Kennedy Says Britain Feels More Aid Due

Former Envoy Says Crisis Might Come "Almost Any Day"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—Joseph P. Kennedy, retiring ambassador to Great Britain, declared today that Britain's leadership was divided over the question of the advisability of the United States becoming an active participant in the war.

Testifying before the House foreign affairs committee, Kennedy said, in response to questions, that some members of the British government felt that if the United States entered the war it would "find a way to carry it through."

More Aid Expected

Others, he said, believed that United States entrance into the war would be a great detriment to Britain's war effort because it would slow down the flow of material aid from America.

"There was no unanimity on the question," he said.

The carefully dressed diplomat, who reported he went through more than 280 air raids during his service in England, told the committee that many people in the British government felt they were not yet getting all the aid they might normally have expected from the United States.

Evades "Crisis" Question

Kennedy appeared before the committee to testify on the administration's proposal for lease-lend aid for the British. In a radio address last week he expressed favor for the principle of giving the British all aid short of war but made it clear he was not wholly in accord with the methods put forward by President Roosevelt.

Questioned as to whether he believed a "crisis" would develop in the next 60 or 90 days, as administrative spokesmen told the committee last week, Kennedy said he did not know exactly what was meant and that there were many things in the military situation which he did not understand.

Cites German Weaknesses

"I have never understood, for instance, why the German army permitted a British army of 300,000 to escape from Dunkerque," he said.

German Troops Are Injured As Bombs Explode

Heavy Casualties Are Reported In Several Cities

(By The Associated Press)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 21 Widespread disorders in Rumania, with street fighting and bombing injuring civilians, German soldiers and Communists in the streets of Bucharest and other cities, were reported in diplomatic dispatches today to Sofia, Belgrade and Budapest.

Some sources in the other Balkan capitals attributed the Rumanian outbreaks to bitter rivalry between extremists and more conservative elements in Rumania's iron guard.

Resentment Is Increasing

Others suggested that increasing resentment in many quarters over German military concentrations in Rumania and against the regime of Premier Ion Antonescu might have flared into a free-for-all with Nazi troops trying to restore order.

There were reports too, the disorders might be part of an intended coup by leftists, followers of former King Carol, or others trying to wrest the power from the German army and the pro-German iron guard.

Reports of the disorders were believed here to be supported by the reported withdrawal yesterday of German forces stationed in the vicinity of Giurgiu, Rumania, just across the Danube river from the Bulgar town of Ruse.

Troops Rushed To City

It was reported here that they had been rushed to Bucharest and other Rumanian cities where disorders were developing

Diplomatic advices reaching Belgrade said that the regular Rumanian broadcast from a Bucharest station was interrupted suddenly by a speaker who decried General Antonescu's policies and accused him of handing over Rumania to the Germans

Both Belgrade and Budapest reported receiving word of heavy casualties in clashes of iron guard groups and in fighting between German troops and pro-German guardists on one side and Antonescu supporters on the other

Rumania's frontier with Yugoslavia and Bulgaria was closed to all except a few travelers with dip-

Britain's Legions Launching Major Assault On 30,000 Fascist Defenders In Besieged Tobruk After RAF Deals Smashing Blows

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 21—British forces surrounding beleaguered Tobruk launched a major assault on the 30,000 Italian defenders of the Libyan stronghold today after the RAF had prepared the way with a series of night raids.

"Early this morning an attack was launched on Tobruk and the operations are proceeding satisfactorily," the British middle east command announced.

Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, has been under siege by land, sea and air since the British captured Bardia, 10 miles from the Egyptian frontier, on Jan. 5.

The RAF announced Tobruk was attacked heavily, seven planes were destroyed in an attack on Catania, Sicilian base of Axis fliers raiding British Mediterranean shipping, and Valona was made the target of the heaviest assault yet loosed on that major Italian port of entry into southern Albania.

The RAF said direct hits were registered on Tobruk marine repair shops and military barracks. One artillery battery of four guns was silenced, the communique said, and "many bombs" fell on a camp of about 200 tents.

The middle east command reported British troops were "vigorously pursuing" into Eritrea the Italian forces which with-

Governor Asks More Powers For Executive

Unity Requested; Coke Stevenson Also Takes Oath

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 21—Before thousands massed in front of the capitol, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today was inaugurated for a second term.

With his hand on an ancient Bible, O'Daniel repeated the official oath after James P. Alexander, chief justice of the state supreme court.

Stevenson Takes Oath

A 19-gun salute by a battery of national guardsmen boomed and nine planes of the same military organization roared overhead.

The Texas Aggie 100-piece band played the governor's own famous composition, "Beautiful Texas," while a huge party of state officials stood on the bunting-draped platform.

A short time previously Coke Stevenson of Junction was also inaugurated for a second term as lieutenant governor.

Crowd Comparatively Small

The governor spoke the words of the oath in firm tone, with head erect and eyes straight ahead, looking out over a broad vista of green capitol grounds, studded with historical statues.

The crowd numbered possibly 10,000, compared with the 50,000 which witnessed his first inauguration in the football stadium of the University of Texas two years ago.

The crowd could not compare in size with many which gathered to hear the governor during his campaign tours, and it seemed very quiet and undemonstrative.

Given Ovation

Shouts of "louder" from time to time indicated the spectators might have had difficulty hearing.

The weather was cool and many in the official party wore overcoats. A stiff breeze blew and although heavy gray clouds splashed the sky, the sun speared through them frequently.

Senator Clay Cotten of Palestine, president pro tempore of the Senate, introduced Senator Jesse Martin of Fort Worth, who in turn presented the governor for his inaugural address.

O'Daniel began talking at 12:48 p. m.

There was loud cheering when O'Daniel was introduced for his speech. A band played "God Bless America."

Demand For Unity

The governor said at the outset that he was starting a second term with "enthusiasm for the task ahead."

In this time of national stress, he asserted, "there is demand that we as a people proceed with a unity of purpose."

"I should like to rededicate my-

Report Claims Winant To Be Chosen Envoy

Republican Said FDR's Choice To Take London Job

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — John Gilbert Winant, liberal Republican and former governor of New Hampshire, will be President Roosevelt's choice as ambassador to Great Britain, an excellent authority disclosed today.

The White House would not confirm the report.

Makes No Statement

Winant, here for the inauguration, said early today he had seen stories referring to him as the next likely ambassador to Britain "but I don't want to make any statement on them."

Mr. Roosevelt has announced plans to send to the Senate soon his nomination of a successor for Joseph P. Kennedy, retiring ambassador, who presented his resignation immediately after Mr. Roosevelt's election to a third term. The president told a press conference about a week ago that he had picked Kennedy's successor.

Interested In Labor

Winant, governor of New Hampshire in 1925 and 1926 and from 1931 to 1934, long has had an interest in labor problems and social legislation. He was first chairman of the social security board, headed the textile labor board of 1934, and since 1939 has been director of the international labor office, which serves the United States and member nations of the League of Nations.

With British labor rising to a position of preeminence in the war cabinet, and with all indications pointing to major social changes in post-war Britain if her armies are victorious, Winant was considered by White House advisers to be an American representative who could strike the common denominator among the labor and wealthy classes. Winant, himself, is a very wealthy man, but his career for the last decade has centered on labor problems.

Berth For Secretary Perkins

There were suggestions from other Washington quarters that Winant's appointment as ambassador, and the subsequent vacancy in the international labor office directorship, might provide a berth for Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Winant is a Roosevelt confidant, and probably would be satisfactory to the British government which is sending Lord Halifax, former British foreign secretary, to Washington to succeed the late Lord Lothian

Eighteen Drown As Ship Crashes

Survivors Are Nearly Frozen

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, Jan. 12 — Eighteen men drowned today, almost within sight of their homes, as the Boston schooner May E. O'Hara, homeward bound from a week on the fishing banks, was split open in a collision as it approached Boston harbor, and sank.

Five half-frozen survivors who were dragged to safety from the protruding mainmast of the sunken schooner by the crew of the trawler North Star told their rescuers that the O'Hara apparently had struck a barge and that the remainder of the crew of 23 had fallen from the rigging, one by one, as their hands froze.

Brought ashore with their hands and feet frozen, half dead from drenching and exposure, the men said their schooner had sunk so fast that there was no time even to launch a dory, and that they had fled into the upper portions of the rigging to cling there for three hours, in the early morning darkness, from 3 a. m. until 6.

Faint Cries Heard

The faint cries of the survivors were heard by members of the crew of the North Star as they passed Finn's ledge, on the outer fringe of Boston harbor, a dozen miles from the city.

Three times earlier, during those tragic hours, other craft approached the men clinging to the ice-sheeted rigging—and the men cried for help—only to see the vessels pass and their lights fade in the

Four Seamen From Torpedoed English Ship Tell Of 18 Days Of Hunger, Death At Sea

(By The United Press)

AN EAST CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 21.—Four men are recovering today from the cold, hunger, thirst and despair of 18 days of drifting in an open lifeboat in the north Atlantic which killed 13 companions.

They were from the crew of the British freighter Carleton, torpedoed by an Italian submarine several hundred miles west of Ireland Dec. 20. They reached here last night, weak, emaciated and frost-bitten, aboard a freighter which had sighted their little boat none too soon.

The freighter had to hoist them aboard in bosun chairs. They had been too weak to do more than lie in the lifeboat and watch.

This was their story, as related by John A. Pearson, 24, who before the war was a truck driver in London:

About 7:30 a. m. on Dec. 20, when the rest of the world was preparing for the Christmas holidays, a submarine popped up alongside the little freighter.

"The sub wasn't more than 12 yards away," Pearson said. "We turned our Hotchkiss (gun) on her but the shells just bounced off her hull like hailstones Then she dived and a little later we could see her periscope following us.

"We zig-zagged all morning. We potted at her periscope with the Hotchkiss but didn't hit it. About noon she got in the right position, I guess, and let us have it. There was an explosion that seemed to come from under No. 2 hatch and the ship started to settle. She went down with a swish when we were about 50 yards away (in the lifeboat).

"A couple of minutes later the

Negro Woman Held In Jail

A negro woman was in jail and a negro man had a sore throat and side as results of a shooting scrape early today in the Flats district of Lubbock.

James P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, said Anis Lewis, about 25, went to the jail with her mother and surrendered a .32 caliber revolver and said she had shot Ernest Lacey, about 30.

At a hospital it was said the man was hit twice—in the neck and in the side. Both wounds were slight, because of a freakish range of bullets. The neck wound showed the bullet struck the black on the adam's apple and was deflected out at the point of the chin. That of the left side showed the bullet was deflected three inches from where it had broken the negro's skin.

The man was dismissed immediately after his wounds were dressed.

Officials said Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff to whom the woman sur-

Role Of Good Samaritan Is A Costly One

(By The United Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 21.—Bert Ferguson, musician, told police today that it cost him $35 to play good samaritan.

He said he had met a man in a downtown bar last night who told him he was friendless and broke. Ferguson invited him to spend the night with him and took, him home.

There the stranger, whose name Ferguson said he did not know, attacked him and robbed him of $35, leaving him bound and gagged on the floor.

Ferguson's struggles aroused his parents, asleep in an adjoining room, and they released him.

Post Will Be Banquet Host

(Special To The Journal)

POST, Jan. 21.—Post business men tonight will look back over their accomplishments for 1940 and, after taking a look at the future, will hear Lloyd Croslin of Lubbock, a former Post school teacher, discuss government affairs, at the 27th annual banquet program of the Post Chamber of Commerce, in First Methodist church.

An attendance of 100 or more is expected, including most of the 71 members, according to President E. A. Warren. Phil S. Bouchier, postmaster, will be toastmaster.

Directors To Be Named

Four directors are to be named this year and the result of balloting is to be announced. Outgoing directors are T. R. and Ira Greenfield, Clint Herring and the late Col. Jay B. Slaughter. Holdover directors are President Warren, Bouchier, Dr. B. E. Young and Roy Baker. C. B. Everett is secretary. Terms are for two years.

Mrs. Herring will be in charge of the musical program. Her program includes some out-of-town talent, as well as local performers.

Committee Members

Ira Greenfield is chairman of the general arrangements committee and Dr. Young the ticket sales. Harold Voss and J. E. Parker are on the general arrangements committee. On the program committee are Herring, T. R. Greenfield and President Warren. Ashley Lawson and Secretary Everett are on the ticket committee.

Croslin taught in the Post schools before going to Colorado City with John E. Watson, former Post school conspiracy which defrauded the federal government of thousands of dollars.

Under federal indictment were E. W. Williams, J. N. Wall and Les Davis, of Post; Billie Lee, Fort Worth; Bill Watkins, of Illinois; Peter Watkins of San Antonio; E. B. Hayes of Nachitoches, La.; and C. E. Brown of Snyder. They had been indicted in secret action of the grand jury at a special session held here last month.

Bought Rejected Cotton

Assistant U. S. Dist. Atty. William Fonville said the indictment charged false statements in connection with securing government loans in excess of $10,000 on more than 330 bales of cotton. The conspiracy covered a period from December, 1937, to January, 1938.

Those indicted, said Fonville, purchased rejected cotton, graded it up to meet government loan standards and then represented one of themselves as producer of the cotton to obtain government loans.

More than 30 counts figured in the indictment which was said to cover several transactions.

Crime Career Is Cut Short

(By The United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 — Oscar de Cola, 15, and Herbert Oliver, 17, of Lawrence, Mass., rode a freight train to California "to enjoy the climate," and tried to hold up a cigar store early today near the Los Angeles stock exchange. Four policemen saw them fleeing.

