with the United States.

"We must, while firmly adhering to free-trade principles, take effective measures to achieve a highly significant decrease" in Japan's trade surplus, Hosokawa said in a major policy speech to Japanese lawmakers.

Top government spokesman Masayoshi Takemura said "Japan cannot keep silent its concerns" that unilateral U.S. action to penalize a trading partner would violate world trade rules.

Clinton said that by Sept. 30, the United States would list the countries deemed to have erected the most harmful barriers to American goods and services. If negotiations fail to remove those barriers, the administration could impose punitive tariffs of up to 100 percent against exports from those nations. The amount targeted would equal the sales lost by American producers.

Trade Minister Hiroshi Kumagai warned that any retaliatory duties imposed under Super 301 might hurt U.S.-Japan relations and damage global free trade.

But Kumagai said Tokyo did not immediately plan to appeal any sanctions to the Geneva-based General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the global arbiter of free trade rules.

Teen-ager gets 22 years in jail

DALLAS (AP) — A state district judge has sentenced a 15-year-old gang member to 22 years imprisonment for his role in the December shooting death of a man shot while eating at a suburban mall.

The defendant, who was not identified because he is a minor, was sentenced Thursday. He was expected to be transferred to the Texas Youth Commission juvenile detention facility Friday.

Four older teens, all members of a Dallas gang, also have been charged in the death of Kevin Bacon, 37, who was shot in front of his wife and two children while eating at the food court in Irving Mall on Dec. 27.

The 15-year-old, whom prosecutors had sought to have tried as an adult, testified that he provided the gun used in the shooting and later tried to dispose of it.

He pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of murder-juvenile delinquency and engaging in organized criminal activity-juvenile delinquency.

Goals, fund-raisers mulled by committee

Committee goals, bronze buffalo fund-raisers and basketball playoff games were subjects discussed at the chamber's monthly Tourism Committee meeting Thursday.

Committee members agreed that letters will be sent to area merchants in an attempt to promote their involvement in the tourism of Snyder. The members also agreed to invite more citizens to join committees to help with the various projects in progress.

Gay Hickman, chairman of the bronze buffalo fund-raising committee, addressed progress made on fund-raisers for that project.

Hickman displayed a form to be used when ordering the granite paving stones which are being sold to fund the statue. The stones, which will be placed near the statue on the courthouse square, are being sold for $200 each. The new statue will be unveiled Oct. 8.

Shirley Leftwich, museum director, suggested the selling of white buffalo Christmas ornaments through the chamber along with Scurry County Museum, noting that they have been a successful fund-raiser in the past.

The committee heard from Jay Wesson, coliseum manager, about the three basketball playoff games and the motorcross held the past month in the coliseum.

Suggestions were made to supply a calendar of events to area merchants to let them know what events are scheduled so that they may prepare for increased sales activity.

It was also suggested that a list of area advertising outlets be maintained for companies who schedule events in Snyder so that their advertisements may draw larger crowds to their functions from throughout the area.

Snyder Beautification Committee chairman Carolyn House informed the committee of progress made on the Deep Creek project. She announced that the path along the creek will be cut next week and Steve Tate of Western Texas College will help with the landscaping, possibly as a class project.

Ways to control chronic asthma, cough

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from a chronic asthma/bronchitis cough. When severe, I use Ventolin and Vanceril inhalers, along with theophyllin. However, at other times, when using Ansaid for my arthritis, I cough less. What is the connection and is there anything else I can do that will control both the cough and the asthma?

DEAR READER: I do not believe that there is a relation between your asthma (cough) and your arthritis medicine. Perhaps this is serendipity: When your asthma is under control, you may be able to exercise more, thereby needing the Ansaid. Some asthma is worsened by aspirin and similar anti-arthritis drugs, but I've never heard of these compounds improving the symptoms of asthma. You appear to be receiving appropriate therapy for your asthma, although inhalers are not your only option: Pills and liquid medicine also can be used.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 68-year-old male diagnosed with blastomycosis. I'm curious as to how I might have acquired this condition and wonder if there is any danger of passing it on to others.

DEAR READER: This is an infection caused by a type of yeast. In most instances, it is acquired through the lungs, causing cough and fever. Untreated, the infection may spread to the brain, reproductive tract and internal organs. Blastomycosis is much more common in people with immune deficiencies (such as AIDS) and certain cancers (such as Hodgkin's disease).