De Cola died on a hospital operating table while surgeons were trying to remove four bullets from his head and chest. Oliver, with a bullet wound in his chest and in grave condition, was in General hospital. Officers Charles Hart, 23, and John W. Powers, 28, who shot it out with the young bandits, were critically wounded. Hart was shot in the mouth and both legs; Powers in the abdomen.

Manager Bluffs Them

The manager of the cigar store bluffed them when they ordered him to open the cash register. Flustered, they fired two shots and fled down an alley. The four officers pursued them, and the youths stopped to shoot when they emerged from the alley to a street corner.

Hart and Powers fell during the first volley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Zachary of Big Spring on birth of a daughter weighing 7 pounds at 11:47 o'clock this morning at the home of Mrs. Zachary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hawes of 2318 Nineteenth street. Zachary is employed by the Curtiss Candy company.

Hot Publicity Stunt Sure Fire Literally

IRVING, Jan. 21 (U.P.) — It was one of those "buried alive under the ground" publicity stunts in which 31-year-old, let's call him John Smith, was to have been fed through a tube. He had been down two of the 12 days he intended to stay when sparks from a cigarette ignited his bedding. "Fire," he shouted. Assistants poured water down the feeding and air tube, then dug him up and rushed him for a hospital, where he was treated for burns — and water in his lungs.

Navy Defense Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—A $300,000,000 appropriation to strengthen the United States navy's protection against air attack was passed by the House today 130 to 0 and sent to the Senate.

The bill was the first passed by the House at this session of Congress.

Car Goes On Spree Minus Its Driver

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21. (AP)—"Hey watch this," shouted Ralph Castle as he saw a motor car skid down a steep, ice-covered street.

The car veered sharply to the sidewalk, skipped between two light poles with only paint to spare, barely missed another.

A big bus appeared. A crash seemed inevitable. Then he looked again.

The car was empty.

Nazis Could Invade U. S., Author Says

EL PASO, Jan. 21 (U.P.) — Germany could invade the United States within a few weeks after the fall of Great Britain if Adolf Hitler could defeat England now, Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., author, lecturer and traveller, declared to an El Paso audience last night.

Vanderbilt urged all possible aid to England, "at least until the United States can prepare herself for a powerful defense."

"We will not go into war," Vanderbilt said, "but the war will come to us unless we are powerful."

Simple "God Bless You" Ends Garner's Capital Departure

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — Things are a little bit different on Capitol Hill today.

John Nance Garner is gone.

In his place as presiding officer of the Senate sits a new man, Henry Agard Wallace — the new vice president of the United States.

It's "Rookie" Wallace who'll swing the Senate gavel beginning at noon today.

Cactus Jack has hung up his political portfolio for good and gone home to his beloved Texas. His public career of 43 years—38 of which were spent in Washington — has ended. His last official act was to swear in his successor as vice president. At that moment he became Private Citizen Garner.

Eight hours later he was aboard a Texas-bound train.

There was no fanfare as he left. Only a small gathering of intimate friends saw him off. Only they heard his brief valedictory.

Never a man of many words, Garner clung steadfastly to that

General Motors Ready To Open Mass Production For Bombers

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—General Motors corp., the world's largest automotive firm, today announced completion of plans for a monthly output of 1,500 aviation engines and parts and subassemblies for 200 huge bombing planes.

In making the announcement, C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, said the corporation, one of the "big three" in the motorcar industry, had entered into a cooperative arrangement with North American Aviation, inc., for the production of twin-engined B-25 medium bombers.

Wilson, from the hospital where he was being treated for a skating accident injury, said that manufacture of parts and sub-assemblies would begin immediately so that final assemblies by North American Aviation at a plant to be built in Kansas City "can start by late summer."

He added that, at the peak of the program, the corporation will have 40,000 men employed

"I've Never Been Happier," Says Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel On Inaugural Day

Rushing Days Are Leaving Her Serene

BY PEGGY HARDING LEE
Written For The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 — New linoleum for the kitchen floor and completion of the rose garden at the mansion occupied first place in Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel's thoughts as she swirled about making ready for her husband's second inauguration today.

These are rushing days in the stately old house in the shade of the capitol's dome but Mrs. O'Daniel remains serene as she continues her daily routine of meal planning, budget balancing and family advising.

Like most housewives, Mrs. O'Daniel runs the mansion on a budget. By strict economy she has squeezed venetian blinds for the informal dining room and refinished the dining room suite out of that budget. But she is still looking forward to the day when the legislature will give her the go ahead signal on the kitchen linoleum.

Has Made Kitchen Over

She has made many innovations in the kitchen in the past two years. The hard orange paint on the high kitchen walls has been subdued with pea green. Pantries galore have been added and stocked by Mrs. O'Daniel and the cook with jars and jars and jars of preserves and canned vegetables.

Between six and six-thirty in the morning Mrs. O'Daniel's day starts. Breakfast with the governor and whatever of the three children are available is at 7:15. Even breakfast is frequently eaten with guests.

After breakfast comes meal planning and grocery ordering which the first lady does herself.

Receives Many Request Letters

Correspondence is next on the program with complimentary letters acknowledged and all hobby requests possible complied with. Buttons, shirts, pitchers, are just a few of the items asked for by collectors.

Luncheon with mansion guests is an everyday occurrence; Mrs. O'Daniel never knows just how many guests there will be. After lunch the mansion is open to visitors until 5 p. m. and she tries to be on hand to greet the callers. There will be guests again for dinner, and callers will drop in from after-dinner until bed-time.

All of this is a daily schedule on normal days but add a few fittings for that white imported lace inaugural gown, over-seeing the plotting of that rose garden, attending opening messages to the legislature and you have the whirlwind days of Mrs. O'Daniel the past week.

She Has No Complaints

Is she complaining?

"I've never been happier in my life," she said. "With the people so strong behind the governor and his program, I'm satisfied." And her blue eyes gleam.

The children, Molly, Pat and Mike, are very happy in their life, too, Mrs. O'Daniel said. They are all studying at the University of Texas; Molly is majoring in journalism, Pat is taking business administration and Mike is pursuing the ambitious course of business and law. Mike is too young to be affected by the draft but Pat has already received his questionnaire. Both boys have joined the naval unit on the university campus.

Circle Meetings, Luncheon And Elections Are Held

Circle meeting day for church societies Monday afternoon was devoted to Bible and mission studies. Elections, book reviews and luncheons were held at several meetings.

Central Baptist Women's Missionary society met at the church. Mrs. W. L. Atkins gave the devotion and led the following songs, "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go," and "Footsteps of Jesus." Mrs. A. L. Bodenhamer led a prayer.

Rev. Jeff Welch, pastor, taught a lesson from the 18th, 19th and 20th chapters of Acts. Mrs. W. B. Lamb gave the closing prayer. Members packed a box of cookies for the orphanage at Waxahachie. Mesdames H. D. Bell and O. J. Aycock were new members present. Approximately 30 were present.

Luncheon Attended

Approximately 75 members of the First Christian Woman's council attended a luncheon meeting at the church, Mrs. D. R. Couch reviewed the autobiography of William Lyon Phelps and the essay on "Marriage" that he wrote.

Mrs. C. C. Lindsey sang "Love Everlasting" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Paul Morgan.

The table was centered with acacia in blue vases.

Rev. C. J. McCarty taught a lesson at a meeting of the Arnett-Benson Bible study at the home of Mrs. A. R. Pendley.

Those attending were Mesdames O. B. Pollard, C. A. Pendley, A. R. Pendley, C. O. White, O. C. Higgins, I. T. Weed, A. L. Scott, J. R. Scott, C. D. McSpadden, Bryan Landers, J. F. Eddleman, C. C. Chance and Charles W. Noble.

Members of the Nazarene W. F. M. S. met at the church with Mrs. T. J. Johnson, president, in charge. Mrs. R. E. Torrance gave the devotion. Mrs. F. E. Naylor led a prayer.

The lesson was taught by Mrs. John Carpenter. Thirteen members were present.

Committee Is Named

The First Presbyterian Training circle met with Mrs. A. C. McDavitt, 2110 Twenty-seventh street, with Mrs. R. C. Douglas, jr., as assistant hostess. The program topic was "What Are Our Greatest Foreign Mission Needs?" Mrs. O. A. Wooten was leader.

Mrs. C. B. Lawrence taught the Bible lesson. A nominating committee was appointed. The first of the circle year will be in April and officers will be elected before that time.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Earl Collins, Vergil Craig, E. F. Greve, C. L. Minyard, O. M. Stewart, C. C. Watson, Bruce Wooddell, Clarence Woods, Fred Youree, Dan Castles and H. W. Barrow.

"Our Heritage" was the subject of the circle meetings of the First Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service. They met as follows: Mexico: Mrs. Allen T. Stewart, hostess, Mrs. J. E. McCleary, devotion, Mrs. C. C. Chambers, study, 15 members present; Cuba: Mrs. Ewald Lamprecht, hostess, Mrs. Essie Brooks, devotion, Mrs. Jack Stone, study, 14 members and two guests and one new member, Mrs. O. L. Byrd, present; Alaska: Mrs. A. W. Evans and Mrs. Russell Schudel, co-hostesses, Mrs. J. D. Peters, devotion, Mrs. J. B. Boynton, study, talk, Mrs. W. C. Rylander, 18 members and four guests present; Japan: Mrs H. H. Holmes, hostess, Mrs. H. I. Robinson, devotion, Mrs. G. H. Ater, study, 22 members and one guest present; India: Mrs. George R. Bean and Mrs. E. F. Wilson, co-hostesses, Mrs. John A. Laney, devotion, Mrs. T. C. Root, study, 19 members and one guest, Mrs. W. B. Dickson of Mineola, present; Poland: Mrs. C. Y. Partain and Mrs. D. M Stalnaker, co-hostesses, devotion, Mrs. A. M. Dupree, 13 members present, study, Mrs. William G. Dingus. Korea: Mrs. W. D. Aycock, hostess, Mrs. C. M. Mitchell, co-hostess, Mrs. C. R. Hurmence, devotion, Mrs. L. G. West, lesson, 18 members and three new members present; Brazil: Mrs. J. R. Jameson, hostess, Mrs. Clarence Whiteside, devotion and and lesson, 13 members in attendance; Africa: Mrs. C. P. Carlock, hostess, Mrs. R. C. Marshall, devotion, Mrs. C. M. Young People Elect Three

At a meeting of the Hub-Lubbock union at First Methodist church Monday night three officers were elected and a talk was made on "The Brotherhood of Man" by Lyman McGehee. Seventy-five young people were present from First and Asbury Methodist churches and from Methodist churches in Post, Slaton and Wolfforth.

Otis Sims of Slaton presided for the election. Miss Helen Jo Hundley of Post was elected publicity superintendent, Miss Grace Halsell was elected chairman of worship and James Carter of Wolfforth was elected chairman of recreation.

Prior to the talk, Miss Twila Farrell led a worship devotional period and Douglas Hardy and Miss Virginia Belle Gamble offered an instrumental prelude.

Folk games were played and refreshments were served after the talk and business meeting.

Here Are Frocks Chosen For Inaugural Events

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (U.P.) — What the ladies are wearing to today's inauguration:

Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel — to the noontime inaugural ceremony, black suit, black hat, black shoes, black purse, white silk blouse, white gloves, silver fox fur. She will carry a bouquet of six dozen "better times" red roses.

To the inaugural ball tonight, she will wear a Jeanne Driscoll gown of hand-run imported white lace with decolletage and straps embroidered with seed pearls and rhinestones, and short-sleeved bolero edged in sable-dyed kolinsky.

Mrs. Coke R. Stevenson — to the inauguration, a black sheer dress and black coat with double fox furs and an arm bouquet of carnations. To the inaugural ball, tailored Liberty blue crepe gown trimmed in silver kid, orchid corsage.

Molly O'Daniel — to the inauguration, yellow and tan plaid suit, orchid corsage. To the ball, "heavenly blue" net gown with satin trim, white orchids.

Mrs. Berry Leaving For Eastern Conferences

Mrs. George Berry, 1620 Seventeenth street, is leaving tonight for Indianapolis, Ind., where she will attend a two-day conference of the national executive committee of the American Legion auxiliary called by the national president to begin Friday. From there she will go by special train to Washington, D. C., to attend a woman's conference on the national defense program. Before returning home, Mrs. Berry will attend a national rehabilitation conference sponsored by the American Legion. She is American Legion auxiliary committeewoman from Texas.

Free Forms Of Music To Be Studied By Club

A study on the free forms of music will be conducted and current musical events will be given at a meeting of the Allegro club Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Elliott Taylor, 2821 Twenty-third street. Miss Imogene Webster will be program leader.

Miss Webster is to play "B Flat Major Prelude" (Bach). Miss Christia Cowan is to sing "Blap Soir (Debussy) and "Were I A Gardner" (Shaminade). Records will be played to illustrate the different forms of the study. They will be "Pastoral Symphony" (Beethoven) and "Fantastic Symphony" (Berlios).

Legion Auxiliary Party Given On Monday Night

Mesdames Roy Watson, R. Q. Stubbs and A. B. Allen were hostesses for a social meeting of the American Legion auxiliary at the Legion hall Monday night. Games were played by Mesdames E. P. Norwood, Hugh Slagle, Tom Baber, George Brewer, Florence Hvass, Marvin McLarty and W. L. Daniel.

Installation Of New Officers Is Slated

Installation of new officers of Knights of Pythias lodge is slated for 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Bob Ingram will be chancellor commander, Ralph Brock vice chancellor, Acie Cope prelate, Ralph Thompson master of works, Russell Hardin keeper of records and seals, H. G. Brock master of finance, Elmo Payne master of exchequer, C. H. Tisdel master of arms, Robert Porter inner guard, C. O. Campbell outer guard and S. D. Buchanan trustee.

Houses Are Started On Slaughter Estate

Work has been started by George Gray, Lubbock lumberman, on 10 houses on farm units of the Col. C. C. Slaughter estate in Cochran county, according to announcement Monday. The Farm Security administration is cooperating in the project.

Two houses have been completed and approximately 31 more are to be built by Gray. A standard plan for a 4-room frame and stucco house has been devised. Cost of the house is expected to approximate slightly over $1,000.

Other improvements on the farms, each to have 320 acres, will include a water well, windmill, tower and overhead tank; a barn or garage and chicken houses. The farm units are all partly improved and in cultivation.

The tenant is securing a loan of from $1,800 to $2,000 from FSA, on a 5-year lease, renewable for another 5-year period. The land, approximately 14,000 acres, has been in cultivation for several years and tenants have been secured for the new program. Seaborn Collins of Morton, former FSA man at Lamesa and later manager of the Ropesville community project of FSA is manager for Mrs. Slaughter. The type of loan is said to be a new one for this section.

Tenants are to negotiate the loan. Under the agreement, tenants will be reimbursed for their expenditures for improvements, less an agreed rate for depreciation.

Savory Odor Of Texas' Favorite Dish Is Covering Austin; Tons Of Food Prepared

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Gentle breezes freighted the savory odor of Texas' favorite dish—barbecued meat—across the capital city last night.

Texans like barbecue and by golly they'll throw a real one today in honor of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, the one-time flour merchant who bowled over all his opponents and invited everybody to come down to Austin and see him at his second inauguration.

Menu Is Announced

The blowout is referred to as a luncheon on the official program.

Here's the menu:

5,000 pounds of meat (48,000 on the hoof, 24,000 dressed for cooking and 15,000 when sliced, the statisticians said).

1,300 pounds of onions.

1,300 pounds of pickles.

32,000 cups of coffee.

4,000 pounds of bread (if you want to make it sound big, suggested a committeeman, that's 72,000 slices).

1,000 pounds of potato chips.

6,000 lemons and 1,000 pounds of sugar for lemonade.

25,000 grapefruit (to be juiced and given away in containers to take home).

Oh, yes, there'll be a first aid tent nearby but the cooks aver there'll be no bicarbonate of soda needed.

Air Corps Quotas Received In City

Quotas were received at Lubbock army recruiting station Monday for air corps enlistments, according to Major Walter Jessee, district recruiting officer.

Men who apply must have a high school education, or its equivalent in a journeymen's rating in a mechanical trade.

First call was made for the new army air school at San Angelo, where there will be 53 vacancies to be filled. Twelve men are wanted for a recruiting detachment for the West Coast school, to be trained at Kelly field, San Antonio; 31 men for recruiting for Las Vegas, Nev., to be trained at Brooks field, San Antonio and 37 men for Mathis field, California, to be trained at Randolph Field, San Antonio.

Major C. S. Armes, Fort Sam Houston, in charge of recruiting for the eighth corps area, announced the quotas for the district.

High Dokey Official Is Invited To City

Several telegrams will be sent from Lubbock this afternoon and Wednesday in support of one sent by Dr. G. H. Ater, grand prelate of the grand lodge of Texas, Knights of Pythias, asking Thos. E. Payne, imperial prince of the Dokey order, to visit in Lubbock.

The imperial prince, a doctor of Roanoke, Va., will speak April 2 before a Fort Worth gathering of the Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, and two nights later will make an address in El Paso. At that time he and several other imperial officials will be en route to the west coast.

Because of the imperial prince's necessity for traveling relatively close to Lubbock en route to El Paso it was deemed possible he might stop for an official visitation at Boabdil temple No. 185 of the Dokey order here, said Emmett Kerr, soon to be installed as royal vizier of the Lubbock temple, and Royal Furgeson, outgoing royal vizier.

Several business men will be asked to complement the number of lodge-inspired invitations with their own, temple officials said.

Liechtenstein is a 64-square-mile principality between Germany and Switzerland.

Play Is Presented Here Last Night

R. B. Parkinson and Mrs. Jesse Q. Sealey had leading roles in "Cornfed Babies," a play presented Monday night in Seaman hall before 40 Workshop theater members.

Other members of the cast were Kathleen Dickey, Wilda Stewart and L. E. White. Mrs. Grace White directed. Properties were handled by Mrs. H. T. Johnson and makeup by Mrs. Sealey.

Selection of plays for future use of members of the group was discussed. Alton Taylor presided.

News Briefs

Appointment Deferred — Successor to Edward Kidd, editor who resigned from the Toreador because of ill health, was postponed Monday at Texas Technological college until a called meeting is conducted the first week in February.

Bail Posted — One thousand dollar bail in each of two indictment charges was posted Monday by G. W. Brunson, jr. One charge was of theft, the other of receiving and concealing of stolen property.

Hankins In Pen — Serving of a two-year sentence for assault with intent to rape has begun for Jack Hankins, Lubbock youth, court records show. A family member transferred him to Huntsville. A rape complaint recently was filed against young Hankins in a nearby county. No public announcements have been made as to what the state intends to do about it.

Daughter Is Born — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Russell of Meadow, route 1, are parents of a daughter weighing 6 pounds, 14 ounces born Monday afternoon at 4:35 o'clock in St. Mary's hospital. Her father is a farmer.

Birth Is Announced — Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Woodruff, Lubbock, route 2, announce the birth of a daughter weighing 9 pounds, 1 ounce in the home Monday afternoon at 1:50 o'clock. She has been named Mary Alice. Her father is a farmer.

The sounds made by grasshoppers and crickets serve mainly to bring Mr. and Mrs. together.

Club Contest Ends In Tie

A short story contest sponsored by Twentieth Century club in Lubbock intermediate grades resulted in a tie for first place, Mrs. R. A. Studhalter, contest chairman, announced this morning. The stories were "A Good Wish," written by Gustine McDaniel, a fifth grade student at Sanders school and "The Peddler and His Pack," written by Marjorie Alice Cone, a fourth grade pupil at K. Carter school.

Copies of "Daniel Boone," by Dougherty, the 1940 Newbury medal book, will be given to room 217 at Sanders and room 5 at K. Carter which submitted the winning entries.

Three other stories rated among the first five of the 17 stories entered. These were given honorable mention as follows:

"Stuffy's Mistake," by Jerry Thrush, Central Ward sixth grade student; "The Neighborhood Gang Busters," by Marian Woods, sixth grade pupil at Dupre school and "The Haunted House," by Paul Laverty, Dupre fifth grade pupil.

Tech Professor Speaks On World Situation

An address on "The Major Powers," in which he discussed the present world situation, was presented by Dr. O. A. Kinchen at a meeting of the Lubbock chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Monday night in the Aztec room at Hilton hotel.

Dr. Kinchen, professor of history at Texas Technological college, said it no longer is a question of "when" this country will get into the war, because the United States already is in the war although it remains to be seen whether it will furnish men.

He expressed the opinion that England would not be defeated.

Dr. Kinchen was introduced by Mrs. Weldon George, chapter president. Others attending were Misses Elsie Reinken, Lalla D'Spain, Helen Brown, Mary Ruth Newgent, Lois Alexander, Louise Douglas and Pauline Turlington, Mesdames B. L. Manire, R. L. Edwards, and Verlon Bigham, members; Misses Emma Jean Douglas, Gladys Heaton, Virginia Hammer and Mary Jane Doyle and Mesdames Marylee Koonce and E. I. Brown, guests.

Master Degrees Are Given To Masons

SHALLOWATER, Jan. 21 (Special)—Earl Merrell and Garnett Blackmon received master Mason degrees at a meeting of Shallowater Masonic lodge Monday night.

Yellowhouse lodge 841 of Lubbock conferred the degree on Merrell and Lorenzo lodge on Blackmon. E. S. Randerson of Floydada and L. W. Dalby of Post participated in the ceremonies.

Approximately 65 persons, including 20 from Lubbock, attended. Eight lodges were represented.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Halsey, 2308 Seventeenth street, are in Austin to attend the inaugural ceremonies. Their son, Hop Halsey, is representative from the 119th district.

Mrs. Alden Rogers and two children of Amarillo are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Glover, 1308 Thirteenth street.

Colds Have Launched A "BLITZKRIEG"!!
Watch Out For Your Family!
NOW with epidemic colds spreading their misery—be careful, be as careful as you can. Do everything possible to help safeguard your family against the "blitzkrieg". There are certain time-tested precautions you can take that may save you and yours a great deal of sickness, worry and expense.
First of all, get plenty of rest, good sound sleep. Eat simple but nourishing food—vegetables and fresh fruits if available. Drink plenty of water and keep elimination regular. Take some exercise every day—preferably outdoors in clean, fresh air. Then let trustworthy Vicks help you.
Use These Two Time-Tested Treatments Whenever Needed
To Help Prevent Many Colds from Developing

At the first sniffle, sneeze or sign of nasal irritation—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing. Because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help your natural defenses against colds in the nose and upper throat where most colds start.
NOTE: If by chance you have a head cold, a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up both sides of the nose should quickly relieve misery. It helps soothe irritation, shrink swollen membranes and clear out mucus-clogged nasal passages. As a result it makes breathing freer and easier and brings you comfort.
TIME-TESTED VICKS VA-TRO-NOL
To Quickly Relieve Miseries of Developed Colds

When a cold gets by all precautions and causes muscular soreness or tightness, spells of coughing or irritation in the upper bronchial tubes, relieve such misery the improved Vicks way—with a 3-minute VapoRub Massage.
Massage VapoRub for 3 minutes on IMPORTANT RIB-AREA OF BACK as well as throat and chest. Spread a thick layer over chest and cover up. This more thorough treatment actually increases the important STIMULATING-POULTICE action and PENETRATING-VAPOR action of VapoRub. And makes this famous old family standby work faster and longer to relieve distress of colds.
TIME-TESTED VICKS VAPORUB
REMEMBER THIS . . . Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been thoroughly tested through years of constant use in millions of homes. If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family physician right away.

Washington Turns From Inauguration To Fulfill Defense Program

Little Time Is Lost On Plans

BY THEODORE F. KOOP
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—From the excitement, the solemnity and the martial sweep of the inauguration, Washington resolutely turned today to the pressing problem of fulfilling President Roosevelt's third-term pledge—"to protect and perpetuate the integrity of democracy."

Even before the gala inaugural trappings were removed from the capitol, the White House and Pennsylvania avenue, congressmen resumed their vehement debate over the administration's aid-to-Britain bill and its proposed emergency powers for the chief executive.

War Might Paraded

The lawmakers of a free democracy were getting back to their serious task without delay.

For a day the argument had been stilled by the mighty yet simple spectacle that took place in the winter sunlight on Capitol Hill as Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace took their oaths of office as the chosen leaders of 130,000,000 Americans.

A chilled, windswept audience—Democrats and Republicans alike—burst into cheers when the president confidently asserted that "democracy is not dying." And the cheers found echoes an hour later in the rolling acclaim for the country's newest martial men—the smart, grey-clad cadets from West Point, the trim ranks of Annapolis midshipmen in navy blue, and then a detachment of the nation's first selectees—a proud phalanx of khaki with serried bayonets gleaming in the afternoon air.

Armored Divisions Roll By

Mr. Roosevelt's eyes flashed as these young Americans, swept briskly by his reviewing stand at the White House, marching ahead of crack detachments of steel-helmeted soldiers, bluejackets and "devil dog" marines.

The climax of the swiftly moving military display came with the armored elite of the nation's expanding land forces.

They rumbled along Pennsylvania avenue in businesslike array—row after row of speedy tanks, combat vehicles and other mechanized field equipment. Scout cars bristling with machine guns scooted down the route, and motorcycle troops kept pace. Then the artillery, the caissons rolling along behind prime mover trucks.

Planes Give Show

Overhead, silhouetted sharply against a clear blue sky, giant bombers maneuvered with a distant rumbling roar that mingled with the music of parading bands below. Speedy pursuit planes darted back and forth in perfect formation, their wings catching the glint of the bright sunshine.

Mr. Roosevelt's voice was firm as he followed Chief Justice Hughes in affirming the oath of office. His head was held high, his hand was on a family Bible opened to the line ". . . and the greatest of these is charity."

Thousands Jam White House

No less solemn were the moments just before when John N. Garner, as his final act in 38 years of Washington public life, swore in Henry A. Wallace to succeed him. A smile wreathed Garner's face and spread almost to his bushy white eyebrows as he put away his horn-rimmed glasses and gave Wallace a fatherly handclasp. His duty was done.

Following the half-hour ceremony, the president and his official party sped back to the White House through the cheering hundreds of thousands who lined the route.

Five thousand came to tea after the parade, jamming every cranny of the famous east room and the other state chambers.

The president soon went upstairs, however, to return to his official duties which have kept White House lights burning late ever since the European war began.

And in the evening, former Vice President Garner left the capital for Texas with less fuss than many of the thousands of homeward-bound sightseers.

The New York City postoffice's normal stock includes 628,000,000 stamps of 32 denominations, ranging in value from one-half cent to $5.

Questionnaires Are Mailed On Monday

Questionnaires were mailed Monday to 50 additional selective service registrants with Lubbock county draft board No. 2, according to Douglas Pounds, board chairman. They are addressed to those with order numbers 931 to 980, inclusive.