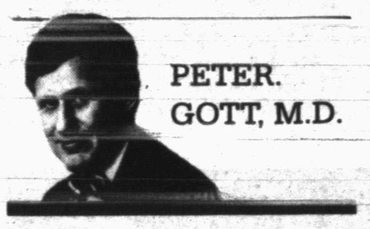

The infection is diagnosed by isolating the yeast from infected areas. For example, yeast meningitis (which causes headache and mental disturbances) is confirmed by finding the microorganism in the spinal fluid.

Treatment includes powerful anti-yeast drugs, such as amphotericin B.

Until therapy is underway, blasto-

Democrat Richard Fisher will not resign from country club

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Senate hopeful Jim Mattox was hitting the golf course today.

No, he's not taking a day off from the campaign. He wants to turn up the heat on one of his Democratic opponents, Richard Fisher, who is a member of the private, all-white Dallas Country Club.

Mattox planned campaign stops at public golf courses in San Antonio, Laredo and McAllen.

Fisher has refused to quit the country club despite criticism from Mattox and the other major Democratic primary candidate, Mike Andrews.

Joel Williams, a spokesman for the Dallas Country Club, said it has no policy excluding blacks.

Potential members must be invited to join and no blacks have asked for membership, he said.

"We've never had a black applicant," he said.

He said within the past five years, women have been allowed to become voting members.

"It would be an embarrassment for Texas Democrats to nominate a man who refuses to quit his social membership in such a racist club," Mattox said.

"A U.S. senator from Texas represents all the people of this state, not just his friends from the exclusive neighborhoods of Dallas," said Andrews.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, declined to comment on Fisher's membership but said, "The party does stand for ... that all people should be afforded full participation in all aspects of this country."

Kerrey, Danforth take on entitlements

By Jill Lawrence
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Bob Kerrey and John Danforth disagreed last year on nearly every major economic bill before Congress, and just this week parted ways on whether the Constitution should require a balanced budget.

That makes them perfect partners in a new joint venture: figuring out how to control runaway spending on some of the country's most popular programs — and in a way that's palatable to both Democrats and Republicans.

Beneath layers of partisanship and political insecurity, they say, there really is a consensus on how to do it. And they vow to find it.

Entitlements are known warily as the third rail of politics. Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, veterans benefits, farm subsidies, student loans, government pensions — the conventional wisdom is touch them and you're dead.

Kerrey, an independent-minded Nebraska Democrat, is not only touching the rail but holding it close as he runs for re-election this year. "It's the biggest problem that we can't talk about," he says of entitlements. "I don't truly have an interest in hanging out here" if it's not addressed head-on.

The two senators are leaders of the Bipartisan Commission on Entitlement Reform. Kerrey conceived it and enlisted Danforth, a Missouri Republican who is retiring from the Senate at the end of the year.

"I was sitting in my office minding my own business and the phone rang," Danforth recalled at a breakfast Thursday with Kerrey.

"He made the mistake of writing me a complimentary note after my speech on the budget," Kerrey said.

President Clinton formally launched the commission a month ago by thanking its 30 members for taking on a thankless task.

Kerrey and Danforth are now at a stage they call "shuttle diplomacy" — talking privately with lawmakers to determine how far they're willing to go. They aim to make recommendations by December, in time to influence the 1995-96 budget debate.

Commissions go two ways in this town: into history or into oblivion. A bipartisan Social Security commission in 1983 rescued the system from the brink of insolvency. More recently the bipartisan base closing commission succeeded at an equally distasteful political task.

But countless commissions, task forces and reports are lost to memory. The last attempt to control spending, the 1988 National Economic Commission, foundered after both presidential candidates announced in advance that they would ignore its conclusions.

The latest entitlement warriors say they're as skeptical as anyone else.

Kerrey's first choice was a week-long special session of the Senate devoted to cutting federal spending, but Senate rules wouldn't allow it. "I'm not optimistic about a commission," he said.

Danforth has wagered a whole stick of gum on the outcome. "It's worth trying," he shrugs.

Picture used improperly in campaign

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin woman has complained that Rene Haas, a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court, improperly used a picture of her in a political mailing to 580,000 Texas voters.

Actress Annie Suite filed suit Thursday against Haas, an Austin political consulting company and a design firm to stop distribution of the mailing and for unspecified monetary damages. She said a brochure implies she was a victim of sadomachistic sex.