Scheduled to receive questionnaires are Roy Malvin Williams, Marvin Carl Shriver, Carl Festus Montgomery, Ocran Rudolph Bownds, Marvin Kenneth Eller, Cecil Doyle Cooley, James Leroy Welburn, Alvin Theron Dearing, William Omer Winford, Corace Algeon Jimmerson, Charles Newton White, Noble Paul Simpson, Jimmie Hawkins, Almo Jerome Sedberry.

Crone, Elbert Glenn McGee, Frank Hickson, jr., Hughey Rush, Oliver Walker, Weldon Welch Davis, Frank Warren Luther, John Chilton Newton, Kenneth Frank Lofland, Wilbur Lindsey Jones, jr., Samuel Edward Counts, Ashford Rankin, Winford Olvis Murray, Thomas Payne Harris, Morris Theodore Meador, O. T. Arthur.

Sidney Kring To Be Speaker At Matador

MATADOR, Jan. 21. (Special)—Principal speaker at the fourth annual father-son banquet in the Baptist church here the night of Feb. 11 will be Sidney Kring, manager of Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, members of the program committee announced Monday.

Program outlines include music by Hop Halsey and his Drug Store Cowboys, popular radio entertainers from Lubbock, with a master of ceremonies to be selected from the Matador Boy Scout Troop 60, since the banquet is in honor of National Scout Week, February 8 to 14.

Father-Son banquets in Matador have attracted the attention of youth leaders elsewhere because of the large attendance at the three previous meetings. The age limit for boys to be entertained was set this year to start at 9 years and include all in high school. The restriction was set to prevent a larger audience than it would be possible to accommodate.

Lion Henry Pipkin of the Matador club will cook the chuck-wagon feed for the boys and their escorts.

Peru will spend over $3,000,000 in reconstructing the earthquake area.

Shipp Services Are Read In City Today

Plainview Tournament Opens Tonight; District Golden Gloves Meet Near

Henry Frnka Boomed As Likely Choice At Tulsa

Big Two-Night Event Starts At 8 O'clock

(Special To The Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 21—Send-off bouts for 1941 Golden Gloves festivities in the South Plains area will be staged here tonight, with the opening of a two-night session of the Plainview "preliminary" tournament, first of several to be conducted over the territory during the next two weeks.

Bouts will begin at 8 o'clock tonight and again Wednesday night in the City auditorium here.

Winners of the meet, sponsored by the Plainview Herald under the direction of Jack Woodward and J. D. Spann, will receive expense-paid trips to Lubbock to participate in the Avalanche-Journal District Golden Gloves tournament February 6, 7 and 8.

Defeated candidates in the Plainview meet are also eligible to enter the Lubbock tournament, since defeat in any of the preliminary tournaments does not bar a boxer from the district meet. As a matter of fact, in previous years many boxers have lost in warm-up tourneys and then won in the district meet.

Wide Area Represented

Competition will be conducted in two divisions, one for candidates for the District tournament, the other for novices who will fight only for experience. This plan is being followed in several of the preliminary and district tournaments over the state.

Boxers from a wide area are entered in the meet here. Besides those from Plainview, boys from Littlefield, Levelland, Flomot, Hale Center, Turkey, Quitaque, Silverton, Tulia, Kress, Floydada and Lockney have indicated they will participate.

Warning That Little Time Remains Made

The preliminary battling starts tonight at Plainview, and it is only slightly more than two weeks until the Avalanche-Journal District Golden Gloves tournament.

Early entries have been sufficient to warrant announcement that the District tourney will be a three-night affair; it seems likely that more than a hundred fighters will be around when the first gong rings. Site for the tournament is to be announced shortly and tickets placed on sale.

But still attendance of fighters at the "downtown gymnasium" for training sessions has been disappointing. The gymnasium will remain open each night, and Sunday afternoons, for the benefit of boys wishing to get in some special exercises and learn some particular pointers as taught by "experts."

Hunt Wants More Pupils

Babe Hunt, the state heavyweight professional champion, has been faithful in attending the workouts every night and "giving out" with his store of ring knowledge. He is depressed by the fact that not so many boys are taking advantage of the gymnasium, which is outfitted with a regular ring, punching bags, skipping ropes, training gloves, etc., and urges that more of them report to the gym, located at 1014 Broadway in the former Sherrod Hardware company store. It is open each evening from 7 to 9, and on Sunday afternoons from 3 to 5.

The facilities and instruction are free to all boys, regardless whether they live in Lubbock. Out of town boxers are invited to come in any night of the week and work out among themselves or with local boys.

Much interest is being built up in the welterweight division, usually one of the toughest groups of fighters in the tournament.

Trophies Have Arrived

Holdover welterweights from previous tournaments are being challenged by last year's lightweights who have "grown up." In the latter class are Junior McLaurin of O'Donnell, TAAF champion; Dale Odam and Jack Lovin of Lubbock, who'll be along to challenge Howell Steen for his district welterweight championship.

First place trophies, tall ivory-based, gold-finished trophies, and second place awards, gold-finished miniature gloves, have arrived and will be on display at the gymnasium today. In addition to the trophies, first place winners will receive new and uniform boxing trunks which they will wear at the State Golden Gloves tournament in Fort Worth starting February 13.

Entries will be received up to 2 o'clock on the day of February 6, but fighters planning to enter the District tournament are urged to fill out an entry blank and return it to Golden Gloves Editor, Avalanche-Journal, as soon as possible.

Tickets for the District tournament will be placed on sale at two or three downtown agencies within the next few days.

The United States in an average year produces about twice as much steel as any other nation.

Tulsa's New Head Coach?

Houston Gets Grid School

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 21—Houston will entertain the annual coaching school of the Texas High School Football Coaches association for the second time in three years.

Ted Le Jefferies, president of the association, announced here last night the school would be held at Rice institute Aug. 4 to 9.

It will be the ninth annual clinic and Clark Shaughnessy, coach of the Stanford Rose Bowl champions, and Jess Neely of Rice will be co-instructors. Frank Leahy, whose Boston college team won the Sugar Bowl title, will tutor line play.

Facilities Said Suitable

The school, which attracts from 300 to 500 coaches each year and is known as the nation's largest football clinic, was inaugurated at San Antonio in 1933. It was held there again in 1934, then went to Dallas in 1935, Fort Worth in 1936, Waco in 1937, Lubbock in 1938, Houston in 1939 and Austin in 1940.

The largest crowd ever to see an all-star game — an annual feature of the school — was at Houston in 1939. This, coupled with the well-arranged athletic plant with regard to the school's needs, were major points in sending the clinic to Houston this year.

Ladies Plan Weekly Meeting Wednesday

A business session to "discuss matters of unusual interest" will highlight "ladies day" for Lubbock Country club women Wednesday. The business meeting will follow luncheon, to be served in the Hilton hotel at noon.

Pairings for golf matches in the afternoon will be made at the luncheon, and the hostess for the day will announce the event.

McNEILL, KOVACS PLAY

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP) — Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Frankie Kovacs of San Francisco meet today in the finals of the Florida State tennis tournament.

McNeill reached the top bracket by toppling Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 10-8, 6-3, 6-3, while Kovacs advanced by defeating Jack Kramer, Rollins College student, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21 — Henry Frnka, the Texan now at Temple, was considered the leading candidate today for head football coach at Tulsa university, which won a title and ousted a mentor last season.

While some reports went so far as to assert that the university and Frnka had come to terms, officials of the school's athletic committee declared "no contract has been signed."

Said Invited To Tulsa

Frnka, whose work with the Greenville (Texas) High school brought him into coaching prominence and to the attention of Ray Morrison, head coach at Temple university, was in town but he dismissed questions with a smiling "nothing to say."

Members of the athletic committee said that the Temple backfield coach was invited here to discuss the job which Chet Benefiel vacated under pressure at the end of the season after his Golden Hurricane had annexed the Missouri valley conference championship.

More Than 50 Apply

While more than 50 coaches had applied for the job, the field was reported to have been narrowed sharply during the past week.

University officials have conferred with Spot Drew, end coach at Alabama; Dixie Howell of Arizona State Teachers college, and Pete Cawthon of Lubbock, who recently resigned as head coach at Texas Tech.

"Frnka had lunch with some school officials yesterday and will meet more of them today," one athletic committee member said. "It could be that he won't even be given the job."

Played Under Cawthon

It was strongly indicated, however, that a new coach would be named officially by Saturday.

Frnka, who played at Austin college of Texas under Cawthon, has been an assistant to Morrison for the past five seasons, the first four of them at Vanderbilt.

At Philadelphia, graduate manager of athletics Earl R. Yoemans of Temple said that while Frnka "has served only one year of a five-year contract with us" that "if he gets a chance to be head coach, we will not stand in his way."

Paychek Says He's To Quit The Ring

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP) — Johnny Paychek of Des Moines, one of many heavyweights to feel the full power of Joe Louis' fists, announced today that he was through with the ring.

This statement came after Paychek essayed a comeback following his match with Louis in New York last March. Louis knocked him out in the second round.

Last night he was defeated by a Chicago negro, Selman Martin.

BOXING—Golden Glove hopefuls will be swinging a lot of leather up at Plainview tonight and tomorrow night in a two-show warm-up for the big Lubbock District tournament Feb. 6, 7 and 8 . . . Jack Woodward of the Plainview Herald is putting on the show, with J. D. Spann operating as his righthand man. . . . They've attracted some fine talent and have lined up a couple of good cards . . . Winner of each of the eight weight divisions will receive as prize an expense-paid trip, or trips, to the District tournament here . . . But any others competing in the Plainview tournament are eligible to fight in the District tournament.

BASEBALL—It is reported by Billy Webb, overseer of the White Sox farms, that the Lubbock playing roster should be ready for release early next month . . . Billy seems to be quite pleased with the 1941 prospects, foresees a fine year for the minor leagues, and particularly for the White Sox system . . . Sled Allen, new business manager for Bob Seeds' Amarillo Gold Sox, is seeking interviews with young men with baseball ambitions, and hopes to line up some "local talent" to take up to Amarillo . . . Sled and Seeds are now in Hot Springs, N. M., getting a spring training camp fixed up for the Gold Sox . . . Sled, however, will take a "leave of absence" for the next few weeks to help us with the Golden Gloves tournament. . . .

COACHES — Herman Clark, a large blond Dutchman who used to play a heap of fine football for the Texas Christian Frogs and who since has been doing a swell job of coaching the North Side High School Steers of Fort Worth, is another of the "outspoken" candidates for the Texas Tech job . . Herman was here over the weekend, talking with athletic council members, the president of the college, and a number of close friends, and he made no bones about wanting the job . . . The big, pleasant-faced Clark, against whose teams the Lubbock Westerners have fought and bled and darn near died for several seasons, had not a lot of time to spend here and was so busy with more important interviews that we had little occasion to converse with him, but he came armed with some of the chief requisites demanded by the college when it selects a new coach. . . . Herman is on friendly terms with coaches of the Southwest conference, has, indeed, supplied several of them with some fine material—and he's popular with all his high school contemporaries, popular with his players, and certainly a good coach, extremely interested in getting ahead in his profession . . . Sports writers like him fine, and we're sure he wouldn't be hard to get along with. . . .

COACHES — Pete Cawthon came back from his Eastern jaunt with a wide grin, and a lot of pep . . . And we know it was a hard thing for him to refrain from telling the boys up at the Touchdown Club meeting last night all about it . . . As you've read before, he's deeply interested in the proposition made by the Philadelphia Eagles of the pro league, and from what he told us yesterday, that's where he'll probably be coaching football next fall . . . But Owners Bell and Rooney ("both mighty swell fellows, and I'm sure I'd enjoy working with them") have given him plenty of time to make up his mind and consider other propositions . . . SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 21 —About once in two or three basketball generations there appears a real hero of the hardwood—a fellow like Stanford's Hank Luisetti or Pittsburgh's Chuck Hyatt, whose fame spreads outside his own territory.

Fans in this district offer as one of this select group Bob Davies, a speedy and tricky forward from Seton Hall college.

Davies admittedly has plenty of competition throughout the country. There are such players as Dartmouth's Gus Broberg, "Sutz" Modzelewski of Rhode Island State, the "perfect shot" of a team that does little else and the best bet to beat Luisetti's all-time scoring record: Hoard (Rope) Engleman of Kansas, so nicknamed because he handles the ball as if there were a string tied to it; George Glamack of North Carolina, who led the Southern conference scorers last season although he has to shoot by "feel" because he can't see the basket without his glasses; Bob Gerber of Toledo, "Bat 'Em" Kinney of Rice and plenty of others.

But Honey Russell, the old-time pro court star who coaches Seton Hall, and the fans hereabouts can't see anyone except Davies. He's not exceptionally big, only 6 feet 1 1-2 inches tall and weighing 170, but he's speedy and agile.

Reds On Spot In Chase For Third In Row

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—It's generally not very healthy for a National league club to win the world's title. They get knocked off fast in their own circuit the next season. You have to go all the way back to McGraw's Giants of 1922 to find a National league world champion that was good enough to win the flag in its own loop the following year.

But the Cincinnati Reds have high designs on winning their third straight pennant in 1941 despite the fact that they'll have to lug along their world's championship crown as excess baggage. Most championship clubs blow their titles because of over-confidence, old age or injuries and other mishaps.

Reds Not Old

If there are any ball players on the Reds who are going to try to ride on their past laurels and take it easy in 1941, they'll be going elsewhere quick. Bill McKechnie won't tolerate a lazy, indifferent ball player, not even if he has to play an inferior hustler instead. The Reds aren't old men yet. Only five men on the club are past 32, and only two of these are indispensables—Paul Derringer, who's 34, and Ernie Lombardi, who's 32. The others are Jim Turner, 36, and Tot Pressnell and Floyd Young, each 33.

Injuries and mishaps are the unknown quantity. They can knock out any ball club as they did the Tigers in 1936.

Pitching, Defense Superb

So the Reds go to the post in excellent shape to become the first three-time pennant winner in the National league since the Giants of 1921-22-23-24. The Reds' strength lies in their superb pitching and magnificent defense. They set a National league fielding mark last season with an average of .981, making only 117 errors (a new low).

Their first line pitchers should continue to function successfully with Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters, and Gene Thompson, who knocked down 58 victories last season, leading the way. Behind them McKechnie has Jim Turner, Joe Beggs, Whitey Moore, Johnny Vander Meer, Elmer Riddle, John Hutching and Witt Guise from last year's staff. Vander Meer appears to be on the way back. Riddle and Hutching have been brought along slowly and either may be ripe. Beggs is the league's top relief man.

Additions Promising

The Reds have made only three additions to their pitching staff but any or all of them may give valuable service. They are Monte Pearson, bought from the Yanks for $20,000 and a ball player, Tot Press-

Pro Football Movie Is Presented Here

Pete Cawthon, recently resigned head coach at Texas Tech who returned Sunday from Chicago after attending the annual winter meeting of the National professional football league, presented sound motion pictures of professional football teams and games to a capacity "Touchdown Club" crowd in the Lubbock hotel last night.

Makes No Address

The pictures were taken from professional football's official 1938 film, "As The Pros Play It," and showed parts of several important games of that season, as well as close-ups and slow-motion shots of teams at practice. The Green Bay Packers, Philadelphia Eagles, New York Giants, Detroit Lions, Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers, and their outstanding performers, were shown in action.

Contrary to tentative announcement and expectation, Coach Cawthon limited his talk to discussing the film, and did not mention his plans. He was given a loud ovation by the assembled men, who were hopeful that Cawthon would discuss his trip to Philadelphia, where he is known to be a leading candidate for the Philadelphia Eagle coaching position, and to Chicago and other points.

Cawthon said he would make an effort to get the official 1940 professional football movie and present it here within a few weeks.

Rice Measures TCU, To Play SMU Tonight

(By The United Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21 — The Rice basketball squad headed for Dallas today after big Bill Tom Closs and super-stylist Frankie Carswell paced the Owls to a 61-43 "breather" triumph over T. C. U. last night.

Rice plays S. M. U. in Dallas tonight.

Owls Never Behind

Carswell and Closs, aided by "Bat 'Em" Bob Kinney put on a superb shooting exhibition for the hapless followers of the Frog basketball misfortunes. Closs pieced together six field goals and five free throws for 17 points; Carswell sunk seven goals and one free throw for 15; and Kinney added five goals and four free throws.

These three were the whole show. Rice never was behind nor ever headed. The score at the half found the Owls leading 31-21.

Feller In Cleveland To Sign Dotted Line

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21 (AP) — Bob Feller paid Cleveland a one-day visit today to sign his 1941 contract with the Cleveland Indians at a salary expected by everyone to be about $30,000, making him the highest-paid pitcher in the history of baseball.

Feller came in by airplane early this morning and expected to return to his Van Meter, Ia., home after this afternoon's dotted lined formalities.

Official Japanese Spokesman Blasts Uncle Sam As Major Enemy

War Dangers Are Related

(By The United Press)

TOKYO, Jan. 21.—Foreign Minister Matsuoka, outlining foreign policy to parliament, spoke frankly today of the danger of war with the United States, emphasized Japan's unity with Germany and Italy, expressed hope for an Italian victory over Britain and Greece and made a bid for Russian friendship.

The United States, Matsuoka said, had shown no adequate understanding of the vital importance to Japan of its greater Asia "common prosperity sphere."

Too Much Territory

"She apparently entertains the idea that her own first line of defense lies along the mid-Atlantic to the east but that to the west it lies not only along the eastern Pacific but even as far as China and the South seas . . . I for one believe that such a position assumed on the part of the United States would not be calculated to contribute toward the promotion of world peace.

"It is my earnest hope that that great nation, exerting the influence that the United States legitimately enjoys, will realize her hope for the maintenance of peace, will reflect deeply on her attitude with God fearing duty . . . and will bend her utmost efforts to allay the impending crisis of civilization."

Pressure Being Applied

Matsuoka said that aside from China and Manchukuo, Japan did its principal trading with the United States and Britain, but that America had put embargoes on article after article and Britain had persistently interfered with Japan's shipping.

As the result, he said, Japan "must go farward with perfecting herself as a state highly organized for national defense, not only in order to meet this pressure but also to secure her economic life on a basis of self supply and self sufficiency within the region of greater East Asia."

This was interpreted by some to mean that increased pressure by America and Britain would not slow Japan's policy of expansion but speed it.

British Are Advised To Get Out Of Japan

TOKYO, Jan. 21 (AP) — The British consul at Yokohama was reported today to have sent letters advising some British citizens in his district to leave Japan "before the impending crisis in American-Japanese relations comes to a head."

Letters were said to have been sent to a selected list of 30 British — presumably those with substantial property holdings.

British at Tokyo, Kobe, and other cities in Japan were said not to have received any such letters.

Those at Yokohama were reported to have been advised to depart by "the regular shipping routes," if they had no "important reason for remaining in Japan."

Bids On City Bonds May Be Called Soon

Resolution calling for bids on the $250,000 in city bonds approved at an election last week probably will be presented to the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon, officials at the city hall said this morning.

Basis of the bidding will be the interest rate the purchaser would require the city to pay. The rate cannot exceed 3 per cent and members of the commission expect it to be substantially below that figure.

Announced plan of members of the commission is to issue them as five-year serial bonds with the city retaining the option to call them after three years.

Of the bonds, $175,000 are for a new engine for the electric department and $75,000 for the water department.

Stangel Is Invited To Judge At Shows

Invitations to judge calves at a series of livestock shows have been received by W. L. Stangel, head professor of animal husbandry at Texas Technological college.

Stangel has been invited to judge at the South-West Texas Boys Fat Stock show in San Antonio Feb. 19; Taylor County 4-H and Vocational Agriculture show at Abilene, Feb. 25; 4-H and FFA show at Garden City, Feb. 26; San Angelo Fat Stock show and rodeo, Feb. 28; and Sand Hills Hereford show at Odessa, March 28. He also has been invited to judge Sept. 12 at the Los Angeles County Livestock show at Pomona.

He will serve as superintendent of the Aberdeen-Angus department at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show at Fort Worth, March 7-16. Stangel has been an official at the Fort Worth show since 1922.

Cases Dismissed In County Court Here

Two cases, those charging J. L. Pate with swindling by worthless check, and W. M. Stevens with vagrancy, were dismissed in judgments filed late Monday in the county court of Judge G. V. Pardue, one of them because of a recommendation of the complaining witness and the other because of a defective complaint.

Five defendants who appeared before Judge Pardue Monday received total assessments of $57 in fines and approximately 159 days in jail. In addition, one of the defendants paid his court costs of $22.75, to avoid going to jail.

Two cases were expected to be tried this afternoon.

Stock Market

RALLY FADES

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — An early stock market rally, touched off by renewed strength in rails, faded in the latter part of today's proceedings and gains running to a point or more were substantially reduced or transformed into losses of a smuch.

Motors, lower throughout, weakened quickly and steels, trailing with the carriers in the morning, soon slipped into the minus column.

Transfers were around 600,000 shares compared with yesterday's turnover of 377,000, smallest since Oct. 21.

Among shaky stocks were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Westinghouse, Dupont, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Texas Corp., International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Goodyear, Western Union and Montgomery Ward.

Up the greater part of the day were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Union Pacific, U. S. Rubber preferred and Armour preferred.

Bonds were fairly steady, with rails and utilities doing better than other loans. Commodities were irregularly lower.

gloom.

Captain Las Lunde of the North Star said the five told him that had they been able to attract the attention of one of these other craft, many more of the crew might have been saved.

The survivors said that the O'Hara, laden with its fare of fish and still further borne down with a heavy sheathing of ice in the 12-degree temperature, sank within five minutes as the crew—unable to launch the heavily iced dories—strove desperately to run their vessel aground.

Captain Lunde found five feet of the foremast and 12 feet of the mainmast of the O'Hara above the water near Finn's ledge and guided the bow of his beam trawler so close that he was able to remove four of those clinging to the rigging.

Unable To Move

The fifth, Cecil Crowell of Shelburne county Nova Scotia, was helpless and unable to move from his perch, so a dory was put overside and three members of the North Star's crew rescued him.

The other survivors were Cecil Larkin, 38, Stanley Conrad, 54, Frank Silva, 59, and Gabriel Welch, all of Boston.

Last of those to fall from the rigging into the sea, the rescued men said, was their skipper, Captain Fred Wilson of Boston.

Crowell was so seriously affected that he had to be carried from the North Star in a stretcher into a waiting city hospital ambulance. But the other four, given first aid and stimulants by the crew of the North Star, had sufficiently recovered to climb up the ladder to the wharf, unassisted.

The disaster was the worst in the history of the New England fishing fleet since the Gloucester schooner Columbia, once queen of the North Atlantic fisheries, went down with 24 men in a furious storm on the Grand Banks in 1927.

If sunshine falls on one side of a plant, that side will grow more slowly than the non-illuminated side, causing the plant to bend gradually upward toward the light.

"Pot Luck Supper" Planned By Club

Decision to sponsor the annual "pot luck supper" for Lubbock Boy Scouts and their parents and friends again this year was made by the Lubbock Optimist club at its luncheon today in Lubbock hotel.

The supper will be held Feb. 10 or 11, with the club furnishing the program, meeting place and tables and the Scouts, their relatives and friends bringing the food. Dr. A. W. Young, president, appointed Don Reeder chairman of the general arrangements committee; W. C. Boyd, chairman of the food committee and C. E. Friley, chairman of the program committee.

lomatic passports

Contingents of the German army were reported continuing to enter Rumania over Hungarian railways.

The official German news agency reported today in a dispatch to Berlin from Bucharest that Gen. George Petroviecescu had resigned as Rumanian minister of the interior and would be succeeded by Gen. Demeter Popesco, military commander of Bucharest.

There was no indication whether this change was linked with the reported Bucharest outbreaks.

The agency confirmed a report reaching Yugoslavia yesterday that a major of the German general staff had been shot to death at the door of a Bucharest hotel, and said the Rumanian government had started an investigation and ordered that sternest measures be taken.

Draftees Here For Induction

Today was expected to be one of the busiest days for the induction of Northwest Texas draftees into the United States military service, as practically two full day contingents were to be sworn into service.

Forty-three men out of 52 who reported Monday afternoon and night, were given the oath and were to leave for El Paso on the Santa Fe at 1:30 o'clock. Remainder of the 52 were either rejected or were being held for further examination and checking.

48 Arrive Today

Forty-eight men from six counties, scheduled to arrive today, came before noon, an unusual event. Previously a large number had arrived in the afternoon.

Monday's schedule included 22 men from Hale county, 23 from Lamb, five from Motley and two from Potter, replacements, to make up a shortage.

Tuesday's schedule included Cochran, six; Cottle, eight; Floyd, 11; Hockley, 19; Kent, three and King, one, total 48.

Lubbock county men will report Wednesday and Thursday.

Corporal Harry Winterroth was to accompany the Tuesday contingent to Fort Bliss. The party will arrive there Wednesday morning.

tradition. He simply said:

"God bless you."

That was all. And a moment later a train sped away into the night carrying Private Citizen Garner back to Uvalde to see that "there is plenty of grass and flowers and swings for the children" who live in the houses that Cactus Jack built.

There, after a week of "personal isolation," Garner will emerge from his self-imposed coventry to hunt and fish with his Texas cronies; to feed his bantam chickens.

Maybe, as he roams the Texas plains, he'll think of all the things that happened in the past 43 years which carried him from the Texas legislature to the second highest office in the land. But there'll be no written memories. Cactus Jack said so himself.

Maybe what he'll remember most though, is that last day in Washington.

It was "sad to leave old friends," he said. But there was a sort of happy ending, because at the last moment there was a warm handshake from the man whose third-term Garner had sacrificed his political career to prevent — the "boss" — President Roosevelt.

Four-Seamen

sub popped up between the two lifeboats and the crew came on deck. The captain shouted: 'Where eez ze captain?' We told him to go to hell, that our captain went down with the ship. Then they went below and closed the hatch and submerged."

The Carleton crew had taken off in two lifeboats—18 men commanded by Capt. Learmont in one boat, which never has been reported, and 16 men in the other boat, commanded by the first officer, George Robinson, one of the survivors.

Nightfall and the heaving ocean separated the boats in a few hours.

The rations were set—two sea biscuits and a pint of water per man per day. The lifeboat was headed for Ireland and the men tugged at the oars throughout the afternoon of Dec. 20. But that night all but two oars were lost, along with the sea anchor.

The next day it turned colder. On the 22nd heavy seas began breaking over the boat and all hands were put to bailing. The next day, or the 24th—Pearson wasn't sure—the cook and two 16-year-old hands began to weaken. The youths, Arthur Clark, cabin boy, and Tommy George, mess boy, cried for water. The cook, whose name Pearson couldn't remember, went mad. He cursed the winds and the sea. He drove his fists into the combers that swept by the gunnels, and pulled out the bilge plugs. When his mates replaced the plugs to stem the inrushing waters, he jumped overboard.