The Haas campaign agreed Thursday to stop distribution, but Ms. Suite proceeded with plans to seek a temporary restraining order Friday a hearing in Austin before state District Judge Pete Lowry.

The brochure was part of Haas' bitter campaign to unseat incumbent Justice Raul Gonzalez.

Ms. Suite said she agreed to have her picture used in a congressional race in Arizona in 1992 but not in Haas' campaign.

The political consulting firm of Emory, Young and Associates, which is helping Haas in her campaign, also participated in the Arizona election.

The brochure discussed two cases Gonzalez has ruled on. In one, a woman sued her husband, saying he emotionally and physically abused her and forced her into sadomasochistic bondage games.

In the other, a young man secretly arranged to have him and his girlfriend videotaped while having sex. He subsequently showed the tape to his college friends, and the woman sued. In both cases, the women won damages in lower courts, but the damages were thrown out by a sharply divided Supreme Court.

Sears Tower in Chicago Is Still Tall-Building Champ

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In a conversation with a friend, the question arose, "What is the world's tallest building?"

I told him, "The Sears Tower in Chicago."

He said there's a building in Toronto, Canada, with a revolving restaurant on top that's taller.

I said it is not possible to build a high-rise taller than the Sears Tower.

Who's right?

A DAILY READER
IN DOWNEY, CALIF.

DEAR DAILY READER: You are; the world's tallest building is the Sears Tower in Chicago. It stands 1,454 feet tall and has 110 stories.

While researching the answer to your question, I discovered some fascinating facts about tall buildings and towers:

Other spectacularly tall buildings in the order of U.S. ranking are: the 110-story World Trade Center towers in New York, which stand 1,368 feet tall (North tower) and 1,362 feet tall (South tower); the Empire State Building in New York, which stands 1,250 feet tall and has 102 stories (built in 1929 — long before skyscrapers were commonplace); the Amoco Building in Chicago, 1,136 feet tall with 80 stories; and the John Hancock Center in Chicago, 1,127 feet tall with 100 stories. It's interesting that some of the shorter "tall" buildings have more floors than the next ranking buildings.

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading you for years, never dreaming that one day I would be writing to you for help with a problem of my own.

Here's the situation: I have fallen in love with my first cousin. (His mother and my mother were sisters.) We have been friends for years, but he lived in another state while we grew up. Also, we were both married and now we are divorced.

We need to know if there is a state that would allow us to marry. Please note, we do not intend to have any children. (I have already had my tubes cut.)

We would love to be together legally. Please help us find a state where we can make our dream come true. Thanks for any help you can give us.

COUSINS IN LOVE

DEAR COUSINS: First cousins may marry in Alabama, Alaska, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, the District of Columbia and Virginia. And in Wisconsin, first cousins may marry if the woman is 55 years or older.

Good luck, and may you forever be kissin' cousins.

WORTH REMEMBERING: "We are all citizens of one world; we are all of one blood. To hate a man because he was born in another country, because he speaks a different language, or because he takes a different view on this subject or that, is a great folly. Desist, I implore you, for we are all equally human ... Let us have but one end in view, the welfare of humanity." — John Comenius (1592-1670)

JETHRO'S FORESIGHT!

WHEN JETHRO, MOSES' FATHER-IN-LAW, WAS VISITING THE CAMP OF THE ISRAELITES HE CAUTIONED MOSES WITH A BIT OF ADVICE. AND BECAUSE OF HIS ADVICE PEOPLE EVEN TODAY DELEGATE AUTHORITY IN A LIKE MANNER. WHAT JETHRO SAW, THAT CAUSED HIM CONCERN, WAS THE FACT THAT MOSES SPENT FROM MORNING TILL NIGHT LISTENING TO THE TROUBLES OF HIS FOLLOWERS AND STRAIGHTENING OUT SQUABBLES AMONG FAMILIES, ETC., TO THE EXTENT THAT MORE IMPORTANT NEEDS WERE NEGLECTED. HE RECOMMENDED ASSIGNING MEN TO SPECIFIC DUTIES TO RELIEVE MOSES OF PETTY DETAILS. "...MEN OF TRUTH...TO BE RULERS OF THOUSANDS, AND RULERS OF HUNDREDS, RULERS OF FIFTIES, AND RULERS OF TENS: AND LET THEM JUDGE THE PEOPLE AT ALL SEASONS..." (EXODUS 18:21,22) AND TO THIS DAY JETHRO'S ADVICE IS POTENTLY PRACTICAL!