Buried At Sea

"We hauled him back and I was told to watch him, but I went to sleep and when I awoke he was dead," Pearson said. "We slipped him over the side that night. The chief said a few prayers. Somebody said, 'God rest his soul'."

Time began to lose its meaning but Pearson remembers that the next day they wished one another "Merry Christmas." The seas abated and everyone felt better.

Young Boys Die

Then four negro firemen began crying for water. Robinson refused to give them more than the ration so they scooped up sea water with their hands and drank it. That night they chanted spirituals in weird voices, prayed, went mad and died. Their bodies were slipped over the side one by one with the same brief ceremony.

The 16-year-old boys died the next morning, in their sleep. On New Year's eve, as Pearson recalled, two others died, the third officer, Art Bedger, 20, and a young apprentice. They were buddies.

"Bedger was aft and his buddy was forward," Pearson said. "Bedger started for the bow. He tottered and the apprentice went to meet him. They collapsed together and died in each other's arms."

Made Up His Mind

The wireless operator, Paige, died peacefully New Year's day. Then the fourth engineer died, also quietly.

The last to go was able seaman Jerry Murphy of Liverpool.

"He just sort of passed away as if he were tired and didn't want to stay any longer," Pearson said.

The four survivors then lay in the boat awaiting their fate. Able seaman Patterson, the only one of the four not confined to bed today, stood the ordeal best. He said, "I made up my mind the first night in the boat that I was going to get through this mess."

News Briefs

Club To Honor Group—Lubbock county drafted men from board No. 1 are to be guests Wednesday noon of the Lubbock Rotary club at its weekly luncheon in Lubbock hotel. Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, Rotarian, is chairman of the draft board, said President O. W. Ribble. The board is sending 29 men to report Wednesday.

Three Men Enlist — Three men were enlisted in the regular army this morning, said Capt. Everett W. Bright, assistant district recruiting officer. Thomas W. Stallings of Quail, and Carl W. O'Connor of Rochester, N. Y., enlisted for the 18th field artillery and were to be sent to Fort Sill, Okla., and Duford C. Davis, route 3, Lubbock, enlisted for the air corps, Mather field, Calif.

Residence Permit Issued — Building permit was issued this morning to A. W. May, owner, and S. E. Holt, contractor, for a residence costing $4,600 at 2338 Twenty-second street. It increased the permit total for the month and year to $151,495.

Session Is Held—Report of six community committees on individual farm allotments for general crops for Lubbock county's planting this year, was being considered this morning by the Agricultural Adjustment administration committee in session at 1320 Avenue Q. C. E. Lilley of Slaton, chairman, was to preside, with James Steele of Cooper, and John R. Murrell, Shallowater, and Secretary C. T. Wasson. Last week the committees completed individual farm allotments. Slightly over 146,000 acres for general crops have been alloted for 1941 planting.

Car Recovered—Police said this afternoon a 1937 sedan reported earlier as having been stolen from Art Chase had been recovered in 1900-block Avenue H, where it had been abandoned.

Classification Talks—Three Lions, C. L. Minyard, Sam Campbell and T. P. Cates, gave classification talks on their respective lines of work, at a Lions club luncheon in Hilton hotel at noon. Robert H. Bean was program chairman.

Club Officer Here—F. V. Wallace of Dumas, district governor of the Lions club, discussed club matters with President F. G. Harbaugh and Secretary George Watkins of the Lubbock club, and H. C. Pender, past deputy governor, at a breakfast in Hilton hotel this morning. He was to speak at Olton at noon and will be at Crane tonight. Next week Wallace will deliver ten talks at as many clubs in this section, he said.

This Man Has What It Takes For Army

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (U.P.) — To join the army in a hurry, John Shea, 23, spent 10½ consecutive hours in a dentist's chair yesterday, enduring four fillings, three extractions, cementing and repairing of crowns on five teeth, and the fitting of two bridges, one for four upper and one for five lower teeth.

It was the hardest day's work Dr. Jacob Rosenblum had done in a long time and he said that in all his experience he had never seen such a demonstration of courage and stamina.

Shea belonged to the 101st signal battalion, company A, New York national guard, which leaves today for Camp Shelby, Miss., to be inducted into the regular army. Army doctors had told him he couldn't pass the physical examination because of his teeth. Shea didn't have the money for the dental work but his outfit raised it.

GREAT MINE DISASTER

In an explosion at Monorgah, West Virginia, in December of 1907, 358 men were killed—the greatest loss of lives in any United States mine disaster.

Kennedy Takes Stand On Bill

If the German air force was as strong as they claimed, he continued, he thought they had a perfect chance to annihilate that British force.

The diplomat said also he could not understand why the Germans had not wrought greater destruction in Britain's industrial centers.

Might Come Any Day

"If they have the strength to capture the air," he said, "the crisis might come any day. So far, they haven't indicated they have that strength."

Representative Fish (R-NY) asked Kennedy whether he knew the war aim of the British.

"I certainly don't, sir," the ambassador replied.

When Fish asked whether Kennedy thought something ought to be done to let this country know the nature of those war aims before proceeding with further aid to Britain, Kennedy said he did not understand the question and suggested it was one for the state department.

Hearing Room Crowded

Britain's situation would become "serious and vital," Kennedy said, if British shipping losses continued at anything like the rate of losses prevalent previous to last month.

Long before the hearing began the room was crowded and dozens of persons stood against the walls.

Kennedy said that "some people at the top in Britain felt that they were not getting the kind of help they expect from the United States."

Fish asked whether it was fair to the British people "for us to intimate" that the United States would help in a possible continental invasion.

Socialists Said Stronger

"I don't believe we've ever done that officially," Kennedy replied.

Fish asked what Kennedy thought of Winston Churchill's statement that, as Fish put it, "England needed no help from us in 1941." Kennedy said it was "rather strange." (Prime Minister Churchill said in a speech Friday night that England's need in 1941 was not for men but guns, ships and planes.)

Fish then wanted to know whether there were "any truth" in reports that "England is going socialist."

Kennedy said that the labor and socialist parties were becoming more important and added that "nobody has the right to assume that conditions will ever go back to what they were."

Urges U. S. To Arm

Of the lease-lend bill, the ambassador said he could not believe that "anybody in the United States" would "give away the American navy" and he told Fish he would not object to a prohibition against sending convoys to Britain without the consent of Congress.

Representative Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex) asked whether it was not necessary that the United States arm as soon as possible.

Kennedy replied in the affirmative, asserting that "every day is a day too late." Of British morale he said, "I can't imagine anything better." He added that there was a great deal less turmoil there than among the people I've met in the United States."

"It's just a question of plain guts," he observed.

Democracy Out The Window

Questioned at length on conditions in Britain, Kennedy said that when war came and parliament passed a bill in two hours without debate—presumably the emergency power bill—"democracy went out the window." But, he added, it did not necessarily follow that democracy "can't come back."

At another point he added that it was "quite unlikely" that England might land troops on the European continent and defeat Germany. He reiterated his expressed view that the United States should keep out of the war.

Favors Congressional Help

On the problem of aiding the British the ambassador expressed belief that Congress should have a closely coordinated relationship with the president. "If Congress could have some small committee that would function with the president, you'd still have Congress functioning but it would not be through an unwieldly body," he explained.

At the same time he made it clear that he favored full aid—short of war—to the British. He called for "100 per cent" support for whatever methods of extending assistance finally were worked out.

Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass) took up with Kennedy the question of making public reports which the envoy forwarded to Washington while he was in London. Kennedy said the matter involved policy considerations and was for the state department to decide.

VICHY, Jan. 21 (U.P.) — An unconfirmed report circulated here today that Adolf Hitler will confer with Gen. Francisco Franco as a result of his conversations with Benito Mussolini.

Nickel Search Halts Subway

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 —James Snyder, a jobless clerk, kept a subway train waiting several minutes while he searched the tracks for a nickel he had dropped.

"You'd do it, too," was the explanation that won him a suspended sentence "if you'd lost your last nickel."

Fine Of $100 Facing Negro

A drunk negro who allegedly was found Monday night shaking a door of King's Jewelry store, at 1020 Broadway, was fined $100 this morning by B. P. Millsap, city recorder.

Olen Parris, police patrolman, said he approached the negro and asked him what he was doing. Parris said the negro cursed him.

Another Gives Aid

Across the street Roy Sanford, another patrolman, saw scuffling and ran over and helped Parris take the negro to jail.

The negro said he was Johnnie Middleton, 32, of Lubbock. He told officials he had been to the penitentiary for theft and had been in jail several times for drunkenness.

Two Youths Suspected

Otherwise the city was comparatively quiet Monday night. Elwood Wright of 2320 Twenty-sixth street reported two youths, about 16 and 18, were suspected of having taken fog lights off his automobile when it was parked in front of a drug-store.

Police continued to receive reports of damage growing out of a youth's escapade a few nights ago with an air gun. They said several motorists had reported dents in their automobiles, and one railroad man reported members of his family had been shot.

rendered, was informed by her that the man hurled a lamp at her head. Last summer, she said, she took a pot shot at him at a skating rink in the Flats district.

A charge of assault to murder will be filed, officials said.

Verdict Of Natural Death Is Entered

Justice of Peace J. T. Inmon this morning entered a verdict of natural death into the records, to conclude investigation into the death at midnight Sunday of Emm Lee Busby, a 35-year-old negro woman who was found dead on the floor of her residence at rear of 3110 Twenty-first street.

She had been seen in drunken condition two hours earlier in the Flats section, witnesses told Justice Inmon.

superintendent. While there he was named secretary by Congressman George Mahon, who was the first representative for the then newly formed 19th congressional district.

Recently Croslin resigned to begin the practice of law in Lubbock, his home. He had studied for his law degree while working in Washington. At the same time he was employed as an instructor on the faculty of Texas Technological college, from which school he also holds a degree. Croslin on Jan. 1 was appointed assistant county attorney of Lubbock county.

Members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce who will accompany Croslin to the banquet were announced this morning as including Jeff Watson, Tom Pendergraft, C. W. Ratliff and M. D. Fanning.

Governor Asks More Powers

self," he continued, "to the task of defending the constitution of the United States and this state."

Governor O'Daniel said there was no place in a democracy for classification of the people on a basis of haves and have nots.

In Critical Condition

He then spoke of the three branches of the government, the executive, the legislative and the judicial, and denounced what he said was a trend in recent years toward taking from the executive or legislative departments certain authority and giving it to bureaus. He asserted it was a dangerous process of government.

The whole system of government in Texas, O'Daniel declared is in a critical condition.

O'Daniel said he had made recommendations to the legislature, which, if approved would go far toward removing powers of government "from self-seeking, influential cliques," and handing them back to the people.

Would Benefit Successor

"So far as I'm personally concerned," he said, "I will have the majority of appointments on all boards before the end of this term. Therefore, this change would benefit my successor, rather than me."

There was some applause from the platform when the chief executive urged that "we turn the state government back to the people."

O'Daniel said he had pledged the unbounded support of Texas, "all that it has and all that it can give" to the national defense program.

Military Note Prevails

There was loud cheering when the governor finished speaking. Bands played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Eyes of Texas," after which the crowd moved over to the mansion grounds for the huge barbecue.

The governor had requested that the ceremonies be kept on a simple scale because of the national tension and the fact so many persons' minds were on serious world affairs.

National guardsmen, who assisted in handling the crowd, were everywhere, adding a military note.

Early in the morning Governor O'Daniel inspected Battery B, 132nd field artillery, 36th division, national guard, commanded by Captain John T. Walker and detailed to fire a 19-gun salute.

The battery had erected four 475 millimeter guns near the east entrance to the capitol grounds.

Procession Described

Capitol windows looking out over the scene were crowded with spectators, and two youths clung to a ledge 50 feet up.

The official procession started moving out of the capitol at 11:35 a. m.

Governor O'Daniel, clad in dark gray, led the procession. He was bareheaded and smiling.

Then came Mrs. O'Daniel, smart in dark coat and hat. She was escorted by her son, Pat, who wore his naval ROTC uniform. Then followed the pretty daughter, Molly, and the other son, Mike.

Lieut.-Gov. Stevenson and Presiding Judge F. L. Hawkins of the state court of criminal appeals came next.

Following them were Speaker of the House and Mrs. Homer Leonard and President Pro Tem Clay Cotten of the Senate.

Others in the procession included Chief Justice James P. Alexander and Associate Justice Richard Critz of the supreme court.

The oath of office was administered to Lieutenant-Governor Stevenson by Hawkins.

Earlier Sen. Cotten had called the Senate to order and Speaker Leonard had called the House to order for the inaugural ceremonies.

The University of Texas band played "Round-up Time in Texas" just before taking of the oath by Stevenson, a Junction ranchman and lawyer.

Behind The Scenes In Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21 — Behind the screen: Basil Rathbone learned what the censors think of him when 20th-Fox began filming "Blood and Sand." There had been no objection when Tyrone Power neatly ran him through to finish the duel in "The Mark of Zorro." But in the new picture, a scene was firmly rejected which would have had Power, as a matador, killing a bull. Of course they'd have used a stock shot of some previous bull fight, but that didn't make any difference. The censors' attitude is that villains deserve killing, but bulls don't.

Speaking of slaughter, Humphrey Bogart says that he has to kill so many people in "High Sierra" they ought to end the picture with this notice: "Anybody Living Is Purely Accidental." . . . Having done very well by the James boys, 20th-Fox now is going to glorify an even less creditable personality from the annals of crime—the she-bandit, Belle Starr. I wouldn't say that she'll be represented as a wronged and misunderstood girl, exactly; but it does seem to me that life outside the law will look more attractive when such a role is played by oomphy Carole Landis.

EVERY new picture has to have an allergy story. If it's a western, the press agents discover somebody's allergic to horse dander or saddle soap; if it's a boudoir comedy, the leading man is made ill by the gal's perfume or her coq feathers. In "Tobacco Road," since the shiftless, half-starved Lesters are always gnawing at raw turnips, it was inevitable that some one in the cast would be thrown into sneezes and headaches by turnips. Ward Bond is the one chosen. The publicity says each morning prop men carefully hollow out several turnips and substitute pieces of apple for Bond's turnip-eating scenes.

Charles Laughton went into a Beverly Hills clothing shop, looked at a few things and complained indignantly about the high prices. After trying to soothe him, the clerk lost patience. "That makes us even, Mr. Laughton," he said. "I always have believed you are being paid too much."

SUCCESS stories: Constance Moore first was hired for singing roles, but played in 16 B pictures and had to change studios before she got a chance to sing. . . . Besides the role of Belle Starr, Carole Landis also has been promised a singing lead in "Sun Valley." She attracted Hollywood's attention while warbling with dance bands, but in four years she hasn't had a musical number.

A call sheet at RKO bore this twisted but true announcement: "Company ill due to idleness." . . . Bob Hope never misses a chance to rib Bing Crosby about his leisurely race horses. Other day he said, "I hear Crosby is giving his jockeys saddles that can be made up into lower bertha."

BETTE DAVIS finally gets a comedy. In "The Bride Came C. O. D." she plays a giddy gal whose wealthy father hires a free-lance aviator, Jimmy Cagney, to keep her out of scrapes. Cagney does a good, impersonal job until they make a forced landing in a desert. That experience ends with the guardian getting slapped . . . Incidentally, the town's chuckling about the actor's assignment to a flying role. He gets airsick on a stepladder.

International complication: Indians in westerns no longer are allowed to raise their hands in greeting. Looks too much like a Nazi salute. . . . Sign reported in a quickie studio: "No Cooking Allowed in Executive Offices."

GENE FOWLER and Director Frank Borzage were in a huddle about a scene for "Billy the Kid"—a scene in which Bob Taylor is riding along, sees a big flock of buzzards wheeling in the desert sky and blazes away at 'em with a revolver.

"It doesn't sound practical," objected Borzage, looking over what Fowler had written. "How you gonna make a lot of buzzards converge just where you want 'em?"

"Simple," said Fowler. "Just toss the script out on the desert and they'll converge for miles around."

If the broadcasting companies and the music men of ASCAP don't reach an agreement pretty quickly, the composers are going to try to organize a big rival chain of radio stations. And they've got plenty of money to do it.

WHEN Betty Grable stepped off a train early the other morning after a San Francisco visit she was smartly dressed except she'd sleepily forgotten to change from her bedroom slippers . . . Now there's a man visiting all local dentists to try to buy movie stars' extracted teeth. He'd mount 'em on gold pins and sell them as souvenirs. It's a dangerous notion; fans who previously have been content to tear off players' clothing, hats and purses now are likely to carry forceps and try to yank a few incisors and bicuspids.

Magic Spring

BY ALLEN EPPES
(Copyright, 1941, For The Journal.)

YESTERDAY: David and Polly have postponed their marriage once more, although this time all David's indigent relatives had cleared away, and things looked rosy. But at the last minute Peter Wiley, David's 9-year-old cousin from Pennsylvania, showed up and the ceremony was off. Besides, Margo Powers, daughter of David's employer has returned to town. Peter just has come to Polly with a message from David.

Chapter Eight
Picnic

"You have? What is it?" Polly asked.

"He said," Peter went on, "for you to be all ready to go out to the Inn when he got off from the mill. We're going to have a picnic."

"Oh, fine!" said Polly. "I'd love to."

Peter looked around the tea-room. "Don't you eat your supper here?" he asked.

"No," said Polly. "We only serve lunch. Most folks in Ardendale like to eat their supper at home."

Peter turned to go. He looked back and said: "Please don't keep us waiting. We men like to do things on time."

"I'll not keep you waiting a minute," Polly promised. And then she said: "You don't like women very much, do you, Peter?"

"Oh, they're all right," said Peter. "Only us men—us bachelors, like Cousin David and me—manage pretty well without them."

"I see," said Polly. "I'll try not to be much in the way, Peter."

For a moment Peter looked as though he wanted to say something. But he didn't. That is, all he said was, "Goodbye." Then he hurried out.

"I don't think he likes me even a little bit," Polly told herself. She then went out into the kitchen. "Martha," she said to the cook, "I'm going on a picnic tonight. How about some of that chicken that was left over?"

"Shore, honey," said Martha. "I got two pieces of breast, three wings and a drumstick."

"That's splendid," Polly said. "Wrap them up in oil paper for me, will you? And three pieces of that Lady Baltimore cake, too."

"Yas'm," said Martha.

"I'm blowing myself," Polly said. "I'm trying to make a hit with a young man and—"

"Lawsy, honey! Is you and Mister David done broke up?"

"Oh, no, nothing like that. It's a man much younger than David—that cousin of his."

"Oh, him," Martha shook her head slowly. "Hit shore is a shame he's all crippled-like. He's such a sweet little boy."

"Yes, isn't he?" said Polly. "I'll come back for the chicken and cake, Martha. I've got to go and charge it to myself before I forget."

Martha sniffed. "If you ask me," she said, "old Miss Waters ought to give it to you. You shore works hard enough for her."

"She pays me for what I do, Martha," Polly said. "Besides, there's not a lot of profit in food nowadays."

"Humph!" said Martha.

Polly went back to the cashier's desk.

It was going to be fun having a picnic supper with David and Peter. She hadn't been on a picnic in a long, long time. She smiled, and thought of various ways which might help her to win Peter over. She had to make him like her. If he didn't, she and David would never be happy together. Not that their love for each other was any less. No, it wasn't that. But David loved Peter. That was easy to see. He had become terribly attached to the small boy during the short while Peter had been in Ardendale. And she knew what it did to people when a third person came along, a person who loved one of the other two, but not both of them.

Bad News

Miss Lucy Waters came in from doing some marketing.

"Did you have a good lunch?" she asked in her usual prim manner.

"Yes, Miss Lucy," Polly replied. "Six more lunches sold than yesterday. The men coming in helps a lot."

The owner of the tearoom came behind the desk, lifted the top of the cash register, and looked at the amount indicated therein.

"Well, it could be better," she remarked.

"By the way, Miss Lucy," Polly said, "I'm having Martha tie me up six pieces of chicken left over from lunch, and three slices of Lady Baltimore cake. I want them for a picnic. What shall I charge myself for them?"

"Six pieces of chicken and three slices of cake," said Miss Lucy. "Let me see— Oh, since it's you, Polly, just make it fifty cents."

"Thank you," said Polly. "I'll put a slip in the register. You can take it out of my pay Saturday."

"Very well," said Miss Lucy. She started for the kitchen, but turned and said: "I had a letter from my niece today, the one I told you wants to come and spend the summer."

"Yes?" said Polly. "That's nice."

She wants to work for me while she's here," Miss Lucy continued. "A little extra money will help her pay for college this fall."

"Are you going to let her come?" Polly asked, feeling a hard-to-explain sinking sensation in her stomach.

"I think so," Miss Lucy replied. "I'm not sure yet. If I do, I'm afraid I'll have to let you go, after all."

"You mean you—you'll give her the job as cashier here in the tea-room?"

"Yes, Polly. It's the only job she could manage."

"I see—"

"After all, she's kin to me," Miss Lucy said. "And families ought to stick together."

"Of course." Polly moved a stack of lunch checks, fumbled with some change. "It'll be nice having a member of your family with you."

Miss Lucy said nothing more. She went on out to speak to Martha.

Polly finished adding up a column of figures. She got her hat. But she didn't go out of the tearoom at once. She leaned her elbows upon the top of the desk, and stared unseeingly at the opposite wall.

Out of a job again—How many times it had happened to her during the last few years! There were so few jobs for a girl in a town like Ardendale. And yet she couldn't leave Aunt Susan and go off somewhere else to find work. Besides, there was David—David wanted to marry her, and she wanted to marry him.

But would they ever manage it? David had debts to pay up—he also had Peter. It wouldn't be right to saddle him with a jobless wife, a girl who couldn't contribute something toward taking care of the expenses of running a household. David had all that he could do to keep things going, as it was. It wouldn't be right to expect him to support not only her but also Aunt Susan.

"Sometimes," she said to herself, as she walked to the door, "I think life's just a mess."

Martha called to her.

"You forgot your picnic stuff!" she said.

"Thank you, Martha," Polly said. She took the package the negro woman was holding out to her. "We'll think of you while we're eating it—those two young men and myself."

Then she went slowly out to the street.

Somehow she was no longer enthusiastic about having a picnic. The thought of Miss Lucy giving the cashier's job to her niece sickened her. She needed the job so badly—she and Aunt Susan.

She walked out to the Jenkins cottage with heavy feet, and a much heavier heart. . .

About Swimming

It was several days after the picnic out at the Inn, and David was in the lumber yard. He had a stack of invoices which were attached to a wooden clip, and was checking a shipment of lumber that was to leave Ardendale that evening.

But now and then his thoughts reverted to the evening he and Polly and Peter had sat upon the edge of the empty swimming pool eating the chicken and cake Polly had brought from the tearoom, as well as the sandwiches and pickles and fruit he had brought out from town.

Peter's delight over everything he saw about Freddy's Polly had been amusing. Like Polly, he had painted exciting word-pictures of what the place could be made to look like.

"And let's put some water in the pool!" he had said. "We could swim and dive, Cousin David—and have lots of fun. You do swim, don't you?"

"Sure, I do," David had replied. "And so does Polly. She's a born swimmer."

Peter had looked at Polly with new interest.

"Gee," he said, "do you?"

"Yes," said Polly, "I took to the water like a duck. David helped me to learn the better strokes when we used to have our Sunday school picnics down at the shore—excursions, you know."

"Do they still have them?" Peter wanted to know.

"Sometimes," said Polly. "But David and I seldom go now."

No, thought David, there in the lumber yard, we seldom go now. In fact, we seldom do anything for fun. Just work and plan and dream. Then he remembered that Polly had looked worried. He had tried to find out what was troubling her, but she had only shaken her head, and said it wasn't anything much.

"Just another bridge I've been trying to get across before I got to it," she had said. But there was one thing that helped to cheer him up—that was the fact that Peter had seemed to draw closer to Polly. Their mutual love of the old Inn, and their many plans for improving the place, had apparently proved to be a sort of bond between them.

"If you'll lend me your car," Polly had said, "I can come out in the afternoons while you're at the lumber plant, and get to work on those flower beds. I can see a lot of shoots trying to work their way through the mass of weeds and vines."

NOTHING FAR-FETCHED ABOUT IT!

"Air attack on U. S. feared," read a recent "banner" in The Journal.

If you are a "typical" person, you admit the possibility of such an attack. Yet you don't think it will happen. Your feeling, if you are a "typical" person, about the matter is about the same as toward automobile accidents. You know you might get killed in a car crash. But your real feeling is: "The other fellow might get killed, but it won't happen to me."

But you and all Americans will be most fortunate indeed, if they do not see the day when they will read in the headlines that such an attack actually has occurred. If aviation science develops the next five years as it has the past two, the Atlantic ocean won't be much more protection for America than the English channel is for England today. And you can bet your bottom dollar if an attack should come, it will be with all the surprise possible. Don't expect a preliminary declaration of war. We likely won't know the danger is upon us until the bombs begin to fall.

So there was nothing fantastic about the headline, nor about the news story on which the headline was based. Many causes justify the fear of air attacks upon us. A genuine recognizing of that danger, and the most thorough preparations against it, are the best safeguards possible to devise against the attacks becoming realities.

I got a cable from New York saying: 'Reports here that London in flames.' There was damage in London all right; there will be further damage, but I don't think London will be ruined or that London will be panicked. They never panicked Jack Dempsey, did they? Sure, they hit him and hurt him and London will be hit and hurt. In fact, it is being hit and hurt today. But what of it? These people know they are in a war and know they've got to take a beating before they've won it. They know that lots of them are going to be killed. Every time the bombers come over they shake the debris out of their eyes, go to the nearest pub, have half a pint of bitters and say: 'Ow many did we get today?'"

Aliens In This Country Rush To Take Out American Papers

Registration Will Bring U. S. Many Citizens

By BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. — Most striking immediate result of the registration of the 4,700,000 aliens in the United States has been a vast increase in the number of applications for citizenship.

Catton

Ordinarily, about 150,000 applications are filed a year. Right now, with the big registration campaign just completed, more than 400,000 applications are on file. Naturalization officials expect this number to double within a year.

Present indications are that the Department of Justice isn't going to get too tough with the aliens, but will try to make about 4,000,000 new citizens out of them.

Earl G. Harrison, D. J. official who had charge of the registering, believes this new jump in applications comes because a great many aliens learned for the first time that they were not actually citizens. Many had filed first papers and then let them lapse. Others, brought over when small by their parents, had thought for years that their parents had become citizens. The registration campaign led them to check up on things.

This, however, is one of the least of the gains due to the registration, Harrison believes. Complete analysis of the figures, he says, will drive home several important lessons—and may head off ill-considered anti-alien legislation by Congress or state legislatures.

Samplings show that only 10 per cent of the aliens have anything against their records—illegal entry, overstay of temporary residence permits, and so on. And the percentage of criminals among aliens is slightly lower than the percentage of criminals among ordinary citizens. Known criminals are to be kicked out under existing laws, and a big Americanization drive will be conducted among the more than 90 per cent whose only offense is that they liked the United States so well that they snuck in without stopping for inspection.

WPA Does Big Defense Job

One of the biggest defense programs in the whole country can be chalked up to the credit of WPA's relief workers—who right now are on the last lap of a $500,000,000 set of additions to the nation's defenses.

Some of this work was begun five years ago, and some of it was begun only yesterday. Some of it has been done under the direct supervision of army and navy men, and some of it has been done under WPA supervision with army and navy approval. It has included the building of air corps airports, the construction of hundreds of barracks, the building of rifle ranges, erection of machine shops, repair of arsenals, construction of armories, the reconditioning of army posts in preparation for the new draft army, additions to the facilities of navy yards and the erection of army hospitals.

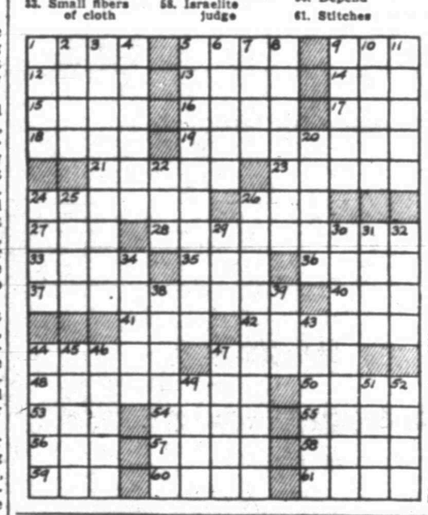

One of the biggest single jobs done by WPA has been the construction of Lowry Field, a major air corps base near Denver. Starting from scratch, WPA took a stretch of unused land and graded it, built airplane runways, laid sub-surface utility lines, built barracks, officers' quarters, mess halls, repair shops and so no—and then started work on an auxiliary bombing field nearby. The whole was a $5,000,000 job.

Equally important has been the work done for the Boston and Philadelphia navy yards. Since 1935, WPA has done $6,000,000 worth of work at the Boston yard and $10,000,000 worth at Philadelphia. At the Boston yard it built two complete shipways large enough for construction of destroyers.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

10 Word Minimum

1 day, per word	4c
2 days, per word	6c
3 days, per word	8c
4 days, per word	10c
7 days, per word	12c

These rates for consecutive insertion only.

All out-of-town ads received by mail must be cash with order, no exception. "NO REFUND" on ad stopped after it has appeared in paper.

PHONE 13, 14, 15 OR 16

Our experienced ad taker will receive your ad and help you to word it then our collector will call the following day.

THESE ACCOUNTS ARE "ACCOMMODATION ACCOUNTS" FOR OUR PATRONS AND FOR ONE DAY ONLY.

No advertisements accepted on an "until forbid" order. A specified number of insertions must be given.

We reserve the right to place an advertisement under the proper classification and reject unclean or objectionable copy.

Obituaries and cards of thanks at regular classified advertising rates.

The publishers are not responsible for copy omissions, typographical errors or any unintentional error that may occur further than to correct it next issue after it is brought to their attention. All advertising orders are accepted on this basis only.

The Avalanche-Journal can not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of a classified ad. Advertisers should check their ads on first day of publication and immediately notify the Classified Department if any mistakes occur.

Classified Advertising accepted until 6:00 p. m. on week days and Saturdays.

For classified display advertising information—

PHONE 13, 14, 15 OR 16

TO DISCONTINUE AN AD

Notice to Discontinue an Ad must be given after 8 a. m. and before 6 p. m. to some member of the Classified Advertisement Department. We cannot be responsible for notice given before or after these hours, and to members of some other department.

Notice To The Public

The Avalanche-Journal is a member of the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading Newspapers throughout the country and has as its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading Classified Advertising.

NOTICE FOR BIDS ON COUNTY DEPOSITORY

The Commissioners Court of Lubbock County, Texas, will receive bids at the County Courthouse on or before February 10th, A. D., 1941, at 9:00 a. m. o'clock for a county depository for county funds, school funds and for trust funds held by the county and district clerks. All bids will be opened at 9:00 a. m. o'clock on February 10th, A. D., 1941, and all proposals must be in the hands of the Court by that hour. The undersigned will receive all bids for county depository for county and school funds and the county clerk will receive all bids for county depository for all trust funds. All proposals for county depository for county and school funds must be accompanied by a cashier's check for $5,000.00, payable to the undersigned, and all bids for county depository for county trust funds must be accompanied by a check for the sum of $500.00, payable to the county clerk; such checks are required to be given as guarantees of good faith of the bidders and further conditioned that the successful bidder will execute good and sufficient bonds to secure the funds entrusted to him for a term of two years, as required by law in Article 2347, Civil Statutes, and all amendments thereto and further conditioned that the checks of the successful bidder will be cashed by the Commissioners' Court of Lubbock County, Texas, as liquidated damages in case said bidder does not execute and file with this court such bonds as required by law hereinabove referred to, or deposit lawful securities with this Court as required by law within the time limit therein specified by law, the bond or securities to be approved at the option of the Commissioners' Court.

The law authorizes any banking corporation, association or individual banker in Lubbock County to bid for such county depository, but the law requires that such depository shall handle the county funds, the county school funds and the county trust funds heretofore held by the county and district clerks. Separate bids may be made for these respective funds, but no bid will be considered unless the bidder submits bids for all three of said funds and encloses certified checks as stated above. The Commissioners' Court of Lubbock County, Texas, reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The approximate amount of county funds to be handled this year is $300,000.00; the probable amount of county school funds to be handled the ensuing years is $125,000.00; and the probable amount of trust funds to be handled by the county and district clerks the ensuing year is $10,000.00.

LETTERS — Jerry Lefty Blanchard wishes us to thank you guys and gals who contributed toward his "Christmas present"—and wonders if there is anything to the rumor that Lubbock baseball fans were going to "make up a pot" and buy him a new artificial leg to replace the one lost as result of a shooting accident on a hunting trip. . . .

Lloyd Richardson, the good-looking middleweight boxer who made a fine impression in the Golden Gloves last year writes from Portales that he'd like to enter this year's tournament and "make up" for having lost to Ed Sutterfield in one of the feature bouts of the program . . . Sutterfield went nearly to the finals in the State tournament, but there were many who liked Richardson best in their championship fight here. . . Lloyd writes that he has had considerable experience since then, fighting with the Eastern New Mexico college team, winning an AAU title last spring, etc. . . . He'll fight for Abe Murphy in the Littlefield tournament, Jan. 30-31, and will officially represent Littlefield here . . .

LETTERS—To shed further light on the Texas Tech-Baylor business, here's a letter Pete Cawthon had waiting for him when he returned from his recent trip:

"Dear Pete:

"I wired Texas Tech the other day to this effect: 'Would you be interested in playing Baylor September 27 in Waco?' This opening exists due to the fact that Denton Teachers college changed its date with SMU, leaving us without a game on the 27th. In this morning's Waco Tribune (this letter dated Jan. 10) a story came out of Lubbock emphasizing the fact that Baylor is requesting a game with Tech. Nothing was said about us asking for the game due to your leaving, but reading between the lines some one may construe it that way. Just wanted to write you and tell you that we did not ask for this game simply because you had resigned but because we had that date open. In support of this, you might also mention that you and Morley (Jennings) have corresponded frequently relative to playing a game in Lubbock, and that we have tried to get together on a 1942 and 1943 series with you.

Just wanted to make this explanation so that if anything is said, you will know how we stand on it. With best personal regards, I am,

"Sincerely yours,
"Ralph R. Wolf, Bus. Mgr.,
"Baylor University."

COMMENT—As if to back up the "theme" of the letter, and to dislodge any idea that Baylor was "anti-Cawthon," Wolf did a complete 'bout face and informed Tech officials he had closed a deal with Hardin-Simmons for a game on Sept. 27, without giving Tech time to give Duquesne time to make a change in their Sept. 27 arrangement . . . Possibly the real reason Baylor withdrew its offer lay in the fact that Wolf and Jennings talked it over, thought it over and decided that maybe it wouldn't be so cute to get beat in their opening game—and they would have been taking a long chance because Texas Tech is gonna have its hottest team in history this fall. . . .

Reds Are Ready

nell, bought from the Cardinals, and Bob Logan, a southpaw, who won 18 and lost 14 for Indianapolis. McKechnie may do wonders with Pearson, who has as much stuff as any pitcher in baseball but allows imaginary ills to trouble him. Pressnell, who has a deceptive knuckle ball, is quite likely to team up with Beggs in a relief role.

The Reds made the almost unheard of move of trading away the shortstop of their two pennant winners. They sent Billy Myers to the Cubs in exchange for Outfielder Jimmy Gleeson and Shortstop Bobby Mattick. The Reds need more punch and Gleeson, who was the league's sixth best hitter last season with .313, is expected to put more base hits in the Reds' batting order. McKechnie figured he would spare Myers because Eddie Joost, a fancy fielder, was on the verge of winning the shortstop job away. Joost played 69 full games at short last season and the Reds won 42 and lost 27 during his stay in the regular lineup. The Reds have brought up five other shortstops.

Infield Looks Good

The infield shapes up with Frank McCormick at first, Lonnie Frey at second, Eddie Joost at short and Bill Werber at third. Chuck Aleno, who hit .332 at Birmingham, is a bright third base prospect.

Jimmy Gleeson will play left, with Mike McCormick and Harry Craft again battling for the center field job, and Ival Goodman in right. The best of the five rookie outfielders appear to be Al Mele, who hit .340 for Birmingham, and Mike Christoff, who hit .320 for Oakland.

Ernie Lombardi will be the No. 1 catcher, with young Dick West from Indianapolis his relief man and Frank Baker again filling the No. 2 spot.

Gas Team Tops Bowling Meet

Teams and individual players of the two West Texas Gas company teams almost cornered honors in the City Open bowling tournament concluded Sunday at Lubbock Bowling club.

The No. 1 team won the Class A team trophy, the No. 2 team won the Class B team prize, Allen Christensen and Buddy Aderton teamed to win in Class A doubles and Aderton finished second in the Class A singles.

The No. 1 team toppled 2844 pins to finish ahead of Fleming Real Estate, second place team in Class A competition. Piggly Wiggly was second in Class B, only 34 pins behind West Texas Gas No. 2.

Powers Sporting Goods finished far ahead of Peel Meat for the Class C team trophy.

Christensen and Aderton finished ahead of Ernie Crites and Leo Bell for the Class A doubles crown, 1211 to 1184. E. W. Settle and Bill Watson scored 1122 to win the Class B doubles from Thomas Francis and Butler, who had 1101. T. I. Brown and Dayle Vannoy also had 1101 in this division to tie Francis and Butler.

Struve and Smith won the Class C doubles crown.

Hernon Peel won the Class A singles championship, finishing 14 pins ahead of Aderton, 642 to 628. Francis won the Class B individual prize, with 583 to 552 for Dayle Vannoy. Claiborn bowled 593 for Class C singles honors.

"JACK" LELIVELT DIES

SEATTLE, Jan. 21 (AP) — John Frank "Jack" Lelivelt, 53, reputed to have been one of the highest paid managers in minor league baseball, died last night two hours after he was stricken with a heart attack while watching a basketball game.

I Didn't Want To Eat, But With Hoyt's I Am Even Gaining Weight

Weakened Kidneys Interrupted My Sleep, I Had A Sour, Gassy Stomach, Severe Indigestion Until Hoyt's Compound Relieved Me, Says Lubbock Carpenter.

"It hardly seems possible," say many Lubbock residents as they tell the Hoyt Man at the Mark Halsey Drug Store of the wonderful new health they enjoy since taking Hoyt's Compound. Hoyt's, you'll remember, is that scientifically blended, concentrated liquid extract of medicinal roots and herbs which thousands recommend. And the Hoyt Man, a specially trained laboratory representative, explains this remarkable medicine to countless sufferers. Let him tell you of the relief it gave Mr. J. I. McBroom, of 1509 Ave. G, Lubbock, who states: "I was bothered for a great many years with indigestion, heartburn, sour, gassy stomach. My food was not digested, and I had so much misery that I didn't want to eat a thing. I lost lots of weight. Also my sleep was broken by night risings due to weak kidneys.

"I have taken two bottles of Hoyt's Compound," he continues, "and my digestion has improved greatly. I have no more sour stomach or heartburn, I can now eat whatever I wish. My sleep is much better than for the past several years. I can enjoy my food, and I have gained from 12 to 14 pounds in weight, and I feel very well. I am going to continue taking Hoyt's Compound until I feel that all the poisons have left my system. Hoyt's earns high merits, and I can gladly recommend it to those who suffer!"

Mr. McBroom is 69 years old, and has lived in Lubbock for eight years. Both as a resident and through his carpenter work, he has gained wide acquaintance here, and his many friends will recognize the importance of the statement he makes.

MR. J. I. McBROOM

You know, there is an unlimited number of men and women who talk with the Hoyt Man, conveniently located at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, about their personal health problems — indigestion, kidney and bowel distress, aches and pains, nervousness, fatigue. You could hardly believe how many of them come back, after taking Hoyt's Compound for a while, just to tell the Hoyt Man how much they really appreciate this fine medicine. And the Hoyt Man would like to do as much for you, so why not visit him before you endure any further suffering?

Hoyt's Compound, the concentrated liquid extract of medicinal roots and herbs is recommended and sold by the Mark Halsey Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere. Mail orders promptly filled. Adv.
